BASHKKA

BASHKKA is a DJ and producer whose sound moves at the intersection of precision and sensuality. Rooted in house and techno, her sets are deliberate explorations of rhythm and emotion — playful yet controlled, intimate yet expansive — shaped by a decade living in New York and deeply influenced by the city's musical heartbeat, her own music is not only performance but dialogue: a conversation with the histories, cultures, and energies that built the dance floor.

A fixture in globally revered spaces like Munich's Blitz Club, Berlin's Panorama Bar or Kyiv's K41, which she describes as her love at first sight, BASHKKA commands rooms with energy that is both magnetic and intentional. Every set carries her distinct voice — one that honours heritage, experiments with form and transforms conventional club spaces into sanctuaries of connection and release. Her approach is at once cerebral and visceral, bridging the underground with contemporary electronic innovation.
