OUR APPROACH

Through our partnerships, we are building an evidence base to inform local practice while addressing some of the nation's deepest organizational challenges currently hindering effective and equitable teaching and learning at scale.

WHO WE ARE & INTRODUCTIONS

EXAMPLES OF THE WORK IN PRACTICE

CCRE: The Mission of CCRE at Bank Street College is to build and coordinate the capacity of communities to support children and families through the collaborative development of culturally responsive strength- and evidence-based systems, programs and practices. We believe that: Race and culture matter, Systems change starts with self, and Strength-based thinking is central to success. Across our projects, schools, districts and regions are our units of change as we partner with families and community members.

NY Network Project: Our work with 4 upstate school districts is focused on this essential question: How can school systems support schools to build professional learning communities of teacher leaders to create instructional coherence that leads to meaningful classroom-level improvements?

New Haven Birth to 8: Launching a community initiative that proposes to revolutionize the early care and education landscape in New Haven by galvanizing local leaders around a common vision of high-quality to increase access to these learning experiences for all children ages 0-8.

SFP: The SFP works to make sure that all aspiring teachers can afford to matriculate to high quality preparation programs that include intensive, supported clinical practice. Nationally, we work with schools, districts, teacher preparation programs, and policymakers to build sustainable funding models.
