DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

York's Historic District reflects an industrial town whose architecture is predominately from the Victorian period. The center of the district is a retail commercial area with buildings from the late 19th and early 20th centuries. Most residential structures are two and three story, Victorian brick row houses. A predominant feature throughout the district are second story bay windows constructed of wood or cast iron.

The Codorus Creek divides the west end of the district. The district west of the creek is marked by large vacant lots, the result of redevelopment domolition. The remaining blocks within the district particularly east of the Codorus Creek, retain fairly complete facade lines and overall structural density.

The predominant use of buildings is multiple unit residences. Most retail, commercial structures are located around the center of the district. East Market Street is predominately residential Victorian homes converted for professional office space.

Single unit residences are generally well kept. Multiple unit residential structures range from good to poor condition. Most commercial structures in the central shopping area are in deteriorating condition. Residential structures converted for professional use are generally restored and in good to excellent condition.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Although York's architecture reflects a prosperous 19th century industrial community, its popular historical associations are in the 18th century. York was capitol of the United States from September, 1777 to June, 1778. Congress established York as the capitol after leaving Philadelphia to the approaching British Army.

In 1741 Thomas Cookson, employed by the Penns as a surveyor, was dispatched to lay out a town west of the Susquehanna River. Cookson selected a site on the bank of the Codorus Creek at the intersection of the Monocacy and Patapsco Roads.

In 1754 when York was declared the Seat of York County, the town had approximately 1000 residents and 210 buildings. With the exception of 33 brick and 2 stone houses, all structures were made of log.

In 1777 when the Continental Congress arrived in York the population had increased to roughly 1600 predominately German residents. Records indicate there were about 300 houses and 22 taverns, of these 322 structures only four can be documented as still standing: The Cookes House, The Gates House, The Plough Tavern, and the Friends Meeting House. With the exception of these few restored 18th century structures, the architecture within the district reflects a community prosperous in the mid to late 19th centuries.

Following the Civil War, York's population increased from 11,103 individuals in 1870 to 20,793 individuals in 1890. By 1900, 33,708 persons resided within the City of York. This dramatic population growth in the late 19th century resulted in a demand for both middle class housing and housings for a growing wealthy class. Consequently, many of the earlier houses on both East and West Market Streets were altered or razed for new construction.

The boundaries of the district include those blocks with the 18th century structures as well as the predominant Victorian period housing. Those structures beyond the district are predominantly late 19th century or early 20th century brick row houses and industrial structures.

YORK HISTORIC DISTRICT - York County

Significance: (Continued)

Within the district, west of the Codorus Creek, redevelopment demolition has broken the streetscape of several blocks. The commercial district has suffered several major intrusions in the form of 20th century commercial structures.

Overall the district retains its 19th century character particularly along East Market Street. The most visible restoration work has occured with the use of Victorian townhouses for professional offices.

Historically, the most significant event occured when York was Capitol of the United States. While in York the Continental Congress signed the treaty between Colonies and France, whereby France supported the Colonies with military and financial assistance. The Articles of Confederation were also introduced during the Congress's period in York. The Gates House and Plough Tavern were popular gathering places of prominent colonial figures.

Architecturally, York's district is Victorian in character and expresses the architecture of the rich as well as those who worked in the prosperous local industries. It's most noteworthy late 19th and early 20th century architect was J.A. Dempwolf.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The theme of the York Historic District is brick based Victorian aged and industrial in function. The district's boundaries were selected to include the industrial and commercial structures, the plain houses in which worker's lived, the finer houses of the people who ran the businesses as well as the late Victorian structures they built in suburbia. In addition, the district encompasses a significant business district composed of 3 and 4 story Victorian structures, some Chicago style, and Georgian Revival buildings.

The significance of this theme rests on the intact nature of the various communities mentioned above. Industrial communities such as Paterson, Richmond, and Troy, New York have been torn apart through the years; while in York they have remained almost in tact. In addition, when comparing York to Paterson for example there are two additional items of note. The first is the use of steam rather than water as a power source, and second the presence of a complete sequence of industrial development from the early foundry stage through finished manufacturing based on the early foundry business, and associated communities.

The neighborhoods representing this sequence are indicated on Overlay 1.

A. Springdale

Springdale represents the suburban development of the late 19th and early 20th century. The architecture along George Street and Springettsbury Avenue represents the best of York's late Victorian homes. These homes built in either the Queen Anne, Stick, or Eastlake style were the new mansions of the industrial families and politically prominent. The sub-division process has continued within this area through the present day and there are no major intrusions although at least half the housing dates within the last fifty years. There are no National Registry properties within this area yet half of it is part of a local historic district.

AUG 29 1979

B. East Market Street

Extending from Duke Street to Broad Street on the west and east, and from King Street to Philadelphia Street on the south and north, is an intact upper middle-class row house community. In this area the dominant house style depicts the Italianate influence as laid over 2 and 3 story, 3 over 3 townhouses. This community was the predecessor to Springdale and contains the best of York's Italianate townhouses. In this neighborhood which has been the haven for the wealthy there are few intrusions and the significant structures run as high as 50% of the total stock. Notwithstanding, only the Billmyer House is listed on the National Register.

C. The Railroad Community

Situated along the present day Maryland and Pennsylvania Railroad from Water Street on the west to Prospect Street on the south, is a line of factories and associated worker's homes. In this corridor the significant industrial structures are the Variety Iron Works on the corner of North and Beaver Streets, the Pullman Auto Factory on North George Street, the York Automobile Factory on Arch Street, the Weaver Piano Factory on the corner of Wallace and Broad Streets, and the Acco Chain Foundry in the southeast corner of this community. In addition, the district is characterized by three railroad stations, the Western Maryland Freight Station, the Northcentral Passenger Station, and the Maryland Pennsylvania Station. Moreover, rows of poorer 2 story clapboard structures and a neighborhood Farmer's Market still exist to mark the neighborhood industrial character. The major intrusions in this district are the Broad Park Manor Home for the Elderly, the new Kooper's Factory, and the Yorktowne Mall, a 1970's redevelopment project. Finally, this neighborhood suffered a major loss when the A.B. Farquhar, York Agricultural Implements Company, which was located between Gas and North Streets and George and Duke Streets was demolished in order to make way for the new forementioned Yorktowne Mall. The area is only about 50% intact because of the failing of industry and subsequent changes in land use. Notwithstanding, it is the core around which present day York grew and a significant part of its landscape character.

D. The Downtown

The center city community can be sub-divided into several smaller neighborhoods. The first is the C.B.D. itself, which is a late 19th century commercial business district built on and over an 18th century framework. The district as viewed today is characterized by late 19th and early 20th century commercial styles. In addition to this stylistic commercial characterization there are two important religious structures, the 18th century Christ Lutheran Church, and the Romanesque Revival Trinity U.C.C. Still present, yet invisible however, are the remains of many 18th century and early 19th century structures which have been masked in enamelware, architectural glass or painted tin.

Surrounding the C.B.D. particularly on the south, is a ring of 19th century 2-1/2 story, gable roof 3 over 3 townhouses, most of which have been converted into apartments.

An outstanding character of the whole central city community is the vestiges of York's colonial heritage. A heritage which was built around York's political function and its role as an agricultural service center. Some examples of this heritage are - the Gates House, Plough Tavern and the Quaker Meeting House, which are listed on the National Register. Well over 75% of the structures relate the characteristics of the district and the significant intrusions are not new buildings so to speak, but vacant parcels used for surface parking. Also within this district although not mentioned above, are two additional National Registry properties the Italian Villa Style Rex and Laurel Firehouse, and the Richardsonian Guided Central Market House.

E. West Bank of the Codorus Creek

This area was the cradle from which York's industrial heritage emerged. Along Newberry Street the Quakers of York City developed their neighborhood, and in a small shop on the corner of Newberry and King Streets, a young Quaker from North Carolina, Phineas Davis by name, worked towards the perfection of a steam powered boat and locomotive.

E. West Bank of the Codorus Creek (Continued)

The neighborhood is characterized however, by 2-1/2 and 3 story brick residential structures which housed subsequent middle and late 19th century blue-collar workers. Most of whom were employed in the corridor east of the creek or at the Eyster-Weiser Foundry, which was located on the west bank and Market Street. Historically, this foundry represents the earliest of York's noteworthy foundries. Of all the districts in town this area represents best the mid 19th century, middle-class character of York. The townhouses, the commercial strip on Market Street and the vestiges of the Eyster-Weiser Foundry, all point in this direction. There are almost no intrusions in this district and almost all the structures contribute to the significance. Finally, the Forry House is the only National Register property within this district.

F. York Manufacturing Company

This community represents a late 19th century industrial neighborhood which focused on the York Ice Machinery Plant, later to become a division of the present day Borg-Warner Corporation. Surrounding this plant is an unending series of two story mansard roofed, brick and clapboard row houses built around the turn of the 20th century. It is in this area that one can best see the early 20th century spatial relationship of residence and factory. None of this area is presently listed on the National Register and there are no significant intrusions.

G. Cookes House Neighborhood

This community is York's traditional black neighborhood. It is in this agglomeration of small two story brick and clapboard homes that York's black community has been centered since the middle of the 19th century. Of note, there is a long history of property ownership dating back to the time of the 1860's. There are no significant intrusions and the only break-up of the architectural character has been spot, codes related demolition.

AUG 29 1979

H. King and Princess Streets Neighborhood

The King and Princess Streets neighborhood is the working man's East Market Street neighborhood. Here, in an unending series of three story brick row homes was the dream of the enterprising factory worker. Like today's suburbia this was the goal towards which the late 19th and early 20th century workers strove. The absence of intrusions, the almost complete dominence of significant structures points up the industrial mentality of even present day Yorkers.

YORK'S HISTORIC DISTRICT

The boundaries of this district represent the full range of York's Victorian industrial heritage. York was, in the middle of the 19th century, a leading heavy industrial urban place with foundaries and associated manufacturing complexes, distributed along the creek and railroad corridor. This district includes the industrial establishments, the workers houses and the edifices of the upperclass and the central business district. In addition, it includes the vestiges of York's colonial heritage, which indeed is historically significant but was almost obliterated in the 19th century expansion.

YORK, PA --- 1st Reviewer's comments:

No major problems with significance or integrity, but serious technical deficiencies.

This area was discussed in 78 as part of HUD/CD DOE on central portion of town. At that time, decision was made to DOE central core. However, our DOE through possible error (see phone memos) actually included several blocks further west of nominated boundary. This will have to be resolved.

This nomination is basically a resubmission of the DOE form. The narrative sections 7 and 8 are unchanged, and the current inventory only covers (and incompletely and possibly inaccurately) the smaller DOE area. Note last para. sec. 8, which says that boundaries exclude early 20th century row houses, e.g. This does not correspond with sketch map, which includes a very large section of such structures.

The DOE form provides a minimal discussion of either architectural or historical significance for the district. The nominated area is over three times larger than the DOE area, yet the narrative has not been changed or strengthened to reflect the additional resources here. (200 vs. 700 acres.)

We do have lists of key contributing elements and major instrusions for entire area, but this is of little use since these lists are not keyed to photos or sketch map. How many structures in HD? (HD has low intrusion ration.)

SKETCH MAP: This does not match USGS in a few places: this needs to be checked because of UTM accuracy. Does not have any street addresses (I called York City Planning Office to at least find out which sides of streets were odd and even numbered). Does not have any key to major buildings of importance. Does not identify structures by anything but date (e.g., important churches, schools, factories, architectural landmarks?)...and these do not seem to match inventory in some cases. Boundary line as drawn on map possibly cuts through as many as four properties. Many blank spaces are labeled "Vacant" but many others are not labeled at all. Nomination talks about some less-than-50 yr. bldgs which have significance, but map makes no allowance for this (everything since 1930 is intrusion).
I will discuss with 2nd reviewer our minimum needs.

VBD: needs minor clarifications. Basically accurate vis-a-vis sketch map.

Boundaries: no justification. Needs clarification of western edge re:DOE. In several places, follows York City boundary, but in others appears to exclude row houses/ of similar scale, w/in city limits. Since most of city is included here, and since lots of local controversy (see Jann and Bruce's notes), it may not be feasible to expand if potential resources do exist; but a statement justifying edges would be appropriate.

Photos: not numbered or keyed for map or narrative. Some are not identified N/S/E/W to permit general orientation to sketch map. None of intrusions, edges, spaces (there is a major city park nowhere mentioned in nomination), or institutional bldgs (oldest schools, post office, courthouse, churches...?)
Will negotiate with 2nd reviewer.

Joe Towner 5/10/79

Notes: L. Beebe 5/15/79

Based on conversation of 5/15/79 Turner — J. Shine (Historic York) boundary appears to be well justified except northwestern end. Recommend accepting boundary with recommendation that boundary be amended, as soon as possible, possibly to incorporate so. to College Street, west to West Street (at north end) and west to (south end).

VBD has been clarified (5/15/79)
Boundary does not cut through 4 bldgs. (5/15/79)
Blank spaces not identified as "Vacant" tend to be parking lots etc.

Sketch map coding does not appear to agree w/ nomination evaluation re: certain 1930s bldgs. Can be straightened out as necessary w/ TRA applications.

Part 1 — needs summary data on early 20th c. area, industrial sections, everything not included in original DOE nomination form.

Part 8 —

Needs significance statement (summary, at least) which addresses large entity, & corrects last & which excludes the areas now in fact included in nomination (but previously excluded by DOE request).

Inventory should have been identified as >partial

In general — nomination should have been revised to accomodate the area being nominated. Nomination form for smaller area, used for DOE, has not been sufficiently altered to reflect entity being nominated.

HISTORIAN

Despite historic phases of new construction, York conserves a high degree of visual integrity and cohesiveness. This large district contains a wide range of residential, industrial, commercial, and institutional structures which reflect the diverse history of two-centuries of growth , with a concentration of resources associated with York's prosperity in the second half of the 19th century as a center for heavy industry. See attached.

5/10/79

ARCHITECTURAL HISTORIAN

Concur with Historians 8/12/79 comments. Significant for wide range of architectural periods/styles illustrating both design/construction techniques of late 18th – early 20th c. & ~~various~~ spatial/design characteristics of community evolving through more than a century from small agricultural market town to industrial community.

OTHER

I have reviewed the additional documentation (VBD, maps, narrative, and 70 slides) provided by sponsor. While this is a unique use of district concept, taking in most of corporate city limits, the proposed district is a comprehensive reflection of the history of York, showing its social, business, institutional, industrial, recreational, & residential fabric. The intrusions are, in this context, relatively minor in most of city and do not efface the unique sense of time & place conserved in York. We now have a good neighborhood & class-oriented discussion of the human & built environment and a commitment to nominate later the missing working-class streetscapes to the west.

YORK HISTORIC DISTRICT

June 19, 1975

Dr. Wm J. Murtagh:

Dear Sir:

Received a letter from you about my house being located in a historical district. I had never thought of my house other than home to me, until I received your letter - Upon close examination I think its a beautiful house and sure would like to know it would not be demolished to make a parking area or otherwise torn apart by vandals - I saw and see too many beautiful old buildings demolished, when people need houses, they rent and destroy everything beautiful - example look at the new housing - renters should be held responsible for all damages - Would like to know if my home would be listed as historical would I be able to sell it, as I am a semi-invalid and the responsiblity is getting quite heavy to my shoulders. Would like information on same -

Thank you so very much.

Sincerely

Olga C. Thompson

Dear Property Owner:

The property you own is located in a historic district that has been nominated for listing in the National Register of Historic Places. The National Register is the government's official list of historic buildings and other cultural resources worthy of preservation. This nomination is pending in our office.

If your property is depreciable and the district is listed in the National Register, there are certain benefits and provisions of the Tax Reform Act of 1976 that may apply to you. We are enclosing information about this law and a general description of the National Register program.

Soon we will be considering whether the district should be listed, using as our guidelines the "Criteria for Evaluation" shown in the enclosed material. Murtagh, Keeper of the National Register, Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service, Department of the Interior, Pension Building, 440 G Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20243 (Attn: NOM). Please include the name of the district (as shown on the address label on this letter) and property address. If you have questions about the National Register program or the enclosed material, you should also address them to me.

In the enclosed material you will note references to standards for rehabilitating old buildings. These standards are a list of do's and don'ts for people who are fixing up old buildings. If the owner of a building listed in the National Register, either individually or as part of a district, wishes to take advantage of the Tax Reform Act benefits, these standards must be followed. A copy of these standards is available from Technical Preservation Services, Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service, Department of the Interior, Pension Building, 440 G Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20243. Dear Property Owner:

The property you own is located in a historic district that has been nominated for listing in the National Register of Historic Places. The National Register is the government's official list of historic buildings and other cultural resources worthy of preservation. This nomination is pending in our office.

If your property is depreciable and the district is listed in the National Register, there are certain benefits and provisions of the Tax Reform Act of 1976 that may apply to you. We are enclosing information about this law and a general description of the National Register program.

Soon we will be considering whether the district should be listed, using as our guidelines the "Criteria for Evaluation" shown in the enclosed material. If you wish to comment on whether the district should be listed, we would be pleased to hear from you. Send your comments within 30 days of the date of this letter to me, Dr. William J. Murtagh, Keeper of the National Register, Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service, Department of the Interior, Pension Building, 440 G Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20243 (Attn: NOM). Please include the name of the district (as shown on the address label on this letter) and property address. If you have questions about the National Register program or the enclosed material, you should also address them to me.

In the enclosed material you will note references to standards for rehabilitating old buildings. These standards are a list of do's and don'ts for people who are fixing up old buildings. If the owner of a building listed in the National Register, either individually or as part of a district, wishes to take advantage of the Tax Reform Act benefits, these standards must be followed. A copy of these standards is available from Technical Preservation Services, Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service, Department of the Interior, Pension Building, 440 G Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20243. Re: H32-NR
York Hist. Dist.

Dear Dr. Murtagh:

Having been active in Real Estate during the last thirty-five years, it is of considerable interest to me to see the preservation of those parcels with an historic value. So, your letter indicating that there is a possibility that this property, where I have found it agreeable to live and work during the last twenty-five of those years, may be in the midst of a District to be listed in the National Register of Historic Places would make it even more agreeable.

York City and County have been fortunate to have had a sense of value of Historic things and places. Our Historical Society has long been active in this area. Much has already been saved. I'm glad to know additional thought is being given to keeping more. Prowell's early publication in two volumes - "History of York County" is of significance.

I have had the opportunity and good fortune to be able to inform Red Lion Borough in it's search for historical places that the old stone residence in the midst of a new seventy-two acre residential development was once the home of their first "Burgher", Henry Wagman (Wegman) who incidentally was my maternal Great-grandfather. A plaque has been presented. It may be of interest to you also.

Information of further developments would be very welcome. Thank you for your favor.

Very sincerely,

Gentlemen:

We have your letter of April 9, 1979 in regard to a nomination of property we own, namely 417, 419, (421), 423, 425 and 427 East Market Street, York, Pennsylvania for the National Register.

We must inform you that the buildings on these properties are scheduled for removal about July 1979. This is absolutely necessary for the New York Wire Company to have sufficient parking if it remains in the present location in that same block in the City of York, Pennsylvania.

We fully plan to keep this industry in its present location.

As a matter of interest, the #1 Building of New York Wire Company was constructed about 1890 and does have a very classic architectual style. We do not plan any alterations on this building at this time.

I hope the above will be sufficient for you to remove these buildings from your list.

Yours very truly,

Re: York Historic District

Dear Dr. Murtagh:

We are in receipt of your letter of April 9, 1979 notifying us that our property (owned by Bernard Forner, Inc.) is located in a historic district nominated for listing in the National Register. You also invited our comments as to whether this district should be listed.

Our property can hardly be classified historic. It consists of a former super-market building approximately 25 years old with an adjacent parking lot. This property has been converted into an operational office furnishings and equipment show-room and warehouse.

While we are vitally interested in and would be in support of any effort to preserve our cultural heritage, we are equally concerned over the potential impact of this listing on our property as a commercial installation.

Therefore, we would appreciate reserving any

Dear Dr. Murtagh:

In view of the heritage within the inner city of York, I feel that the York Historic District should be listed in the National Register of Historic Places.

My property, at 362 East Market Street, deeds back prior to 1830. The original limestone foundation is intact and we personally have been attempting to restore the interior.

We sincerely hope that we can continue the restoration, with the help of certain benefits and provisions of the Tax Reform Act of 1976, if the property is listed in the National Register.

Sincerely yours,

Dear sir:

I am very much interested in including the entire 300 block of East Princess St., York, Penna.; in the York Historical District. For this was the area on which the first York Fair Grounds was located. It was here at this fair grounds that the horses were quartered and troops stayed during the Revolutionary War. Battles were fought at Wrightsville, a distance of about eleven miles.

In particular, I wish to have 344 E. Princess St. listed in the National Register. I would also hope that my house (327 E. Princess St.) could also be included in the Register.

The property at 344 E. Princess St. was purchased by my parents when it was built. It did become my brother's home when the estate is settled. My house 327 E. Princess St. is an older home than 344 E. Princess St.

Sincerely yours,

P.S. If this area is not made an historical area, when the residents, who are now in their 80's, die it will be lost forever to the slums. Presently there are about 35% of the people here in the block who were here for fifty years or more. Our family is now the family that has been here the longest. I called and asked this block to be considered for preservation before it is too late! No success from York authorities yet.

Dear Dr. Murtagh:

I am pleased to know the York Historic District is being considered for listing in the National Register of Historic Places.

As a downtown homeowner of a townhouse at 42 East Princess Street, built in 1853, I am delighted by the nomination of my neighborhood and encourage you to list the York Historic District in the National Register.

I believe the listing is justified for perhaps all of the criteria used for evaluation, but certainly and especially insofar as the York Historic District embodies the distinctive characteristics of Victorian architecture in an industrial city of the mid-19th Century.

Thank you for the opportunity to express my view and, again, I support the nomination and inclusion as eminently justifiable and worthy.

Dear Sir,

Thank you for your letter of April 9th in reference to our building at 201 S.Georege St.,York,Pa. being considered for listing in the National Register of Historic places.

We are only one block from a newly constructed Federal S Savings and loan building that is copied after the Governors Mansion at Williamsburg,Virginia. We are dircetly across the street from the York Post Office.

Our building was built by Dr.George Holtzapple,who had his office on the first floor. He is credited with being the first Physcian who treated a pneumonia patient with Oxygen in the Medical Journals.

York has a great deal of Colonial Architecture and a great deal of rehabilitation is being done.Both through private effort, and through local government and various groups.

Enclosed are two photos that will give you an edea of the Architecture of the building,designed for Doctor Holtzapple by a prominent Achitecture of his day.The bricks came from a local kiln,still in operation as the Springarden Brick Company.

Thanking you for your letter,and trusting this migh be of some use in determing our properties value and that of others in our area,for the National Register,I remain,

Dear Sir:

I am responding to your correspondence in reference to H 32-NR. As a resident of York City I wish to express both my interest and approval in regards to the York District's future listing in the National Registry.

While I have resided at my present address for thirty-three years, I have been a resident of York City for seventy-nine years. As a lifelong resident of the area I have always been aware of the historic role which York has played in the building of our nation. Along with this awareness, I have developed a pride in my city and feel that it is a privilege and honor to own property in an area rich in historical content.

May I conclude this correspondence by thanking you for your interest in York. It is my hope that the York District will soon join our nations other historic areas in a listing in the National Register.

Re: York Hist. Dist.

Dear Sir:

I am writing as to the letter you sent my Father about our property over on Locust Street.

I have no idea as to whether it is that you're indulging in intoxicating fluids or it is because your eyes are failing you. But if you have ever seen that part of Locust Street you would know that it neither is capable nor worth the trouble to give that neighborhood such an honor.

One reason is the neighborhood people, they have no respect for the neighborhood nor do they even care. If you gave any of these people a Mansion to live in they would literally tear it apart. If you have ever been there and talked to the neighbors and neighboring areas you would know that there is no hope in trying to rebuild or restore, because as fast as you can build they are there to tear out. My Uncle , Brother, and Aunt all living in different houses in that neighborhood were being robbed once a month. Our house is vacant because we had been trying to make it livable, but everytime we put something into the house, it was stolen. One one occasion we had the copper tubing torn right out of the house.

We put our dog outside to protect the house but they shot bricks at him and almost killed him. For those reasons we no longer even try to fix the house up.

So I suggest before you send letters like this to another district you take a look at what your naming an Historical District.

Re: York Hist. Dist.
York, Pa.

Dear Sir:

This is in reply to your letter of April 9, 1979 directed to property owners in central York with respect to the establishment of a York Historic District.

I have two properties in the area, namely, 47 South Queen St. and 29 South Queen St. These properties are in an area presently tightly regulated by HARB (Housing Rehabilitation Office), a review board established by the city. In my opinion, that board has all of the powers necessary and the local interest for regulating the maintenance or rehabilitation of properties within the zone. I therefore do not favor the listing of this area in the National Register of Historic Places.

I am sure the aim of most of the residents and owners is the same as my aim to maintain the properties in good condition and with consideration for any architectural changes required by extensive repairs. Any regulation in addition to what we have increases the cost of operation to the point where it will be counterproductive to maintenance and further reduce the incentive to own downtown properties.

Very truly yours,

W. Sumner Read

Dear Dr. Murtagh:

I was quite surprised to receive your April 9, 1979 form letter addressed to American Chain & Cable Co. Inc., stating the property is located in a historical district. I have been on the York scene many years and this is the first indication we have had that the area in which our plant is located was so designated.

Since these are old industrial plants of non-historic value and it will undoubtedly cost both the government and the taxpayers money to process such a nomination, I would be very interested in knowing who presented this to your office. Perhaps you can also clarify the exact building locations being referred to.

Some time ago part of the buildings were given to a redevelopment authority and they are planning to tear down some portions and renovate others to make apartments. Someone had placed these in nomination, which is now delaying the program and also costing everyone concerned a considerable amount of money.

Is your letter referring to these buildings or does it cover adjacent plants still being used by our company, which is now Acco Industries Inc.? The single address had, of course, originally applied to all mills and this is perhaps causing confusion. In any event, we certainly do not feel that any of the structures have any historical significance.

We will look forward to receiving your reply.

Dear Dr. Murtagh:

I am wholeheartedly in support of having my property in the City of York located in a historic district. I am well aware of the Tax Reform Act of 1976 and the tax advantages that are given to property owners thereunder and I am anxious that this be implemented as soon as possible as there are other properties that I would buy in the City of York and invest my capital in fixing up if those tax advantages were available to me. I can also say that I know several other people who are waiting for the United States government to place the City of York on the National Register of historic places so that they can avail themselves of the tax advantages. Such a move would greatly assist the restoration and preservation of the city properties.

The company does not own or have an interest in 264 East King Street as per your information.

The Baker Company has actively supported historic preservation through ownership, rennovation and maintenance of significant historic properties in the communities in which the company operates. The company has also supported other projects and historic organizations with substantial contributions of its manpower and capital. The point I'm leading up to is, that along with the company's demonstrated effort to ensure the preservation of the heritage of our communities, the company also recognizes the very real need to ensure and support the viability of the future of the communities of which it is a part.

The size and extent of the proposed historic district appears to cover in excess of 60 to 70% of the total land area of York City. It also appears to include almost all the ongoing viable commercial, industrial, retail and other business activities found in York City. Regardless of original intent, governmental control and regulation of so-called historic areas and assets has demonstrated a strong tendency to become a strangle hold upon those who are charged with providing the very necessary investments and jobs needed to keep communities from becoming empty museums.

Those who have proposed and supported the district as presently delineated should be asked to specifically and individually identify the assets they are hoping to protect and preserve. Additionally, they should be required to identify the values that would be derived by the community in the future and also the negative impacts to occur as a result of the creation of the district. Should such an evaluation occur I would anticipate a rational man would suggest a much smaller district with a definite aim of protection for specific structures and groups of structures.

In conclusion may I suggest that from this vantage point it appears some self-serving interest has developed a view of the whole of York City which would be very hard to see if realism was a factor. Give the city a district which can be identified with real, not imagined, historic assets and the people and business of York will be happy to participate and support the concept.

Sincerely,

Larry E. Flemmens

Dear Sir:

We are very pleased that our area of York may soon be designated as an Historic District! Downtown ~~York~~ still has a lot of very charming architecture and we need all the support we can get to encourage people to fix up and "keep up the good work."

We have just remodeled our house, keeping all the original trim and windows, and we are pleased to note that many of our neighbors are doing the same.

Thank you for considering York for this honor!

Thank you for your April 9 letter re properties that I own in the York Historic District. Perhaps you do not have the information, but in addition to the property you mention (439 Cleveland Avenue, where I was born and grew up), I also own the adjacent property (437 Cleveland Avenue). You should also know that my sister Dr. Dorothy M. DiOrio (Head, Department of Foreign Languages, Auburn University, Auburn, Alabama 36830) was also born and reared with me on these properties and that she is executrix and sole heir to my Estate and has, as well, a present interest in these properties.

While I feel sure that you have information from the York County Historical Society (by which I was formerly employed), I do know that an attempt to alter Penn Common Park which is next to these properties was forbidden because of a stipulation regarding the preservation of the area in the original Penn Charter. Additional detail re this matter and the historical value of the area should be on hand, again, at the York County Historical Society.

I look forward to hearing of the outcome regarding this nomination, and, in the meantime, I shall be in touch with the Technical Preservation Services for information re "standards," as you advise.

Dr William J. Murtagh,

We are of the opinion that our neighborhood should be listed in the "National Register of Historic Places." In reviewing the material provided by your department we find that section "C" of "Criteria for Evaluation" does apply to ours and neighboring properties. Homes in this immediate area reflect an era of pride in craftsmanship that is lost in todays world of mobile homes and modular housing.

Our own home, constructed in 1903, is of an English tudor / half-timber styling, with an ornate exterior of brick, exposed timbering, and large stained glass windows. Neighboring houses are of unique three story design which combine the elegance and practicality of the same era.

We, the neighborhood, have made our own local attempts at preservation of our surroundings through self-imposed zoning ordonances and genuine concern for the up-keep and apearance of our own homes. It then, through listing in the National Register we can guarantee a future for our homes we feel the endorsal would be worth-while.

I am in receipt of your letter dated April 9th wherein you suggest that my Building located at 37 West Market Street may be located within a proposed Historic District for the City of York. I personally have no objection to our building being placed within a Historic District and thereby listed along with other buildings in the National Register of Historic Places. Perhaps such an activity may well encourage others in the area to make improvements upon their buildings and thereby improve the character of the entire block in which our building is located.

At this time I have no specific plans for improvements to our building other then some trim painting using a Williamsburg shade for the metal trim around the windows on the facade of this building.

This is in furtherance of Mr. Daniel E. Hess's response of April 9 with regard to your notification of the nomination of the York Historic District which apparently includes our property located on Princess Street in York, Pennsylvania. We have not seen the application for nomination and, therefore, are not aware of which portions of our property fall within the boundaries of the proposed historic district. Please be advised, however, that our property is the site of an active manufacturing facility for the production of chain products employing over 200 people.

After review of your letter and the materials enclosed therewith and the pertinent federal statutes and regulations governing the National Register, please be advised that Acco Industries Inc. objects to the inclusion of its property in the proposed York Historic District, and that it is our intention to file application with your office or the Pennsylvania State Historical Preservation Officer, as may be appropriate, to opt out of the proposed York Historic District.

In the event such application is denied, Acco Industries Inc. will take action as may be required in order to retain our unencumbered use and ownership of the subject property.

I would appreciate the opportunity to review the application for nomination, explain our objections to the inclusion of our property, and review how the proposed historic district might impact upon the continued operation of our facility.

Re: York Historical District
208 East College Avenue
York, Pennsylvania

Dear Dr. Murtagh:

The house noted above is part of a total neighborhood, near the downtown secondary area. The center square being commercial; the first fringe being offices and light commercial (e.g., Doctors, Lawyers, Churches, Travel Bureaus and Real Estate Offices). The house in question and the majority of the houses in this "second" circle are single family residences. Most are old, meet codes at a minimum standard level and in general are gradually depreciating.

As a historical significance, the house I own was "home" for one family for forty years and "... were not ..." the original owners. I feel the area will have an increasing historical value relative to the downtown York's historical district.

I lease the property involved and will not be able to rehabilitate the 208 East College Avenue property based on the present lease income. Several important steps can be taken to preserve properties such as these; they include:-

1. Remove the asbestos siding and duplicate the original exterior structure or restore if appropriate.
2. Repointing mortar joints and cleaning of exterior masonry.
3. Roof replacement and window frame and sill repair or replacement.
4. Internally this home is structurally strong; it needs insulation and within projected standards, appropriate new storm windows.
5. Wiring, heating and plumbing upgraded to meet higher level demands. I assume higher codes would be part of rehabilitation guidelines.

The alternative would be to demolish the houses involved, as they fail to meet code.

If I can expand my comments regarding this area, please write.

Sincerely,

Wendell E. Smith

Re: York Historic District - H32-NR

Dear Dr. Murtagh:

I am writing as the head of a company with significant real estate holdings in the proposed Historic York District.

Reluctantly we oppose the designation of this district in this fashion. I say reluctantly because we, as a company, have invested a great deal of money in restoring and preserving real estate in the subject area. We are in favor philosophically and practically of the preservation and re-use of buildings of significant historic or architectural worth.

We oppose the designation for the following reasons:

1. Income tax penalties which are provided for demolition within the district will put the district at a disadvantage in competing for investment capital.

2. We are advised that governmental machinery is not equipped to administer the program efficiently enough for the so-called incentives to truly act as incentives.

The center city area of York is in the throes of undergoing a renaissance. The prospect of substantial private investment in a long neglected area now seems to be at hand. While we subscribe to the ideals of maintaining the historic architectural atmosphere of the community and have so demonstrated, we are opposed to any measure which would tend to restrict or diminish the opportunity for private capital investment to participate in the future of York.

Thank you very much for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Louis J. Appell, Jr.

Dear Dr. Murtagh,

I have already rehabilitated my home and I believe it is within the standards set for "Criteria for Evaluation".

My home is a Townhouse, built early 1800, and none of the original physical properties have been changed. The house on the whole had to be completely renovated so, as its owner, I am interested in the benefits and provisions of the Tax Reform Act of 1976 and being listed in the National Register of Historic Places.

Thank you for your consideration,

Re: H32-NR York Historic District

Dear Dr. Murtaugh:

We are in receipt of your letter of April 9, 1979 notifying us that our properties are located in a historic district nominated for listing in the National Register.

Although we have no objections to the proposal in general, we find that for a number of reasons it is necessary to respectfully ask and urge you not to include our properties, should the nomination be accepted and you list the other properties in question.

I am writing for myself as owner of properties at 206 N. Beaver Street,,Rear 131 Arch St. and rear 135 Arch St. in the city of York, Pa. In addition, and more important, I am writing for and at the request of my father James N. Chantiles of 114 W. Phila. St. who owns a number of parcels of land which adjoin each other among which are the following locations in York, Pa. 56 N. Beaver St., 108-110-112-114-116-120-122-124 and 128 W. Phila. Street. These properties front on an entire ½ city block in addition to continuing around the corner.

There is a great deal more than meets the eye in this matter which I feel must be brought to your attention. My father acquired these properties one at a time over his entire life span (he is now 91 years of age) by working hard. During this period of time the properties were gradually converted from residential to business properties. Along with this gradual conversion, my father was also the recipient of a higher tax assessment because the properties were being usedas commercial properties and the district was zoned commercial.

Recently the council of the city of York attempted to rezone the area in question from commercial to historic. Despite the fact that there are some structures within the area that have great historical significance for the most part, the area does not. We felt that if the designation of historic were to replace the business designation, the value of our properties would take a nose-dive and we could no longer afford to maintain them properlybbecause no one would ever be permitted to open a new business in any of them thereafter and the high tax rate would continue to erode our finances without having the opportunity to replenish the outlay of cash. We were able to muster enough support in opposition to this which included the membership of a local fraternal order and council changed their minds. The neighborhood was not even notified of their intantion to rezone. I was the only one who noticed the article in the legal section of the newspaper and I alerted the other people involved.

An interesting point also, at the very edge of the proposed rezoning area is a valuable parcel of land which belongs to the father of a local man by the last name of Stallman who I believe serves on some sort of local authority possibly the County Planning Commission. I feel that this is more than a mere coincidence and amounts to a case of conflict of interest. I understand that this land will soon be sold to the City of York.

In addition to having a local zoning ordinance, we Yorkers have a Historical Architectural Review Board who to some degree achieve a similar objective.

I attended the first meeting when this proposal was made public and ask that my name be placed on the record as being opposed to this and my request fell on deaf ears.

I recently attended a meeting in City Council chambers and once again requested that my objections be made when the city submits their recommendation to you, one way or another. I have serious doubts that this has been done. At a recent meeting a local Attorney by the name of Senft from a very influential law firm stated that they are planning to purchase the building which houses their office and they are certain that the building will not qualify on its own but they would like this to pass so they can get it approved.

At the first meeting two ladies stood up and protested the fact that the proposed area did not encompass their home. "We want to get some of that government money." The Mayor promised them that they would ament the boundary lines in order to accomodate them without having the slightest idea what the structures looked like. Of course, this is not in keeping with the intended purpose of this whole thing. The promise was kept and the boundaries were extended, I am told.

We are concerned mainly about the element of not being able to get tax credit for demolition and new construction. Our properties have little or no significant historical value. We are aware of the possibility of obtaining a deregistration but be feel there should be no registration initially and, at the very least, the properties should be listed as intrusion.

My father is not well and has been terribly upset by the proposal to include his properties in the National Register and this has caused a further deterioration of his health.

Dear Dr. Murtagh,

This letter refers to #32-NR York Hist. Dist. and I would like to express my intense interest in having my properties + a section of York listed in the Nat. Reg. of Hist. Places.

The properties I now own, having inherited them from my Mother, Jean Head, R.D. #9 + 114 E. Market St. are 112 E. Market, commercial building built by my family 1894 + the house I live in at 114 E. Market St. which was bought by the family Spangler in 1812 + lived in by 4 generations. Hist. Soc. believes it was built in 1780 + is oldest privately owned home in downtown York.

There are two rented houses also on 364 + 366 E. Market

2/ St. (1840 + 1860)

There is also a family farm of 260 acres in Hellam Twp. which I am determined to preserve as rural land. It was granted to our family Peter Gartner of Kreutz Creek in 1736 by the Penns. It has been worked as a farm + lived on by the family since that time. In spite of the recent inheritance tax we have managed to keep it in tact and my son will continue to try to preserve something of our country's past in the rural scene.

I am encouraged by this program as I know many others are.

Attention: NOM

Dear Dr. Murtagh:

After some opportunity to weigh the advantages and disadvantages of inclusion in the National Register of Historic Places of various sections of the City of York, it is my belief that, on balance, this would be a positive and beneficial factor that would be in harmony with revitalization efforts in the City.

After a review with a number of developers who have pending projects in the City that will be effected as a result of inclusion in the District, it was felt that inclusion in the District would be an important incentive for the development of projects that could be jeopardized if the benefits of the 1976 Tax Reform Act were not available.

While on the surface it would seem that this is a positive step for the City, there has been concern expressed about the administrative procedures and processing obstacles related to the review process. Through contacts with various individuals knowledgeable of this process, we have been assured that the review process is reasonable in terms of both time of review and of procedures involved. However, we believe that the advantages of inclusion in the District would be severely compromised if the review process becomes cumbersome or arbitrary. Because of this, our position relative to this issue relates strictly to the ability to have the reviews required performed in a timely and orderly fashion. The City would take steps to remove itself from the Register if the review process becomes an obstacle to development.

While this position represents an over-view perspective, we encourage individual property owners with very specific needs and concerns to address those directly to the National Advisory Council, so that a very balanced perspective is taken in the consideration of York's application for the District.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth N. Marshall

Dear Dr Murtagh:

I recently received your letter regarding the house at 16 E. South St. York, Pa., regarding the possibility of it being listed in the National Register.

The entire area should be included as part of the area locally called "Sauerkraut Hill" because all the German speaking people lived in this area in the early and middle 19th century. Included were my grandparents who lived at 26 E South for many years in the original brick house to which Grandpa added the rear portion because of family increases.

The entire "downtown" area - which includes the first block of East South St - would benefit if it were restored to the condition which existed in the early 1800's - the period when these two houses were built -- from brick made from the clay excavated to form the cellars. Incidentally the brick yard was known as Greenan's and was located one block south of this street, in the area just south of Maple Street, between Duke & Court Sts.

Thank you for the information.

Sincerely,

Anthony C. Schneider

Dear Mr. Murtagh:

This is in reply to H32-NR and your letter of April 9, concerning our property being listed in the National Register of Historic places.

I am at a loss as to why our particular property has been nominated for this listing since the property has no historic or cultural background at all. It is not even old. It is just a two story ranch type house and we strongly object to being listed in your registry. I think someone has nominated our property as a joke which I don't think is very funny. I would appreciate knowing who did propose our property, if you would be so kind as to tell me.

Very truly yours,

Re: York Nomination

5/15/79

SHPO nominated larger area, larger than DOE area, in September 1978. From Joe's conversations with John Shine, Historic York — who prepared the documentation — it appears that the NW boundary as drawn in the nomination should be enlarged since it excludes areas (including the facing blocks of West Street covered by the DOE) which appear to meet the criteria (e.g. workers housing). Registration staff is inclined to accept the district nominated, with the recommendation that the boundaries be amended to include the areas adjacent to the NW section as soon as possible.

Northern edge : Penn RR + River provide traditionally recognized + visually logical edge. Also follows city limit.

N.E. corners : generally exclude modern industry + city limit.

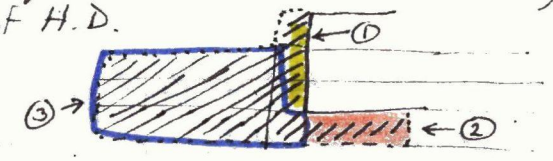
Eastern edge : mixed industry and 1920's, 30's, + 40's residences do not carry the visual, stylistic, or historic continuity of rest of H.D.

Southern edge : Rockdale Ave. was former city limit. A boundary between 1910-20 upper middle class vs. post WW II upper middle class suburbs.

SW corner : city limit

West edge : Manor St. divides periods of different time, scale, + material. Inside corner determined by industry, H.U.D. projects, demolition, + R.R./Creek.

Problems: Area that wraps around "tab" extending out at western part of H.D.



1) SW of Hope + Penn (as far south as College Ave.) is good. Late 19c 2-story rowhouses, but some loss of homogeneity due to pocket demolitions for parking.

2) N/S corridor between Hartley + West St. (W. side of Hartley) is companion to E. side of Hartley + is part of unified streetscape. → DOE'd!

3) Several blocks all the way west to city limit at ~~Richmond St.~~ are 1910-1920's industrial workers lower-class housing. Strong visual cohesion (ochre brick, cast stone, urn decorations, large front porches) → especially between Market & College. If one were looking westward from w/in boundaries of H.D., there would not be a logical visual or historic break at Hartley, whereas there would be at Richmond. No. of Market are more intrusions of 1930s/40's commerce/industry, especially looking along N/S axes; but E/W axes retain integrity. This area is associated w/ industrial growth (+ population growth) of York in 1st quarter of 20c + is companion area to higher class suburbs of period which are included on So. edge of nom. area.

(busy)

I went over all our concerns but focused on 3:

1) hope that in future they will consider amending W. edge, using DOE'd area as lead-in.
2) Need for corrected USGS. (she, not sponsor, did USGS; sponsor did sketch)
3) Need for discussion of larger area in terms of architecture + history. I emphasized that we did NOT need inventory but rather a summary of significant qualities that make it a district extending over 700 rather than 200 acres.

She will provide #2 + #3. /

She explained that documentation was originally prepared only for local statutory H.D., but sponsors later decided to expand. She feels this change may account for inconsistencies. She previously hadn't realized how extensive the city's resources were; they won't do anything this large again, but they will consider completing this one later by carrying to Ellys logical conclusion on west end. She has no idea of # of ~~Ellys~~ but feels there is low % of intrusions; photos we have, even if admits that are incompletely labeled, give an adequate representation of the broad district. I did NOT ask for add'l fotos.

I promised that Lynn Beebe would call to review my requests.

MEMORANDUM OF AGREEMENT

WHEREAS, the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) proposes to approve a Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) for the City of York, Pennsylvania (City), for the demolition of nine properties to allow implementation of the Southeast Neighborhood Strategy Program; and,

WHEREAS, pursuant to the Housing and Community Development Act of 1977, as amended, HUD has delegated to the City its responsibility for seeking the comments of the Advisory Council on Historic Preservation (Council) pursuant to Section 106 of the National Historic Preservation Act of 1966, as amended (16 U.S.C. Sec. 470(f)); and,

WHEREAS, HUD also proposes to assist in the construction of 52 new housing units and the rehabilitation of 148 existing units with the aid of low-income subsidies under Section 8 of Title II of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974; and,

WHEREAS, HUD and the City in consultation with the Pennsylvania State Historic Preservation Officer (SHPO), have determined that implementation of these projects may adversely affect the York Historic District, York, Pennsylvania, a property included in the National Register of Historic Places; and,

WHEREAS, pursuant to the regulations of the Council, "Protection of Historic and Cultural Properties" (36 CFR Part 800), the City has requested the comments of the Council; and,

WHEREAS, representatives of the Council, the City, and the Pennsylvania SHPO have consulted and reviewed the proposed undertaking to consider alternatives to avoid or satisfactorily mitigate adverse effects on the above-mentioned property;

NOW, THEREFORE, it is mutually agreed that there are no feasible and prudent alternatives to avoid or satisfactorily mitigate the adverse effects of this undertaking and it is in the public interest to proceed with the undertaking in accordance with the following stipulations.

Stipulations

The City and HUD will ensure that the following measures are carried out.

1. Properties that are to be rehabilitated within the Southeast Neighborhood Strategy Area Program area will be rehabilitated in accordance with the recommended approach in "The Secretary of the Interior's Standards for Rehabilitation and Guidelines for Rehabilitating Historic Buildings."

2. The setbacks for the new construction on South Duke, East Charles and East Maple Streets will follow the line of the existing buildings on these streets. A setback of 10 feet will be required for new construction facing existing alleys proposed for pedestrian walks.

3. The design of the new units will be compatible with the character of the York Historic District. The color, material and detail of the new units will be responsive to the recommendations of the Pennsylvania SHPO.

4. Prior to project implementation, final plans and specifications for both the new construction and the rehabilitation will be submitted to the Pennsylvania SHPO for review and approval.

5. The City will acquire the properties located at 130-132 and 138-140 East Church Avenue, 13, 15, 17, 19, 21, 23, 25, 27, 29 East Maple Street, and 113, 115, 117 East Charles Lane. These properties will then be marketed for rehabilitation. All rehabilitation will be done in accordance with Stipulation #1.

6. The buildings at 428 and 431 South Duke Street, 415, 417, 419 and 421 Short Way, and 439, 441, and 443 South Court Street will be recorded prior to their demolition so that there will be a permanent record of their existence and present appearance. The National Architectural and Engineering Record (NAER) (National Park Service, Department of the Interior, Washington, D.C. 20243, 202-272-3527) will first be contacted to determine what documentation is required. All documentation must be accepted in writing by NAER and the Council notified of its acceptance prior to demolition.

7. Within 90 days following demolition of the properties, the City will notify the Keeper of the National Register of Historic Places in writing of the fact so that he may keep his records current.

8. Failure to carry out the terms of this Agreement requires that the City and HUD again request the Council's comments in accordance with 36 CFR Part 800. If the City and HUD cannot carry out the terms of the Agreement, it shall not take or sanction any action or make any irreversible commitment that would result in an adverse effect with respect to National Register or eligible properties covered by the Agreement or would foreclose the Council's consideration of modifications or alternatives to the implementation of the Southeast Neighborhood Strategy Program that could avoid or mitigate the adverse effect until the commenting process has been completed.

9. If any of the signatories to this Agreement determine that the terms of the Agreement cannot be met or believes a change is necessary, that signatory shall immediately request the consulting parties to consider an amendment or addendum to the Agreement. Such an amendment or addendum shall be executed in the same manner as the original Agreement.

10. Within 90 days after carrying out the terms of the Agreement, the City and HUD shall provide a written report to all signatories to the Agreement on the actions taken to fulfill the terms of the Agreement.

Narrative Description

The York Historic District was listed on the National Register of Historic Places in 1979. The York Historic District is an intact collection of architecturally significant residential, commercial, industrial and public buildings constructed between the late 18th and mid-20th centuries. The majority were built during York's growth into a regional industrial center during the last half of the 19th century. The historic district covers about one-half the city's area, encompassing the entire original 1745 town plan. The city grew outwards from the original plan throughout the 19th and early 20th centuries. The last part of the historic district to be developed is at its southwestern corner southwest of Penn Park. Laid out at the turn of the 20th century, it continued to develop through the early 1930s. The original National Register nomination completed in 1978 and 1979 was very brief, focusing on York's Colonial and Victorian history and the district's resources from those periods. A complete resource inventory of the entire historic district was not completed as part of the nomination process. Rather, lists of significant buildings and intrusions were attached to the nomination form.[1] Therefore, the purpose of this added information is 1) to provide a complete resource inventory and revised resource count [2], and 2) to describe those resources from the 1930 to 1953 period which is being added to the period of significance. No additional areas of significance or a boundary change are proposed at this time. As the original nomination did not include an historic district map, one is provided at this time to clarify the existing boundary. Also, the boundaries of the York Historic District were not correctly drawn on the USGS map submitted with the original nomination and did not correspond with the verbal boundary description. A USGS map with the corrected boundaries is attached with this additional documentation. The boundary description has also been corrected and photographs documenting the 1930-1953 resources have been provided.

In order to identify its mid-20th century resources and to adequately locate all its resources, the entire York Historic District was inventoried during the summer of 2001. The recent fieldwork identified 4,712 buildings, 8 sites, 12 structures and 9 objects, of which 89 percent (4234) contribute to the district. (Please note that the 12 buildings individually listed on the National Register of Historic Places prior to 1979 are not included in this count.) Of this number, only 32 percent (165) date from the 1930 to 1953 period. Of these 165 resources from the 1930-1953 period, 147 are contributing. Accessory buildings, principally garages and sheds, were not inventoried. Only buildings that have or had an address historically were inventoried. This fieldwork also revealed that the York Historic District has changed very little in the past two decades. It is remarkably intact with few modern buildings interrupting its historic streetscapes. A majority of the district's contributing resources have only limited modern alterations such as vinyl siding, trim wrap, or replacement windows. Although some were demolished as public hazards, most of were replaced by modern construction, principally commercial buildings.

The York Historic District's 1930 through 1953 resources were constructed principally as infill surrounded by the city's most numerous 19th century buildings. The majority have a commercial, service, business or public use, usually as stores, offices, warehouses, automotive garages, government offices, or other businesses. The mostly two-to-three story buildings are principally of brick construction with concrete foundations, often with variegated and/or combed brick. They usually sit at the front of their narrow urban lots abutting the sidewalk, similar to the earlier buildings in the historic district. A good number are located on the alleyways, often abutting the backs of the buildings facing the street. Architectural styles represented include Colonial Revival, Art Deco, and Art Moderne. Many are utilitarian buildings with limited architectural detailing and stepped parapets. These utilitarian buildings are usually one-to-two stories tall and of concrete block or brick construction. Very few residences were built in the York Historic District between 1930 and 1953. Found on the southwest and east edges of the district, all are two-story brick detached houses that contribute to the district. The majority are quite plain with limited Colonial Revival detailing. Contributing resources from the 1930 through 1953 period, including 144 buildings, two bridges (a 1951 steel and concrete girder bridge at W. Market St. and a 1954 steel and concrete girder bridge at W. King St.) and the Daniel K. Noell Monument (50 W. King St., c. 1950, concrete).

The largest concentration of contributing buildings from the 1930 to 1953 period is found in downtown York within three blocks of center square in the center of the historic district. Most are two-to-four story brick commercial buildings that have first floor stores and house offices on the upper floors. Many have one story rear warehouse wings. During the late 1920s and 1930s, the Art Deco style was popular in York for both commercial and light industrial buildings. These buildings exhibit details including cast stone storefronts and trim, shaped or stepped parapets, geometric designs, use of terra cotta, colored glass or porcelain enamel, and overall verticality to their design. The best examples are the Valencia Ballroom (142 N. George St.) built in 1934, the circa 1940 Leinhart Bros. Furniture (283 W. Market St.), and Reinbergs Shoes (51 S. George St.) built in 1941. Buildings from the late 1930s and 1940s have Art Moderne detailing such as ribbon windows, flat coped parapets, and colored glass or porcelain enamel facades. This style was especially popular for automotive-related businesses. The best examples are the White Rose Auto Club (116 E. Market St.) built in 1949 and White Rose Motor Company (255 W. King St.) built in 1938. The Late Gothic Revival style is seen on several church buildings dating from the 1930s, including the First Methodist Episcopal Church at 340 E. Market Street. The Colonial Revival style was most popular for new construction in the downtown area during the 1930 to 1953 period. Details common to this style found on these buildings include keystone lintels, multi-paned, tracery and ocular windows, and dropped cornice. Although commonly used for commercial and light industrial buildings as well, the best examples are two public buildings- the Martin Memorial Library (164 E. Market St.) built in 1935 and City Hall (50 W. King St.) built in 1940.

Most of the downtown's commercial buildings have been altered or modernized through time. In most cases, the first floor facades or storefronts were modernized throughout the 20th century to attract business and compete with nearby retailers. On many buildings, only the entrance and display windows were modernized, leaving the original storefront cornice and surround intact. Many 18th and 19th century residences were converted to stores in the late 19th and early 20th centuries. Original storefronts from this period had large plate glass windows with art glass transoms. Architectural glass storefronts become popular in the 1930s, porcelain enamel panels were used in the 1940s, and by the 1950s brushed or corrugated steel and plate glass became popular. In the 1960s and 1970s, modern storefronts of concrete and spandrel glass were installed, as well as rustic storefronts with half-timbering and pent roofs. Most recent storefronts are Colonial Revival with multi-paned display windows and paneled entrance doors. Limited to the first floor of a two-to-four story building, none of these storefronts alters the contributing status of its building. Those that date prior to 1953 have gained significance due to their age. In addition, they reflect an historical trend in the York Historic District and other similar commercial centers in the region.

The York Historic District's non-contributing resources include those that are less than fifty years old as well as earlier buildings that have lost architectural integrity. In general, the non-contributing resources are scattered throughout the historic district and do not detract from its overall integrity. Most of the historic district's less than 50 year old resources are commercial and public buildings located in downtown York. Although many mid-to-late 20th century architectural styles are represented, the material, height, massing and setback of these buildings match historic precedents in the district. There are three non-contributing sites that are urban parks either lined with benches as is the case with Cherry Lane Park (21 W. Market St.) or filled with playground equipment and macadam recreational surfaces. Reflective of their era, most of the less than 50 year old resources blend into their streetscape, often complementing the surrounding historic buildings. Accounting for 55 percent of the non-contributing resource count, the 276 pre-1953 buildings that do not contribute to the district have extensive modern alterations, especially changes to the size and placement of doors and windows and modern siding over masonry walls. The York Historic District does have several concentrations of non-contributing buildings. Two are clusters of large modern commercial buildings off the 200 block of N. George Street and the first block of E. King Street. Another is a group of late 20th century town homes on Oak Lane in the southwest portion of the historic district. Given the size of the York Historic District, these concentrations do not detract from its overall integrity.

Endnotes:

1. During the two year period that the original National Register nomination was being prepared for the York Historic District, the size of the nominated district increased substantially. Nine years earlier, a locally-controlled district (historic and architectural review board district) had been established in York. Only this small area was originally nominated and subject to a complete resource inventory. During state and federal review of the draft nomination form, a much larger district was determined eligible for the National Register and was subsequently listed to the National Register on August 29, 1979. Lists of significant and intrusive resources were attached to the final draft of the nomination, rather than a complete inventory.

2. This new inventory, conducted in 2001, counted over four times the number of resources identified in the original National Register nomination. The resource total increased from 1118 to 4742 resources. Therefore, the York Historic District's resource count that has been on file at the National Park Service since 1979 probably reflects the number of resources within the smaller locally-controlled historic district.

Introduction:

Listed in the National Register of Historic Places under Criteria A and C in 1979, the York Historic District, is a large, intact aggregate of architecturally significant residential, commercial, public and industrial buildings mostly constructed from the mid-19th century to the early-20th century. The purpose of this added information is to extend the period of significance of the York Historic District to 1953, the fifty-year guideline for significance in the National Register Program. This added information establishes the district's extended period of significance as 1741 to 1953 and primarily addresses the historical and architectural significance of the district between 1930 and 1953, an era not covered by the original nomination. The district's 20th century resources reflect the significance of the district under Criterion A as a commercial, industrial, and governmental center by the many examples of retail, office, industrial, and public buildings constructed during that time period. The York Historic District's sampling of common early to mid 20th century architectural styles also extends its architectural significance under Criterion C.

General Historical Trends of the 1930 through 1953 Period:

The City of York continued its significant growth into the mid-20th century. The industrial boom of the late-19th century continued through the 1920s with new industrial companies settling in York. With the industrial growth came commercial, civic and residential growth to accommodate the influx of business. York was the largest town in York County, serving as the industrial, commercial, governmental base to the growing county. National and economic disasters of the early 20th century did not dampen the increased growth in the district. The peak of this industrial growth came to York during World War II as the community mobilized behind the war effort. People from around the region were attracted to York for its varied employment base, plentiful stores, strong educational system, churches and variety of social activities. The 1950 census showed a population increase of eight percent over the 1930 figure, giving York 59,704 people (Sheets 1991).

Criterion A Significance:

The York Historic District's growth and prosperity did not end with the close of the 1920s. The city's diverse and very strong economy through the extended period of significance supported a variety of business, commercial enterprises, public agencies and facilities, manufacturers, and other industries. York had a varied industrial base well into the mid-20th century. Some of the region's largest manufacturers, with products including ice-making and refrigeration machinery, artificial teeth, pianos, wire cloth, heating systems, and industrial turbines were located in York. Other notable products included hosiery, furniture, pretzels, paper products, and shoes. This industrial base kept York's commercial downtown vibrant with the number and variety of shops expanding during the mid-20th century. Fueled by the success of its major industries and commercial downtown, the York Historic District's economic growth continued through to the mid-20th century.

Like other communities in the region, dramatic local and national events and catastrophes played a role in the 20th century development of the York Historic District. The Great Depression, 1930 -1941 did affect the City of York's economy and therefore building stock, but not as dramatically as other cities nationwide. The local economy was able to pull itself out of the downward cycle. Its diversified industry and agricultural based helped to ease some of the impacts of the Great Depression. In 1931, York County had 5,100 people out of work. To combat the problem, the City of York began construction on a new sewer line through the center of the York Historic District. Private industries in the district also began expansion programs to employ the out of work including the York Telephone Company, York Oil Burner Company, York Water Company, and A.B. Farquhar Company, an agricultural implement manufacturer (Sheets 1991). A United States industry survey showed that York County trade topped $36 million in 1931, up from the previous year. So by 1932, York's number of jobless was down to 3,000. In August of 1933, the Codorus Creek, a small creek running through the center of the district, flooded causing $4.6 million in damage. The Edison Electric Company was flooded leaving most of its customers without power. Thousands of people were left homeless as their residences along the creek, specifically North Beaver and North Streets, were damaged. A Civil Works Administration project, the largest in Pennsylvania, spent some $600,000 for the Codorus Flood Control project, enlarging the Codorus channel to prevent future flooding. None of the work was completed by machine in order to employ the most men possible (McClure 1999). Other public projects brought 1,436 more jobs as well as 26 Works Progress Administration (WPA) projects to York, employing 6,112 (Sheets 1991).

The increase in York's population and changing expectations of government during the 1930s caused an increase in government programs during the extended period of significance. New and expanded public buildings were needed to accommodate these programs. The 1911 United States Post Office was greatly expanded in 1940 to handle the increasing mail traffic coming to and leaving from York. In 1941, the City of York opened a new City Hall to coordinate with the commemoration of the 200th anniversary of the founding of York (Sheets 1991). The county government purchased neighboring buildings surrounding the existing York County Courthouse to house growing social service programs. The county treasurer's office, sheriff's office, the registration commission, children's services and probation department were moved to these buildings. In the late 1950s these buildings were demolished for expansion of the Courthouse Annex, constructed in 1957.

The decade of the 1930s was also an era of cultural development within the York Historic District. There were several movie houses in operation and other cultural organizations soon constructed their headquarters. The Valencia Ballroom was constructed in 1934 to host famous bands of the era. In 1935 the city's first public library was constructed. Prior to its construction, the York Historic District's residents were able to use the library at William Penn High School. Financed with the generous gift of local industrialist Milton D. Martin, it was named the Martin Memorial Library in his honor (Peckham 1946). The increase in population during the mid-20th century also caused an increase in new school construction both inside the York Historic District and the rest of the city. In 1940, an annex was constructed to the 1928 William Penn High School. The annexes housed classrooms specially designed for vocational training and once completed, the complex was considered one of the most modern high schools in Pennsylvania (Peckham 1946).

Coupled with York City's steady increase of industrial and governmental growth was the simultaneous growth of commercial enterprise. The York Historic District continued as the shopping district for the surrounding region into the 1950s. A market town with numerous shops since the Colonial era, downtown York in the heart of the York Historic District was a collection of numerous shops, stores, and businesses that sold everything including clothing, hardware, automobiles, books and newspapers. Centered within three blocks of the center square at George and Market Streets, the downtown area also held the majority of the city's eating establishments, barbers and hair salons, and professional offices. The department stores established along Market Street between 1910 and 1928 continued to be a draw for customers. These large nationally recognized stores, including Sears Roebuck and Company, served as commercial anchors for the downtown area. Constantly adapting to the changing needs of the local residents, York's stores remained highly profitable through the mid-20th century.

Trolley service of the York Railways Company brought shoppers from the both the city and the county to the downtown area. They had lines extending in all directions of the city and connections with the county's railroad network to connect with the outer reaches of the county. With such retail activity, it was not uncommon for shoppers to spend the day in the York Historic District, buying food at the market houses and other wares at the many shops, markets and department stores. Unfortunately, many of the stores did not have public restrooms. In 1930 two comfort stations were constructed on the southeast corner of the square at the intersection of Market and George Streets. The restrooms were constructed underground with two cast stone balustrades outlining their staircases from the street level. The restrooms were open sixteen hours a day, seven days a week and were run by city employees. Women could check their market baskets for 10 cents. Men could shower for 25 cents. A barbershop, beauty parlor and a shoeshine bench were also located in the comfort stations.

The peak of York's industrial production came with the adoption of the York Plan during World War II. Many businesses were already major suppliers of military hardware to the Federal Government. York area industrial leaders devised a plan to maximize production to include all segments of the York economy. The manufacturing industries worked collectively to supply the war effort with the needed supplies by subcontracting elements of the production to other idle York companies. The goal of the York Plan was to fully mobilize the York workforce to reach full production. Much of the emphasis was placed within the York Historic District because of its size and industrial base even though the York Plan was a countywide initiative. The Associated Press reported on February 4, 1941 that thirty-six other industrial communities in Pennsylvania organized their own community industrial pools following the lead of the York Plan. At the height of wartime production in 1943, there were 224 industries located in the City of York producing goods totaling nearly $200 million (Pettit 1991).

The rise of automobile traffic during the 1930s did affect the York Historic District. The city's trolley service ended in February of 1939 after experiencing declining ridership for a decade. As a result, the York Historic District, where the city's government services and commercial enterprise was centered, began suffering from traffic congestion. In 1950, a newly formed York Planning Commission instituted one-way traffic on the main through streets: Market, King, and Philadelphia to the east and west; and George, Duke, and Beaver to the north and south (Sheets 1991). With trolley traffic replaced by cars on-street parking became a necessity. Parking meters were installed in the York Historic District in 1940, with the charge of 5 cents for one hour parking along the street and 5 cents for a half-hour in the square (Rudisill 1991). Through the 1960s, on-street parking was sufficient for the York Historic District's many patrons and workers. The automobile also dramatically changed the use of business signage along the main thoroughfares. Stores needed large-scale signage, often covering the entire secondary facades of buildings to attract the attention of speeding motorists. York's beautiful leaded glass transoms were often sacrificed for these signs such as in the case of Rite-Aid pharmacy at 40-42 West Market Street.

York City's industrial strength continued after World War II. The output of goods from the York Historic District kept the Maryland and Pennsylvania's Railroad's lines along the northern boundary of the district active, with the company's most prosperous years between the years of 1946 to 1951. During this period an average of 15 million tons of freight was hauled annually. In combination with their passenger service, the Maryland and Pennsylvania's earnings exceeded 1 million dollars. However, the changing face of industry and technological advancements in the late 1950s and early 1960s required larger manufacturing facilities. The need for larger plants pushed many businesses outside the boundaries of the City of York. The corporate headquarters for many of these businesses, however, remained in the heart of the York Historic District. Many existing manufacturing buildings began to be used for warehousing and small specialty industries. Many others abandoned during the late 1950s and 1960s remained vacant for decades. After experiencing an economic downturn during the 1960s and 1970s, the York Historic District rebounded during the 1980s with the rehabilitation of numerous residential neighborhoods. This attracted middle income residents and new businesses back to center city. With this movement of small business back to the downtown, the York Historic District continues to be the economic and government center for its surrounding region.

Criterion C Significance:

The York Historic District's mid-20th century resources convey the district's continued role as the center of county government, a local industrial center, and as a market and service town. Although the York Historic District was already tightly developed by 1930, new construction is scattered throughout with the greatest concentration in the downtown commercial area as a result of urban renewal. As the land was already fully developed, there was little to no new residential growth within the York Historic District after the 1920s. However, the post-war suburban movement did affect the York Historic District, with numerous subdivisions popping up in the York area. Many of the wealthy and upper-middle class families had moved from center city (and the York Historic District) during the early 20th century. After World War II, middle income workers and their families continued this outward migration, attracted to these new developments of small homes outside the York City limits. This immense growth outside the City of York allowed the historic district to retain most of its earlier resources and its integrity. As houses were left vacant most were subdivided into apartments, while others were converted to office space and/or retail businesses.

Commercial buildings constructed in the York Historic District during the period following 1930 included some of the most tangible examples of the growth and activity in the city. New technological developments afforded commercial buildings an entirely new look including modern window fenestration patterns and new materials like glazed terra cotta, cast stone, porcelain enamel and Carrara glass or Vitrolite. Geometrical detailing, hard-edged low relief decoration and enameled panels graced the facades of many of the buildings. Prominent features of the period include glass brick, metal window and door frames, and stainless steel and aluminum for hardware and other details. These Art Deco and Art Moderne styled buildings are perhaps the most popular architectural style constructed during the period of 1930 - 1953 in the York Historic District, both in new construction and facade alteration. The district's best example of Art Deco is the 1937 York Arts Building (10-20 North Beaver Street). In 1930, Sears, Roebuck and Company bought the Overland-Harrisburg Auto Company (149 West Market Street) and added an Art Deco facade with vertical detailing and a cast stone parapet. Art Moderne styled or influenced buildings are somewhat more prominent, with the district's best examples including the 1949 White Rose Auto Club (118 East Market Street), the 1937 White Rose Motors (255 West King Street), Peoples Laundry (282-284 West Market Street), and the 1940 Reineberg's Shoe Store (51 South George Street).

The Colonial Revival Movement of the 20th century also touched the York Historic District. These buildings blended well along the district's streetscapes with its remaining 19th century Federal and Greek Revival architecture. Designed as stylized examples of local colonial period buildings, the district's Colonial Revival buildings all have varying degrees of the style's elements including pedimented gable dormers, double hung sashes with multi-pane glazing over a single large pane, and elaborated porticos and door surrounds. In the York Historic District, the style was used principally for public/government buildings and additions to earlier religious buildings. The district's best examples include the Martin Memorial Library (159 East Market Street) built in 1935 and City Hall (50 West King Street) built in 1940.

With limited new construction, these early to mid 20th century styles including Art Deco, Art Moderne, and Colonial Revival are found principally as storefronts on earlier 19th and early 20th century buildings. Many of the Late Victorian and Commercial style commercial and industrial buildings in the York Historic District have newer storefronts dating between the 1930s and 1980s. These storefronts are reflective of the ever present need of the merchants to modernize in their effort to attract customers. These alterations had little impact on the integrity of these resources and in fact display how the district's focus as a commercial center is shown architecturally. The prevalence of Commercial style buildings and mid-20th century storefronts within the York Historic District only reiterates the importance of commerce within the district and as seen in its architecture.

Summary:

The York Historic District is significant for its development from a small Colonial town into a Victorian industrial city during the period of 1741-1929 and continued development into a highly commercial center during the period of 1930-1953. The district maintains excellent examples of the major architectural periods from Georgian to Streamline Moderne. The Art Deco, Streamline Moderne, Colonial Revival and Commercial style buildings and building alterations constructed during the extended period of significance are important for their contribution in understanding the evolution of the York Historic District into a mid-20th commercial community. The early-to-mid 20th century resources of the York Historic District portray the district's continued significance as the center of commercial and governmental activities. Of the 165 resources constructed between 1930-1953, the majority display good examples of common mid-20th century architectural styles. The design and function of these resources are seen from the choice of decorative elements. The development within the boundaries of the York Historic District during the 20th century shows that the district was considered an important local center for commerce, industry and government.
