But nothing ever put a cramp on borrowing gems of art and transplanting them to a cottage front lawn.

The new rules seem quite explicit. The only question that may arise is "what happens if the posters are judged, prizes awarded and THEN someone finds out that a poster is a reprint from the Louvre?"

To us, Rule 9, as printed on this page, is the catchall. With the judges' decision final, it seems that the winner will stay winner, obsconded art or no. But since the winner would be thoroughly discredited, with everyone familiar with the rules, we think Rule 9 is sufficient.

We await the deluge of fresh ideas come the fall.

Editorial Director

U. of Va. says 'NO'

Sometimes the college student is prone to forget his counterparts on other campuses. He is often unaware of the problems which other students are encountering.

Of course, not every student has access to college newspapers, writes fellow students across the nation, reads the New York Times education section or even glances at magazine articles on the subject.

However, such contact would not only show how other colleges are handling similar problems but would also reveal problems unique to other universities which we can be pleased have never been issues on the Hill.

For example, students at the University of Virginia recently fought a battle against the formation of a chapter of Students For America.

This patriotic-sounding organization, with Gen. MacArthur as honorary president, is pledged to weed out all communists on college campuses.

Modeled after the very system it is supposed to be uprooting, SFA was organized with secret membership units, to infiltrate "leftist" groups and report back to the National headquarters.

Members were to "take notes and direct quotations from the lectures of professors who consistently insert Communist and socialist propaganda into the classroom."

Students at the University of Virginia were evidently not appreciative of the many things which this junior spy ring could accomplish, for the student council unanimously turned down SFA's request for recognition.

It almost seems a tribute to the students and faculty here that no such group or person—individually determining who is "un-American" and who is not—has sprung up.

Although there are many who decry the current "Red Hysteria," it is a slight comfort to realize that its waves have hit a jetty of student understanding.

Editor-in-Chief

JOTTINGS

THE UNIVERSAL CHARIVARI

Hugh O. Muir
Arthur Siegel
Richard Caro
Roger J. Herz
Joan Nadelhaft

A FUTURE face-to-face meeting with Red China in Geneva has raised smoke in various corners. Unfortunate in a way.

Somebody seems to have gotten the idea that the U. S. has joined an international social club. The mores of this nation include the exclusive organization. It seems rather dangerous to try and export that also.

The term "isolationist" came to mind again. In the '20's and '30's meant keeping house alone on this side of the Atlantic. We chose our company with care.

Basically, that is what is happening now all over again. Much as we may dislike it, we might as well recognize that certain irritating neighbors do exist.

Just like we found we could not retreat behind the Atlantic wall, now we will find we cannot hide behind the Pacific islands.

And all of this far from involves the legal factor of official recognition.

The point is, if we are going to settle anything we can do little business with a blank wall, even one with handwriting on it. The problem is reduced to a matter of moral sentiment versus cold fact.

THE PEPSI man was in yesterday, and saved several of us from financial ruin.

Seems our machine is neurotic, he said. Worse things have occurred on the contraptions. Ours is a stingy one, sitting in the no-man's land between the editorial director and (let us not say it too loudly) the sports desks.

Time and again, the big blue giant takes a quarter, clicks a few times and sits placidly back. But yesterday we learned that other machines are human too. Some will deliver drinks all day on a dime. Some noisy, some timid. Like people.

SECRETARY Stevens has "backed down" just as Sen. McCarthy said he would. Seems that the man from the dairy state has kept his crystal ball well polished. Or perhaps he just got everything his little heart desires. Seems like it . . .

Nobody's safe anymore. The other day the president of the University of Wisconsin Sigma Delta Chi chapter resigned because the group has invited That Man to speak at the annual Gridiron Dinner. All very confusing. When he resigned, he said he had had nothing to do with the invitation, but was resigning anyway. As we said, nothing is sacred.

We're hoping, a little futilely, that someday we can pick up the paper and find no mention of Sen. McCarthy. Guess this paper is no exception. Idle dreamers, that's us.

WE RECALL running several stories a few weeks on the theft of a famed WAER weather flag which was purchased with the avowed purpose of forecasting the atmospheric conditions for students.

The fellow finally returned it after continued publicity and WAER openly rejoiced and made it known that the flag would ripple proudly over Syracuse each day.

But it has not been so. The flag has not flown. Passing by the radio shack the other day we saw two of them hanging in the window We thinks something must be wrong. Maybe the weather fades them.

BRAINS OF IFC weekend thought the formal's intermission, water show needs something novel this year. John Weismuller was immediately vetoed. Buster Crabbe the same.

What about Esther Williams? Sure. So they sent a telegram, asking her to attend.

A letter promptly returned, written by a man named Hudgins at MGM who didn't even have his name engraved on the stationery.

"Unfortunately, Miss Williams is out of town at the moment. However, she is scheduled to return to the studio next week and begin rehearsals immediately for her next film (handwritten comma) JUPITER'S DARLING . . . But due to production plans it will be impossible for her to attend the ball. Assure, however, that she will be most grateful for the invitation." Always the PLUG, and then the regret. That's business.

NEW POSTER RULES

(Editors' note: Tau Sigma Delta, sponsor of the Colgate Poster contest, passed the following resolution on the evening of Feb. 23. These revised rules are designed to put the campus-wide competition on a more equal basis.)

REVISED CONTEST RULES

1. Size of the poster is left to the discretion of the competing houses and no general theme need be followed. However, every poster must bear the words "BEAT COLGATE" prominently displayed.
2. The poster must be painted on a flat surface. Although several flat surfaces may be used, they cannot be joined together to give the impression of a solid mass.
3. No sound is to be used in conjunction with the poster or in the vicinity of the poster while the posters are being judged.
4. Applications together with a fee of $1.50 will be accepted on Monday and Tuesday preceeding Colgate weekend. All entries must be in by 5 p.m. Tuesday.
5. Numbers will be issued to each entry and must be displayed prominently in front of the poster.
6. Judging will take place on the Friday of Colgate weekend.
7. Judging will be based on the originality of the theme and the quality of execution.
8. Posters are to be original work, designed and executed by duely enrolled full-time undergraduate students of Syracuse University.
9. The decision of the judges and the Poster Committee is final.

Meeting of Minds

By ART SIEGEL
Managing Editor

Is it faith in your own ideas? Or horn-rimmed glasses? Is it reflection? Or just enjoyment? Or buying a record that no one else will enjoy, including you? Or quiet satisfaction? Is it non-conformity for non-conformity's sake? Is it a set of ideals?

It is beyond us to describe this intangible. Its meaning has become confused like so many other general terms: "nature," "maturity," "socialization," "intelligence." These words mean one thing to the psychologist, another to the English prof, and about a hundred different things to the dictionary makers.

Thus, ours must be a limited definition, because of space and our purposes and our own ability. We must ignore for this article the arts, and curiosity and consider one aspect of our intellectual: a person who can reason before reacting. From this quality, the fine shadings of a person's intellect will inevitably show themselves.

Come with us now to a two-seater booth in the Dutch Haven, campus coffee shop.

J.M.: Is this seat taken?

M.C.: No it isn't. I'm Make Carpenter.

J.M.: Nice to meet you. I'm John Morgan.

M.C.: Oh, you're the fella they've been writing about—the COMMON MAN?

J.M.: That's right. Say, is this your paper?

M.C.: Yes, it is. I've been reading this article about the slump in the textile business these days.

J.M.: Well, it's a pretty sad case. We're headed for another depression.

M.C.: How do you know?

J.M.: Look at all the unemployment.

M.C.: There isn't that much unemployment. We're not in trouble unless we top the five million mark.

J.M.: Yes, but we've had prosperity for so long, it's bound to happen.

M.C.: What makes you thing that we have to have a depression?

J.M.: The business cycle.

M.C.: Come again.

J.M.: Well, you reach a high point, then you've got to come down.

M.C.: Hmm, I didn't know that. I thought it might be possible to adjust at a high level.

J.M.: It's never happened that way.

M.C.: But it might. After all, economics is a science these days, and the economists don't seem to think the dip is a major one.

J.M.: Listen, they're politicians.

M.C.: Have you really examined the situation? The budget, inventories, outlook for foreign sales?

J.M.: Well, no. All I know is that the government is spending less money.

M.C.: That may be true. But the President seems to think that if the government spends less money, taxes will decrease and the consumer will be able to buy more things and keep industry and business going.

J.M.: Listen, they're all politicians.

M.C.: Well, I don't think we know enough about it to predict a depression. Some persons believe that we may be talking ourselves into a depression—that we seem ashamed of our prosperity.

J.M.: That's ridiculous.

M.C.: Well, so is what you say, unless you know why you're saying it.

J.M.: Look, I've made up my mind. The next few years are going to be hell.

M.C.: You may be right. But you should be ready to change your mind if you should learn something new about the situation.

J.M.: I can see that it's ridiculous to argue with you. You're too pig-headed. Say, do you wear glasses?

M.C.: Sometimes.

J.M.: So. You're an intellectual, that's what you are.

M.C.: Oh?

FROM THE ORCHESTRA

'Man' Comes To Eckel

By JOAN NADELHAFT
Daily Orange Drama Critic

James Mason says in "the Man Between" that Berliners don't even notice the heaps of rubble and ruined buildings which still mark the city. American movie audiences are almost in that state—they've seen quite a bit of them too. Still, to an American, the sight of a ruined structure is a shocker. Particularly when the whole thing is spread across a wall-to-wall screen, as at the Eckel.

Carol Reed, the British producer, in case some of the audience doesn't know, is a specialist in shockers. "The Man Between" rates high on the list of his best. As a shocker, though is is underplayed. Reed has gotten over many of the devices he used in the past to jump the moviegoer from his chair. However, his talent for the unusual—in lighting and directing is well displayed.

The camera work is superb, and the low-key, off-side lighting angles are fine compliments to the plot. Of course, we've all seen the naive, idealistic girl get mixed up with the man of the world a thousand times.

Claire Bloom lives up to her promise from "Limelight" although this part doesn't require the talent the last one did. She is calm, with an underlying warmth, but quiet, even in her flashes of brightness, and altogether too good to be true. Even the British are falling into our lazy habit of using character prototypes to avoid strain on the budget and the actors' ability.

Hildegarde Neff is excellent as the tormented wife in the story, and even the close closeups fail to pierce her characterization.

And then there's James Mason, already mentioned. What can we say? Having more interest in Mr. Mason than other critics on the Daily Orange we might be somewhat prejudiced. We even liked the love scene, which critical analysis tells us got a little sticky for comfort.

As we mentioned, the British movies are becoming so obviously slanted for American audiences. We would liked to have seen this movie made several years ago, before the land of gold and big box-office receipts was as dominant in the British producers' minds as today.

We recommend it if you like the British-type thriller.

WAER STORY

FROM A GADGET TO 'THE VOICE'

By DICK CASE
Editorial Page Writer

They call it radio.

In the earliest days, it was a monstrous, morbid looking box which loomed in the corner of a few scattered parlors across the nation and spouted forth music and variously garbled talk. "Just a darned gadget," grandpappy declared.

A darned gadget? Looking at radio in 1954, one would hardly think so. More that it has become a pleasant octopus of an industry with tenacles which touch us all in our autos, our bedsides, our living rooms and our kitchens. A few years ago, they gave radio a visual counterpart and now television is with us in force.

As it touched the home, radio-television touched the University. Syracuse, for instance, is currently celebrating its 25th anniversary in the field.

It was in the fall of 1929 that a fellow named Kenneth G. Bartlett joined the University faculty and brought to campus his deep interest in the then-new field of radio.

The first radio activities here were extra-curricular consisting of group meetings with students and the presentation of shows from downtown studios. In 1931, station WSYR indicated a desire to carry "educational material unrelated to advertising" and it assigned call letters WMAC from a former Cazenovia station to the University group. Mr. Bartlett was appointed manager of the new station which was given space in Crouse college in the form of a tiny studio. The University call letters were switched to WSYU in 1933 for several years and shared a transmitter with WSYR.

Radio blossomed on campus and in 1937, a radio workshop was constructed on the ground floor of the main library with direct lines to two local stations, WSYR and WFBL. The new workshop was built with funds furnished jointly by the University and the two outlets. For more than ten years the campus group functioned as a public service department for the stations.

During 1946, new facilities consisting of five pre-fabricated units behind the library were built and dubbed "Radio House," the present studios of WAER. Television reared its head in 1950 and the library studios were converted to video.

Radio station WAER, supposedly named after radio honorary Alpha Epsilon Rho, became the FM voice of Syracuse university in 1947 when the campus was ivited by General Electric company to test a pilot model of low-powered FM radio transmission. After the test operation, low-powered FM was approved by the FCC. Today over a 100 such stations modeled after the Syracuse attempt are in operation throughout the country.

EVentualities by EV

"Well, Myrlholz finally got into med school."

IN THE HALLWAY

Getting Dates Straight

By ED HARDY

Inadequacies in the selection of dates for freshman class officers and frosh men's student government assembly members may soon be corrected.

Action is expected soon in the MSG assembly to amend sections of the assembly elections act and/or the class elections act so that limits of dates in which to hold the two elections will be the same, allowing both elections to be held on the same day.

Under the MSG elections act, freshman elections of assemblymen must be held between Oct. 28 and Nov. 15.

The class elections act states that frosh balloting "shall not be earlier than Oct. 1 nor later than Oct. 30 of any year."

Student government, limited by its budget, can actually afford to hold only one fall election. Thus, the only dates that voting can be held now are Oct. 28, 29 and 30.

The confining character of the clauses provided difficulties last fall and forced two elections, MSG and frosh class elections were set for Oct. 28, but the class balloting was changed to Nov. 4 following a protest and court trial on campaigning.

Government officials would have liked to change MSG elections to the later date, but were restricted by the assembly elections act. That restriction cost them approximately $25, the cost of running a separate election.

We'd like to suggest that both acts be amended to fix frosh class and assembly elections between Oct. 15 and Nov. 15, instead of the present dates.

This would allow for any late start of the school year in the future and would provide a satisfactory time so as not to conflict with fraternity rushing, which usually ends by the last week of October.

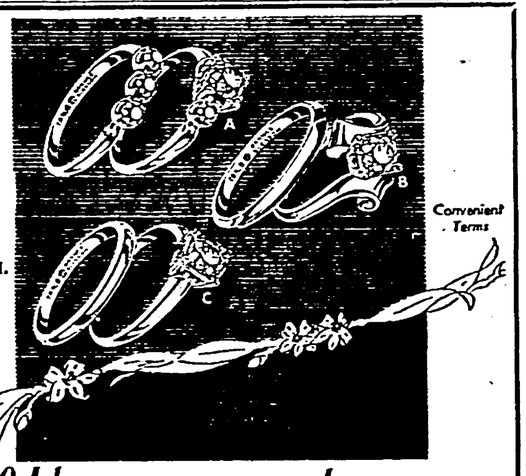
The MSG assembly should expedite passage of legislation to revise the dates.

MODERN STYLES
EYEGLASSES ON CREDIT
Eyes Examined
No Appointment Necessary
1 to 24-Hr. Service
BROKEN LENSES AND FRAMES REPLACED PROMPTLY
FASHION RIGHT
City Opticians EYEGLASSES
Open Daily—Sat. 9 A.M. to 6 P.M.
N. W. Risbor, Reg. Optometrist Phone 2-6088
211 E. FAYETTE ST., COR. S. WARREN, SYRACUSE

STYLED FOR SPRING
COTTONS -- LINENS
Dresses Skirts
Suits Blouses
THE TOWN SHOP
Open Tuesday and Friday Evenings
736 South Crouse Avenue Phone 4-0461

RENT A CAR
DRIVE IT YOURSELF
DATE SPECIAL
$5.50 from 6 p.m. to 8 a.m.
7 days a week
plus $.07 per mile
R. S. ROBIE, INC.
Address 104 MADISON ST.
HERTZ SYSTEM
Telephone Nos. 3-6223—3-7744

FOR THOSE "BIG" EVENINGS . . .
The finest entertainment — the best music — and the smartest surroundings for those 'big" evenings at at Hotel Syracuse.
The Persian Terrace — colorfully designed for formal occasions. Brilliant entertainment — danceable music and excellent food.
CLAIR PERRAULT
and his orchestra playing for dancing at dinner and supper Tuesday through Saturday Evenings
Persian Terrace
hotel SYRACUSE



A—$485.
B—$275.
C—$150.
Tax Incl.
Convenient Terms
We want you to know . . .
Diamonds are like people—all different. The reasons for a particular diamond's value are not readily apparent to the untrained eye. We will gladly guide you in the selection of your diamond and point out the reasons why our Genuine Orange Blossom rings are superior in quality and value.
USE OUR DIVIDED PAYMENT PLAN
THERE'S NO ADDED COST
H.J. HOWE Inc.
Two Hundred One South Salina
Independent Jewelers Since 1860

Cagers End Season Against Maroon

By BOB LEFKO
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Colgate's Red Raiders will provide opposition for the Syracuse cagemen tomorrow night as the local quintet brings down the curtain on the 1953-54 season. A second victory over the Hamiltonians in the home and home series would assure the Hillmen of an above .500 record for the season. Game time at Archbold Gym is 8:30 p.m.

Coach Marc Guley's five enters the fray with a 10-9 record while the visitor's have compiled a 5-10 ledger. In their previous encounter at Hamilton two weeks ago, the Saltines rallied in the final stanza to eke out an 85-83 decision.

VIEING FOR TOP billing in the contest will be the personal battle between the captains of the two squads, Mel Besdin of Syracuse and Frank Patterson of Colgate. Both are within reach of the coveted 300 point mark for the season, Besdin needing only three points and Patterson 23.

In their earlier meeting, Patterson hooped 30 points while Besdin accounted for 20.

Coach Howard Hartman will probably depend on junior guard Bill Johnson to help Patterson with most of the scoring for the invaders. The 5 ft.-11 sharpshooter has been improving with recent games and is averaging in double figures.

Other probably starters for the Maroon are Milt Graham and Cal Wolcott, the squad's tallest members, and Don Ronnie.

RONNIE, A 6 FT.-2 senior is the defensive ace of the squad while 6 ft.-6 Graham and 6 ft.-5 Wolcott provide the major strength under the boards. Graham, a sophomore, has improved with experience throughout the year and should bother the Orange with his rebounding ability.

Guley will probably open with Besdin, Jack Larned, Manny Breland and Ron Gillespie. The fifth spot is still doubtful but Senior Lou Beverly may fill the opening. The 6 ft.-5 center gave one of his best performances in the last clash with the Red Raiders, racking up 15 markers.

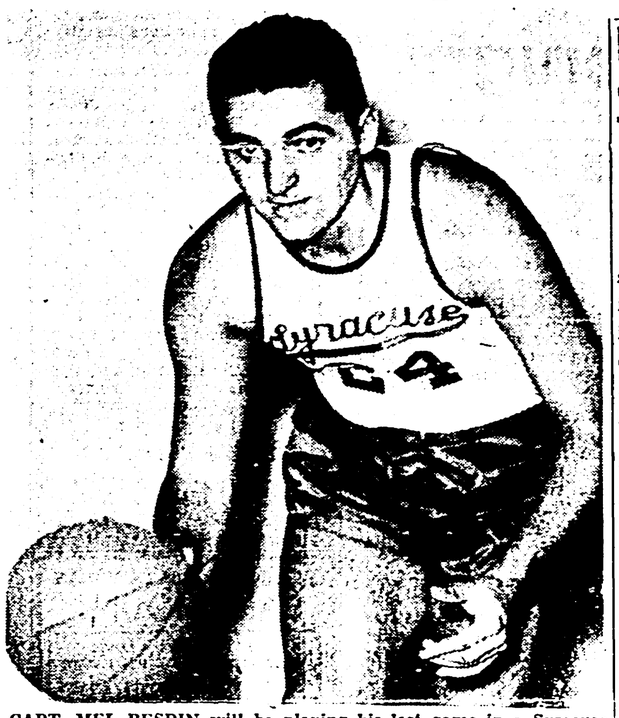
The other big man for the Orange, 6 ft.-5 Dave Kline, will probably be back in action for the battle after missing last week's contest with Penn State because of a cold.

Colgate enters the clash with four victories in their last six contests. Monday night they were edged out by Buffalo, 65-64 but last Friday they turned in one of their most impressive performances by outclassing Penn State, 75-63. The same Nittany Lions battled Syracuse down to the wire before dropping a 71-69 verdict Saturday night.

OTHER TEAMS included in Colgate's list of victims are Army and Connecticut. The highly rated Uconns have only one other defeat on their record while the Kaydets are early season conquerors of the Pietymen.

A packed house is expected to see the local's last contest of the season. Student tickets will continue on sale until game time and can be obtained for 40 cents with the presentation of an ID card.

WAER will carry both the varsity and the preliminary frosh battle starting at 6:15 p.m. Don Decker, Ken Gilchrist and Bill Dixon will do the announcing on 88.1 FM.



CAPT. MEL BESDIN will be playing his last game in a Syracuse uniform tomorrow night when the Piety cagers play host to Colgate at Archbold gym. He needs only three more markers to reach the 300 point total for the season.

Baseball, Lacrosse Practice Starts

Both baseball and lacrosse practice starts this Monday for all varsity candidates. Coach Ted Kleinhans announced yesterday that the bus for the baseball team will leave from in front of the gym at 3 p.m.

Lacrosse coach Roy Simmons stated that all varsity men should report to him in the Archbold Stadium locker room at 3:30 p.m. Freshmen candidates for both of these sports will report later in the year.

Revengeful Yearlings Meet Raider Quintet

By DAVE BENNETT
Daily Orange Junior Editor

In what will probably prove to be its key game of the season, Syracuse's frosh basketball team goes after its twelfth victory tomorrow night when the Colgate yearlings invade Archbold gym for the traditional contest between the frosh squads of both schools.

Coach Andy Mogish's team has been beaten only once this season. That loss came two weeks ago at the hands of the same Raider five that provides the opposition Saturday. Thus it will be a revenge-minded Syracuse team that takes the court for the 6:30 clash tomorrow, the first game of the double-header that has the Orange-Colgate varsities playing the finale.

THE STARTING lineup for the Hill team is tentative. In recent frosh games, Mogish has opened with a quintet made up of Vin Cohen, Gary Clark, Jim Snyder, Vin Albanese and Lou Stark. Possible break throughs for the important Raider test are Jim Brown Niel Wilcox and Jim Roper, all proven substitutes.

The Tangerines carried a nine-game unbeaten string into the first Colgate contest on Feb. 12. The spotless record was erased by the Maroon's strong second half finish, however, as the Hamilton aggregation pinned a 72-65 loss on the Piety squad.

Vin Cohen, frosh scoring star, was the top point-maker in the first game against Colgate, as well as most of the other yearling encounters this season.

The 6 ft.-1 forward has averaged approximately 20 points per game, most of them by virtue of a brilliant jumping one-hander, a shot Vinnie can execute from almost any place in the court.

ALONG WITH Cohen, the Orange Cubs can count on Jim Snyder and Gary Clark for serength in the scoring column. Both men are 6 ft.-4 and both possess effective one-handed shots. Clark and Snyder also supply strength under the backboards, along with the 6 ft.5 Roper.

Boxing . . .

(Continued from page 1)

the heavy department. There, Sam "The Loon" Alexander, an off-season football halfback, will take on Wisconsin's Bob Hinds who officially has an unbeaten record in college boxing. Hinds quit the Nationals last year after one win, when stricken with a sudden illness.

Wisconsin Coach John Walsh gets them from all over. In the leadoff spot (i.e., 125 pounds) he has Roy Kuboyama from the University of Hawaii, two years ago.

Jerry Jaffe at 132 will take on Terry Tynan. It is up to Larry O'Sullivan to tackle the Badgers' other co-capt. Bob Meath at 156.

FROM A logical standpoint, Wisconsin must be called the favorite. Coach John Walsh, who has coached boxing 19 out of the 21 years he's been at Wisconsin, has pushed the sport into a major category mainly by his efforts and consistent winning.

Alhough this is only Wisconsin's second match, they are far from a green team.

Simmons must count on his frequent four and pull another winner out of another weight class. If his four: Guelli, Jaffe, Granger and Rigolosi win, then one of Simmons' other boys must pick up one. O'Sullivan or Yancey are the most likely to succeed, but Yancey fights a strong boy. There is the possibility that Morgan, who lost his first match at 147 for Wisconsin, might be starting a bad year.

Wisconsin Coach Walsh has arranged to have "most of his boxers available at two weights." Thus by so manipulating, Ray Zale might be pushed down into the crucial Rigolosi bout. Then Yancey finds himself in a better position.

The only thing that Syracuse is conceding, according to Coach Simmons: "They should take a few [bouts]".

Underdog Mermen Seek Win Against Colgate Invaders

By BOB GROGAN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

An underdog Syracuse swim team will be out to even its season's record at 3-3 when it faces the potent Red Raiders from Colgate in the Orange Pool tomorrow at 3:30 p.m.

Colgate has lost to Cornell and Niagara but has beaten seven opponents, among them Fordham, RPI and Williams. Against common opponents, Syracuse lost to Williams but routed Fordham almost as badly as Colgate did.

BILL BRANCH, captain of the Maroon mermen, is the man the Orange will have to shackle if they are to pull an upset. Branch is a freestyler who can give a good account of himself in either the 100-, 220- or 440-yard races. He won the 220-yard event at the AAU's this season.

Bill Underhill of Colgate should have an easy time coping the fancy diving event since he was able to defeat both Bill "Pappy" Gillard (since graduated) and Ed Gozigian last season in the Colgate pool.

Another Red Raider the Piety swimmers must cope with is Bill Grohe who swims in both the individual medley and on the relay team. He had a time of 1:34.6 in the individual medley race at Yale.

Coach Ted Webster of Syracuse calls the Maroons a "good solid club." He hasn't given up hopes for a victory, but realizes that his boys will have to show more than they have to date to come up with a win.

BOB DOWNING, top performer on the Hill swim team this year, shouldn't have much trouble keeping his winning streak alive in the 200-yard backstroke. The only one who might give him a little trouble in this event is Dick Cooledge of Colgate.

Cooledge is also a pretty good freestyler and will probably be used in the 50- and 100-yard races. It's up to Bob Beaumont of Syracuse to stop him in these events.

A freshman swimming meet between Colgate and Syracuse will precede the varsity encounter. It is slated to begin at 2:00 p.m. and is rated a toss-up since both squads have a few top performers but little depth.

Matmen Face Army In Final Home Battle

By ALEX STRASSER
Daily Orange Junior Editor

The Syracuse wrestlers close their 1953-54 home dual meet season this Saturday when they play host to the Army grapplers in Archbold gymnasium at 2:30 p.m. A frosh meet against Oswego State Teachers college at 1 p.m. will precede the varsity match.

Saturday's match will be the last one in Archbold gymnasium for Orange senior Hank Gobetz. Along with Ed Rooney, George Finck and Tom King. Gobetz has formed the nucleus around which McDaniel was forced to form the team, following the loss of six lettermen earlier in the year.

THE REMAINDER of the lineup will be the same as the one that saw action against Lehigh last weekend. Johnny Husband will once again hold down the 123 pound slot, followed by Ed Weisz, King and Garland Harris at the 130, 137 and 147 pound positions.

Co-Capt. Ed Rooney will handle the 157-pound chores, followed by Gobetz, Murry Weiner and George Finck at the 167, 177 and heavyweight classes.

The Hillmen have taken the measure of the Cadets in five of their six previous meetings, but this year Army is favored to top the Orange.

Coach McDaniel's charges won their first two outings against Cortland and Temple, only to drop their next four matches to Michigan, Franklin & Marshall, Penn State and Lehigh in that order.

PETER FIKARIS at 137, Gerald Tebben at 157, Dave Ward at 167 and Gerald Dodge at the heavyweight position promise to give the Orange the greatest trouble.

Fikaris will be meeting one of the better Orange grapplers in the person of King, while Tebben will meet Rooney. The Orange co-captain has yet to lose a dual meet contest. Last year, Rooney defeated Tebben but the Cadet grappler has improved greatly this year and will give Rooney his toughest match yet according to Orange mentor Joe McDaniel.

Last year, Tebben gained the 167-pound finals of the Eastern Intercollegiates and should his knee hold out he will be in the running again this year.

Orange Trackmen Compete in IC4A's

62 Squads Entered In Indoor Races

The culmination of the current indoor track season arrives tomorrow night when Syracuse's two-mile relay team meets its sternest test of the year in the IC4A championships at Madison Square Garden.

Sixty-two teams will compete in the top indoor meet of the season. Representing the Orange will be the relay team of Jack Hubbard, Les Vielbig, Don Shupe and Steve Armstrong. Coach Bob Grieve also plans to run Ray Osterhout in the two mile plus Frank Calzi and Jim George in the one mile event.

The Orange relay will be out to equal its record of 7:41.6 set two weeks ago in the New York Athletic Club meet. The mark also tied the current IC4A record currently held by Georgetown.

Running against the Grievemen will be such track powers as Manhattan, Cornell, Yale, Fordham and Georgetown. Over 14 teams are entered in the two-mile relay alone so that heats will have to be run.

According to Grieve, both the relay and Osterhout have an excellent chance to capture coveted gold medals. The Syracuse coach expects both Yale and Fordham to break up their relay teams in going after the team championship.

Following the eyeces, the baton boys run at Hamilton, Ontario and in New York before closing out the schedule.

ZBT Whips Beta in Hoop Acti

Zeta Beta Tau 21, Beta Theta Pi 17.

Aces 24, Bureaucrats 12.

Skytop M-3 27, Skytop M-8 25.

Skytop M-1 over Levi Morton (forfeit).

Sigma Alpha Epsilon 22, Zeta Psi 17.

Skytop M-10 40, Skytop M-6 24.

Skytop M-7 28, Benjamin Odell 16.

Livingstone 24, Rockets 18.

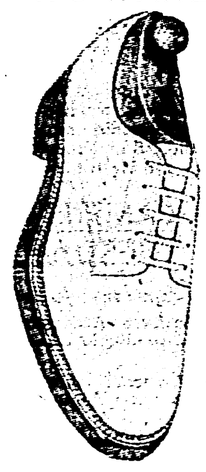
CELTICS BEAT NATS

Coming from behind in the last half, the Boston Celtics scored a 101-96 victory over the Syracuse Nats in National Basketball association action at the War Memorial last night. The victory pulled the Celts within a half game of the second place Syracusans in the Eastern division.

Bill Sharman led the visitors attack with 26 points while Dolph Schayes recorded 28 markers for the losers.

Flowers for all Occasions
Corsages — Weddings
Cut Flowers
FLOWERS by MARIE
948 E. Genesee St.,
75-4393
(Member of Student-Discount Service)

MEMORY LANE
INVITES YOU TO AN AFTERNOON OF DIXIELAND
LOU DESANTIS
AND HIS DIXIE-LAND JAZZ FIVE
SUNDAY, 3:30 to 7:30
2849 South Salina Street Phone 75-9549

IT'S WHITE BUCK TIME AGAIN


WHEN THE WEATHER IS FOUL AND SLOPPY
AND SO WONDERFULLY MEANT FOR DUCKS,
THEN TAKE STOCK;
MAKE EVERYONE HAPPY
AND EASILY
DIRTY YOUR BUCKS!
LUND'S
UNIVERSITY MEN'S SHOP
-- ON CAMPUS --
738 So. Crouse Ave. Phone 75-1459

Tonight... Let's Dance!

To the Scintillating rhythms of
Johnny Francher's Band
Smooth dance music, delightful supertime snacks, superb drinks.
You'll have a wonderful evening
And how about giving "tonight out" a big sendoff with dinner
Dance every weekend at the Travel Room!
Travel Room* Hotel Onondaga
PAT MILLER V.P. & GEN. MGR.

CADILLAC
LOUNGE and RESTAURANT
515 West Genesee Street
• New Policy •
Red Thomas Playing
At Our Cocktail Hour, 4-7
Also Playing Nightly From 9 P.M.
Remember Us
After That Special Date
THOMAS RESTANI — Your Host
Dancing—This Sunday
at the
CADILLAC LOUNGE & RESTAURANT
ENTERTAINMENT NIGHTLY

MUSIC
As You Like It
by
The Tony Riposo QUARTET
Featuring
Lovely
★ ANNA MARIE
Winner of
Chance of a Lifetime

Friday, Saturday, Sunday Night
Special Food Prices for Hill Students
CASABLANCA
253 East Water Street Phone 3-9512

ARTISTS -- STOP -- READ -- AND

TO QUALITY SUPPLIES
ALPHA COLOR CHALK PASTELS—12 colors, from 50c
24 Colors, from 90c
DEVOE ACADEMIC WATER COLORS—Many Shades 20c Tube
ARTISTS OILS and MEDIUMS—in 2¾ oz., Pints, Qts.
ALPHACOLOR DRY TEMPERA—
High Quality—All Purpose
• also •
CANVASES, PALETTES, CANVAS BOARDS
BARDEEN'S
543 EAST GENESEE STREET

"Shop Where The College Shops"
RCA VICTOR RECORD SALE ENDS FEB. 27
Buy Now and Save up to ⅓ on Classical and Original Cast Long Play Albums
HURRY! HURRY! ONLY 2 DAYS REMAINING
Albums Regularly $5.72 to $5.95*
SALE PRICE 3.99*
*Federal Tax Included.
OLMSTED'S VICTROLA SHOP
754 S. CROUSE AVE. PHONE 4-7478

Collegiate Boxing Tonight Over
WAER 8:20 p.m. 88.1 FM

Schine's ECKEL NOW PLAYING
CAROL REED'S Supreme Adventure in Suspense!
The MAN BETWEEN
JAMES MASON
CLAIRE BLOOM • HILDEGARDE NEFF
A Lopert Film Release

遠東
Serving Mandarin Dinner
At All Times
There's Nothing to Equal
The Food at The
FAR EAST
121 W. ONONDAGA ST.
Chinese and American Cuisine
EXPERTLY PREPARED GRACIOUSLY SERVED
Open Week Days & Saturdays 11 A.M. to 12 P.M.
Sundays 12 Noon-Midnight Tel. 3-9880

Don't Look Now, But
ARE YOUR PAPERS SHOWING?
• DON'T BE A SLOB ABOUT CAMPUS •
Come In Today — See Our Fine Stock Of ZIPPER NOTE BOOKS
LEATHER BRIEF CASES
THE CORNER STORE
Since 1908

DRUMLINS
Dancing Every Saturday Night
One of the Largest Ballrooms
in Central New York
Williamson's Parisians☆ Dick Kowell's Orchestra
Tomorrow Night Dick Kowell's Orchestra
$1.75 per couple (tax inc.)
City Bus Marked Drumlins
Dancing 8:30 to 12:30

TOPS IN TOWN FOR FUN AT THE CLOVER CLUB
featuring
RAY CALDIERO
and his ALL-CAMPUS FOUR
DANCING
Friday & Saturday 9-1
NO COVER CHARGE
NO ADMISSION

Sunday-Nite Special!!
JAM SESSION--DANCING
—and on the horn—
Ray Caldiero
From 6:30 to 10:00 P.M.
The CLOVER CLUB
Almond & Cedar Sts. Reservations Phone 75-9612

Committee Plans Second Dance For Women's Building Tonight

Variety Dance, the second in a series of dances sponsored by the Student Activities committee, will be held from 8:15 p.m. to midnight today in the dance studio of the Women's building.

A jazz concert on records, in addition to classical music and musical comedy records, will be held in the lounge during the mixer dance.

THE SERIES of dances was begun upon request of student leaders Mary Anne Dalton and Stanley Leff o the Women's building policy board which then sanctioned the formation of SAC.

The members of SAC were appointed by Miss Dalton and Leff to make plans for the dances, in addition to other activities which they might deem necessary.

The members include: Merle Banke, Marley Barkley, Nancy Boerner, Ann McKaig, Jerry Gerber, Roger Herz, Arthur Kinney, and John de Palma. Advisors for the group are Miss Margaret Parker, University social director, and Mrs. Margaret Bonisteel, assistant director of the Women's building.

The stag or drag dances are free of charge to any student upon the producing of an Identification card. Dress should be informal.

REFRESHMENTS, FEATURing home-made cookies, will be served tonight.

Women's student government also recently passed a resolution to be sent to the administration requesting that space be allocated in the basement of the Women's building for a student activities center.

This activities center would include a large lounge and dance floor, surrounded by several smaller rooms for meetings and other activities.

Piper Tells Story In New Magazine

Dr. Raymond F. Piper of the philosophy department has written the lead article in this week's "Psychic Observer," a publication on spiritualism.

Dr. Piper tells of his experiences on a recent visit to Chesterfield, Ind.

He describes the camp as "an important continuing laboratory of psychic phenomena."

The leaders of this camp, writes Dr. Piper, have as their prime goal the establishment of metaphysical principles, especially concerning the invisible world.

These principles, according to Dr. Piper, are to be so verified, valuable, and universal that any religion or philosophy which seeks significant and complete truths about reality may incorporate them.

Senior show committee chairmanships interviews will be held at 3:15 p.m. Tuesday at Alpha Xi Delta. All those who have applied are requested to attend or contact John Beach at Phi Gamma Delta or Barbara Suchy at Delta Gamma. Any other students interested may also attend at this time.

Daily Orange business staff pictures will be taken today for the ON at 3 p.m. at Hellbox.

Junior officer meeting of Civil Service of MSG at 3 p.m., prefab 30.

Senior commissioners meeting of Civil Service of MSG, 3:30 p.m., prefab 30.

Panel secretary meeting of Civil Service of MSG, 2 p.m., prefab 30.

Joint meeting of Eta Pi Upsilon, Tau Theta Upsilon, Phi Kappa Alpha Saturday at 10:30 a.m. in City Women's lounge, Women's building.

Auditions for S.U. Review, 4-6 p.m., Sims III. Anyone who can't come should contact Merry Dash, Iota Alpha Pi, 4-9516.

All those interested on working on entertainment committee for Frosh weekend notify Guy Geleerd, ZBT, 4-9508.

Frosh weekend date bureau committee urgent meeting, 4-5 p.m., Room 303, Women's building.

Intervarsity Christian Fellowship Friday, 7:30, Chapel lounge. Films "Radio Station TIFC" put out by Latin America Mission will be shown. All are welcome.

JSF Friday evening services at 7:15 p.m. at the Chapel. Dr. Fred Krinsky will speak on the "Jewish Concept of the Chosen People."

All Onondagan junior staff wanting pictures in yearbook, please report to the Castle at 4 p.m. today.

Step singing song leaders' meeting, 5 p.m., 111 Maxwell.

Daily Orange sports staff meeting, 3:30 p.m. ON picture will be taken.

Orange Key, 10 p.m., Sunday, Phi Gamma Delta house.

PALSY PARTY

Sigma Alpha Mu's fifth annual party for the children of the Cerebral Palsy clinic in Syracuse, will be held at 2 p.m. today at the SAM house, 712 Comstock ave.

Come On Down To
DEB'S
DRIVE-IN LOUNGE
SERVING THE BEST IN
HOME COOKED FOOD
"The Hill Rendezvous"
Bottom of Crouse Hill
On Erie Blvd.
ALL LEGAL BEVERAGES

CAROMA
A Restaurant of Distinction
Steaks - Chops - Broilers
Italian Cuisine Our Specialty
Baked Lasagna—Raviola—Cacciatore—Hot Pizza
402 Lodi 74-2119

Brotherhood Dinner Planned for Sunday

Rep. Walter H. Judd, Republican from Minnesota, will speak at the sixth annual Brotherhood banquet at 5:30 p.m. Sunday in Sims dining hall.

Dean Charles C. Noble of Hendricks chapel will be toastmaster of the affair which is devoted to the sponsoring and promoting of brotherhood on the Syracuse campus.

THE CHAPEL choir, under the direction of Prof. Arthur Poister, will sing at the dinner and WAER plans to broadcast Rep. Judd's speech at 8:05 p.m.

The speaker, graduated from the University of Nebraska in 1920, received his doctor of medicine degree in 1923. He spent the next two years as travelling secretary for the Student Volunteer movement.

After 13 years in China as a medical missionary, Rep. Judd toured the United States in 1938 lecturing in favor of boycotting Japan and placing an embargo on war materials to that country. He was first elected to Congress in 1943.

Last year 640 students heard Dr. Mordecai Johnson of Howard university speak at the banquet which has been called "an indication of the friendly and cooperative spirit prevailing on the campus." In 1952 Charles Taft was the principal speaker.

SEATED AT the head table will be Rabbi Irwin Hyman, Dean Ruth Haddock, Henry Einhorn, Patricia Roden, Vice-chancellor Finla G. Crawford, James Fellows, Rep. Judd, Alice Paltz, Dean Noble, Ann Forest, Dean Frank P. Piskor, and Rev. Wesley Konrad.

The banquet is supported by All-chapel assembly which is composed of representatives from Chapel board, Protestant council and Jewish Student fellowship.

Alice Plaiz and James Fellows are co-chairmen of the annual event. Assisting them are Ruth Savage and Martin Gussow, arrangements; Sarah Hoople and Satoru Tsufura; design and decorations; Mary Ann Lana, publicity; Arthur Kinney and Winifred Bogardus, programs; Barbara Anderson and George Bulin, tickets.

WAER PROGRAM SCHEDULE

AFTERNOONS
MONDAY-FRIDAY
3:00—World news
3:05—Symphonic matinee
4:00—This I Believe
4:05—Musical Heritage
5:30—Dinner Date: music
6:00—Evening Extra: news
6:15—Dinner Date
6:30—Sports Lineup

FRIDAY EVENING
6:45—United Nations Story
7:00—Proudly We Hail
7:30—Meet the Composer
8:00—Evening With Music
8:20—Syracuse-Wisconsin Boxing
10:00—News and Sports

SATURDAY
3:00—World News
3:05—Music for You
4:00—Saturday Matinee: music
5:00—Dinner Date: music
6:00—Evening Extra: news
6:15—Syracuse-Colgate Basketball: Freshman and Varsity
10:00—Final Edition: news

SUNDAY
3:00—World News
3:05—Sunday Symphony
4:00—Crouse Concert
5:30—Dinner Date: music
6:00—Evening Extra
6:10—Inside City Hall
6:20—Sports
6:30—Chicago Round Table
7:00—WAER News
7:05—Symphony Hall
8:00—News
8:05—Brotherhood Banquet
9:00—Opera House
10:00—Your Show
10:10—WAER News
10:15—WAER Sports

A Phi O Will Hold Pledge Ceremony

Alpha Phi Omega, service fraternity, will hold pledging ceremonies at 7:30 p.m., tomorrow at the Founder's room in Maxwell.

Prof. Robert Williams of the forestry college and will give an illustrated talk on the work of the council.

Anyone who is interested may attend. Officers' meeting will precede at 7 p.m.

Grants In Sweden Available to Grads

Graduate fellowships for study in Sweden are available to graduating seniors. The grants cover room, board and tuition for the winners at the University of Stockholm or Gothenburg as well as other colleges.

An adequate knowledge of the Swedish language is required of applicants. Transportation expenses to and from Sweden must be paid by the student.

Applications are due March 1. Further information may be obtained from Earle W. Clifford at the Dean of Men's office.

Now MIDTOWN Open 6:30 P.M.
LAST DAY "HAMLET"
STARTS SATURDAY

The Lavender Hill Mob
ALEC GUINNESS
A J. Arthur Rank Organization Presentation
2nd Midtown Hit
J. ARTHUR RANK presents
BASIL RADFORD and JOAN GREENWOOD
TIGHT LITTLE ISLAND
A UNIVERSAL-INTERNATIONAL RELEASE

WAER...

(Continued from page 1)

banquet and notable speakers who come to campus are also being made.

The present WAER staff, under the program director and faculty manager Edward Jones, includes Elliot Spiro, chief engineer; Robert Martindale, chief announcer and Richard Ballentine, news director.

Also James McNerney, the sports director; Kenneth Gilchrist, associate sports director; Ransom Place, special events director; Phyllis Perkins, musical director; Kenneth Sparks, publicity; Phyllis Lavine, traffic director; Inez France, continuity director; Edward Rasch, production director; Donald Lloyd, music librarian and William Lape, personnel director.

FLOWERS TELEGRAPHED
J. ALLEN DEAL
734 So. Crouse On the Hill

SCHINE'S STARTS TODAY
PARAMOUNT
THE STORY OF A LOVE THAT MADE WONDERFUL MUSIC!
JAMES STEWART
JUNE ALLYSON
in GLENN MILLER STORY
Technicolor

HEAR THE MEMORABLE GLENN MILLER HITS!
with CHARLES DRAKE • GEORGE TOBIAS • HENRY MORGAN
Their Musical "Cream" on Cloud Seven!
FRANCES LANGFORD • LOUIS ARMSTRONG • GENE KRUPA
BEN POLLACK • THE MODERNAIRES
A UNIVERSAL-INTERNATIONAL PICTURE
Also "BLACK FURY" in color

REGENT
ON OUR GIANT NEW MAGNAVUE SCREEN
THURS.-SAT.
Cornel Wilde Rita Gam
"SAADIA"
also
"SKY COMMAND"
Dan Duryea
STARTS SUNDAY
"HERE COME THE GIRLS"
Bob Hope Arlene Dahl
Tony Martin Rosemary Clooney
Color by Technicolor
also
"APPOINTMENT IN HONDURAS"
Glenn Ford Ann Sheridan
Color by Technicolor

Engineering representatives of
PRATT & WHITNEY AIRCRAFT
will be on the campus
March 5
to interview
AERONAUTICAL METALLURGICAL
ELECTRICAL MECHANICAL
PHYSICS
ENGINEERING GRADUATES
Please See Your
COLLEGE PLACEMENT OFFICER
for an appointment on
March 5, 1954

SENIORS and GRADUATE STUDENTS
When you come with IBM
you'll want to stay!
There are good reasons why IBM personnel turnover is less than 1/7 the national average! Here they are: Challenging opportunities • Merit advancement • Growing company • Progressive management • Good salaries • Continuous educational program • Exceptional employee benefits • Congenial working and living conditions.
Examine the facts about International Business Machines, leading manufacturer of Electronic Digital Computers, Electronic and Electric Accounting Machines; Time Indicating, Production Recording, and Signaling Devices, and Electric Typewriters.
CAMPUS INTERVIEWS
TUESDAY, MARCH 2
If your degree or major is — Make appointment to see:
Arts • Business • Accounting Science • Engineering — IBM Sales representative
Physical Science Mathematics • Engineering — IBM Applied Science representative
Physics • Mechanical Electrical • Mathematics — IBM Engineering representative
Industrial • Electrical Mechanical — IBM Manufacturing representative
Accounting • Administration Management — IBM Business Administration representative
Call your College Placement Office for Appointment

FRIDAY
SATURDAY
AT 8:30
LYSISTRATA
A Few Seats Available For This Week's Performances
Seats Now On Sale for Next Week's Performances
Wed.--Sat.
All Seats $1.00
$1.50 At
Drama Box Office

CLASSIFIED ADS

IMPORTANT NOTICE—CLASSIFIED ADS to appear in this paper should be DELIVERED at the HELLBOX Classified desk between 1 and 3 p. m. NO ADS WILL BE ACCEPTED AFTER 3. ALL ADS MUST BE IN 2 DAYS IN ADVANCE. For further information call 4-7206.

ALL LOST ARTICLES should be turned into the CENTRAL LOST AND FOUND ROOM, 20 Bldg. 24 at 205 University Pl. Articles can be claimed there.

TYPEWRITERS RENTED: $3.00 per month, $8 3 months. Good selection. We deliver, Smith Brothers. 4-8833.

STUDENTS! Relax. Paw around in our mass of Dusty Old Books. Sylvester's Book Shop, 116 West Washington St., 2nd floor.

YOUNG MEN OR WOMEN, full or part time, pleasant working conditions in any one of our 7 Hour stores. Apply 731 W. Genesee.

ALTERATIONS DONE WITHIN A DAY: 4-5847. 5 minutes from campus. Lillian Potter, 207 Comstock Ave.

EXPERT Typing done in my home. 4-4220. Mrs. E. Garelick.

YOUNG WOMAN for night care, partial invalid. Opportunity for sleep and home privileges for grad student or woman with short hour job. Call 75-7535.

FOR SALE: Brand new men's suit, size 39. Dark blue. Cost $55. Will sell $35. Phone 9-7581.

SELL—ZEISS TENAX, FULLY AUTOMATIC 35 mm SEQUENCE CAMERA, f/3.5 NOVAR COATED. Ernie Hobbs Jr. 65-8293.

Typewriters rentals—New Models Reasonable Rates—Expert Service, All Makes—CORNER STORE.

WANTED: Actors, Composer, Choreographer, Technicians. Scene designer to work on private production of original, experimental drama. If interested call 4-9849, 8-10 any evening. Ask for Samuels.

NEAT and accurate typing done at home. Phone 3-2901.

EXPERT TYPING, theses and term papers. Mrs. Raymond Webb, 2-1884.

MIMEOGRAPHING, SAME DAY SERVICE, EXCELLENT WORK FREEMAN LETTER CO., ECKEL THEATER BLDG. 2-4829.

MAR

On the Inside
Dramatic Society's 50th Anniversary, see pages 4 and 5.

SYRACUSE Daily Orange

Boar's Head Anniversary Edition

Vol. 51, No. 79 | Syracuse, N. Y., Monday, March 1, 1954 | 8 Pages—5 Cents

Dance Instruction Scheduled to Begin Next Wednesday

Activities Committee Sponsors Classes In Women's Building

Weekly dance classes are scheduled to begin Wednesday, according to Miss Margaret Parker, social director of the University.

The classes will be held from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. in the Women's building. No admission will be charged.

Originally sponsored by the now defunct Student Union, the dance classes have been resumed upon the advice of the student activities committee of the Women's building.

The instructors for the classes will be F. Walter Medicis and Jane Russell. Medicis, a University purchasing agent, has been an instructor since they began in the Union when it was located in the old Boar's Head building upon which site the special education building is located. Medicis continued teaching when the Union was moved to University pl. and then to S. Crouse ave.

A senior in the College of Fine Arts, Miss Russell has taught the classes for several years, both at the University pl. and the S. Crouse ave. sites of the Union. Last year she was in charge of a student instructors' staff for the classes.

Both beginners and advanced students will be given lessons in the fox trot, waltz, tango, rhumba, and lindy.

St. Patrick's Party Tickets Go On Sale

Tickets for the annual St. Thomas More chapel St. Patrick's day party, scheduled for March 17, will go on sale this week, co-chairmen Anthony Ponturiero and Shirley Lemax have announced.

The tickets, priced at 75 cents each, will be available from committee and executive council members and St. Thomas More.

Working with Ponturiero and Miss Lemax on the party are: Judith Sliney and Helen Bowka, food; James Curley and Mary Lynn Miller, entertainment; John Babarovic and Rosemary Ferris, decorations; Marie Basil, publicity; Thomas O'Sullivan and Jean Burns, tickets.

IFC Sing Entries Deadline Today

Applications for the IFC sing are due today and should be turned in to Deane Lavender at the Delta Upsilon house, 426 Ostrom ave.

The sing will be held at 7:15 p.m. in Hendricks chapel on March 9, 10, 16, and 17 and possibly March 30 and 31 depending upon the number of entires. All entries should be accompanied with $2.

As in the past judges will be mostly from the School of Music. Since there were 12 entries last year and the year before it is expected there will be about the same number this year, Lavender said.

Congratulations

COL. ROBERT P. HALLORAN, professor of air science and tactics, congratulates new cadet Col. ROBERT LEBERMAN, on his appointment and upon receiving the first of the new "prospective flight cadet badges" that will be worn by advanced corps AFROTC cadets who have applied and are eligible for flight training. Staff Photo by Richard Green

Frosh Males Will Vie For Mayor of 'Mars'

"Mr. Universally Yours,' the Mayor of Martian street, will be honored at the freshman weekend semi-formal, Saturday, March 13.

Theme of the dance, which ties in with the "Out of this World" weekend theme of outer space, is a college cown of the outer universe, as announced by Barbara Murray and Richard Greenberg, dance chairmen.

THE MAYOR of Martian street will be chosen from the freshmen men in Skytop, Collendale, Washington Arms and fraternity pledge classes. Circulars explaining the contest were distributed last weekend, and application forms must be submitted by Tuesday noon to Ruth Anderson, KKG or Butler cottage, or Jerry Parmet, ZBT or Skytop M-6.

Names of all the candidates nominated will be published in Wednesday's DO, and all will attend a preliminary elimination Wednesday night.

Ballotting on the finalists for the "Mr. Universally Yours" title will take place in all freshman dorms at Sunday night housemeetings. Groups supporting the nominees should campaign by posters or stunts any time before the Sunday voting.

Freshman Staff Meeting Today; Attendance Urged

An important meeting of the DO freshman staff will be held today at 4 p.m. prior to the freshman class in 104, Castle.

Plans for the freshman edition of the paper will be discussed at this time. All freshmen staffers must attend.

Student Retailer May Win Grant

A $600 scholarship will be awarded to a graduating woman senior for one year of professional graduate study leading to a degree of Master of Science in Retailing.

Study will be taken at the New York University School of Retailing, announced Mrs. Blanche Mandell Colby, president of the American Woman's Buyers club.

All graduaing woman seniors interested in retailing are urged to see Miss Joan Carlson on the third floor of Slocum hall.

Chest Donations Due Wednesday

Despite rumors to the contrary, this year's Campus Chest drive will continue until Wednesday, according to co-chairmen JoAnn Swalm and Stuart Parker. All individuals or organizations who have not yet been contacted will be approached by that time.

Today's highlight will be the Faculty drive held throughout the campus

Fund for Education Increased by Gift

Ford Foundation awarded $25,000,000 Saturday, to its subsidiary, the Fund for the Advancement of Education. This has been the greatest single grant in the foundation's history.

Part of this allocation will be used for scholarships to various schools.

According to Clarence H. Faust, the president of the fund, the aims include, "giving attention to all levels of education, authorizing studies of goals in education and educational programs, and encouraging experimentation for which there are no other funds."

Coeds' AFROTC Will Hold Rusher

Angel's Flight, newly organized auxiliary to Air Force ROTC, will hold its first rusher from 7 to 9 p.m. tomorrow in the Alumni Lounge of Maxwell.

Purpose of the organization is to promote better understanding between the military services and coeds who will be wives or sweethearts of servicemen.

Semester plans include hostess duty at the military ball, trick drilling and participating in regular ROTC classes. Further information can be obtained from Ann Middleton, 801 Walnut ave., 76-2207.

Leberman Receives First 'Flight Badge'

Presentation Made By Col. Halloran

Robert Leberman, new Air Force ROTC cadet colonel, received the first "prospective flight cadet badge" Friday. Col. Robert P. Halloran, professor of air science and tactics, made the presentation in an informal ceremony in his office.

The badge, recently introduced nationallly, has become an immediate success in AFROTC detachments, according to Maj. Robert E. Wood, public information officer. It is a replica of the silver wings worn by rated pilots and observers; however, the cadet badge consists of a "half wing" attached to a star.

WOOD SAID Friday that advanced corps cadets that have made formal application and are eligible for flight training can wear the badge. This will lend exclusiyeness to the emblem.

Cadet Col. Leberman stated, "It is my desire that all qualified AFROTC students at Syracuse wear this insignia."

Capt. Smith VonFossen, commandant of cadets, said Leberman will be commanding officer of the cadet corps, which for the first time on any AFROTC campus, is virtually completely cadet-run.

Leberman, he said, succeeds January grad John Forgette. The new cadet colonel is a Varsity grid star, a member of Psi Upsilon fraternity; member of Tau Theta Upsilon, senior men's honjunior men's honorary; member of Scabbard and Blade, national military honorary; and last semester was designated a Distinguished Military student. He recently signed a pro grid contract with Baltimore.

His staff, Leberman said, will be the same as last semester's. Juniors, he added, will be given "on the job" responsibility to ready them for staff positions next year. The cadet staff will be responsible for drills, schedules, reviews, promotions and ceremonies.

Hill Outing Club Festival to Feature Esperanto Theme

Presbyterian Counselor Highlights Dances At Annual Show

Rev. Arnold Nakajima will be the master of ceremonies for the sixth annual Syracuse university Outing Club Folk Festival, March 6.

The festival, which is sponsored by the Outing Club, will take place from 1 to 5 p.m. and 7:30 to 11:30 p.m., March 6 in the large gym of the Women's building.

THIS YEAR'S theme is "Esperanto," meaning international language. Last year the festival attracted over 900 people. It began five years ago and since has become a widely-known event.

General dancing for everyone will take place in the afternoon while demonstrations of foreign dancing will be shown at night.

Dancers will represent many countries in Europe and Asia and the United States and Mexico. The demonstrators will be coming from local and out-of-state college folk dance groups, ethnic groups and the Syracuse Outing Club.

Participants will come from Cornell, University of Rochester, University of Buffalo and University of Pennsylvania. Coming from the ethnic groups in the city is the American Scottish Pipe Band featuring Cathy Walker doing the Highland Fling.

Displays of foreign costumes and handiwork will be shown in the lounge and there will be refreshments served tieing in with the foreign theme. Scottish pies and German cookies are two examples.

Chairmen Named For 'Up in Lights'

Committee chairmanships for the senior show, "Up in Lights," have been announced by senior class President John Beach.

Maria Heitz and Sondra Elster have been appointed co-chairmen of the promotion committee. Miss Heitz, a junior in Liberal Arts, will be in charge of campus promotions. Miss Elster, also a junior in Liberal Arts, will be in charge of public relations work with the downtown area.

The arrangements committee chairman is Joyce Grossman. She will be in charge of the seating facilities of the theater.

Theodore Levesen and Marilyn Rockino have been appointed co-chairmen of the programs. Levesen will be in charge of the advertising and production work, while Miss Rockino will hed the layout and art work.

The ticket sales divisions, under the box office managership of Clifford Way, also have been chosen. They include: Joan Abbott, sorority; William Christensen, fraternity: Lois Primas, independent; Dorothy Leonard, campus; and Francis Meiselman, theater division sales.

Anyone interested in working on any of these committees are requested to get in contact with the chairmen.

SYRACUSE DAILY ORANGE

THREE R'S OF A COLLEGE NEWSPAPER: RESPONSIVENESS, RESPONSIBILITY AND RESOURCEFULNESS

Page 2 Monday, March 1, 1954

Editor-in-chief ---------- Arlene Lambert
Business Manager ---------- Robert Goldstein

SENIOR EDITORIAL STAFF

Managing Editor ---------- Arthur Siegel
Editorial Director ---------- Hugh O. Muir
Executive Editor ---------- Janet Caro
Sports Editor ---------- Kenneth Lent

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Edward Meyer, Joan Nadelhaft, Phyllis Sirota, Howard Vankirk, Mary Vivian

Issue Editor ---------- Joan Nadelhaft

BUSINESS STAFF

Asst. Business Manager ---------- Sheldon Lessen
Layout Manager ---------- Judith Berman
Classified Manager ---------- Jean Jacobs
Circulation Manager ---------- Anita Freyberg
Promotion Manager ---------- Lloyd Eisenberg

DAILY STAFF

News Editor ---------- Joan Nadelhaft
Night Editor ---------- John Johnsrud
Asst. Night Editor ---------- Eileen Chamberlain
Editorial Page Asst. ---------- Tom Long
Night Sports Editor ---------- Alex Strasser

Published by the students of Syracuse University.

Telephones: News, 75-5196, 75-5197; Editor, 76-1448; Business: 4-7206. Subscription by mail $6 per year, $3.50 per semester. Entered as second class mail matter at the Syracuse Post Office. Exclusive national advertising representatives National Advertising Inc., New York City.

Golden accolade

This is a tribute to the world of conciseness.

More precisely, it is an attempt at well-chosen words to help mark the fiftieth anniversary of Boar's Head.

The theater, and we mean the legitimate stage, has changed in the past fifty years not like an adolescent bounding into rash maturity. No, it has gone rather like the solid maturity of wizened age where the mind and preception sharpen while the physical structure may wane away.

At the turn of the century, the nation was poxed with some 5000 playhouses. Then, when Boar's Head began its struggle, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" still drew a serious crowd.

But now the theater has changed. It has solidified into a smaller yet more communicative medium. For now the professional playhouses number but in the 200's.

And Boar's Head remains. True, its bodily structure has hop-scotched from stage to stage. But it has become theater with a rather bold T. The reasons and events behind this particular stretch in stature are found on pages four and five of this paper.

But why theater at all? Ah, this is the question that has been answered in legion. They have become tomes which have become libraries in number. And we, who suffer the confines of some 50 lines of type, are met with a test of conciseness ourselves.

But it is this word conciseness that deserves top billing on any brochure on the theater. True, there is the lure of a glimpse of far-off lands, but frequently the set is one of a thousand main streets.

Then there is the grip of great worldly creatures. But we can pick our neighbor's idiosyncracies from the walk-on in the second act.

There is the presentation of tantalizing events . . . and there is the eternal triangle and thwarted love affair.

So the backbone of the theater plot is the scene in our own back yard. And we grouse about that enough in our half serious lives; why pay $3.50 for a first balcony scrutiny of what is usually a back window glance?

But the theater is concise. All the hum drum little minutes have been pared away. The monotonous hours of silence are not there. All the events that are our lives in diluted form are presented to us straight, without a water chaser.

So we commend to Boar's Head our thanks for fifty years of humanity in a capsule.

It needs no chain of laudatory adjectives before its name, for it is theater.

And Theater is the ringing accolade.

Editorial Director

ON BROTHERHOOD

IT'S ALL A MATTER OF JUSTICE

By POLLY REED

Wesley Robert Wells, a 44-year-old Negro prisoner at San Quentin prison in California, may die on April 9 for throwing a cuspidor at a guard. The guard returned to work in five days.

Thus Wells may be executed though he took no human life.

At the age of 19, Wells was sent to San Quentin for stealing some clothing. He entered prison believing in his right to be treated with the dignity of a human being.

That belief is the story of a courageous battle against prison brutality and injustice.

Gov. Knight of California acknowledges this battle by pointing to Wells' record and calling him "incorrigible." Wells said of his record: "The 'record' gives no indication of the treatment I've received at the hands of my keepers . . . about the captain and lieutenant of the guard at Folsom prison beating me soft with a sawed-off baseball bat and a club because as they told me, 'You black . . . you think you are as good as a white man.'"

These are not empty words. The prison psychiatrist who examined Wells shortly before the cuspidor episode said in his appeal for a pardon: "He was conditioned from an early age of orphaned childhood to resist courageously 'Jim Crow' while struggling to make a precarious living. Unspeakable plots and cruelties practiced against him would have killed a weaker man."

What are these "unspeakable plots?"

Wells was condemned to die under a 52-year-old California law (being used for the first time) stating that any life prisoner who commits an assault with malice aforethought may be put to death.

Wells is not a life prisoner.

In 1944 Wells was attacked by a knife-wielding prisoner and used a knife in self-defense. He was given the automatic sentence of "not less than five years and not more than life."

Wells than discovered that by not fixing a definite number of years for sentence, he was subject to the status which makes it a capital offense for a life-term prisoner to commit an assault.

Wells was made a "life prisoner" by denying his due process of law!

Finally in 1947, Wells was put in solitary for arguing with a guard. He was examined by two prison doctors who reported the prisoner was suffering from "abnormal fears" and "required hospitalization." Wells stayed in solitary confinement.

Two days later he was taken to the warden to settle his dispute with the guard. During the discussion, Wells was put out into the hall. Then the guard stepped out, grinning. Wells hurled the cuspidor.

The plot had worked. Wells was on trial for his life.

A prison doctor was ready to testify at the trial that Wells was in a state of tension and fear for his life at the time of the assault. This would have erased the possibility of malice aforethought and acquitted Wells.

But the southern judge denied the doctor the stand. Wells was sentenced to die.

The California Supreme Court declared unanimously that the judge had erred in denying the doctor the stand.

But they voted four to three against reversing the sentence.

Wells faces death on April 9. Only a pardon from Gov. Knight can save him. Thousands of Californians are petitioning the Governor in the fight against the miscarriage of justice in which the underdog was denied every opportunity to exonerate himself.

Wells was even denied some of the rudimentary phases of American democratic justice which we take for granted are given to all citizens, without reference to race or creed or color.

This is Brotherhood week.

And this story is one example of how "brotherhood" lives in the minds and hearts of some people in parts of our "free" and "democratic" country.

AN EVENING OUT AT THE FLICKERS

'Sweet and Solid' Film; Found: Miller Mood

By CHARLES SAMUELS
Daily Orange Movie Critic

By DICK CASE
Editorial Page Writer

The sweetest music, the sweetest love songs, the sweetest directing and the sweetest acting jobs in a month of Sundays, Mondays, Tuesdays and on into the week; these are the ingredients of "The Glenn Miller Story", now playing at the Paramount. Lest we give you the idea that it is simply sugar-coated, we hasten to add that "The Glenn Miller Story" like Mr. Miller's music is sweet and solid.

The Miller boys: Jimmie and Glenn

The solidity, as far as the film is concerned, is a direct result of the script that Valentine Davies and Oscar Brodney have provided. It is a minor miracle; a film biography that is relaxed, artful and sincere. No shot of the hero catapulting to fame within a two-minute space of time, no heart-rending scene of his poor but honest family struggling to keep him fed; none of this standard tripe. "The Glenn Miller Story" is a leisurely depiction of the life of a first-rate musician. It strives not to be the great American saga, it simply strives to be straightforward and entertaining and it succeeds.

It takes really fine acting to make a film come alive and this one has that. It has James Stewart as Glenn Miller and it has June Allyson as his wife and it has them directed by Anthony Moann with sincerity, taste and humor.

"The Glenn Miller Story" affords us a refreshing reminder of the talents of James Stewart. To the part of Glenn Miller, Mr. Stewart brings a wealth of experience and technique and his own personal charm. But, he brings something else; the ability to make you believe that he is Miller. And when he says that music is his life and tells of his quest for the new sound, we not only believe him, we understand.

At this point we all bow our heads and pray that the Lord blesses us with a wife like June Allyson. If every male in the audience doesn't fall hopelessly in love with her, well—we just give up. A smile that out does any toothpaste manikin's by a wide, toothy margin, a low, throaty voice, a great infectious warmth and abundant acting talent—what more could one want. With June Allyson urging Miller to greatness one never doubts that he will succeed. Miss Allyson is "all things glad and beautiful."

Then we have the music. This reviewer's knowledge of jazz is painfully small and we respectfully direct you to the astute observations of our colleague Dick Case, but we do know that we were indubitably sent. Krupa, Armstrong, Miller—that was real gone (No inhibitions today). The scenes of Armstrong belting out "Basin Street Blues" and Miller charming an audience with "Moonlight Serenade" are treats for both the eye and the ear.

The scriptwriter's held back the urge to sentimentalia, with admirable tenacity until the end of the film and the result was a darn good cry for the female contingent. But they were obviously waiting for it. At any rate, "The Glen Miller Story" was a sweetheart of a film and it will send you out of the theater with that proverbial "warm glow."

An extremel overloaded traile of reverie drew up t the Paramount hous last Friday p.m to lighten its weigh of a package titled "The Glenn Miller" story. The pleasant thud was heard from lower Irving ave. to Mattydale, and then some.

"The Glenn Miller Story" is the eagerly and long-awaited film biography of the late band leader which came to celluloid only after great and thorough preparation by the Universal-International company and the Miller estate. Let it be known, at first, that this is the most musical musical of the varied lot from our Hollywood friends.

In examining the film for its music content, it is noted that the Miller story is a venture with a purpose; that of presenting an honest, almost accurate outline of a man of music. Therefore, sound has a great part here. Sound, in fact, carries everything along in the sweet, swinging manner that was Glenn Miller. Depicting as it does the life of a man who devoted his life to music and a sound, this factor is accepted quite without surprise.

Mr. Joseph Gershenson, musical director at U-I has done a quite remarkable job in finding the Miller mood and transferring it to the sound track of this picture, note for note. The only reason that original Glenn Miller recordings were not utilized is that they were too filled with surface interference for current high-quality sound tracks. So, Gershenson did the next best thing. And, with a highly successful result.

Another factor in favor of the musical portions is that they are performed in their entifety and not chopped in unpleasant segements for the sake of plot. This might have proven a small tragedy.

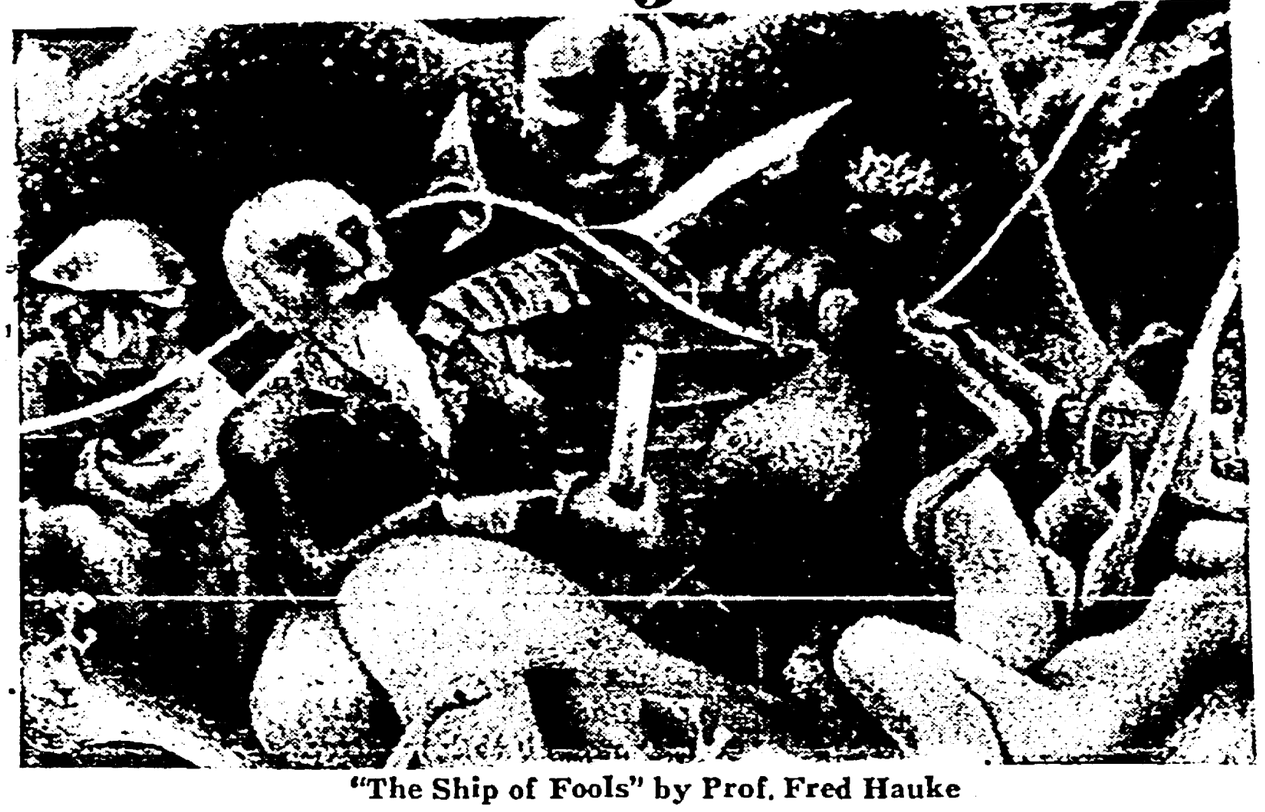
Especially "String of Pearls" in which Bobby Hackett's amazing trumpet bars are reproduced with surprising reality.

There was little liberty taken with the facts of Glenn Miller's life save for a bit of fantasy to spice things somewhat. The introductions of important musical personalities and the famed jam session injected a necessary bounce. The actors cast as musicians acted remarkably like musicians and Mr. James Stewart's characterization was extremely Miller-like.

All of this goes to say that "The Glenn Miller Story" is a faithful and a most artistic replica of the leader's life. The fact that music was made such a brilliant and important portion of the film is its prime reason for success.

Which makes us all the more grateful that when Alton Glenn Miller disappeared into the clouds of over Europe, he left his music behind him.

Like Entering a Cathedral



"The Ship of Fools" by Prof. Fred Hauke

By JOANNE HESS

Painting to stimulate thinking! A brand new door of art was opened to us when we talked to Fred Haucke, associate professor of the art school, whose words try to encourage self examination and understanding of life, instead of an escape from the world of reality. We, like most individuals, thought of painting as merely a colroful, decorative piece designed to help us briefly close our eyes to our problems. After viewing some of Professor Haucke's psychological mechanism, we decided that his works differed sharply from the average approach.

"I'd like my art to compare with entering a cathedral," he explained. "It should stimulate the person to self-analysis. I try to stress how it feels to be alive in this period, because I think it is an artist's duty to help people get acquainted with life. Most people want to escape and most art helps them to do so."

Professor Haucke, who was born in South Africa and educated in Germany, used to work in abnormal psychology. From this stems his interest in people and life. He feels it will be hard to succeed in the particular phase of art he has chosen, but he is determined to push his point of view in hopes that art will soon accomplsh what literature has done.

"Literature has gone far to express the sub-conscious elements in the mind," he told us. "Painting should do the same. I believe that art is an outgrowth of everyone, and a normal person needs a brief understanding of all the arts."

He went on to say that the art reviewers are dead against his work. Some call him a surrealist, but actually, he just tries to clarify life for people. His stressing of the psychological aspect has not been so keenly brought out by most other artists. However, some of the medieval and Renaissance painters, as well as some modern painters like Goerg and Belgian have aken this viewpoint.

Professor Haucke's congenial manner, yet determination to carry out his ambition convinced us hat someday, psychological painting will rank among the most noted works. After viewing some of his paintings, we became more sure of it. His favorite, "Ship of Fools," portrays characters of many special fields, adrift on the sea in a sinking vessel. This, along with nineteen other paintings, was curently on exhibit at the Creative Gallery in New York city. He intends to have several more displays all over the county wihtin the next few months.

The Dragon Hunters

By HOMER

(The scene is Camelot-on-the-Hill. We join a televised meeting of a sub-committee of the Knights of the Round Table. A major problem faces the group which is tensely discussing the dragon menace slithering through England. The permanent chairman, McModred, calls the meeting to order:)

Sir McM. (rapping his mace on the table) "Gentlemen, the 156th meeting of the Permanent Sub-committee on Dargon Activities will now convene. A major problem is creeping through our land. We loyal men of the Crown MUST meet this threat and destroy it!"

Sir Macarenlot: "We have the first witness without, Sir McModred. A horrible example of a horrible menace. Our men in the field have sought out, surrounded, and made captive an enemy of the state.

(Two yeahmen bring in a green scaly monster who glances apprehensively from side to side as he shuffles to his seat.)

Sir Dirklot: Be seated monster.

(The dragon's advisor, a wizened fellow with a long beard, jumps up . . .)

Maudlin: "I object!"

Sir Kirklot: "So do I. Sit down. Now, monster, you are accused with practicing the sulphury art of dragonism. Rafts of fair maidens have testified against you for your fiery activities. What have you to say?"

Alleged dragon: "Sir, I . . ."

Sir Veldelot: (with a sudden clanking of armor) "Say, is. that smoke coming from your nose!?"

A.D.: "ME . . . I gotta cig if you mean . . ."

Sir V.: "Ushers! The monster is threatening us with his own brand . . . of talk! He is obviously a dragon . . . look! look at the smoke!"

A.D.: "Say, look, if there is a 'no smoking' sign somewhere, I'm sorry . . ."

Sir McM.: "See here dragon . . ."

Maudlin: "I object . . . nobody has proved he's a dragon . . .!"

Sir McM.: "Eject that man from the room!"

(Maudlin suddenly waves his hand and vanishes in a cloud of smoke. Committee members flee for cover covering their noses with handkerchiefs. There are cries of "smoke, smoke! He's one too" . . . and the fury continues with harried TV cameramen trying to get a shot through the haze. When the fog clears, McModred is alone on the bench with the alleged dragon sitting rather solefully before him. And, of course, the cameramen are on the job.)

A.D.: "Say. I'm sorry about that, but . . ."

Sir McM.: "Let's get this over with. I have a tournament appointment in half an hour. Now, dragon, do you confess to having spread the dragonistic doctrine throughout the youth of our land by shipping volumes of subversive fairy tales to our schools and libraries."

A.D.: "Now look here . . . I'm no dragon . . . I'm just a marmot, I tell you, just a marmot . . . why I'm no more a dragon than . . ."

Sir McM.: "Guards. Contempt . . . contempt!, (get that camera a little closer, sonny, for a profile), GUARDS!!"

(Two yeahmen move forward and drag off the alleged dragon. There is a trail of cigarette ashes across the floor pointing a dusty grey arrow at McModred as he grins into the cameras for a fadeout.)

Whither February

March starts today and we dare say that many people will be glad. Why this attitude of "glad to see you go" about February. Why do we desire to be rid of this shortest of months?

Maybe it's the weather. We don't like snow and February is noted for the white stuff. Maybe it's registration and the tulmult and the strain. Maybe it's peoples inate desire to like things to come.

We have you there February detractors.

Beware the ides, and think of March 15.

How the stars got started.....

Vaughn Monroe says: "In high school, I spent all my spare time playing with local bands. I had a lot to learn before I could lead my own band. I studied singing; eventually did the vocals — and found that the colleges kind of liked my recordings. Been performing for 'em ever since!"

R. J. Reynolds Tob. Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.

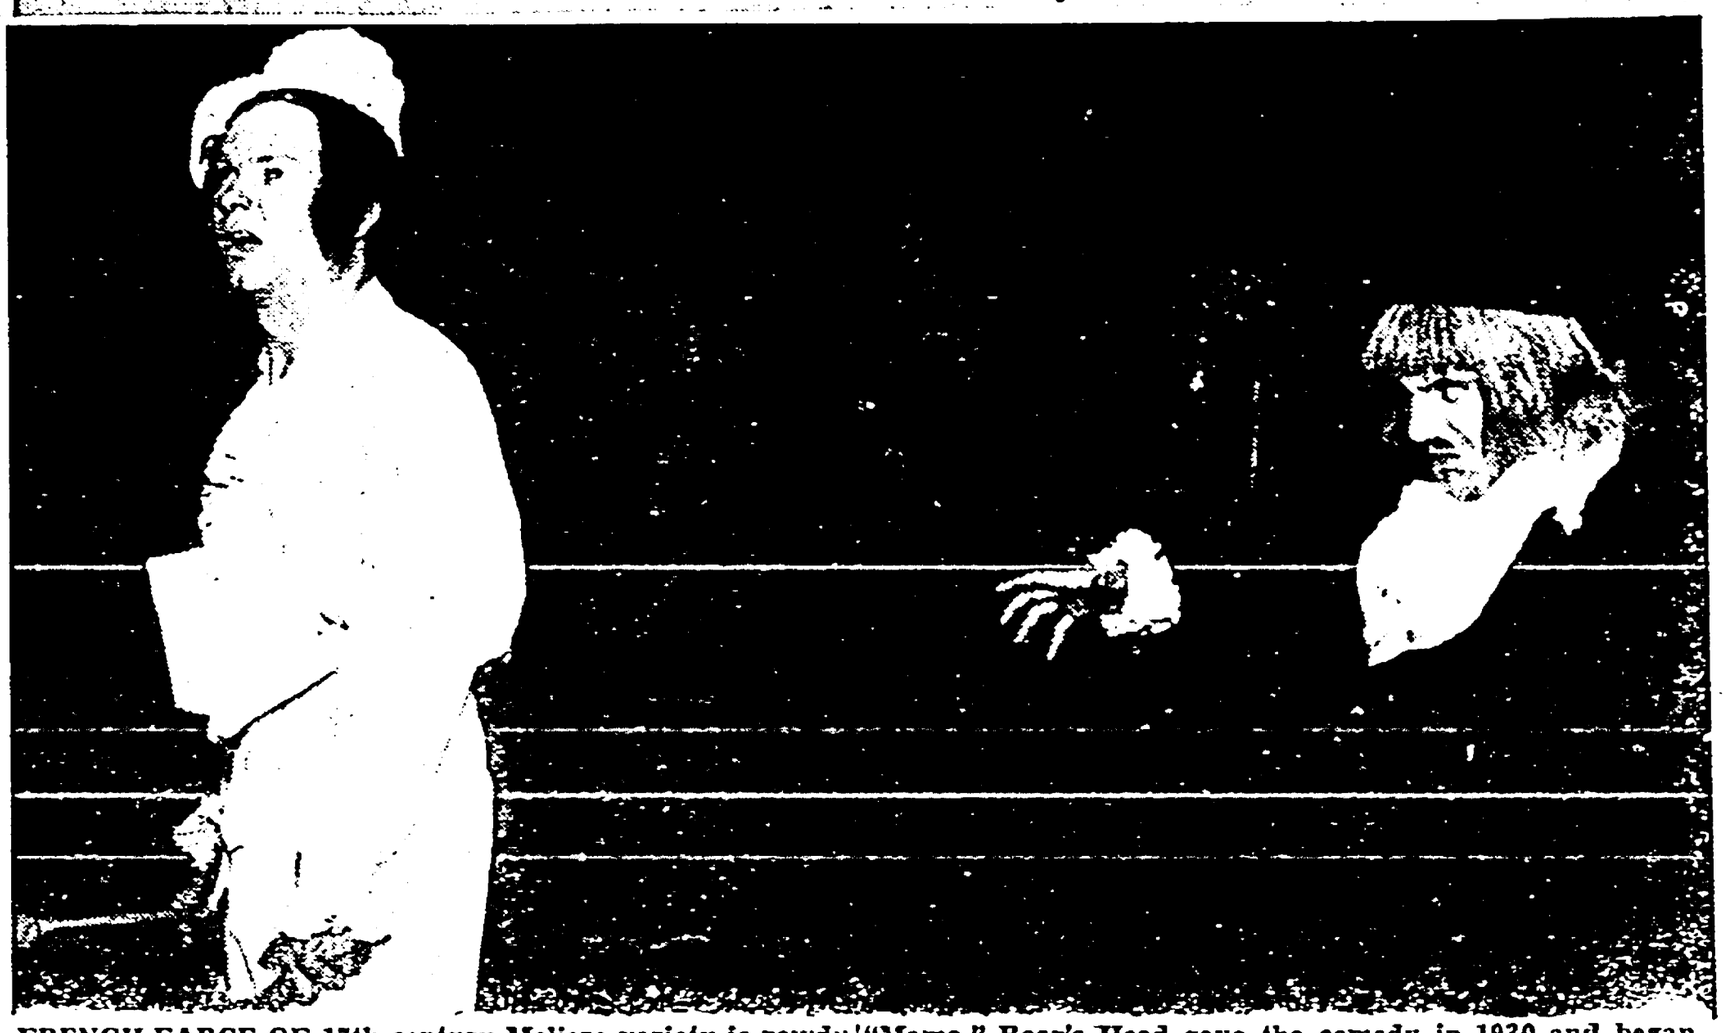
START SMOKING CAMELS YOURSELF!

Smoke only Camels for 30 days — see for yourself why Camels' cool, genuine mildness and rich, friendly flavor give more people more pure pleasure than any other cigarette!

for Mildness and Flavor

CAMELS AGREE WITH MORE PEOPLE THAN ANY OTHER CIGARETTE!

A Make Believe Tale is Wove...



FRENCH FARCE OF 17th century Moliere variety is rowdy and "L'Avare" is no exception. Baldwin Smith is the violent miser in the comedy, and the recipient of the kick is Paul Gabrielson, who is now producer of the television series, "Mama." Boar's Head gave the comedy in 1930 and began it's first full decade under the directorship of Sawyer Falk, who became head of the Hill drama society and chairman of the department in 1927.

A SCENE FROM "Angel Street, which Boar's Head, along with many other amateur groups in the country, produced in 1944. Principals in the production are Robert Joseph and Ilene Lehrer. Joseph, a well-known producer, is noted for his work in "Mademoiselle Colombe," "My Darlin' Aida" "King Lear" and "the Father". He is only one of the famous Boar's Head alums, who include Patricia Gillette (Brigadoon) and Sheldon Leonard (movies).

THAT'S PAUL CRABTREE in the whiskers looking surprised at the dry land the Ark crew sights after 40 days and nights adrift on the Flood. The Boar's Head's production of "Noah" was only one of the many plays in which Crabtree acted while here on the Hill. He went on to become one of the Broadway's well-known producers and actors. His latest was "Midsummer" which made a short appearance in New York last season.

Boar's

By

"Fifty years of make believe!" That's wh drama department and Boar's Head in particu celebrating. Fifty years of progress from an nificant beginning to one of the major positi campus.

A golden anniversary is a big occasion i one's book but this particular anniversary si a great deal more. It testifies to the fact that Head is an established organization, with a l of which it can well boast.

A drama organization, as such, was unkno the Hill until 1904, when the members of a lish club decided to get together and produce The group which was the forerunner of Boar' presented "King Lear."

Such was the beginning of the honorary presentations run into the hundreds and whose man hours of work involved would challenge the computations of an adding machine.

The organization was founded and was continued for many years on a purely extra-curricular basis. For years there was no special place where these aspiring thespians could say they "hung their hat." They were shifted from place to place and from building to building.

The earliest productions were given in the old Wieting Opera house where the Lincoln bank buildi stands. From there the actors moved to a p S. Salina st., then Westcott st. and even he dence on the top floor of Slocum hall for a

In 1948 Boar's Head people acquired a l they could call their own (though not for lon place is now marked by the Special Educatio ing. When the time came for the group to their bags and move again, headquarters beca chinery hall which is now the Drama building Head shares the structure with ROTC, wh cupies the first floor of the building, but serves the purpose and has been the birth many a worthwhile production.

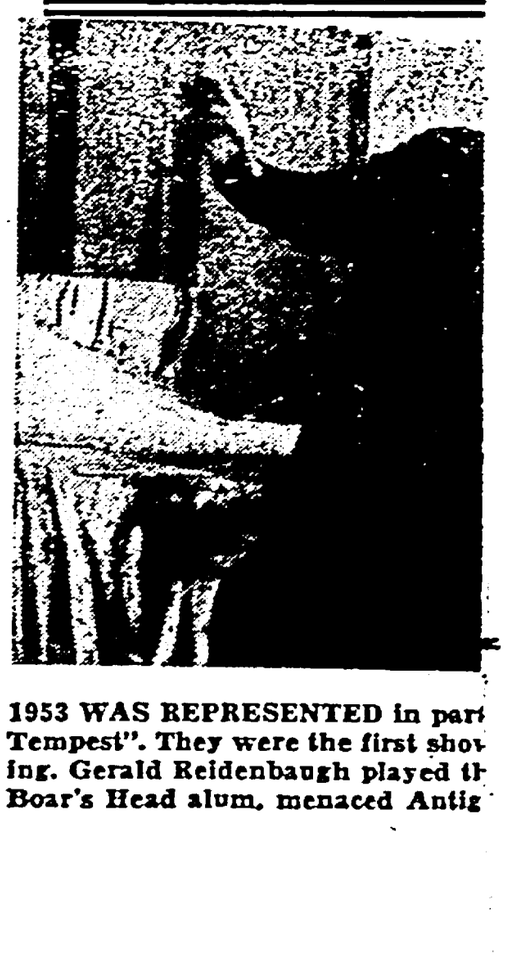
Fifty years of bringing theatrical culture Hill involves a lot of experiences, many gratifying and a few disheartening.

The organization has been suspended thr during it's existence. In its 23rd year it was s ed by University authorities because three p ported misconduct at an initiation ceremo organization was restored the following fall

Many names both in the theatrical world other fields have played a part in Boar's H tory.

In 1921 the president of Boar's Head wa familiar to every student on the Hill and th who would return to campus as chancellor. P. Tolley, then a Boar's Head member and

Photos Cou



1953 WAS REPRESENTED in part Tempest". They were the first sho ing. Gerald Reidenbaugh played th Boar's Head alum, menaced Antig

Head 50th Year

Maria Heitz

t the the Onondagan, played the part of a newspaper ır are reporter in the production "The Tailor-Made Man."
insig- At that time the organization was under the guidns on ance of coach Lewis E. Parmenter.

In 1927 Professor Sawyer Falk came to Syracuse as a faculty member of the speech school. Later that year Boar's Head obtained its status as a regular part of the curriculum with Prof. Falk as director of dramatic activities.

any- Notables who acted in Boar's Head productions
nifies and then went on to make their names in the legiti-
Boar's mate theatre and in cinema are Paul Crabtree, Prisstory cilla Gilette, who acted in "Brigadoon," Sheldon Leonard, Bill Lundigan and Frank Gabrielson, who yn on at the present time writes and produces TV's "I Re-Eng- member Mama."
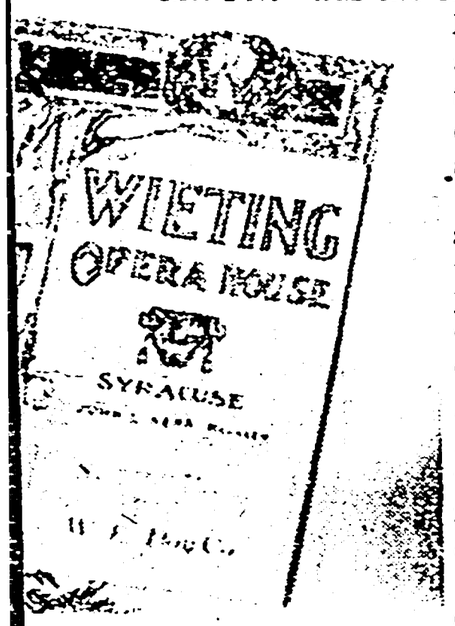
play.
Head

hose "Mr. Pitt" was the first full-length play given by Boar's Head under the guidance of the professor. From then on, dramatic activity on campus came into its own, and took on new heights.



Some of the more outstanding productions given on the Hill were "The Great God Brown," "Cherokee Night," "The Bourgeois Gentleman," "Noah," which was viewed by an audience of no less than 1,200 people, and "Red Harvest," which was well commented upon by New York critics.

During the '30's a road company was organized now which played to surrounding communities, in addie on tion to hill and downtown audiences.
resi- The year 1942 marked a great triumph in the ıe. annals of Boar's Head history. The drama honorary lding presented the world premiere of "Harriet." Play-
The wrights Florence Ryerson and Colin Clements atuild- tended rehearsals of the play and changed lines as up they saw their work put into production.
Ma- Helen Hayes, who was then looking for a medium oar's concerning the life of Harriet B. Stowe, was so im-oc- pressed with the show that it was taken to Broadway still for her to star in. This was the first college-produced e of play presented on Broadway as a result of a campus performance.

the On the average Boar's Head attempts to produce hem at least four shows a year, if time and facilities allow. It is the one theatrical medium which has survived in Syracuse, due to the enthusiasm with which Prof. Falk's group is hailed.

imes Their fifty years of existence have been success-end- ful because of the enthusiam of the small group
; re- which spurs the organizaion to accomplish more and
The more.

d in Boar's Head has a great deal to celebrate this his- year. Life is the stage for the people who become inman volved with the work of props, sets, costumes, makerson up and all the things that go into a single producliam tion. And whether it's on Broadway or in a campus
r of group such as Boar's Head, "life begins at 8:30."

In Fine-Spun Threads of Gold

MORE FRENCH FARCE and this time the highly successful "Bourgeois Gentlemen," probably the most famous of Moliere's comedies. Jerry Stiller was a howling success in this, which is still referred to by those who saw it in the spring of 1950. Stiller appeared locally in the Harpo Marx role in "The Man Who Came to Dinner" at the Astor theater this fall and is now acting in the new production of "Coriolanus" in New York's Greenwich Village.

BAD NEWS SEEMS to be in the offing in this scene from Arthur Miller's "All My Sons." Rick Riker, (in the center reading a letter) starred in many Boar's Head productions. Also pictured are Earl Simmons and Betty Harris. "All My Sons" became familiar to many people through its long run on Broadway and the film version of the play. Miller is also author of "Death of a Salesman" which is hailed as a modern tragedy.

sy of Boar's Head

e spring productions of "Antigone" and "The n on the new fluid stage in the drama buildin "The Tempest" and Ken Bowles, another the villain, King Creon.

ANOTHER SUCCESSFUL Boar's Head presentation was "Golden Boy", the story of a young boxer who rises to the top. Principals in the cast of this production were Betty Gould, and Larry White. White, at the present time, is a successful television director.

"MY HEART DON'T SAY SO" was written by Gerald Reidenbaugh of the drama department and given in 1951. The comedy concerns love in a Pennsylvania Dutch community. Shirley Fenner, now appearing in "Lysistrata" and Gerry Leider, assistant in drama, were the principals in the farce.

Grapplers Gobetz, King Bolster Faltering Orange

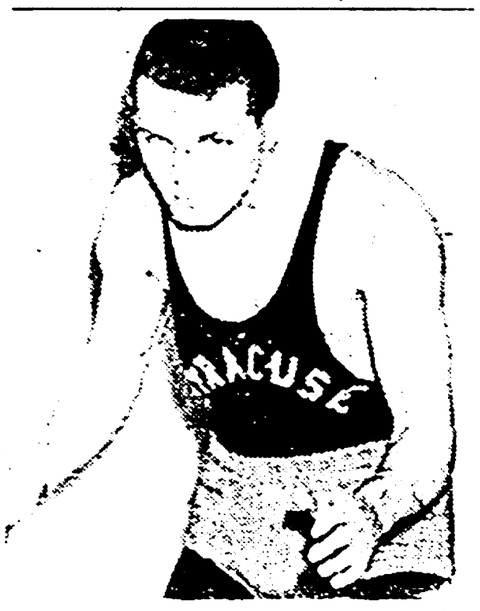
By ALEX STRASSER
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Wrestling mentor Joe McDaniel had two surprises waiting for him this Fall. The first was the loss of six starters. On the more pleasant side, McDaniel found two reliable grapplers on whom he had previously not counted upon heavily.

Tom King and Hank Gobetz have both been pleasant surprises for McDaniel this year. Despite his five wins in dual meet competition last season, Gobetz was not counted upon too heavily, while King was as yet untried in varsity competition.

Gobetz received his first wrestling experience at Mepham High school, which is equivalent in High school wrestling to Notre Dame in college football. When Gobetz graduated from Mepham, the school had lost only one dual meet match in 18 years.

At Mepham, Gobetz won the South Shore Championship for two years and the Long Island championship for one year at both the 157 and 167-pound classes.



TOM KING, pictured above, who has taken over the 137-pound duties following the injury to Co-Capt. Chuck DeBellis.

In 1950, Gobetz joined the Tangerine grapplers and proceded to win all of his bouts. The following year, Gobetz won four of his outings and last year, Gobetz won all his dual meet starts.

Despite his fine record, however, McDaniel wasn't counting heavily on Gobetz, as he had Lee Martin ready to wrestle at the 167-pound slot. With the loss of Martin, and the sidelining of Charley Dinklemeyer with a broken foot for the entire season, McDaniel was forced to fall back on Gobetz and the husky senior hasn't let McDaniel down.

In his first bout this year, Gobetz pinned Al Chase of Cortland, and followed that up with a decision over Hugh Cherry of Temple. Gobetz then lost his next two bouts against Michigan State and Franklin & Marshal before he once again returned to the winning side of the ledger with a upset win of Joe Humphrey of Penn State.

One of the better grapplers on Penn State's undefeated championship team, Humphrey was a heavy favorite to decision the orange senior. From the start of the match, it was apparent that it would be closer than foreseen. Then in the closing minutes of the final period, Gobetz came up with a take-down and a 4-3 upset decision.

Sophomore Tom King was no ball of fire on the frosh squad last year. With co-Capt. Chuck Debellis able to wrestle at either the 137 or 147-pound slot, King was forefront.

Like Gobetz, King won his first two outings, and then added a decision and a tie to give him a 3-2-1 record. Even in losing, however, King has looked good and with a year of experience under his belt, he promises to give the Orange strength at the 137-pound slot next year.

The loss of Tom McDougal, Jim Rose, Hank Bianowicz, Lee Martin, Chuck Debellis and Charles Dinkelemeyer was a severe blow to Orange wrestling hopes. Fortunately for McDaniel, King and Gobetz filled in part of the gap, and along with co-Capt. Ed Rooney, formed the nucleus of the Orange squad.

Coach McDaniel isn't too happy about his squad's won and lost record this season. One consolation for McDaniel, however, is that the matmen would not even have done as well as they did were it not for the surprising performances turned in by Gobetz and King.

Scanning the Intramural Scene

By AL GEFEN
Daily Orange Intramural Director

The intramural program here at Syracuse university owes much of its success to the efforts of several people other than just those who participate in the various sports. One of the most active individuals in the field of furthering competition in intramural football, basketball and softball is Bob Bell, assistant intramural director.

Bob, who is a graduate student, has as his principle job that of supervising the games as they are played. He must maintain an adequate staff of referees and see that they are doing capable work.

IN ORGANIZING SUCH a staff, Bob has pre-season signups and can gather together those people who are interested in officiating. A clinic is then held, where such prospective officials are instructed in the uniform rules set up in the particular sports.

Following this linie, the officials are "left on their own," except in cases where there are arguments about the calls of a particular referee, which leads to the submission of a formal protest. To date there has only been one protest of a game, and this had nothing to do with a referee's call.

In carrying out his task of supervising the intramural program, Bob has the opportunity of witnessing almost every team in action. He comes down every evening before the beginning of the initial scheduled contest and rarely leaves before the final game of the night is completed.

Bell believes a major portion of the credit for making his job so easy is the fine cooperation that he has received from the referee. He has stated that no official has failed to show up on his scheduled evening. Also, no complaints have been received about any official showing partiality toward any particular team.

BOB ALSO PRAISES the various intramural teams for their cooperation as most of them arrive at the scene of their scheduled games on time, thereby eliminating any waiting around on the part of the referee or the opponents.

As a graduate student on the Hill, Bob is well familiarized with the intramural system here. He was an official in the intramural program in both his junior and senior years; this served as an excellent proving ground for his obtaining of his present position as assistant to Milt Howard.

Bob is married and has three children. He is a veteran, and, therefore, receives benefits from the GI Bill. His academic schedule is limited to 12 hours credit each semester and he also teaches six hous of P.E. 1.

In his two years of officiating basketball games, Bob says (like most other referees) that the toughest call to make is the difference between a charging and a blocking foul.

HE HAS INSTRUCTED his staff of basketball referees only to call the most obvious fouls. If a whistle were blown at every form of body contact, the games would probably turn into foul shoting contests.

Under this arrangement, the games are run off quite smoothly and little, if any, argument is received from the participating teams.

Nine boys make up the officiating staff in intramural basketball. Ron Mantley, Ed Thompson, George McGlynn, Chuck McGlynn, John Kerr, George Bovere, Ray Simpson, Bob Forrester, and Bob Beattie complete the capable staff of whistle-tooters.

Under the intra setup, the chief idea is to supply the most opportunity for the greatest number of students. Bob Bell is a firm believer in this policy.

* * * * *

FOR THE SECOND straight year, the Daily Orange will sponsor an all-star game pitting outstanding players in the fraternity bracket against a like group of competitors chosen from the independent flights.

The game, which will be an annual feature of the intramural basketball program, will be played sometime next week, the exact date to be determined as soon as the definite playoff schedule is fully determined.

* * * * *

PIN POINTS: Due to a light schedule of intra bowling this Tuesday, there will be limited open bowling that night . . . Playoffs in intra bowling will probably begin next week.

Math Dept. Bowlers Defeat Utes, Shave Margin Of League Leaders

The Athletic department's lead in the faculty bowling league dwindled to a mere two points as a result of its 7-2 defeat by the Foresters during last week's bowling matches at the Women's building. Their loss, followed a win by the Math department over the Utes by a 7-2 count.

SCHEDULE FOR MARCH -
Athletic Dept. vs. Linguists; ROTC vs. Engineers; Marshall vs. Holly Rollers; Pin Knots vs. Math; Stinkers vs. Forestry; Foresters vs. Utes.

Syracuse Swordsmen Prep For Invitational Tournament

The Piety Hill swordsmen will be in for some stiff practice during the next few days as they prepare for their last three meets of the present campaign.

The Syracuse record of one win against three setbacks fails to tell the true story of the season to date. The boys have worked hard all year long and have showed flashes of brilliance against top-notch competition.

Entering their tough schedule with only Capt. John Goldstein as a sure fire winner, the Orange fencers have attained a well-balanced squad. Willie Schop, George Wooding, Ed Wang, Jerry Marsullo and Abe Gillman all improved steadily under Coach Burtt's watchful eye.

Meets with Buffalo on March 6 at home, and a triangular meet with St. Lawrence and R.I.T. on March 13 at Canton, will precede the N.A.I.F.O. Tournament at Buffalo on March 20. Capt. Goldstein's N.A.I.F.C. epee crown will be at stake in this final competition.

It's Later Than You Think

CLASS RINGS With Degree, Year
CHOICE OF STONE
WOMEN'S or MEN'S

Engineers include Degree Year and Choice of Stone

Hill Smoke Shop
MARSHALL STREET
Headquarters for Everything

A New Concept In EUROPEAN TRAVEL
Available for ONLY 25 Girls
Spend 21 days at Capri (Includes Ballet, Painting, Galas, Operas, Fetes, Folk Dancing, Concerts) VISIT Lisbon, Gibraltar, Barcelona, Naples, Sorrento, Amalfi, Pompei, Ischia, Formia, Rome, Pisa, Genoa, Turin, Aix Les Bains, Dijon, Paris, Versailles, Nice, Monte Carlo, Menton, George du Loup, Grasse, Cannes, Palermo, Halifax. CABIN CLASS at sea (10 days in the Mediterranean aboard Italian Line luxury liners S.S. Saturnia and S.S. Conte Biancamano).
1st CLASS travel and DELUXE hotels in Europe.
ALL EXPENSES (Including all theater tickets, operas, concerts, night spots, dances, fetes, galas, etc.) $1440.
Write for Brochure
W. C. LEWIS
The CHALET TRAVEL CAMP
WESTPORT, CONN.

ADVENTURE 21st Year
EUROPE, 60 Days, $490 (all expense incl. steamer)
Bicycle, Fallboot, Ski, Motor, Rail. Also Latin America, West, Orient.
TRAVEL
Around the World, $995 all expense. Low cost trips to every corner of the globe. Congenial groups for those who wish to get off the beaten track . . . even trips for explorers.
STUDY Special Groups
LANGUAGES, ART, DANCE, MUSIC. College Credit. Some scholarships available.
See More Spend Less
Your Travel Agent or Students International Travel Association
SITA
545 FIFTH AVE., NEW YORK 17 • MU 2-6544

Marvin Sarkin Photo Studio
One block from the stadium
708 E. Raynor Ave.
CALL 4-1145
Applications and Portraits
Composites ● Formals
CANDID WEDDING ALBUMS
WEDDING PORTRAITS
See our display at the Cosmo

Boxers Prepare For CCNY After Loss to Wisconsin

By LEE KIKLIER
Daily Orange Junior Editor

After the 5-3 loss to Wisconsin, their first loss of the season, Roy Simmons and his boxers can look forward to a week of rest, practice and CCNY. City College comes in Saturday.

Even before the first bell the crowd of around 2,000 learned that Wisconsin was ahead. Artie Nelson forfeited the 147-pound fight when a strained muscle, discovered after the Virginia match, didn't respond to treatment and the doctor cancelled Nelson's part in the show. Hope was held out for Nelson until weigh-in time, but it was no go.

When Frank Guelli stepped into the ring, Wisconsin led 1-0. Across the ring: Roy Kuboyama, listed at 5 ft.-7, but looking more like 5 ft.-1. The chunky Hawaiian had the first round taken away from him for two fouls. In the second round, the quick and powerful 125 pounder floored Guelli three times. The third knockdown came at 1:30 of the second round and it was the last. Wisconsin led 2-0.

Jerry Jaffe faced Terry Tynan in the 132-pound class. Jaffe, through a mystifying set of maneuvers and clever stabs managed to avenge his roommate with a decision and gave Syracuse a point. The score: Wisconsin 2, Syracuse 1.

Thumpin' Johnny Granger at 139 wasted no time. With his blows resounding like a kettle drum, Eastern champ Johnny Granger plopped Chuck Magestro to the canvas twice in the first round. After drifting for the second round Granger opened up the third with a swarm of thumping uppercuts.

Then, switching to southpaw to finish out the fight, Granger won an unanimous decision and Syracuse was even: 2-2.

Larry O'Sullivan was outreached in the first two rounds by tall Bob Meath and despite a last round flood, could not overcome the early obstacle of two losing rounds. Syracuse lost the 156 bout and fell behind 3-2.

Co-Capt. Vince Rigolosi drawing from his hip like a western movie star, piled up a margin in the first two rounds, but tired fast. With most of the steam gone out of his punches, and orders to wait for the good one, Rigolosi nonetheless carried the brawl to his opponent Ev Chambers.

Rigolosi's unanimous decision pulled Syracuse even again 3-3.

That was all Syracuse saw of the match for the rest of the night for the Badgers had two killers left: Ray Zale and Bob Hinds.

Zale eked out the first round against Yancey in the lightheavy battle and moved ahead by a bigger margin in the second. Tiring fast, Yancey was half knocked-down half-felled under the experienced Zale and Zale recorded a TKO in 1:42 of the last round.

Sam "The Loon" Alexander was only in the ring for 1:06 of the first round, when the supremely fast and talented Bob Hinds decked him. Simmons surrendered rather than let the experienced Hinds injure Alexander for the next fight.

Just so Wisconsin's Co-Capt. Bob Morgan wouldn't make the trip for nothing, frosh member of the Rigolosi family: Bob, fought an exhibition with the Badger 147-pounder.

The Orange's record this year is now two wins, two draws and one loss. Wisconsin's win was their second of the season.

Next bout for Simmie's boys will be in Archbold gym this Saturday night.

The CCNY match will be their last fling before entering the elimination contests of the Easterns in Virginia and later: the Nationals a Penn State.

Along the Sidelines

By KEN LENT, DAILY ORANGE SPORTS EDITOR

On a desk in the football office stands a mug. Printed along the outside rim, in unpretentious blue letters, are the words, "Eastern Champions—1953." Behind the desk sits Ben Schwartzwalder.

Right now, this man has something on his mind. It's tied up with the '54 squad a possible league affiliation and the mug in front of him. In two words, the problem is spring practice.

Last year, the Athletic Board voted to eliminate spring grid practice backed up by the Executive Committee of the University Board of Trustees. Lou Andreas, athletic director, outlined two main reasons for the decision.

The first point was because of all the talk going around last spring about the de-emphasizing of football. The second reason was Syracuse's willingness to go along with its two main rivals Cornell and Colgate who also eliminated spring practice.

No one in the athletic department is too happy about the lack of spring practice. Andreas definitely feels that without the usual 20-day warmup, the team will be handicapped when it takes the field against Villanova in September.

Schwartzwalder is more vehement. As a coach, he wants to get in all the practice possible. He'll have slightly over three weeks to whip a green squad into shape and he's not looking forward to the job.

It appears that the controversial scrimmage can be reinstated by only one action. That is if Syracuse joins an Eastern league, and the league members vote for spring practice, then Syracuse will go along with them.

Meanwhile, Ben has a tough '54 schedule to look forward to and an even tougher '55 and '56 slate. Only three teams of next year's schedule, Cornell, Colgate and Holy Cross, have eliminated spring practice.

Twenty days may not be important enough to ruin football completely on the Hill, but the lack of these days won't help any. As Ben told me, it is the coaching staff's job to make sure that the team can be ready to meet any competition. That's a difficult task to do in three weeks before the opening game.

With the rougher schedules in the next three years, the athletic department, it seems to us, will have to reinstate spring practice as a defensive measure. You don't play teams like West Virginia, who do have spring practice, without a little pre-season preparation.

The reason that Syracuse received such a difficult schedule in the following three years is because of their excellence performance within the last few seasons. After consistently beating clubs like Lafayette, Rutgers and Temple, the Orange have had to branch out into order to get a decent card.

An interesting article was printed in the New York Hearld Tribune the other day which may eventually affect Syracuse football. Notre Dame and Pittsburgh have expressed their willingness to join a "super" conference.

Right now, nothing is certain. Syracuse's football future, spring practice and league affiliation are all something which will have to be decided eventually.

And it's all tied up with the words on Ben Schwartzwalder's desk mug. That's what started the whole thing.

Grossman Smashes Individual Record In WAA With 34

By JODY CRONAU

Alpha Omicron Pi's basketball squad shattered WAA team scoring and individual scoring records last week by blasting Iota Alpha Pi, 56-9. As Joyce Grossman poured in 34 points, Alpha Omicron Pi took undisputed possession of first place in the Tuesday night upperclass league.

In a second Tuesday night upperclass league, first place Pi Phi dropped Gamma Phi Beta into a two-way tie for second place, as they outplayed Gamma Phi, 15-4. Jackie Jarrett, Sigma Kappa forward, led Sigma Kappa to a 20-11 win over Brewster as she scored 13 points.

Playing in the Monday night upperclass league, Peck II eked out a 22-17 victory over Theta Phi Alpha to drop Theta Phi to second place. The win was number five for Peck, only undefeated team in the league.

Celtics Clip Nats At War Memorial

The Boston Celtics tightened the race for second place in the NBA Eastern division last Thursday night as they shaved the Syracuse Nationals' lead to the slim margin of a half a game. The Celts finally came alive in the waning minutes of the fourth period to register their 101-96 victory.

PARAMOUNT
JAMES STEWART
JUNE ALLYSON
"The GLENN MILLER STORY"
Technicolor
Also "BLACK FURY" in color

Now MIDTOWN Open 6:30 P.M.
LAST DAY "HAMLET"
STARTS SATURDAY
ALEC GUINNESS
"The Lavender Hill Mob"
2nd Midtown Hit
BASIL RADFORD and JOAN GREENWOOD
TIGHT LITTLE ISLAND

REGENT
SUN.-TUES.
Bob Hope Arlene Dahl
Tony Martin
Rosemary Clooney
"HERE COME THE GIRLS"
Color by Technicolor
also
"APPOINTMENT IN HONDURAS"
Glenn Ford Ann Sheridan
Color by Technicolor

Schine's ECKEL NOW PLAYING
CAROL REED'S Supreme Adventure in Suspense!
The MAN BETWEEN
starring JAMES MASON
CLAIRE BLOOM • HILDEGARDE NEFF

Saving money on nylons

Nylons would cost more if it weren't for advertising. Both the store and the manufacturers use advertising as their lowest cost way to get across news and information about their products.

Selling more goods this way makes mass production possible—which means lower production costs, lower selling costs, lower prices.

Yes, advertising is a low-cost selling method that helps keep your living costs down.

This advertisement prepared by the Advertising Federation of America

SENIORS and GRADUATE STUDENTS

When you come with IBM

you'll want to stay!

There are good reasons why IBM personnel turnover is less than 1/7 the national average! Here they are: Challenging opportunities • Merit advancement • Growing company • Progressive management • Good salaries • Continuous educational program • Exceptional employee benefits • Congenial working and living conditions.

Examine the facts about International Business Machines, leading manufacturer of Electronic Digital Computers, Electronic and Electric Accounting Machines, Time Indicating, Production Recording, and Signaling Devices, and Electric Typewriters.

CAMPUS INTERVIEWS
TUESDAY, MARCH 2

If your degree or major is:	Make appointment to see:
Arts • Business • Accounting Science • Engineering	IBM Sales representative
Physical Science Mathematics • Engineering	IBM Applied Science representative
Physics • Mechanical Electrical • Mathematics	IBM Engineering representative
Industrial • Electrical Mechanical	IBM Manufacturing representative
Accounting • Administration Management	IBM Business Administration representative

Call your College Placement Office for Appointment

Daily chapel, noon to 12:20 p.m. Miss Katy Drexel will speak on "Importance of time out for daily devotions."

Senior ball committee chairmanships interviews will be held at 3:15 p.m. Tuesday at Alpha Xi Delta. All those who have applied are requested to attend or contact John Beach at Phi Gamma Delta or Barbara Suchy at Delta Gamma. Any other students interested may also attend at this time.

Daily Orange freshman class, 4 p.m., 102 Yates Castle. All frosh staffers required to attend. General writing techniques will be taught by Joan Nadelhaft, associate editor. Also important assignments for freshman edition.

"Six Weeks with Luther," discussion series, 4:15 HL. 101 HL.

Picture Contest Open to Students

The Ninth annual international collegiate photography contest, sponsored by Kappa Alpha Mu, national honorary fraternity in photo journalism, is now open for entries.

All college students are eligible for the prizes which will be awarded in the four classes, news, features, sports and picture story. First place winners in each division will receive $25 government bonds.

The contest closes April 1, 1954 and the judging will take place in Houston, Texas. No entry fee is charged. Additional information and entry blanks are available from print chairman, room 114, School of Journalism, University of Houston, Houston, Texas.

CLASSIFIED

IMPORTANT NOTICE—CLASSIFIED ADS to appear in this paper should be DELIVERED at the HELLBOX Classified desk between 1 and 3 p. m. NO ADS WILL BE ACCEPTED AFTER 3. ALL ADS MUST BE IN 2 DAYS IN ADVANCE. For further information call 4-7206.

ALL LOST ARTICLES should be turned into the CENTRAL LOST AND FOUND ROOM, 20 Bldg. 24 at 205 University Pl. Articles can be claimed there.

TYPEWRITERS RENTED: $3.00 per month, $8 3 months. Good selection. We deliver, Smith Brothers. 4-8833.

YOUNG MEN OR WOMEN, full or part time, pleasant working conditions in any one of our 7 Hour stores. Apply 731 W. Genesee.

ALTERATIONS DONE WITHIN A DAY: 4-5847. 5 minutes from campus. Lillian Potter, 207 Comstock Ave.

EXPERT Typing done in my home. 4-4220. Mrs. E. Garelick.

Typewriters rentals—New Models Reasonable Rates—Expert Service, All Makes—CORNER STORE.

WANTED: Actors, Composer, Choreographer, Technicians, Scene designer to work on private production of original, experimental drama. If interested call 4-9849, 8-10 any evening. Ask for Samuels.

EXPERT TYPING, theses and term papers. Mrs. Raymond Webb, 2-1884.

FOR SALE: Hi Quality combination record player, amplifier and FM tuner in one cabinet. High output (30 watts) suitable for dances, etc. 76-1698 or 72-1100.

FOR SALE: TEVEL TELEVISION CONSOLE. 12" G. E. in excellent condition. $100. Phone 6-97421.

Show Rehearsals Slated

Rehearsals for "Up in Lights" will take place in Yates castle this week, Monday through Friday. The schedule runs as follows:

Monday, March 1—dance ensemble, 3-5 p.m. Specialty and singing groups will meet from 7-9:30 p.m.

Tuesday, March 2—singing ensemble, 3-5 p.m. Specialty acts and singing will be rehearsed from 7-9:30 p.m.

Wednesday, March 3—dance ensemble, 3-5:30 p.m.

Thursday, March 4—singing ensemble, 3-5 p.m.

Friday, March 5—dance ensemble, 3-5:30 p.m.

Saturday, March 6—rehearsals for skits will be held from 10-12 in the drama building. Singing and dance ensembles will meet from 2-5 p.m. in the Women's building.

Sunday, March 7—skits will be rehearsed from 2-5 p.m. in the Drama building.

German Honorary Initiates Members

Initiations into Delta Phi Alpha, national German honorary, took place at Gamma Phi Beta recently.

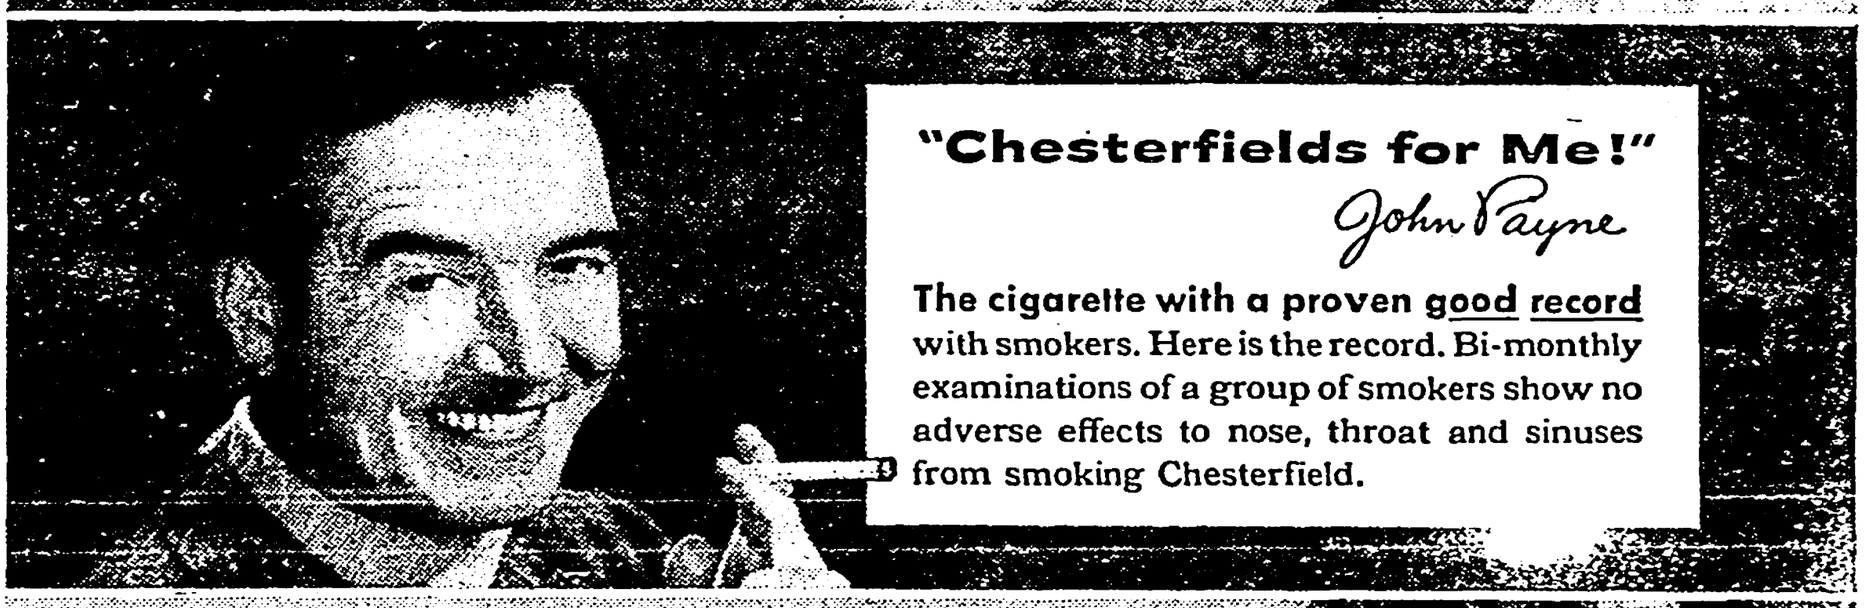
Initiated into the honorary were Louise S. Almy, Joselyn E. Auer, James S. Bobett, Joan DeGelleke, Maria B. Heitz, Joseph Lauterstein, Florence E. Oglebay, Jane M. Rannenberg, Alexander L. Strasser, Elizabeth Sundberg, Lenore Y. Taylor and Henry C. Waggott.

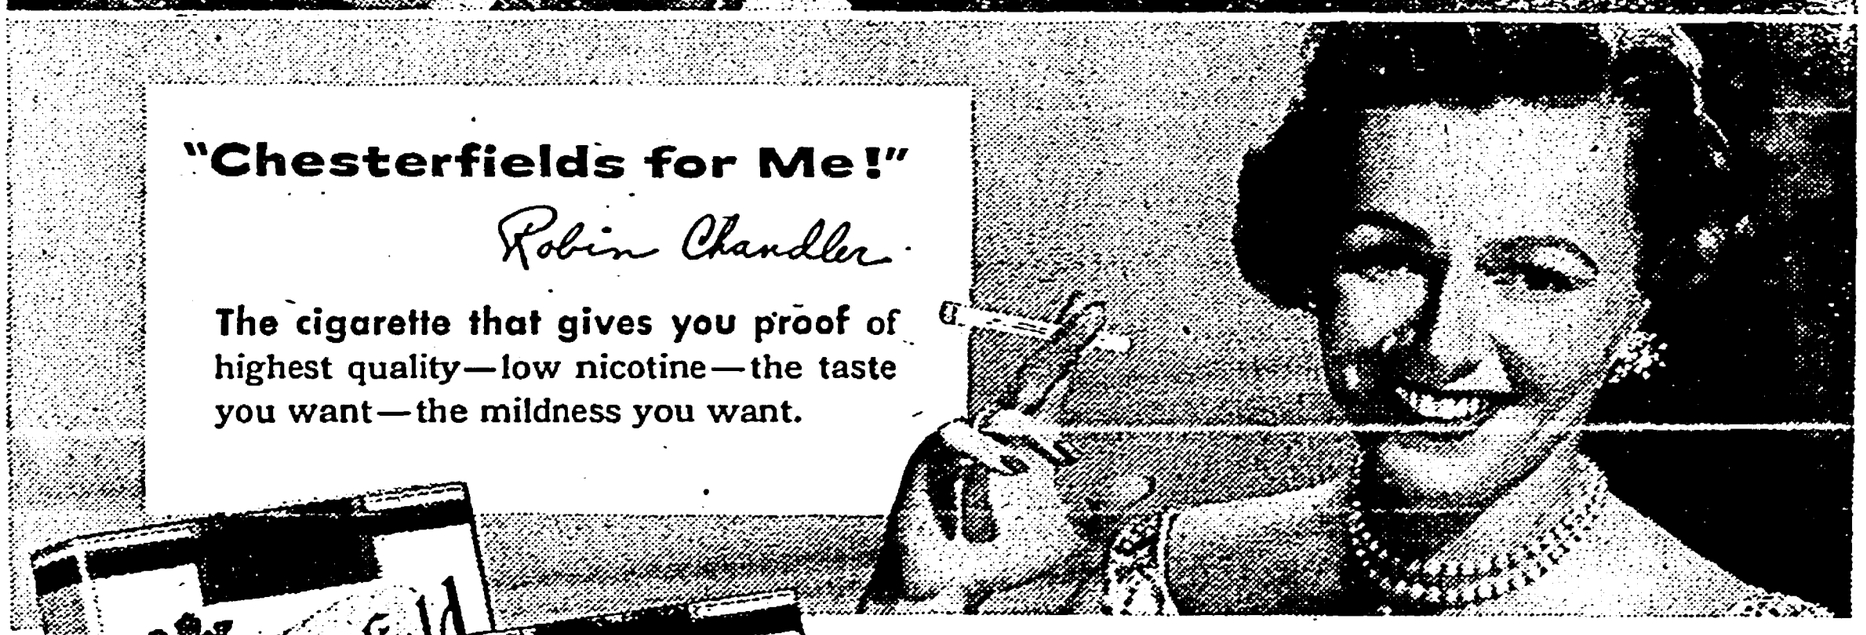
WAER Schedule

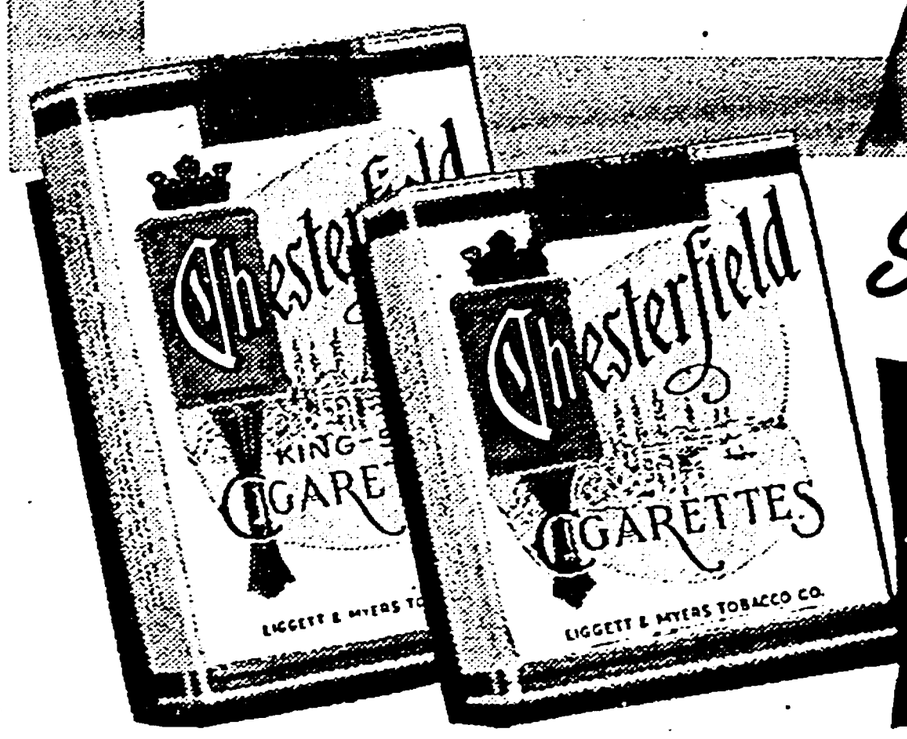
MONDAY

3:00—WAER News
3:05—Symphonic Matinee
4:00—Musical Heritage
5:00—This I Believe
5:05—Distaff Digest
5:15—Dinner Date
6:15—WAER News
6:25—Evening Showcase
6:35—WAER Sports Lineup
6:45—High on a Hilltop
7:00—Masterworks from France
7:30—Travels in Music
8:00—Evening with Music
9:00—WAER News
9:05—Meet the Composer
9:30—Proudly We Hail
10:00—Final Edition—News
10:10—Final Edition—Sports

Today's Chesterfield is the Best Cigarette Ever Made!







Smoke America's Most Popular 2-Way Cigarette

CHESTERFIELD BEST FOR YOU

Copyright 1954, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

On the Inside
See Sharp Letter on "Students for America" on Page 2.

Syracuse Daily Orange

Weather Report
SNOW SQUALLS
High temperature ____35
Low temperature ____28

Vol. 51, No. 80 | Syracuse, N. Y., Tuesday March 2, 1954 | 4 Pages—5 Cents

Are You Missing Parcels? Post Office Rules Listed

By EILEEN CHAMBERLAIN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Good things come in small packages.

Officials at the University branch of the post office consider this epigram especially apropos. They told The Daily Orange yesterday that only packages weighing less than two pounds can be kept at the Marshall st. office if they are not accepted when delivered the first time.

BECAUSE OF space limitations at the Hill branch, all other parcels not successfully delivered the first time are returned to the downtown post offite at the corner of Erie blvd. and Clinton st., to be kept until called for.

However, if the receiver of a package notifies downtown officials that he will be at home at a definite time, the parcel will be delivered to him at that time. Postmen usually make three attempts to carry special delivery parcels to the correct addresses. After that, the receivers must call at the main post office to pick up their packages.

On rare occasions employees at the University branch will ask that parcels be brought to Marshall st. for students to claim them. This service should be requested only in extreme emergencies, local officials stressed.

Each special delivery or registered letter resides at the Marshall st. office until claimed, if the addressee is not at home to receive it when delivered. All letters of this type are carried to their destination three times before they are left at the post office.

LOCAL OFFICIALS added several notes of advice for the student who wishes maximum benefits from the government postal service.

They stressed that all mail to students should bear street address and not merely sorority or fraternity name. This facilitates quicker delivery, since clerks are delayed when they must look up house addresses. They said letters addressed only to Syracuse university are delivered to the University for sorting and therefore delayed in reaching their destinations.

Laundry cases should bear owners' names on the inside as well as outside in case address labels are lost. Otherwise they cannot be located.

The Daily Orange also learned

(See POST OFFICE, page 4)

Sawyer Views Bigot As Totalitarian Man

By PEARL BERNSTEIN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

"The discriminator is the totalitarian man," Dr. Michael O. Sawyer told Cit 1 students yesterday. He described the bigoted personality as one that is suffering from loneliness, unhappiness and vagueness of life's goals.

Dr. Sawyer, who is a member of the Citizenship faculty, approached the problem of "Race, Creed and Color" from a socio-psychological angle.

HE SAID, "We have been treating symptoms, not the disease itself. The emphasis must be on the matter of personality adjustment." The discriminating personality, he went on, is the super-conformist who rigidly adheres to conventions and condemns those who differ.

Such persons oppose imagination and affection and deal in superstition and sterotype. Since these attitudes are based on emotion, rational arguments against them usually are unsuccessful, Dr. Sawyer observed.

"We can't put everybody on the psychiatrist's couch, since there aren't enough couches," he told the large audience. We must start with the child, who must be genuinely loved and treated as an individual, in order to grow into a democratic personality.

Discrimination, Dr. Sawyer emphasized, is part of the pattern of ethnocentric determinism. There is no doctrinaire solution, he said, only the idea of compromise.

"RACIAL discrimination is incompatible with democracy in the United States. I take it that if we are engaged in an idealogical struggle with Russia and give them such fire for ammunition, we are sadly mistaken," said lecturer Sawyer.

Freedom from want is the Siamese twin to equality of opportunity, but there are limitations on the theory of equality of opportunity, he continued. Each case must be judged on its own merits, since it is natural to want to accumulate wealth, and there must be rewards for work.

Thehe is an appealing waste of genius when equality of opportunity is denied minority groups, he declared.

Dr. Sawyer concluded that there is no single answer to the problem of equality of opportunity. Fifty years ago the "rags to riches" Horatio Alger myth was offered.

Today the trend is to blame everything on society, as portrayed in Willard Motley's book, "Knock on Any Door." "I would submit this is as unaccurate a picture as Horatio," said Dr. Sawyer.

His answer is that society is responsible to the degree that it must cure those of its members who "desperately cling to the idea of power groups because of inability to overcome their unsatisfactory personal adjustments."

Five Congressmen Wounded by Shots From Puerto Ricans

Rep. Bentley 'Critical' After Gunmen Fire From House Gallery

WASHINGTON, March 1—A group of Puerto Rican spectators in the House gallery shouted "Free Puerto Rico" today and fired wildly at members of Congress, wounding five of the lawmakers.

The gunmen and a woman companion were seized immediately and held by capital police.

Two of the five Congressmen were wounded seriously. The others suffered leg injuries.

THE FIVE were:

Alvin M. Bentley (R-Mich.), struck below the heart, puncturing lung and stomach. His condition was described as "critical" last night.

Ben F. Jensen (R-Iowa), shot in the left shoulder, requiring blood transfusions.

Kenneth Roberts (D-Ala.), wounded in the lower part of his leg.

Clifford Davis (D-Tenn.), hit in the leg.

George H. Fallon (D-Md.), struck in the upper thigh, the bullet going all the way through.

Rep. Arends (R-Ill.) reported that he was hit by flying splinters, but was not hurt.

The Puerto Ricans at police headquarters stated they were members of the Nationalist party in the island possession of the United States. This was the same party that attempted to assissinate former President Truman in 1950.

THE WOMAN, who identified herself as Lolita Lebron of New York, said the House shooting was a continuation of the same plot.

Spectators, describing the sudden affair, reported that the woman stood up in a corner of the gallery, unfurled a Puerto Rican flag, and shouted, "My country must be freed." She then began to spray bullets into the ceiling of the House chamber.

The three men with her, wielding luger pistols, pumped lead into the assemblage of 243 lawmakers below, not trying to hit anyone in particular.

Rep. Van Zandt (R-Pa.), a veteran of two world wars, cried, "Hit the deck," and ran upstairs to the gallery, where he grabbed one of the Puerto Ricans. Guards and spectators pounced upon the other gunman and the woman.

IT WAS estimated that 25 to 30 shots were fired.

Speaker Martin of Massachusetts, presiding over the House, dove for cover at the first shots. Minutes later he recessed the House. The Senate was also recessed a half-hour later.

Martin said the Puerto Ricans were part of a busload that had come to the capital today. About 20 of the visitors were taken into custody.

'Claims of Religion' Topic Of Footprints Colloquium

ALL KINDS OF footprints, even these dinosaur tracks exhibited in Lyman museum, will be in order next Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Footprints conference will bring three religious leaders to campus to speak on the nature of God, man and truth. First of the series will be "What Are the Claims of Religion?" on Monday.

"What Are the Claims of Religion?" will be the topic of a faculty colloquium, the Monday evening session of Footprints.

Three faculty members will join Dr. A. Powell Davies and Prof. E. G. Homrighausen, the speakers of the day, in a panel discussion at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Chapel auditorium.

SYRACUSANS participating are Prof. Frederick Haucke, of the College of Fine Arts, Prof. William P. Hotchkiss of the history department, and Prof. George B. Cressey of the geography department.

The colloquium which will be moderated by Charles C. Noble, dean of Hendricks chapel, will be stimulated by questions submitted by students during the two major lectures of the day.

Dr. Davies, pastor of All Souls Unitarian church in Washington, D. C. and leader in national affairs, will speak on "The Nature of Man" at 10 a.m. Monday in the Chapel auditorium.

The hour from 11 a.m. to noon has been set aside for an informal discussion and coffee following Dr. Davies' talk.

DR. HOMRIGHAUSEN, professor of Christian education at the Princeton Theological seminary and chairman of the department of evangelism of the National Council of Churches, is scheduled to talk on "The Nature of God" at 3:30 p.m.

Letters recently were sent to all fraternity and sorority house presidents requesting them to cancel or postpone their Monday night house meetings so that their members might attend the colloquium.

Cooperation was so widespread that opportunity will be given for houses to reserve block seating a the evening affair, Chairmen James Carr and Elizabeth Goddard announced.

Rabbi Joseph L. Fink of Temple Beth Zion in Buffalo, will be the Footprints leader on Tuesday.

The conference which is designed to stimulate student thought in the area of basic philosophies, is an all-University project. It is sponsored and endorsed by a group of student and faculty leaders.

Honorary Will Sell 'Lysistrata' Tickets

Orange Key Sponsors Two Performances

Orange Key, junior men's honorary, will sponsor special performances of the Boar's Head comedy, "Lysistrata," at 8 p.m. tomorrow and Thursday.

Tickets for the productions are on sale for $1.50 and $1 from all Key members. Reservations will also be accepted at the box office in Machinery hall, 4-2776.

Kevin Wilson of Phi Kappa Psi is chairman of the ducat sale for the junior men.

The Boar's Head players have performed before capacity crowds in the drama playhouse since the Greek comedy opened Feb. 18. Barbara Hush stars in "Lysistrata," with a cast of more than 60.

Orange Key members who may be contacted for tickets are Robert Lefko, Edward Hardy, James Fellows, Darwin Bolden, Harold Steinberg, Leonard Eisen, Howard Osofsky, Lowell Toenniessen, Malcolm Foster, Samuel Shawhan, Marven Wallen, Oliver Richards, Stuart Parker, Gilbert Katz and Wilson.

World Political Fights Debated by Rep. Judd

The basis of the conflict in the world today is between two totally different philosophies of life, Rep. Walter H. Judd told an audience of more than 450 students at the Brotherhood Banquet Sunday night.

"You can't compare the world struggle to the conflict between our national political parties," he warned. "Russia and the United States are pursuing completely different ends."

"THIS IS a different world than Americans have ever had to face before," he said, describing the new techniques, new mechanisms and total conflict which exist.

The Republican representative from Minnesota told the audience in Sims dining hall that this is a world of grief and vast dislocations in values, ideals and yardsticks as well as power.

"Our civilization is on the defensive for the first time," he said. "We are holding our own but there is no place where we are winning."

The larger task necessary to get agreement is to do everything possible to enlarge the area of the possible. "This requires changes in men and that is the business of religion," the former medical missionary said.

IN THE face of insecurity, division and despair, he urged all Americans to go back and examine their faith, rediscover their mission and rededicate themselves.

"The only thing incorrigibly optimistic is that man is becoming discouraged with himself," Rep. Judd said. "Now God can take over."

He noted that the greatest unadulterated benefit of the Korean war was that it gave us time to look at the effects of Communism.

He cited that of the prisoners of war, the only people under Communist rule who have had a free choice, 73 per cent refused to go home. "They understand what Communism means."

HE WARNED that other nations are troubled by uncertainty and confusion as to the clarity and constancy of American policy.

"We must not go with our minds open on the issue of human freedom and slavery. You don't make a deal with the devil on the devil's terms," he stated.

Hill Will Sponsor Debate Sessions

8 Schools Represented At Maxwell Tourney

Maxwell has been selected as the site for the Syracuse invitational debate tournament that will be held this March 13th, debate coach Edward McEvoy announced today. Eight teams will participate in the first debate tournament sponsored by Syracuse since prewar days.

Over the weekend, Syracuse university's debate team was busy with debates against Rochester and Cornell.

Howard Osofsky and Marilyn Mawson, president and vice-president of the Syracuse debate team, successfully defended the affirmative side of the question, "Should the United States adopt a policy of Free Trade" against a Rochester negative team.

The other Rochester team defeated Kev Wilson and Doug Ingalls of Syracuse. Ingalls and Wilson took the negative side of the national debate question.

In the final debate of the evening, Alex Strasser, secretary of the Hill debate organization, and Camilla McCarthy, were held to a draw by the Cornell negative team.

The final results of last weekend's debate activity showed Syracuse with one win, a tie and a loss to its record. This gives the Hill debaters a 3-1-1 over-all record so far this term, as Max Baritz, Ingalls and Mawson and Osofsky scored debate wins earlier in the term.

Panels to Discuss Reserved Seating

An open hearing on reserved seating at 7 p.m. Thursday in 204 HL will be held by the combined student government panel working on the problem.

Those who set up the reserved seating for last fall's football games will assist the drawing up of improvements for next season's games. All interested students are invited to be present.

DIFFICULTIES IN holding seats, shortage of ushers, crowding at the gates, and problems in obtaining tickets are principle factors in discussion.

Subchairmen heading the reserved seating work are Marilyn Hirsch for the women's student government welfare panel and Curt Ford for the men's student government panel on conduct and welfare.

Chairman of the WSG panel is Patricia Mosher; Roger J. Herz is chairman of the MSG panel.

Chest Collections Due by Tomorrow

With only two more days remaining in this year's Campus Chest drive, returns from various living centers are beginning to come in to the Campus Chest office.

Over 40 living centers have submitted their results in the drive but most of the organizations included are independent groups. Only one fraternity and five sororities have turned in their donations.

ALL GROUPS should either give their contributions to their division captain or turn them in to the Campus Chest office in the Women's building as soon as possible. The office is open from 12 noon to 5 p.m. daily.

Trophies will be awarded to the living centers in four divisions which donate the most to the drive. These divisions are fraternity, sorority, independent men and independent women. A mantle clock will also be given to the group donating the most per rata to the drive.

The goal of this year's drive is $7,500 according to co-chairmen JoAnn Swalm and Stuart Parker. Last year's collections amounted to $5,800. Competition in the drive is provided with Colgate as the school collecting the most money receives the Orange Key-Maroon Key trophy.

Early promotional schemes added over $1,500 to the drive with this fall's Carnival collecting over $800. The campus wheel auction which keynoted the opening of the drive added $530 to the campaign while Feather Day added $270. The King and Queen contest supplemented the drive by $150.

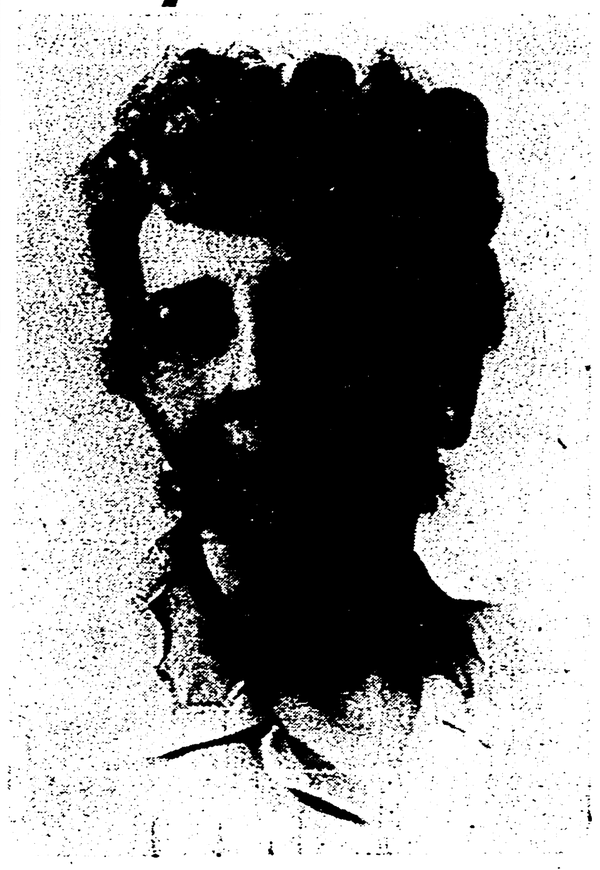
Interviews Slated For Hill Students

The personnel director of Richmond Virginia, J. Fred Ogburn, will interview male students for an administrative intern program Monday March 8.

Beginning July 1, 1954, the program will be sponsored by the city of Richmond.

Appointments for interviews can be made with Mrs. Stenger in 212 Maxwell.

Story Teller Will Lecture



SPEAKING AT the Main library March 11 will be Mrs. FRANCES CLARKE SAYERS, internationally known children's writer, teacher and professional story teller. She will talk at an open afternoon meeting and evening banquet.

Mrs. Frances Clarke Sayers, known internationally as a children's writer, teacher and professional story-teller, will speak on March 11 in Room 313 of the University Library. Her topic will be "Techniques of Selection of Children's Stories and Methods of Story Telling." She will also tell some short stories. All campus students are welcome to attend.

She will speak again at Shaw dining hall the same evening at 8:30 p.m. The subject of the evening lecture will be "Young Feet on the Road": an introduction to children's books and reading. Admission to this talk is free and it will be open to the public.

MRS. SAYERS will speak under the auspices of F. E. Compton and Company. Arrangements for the occasion are being made by a committee comprising Miss Florence R. Van Hoesen, chairman, Syracuse University School of Library Science, and Miss Ruth M. Phillips, Assistant Director, Syracuse Public Library.

Mrs. Sayer studied at the University of Texas and received her traning in children's librairanship at the Carnegie Library School of Pittsburgh. Among her other accomplishments, Mrs. Sayer has written fice children's books and has contributed many articles to magazines and professional journals.

For Compton's Picture Encyclopedia, she wrote articles on "Mythology and Reading" and sketches of favorite children's authors, including Hans Christian Anderson and Joel Chandler Har-

(See LIBRARY, page 4)

Applications Due For Pi Sigma Alpha

Applications are now available for admission to membership of Pi Sigma Alpha, national political science honorary, in 218 Maxwell.

Requirements for associate membership are: political science major, B average. To gain full membership in the junior year applicants must have six hours of advance political science, a B average in those courses and an overall B average.

Seniors and graduates who want full membership in the honorary must have at least 12 hours in political science and a minimum cumulative average of 1.8.

Retail Program Interviews Slated

Women interested in work at a big-city store may talk to James Coe of Bloomingdale brothers Friday in the dean of women's office.

Positions in the retail training program of Bloomingdale's are open to those women who qualify for the work. All coeds who wish to see Mr. Coe should make appointments before Friday with vocational counselor Miss Dorothy Osborn.

Eligible for acceptance in the training program are graduates in Liberal and Fine Arts, speech, and drama, home economics and business administration.

SWALM TO SPEAK

Ralph O. Swalm, associate professor of industrial engineering, will speak at the meeting of the Erie Section of the American society for Quality Control tomorrow in Erie, Pa.

Angels Flight Slates Rusher for Tonight

Angel's Flight, newly organized auxiliary to Air Force ROTC, will hold its first rusher from 7 to 9 p.m. today in the Alumni lounge of Maxwell.

Purpose of the organization is to promote better understanding between the military services and sweethearts of servicemen.

Semester plans include hostess duty at the military ball, trick drilling and participation in the regular ROTC classes. Further information can be obtained from Ann Middleton, 801 Walnut ave., 76-2207.

Syracuse-in-Asia To Fete Chaplain

Syracuse-in-Asia will be host to Rev. and Mrs. Arnold Nakajima at 4:15 p.m. today in the Chapel Colonial room.

With description and narration by her husband, the Presbyterian chaplain on campus, Mrs. Nakajima will demonstrate the art of Japanese floral arrangement followed by the ritual of the Japanese tea ceremony.

The tea ceremony is traditional in the Japanese home and indicates the highest degree of hospitality.

WAA Announces Coming Blazer Sale

The Women's Athletic association has announced that blazers bearing the University emblem, will go on sale the week of March 8.

These jackets are fitted to each individual's exact measurements and are made up separately according to them. They are designed and manufactured by the nationally known Sylvia Putziger.

Times for individual fitting are from 1-2 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 4-5 p.m. Monday through Thursday. Fittings will take place in the Women's Athletic association board room on the 3rd floor near Gym B. A $5 deposit is required for each jacket. The balance will be payable when the blazer is received.

Variations in style include navy tweed with white trim, navy flannel with white trim, charcoal grey with white trim, white tweed with navy trim and white doeskin flannel with navy trim. Skirts may be ordered to match the blazers.

Riflery Will Gain Varsity Rating

Riflery will be added to the list of varsity sports today when an organizational meeting will be held at 5 p.m. in the basement of the Men's gym.

Col. Ernest L. Meggs, executive officer of the ROTC staff and his assistants will direct the sport. Varsity riflemen will be eligible to earn letters, and outstanding freshmen will be awarded numerals.

All male students are eligible to join, providing they meet the requirements for other varsity sports.

Plans for possible meets with Cornell and Niagara and formation of a coed squad will be discussed. Interested coeds should attend the meeting today.

PHYSICS COLLOQUIUM

Prof. W. D. Walker of the University of Rochester will discuss recent experimental results obtained from the cosmotron, a new high energy particle accerator at a physics colloquium at 4 p.m. Thursday in 106 Steele.

CaptainVon Fossen Selects Wing Staff

Capt. Smith L. VonFossen, commandant of cadets of Air Force ROTC, has announced the cadet wing staff for the spring semester. Appointment of Cadet Lt. Col. Robert W. Leberman as wing commander was previously announced.

The staff is the same, except for the wing commander, as last semester's. It includes Cadet Lt. Col. John H. Duddy, deputy wing commander; Cadet Maj. Theodore T. Kukowski, wing adjutant; Cadet Maj. Frederick T. Hopemeier, wing plans and operations officer; Cadet Maj. R. M. Hollander, wing provost marshal; Cadet Maj. John Gordon, wing personnel officer; Cadet Maj. Charles Eager, wing material officer.

JAZZ SESSION

Jimmy Cavallo and his jazz combo will play at a dixieland session from 2 to 5 p.m. Saturday of freshman weekend, March 12-14 in the Trophy room, Men's gym. Admission is 35 cents and refreshments will be sold, according to Harriet Epstein and James DePiero, jazz concert co-chairmen.

SYRACUSE DAILY ORANGE

THREE R'S OF A COLLEGE NEWSPAPER: RESPONSIVENESS, RESPONSIBILITY AND RESOURCEFULNESS

Page 2 Tuesday, March 2, 1954

Editor-in-chief ——— Arlene Lambert
Business Manager ——— Robert Goldstein

SENIOR EDITORIAL STAFF

Managing Editor ——— Arthur Siegel
Editorial Director ——— Hugh O. Muir
Executive Editor ——— Janet Coro
Sports Editor ——— Kenneth Leal

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Edward Meyer, Joan Nadelhaft, Phyllis Sacks, Howard Vanklirk, Mary Vivian

Issue Editor ——— Joan Nadelhaft

BUSINESS STAFF

Asst. Business Manager ——— Sheldon Lassen
Layout Manager ——— Judith Berman
Classified Manager ——— Jean Jacobs
Circulation Manager ——— Anita Freyberg
Promotion Manager ——— Lloyd Eisenberg

DAILY STAFF

News Editor ——— Ria Brownstein
Night Editor ——— Ed Hersey
Asst. Night Editor ——— Maria Heux
Editorial Page Asst. ——— Howie Van Kirk
Night Sports Editor ——— Bob Lefko

Published by the students of Syracuse University.

Telephones: News, 75-5195, 75-5197; Editor, 76-1443; Business: 4-7206. Subscription by mail $5 per year, $3.50 per semester. Entered as second class mail matter at the Syracuse Post Office. Exclusive national advertising representatives National Advertising Inc., New York City.

The Cut Question

Last week we noted that Notre Dame had adopted a new cut policy. Undergraduates on the Dean's List (88 per cent or above) were given permission to cut classes without limit or penalty.

Today we received news of another school providing new cut rules, this time for seniors on the Dean's List. This listing contains the names of student achieving a scholastic average of 85 per cent or above.

Honor seniors at the University College of Arts and Science at New York university are now free to skip classes without any penalty.

The seniors will still be required to take examinations and fulfil such obligations as class speeches and papers. But otherwise they will be allowed to attend classes, both laboratories and lectures, at their own discretion.

When the move was made, University officials felt that the scholastically superior student would not squander the time taken from the formal class.

This policy presents two challenges: first, to the student who must accept greater moral responsibility and second, to the teacher who must make his material and presentation indispensable.

Previous to this ruling, the students were allowed three unexcused absences for a regular course . . . which reminds us of why we mentioned this move at NYU. Syracuse is also operating under an informal three-cut policy for three credit courses.

However, last year a bill was submitted to the University Senate which would permit students on the Dean's List for two consecutive semesters to abide only by the 25 per cent ruling. This would mean a student could not be absent from more than 25 per cent of the class sessions.

We dislike sounding repetitious, but has any one in the Senate considered this bill?

Editor-in-Chief

Spring Fever

The figurative hat will soon be in the even more figurative ring.

It's campus politics time again. And soon, now, the smoke-filled rooms will begin to take on a new filling of filtered haze, secret caucuses will be held and all sorts of political deals will make the horn-rimmed halls of Maxwell and the booths of the Dutch Haven resound with whispers.

We think the big trouble is that campus politics gives too many politicians what may soon become petic ulcers.

They take politics too seriously.

More than a score of friendships have been irrevocably severed because one campus politico failed to see eye to eye with another.

Let's face the fact that political parties in a college situation do not inherently stand for some platform as do the national parties. It boils down to the fact that campus political parties are for the most part activities of individuals and conducted on the basis of personalities.

We don't, however, believe that the individuals are necessarily elected on the basis of popularity alone. Through meeting the student voters, probably the candidates are voted for on the basis of the impression of integrity and capability they make.

Secondly, the real value of campus politics is that it acquaints us with some of the workings of real political parties and real government organizations. It is a great experience in human relations.

That is its value.

This spring let's campaign hard. But let's not throw ourselves off the tops of our desks.

Or else we'll have to get the warm milk and pink pills ready.

Managing Editor

AN EVENING IN

'MUSIC BOOK' MISSES THE MARK

By DICK CASE
Editorial Page Writer

There is a definite art connected with the production of radio and television for limited audience acceptance and those who are merely experimenting in such endeavors just as often as not must wrestle to escape boredom.

The campus television center went after such a limited audience last Saturday afternoon (5:30 p.m., channel 3) with a quarter-hour called "Music Room." The show seemed to want to teach us something about music, instruments in particular, and this is a downright difficult thing to do; especially on television. Their first attempt was unsuccessful.

In a dispatch which preceeded the inaugural of their bi-monthly segment, it was noted that "Music Room" aimed at "an audience including school children, teachers, and musicians." This being the case, the definite purpose of the series would be to instruct and perhaps refresh a very small slice of the viewing public. Anyone else, I fear, was driven away.

"Music Room" features a young lady named Dee Dowing who asks questions of a young man named Joao Carioba, the purpose of this to bring forth an explanation of some instrument, in this case, the flute. The talk here was supplemented by flute passages by an artist from the School of Music, John Obserbrunner. Ben Hoke produced and directed.

In the first place, there was an unnecessary quantity in the show. Pardon, but the questioner could have easily been eliminated and thus clear up, I think, a sorry lag which existed between question and answer. One person could plainly handle the commentary and another the demonstration, or possibly one or both. As it was, the show dragged badly.

I don't think you can teach people anything when it becomes so apparent that's what you're trying to do. What is needed in shows such as this, perhaps, is a bright, new approach, say a single strong personality who can stir up a good chuckle while demonstrating his music. I can recall an old music teacher who would fit this situation perfectly. "Music Room" seemed overly serious to hold any attention.

In future weeks, the folks responsible for "Music Room" might try something less formal, more entertaing, to relieve the burden of instruction. The aim of this program is wonderfully admirable but falls quite flat.

• • •

Completing a 30-minute Saturday stop in the University TV center is an offering called "University Reporter" (5:45 p.m., channel 3, bi-monthly). This, a most interesting program.

It seems as if someone slapped this show when it began as, it went something like this, "a televised publicity blurb for Syracuse University." That is may be. But in a city such as this where the University commands enormous prestige and occupies a great place in the community, a "University Reporter" is very necessary.

If only to keep Syracuse population informed about the doings on campus, the show can hardly be criticized for the function of information. It is sorely needed.

"University Reporter" is moderated by Mr. Ed Jones, radio instructor and faculty manager of WAER. Mr. Jones evidently knows his way around in the business of reporting and he accomplishes this task well. The show consists of campus news, a feature film and guest interviews in addition to a calendar of events presentation. Last week's telecast concerned itself with a film report of the University food service and a talk with architectural professor N. A. Rotunno.

The food service film was very commanding for any student who might have been viewing and most certainly for those not connected with the family. The only factor which kept the segment from complete success was the narrator who appeared to be more concerned with a voice than the dialogue.

Prof. Rotunno's talk was not connected directly with campus; he spoke on home landscaping. This looked somewhat inconsistent with the rest of the show but it nevertheless remained of interest.

"University Reporter," produced by Mr. Jones and directed by Norman Ross, would appear to be an intelligent, highly slanted presentation of Syracuse university which should go a long way in spreading the good will around the town. The possibilities are almost frightening.

SYRACUSE INTERNATIONAL

Zig-zagging on Thru College

By ANDRA KADILIS

A dear and always awaited friend in all the offices at Syracuse university is Jorge Sanguinetti. The secretaries and deans greet him with the happiest smiles, as he enters through one door, only to "throw" him out the other!

The case is following: George arrived here from Uruguay to study mechanical engineering. All went well up to the point, when it was discovered, that the school system in Uruguay is not similar to the school system here, and at the end George was told that he has not graduated from high school. "But I have," shouted George, pulling out his diploma. "No, you haven't," came the answer.

So now the bewildered boy finds himself in the College of Liberal Arts studying English literature. "But I'm here to study engineering," sounds the voice of despair. "No, you're not," is the answer of Fate.

If George ever finishes his studies of engineering, he will study forestry especially the making of paper, to be able to continue his father's business in Montevideo.

George came to the United States only four months ago, but already speaks perfect English. Here he recalls a little incident that happened to him in New York.

"I went into a store to buy some envelopes. I asked for five packs. Then wanting to ask "how much" I said "how many?" Much to my surprise the man started to count the envelopes. I stood there for a half hour with a long line of people behind me until finally the envelopes were counted and the price established."

George thinks that Uruguay in many ways resembles any European country, except for the government, which is one of the most democratic in the world. And the "national" dance of course is the tango.

Our South American friend thinks that he has a right to call himself American as well as we, but who has ever heard around here of an American from South America?

We have.

CINEMA CLOSEUPS

Matter of Just Getting the Plot

By CHARLES SAMUELS
Daily Orange Movie Critic

When Richard Todd went scurrying across the glen, butchering redcoats, in "Rob Roy" one wondered just how much difference it would have made, had his kilts been changed for jeans or a suit of armor. In short, "Rob Roy" proved to be an unimaginative depiction of physical violence whose attention to setting was superficial. Whereas Laurence Olivier's feats of derring-do in "The Beggar's Opera" were pictured against a colorful background as faithful to the spririt of the times as to its physical appearance.

The epic, focusing itself on the exploits of a superhuman hero, is an old and thoroughly creditable art form.

"The Beggar's Opera" was a successful chronicle of muscularity. The reason for its success and "Rob Roy's" failure may be found in a consideration of that elusive quality called "style." In both the presentation of the Lancaster hero and Olivier's McHeath there is a tongue in cheek, cheery unconcern with "enterprises of great pith and moment" which allows us to enjoy their exploits. Because we are not asked to take seriously that which is absurd we can relax and enjoy ourselves.

All heroic tales need not be prepostrous. Epics never are and Hollywood has never produced one. But when they are of a more serious nature, they must be more carefully constructed. Odysseus, for example is just as flashy a hero as Bob Roy, but Homer never forgets that he is a man engaged in an elevated struggle. Rob Roy's struggle for his people becomes ridiculous because his people are made to resemble barbarians and his struggle, in terms of historical significence, is glossed over. The folk hero, Rob Roy, in the Disney version, is simply an acrobat performing, not in a circus, but in an epic. He is out of place. This tendency to present one-dimensional characters in broader, more important settings causes most Hollywood epics to fall flat on their muscular backsides.

Either we are to believe in the hero, and his actions must have meaning within the context of a larger situation; or we are to view him without seriousness, in which case he must be presented that way. In either case it would be well for the producer to know which approach he is taking. For if he asks us to take a cardboard hero seriously, when we do, we will find that cardboard, under stress has a disquietning habit of falling apart.

Your Honeymoon
MUST BE PERFECT
The privacy of a secluded cottage all your own, deep in wooded hills. The friendly companionship of other newly married college folk. Jolly, satisfying meals at an oldtime guest house. Easy-going leisure (breakfast until 11:00) or vigorous outdoor life. We'll send our helpful THREE HONEYMOON PLANS to those who mention dates.
THE FARM ON THE HILL
Swiftwater 94, Pa.

Choose from our $20,000 stock of
TROPHIES, MEDALS
PLAQUES & FAVORS
● Elgin Watches ● Parker Pens
● Prince Gardner Billfolds
JEWELER—ENGRAVER
WE DO THE FINEST ENGRAVING
Immediate Delivery
THE TROPHY SHOP
Across from Edwards
128 W. Washington St. 2-4283

FROM BAD TO HERZ

BAD NEWS FOR LOCAL BOOKWORMS

By ROG

University library officials announced yesterday that the library will move April 1 to the University of Iowa campus. The library building is not involved in the transfer.

A better offer by the mid-western state university was given as reason for the shift.

The administration was reported yesterday to be negotiating with the New York city public library and the Library of Congress for a long-term contract. It is not yet known whether the library would be moved onto campus or whether books and other reference material would circulate by airmail.

Reaction on campus was immediate. A cablegram was received from the Chancellor stating that he would protest by refusing to return three books he has out. He did not state the book titles.

Public relations were fouled up by the sudden announcement, and arrangements were being made late yesterday to buy blank books as a last resort. Classes in graphic arts and hand lettering are expected to fill the gap if other negotiations fall through.

Several students felt there was clear and present danger in the removal of the library, which has been with the University since is founding in 1870. Books were known to some extent before that date.

Primary reason behind this feeling was the loss of a meeting place. "We fell this will set Syracuse back several hundred years socially," a student spokesman said.

The fact that the University had refused to mark certain books within the library as "for adults only" was seen as having little significance, as was the order limiting circulation on Tuesdays to titles beginning with "F" and having less than 167 pages.

Vineyards by Vine

"Beta Omega, '42!"

A Dubious Pastime

Buffalo State offers the following as a recipe for a teacher:

"Select a young and pleasing personality, trim off all mannerisms of voice, dress or deportment. Pour over it a mixture of equal parts of the wisdom of Solomon, the courage of Daniel, the strength of Samson and the patience of Job. Stew until done in a hot, stuffy classroom, garnish with an inadequate salary and serve hot to an unappreciative community."

Consult us for eye care information
CARPENTER and HUGHES
Guild Opticians
State Tower Bldg.
Syracuse
74-4691
Special consideration given to students

SCANNING CAMPUSES:

Ears Ringing: Java Argument

By POLLY REED

'Way out at the University of Oregon they've got a new 25-bell set of electric chimes. They cost $3,500. Bet when they're played the students listening won't have to wait interminable seconds for each note.

• • •

However, at another Western university, which shall be nameless, a student wrote a letter to the editor pleading that the chimes be silenced. Said he was going crazy listening "for whom the bells toll."

• • •

"Little coffee action?" Again the University of Oregon writers got prolific and one of them turned out a bit on the ugly rumor that coffee was going up to 15 cents. Now, since time immemorial, (well, since Hollywood has produced pictures about newsmen and women, anyway) every newshound and newsmen has been theoretically shackled to his cup of coffee. That's why we can sympathize with the writer, though a few remarks in parenthesis might not be out of order.

"We're not so sure we could hold things together if that boost in coffee prices ever gets out of the rumor stage." (Oh, come now, haven't you heard that students are the backbone of the country?)

"It's over a cup of coffee that you seminar for a final." (Some would give this as a reason for failing.)

"Can tea or milk or chocolate ever take the place of a 'cupa cawfee, please'?" (I don't know they do some pretty interesting things with milk at Christmas time.)

"Oregon students are not rich. (If it makes you feel better, you're not alone) They are not millionaire playboys." (Guess I won't transfer there after all.)

"They do not have lobbies in Congress of an 'in' with Brazil. They only want to live in peace and drink their coffee at a reasonable cost. And they cannot afford 15-cent coffee.", (Hear, hear.)

BACK TO THE SALT MINES

Th' Cobalt Bomb & Foreign Policy

By ROGER J. HERZ
Editorial Page Writer

Otto R. Frisch, British scientist who helped build the first American atomic bomb, noted recently that he believes a "cobalt bomb" could wipe out all civilization. The resulting radiation would be so deadly that it would destroy "friend, and foe alike," he said.

In our opinion, this affects the man in the street.

But the man in the street, perhaps he's the "common man," too often believes that international relations are a subject beyond his domain.

Thus we see power held in the hands of few, even in a democracy, with decisions made by the few.

The fault doesn't lie with the few; it lies with the many. If those in government don't receive guidance from those they represent, trust is placed entirely on a candidate's rationality assumed in direct or indirect voting.

Not all the premises in the governmental syllogism can be made public. In our present international environment there is frequent need for secrecy.

There is, however, such a great quantity of material available to the individual citizen that he can and should take an active part in the formulation of policy.

This is to our thinking one of the responsibilities of the citizen in a democracy. The great necessity is combatting the paradox—of keeping the free active in keeping their freedom.

The inevitable how: read newspapers, magazines, state department publications, books; gather ideas and concepts and trade them with your neighbors; evaluate and speak your mind. Let your Congressman know how you feel—he's probably literate. Speak your mind, and have a mind to speak—before the Cobalt pfffttt!!!

LETTERARY COMMENT

RED, WHITE AND BLUE BROCHURES

26 Feb. 54

To the Editor of the Daily Orange:

Re your Feb. 26th editorial where you stated that the Univ. of Virginia had turned thumbs down on the formation of a local "Students for America" chapter. Since your article would mean little to a person not familiar with the SFA and even less to one with a knowledge of it, I wonder if you're not "fishing" . . .

So if a number of these "junior spy ring" members start tossing queries on your orange-crate desk, don't start looking for someone to blame. And most of all, don't blame the SFA members.

The "Students for America" is as appealing for its potential members as the Communist youth associations are for theirs. Over a year ago Walter Winchell gave it his own staccatoed radio sanction, and letters to the SFA Hollywood headquarters fattened Uncle Sammy's then-Democratic purse with postal revenue.

Back came red, white, and blue colored brochures, the contents of which would set to boiling any red-blooded Fearless Fosdicks fan's sanguineous matter. Take one quote, f'rin'stance: Twenty-eight percent of all top collaborators with Communist-fronts have been professors; 3,000 professors from 600 schools have been affiliated over 26,000 times. This is not guilt by association but guilt by collaboration!" I came close to dropping a course because it was taught from a crimson-covered textbook.

Also sent to the inqurier was a document-like list of the "50 or more subversive organizations specifically created for students and the educational field," together with the list of condemning governmental agencies. It stirred in the reader a sense of the responsible, the intriguing, the adventurous. Just think of it, the lad who five years before sent in Crunchie-Wunchie box-tops for his Junior G-Man badge is confronted with the chance to join (for 50c) a real, honest-to-Philbrick spy-ring against those nasty ol' Communists! Not only that, but he gets a star-studded membership card to prove he's a member of something, for those who like to be members of something or other.

On one side of the SFA pamphlet are such pedantic phrases as "socialistic expansion" and "immorality in government"; on the other side, a blue-inked slogan: Socialism and Communism are for the Birds." This is supposed to show a down-to-earthiness—I think.

And just to prove this is an "organized Student resistance to the Communist Front organizations," there is a box you can check if you wish. "I am not a student, but I would like to help save America. Enclosed is my contribution . . ."

So, as I said, don't be too hard on these well-meaning kids (yes, high schoolers can join for only 25c). This is probably the closest they'll get to becoming cloak-and-dagger men outside of being vicariously carred away on Thursday night's "Foreign Intrigue." And you don't need much to join, no 1.0 average, no social requirements; just be a milk-drinking, farm-raised (preferably), all-American boy with a flair for the dramatic and a fervent desire to turn in to the FBI the prof who flunked you last semester—he must be a Red.

Jim Curran

Engineering representatives of
PRATT & WHITNEY AIRCRAFT
will be on the campus
March 5
to interview
AERONAUTICAL METALLURGICAL
ELECTRICAL MECHANICAL
PHYSICS
ENGINEERING GRADUATES
Please See Your
COLLEGE PLACEMENT OFFICER
for an appointment on
March 5, 1954

Along the Sidelines

By KEN LENT, DAILY ORANGE SPORTS EDITOR

How does a college boxer get his start? Is it the glorified story that the old-timers tell about the fighter who battles his way from the streets to the smoke-filled arena? What does a pugilist think about while in the ring?

Every boxer has a different story. Take Johnny Granger's fistic history. John has two older brothers both of whom were Army regiment boxing champs. But it was a series of summer bouts which really started him on his way.

The city recreation manager got the idea, one day about nine years ago, that it might provide the good citizens of Massena, N. Y., a little fun if they could see boxing matches in an outdoor ring of the city park between some of the youngsters of the area.

There was no admission charged and although the fighting was not of the best all the time, the kids and the townspeople seemed to get a kick out of it. Gradually, more and more people attended until, by the end of the summer, quite a bit of interest had been built up.

John was barely in his teens when he started in the Massena Recreational program and as the program grew, he grew with it.

Johnny Granger

Just as now, John took care of a paper route. It was this carefully saved money from his sales of papers which bought him his first boxing equipment. With his older brothers, Ron and Clement, teaching him, John began to learn about the boxing game.

He made a punching bag out of paper stuffed in a gunny sack. He talked boxing with his pals Gus Fiacco, a better-than-average battler who fought in Orange livery two years ago, and Bob Ashley, who went to semi-finals in the New York Golden Gloves.

Gradually, the Messina boxing club grew in stature. The boys took trips to nearby Malone, Ogdensburg and other towns putting on bouts for the people. In Malone, mainly from funds gained from the amateur fights, a new recreation center was built.

Granger, Fiacco and Ashley, known as the "Three Musketeers" all had a prominent part in Massena's rise. The upshot was that both Granger and Fiacco received offers to go to Syracuse.

No Orange athletic fan worthy of his salt can forget Granger's record since he has been on the Hill. The Massena Mauler's star is still rising.

Last year, he battled his way right up to the semi-finals of the NCAA championships before being decisioned by Calvin Cleary from Louisiana State who was the eventual winner in the 139-pound division.

This year, he has won all five of his bouts. Saturday's match against Wisconsin's Charlie Magestro was typical. Granger came out fast in the first round, carried the fight to him and floored him twice to take the opening stanza 10-5.

From then on, the Orange battler constantly had Magestro on the ropes. He took the last two rounds 10-8 to take a 2 match to 1 lead on the Badger who had beaten him in a dual meet test last year.

What does he think about when fighting? "Well," says John, "I go into a fight with my attack set in my mind. If the other fellow starts his strategy before me, I may have to erase mine completely.

"For instance, Saturday I changed my tactics against Magestro. In the previous two fights, I had carried the attack to him, so in the second round I switched and started backing away. That's when he started swinging wild."

Does he ever hear the crowd yelling? About the only ones I ever hear is Tom and Spud, you know from the Varsity and Mel Gerertz, former Syracuse wrestler. I get a kick out of Mel. I heard him yell, 30 seconds! the other night.

"I had to figure out whether or not he was kidding to make me fight more. He wasn't though."

Every boxer has a different story about how he got into the cauliflower sport. John Granger's, however, is good enough for old-timers to tell.

Hill Wrestling Team Preps For Final Meet of Season

After absorbing a 20-8 defeat at the hands of Army's Cadets, Saturday Coach Joe McDaniel's varsity wrestlers turned up the heat a day early yesterday in preparation for Friday night's final dual meet of the season at Cornell.

The Orange grapplers, most of whom are wrestling 10 pounds below their normal weight class, began sweating off poundage earlier in the week in an effort to lessen the lose-weight task which generally confronts them from Wednesday practice to weigh-in time Saturday.

LAST WEEKEND the Piety matmen, seeking their third win of the season, locked shoulders with the aggressive West Point groaners and found that Co-Capt. Ed Rooney and Garland Harris were the only two to come up with victories.

Rooney, wrestling with a bandaged left hand, pounded out an 11-4 decision over highly regarded Dale Ward in the 157-pound class. Both men had undefeated records going into the match, but Roon outfought the Cadet to pile up the verdict.

The 147-pound Harris surprised everyone, including his opponent, Dick Randall, by successfully applying a reverse body press in 1:39 of the first period to gain five big points.

The senior from Oklahoma has had an unimpressive record this season, but he didn't let that affect him in this one. Harris' victory was his second of the season, the other having come via a pin in the Temple meet.

BOTH SOPHOMORE Tom King and junior George Finck, who, with Rooney, will be returning lettermen next year, had to chalk up a loss to experience. King opposed the very fast, very clever Pete Fikaris in the 137-pound class and had to settle for a 9-3 loss.

Finck met Army's grid star, Gerry Lodge, in the heavyweight class and the powerfully built Cadet worked his way to a 4-1 win.

Piety grapplers Hank Gobetz, Murray Winer and Ed Weisz also lost decisions, while 123-pound John Husband lost by a fall.

After the dual meet at Cornell, the McDanielmen will take part in the Eastern tournament, also to be held at Ithaca. This highly competitive tourney will wind up the mat season for Syracuse, unless the Orange can come through with a good showing.

Outstanding 47 to 49 day personally escorted Eight Country Tourist and Cabin Class Tours. ALL EXPENSES, only $1295 up—Finest All First Class LUXURY TOURS, 47 to 70 days $1875 up. Frequent sailings Mar. thru Sept. in QUEEN ELIZABETH or MARY. Small parties. Don't delay! Write now for free booklets, or phone

DUFFY TRAVEL SERVICE
Hotel Onondaga

Complete Optical Service
Optometric Eye Examinations
Glasses in Latest Styles
Broken Lenses and Frames Replaced Promptly
Lindemer
for glasses
Optometrists Opticians
440 SOUTH WARREN ST
Phone 74-4244

Frosh Hoopsters Edge Cornell, 67-61

Cohen's 21 Points Paces Tangerines To Thirteenth Win

Coach Andy Mogish' rampaging frosh basketeers clung tenaciously to a slim lead for three quarters last night and went on to edge the Cornell yearlings, 67-61, at Ithaca.

The Tangerine hardwood boys, led by Vinnie Cohen's 21 points, overcame a two-point first quarter deficit and then matched the Little Red shot for shot to grab a 30-28 half-time edge.

The Mogishmen stepped it up to 47-41 at the third quarter, but needed Cohen's shooting, and the board work of Gary Clark and Jim Snyder to stave off a final period Cornell rally.

Last Saturday, the frosh won their key traditional contest against the Colgate yearlings, 86-71 at Archbold gymnasium. The Tangerines' victory avenged their only loss this season, a reversal suffered at the hands of the same Red Raiders last month at Hamilton.

A fine first half performance was the big factor in the Orange win. The two teams battled on almost even terms throughout the second half, but the lead built up by the Pietymen before intermission was never threatened.

Coach Andy Mogish opened with a starting five made up of Vin Cohen, Gary Clark, Jim Snyder, Lou Stark and Jim Brown. This quintet, utilizing a dazzling fast break, quickly built up an 8-1 advantage.

COLGATE RALLIED slightly in the first period but Syracuse, with Cohen and Snyder hitting consistently from the field, pulled away to a 37-24 margin at half-time.

The frosh gradually extended their lead in the early going of the second half, moving out to an 18-point advantage late in the third period. At this point, the Maroon staged another rally, cutting the gap to nine points in the opening minute of the fourth quarter.

But with Brown collecting three consecutive baskets, Syracuse was able to pull away once again, and the victory was assured.

Vin Cohen again led the Piety scoring, getting 22 points. Brown turned in an exceptional performance and collected 20 points. The other three Tangerine starters were also in double figures, Snyder scoring 17 points, Clark, 13; and Stark 10.

FOR THE RAIDERS, Jim Davis was the outstanding performer both in floor play and in the scoring column. Davis had 20 points, while Burke tallied 13 and Martin 14.

The final contest on the frosh schedule is an away game on Saturday night against the rugged LeMoyne college cubs. The Hillmen invade the downtown Jefferson st. armory for the season finale.

GYM JUMBLE

Navy's gymnastic team surprisingly tied Army last Saturday to throw the Eastern gymnastic league into a wild scramble for second place. Syracuse, Temple, or Army could gain the runnerup to Penn State spot, depending on this week's Syracuse-Army and Temple-Navy meets.

Hardwood Hustler

JACK LARNED helped the Hill courtmen to finish their 1953-54 basketball campaign in winning from Saturday night as he scored 14 points in the 106-89 victory over Colgate. The junior guard has one more year of eligibility.

Saltines Rip Colgate In Basketball Finale

Syracuse's 1954 hoop season ended on a successful tone Saturday night with the addition of many new records highlighting the 106-89 verdict over Colgate. The winning total set a new Archbold gym record and tied the school record set against Oswego State in 1945.

Another highlight of the triumphant finale was Capt. Mel Besdin's successful attempt to become the seventh courtman in Hill history to connect for 300 or more markers in a season.

THE 6 FT.-2 senior climaxed his career in high style hooping 25 points to finish the season with 322 counters. When Coach Marc Guley replaced him in the waning moments of the clash, the fans responded in high fashion as the local hoopster left the floor for the last time.

A new University record was racked up by the Orangemen in the second stanza when they connected for an amazing 41 points. The single quarter total also bested the Archbold record of 38 which had been recorded by the Fordham Rams earlier in the campaign.

What made the record even more amazing was that the Red Raiders had looked far superior in the opening quarter piling up a 28-15 lead. They lead 14-13 in the middle of the period and then erupted for 16 markers while holding the Pietymen to a single field goal.

Two other Archbold gym records fell by the boards in the battle while two more marks were tied. The total points recorded by the two quintets, 191, surpassed the old mark of 173 set in last season's Syracuse-Quantico Marine clash. The 39 Orange field goals also racked up another gym record set earlier in the year by the same squad against Sampson.

THEIR 56 points first half total ied another marker for the Saltines. Fordham scored a like number in January. The other record tied was for total field goals in one game, 66. Fordham and Syracuse had combined for a similar total in their early season clash.

In addition to the many new records, Saturday's victory ended the season over the .500 mark for the locals with 11 wins as against 9 losses.

Other seniors seeing their final action in addition to Besdin were Billy Nelson, who scored the 100th point on a rebound, Lou Beverly who hooped eight points and Dick Jaskot.

Orange Relay Team Handily Wins IC4A Two-Mile Event

Syracuse's flashy two-mile relay team reached the ultimate Saturday night as they sprinted away from the rest of the field to win handily in the IC4A championships at Madison Square Garden.

With leadoff man Jack Hubbard getting off to a fast start, the Orange quartet copped the gold medals for the event in a swift 7:42.7. Running against the best in the college world, Les Vielbig, Don Shupe and anchorman Steve Armstrong clinched the victory.

IT WAS THE third win of the year for Syracuse who has two more meets left. They travel to Hamilton, Ontario this coming weekend and then go to Madison Square Garden for the final time in two weeks.

Also running in the eyecees were distance man Ray Osterhaut, plus Frank Calzi and Jim George. Osterhaut did the best of the trio finishing sixth in the two-mile.

Despite the swift time, Syracuse did not equal its 7:41.6 which was run in the New York Athletic Club meet several weeks ago. That mark, if done Saturday night, would have equalled the IC4A two-mile relay record set by Georgetown in 1952.

Winner of the meet was Yale who garnered 19 points. Both Yale and Fordham, who have given the Orange the most trouble this year, broke up their first-string relay combinations so that they might enter men in individual events.

Women Basketeers Play in Tourney

With Libby Harner recording 12 points and Syracuse captain Barbara Bucko scoring 6, the Hill team routed Cortland, 25-9. In the low scoring game of the afternoon, Syracuse took Keuka, 10-2. Wells trounced Syracuse, 19-5, to take firs place in the tournament.

Teams participating in the tournament, and their records, include: Wells, 2-0; Syracuse, 2-1; Cortland, 1-1; Keuka, 1-1 and LeMoyne, 0-2.

A Syracuse women's basketball team took second place in intercollegiate sportsday competition Saturday at Wells College as they defeated Cortland and Keuka and dropped a game to Wells.

Cornell Mermen To Host Orange

Syracuse university's mermen will seek to rebound after a hard fought loss to Colgate last Saturday 50-34, when they take on the powerful Cornell team at Ithaca this Saturday.

Ed Lesko was the only individual Hillman able to cop a victory against Colgate and his win came in the 220-yd. breaststroke. Teammate Bob Curran was second and Ed Horstmeyer of the Raiders third.

THE BIGGEST surprise of the afternoon came when Howie Moskoff of Colgate defeated Bob Downing in the 200-yd. backstroke. Downing had been undefeated in competition this year. In posting the win, the slender Bronxite clipped a tenth of a second off the Orange pool record.

Colgate Capt. Bill Branch was the big point scorer of the meet. He won the 440-yd. event and took seconds in both the 220-yd. free style and the 440-yd. freestyle. The 11 points that he garnered proved decisive in the final outcome.

The Colgate Cubs also captured their meet against the Orange frosh, 39-36. Three freshmen pool records were broken as Syracuse's Jon Buzzard set the pace in the 50 and 100-yd. breaststroke. Colgate's Ev Smethurst smashed the 220-yd. record in a win over Graham Vanderveer of the Orange.

ED LESKO garnered the only individual Syracuse first place Saturday as the Orange mermen went down to a 50-34 defeat at the hands of Colgate.

Cornell figures to give the Websstermen a rough time when the teams collide at Barton Hall pool. The Big Red earlier in the season posted a decisive win over Colgate. Cornell, Dartmouth and Yale are the class of a strong Ivy league.

SPLASH PARTY

There will be a splash party sponsored by the swimming team this Friday night in the Orange pool, swim captain Bob Curran announced yesterday. The party starts at 7:30 and here will be a 50 cents admission charge.

M-1, M-8 Garner Wins in Intra Play

Former Whip Irving In Crucial Tilt

By ART STERNBERG

A surprisingly strong Skytop M1 five upended their flight leaders Irving Ave. DI-3 32-24 tonight at Archbold gym and thus ended their regular season in a first place tie. The ever-hustling Skytoppers took the lead at the beginning of the second half and didn't trail thereafter.

Although the final results implied an easy victory, the score was close until the last few minutes of play. Art Kachadourian and Paul Ripp of the Irving ave. prefabs paced their team during the first half to a 15-14 lead. Ripp's classy jump shots and able ballhandling enabled his mates to keep the score tight until the M1 crew caught fire.

When the second half got underway, the seemingly sluggish M1 crew speeded up their pace. A fast pass, to Connie Remnick, who promptly converted for a bucket with a classy jump shot, helped spark his teammates on their spurt.

A few more quick passes, fancy shooting, and some fallen players later gave M1 he margin that they needed for victory. Remnick and Ronnie Howard of M1 led the winners to victory, thanks to their good ballhandling and ability to control the rebounds.

When Irving ave. D1-3 meets M1 again this Wednesday night at 8:00 p.m., it will be the third time that they have met this season. Earlier this season, both teams deadlocked at 28 apiece. However, the D1-3 upperclassmen protested that time was called too soon ending the game and the protest was upheld, the contest

The only other contest was a carelessly played free-for-all between Skytop M7 and M8, resulting with a 28-26 victory for the latter five.

ORANGE KEY SPONSORS LYSISTRATA
Tomorrow And Thursday
Tickets: $1:00 and $1.50 from Orange Key
Members or Call Boar's Head Box Office 4-2776

"YOUR CLASS RING"

The Ever Popular New Design
Syracuse Ring Is Here For YOU
• also •
We Have The Ring With Your College
And Degree If You Care For It
BEFORE YOU BUY, COME TO US!
The Corner Store
Since 1908

IT'S ALL A MATTER OF TASTE

For cleaner, fresher, smoother smokes
From any pack you try,
Buy Lucky Strikes, so fully packed,
They're tops you can't deny.

Tom Ganiats
University of California

When you come right down to it, you smoke for one simple reason . . . enjoyment. And smoking enjoyment is all a matter of taste. Yes, taste is what counts in a cigarette. And Luckies taste better.

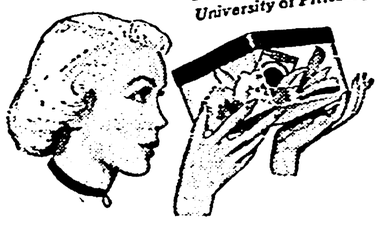
Two facts explain why Luckies taste better. First, L.S./M.F.T.—Lucky Strike means fine tobacco . . . light, mild, good-tasting tobacco. Second, Luckies are actually made better to taste better . . . always round, firm, fully packed to draw freely and smoke evenly.

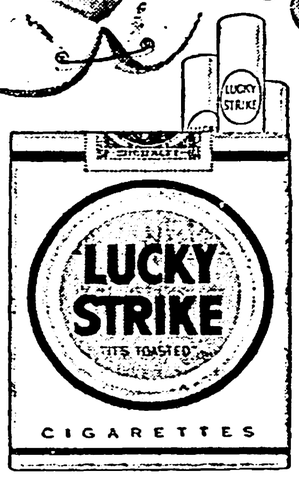
So, for the enjoyment you get from better taste, and only from better taste, Be Happy—Go Lucky. Get a pack or a carton of better-tasting Luckies today.

Where's your jingle?
It's easier than you think to make $25 by writing a Lucky Strike jingle like those you see in this ad. Yes, we need jingles—and we pay $25 for every one we use! So send as many as you like to: Happy-Go-Lucky, P. O. Box 67, New York 46, N. Y.

If you have argued with your gal,
There's one sure way to soothe her.
Just offer her a Lucky Strike—
They're cleaner, fresher, smoother.

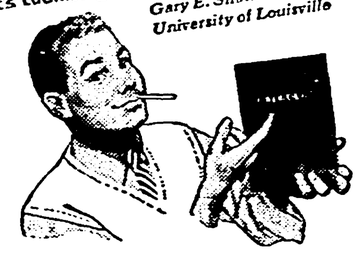
Rita M. Jabo
University of Pittsburgh





My prof sure put me on the spot
With "What's the sine of three?"
But ask me what's the sign of taste—
It's Luckies you'll agree.

Gary E. Smith
University of Louisville



COPR., THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY

LUCKIES TASTE BETTER CLEANER, FRESHER, SMOOTHER!

Student Activities Committee to Meet To Map Program

Group Coordinates Plans For Women's Building Dance Series

The student activities committee will hold a meeting at 4:45 p.m. today in 305 Women's building for any students interested on working on the committee, according to Miss Margaret Parker, social director of the University.

The committee is in charge of coordinating activities in the Women's building. To date, the Friday night dances and the weekly dance classes, formerly sponsored by the now defunct Student Union, have been resumed by SAC.

Plans also are being made to set up tables for cards, chess, and other games in the Women's building. Women's student government also passed a resolution recentely to request space in the basement of the building for an activities center.

The WSG plan consists of a large lounge and dance hall surrounded by several smaller rooms. Entrance to the "center" would be by a door located on Euclid ave.

The proposed plans includes a kitchen and snack bar to the left of the entrance, in addition to a director's office, three meeting rooms with removable partitions to expand into one room, a television and card room, a listening room, ping pong space, and study lounge or club meeting space.

The plan will be presented to men's student government tonight for discussion and preliminary approval.

Convo Will Cover Application Letters

"Writing Effective Letters of Application" will be the subject of a placement convocation to be held at 7 p.m. Wednesday in 109 Slocum.

The meeting should be of special interest to all male senior liberal arts students, all senior business administration students and all non-technical senior or graduate students.

Miss Dorothea Chandler, assistant professor of business English will be the featured speaker.

FM WAER 92.1 PROGRAM SCHEDULE

TUESDAY

2:58—Sign On
3:00—WAER News
3:05—Symphonic aMtinee
4:00—Musical Heritage
5:00—This I Believe
5:05—Distaff Digest
5:15—Dinner Date
6:15—WAER News
6:25—Evening Showcase
6:35—WAER Sports Lineup
6:45—Steps to Peace
7:00—Keyboard Concert
7:30—Poet and His Song
7:45—Torchbearers
8:00—Evening With Music
9:00—WAER News
9:05—Voices in the Night
9:30—Night at the Pops
10:00—Rinal Edition—News
10:10—Final Edition—Sports
10:20—Sign Off

CLASSIFIED

IMPORTANT NOTICE—CLASSIFIED ADS to appear in this paper should be DELIVERED at the HELLBOX Classified desk between 1 and 3 p. m. NO ADS WILL BE ACCEPTED AFTER 3. ALL ADS MUST BE IN 2 DAYS IN ADVANCE. For further information call 4-7206.

ALL LOST ARTICLES should be turned into the CENTRAL LOST AND FOUND ROOM, 20 Bldg. 24 at 205 University Pl. Articles can be claimed there.

TYPEWRITERS RENTED: $3.00 per month, $8 3 months. Good selection. We deliver, Smith Brothers. 4-8833.

YOUNG MEN OR WOMEN, full or part time, pleasant working conditions in any one of our 7 Hour stores. Apply 731 W. Genesee.

EXPERT Typing done in my home. 4-4220. Mrs. E. Garelick.

Typewriters rentals—New Models Reasonable Rates—Expert Service, All Makes—CORNER STORE.

WANTED: Actors, Composer, Choreographer, Technicians, Scene designer to work on private production of original, experimental drama. If interested call 4-9849, 8-10 any evening. Ask for Samuels.

MIMEOGRAPHING, SAME DAY SERVICE, EXCELLENT WORK FREEMAN LETTER CO., ECKEL THEATER BLDG. 2-4829.

FOR SALE: Hi Quality combination record player, amplifier and FM tuner in one cabinet. High output (30 watts) suitable for dances, etc. 76-1698 or 72-1100.

EXPERIENCED stenographer will do typing at home. 9-4138.

Distinguished Cadets

CITED FOR academic excellence, these eight MSIII cadets will be presented gold wreaths to signify their achievement. Their averages over the past year have placed them in the upper 10 percent of their class.

CAMPUS NOTICES

Chapel Public Relations, 4:15 p. m., Chapel lounge.

Daily chapel, noon to 12:20 p.m., Miss Marilyn Pfleuger, counselor to Lutheran students, will speak on "The Importance of a Time Out."

Christian Science organization, 7:30 p.m., Colonial room, Chapel.

Senior ball chairman, 3:15 p.m., today, Alpha Xi Delta. Anyone who cannot attend at this time should contact John Beach at Phi Gamma Delta or Barbara Suchy at Delta Gamma.

Student activities committee, 4:45 p.m., 305 Women's building. Any students interested in joining this committee are invited to attend the meeting.

MSG Assembly meeting, 7:30 p. m., 204 HL.

Outing club, open council meeting, 7:30 p.m. fourth floor Lyman.

Campus Guide meeting, 7:15 p.m., 207 HL. Bring your fire captain.

Syrafin, 7:30 p.m., pool of Women's building.

Syrafins, group leaders, 6:30 p.m., pool office of Women's building.

Angel Flight, rushees, 7-9 p.m., Alumni lounge, Women's building.

USP, 9 p.m., Sigma Kappa. All reps must attend.

All those interested in serving on the refreshment committee for freshman weekend, 4:15 p.m. Delta Phi Epsilon, 752 Comstock ave. If unable to attend please contact Paula Thaler or Joe Easton.

WSG ways and means panel, 7 p.m., 101 HL.

WSG upperclass social chairmen's assembly, 7:15 p.m., City Women's lounge, Women's building.

Those interested in dates for frosh weekend please contact date bureau chairmen Ellie Bieg 4-9222 or Jim Tipke 4-9576 or your living center social chairman by Thursday.

Freshman weekend publicity committee meeting, 7 p.m., room 104 HL. Fine artists bring at least one poster brush.

Pi Alpha Tau, 7:30 p.m., Phi Psi attendance required.

Syracuse-in-Asia Offers Fellowships

Graduates Eligible For Teaching Grants

Applications are now being accepted for the new representative of Syracuse-in-Asia.

This teaching fellowship is available to graduate students or graduating seniors in any field. The fellowship includes a two-year term teaching English in Chungalonghorn university in Bangkok, Thailand, plus an additional year on the Syracuse campus in a graduate capacity working with the Syracuse-in-Asia program.

Letters of application must include personal data, a short autobiography, reasons for desiring the fellowship plus three references. Personal interviews will be arranged at a later date.

Applications must be received in the Syracuse-in-Asia office, Sims hall, not later than March 9.

The fellowship is non-sectarian and is sponsored by Syracuse-in-Asia through proceeds provided by Campus Cest. For further details, contact Miss Ruth Hoople, 75-5571, ext. 209.

WAER to Carry Talk by Johnson

Dr. A. E. Johnson will feature profiles of famous people he has met on "The Poet and His Song" at 7:30 p.m. over WAER today.

Dr. Johnson of the English department is the featured personality on the weekly program. He will sketch prose profiles of George Bernard Shaw, Walter De la Mare and the Duke of Windsor.

"The Poet and His Song" is produced by Phyllis Perkins.

Library . . .

(Continued from page 1)

ris. For the past twelve years, Mrs. Sayer has been Superintendent of Work with Children in the New York Public Library.

Those who have heard her vibrant voice in ringing speeches from parent-teacher meeting to UNESCO agree that "not only does she know whereof she speaks, but she has the rare ability to speak effectively of what she knows."

Mayor Interviewed

WAER REPORTER WALLACE BRADLEY (left) interviews MAYOR DONALD MEAD of Syracuse for the FM station's new Sunday night program series, "Inside City Hall." The provocative show is one of the several new feature programs on the campus sation.
DO Photo by Don Lloyd

Miss Lines Slates Final TTK Exam

Through the Keyhole coeds will take final examinations in the women's student government training program from 3-6 p.m. today in Maxwell auditorium and from 7-9 p.m., in 313 Maxwell.

Chairman Ann Lines has also announced that the TTK party will be held from 3-5 p.m. Saturday in the City Women's lounge of the Women's building.

INTERVIEWS FOR WSG positions are scheduled from 2-6 p.m. Sunday at the home of Dean Marjorie C. Smith, 817 Comstock ave. The interview schedule will be published Thursday in The Daily Orange.

Miss Lines said letters will be mailed to all TTKers who receive positions. Candidates for junior officers will be notified at a WSG convocation that they have been nominated.

A number of posts are open to those who complete the training program. Positions include junior officers, junior guides, transfer, city and foreign studen: guides and Civil Service.

Coeds will be selected to serve in Student Discount service, reserved seating, elections commission, communications commission, secretariat and infirmary service, all part of the WSG civil service setup.

In order to serve as a student court justice or to be a member of National Students association a coed must have successfully completed the TTK program. Recommendations are made to the chief justice and to NSA chairmen for appointments to those organizations following the interviews.

Post Office . . .

(Continued from page 1)

that packages accepted for mailing by the post office cannot weigh more than 40 pounds to be delivered within a 150-mile radius. Outside of this zone, 20 pounds is the maximum weight allowed. Sealing of parcels automatically make them first class mail and subject to higher mailing charges.

A 72-inch measurement limit is also set by the post office. This means that parcels larger than 72 inches, when measured lengthwise and once around, are not generally accepted.

Since a number of students mail packages containing books, the post office men said it is to student benefit to label the parcels. When marked "books," packages are assessed at a rate of eight cents for the first pound and four cents for each additional pound. The usual rate for non-labeled parcels is 23 cents for the first pound and 19 cents for each additional pound. This rate does not include air mail packages.

Dance Chairmen Interviews Today

Interviews for senior ball committee chairmenships will be held at 3:15 p.m. today at Alpha Xi Delta, according to John Beach, senior class president.

Applicants who are unable to attend the interviews at this time are requested to contact Beach at Phi Gamma Delta or Barbara Suchy at Delta Gamma.

Anyone else interested also may attend the interviews at this time. Positions open include: over-all chairmen, and refreshments, entertainment, publicity, tickets, program and arrangements and chaperone committee chairmanships.

Footprints Next Week

Now MIDTOWN Open 6:30 P.M.
Ealing Hill Mob
ALEC GUINNESS
2nd Midtown Hit
J. ARTHUR RANK presents
BASIL RADFORD and JOAN GREENWOOD
TIGHT LITTLE ISLAND
A UNIVERSAL-INTERNATIONAL RELEASE

PARAMOUNT
JAMES STEWART
JUNE ALLYSON
"The GLENN MILLER STORY"
Technicolor
Those Musical "Greats" on Grand Stage!
FRANCES LANGFORD • LOUIS ARMSTRONG • GENE KRUPA
BEN POLLACK • THE MODERNAIRES
A Universal-International Picture
Also "BLACK FURY" in color

REGENT
SUN.-TUES.
Bob Hope Arlene Dahl
Tony Martin
Rosemary Clooney
"HERE COME THE GIRLS"
Color by Technicolor
also
"APPOINTMENT IN HONDURAS"
Glenn Ford Ann Sheridan
Color by Technicolor

Schine's ECKEL NOW PLAYING
CAROL REED'S Supreme Adventure in Suspense!
The MAN BETWEEN
JAMES MASON
CLAIRE BLOOM • HILDEGARDE NEFF
A Lopert Films Release
Distributed Through United Artists

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

By HERBERT ETTENSON

ACROSS
1 Wall cover
8 Place
13 Flounder
19 Thrash
20 Fine thread
21 Gulch
22 Covered garden
23 Author of "Golden Boy"
24 Infinity: Hindu Myth
25 Off bottom, as an anchor
26 Warehouse
28 Respond
30 Small bird
31 "On one's ——"
32 Snow White's friend
33 Anathema
34 School subject: slang
35 Mother-of-pearl
36 Skirt vents
37 Camp "alarm clock"
38 Comprehends
42 Hillside facing a glacier
43 Vocation
44 Hires
45 Special day
46 Sight in Arizona
47 Still picture plates
48 Scow
49 Fellowship
53 Strength of a chemical solution
54 Bristles
55 Otic
56 Drone or worker
57 "The Terrible" Czar
58 Shyster
60 Wife of Zeus
61 Ex-G. I.
62 Laminated
63 Countrified
64 Calluses
65 Atrocity
67 Bishop's headdress
68 Lasso
69 Farm tools
70 Tidal flood
71 Injunction
72 Rivulets
75 Ruffled strip on cuff
76 Made secure
77 Send along
78 Flat hat
79 Slogan
80 Rara ——
81 Parents
82 Dwellers behind Iron Curtain
83 Lean-to
87 Irritate
88 Machetes
89 S. A. animal
90 Contour
91 Awakened
93 Stiffness
95 Similar
97 Philippic
98 Makes voyage
99 Larch
100 Part of a sonnet
101 Follow
102 Beetles

DOWN
1 Snapshot
2 Metric measure
3 Insect
4 Spill
5 It follows sigma
6 Perfumes
7 Public speakers
8 Declivity
9 Surge
10 Compass point
11 One who helps others
12 Merits
13 Charm
14 Rave
15 Eggs
16 Wine of a certain year
17 Qualify
18 Cowhide
19 Eh?
27 Soul: Fr.
29 Fool
32 Stares
33 Near
34 Diego Rivera product
35 River in Africa
36 Ingenue's undoing
37 Fundamental 38 Uneasy
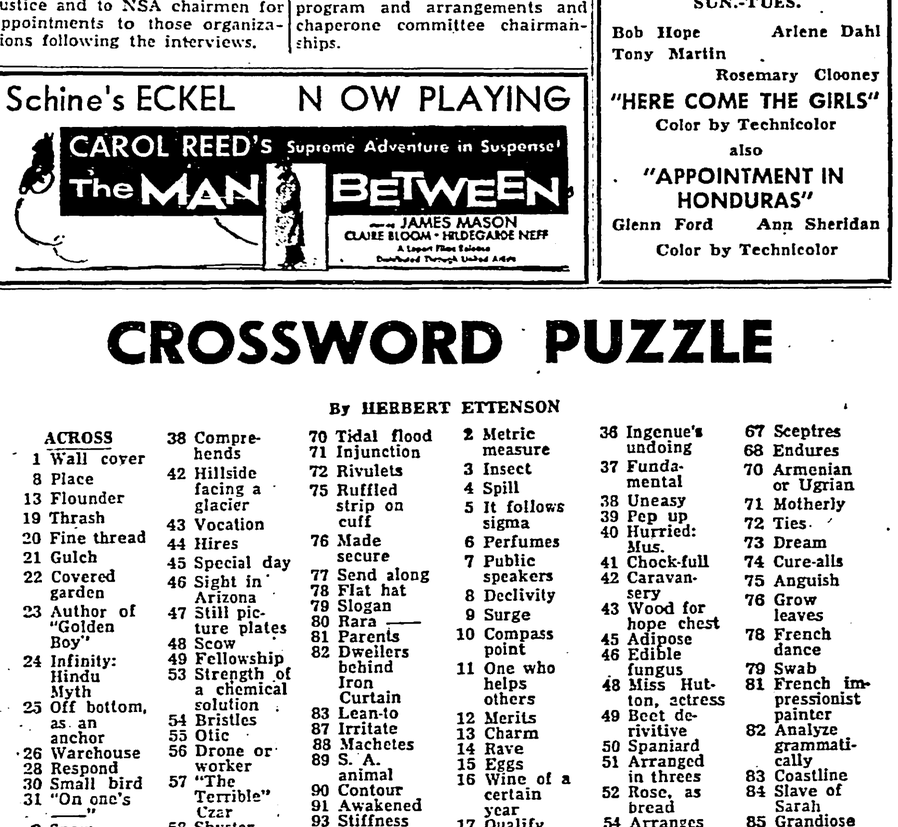
39 Pep up
40 Hurried: Mus.
41 Chock-full
42 Caravansery
43 Wood for hope chest
45 Adipose
46 Edible fungus
48 Miss Hutton, actress
49 Beet derivitive
50 Spaniard
51 Arranged in threes
52 Rose, as bread
54 Arranges at a table
55 Conform
58 Works hard
59 Outlandish
60 Throng
62 Reeking
64 Division of a poem
66 Relatives of the emu
67 Sceptres
68 Endures
70 Armenian or Ugrian
71 Motherly
72 Ties
73 Dream
74 Cure-alls
75 Anguish
76 Grow leaves
78 French dance
79 Swab
81 French impressionist painter
82 Analyze grammatically
83 Coastline
84 Slave of Sarah
85 Grandiose poems
86 Adorn
88 "Venerable" English monk
89 Balsam
90 Wood strip
92 Posed
94 Soldiers
96 Doctors' group



America's Knights of the Sky...

The Spartan Band that held the pass,
The Knights of Arthur's train
The Light Brigade that charged the guns,
Across the battle plain
Can claim no greater glory than
The dedicated few
Who wear the Wings of Silver
. . . on a field of Air Force Blue.

EMBLEM OF THE CHOSEN FEW

For Fellowship...High Adventure...and a proud mission... wear the wings of the U. S. Air Force!

● In days gone by, young men in shining armor ruled the age. Today, a new kind of man rules the age—America's Knights of the Sky, the Aviation Cadets! They rule from on high, in flashing silver-winged Air Force jets . . . a gallant band that all America looks up to! Like the Knights of old, they are few in number, but they represent their Nation's greatest strength.

If you are single, between the ages of 19 and 26½, you can join this select flying team and serve with the finest. You will be given the best jet training in the world and graduate as an Air Force Lieutenant, earning $5,000 a year. Your silver wings will mark you as one of the chosen few, who ride the skies in Air Force jets.

As an Aviation Cadet, your kingdom is space—a jet is your charger and your mission is the highest. You are a key defender of the American faith, with a guaranteed future both in military and commercial aviation.

Join America's Knights of the Sky, new men of a new age. Be an Aviation Cadet!

WHERE TO GET MORE DETAILS:
Contact your nearest Aviation Cadet Selection Team, Air Force R.O.T.C. Unit or Air Force Recruiting Officer. Or write to: Aviation Cadet, Hq., U. S. Air Force, Washington 25, D. C.

UNITED STATES AIR FORCE

On the Inside
"Thru the Muck . . ." Ed Meyer debates Marshall st. pseudo-athletes. See Page 3.

Syracuse Daily Orange

Weather Report
FAIR, SHOWERS
High temperature ----46
Low temperature ----18

Vol. 51, No. 81 | Syracuse, N. Y., Wednesday, March 3, 1954 | 4 Pages—5 Cents

Mirror, Mirror on the Wall

ALL THAT REMAINS of the megatherium cuevirl is a proud bonehead and other pertinent bones, on display in the Lyman hall fourth floor museum. Killed off by changing conditions in the Pliocene period, the species can be found only in skeleon form now. Don't worry about feeding him; he won't bite your finger. This boy is a vegetarian! Daily Orange Photo by John Johnsrud

Student Panelists to Participate In National 'College Quiz Bowl'

By DICK CASE

Four student panelists from Syracuse university will participate in "College Quiz Bowl," a weekly nation-wide broadcast of the National Broadcasting Company, to be heard over station WSYR, 6 p.m., March 28.

The invitation to take part in the show was extended to Chancellor William P. Tolley early in February and the broadcast date was confirmed last week by NBC. Plans for selection of the panel were delayed pending final confirmation. The program pits two college teams in a test of knowledge.

INTRODUCED IN October, 1953 "College Quiz Bowl" places emphasis on "brains, not brawn." Each week, two teams, consisting of four students each, broadcast from affiliated NBC stations nearest their respective campuses, with moderator Allen Ludden asking the questions from New York.

"Toss-up" questions are asked by Ludden, and an electronic signaling device indicates which team is ready to answer first. The use of the split-second timer thereby eliminates any doubts as to who answered first. A point system is set up and the team with the largest point total wins, and returns to the air the following week to oppose the representative of another school.

The winning team receives a $500 award, to be administered by the college and used for whatever purpose the college deems appropriate. Each member of the losing team receives a wrist watch.

The quiz covers a wide range of subjects, with matter pertaining to highly specialized pursuits avoided. Ancient and modern European and American history, American and English literature, classical music, mythology, the Bible, children's literature and philosophy are the subjects most frequently touched, along with contemporary matters such as popular music, sports, theater, movies and news of the week.

WHILE THE broadcast will not be heard nation-wide until March 28, the actual program will be taped at 8:30 p.m. on Thursday, March 25. The place for the airing has not been designated but it will be open to students.

"One of our chief aims in presenting these young people," Ludden explained, "is to give the listener an opportunity to meet a few of the many remarkable, well-rounded personalities that are on every American campus."

"This intercollegiate quiz is designed to test the ability of young scholars to recall specific facts. We recognize full well, and say as much on the air, that in putting emphasis on quick recall of facts, we are pointing up only one of the objectives of college education," he stated.

CADY DIRECTS PANEL CHOICE FOR BROADCAST

Selection of Syracuse panelists for the March 28 broadcast of "College Quiz Bowl" is directed by Dr. Edwin H. Cady, professor of English. Student participation is being handled by Edwin D. Smith, assistant to the dean of the College of Liberal Arts.

At the suggestion of NBC, the four contestants, and two or more alternates, will be majors in the humanities division. They are being selected from groups of outstanding students specifically recommended by humanities professors.

The first meeting of students suggested by the professors will be held today in the Radio House. Further plans for selection of the final panelists and alternates have not been formulated.

Knowledge in the fields of ancient and modern European and American history, American and English literature, classical music, mythology, the Bible, children's literature and philosophy have been emphasized by the network. Questions on contemporary matters will also be asked.

Moderator Allen Ludden has asked that the team be chosen quickly, so that students will have an opportunity to prepare.

Edward C. Jones, assistant professor of radio and television, is radio advisor of the group and will handle technical arrangements with NBC through station WSYR.

New Political Party Submits Constitution to MSG Body

By ED HARDY
Daily Orange Junior Editor

A new political party—the Independence party—last submitted its constitution to the men's student government assembly.

The legislature also:

1. RECEIVED A resolution that would allow political parties to support candidates for the assembly;

2. Passed an amendment to the assembly elections act to provide for the filling of vacancies in the assembly by class legislatures;

3. Approved an amendment to the class elections act to move the date of freshman class elections to between Oct. 28 and Nov. 15, corresponding to fall MSG elections.

4. Formally received the specific plans for an activities center in the basement of the Women's building and;

5. OK'D A resolution outlining the demands and reasons for such an activities center.

6. Passed another resolution authorizing the administrative branch of student government to enforce the organizations licensing law.

The Independence party has at its helm a temporary executive council of Mary Cole, Francis Procopio, Philip Sperry and George Hiteman. Miss Cole is a frosh living in Richards cottage, while Procopio, frosh class president, and Sperry reside at Skytop. Hiteman is a sophomore independent.

In a statement issued last night, the group said: "The independent and city students are the largest single group on campus. Yet we have been continually neglected in campus politics.

"THIS SEMESTER we have discovered unethical practices on the part of certain political parties and have ourselves been subjected to undemocratic treatment. We are now organizing into a cohesive group and will strive to assume our rightful place in campus government in friendly cooperation with other groups."

Sperry said that there were about 30 persons behind the initial move to form the party.

The constitution does not limit membership in the organization.

Soph Richard Koelling introduced the resolution to allow legal political parties "to recruit, nominate, support and campaign" for assemblymen. He said that under such a system there would be more individual initiative as well as responsibility on the part of the assembly.

THE AMENDMENT to fill assembly seats provides that if class legislatures can not select qualified replacements from the appropriate classification (independent, city or Greek) within 30 days, any person from the class may fill the spot.

Women's student government assembly must approve the proposed change in dates for freshman elections.

Plans submitted for a projected Women's building activities center were the same as outlined to women lawmakers last week. In the diagrams shown to the assembly, the basement of the building has been partitioned to provide for snack bar, study, television and meeting rooms, as well as dance-

(See MSG, page 4)

Coeds Will Begin Singing Practice

50 Houses Entered In Traditional Contest

Step singing practice officially opens today with a maximum of 15 hours of practice alloted to each house before the March 23 eliminations. Practice will be allowed between the hours of 7-11 p.m. but not before or after these times.

At a meeting on Friday, song leaders from the participating houses were given the rules of the contest and hints on how to conduct their rehearsals. Fifty houses were represented at the meeting, 29 from the large house division and 21 from the small houses.

Chairman Ann Forrest stated that the houses will not be able to change their songs after practice starts. Judges for the contests will be different each day, but will include members of the school of music, music honorary, Sigma Alpha Iota and one person from the city.

Although the houses will not be allowed to use sheet music during the performances, they are advised to give the judges a copy of the arrangement they choose.

Drawing for the order in which the houses will sing was also held and will be announced at a later date.

Dance Class Series Begins This Evening

Lessons at No Charge Set by Miss Parker

The first in a series of weekly dance classes will be held from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. today in the Women's building, according to Miss Margaret Parker, social director of the University.

There is no charge for the classes. Lessons for both beginners and advanced dancers will be given. Among the steps to be taught are the fox trot, waltz, tango, rhumba, and lindy.

ORIGINALLY sponsored by the now defunct Student Union, the dance classes have been resumed upon the advice of the student activities committee of the Women's building.

The instructors for the classes will be F. Walter Medicis and Jane Russell. Medicis, a University purchasing agent, has been an instructor since the dances were begun in the Student Union when it was located in the old Boar's Head building on So. Crouse ave., the site of the present special education building. Medicis continued teaching when the Union was moved to University pl. and then to S. Crouse ave.

Miss Russell is a senior in the College of Fine Arts and has taught the classes for several years, both at the University pl. and the S. Crouse ave. sites of the Union. She also was in charge of a student instructors' staff for the classes.

Medicis and Miss Russell have stressed the beginners' classes at which the most fundamental steps will be taught. There also will be many opportunities for advanced students to take on new steps.

Students to Collect Faculty Donations

Faculty gift collections for the Campus Chest drive have been extended until today due to misplacement of explanatory letters to faculty members, according to chairmen Ann McKaig and William Shore.

Scheduled for last Monday, the drive was hindered when descriptive letters and envelopes for contributions were not received by many departments. They were redistributed Monday and collections will be made in the departmental offices all day today.

The chairmen have requested that all faculty members leave their contributions for drive in these offices for the solicitors.

Writer Changes Time of Lecture

A change in the time and place of the lecture by Mrs. Frances Clarke Sayers, known internationally as a children's writer, teacher, and professional story-teller has been announced.

She will speak at 2 p.m March 11 in Room 117 Lyman Hall. Her topic will be "Technique of Selection of Children's Stories and Methods of Story Telling."

JSF Will Hold Discussion Group

Jewish Student fellowship will hold its second informal discussion meeting at 7 p.m. today in 202 Maxwell.

"Reform, Conservative and Orthodox Judaism" will be the topic for the evening.

The meeting, chaired by Miriam Fiske, will start with a question period. Rabbi Irwin Hyman, chaplain to Jewish students on campus, will serve as the authority.

All students are welcome to attend and refreshments will be served.

Interviews Slated For Hill Engineers

Interviews during next week for engineering and scientific students have been announced by the College of Engineering placement office.

Of special interest are interviews for home economic students, to be held by Manufacturer's Light & Heat co. of Pittsburgh on March 12.

Students interested in any of the interviews should contact Mrs. Patricia LaBach, placement secretary, building 6.

The complete interview schedule:

Monday: Glenn L. Martin co., Arma corp., Cleveland Graphite Bronze and Brush Electronics.

Tuesday: Boeing Aircraft co., Goodyear Tire and Rubber co.

Wednesday: Boeing Aircraft co., U.S. Naval Ordinance, Union Electric co. of St. Louis.

March 11: Bethlehem Steel co., Aluminum Company of America, Factory Mutual Engineering Division.

March 12: North American Aviation, Douglas Aircraft corp., Union Carbide and Carbon corp., Manufacturer's Light and Heat co.

Committee Named For Orange Guide

Mrs. Dorothy J. Sickels, and Carlton L. Krathwohl, dean of men, registrants office, announced yesterday that a student committee will be in charge of the 1954 Orange Guide, frosh orientation handbook. Members of the new committee include Arthur Ehrenreich, Lois Clark, Ellen (Billie) Williams, Richard Morgan and Stephen Reiss.

This steering committee is seeking the help of students who want to work on ompiling the guide. Any student is eligible, but the committee is particularly intesested in freshmen because of their recent orientation experience.

Applications should include address, phone number, class, college, previous related experience, if any, and any ideas for the frosh guide. They should be left in the box marked for that purpose in 203 Administration building no later than Monday.

The committee, according to Reiss, hopes to become a virtually self-perpetuating organization, and to build a fund of personnel.

This year's Orange Guide will be combined with the Newcomer's Daze in a bigger book, Reiss said. It will be in pocket form for convenience.

A study of orientation books of other campuses is now being made, he added.

Art Trip Planned By Student Group

This summer Prof. Frederick Haucke of the College of Fine Arts will lead a student tour to Europe. The two month trip will be limited to a small group and will leave from New York city on June 30.

Plans for the trip include stays in Italy, France, Germany and perhaps Switzerland. The group will attend an art school in Italy for two weeks, and will view representative works of art in the other countries.

Throughout the tour, each student will have ample time for general sightseeing and recreation. The cost of the trip will be $1,019.

For further information, contact Prof. Hauke at the Lowe Art center.

PANELS TO MEET

The organizations panels of men's and women's student government will meet at 8:15 p.m. today in 303 Women's building to discuss National Students association. Lois Clark and Robert Garver will preside.

Mayor Contest Set Tonight in HL

Eliminations of the nominees for "Mr. Universally Yours, Mayor of Martian street," will be held at 7:30 p.m. today in room 104 HL. All candidates whose applications have already been returned must attend.

Any fraternities or living centers which did not receive application forms may enter a freshman candidate by having him attend the eliminations tonight.

Stolid Specimens Frighten Seers On Highest Floor of Lyman Hall

By PAUL B. SEXTON

(Editor's note: Lyman museum and other exhibits in Lyman hall offer a wonderful experience for the person interested in natural life. It also offers an interesting experience for the curious in heart, as the following report should illustrate verbally, and the photo accompanying, graphically.)

Lore of many centuries and many continents fills the halls of Lyman. Several of the exhibits, however, would make even Charles Addams take the pledge.

Standing stolidly on the second floor is a giant megatherium cuveiri—that is, his bones are standing stolidly. The rest of him has gone the way of all megatherium cuveiri—wherever that is.

FOR THE poli sci majors, the megatherium cuveiri actually is an extinct species of ground sloths a herbivorous creature that stalked the Pampes and hills of South America during the upper plioscene period—that is a million years ago, give or take a million, as we were told.

Asked what happened to the animal, we were told that times were changing and apparently the forces behind Mr. Darwin figured that there were more efficient animals to be found. Many million of years ago, the animal's natural habitat was as far north as Alaska.

But he wasn't too efficient. Long-clawed, an earlier species was even more of a towering monster. The one in Lyman hall, however, is only about the size of an elephant.

They were harmless animals, we were told, because they fed only on plants—flesh was not a part of their diet.

THE SPECIES survives today in the form of the two-toed sloth and three-toed sloth of South America. These are about the size of a cocker spaniel.

Curator George Chumann told us yesterday that each year the megatherium cuveiri is attired in a semblance of a Santa Claus outfit—for amusement rather than scientific purposes. Often he can be found with a stale cigar in his toothy mouth or a coke bottle dangling from his bony lips.

Other unusual specimans are on exhibit in Lyman, Chumann said. They include replicas of an extinct variety of land turtles and the ancestor of an armadillo.

Perhaps the most unusual exhibit is three shrunken human heads from South America. These are the real thing, we were told, and upon examination we were convinced.

NATIVE GROUPS in South America used these heads for religious rites. They were war trophies, similar to the scalps collected by the American Indians—but more complete.

The shrinking practice has (See SLOTH, page 4)

Ed Honorary Initiates Men

Kappa Phi Kappa, national men's education honoray initiated the following students at their banquet held last Wednesday at Drumlins: Donald Garguil, James Postle, Dennis Murphy Paul Kernaklian, Gene Cutting, Paul Schutt Joel Gerstle, John Barkal, William L. Clark, Kenneth Brown, Allan Hurwitz, George Hughes, John Gordon, John Kalenowski, Lawrence McCarthy and Paul D. Vang.

Also Robert E. Johnson, William E. White, H. R. Lucius, Theodore Kowalski, Raymond Miller, Michael Hayduk, Nesdall Baron, John Rugg, James Bacher, James Glynn, William Reid, Arthur Kinney and James Bobbett.

Kappa Phi Kappa is the only national honorary for men in education. The Nu chapter was founded at Syracuse in 1925. Election to membership by former members is based on active interest in education and schlarship.

Psych Honorary Seeks Applicants

Applications for Psi Chi, national psychology honorary, are now available in the psychology office, 123 College pl.

Students who have had 12 hours of psychology, including elementary psychology, and who are taking six more this semester, are eligible for membership, including graduate students.

Associate membership in the group is open to those students who have had six hours of elementary psychology, and who are taking six more this semester.

Application blanks are due March 10.

Panels to Discuss Reserved Seating

Reserved seaing will be discussed by the conduct and welfare panels of men's and women's student government at 7 p.m. tomorrow in 204 HL.

Difficulties in holding seats, shortage of ushers, crowding at gates and problems in obtaining tickets will be among the subjects taken up at the session.

Orange Key to Sell 'Lysistrata' Tickets

Tickets are still on sale from Orange Key members for performances of the Boar's Head comedy, "Lysistrata," tonight and tomorrow night in the drama building. Curtain time will be 8 p.m.

Key men have tickets available for $1.50 and $1. Ducats may also be obtained at the Boar's Head box office or by calling 4-2776.

Kevin Wilson of Phi Kappa Psi is in charge of the sales.

Barbara Hush stars in "Lysistrata," supported by a cast of more than 60. The play opened Feb. 18 and has attracted capacity crowds at its performances.

It reopens tonight and will run through Saturday night.

Orange Key members who may be contacted for tickets are Robert Lefko, Edward Hardy, James Fellows, Darwin Bolden, Harold Steinberg, Leonard Eisen, Howard Osofsky, Lowell Toenniessen, Malcolm Foster, Samuel Shawhan, Marven Wallen, Olivér Richards, Stuart Parker, Gilbert Katz and Wilson.

Campus Chest Drive Ends Today With Collections Still Under Goal

Syracuse's 1954 Campus Chest drive enters its final day today with collections to date falling far under the campaign's $7,500 goal. Co-chairmen JoAnn Swalm and Stuart Parker have announced that $772.62 has been collected from individual donations in the 10 day drive.

Supplementing this total is approximately $1,800 collected in special events as the Carnival auction, Feather Day and King and Queen contest.

Approximately 30 per cent of the campus living centers have submitted their collections with 125 groups still unheard from. In the independent women's division, 38 of 62 houses have submitted their results with donations totaling $407.62.

Nine of 25 sororities have turned in results with a collection of $207.86 while only three of the 34 fraternities have donated $86. In the independent men's division, four of 58 houses have contributed $13.14.

The faculty drive which has been extended throught today has netted $27 while the city division contributions have totaled $31 so far.

General early results show a downward trend from last year's drive with some living centers contributing as little as 5% of last year's total. The 1953 drive collected $5,800 falling under the same goal as this year.

Zeta Psi fraternity leads in total contributions with $78. A mantle clock will be given as an award to the living center which gives the most per person. Trophies will also be awarded in four divisions, fraternity, sorority, independent men and independent women, for the house donating the most to the drive.

Phi Sigma Sigma has given the most in the sorority division Smith has given the most of independent men's centers, $8.66. with $41.25 while Alfred E. Top independent women's house is French Cottage with $32.50 while Nottingham Cottage has given $31.

All contributions must be turned into the Campus Chest office by 5 p.m. today. The office, located in the Women's building, will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. All living centers vieing for the trophies must have their donations in by the deadline.

Many living centers have held special projects to help support the drive. Peck II held a cookie sale while Lund cottage sponsored a student-student dean basketball game. Phi Sigma Sigma and Kappa Kappa Gamma held auctions and Kappa Alpha Theta and Mott cottage joined together for a White Elephant sale and auction.

Mott also sold cigarettes in the cottage with profits going to the drive and Nottingham cottage sponsored a food sale. The Alpha Chi Omegas went without desert for two weeks with the food money being given to the campaign.

In addition to local competition for trophies, the drive is being held in competition with Colgate. The school collecting the most funds receives the Orange Key-Maroon Key trophy, presented by the junior men's honoraries of the two schools.

With the drive faltering in its final stages, the co-chairmen have urged that "everyone dip a little deeper to help the drive go over the top."

SYRACUSE DAILY ORANGE

THREE R'S OF A COLLEGE NEWSPAPER: RESPONSIVENESS, RESPONSIBILITY AND RESOURCEFULNESS

Page 2 Wednesday, March 3, 1954

Editor-in-chief ..... Arlene Lambert
Business Manager ..... Robert Goldstein

SENIOR EDITORIAL STAFF

Managing Editor ..... Arthur Siegel
Editorial Director ..... Hugh O. Muir
Executive Editor ..... Janet Coro
Sports Editor ..... Kenneth Lent

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Edward Meyer, Joan Nadelhaft, Phyllis Sachs, Howard Vonkirk, Mary Vivian

BUSINESS STAFF

Asst. Business Manager ..... Sheldon Lessen
Layout Manager ..... Judith Berman
Classified Manager ..... Joan Jacobs
Circulation Manager ..... Anita Freyberg
Promotion Manager ..... Lloyd Eisenberg

DAILY STAFF

News Editor ..... Pearl Bernstein
Night Editor ..... Eileen Chamberlain
Asst. Night Editor ..... Jack Reilly
Editorial Page Asst. ..... Joy Yunker
Night Sports Editor ..... Lowell Tennilessen

Published by the students of Syracuse University.

Telephones: News, 75-5155, 75-5197; Editor, 76-1445; Business: 4-7206. Subscription by mail $6 per year, $3.50 per semester. Entered as second class mail matter at the Syracuse Post Office. Exclusive national advertising representatives National Advertising Inc., New York City.

A worthwhile quiz

The radio quiz program has just about attained the airwave saturation of the soap opera . . . and has become nearly as trite.

The armchair intellectuals who listen to the queries for knowledge have learned an astounding number of completely irrelevant facts.

But something new is in the air, so to speak. The "College Quiz Bowl," an NBC stab at making the radio interrogations worthwhile, delves into the minds of university students.

And what makes all of this so relevant at the moment is that the mentality of ole' Syracuse goes on the block on March 28 over the "Quiz Bowl" broadcast.

What with a $500 award at stake, (although this may look pitifully small against a $3500 super duper grand prize question), we hope our bid makes a good showing.

We have a query ourselves, though. The stated purpose of this program, as put forth by the moderator, is "to give the listener an opportunity to meet a few of the many remarkable, well-rounded personalities that are on every American campus."

Our estimation of a "well-rounded personality" is someone who can put some action into a variety of ideas. All too frequently, the walking encyclopedias who snag the quiz loot are simply animated libraries.

We hope that the team picked to represent Syracuse will truely fit the well-rounded category. Win or lose, we hope our team can go beyond the theme of the broadcast: the ability to recall what we have learned from a four-year investment.

Editorial Director

Quick changes

In what resembled a "spring housecleaning," men's student government assembly last night took action on three measures of "internal improvement."

The first amendment provided an improved method by which vacancies in the assembly can be filled. The original classifications of "Greek-independent-city" can now be bypassed in 30 days should students from these groups be unavailable.

Although the intended Greek-independent ratio may be upset by such a move, this would indeed be a case of the "lesser of two evils." It was not the intention of the framers of the elections law to create an assembly which could not be filled because of classifications.

A full assembly, slightly "out of ratio," is much more to be desired than one half-empty because of classification rulings.

The second action taken last night was the introduction of a bill permitting assembly members to be backed by political parties. The proponents of the bill see this as another measure to stimulate interest in the group and ensure a complete assembly. Full debate on this issue is scheduled for next week.

The final improvement action was the changing of the dates between which freshmen class elections may be held in the fall. Since they must coincide with the later frosh MSG elections, the dates were pushed back. This was to guarantee an assembly in which all frosh would know whether they would be listed as independent or Greek.

Considering the amount of time which the MSG group spent last year on internal organization, it is encouraging to observe the efficient way in which changes are now being made, leaving the legislators free to carry out their other important duties.

Editor-in-Chief

SCANNING CAMPUSES:

Verry Cold Apathy; The Bell No Toll

By POLLY REED
Editorial Page Writer

Talk about student apathy! At the University of Alaska, a student wrote a letter to the editor of the Polar Star, the campus paper, stating that "at last night's jayvee basketball game there were approximately six students and three cheerleaders."

• • • •

Swinging over to Indiana, we see that at Valparaiso university two seniors brought the editor of the student newspaper a strange gift. It was a bell clapper, stolen at 1 a.m. on a Sunday morning.

With the clapper was a note that began:

"For four years (that's 720 days) this chunk of mineral has summoned us to classrooms. Our sleepy eyes have opened and our wobbly feet have stepped onto cold floors to the monotonous clang of this clapper. It created the early morning Frankenstein of the bathroom mirror. Tardiness have been recorded because this thing hit the bell before the student hit the classroom."

Adding that "this old chunk of iron is a pretty important hunk of iron," the seniors said they simply had to see it first-hand before they graduated. They gave it to the editor to put in his window for all to see, and they decorated it with aluminum paint and a ribbon "for posterity."

• • • •

Here's a new line on cowboys. The Miami university Hurricane gives a good definition of the "library cowboy."

"I'm the jerk who has to go outside for a smoke five minutes after I sit down. First I slam my book closed so that all the bad heart cases almost die of shock. Then I crumble up my papers.

"Finally I push my chair back so that it wakes up those who nearly died. I'm sure to push the chair far enough and hard enough to break a few ribs of the guy behind me."

• • • •

Students of psychology at San Diego state college (Calif.) were asked recently to write down what they considered their "most valuable asset." Two answered "Intelligence" and both misspelled it.

• • • •

A Harvard university professor, Dr. Reidar F. Sognnaes, predicts that by 3,000 A.D. sound human teeth will be non-existent. He says that despite research, human teeth are steadily deteriorating. Just think, no chlorophyll! Something else to worry about.

• • • •

A senior at the University of Omaha found he had a flat tire. Borrowing a friend's car to run an errand, he planned to return in half an hour to change the flat. Returning, he found the car jacked up and the wheel and tire missing.

Thinking it was a practical joke he put on his spare and began looking for the jokers. A little later two confused men returning to the car with the tire asked him if he happened to own a '51 Ford.

They said, "Well, we just fixed your tire for free. We were supposed to fix a flat for our fraternity brother and we thought your car was his."

The senior paid them for the new inner tube.

Familiar Face?

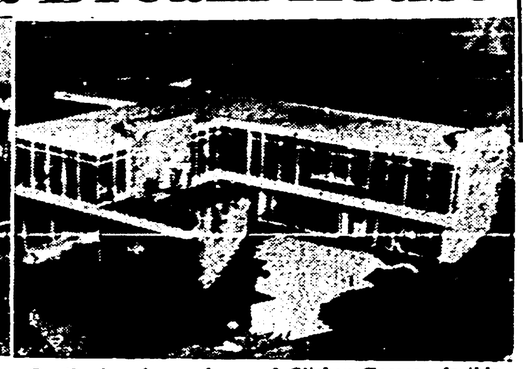
We are given to understand that this was accomplished with malice toward none.

A campus actor was invited to perform before a large downtown charity banquet. His comedy routine included a slightly hilarious characterization of Syracuse's noted sculptor in residence, Ivan Mestrovic. It can be said that the chap's performance was very well received by the banquet audience with the possible exception of one member of that group.

Ivan Mestrovic.

How to Build a Dream House

The sun of a dorm light beats down on this brick and celluloid structure. Bedpost mountains loom in the distance while the home sinks slowly in the Valley bed, belonging to Paul Valentine.



On the imaginary shores of Glitchey-Goomey is this summer home. Only $50,000 will buy this gorgeous piece of cardboard set beside this beautiful tinny lake. Anyone for swimming or sun bathing?

By PETER McNALLY

Ever think about a future dream house? Mr. Blandings had his and architects have theirs, so why shouldn't you?

On the top floor of Slocum hall Syracuse university architects build their houses—considerably scaled down, however.

The model design class, taught by Professor A. B. Moore, is the climatic point for architecture students because it is in this class of 20 that they build their best design. With three years of problems to choose from they usually don't have much trouble picking a design, although sometimes a student will turn in a completely new design.

The models range from houses to churches and from schools to future buildings on the Syracuse university campus.

Two architecture students, Mary Michaelek and Paul Valentine, spent most of their class time plus much of their free time last semester building two modern dream houses. At the end of the term they were working some 13 hours a day to finish their work.

To get a good picture of Miss Michaelek's $50,000 "Summer Residence" let's take a free tour:

As our smart red Jaguar approaches the house we can see a spacious lawn, made of Flocking, a nylon fiber that resembles the material on a phonograph turntable. It surrounds the house. The beautiful birch trees and shrubbery are made from pipe cleaners and Swedish moss.

In the living area expansive glass windows reach from floor to ceiling. A glass (really celluloid, as is all the glass in the models) door to the left leads to a sun deck from which we can view the lake. The lake is made of aluminum foil dotted with nail polish and covered with blue-sprayed celluloid.

In the right hand corner of the kitchen is a hallway that brings us to a double guest room and the master bedroom. The master bedroom features walnut paneling and large mirrors made of aluminum foil.

The whole house looks solidly placed on a base made of paper mache, wire screening with pine wood holding the "earth" in place.

However, perhaps you'd like to look at a "Country Residence" instead. In one full semester of solid work Paul Valentine can build it for you . . . in miniature.

His home features four fireplaces, an open central patio a la Roman style and a business studio separated by a breezeway from the house.

The fireplaces are actual brick, fired in a kiln, while a brick wall curves from one end of the three level structure to the other giving support and rhythm to the design.

The central patio has a sunken pool with an artificial light (lights throughout both models are real flashlight bulbs soldered to a wire system which plugs into regular light sockets).

The master bedroom also features a terrace, which goes part way around the house and is made of gray slate. The slate in the model is actually balsa wood as is the front entrance and the central patio.

The poor man's tour stops here. Perhaps we'll never own the luxurious houses, but the dreaming is enjoyable.

And then, there was Mr. Blandings.

THE UNIVERSAL CHARIVARI

JOTTINGS

Hugh O. Muir
Arthur Siegel
Richard Case
Roger L. Herz
Joan Nadelhaft

NATIONALISM IS A disease. Monday's fracas in the Capitol goes a long way to proving the stupidity of pop-gun justice. (Ike has gone on record that Puerto Rico can have independence any time it wants it.)

The ironic thing about such a blow for "freedom" is that it is usually engineered by a couple of gangsters who want freedom for their own little plans. But you can jolly well bet they figure that the boys now on the bottom are going to stay there.

The papers bring to mind such fanatical doings of the jokers in Iran, Egypt, Ireland and even the Scots. But here at home we have nurtured a crew of our own. The McCarthyites are nationalists of the first water . . . and are just as wet.

We quote a letter to the Times from such a muskrat: "Internationalism and Communism are Siamese twins and the synonym for both is treason."

To hell with the card-carrying Communists; let's dig out the gun-carrying investigators.

◆

TIME CAME to head over to the Women's building last Friday for Variety night, which incidentally we rather liked.

"Going to the mixer at the Student Union?" we asked one of the guys in the house. It was automatic. Didn't say anything more. Just shed a tear.

◆

A FUNNY thing happened to us on the way to the Hellbox yesterday afternoon.

We stopped for a moment and took a look at Yates Castle.

One month from today the Castle will no longer be used for journalism classes. Not even for rehearsals.

Only an act of God can save the Castle now.

For those of us still faithful, let us pray.

◆

THE FOOTPRINTS idea is spreading. Those imprints on Walnut pl. aren't for the University fling due next week, but advertising a jazz concert at one of the fraternity houses. Some might say this was trampling ethics into the dust, but we feel it is shrewd capitalizing on the splendid advertising job the Footprints committee has done. What was it Shakespeare said about imitation and flattery?

◆

OUR "hucksters" apparently have run out of adjectives to describe their products.

So they have abandoned Mr. Webster and set out on a campaign of using combinations of letters (of the English alphabet) and numbers (arabic, that is) to tell the world at large about the advantages of taking a bath without water.

GL-70, TCP 56, 903, LSMFT, X-100, ST-37, K-37 and HC1 40.

Sounds impressive.

But it's still plain aspirin.

THE FOOTPRINTERS:

Christian Ed Prof

Dr. E. G. Homrighausen

Dr. Elmer G. Homrighausen, professor, clergyman, lecturer and author, will lead the Footprints conference on Monday in a discussion of the nature of God.

A parish minister for 13 years, he taught at the universities of Geneva, Butler and Dubuque and at Occidental college. He has been professor of Christian education at Princeton Theological seminary since January 1938.

His books include "Let the Church be the Church," "Choose Ye This Day," "I Believe in the Church" and "Christianity in America—A Crisis."

Dr. Homrighausen has been chairman of the department of evangelism of the National Council of Churches since 1950, and he is a member of the department of evangelism of the Presbyterian Church, U.S.A.

In 1948 he served as secretary for evangelism in the reconstruction department of the World Council of Churches in Geneva and was elected vice-moderator of Presbyterian church in 1951.

He is a member of the National Education association, the American Society of Church History and Phi Kappa Phi, national scholastic fraternity. His campus visits include Wells, Cornell, Wellesley, Lafayette, Hood, Davidson, Heidelberg, Pittsburgh and Ursinus.

Footprints

SIGHTS ON SYRACUSE

DANCING IN TH' CASTLE; LIGHTS OUT

By MILT SHEFTER

The halls of Yates castle which once rang with the clack-clack of typewriters are now echoing with the click-click of dancing shoes. Rehearsals of the new musical, "Up in Lights," have turned the castle into a busy place once again. One sound which was intermingled with the clicks was a slight bump-bump. Seems some of the men have been dropping the gal dancers and not on their feet. Choreographer Charlie Erwin suggests push-ups. So add another sound—puff-puff.

• • •

First sights of R.O.T.C. uniforms yesterday brought a little disappointment with it. We were hoping to see some of the gals from the Angel's Flight in uniform . . . uniforms comparable to the costumes in Lysistrata, since we've been told that's what Angels look like. At any rate, let's hope there are no clipped wings and the Angels' Flight soars to success.

• • •

Crash and Crack-Up Dept.: Since the danger at College and University has been cut down by traffic lights, may we suggest a like crusade for the corner of Marshall and University. No less than three meetings of the steel in the past few weeks. Any date night around curfew time, this corner resembles Indianapolis on Memorial Day. Its O.K. to make Marshall st. a common meeting ground, but let's keep the cars out of it.

• • •

The pep band at last Saturday's game achieved much popularity, especially its leader, Pete Manikas, who seemed to have his own rooting section in the stands. And shame of shames, they made more noise for Pete than the entire Syracuse aggregation made for the cheerleaders. Someone goofed when they announced Alta and the band played and the floor boasted only a janitor! After cues were re-exchanged, the band played a new march and the show went on. For awhile there, it seemed the only thing resembling a baton act was the janitor's broom. When things cleared up though, they made a clean sweep of things.

• • •

And now if you'll excuse us, we must get our Sherlock Holmes glass and follow these Footprints. They're a good clue for some good ideas.

HEARING AIDS

Muting the Sour Notes On 'Glenn Miller Story'

By DICK CASE
Editorial Page Writer

Musicians are peculiar beasts.

They are subject to varying moods of disgust, glee, remorse, pity and vast brotherhood for their common creatures. Like other animal forms, they utter an anguished sound when tread upon. This is a high pitched and singular sound, for those who have never heard it.

"The Glenn Miller Story," which is being screened downtown at the Paramount arena, has brought on a brassy bleat from musicians and near-musicians in this and other areas regarding a reported lack of reality in the film. Comments are running cool to hot but many of the band folks seem to be in agreement that the screen biography has its historical flaws.

Or, as that noted philosopher Casey Stengel once opined, "Me thinks something has gone wrong."

In a recent review of "The Glenn Miller Story," it was noted that the screen biography of the late leader was a minor triumph of script, sound, direction and acting. In short, a darned good show.

Well, sir as we view the film strictly from the standpoint of historical authority, it would appear that a few liberties have been taken with the truth. Fiction was introduced, most likely, only to liven the plot and presumably without malice. After all, musicians, and even Mr. Miller, are only ordinary blokes. Sometimes without color.

The only large fib which appeared in the production concerned the fettish made over Miller's arrangement of "Little Brown Jug" and the great, wide factor it had in the scheme of things. In truth, Bill Finnegan, of Sauter-Finnegan, arranged "Little Brown Jug"; not Mr. Miller. However, Bill isn't making any great fuss about this fact. Heaven knows, he might have been Miller's alter ego and arranged all his music. He is silent, though.

The other complaint concerns the absence of many of Miller's personal associates and contemporaries from his story. This was plainly done to save time, money, actors and a general cluttered effect. As it was, the introduction of the Modernaires, Frances Langford, Louis Armstrong and all did very nicely.

So, "The Glenn Miller Story" I submit, cannot be whipped too severely by musicians and others of authority for a lack of truth. For, in fact, a white lie sometimes is highly appropriate. I, for one, was vastly entertained by the picture and that would appear to be its major function. The music sent, as it did Mr. Charlie Samuels. No musician he. And he loved it. That was sufficient.

Anyway, musicians tickle too easily.

L. G. Balfour Co.
Fraternity Jewelers
JEWELRY GIFTS, FAVORS
BADGES - STEINS - RINGS
STATIONERY - PROGRAMS
CLUB PINS - KEYS
MEDALS - TROPHIES
Carl Sorensen '38
Jack Orr
Ginny Orr
University Post Office Bldg.
171 Marshall St.
Telephone 75-7237
Daily 10-5 Saturday 9-12

ORANGE KEY SPONSORS LYSISTRATA
Today And Thursday
Tickets: $1:00 and $1.50 from Orange Key Members or Call Boar's Head Box Office 4-2776

ENGINEERING NOTICE

The Glenn L. Martin Company representative will visit the campus on March 8, 1954 to discuss opportunities for graduating seniors of the College of Engineering.

Contact your placement office for appointment and further details.

The Glenn L. Martin Co.
Baltimore 3, MD.

He's saving money

He'd probably pay more for his cigarettes if it weren't for advertising. The cigarette manufacturers use advertising as their lowest cost way to get across news and information about their products. On the average, advertising for a pack of cigarettes amounts to less than ½¢.

Selling goods this way makes mass production possible—which means lower production costs, lower selling costs, lower prices.

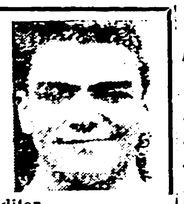
Yes, advertising is a low-cost selling method that helps keep your living costs down.

This advertisement prepared by the Advertising Federation of America

You "write your own money" as you need it when you pay by CHECK...avoid the risks of carrying cash. And it will probably cost you less to maintain a checking account than to pay your bills in person. Manage your money matters safely...economically: with a checking account here. Open one soon.

FIRST TRUST & DEPOSIT COMPANY
MEMBER FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORPORATION
SYRACUSE, N. Y.
BALDWINSVILLE . . . CANASTOTA
LIVERPOOL . . . MATTYDALE . . . PARISH

THRU THE MUCK with MEYER



By ED MEYER, Associate Sports Editor

We're bound to lose some friends through this column but it just had to be written and I guess this is just about the time it should be done. It has to do with the "Marshall Street Athletes" and what they have unknowingly done to change the whole meaning of a varsity jacket here at Syracuse university. And let me set one thing straight, they have done quite a bit whether they know it or not.

To get things straight, let's define what a Marshall Street Athlete" is. No, he isn't on any of the University squads. If he were there would be no point to this piece. This guy is the individual who is out to impress one person or another by wearing a jacket with SYRACUSE written on it and displaying the same colors as the varsity boys wear. Yes, he's the fellow you see running up and down Marshall st. day in and out with the jacket on and no true meaning behind it. And after you see that for some time you start to get a little peeved and then it gets to be time to do something about the whole mess. Someone has to wake up soon.

So we decided to do some investigating before stepping into the whole problem. Down to the source of the situation: Marshall st. A chat with one of the merchants selling the jackets was our first stop. There we were told that there is no official University team jacket and that he can sell as many as he desires to whoever wants them. He did say that at one time the school had an official jacket but that was in the past.

The next stop was with Jim Decker, assistant to the director of athletics, who we cornered between the halves of last Saturday's Colgate game. Jim told me that the alumni have complained about the poor display of jackets but that it was very tough to do anything about it. We could see his point after talking with the man down on Marshall, but still there has to be some solution and right now seems to be the time to do something about it.

Just last week I was down in one of the favorite college restaurants with some friends when a fellow walked up to one of the guys and started talking. He was wearing one of the school jackets with a varsity "S" on it. After he left I asked one of the boys what team he was on. They joked and said he wasn't an athlete. That sort of made me see the light and right there I decided this piece had to be written.

Well, we have a problem which may not seem too much to the average college student but if you have been writing about athletes here for the past four years you have a different attitude. Why should all these guys who never did a stitch of work toward the Hill athletic program have the right to wear a jacket just like the guy who scored the 20 against Cornell or who hit for two touchdowns against Holy Cross? It just doesn't make sense and at the same time makes a complete farce out of any meaning behind the varsity jacket idea.

You see, in the old days it used to be an honor to wear a varsity jacket and letter. Now all that has been changed and it's time we reverted to the past. So here is the idea which this columnist hopes will be thought over by either the athletes or the University Athletic department.

First of all, some sort of a special agreement should be made with a company for jackets. All the University jackets should be the same in color and design. Only a member of a varsity team with a certain number of hours participating in contests should be allowed to receive a jacket (as is done at West Point and Annapolis). Each athlete should be given some sort of certificate signifying this so he will be able to get a jacket. Each team should, of course, have its own symbol on the jacket, that being the only difference among the teams.

The hour system will have to be worked out among the coaches but it should be adhered to strictly, otherwise the whole idea will be wasted. There is nothing to stop the fellows on Marshall st. from selling the jackets but perhaps the University can make a sort of gentleman's agreement with them not to sell anything like the team's jackets, which should have a special makeup hard to copy.

This idea is not foolproof but I feel it does have some good thought behind it which, if discussed by the teams and athletic department, may lead to some successful results. Anyway, it might eliminate the "glamour boys" who are all enthused with their varsity jackets when the only action they have seen is on a pin-ball machine. Somebody has to wake up soon and I hope this piece will in some way start the ball rolling. Let's make a varsity jacket something the boys can be proud to wear and not just a piece of apparel every fellow wears. It's a big problem and only the men who are on the teams can get the solution going. Let's clean this up if we can and bring back the old traditions.

Matmen Plan for Cornell

With only the dual meet against Cornell this Saturday at Ithaca remaining, Coach Joe McDaniel has already started laying plans for the Eastern Intercollegiates.

Coach McDaniel will probably use the same lineup this week that saw action against Army.

THE ONLY possible change that McDaniel might make is to drop Hank Gobetz down to the 167-pound spot from the 177 division and elevate Murray Winer to the latter position.

At the other starting positions, McDaniel will probably have John Husband, Ed Weisz and Tom King at the light weights, followed by Garland Harris, Ed Rooney, Gobetz, Winer and George Finck at the 147, 157, 167, 177 and heavyweight positions.

Husband will be going after his first win of the campaign, followed by Weisz, who also has yet to come up with his first triumph. However, Weisz did show improvement against Army last weekend, being the aggressor in the first period before he tired to lose the bout on a decision.

For Harris and Gobetz, Friday night's match will be the last adul meet in their intercollegiate careers.

GOBETZ WAS no ball of fire this season, but he did prove to be one of McDaniel's more reliable grapplers a year ago, piling up a 3-4 won and lost record. Among Gobetz's victims was Joe Humphrey of Penn State's championship team, whom he upset, 4-3.

Last Saturday's win wasonly Harris' second of the campaign, so he will be trying hard this Friday to end his collegiate career on the winning side of the ledger.

Following the Eastern Intercollegiates, Syracuse will send a contingent to the Nationals. More likely than not the contingent will consist of one grappler, Co-Capt. Rooney. The husky Orange junior has won all of his dual meet outings so far, and figures to be in the running for both Eastern and National titles.

Saturday's meet would have marked the final collegiate appearances for two other Orange seniors, Charlie Dinklemeyer and Co-Capt. Chuck DeBellis, had they not been sidelined by injuries.

DeBellis was hurt in a pre-season workout while Dinkelmeyer suffered a practice injury after placing third in the Wilkes tourney.

The frosh wrestlers, who threw Oswego State Teachers last Saturday, 28-5 will visit the Little Red of Cornell this weekend.

HANK GOBETZ one of two Orange seniors who will be making his last appearance in the light heavy class this Saturday down in Ithaca. Gobetz will return to Ithaca for the Easterns on March 12, 13.

- Final Hoop Scoring -

	G	FG	FT	TP	AVE.
Besdin	20	109	105	323	16.2
Larned	20	77	47	201	10.1
Breland	20	76	44	196	9.8
Kline	15	44	42	130	8.7
Gillespie	20	46	43	135	6.8
Beverly	7	16	8	40	5.7
Castellini	17	35	11	81	4.8
Jaskot	19	31	14	76	4.0
Scott	18	26	14	66	3.7
Cegala	17	14	11	39	2.3
Murrock	11	8	6	22	2.0
Nelson	8	2	5	9	1.1
Zimnick	11	2	1	5	.5
Others		73	60	206
Syracuse	20	559	411	1529	76.45
Opponents	20	519	492	1530	76.50

Hill Skiers Place 3rd In St. Lawrence Test

The Hill skiing team, which had a two-week respite after its successful Winter Carnival meet, traveled to Canton last weekend to compete in the St. Lawrence Winter Carnival. Although they didn't finish first, Coach Ben Bucko was pleased with his squad's third place showing.

The SUSKImen met stiff competition from five other contending teams at St. Lawrence's "Ski Bowl". However, they garnered a second, fourth and two sixth place finishes in the four events, plus a second and a third in the combined events.

ST. LAWRENCE decisively won the meet and Vermont came in second. Claude Richer led the Larries winning the rough cross-country race and second place in both regular and giant slalom events. He was awarded the Skimaster Trophy for amassing the most individual points in the meets.

Art Roscoe led the Hill skiers, slarring as he had done in the Syracuse Winter carnival two weeks previous. He finished a close second in the jump behind LeFebrve of St. Lawrence, sixth in cross-country and second in Nordic combined.

The Pietymen performed best in the slalom heats, showing third in each. Hawley Woolschlager placed fourth in regular slalom and Doug Wallace sixth in giant slalom racing.

However the St. Lawrence trio of Richer, LeFebrve and Chauwin proved to be too powerful for the rest of the field. Each man won an event and also finished strongly in other competition.

THE TEAMS in the order of finish were St. Lawrence, Vermont, Syracuse, Cornell, MIT, and RPI.

The Syracuse skiers will not compete in the Eastern Senior championships this weekend since some of the team members are scheduled to take exams. Because of this, they will not be eligible to compete in the Eastern Intercollegiates meet until next year.

The last event of the season will be held at Cornell on March 14 and 15.

Ex-Service Boxer Nick Georgiade Looms As Key to Simmons' Heavy Problem

By AL GEFEN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

As coach of the boxing team here at Syracuse university, Roy Simmons has been faced with a problem for the past three years. Since the Fall of 1951 he hasn't been able to come up with a suitable natural heavyweight.

After Marty Crandall graduated in '51, Simmie was forced to move George Kartalian into the heavy spot for the 1951-52 season. Kartalian, normally a light-heavy, filled the bill adequately that season, but graduated in the spring.

LAST YEAR Bill Winnie started off the season as the regular heavyweight, but, after dropping a few dicisions, was replaced by Joe Perry, an athlete who had previously built a name for himself on the gridiron. Joe fought in the remaining meets, but still the Orange coach was looking for a "good" heavyweight.

Three fighters have had a crack at the position this season. Harvey Healy opened the season at the post, but dropped from the squad before the season was half completed. Since Healy's departure, Don McRae and Sam Alexander, another Pioly gridman, have alternated in recent fights.

Simmie's worries for the next three years may not, however, center on the heavyweight post. This season a frosh squad, under the direction of Bill Miller, another former Syracuse pugilist, was formed. The squad had two meets, one each with Penn State and Army.

Representing the Tangerine boxers at the heavyweight post was Nick Georgiade, a veteran who began his college career this fall at the age of 21. Nick was highly impressive as he won both of his fights by TKO's in the first round. Not only does Nick have a fine immediate record, but his showings in the Army indicate that he may be the answer to Roy Simmons' greatest problem next year.

NICK ENTERED the ring for the first time in 1949. He was stationed then in Augsburg, Germany, and actually had to be coaxed into entering a novice tournament there. At the time he weighed 175 pounds and had only attained the sixteenth year of his young life.

NICK GEORGIADE, freshman heavyweight who won his only two fights this season by knockouts, figures highly in Coach Roy Simmons' plans for next year.

After winning two fights, Nick was defeated in the finals of the European Command novice tournament by Leroy Samuels. When Nick was knocked out, it marked the only such KO suffered by him in his career.

He later fought in Berlin and won the post championships in the light-heavy and heavyweight divisions. His outstanding accomplishment in the heavyweight bracket came in the title match, in which he KO'ed Bob Barnes, 194-pound Golden Glove champ from Wisconsin in the second round.

ONCE AGAIN Georgiade met Leroy Samuels, the European novice champ, and this time lost a decision in Berlin.

At the age of 17, Nick won the Britanica Shield, designating European supremacy in the heavyweight division. He KO'ed Don Romero of Frankfort to gain that honor.

He next entered a tournament to decide who would be sent to the United States to represent the European Command in the Allied Military tourney. Nick was victorious again, as he fought his way to the finals and scored an easy decision over Alonzo Small to make the squad.

After flying back to the States, he became ill and lost in the Allied tourney in Maryland after winning his first fight. Georgiade then returned to Germany and won eight first round KO's and three other knockouts in a 12-fight winning streak.

HE THEN boxed several exhibitions with Marty Clark, his trainer. Clark was a light-heavyweight contender in the middle 1930's. He later had been a sparring partner for Billy Conn and Joe Louis, two of the greatest fighters of all time.

Nick spent a total of 39 months in Europe and fought in Vienna, London, Geneva, Athens, Munich, Berlin, Frankfort, Heidelberg, Stutgardt and Wurzburg, just to name a few of the cities. His overall record was 33 victories and 6 defeats.

After his discharge, Nick worked for a year. He had several chances to turn professional, including a number of lucrative offers from prospective managers, but turned them down, deciding upon a college education first.

HE CHOOSE Syracuse, as it was considered a good school and its boxing team and coach are regarded among the best in the country.

Nick has been quick to point out, however, that he came to Syracuse with the express interest of obtaining an education. Boxing is only a sideline for him.

Georgiade, who likes to corner his opponent and jab away, is chiefly a body puncher. He likes to weaken his opponent with this strategy and then go in for the kill.

IF NICK comes through as expected next year, he will not only strengthen the team in its weakest spot, but also give the other members of the squad added confidence. The Orange boxers will not have to go into meets needing five victories in the other seven fights in order to win.

Delta Upsilon Wins, Sigma Chi Romps To Basketball Titles

Sigma Nu, Phi Gam, Sammies, Zebes Also Triumph

Delta Upsilon and Sigma Chi were crowned Intramural champions of Flights V and VI by virtue of their victories last night over Phi Kappa Psi and Alpha Sigma Phi.

Sigma Chi featured the high scorer of the night in Bill McGlynn who garnered 18 points in its lop-sided 48-20 win over Alpha Sigma Phi. Orvie Wambold chipped in with 16 points for the winners. Jim Woods and Al Festa with nine points apiece were high for the losers.

MEL KLINE with 16 markers, was the big gun for Sigma Alpha Mu in its 27-15 rout of Alpha Tau Omega. Ollie Richards with eight eight points was ATO's high scorer.

Undefeated Delta Upsilon, leading throughout, knocked Phi Kappa Psi from the unbeaten ranks by a score of 25-18. Marsh Johnson scored 12 points for the winners, while Dino Hadjis netted nine in a losing cause.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon, leading 11-5 at halftime, succumbed to a second half rally by Zeta Beta Tau and went down to defeat 25-16. Ron Freiman scored eight points for the winners while Curt Ford and Tom Richardson had five apiece for SAE.

In a wild game, Phi Gamma Delta scored a 32-13 win over Delta Tau Delta. Bob Gauthier with 10 and John Stetson with nine led the winners.

SPARKED BY Bill Clark, who scored 10 points in the second half, Sigma Nu rolled over Acacia, 31-21. Sigma Nu held but a 11-9 lead at half time. Dave Hutchings with 12 markers and Keith Johnson with seven led the Acacia offense. The rest of the Sigma Nu offense was shared evenly with Jim Saunders and Alva Clark playing outstanding ball while scoring eight and seven points respectively.

The other game of the evening was forfeited to Alpha Chi Rho by Delta Kappa Epsilon.

As a result of Zeta Beta Tau's victory over SAE, the coming meeting between ZBT and Beta Theta Pi will determine the Flight II champion.

Nathan Miller, SAE Bowling Winners

Nathan Miller scored a 7-3 victory at the expense of Army Comptrollers last night in the opening round of Intramural bowling. Dave Heacock of Nathan Miller rolled the high single for the night with a 207 and Frank Nash of the same team took the high triple with a 513.

In other action of the evening, Skytop M-2 defeated M-5, 7-2, Sigma Alpha Epsilon beat Delta Tau Delta, 9-0, and Sigma Chi whitewashed Zeta Psi, 9-0.

Three Ring Returnees Bolster CCNY Beavers

Although most thoughts are on the coming Eastern and National tournaments, the Syracuse boxing team started intensive practice yesterday in preparation for CCNY's invasion of Archbold gym on Saturday night.

The Beavers are the last team on the Orange schedule. Their appearance on Saturday night will mark the last dual bout of the year for the Piety pugilists who will be strong favorites.

THREE LETTERMEN form the neucleus of the City College squad Co-Capts. Arnie Slomowitz and Richie Evans have shown considerable ability in the past while Austin Hurd, a letter-winner last year, has supposedly come into his own this season.

Slomowitz is easily the best fighter on the team. Last year he was runnerup to Penn State's Adam Kois for the Eastern 178-pound championship and his bout with Syracuse's Bruce Yancey this weekend should be one of the high spots of the meet.

Evans will be paired against the Orange's Frank Guelli in the opening bout of the evening at 125 pounds while Hurd will probably have the unenviable task of meeting undefeated Vince Rigolosi at 165 pounds.

The rest of the CCNY squad is made up of newcomers to the collegiate sport. Either Jerry Strizver or Tilden Halperin will meet Syracuse's precocious Jerry Jaffe at 132 pounds while Joe Gold or Marv Morris will taste the fury of undefeated John Granger in his specialty—the 139-pound class.

COMPETING AT 147 pounds for the Beavers will be Don Gabay, followed by Lou Levitan at 156 pounds, Hurd at 165 pounds and Slomowitz in the light heavyweight class.

The last bout of the evening will find Martain Reich facing either Sam Alexander or Don MacRae of the Orange in the heavyweight class.

Although it seems that Syracuse will probably be able to defeat the New Yorkers with much to spare, Coach Roy Simmons is warning his boxers to take each obstacle as it comes and not to think of the post-season tourney until after Saturday's contest.

For CCNY Coach Austin Sirutis, it is also the last meet of the season. Sirutis has been head coach of the Beaver boxing team for the last 12 seasons. CCNY still remains the only collegiate boxing team in the metropolitan area.

When not busy with CCNY's boxing fortunes Sirutis is boxing director for the Police Athletic league.

NCAA Swim Ducats Still on Sale Today

No Student Rates Offered For Championship Meets

Tickets for the National Collegiate swimming championships, scheduled for the Orange pool, March 25-27, are now on sale in Archbold gym.

Admission prices are 60 cents for Thursday night, $1.20 for Friday or Saturday afternoon and $2.40 for the finals on Friday or Since this event is sponsored by the National Collegiate Athletic association, no special student tickets will be sold. A series ducat good for all events is available for $6 however, a saving of $1.80.

Among the teams scheduled to appear are those from Yale, Ohio State, Michigan, Pitsburgh, Northwestern, Michigan State, Springfield, North Carolina State and many other major colleges.

Nats Lose

The Minneapolis Lakers came from behind last night to pin a 91-87 defeat on the Syracuse Nationals in National Basketball association action.

Leading the Nats' attack was Dolph Schayes who garnered 30 points as well as playing a fine defensive game. George Mikan and Jim Pollard scored 27 and 25 points respectively for the Lakers.

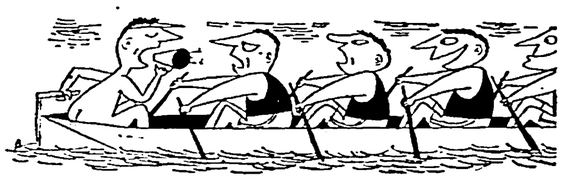
LUND'S FOR
FORMAL RENTAL SERVICE
738 So. Crouse Ave.
75-1459

Come On Down To
DEB'S
DRIVE-IN LOUNGE
SERVING THE BEST IN
HOME COOKED FOOD
"The Hill Rendezvous"
Bottom of Crouse Hill
On Erie Blvd.
ALL LEGAL BEVERAGES

Convertible Tops
2 ply ------ 29.50
3 ply ------ 38.50
● Free Installation
● Same Day Service
RAYCO SEAT COVERS
664 S. Salina St. Ph. 3-7731

Studebaker Owners
Bring Your Service Problems To Us
We have factory trained mechanics and a service department equipped to handle every service operation. Our parts department is stocked with a complete line of genuine Studebaker parts and accessories.
A. Robert Perry INC.
STUDEBAKER DEALER
4727 S. Salina St. 9-3226

THE COXSWAIN WHO WANTED TO BE A NUDIST



The coxswain of a leading university crew didn't like to be tossed in the water after a victory. He didn't like it so much the crew started tossing him in the water any old time they saw him near it.

He complained bitterly that it was ruining all his sportshirts. He liked nice sportshirts, but all he owned had either shrunk or streaked or spotted. He was not a happy coxswain. With no more sportshirts, he contemplated joining a nudist colony.

He told the whole wretched tale to the Dean of Men.

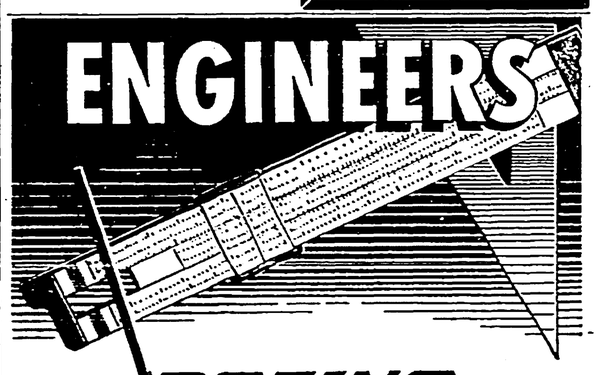
The Dean said, "You like really good sportshirts, eh? Something like a fine gabardine?"

"Uh huh," the coxswain beamed.

"Try this—take $5.95 down to the nearest men's store and get a Van Heusen Van Gab. It's the best-looking gabardine sportshirt you've ever owned and it's completely washable—any kind of water. What's more, it's got real pick-stitching on the collar, pockets and cuffs...it's got a Sportown collar that looks as smart with a tie as without. Van Heusen really knows how to make 'em."

Said coxswain is now sportshirt king of the campus. Owns Van Gabs in all smart non-fade colors. Called best-natured coxswain on east coast. Doesn't wait to be dunked by crew. Jumps in, Van Gab and all.

ENGINEERS



BOEING
AIRPLANE COMPANY

will conduct
PERSONAL INTERVIEWS
on campus
MARCH 9 and 10

Group Meeting will be held at 4:15 p.m. March 8

Boeing has many positions open for graduating and graduate students. These opportunities are in all branches of engineering (AE, CE, EE, ME and related fields). Also needed are physicists and mathematicians with advanced degrees.

Fields of activity include DESIGN, RESEARCH, and PRODUCTION. Your choice of location: Seattle, Washington or Wichita, Kansas.

A group meeting, first day of campus visit, will precede personal interviews. Details of openings, nature of assignments, company projects, etc., will be explained. Married students are invited to bring their wives.

Come and learn about these excellent opportunities with an outstanding engineering organization—designers and builders of the B-47 and B-52 multi-jet bombers, America's first jet transport and the BOMARC F-99 pilotless aircraft project.

For time and place of group meeting and for personal interview appointments—Consult your

PLACEMENT OFFICE

BOEING
AIRPLANE COMPANY
Seattle • Wichita

Florida Club Aids Vacationing Fun

The University club of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., helps make more enjoyable vacations for the many college students who vacation in that area of Florida.

A one dollar registration fee, which goes into a scholarship fund permits the sunshine-seeking students free swimming and dancing privileges and access to a Student Guest center designed for informal college gatherings.

Registering at the University club makes it easier for college students to find old friends and meet new ones. According to the Club, more than 15,000 college students spent Easter and between semester vacations in Fort Lauderdale.

Dean Announces Aid for Grads

Graduate scholarship opportunities in law and theology were announced yesterday by Earle W. Clifford, assistant dean of men.

A number of scholarships of up to $1,200 are available at the Stanford university School of Law.

Westminster Theological seminary, Westminster, Md., offers two first-year scholarships of $500 each. They will be awarded to graduates who have achieved a high scholastic standing and give unusual promise for the Methodist

PHYSICS SOLLOQUIUM

Dr. William D. Walker will address a physics colloquium on the subject of "Pi-Meson Production in Pion-Nucleon Collisions at 1.5 Bev" at 4 p.m. today in 106 Steele hall.

The talk will be preceeded by a tea at 3:30 p.m. in the library.

Fifteen From Administration, Faculty Will Sponsor 'Footprints' Conference

Fifteen administration and faculty members have agreed to endorse Footprints by serving as sponsors of the three day conference.

They include Vice-chancellor Finla G. Crawford, Dean Charles C. Noble, Dean Frank P. Piskor, Dean Carlton L. Krathwohl, Dean Marjorie Smith, Dean Ruth Haddock, Dean Eric Faigle, Dean Wesley C. Clark, Dean Alexander Charters, Col. Robert P. Halloran, Dr. William P. Hotchkiss, Dr. Fred Krinsky, Dean Kenneth Bartlett, Dr. George B. Cressey and Prof. Arthur Poister.

THE CONFERENCE, which is scheduled for next Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, is aimed at stimulating student thought in the area of basic philosophies.

Three outstanding religious leaders will be on campus Monday and Tuesday to lead discussions and forums as well as give major addresses on the nature of man, God and truth.

Dean Charles C. Noble of Hendricks chapel, will preach a sermon on the conference theme at 10:50 a.m. Sunday in the Chapel. Student sponsors and Footprints committee members will usher in this service.

A reception inaugurating the program will be held at 8 p.m. that day in the Alumni lounge of the Women's building.

DR. A. POWELL DAVIES and Dr. E. G. Homrighausen will be on campus Monday. Dr. Davies, pastor of All Soul's Unitarian church in Washington, D. C., will speak on the nature of man, at 10 a.m. in the chapel.

Dr. Homrighausen will talk on the nature of God, at 3:30 that afternoon. Both men will participate in a faculty colloquium at 7:30 p.m.

Rabbi Joseph L. Fink, of Temple Beth Zion in Buffalo, will be the conference leader on Tuesday.

Student sponsors include Arthur Siegel, John Beach, Malcolm Foster, Stanley Leff, Nancy Knapp, Frederick Briggs, Thomas Beckett, Janet Caro, Judy Perry, Patricia Roden, Deane Lavender, Raymond Guenter, Lois Clark, Satoru Tsufura and Hugh O. Muir.

A FOOTPRINT on the mud of Syracuse leads to Chapel, the site of the three-day campus conference which will begin Sunday. "Footprints" is aimed at stimulating thought about basic philosophies. It will include lectures, student panel discussions and bull sessions, and is sponsored by many faculty and student leaders. Dean Noble will open the conference wiht a sermon Sunday morning.
Staff Photo by Lee Jones

Sloth . . .

(Continued from page 1)

been outlawed for some years, Chumann said, but there is evidence to prove that isolated tribes still practice the gruesome business.

It actually was an industry before the authorities outlawed it. In fact, persons ordered heads in advance from the tribes that shrunk them. This, of course, probably meant that there had to be more wars to get more heads.

The heads owned by the University are said to have been "processed" some 25 years ago. The skins are shrunken through a chemical process, and by using herbs, oils and warm sand, the shrinking is completed.

NATIVES WHO take the heads and use them in the rites are said to inherit the powers of the person who wore the heads as their own.

All these exhibits have serious meaning for the student of geology, zoology or anthropology.

Many more, including birds and nearly all the common animals of New York state, are on exhibit in the museum. Geological specimens are also on exhibit. All students are welcome to visit the museum from 1-5 Monday thru Friday.

Ogden Nash once wrote a poem about the activities in a museum. A sage observation which sums this entire business up:

"It's kind of fun to be extinct."

ROTC Juniors Receive Wreaths

Eight outstanding Military Science III cadets have been awarded gold wreaths for academic achievements. The men, all juniors, attained an average in military subjects which placed them in the upper 10 per cent of their class.

The average was compiled during the second semester of their sophomore year and the first term of this year.

The wreaths will be worn on the lower right sleeves of the uniform.

Receiving the award were James Franklin, Gerald Gerry, Richard Wolff, Robert Holbrook, Gerald Shira, Paul Riddler, Neal Hadden and Oliver Richards.

Candidates for "Mayor of Martian st." must attend eliminations, 7:30 p.m., 104 HL.
Frosh Weekend mayor committee, 7 p.m., 104 HL.
JSF choir, 7-8:15 p.m., 201 Crouse.
Ski instructors, 4 p.m., ski lodge. Important, bring student and instructors manuals.
Ski school students come prepared to ski at 4 p.m., lodge.
WSG assembly meeting, 7 p.m., dance studio, Women's building.
JSF Public relations and special services committees, open meeting at 4 p.m., chapel board room. Attendance important for old members.
ROTC trick drill, 7:30 p.m., 301 Machinery hall.
Spanish club, 8 p.m., alumnae lounge, Women's building.
WAA volley ball, 4:30 p.m., Women's building, gym B.
WAA badminton, 4:30-5:30 p.m., Women's building, gym B.
DO frosh staff, 4 p.m., Castle. Fundamentals of journalism. Those who did not attend the Monday class must be present.
JSF informal discussion, 7 p.m., 202 Maxwell. "Reform, conservative, Orthodox Judaism." All welcome. Refreshments will be served.
Daily chapel, noon to 12:30 p.m., meditational service.
Lutheran graduate and faculty group meets for a discussion on church and state, lead by George Platt. 8 p.m., at 329 Comstock, Apt. 8.
Home ec club, 7:30 p.m., 305 Women's building.
Open bowling, 6:30-8:30 p.m. Women's building alleys.
Those wishing dates for Frosh weekend, contact Ellen Beig, 4-9222 or Jim Tipka 4-9575 or living center social chairman by Thursday. Coffee dates may be arranged if applications are in early.
Placement convo, 7 p.m., Slocum, "How to write an Effective Letter of Application," Miss Dorothea Chandler, speaker.
Varsity debate, 8 p.m., 414 HL. Junior varsity debate 7 p.m., 415 HL.
MSG student conduct and welfare panel investigation of reserve seating. Open meeting 7 a.m. tomorrow,. 204 HL.
Social committee meeting Panhel-IFC, 7:30 p.m., Delta Zeta.
MSG, WSG organizations open panel meeting, 8:15 p.m., 303 Women's building. Discussion of NSA.

Tri-Delt Offers Grants to Coeds

Coeds interested in applying for the annual Delta Delta Delta scholarship grants may secure information at the Dean of Women's office.

Completed forms must be returned to this office on or before Thursday, April 1.

Any sophomore or junior coed, regardless of whether or not she is affiliated with a sorority, is eligible to apply.

Krasner's Ensemble To Terminate Series

The last concert of this season's series by the Krasner Chamber Music ensemble will take place at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Syracuse Museum of Fine Arts. It will be sponsored by the Syracuse Friends of Chamber Music.

This season has been very active for the group, with the addition of two concert forums to the regular concert series. These forums featured a variety of new music which was performed and criticized.

This addition to the Syracuse musical scene also included a cooperative program with the exhibition, "125 Years of American Art," sponsored by The Post-Standard and the Festival of the New York State School Music association.

The final program includes the String Quartet in C Major, by Mozart, and Quintet in G major, opus 3, by Brahms.

Contemporary work will be the trio for violin, clarinet.

Performers are Louis Krasner and Adrienne Galimir, violins; Claude Bartel and Ernest Horvath, violas; Alfred Ozoline, cello; and Richard Hahn, clarinet. Adrienne Galimer will also be at the piano for these works.

Tickets priced at $1, are available at the Clark Music co., the Onondaga Music co., Olmsted's Record shop and at Lowe Art center.

WAER PROGRAM SCHEDULE

WEDNESDAY
2:58—Sign On
3:00—WAER News
3:05—Symphonic Matinee
4:00—Musical Heritage
5:00—This I Believe
5:05—Distaff Digest
5:15—Dinner Date
6:15—WAER News
6:25—Evening Showcase
6:35—WAER Sports Lineup
6:45—Fred Greisinger Show
7:00—WQXR Artists
7:30—Adventures in Research
7:45—United Nations Story
8:00—Evening With Hi-Fi Music
9:00—WAER News
9:05—Music Magazine
10:00—Final Edition—News
10:10—Final Edition—Sports
10:20—Sign Off

Alumna to Address Home Ec Group

Mrs. Melanie Kreuzer will address the Home Ec club on Women in Politics" at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in 305 Women's building.

President of the Syracuse Common Council, Mrs. Kreuzer attended Syracuse university. She was a member of Theta Phi Alpha women's journalism honorary and was on the Daily Orange staff.

During the business meeting preceding the talk, a temporary social chairman will be elected.

Weekly Opens Essay Contest

An essay contest on "Intra-Asian understanding" held by "The Asian Student," a weekly publication, was announced yesterday by Carlton Krathwohl, associate dean of men.

The contest is open to all Asian students in the United States. Three prizes totalling $225 will be awarded.

BETA SIGMA RHO

Beta Sigma Rho has recently elected the following officers:

Aaron Miller, chancellor; Stuart Fishman, vice-chancellor; Bernard Sherman, recorder; Les Dubitsky, auditor; Stuart Fishman, warden; Alan Goodman, executive-at-laarge; Philip Lapidus, vice-warden; M. Robert Hecht, inner guard; Jerome Spector, historian.

MSG . . .

(Continued from page 1)

ing and lounge space.

Richard Sutter, sophomore representative, has resigned as chairman of the ways and means panel, it was announced. Appointed to fill the position was John Hennessey, a junior fraternity man.

Organizations, rules and elections panel received the constitution of Piety Hill Alliance party and a proposal for a code of procedure for the elections protest board.

The panel, chaired by Robert Garver, will also consider the constitution of the new Independence party.

PARAMOUNT
JAMES STEWART
JUNE ALLYSON
"The GLENN MILLER STORY"
Technicolor
Also "BLACK FURY" in color

REGENT
"MISS SADIE THOMPSON"
Rita Hayworth
Jose Ferrer
Aldo Ray
Also
"GUN FURY"
Rock Hudson
Donna Reed

Marvin Sarkin Photo Studio
One block from the stadium
708 E. Raynor Ave.
CALL 4-1145
Applications and Portraits
Composites ● Formals
CANDID WEDDING ALBUMS
WEDDING PORTRAITS
See our display at the Cosmo

Now MIDTOWN Open 6:30 P.M.
The Lavender Hill Mob
ALEC GUINNESS
2nd Midtown Hit
J. ARTHUR RANK presents
BASIL RADFORD and JOAN GREENWOOD
TIGHT LITTLE ISLAND
MARTIN LUTHER COMING FRIDAY

CLASSIFIED

IMPORTANT NOTICE—CLASSIFIED ADS to appear in this paper should be DELIVERED at the HELLBOX Classified desk between 1 and 3 p. m. NO ADS WILL BE ACCEPTED AFTER 3. ALL ADS MUST BE IN 2 DAYS IN ADVANCE. For further information call 4-7206.

ALL LOST ARTICLES should be turned into the CENTRAL LOST AND FOUND ROOM, 20 Bldg. 24 at 205 University Pl Articles can be claimed there.

TYPEWRITERS RENTED: $3.00 per month, $8 3 months. Good selection. We deliver, Smith Brothers. 4-8833.

YOUNG MEN OR WOMEN, full or part time, pleasant working conditions in any one of our 7 Hour stores. Apply 731 W. Genesee.

Typewriters rentals—New Models Reasonable Rates—Expert Service, All Makes—CORNER STORE.

EXPERT TYPING, thesis and term papers, reports. Mel Sherman 76-0612.

FOR SALE: Hi Quality combination record player, amplifier and FM tuner in one cabinet. High output (30 watts) suitable for dances, etc. 76-1698 or 72-1106.

EXPERIENCED stenographer will do typing at home. 9-4138.

WILL THE PERSON WHO TOOK THE MILITARY STYLE RAINCOAT from Coke and Caper coat rack, please contact Tom Nelipowitz, 2-2767 between 9:30 and 10:30 p.m.

TIRED OF EATING OUT? Come and join us at Lambda Chi Alpha for delicious home cooked meals. Economy rates all meals $14.50. Phone 75-3432 at any time.

WIRE RECORDER, WEBSTER-CHICAGO—dirt cheap. Perfect condition. Call 75-0771 after 6 p.m.

UNIVERSITY SECTION—PLEASANT ROOM with private family. Call after 5 p.m., 4-5153.

SOLUTION TO CROSSWORD PUZZLE

P	L	A	S	T	E	R	S	T	E	A	D	G	R	O
W	H	I	P	L	A	S	H	L	I	S	L	E	R	A
H	O	T	H	O	U	S	E	O	D	E	T	S	A	N
A	T	R	I	P	E	T	A	P	E	R	E	A	C	T
T	O	E	S	G	N	O	M	E	C	U	R	S	E	M
A	N	G	R	E	S	U	I	T	S	B	U	G	L	E
R	E	A	L	I	Z	E	S	S	T	O	S	S	C	A
E	N	G	A	G	E	S	F	E	A	S	T	W	E	S
S	L	I	D	E	S	B	A	R	G	E	S	O	D	A
T	I	T	E	R	S	E	T	A	E	A	U	R	A	L
I	V	A	N	P	E	T	T	I	F	O	G	G	E	R
V	E	I	T	A	S	L	A	T	E	R	U	R	A	L
E	N	O	R	M	I	T	Y	M	I	T	T	E	R	L
H	O	S	E	S	A	G	R	E	E	M	A	N	D	A
C	R	E	E	K	S	R	U	C	H	E	F	A	S	T
R	E	L	A	Y	B	E	R	E	T	M	O	T	T	O
A	V	I	I	S	M	A	W	A	S	P	O	L	E	S
V	E	X	B	O	L	O	S	T	A	P	I	R	S	H
A	R	I	S	E	N	R	I	G	O	R	A	N	A	L
T	I	R	A	D	E	S	A	I	L	I	S	T	A	W
S	E	S	I	E	T	E	N	S	U	E	F	L	A	T

Hy Kassel
Biggest Clothing Bargain In History
1/2 Price Sale
Any Suit Topcoat or Overcoat ½ Price
Don't Wait Buy Now and Save $15 to $30 on each and every SUIT or TOPCOAT
New Spring Slacks $5.95
Advance Style Sportcoats $18.90
GIGANTIC BARGAINS!
Newest spring arrivals included in this amazing SALE! Hurry down tomorrow for the Savings.
SUITS and TOPCOATS 2 For 1 Price
Hy Kassel's
UPSTAIRS
309 South Warren St.
Open Monday & Friday Nights

Schine's
ECKEL
THURSDAY! On Our WALL-TO-WALL PANORAMIC SCREEN!
THE SUPREME ADVENTURE OF OUR TIME!
THE CONQUEST OF EVEREST
Print by TECHNICOLOR
A Group Three Production
Made by Countryman Films
JOHN TAYLOR - LEON CLORE
GRAHAME THARP
Released thru UNITED ARTISTS

Today's Chesterfield is the Best Cigarette Ever Made!
"Chesterfields for Me!" Yvonne De Carlo
The cigarette tested and approved by 30 years of scientific tobacco research.
"Chesterfields for Me!" John Payne
The cigarette with a proven good record with smokers. Here is the record. Bi-monthly examinations of a group of smokers show no adverse effects to nose, throat and sinuses from smoking Chesterfield.
"Chesterfields for Me!" Robin Chandler
The cigarette that gives you proof of highest quality—low nicotine—the taste you want—the mildness you want.
Smoke America's Most Popular 2-Way Cigarette
CHESTERFIELD
BEST FOR YOU
Copyright 1954, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co

On the Inside
See Decision on "Monday Incident," page 2.

Syracuse Daily Orange

Weather Report
CLOUDY, SNOW FLURRIES
High temperature ____ 25
Low temperature ____ 12

Vol. 51, No. 82 | Syracuse, N. Y., Thursday, March 4, 1954 | 4 Pages—5 Cents

Classical Concert, 'Esperanto' Preview To Highlight Dance

Bach, Vivaldi, Mozart Among Selections For Friday Night

A preview of "Esperanto," the folk festival to be staged this weekend, will be presented at tomorrow night's dance in the dance studio of the Women's building.

In addition, a concert of classical musical will be held simultaneously with the dance. The records to be played will include: Bach, Brandenburg Concert No. 1 and No. 1; Vivaldi, Four Seasons; Mozart, Symphony No. 40 and Clarinet Quintet; Haydn, Symphony No. 94 and No. 97, and Hindemith, Four Temperament.

CHESS, CHECKERS, cribbage and cards will be available in the lounge all evening.

The weekly dance, and dance classes, are sponsored by the Women's building student activities committee.

Members of SAC include: entertainment bureau. Jerry Gerber, chairman; Jane Werner, Ruth Miller, and Peppy Schwartz; door, Arthur Kinney, chairman; Janet Teitell, Sheila Roth, Helen Meister, Paul Stein, and Marshal Gailman.

Lounge, John de Palma and Mary Vivian, co-chairmen; Joan Green, Carol Wilcott, Barbara Brinley, Carol Rottner, Sue Riley, Niki Schor; hostess, Ann McKaig, chairman; Peppy Schwartz and Jane Warner; publicity, Merle Banks and Marleigh Barclay, co-chairmen; Barbara Brinley, Janet Teitell, Joan Green, Carol Wilcott, Honey Hoyt, Eileen Eberenz.

Also, refreshments, Nancy Boerner, chairman; Ben Chase, Joan Walmsley, Fritz Mendell, Elnora Hoyt, Janet Levine, Rita Semer, concert, Dan Greene, chairman; Jane Warner and Carol Harry.

THE ADVISORS for the group are Miss Margaret Parker, social director of the University, and Mrs. Margaret Bonisteel, assistant director of the Women's building.

Six Army Seniors Given Commissions

Appointments in the regular army for six senior ROTC cadets have been announced by Lt. Col. George R. Stevens III, Professor of military science and tactics at Syracuse.

The honored cadets are John F. Holzwarth, George S. Kepner, Glenn Kohler, John F. Riley, Donald M. Rorke and Peter B. Seevers. All will be commissioned in the infantry branch except Holzwarth who will enter the medical service corps.

The awarding of 2nd lieutenant commissions is based on high academic standing, leadership, outstanding contributions in campus activities and experience in military affairs.

Only ten percent of the ROTC seniors in the United States are eligible for the commissions. The cadets, provided they pass the required physical exam, will be assigned to extended duty shortly after graduation.

Reserved Seating Airing Postponed

The open hearing on reserved seating scheduled for 7 p.m. today in 204 HL has been postponed until next week to allow those who set up last semester's plan to be present, the chairmen of the men's and women's student government panels announced yesterday.

The hearing will be held next week, at a time to be announced in The Daily Orange, Roger J. Herz of MSG and Patricia Mosher of WSG said.

JSF Will Begin Yiddish Classes

Jewish Student fellowship will hold beginning classes in conversational Yiddish at 7:15 p.m. today in the Chapel lounge.

This is the first time in the history of the fellowship that such a program has been offered, president Henry Einhorn announced.

The classes, which are open to everyone, will be conducted each week at the same time and place by Cecilia Sigalowsky.

"They are designed to enable students to understand and speak the Yiddish language, including comprehension of some of the best jokes on campus," Einhorn said.

50 -- Count 'em -- 50

THE GREEKS have it! PROF. SAWYER FALK, head of the Drama department (center) presents GODFREY LEBHAR, chapter president of Sigma Alpha Mu with 50 tickets to Saturday's performance of "Lysistrata" which the house will attend in a body. ROBERT DISHY, also a member of SAM, smiles benignly as business arrangements are completed. Staff Photo by Richard Green

Fraternity's Reception Honors Boar's Head

Sigma Alpha Mu today announced plans for an open house, which they will hold for the cast of "Lysistrata" in honor of Boar's Head's 50th anniversary, according to Godfrey Lebhar, president of the chapter house.

The open house will be held Saturday night immediately following the "Lysistrata" performance. The SAM's (50 of them) will attend the performance that night in a body.

THE FRATERNITY won the Boar's Head cup last year for the cooperation which they gave to the drama department on various productions.

Robert Dishy, senior in drama and a favorite Hill comedian acted as intermediary between the drama department and his house, making arrangements for the group to attend the performances and also for the open house to be held afterwards.

"Lysistrata," which is under the supervision of Prof. Sawyer Falk, has proven a great success and is being given for the third successive week, with Wednesday to Saturday performances.

Tickets for the Greek comedy are still available for performances this weekend. They may be obtained at the box office on the first floor of the drama building or by calling for reservations at 4-2776. Standard rates are $1.00 and $1.50. Groups of more than 10 persons may make arrangements for block seating rates. Performances are scheduled to begin at 8:15 p.m.

Schultze Cottage Sets Faculty Tea

Schultze cottagewill sponsor this week's informal student-faculty tea from 4-5 p.m. today in the Alumni lounge of the Women's building. These events are arranged through the WSG social chairman's assembly for better student-teacher relationships.

Everyone is welcome to attend. Refreshments of cookies and tea will be served.

Typewriter Exhibits Open Today in Lowe

Early, Modern Models Show Development

An exhibit featuring the history and development of the typewriter will begin today at the Lowe art center.

The exhibit, sponsored by the Everson Museum of Art, will show early American and European machines as well as the modern electric typewriters.

Twentieth century lithographs and etchings of American and European artists will also be on display. Among the artists represented will be Rouault, Kokoska, Kandinsky, Feininger, Chapin and Albright.

Visiting hours at the art center are: 9 a.m.-5 p.m., Monday through Friday: 9 a.m.-12 p.m., Saturday; 2-5 p.m., Sunday; and 7-10 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday evenings. The current exhibit will continue through March 31.

SIGMA TAU DELTA

Sigma Tau Delta will hold its bridge tournament semi-finals from 1 to 3 p.m. this Saturday. Houses participating are: Gamma Phi Beta, Phi Mu, Zeta Tau Alpha, Alpha Gamma Delta, Alpha Phi and Delta Gamma.

Nine Meet to Choose 'Bowl' Quiz Panelists

Nine Syracuse students, out of an unannounced number recommended by professors in the humanities division, met yesterday to discuss the selection of four panelists and four alternates for NBC's "College Quiz Bowl" broadcast.

A team representing Syracuse university will participate in the weekly nation-wide program March 28. "College Quiz Bowl" contests students from two colleges in a test of nowledge. It is heard at 6 p.m., Sunday, over station WSYR.

THE NINE, selected by humanities professors on the basis of qualities suggested by NBC are: John Beach, Liberal Arts, senior; Janet Caro, senior, journalism major; Elizabeth Brydon, Liberal Arts, senior; Jean Brydon, Liberal Arts, junior; Nancy Whittier, Liberal Arts, senior; Margaret Hake, senior journalism major; Jane Bauker, Liberal Arts senior; Richard Charlton, a junior in journalism and Raymond Guenter, Liberal Arts senior.

Dr. Edwin H. Cady, professor of English who is directing the panel, has indicated that several additional students may be included in this initial group. Classes or other conflicts may have prevented others recommended from attending yesterday's meeting, he stated.

This group will meet every Wednesday with Dr. Cady to hear play-backs of previous week's broadcasts of "College Quiz Bowl" which will be tape recorded by

(See RADIO BOWL, page 4)

Frosh Will Feature Interfaith Service

Freshman weekend will feature an interfaith service on Sunday, March 14, in Hendricks chapel. Dean Charles C. Noble will deliver the sermon.

Two freshman class officers will participate in the service. Arlene Plotkin, vice-president of the freshman class, will read from the Old Testament and Norman Butterfield, treasurer of the class, will read from the New Testament.

Members of the freshman executive council and Paul London, co-chairman of the weekend's interfaith service, will usher along with a group of the regular ushers. The flowers for the service will be presented by freshmen men's and women's living centers.

On Saturday morning a service and brunch will be sponsored by the Jewish fellowship.

LAST DROP DAY

Tomorrow is the last day to drop courses without receiving an F for the course, Registrar Keith J. Kennedy announced yesterday.

Semester Housing Totals from IBM's Released by Buckle

University Living Centers House 1,272; 810 in Fraternities

By ROGER J. HERZ
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Housing figures for this semester tabulated from student IBM registration cards were announced yesterday by Jack C. Buckle, director of men's counseling and residence.

Men in University living centers number 1,272. Eight hundred ten men live in fraternities, and 825 in parents' homes.

Four hundred-eighty men are in private homes, 76 live with relatives, and 73 commute.

Married students in University housing in Slocum hts., University cts. and Allis ct. total 252. This figure overlaps the numbers of 375 living with wives, and 228 in their own home or apartment.

Fifty-three students are working for their room and board.

Buckle said that a total of 4,463 had registered, including 3,557 during regular registration, 176 late registrants, 605 foresters, and 125 matriculating at University college.

These figures do not include the College of Law.

He said that 1,367 men were living in University housing at the end of the fall semester. Total capacity is 1,413.

"There are now 15 vacancies in campus housing," he said, which will probably be filled by the end of March by a new foreign students' program. The remainder of the vacancies are in Skytop and Collendale dormitories.

All changes of address must be reported to Buckle at his office in the dean of men's office in the administration building.

Rogers Addresses College Centennial

Dean Virgil M. Rogers of the School of Education gave the centennial anniversary alumni lecture before more than 1,000 students, faculty and guests at Wofford college, Spartansburg, South Carolina, yesterday morning.

Dean Rogers, a Wofford graduate, spoke on "Public Education and American Freedom." He stressed the fact that the free public school system is possibly the single uniquely American institution and the most distinctive characteristic of our culture and civilization.

Describing the dramatic history of the American public schools since their inception three centuries ago in Massachusetts bay, the dean termed the schools "Our greatest invention, one which continues to be copied, but never matched, around the world."

Dr. Roger's greatest hope was that Americans recognize the "profound contribution to freedom" being made by educators of all levels. "By working shoulder to shoulder, educators and laymen," he said, "we shall with confidence and courage face our destiny-laden responsibility."

Administration Will Help Enforce Group Registering

Campus Chest Drive Closes Early Results Show $3,500

Syracuse's Campus Chest campaign officially ended yesterday with early results placing collections at approximately $3,500. Only slightly over 50 per cent of the living centers had submitted their results by deadline however, and many late returns are expected to swell the total.

As the official end came at 5 p.m. yesterday, 97 or 179 living centers had reported results. Late donations will be accepted, according to co-chairmen JoAnn Swalm and Stuart Parker. They should be turned into Miss Swalm, Mott Cottage, or Parker, Phi Gamma Delta.

TOP LIVING center contribution in early results was $335 donated by Sigma Kappa sorority. Other top houses in the sorority division were Delta Delta Delta, $107 and Chi Omega, $75.

So far, 18 or 25 sororities have turned in results with contributions totaling $879.

Only half of the fraternities had submitted their results as of deadline with their contributions swelling the total by $415. Leading the division is Tau Epsilon Phi which gave $118.36, Zeta Psi which contributed $78 and Delta Upsilon which gave $59.

Winners of trophies in the four divisions and other award winners will not be announced until the end of the week when exact reports are made for each entry. A mantle clock will be given to the living center which donates the most per rata as the overall award.

TOP PRIZE in the independent men's division will be a date with Sigma Chi Sweetheart Joan Davey for a representative of the freshman dormitory section which donates the most to the drive.

Leading the donations for independent men was Skytop M-3 with a contribution of $37.10. M-2 added $20.50. Only 10 of 58 independent men's dorms had submitted their results as of deadline though. Their total contribution was approximately $100.

Top donation in the independent women's division has been given by section 5C of Shaw, $38.63. French Cottage added $32.50 while Shaw 3CDE gave $32.25.

Total contributions for independent women totaled $530 with 42 or 62 living centers reporting.

OTHER FINANCES for the drive included $31 collected from the city division and $27 from faculty gifts. Late donations are expected to swell the totals in both groups and special gifts from various organizations are also expected.

Supplementing the individual collections is approximately $1,800 collected in four added activities, the Carnival, pep rally and auction, King and Queen contest and Feather day.

Campus Chest's goal is $7,500. With only about 50 per cent of the total collected, only hopes of reaching or surpassing the goal are for large late donations. Last year, the drive collected $5,800.

By EILEEN CHAMBERLAIN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Coed legislators were informed last night at specific enforcement measures for the organizations registration act have been enacted by Civil Service of men's and women's student governments.

The announcement by Organizations Panel Chairman Lois Clark followed Tuesday evening's MSG vote of approval for Civil Service to adopt plans deemed necessary for the effective administration of the registration act.

THE LIST of organizations which have registered under the new legislation is now being processed. Copies will be in the hands of student government officials and members of the administration by Wednesday, March 17.

After that date, unregistered organizations will not be authorized to schedule or hold meetings in University buildings.

Members of the administration agreed this week to cooperate with student government in enforcing the regulation. MSG junior officer Jerome Gerber told The Daily Orange yesterday that administration officials in charge of registering meetings in campus buildings have complied with a student government request to this effect.

In the future they will deny registration, refuse rooms and facilities under the jurisdiction and will cancel all existing reservations for meetings of groups not registered with student government.

MISS DOROTHY I. Lee in the registrar's office, Mrs. Elizabeth S. Lowe in Maxwell and Miss Margaret Parker in the Women's building told Gerber this week that they would comply with the plan.

Gerber and Miss Clark said blanks are still available for those organizations which have not registered. They may be obtained at the MSG office in prefab 30 or at the WSG office in the Women's building. Miss Clark and Gerber can also supply the blanks at Alpha Phi and Tau Delta Phi respectively.

The list now in preparation will compose a separate directory of student activities. It has not yet been decided if copies of this list can be given to students on request. This will be done if financial circumstances permit.

Next year the activities list may be incorporated into the regular Syracuse University Directory.

HOWEVER, Gerber stated that all organizations registered with student government will definitely receive copies of the list, which will include name, officers and addresses and telephone numbers of the officers for each group.

Student government officials expect the list to be invaluable in helping to know and locate the multitude of Hill organizations They stress that a complete file of activities will also be of use to students who are seeking groups in which to participate.

Also included in the listing, when published, will be a brief description of the purpose and projects of each organization for the benefit of all students, as well as government officials.

Group Seating Set Up For Footprints Convos

Reserved seating will be made available to houses desiring to attend the faculty colloquium of Footprints at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Chapel auditorium.

Groups may reserve block seating by phoning Miss Marguerite MacKinnon, 76-5571, ext. 209, or by making the reservation in the loan counselor's office of the Chapel board room.

"WHAT ARE the Claims of Religion" will be the theme of the colloquium which will be moderated by Dean Charles C. Noble of Hendricks chapel.

Dr. A. Powell Davies and Dr. E. G. Homrighausen, the two speakers at Footprints sessions during the day, will participate in the discussion with professors George B. Cressey, Frederick Haucke and William P. Hotchkiss.

Many of the fraternities and sororities which voted to cancel or postpone their Monday night house meeting in lieu of the colloquium entered requests for the block seating.

The discussion will be stimulated by questions submitted by students during the day. Dr. Davies will give his main address at 10 a.m. and Dr. Homrighausen is scheduled to speak at 3:30 p.m.

TUESDAY at 10 a.m., Rabbi Joseph L. Fink of Buffalo will be the main speaker.

He will lead a student panel at 3:30 p.m. in Maxwell auditorium followed by a discussion and tea. Topic for the afternoon is "Campus Religion: An Answer for Skeptics."

Participating on the panel are

(See FOOTPRINTS, page 4)

Concert to Honor School of Nursing

The University Symphony orchestra will give a concert honoring the School of Nursing at 4 p.m. Sunday in Crouse auditorium. Admission to the event is free.

Dr. Alexander Capurso, director of the University's school of music, will conduct the orchestra. Associate director for the concert will be Louis Krasner. Organ soloist for the afternoon will be Dr. Arthur Poister, director of the Hendricks chapel choir.

The program will open with the Bach-Ormandy choral prelude, "Sleepers Awake."

Handel's organ concerto No. 5 in C major will be next. This concerto will feature the larghetto, allegro, alla siciliana, and presto movements. Four movements will also be played from the symphony No. 7 in C major by Schubert.

The program will close with "Perpetuum Mobile" by Weber-Szell.

SOLID STATE

Dr. Harry Frisch will talk on "One-Dimensional Many Body Effects" before the solid states seminar at 1:15 p.m. today in 106 Steele hall.

CAMPUS NOTICE DEADLINE SET; NO EXCEPTIONS

All campus notices and announcements of meetings must be submitted to the afternoon editor, 75-5196 no later than 3:30 p.m. on the day preceding publication.

Because of a deadline and because notices are sent to the composing room at this time, it will be impossible to accept these announcements after 3:30 p.m. The Daily Orange regrets that it has been forced to reject notices submitted after that time, but the above difficulties make the practice of accepting late notices impossible.

Applications Due For Guide Posts

Applications for senior guide positions are now being accepted. All present junior guides are eligible. The applications must be at the Chi Omega house by March 9.

The applications must include the name and address of the person applying. The cumulative average must be given and a listing of this year's and next year's activities.

Suggestions and criticisms of the guide program should be given.

University Press To Publish Book

Syracuse university press will publish a book for the professional geographers written in non-technical language next week.

Prepared by a committee of outstanding geographers for the Association of American Geographers, "American Geography, Inventory and Prospect" was edited by Dr. Preston E. James, chairman of the Syracuse university geography department. Dr. James also served as chairman of the committee.

Other university faculty members who served on section committees were Dr. George B. Cressy on physical geography and Dr. Robert E. Dickinson on population and rural settlement and urban geography.

'Ebb and Flow' Sets New Time

"Ebb and Flow," a weekly series of interpretive readings, produced by Harriet Kushner, will be broadcast at a new time starting today, from 7:30 to 7:45 p.m.

Miss Rosemary Sinnett and Ray Irwin, from the School of Speech, will interpret scenes from Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest," and William Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew."

PHOTO CREDIT

Photograph of the megatherium cuveirix replica published in yesterday's paper was taken by Lee Jones.

Sparks Will Head New Radio Show

"Bachelor's Quarters," a new show produced over WAER, will begin tonight, and continue every Thursday night, from 6:45 to 7 p.m.

The show will be produced and written by Kenneth Sparks, publicity head of WAER's staff who will be featured at the piano with a relaxed style of singing and talking.

The first production will include "Getting to Know You," "It Might As Well Be Spring" and "I Believe." Dorothy Kirsten's "Do, Do, Do" will also be played.

A Phi O to Conduct Pledge Ceremonies

The Phi chapter of Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, will conduct ceremonies at 7:30 p.m. today at which the following students will be pledged: Robert Edgar, Hoden Patton, Thomas Kennedy and Richard Moss.

The pledging ceremony will be held at the Kappa Phi Delta house.

Speaking to the brothers after a business meeting, will be Walter H. Welch of the College of Forestry, who will discuss the water supply in the Syracuse area.

WAER Will Present New Monthly Broadcast Today

By DICK CASE

A new direction in campus broadcasting will be inaugurated at 9 p.m. today by radio station WAER with the presentation of "Anthology," an hour-long production from radio house.

The new monthly series will feature 60 minutes of drama, music and interview features on a variety of subjects. It has been in production for several months.

THE THEME of the initial broadcast will be the country of Spain and the problems of its recent revolution. "Live" music will be offered by the "Anthology" orchestra under the direction of Emmett Orlando, a graduate student in the School of Music. The five-piece group will provide selections reflective of the period stressed throughout the program.

The dramatic portion of "Anthology" includes "A Time To Die," a short story by Jean Paul Satre adapted for the broadcast by Ronald Gross. The cast numbers Willard Lape, Jr., Stuart Leslie, and Samuel Baskin in major roles. Original music for the drama has been written by conductor Orlando.

Gilbert Katz directs the dramatic segments of the program.

The debut of "Anthology" will also feature a special interview with Prof. Alfred Cope of the Maxwell School of Citizenship regarding his first-hand impressions of Spain during the Civil War. Dr. Homero Seris, of the Spanish department, will also be interviewed. Dr. Seris has assisted the producers of "Anthology" in supplying needed and valuable background information relating to the period.

IN THIS regard, an original poem by student Richard Elman, commemorating the life of Spanish poet Frederico Garcia Lorca, assassinated during the war, will be read.

A discussion will also be included with Orlando on Spanish music of this recent period of revolution. Recordings are utilized to demonstrate certain points.

WAER news director, Richard Ballentine, is host of "Anthology" and co-produces the broadcast with production director Edward Rasch. The script was prepared by Ronald Gross and Jane Werner acts as production assistant.

Proceeding on a monthly basis, "Anthology" will highlight a specific topic on each airing and build music, drama and similar features around the central theme. It is one of the largest of such productions ever undertaken by the FM outlet.

NEXT MONTH'S theme is slated to concern the "Titanic" disaster.

SYRACUSE DAILY ORANGE

THREE R'S OF A COLLEGE NEWSPAPER: RESPONSIVENESS, RESPONSIBILITY AND RESOURCEFULNESS

Page 2 — Thursday, March 4, 1954

Editor-in-chief ——— Arlene Lambert
Business Manager ——— Robert Goldstein

SENIOR EDITORIAL STAFF

Managing Editor ——— Arthur Siegal
Editorial Director ——— Hugh O. Muir
Executive Editor ——— Israel Caro
Sports Editor ——— Kenneth Leaf

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Edward Meyer, Joan Nadelhaft, Phyllis Sirota, Howard Vanhirk, Mary Vivian

BUSINESS STAFF

Asst. Business Manager ——— Sheldon Lassen
Layout Manager ——— Judith Berman
Classified Manager ——— Joan Iacobs
Circulation Manager ——— Anita Freyberg
Promotion Manager ——— Lloyd Eisenberg

DAILY STAFF

News Editor ——— Ros Brownstein
Night Editor ——— Roger J. Herz
Asst. Night Editor ——— Howie Van Kirk
Editorial Page Asst. ——— Grace Frary
Night Sports Editor ——— Al Gefen

Published by the students of Syracuse University.

Telephones: News, 75-5195, 75-5197; Editor, 76-1448; Business: 4-7206. Subscription by mail $6 per year, $3.50 per semester. Entered as second class mail matter at the Syracuse Post Office. Exclusive national advertising representatives National Advertising Inc., New York City.

New teeth

The organizations bill was given "teeth" yesterday when the Administration revealed it would not provide meeting rooms for those campus student groups which had not registered with student government.

Thus, with official sanction, the bill can at last become the measure visualized by its framers.

The absolute need for a complete listing of student organizations and personnel has repeatedly been pointed out in these columns.

Now that the "added incentive" has been given, it is probable that all organibations not yet registered will do so immediately. The final list is not complete and registration forms will continue to be accepted for several days. All organizations, including honoraries and excepting fraternities and sororities, must complete the forms.

The Daily Orange, after the registration file is complete, will presume that all organizations asking for "Notices" space have registered. We will, however, not check each name. This is the perogative of the student government civil service, the proper enforcement agency to notify offenders.

We urge for the final time that all groups cooperate with their governments. The rules have been outlined and the enforcement provided for those who need extra prodding.

We're certain no group would deliberately refuse to register; we hope we will lose no group because it forgets to register.

Editor-in-Chief

As time goes by

Time marches on—sometimes.

Too often only the students pay attention to the time, while the instructors talk happily on.

This is why so many students are late to their classes—and receive the anguished expressions of teachers who rightly detest lateness.

No doubt the best insurance against overtime classes would be clocks in every classroom. Until these are installed—if ever—solution must be found by the individual instructors.

It seems that instructors are notorious for having the time. Either their watches are fast, slow or have stopped minutes ago.

We suggest that profs set their watches with those in the halls and lobbies of classrooms.

Even if the instructors do have the right time, they often fail to look at their watches during class. Only the most conscientious teacher puts his watch in front of him as he lectures.

Some simple consideration by instructors could alleviate the whole problem.

True, a student inherently has the right to leave class at the scheduled time. But this is an impolite—and consequently rarely accomplished—action. If students did leave class while it was going on, the instructor would rightly feel insulted.

But the student, in his politeness, is often late for his next class.

It's true enough that often the period ends just when the class is getting "warmed up." But that is one of the problems arising in any class situation. We can only suggest classes be planned carefully and discussion renewed at later meetings.

Some thought for the students is called for.

It should not be necessary for all class buildings to be fitted with "high schoolish" bells which ring at the end of the class hour.

Managing Editor

SILENT VOICE

MAXWELL AMPLIFIER WON'T TALK

By MICHAEL BRAUN

Every so often in the middle of a class lecture on colonial expansion in 1732, we got to looking around, and time after time our eyes hit on the speakers which stand over the doors of Maxwell.

After mulling the problem over for a few months, we decided to investigate this strange phenomona. We hied over to buildings and grounds, where Mr. Moore holds forth over the electrical part of the department.

As we entered his office Mr. Moore was finishing the arrangements for the lighting for IFC weekend. When he finished we presented our problem to him.

"Why don't we go up to Maxwell," he said. "I'll show you how the system works."

As we were leaving the office we noticed a sign which read "Please Close Door GENTLY." We did, and headed towards Maxwell.

"You know," he said, "23 rooms in Maxwell are equipped with a loudspeaker but they never seem to get used. Students sitting in Maxwell or even in Crouse, can hear some one speaking from Chapel. A series of connections makes it possible for a speaker in any of these three places to be heard in the other two," he continued.

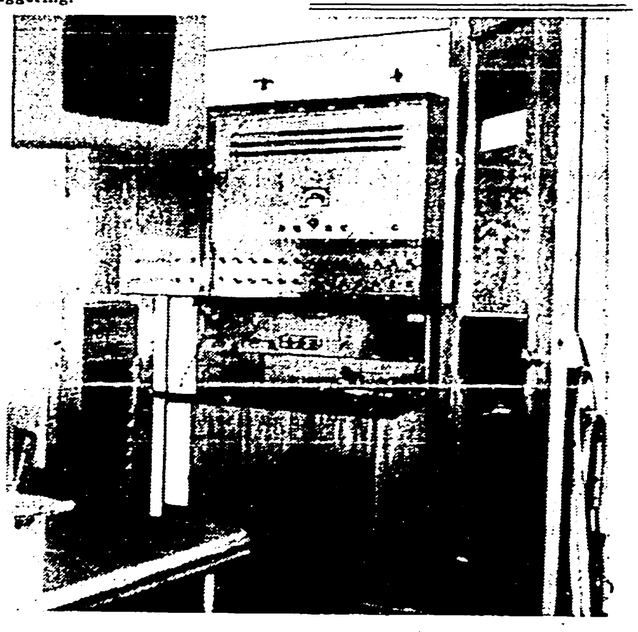
Once at Maxwell, we headed towards a room at the right of the auditorium. There, is housed the equipment, which, as Mr. Moore said, "makes it all possible."

The equipment consisted of a large cabinet which looked remarkably like an elaborate hi-fi set. Part of the set was a three speed phonograph. We started to suggest the advisability of music in the halls, but thought better of this wild dream.

Mr. Moore informed us that the main speakers were the two plates behind the speakers platform in Maxwell auditorium. "I guess most of the students thought they were just air vents," he said.

"Never been used in the classrooms, though," he remarked. "Only for overflow crowds in Maxwell and Crouse auditorium. It's really a shame, darn good system."

As we looked at the elaborate system that the University benefactors had provided for future generations, we contemplated the possibilities. A speaker standing at the lectern in Chapel, and being heard by eager students in Maxwell classrooms, Maxwell auditorium (or even in Crouse). The awesomness of the situation was staggering.



TWO MEMBERS of the University mechanical family which are rarely heard and less often seen. The large piece of equipment is the "Master" control of the loudspeaker system. The insert at upper left is one of the many speakers in Maxwell classrooms. This particular one holds forth in Room 111 . . . as silent as you see it now.

Photo by John Johnsrud

Complete Optical Service

Optometric
Eye Examinations
Glasses in Latest Styles
Broken Lenses
and Frames
Replaced Promptly

Lindemer

for glasses
Optometrists Opticians
440 SOUTH WARREN ST.
Phone 74-4244

Guilt by Association

Isolated Fanaticism

By HUGH O. MUIR

Editorial Director

The quaint American custom of "guilt by association" has now spread like a blight to international incidents.

The shots heard 'round the world in Washington Monday touched off a series of reactions in the Press. One of these answers to the terrorists is printed to the right. It is an editorial from the Syracuse Herald-Journal of Tuesday.

The reaction to it was one of indignation to the Puerto Rican.

Discussing the editorial with Vincente Muniz, a fourth year student in the school of architecture and a native Puerto Rican, we heard the following viewpoints. They seem to sum up a host of thoughts on the tarnished glittering generalities in the H-J editorial.

"Such writings create a prejudice against Puerto Rico, prejudices that are exploited by biased people in this country.

"We realize the need of the friendship and aid of the United States. But the attitude is important. The (H-J)editorial seems to imply that the U.S. outlook is merely that of giving and not helping our country.

"This small minority that makes up the terrorist Nationalist party are a few who have probably been mistreated somehow and are taking out their personal spites in the name of our country.

"These fanatical actions take on the form of political sabotage to the United States when backed by a communist movement.

"This unfortunate attitude, that of the superior feeling expressed in the editorial, is what is causing the United States to lose the ideological war in Asia."

Thus Muniz expressed himself about a problem that is far more encompassing than just the area of a 90 by 30 mile island in the Gulf. Applying the psychology of the H-J, we should have dismissed the South after the Civil War because of Booth.

If one tries to sum up the entire Puerto Rican problem in the immigrants in New York city, as the H-J has done, then he is overlooking some two and a half million people who have remained behind in Puerto Rico. He dismisses from his mind the work of large businesses who are establishing branches on that island to raise the economy.

Also quickly forgotten, in such an outlook, is the fact that Puerto Ricans fought in world war one, world war two and the Korean war.

In other words, this is just the type of panic that results in the "great security purges" in our government.

The United States position in the world is unfortunately built on palms crossed with silver. Our diplomacy strives to correct this rather unfavorable impression. But dispite these attempts, there is always someone who wished to take advantage of America's superior economic position and ram his ideas, (which are actually selfish aims for protection), down some unfortunates throat.

Such outlooks must be quashed for the United States to assume a rightful position in world leadership. We must lead . . . not hoot from the grandstand.

The wounding of five members of the House of Representatives by Puerto Rican terrorists has naturally appalled the country.

This is the second effort to assassinate American officials by this gang. An attempt on the life of President Truman was frustrated at Blair House.

The would-be assassins screamed "Free Puerto Rico" as they opened fire.

While this terrorist organization is not representative of the true rank and file of Puerto Rico citizens, we advocate granting that wish with the least possible delay.

Puerto Rico represents nothing but a headache to the United States. Puerto Rican immigrants have caused a terrific problem in New York city. Independence would eliminate the right of entry except on a quota basis.

Talk about biting the hand that feeds you!

Dean Hilton Reports

February 21, 1954

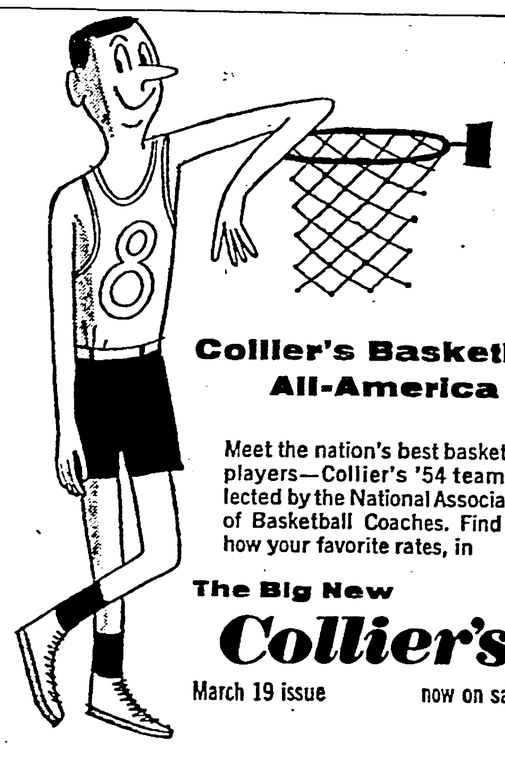
Don't tell me there are no more frontiers to conquer. Horace Greeley may have said, "Go west, young man, go west!" Today university men and women in our hemisphere might better say, "Go south, young man and woman, go south." South into a land that is just beginning to stretch its limbs and grow; south into a land where natural resources have scarely been touched and where services to human beings are in the making.

For six weeks, I have been seeing a land that needs everything. To be sure, Sao Paulo is the fastest growing city in the world. From the hotel window, one sees endless new skyscrapers with television aerials on top! But fewer than 200,000 families in the city of two and a half million can get pasteurized milk. The electricity is so limited, lights must be turned off for certain hours of the day. Hospital accommodation is not as great as we have in Syracuse. Machinery is scarce, is behind the times. And yet this is a fabulous city, the most advanced one I've seen in my travels.

There is plenty of opportunity in this continent for ambitious young people. But first we must cultivate trust and confidence. We must learn to know one another. Students must travel here as well as in Europe. We have Syracuse alumni in almost every large city to help pave the way.

We should turn the tide. Instead of having South American students coming to the United States and staying because of the high standard of living, we should be returning with them to their developing country. It would not be easy, but where is the pioneer who wants an easy task? The point is there are physical worlds yet to conquer in our hemisphere and human relationships to be built. I hope some Syracuse university students will be among those who help make this continent great.

—Dean Eunice Hilton



Collier's Basketball All-America

Meet the nation's best basketball players—Collier's '54 team selected by the National Association of Basketball Coaches. Find out how your favorite rates, in

The Big New Collier's

March 19 issue now on sale

LETTERARY COMMENT

NO AURA OF HERO WORSHIP

March 3, 1954

To Ed Meyer,
Associate Sports Editor,
The Syracuse Daily Orange

In due respect to the guts you showed in writing yesterday's column, allow me to point out the other side of the story—the pseudo-athlete's views. Mine, at any rate.

I have a SYRACUSE jacket, and therewith fully qualify as a "Marshall Street Athlete." To clinch it though, I am very much interested in sports. But, alas and alack, my cursed jacket does not bear any team emblem on it to signify that the wearer is an "Archbold Avenue Athlete."

Nonetheless, I have a sincere liking for my orange-and-blue cloak, It's warm, it's sportsy—a thousand pardons—it's informal and it associates with me the UNIVERSITY which I proudly attend.

There, Ed, is the point which you shouldn't have overlooked. My emblem-less jacket probably elicits a "There's a guy from Syracuse" statement. Fine. As I've said, I'm proud of this school.

But if you believe I wear a SYRACUSE (note absence of word: varsity) jacket in order to be surrounded by a vain aura of hero-worship, you're foolishly mistaken.

Granted, Ed, that the distinction of wearing a SYRACUSE VARSITY jacket has been lessened appreciably by the high number of SYRACUSE jackets that are around. Emphatically agreed too, that the "Archbold Avenue Athletes" should have a particular type jacket reserved for their exclusive use.

But please, Ed, don't make such sweeping generalizations about us "Marshall Streeters." We may have a couple of glory-hunters in our rank, but not enough to merit the 20 inches of type-space you allotted us. It would have taken less time to seek out these few vain ones, and give them a verbatum, then it did for you to write the first 16" of your column.

Don Henry

Vineyards by Vine

"Well, what is it Miss Jones? You have a question or do you want more wool?"

Going Out of Date?

Perhaps it hasn't any lasting significance, and yet . . .

One reporter on a local daily newspaper, which shall remain unnamed, wrote and handed in three stories yesterday.

All were dated 2-9-54. And a majority vote named the day as the third of March. There was some small disagreement over the year, but we passed this off as not being essential.

Can it be that the ninth day of February has a deep hidden meaning? Or is it merely a personal attachment?

YOUR OFFICIAL SYRACUSE UNIVERSITY CLASS RING

Class Rings

A LASTING MEMENTO OF YOUR COLLEGE DAYS — A RING YOU'LL WEAR and BE PROUD OF— A SYMBOL OF ACHIEVEMENT

UNIVERSITY BOOKSTORE

303 University Place

CHECK YOUR JACKET!

Everyone has checked his jacket at one time or another, but here is a check of a different nature! Let's check this smartly-styled McGregor reversible jacket, for instance.

$19.95

Check FOR QUALITY!

The very name McGregor assures you of the best quality campus wear. This deep-toned Gabardine jacket is not only durable, but wrinkle resistant and water repellent.

Check FOR STYLE!

Two distinctly different jackets. Wear a solid-colored blouse jacket today—tomorrow it's changed to a smartly-checked Sports Jacket. Either way it's collegiate, stylish, and colorful.

Check FOR PRICE!

Your choice of Black, Evergreen and Spice with matching linings for each color. Sizes 36-46. Yes, two jackets for the price of one, to make your Spring wardrobe more complete.

WELLS & COVERLY

334 So. Salina Street

Art—Jim Maneval Copy—Jack Chamberlaine

Along the Sidelines

By KEN LENT, DAILY ORANGE SPORTS EDITOR

"I think there's a distinct possibility that several world records will be set here." It was Ted Webster talking and he was referring to the NCAA swimming championships which will be held in the Orange pool from March 25-27.

The Syracuse splash coach was never more serious in his life. Over 50 colleges will be represented in the blue ribbon event including eight Olympic swimmers heading the cream of the nation's mermen.

The material will be there and Ted thinks that Syracuse has the place. "We have the fastest pool in the country," he says. "What makes a pool fast? I don't know. If I did, I could retire a millionaire."

"All I know is that my team has improved in its times tremendously. More than one visiting coach or swimmer has commented on it. It's something that is hard to explain."

One thing is certain. This year's NCAA's should prove to be the best in swimming history. Two holders of universal records, Dick Cleveland and Ford Konno of Ohio State, will be out to better their marks.

Both champs hail from a swimming paradise, Honolulu. Cleveland will be aiming to lower his 49.1 second record in the 100-yard a feat which is tantamount to the four-minute mile in track.

Konno, who was out with illness last year during NCAA time, is a heavy favorite to recapture his collegiate championship he gained in 1952.

Oklahoma sends what could be called their Diamond Trio from South Africa. The three have typical American names but their home towns are definitely untypical.

For instance, Graham Johnson calls Bloemfontein home, Pete Duncan comes from Pretoria and in Meiring hails from the good community of Pietermaritzburg.

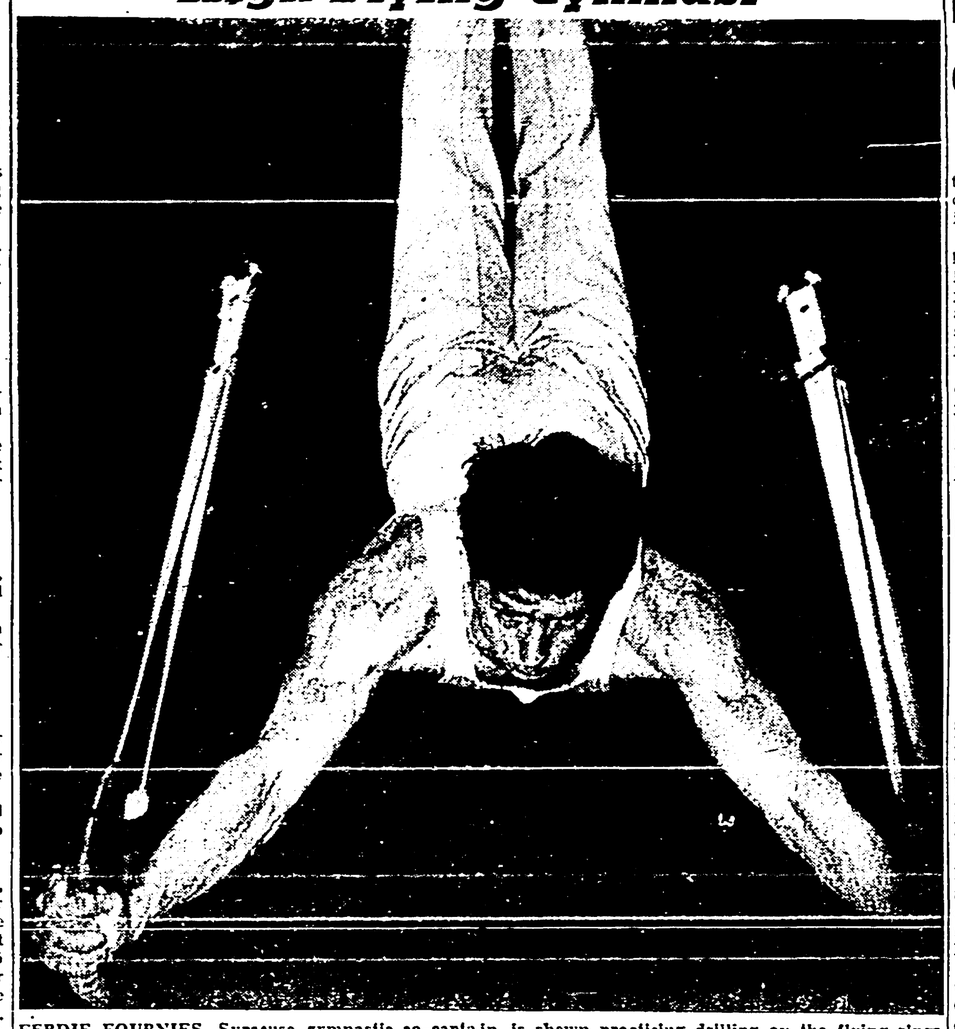
The details for such a huge event as this are mountainous. For instance, a special press table has been set up with a loundspeaker system right near it and with Western Union facilities set up in the nearby lounge.

Ticket sales for the meet are going briskly and it is expected that all of the 660 seats will be completely sold out. It'll be nice to see a sellout on the Syracuse campus.

• • • • •

ORANGE SLICES: Jerry Jaffe, Simmie's scrappy 131-pounder, learned just before his victory in the Wisconsin meet that his sister is expecting a baby in a few months. He says he won for the "little fellow" . . . Rumors are flying that several of the minor sports left without funds this year will have money to operate on in '54-'55 . . . Ted Kleinhans' baseball club plays Penn State in a double header for the second straight year . . . Vin Rigolosi and John Granger are favored to defend their Eastern titles a week from Saturday . . . Watch for some more eye-opening announcements in the near future concerning Syracuse's future grid schedule . . . The Orange gymnasts still have a chance for a second-place tie if they beat Army this weekend . . . The Syracuse university Pep Band, led by student leader Pete Manicas, will travel to Utica college to play at their final basketball game . . . If Cornell captures the Ivy league hoop crown, it will mark the second time this season that the Big Red took a championship and yet were embarrassed by losses to Syracuse. The first time was in football.

High-Flying Gymnast



FERDIE FOURNIES, Syracuse gymnastic co-captain, is shown practicing drilling on the flying rings for the meet with Army this Saturday at West Point. Ferdie, who will also see action in the rope climb and side horse, has had a very impressive gymnastic career at Syracuse and holds the Southern rope climb record with a time of 3.8 seconds.

Orange Gymnast Captain Ends Dual Meet Career This Saturday

By AL GEFEN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Saturday's meet with Army will be the last such entrance in dual competition for Ferdinand Fournies, Syracuse gymnast. Ferdie has competed the last three seasons in the flying rings, rope climb, and side horse for Coach Paul Romeo's squad.

Fournies first became interested in the sport when he was attending high school in Jersey City, N. J. At the time Gene Rabbitt, NCAA and AAU side horse titlist in 1951, was attending the same school, Henry Snyder High.

HE BEGAN to work out with his high school team during his sophomore year, but was forced to lay off for awhile after suffering a broken arm during his second week out for the squad. His interest in the sport failed to drop and he remained with the team as manager for the remainder of the season.

After five weeks as manager, he decided that he would most like to succeed in the flying rings event. When he was able to resume workouts, he practiced for hours on end, trying to master the art.

While in high school, he was coached chiefly by Rabbitt in the side horse. Although he was more impressed with the rings and seemed to have more of a knack for it, he improved considerably in the horse and began to enter organized competition.

Another of his coaches was Charley Keossean, who later enrolled in Temple and was captain of the team there in his senior year. Keossean, Rabbitt and Fournies, in addition to many other top-notch Eastern gymnasts spent most of their spare time working out on the apparatus at the Jersey City Department of Recreation.

FERDIE BROKE his leg during his senior year and was bedridden when his class graduated. After graduation, he expected to be called into the service, and therefore, worked at various jobs for a few years. He was not called into service, though, and started to think about college.

His first inclination was to enter Temple. Rabbitt, however, talked him into going to Syracuse and he entered on the Hill in February, 1951.

His first dual meet was against Navy. The Middies were the talk of the East, having such a great rings and all-around man in Hal Lewis. Before the meet, Ferdie was "scared stiff" but he won out in the rings and also took first place honors in the rope climb and a third in the side horse.

LAST YEAR in the NCAA's, Ferdie placed in a fifth place tie in the rope climb with a time of 3.8 seconds and finished sixth in the flying rings. He also did exceedingly well in the Easterns and dual meets a year ago and placed second in total scoring this year with 29 points accumulated so far.

A psych major in liberal arts, Ferdie is extremely interested in psychology and people. He is a member of the Air Force RO TC program and is thinking of attempting to obtain placement in the field of public relations following his two years of flight.

A psych major in Liberal Arts, perience in selling, real estate selling would also appeal to him. to him Ferdie is president of Pi Alpha Tau, Captains and Managers honorary.

Five Crews Begin Outdoor Practice

By DON HENRY
Daily Orange Junior Editor

With balmy March weather on the way, college crews all over the nation are eagerly awaiting workouts on the water. At least five crews which participate in the annual Intercollegiate Rowing association regatta are already having outside workouts.

Coach Walt Raney's Columbia oarsmen moved out to the Harlef River last week after working out in an indoor tank since Feb. 8. Raney is unusually optimistic this year. He lost only three oarsmen and a coxwain from the varsity shell which finished fifth in last year's IRA.

RANEY HAS an ample number of sweepswingers competing this year for varsity berths. Among these are Bill Temple and Manfred Spengler. Capt.-elect and stroke is John Pepas, up to 185 pounds from last year's 170. Raney terms him one of the best oarsmen in the country.

At Annapolis, Rusty Callow already has his boys out on the Severn. The Middies flashed across the line in first place last year at the IRA and this victory rounded out a string of 20 consecutive victories, including their Olympic win. Callow says his crew will be improved if not a real contender.

The Penn oarsmen have been on the Schuylkill river since Feb. 8. Coach Joe Burk has five boatloads of heavyweights. Jack Guest a Canadian sculler, is high on Burk's list. One of Penn's frosh candidates is Chick McIlvaine, the Olympic alternate for the famed Jack Kelly.

On the West Coast, California coach Ky Ebright gloomily admitted that his boys are a very doubtful factor in this year's competition. "I have five varsity oarsmen returning," he said, "but the '53 crew was not a strong one, and there aren't any stronger replacements."

VARSITY RETURNEES are stroke Beau Brack, Glenn Miller, Dick Rahl, Marshall Leve and Jacques DeLorimier.

Six members of the Stanford boat that finished in last place are on deck again this year. The Indian navy will tune up this season against USC, UCLA, Oregon State and California. The big test will be the Newport Regatta May 29.

The IRA will be held on Lake Onondaga again this year. The date is June 19. This year for the first time, the Syracuse Herald-Journal will underwrite the expenses.

Frosh Swimmers To Visit Cornell

Carry 3-2 Record Into Season Finale

By JEFF WENIG

This coming Saturday the Frosh swimmers will try to avenge their loss to the Colgate frosh last week when they journey to Cornell to take on the Little Red. Leaving from the gym by Greyhound, the frosh carry a winning 3-2 record with them.

Their victories have been over Erie Academy, Wyoming Seminary, and Manlius Military Academy. Their losses have been suffered at the hands of the Colgate Frosh and Albany academy.

Cornell is reported to have a very strong team and therefore Coach Ted Webster is not too optimistic as to the outcome of the meet. Colgate's frosh beat the Little Red in a close contest and Syracuse by only a few points, 39-36, so Saturday's races should offer some interesting events.

As has been the custom in the past few meets, coach Webster will mainly rely on the swimming abilities of his three stars, Jon Buzzard, John McGill and Graham Vandeveer. In the Colgate meet the three were once again placed together and came across with a victory in the 200-yard relay.

Those who will take the trip for the Orange will be, Jon Buzzard, John McGill, Graham Vandeveer, Jim Brewster, Dave Stoll, Chuck Kibling, Nelson Bogers, Ed Trosin and Jeff Wenig.

The meet against the Cornell Frosh will be the final one for the Syracuse mermen and they are hoping to pull their season's record way over the .500 mark.

This coming Friday in the Orange Pool the swimming team will sponsor a splash party. Admission is only 50 cents and it will start about 7:30.

ZBT Outscores Betas In Flight Title Clash

By EV MURCH

Zeta Beta Tau broke open a tight ball game in the fading minutes last night to down Beta Theta Pi 20-14 and clinch the Flight II Intramural basketball championship.

With eight minutes left in the contest and the score knotted at 11-11 Barry Ross dropped in four quick points on two fouls and a field goal to give the men of ZBT a lead they never relinquished. Ross also took high-scoring honors with nine, followed closely by Ron Frieman who dunked seven and did a great rebounding job.

FOR THE losing Betas Herb Steigler did a great job off the boards and poured in five points before leaving via the foul route.

In the Flight I championship game for Independents Skytop M-1 eked out a victory over Irving D-3-1, 15-14. It was another ding-dong battle, decided in the final two minutes on a rebound shot by Randy Stauffer of the winners.

Playing careful ball M-1 took a nine to eight lead at the half and held Irving even in the final period. Ed Lynn was high man for the Skytoppers with 7, while big Jerry Hoynaki was tops for Irving with 6.

The only game of the night on the old gym floor also saw a tight duel, this one between Phi Gamma Delta and Sigma Phi Epsilon. After Sig Ep had battled to a 9-9 tie with only a little over a minute remaining. Pete Schwert of the Phi Gams came to life with a foul and field goal to pull out a 12-9 victory.

LAMBDA CHI Alpha and Alpha Sigma Phi were the only teams to show any scoring power last night as the Lambda Chis rolled to a fairly easy 30-23 victory.

After a close 15-14 half, with Lambda Chi Alpha holding the lead, the Alpha Sig defense fell apart and with Wentworth leading the way the former went to town and piled up an unsurmountable lead.

Wentworth and Jim Woods of Alpha Sigma were high men for the night, garnering 11 points apiece.

New York Trounces Philadelphia, 88-79

The Eastern Division leaders of the National Basketball league, the New York Knicks, defeated the Philadelphia Warriors, 88-79, to stretch their lead over the Boston Celtics and Syracuse Nationals to three and three and one-half games, respectively.

Harry Gallatin and Dick McGuire paced the victors in scoring. Gallatin netted 20 points while tricky Dick poured 16 through the hoops.

Colgate Grid Tix Prices Increased

Choice reserve tickets for the annual Syracuse-Colgate football game will cost $4.80 next fall according to a joint announcement made yesterday by Directors of Athletics Lewis P. Andreas of Syracuse and William A. Reid of Colgate.

Tickets in the concrete and promenade sections of Archbold stadium will be raised for the Orange-Raider battle on Nov. 13. Field stand seats will remain at the current $3.60 price.

This is the first ticket increase for the traditional contest in more than a quarter-century. The athletic directors cited rising costs as the principal reason for the raise. They also said that the new prices were in keeping with those for many other traditional games throughout the East and other parts of the country.

Phi Ep Advances In Bowling Playoffs

Phi Epsilon Pi, after a slow start in winning their first game of the evening, went on to bowl over Alpha Epsilon Pi with an excess of 333 pins.

Both teams were flight champions with identical season records of 10-0, but the Phi Eps looked classy as they bowled their way, 9-0, into the finals for the intramural championships.

Outstanding for the Phi Eps were Ernie Shapiro, who totaled 503, Moose Stein with 508 and Lanny O'Kun with 519.

In other meets of the evening, M-4 beat M-2, 5-4; Delta Upsilon trounced Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 7-2; The Zebes beat Beta Theta Pi 5-4, and Phi Gamma Delta toppled the Dekes, 7-2.

FM WAER 88.1 PROGRAM SCHEDULE

THURSDAY

2:58—Sign On
3:00—WAER News
3:05—Symphonic Matinee
4:00—Musical Heritage
5:00—This I Believe
5:05—Distaff Digest
5:15—Dinner Date
6:15—WAER News
6:25—Evening Showcase
6:35—Bachelor's Quarters
7:00—Keyboard Concert
7:30—Ebb and Flow
7:45—Songs of France
8:00—Evening With Music
9:00—Anthology Premiere
10:00—Final Edition—News
10:10—Final Edition—Sports
10:20—Sign Off

ENGINEERING SENIORS...

NORTH AMERICAN AVIATION
LOS ANGELES
will interview here

MARCH 5

ATTENTION JUNE GRADUATES

Representatives of the PROCTOR AND GAMBLE DISTRIBUTING COMPANY will be at the placement bureau on March 11 to interview seniors who are interested in discussing the opportunities offered by a career in sales management.

For men who show promise of being able to assume the responsibilities of administration and leadership, the company offers opportunities for interesting and highly successful careers. Promotions are made from within the company and are based solely on initiative, ability and performance.

Those selected will begin their association with the company as salesmen in one of the nine sales departments. Intensive training in the fundamentals of selling and sales promotion is offered and qualification for promotion to managerial responsibility can be rapid.

We should like to talk to you now, irrespective of your status with regard to service in the armed forces. Men interested in exploring the opportunities here presented should contact the placement bureau, Slocum Hall, prior to March 10 where descriptive literature can be examined and interviews arranged.

INTERVIEWS—MARCH 11

Outstanding 47 to 49 day personally escorted Eight Country Tourist and Cabin Class Tours. All EXPENSES, only $1295 up—Finest All First Class LUXURY TOURS, 47 to 70 days $1875 up. Frequent sailings Mar. thru Sept. in QUEEN ELIZABETH or MARY. Small parties. Don't delay! Write now for free booklets, or phone

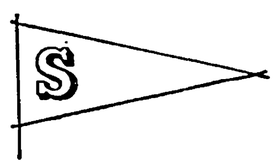
DUFFY TRAVEL SERVICE
Hotel Onondaga

MELTZER'S SANDWICH SHOP
Corner Irving & Harrison Ph. 4-7978

Serving complete luncheons and
• meat, dairy and fish dishes,
• home-made soups.
•

Serving those delicious sandwiches,
• dinners at all times — same
• quality, friendly service and low prices

CLOSED SUNDAYS
Fountain Service • Convenient Parking



The Winnah!

BOB McNEEKIN
Sigma Chi

The Score: Syracuse 106, Colgate 85
His Guess: Syracuse 87, Colgate 84

BAB, YOU WIN A $26.50 SCHICK ELECTRIC RAZOR

Once again Wells & Coverly brought you another series of sports Guessing Contests. We hope you have enjoyed these contests.
Any suggestions or comments would be appreciated.

WELLS & COVERLY
So. Salina St. • Syracuse

FRIDAY SATURDAY AT 8:15

L Y S I S T R A T A

A Few Seats Available For This Week's Performances

All Seats $1.00 And $1.50 At Drama Box Office

Outing Club to Sponsor College Folk Festival

Syracuse Angels

ANGELS' FLIGHT, new coeds' organization, holds their second rusher tonight. LT. GLEN C. TOMB, Air Force ROTC instructor and advisor to the group, discusses semester's program with NANCY BELL and ANN MIDDLETON, co-chairmen. Photo by Richard Green

Angels' Flight Slates Second Rusher Today

Angel's Flight, newly-organized campus activity, will hold its second rusher from 7:30-9 p.m. today in 313 Machinery hall.

The group of coeds is a service organization whose primary purposes is promoting knowledge about the Air Force and Air Force ROTC and promoting the progress of the military services. It received yesterday official greetings from Col. Robert P. Halloran, professor of air sciences and tactics.

HE EXTENDED his congratulations and continued good wishes for success to the members of the newly organized Angel's Flight.

Capt. Smith L. VonFossen, commandant of cadets and advisor to the organization, reaffirmed that the Air Force cadre and the cadet wing will continue to support with the full resources of AFROTC all activities of the Angel's Flight.

First Lt. Glen Tomb and T/Sgt. Frank C. Sinclair are assistant advisors.

At the first rusher Tuesday night, various activities for participation by the group were discussed according to co-chairmen Nancy Bell and Ann Middleton. These activities include assistance with the spring military ball, field trips to Air Force installations and work for the Red Cross committee in the spring blood drive.

OTHER ACTIVITIES include a trick drill squad and participation in the University women's rifle team. Members of the Flight will also audit various AFROTC classes. This privilege has been extended to all members, Miss Middleton said.

The group extends invitation, she said, to all campus service organizations to call on the Angels' Flight for assistance in their activities.

The first regular business meeting next Tuesday will be a constitutional meeting and the one following it will be held for election of officers.

Later meetings will include speakers in the military field and speakers for military honoraries, who will explain their organizations.

Charter memberships in the organization will be open until March 12, Miss Middleton said. Coeds with at least 1.0 cumulative averages can obtain further information at tonight's rusher or by contacting her at 801 Walnut ave. 76-2207.

Grads to Discuss Music Evaluation

During the regular weekly gathering of graduate students, from 7:30 to 11 p.m., tonight, in the Colonial room of Hendrick's chapel, an informal discussion will be held on "The Value of Music on Our Minds and Emotions."

Dr. Ernest Crank, Dr. Alexander Capurso and Dr. M. S. Dooley will speak, and the moderator of the discussion will be Dr. John Wong. The discussion is set for 9 p.m.

Refreshments will be served before and after the session.

Radio Bowl . . .

(Continued from page 1)

WSYR. Dr. Cady will hold special conferences with the recommended students and make final selection of panelists and alternates. Model questions will be reviewed and the students' strong areas of study will be explored in these discussions.

Names of the finalists will be revealed next week, Dr. Cady stated.

The Syracuse segment of the air contest will be produced by Edward C. Jones, assistant professor of radio and television. He will handle the selection of a site for the broadcast, the radio lines which will be installed and the other problems of airing the show from campus. The dance studio in the Women's building and Hendricks chapel are being considered as possible locations for the program. A student auudience will be admitted.

It will be taped at 8:30 p.m. March 25 and broadcast March 28.

Syracuse's opponent in the quiz will not be known until a week before the presentation since winning college teams proceed on a week-by-week. A team may continue in the quizzes until it is defeated. Washington and Lee won out over the University of Chicago in last week's "College Quiz Bowl."

Footprints . . .

(Continued from page 1)

Stanley Leff, Malcolm Foster, Robert Strader, Ellen Williams and Jane Dempsey.

Dr. Finck will also lead an informal discussion open to the campus at 7:30 p.m. at the Phi Gamma Delta house.

FOOTPRINTS WILL officially open at 10:50 a.m. Sunday in the Chapel. Dean Noble will preach a sermon on the conference theme and student sponsors and committee members will usher at the services.

A campus-wide reception will be held at 8 p.m. Sunday in the Alumni lounge of the Women's building. Student and faculty sponsors will be hosts at the affair.

Bavarian, Indian, Scottish, French Dances Featured

Dancing will be the order of the day when folk dancers from various eastern colleges and city dance groups gather in the main gym of the Women's building tomorrow to present the Folk Festival, sponsored by the Outing club.

In costumes representative of the countries from which the dances came, the groups will give their presentations from 7:30 p.m. to 12 midnight. Refreshments for the evening will be pastries typical of countries represented, baked by members of the Outing club.

THE NEW Bavarian Schuhplattlers of Penn State university will present a program of three Bavarian dances. Participating faculty members and students of the USAFIT program at Collendale will give Russian dances and songs.

Twenty-four members of the Outing club will demonstrate a French dance and a medley of Israeli dances. Groups of Latvian and Indian students on the Hill will present dances representative of their native lands.

The American-Scotish Dance Pipe, a group of folk dancers from the city of Syracuse will do the Highland Fling and the Sword Dance.

Another dance group from Syracuse, The Order of the Arrow, will give three American Indian Dances. Also presenting folk dances will be the Cornell Folk Dancers, the Buffalo Folk Dancers, who will give a selection of Swedish dances and the Ukranian Men's Choir, who will sing five selections and present four dance numbers.

THE COSTUMES worn by the members of the Outing club were made by the participants under the supervision of Toni Spano, vice-president of Outing club.

The festival opens Saturday afternoon with general folk dancing from 1 to 5 p.m. The afternoon dancing is open to all students on the Hill without charge.

The evening demonstrations are open to all with an admission charge of $.60.

Poster Contest Results Given

Robert Smith and Charles Beisch have been announced as the dual winners of the art poster contest sponsored by Chesterfield cigarettes.

The three judges, Jean Brydon, Arthur Koeppel and Arthur Siegel, are mailing copies of the poster to Cunningham and Walsch, the agency which handles Chesterfield advertising, to compete in the National Art Poster Contest sponsored by the Cunningham and Walsch Advertising Agency.

Smith and Beisch, who worked on the winning poster together, have each been awarded a carton of Chesterfields.

The poster will be on display in the Dutch Haven.

Utica to See Miss Burg

ALTA BURG, Hill baton twirler, will strut and twirl at Utica college tonight. The occasion is the final basketball game of the season: Utica Pioneers meet Hamilton college.

Syracuse university Drum Major Alta Burg and the Hill pep band will perform during the final game of the Utica college basketball team tonight in Utica. The Pioneers meet Hamilton college.

Alpha Delta Epsilon fraternity of Utica college is sponsoring the Syracusans' appearance at the game.

This is a repeat performance for the University band and Alta. They also appeared at the opening game of the Utica college hoop season in December.

Miss Burg, a freshman, is part of the now famous Syracuse tradition of nationally known and champion baton twirlers. Before Miss Burg's appearance, Dottie Grover, national sweetheart of Sigma Chi and Look cover girls, graced the half-time ceremonies and other pageantry here on the Hill.

Demolition Bids Due for Castle

Bids for the demolition contract for Yates Castle will be let on March 18, the office of the dean of the State university of New York College of Medicine at Syracuse announced yesterday. Demolition will begin April 1.

The State Department of Public Works will soon announce bids for construction of the proposed addition to the College of Medicine building on campus. Construction will begin as soon as the Castle has been demolished.

Its former tenant, the School of Journalism, is now occupying new quarters on campus in what was formerly the Women's gym, now known as Journalism center.

CLASSIFIED

IMPORTANT NOTICE—CLASSIFIED ADS to appear in this paper should be DELIVERED at the HELLBOX Classified desk between 1 and 3 p. m. NO ADS WILL BE ACCEPTED AFTER 3. ALL ADS MUST BE IN 2 DAYS IN ADVANCE. For further information call 4-7206.

ALL LOST ARTICLES should be turned into the CENTRAL LOST AND FOUND ROOM, 20 Bldg. 24 at 205 University Pl. Articles can be claimed there.

AUTO DRIVING INSTRUCTION. Learn to drive easily, correctly and safely. Call Upstate Auto Driving School. Phone 8-4040.

TYPEWRITERS RENTED: $3.00 per month, $8 3 months. Good selection. We deliver, Smith Brothers. 4-8833.

FOR SALE: Hi Quality combination record player, amplifier and FM tuner in one cabinet. High output (30 watts) suitable for dances, etc. 76-1698 or 72-1106.

EXPERIENCED stenographer will do typing at home. 9-4138.

UNIVERSITY SECTION—PLEASANT ROOM with private family. Call after 5 p.m., 4-5158.

Typewriters rentals—New Models Reasonable Rates—Expert Service, All Makes—CORNER STORE.

MIMEOGRAPHING, SAME DAY SERVICE, EXCELLENT WORK FREEMAN LETTER CO., ECKEL THEATER BLDG. 2-4829

1951 NASH RAMBLER HARDTOP: Grey body, red top. Like new. Original owner will sacrifice for quick sale. Will finance. Darrell Jones, 104 Clinton St., Homer, N.Y.

WANTED: Gals and guys who need application photos. Call Sarkin Studio, 708 E.Raynor Ave. 4-1145

CAMPUS NOTICES

Decorating committee for Frosh weekend meeting 4:30 p.m., 104 HL. Those unable to attend call Sabra Jones, 4-9360 or Dick Hazelton, 4-9711, and leave name, experience and time available.

Daily Chapel 12 to 12:30 p.m. Rev. Arnold Nakajima, Presbyterian Chaplain, will speak.

Art students association program, 7:15 p.m., Lowe Art center, lecture room. Color slides of the New York landscape will be shown by Don Snyder.

City women's club, 5 to 8 p.m., 309 Women's building.

WSG council, 4:30 p.m., 206 Women's building.

Pan-hel council, 7 p.m., 303 Women's building.

WAA group, 7 p.m., 209 Women's building.

Frosh weekend date committee, 4 p.m., 303 Women's building.

Basketball tournament, 4:30 and 7 p.m., 303 Women's building.

Senior assembly, 7:30 p.m., 305 Women's building.

Meeting of all junior officers of MSG, 7:30 p.m.

Syracuse publicity staff and all interested in joining staff, meeting 4:15 p.m., tomorrow, Phi Sigma Sigma.

Ticket sales for Frosh weekend. All interested meet 7 p.m., 104 HL. If unable to attend, call John Cullen, 4-9462, or Myrna Paul, 4-9550.

Frosh assembly meeting, 7:30 p.m. 207 HL. Request all Frosh weekend chairmen to be present.

Student faculty tea, 4 to 5 p.m., Alumni lounge, Women's building.

Freshman United Students party will accept applications for nominations for sophomore class until March 16. Applications should include name, phone number, ideas for the class, previous experience. Girls take application to Katie Jackman, Tri-Delt; boys to Don Fulsom, Sig Ep.

WAA fencing, 4:15 to 5:30 p.m., fencing room of the Women's building.

Yacht club exec meeting, 5 p.m. Women's lounge of Men's gym.

Yacht club shore school and team 7 p.m., HL.

Yacht club business meeting 8 p.m., 204 HL.

Graduate student discussion group 9 p.m., Colonial room, Hendricks chapel. "Value of Music and Effect on our Minds and Emotions."

City women's club supper meeting; 5 to 7 p.m., city women's lounge, women's building. Price 50 cents. Attendance imperative.

Pre-Med society meeting, 114 Lyman, 7:30 p.m. All pre-med and pre-dent students are invited to attend.

Reserved seating open hearing has been postponed to next week. Watch Daily Orange for time and place.

FLOWERS TELEGRAPHED
J. ALLEN DEAL
734 So. Crouse On the Hill

PARAMOUNT
JAMES STEWART
JUNE ALLYSON
"The GLENN MILLER STORY"
Technicolor
A Universal International Picture
Also "BLACK FURY" in color

Schine's ECKEL -- NOW PLAYING
THE SUPREME ADVENTURE OF OUR TIME!
THE CONQUEST OF EVEREST
Print by TECHNICOLOR
A Group Three Production
Made by Countryman Films
JOHN TAYLOR - LEON CLORE
GRAHAME THARP
Released thru UNITED ARTISTS

A FRIENDLY PLACE
FOR FRIENDLY PEOPLE
OUR SPECIALS DAILY:
A ¼ lb. of Ground Round Steak
(on a home made roll) ---------- 25c
A ¾ lb. T-Bone Steak
(U. S. Choice Beef) ---------- $1.50
482 SOUTH SALNA STREET Inc.
(Formerly the Turf)

AUTO ACCESSORIES FOR SPRING DRIVING
TIRE JAMBOREE SALE!!
FREE TUBE
with your purchase of every
REGAL SUPERTREAD
6.00 x16 12.69 Plus Fed. tax.
GUARANTEED 12 MONTHS against blowouts, rim & gloss cuts, tread separation, under-inflation misalignment.
-- SPECIAL --
Goodyear Rubber Recaps 8.95
"SAVON"
WATER INJECTOR
Deluxe Model reg. 9.95 NOW 7.95
Economy Model reg. 6.95 NOW 5.95
- eliminates carbon in the engine
- increases octane rating of low grade fuels
- will not harm your engine in any manner
- easily installed
- fits all cars
STRAUSS STORES
AUTO & RADIO ACCESSORIES—TIRES & TUBES
933 S. Salina St.

REGENT
"MISS SADIE THOMPSON"
Rita Hayworth
Jose Ferrer
Aldo Ray
Also
"GUN FURY"
Rock Hudson
Donna Reed

Now MIDTOWN Open 6:30 P.M.
Ends Today "The Lavender Hill Mob" and "Tight Little Island". Starts Tomorrow
LOUIS de ROCHEMONT presents
Martin Luther
A MAGNIFICENT MOTION PICTURE FOR OUR TIME!
"BRILLIANT . . . A TITAN! It could hardly be surpassed!"-N. Y. Times
"A FINE MOVIE . . . PROVES A HIT!" -LIFE Magazine

Today's Crossword Puzzle

By ISRAEL GITTER

ACROSS

1 Fine table linen
7 Swaps
13 Uninvited party guest
20 O'Neill's "The —— Cometh
21 Italian port
22 Violent outbreak
23 A snack
24 Like a snake
25 Secretary Talbott's man
26 Outside: comb. form
27 Grand or little
29 Shot ahead
31 Spanish aunt
32 Revel
34 Escapes: Slang
36 Panel pieces
37 Finest
38 Gulf near Aegean Sea
40 Exude fumes
42 Taste for music
43 A la ——
44 Haggard novel
46 Fish spears
49 Bridge framework
50 Affirming
53 Smallest
54 Puzzle
55 Vulgar fellow
56 Biblical V. I. P.
58 Hesitant expressions
59 Most impetuous
63 Unique thing: Colloq
65 Urban problem
67 Fruit cake ingredient
69 Day's march
70 Blanches
72 Valor
74 Pine sap
75 Highly skilled
76 Beginning
77 Famous prep school
79 The Amish, for instance
80 Football passes
82 Norse statesman
84 9,940 sq. mile lake
86 "—— Miserables"
87 Arrests
88 Leather strips
90 Strain
92 Smelting impurities
94 Fungi on cereals
96 Help
97 Tragic play by Euripides
98 Initials of a famous writer
100 Flesh
102 Type of car
106 General Bradley
107 Dresses
110 "Guilty" or "not guilty"
112 Leningrad's river
113 Rayon fabric
114 Authentic
116 Seamen
118 Forty winks
119 Large red star
121 Italian Artic explorer
123 Enumerate
125 Sturgeon
126 Less sharp
127 Seem
128 Classifiers
129 Positions
130 Quality of a cloudless night

DOWN

1 Stiff hats: slang
2 Locust tree
3 Wise friend
4 Chalice
5 Weakens
6 Toll of bell
7 Fishing net
8 Tear
9 Cupid
10 Pranks
11 Ordain
12 Most lustrous
13 Shell hole
14 Talks wildly
15 Among
16 Vichy, for instance
17 Makers of homburgs
18 Selfish ones
19 Value again
28 Swiss river
30 Guido's note
33 Flip a coin
35 Carnival performer
37 Metal ores
39 Climb a tree
41 Joint
43 Rougher
45 Son of Seth
47 A feature of many homes
48 "Pittsburgh" of Europe
49 —— la-la
50 Bread dish
51 Short poem
52 Frolics
54 Enemies of a free press
55 A resin
57 Trumpets
59 Urgency
60 Gifts for Grandma Moses
61 Flavors
62 Circus equipment
64 Conscience-stricken man
66 Product of Texas
68 Report card grade
71 Rock beds
73 Of the soft palate
78 Girl's name
81 Mr. Burrows
83 Ancient kingdom
85 Mythical mischief-maker
88 Repeals
89 Pace
91 British V. I. P.
92 Souvenir
93 Adjuster
95 Meat Curers
97 Marsh
98 Supplies
99 Where peat comes from
101 Oolong
103 Nylon's weight
104 An embodiment
105 Doilies, linen, etc.
107 Less restricted
108 Leather whip
109 Costly fur
111 City famous for tapestries
114 Escutcheon
115 Girl's name
117 Old Irish clan
120 Skill
122 Guided 124 Auditor

On the Inside
Students want more library hours. See page two.

Syracuse Daily Orange

Weather Report
SNOW AND COLDER
Low temperature ____ 10
High temperature ____ 22

Vol. 51, No. 83 | Syracuse, N. Y., Friday, March 5, 1954 | 4 Pages—5 Cents

Footprints Conference Will Begin Sunday in Chapel

Campus Civil Service Sets Spring Election for April 7

Over 3,500 Students Expected to Select MSG, WSG Heads

Spring elections will be held Wednesday, April 7, student government elections officials announced yesterday.

About 3,500 students are expected to go to the polls that day to cast ballots at seven campus polling booths.

ELECTED WILL be presidents of men's and women's student governments; six WSG junior officers; 27 MSG assemblymen; sophomore, junior and senior class officers; Red Cross co-chairmen; and Eta Pi Upsilon Spring weekend queen.

Also on the men's ballots for consideration will be an amendment to the MSG constitution that would allow vacancies in the MSG assembly to be filled without regard to the fraternity - independent city student ratio.

Political parties must post their $25 bonds by Wednesday, March 10, in accordance with the new political parties act. Elaine Greenberg, WSG elections commissioner, said that no extensions of that date will be granted.

Money must be deposited in the campus political parties fund at the treasurer's office, building 24, Miss Greenberg added. The University account number is 1680.6.

RECEIPT OF the payment must be presented to civil service before Wednesday.

Petitions of prospective candidates for class offices and MSG candidates should be submitted by March 23. Forms are available at the MSG office, building 30, or at the WSG office, third floor of Women's building, between noon and 1 p.m. and 4 to 5 p.m. daily.

Civil service will review the eligibility of candidates and release the official list of candidates March 30. Campaigning is scheduled to begin that day.

Names of the two candidates for WSG president and the 12 women who will run for junior officer posts will be announced at the

(See ELECTIONS, page 4)

Howard Osofsky Sole IFC Nominee

Howard Osofsky is the sole nominee for president of Interfraternity council, it was announced Wednesday night at a regular meeting of IFC.

Robert Lefko and Peter Turner are the only nominees for the position of vice-president.

Osofsky, nominated by George Taback, will run uncontested when IFC votes on the new officers at the next meeting, March 17. He is presently vice-president of IFC and is chairman of the council's Social Action committee.

A city student, and member of Sigma Alpha Mu, he has been an IFC representative for three years.

Lefko, Delta Tau Delta, was last year's co-editor of "Meet the Greeks," and chairman of the IFC representatives for two years.

Turner, a sophomore and member of Kappa Sigma, was chairman of the fraternity presidents' manual committee. Both vice-presidential nominees have been IFC rperesentatives for two years.

IFC Sing applications will be accepted today at the latest, it was announced at the meeting. Also needed from the houses are the duplicate lists of members and pledges. These should be turned in at the Dean of Men's office.

Forms of Judaism Discussed at JSF

Conservative, reformed and orthodox Judaism was the main topic of discussion at Wednesday's Jewish Student fellowship meeting.

Under this heading such questions as the three separations of Judaism, the differences between a Jew and a Christian, the Kosher home's influence on the continuation of Judaism and the makings of a Jew were discussed.

Copies of the more significant parts of the meeting may be obtained by anyone interested from Mrs. Arlene Rothman, Jewish counselor, in the Chapel board room.

Dance Planners

WINNIFRED DAWE and JAMES CARR discuss plans for the Senior ball which will be held during Spring weekend. They were appointed co-chairmen of the event by the senior executive council.
Photo by Lee Jones

Exec Council Selects Senior Ball Chairmen

Two Liberal Arts seniors, Winifred Dawe and James Carr, have been appointed co-chairmen of the 1954 edition of Syracuse's traditional Senior Ball. The dance is slated to be held May 8, tentatively in the Women's building.

Appointed by the senior executive council, the chairmen will coordinate all activities of the annual Spring weekend event.

MISS DAWE, a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority, is a major in political science. Her campus activities include traditions commissions, the debating team, Sno-ball committee chairman, campus chest house rep, Ski club, Boar's Head and Westminister fellowship.

Carr, a public address major, is president of the defunct Student Union and a member of the Chapel board. His other activities number Syracuse-Rochester club, co-chairman of the Footprints conference and student browsing library, recreation policy and planning commission, Book Mart and campus leaders.

Applications are now being accepted for the various sub-chairmanships for the Ball including promotions, arrangements, checking chaperones, decorations, entertainment, tickets, posters and refreshments. These are to be turned into Barbara Suchy, Delta Gamma; or John Beach, Phi Gamma Delta by Tuesday, March 9, before 5 p.m.

THE COMMITTEE will be selected on Thursday by the senior exec council. Plans for the dance will be formulated at that time.

The 1953 Senior ball, "Reminiscing With You", featured Skitch Henderson and his orchestra.

Journalism School Schedules Dinner

Students in religious journalism and literacy-team journalism at the School of Journalism will have an informal dinner in Drumlins Country Club at 6:30 p.m. today.

Prof. Roland E. Wolseley, who helped organize the religious journalism work at the school, will speak on the subject, "Basic Journalism Problems in India." He was in India during 1952-53 to establish a journalism department at Nagpur university.

Miss Patricia McCoppin, a 1952 journalism graduate, will be a guest of honor at the dinner. She sails next week for Burma, where she expects to do literacy work.

All journalism students and other interested persons may attend, according to Prof. Robert Root, head of the religious journalism program.

IDENTIFY "ON" PICTURES

Representatives of all student organizations having space in the 1954 Onondagan are requested to come to the Pi Beta Phi house, 210 Walnut pl. today to identify the pictures of their organizations. Otherwise, the pictures will go in the book unidentified.

Friday Eve Dance Features Concert

A concept of classical music will be presented simultaneously with tonight's dance which will be held from 8:15 p.m. to midnight in the dance studio of the Women's bldg.

The recordings will include: Haydn, Symphony No. 94 and 97; Bach, Brandenburg Concert No. 1; Vivaldi, Four Seasons; Mozart, Symphony No. 40 and Clarinet Quintet; and Hindemith, Four Temperment.

A preview of "Esperanto," folk festival which will be presented this weekend by the Outing club will also be held.

Cards, checkers, cribbage and chess may be played in the lounge throughout the evening.

Mrs. Margaret Bonisteel and Miss Margaret Parker are advisors of the Women's building student activities committee.

J-SCHOOL LABS TO TRANSFER NEXT TUESDAY

Journalism classes that have been meeting in 105 and 207 Castle will meet in prefab 7 behind Maxwell, effective Tuesday.

Dean of the School of Journalism Wesley C. Clark said yesterday that classes now meeting in Marsulo in the saber and Ed Wang, 105 Castle will meet in 7 E; and classes that meet in 207 Castle will meet in 7 F.

Orchestra Presents First Performance

Concert to Honor School of Nursing

Syracuse university's symphony orchestra will give its first performance of the year, a free concert, at 4 p.m. Sunday in Crouse auditorium. The program will honor the School of Nursing.

Director for the recital will be Dr. Alexander Capurso, who has headed Syracuse's School of Music for five years. Concert master and associate director will be Louis Krasner, former concert master of the Minneapolis symphony orchestra under Dimitri Metropolis.

DR. ARTHUR Poister is the featured organ soloist for the afternoon. Director of the Hendricks chapel choir, Dr. Poister recently returned from a recital at Davidson college in North Carolina.

The Bach-Ormandy choral prelude, "Sleepers Awake," will open the program. This will be followed by Handel's organ concerto No. 5 in F Major, featuring Dr. Poister at the organ. The larghetto, allegro, Alla Siciliana and Presto movements will be played.

The orchestra will next play Symphony No. 7 in C Major by Schubert. The Allegro, Scherzo, and two andante movements, will be featured. The program will close with Weber-Szell's "Perpetuum Mobile."

Although this is its first recital, the 60-piece symphony orchestra has rehearsed weekly under Dr. Capurso's direction since the beginning of the fall semester.

Although made up mainly of students and faculty from the School of Music, the organization includes students from other schools such as the Engineering and Forestry colleges and the School of Home Economics.

As usual, the symphony orchestra will present two concerts this year. The second will take place in May.

Child Performers Featured Tonight At Dance Festival

Two children will be featured performers in the demonstration groups at the Folk Festival at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow evening in the main gym of the Women's building.

The young dancers are representatives of the American-Scottish Dance Pipe and the Ukranian Men's choir.

KATHERINE WALKER, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Walker, 160 Strafford ave. will dance the Highland Fling and the Sword dance.

For her numbers Miss Walker will wear authentic Scottish costume of the Royal Stewart tartan.

In both numbers she will dance to the wail of the bagpipes, which will be played by Joseph McGill, pipe major of the American-Scottish Dance Pipe.

The Ukranian soloist is Raymond Kitt, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Kitt of R.D. No. 3, Kinne rd. Kitt will present the Hutzulik, the gay dance of the woodcutters of the Carpathian mountains.

PARTS OF his costume came from Europe. For the dance he will carry a Ukranian instrument used by the woodcutters. It was hand carved by a Hutzulik, woodcutter, of the Carpathian mountains with grains of wheat pounded into it, symbolizing that this region is the wheat belt of Europe.

Members of the St. Philips Episcopal choir, under the direction of Miss Louise Miller, an alumna of Syracuse university, will present a selection of Negro spirituals.

Also participating in the festival for which Rev. Arnold Nakajima is master of ceremonies are members of the St. Louis Club Dramatic Circle, who will demonstrate two Polish dances and members of the Schenectady Folk dancers, who will give on Mexican number.

Thirty-one members of the Cornell Folk dancers will participate in the festival. The group will present three dances. The Maxixe, one of the selections, is a very intricate Brazilian dance.

Phi Ep Joins USP States Chairman

Phi Epsilon Pi, which broke from Tri-Orange party last week, has joined United Students party, Robert Garver, USP chairman, said yesterday.

At a meeting of the party this week, merit board and elections committee members were set up. Barbara Foust of Alpha Xi Delta was named campaign chairman for spring elections.

Strategy Talk

COACH ROY SIMMONS of the Orange boxing team is shown giving strategy t oFRANK GUELLI in preparation for the shifty soph's bout against CCNY's Richie Evans tomorrow night in Archbold gym.
Photo by Lee Jones

Pugilists Will End Season Tomorrow

By JOEL FEIDELMAN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

The last home appearance of the season for the Syracuse university boxing team will take place tomorrow night at 8:30 in Archbold gym as the Piety pugilists play host to CCNY in a tuneup for the coming Eastern tournament.

The Orange will be definite favorites in this, their last dual meet of the season. CCNY was defeated by West Point, 6-2, in its only match of the year, while the Orange are entering the ring with a 2-2-1 record.

ALTHOUGH THE City College encounter isn't considered a shoo-in for the charges of Coach Roy Simmons, most of the attention around the practice ring in Archbold stadium this past week has centered on the coming Easterns at Virginia and NCAA's at Penn State.

Aside from the 147-pound spot, the Syracuse lineup will be the same as boxed against Wisconsin last weekend. Artie Nelson, sidelined from the Wisconsin match, has been slowly recovering from strained muscles and Simmons is indefinite on whether the sturdy junior will fight tomorrow.

Nelson sparred yesterday for the first time this week, and barring repurcussions he will probably see action against the Beavers. If he is unable to fight, Simmie has the alternative of using unexperienced Sandy Edelman in the 147-pound class, or forfeiting this weight.

The rest of the Hill lineup remains the same, with Frank Guelli opening the evening at 125-pounds as he vies with CCNY's co-Capt. Richie Evans in what should be a very close fight.

JERRY "THE Spoiler" Jaffe will oppose Tilden Halperin of the Beavers at 132-pounds while undefeated John Granger will be met by Mary Morris at 139-pounds.

Soph Don Gabay of CCNY will meet veteran Larry O'Sullivan of the Orange at 156-pounds. O'Sullivan has lost several extremely close decisions this year, and is looking for a change of luck tomorrow.

Undefeated Vince Ringolosj faces Lou Levitan of the Beavers at 165-pounds followed by the Bruce Yancey-Arnie Slomowitz bout at 178-pounds. This should be the feature bout of the evening as Slomowitz is rated the outstanding member of the Beaver squad.

Sam Alexander of the Orange will meet Marty Reich of CCNY in the last bout of the evening—the heavyweight scrap. The Orange footballer has improved with every outing and is now coming into his own as a boxer.

'Lysistrata' to Play Eighth Performance

Misses Hush, Fenner Star in Greek Comedy

Lysistrata, the current Boar's Head production, will play its eighth performance at 8:15 p.m. today before a near-sellout audience in the drama building playhouse.

The Sawyer Falk interpretation of Aristophanes' satirical comedy of ancient Greece features Barbara Hush, Shirley Fenner and Gerald Leider in major roles.

"Lysistrata" is the first Boar's Head production of 1954 which is the golden anniversary of the dramatic honorary on campus. The drama opened Feb. 18 after some 13 weeks of rehearsal.

Directed by Prof. Falk, director of dramatic activities on campus, the play deals with a rebellion of the female population during one of the wartime periods in ancient Greek history.

Tickets, priced at $1.00 and $1.50 may be obtained at the box office on the first floor of the drama building. Block seating may be obtained at a reduced rate.

Program Sponsors Evening Reception To Spark Interest

By LIZ GODDARD
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Footprints will make its initial impression on campus at 10:50 a.m. Sunday in Hendricks chapel when Dean Charles C. Noble preaches a sermon on the conference theme.

Members of the student committee and campus leader sponsors will usher at the service which will start the three-day conference.

AIMED AT stimulating thought about basic philosophies, this is the first such conference to be held on the Syracuse campus.

A reception, open to the entire campus, will be held from 8 to 9:30 p.m. Sunday in the Women's building Alumni lounge. With student and faculty sponsors as hosts, it will serve as a pep rally before the three religious figures arrive to lead lecture and discussion programs on Monday and Tuesday.

Dr. A. Powell Davies, liberal Unitarian minister and pastor of All Soul's church in Washington, D. C., will give the opening address at 10 a.m. Monday at the Chapel.

His talk on the nature of man will be followed by an hour's discussion and coffee in the Colonial room.

DR. E. G. Homrighausen, professor at Princeton Theological seminary and leader in the Presbyterian church and World Council of Churches, will make his first campus appearance at the noon Daily Chapel service.

His main address on the nature of God is scheduled for 3:30 p.m. in the Chapel auditorium.

Reservations for block seating at the evening colloquium will be accepted until noon tomorrow by Miss Marguerite MacKinnon, in the loan counselor's office of the Chapel Board room. Groups may also phone 76-3571, ext. 209.

The colloquium, which will be moderated by Dean Noble, will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Chapel auditorium. Its theme will be "What Are the Claims of Religion."

IN ADDITION to Dr. Davies and Dr. Homrighausen, the panel will include professors George B. Cressey, Frederick Haucke and William P. Hotchkiss. Discussion will be stimulated by questions submitted by students during the day.

The nature of truth will be discussed by Dr. Joseph L. Fink, Jewish community leader of Buffalo, at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the Chapel auditorium.

He will also speak at Daily Chapel at noon and lead a student panel discussion at 3:30 in Maxwell auditorium on "Campus Religion: An Answer to Skeptics."

Participating in the forum which will be followed by discussion and tea, are Robert Strader, Malcolm Foster, Stanley Leff, Jane Dempsey and Ellen (Billie) Williams.

AN INFORMAL discussion open to the campus will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Phi Gamma Delta house, 732 Comstock ave.

In addition to the regular program, the speakers will also lecture to classes, dine at campus living centers, and make television appearances.

Dr. Davies and Dr. Homrighausen will be interviewed on WSYR-TV Monday afternoon and Dr. Fink will make an appearance over the same network on Tuesday.

Interviews Slated For TTK Students

More than 200 coeds enrolled in the Through the Keyhole program will be interviewed for women's student government positions from 2 to 6:45 p.m. Sunday at the home of Dean of Women Marjorie C. Smith, 817 Comstock ave.

WSG President Mary Anne Dalton announced yesterday that all coeds who are unable to attend interviews at their scheduled times must contact one of the senior officers before noon Sunday.

The schedule follows:

2-2:30 p.m., Aaron L. through Bredt, E. 2:30-3 p.m. Briggs, G through Devilbiss, M. 3-3:30 p.m.: Ditchik, G. through Halpern, J.

3:30-4 p.m.: Hanna G. through Keane, A. 4:15-4:45 p.m.: Keiles, A. through McMillen, M. E. 4:45-5:15 p.m.: McPeak, S. through Rigdon, J.

5:15-5:45 p.m.: Rosen, J. through Shuman, S. 5:45-6:15 p.m.: VanWinkle, L. through Zahniser, L.

Freshmen 'Mayor' Finalists Chosen

Six freshman finalists were chosen Wednesday night to vie for the title of "Mr. Universally Yours, Mayor of Martian St." The six candidates, one of whom will be honored at the "Universally Yours" semi-formal Saturday night of freshman weekend, were chosen from over 20 nominees representing freshman dorms and fraternity-pledge classes.

Ballots will be distributed this weekend to freshman dorms, including Washington Arms, Skytop, freshman sections of Collendale and freshman women's cottages, and voting will take place at Sunday night housemeetings. Ballots must be returned in sealed envelopes to Marilyn Gordon and Ehid Rothenberg, Sims II.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF the "Mayor of Martian St." will be made in the freshman edition of the Daily Orange, Friday, March 12.

The finalists include:

David T. Boreanaz, who represents Skytop M-9, and is enrolled in the School of Speech and Dramatic Art. From Buffalo, N. Y., he is interested in sports, particularly basketball, baseball and football.

Arthur Browner is the nominee of Phi Epsilon Pi pledge class, of which he is vice-president. A Brooklynite, he is enrolled in Liberal Arts, pre-law. He repre-

(See MAYOR, page 4)

"MR. UNIVERSALLY YOURS, Mayor of Martian Sreet," will be chosen from these six finalists to reign over "Out of This World" Frosh weekend. Standing left to right are DAVID BOREANAZ, MICHAEL MINKO and RAUL MENDEZ. Seated are ROBERT PEARCE, DAVID JOHN and RUTH ANDERSON, co-chairman of the publicity committee which is sponsoring the contest. The sixth finalist, Arthur Browner, could not be present.
Photo by Lee Jones

SYRACUSE DAILY ORANGE

THREE R'S OF A COLLEGE NEWSPAPER: RESPONSIVENESS, RESPONSIBILITY AND RESOURCEFULNESS

Page 2 — Friday, March 5, 1954

Editor-in-chief ——— Arlene Lambert
Business Manager ——— Robert Goldstein

SENIOR EDITORIAL STAFF

Managing Editor ——— Arthur Siegel
Editorial Director ——— Hugh O. Muir
Executive Editor ——— Janet Caro
Sports Editor ——— Kenneth Lent

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Edward Meyer, Joan Nadelhaft, Phyllis Sirota, Howard Vanklrk, Mary Vivian

BUSINESS STAFF

Asst. Business Manager ——— Sheldon Lassen
Layout Manager ——— Judith Berman
Classified Manager ——— Joan Iacobs
Circulation Manager ——— Anita Freyberg
Promotion Manager ——— Lloyd Eisenberg

DAILY STAFF

News Editor ——— Jack Reilley
Night Editor ——— Polly Reed
Asst. Night Editor ——— John Johnsrud
Editorial Page Asst. ——— Pearl Bernstein
Night Sports Editor ——— Dave Bennett

Published by the students of Syracuse University.

Telephones: News, 75-5195, 75-5197; Editor, 78-1448; Business: 4-7206. Subscription by mail $6 per year, $3.50 per semester. Entered as second class mail matter at the Syracuse Post Office. Exclusive national advertising representatives National Advertising Inc., New York City.

'Lights' homeless

Jerry Leider put the problem into the proverbial nutshell yesterday: "'Up in Lights' needs a place to rehearse."

Because Yates Castle must be inspected beginning next week, the cast must end rehearsals there tomorrow afternoon.

Searching desperately for a rehearsal hall, Leider, the director of the show, said that no place on campus is available.

The cast prefers a central location, but varied spots would suffice if no other could be found. Space will be needed for three or four weeks, until the show moves into rehearsal at the Astor.

Leider said if the show were to move into the Astor now, production costs—and consequently ticket costs—would increase 15 per cent.

He emphatically told us yesterday that the show is "going great but it might go out the door if we can't rehearse."

He called for alumni and student support. "We will take any place. Four walls and a roof and 25 x 30 ft. floor space. We'll rent a piano."

Let's find them a place.

Managing Editor

The man—the idea

Rust is settling upon the "Man of Steel."

One year ago today the world learned that Josef Stalin was dead. At the age of 74 he had been the apex of a vast empire that was tainted with both the vastness and brutality of the Tatars.

The free world rejoiced. But in the thinking of the people there was little realization that the death of a man did not mean the death of an idea.

And the passing of Stalin, even in the short perspective of one year, reveals the insignificance of one man in the tide of events.

For with his passing, no fantastic change has appeared. In fact, the crest of communism has passed him on to its rendezvous with history.

By now we should realize that the fear of a few tainted individuals in our midst will serve little in the long run. We must concentrate our efforts to crush the fearful idea of communism.

One must fight ideology with ideology and win the war of ideas by example. And our example to the world should be confidence in our nation to beat what remains as the ghost of Stalin: the ideological purge.

Editorial Director

Library 'blue law'

Two graduate students have complained in a "letter to the editor" about the facilities of the main library.

Dr. Miller explained satisfactorily two of their objections—Friday night closing and noise. However, the reply to the remaining query seems insufficient and needs greater amplification.

These students are not the first to question why needed books may not be taken from the library on Sunday.

We do not deny that only a skeleton staff is on duty, but these same people do go into the stacks for books during these Sunday hours. How much extra work is created by a person wishing to keep the book?

The call slip must be stamped as well as the card in the book. These must then be filed.

We suggest that this "no take home" policy be re-examined. The one minute extra for stamping does not seem sufficient to warrant the existing conditions.

Editor-in-Chief

LETTERARY COMMENT

LIBRARY CRITICISM & ANSWER

Essential

February. 28, 1954

To the Editor of The Daily Orange:

It hardly seems necessary to reiterate that a library is an essential element of any university. Thomas Jefferson thought it important enough to place it in the "dominate position" in his plans for the University of Virginia. Its position at Syracuse university, outside of geographic location, is anything but dominate.

For what reason is it closed Friday evenings? Syracuse university advertises "free inquiry . . . a widening of the fields of knowledge . . . the training of scholars." Are the two compatible?

For what reason can book loans not be made on Sunday? Do scholars use this day as one of complete rest? Does inquiry stop on Sunday? Do the fields of knowledge narrow on Sunday? Is the training of a scholar so artificial that it can be turned on and off at will?

For what reason should one be forced to tolerate the noise and distractions in the library? Is it not the function of a library staff to see that inquiry, knowledge, and training are not impeded by such factors?

Granted that the library facilities are not all that is desired but it seems fair to ask why they should be limited even more.

Syracuse university maintains a large graduate program and apparently pressure will have to come from this source if we are to have the type of library facilities that we need and desire.

John T. Mallan
George M. Platt

Problems

In an interview this week, Wharton Miller, Director of Libraries, answered the questions of the two graduate students that are expressed in the above letter.

He emphasized that the main library is open a total of 72 hours each week, while stating the lack of student use on a usual Friday night as the reason for the library not remaining open at that time. He added that some years ago the library had been open Friday evening, but students who did use it came only to study and not use books or reference facilities of the building.

The opening of the library on Sunday afternoons is a result of staff members volunteering their time so that the students may use the facilities for the extra two and a half hours. Because of the volunteer system of staffing the library on Sundays, only a skeleton staff is on duty. The smaller staff is not able to operate the circulating service in addition to all other duties.

The noisy condition in the main reading room was credited by Miller to the physical structure of the room and the location of the lending desk in the reading room.

He pointed to the general tendency of students to talk as they work in a larger room while a small room would discourage conversation. Also mentioned was the "supervisory" plan of the library put into effect several years ago. This plan, no longer in use, employed a type of Library proctor. However, the constant reminding of students that they were to be quiet seemed to have little or no effect on the group.

Miller added that the doors to the lobby have been closed to prevent noise entering the reading room from that source. He asked that any other suggestions of methods to eliminate noise be brought to his office.

Special desks are provided for graduate students on the third floor of the main library and all grad students may apply at the loan desk for use of these facilities.

Miller stressed that he is always open to constructive suggestions on improvement of library facilities from the students and urged that any student with such an idea or problem see him in his office on the first floor of the main library.

A Double Exhibit at Lowe

Typewriter History Shown

By JOANNE HESS

"Are you a slave to the pen? Smith Premier will emancipate you." Sound familiar? Hardly. Not so many years ago, this ad was a new hit in Syracuse, but then so was the typewriter—it was a novel creation looked upon with awe and interest, much like colored television is today.

When you enter the Lowe Art Center today, you'll be rushed back to the days when the typewriter hit the public. Stanley Dodds and Richard Remnitz, seniors in the School of Industrial Design, have been working for many months to recreate the history and evolution of this machine. The Everson Museum of Art is sponsoring the exhibit.

Picture shows MISS SHOLES, the first woman typist, operating an early model in 1872. This model is one of the old styles on exhibit at the Lowe Art center. The exhibit, opening today, traces the history and evolution of typewriters from early days to the present.

"We're going to show the first L. C. Smith typewriter," Stan Dodds told us, as he gave us a brief preview of the display. "We also have the original portable typewriter Teddy Roosevelt took with him on a hunting expedition."

The boys are featuring documents, models and colorful miniatures that the public can operate. Starting with the very first document of the invention of the machine, the exhibit displays early models up to the very sleekest one of today.

"Here's a fascinating example," Stan said, pointing out a very old machine. The keys stuck from the bottom and were attached to a spherical device. Our attention then shifted to a peculiar cage-shaped one, which we learned was an early step in typewriter evolution.

"This is a copy of the first patten by Sholes, Glidden and Soule—copyrighted July 14, 1868," Stan pointed out. "It was a beginning step in American history, but actually England appeared with some attempts in 1714. The first successfully commercial typewriter was the Remington, invented in 1874."

No Theme In Print Exhibit

From cartoons to seascapes and woodcuts! Quite a switch for an American artist, but Feininger, a contemporary American, did it very successfully. His works will be a highlight at the March art exhibit, opening today at the Lowe Art Center. Feininger, a violin enthusiast, lived in Europe for many years. He used to draw cartoons for the "Chicago Tribune". Carrying on the artistic tradition, his son is now a well-known photographer for "Life" magazine.

As we wandered among the various prints, we noticed an especially impressive one. Marcelle Gromaire, a contemporary French artist, pictured a man at a piano in colored etching form.

"We are featuring some 35 prints," one of the art professors told us. "They are mostly in the line of etchings, portraits, lithographs, and figures. Unlike last month's exhibit, there is no set pattern or theme."

Harper's Culture Spree

By ART SIEGEL
Managing Editor

Harper's magazine, a "high-type" magazine has an article this month on "America's Passion for Culture" by Jacques Barzun. One of our favorite profs once admonished a class, "Don't get your economics from Harper's.

A cursory glance told us that economics is not a direct part of the article and we read on.

Barzun, in a thoughtful analysis, illustrates how superficially America is going all out for culture—and that we have reached the point where government subsidies for struggling artists are actually being proposed.

One of the problems illustrated is whether we should encourage more competition in the actual creation of the arts, or whether we should let the struggling artists struggle and the successful ones just be successful.

Barzun cites the case of the community that employs an artist for a work of "culture" and then tells him what it wants—specifically. True, he is being subsidized and he is no longer struggling. But the result is that he has become just another part of the industrial machine that started 100 or so years ago.

The question then, "Can we allow . . . a vested interest in cultural affairs?"

Obviously, no. Although on the surface it seems as if this "passion" for culture is real, it is only a "fickle" emotion.

There is no question, as Barzun states, that listening to Beethoven's Op. 95 is trouble.

At best he can hope that those who find that the immediate trouble is worth the long-range effect of appreciation and that the appreciation in all potentially artistic persons is developed to its fullest.

But no subsidies. The better artists will come to the fore and the poorer ones go into some other field, through the simple quality of excellence.

What is the way that culture must be treated? Those who enter do it without primary thought of eating.

But let us not be deceived into thinking that we must bring more artists into the world.

Subsidized art would not be true art. We don't need a bigger supply of the creative talents. We are living in a "cultural" inflation.

AN EVENING IN

Good Taste: Good Music, 'Anthology'

By DICK CASE
Editorial Page Writer

We will forgive the good people in the radio house if they present an appearance of extreme exuberance this day. It is a well-deserved glee.

The source of this is an hour-long magazine-of-the-air which was debuted last night over WAER at 9 a.m. The broadcast was called "Anthology."

In a word, "Anthology" is an audio showcase which aims to offer a thorough insight into a specific topic . . . the subject of this first show being Spain; its music, its people, its history. Let it be said that WAER brought out an excellent performance.

Glib Dick Ballentine acted as "managing editor" of "Anthology." Randy Place was announcer. The show was divided into several segments; a discussion of Spanish music, with recorded examples, a discussion with Dr. Alfred Cope on his experiences in Spain during the 1938 revolution and a drama, "Time To Die," adapted by Ronald Gross from Satre's short story. An original poem by student Richard Ellman was also performed with beautiful technique.

Throughout the broadcast and foremost in the drama, original music written by Emmett Orlando and performed by a studio orchestra was injected with an excellent result. Mr. Orlando did "Anthology" proud with his top quality score.

AT THE FLICKERS

Triumph Both C Mountain And Movie

By CHARLES SAMUELS
Daily Orange Movie Critic

The Supreme Adventure

On the proverbial morning after the night before, it would seem that no superlative can accurately convey the stunning impact of the Eckel's present film, "The Conquest of Everest." We can only tell you why it must be seen. You must experience it for yourself.

It is easy to say that the power of "The Conquest of Everest" stems from the awesomness of the mountain itself. The power of the film is due to this, but it is due also to a multiplicity of other factors. First, we have some of the most breathtaking photography of some of the strangest scenery, ever presented on a motion picture screen. But this film has something else, something less tangible than good photography, commentary or music, something that puts it apart from all of the films good, bad or otherwise that we see during any year. That something is the indescribable thrill of witnessing man's conquest of the snow-white roof of the world, a thrill at once, overwhelming and unique.

The sense of exaltation that communicates itself to the audience when the marker is thrust into the summit of Everest is a sensation guaranteed to leave you limp. A film of consummate artistry profound understanding and overwhelming force; this is "The Conquest Mallory said, "We climbed Everest because it was there." See the film because it is there and because it is magnificent.

Author and Minister

THE FOOTPRINTS

Dr. A. Powell Davies

"The Urge to Persecute," a discussion of McCarthyism and its effects is the most recent book of Dr. A. Powell Davies, Footprints conference speaker.

A leader in public affairs, he served as chairman of the Emergency Conference on Civilian Control of Atomic Energy in 1946, president of Food for Freedom from 1946-47 and on the board of directors of Federal Union, inc.

Dr. Davies is a member of the board of trustees of Meadville Theological school, University of Chicago board of directors of the Unitarian Service committee and the National Advisory Council of Protestants and Other Americans United for Separation of Church and State.

Former president of the Liberal Ministers' club of New York, he served on the council of the National Committee for Mental Hygiene.

Dr. Davies, born in England, received his BD from London university and his DD from Meadville Theological school in 1947 after coming to the United States in 1928.

He was ordained to the ministry of the Unitarian church in 1925, having parishes in London, Portland, Me., and Summit, N. J., before going to All Souls' church in Washington, D. C., in 1944 where he is currently pastor.

Author of "Faith of an Unrepentant Liberal," "The Tempetation to be Good" and "America's Real Religion," his major address on campus will be on the nature of man.

MODERN STYLES
EYEGLASSES ON CREDIT
Eyes Examined
No Appointment Necessary
1 to 24-Hr. Service
FASHION RIGHT
BROKEN LENSES AND FRAMES REPLACED PROMPTLY
City Opticians EYEGLASSES
Open Daily—Sat. 9 A.M. to 6 P.M.
N. H. Blabov, Reg. Optometrist Phone 2-6083
211 E. FAYETTE ST., COR. S. WARREN, SYRACUSE

ENGINEERING NOTICE
The Glenn L. Martin Company representative will visit the campus on March 8, 1954 to discuss opportunities for graduating seniors of the College of Engineering.
Contact your placement office for appointment and further details.
The Glenn L. Martin Co.
Baltimore 3, MD.

Tonight... Let's Dance!
To the Scintillating rhythms of Johnny Francher's Band
Smooth dance music, delightful supertime snacks, superb drinks.
You'll have a wonderful evening
And how about giving "tonight out" a big sendoff with dinner
Dance every weekend at the Travel Room!
Travel Room Hotel Onondaga
PAT MILLER V.P. & MNG. DIR.

$10 ALL STEEL TABLE FOR $1
With This "Book Size"
SMITH-CORONA PORTABLE
Smooth writing 9 lb. Skyriter (inc. case). Smart green enamel steel typewriter table.
TYPEWRITER 67.50
TABLE 1.00
BOTH 68.50
Plus 4.15 Tax
Rudolph's
DEPENDABLE JEWELERS SINCE 1906
CORNER SOUTH SALINA AT EAST JEFFERSON STS.
Expert Watch and Jewelry Repair Service

Freshmen! Vote For
Dave Boreanaz
For Mayor
Of Martian St.

STOP HERE
• SEE THE NEWS OF YOUR HOUSE OR DORM •
ON A BULLETIN BOARD
Framed Cork Boards — 18x24 Inches $6.15; 24x36 Inches $8.65; 36x48 Inches $14.40
Magnetic Memo Boards — 8x10 Inches $1.00; 11x14 Inches $1.98
BARDEEN'S
543 EAST GENESEE STREET

MEMORY LANE
INVITES YOU TO AN
AFTERNOON OF DIXIELAND
LOU DESANTIS
AND HIS DIXIE-LAND JAZZ FIVE
SUNDAY, 3:30 to 7:30
2849 South Salina Street Phone 75-9549

DRUMLINS
Dancing Every Saturday Night
One of the Largest Ballrooms
In Central New York
Williamson's Parisians★ Dick Kowell's Orchestra
Tomorrow Night Williamson's Parisians
$1.75 per couple (tax inc.) | City Bus Marked Drumlins | Dancing 8:30 to 12:30

BIG SALE ON SOCKS
57c A PAIR All Were 75c and 85c
3 PAIRS FOR $1.50

SLEEVELESS ORLON SWEATERS
Light Blue — Tan — Grey
SPECIAL $4.95
40% CASHMERES-SLEEVELESS NAVY and GREY $10.00

LAST CALL!!
For Ski Sweaters at 40% OFF (Mainly In Girl's Sizes
LUND'S UNIVERSITY SHOP
738 South Crouse Avenue
Phone 75-1459

SHOP WHERE THE COLLEGE SHOPS

Only RCA VICTOR brings you
THE ORIGINAL GLENN MILLER
recordings

This is the only album of music from the new film performed by Miller and his band. And what a hit parade of old favorites it includes:

American Patrol, In the Mood, Tuxedo Junction, Pennsylvania 6-5000, String of Pearls, Little Brown Jug, Moonlight Serenade and St. Louis Blues.

These are the songs that will bring back memories of the eventful years before World War II, when the big band was "king"—and the Miller theme set all young America swaying in tempo.

You heard these hits on the radio, you danced to them, you collected the records. Now they're on the way back—more popular than ever. No matter how many Glenn Miller records you already have, you'll want to own this compact hit collection.

On "45 EP" $2.94
On Long Play $3.15
Prices suggested list, including Federal Excise Tax. Add local tax.

OLMSTED'S
Varsity Victrola Shop
754 S. CROUSE PHONE 4-7478

Grapplers, Mermen Meet Big Red Teams

Hill Wrestlers Invade Ithaca For Saltine Final Dual Me t

By DON HENRY
Daily Orange Junior Editor

The Syracuse varsity and freshman wrestling teams leave at 1 p.m. today for Cornell, where they will close the dual meet season tonight. The frosh meet starts at 6:30 and the varsity gets under way at 8 p.m.

Three Orange matmen will be making their last appearance in dual meet competition. They are Murray Winer, Hank Gobetz and Garlad Harris.

IN ADDITION to the senior trio, Coach Joe McDaniel will go with juniors Dick Anderson at 123, Ed Weisz at 130, co-Captain Ed Rooney at 157 and George Finck at heavy. Sophomore Tom King rounds out the roster at 137.

The Big Red grapplers are a solid team with no outstanding boys. Boda, Blackman, Steiger, Farrell and Soars are all average or better - than - average wrestlers. If comparative statistics are a reliable indication, Cornell should be favored.

The Ithacans whipped Franklin & Marshall, 18-6, while the Orange were dropped, 19-13, by the Pennsylvanians. Both teams lost to Penn State however, but Cornell cut the margin less than Syracuse did.

One of the biggest notes of interest to Orange fans will be Ed Rooney's match with Farrell in the 157-pound class. If the amazing Rooney wins the match, it will mark the second straight year that he has been undefeated in dual meets.

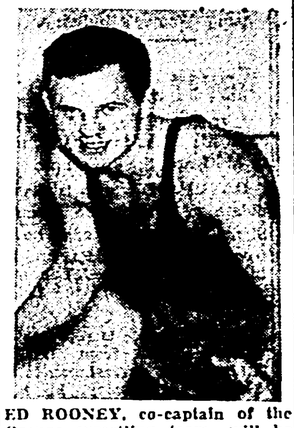
LAST YEAR Rooney won seven dual matches and he has advanced that number to 14 so far this year. Rooney's slam-banging style and his experience place him as one of the favorites in this year's Easterns, to be held March 12 and 13 at Cornell.

While the varsity will be looking for its third win of the season against five losses, Coaches Dick Beyer and Enzo Marinelli will be after a fourth win for their frosh grapplers.

In the first match of the season, Cornell's yearlings whipped the frosh, 27-10, but the first-year men have come a long way since then. After losing their second meet to Wyoming Seminary, the Tangerines have won three in a row.

Beyer and Marinelli will use the same eight wrestlers that soundly whipped Oswego last week. Don Clark will open at 123, followed by Jim Rooney at 130 pounds. Winnie Rushnell, Jaap Boosman and Ron Marinelli will handle the middleweight chores.

THE LATTER four all got pins in last week's match. At 167 pounds the Tangerines have Bob Smith, followed by Jim Leutze at 177. Bob Gage rounds out the lineup at heavy.



ED ROONEY, co-captain of the Orange wrestling team, will be looking for his fifteenth straight dual meet victory tonight when the Syracuse matmen close the season at Cornell.

Both Smith and Marinelli have undefeated records for the frosh. Smith has five wins and Marinelli has four. Lightweights Don Clark and Jim Rooney also sport good records. Both have identical 4-1 slates, the lone loss having come at the hands of their Cornell opponents.

Piety Gymnasts Face Cadets Tomorrow In Important Meet

By AL GEFEN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Coach Paul Romeo's Piety gymnasts are leaving this morning for West Point and tomorrow afternoon's clash with Army, which may be the most important meet for the Syracusans this season.

The Orangemen have a chance to move into second place in the Eastern Gymnastic league. The Hill apparatusmen must defeat the Cadets at the same time as Navy takes the measure of Temple, in order for this to become possible.

COACH TOM Maloney's Army squad contains the greatest strength in the rope climb, tumbling, parallel bars and flying rings. Romeo concedes that Army will probably garner nine points in tumbling to Syracuse's seven.

The Cadets should give the Orange duo of Fournies and Felice quite a run for the first few places in the rings. John Ballentyne, Eastern rings champion in 1953, and John Funkhouser, third in the same competition a year ago, give the Cadets a strong one-two punch.

Jay Edwards stands out for the Black Knights in the parallel bars. He will be rivaled for honors by John Barkal and Milan Trnka of the Orangemen.

Ron Johnson and Fournies will do battle in the rings. Army has to be conceded the advantage as the meet will be staged on their home grounds. This factor de-emphasizes the fact that Syracuse appears the stronger of the two on paper.

Freshmen Hoopsters Face LeMoyne Today

By DAVE BENNETT
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Syracuse's fine frosh basketball team, winners of 13 of 14 games thus far this year, plays its season finale tonight against the well-regarded LeMoyne college yearlings at the downtown Jefferson Street armory. Starting time for the contest is 6:30.

Coach Andy Mogish's quintet will be looking for its second victory of the campaign over the Dolphins. The Hill squad pinned an 83-71 loss on the crosstowners last month at Archbold gym.

VIN COHEN and Gary Clark were outstanding in the earlier win over LeMoyne. Both boys will be in the starting lineup again tonight, along with Jim Snyder, Lou Stark and either Vin Albanese or Jim Brown. Niel Wilcox and Jim Roper can also expect to see much service as the Tangerines play their last game in freshman livery.

A win tonight would give the '53-'54 yearlings as good a record as last year's sensational frosh. Last season's edition of the first year five compiled an 11-1 record.

The only mar on the slate of the '52 cubs was a loss to Cornell in an early season encounter. A win later in the campaign over the Big Red avenged that defeat, however.

This year also, the only setback came at the hands of a team later beaten by the frosh. Colgate defeated the Pietymen at Hamilton in February but the Syracusans gained revenge in a contest at Archbold later in the month.

The game tonight is a preliminary to the LeMoyne varsity-Siena test. A traditional encounter, the Dolphin-Indian battle is the annual season closer for the crosstown squad. A big crowd, therefore is expected at the Armory for the biggest doubleheader of the year for the teams from LeMoyne Heights.

Are you Engaged?
Graduates from 321 American colleges and universities have spent their honeymoon at America's unique haven exclusively for newlyweds, and found the perfect start for married life. Beautiful cottages in complete seclusion... wonderful meals . . . leisurely atmosphere, and the company of gay young people with similar tastes and backgrounds. Mention dates and we'll send our helpful THREE HONEYMOON PLANS.
THE FARM ON THE HILL
Swiftwater 94, Pa.

YESTERDAY'S SOLUTION

D	A	W	A	S	K		T	R	A	D	E	S		C	R	A	S	H	E	R
I	C	E	W	A	N		A	I	M	I	N	T		A	P	A	S	E
C	L	A	M	A	P	E		A	P	O	D	A	L		A	V	I	A	T	O	R
E	C	T		S	L	A	M		R	O	C	K	E	T	E	D		T	I	A
R	I	O	T		L	I	A	M	S		S	I	T	I	L	E	S		B	E	I	S	T
S	A	R	O	S		R	E	E	K		E	A	R		C	A	R	T	E
		S	H	E		L	A	N	C	E	S			T	R	U	S	S
P	O	S	T	I	N	G		L	E	A	S	T		C	R	U	X
C	A	D		N	O	V	A	L		E	R	S		N	I	E		E	D	I	T
O	N	E	R		S	W	O	G		P	E	C	A	N		E	T	A	P	E
P	A	L	E	I	S		B	R	A	V	E	N	E	S	S		R	E	I	S	I	N
A	D	E	P	T		O	N	S	E	T		E	T	O	N		S	E	C	T
L	A	T	E	R	A	L	S		L	I	E		E	R	I	E		L	E	S
		N	A	B	S		R	A	N	D	S		S	T	R	E	S	S
W	A	I	T	T	E		E	R	G	O	T	I	S		A	I	D
M	E	D	E	A	S		S	E	A	T		N	I	E		S	E	D	A	N
O	M	A	R		F	R	O	C	K	S		P	L	E	A		N	E	V	A
R	E	P		O	R	I	G	I	N	A	L		T	A	R	S		N	A	P
A	N	T	I	A	R	E	S		N	O	B	I	L	E		R	E	C	I	T	E
S	T	E	R	L	E	T		D	U	L	L	E	R		A	P	P	E	A	R
S	O	R	T	E	R	S		S	T	E	A	D	S		S	T	A	R	R	Y

shop Friday night until 9 for unusual value buy

Edwards
SYRACUSE OWNED & OPERATED

Edgerton
SHOES FOR MEN

"The Sussex" Burgundy sizes 6½ to 12

"The Sussex" — calf Moccasin Style
$12.95

Edgerton Shoes are built to a price . . . but by a management of long experience in the production of uncommon quality

The result is a shoe that will flatter both your pride and your purse! Made by a division of Nunn Bush. Other Edgerton Styles from $12.95 to $15.95

Edwards Men's Shoes, Street Floor

By BOB GROGAN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Syracuse university's swimmers will help Cornell officially open its new pool tomorrow when they oppose the highly favored Big Red in a dual meet slated for 2:30 p.m.

Coach Ted Webster of the Orange knows little about the new pool except its official title (Teagle Hall) and the fact that it is standard size. He regards Cornell as the toughest foe on the Syracuse schedule.

CORNELL overpowered Colgate two weeks ago and the Red Raiders had little difficulty besting the Piety swimmers. Main goal of Syracuse will be to keep the score respectable.

Bob Downing, Orange backstroker, may go down to his second straight defeat since Pete Wolf of Cornell beat him in the Niagara AAU's earlier in the season. Prior to the Colgate meet, Downing had been undefeated in his specialty—the 200-yard backstroke.

Fred Piersol, captain of the Big Red swim team, is a fine sprinter who will probably enter both the 50- and 100-yard freestyle races. Bob Beaumont of Syracuse should give him the most trouble in his quest for a double victory.

Dick Corner, Cornell's ace diver, is rated by Webster on a par with Colgate's Bill Underhill. Underhill had little trouble defeating Ed Gozigan so the Orange hopes for a win in this event are very slim although Gozigan has improved with every meet.

Kev Wilson of Syracuse and Roy Sawnson of the Big Red are expected to stage a close battle for top honors in the individual medley. Jim Sutton is another probable Orange entry in this event. Sutton is a senior who is swimming in his first season as a varsity performer.

Hill Fencers Host To Strong Buffalo

The Orange fencers will be after their second win this evening at 7:30 when they cross blades with the Buffalo swordsmen in the old gym.

Expecting a tough battle, Coach Ben Burt will start Captain John Goldstein, George Wooding and Joe Gresser in the epee; Willie Schop, Abe Gilman and Jerry Marsulo in the saber and Ed Wang Saul Klein and Bodo Trenk in the foil.

Flowers for all Occasions
Corsages — Weddings
Cut Flowers
FLOWERS by MARIE
948 E. Genesee St.,
75-4393
(Member of Student-Discount Service)

CAROMA
A Restaurant of Distinction
Steaks - Chops - Broilers
Italian Cuisine Our Specialty
Baked Lasagna—Raviola—Cacciatore—Hot Pizza
402 Lodi 74-2119

Come On Down To
DEB'S
DRIVE-IN LOUNGE
SERVING THE BEST IN
HOME COOKED FOOD
"The Hill Rendezvous"
Bottom of Crouse Hill
On Erie Blvd.
ALL LEGAL BEVERAGES

MUSIC
As You Like It
by
The Tony Riposo QUARTET
Featuring
Lovely
★ ANNA MARIE
Winner of
Chance of a Lifetime

Friday, Saturday, Sunday Night
Special Food Prices for Hill Students
CASABLANCA
253 East Water Street Phone 3-9512

WARNING—More than once we have had to turn people away on big weekends because all our cars were reserved far in advance. Don't let this happen to you. If you have that "big date" or formal coming up soon, be sure you hurry and reserve your R. S. Roble Date Special now. Remember an R. S. Roble Date Special offers you:

1. A car from 6:00 P.M.—8:00 A.M.
2. Free Gas, Oil and Insurance
——All this for $5.50 and .07 a mile.

R. S. ROBIE, INC.
Address 104 MADISON ST.
Telephone Nos. 3-6223—3-7744

HOW TO BE POPULAR AND SAVE MONEY, TOO!

Special Introductory Dance Course Now Being Offered At All Arthur Murray Studios

4 PRIVATE LESSONS
ONLY $9.50

Now good times can be yours quickly, easily and at surprisingly low cost. For just this month Arthur Murray is offering a special introductory course of 4 half-hour private lessons at a special price. You'll be thrilled how much you will learn in these 4 half-hour lessons, thrilled too, at how much more popular you are when your dancing is up to date. So don't wait, come in now while this offer is in effect.

ARTHUR MURRAY
490 South Salina
Phone 2-5586
● Arthur Murray, Inc.

LAST DAY
DON'T WAIT -- COME IN NOW!
THIS AMAZING LOW COST OFFER
EXPIRES TOMORROW, SAT., MARCH 6

PARAMOUNT

Also "BLACK FURY" in color

Freshman Weekend Buttons for Sale

Buttons advertising freshman weekend will be put on sale this weekend in Sims dining hall, the basement of Slocum and Maxwell.

Designed by Jerome Parmet, weekend publicity co-chairman, the buttons are bright yellow with a black space ship and the lettering "Out of This World—Frosh Weekend." Sale of the buttons, which are priced at fifteen cents, is in charge of Ellen Wallace, of Marshall cottage.

Schine's ECKEL -- NOW PLAYING

THE SUPREME ADVENTURE OF OUR TIME!

THE CONQUEST OF EVEREST

Print by TECHNICOLOR

遠東

Serving Mandarin Dinner
At All Times
There's Nothing to Equal
The Food at The

FAR EAST

121 W. ONONDAGA ST.

Chinese and American Cuisine

EXPERTLY PREPARED GRACIOUSLY SERVED

Open Week Days & Saturdays 11 A.M. to 12 P.M.

Sundays 12 Noon-Midnight Tel. 3-9880

TOPS IN TOWN FOR FUN AT THE CLOVER CLUB
featuring
RAY CALDIERO
and his ALL-CAMPUS FOUR

DANCING
FRIDAY • SATURDAY
9-1

No Cover or Minimum

SUNDAY NITE
JAM SESSION -- DANCING with
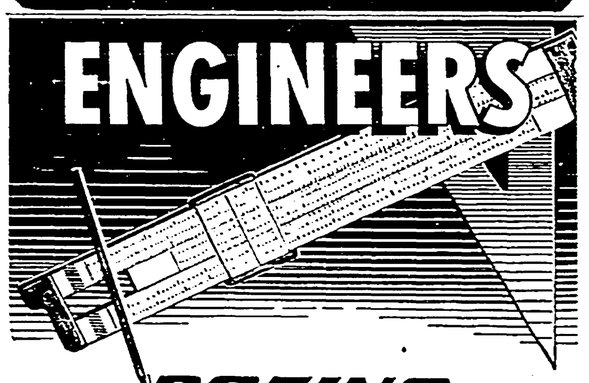
RAY CALDIERO

6:30 ---------- to ---------- 10:00

The CLOVER CLUB

Almond & Cedar Sts. Reservations Phone 75-9612

ENGINEERS



BOEING
AIRPLANE COMPANY

will conduct
PERSONAL INTERVIEWS
on campus
MARCH 9 and 10

Group Meeting will be held at 4:15 p.m. March 8

Boeing has many positions open for graduating and graduate students. These opportunities are in all branches of engineering (AE, CE, EE, ME and related fields). Also needed are physicists and mathematicians with advanced degrees.

Fields of activity include DESIGN, RESEARCH, and PRODUCTION. Your choice of location: Seattle, Washington or Wichita, Kansas.

A group meeting, first day of campus visit, will precede personal interviews. Details of openings, nature of assignments, company projects, etc., will be explained. Married students are invited to bring their wives.

Come and learn about these excellent opportunities with an outstanding engineering organization—designers and builders of the B-47 and B-52 multi-jet bombers, America's first jet transport and the BOMARC F-99 pilotless aircraft project.

For time and place of group meeting and for personal interview appointments—Consult your

PLACEMENT OFFICE

BOEING
AIRPLANE COMPANY

Seattle • Wichita

Robert Barth Dies Of Blood Poisoning Wednesday Night

Robert Barth, a graduate assistant in accounting, died suddenly of overwhelming blood poisoning in the student infirmary Wednesday night.

Barth, who would have been 25 in May, was admitted to the infirmary 48 hours prior to his death. The cause of the blood poisoning was undetermined and the patient seemed in good condition until almost the moment of death.

A '53 graduate of Northeastern university, Barth came to Syracuse in September to teach elementary accounting and study for his master's degree.

He was first in his graduating class at Northeastern, had several years of experience in accounting and was an associated member of the American accounting association.

A native of Boston, he is survived by his mother and stepfather and a brother, also of Boston. Funeral services will be conducted in Boston today.

NAACP COFFEE

All active members of Syracuse university chapter of NAACP are cordially invited to be guests of Robert Pritchard, Syracuse concert pianist, from 5:30-7 p.m. Sunday at 1622 East Genesee st.

The coffee is in honor of Mrs. C. Motley, member of legal staff of the National branch. An informal meeting will follow.

CAMPUS NOTICES

TODAY

Sabbath evening services, 7:15 p.m., Chapel. Dr. Krinsky speaking on "Judaism, the Constant and the Changing."

JSF religious committee meeting, 1 p.m., Chapel board room.

Inter-varsity Christian fellowship, 5:15 p.m., Chapel. Progressive supper planned.

Daily Chapel, noon. Miss Marilyn Pfleuger, Lutheran counselor will speak.

Representatives of all student organizations having space in the 1954 "ON" come to Pi Beta Phi, 210 Walnut pl. to identify pictures for publication.

Outing club practice for Folk Festival, 7:30 p.m., recreation room, Women's building.

The following people are assigned to work at the Daily Orange today: Afternoon, George Meek, Jo Stern, Al Bartkevicius, Carol Royce, Joanne Hess, Myrna Litchman; Night, Liz Goddard, Roz Brownstein, Tom Long, Diana Dahlman, Grace Soffleis.

Syracusan publicity staff meeting and all interested in joining staff, 4:15 p.m. at Phi Sigma Sigma. All staff members please attend.

TOMORROW

Folk Festival, main gym, 7:30 p.m., Women's building.

SUNDAY

St. Thomas More, executive council meeting, 5:30 p.m., 112 Walnut pl.

No Orange Key meeting.

Lutheran student association, 5:30 p.m., topic "Prepare to Meet thy God," led by Pastor Steinke.

Westminster fellowship, 5:30 p.m., Colonial room. Rev. Walter Wiest of Columbia University will speak.

JSF discussion group, 2:30 p.m. at Wilson cottage.

Canterbury Episcopal fellowship, supper, 5:30 p.m., Grace church, corner of University ave. and Madison st. Program 6:15 p.m.

Methodist student fellowship, 5:30 p.m., Women's building.

WAER Schedule

FRIDAY

2:58—Sign On
3:00—WAER News
3:05—Symphonic Matinee
4:00—Musical Heritage
5:00—This I Believe
5:05—Distaff Digest
5:15—Dinner Date
6:15—WAER News
6:25—Evening Showcase
6:35—WAER Sports Lineup
6:45—Date With Adele z
7:00—Paris Star Time
7:30—Chicago Round Table
8:00—Evening With Music
9:00—WAER News
9:05—Music Magazine
10:00—Final Edition—News
10:10—Final Edition—Sports
10:20—Sign Off

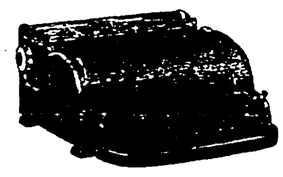
SATURDAY

2:58—Sign On
3:00—WAER News
3:05—Showtime
3:30—Guest Star
3:45—Serenade in Blue
4:00—Saturday Matinee
5:00—Spotlight Syracuse
5:30—Dinner Date
6:15—WAER News
6:25—Evening Showcase
6:35—WAER Sports Lineup
6:45—Here's to Veterans
7:00—WAER News
7:05—Operetta Time
8:00—Masterworks of Music
8:20—Syracuse-CCNY Boxing
10:10—Final Edition—News
10:10—Final Edition—Sports
10:20—Sign Off

SUNDAY

2:58—Sign On
3:00—WAER News
3:05—Sunday Symphony
4:00—Crouse Concert
5:30—Dinner Date
6:00—WAER News
6:10—Syracuse This Week
6:20—WAER Sports Lineup
6:30—Chapel Highlights
7:00—WAER News
7:05—Symphony Hall
8:00—WAER News
8:05—Opera House
10:10—Your Show
10:10—Final Edition—News
10:15—Final Edition—Sports
10:20—Sign Off

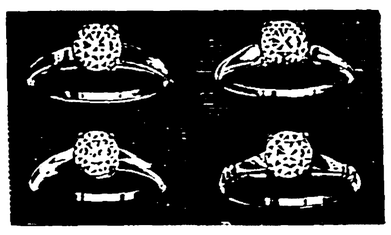
TYPEWRITERS



SOLD OR RENTED
NEW MACHINES

The Corner Store
SINCE 1903

Finest Quality
DIAMOND
Solitaires . . . and only $200



Flawless HOWE quality diamonds . . . the finest money can buy! Beyond your means? Not at all! These four beautiful engagement solitaires illustrate how our quality diamonds are within the reach of all!

DIVIDED PAYMENTS AT NO ADDITIONAL CHARGE

Open Monday Evenings

H.J. HOWE Inc.
Two Hundred One South Salina
Independent Jewelers Since 1850

Mayor . . .

(Continued from page 1)

sents his house in USP, is active in MSG and the JSF choir.

DAVID JOHN, who is the candidate of Washington Arms. A Sigma Phi Epsilon pledge, he hails from Bala-Cynwyd, Pa., and is in Liberal Arts, pre-med. Lacrosse is his main interest in the field of sports.

Robert Pearce is representing Skytop M-1, from Basking Ridge, N. J. A freshman in the School of Forestry, he is a pledge of Lambda Chi Alpha and is active in sports.

Paul (Rudy) Mendez is nominated by the Lambda Chi Alpha pledge class. A holder of a Lacrosse scholarship, he is from Elmont, L. I., and lives in Collendale A-7. He is registered in the School of Liberal Arts as a premed.

Michael Minko, from Connersville, Pa., representing Collendale A-7. He has played football for nine years and holds the position of inside tackle on the freshman team.

Pace Heads Group At Chicago Convo

Dr. C. Robert Pace, chairman of the psychology department, is serving as a delegate to the national conference on higher education. This conference is sponsored by the National Educational association in Chicago this week.

He will head a two-day discussion group analyzing the question, "How does an institution organize and conduct an effective self-evaluation?" He will also present a paper on this subject to the group.

REGENT

"MISS SADIE THOMPSON"
Rita Hayworth
Jose Ferrer
Aldo Ray
Also
"GUN FURY"
Rock Hudson
Donna Reed

CLASSIFIED

IMPORTANT NOTICE—CLASSIFIED ADS to appear in this paper should be DELIVERED at the HELLBOX Classified desk between 1 and 3 p. m. NO ADS WILL BE ACCEPTED AFTER 3. ALL ADS MUST BE IN 2 DAYS IN ADVANCE. For further information call 4-7206.

ALL LOST ARTICLES should be turned into the CENTRAL LOST AND FOUND ROOM, 20 Bldg. 24 at 205 University Pl. Articles can be claimed there.

AUTO DRIVING INSTRUCTION. Learn to drive easily, correctly and safely. Call Upstate Auto Driving School. Phone 8-4040.

TYPEWRITERS RENTED: $3.00 per month, $8 3 months. Good selection. We deliver, Smith Brothers. 4-8833.

FOR SALE: Hi Quality combination record player, amplifier and FM tuner in one cabinet. High output (30 watts) suitable for dances, etc. 76-1698 or 72-1100.

EXPERIENCED stenographer will do typing at home. 9-4138.

UNIVERSITY SECTION—PLEASANT ROOM with private family. Call after 5 p.m., 4-5158.

Typewriters rentals—New Models Reasonable Rates—Expert Service, All Makes—CORNER STORE.

EXPERT TYPING, theses and term papers. Mrs. Raymond Webb, 2-1884.

ALTERATIONS DONE WITHIN A DAY: 4-5847. 5 minutes from campus. Lillian Potter, 207 Comstock Ave.

LOST: Black wallet containing cards. Reward. Phone 4-9396.

LOST: Man's Benrus watch vicinity of Maxwell. If found please call 75-6946.

LOST: On campus, Phi Ep Pi fraternity pin. Please call Ed Hochberg, 75-1555.

Elections . . .

(Continued from page 1)

Eta Pi Upsilon convocation March 24.

GEORGE KEPNER, senior MSG officer in charge of elections, and John DePalma, junior MSG elections officer, named the following as locations and times for election booths: front of Hall of Languages and library, and Maxwell lobby from 9 a.m. to 1:15 p.m.; Quadrangle, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.; and Sims, Washington Arms and Shaw dining halls from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 5 to 7 p.m.

In case of inclement weather, booths in front of HL and the library will move inside and be open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. The Quad booth will go to Slocum basement for the same hours.

Ski Students Bound For Snowy Holiday

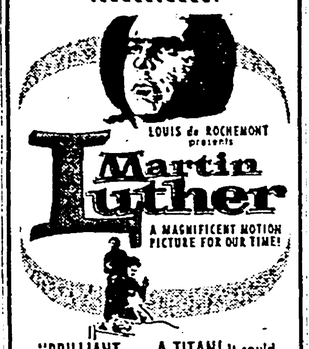
Ski school students will travel to Snow Ridge tomorrow as ideal weather conditions have been reported from the Turin, N. Y. skiing area.

The University bus will leave the entrance to the main campus at 7:30 a.m. and stop at the Ski Lodge to allow students to pick up equipment. The bus is scheduled to return at 6:30 p.m

Students will be given instruction in morning classes and will have the afternoon free for recreational skiing. There will be no transportation or instruction fees.

FLOWERS TELEGRAPHED
J. ALLEN DEAL
734 So. Crouse On the Hill

Now MIDTOWN Open 6:30 P.M.



"BRILLIANT . . . A TITAN! It could hardly be surpassed!"—N. Y. Times

"A FINE MOVIE . . . PROVES A HIT!"
—LIFE Magazine

Spring Is Around The Corner
Do Your Shopping Early!
COTTON — LINEN — CORD
Dresses Skirts
Suits Jackets
Sleeveless Blouses

THE TOWN SHOP
Open Tuesday and Friday Evenings
736 South Crouse Avenue Phone 4-6661

6th ANNUAL FOLK FESTIVAL
"ESPERANTO"

- 12 Dancing Groups
- 3 Singing Groups
- Bagpipe Band
- Nationality Foods
- Nationality Exhibits
- Costumes

TO-MORROW!

WOMEN'S BUILDING
1:00- 5:00 p.m.—general dancing—free
7:30-12:00 p.m.—demonstrations—60c
SYRACUSE UNIVERSITY OUTING CLUB

CADILLAC
LOUNGE and RESTAURANT
515 West Genesee Street
• New Policy •
Red Thomas Playing
At Our Cocktail Hour, 4-7
Also Playing Nightly From 9 P.M.
Remember Us
After That Special Date
THOMAS RESTANI — Your Host
Dancing—This Sunday
JOYCE LEROY Singing Nightly
at the
CADILLAC LOUNGE & RESTAURANT
ENTERTAINMENT NIGHTLY

A CAMPUS-TO-CAREER CASE HISTORY

"My first assignment at Bell Labs"

Fresh out of school, Bob Wilson, '53, was put to work on a Transistor project at Bell Laboratories. He explains why he never had time to be awed.

(Reading Time: 39 seconds)

Bob Wilson works on a "breadboard" circuit, studying the electrical properties of a carrier system.

"In some ways it was hard to believe. I had received my B.E.E. at the University of Delaware in June, 1953, and a week later I was working in the world-famous Bell Laboratories.

"But I didn't have time to be awed because they put me right to work. They gave me responsibility fast.

"My group was working on the experimental application of transistors to carrier systems. My assignment was the electrical design of a variolosser for the compressor and for the expandor to be located in the terminals.

"The supervision I received and the equipment I had were tops. I quickly discovered that I had to rely on my ingenuity as much as on the college courses I had taken. Perhaps that's one reason for the great new discoveries continually turned out by the Labs.

"Now, I'm in the Communication Development Training Program, continuing my technical education and learning what all the Laboratories sections do and how their work is integrated.

"In a year I'll be back working with the group with which I started."

• • •

Assuming responsibility fast is a common experience among the engineering, physical science, arts and social science, and business administration graduates who join the Bell System. Bob Wilson went with Bell Laboratories. There also are job opportunities with the operating telephone companies, Western Electric and Sandia Corporation.

BELL TELEPHONE SYSTEM

On the Inside
Large sponsored Scientific Research on Page 4 and 5.

SYRACUSE Daily Orange

Scientific Research Edition

Vol. 51, No. 84 | Syracuse, N. Y., Monday, March 8, 1954 | 8 Pages—5 Cents

Davies to Open Footprints Today

Tickets Go on Sale For Frosh Formal In Booths Today

Tickets go on sale at 9 a.m. today in Sims, Slocum, and HL for "Universally Yours," Freshman weekend's semi-formal dance. Myrna Paul and John Cullen, ticket co-chairmen, announce that the price of the ducats will be $2 per couple.

Ticket sales will continue in these booths until the entire supply of 250 is sold out. They will not be sold at the door unless there is a supply remaining from the booth sales.

"UNIVERSALLY Yours" will be held from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. this Saturday in the main gym of the Women's building. The dance will be in keeping with the overall theme of the weekend, "Out of This World."

The big feature of the semi-formal is the secret decorations. They will not be revealed before dance time, but will be unusual, the dance committee promises.

A local orchestra, under the direction of Sam Blumpkin, will play for the affair. The committee selected this group after hearing a number of local ones, and feels that the orchestra will provide "excellent music."

Entertainment will be provided by three of the best acts from Friday's "S.U. Revue." Other skits are also planned. Arrangements for the refreshments have not yet been completed.

In addition to the dance tickets, the booths will sell ducats for the Saturday afternoon jazz concert, priced at 35 cents.

JAMES CARR, co-chairman of Footprints, looks on appreciatively while Deke bell ringer WILLIAM CHAPMAN sends "The Footprints Song" pealing out from the heights of Crouse college. Two religious leaders, Dr. A. Powell Davies and Dr. E. G. Homrighausen, will be on campus today to lead discussions in the area of basic philosophies. Staff Photo by Lee Jones

By LIZ GODDARD
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Dr. A. Powell Davies will open today's sessions of Footprints with a talk on the nature of man at 10 a.m. in the Chapel auditorium.

Pastor of All Souls' Unitarian church in Washington, D. C., and leader in public affairs, he will lead an informal discussion from 11 a.m. to noon, following his address, in the Chapel Colonial room.

DR. ELMER G. Homrighausen, professor of Christian education at Princeton Theological seminary, will make his first campus talk from noon to 12:20 p.m. at the daily chapel service.

Director of evangelism for the Presbyterian church and the national and world councils of churches, he will discuss the nature of God at 3:30 p.m. in the Chapel auditorium.

The topic of his address at that time will be "Belief in God—The Crucial Issue for Man."

An informal discussion and coffee will follow from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. in the Chapel Colonial room.

THE TWO speakers of the day will also participate in a faculty colloquium at 7:30 p.m. in the Chapel auditorium. Moderated by Dean Charles C. Noble of Hendricks chapel, the panel will discuss "What Are the Claims of Religion."

The three faculty members (See FOOTPRINTS, page 8)

FOOTPRINTS SCHEDULE

Today

10-11 a.m.: Dr. Davies, "The Nature of Man," Chapel auditorium.
11-noon: Coffee and discussion with Dr. Davies, Chapel colonial room.
Noon-12:20 p.m.: Daily Chapel, Dr. Homrighausen will speak.
3:30-4:30 p.m.: Dr. Homrighausen, "Belief in God—The Crucial Issue for Man," Chapel auditorium.
4:30-5:30 p.m.: Coffee and discussion with Dr. Homrighausen, Chapel colonial room.
7:30-9 p.m.: Faculty colloquium, "What Are the Claims of Religion," Chapel auditorium.
9 p.m.: Coffee and discussion, Chapel colonial room.

Tomorrow

10-11 a.m.: Dr. Fink, "The Nature of Truth," Chapel auditorium.
11-noon: Coffee and discussion with Dr. Fink, Chapel colonial room.
Noon-12:20 p.m.: Daily Chapel, Dr. Fink will speak.
3:30-4:30 p.m.: Student panel, "Campus Religion: An Answer for Skeptics," Maxwell auditorium.
4:30-5:30 p.m.: Discussion and tea with Dr. Fink and panel, Maxwell Founders' room.
7:30-9 p.m.: Open discussion with Dr. Fink, Phi Gamma Delta, 732 Comstock ave.

EDITORIAL STAFF MUST ATTEND MEETING TODAY

All Daily Orange editorial staff members must attend a meeting at 4 p.m. today at the Hellbox. Managing Editor Arhtur B. Siegel announces that the meeting is important and attendance is compulsory.

Freshman class will be held at 4:15 p.m. following the meeting in 105 Castle.

Campus Chest Drive Fails to Meet Set Goal

Late donations continue to come into the Campus Chest office but all indications are that this year's Syracuse drive will fall far under its $7,500 goal. Latest reports have the overall total of collections reaching $4,300 with approximately $2,500 of this consisting of individual contributions.

Approximately two-thirds of the 179 campus living centers have submitted their contributions to the drive with late donations still being accepted, according to co-chairmen JoAnn Swalm and Stuart Parker. They should be given to Miss Swalm, Mott Cottage, or Parker, Phi Gamma Delta.

LARGEST CONTRIBUTION by a living center is $335 given by Sigma Kappa sorority. The total contribution in the sorority division is $1,179.18. All houses have submitted their totals.

Fraternity division collections total $425.77 with 20 of 34 houses having submitted results. Forty-seven of 63 independent women's houses have contributed $605.37 to the drive while 28 of 58 independent men's centers have given $150.89.

Other donations include $50 from the faculty drive, $40 in the city division and $15 from special gifts. In this group, Orange Key, junior men's honorary, donated $10 and Lambda Sigma Sigma, junior women's honorary, gave $5.

In comparison to last year's drive, the 1954 totals are far inferior. Only in the sorority division have the contribution totals increased with this year's sum topping the 1953 contributions by nearly $400. So far, fraternities and independent women have given less than one-half of last year's donations while independent men are also much lower.

Only real advancement this year was in special events where affairs as the Carnival, pep rally and auction, Feather Day and King and Queen contest grossed approximately $1,800.

JOURNALISM LABS

Wesley C. Clark, dean of the School of Journalism, has announced that journalism labs meeting in 105 and 207 Yates Castle will transfer to prefab 7 starting tomorrow.

Those classes in 105 Castle will meet in 7E, and those in 207 Castle will meet in 7F.

EXTRA cake bake EXTRA

By JOAN NADELHAFT
Daily Orange Associate Editor

A journalist has to be a baker these days.

In Syracuse, at any rate. The second annual Post-Standard Press Baking Contest will kick off today in a swirl of flour and burned fingers at the War Memorial.

DAILY ORANGE Editor-in-Chief Arlene Lambert will be out to show the professional newsmen just how special an "Orange Special" can be. Her concoction will feature an orange-flavored cake, naturally.

Hill representative in the men's battle for oven supremacy will be Kenneth Sparks, publicity director for WAER. He'll show off his "Cocoa Special"—a masterpiece in chocolate, he says.

Miss Lambert told the Daily Orange in an exclusive interview, "I hope there's no time limit—that last time I baked cookies, it took me two and a half hours."

Unfortunately for this newspaper's pride of the kitchen, the feminine contest lasts only two hours.

THE POST-STANDARD is supplying all ingredients in the contest. All the competitors have to do is tell them what they'll need.

Last year's Daily Orange contestant, Ed Hardy, tied for sixth place. WAER 1953 representative, Lew Rhodes, isn't telling where he came in.

Chimes Will Ring Footprints Song

"The Footprints Song," sung to the tune of a Gillette blue-blade commercial, will be rung on the Crouse college chimes at 1:05 p.m. today and tomorrow by members of Delta Kappa Epsilon.

Words of the song which made its debut at the Brotherhood banquet and was first pealed out over the campus by the Dekes on Friday, are:

First there's Davies to stimulate your mind
Then Homrighausen won't be far behind;
And on Tuesday there is Rabbi Fink
Who is guaranteed to make you think.

SYRACUSE DAILY ORANGE

THREE R'S OF A COLLEGE NEWSPAPER: RESPONSIVENESS, RESPONSIBILITY AND RESOURCEFULNESS

Page 2 Monday, March 8, 1954

Editor-in-chief ---------- Arlene Lambert
Business Manager ---------- Robert Goldstein

SENIOR EDITORIAL STAFF

Managing Editor ---------- Arthur Siegel
Editorial Director ---------- Hugh O. Muir
Executive Editor ---------- Janet Caro
Sports Editor ---------- Kenneth Lent

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Edward Meyer, Joan Nadelhaft, Phyllis Sirota, Howard Vankirk, Mary Vivian

Issue Editor ---------- Joan Nadelhaft

BUSINESS STAFF

Asst. Business Manager ---------- Sheldon Lessen
Layout Manager ---------- Judith Berman
Classified Manager ---------- Jean Jacobs
Circulation Manager ---------- Anita Freyberg
Promotion Manager ---------- Lloyd Eisenberg

DAILY STAFF

News Editor ---------- George Meek
Night Editor ---------- Liz Goddard
Asst. Night Editor ---------- Ros Brownstein
Editorial Page Asst. ---------- Tom Long
Night Sports Editor ---------- Stan Rosenfeld

Published by the students of Syracuse University.

Telephones: News, 75-5196, 75-5197; Editor, 76-1448; Business: 4-7206. Subscription by mail $6 per year, $3.50 per semester. Entered as second class mail matter at the Syracuse Post Office. Exclusive national advertising representatives National Advertising Inc., New York City.

In Memoriam

His superiors will remember him as "an exceptional and gifted teacher"; his students, as a "popular, interested friend with a lively sense of humor."

Active in student counseling and administrative programs since coming to the Hill in September, he immediately won the respect of students and faculty alike.

We join the University administration in mourning the passing of Robert Barth, graduate assistant in business administration.

Thought & action

Any serious discussion of religion would be as simple as a bull session on the theory of relativity. There are about 2½ billion conceptions of religion on the earth at this moment, some relevent, some decidedly irrevelent. For the next few days, we will be faced with serious thought on the topic of faith.

It was Pascal who wrote that "Man is but a reed, the weakest in nature, but he is a thinking reed." Therein lies not only the essential difference between man and animal, but the clear-cut gradations within mankind itself.

But to speak on the problem at hand: the title of the conference, Footprints. Why?

Footprints in the sands of time . . . an old saying that has oft implied the tenuous existance of man. Hardly a title for such a substantial conference, one may say.

But another and not so obvious meaning presents itself here. For it is by his marks that man has been tracked through history. Though the hands may create and the mind may visualize, unless there is motion in the creature, the fruits benefit none but the creator.

It is the pure power of action that has brought man to his state today. It is the combination of heads and hands put into world-wide dissemination that has brought religion, among other things, to fruition.

Such for literal interpretation. For this conference's direct aim is to stimulate thought, (we can but hope that the action will follow). The basic philosophies of mankind are a tall order for three decades, much less three days.

But even this scant opportunity must be grasped for any of us to claim the title of college student.

And when we have left the University, may we hope that our footprints are worthy of being followed in history.

Editorial Director

AT THE FLICKERS

AUDIENCE PRESENTS A PROBLEM

By CHARLES SAMUELS
Daily Orange Movie Critic

On the credit side of "The Wild One," now playing at the State we find some interesting off-angle photography and a very lovely young woman named Mary Murphy. On the debit side we find just about everything else in the film. But we also find some very frightening implications.

Stanley Kramer has demonstrated, of late, a preoccupation with society's misfits. In "The Sniper" he advanced a popular sociological theory to wit: Society's errors are society's faults. In the his latest prodduction, however, he advances no theory at all. In fact, it is safe to say that "The Wild One" possesses not one idea in all its considerable footage. Adapted from a Saturday Evening Post story having to do with the invasion of a small town by a bunch of motorcycling hoodlums, the current exhibit is a shrill and violent ride down the highway of the audience's nervous system. The implication we are referring to concerns the audience's reaction.

The tabloid newspapers are always full of accounts of the escapades of the kind of delinquents depicted in the film. Unless Mr. Kramer had something to say, and he did not, he should never have taken the trouble to tell us what we already know. Seemingly, indicated by the audience reaction, not even a little righteous indignation was stirred up. On the contrary, the audience vocally testified to their admiration for this set of degenerates.

Implications aside, the new Kramer film is a decidedly inferior product. Laslo Benedek's direction is so determinedly and absurdly tough that it borders on the comic. The script is a triumph of monosyllabic English.

The star of all these galvanic goings-on is Marlon Brando. Mr. Brando made a name for himself as Stanley Kowalski in "A Streetcar Named Desire." We are sure it will not come as a surprise to find that all he does in this film is play Kowalski on a motorcycle.

Mr. Brando is an actor posessed of such a collection of mannerisms that not even Elia Kazan could control him. In the incompetent hands of Mr. Benedek he goes positively berserk. The Brando technique consists of the bending of three histrionic tricks. First the long tortured pauses; second a speech pattern that suggests that English was not made to communicate and lastly a style of moving that suggests a male stripper. All these mannerisms are so neurotically overworked here as to make Mr. Brando's earlier characterization seem obsolutely restrained.

THE FOOTPRINTERS

The Tenth Generation

The tenth generation of his family to serve in the rabbinate, Dr. Joseph L. Fink was ordained at Hebrew Union college in 1919, the youngest rabbinical graduate in the history of the college to that time.

Speaker on the nature of truth at tomorrow's session of Footprints, he will also lead a student panel discussion of "Campus Religion: An Answer to Skeptics."

Born in Springfield, Ohio, he received his bachelor's degree from the University of Chicago and his doctor's from Niagara university.

His first pulpit was in Terra Haute, Ind. In 1924 he went to Temple Beth Zion in Buffalo where he now serves.

Active in civic affairs, Dr. Fink served as president of the Community Chest in Terra Haute and was a leader in Boy Scouting, Kiwanis club, Vigo County Tuberculosis society, B'nai B'rith and many other organizations.

He is the conductor of the Humanitarian Hour over WBEN in Buffalo and a member of many boards of religious and theological societies.

Dr. Fink is a former vice-president of the Buffalo Rotary club, a member of Phi Beta Kappa, and an honorary member of Beta Sigma Rho fraternity.

Dr. Joseph L. Fink

SCANNING CAMPUSES

'Facts of Life' on Record

By POLLY REED
Editorial Page Writer

Is the stork legend on the way out?

If all the publicity releases and advertising that comes into the Daily Orange office were stacked in the wastebaskets, we couldn't think of a better place for them.

Occasionally, however, something intriguing lands in our mailbox. And so it was with a release from Capitol records.

Capitol has produced a 27-minute documentary which provides parents and educators with a simple method of answering the childhood question: "Where did I come from?"

If you're tired of telling Sonny-boy that he was found in a cabbage patch or that the mailman brought him or this business about the stork, this record seems to be just the thing.

According to the Capitol release, "Birth of a Baby" describes the dramatic delivery and gives prospective parents "a scientific preview of what to expect."

The star of the record makes his debut toward the end of the record. You hear the sound of a slap and the obstetricians' first words to the new space cadet.

"Come on young man—say hello."

* * * *

On the Kansas university campus nine male sociology students recently cooperated with their professor in a week-long survey. The essence of their experiment was to learn more about the concept of social sanctions. The men wore ties to class.

The experiment was predicated on the belief that "at most schools in the country the wearing of ties is virtually taboo for undergraduates."

All nine men reported that all week long they were met with "questions, laughter, hisses and sometimes ostracism."

The final cut—one sophomore was told to stop wearing ties or "he would give the fraternity a bad name."

* * * *

Amid cheers and protests and boos, the Michigan congress dropped the bill to change the name of Michigan State college to Michigan State university. MSC it shall remain—until next year, promise some die-hards who intend to bring up the bill again next year until it is passed.

Nonentities by Norm

SUNDAY'S SERMON

Footprints of History

By CHARLES C. NOBLE
Dean of Hendricks Chapel

A mild sensation has recently been created by the appearance of tremendous footprints on the slopes of Mt. Everest. It is rumored that a monstrous creature known as the "Abominable Snow Man" is loose in the Himalayan Mountains. Doubtless these new footprints will turn out to be the result of avalanches, or animals with ice on their paws. There is no mistaking, however, the significance of other evidences in history that someone has been around before us. James Weldon Johnson said: "Where God walked the valleys were pushed down and the mountains were pushed up." Certainly we did not make the world; someone or something called a creator was here before us.

On the trails of history have walked the captains and the kings, the builders and the destroyers, the rulers and the dreamers. The battlegrounds of the world, as well as the art museums witness to the footprints of trail breakers.

It is the man of ideas, however, who has really given direction to the road which cut through the centuries. It has made a tremendous difference to civilization what Jefferson thought, what motivated Moses, what stimulated the genius of Pericles, what caused Jesus to go to the cross. It made a terrible difference in our time to have the insane mind of Hitler plunge the world into war. We may laugh at Mussolini and discredit his diatribes on freedom, but it was not funny while he was in power.

What is all this talk about man being a child of God, endowed with certain rights and possessing divine potentialities? Perhaps Thomas Hobbes was right in declaring that our lives are nasty, brutish, and short. Have you worked that one out for yourself?

And as for the philosophers and scientists who deal so soberly with the world, how do they know what is finally right and eternal? Are not all ethical codes relative, and do we not finally make our decisions on the basis of enlightened self-interest? Do you have the answers?

These are not academic questions. The destines of our day will be determined by whose footprints we follow in the realm of ideas and faith. Whichever way we take we shall be gambling. If we dare to choose a path that leads toward the maintenance of human freedom and of faith in spiritual values as transcending things, we shall have to pay a price for it. Did not Jesus say: "If any man would come after me let him take up his cross and follow"?

Financial Rock-Bottom

The typical salary paid to college and university professors places them at the bottom of the professional wage scale compared with psysycians, dentists and lawyers, reports the National Education association.

College instructors in teachers colleges were found to have the most attractive beginning salaries—the rereported minimum being $3,538.

Lowest beginning salary, $2,743, is reportedly by small private colleges.

State universities offer financial inducement to starting professors with median beginning salaries of $5,525 The typical top salaries paid to professors range from $4,860 in small private colleges to $8,950 in municipal universities.

Of all institutions reporting, only one university indicated it could pay full professors as much as $17,000 to $18,000.

In the Survey of Current Business (July, 1952), published by the United States Department of Commerce, the median annual net incomes (income after business expense deductions) of the three largest professions are physicians, $10,285; dentists, $6,501; and lawyers, $6,956.

—Polly Reed

FROM BAD TO HERZ, SEQUEL:

BOOKWORMS COMPLAIN ON NO LIBRARY

Student opinion on the impending movement of the Syracuse university library to the University of Iowa campus at Des Moines, Iowa was immediate.

Phone calls received at The Daily Orange indicate that the books won't go without a fight. One sorority, which asked that it not be named until plans are complete, said that it was planning a contest to draw attention to the problem.

"I like the Syracuse university library because . . ." was the probable topic to be used. The statement should be completed in 25 words or less, and should be delivered with the bindings of three books purchased in the University Book store.

Some students were quoted as saying that removal of the library would be a great step forward. "The library contains books, and books contain ideas, and ideas sometimes cause some thinking." they said, pointing out great danger to the society.

The group, spokesman of which was a rather shaggy dog, intends to act wisely and as fast as possible in this crisis.

"A series of mixer dances have been planned, and chess and checkers will also be available," he said.

Circulation at the main library yesterday afternoon was seen as unaffected by the approaching event. Five of the six books that went out were of the "Rover Boys" series, while the other was a text, "Microphotography, or is it Photomicrographyl."

This latter volume, which is subtitled "Istanbul, or is it Constantinople," had been circulated once before, in 1894, to a freshman in Liberal Arts who is now a sophomore in business administration.

One student gave the following reply to "What do you think of the impending removal of the Syracuse university library?"

"What library?"

It's All in the Cards, You See

By MICHAEL BRAUN

We received a call the other day from Abbie Bigelow. Mrs. Bigelow is the proprierless, and chief idea thinker of the Hill Bookstall. "You must come down to the shop and see the new line of cards we just received" she said. "They're wonderful."

Knowing Mrs. Bigelow's fondness for the unusual in greeting cards, a trip to the Bookstall was definitely in order.

We entered the bookstall and gazed with appropriate admiration at Jeanmaries' picture on the cover of Look. We were about to open the magazine and explore the problem further when Mrs. Bigelow, a short, friendly woman wearing a bunch of violets in her hair, descended on us.

She got right down to the business at hand. As we walked to the back of the shop she said, "These are some new cards that I just received from a concern that goes in for the unusual in cards. There is one card that I must show you. I showed it to Mr. Bigelow last night and I've never ssen him laugh so hard."

The first card she showed us was one of two inches wide by ten inches long variety. The front was all white, with only the words "I like you because . . ." written in lower case script. When the card was opened a gal, not unlike Tallulah, replete in form fitting sheath, and diamond earrings, smoking a cigarette that was replete with holder, leered up at us. On the left side of the card the wording continued, "because you remind me of nother."

At the "funny card" rack, "Mother Loved Me But She Died," "I'm Crazy," an "Homer Himself" were doing better business than ever.

How the stars got started.....

Vaughn Monroe says: "In high school, I spent all my spare time playing with local bands. I had a lot to learn before I could lead my own band. I studied singing; eventually did the vocals — and found that the colleges kind of liked my recordings. Been performing for 'em ever since!"

START SMOKING CAMELS YOURSELF!

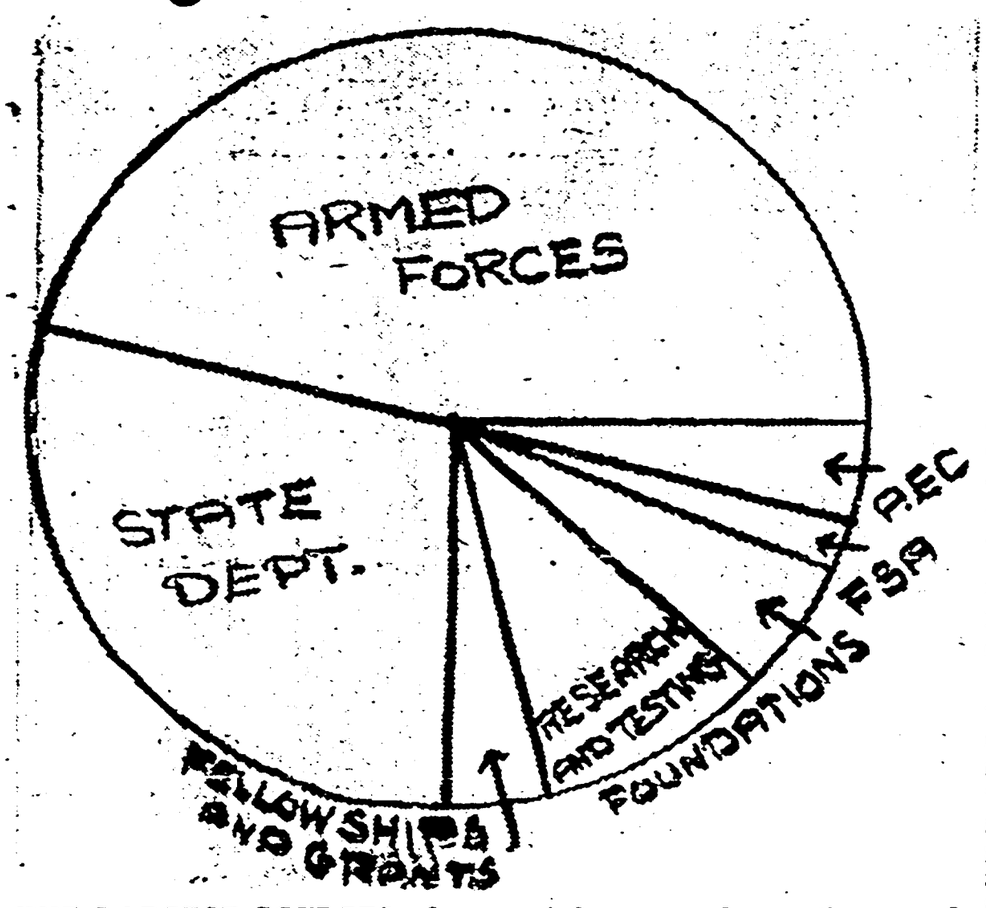
Smoke only Camels for 30 days — see for yourself why Camels' cool, genuine mildness and rich, friendly flavor give more people more pure pleasure than any other cigarette!

for Mildness and Flavor

CAMELS AGREE WITH MORE PEOPLE

THAN ANY OTHER CIGARETTE!

Syracuse Stands for Res



THE LARGEST SOURCES of support for research are the armed forces giving 46 per cent of the financial aid. The State department gives 29 per cent, the Atomic Energy Commission, four per cent, and the Federal Security Agency, two per cent. Business contributes 13 per cent with national foundations giving six per cent.

THE OLD AND the new in agricultural methods in the Middle East. Motion picture crews from the Audio-Visual center have produced on the spot educational films designed to teach modern farming techniques to these people. The State department and the Technical Cooperation Administration jointly sponsor the program.

University Institute Sponsors Scientific Work

By JOHN JOHNSRUD
Daily Orange Junior Editor

NEARLY THREE million dollars is the estimated amount of sponsored research being carried out by various departments of the University

Of the total volume of research, 46 per cent is given by the armed forces, 29 per cent by the State department, four per cent by the Atomic Energy commission, and two per cent by the Federal Security administration. Federal agencies, therefore, support 81 per cent of the scientific investigations. Business and industry give 11 per cent for contract research and testing and two per cent for fellowships and grants. National foundations comprise the other six per cent of support.

THE SYRACUSE University Research Institute, headed by William C. Wheadon, handles all of the sponsored research on campus. Formerly named the Institute of Industrial Research, this administrative body acts as clearing house for both the needs of the University and of industry and government. The University needs financial support for scientific work while industry and government need studies made, but do not usually have the necessary equipment or trained men.

THE RESEARCH projects, spread over 22 departments and colleges, cover such varied subjects as reconstitution of dehydrated food, cosmic ray investigations, and studies of the chemistry of the boron—obscure element, as well as many others.

Flavor, color, and tenderness of dehydrated foods may vary from poor to excellent acoording to different methods of reconstitution, but the factors determining the quality of the resulting product are not known. Tests are being made in the foods and nutrition research laboratory of the home economics college to discover these factors and improve the nature of reconstituted food. The Quartermaster Food and Container Institute is sponsoring the work.

COSMIC RAY particles from outer space fall toward the earth where they collide with atomic nuclei in the atmosphere and produce primary atomic particles—protons, mesons, neutrons, electrons. These complex cosmic ray showers hit the earth and may be studied in a cloud chamber. The Atomic Energy commission has sponsored investigations of high-energy nuclear interactions and cosmic ray showers.

Dr. Kurt Sitte of the physics department is the director of the project and is presently in Brazil directing a cosmic ray research program undertaken jointly by Syracuse university and the Universidade de Sao Paulo. During the summer physicists work in a mobile cosmic ray laboratory at Mt. Evans, Colorado.

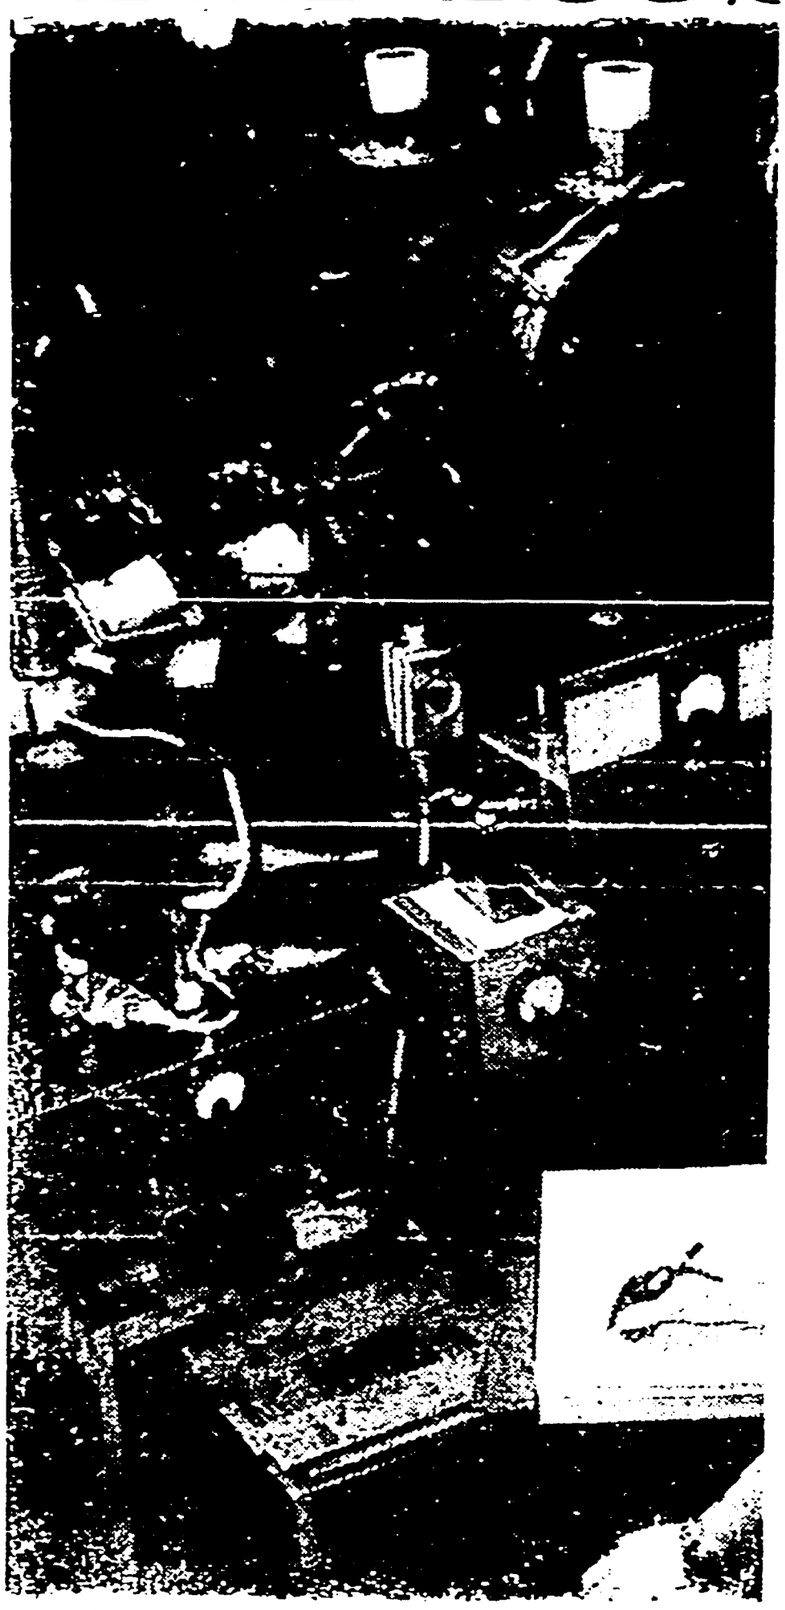
AMONG THE other unclassified projects being carried on in the physics department are the establishment of molecular constants, directed by Dr. by Dr. John Trischka; the effect of bombardment by fast ions and atoms on metal surfaces, headed by Herbert Berry, analysis of the spectra of flames with Dr. Nathan Ginsberg directing. The first two projects are under the sponsorship of the Office of Naval Research while the latter is sponsored by the Army's Office of Ordinance Research.

TWO MAJOR projects of the chemistry department are a structure study of the alkaline earth metals and a large scale investigation of the chemistry of boron; the former, using X-ray diffraction techniques, is under the direction of Dr. Aden King and Dr. Frank Kanda with the Office of Ordinance Research sponsoring the project.

Boron research has been divided among three groups. The first is concerned with physical properties including solubility, vapor pressures and rates of reactions. A second group is investigating acid reactions, thermodynamics and other properties of boron compounds. The structure of boron metal is the work of the third group who use thermal and X-ray diffraction methods for investigation. Dr. Henry Wirth is the overall director of the project. Dr. Ewing Scott, Dr. King and Dr. Kanda are in charge of the individual group studies. The Mathieson Chemical C ect.

AUDIO-V project the Near gineering fighting fc paratus fo oped by th and studie changes of partment o ly 100 spon of which a

THERE A gram c the Meta



THE APPARATUS partially shown here is used in res quency electric waves deflect molecules in a vacuum, es constants. The Office of Naval Research sponsors this ment.

THE WHITE STREAKS are tracks of atomic particles falling through a cloud chamber. When cosmic rays from space enter the earth's atmosphere, they collide with atomic nuclei producing many basic atomic particles. The atomic shower pictured here occurred when a nucleon hit the nucleus of a lead atom producing a multiplication of particles. This picture was obtained during the course of a project sponsored by the Atomic Energy Commission on nuclear interactions and cosmic ray showers.

DR. VERNER WU chemical and physi controlled flashes of soring the investiga

earch, Too

Departments Included Are Chemistry, Physics

n molecules. Radio fre-ng important molecular of the physics depart-

ion, sponsors the proj-

Service's long range iotion picture teams in the Chemical En-
ient's studies on fire
ie odor detective ap-
board products devel-
ment of plant sciences,
ectrical and chemical n the eye by the dey are among the nearesearch projects, many sified.
veral large scale pro-being carried on by Research Division

of the Institute. One is a study of the fabricating processes of high temperature alloys, steels, and of titanium. All of these metals are important in high speed jet aircraft. This work is being sponsored by the Utica Drop Forge and Tool corporation. Another is the study of high strength materials for use in nuclear reactors. This project involves creep and stress tests on specimens and is sponsored by Pratt and Whitney Aircraft.

IN 1951, THE State department contracted with the Audio-Visiual Center for motion picture teams to go to the Middle East. Their job there was to make educational films to teach the people more efficient methods of agriculture, horticulture, and husbandry. Don G. William's, chairman of the Service, set up administrative offices in Iran and began the production of the movies. Teams from others schools joined them in this long range project. Last year, the Technical Cooperation Administration added their aid to the work which is yet being carried on in an effort to raise the standard of living of the people in this area.

DR. C. S. Grove, Jr., of the chemical engineering department, is the director of two projects dealing with fire fighting foam. One, sponsored by the Office of Naval Research, is a study of the effect and usefulness of various chemical foams. The other is an investigation of the effects of water additives to the foams and the subsequent efficiency in combatting blazes. This phase of the work is being done under the sponsorship of the Engineer Research and Development Laboratories of the Army.

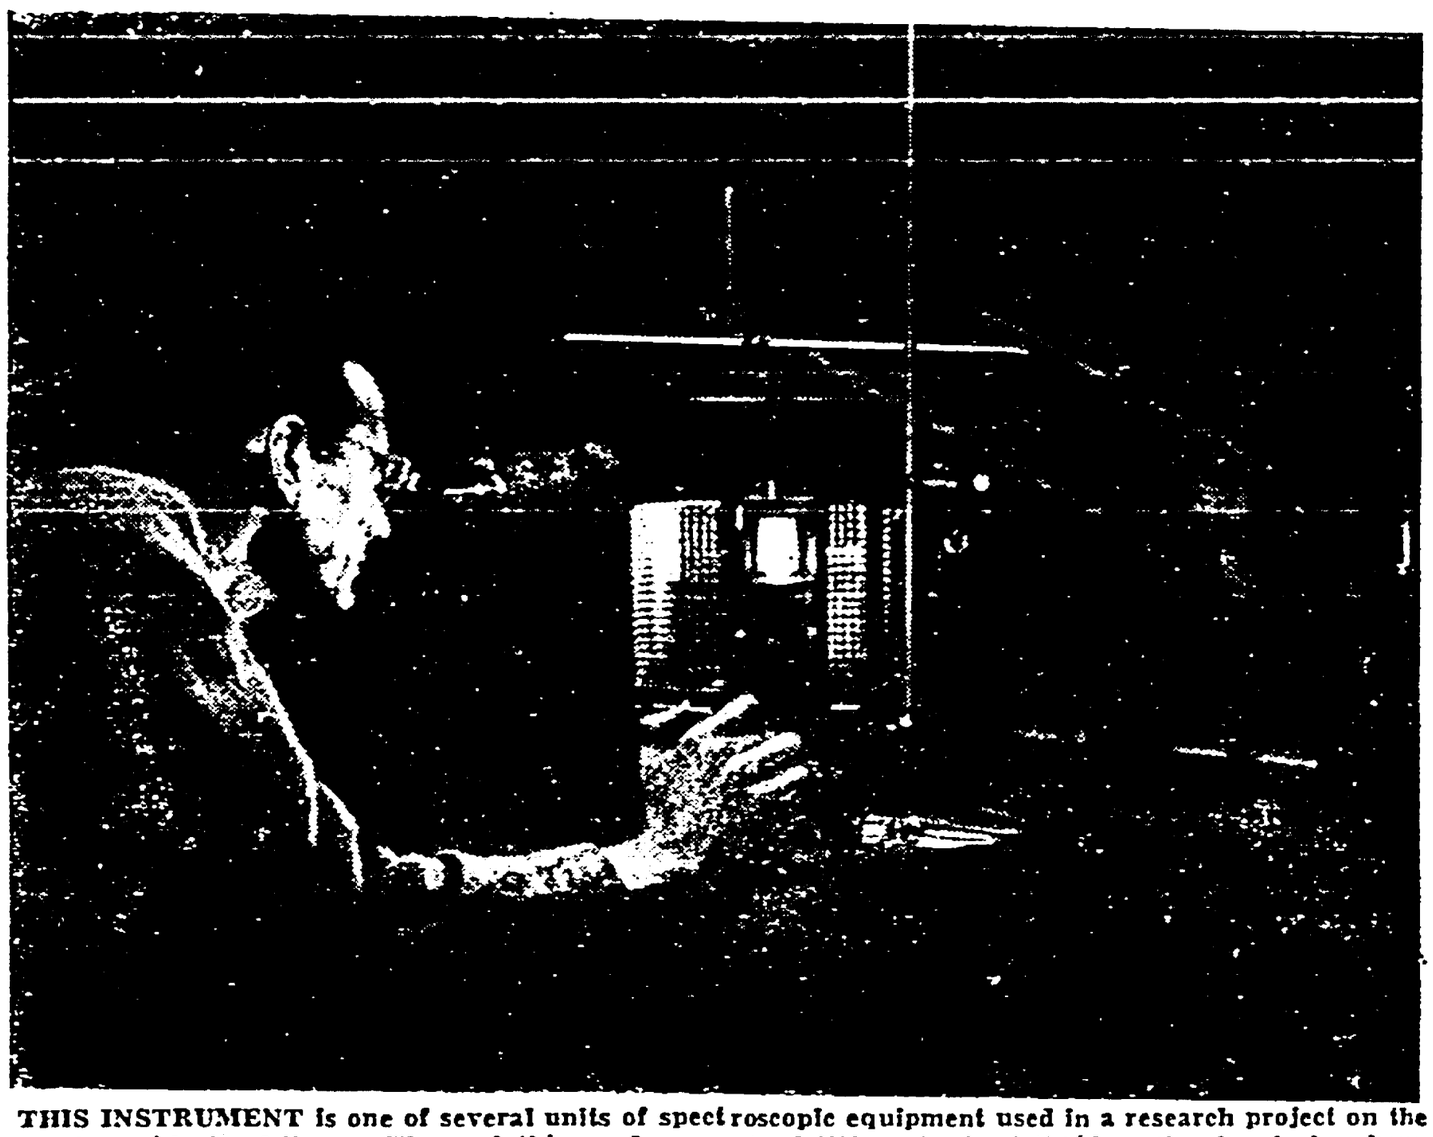
ODOR AND taste are important factors in the use of pulp and paper products today. Dr. Ernest Reed, chairman of the plant sciences department, and his staff have developed equipment which will determine the odor producing elements of paperboard products. Success in this project will result in the more widespread use of the products of the paperboard industry.

AN ANALYSIS of the psysiology of the visual is the current work of Dr. Verner Wulff, head of the zoology department. Sponsored by the Office of the Naval Research, this study delves into the chemical and electrical changes undergone in the transformation of light waves into an image in the visual section of the brain. One of the basic machines used is unit which will deliver a measured amount of light flashing for a measured span of time.

Research at Syracuse university is not merely individual, isolated projects, but a University-operated research center serving government, industry, and the University.

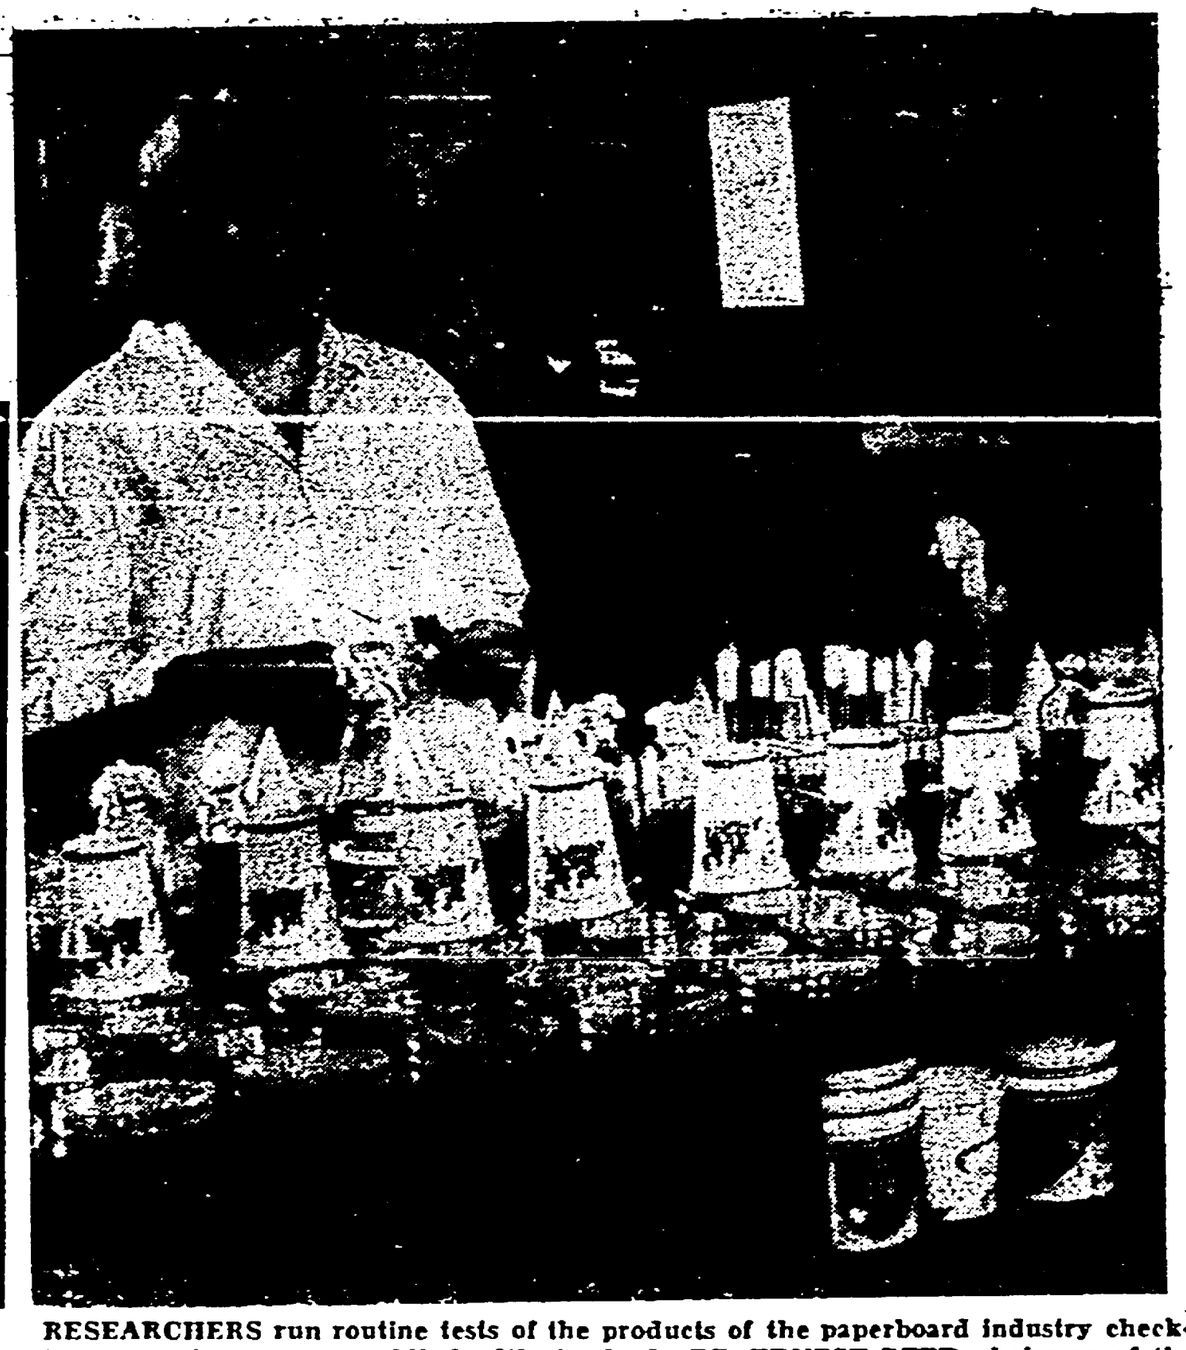
Photographs Courtesy of Research Institute

DR. C. S. GROVE, JR. and his assistants test the efficiency of a new chemical foam developed for fighting fires. This project's sponsored jointly by the Naval Research Laboratory and the Office of Naval Research. In connection with this, Dr. Grove is working on a study of the effects of water additives to fire fighting foams for the Army's Engineer Research and Development Laboratories.



THIS INSTRUMENT is one of several units of spectroscopic equipment used in a research project on the spectra analysis of flames. The variations and amounts of different color light show the chemical makeup of the specimen being burned. The project is being done in the Physics department under the sponsorship of the Office of Ordinance Research.

ad of the zoology department stands by equipment used in a research project on the esses of the eye and the optic nerve. On the table is optical apparatus used to produce n the background is a darkened booth used in the project. Office of Naval Research is spon-



RESEARCHERS run routine tests of the products of the paperboard industry checking for conformance to public health standards. DR. ERNEST REED, chairman of the plant sciences department, helped to develop equipment for a project to eliminate odor and off-taste in pulp and paper products.

Veteran Ohio State Squad Seeks NCAA Swimming Championship

By STAN ROSENFELD
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Syracuse's Orange pool which is only two years old, and is one of the newest and most beautiful of its kind in the country has been accorded the honor of being the site of the 31st annual NCAA Swimming Championships to be held on the 25th, 26th and 27th of this month.

The NCAA event was begun in 1924, but only since 1937 have there been team cnampions selected. In the course of those 17 years, only three teams have been able to capture championships. Ohio State leads the field with seven wins, Michigan has won six times and Yale is in the show position with four triumphs.

YALE IS THE defending champion as they easily won last year's event which was contested in the Ohio State natatorium. The host team was second by more than 20 points and Michigan was a poor third.

This year however, Ohio State is favored to take the championship with their biggest trouble coming from Michigan and Stanford. Yale which was hard hit by graduatin is still a definite contender, along with Georgia, Michigan State and North Carolina.

A week ago, Ohio State swimmers shattered three world marks and captured eight of ten first places in overpowering Michigan, 52-41. Yoshi Oyakowa set a new world record in his 100-yd. leg of the medley, traversing the distance in 55.7 seconds. Ford Konno broke two records, in the 220-yd. and 200-meter events. The old records were held by John Marshall of Yale.

Konno and Oyakawa both are Olympic titleholders, taking gold medals in the 1500 meter and 100 yard backstrokes respectively. Konno also garnered a second prize medal in the 400-yd. event.

YOSHI OYAKOWA, Olympic 400-yd. swim titlist who will be seen in action at the Orange pool in the forthcoming NCAA Swim Championships. Oyakowa is a key performer in Ohio State's hopes for the title.

A FIELD OF more than 50 teams are entered in this year's championships. Teams from all sections of the country will compete, with entries having been received from U.S.C., Stanford, Texas, U.C.L.A. and North Carolina to name only a few.

The activities will get under way Thursday evening, March 25th with the 1500 meters freestyle. On Friday morning and Saturday morning, one meter and three meter diving as well as the 50-yd. freestyle will be competed. These two mornings admission is free to all with plenty of excitement open to all comers.

On Friday and Saturday afternoon time trials and semi finals will be held in all events excepting the 1500 meter event which was decided on Thursday evening. The meet will wind up Friday and Saturday evenings with finals on both evenings.

The finals on Friday will consist of five events, the semi-finals of which were contested that afternoon. The order of events are the 50-yd. freestyle, 200-yd. backstroke, 220-yd. freestyle, 200-yd. breaststroke and 400-yd. freestyle.

THE TEAM championship will be decided on Saturday evening with finals in six events taking place. The events are the 100-yd. backstroke, breaststroke and freestyle, the 440-yd. freestyle, the 150-yd. individual medley and the 300-yd. medley relay. On both Friday and Saturday afternoons, exhibitions in diving will be given by qualifiers.

Prices for the Friday and Saturday evening finals are $2.40 with all seats reserved. The Friday and Saturday afternoon preliminaries are $1.20 with all seats reserved. The 1500 meter heat finals on Thursday evening are $.60 with all seats reserved. A series ticket, good for a reserved seat for all events is available for $6.00, tax included.

Altogether, counting the two sessions open free to the public, there will be seven sessions of events. Since the meet is sponsored by the NCAA, ID cards and student discounts are not in effect although there are reduced prices for those who wish to see the entire competition.

Syracuse fans will have an opportunity to see three meter diving at the championships. Only the one meter board is used at Hill dual-meets while the higher board is not competed on.

IN LAST YEAR'S NCAA affair, Ohio State dominated the one-meter diving. Jerry Harrison, Bob Clotsworthy and Morley Shapiro finished one, two, three. Clotsworthy finished ahead of teammate Harrison in capturing the three meter event with Shapiro sixth.

Dartmouth, whose team total in the championships last year was only six points, may be a darkhorse contender this year. The Big Green has given Yale quite a time of it in the Ivy League championships. Orange enthusiasts will have a chance to see the powerful Indians this Friday evening when they oppose Ted Webster's mermen at Orange pool.

Six awards will be given to the first six finishers in all individual championships. Gold, silver, bronze, and art medals will be given to individual winners with a trophy awarded to the team winning the title.

The 1954 swim season has been a big improvement in individual performances over last year. The main reason is believed to be the slump that usually follows a post-Olympic year and the natural revival.

Scanning the Intramural Scene

By AL GEFEN
Daily Orange Intramural Director

The intramural basketball season will come to a dramatic climax this Thursday with the playing of two very important games In the first contest at 6:30 p.m., the fraternity champions will do battle with the independent champs.

At 8 p.m. the annual Daily Orange-sponsored all-Star contes will be staged. In this game, ten of the outstanding players fron the Greek teams will meet a like number of sparkling performer from the independent and living center squads.

These two games bring to a close a long season which began in early December. The regular season found six fraternity teams, fou living center squads, and an independent quintet win their respectiv fights. These victorious squads are now in the process of an elimination tourney which will decide the teams which will play in the all University championship games.

In order to determine what teams will do battle in the all-University game, two games will be played on Wednesday evening which will decide the fraternity and independent championships.

A year ago, the all-star game was played before the all-University championship contest, but this year we have decided to switch the order around in order that any players, playing in the championship tilt and chosen on one of the all-star teams, may play in both clashes.

Both all-star aggregations will be made up of ten players and three alternates, who will see action in case of an injury to any o the first ten chosen. This year, the squads will be picked by the intra referees, Assistant Intramural Director Bob Bell, the Daily Orange freshman sports reporters who have covered the games al season, and this columnist.

Four varsity hoop performers have volunteered their services to coach the all-star squads. Mel Besdin and Dick Jaskot will serv as the co-coaches of the fraternity all-stars, while Billy Nelson and Lou Beverly will direct the independent all-star team.

The player personnel will be announced in tomorrow's Daily Orange, We hope that several of you sports fans will come out for this action-packed doubleheader at Archbold gymnasium Thursday evening. It should turn out to be of the biggest attractions of the Winter sports season here on the Hill.

* * * *

Three years ago, when the new gym was officially opened, athletic attractions were immediately scheduled there. This action was contrary to earlier plans set up before the added structure was built When building plans had been set up, it was planned that no collegiate athletic events would be staged there.

In the past three years, however, almost every home event fo Syracuse athletic teams which compete during the winter season ha been staged in the new gym.

For this reason, the wooden bleachers have been brought into the gym to facilitate the people who have amassed to see the events Until this year, the administration had the bleachers set up befor almost every contest and taken down after the attractions were held

This year, however, the administration decided that this operation of setting up and removing the bleachers had come to be too costly and that, instead, the bleachers would be removed only after the home winter sports schedule had been completed.

This decision meant that only one basketball court in the new gym could be used for three months instead of the usual three. Such a decision has cost the students use of the courts for play during their leisure time.

In addition, with the varsity and freshman basketball teams using the new and old gyms in the afternoons and intramural hoop gaining usage of these courts, the gymnastic squad has been virtually pushed out into the cold.

Workouts for the gymnastic team must be scheduled now during the dinner hour from 5 to 7 p.m. and on Sunday mornings. Also, intramural basketball teams rarely are able to practice.

The administration definitely made a mistake when they failed to add folding bleachers in the original plans for the construction of the new gym. Since the new gym has been in use these past three years, the University has spent over three times as much money in providing seating facilities with the wooden bleachers as it would have cost by calling for the addition of folding bleachers

It still isn't too late to add folding bleachers in the new gym Although it may seem to be a large outlay of money at first, these bleachers will eventually pay for themselves, if the University continues to schedule athletic events there.

The University seemingly prides itself in furthering facilities for the students. Here is the chance for the administration to prove tha this is its goal.

Math Bowlers Gain Leac

The red-hot Math dept. continued its fast pace in the Faculty Bowling League last week as it raced into first place past the Athletic dept. by two points.

Mike Hickok of the Athletic dept. kept up his fine bowling with a three game total of 524.

The schedule for March 8 is a follows:

Engineers vs. Holy Rollers
Marshall vs. Stinkers
Math vs. Linguists
Athletics vs. Utes
Pinknots vs. Forresters
ROTC vs. Forestry

ADVENTURE 21st Year
EUROPE, 60 Days, $490 (all expense incl. steamer)
Bicycle, Faltboot, Ski, Motor, Rail. Also Latin America, West, Orient.
TRAVEL
Around the World. $995 all expense Low cost trips to every corner of the globe. Congenial groups for those who wish to get off the beaten track . . . even trips for explorers.
STUDY Special Groups
LANGUAGES, ART, DANCE, MUSIC. College Credit. Some scholarships available.
See More Spend Less
SITA Your Travel Agent or Students International Travel Association
545 FIFTH AVE., NEW YORK 17 • MU 2-6544

A JOB IS A JOB IS A JOB
WHEN YOU GET IT OR
the case of the six-cent patsy

Once there was a Senior who was up against the grim prospect of Graduating. With Social Security 42 years away, he recognized the need of a job to Tide Him Over.

So he burrowed manfully through Classified Sections, under "Help Wanted", in search of the Right Niche. Spotted it, too. A honey. The right field, a Substantial Salary, fine location, pensions and benefits Up To Here. The ad asked for Brief Histories from applicants.

He wrote immediately. Not cockily but convincingly. A masterpiece that took four nights and filled several pages with Deathless Prose. It left no doubt that here was The Man for the Job. He slapped on a 6-cent stamp, dropped it into the box, and sat back waiting for The Call.

P.S.—he didn't get the job. His epistle wound up 334th in the pile, and they never got down that far. Hired one of the first eight, as a matter of fact—all of whom had had Enough Perspicacity to flash the data by telegram and land On Top of the Heap.

Before you start jockeying for a job, be sure to latch onto your free copy of the Telegrammar, Western Union's ingenious pocket-size guide to telegraph use. (Just write Room 1727, Western Union, 60 Hudson St., New York City.) And remember, whatever the Project, you're smart to use Telegrams to Get the Jump on the Competition. Telegrams get In, get Read, get the Reaction you want. Wonder-workers in all kinds of ventures . . . whether you're Dickering for a Date, a Hotel Reservation, or Pesos from Pop. Just call Western Union.

WESTERN UNION AGENCY
Students Supply Store—943 S. Crouse Ave.
Telephone: 4-4018

Want to travel and study abroad?

Take a university-sponsored tour via TWA this summer. and earn full college credit while you travel

Visit the countries of your choice . . . study from 2 to 6 weeks at a foreign university. You can do both on one trip when you arrange a university-sponsored tour via TWA. Itineraries include countries in Europe, the Middle East, Asia and Africa. Special study tours available. Low all-inclusive prices with TWA's economical Sky Tourist service.

For information, write: John H. Furbay, Ph. D., Director, Air World Tours, Dept. CN, 380 Madison Ave., New York 17, N. Y. Be sure to mention countries you wish to visit.

TWA
TRANS WORLD AIRLINES

College Week
in
BERMUDA
April 17—23

$148 for men $158 for women
FINAL PAYMENT DUE MARCH 9
TECHNICOLOR FILM—ALL WELCOME!
7:15 P.M. TUESDAY 206 WOMEN'S BUILDING
FOR FURTHER INFORMATION
Call
CARLETON HENSE or JOAN WITMER
7-62234 7-59336

Orange Hoop Hopes Loom High

By BOB LEFKO
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Many years ago Brooklyn baseball fans originated a saying about their favorite bums which has since come into national prominence. Every year, the Dodger followers would console their setbacks with the comment, "Wait till next year."

By taking this stereotyped phrase and placing it in local proportions, Syracuse basketball fans may find the saying apropos.

AS ONE YEAR comes to an end, fans start looking ahead to future prospects and for Orange hoop followers, the future is bright. Next year may be the big one. True, the 11-9 record of the recently completed season is not unsuccessful, but higher goals are not out of reach.

Marc Guley has spent four years as head tutor of the Saltine courtmen and only in the initial season, 1950-51, did the squad gain any national recognition. That team raced to a 19-9 record climaxed by a championship in the Bradley university campus tournament.

The 1951-52 squad started off fast and finished just as fast, but it hit a snag in mid-season and finished with a 14-6 record, less than expected. The next year proved disastrous as the cagemen racked up only 7 wins against 13 setbacks and then this season the record improved.

By saying next year may be the big year, hopes are that all the mentioned records will be surpassed.

MEL BESDIN will be the only important absentee when the hoopsters congregate for another campaign. Although the captain was the squad's leading scorer this year, his absence will be balanced by the presence of many other fine cagers.

DAVE KLINE, lanky pivotman for the Hill quintet who is expected to lead a Syracuse resurgence next year. Kline was bothered most of the year with a broken wrist which greatly reduced his effectiveness.

Some of the more important returnees will be Jack Larned, Manny Breland, Dave Kline, Walt Scott, Gus Castellini and Ron Gillespie.

Larned was the most improved performer on the 1953-54 squad and developed into the second high scorer, averaging over 10 points per game. In addition to his scoring, the speedy junior displayed the poise of a veteran. He seems a definite starter in next year's plan.

Kline is the big man on the squad at 6 ft.-5. Although handicapped by a broken wrist injured in the early part of the season, the rebounding star turned in some good performances. Kline was an important rebounder and scorer during his sophomore year and was showing signs of real stardom before his injury this year.

IF HE CAN overcome any after effects of his injury, he may turn into the top boardman in the east.

Gillespie, Larned, Scott and Castellini are all sophs and should be improved with one year's experience.

Breland, a 6 ft.-2 Negro, displayed the poise of a veteran even in his inaugural performances and seems destined to become one of the finest ballplayers in Syracuse history.

Few people would be surprised if his name was eventually ranked with such Hill greats as Vic Hanson, Billy Gabor and Jack Kiley. He has all the attributes of a star: speed, a deadly shooting eye; defensive ability and exceptional finesse.

A CLASSMATE of Breland's who should also develop into top ranking is Gillespie. One of the surprises of this year's squad after only a fair freshman year, Gillespie improved with every performance.

His 25 points in the finale against Colgate may be an omen of things to come. He's a top rebounder, can play in either the pivot or on the outside and seems to add considerable drive to the entire squad when in action.

Scott and Castellini both saw only limited action in their initial varsity year's but are still considered top prospects. Scott has been highly rated by many viewers and his limited activity was surprising.

Castellini, a local boy from Solvay, is an erratic player and may turn into a valuable spot performer. His top output this year was in the early season clash with Sampson when he hooped 28 points.

LITTLE LOU Cegala, a scrappy floorman, also may prove a valuable spot player.

After all the help provided by this year's sophomore contingent, prospects from the present yearling squad have risen to added importance. Vinnie Cohen has been rated a future great and seems a definite possibility to break into next year's starting five.

Other '57 members who are counted on for help are Gary Clark, Jim Snyder, Lou Stark, Vin Albanese and Jim Brown.

For the last two seasons, the Orange frosh quintets have lost only one battle. These top hoopsters are now on the varsity and bringing the winning habit with them.

IT MAY be early to start dreaming with the 1953-54 campaign just ended but as for me, I can't wait till next season for it may just be the big one.

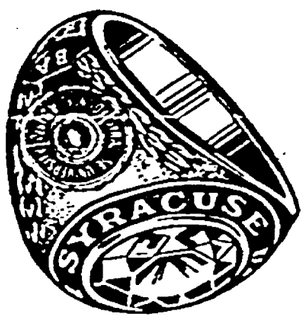
The National Invitational Tournament started in New York Saturday and Syracuse was absent. Next year at this time, don't be surprised if the Orangemen are there, and giving a good performance. We'll hopefully wait till next year.

It's Later Than You Think

CLASS RINGS With Degree, Year

CHOICE OF STONE

WOMEN'S or MEN'S



Engineers include Degree Year and Choice of Stone

Hill Smoke Shop
MARSHALL STREET
Headquarters for Everything

How Business Uses IBM's Great Electronic "701" for Data Processing

This giant computer, located in IBM's main New York office, is one of 12 already in use. It has been working at top speed from 16 to 24 hours a day ever since it was installed.

It has been solving business and scientific problems requiring as little as one minute of machine time and as much as 50 hours.

Its versatile abilities have been put to work at everything from allocating departmental costs for a bank to calculating design specifications for heavy industry.

It has helped a petroleum company blend its gasolines and figured out a multi-million dollar annual budget for a complex supply operation.

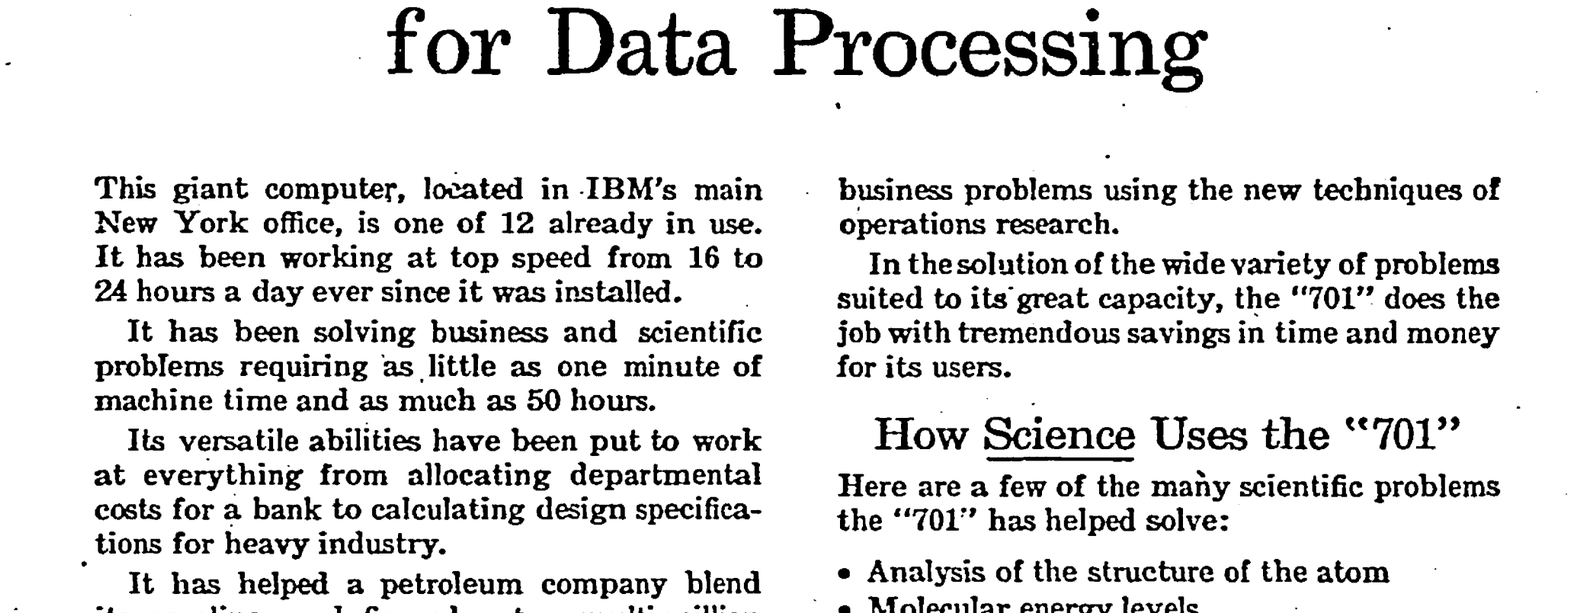
Perhaps of even greater significance and promise is the machine's successful solving, through linear programming, of highly complex business problems using the new techniques of operations research.

In the solution of the wide variety of problems suited to its great capacity, the "701" does the job with tremendous savings in time and money for its users.

How Science Uses the "701"

Here are a few of the many scientific problems the "701" has helped solve:

- Analysis of the structure of the atom
- Molecular energy levels
- Oil reservoir calculations
- Magneto-ionic refractions
- Trajectory calculations
- Reactor design
- Seismic wave calculations



These eleven connected units are known as the IBM Type 701 Electronic Data Processing Machines. The average age of the engineers, physicists, mathematicians and technicians who developed and designed these machines, which embody the latest advances in electronic computing circuitry and high speed mechanisms, was 28.

If you are interested in a technical or non-technical explanation of how the "701" operates, the IBM staff at 590 Madison Avenue, New York City, would welcome your visit. Visiting hours are from 10:00 A.M. to 4:00 P.M. daily except Saturdays, including Spring and Summer vacation periods.

IBM International Business Machines
590 Madison Avenue, New York 22, N. Y.

Principal engineering laboratories and manufacturing operations are at Endicott and Poughkeepsie, New York and San Jose, California.

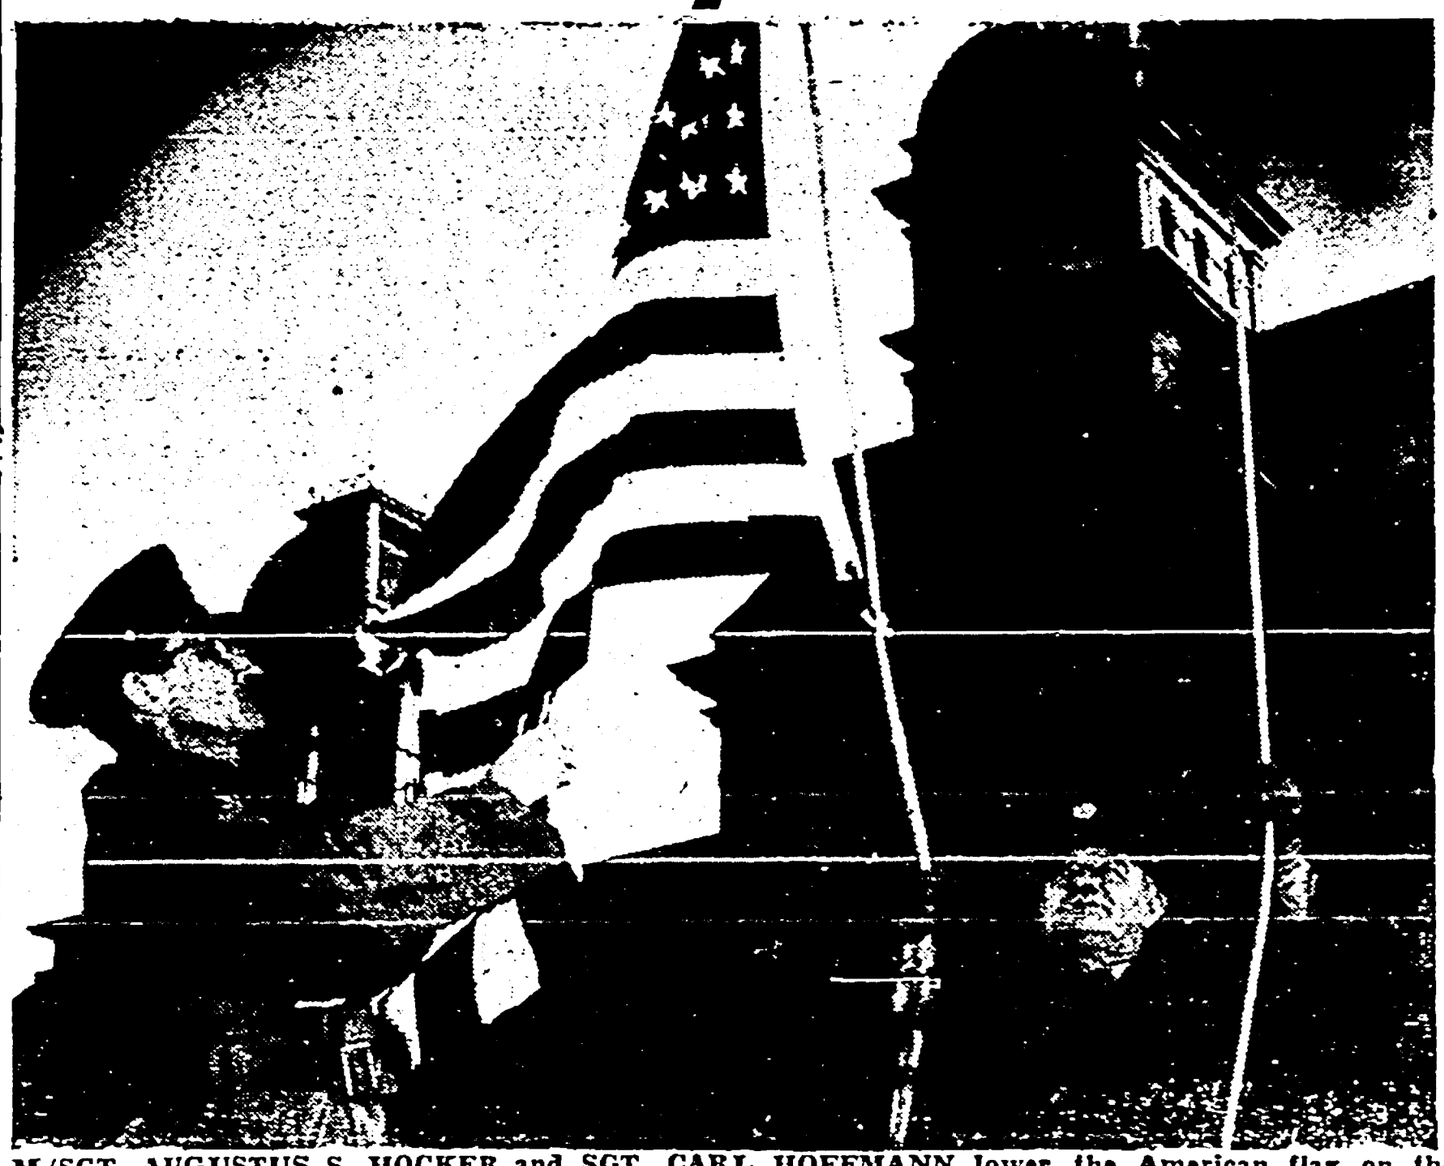
Frosh Will Present SU Revue Friday

Acts ranging from an old time comic routine to serious classical music will be featured at the freshman variety show "S.U. Revue." This program is tentatively planned for 8:30 p.m. Friday, the first night of events during Frosh Weekend.

Arrangements have been made to hold the revue in the Women's building before the regularly scheduled mixer of the evening. Admission will not be charged and the viewers are invited to stay for the dancing after the show.

Eight acts will compete for the trophy awarded by the Marshall street merchants. Rehearsals for the acts are now under way and one is was held for Saturday from 2-5 p.m. Guy Galeerd and Merry Dash, co-chairmen of the committee, stated that practices will probably continue every day this week.

So Proudly She Hails



M/SGT. AUGUSTUS S. HOCKER and SGT. CARL HOFFMANN lower the American flag on the campus. Scabbard and Blade, national military honorary, is in charge of the new tradition of the ROTC units lowering the flag each day. Cadets and members of the cadre are participating in this activity. The flag is lowered at 4:15 p.m. Staff Photo by Lee Jones

Footprints . . .

(Continued from page 1)

participating in this discussion are professors George B. Cressey, of the geography department, William P. Hotchkiss, history, and Frederick Haucke, of the College of Fine Arts.

Discussion will be continued over coffee at 9 p.m. in the Colonial room.

Dr. Davies and Dr. Homrighausen will both be interviewed on the WSYR-TV program "Ladies Day" from 2 to 3 p.m.

TOMORROW'S SESSION of the conference dedicated to the stimulation of thought in the area of basic philosophies will be led by Dr. Joseph L. Fink of Temple Beth Zion in Buffalo.

The religious and community leader will speak on the nature of truth at 10 a.m. in the Chapel auditorium. His talk will be followed by an informal coffee.

The Time Is Now!
for
Watch - Clock - Jewelry
Repairing
College
Jewelry Shop
703 S. Crouse Ph. 4-9062

FM WAER 88.1 PROGRAM SCHEDULE

MONDAY

3:00—WAER News
3:05—Symphonic Matinee
4:00—Musical Heritage
5:00—This I Believe
5:05—Distaff Digest
5:15—Dinner Date
6:15—WAER News
6:25—Evening Showcase
6:35—WAER Sports Lineup
6:45—High on a Hilltop
7:00—Masterworks from France
7:30—Travels in Music
8:00—Evening with Music
9:00—WAER News
9:05—Meet the Composer
9:30—Proudly We Hail
10:10—Final Edition—News
10:10—Final Edition—Sports

Campus Notices

Daily Chapel, 12-12:20 p.m. Dr. E. G Homrighausen, "Footprints" leader will speak.

WAA, tumbling and apparatus club, 4:30-5:30 p.m., gym B, Women's building.

Basketball officials exam, 4:30 p.m., 131 Women's building.

"Six Weeks with Luther," discussion of creed, 4:30 p.m., 101 HL.

Graduate woman and fifth year nurses athletic program, 7:30 p.m., gym B, Women's building.

MSG assembly meeting, 7:30 p.m., tomorrow, 207 HL.

The following people are assigned to work today at The Daily Orange: Afternoon—Al Bartkevicius, Grace Frary, John Johnsrud, Ruth Anderson, Carol Royce, Lorraine Cippola: Night, Ed Hardy, Ros Brownstein, Maria Heitz, Peter McNally, Lois Feldman, Mollie Glaser, Allyne Smith and Joan Connor.

Frosh class for Daily Orange immediately after staff meeting; 4 p.m. Attendance of all freshmen staff members required.

Senior Ball, committee chairmanships applications, due 5 p.m. tomorrow to John Beach, Phi Gamma Delta, and Barbara Suchey, Delta Gamma.

REGENT
SUN.—WED.
Keefe Brasselle
"THE EDDIE CANTOR STORY"
Color by Technicolor
also
"SEA OF LOST SHIPS"
John Derek
Wanda Hendrix

Cheerleading Squad Announces Practices

Aspiring cheerleaders will begin try-outs for both men's and women's cheer squads this week.

All freshmen, sophomore and junior men interested in cheerleading will meet at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Trophy room of the Men's gym. Practices are planned for Tuesday and Wednesday during the next three weeks.

WEDNESDAY AND Thursday have been set for coed try-outs. Practice periods will be from 7 to 9 p.m. both days. The place will be announced in tomorrow's Daily Orange.

Two hours of practice will be required each week of men and women who try out for the squads. The present cheerleaders will conduct two eliminations before the final try-outs which are scheduled for April 7.

A board of judges will make the final selections. The board consists of faculty and student members who are familiar with cheerleading techniques.

Next year's squad will consist of 10 members, five men and five women. Only sophomore and junior women will be eligible for the squad. However, freshmen coeds may try out to learn the procedure and become familiar with the cheers.

Athletics Open To Nurses, Grads

All graduate women and fifth year nurses are invited to an athletic program at 7:30 p.m. today and every Monday in Gym B of the Women's building.

Tonight's program will consist of badminton, volleyball and basketball followed by swimming for those with athletic privilege cards.

All activities are free.

PARAMOUNT
JAMES STEWART
JUNE ALLYSON
"The GLENN MILLER STORY"
Technicolor
A Universal International Picture
Also "BLACK FURY" in color

Now MIDTOWN Open 6:30 P.M.
LOUIS de ROCHEMONT presents
Martin Luther
A MAGNIFICENT MOTION PICTURE FOR OUR TIME!

Schine's ECKEL — NOW PLAYING
THE SUPREME ADVENTURE OF OUR TIME!
Print by TECHNICOLOR
'THE CONQUEST OF EVEREST'

Classified brings action
You Can Buy — Sell — Rent — Hire
JUST CALL —
JEAN JACOBS
4-7206

CLASSIFIED ADS

IMPORTANT NOTICE—CLASSIFIED ADS to appear in this paper should be DELIVERED at the HELLBOX Classified desk between 1 and 3 p. m. NO ADS WILL BE ACCEPTED AFTER 3. ALL ADS MUST BE IN 2 DAYS IN ADVANCE. For further information call 4-7206.

ALL LOST ARTICLES should be turned into the CENTRAL LOST AND FOUND ROOM, 20 Bldg. 24 at 205 University Pl. Articles can be claimed there.

AUTO DRIVING INSTRUCTION. Learn to drive easily, correctly and safely. Call Upstate Auto Driving School. Phone 8-4040.

TYPEWRITERS RENTED: $3.00 per month, $8 3 months. Good selection. We deliver, Smith Brothers. 4-8833.

Typewriters rentals—New Models Reasonable Rates—Expert Service, All Makes—CORNER STORE.

EXPERT TYPING, theses and term papers. Mrs. Raymond Webb, 2-1884.

ALTERATIONS DONE WITHIN A DAY: 4-5847. 5 minutes from campus. Lillian Potter, 207 Comstock Ave.

FOR SALE: Portable Zenith Short Wave, Overseas radio. Like new. $75. Call 65-8260.

1951 NASH RAMBLER HARD TOP: Grey body, red top. Lik new. Original owner will sacr fice for quick sale. Will financ Darrell Jones, 104 Clinton St Homer, N.Y.

MIMEOGRAPHING, SAME DA SERVICE, EXCELLENT WORI FREEMAN LETTER CO., EC KEL THEATER BLDG. 2-482

SUMMER DAY camp counselor Two men, one woman. Salai depends on experience. Week ends free. May live in. Elmcre Children's Center. 72-4496.

INTERVIEWING: Camp Law rence Cory, Director Weldon Hester, will interview appi cants for staff and counsel positions this coming Wedne day, March 10th, between 1: and 5 at Appointment Offic Camp location—Keuka lake, N Y. 62nd season, Capacity 30 Literature available at Appoin ment office.

MR. B. T. STONE, director of th Veona Camps will be at th Appointment office all day t day to interview male studen for camp counseloring. Salar range—$150 to $250.

LOST: On campus, Women's Goo watch. Expansion band, nam "Ann Levy" on watch fa where manufacturing name u ually is. Reward. Call Ann Lev 4-9539.

On the Inside
Handicapped children are helped. See Coeds' Corner, Page 3.

Syracuse Daily Orange

Weather Report
CLOUDY, WARMER
High temperature ----45
Low temperature ---- 32

Vol. 51, No. 85 | Syracuse, N. Y., Tuesday, March 9, 1954 | 4 Pages—5 Cents

Martian St. Mayor to Reign Over Freshman Semi-formal

Mr. Universally Yours, the "Mayor of Martian St.," will reign over the Freshman Weekend semi-formal slated for 9 p.m. Saturday in the main gym of the Women's building.

The lucky freshman male was selected from six finalists at balloting Sunday night in the freshman living centers. His name will not be revealed until Friday, when his picture will appear in the special Freshman Weekend edition of The Daily Orange.

THE WINNER was chosen from the following candidates: David Boreanaz, Michael Minko, Raul Mendez, Robert Pearce, David John and Arthur Browner.

Tickets for the dance, at which the "Mayor" will be formally recognized, are on sale now in Sims, Washington Arms, and other campus locations. The price is $2 per couple.

The ticket sales opened yesterday, and ticket chairmen report the first day's sales above expectations. Only a limited number have been printed, and if the total supply is exhausted by booth sales, they will not be sold at the door.

According to a recent announcement by the overall heads of the dance committee, "Universally Yours" will be corsageless. This decision was made to induce more of the males with slightly "empty pockets" to get dates.

THE SEMI-FORMAL affair, which is the main attraction of the annual Freshman Weekend, will this year feature unusual decorations. The nature of the decorations is being kept secret, but they will tie in with the "Out of This World" theme of the weekend.

Volunteers are still needed for ticket sales, and anyone interested in this work should phone Myrna Paul, 4-9550, at his earliest convenience.

Sam Blumpkin's orchestra, a local group selected after a number of auditions, is scheduled to play for the event.

Forestry Banquet Set for Thursday

700 Expected to Attend 41st Annual Affair

Over 700 persons will attend the forty-first annual all-college banquet of the State University of the New York College of Forestry, at 6:30 p.m., March 11 in the main ballroom of the Hotel Syracuse.

The Forestry club cabinet, a student government association of the College, is sponsoring the dinner. The president of the cabinet, Blair Knapp, senior, will act as toastmaster.

The dinner's main speaker will be H. Raymond Gregg, assistant chief naturalist for the National Park service in Washington, D. C. His talk will be entitled "Some Things to All Men."

Awards will be presented to outstanding students of each of the four classes by the Alumni association, the Robin Hood Junior Honorary society, the Papyrus club and the Kappa Phi Delta and Alpha Xi Sigma fraternities.

Among the guests will be members of the College Board of Trustees; Frederic Flaherty, president of the Alumni association; Dr. Hardy L. Shirley, dean of the College; Dean Kenneth G. Bartlett of Syracuse university and Rev. H. Arnold Nakajima.

Session Canceled By Outing Club

There will be no meeting of the Outing club Tuesday evening, so the members will be free to attend the movie, "The Conquest of Everest." Those wishing to go will meet at 6:45 p.m. today in the lobby of Lyman hall.

The group planning to attend the weekend at the cabin in Jamesville will leave on Friday, March 12 and return Sunday, March 14. For more information, get in contact with Don Moore at 4-9327.

JSF Schedules Hebrew Classes

Jewish Student Fellowship classes in beginner's Hebrew start at 7 p.m. tomorrow in room 202, Maxwell. Sessions will be held every other Wednesday at the same time and place.

Signups for the classes, which are open to all university students, take place today and tomorrow at the JSF desk in the Chapel board room.

UN Delegate Lopez Talks at Press Convo

By EILEEN CHAMBERLAIN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Difference between difficulties of the American press and the communication industries in other nations abroad was discussed Saturday by Salvador P. Lopez, Philippine delegate to the United Nations.

Lopez was speaking at the opening session of the regional conference of the Associated Collegiate press Saturday in New York. Six Daily Orange editors attended.

THE UNITED STATES, Great Britain and France are largely interested in diminishing censorship of the press, he said. However, other nations, such as Egypt, Pakistan and Mexico, are struggling against concrete obstacles. He mentioned foreign press lack of equipment, including newsprint, and excessive postal rates, confusion in allocation of radio frequencies and the problem of broadcasts between hostile countries.

Foreign nations are also vitally concerned with insuring fair and accurate reporting of their affairs by American correspondents, he added.

The chairman of the Freedom of Information committee listed some of the proposals he plans to present to the group later this year. The major proposal is to draft an international conference which would obligate all signatory states to respect the press and to restrict it only when necessary for reasons of libel or good taste.

Daily Orange personnel attending the conference were Arlene Lambert, Arthur Siegel, Edward Hardy, Pearl Bernstein, Roger Herz and Eileen Chamberlain.

Tickets Now on Sale For Engineers' Ball

Judges to Select Queen Thursday in Maxwell

Tickets for the annual Engineers' ball, to be held March 20 in main ballroom of Hotel Syracuse, will be available beginning today from members of Theta Tau, professional engineering fraternity, which is sponsoring the dance.

Priced at $3.60 per couple, tickets will be sold by some 40 fraternity members who will be identified by large gold buttons labeled "Annual Engineers' Ball." It is the first ball since the engineers returned to campus from Thompson road that will be open to the entire University.

SELECTION OF a queen of the Hall will be held 7 p.m., Thursday, March 11, in Maxwell auditorium. Finalists will be selected from applicants entered by the various campus sororities and cottages. The identity of the queen will not be revealed until the night of the dance.

No entry fee will be charged and each living center is limited to two entries.

Judges for the contest include Dean Ralph Galbraith of the Engineer school; Dean Clark D. Ahlberg, assistant dean of the College of Engineering; Prof. Robert Lett of the electrical engineering department; Prof. William Hotchkiss, history deartment and Kenneth H. Miller, mechanical engineering instructor.

The theme of the semi-formal dance will be based on St. Patrick's day. St. Patrick is the patron saint of the engineers. Music will be provided by Williamson's Parisians.

Charles Rogers, is overall chairman of the ball. He is assisted by William Hannett, publicity; John Maksymiack, decorations; Fred Lyman, tickets; and Fred Boenig and Joseph Verzino, queen committee.

JSF CHANGES SERVICE, BRUNCH TIMES SATURDAY

Jewish Saturday morning services will be held at 11:30 a.m. in Hendricks chapel, rather than at 11 a.m. as originally scheduled. Services will be followed immediately by a brunch, sponsored by fraternities and sororities as a group.

Dr. Fred Krinsky, assistant chaplain to Jewish students, will deliver a sermon, "Inner Freedom", at the services.

The Saturday morning service is being held in honor of the general frosh class and the individual fraternity and sorority pledge classes.

Because no Friday evening service is being held this week, students have been invited to attend Friday services at local synagogues.

Applications Due For Senior Ball

All applications for senior ball committee chairmanships are due today, according to John Beach, senior class president.

Applications should include positions preferred, ideas and experiences for the positions. Second and third preferences also should be listed, according to Beach.

Positions open include refreshments, entertainment, publicity, tickets, program and arrangements and chaperone committee chairmanships.

The senior ball is slated for May 8. Overall co-chairmen are James Carr, a senior with a public address major, and Winifred Dawe, a political science senior.

JSF SEEKS TYPISTS

Jewish Student fellowship needs volunteers this week to type mailing lists and envelopes. Interested students are requested to report at their convenience to the JSF desk in the Chapel Board room.

Dr. McIsaac Says Free Enterprise Still Successful

Professor Advocates Government Help In Certain Areas

By PEARL BERNSTEIN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Government participation in certain fields of business does not indicate that the American system of free enterprise has failed, Dr. Archibald M. McIsaac told Citizenship 1 students yesterday.

Dr. McIsaac, who heads the economics department, discussed the need for government intervention in some areas where the problems are too comprehensive to be solved by private concern in his evaluation of "The Potentialities and Limitations of Free Enterprise."

WE ARE fortunate that thus far private enterprise has been able to serve the public interest while pursuing the basic premise of any free economy—the need for profits—he said.

Dr. McIsaac pointed out that capitalism, more fashionably called "free enterprise," is a system of organizing the economy as well as an industrial procedure.

"The kind of economy we have about us has come into being in a relatively short time," he said. The idea that people can decide for themselves what kind of work to do and how to spend their money is novel, and the notion of basing an entire economic system on this concept is even stranger.

Because of the great concentration of capital in a few large corporations, there is much public concern over the policies of these corporations. These organizations have responded by "acceptance of social responsibility on their part," Dr. McIsaac said.

HOWEVER, the profit motive remains the most powerful incentive, and this is better than to urge that business be on a "social responsibility" basis, he stated.

Panel to Discuss Reserved Seating

Student Governments To Consider Plans

The open hearing on reserved seating, postponed from last week, will be held at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow in 204 Hall of Languages.

Five student government officials and the Traditions commission head will be on hand to explain the present method to the joint men's and women's student government welfare panel.

Stanley Leff, president of MSG; Mary Anne Dalton, president of WSG; Stephen Reiss, chief of MSG civil service; Lois Clark, WSG junior officer; Jean Dale, in charge of reserved seating for WSG; and Alan Anderson, head of Traditions commission.

Discussion of possible improvements in the present plan of grid seating will include difficulties in holding seats, shortage of ushers, crowding at the gates and problems in obtaining tickets.

Subchairmen heading the seating working are Curtis Ford for MSG and Marilyn Hirsch for WSG. Chairman of the men's conduct and welfare panel is Roger Herz. Patricia Mosher chairs the women's group.

Dr. Davies Praises Science; Homrighausen Poses God

Minister Favors Scientific Facts In Religious Ideas

By POLLY REED
Daily Orange Junior Editor

"We must accept completely the disciplines of science in finding a religion. Sentiment and nostalgia cannot take the place of facts and the scientific method." So said Dr. A. Powell Davies, a Unitarian minister, in the opening lecture of the "Footprints" series yesterday morning.

"Medicine," Dr. Davies continued, "is scientific, but religion is neck deep in superstition, false opinions and discredited ideas." He advocated that man discard claims to solve riddles. Science will then give man an appreciation for what lies in the higher reaches of the bind.

"CONVICTIONS formed in the higher reaches of the mind sometimes lead to martyrdom," said Dr. Davies. "Our civilization would not be where it is now if it were not for these people of high thinking," he stated. This he contrasted with its antithesis, the person striving only for economic survival.

The minister said that "our first parents were only a couple of steps away from a chimpanzee. People who like to trace their ancestry back should remember this. But the important difference is that man engages in this higher level of thinking," he asserted.

Dr. Davies asserted that man is an animal by structure, but that he brought ideas into the world that were distinctly human. The facts of evolution explain that man descended from animals, said the minister. But they can not explain the behavior of man, he said.

"We know, then, by this experience, that man is spiritual, and not less than a living soul." Dr. Davies asserted that man is the conscious offspring of the ultimate.

HE IS THE author of "Faith of an Unrepentant Liberal," "The Temptation to be Good," and "America's Real Religion." Dr. Davies' most recent book is "The Urge to Persecute," a discussion of McCarthyism and its results.

"There are many things put forth in the name of science," the Washington pastor said. "For instance, the theory that man is a chemical engine. He is not . . . he is merely in the form of a chemical engine.

Chemical hormones did not write the psalms or paint the Mona Lisa. It is impossible to live a full human life without a philosophy of religion."

REV. ROBERT ZOERHEIDE, Unitarian chaplain, DR. A. POWELL DAVIES and DEAN CHARLES C. NOBLE are among the participants in the first "Footprints" conference, which concludes tonight.

Yesterday's Program Ends With Colloquium

By ROGER HERZ
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Only two to four per cent of students ever have an idea, Prof. William P. Hotchkiss remarked last night at a colloquium on "The Claims of Religion" in Chapel which ended the second day of Footprints.

Joining with Dr. A. Powell Davies and Dr. E. G. Homrighausen were Professors Hotchkiss, George B. Cressey and Frederick Haucks, with Dean Charles C. Noble as moderator.

Students today accept authority and go along with the crowd, Prof. Haucke said, noting a lesser degree of rebellion against elders today than formerly.

Dr. Davies stated that "there is more sensitivity in University students than in the Congress of the United States." He said that morality is developmental, and the fact that it is subject to revision doesn't make it less valid.

The question of whether a student should be graduated who hasn't gotten a philosophy of life in college was raised by Dr. Homrighausen. He noted, though that "if anything is wrong with education the fault is not with the students."

Prof. Cressey presented the belief that the function of a university is the teaching of the method by which students can arrive at truth.

"God is irrational," Prof. Haucke said. "We attribute to him an IQ of 3,000, but he has no need of intelligence. God doesn't need to be a rational being."

Dr. Davies noted that "this civilization will be on its way out unless there is a moral awakening. "We need a decline in fear and in McCarthy followers, he said, noting that there has been a decline in government.

A reminder to keep the United States in the context of the global situation was given by Dr. Homrighausen. "It's going to be one world, he said, and all depends on our response to the challenge God has given us." In the end, everything works for good, he said.

Fink to Talk on Truth In Last Footprints Day

Dr. Joseph L. Fink will open the final day of Footprints by speaking on the nature of truth at 10 a.m. in the Chapel auditorium.

An informal discussion and coffee hour will follow until noon in the Chapel Colonial room, when he will lead a service of mid-day meditation in the Chapel.

DR. FINK, rabbi of Temple Beth Zion in Buffalo, is well-known as a community and interdenominational leader.

He will participate in a student panel discussion on "Campus Religion: An Answer to Skeptics" at 3:30 p.m. in Maxwell auditorium.

The panel, moderated by Dr. Fred Krinsky, will include Robert Strader, Stanley Leff, Malcolm Foster, Jane Dempsey and Ellen Williams.

Jewish Student fellowship will serve tea at the conclusion of the discussion in the Founders room. An informal open discussion is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at Phi Gamma Delta, 721 Comstock ave.

MORE THAN 800 students and faculty members heard Dr. A. Powell Davies speak on the nature of man yesterday morning. A talk by Dr. E. G. Homrighausen on "Belief in God: The Crucial Issue for Man" was also widely attended.

Dr. Davies and Dr. Homrighausen participated in a faculty colloquium on "What Are the Claims of Religion" last night. Moderated by Dean Charles C. Noble, the panel included professors George B. Cressey, Frederick Haucke and William P. Hotchkiss.

Footprints, an all-University project, is designed to stimulate thought in the area of basic philosophies. Co-chairmen of the conference are James F. Carr and Elizabeth Goddard.

Lecturer Sees God Separated In Three Areas

By IVENS STANTON

The Nature of God can be separated into three specific areas, Dr. Elmer G. Homrighausen, noted professor, clergyman, lecturer and author, said in a speech to the Footprints convocation in Maxwell auditorium yesterday afternoon.

These three areas are the cruciality of God, the nature of God as expressed through his actions and how he is known through various channels.

DR. HOMRIGHAUSEN, who is professor of Christian education at Princeton Theological seminary and chairman of the department of evangelism of the National council of Churches, felt that he or anyone could talk of God for a lifetime without completely expressing the essence of the subject. The reason for this is that diety is inscrutable, he said. "No one has ever seen God."

The lecturer felt that all of the races and religions talk of God in their own way, but they all disagree in his personal attributes. "Faith is a personal issue," continued the clergyman. "Faith can also be painful to those who attempt to find the perfect being."

"The nature of God is of primary significance to the individual, society and humanity," the speaker stated to his large audience. "Our existence must be fulfilled by a reality (belief) or our aspirations have no meaning."

10-11 a.m.: Dr. Fink, "The Nature of Truth," Chapel auditorium.
11-noon: Coffee and discussion with Dr. Fink, Chapel colonial room.
Noon-12:20 p.m.: Daily Chapel. Dr. Fink will speak.
3:30-4:30 p.m.: Student panel, "Campus Religion: An Answer for Skeptics," Maxwell auditorium.
4:30-5:30 p.m.: Discussion and tea with Dr. Fink and panel, Maxwell Founders' room.
7:30-9 p.m.: Open discussion with Dr. Fink, Phi Gamma Delta, 732 Comstock ave.

Quoting from the writings of Ibsen, Dr. Homrighausen found backing for the theory that we must either come to "the end of the road" or turn to God. Even science, he held, demands an orderly universe which has an ultimate reality.

SOCIETY ITSELF rests on a belief of God, the clergyman stated. Without it there would be no morality leading to a unliveable condition on earth where each man would do only as he thought was right.

Dr. Homrighausen blames the churches and synagogues of today for letting people stray from the faith of their ancestors. These institutions, he felt, have failed to keep up with the modern scientific minds of this generation.

The second major contention of the speaker was that the nature of God is expressed through his actions. Dr. Homrighausen said, "We do not know what God is any more than scientists know what light is. He is revealed through his footprints."

THE WAYS HE makes himself known is through the way in which he contains and holds back lightning, water and all of the other forces of his creation. God is continually creating, the clergyman emphasized.

"However," the speaker qualified, "it is up to each individual to recognize these actions by himself before there can be an acceptance of Divinity."

The third point which the author forwarded was that the nature of God is known through channels that we recognize.

The lecturer concluded with the statement, "You and I will have to venture to find belief. The quest will go on until we can say I believe and mean it."

Freshmen Place Buttons on Sale

Buttons advertising freshman weekend were put on sale last weekend in Sims dining hall, the basement of Slocum, and Maxwell.

Designed by Jerome Parmet, publicity co-chairman, the buttons are bright yellow with a black spaceship and the lettering "Out of This World—Frosh Weekend." Sale of the buttons, which are priced at fifteen cents, is in charge of Ellen Wallace, Marshall cottage.

Over half of the total button supply, 1,000, had been sold as of yesterday afternoon. The remaining 500 will be on sale until the supply is exhausted.

Blazer Fittings Scheduled Today

Girls interested in ordering a fitted blazer with or without the Syracuse emblem can do so by going to the W.A.A. Board room in the Women's building between 1 and 2 p.m. or 4 and 5 p.m. The fittings will be held Tuesday, fittings will be held today, through Friday.

Disaster Strikes DO Editor's Contest Cake

HER "ORANGE SPECIAL" never reached its destination. Daily Orange Editor-in-Chief ARLENE LAMBERT sits in despair at her War Memorial oven after finding that the flour she used for her entry in The Post-Standard cake baking contest for newshens was really sugar. Her cake never got to the judges.
Staff Photo by Lee Jones

By MAGGIE FLYNN
Daily Orange Gourmet

Jean Daugherty of WHEN-TV took first prize honors in yesterday's Post-Standard cake baking contest for the "ladies of the press."

Syracuse university's sole entry, Arlene Lambert, Daily Orange editor, was never in the race as her "Orange Special" was derailed early in the competition.

ACCORDING TO eye-witnesses, Miss Lambert was confused by unlabeled ingredient canisters and inadvertently used confectionery sugar for flour.

"This was the first time I ever saw a cake boil," the dismayed editor moaned.

Miss Lambert is a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority. Mrs. Elizabeth Daugherty, mother of the WHEN-TV winner, is a housemother at ADPi.

The DO editor confided that both press ladies had used recipes belonging to Mrs. Daugherty —certainly with varying results.

THE WINNER called her cake "Duffy's Delight" in honor of her brother, the head coach of Michigan State and this year's Block S speaker.

Kenneth Sparks, publicity director of WAER, will try to put the Hill back in the winner's circle today by competing in the men's division of the press baking contest. He's pinning his hopes on a creation of chocolate.

The majority of the entrants in yesterday's affair were novices to the job of cake baking. Three of the femmes confessed that this was their second venture in the field of baking powder and icing.

"And believe me," one of the gals declared, "I'd much rather be back with my typewriter. I do not feel at home on the range."

"A '53 University graduate was also among the ranks of the lady bakers, Anita Bennett, representing the women's page of The Post-Standard, graduated last June from the School of Home Economics.

Distaster also struck the War Memorial site when it was discovered that many of the contestants had used sweet chocolate instead of the bitter-sweet variety. However, the results could not have been too bad for Miss Daugherty's winning cake was among those with the sweeter brand.

Judges for the contest were Nicholas Peters, head of the Anti-Sour Puss club; Charles Howard, public relations director of New Process Gear and Richard Wright, president of the Onondaga Historical society.

SYRACUSE DAILY ORANGE

THREE R'S OF A COLLEGE NEWSPAPER: RESPONSIVENESS, RESPONSIBILITY AND RESOURCEFULNESS

Page 2 Tuesday, March 9, 1954

Editor-in-chief ——— Ariane Lambert
Business Manager ——— Robert Goldstein

SENIOR EDITORIAL STAFF

Managing Editor ——— Arthur Siegel
Editorial Director ——— Hugh O. Muir
Executive Editor ——— Janet Core
Sports Editor ——— Kenneth Lent

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Edward Meyer, Joan Nadelhaft, Phyllis Sarle, Howard Vonkirk, Mary Vivian

BUSINESS STAFF

Asst. Business Manager ——— Sheldon Lassen
Layout Manager ——— Judith Berman
Classified Manager ——— Jean Jacobs
Circulation Manager ——— Anita Freyberg
Promotion Manager ——— Lloyd Eisenberg

DAILY STAFF

News Editor ——— Al Bartkevicius
Night Editor ——— Ed Hardy
Asst. Night Editor ——— Ros Brownstein
Editorial Page Asst. ——— Maria Heitz
Night Sports Editor ——— Bob Grogan

Published by the students of Syracuse University.

Telephones: News, 75-5195, 75-5197; Editor, 78-1448; Business: 4-7206. Subscription by mail $6 per year, $3.50 per semester. Entered as second class mail matter at the Syracuse Post Office. Exclusive national advertising representative National Advertising Inc., New York City.

A graven image

Over the weekend one of the more materialistic mores of our society was sharply etched in the firing of a man with intelligence but lacking a paper degree.

To be specific: a professor was discharged from an eastern college when it was found he was not the man he claimed to be, i.e., a college graduate.

He had been termed by responsible individuals as "brilliant" in the field of physics. He had been known as an excellent teacher. But he also did not have that piece of paper which buys prestige in our society: a degree.

The "professor" was a self-educated man. He had not even been able to finish high school due to financial reasons. But he had studied on his own and had learned enough to impress the most qualified in his field with his knowledge.

But since he did not have a college degree, he had been denied the right to teach, which was his main ambition.

So he was forced by his society to assume names of noted teachers to get a job. Perhaps forced seems to be a strong word for such a basically illegal action. But that is a question of the ends justifying the means . . . and that particular question is not the theme of this editorial.

The point here is this: why do we demand so-called paper proof of a man's intelligence? Colleges, through the pressure of mass education, have been forced to turn out the mediocre with the good. The sheepskin has become nearly as common as Coke.

Not that there is anything wrong with advanced education for as many as possible. It is the unfortunate by-product of diploma worship that is the danger.

In a nation of many gods, we are in the danger of prostrating our thoughts to another graven image. The diploma may be a passport to a position, but it is not a visa to the restricted land of competence.

Editorial Director

Why they quit

A survey conducted by the University of Nebraska concludes that only about 50 per cent of entering college students ever get to walk the academic aisle to the graduation ceremony.

Dr. Henry M. Cox, director of the Bureau of Instructional Research at Nebraska, claims too many youngsters don't really know what career fields to choose—and later regret the choices.

Tracing experiences of 1,184 high school grads of June 1952, Cox reports that 30 per cent drop before the start of the soph year and that one out of five that remain in collegiate circles transfer to other colleges before the start of the sophomore year.

Fifteen per cent of the entering classes fail to indicate choices of course work on their applications.

This number could be trimmed greatly if we had more effective guidance and advisory programs.

We suggest this both on the high school level and on the collegiate level with emphasis on the frosh college year.

A more personalized advisory program would offer valid reason to expect that hastily chosen career fields would drop in number.

Schools and colleges, in addition to better testing and guidance programs, might attempt to show more clearly exactly what each career entails by audio-visual aids and especially by actual visits to schools, business institutions and other organizations requiring college grads.

Often indecision can be changed to positive programs on the part of all college students, with assistance from the schools.

Managing Editor

CINEMA CLOSEUPS

EVEREST: CHALLANGE TO MANKIND

By CHARLES SAMUELS
Daily Orange Movie Critic

More About Everest

Last week we were offered a glimpse of one of the most exciting adventures of our time. The adventure was the conquest of Everest and the glimpse was provided by a superlative film of the same name.

It would be unfair to compare "The Conquest Of Everest" to a fictional feature. Indeed, so expert and overwhelming a piece of motion picture magic is it, that it is absolutely incomparable. But, as has been pointed out, the film's excellence is due not only to the awesomeness of Everest itself but so some sheer artistry in its production.

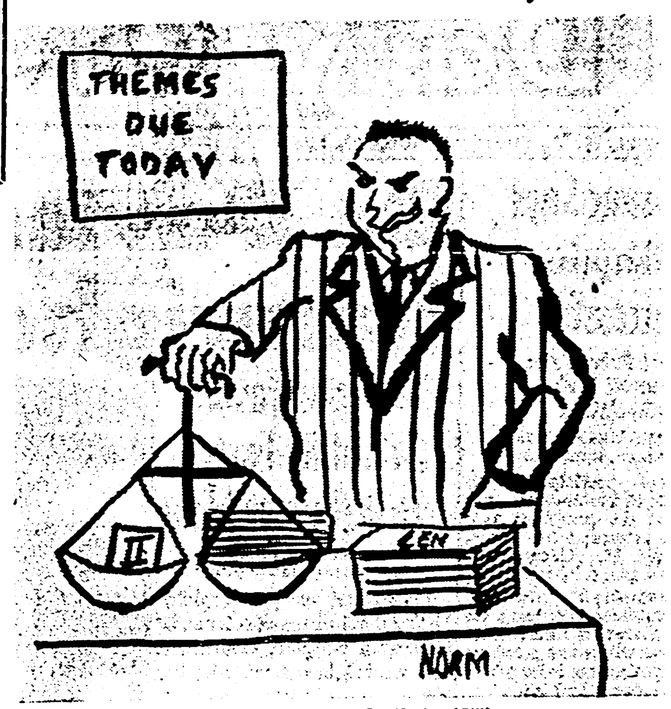
Louis MacNiece provided "The Conquest of Everest" with a wry, terse commentary of high literary merit, (eg.) the narrator says: "Mike (a climber) had to poke around in the snow, just as a matter of interest, to see if there was anything underneath it." Grim humor this, but marvelously effective. The awful suspense of the entire enterprise is superbly underlined by Arthur Benjamin's background music; as massive and impressive as Everest itself. And the photography, from the lush shots of the verdant Himalayan foothills to the icy, interminable whiteness of the roof of the world, is just about the finest you are ever likely to see.

What makes the film such an overwhelming emotional experience is the sense of mystical exaltation it conveys to the audience. The men who conquered Everest climbed a mountain 29,002 ft. high. They endured sub-zero temperature, 100 mile an hour gales and cold; cold-eternal, final and oppressive. But they decided to face a challenge and nothing would stop them.

The whole feeling of inevitability so masterfully summed up in Mallory's oft-quoted remark: "We want to climb it because it is there," permeates the film and gives it is own peculiar power. Everest is there; it is higher than any natural formation; it is the loftiest of challenges; therefore, we will conquer it. The dictum is that simple. If you are at all sensitive and aware of what it means to be a man, you can not help but feel exultantly proud when Hillary thrusts the marker into the summit. Here men have pushed themselves beyond the powers of endurance, of comprehension; beyond life itself and they win; they conquer the unconquerable, they attain the unattainable. Why? Because "It is there."

One need not have any understanding or knowledge of mountain climbing to appreciate the film. It might even be better if one didn't. For, in that case, you will see one of the most termendous spiritual revelations available in our sophisticated age and this without Mr. Huxley's mescalin. When you leave the theater you know why they climbed Everest; not intellectually; but spiritually, mystically. One shot of its peak will do that. And you are depriving yourself of a unique experience if you neglect this magnificent piece of cinematic art.

Nonentities by Norm



"Le'see . . . two pounds, that a 'C'!"

BACK TO THE SALT MINES

A Newspaper Concept

By ROGER J. HERZ
Editorial Page Writer

We attended a regional conference last weekend of the Associated Collegiate Press. We came back frankly startled by some of the conceptions of a newspaper presented there.

It appears that this is how to run a newspaper at some colleges, according to some editors at the conference:

Sit back in an armchair, preferably a well-padded and very comfortable one, and spread out publicity releases before you. Take the ones that fit or seem good and use them. The biggest problem, it appears, is filling up the paper. Clipping stories from The New York Times or another paper is a good way. A daily, bi-weekly or weekly struggle.

If more material is needed, someone might be called by phone. But this only in an emergency.

Then, putting the paper together, use the largest type possible, with the pictures of women on page one if possible (have to get them interested in it).

It is our belief that the function of a college newspaper is that of a NEWSPAPER and not a publicity sheet. It is our belief that the college newspaper should present not just the time, date and place of the next all-University dance, but all things which affect the student in his society.

In his society. Startling—to hear the college campus referred to as a society? We believe that the student is a citizen of many types of societies—that principle among these are family, Universities, the city, state, nation and world.

Thus there are rights and duties of the citizen in each of these societies. And in the educational field these must not be neglected.

Thus the student newspaper must be a real government, with those elected truly responsible to the electorate and the electorate sincerely interested in the workings of government.

New Era In Eats

If you're one of the thousands who suffer and find most discomfort from having to wait too long for pizza, salvation is at hand.

There is now a four-minute pizza parlor locally.

Drive up, put your arm around your girl—there should be a girl at such an affair—and just when pizza pie, voila—it is a pizza pie—the moon hits your eye like a big and a big one.

This may be the beginning of a new era—of four-minute motion pictures, of the 15 second Minute Waltz, of 24 hour existentialism, of Wheaties, Kix and warm ice cubes.

HEARING AIDS

A LACK OF TALENT FOR '53 'OSCARS'

By DICK CASE
Editorial Page Writer

There is an ancient chanty sung in days of old when Francis X. Bushman had bright, bushy, blonde hair and Sophie Tucker smarted only one chin. It went something like this:

"Hollywood, they make the music out in Hollywood; and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and Warner brothers are out there too, they steal the backgrounds from Johnny Green and Tiomkin too . . . Hollywood, Hollywood." All this followed by a round of cheers.

Those were the days when Hollywood was toasted for its film music and the sparkle of little gold statuettes blinded ASCAP and fellow travelers. Now, however, things have changed. All is not placid in the Academy Award circles. In fact, movie music seems to be the target for angered slashes.

The charge? Lack of good taste on the part of the film academy in the selection of "Best Song from a film" and "Best Background Score" Oscars. It seems that the academy is composed largely of folks expert in the dramatic content and as a result the musical portion of the films are slighted. "Buttons and Bows" wins an Oscar. And "High Noon."

A few weeks ago the judges offered the 1953 Oscar nominees which included the list of "Best song" selections. One of these will be picked for the final award . . . "The Moon Is Blue" from the film of the same name, "My Flaming Heart" from "Small Town Girl," "Sadie Thompson's Song" from "Miss Sadie Thompson," "Secret Love" from "Calamity Jane" and "That's Amore," from "The Caddy."

This list is not too bad, considering that the crop of individual songs for 1953 was certainly no prize package. We must also remember that there is a separate award for the best background score which would include numbers like "Terry's Theme," "Joey's Theme," "The Robe" background, "The Story of Three Loves" and on.

This new list is a mile-long improvement over last year's selection which caused all the excitement when "High Noon," which somebody claimed was a steal in the first place, took both awards. On top of this, '53 was almost a boom year for innovation in film sound. The introduction of things like sterophonic sound must certainly have inspired a good number of composers, reassured that their stuff would be reproduced faithfully.

Bright films with old music such as "Bandwagon," "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" and the "Jazz Singers" helped, too.

It would be a toss between "Secret Love" and "The Moon Is Blue" for this department's Oscar. These are not a representation of movie music at its peak but it's a trip in the proper direction.

For my 50-cents, Sammy Fain and Paul Francis Webster did the best light scoring job in "Calamity Jane" which was a perfect dud without the music and someone named Doris Day from Cincinnati. "The Deadwood Stage," "Black Hills of Dakota," "Just Blew In From the Windy City" and the nominated "Secret Love" were among the Fain-Webster goodies. Satisfaction here.

And 1953? A good year for movie music but, goodness Goldwyn, not the best.

Matter of Modesty

How times must have changed!

Minutes for the Feb. 24 meeting of women's student government carried the report that, according to University regulations, "all women must be covered with blue slips while practice-teaching."

In our day they wore dresses.

IN THE HALLWAY

Two Year Graduate

By ED HARDY

An unique plan will be instituted at Syracuse university next fall in two of its colleges.

A two-year program leading to a special degree will be offered in liberal arts and business administration, setting up a course not unlike the "junior college" plan of study.

The College of Liberal Arts will award the degree of associate in arts, while the College of Business Administration will give the associate in applied science degree to students successful in completion of the program.

Authorized by the State Board of Regents and Department of Education, the plan will meet the needs of men and women who desire higher education for only two years instead of the usual four.

A unit in itself, the sequence does not preclude the fact that a student may be able to go on after two years and receive a regular degree in the college.

Thus Syracuse's new program will help solve the dilemma many a student faces after he graduates from high school. Does he want to go to college? What does he want to do after school? The two-year course will give him a good taste of college life and help him make his future plans. And if the future calls for more education, the student can go on and finish four years.

Also benefitting from the program will be those who financially would be unable to meet the obligations of the four full years of college. This special course will allow them to gain the many advantages of a college education, even though attending only for the short period. The student would get a broad cultural foundation and be encouraged to develop a specialty in which he has interest.

Add to that the social experience that only college can offer the individual—a valuable understanding that may help him throughout his life.

This two-year student will be no different as such from the regular Syracusan. He will have the same privileges and be able to join the same organizations.

The plan has been successful at several other U. S. universities and undoubtedly meet with favor at Syracuse. Long study by special committees precedes its institution here.

The two-year program will be an asset to Syracuse university and a step toward providing a college education for as many persons as possible.

A Practical Education

By BRENDA MORRIS

In a recent lecture to citizenship students, the dean of the School of Education stated that one of the greatest detriments to equality of educational opportunity was the lack of on-the-job training programs for teachers and school administrators. Too often educators find themselves behind the times in their methods of teaching and planning curriculum, and are thus unable to adequately meet the needs of their students.

A solution to this problem is at present being offered by the Bureau of School Service, an office of the School of Education here at Syracuse. The bureau offers forty different courses and practical workshops for the benefit of 59 members of public school systems in central New York. These courses, which are conducted by faculty members of the School of Education, enable educators to keep well-informed about new teaching methods and ideas.

In recent years the largest demands for courses have been in the fields of elementary education and educational psychology. The proof of the success of these programs is evidenced by the fact that in 1946 eleven courses were being offered; this past fall the courses offered were nearly double that amount with plans for even further expansion being considered.

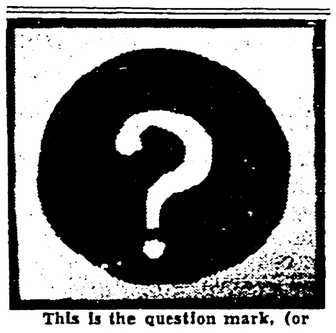
On-the-job training programs for educators is not a unique idea. Similar programs have been sponsored at Columbia, Cornell, NYU, and various state teachers colleges for the past ten to fifteen years. The courses themselves are offered to any local school provided there is a group interested in obtaining such courses or workshops. Tuition is about $20 per course.

The courses and workshops are but one facet of the Bureau of School Service. It also sponsors consultant services for school administrators and boards of education. The bureau is able to provide school boards with comprehensive surveys indicating building trends in the field of education. Consultations of this sort would eliminate the lack of long range building projects and the ultimate development of schools which do not have the capacity to provide for an unforeseen influx of students.

Another phase of the bureau is the Central New York School Board Institute which provides for cooperative research between the university and central New York school boards. The board meets four times a year at which time authoritative lectures are given, to be followed by panel discussions.

Summer schools in the field of education are sponsored by the bureau of Chatauqua, New York and Utica College. Dean Rogers of the School of Education is co-chairmen of the Utica College summer school.

Mr. James Manwaring is director of the Bureau School Service here at Syracuse. In addition to this time-consuming job, Mr. Manwaring is a student at the University, being a candidate for his doctorial degree. His research assistant is Mr. Glen Clark, who is also working for his Ph.D in the field of education.



This is the question mark, (or a reasonable facsimile thereof), that has been blotched all over campus. What it has stood for precisely has been the object of random comment. Revelation comes below in a few lines on the Frosh Date bureau. This little bureaucracy has decided to try to do right for them that wants a date but can't seem to make the contact. The contact procedure is the attempted answer to . . .

...The Date Question

Is there a big question in your mind? Are you beginning to wonder what the score is for a date a week from this Friday? There's no need to worry about a blind date for Frosh weekend. The date bureau has the answer.

This bureau is a systematic, practical approach to the problem presented by a blind date. How often has that special blind date, that your best friend fixed up, fell flat? Sure, he was taller than your friend, but you were 5'8" and your friend was 5'2". And what about the time you were promised a doll and got one? (She certainly couldn't have been human.)

Ellie Beig and Jim Tipka, co-chairmen of the Bureau have taken precautions to prevent "blind dates." Coffee dates (real coffee) will be arranged in advance and any applicant may retract his or her application if their partner isn't all they demand.

Social chairmen in all the living centers possess the application blanks and will be glad to give them out to all desirous frosh. The only effort involved is in filling out the blank. They should then be returned to the social chairman who will complete the deal. The bureau will also handle applications from upper classmen.

And listen girls, 20, that's right, twenty boys have already applied. Surely, you're not going to let them down. Erase that big question and go to it!!

LETTERARY COMMENT

For Spring Practiece

Attitude

2, March, 1954

Kenneth Lent
Sports Editor
Syracuse Daily Orange:

When I first entered military service after graduation in 1950, Syracuse was still suffering in reputation from the effects of the "Baysinger" football disgraces. Most of my acquaintances in the service had either never heard of Syracuse or were familiar only with its dismal football endeavors. Few, also, were aware of its academic achievements (and these are many). Needless to say, my reception as a Syracusan was a more or less, 'so what' attitude.

During the ensuing three years, Syracuse's football prowess and reputation began to climb, and with it I received a greater acceptance and welcome as a Syracuse alum. Like it or not, it has been my personal experience that with the promotion of football came greater interest in the University.

In the months just prior to my release, many men interested in College asked me about Syracuse, in reference to academics. These men were now interested in submitting an application. It seems there is a definite positive corollary here.

Now the University officials are acting like a business man who, with his first flush of success with a new advertising campaign, decides he can stop for awhile. I mean with the first two years of real football success, they now stop spring practice, thus making it harder to 'sell'.

Syracuse has a fine product in a well respected faculty and a growing and impressive physical plant. If football can bring money, students, and, perhaps most important, greater salaries for our professors, in my opinion, football must not be hindered.

Let's return spring practice so our advertising campaign can go on. Remember, also, the sight of HL will never bring many alums back to campus, but a winning football team will.

Sincerely,
Vincent A. Gerbino,
Class of '50

The Goal

To a Junior Editor of the D.O.,

Many of us independents read your article on the new "Independence Party" with a great deal of interest. As a result, an informal census of opinion has been taken on campus, and we find that many upperclassmen are concerned about not being included in this organization. It should be understood that we desire active participation by all those interested, and that we hope that this will be obtained by the first regular meeting of the party.

We think all of our purposes should be outlined to the student body. First, we want to win elections like any other party, but this isn't all. What we're concerned about is the apathy of independents in politics on campus. We want to get the independents out at the polls since they are the largest group on campus. We want independents interested in MSG and WSG. Is this too much to ask?

If we attain this goal, we will have accomplished all that we stand for.

Sincerely yours,
Member Independence Party
Joseph Easton,

A Farce

March 8, 1954

To Mr. Don Henry:

Its good to know that there is one loyal Syracuse university rooter around these days. Any fellow that thinks so much of his jacket and his college is a rarity around this campus. But you seemed to overlook the main point of my column. Sure it took 20 inches to explain it all what you said could of been done in four. But that is the only way you can impress something on people these days.

I admit that every guy who wears one of the "Marshall Street" jackets isn't a culprit, but Don there are quite a few more than the handful you spoke of who display the apparel. And these are the guys I was hoping to sting. This, you can't do by personal contact and that's where the column came in.

In your letter you said that "it wasn't right to make sweeping generalizations" but that is the only way you can get hold of the many who rove Marshall st. daydreaming about the touchdown they didn't score or winning basket they didn't make.

Don, these are the guys I want to hit. In the past week I have heard very favorable comments from the guys who do the work on athletic fields about the jackets. They feel the same way I do. Its getting to be a farce and by hitting the whole group you are bound to discourage a few of the "glamour lads." Thanks for the note and for god's sake don't lose that school spirit.

Associate Sports Ed.
Ed Meyer

There Are SCRAP BOOKS GALORE
at
THE CORNER STORE
We Have
THAT POPULAR SCRAP BOOK
Blue—With University Seal In Gold
The Corner Store
SINCE 1908

Complete Optical Service
Optometric
Eye Examinations
Glasses in Latest Styles
Broken Lenses
and Frames
Replaced Promptly
Lindemer
for glasses
Optometrists Opticians
440 SOUTH WARREN ST.
Phone 74-4244

Sessions at Special Education Building Help Children

Mothers, Kids Contented; Aim Is Improved Speech

By PEARL BERNSTEIN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

More excitement than Coney Island on a summer afternoon is the call of order at the Gordon D. Hoople Speech and Hearing center when the week rolls around to children's day, elsewhere called a quiet, restful Saturday morning.

Starting at nine o'clock when the first batch of renegades arrives, the center is a place of worthwhile pandemonium. With all the noise and hustle children who have hearing and speech difficulties are being helped to overcome them.

HILL STUDENTS, mostly coeds, who are majoring in this kind of therapy do most of the teaching work on Saturday. The children are put into small groups based on their needs for help and training.

Upstairs in the center a maze of little rooms become occupied with children sitting on small stools and listening to their teacher make various sounds for them to distinguish, helping them to speak better by reading out loud.

This sounds orderly and quiet, but to such a setup of classes add a hundred active, almost too active, almost too active, little kids. They trail along after the wrong group and end up in another classroom while teacher looks high and low for lost Johnny or Mary.

Then the "knock on any door" routine begins as the teachers start tracking down stray pupils.

FINALLY THE lost ones are rounded up and the lessons begin. But every class has its practical jokers: kids who always find something interesting under their chair and soon upset themselves by bending over too far.

With all the excitement, and even with little Mary who has to sneeze but can't find her handkerchief, the children learn something that will help them in their efforts to attain better speech.

Play blocks, toy objects that are easily identified, and big picture books are used by the student teachers. A liking for children, a desire to help them, and a knowledge of therapy can do wonders. A few hours one morning a week may not seem like much, but every little bit helps.

The children regard a visit to the speech and hearing center exciting as a venture in a department store or a new and different place.

The informal atmosphere, and the companionship of other kdis their own age doesn't give them a chance to think they are different in any way or suffering from some handicap. They are happy, extremely active and because they enjoy their Saturday morning visits so the children are probably benefitting twice as much.

Saturday is children's day at the Gordon D. Hoople Speech and Hearing center. It is also, in a sense, mother's day.

On Saturday mothers whose children have speech and hearing difficulties bring their offspring to the clinic for help. Mothers came and went with their little boys and girls and from the looks of satisfaction on their faces it was obvious they were getting the help they had come for.

OVER 100 children use the clinic's facilities every Saturday. Adults and special cases that are treated during the week.

Dr. Louis DiCarlo, the director of the center, is, beyond a doubt, one of the busiest men anywhere. We found him leading a caravan of a dozen kids and their parents down the corridor.

He told one mother about her child's progress, made an appointment for later in the week with another, playfully boxed with a couple of gleeful six-year-olds, gave instructions to some of the undergraduates who help out on Saturdays and directed a confused looking lady to the office.

In an observation room where visitors can observe and not be seen by patients in the adjoining room, Dr. DiCarlo was working with hard-of-hearing children.

THEY MUST have thought it was more play than work. They sat around a horse-shoe shaped table clapping their hands and showing off their ability at lip reading. Dr. DiCarlo's friendly way with children got even the shyest little ones to speak up and have a good time.

One of the most important facets of the clinical program is to encourage the children to participate in group activities.

Vocal language is the basic form of communication, the one the child learns first and uses most all of his life. Children who cannot vocalize their needs and their thoughts tend to become behavior problems.

But the children at the center have made progress and even totally deaf children can be taught to understand what is going on about them.

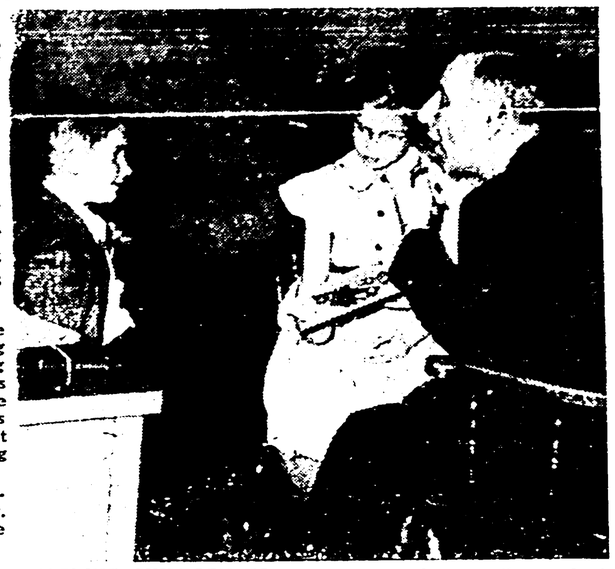
DR. WALTER Amster and Dr. James Shanks with Dr. DiCarlo make up the faculty staff. They are aided by five graduate students and also by undergraduates who are studying to be speech and hearing therapists. In addition to their clinical activities, the faculty members also carry full teaching loads.

Speech and hearing are inseparable. The difficulty of teaching deaf children to speak, is started with an understanding in lip reading.

Most of the children who come to the clinic have what is known in the medical profession as functional articulatory problems. In everyday language, this means that they cannot pronounce properly or speak fluently.

Far more difficult to help are those children with organic abnormalities: the deaf, hard-of-hearing, those with cleft pallets and cerebral palsey, mentally retarded children and those with brain injuries.

SLOWLY THE children learn to help themselves. Their parents and even teachers are brought in and taught to help, and before long the child is on the road to recovery.



TEACHING CHILDREN TO pronounce words correctly, graduate student SALVATORE PERRI shows his two pupils the way various sounds are formed. He is illustrating the position of the tongue for the word he is teaching them. DO Photos by Richard Greene

PICTURE BOOKS ARE an important part of the therapy at the speech and hearing center. LOTTIE TOBIAS shows her little student pictures of the words she is saying. He will then read the same page trying to form the sounds correctly.

"FEEL MY BREATH?" asks student clinician CLAIRE SWAN. Her pupil, who is almost totally deaf, wears a hearing aid to magnify sounds. When the little girl feels the teacher's breath she can duplicate it and thus learn to speak words she cannot hear well.

Rear View Or Skirts?

Warm weather will soon be here but before the balmy gusts of wind awaken the athletic nature of Hill coeds let's pause for a moment and consider what clothes are inappropriate for some coeds when they start getting that urge to hike back and forth across campus.

It has been said before but it bears repeating again; coeds do not look particularly attractive when they are wearing bermuda shorts and are being seen from a rear view.

They look particularly unattractive when these shorts are worn with knee length stockings.

So, before the warm weather comes, just a little reminder that cotton skirts are just as suitable to sunny days as clothes above the knee. And skirts have one blessing which many coeds will do well not to ignore. They swing and sway gracefully. Some things we know don't.

Coed's Corner

FLIP SIROTA
EDITOR

Pitfalls Awaiting Coed Graduates

By FLIP SIROTA
Coeds' Corner Editor

There are quite a few things of which college girls are unwary concerning the status and responsibility of women in the modern world.

After spending two hours each week this semester in Dr. Marguerite Fisher's sociology course on women much information has been gathered and facts made known. The time has come to draw back the curtain on the world existing beyond the college horizon and exhibit some of the sad and startling truths in a cold, clear light.

WE START off by stating that in the man-dominated business world there are numerous hidden pitfalls and dead-ends in the roads into which a charming, innocent, unsuspecting college girl may fall.

And the second statement we have to make is that these hazards were put there by none other than the business male himself. Wallowing in outdated conceptions of the general attributes and capabilities of working women, he has set up barrier and made false generalizations about them.

First, the business male tenderly nurses the idea that women lack the dollar value that a male worker has. This results in less pay for women who do the same work as men. Throughout all phases of business women are demanding equal pay for equal work but the businessman, knowing a good thing when he has it, stubbornly adheres to the lower salary system and does his best to see that nothing upsets its smooth functioning.

But of course he has to give some reasons for why he pays his female workers less than male employees. Thus a delightful mythology has arisen which would be perfect material for a Walt Disney fantasy.

WOMEN HATE routine, according to the "league of men united for the perservation of their misconceptions." This sounds audacious in view of the fact that household chores are a thousand times more routine and tending toward monotony yet women have been consistenly doing that job and doing it well for centuries.

Women lack interest and are sloppy about their office work, is another excuse for the less pay situation. Undoubtedly these beclouded males think a woman pictures a new spring bonnet surimposed on every sheet of clerical work. Well, for every woman who does there are countless males who envision wilderness camping trips, that natty set of fishing tackle, or a full house at the poker table.

Women hate to assume responsibility, is another myth in the business world. They also are supposed to dislike doing extra work. This idea becomes the epitomy of two-facedness when budget balancing, skimping and saving, jobs usually performed by women, are considered.

One of the problems a woman encounters when she looks for a job with possibilities for promotion is that many firms promote only employees who begin at the bottom and worked their way up. Since women don't often hold factory jobs tre possibilities of advancement in industry are practically nil.

IF SHE DOES advance on her job the working woman finds that she fulfills the duties but usually is not given the title of recognition usually accompanying such work.

So when the happy college coed, proudly flaunting her diploma, goes forth blithly to seek a job she is going to run smack up against a wall of prejudice and self-defense rationalizations which businessmen have built up to keep women down, if not out.

Like the Old South holding doggedly to outdated ideas, so the American businessman persists in his delusions. And because he won't take off his blinders and look around he has made a mix-up and a jumble of what could have been an orderly and rational path for women in the business world.

Is this what women have gone to college for?

by Juli...

The inbetween season designs by Juli. Rain coats for the kind of days Syracuse has most of.

First raincoat features an oddline jacket top with heavily paneled skirt. Suitable for rain or shine, the coat is made of wool and orlon and is water repellant.

Second raincoat is a full and flair style featuring metal clasps in place of buttons. There are big pockets and snug hood that clasps on the side.

Bleaching of Hair Can Be Dangerous

The time has come, the Walrus said, to talk of many things.

One thing that came to our attention the other day, and which we think bears talking about, is a book on "How to Do Better Hair-coloring" with 100 professional case histories.

We pass over the various methods used by the widespread cult of bleached blonde worshippers and get down to the stringy wet hair basis of this business.

FIRST, A LIST of the necessary products. Peroxide, naturally, then a neutral hair rinse guaranteed to make water softer. This substance prepares your hair to be prepared for the tinting. A 'superb hair conditioner" is also necessary, plus another product called an "amazing new conditioner." Exactly what the difference between the "superb" and "amazingly new" products are, the book carefully avoids telling.

Now to look at the case histories. This includes a wild and wide variety from what to do about red or pink discoloration to relieving snarls and tangles in bleached or tinted hair.

For discoloration we regret, and you probably will heartily agree, the unfortunate bleachee should have stayed the way she was.

For the second problem, about snarly hair, the solution is obvious and does not include any expenditure for conditioners and as far as we know there is no snarl-untangling lotion or pomade yet invented. So our intelligent solution is . . . hair brush, comb, a little elbow exercise and that's all.

CAUSE FOR consternation in the 100 case histories. From mild red-pink discoloration the table of contents progresses to green discoloration (various shades), blue discoloration, and then the case history of Unsatisfactory Tinting Results. Whatever gave the hair coloring people those funny ideas? Unsatisfactory? Why such is unheard of. Just think of the fashion trend one can set by sporting green or blue hair.

The case histories end on the hair battle of the centuries, "Solid Tablets versus Liquid Peroxide." And we end here too with a little bit of philosophy that will deter you when your hand reaches for that bottle of bleach. Boccaccio said, "Her hair stood upright like porcupine quills." Yours might too if something goes wrong.

Printed Fabrics For Spring Near

Prints, exhibiting all phases of designers' fantasy imaginations, will be featured in this year's spring and summer clothes.

Recent fashion showings have displayed harlequin printed dresses, exotic modern ideas on material made into shorts, pedal pushers and dungarees.

Red and pink, once an unheard of combination, are dyed in shades that are able to be worn together without clashing. Prints made of these two colors will also be popular.

WAER

3:00—WAER News
3:05—Symphonic Matinee
4:00—Musical Heritage
5:00—This I Believe
5:05—Distaff Digest
5:15—Dinner Date
6:15—WAER News
6:25—Evening Showcase
6:35—WAER Sports Lineup
6:45—Steps to Peace
7:00—Keyboard Concert
7:30—Poet and His Song
7:45—Torchbearers
8:00—Evening With Music
9:00—WAER News
9:05—Voices in the Night
9:30—Night of the Pops
10:00—Final Edition—News
10:10—Final Edition—Sports

Test Tube Mysteries

"Always loved to probe the unknown, so my job as secretary to the head chemist is made for me.... Katie Gibbs has the happy knack of matching the girl and the job."

Every year hundreds of college women use Gibbs secretarial training to secure the right job and assure rapid promotion. Special Course for College Women. Write College Dean for "GIBBS GIRLS AT WORK."

KATHARINE GIBBS
SECRETARIAL

BOSTON 16, 90 Marlborough St. NEW YORK 17, 230 Park Ave. CHICAGO 11, 51 E. Superior St. PROVIDENCE 6, 155 Angell St. MONTCLAIR, N. J., 33 Plymouth St.

Are you Engaged?

Graduates from 321 American colleges and universities have spent their honeymoon at America's unique haven exclusively for newlyweds, and found the perfect start for married life. Beautiful cottages in complete seclusion . . . wonderful meals . . . leisurely atmosphere, and the company of gay young people with similar tastes and backgrounds. Mention dates and we'll send our helpful THREE HONEYMOON PLANS.

THE FARM ON THE HILL
Swiftwater 94, Pa.

Consult us for eye care information
CARPENTER and HUGHES
Guild Opticians
State Tower Bldg.
Syracuse
74-4691
Special consideration given to students

Outstanding 47 to 49 day personally escorted Eight Country Tourist and Cabin Class Tours. ALL EXPENSES, only $1295 up—Finest All First Class LUXURY TOURS, 47 to 70 days $1875 up. Frequent sailings Mar. thru Sept. in QUEEN ELIZABETH or MARY. Small parties. Don't delay! Write now for free booklets, or phone

DUFFY TRAVEL
SERVICE
Hotel Onondaga

They're saving money for fun

Both theatre-owner and motion picture producer use advertising as their lowest cost way to let you know the latest about their films. Any other method would cost them more and be reflected in what you pay at the box office.

Yes, advertising is a low-cost selling method and helps keep your living costs down—all kinds of ways.

This advertisement prepared by the Advertising Federation of America

TICKETS NOW ON SALE AT THE DRAMA BLDG.
All Seats Reserved

HELD OVER—4th WEEK!!

LYSISTRATA

PERFORMANCES
THURSDAY
FRIDAY
SATURDAY
8:15 P.M.

Along the Sidelines

By KEN LENT, DAILY ORANGE SPORTS EDITOR

It will be Syracuse vs. The East this weekend. Officially the event is called boxing's Intercollegiates. This is a misdemeanor. There's no doubt in any fistic fan's mind who is the team to beat. The Orange has won the tournament for five straight years.

Roy Simmons has two good reasons why Syracuse could take the title for an unprecedented sixth time. Their names are Johnny Granger and Vin Rigolosi.

Simmie isn't kidding himself, however. His team will be hard-pressed to defend its laurels. The deciding factor figures to be not the winners, but how far the rest of the team can advance towards the finals.

Perhaps Jerry Jaffe the Hill's 132 pound sophomore, has the best chance outside of Granger and Rigolosi of taking a blue ribbon. If another Syracusan can get into the finals, the Orange have a better than average chance of winning.

The Simmonsmen looked very good, of course, in taking their first shutout in 13 years over an outclassed CCNY team. But no one will say that City was representative of the opposition expected this weekend.

Only two of the bouts were even close enough to be interesting. Bruce Yancey's one-point upset over Arnold Slomowitz was one. For one of the first times, Yancey paced himself so that he wasn't tired out by the middle of the second round as he was in previous bouts.

Bruce Yancey

A confusing factor was that the city boy, usually a southpaw boxer, switched his style by throwing rights from the beginning of the fight. It didn't seem to confuse Bruce too much after Simmie pointed it out to him between the first two rounds.

Frank Guelli looked impressive in his second round TKO over tough Dick Evans. The knockout seemed to carry the power of suggestion for the remainder of the night.

• • • •

Holy Cross officially announced its curtailment of spring practice, an item which was printed in The Daily Orange last week. Crusader athletic director Eugene F. Flynn said: "This action is prompted by the fact that the Crusaders first 1954 opponents, Dartmouth and Colgate, will have no football sessions this spring."

Syracuse gave the same story, the fact that Colgate and Cornell have no spring practice, as one of its reasons for ending spring sessions. Rumors have been circulating that Boston university might also have no early-season scrimmages.

• • • • •

Everyone knows that a signal system is a very important part of baseball, but how many fans realize that the same is true of swimming? Signs in the water sport are just as informative, just as intricate and just as secret.

The main difference is that the mermen's meaningful motions are mainly concerned with time. Coach Ted Webster was explaining yesterday how it works. Before the meet, every swimmer has some time standard which he aims for.

While he is competing, a teammate is stationed at one end of the pool and as the swimmer approaches he may hold out his fist, meaning that the selected time was hit on the nose, or he may hold a finger up (one second ahead) or two fingers down (two seconds behind).

That way the opposition, not knowing what the time standard is, cannot tell when a swimmer may make his move. Other signals are used to tell the competitor where his opponents are, how many lengths he has to swim, etc.

Swimming's more of a team sport than some realize.

Hill Boxers Garner First Shutout Since 1941 Season In CCNY Rout

Roy Simmons' regular season ended last Saturday, but the hard work is just ahead. Coming up: the Eastern Intercollegiates at Virginia this weekend and the NCAA tournaments at Penn State April 8, 9 and 10.

Last Saturday in 56 minutes, Syracuse achieved their first shutout since 1941, 8-0 over CCNY. The boxers scored four TKO's in the first four matches while the 968 crowd watched intently; they had to: if they turned their heads they might have missed a bout. The first four bouts, numerically half the evning, took little more than eight and a half minutes of actual fighting.

FRANK GUELLI took only one round plus 29 seconds to gain a TKO over Dick Evans in the 125 pound match. Referee Sam Donato a former Penn State boxer, took the first of his many step-ins of the night.

Jerry Jaffe bewildered his opponent Joe Gold for the first round, then TKOed him in 1:05 of the second in the 132 pound shuffle.

It remained for Thumpin' Johnny Granger to gain the shortest one of the night: one minute, 10 seconds of the first round. Ref Sam Donato, who coaches high school football in Scranton, saw CCNY's coach wave his arms and stepped between the Thumper and Tilden Halpern to stop the fight.

With this momentum behind them, the Orange boxers began to roll faster. Artie Nelson walked back to his corner after the first round against 147 pounder Don Gabay and then learned that the fight was over. CCNY's coach Austin Sirutis saw that Gabay wasn't responding to treatment in the corner.

LARRY O'SULLIVAN at 156 tried desperately to keep the KO string going, but all he could do was gain an unanimous decision over Lou Levitan.

With only the shutout left to try for, Vince Rigolosi stepped into the ring against crack 165-pounder Austin Hurd. Hurd won the first round 10-9. It was the first round that Syracuse lost. Rigolosi, using hard hooks wrapped up the other two rounds despite a bloody nose which began gushing in the second round.

Lightheavy Bruce Yancey faced CCNY's best boy: Arnold Slomowitz. The first round was a draw. Yancey began belting Slomowitz, rapping him so hard that Slomowitz's headgear began to bother his vision. Yancey went on to win a close decision.

The heavyweight bout was just a formality as Syracuse sought the shutout. Sam Alexander, using his left hand merely to aim his potent right, scared his opponent and won the decision over Marty Reich.

Inter-Varsity Christian fellowship will not meet tonight.

Daily Chapel featuring Rabbi Joseph L. Fink, 12-1 p.m.

JSF Hebrew class registration. See Mrs. Arlene Rothman in the Chapel Board room.

Frosh weekend date bureau. Contact Jim Tipka, 4-5976, or Ellie Bieg, 4-9222.

Alpha Delta Sigma meeting, 7 p.m. at 508 Ostrom.

Transfer council meeting, 7:30 p. m., 221 Maxwell.

Tri-O meeting, 9 p.m., at Alpha Omicron Pi.

Frosh weekend refreshment committee meeting, 4:15 p.m., Delta Phi Epsilon.

Frosh weekend publicity committee meeting, 7 p.m., 104 HL.

Student Activities committee, 4:45 p.m., 305 Women's building.

College week in Bermuda film, 7:15 p.m., 206 Women's building.

Senior guide applications due today. Include name, address, average, activities and criticism and suggestions on the Senior guide program.

WAA blazer sale, Tuesday-Thursday. Woman's building, Board room.

Outing club exec council meeting, 6:30 p.m., first floor of Lyman.

No Outing club meeting. Instead members will attend "The Conquest of Everest". Meet at 6:45 p.m. first floor of Lyman.

MSG assembly meeting, 7:15 p. m. 204 HL.

NSA meeting, 4 p.m., 204 Maxwell.

WSG Ways and Means panel, 7 p.m., 101 HL.

WSG Social chairmen's assembly, 7:15 p.m., 305 Women's building.

Rehearsal for talent show, 7-10 p. m., d cauensiotd?G: m., dance studio, Woman's bldg.

The following people are assigned to work at The Daily Orange today: afternoon, Jack Reilly, Tom Long, Pearl Bernstein, Helene Bloom, Brenda Morris, Lynn Teschmacher; night: Eileen Chamberlain, Al Bartkevicius, Joy Yunker, Richard Walrath, Marion Berger and Joan Russell.

Syrafins, 7:30 p.m., Women's pool.

St. Thomas More missions committee, 8:30 p.m., 112 Walnut pl.

Wrestlers Beaten In Season Finale; Await Easterns

Co-Captain Ed Rooney won his seventeenth straight dual match Friday at Ithaca but his Syracuse wrestling cohorts couldn't follow suit and the Big Red of Cornell racked up a 20-6 decision.

Rooney pounded out a 7-0 decision over the Cornell 157-pounder to close his second consecutive undefeated season. The last and only time Rooney was beaten was in 1952, his freshmen year. Frank Bettuci edged him 4-2 at that time. Bettuci, a Cornellian, was one of the best wrestlers in the nation however.

WITH AN undefeated season as a reference, Rooney probably will be ranked either first or second contender for the 157-pound Eastern crown.

Sophomore Tom King was the other Orange wrestler to come through with a win. King worked a 4-0 decision. The erstwhile soph thus won his third match of the season.

Three seniors made their last appearance in Orange livery Friday, but none could manage a win. Murray Winer came closest in the 177-pound class, as he was edged 3-1.

Garland Harris finished the season in his all-or-nothing manner as he was pinned in his 147-pound bout. Harris either got a fall or was pinned in seven of the eight meets this year.

Hank Gobetz, the third senior on the squad, was decisioned in the 167-pound match.

FROSH VICTORS

Syracuse's frosh basketball team ended its season on a winning note last Saturday by pinning a decisive 83-61 defeat on the LeMoyne college yearlings at the Jefferson Street armory.

The win gave Coach Andy Mogish's squad an impressive 14-1 record for the year. The only loss came at the hands of Colgate, a team later beaten by the Tangerines.

Lack of Team Depth Hinders Gymnasts In Army Meet

Tie Cadets, 48-48
Via Four Firsts

Lack of team depth cost the Syracuse gymnasts another victory, as they were held to a 48-48 tie by Army last Saturday at West Point.

The Pietymen captured four first places, but failed to place enough men in the other positions in order to cop the meet. Only two events were convincingly won by one team in the meet which went right down to the wire.

CORKY SEBBO remained unbeaten as he totaled 272 points in the tumbling competition. Army copped the next three places with Nick Manocchio placing fifth for the Orangemen.

With Dan Traficante and John Barkal placing one-two, and Ferdi Fournies finishing fifth, Syracuse rolled up a 11-5 score in the side horse and took a lead in the meet.

A break for the Cadets came in the horizontal bar event, as John Barkal slipped while performing one of his routines. He straightened out, but garnered only enough points for a fourth place. Milan Trnka won the event, but the Cadets, by grabbing three places, tied the Hillmen in total score for the event.

Army's great rope climbing team of John Ballantyne and John Funkhouser tied for first place with a time of 3.7 seconds. Fournies and Andy Felice of the Syracusans tied for third two-tenths of a second behind the winning time.

WITH BARKAL winning the parallel bar and Trnka finishing third, Syracuse pulled even in the meet and put the meet on the line in the final event.

The Piety gymnasts gained their biggest break when Army's Ed Johnson fell off the rings. Fouries, Trnka and Traficante placed second, third, and fifth, respectively, as Cadets' Don Carpenter won the flying rings.

Best Intramural Hoopster To Receive Several Prizes

By AL GEFEN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Thursday evening's intramural all-star game will feature 20 of the outstanding players in the intra hoop league. The game, which will commence at approximately 8 p.m. is expected to be one of the top sports attractions of the winter sports season.

Several awards will be given to the outstanding player in the game. Young's Pharmacy will contribute a Palmolive Shaving kit. Lund's Men's shop will award a set of initialed cuff-links.

The Hill Smoke shop will contribute a beer mug while Olmsted's Record shop will give an album of records, "Syracuse Sings.

Four judges will help pick the outstanding player of the game who will receive these gifts. Marc Guley, varsity basketball coach, Andy Mogish, freshman hoop mentor; Bob Bell, assistant intramural director and Ed Meyer, Daily Orange assistant sports editor, will be on hand to help pick the outstanding cager of the game.

The player personnel will be released in tomorrow's edition of The Daily Orange. Ten players have been chosen along with three alternates for each team.

The two teams will practice Wednesday evening in the gym. The Fraternity all-star aggregation will drill at 6:30 p.m. while the Independent all-stars will have the court at 8 p.m.

Mermen to Host Indians on Friday

Coach Ted Webster's mermen close out their most disastrous season in many a year when they face the powerful Dartmouth Indians at Orange pool Friday evening. Syracuse went down to its fifth loss against two wins last Saturday, 59-30 at Cornell.

Bob Downing turned in two fine performances for Syracuse. He captured the 200-yd. backstroke in 2:30.8 and got his teammates a lead in the 300-yd. medley relay which they gamely held on to.

REGENT
SUN.—WED.
Keefe Brasselle
"THE EDDIE CANTOR STORY"
Color by Technicolor
also
"SEA OF LOST SHIPS"
John Derek
Wanda Hendrix

PARAMOUNT
JAMES STEWART
JUNE ALLYSON
"The GLENN MILLER STORY"
Technicolor
Also "BLACK FURY" in color

Now MIDTOWN Open 6:30 P.M.
LOUIS de ROCHEMONT presents
Martin Luther
A MAGNIFICENT MOTION PICTURE FOR OUR TIMES!

Schine's ECKEL -- NOW PLAYING
THE SUPREME ADVENTURE OF OUR TIME!
"THE CONQUEST OF EVEREST"
Print by TECHNICOLOR

Today's Crossword Puzzle

By LEONARD GOLDBERG

ACROSS

1 Terrible
7 Plato's school
14 Hoarded
20 Mohammed's flight from Mecca
21 Umbrella
22 Mexican dish
23 Incarnation
24 Formed on earth's surface
25 Northern Ireland
26 Plots
27 —— forces
29 A tsar and a prince
31 Yellow bugle
32 Scratch out a living
33 Climbing plants
34 Tin and iron
36 Rimester
37 Deter
39 Set apart
40 English poet (1573-1631)
41 Hanks of twine
42 Watch out!
43 Art: Latin
44 Is proper
47 Produces
48 Spectacles
52 Speedy
53 Croix de ——
54 Wisdom
55 Ball team
56 Marsh bird
57 Red cedar
58 High: music
59 Chalice
60 Sweep away
61 Claims on property
62 —— Carson, explorer
63 Seine
64 Pursues
65 Auk genus
66 Meerschaum
67 Wakenings
69 Strokes of luck: Slang
72 Parsonage
73 Lines that cross others
74 Deleted
75 Stoves
76 "—— Miserables"
77 Blew loudly
78 A whale
79 Candle
82 Appeared
83 High cliff
87 Brazilian timber trees
88 Despoils
89 Man from Havana
90 Crimson
91 Humans
92 One of the Talmadge sisters
93 Leading
94 Health: Comb. form
95 A kite
97 Repeat
100 Philippine native
102 Take away
103 Marks
104 Deny
105 Avows
106 Hoariest
107 Done with gestures

DOWN

1 Former German coin
2 Cancel
3 Marbles
4 Gets: Colloq.
5 One of the Gershwins
6 Desert traveling groups
7 Prehistoric humans
8 Coverlets
9 Dry
10 First name of U.N. Secretary General
11 Compass point
12 Watchmen
13 Raise up
14 Astounds
15 Hindu cymbals
16 Orders of Merit: Abbr.
17 Limit
18 Football team
19 Mark down
28 Jacob ——, social reformer
30 Lager
33 Incensed
34 One who makes noise like cat
35 Elude
36 Armed band
38 An instant
39 Bambi
40 Saps
42 Cracks
43 Hat worn by yodelers
44 Tropical fruit
45 Transverse axial segment
46 Religious zealot
47 Breaks
48 Chairmen's weapons
49 Twisting like a reptile
50 Darken, as the sun
51 Couches
53 Travelings
54 Went by sea
56 Turns aside
57 Quenched
60 Sniveller
66 Windows
68 What cash registers show
69 Skeleton
70 Roman household gods
71 Second-hand
72 Morning prayer
74 Lift
75 Narrating
77 Smiling broadly
78 Taxis
79 Animal trainers
80 Small ape
81 Where Colon is
82 Indian weight
83 Finest
84 Famous Biblical mountain
85 Evince
86 Redacted
88 Repetitions
89 Quotes
92 Granular snow
93 Nemesis
94 Saturates
96 Negative
98 Greek letter
99 Beam
101 Go to right

CLASSIFIED

IMPORTANT NOTICE—CLASSIFIED ADS to appear in this paper should be DELIVERED at the HELLBOX Classified desk between 1 and 3 p. m. NO ADS WILL BE ACCEPTED AFTER 3. ALL ADS MUST BE IN 2 DAYS IN ADVANCE. For further information call 4-7206.

ALL LOST ARTICLES should be turned into the CENTRAL LOST AND FOUND ROOM, 20 Bldg. 24 at 205 University Pl. Articles can be claimed there.

AUTO DRIVING INSTRUCTION. Learn to drive easily, correctly and safely. Call Upstate Auto Driving School. Phone 8-4040.

TYPEWRITERS RENTED: $3.00 per month, $8 3 months. Good selection. We deliver, Smith Brothers. 4-8833.

Typewriters rentals—New Models Reasonable Rates—Expert Service, All Makes—CORNER STORE.

FOR SALE: Portable Zenith Short Wave, Overseas radio. Like new. $75. Call 65-8260.

SUMMER DAY camp counselors. Two men, one woman. Salary depends on experience. Weekends free. May live in. Elmcrest Children's Center. 72-4496.

INTERVIEWING: Camp Lawrence Cory, Director Weldon B. Hester, will interview applicants for staff and counselor positions this coming Wednesday, March 10th, between 1:30 and 5 at Appointment Office. Camp location—Keuka lake, N. Y. 62nd season, Capacity 300. Literature available at Appointment office.

MR. B. T. STONE, director of the Veona Camps will be at the Appointment office all day today to interview male students for camp counseloring. Salary range—$150 to $250.

FOR SALE: '47 Cadillac two-door hydramatic. R&H. New white walls. Leaving for service, must sacrifice. All offers considered. Call Remmer, 75-6734.

TEMPLE ADATH YESHURUN. Corner Harrison and South Crouse Ave. Week day services 7:30 a.m.

EXPERT TYPING done in my home. 4-4220. Mrs. E. Garelick.

CUPID'S ARROW through the heart? Clinch it with a Sarkin portrait. 708 E. Raynor Ave. 4-1145.

BUICK, 1950. 4-door, Super Riviere. Top condition, dynaflow, fully equipped. Two cars, must sell one, 108 Winchell Road. University Heights, 75-4226.

WANTED: Ride to Boston. Monday afternoon or evening. Will pay for transportation, 4-7298 between 1-3 p.m.

IT'S ALL A MATTER OF TASTE

No guessing games with cigarettes
When Luckies are your brand—
A cleaner, fresher, smoother smoke,
A taste that's really grand!

Phil W. Elder
Oklahoma University

When you come right down to it, you smoke for one simple reason . . . enjoyment. And smoking enjoyment is all a matter of taste. Yes, taste is what counts in a cigarette. And Luckies taste better.

Two facts explain why Luckies taste better. First, L.S./M.F.T.—Lucky Strike means fine tobacco . . . light, mild, good-tasting tobacco. Second, Luckies are actually made better to taste better . . . always round, firm, fully packed to draw freely and smoke evenly.

So, for the enjoyment you get from better taste, and only from better taste, Be Happy—Go Lucky. Get a pack or a carton of better-tasting Luckies today.

I've often been class president—
I'm called a real go-getter!
My brand is always Lucky Strike—
Why shucks, they just taste better!

Lillian Firestone
Barnard College

I've always heard that taste will tell;
And now I know it's true—
The better taste of Lucky Strikes
Will sure convince you, too!

Donald A. Bell
Creighton University

COPR.—THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY

LUCKIES TASTE BETTER

CLEANER, FRESHER, SMOOTHER!

On the Inside
All-Star Intramural Line-up Announced. See Page 3.

Syracuse Daily Orange

Weather Report
CLOUDY, COOLER
High temperature ----40
Low temperature ---- 25

Vol. 51, No. 86 | Syracuse, N. Y., Wednesday, March 10, 1954 | 4 Pages—5 Cents

Soph Males Must Eat in Dorms Next Fall

By ROGER J. HERZ
Daily Orange Junior Editor

As part of the overall University housing policy, sophomore men will be required to live in and eat in University dormitories or fraternities starting next fall.

Jack Buckle, director of men's counseling and residence, told The Daily Orange yesterday that "With the completion of the new men's dorms, Syracuse university is able to close one of its large temporary housing areas and at the same time to make significant progress in achieving its long-range objective of housing all undergraduate men in dorms or fraternities."

SINCE HOUSING facilities are not now adequate and there is no immediate prospect of additional men's dorms, he said, juniors and seniors will still "be permitted the option of living in approved private housing."

He emphasized that the University does not anticipate an extension of the policy to juniors and seniors for several years.

Thus with the next academic year, freshmen and sophomores will be covered by the policy concerning room and board. Transfer students will still be required to fulfill the one year residence requirement.

Technical classification of a sophomore is a student who has earned between 25 and 54 credit hours.

SOPHOMORE MEMBERS of fraternities living in dormitories, with the exception of Marion, may eat their meals at the fraternity. All men living in Marion dormitory, with the exception of those working for board, must eat in the Watson dining hall.

Soph pledges may eat their meals at their chapter house if they pledged during their freshman year. Students who pledge during their soph year may request permission to eat at the fraternity in the semester following the one in which they first pledged.

Second year men in residing in fraternities must be initiated members of the chapter. A pledge may not reside in the chapter house unless he petitions for permission if he meets the following requirements.

He must have fulfilled the two-semester dorm requirement and be academically eligible for initiation by commencement this June, but be unable to become a member because the initiation date has been set for the fall term.

ALL SOPHOMORES residing in a fraternity house must eat their meals at the house unless working for their board. Uninitiated members of a fraternity may not work for their room or board in any fraternity house. Soph members of a fraternity without board tables will eat in a University dining hall.

The sophomore may secure permission to live with close relatives by petitioning the housing office of the office of the dean of men. These must be presented in writing before the first of May.

Housing arrangements for those required to live in dorms or fraternities must be made by the last day of classes in the spring semester. Registration for a subsequent term may be completed only after housing arrangements are made. A future article in The Daily Orange will list dates of

(See HOUSING, page 4)

'Outer Spatian' Picked As Weekend Symbol

It came from out of this world!

This intelligent, though rather expressionless, character from outer space, designed by Richard Hazelton, freshman weekend decorations co-chairman, has been adopted by the freshmen as the symbol of the weekend, which begins this Friday, March 12.

THE "OUTER spatian" will be seen around campus quite frequently during the weekend in stunts, in the "blast off" pep rally Friday night, and waddling all over the gym Saturday night as the basic theme for the "Universally Yours" semi-formal decorations.

Highlighting the weekend will be the announcement of the winner of the "Mr. Universally Yours," mayor of Martian street contest. Finalists, who were voted upon at last Sunday's house meetings, are David Boreanaz, Arthur Browner, David John, Paul (Rudy) Mendez, Michael Minko and Robert Pearce.

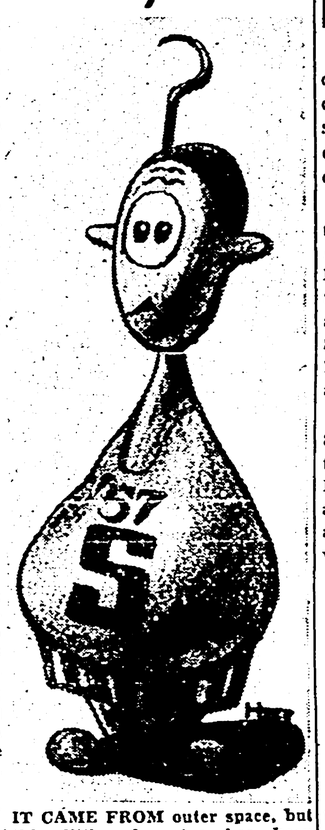
The mayor will be honored at the semi-formal, which will feature the music of Sam Blumpkin and novel frosh talent. Tickets are now on sale for $2 per couple.

Other highlights of the weekend will be the SU Revue, an original variety show based on Freshman talent, at 8:30 p.m. Friday in the dance studio, Women's building. Dancing will follow.

JIMMY CAVALLO'S "hepcats" will play at the jazz session from 2:30 to 5 p.m. Saturday in the Trophy room, Men's gym. Admission is 35 cents and tickets are now on sale.

Dean Charles C. Noble will be the speaker at the inter-faith service Sunday morning which will draw the weekend to a close. Several members of the class of '57 will also participate in the service.

Although the "Out of This World Weekend" is being planned and run by the freshman class, all the events will add up to an outer space holiday for the whole universe-ity.



IT CAME FROM outer space, but this little character has been adopted by frosh as the symbol of their weekend.

Piano Recital Slated By Faculty Member

Mrs. Lillian Bauer Cox, School of Music faculty member, will present a piano recital at 4 p.m. Sunday in Crouse auditorium.

The concert will include Bach's prelude and fugue in C major, and Schubert's Sonanta in A major. Selections by Debussy, Rachmaninoff and Chopin will also be featured.

Mrs. Cox, a fellowship graduate of the Julliard School of Music in New York city, has appeared with the New York symphony orchestra. She has also played in the San Francisco Opera house, Carnegie hall and Constitution hall.

The concert will be free, as are all in the current Sunday afternoon series.

Institute to Hold Contest for Aid

An award for four year's full tuition, including reimbursement of sums already spent for that purpose, is now being sponsored by the American Institute of Management.

The scholarship will be awarded annually for the best biography of a living American submitted to the judges and found acceptable for publication in the "National Biographic."

Aside from the first prize of four years free tuition, additional awards will be made ranging from a second prize of $500 to the fifth prize of $150. Any student now in college is eligible to compete for this year's award.

Chairmen Elected At Annual Banquet

Cynthia Satow, a junior in the College of Fine Arts, and Joel Rosenbaum, liberal arts junior, will act as over-all co-chairmen of the 1955 Winter carnival weekend.

They were selected by the '54 Carnival committee at its annual banquet Sunday night at Sherman's.

Miss Satow was co-chairman of the Sno-ball during the recent weekend, while Rosenbaum acted as co-chairmen of skiing events.

Overall chairmen of the Carnival were Peter Rose and Janet Caro, with Miss Margaret Parker, University social director, acting as advisor.

Surprise Serenade For Miss Frankiel

Eta Pi Pledges Hill NSA Chairman

Rita V. Frankiel, a senior in liberal arts, was serenaded and pledged to Eta Pi Upsilon, senior women's honorary, late Monday night.

Miss Frankiel was chosen on the basis of scholarship, leadership, service to the University and character.

She is present co-chairman of the National Students' association on campus and was recently appointed associate justice on the women's student government court. She had previously served as secretary to the court.

A resident of Riverdale, New York, Miss Frankiel is a psychology major.

Participating in the surprise serenade were the members of Eta Pi Upsilon, Dean of Women Marjorie C. Smith, advisor to the group, and Dean M. Eunice Hilton of the College of Home Economics.

Library Honorary Slating Initiation

Pi Lambda Sigma, library honor society, will hold its annual banquet and initiation at 7 p.m. Thursday in Shaw dining hall.

New members to be initiated are: Carleton E. Wood Jr., Katherine Rores, Alice Brown, Elizabeth Hedhavny, Ann Murnane, Cynthia Comstock, Doris Banks, Dorothy Nicholas, Bettye Washington, Elizabeth White, Marjorie Benzinger, and Sakae Kurita.

Mrs. Frances C. Sayers, nationally known children's librarian and professional story-teller from Los Angeles, will be guest speaker at 8:30 p.m. She will speak about "Young Feet on the Road" and will be made an honorary member of Pi Lambda Sigma.

Mrs. Sayers will also speak at 2 p.m. Thursday in 117 Lyman on "Techniques of Selection of Children's Stories and Methods of Story Telling." Everyone is invited to attend both of these talks.

Day School Plans Session for Adults

Meeting for parents, teachers, and friends of the Syracuse university nursery school is scheduled for 8 p.m. today at the Nursery school, 107 College place.

Questions will be discussed to see if participants measure up to children's standards for adults.

Members of the planning committee include: Mr. and Mrs. Harold Davison, Mr. and Mrs. Vincente Muniz; Mrs. Channing Pao, Mr. and Mrs. Foster Trainer; and Mr. and Mrs. K. C. Compton. Hospitality committee members are Mrs. Channing Dichter, Mrs. Harry Frisch, Mrs. Phillip Chilet and Mrs. Speridiao Faissol.

High Schools Send Students to Campus For 'Sub-frosh' Day

Syracuse's annual sub-frosh day, conducted to acquaint central New York high school students with college life, is coming to campus this Saturday, March 13.

Sponsored by the University, this year's program has the assistance of faculty co-chairmen Dean Ruth Haddock, Dean Carlton Krathwohl, and the city guides and city men's organization. John Sales, Janet Lemp, Richard Koelling and Mary Lou Steigerwald are heading arrangements.

AFTER REGISTRATION at 8:30 a.m. in the Maxwell foyer, the students will be welcomed by Dean John S. Hafer, and MSG and WSG presidents Stanley Leff and Mary Ann Dalton, in Maxwell auditorium.

The rest of the morning will be taken up by conferences with academic deans, a Chapel convocation, and campus tours. Lunch in Shaw dorm will be followed at 1:45 p.m. by an assembly in the Women's building, where questions about campus activities will be answered.

Swimming and bowling will take up the rest of the afternoon, and the students will be invited to the Frosh Weekend jazz session and dance.

Committee chairmen for the weekend are: Janet Jordon, Sheri Goodrich, Cynthia Overton, Martha Allen, Ann MacKaig, Sue Hungerford, Lois MacCrae; Mary Ann Lana, Carol Campbell.

Also, Dolores Hytron, Hollis Strong, Susan Brooks, Ann Hamilton, Carmella Brescia, Dolores Hytron, Barbara Witter, Barbara Bushnell and Sally Soper.

'Guide' Committee Seeks Applications

Applications for work on the 1954 Orange Guide, frosh orientation handbook, are still being accepted and may be left in the box marked for that purpose in room 203, Administration building.

The applications should include address, phone number, class, college, previous related experience, if any, and all ideas for the guide.

Arthur Ehrenreich, Lois Clark, Ellen (Billie) Williams, Richard Morgan and Stephen Reiss are members of a student committee that will be in charge of the handbook.

This committee is seeking the help of students who want to work on compiling the guide. Every student is eligible, but freshmen in particular are wanted because of their recent orientation experience.

This year's Orange Guide will be combined with the Newcomer's Daze in a larger book. It will be arranged in pocket form for convenience.

Sunday Chapel Skirts Issue Of Man to God, States Fink

By POLLY REED
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Doesn't the Sunday morning Chapel program skirt the problem of man to God and dwell merely on social problems instead? This was one of the questions posed to Rabbi Joseph L. Fink and a "Footprints" panel in Maxwell auditorium yesterday.

To Dr. Fink, the problem was related to what the religious program on campus is trying to achieve. Malcolm Foster, editor of the Syracusan, said he believes that by the time students get to college they have a working knowledge of their religion, and don't need too much more training in Chapel.

JANE DEMPSEY, chairman of campus guides, differed with Foster. "I think too few of us have a really good background when we come to college. All groups come together in Chapel, then meet in fellowships with their own group. This is the function of Chapel on campus."

Besides Miss Dempsey and Foster, Ellen (Billie) Williams; women's student government senior officer; Stanley Leff, men's student government president and Robert Strader, participated in the panel.

Miss Williams voiced the opinion that many students were going through the "athistic jeriod," and needed a philosophy which they could develop.

"Student services should interest as many as possible," said Rabbi Fink, "but actually, religion is not only a way of worship, but a way of life."

DR. FINK outlined for the audience what he considered four approaches to God and religion.

1. The atheists. They believe there is not and cannot be a God. "They are," asserted the Rabbi, "practically extinct now. They were very dogmatic in their beliefs."

2. The agnostics. "They just throw up their hands and say 'I don't know'," said Dr. Fink.

3. The deists believe in God as a cosmic force, as creator of the universe, but incomprehensible and insensible to man, according to Rabbi Fink.

4. THE THEISTS believe that God, through a cosmic power, has consciousness. He is mindful of man. If man goes to him with a prayer, he will hear.

In answer to the query "Can you prove there is a God?" Dr. Fink answered, "I can prove it so it satisfies me, but maybe not you."

He then quoted the story about the Arab chief in the Western world for the first time who was offered a present to take home. The chief wanted the hot water faucet. He could not understand that behind the faucet were pumps, furnaces and a reservoir.

Stanley Leff summed up the opinion of the panel when he stated, "You can go to Chapel or Mass or the Synagogue. How you believe is secondary if you believe in the basic teachings of Christianity or Judaism."

Final 'Footprints' Speaker Stresses Objective View

In contrast to the first day's speeches at the Footprints conference, Rabbi Joseph L. Fink yesterday stressed a detached point of view as the best way to a broader outlook and peace of mind.

Speaking to a near-capacity crowd on the third day of the all-University conference, Rabbi Fink appeared in direct contrast to Dr. Elmer G. Homrighausen, who had cited a real, physical experience as a true approach to religion.

THE BUFFALO rabbi put the future of those who heard him squarely up to them by saying they were not responsible for their heritage, but are responsible for their destinies.

He felt that the old truths are the valid ones, and cited the example of the author of the Book of Job. This man, he said, would be confused by the technological and cultural changes since he lived, if he appeared in Chapel now, but he could debate the important questions with maturity and a valuable viewpoint, because the same questions are important today.

"This constant striving for truth is important," he said, because, "life would have no meaning without truth."

He defined religious truth as composed of three parts.

Creed—what the adherents of a religion believe in. Every man believes in something, he said.

Code—the rules of conduct advocated by the religion. Many religions have similar codes.

Cult—the way of worship defined in the religion. Rabbi Fink pointed out that these traditions are inherited.

IN TELLING how a person can find religious truth, Rabbi Fink said that regular prayer services are the best way. The prayer services need not be of the person's own religion, because the same spiritual feeling pervades many places of worship.

The Rabbi said that his philosophy of religion was along the lines of his faith, and he felt that the way to mature peace was through an established faith, and everyday religion, not just once in a while.

Blood Drive Slated Next Week at Gym

Seek 500-Pint Quota In Two-Day Collection

Plans for an all-campus blood drive Wednesday and Thursday, March 24 and 25, were announced today by Mary Flavin, chairman of the drive. The Syracuse university quota has been set at 500 pints.

Red Cross equipment will be set up in the Men's gym and the blood will be collected between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. on both days. Members of the School of Forestry will conduct their own drive on Friday, March 26.

House Presidents Association, ROTC and other campus organizations have been contacted and will participate.

Last semester only one day was arranged for the collection and many donors were forced to wait in line. This year's two-day plan will eliminate the inconvenience.

The Red Cross needs blood badly and counts heavily on the donations from Syracuse students, states Miss Flavin. Each donor will be tested by Cross members to determine if he is capable of giving blood without harm.

Angels' Flight, women's AFROTC organization, will aid Red Cross workers in the blood collection.

Donors below 21 years of age must obtain the signature of approval from parent and guardian. Food will be served during the collection.

Assisting Miss Flavin on the blood committee are Dan Russell, Diane Johnson and Ann McKenzie.

Rehearsal Schedule Released by Katz

'Up in Lights' Practice Set by Manager

This week's rehearsal schedule for the cast of the new musical revue "Up in Lights," was released yesterday by Gil Katz, stage manager for the production. The times and places where designated cast members are to report are as follows:

Wednesday, 3 p.m., Women's building, full cast.

Wednesday, 7 p.m., Prefab 8A, specialties (will call).

Thursday, 3 p.m., Prefab 8A, dancers.

Thursday, 7 p.m., Prefab 8A, specialties (will call).

Friday, 3 p.m., Prefab 8A, singing ensemble.

Saturday, 10 a.m. 402 Drama building, skits (will call).

Saturday, 2 p.m., University College auditorium, full cast.

Sunday, 2 p.m., University College auditorium, full cast.

Sunday, 7 p.m., Prefab 8A, skits (will call).

The entire cast is advised that the rehearsals will begin promptly at the time stated. Those members who are required to wear costumes should report 15 minutes earlier to allow time to change.

Dancers who will be late or cannot attend should call Parker Conners at 4-9756. Singers who will also be late or cannot attend should call Alfred Gross at 4-8926.

Further announcements of rehearsal scheduled will be printed in the Daily Orange.

Coeds May Attend Annual Orange Key Block S Banquet

For the third time in Syracuse history, coeds will be admitted to the annual Block S banquet honoring Syracuse university athletes.

Following the plan started in 1952, Orange Key members, sponsors of the banquet, once again will welcome women to the affair, scheduled this year for Sunday, March 28, in Sims dining hall.

HUGH (STUBBY) Daugherty, former Hill line coach and now head football mentor at Michigan State college, will be featured at the banquet.

Tickets will go on sale late this week, co-chairmen Oliver Richards and Harold Steinberg have announced. The ducats will be available from junior men's honorary members, at the athletic office and at several campus booths.

Daugherty was graduated from Syracuse in 1940 after three years with the varsity grid team as a guard. He was a coach of the Orange after the war under Biggie Munn and went to the Spartans when Munn moved his entire coaching staff westward.

His mother, Mrs. Elizabeth W. Daugherty, is house mother of Alpha Delta Pi sorority here. Daugherty's sister, Jean, winner of the Post-Standard baking contest, works at WHEN-TV downtown and a brother, Joseph, also played football with Syracuse before breaking a leg.

Assisting Richards and Steinberg are Robert Lefko, tickets; Leonard Eisen and Howard Osofsky, arrangements; James Fellows and Edward Hardy, publicity; Malcolm Foster, speaker; Samuel Shawhan, awards; Marven Wallen, invitations; Gilbert Katz, programs; and Lowell Toenniessen, treasurer.

Comedy Sponsors Two for One Deal

Pinned or engaged couples may see "Lysistrata," Boar's Head's Greek comedy, tomorrow for the price of one person, Gerald Leider, faculty adviser, announced yesterday.

House mothers may be called upon to testify that couples are actually pinned or engaged, so the drama department expects everyone to be honest.

Regular performances of "Lysistrata" will be shown on Friday and Saturday. Prices for all three shows are $1 and $1.50. Students have been asked to pick up their tickets by curtain time.

"Lysistrata" is embarking on its fourth week of entertainment. Stars of the show are Barbara Hush in the title role, Shirley Ann Fenner, and Gerald Leider.

Schools to Offer Teacher's Course

Liberal Arts seniors who are not now qualified to teach in New York state elementary schools this fall may arrange to do so by taking an intensive teacher training program to be offered by several schools in the state this summer.

Those interested may contact Dean Eric Faigle's office in HL. No previous training in the field of education is necessary.

Schools offering the program for the summer are the Schools of Education at Syracuse, Cornell, and the University of Buffalo; Adelphi, Hofstra, and Wagner.

State Teachers' colleges offering the course are Albany (Oneonta branch), Brockport, Buffalo, and Cortland.

Also, Farmingdale (New Platz branch), Fredonia, Geneseo, New Platz, Oneonta, Oswego, Plattsburg, and Potsdam.

ISC Will Discuss American People

"The American People: Pro and Con" will be the topic under discussion by the International Students Committee at 8 p.m. tonight in the Colonial room of the Chapel.

Heading this informal discussion will be Volker Weiss from Austria.

Panel members are Adela Lema, Brazil; Svienn Ellerts, Iceland; P. Thange, Burma; Martin Roseneldt, Turkey, and Rosalie Fried, United States.

Dr. Piper Plans Book on Metaphysical Art

By GRACE FRARY

An idea conceived in 1926 by Dr. Raymond F. Piper of the philosophy department will bear friut in three more years.

Dr. Piper is at present compiling a book on metaphysical art, covering the fields of painting, sculpture, architecture, the dance, and poetry. Dr. Piper's book, which he plans to call "Cosmic Art," will be the first of its type in the world.

THE WORK will contain 500 photographs of these arts, with all religions of the world represented.

While in Paris in 1921, Dr. Piper viewed a metaphysical painting called "The Infinite" in the Grand Palace, and in 1926 he formulated his idea for a book on metaphysical art.

He began working extensively in 1946, and has devoted all his spare time to the book since then. In addition to his 25 hours of teaching each week, he devotes an average of 30 hours a week to the book, often devoting as many as 60.

His expenses of $5473 have been divided between photographs, postage, and travel. He has collected 2,018 photographs and original works, representing 811 artists from 60 countries. Dr. Piper knows 104 of these artists personally.

DR. PIPER has chosen 575 of the best photographs from the 2,018, and still must cut 75 more. 242 of these works are foreign, while 233 are from the United States, with 71 from New York alone.

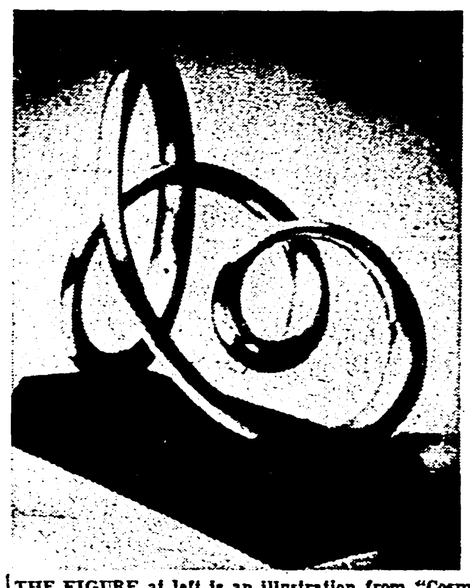
The leading foreign countries represented are India and France, with 41 and 40 works, respectively. Other countries having large representations are Japan, 26, Germany, 21, Austria, 7, and Algeria, 6.

The work of one Syracuse university graduate will be included. It is "Release" by Andrew Johnston, who graduated from Liberal Arts two years ago.

The painting suggests the solar system, with an indefinite human form flying upward in space.

A LARGE number of the paintings are by American In-

(See DR. PIPER, page 4)



THE FIGURE at left is an illustration from "Cosmic Art," a book on metaphysical art being compiled by DR. RAYMOND F. PIPER, (right) of the philosophy department. Done at the Newcomb Art school, New Orleans, by Jules Struppock, the figure is brass and 14 inches high. Photo by John Johnsrud

SYRACUSE DAILY ORANGE

THREE R'S OF A COLLEGE NEWSPAPER: RESPONSIVENESS, RESPONSIBILITY AND RESOURCEFULNESS

Page 2 Wednesday, March 10, 1954

Editor-in-chief — Arlene Lambert
Business Manager — Robert Goldstein

SENIOR EDITORIAL STAFF

Managing Editor — Arthur Siegel
Editorial Director — Hugh O. Muir
Executive Editor — Janet Coro
Sports Editor — Kenneth Lent

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Edward Meyer, Joan Nodelheit, Phyllis Sirota, Howard Venkirk, Mary Vivian

BUSINESS STAFF

Asst. Business Manager — Sheldon Lassen
Layout Manager — Judith Farman
Classified Manager — Joan Jacobs
Circulation Manager — Anita Freyberg
Promotion Manager — Lloyd Eisenberg

DAILY STAFF

News Editor — Jack Reilley
Night Editor — Eileen Chamberlain
Asst. Night Editor — Al Barkevicius
Editorial Page Asst. — George Meek
Night Sports Editor — Bob Leiko

Published by the students of Syracuse University.

Telephones: News, 75-5195, 75-5197; Editor, 76-1445; Business: 4-7205. Subscription by mail $5 per year, $3.50 per semester. Entered as second class mail matter at the Syracuse Post Office. Exclusive national advertising representatives National Advertising Inc., New York City.

A wise move

There will be those who will cry loudly that their independence is being taken away.

But, after a thorough investigation, we conclude that the University is not only legally, but ethically, justified in requiring sophomores to either eat and live in University-owned facilities or to eat and live in fraternities.

Jack C. Buckle, director of men's counseling and residence, informs us that the basic philosophy behind the move is to bring students more into the University community. This cannot be accomplished, he said, if students live in rooming houses or similar residences.

Buckle said he has reason to believe that students do better when living in University dorms, preferably, or in fraternities, secondly.

If a student lives in a dorm and belongs to a fraternity he will still be permitted to eat at his fraternity—except that all residents of Marion hall must sign board contracts. The Marion hall stipulation concerns finances of the new buildings.

We think that no cause for complaint is evident. Freshmen were notified last summer of the new regulation for sophs.

While private dwellings may suffer, the University and the fraternities will definitely benefit.

No doubt at least two years in University facilities will strengthen the student's ties to the school and assist him in his academic work and in securing guidance.

We have chosen to defend this plan on its merit. We are not defending it on the basis of what's right for the gals should be right for the men.

Although a nominal amount of choice is being taken away from the individual student, we think the gains made by Syracuse university and its students will more than compensate for the move.

Managing Editor

P.S. on 'Lights'

Postscript on last week's editorial concerning Boar's Head:

The members have at last found space in which to rehearse for the spring production "Up in Lights."

It was a sad story we told on Friday—that of a cast with no place to go because the Castle had to be vacated three weeks earlier than anticipated.

But it has a happier ending, thanks to the combined efforts of the University and the production staff. Rehearsals are now being conducted in prefab 8, University college, the Women's building and the Drama building.

Not very centralized, we admit, but at least the group was not forced into renting the Astor theater, a move which would have increased the cost of the tickets by at least 50 cents each.

It is unfortunate, however, that there is no centralized location where the casts of spring productions can rehearse without having to pay ridiculously high prices.

Perhaps next year's group will be able to get more facilities in the Women's building. It may be that the success of this year's show will pave the way for the acquisition of other locations.

Since the University receives most of whatever profit is realized from the production, it would seem logical for the Administration to want to do everything within its power to find adequate rehearsal space.

A play such as this can be of untold benefit, public relations-wise, for the University. We hope that its merits will not be overlooked when the same problems presents itself next year.

Editor-in-Chief

Progress: after a long color-blind era in the age of television, we get a view of the world in technicolor

A 'Behavior' Report

By POLLY REED
Editorial Page Writer

The following report should not be discredited because it is not based on 8,000 interviews of the strictest confidence, because of the simple reason that it won't alter your behavior one iota, anyway.

New data just released reveals that holding hands is more prevalent in the 24-39 age group. 94 per cent of the women interviewed in this age bracket admitted holding hands 4 or 5 times before. One 26-year-old said she had been doing so since the age of 6! The other 6 per cent were amputees.

In the 16-23 age group, surprisingly enough, the figure is somewhat lower. Only 89 per cent of the women interviewed admitted interdigitation before. This lower figure can be attributed to the fact that many women of this age group are constantly waving their hands, trying to impress men of the absence of a ring of strategic fingers.

Holding hands is also cut down by the practice in early age groups of the young couple walking together with the boy carrying the girl's book in one hand and his fishing apparatus, or football cleats in the other.

The techniques for holding hands are as varied as fingerprints. Here in America, the orthodox method is one palm of the other, and fingers over the back of each other's hand. The French use a different method. (Aaaaah, those French!) In their country, the palms are not crossed, but the fingers are interclasped. This method is clearly difficult for people with webbed fingers. Eskimoes do not hold hands. They crack knuckles.

Because of abnormal hand-holding habits, one sect was severly persecuted in the early days of our country, obscure historical records show. These were people who were born with more than five digits on a hand. Records reveal that because of this persecution, these people followed the Mormons to Utah.

In some states, the law requires amputation of extra digits at birth. Most people had their operations performed in Denmark.

When young love birds in the old world part, the art of holding hands is culminated with the male bowing stiffly and kissing the back of his lady's hand. In America, the favorite method is to grasp each other's hand, in no generally prescribed manner, and shake them in an up and down motion, keeping the upper part of the arm rigid at all times. This is important. In Boston, movement of the upper part of the arm is penalized by provisions in that town's moral code.

So the importance of holding hands among lovers is greatly rooted to our culture. Some scientists claim that during the days of Julius Caesar, Germany, not France was viewed as the romantic center of the western world. They say the Germans, not Frenchmen, first realized the romantic potentialities of holding hands.

They cite the frequency with which the name Hans occurs there. This is an obvious contraction of the word. Even today, when a young swain seeks a wife, he asks her father for her hand in marriage.

Most colleges offer courses in anthology, a purely academic contraction of the word, which has gained a different approach with the passage of time.

Thus, with such a rich background, the future for the art of holding hands looks very smooth. Remember, then, when you are walking along with the one you love, the future of America is in your hands!

Gospel of St. Joe

From the Bucknell Engineers:

Verily I say unto you, marry not an engineer for the engineer is a strange being possessed of many devils;

Yea, he speaketh eternally in parables which he calleth formulas and he hath but one Bible, a handbook.

He talketh always of stresses and strains, and without end of thermodynamics.

He showeth always a serious aspect and seemeth not to know how to smile;

He picketh his seat in the car by the springs therein and not by the damsel beside him;

Neither does he know a waterfall save for its power, nor the sunset except for it absorption spectrum.

Always he carrieth his slide rule with him and he entertaineth his maiden with steam tables.

Verily, though his damsel expecteth chocolates, when he calleth he brings samples of iron.

Yea, he holdeth his damsel's hand, not only to measure the heat content thereof, and kisses but to test the viscosity.

In his eyes shineth a faraway look which is neither love nor longing, but a vain attempt to recall a formula.

Even as a youth he pulleth a girl's hair to test its elasticity, but as a man he discovereth different devices;

For he would count the vibrations of her heartstrings and reckons her strength of materials.

For he seeketh ever to pursue scientific investigations, and his marriage is an equation involving two unknowns and yielding diverse answers.

EVentualities by EV

"Your security card, Humpleton?"

LETTERARY COMMENT

A Crime to be Caught

To the Editor of The Daily Orange:

Apparently it does not matter how many persons or groups violate a rule—ti's the guy who gets caught that gets the ax!

Delta Upsilon and Phi Kappa Psi clashed on March 2 in a basketball game to determine the winner of the Flight V intramural championships.

During the course of the game, Delta Upsilon used a player that was considered ineligible. Subsequently, after DU won the game, 25-19, a protest was filed by the losing club, declaring the ineligibility of this player.

However, the protesting team also used an ineligible player—a crew man whose sport is definitely "in season," since practice sessions are conducted daily and the squad is under strict training rules.

Although they admitted that any crew man playing intramural basketball would be ineligible, the intramural council voted to allow the Phi Psi protest.

As their reason for the decision, the council advanced the theory that because Phi Psi had lodged an official protest, and DU had not, the Phi Psi protest must be allowed.

The reason that DU did not lodge a protest was because we felt certain that the matter of team superiority had been settled by the outcome of the contest.

However, because we did not file a written protest, accompanied by $1, within 24 hours of the game in question, we are the guilty party—even though the losing team had also used an ineligible player in the game.

DU is now eliminated from further intramural basketball play, while the losing team of the original game is being allowed to continue in competition.

To be morally correct, the Council could have done either of two things. Forfeit the entire game, and eliminate both teams from further competition. Or they could have replayed the game without the the use of the players in question. This would have been the fair presentation of rules that were established to make the intramural system one of clean play and good sportsmanship.

However, no such decision was reached!

Thus a guilty party goes, unassailed, just because the violation which they committed was not protested.

It just does not seem just ! ! !

Sincerely,
Bill Kagler, President
Delta Upsilon Fraternity

'Brave, New World'

By DICK CASE
Editorial Page Writer

There was a glance into a brave, new world to be had yesterday morning as station WSYR-TV previewed "live" color television to a Syracuse press audience in Hotel Syracuse. The station, one of a hand-full pioneering in the new field, has recently completed the installation of color transmission equipment.

To be perfectly frank, the color demonstration was unparalleled by any form of electronic miracle to date. It was, if we may be so exuberant, overwhelming, extremely beauteous, startling and stimulative to a loss of speech and a general expansion of the eyeballs.

Imagine, if you will, a drab, black and white photograph suddenly splashed with each of the rainbow's colors. It then springs to life and ejects itself out of an imagine into reality.

The program viewed was something called "Ding Dong School."

"Ding Dong" is a light little half-hour for the kiddies. Strictly. It is commentated by a motherly looking lady named Miss Frances who shows the youngsters how to finger paint and draw and she reads them a story and tells them to be sure to eat up all the Oatmeal. All this in a deliberate, direct delivery aimed at wee ears. In black and white, hardly a show to arouse much adult interest but in color . . .

WSYR-TV had set up three color sets in the Hotel, three different brands and custom-made At 10 a.m., the three sets flamed into bright color from a previous black and white picture. The transition was startling. For the next half-hour, clothing, water-colors, backgrounds, story-book art work and human forms were reproduced almost faithfully on the screens in soft, cool hues.

Each set, of course, required a small amount of adjustment with the highly complex tuning devices but after this, the color reproduction was an amazing 90-per cent perfect. It also may be noted that the individual receivers each presented a different shading of the transmitted colors. For instance, Miss Frances's green kerchief came through dark on one set, Irish bright on another and light on the third. This, according to the degree of tuning of each.

The human body does right well by color coming out a near pink but nevertheless remarkably real. The sparkling water-colors and finger-painting demonstration were particularly satisfying.

And what does this all mean to us home folks?

Simply this. Color TV is far in the future. For now, WSYR-TV will present all NBC network color productions. Right now they are a limited few since the net is proceeding on an experimental basis. By 1954, a WSYR spokesman noted, the network will telecast one out of every four shows in color.

In regard to receivers, there are only a very few now being made; all of these custom made and high priced, (about $1,200 average). The manufacturers have indicated that they will be in color production by mid-summer with about one color set to every 500 monochromes by next year. The price, here again, is the large factor. There are now seven receivers in Syracuse, all of these made especially for WSYR-TV.

But the local station has taken the step. Time is now the factor. Local sources believe that once the public sees color they will be highly enthused.

Speaking personally, it is unnecessary to say that this department was highly impressed with yesterday's demonstration. If color can take a kiddies' show like "Ding Dong School" and zip it into a thing of beauty to watch, then this new medium will hold a great fascination. The possibilities are tremendous.

Words seem to fail miserably when one strikes out for a description of this thing called color television. The proof is in the seeing.

Studebaker Owners

Bring Your Service Problems To Us

We have factory trained mechanics and a service department equipped to handle every service operation. Our parts department is stocked with a complete line of genuine Studebaker parts and accessories.

A. Robert Perry INC.
STUDEBAKER DEALER
4727 S. Salina St. 9-3226

LENTEN

SCHOOL OF APPLIED CHRISTIANITY
GRACE CHURCH
UNIVERSITY AVE. AT MADISON ST.

FIVE WEDNESDAY NIGHTS
MARCH 10 --- APRIL 7

YOU ARE WELCOME

7:30 P.M.—GROUP DISCUSSIONS (Choose)
THE CHRISTIAN GOSPEL AND THE PARISH CHURCH
LEADER—PROF. EDWIN H. CADY

COMMUNISM AND CHRISTIANITY
LEADER—MR. ARCHIBALD STUART

RELIGIOUS VALUES OF LITTLE CHILDREN
LEADER—MISS DEBORAH VAILL

8:30 P.M.—THE MISSION OF THE CHURCH TODAY AS I SEE IT—

MARCH 10—DEAN VIRGIL ROGERS
SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

MARCH 17—COL. PAUL SHIPMAN ANDREWS
FORMER DEAN—COLLEGE OF LAW

MARCH 24—RT. REV. MALCOLM E. PEABODY
BISHOP OF CENTRAL NEW YORK

APRIL 7—DR. WILLIAM R. WILLARD
DEAN—NEW YORK STATE COLLEGE OF MEDICINE

9:30 P.M.—COFFEE HOUR

On Wed. March 17

a Prudential representative will be on campus to interview interested seniors.

The PRUDENTIAL OFFERS...

career opportunities to LIBERAL ARTS and BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION graduates OPPORTUNITY...

in a wide variety of Home Office positions

- excellent starting salaries
- advancement—in administrative or technical lines
- promotion—from within—on a merit basis

SECURITY...

in one of the world's largest companies

- job security—Prudential is little affected by economic fluctuations
- personal security—assured by a comprehensive employee benefits program

Contact your placement officer for an appointment and further details.

THE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU
THE PRUDENTIAL INSURANCE COMPANY OF AMERICA
WASHINGTON STREET
NEWARK, NEW JERSEY

THRU THE MUCK with MEYER

By ED MEYER, Associate Sports Editor

I MAY BE WRONG, BUT . . .

The varsity jacket situation may turn out to be a job for jumpin' Joe McCarthy, the guy who is even investigating the Cincinnati Reds.

Marc Guley and his Orange cagers may have found themselves with an NCAA bid if it wasn't for a broken wrist and some boiling tempers.

"The Wild One" may turn out to be Johnny Granger in disguise. After all he's up for another trophy this coming weekend.

Joe Dimaggio will probably never return to baseball from that great civilian life. Business matters you know.

Sex is here to stay providing you treat it right and worship a guy named Kinsey.

College spirit at Syracuse is not the greatest in the world. In fact, after last weekend's gatherings at the wrestling and swimming meets, you could say it "————s" but we won't.

Johnny Granger will not only regain his Eastern title this coming weekend but should also take the national crown in April.

Isn't it just a little too much for a guy like Ted Williams to get a divorce and a broken shoulder within a few months.

Al Zak, the equipment orator, and Doc Hugo, the boxing and wrestling trainer, could turn into the greatest vaudeville combination since the days of Gallagher and Sheen.

Al Zak

How in blazes did Penn State get invited to the NCAA sectionals. It must have been sheer pull.

When in spring a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of love Floyd Schwartzwalder would rather turn to blocking, tackling and passing.

Fraternity pins only bring trouble. And trouble only brings more trouble.

Vinnie Cohen, the freshman jumping jack may turn out to be one of the finest players New York city has ever sent to Syracuse. In fact, one of the best ever to don any Orange jersey.

Although Bob Grieve is smiling now over the brilliant display of running by his two-mile relay team he'll be a little sad come next fall when Ray Osterhout won't be romping at Drumlins.

Syracuse university has seen the last of Cornell on the gridiron. That is, of course, after next year's finale at Ithaca.

Don't be surprised if the Red Raiders from Hamilton give us a spanking next fall with an excellent group of sophomore ballplayers in their livery.

Those wooden planks in front of Machinery hall were the greatest gifts to the students since they built the Hall of Languages. P.S.: George Washington Slept There.

Marlon Brando could help Roy Simmons, Floyd Schwartzwalder, Joe McDaniel and Boar's Head at the same time. He could, too.

If every coed at Syracuse has not been queen of something by her sophomore year she ought to pack up and go home. They usually do anyway.

Going on social probation must be the thing to do these days. All you need is some good hard liquor and a glass.

How about a big pat on the back for Andy Mogish and the fine job he has done in preping freshman basketball players for their varsity years.

I wonder if Arthur Godfrey could get into AFROTC flight operations.

If Roy Simmons runs for mayor of Syracuse next election he's bound to get the majority vote in the personality column.

Ike isn't the great golfer he's built up to be. Why, he couldn't even beat that guy named Hogan.

Red Barber and Charley Dressen will take over for Casey Stengel and Mel Allen on the field and on the air. Sounds strange doesn't it?

The varsity jacket problem and "Marshall Street Athlete" situation may seem minor to many people who wear them but it's the fellows who do the actual playing who are griping and brother they ture are right.

Campus politicians are like little boys playing with little toys. They're just too serious.

When writing a weekly sports column you sometimes have to really dig down for information and, brother, this is it!

FRATERNITIES SORORITIES STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS

Cut Printing Costs with Vari-Type

We are headquarters for publications. Use our cuts, illustrations and art work without charge. Complete layout service available if needed.

SYRACUSE VARI-TYPE SERVICE

116 S. Salina R. H. Taggart 2-2495

You "write your own money" as you need it when you pay by CHECK...avoid the risks of carrying cash. And it will probably cost you less to maintain a checking account than to pay your bills in person. Manage your money matters safely...economically: with a checking account here. Open one soon.

FIRST TRUST & DEPOSIT COMPANY

MEMBER FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORPORATION

SYRACUSE, N. Y.

BALDWINSVILLE . . . CANASTOTA
LIVERPOOL . . . MATTYDALE . . . PARISH

Phi Delts, Theta Chi, M-2 Win Hoop Semi-finals

Zebes, Phi Psi's, Al Smith Forced Out of Playoffs

By SOL BECKER

Phi Delta Theta and Theta Chi won the right to enter the finals in the fraternity loop while Skytop M-2's win enabled the frosh to meet the Deacons for the independent men's title in intramural basketball action last night.

The Phi Delts romped to a 46-35 victory over Zeta Beta Tau while Theta Chi edged Phi Kappa Psi 33-28. M-2 also won easily 56-23.

PHI DELTA Theta and the Zebes played a close first half with ZBT leading 19-18 at half time. During the opening minutes of the second half, the game was still close when the Zebes started to tire. It became a wide open game with the victors outscoring the Zebes 28-15 in the second half to win going away.

High scorer of the game was the Zebes' Russ with 15 points. Coyne with nine plus Tyler and Seiber, both with seven, were high for the Phi Delts.

The M-2 Deacons' game proved to be no contest with all nine of M-2's men scoring. High scorer for the Skytoppers was Leroy Bond, while Alfred Smith's Bob Conklin scored 11 of their 23 points .

Although Doyle Roberts, chosen for the Independents' all-star team only scored five points, his ballhandling was outstanding.

IN THE last game of the evening Theta Chi won a close contest over Phi Kappa Psi 33-28. The first half proved to be the major factor in the win, with Theta Chi outscoring the Phi Psi's 18-12. In the last half the game became more heatedly contested with Theta Chi being outscored 16-15.

Don Moller and Bill Sprague teamed up to score 24 of Theta Chi's 33 points. Moller had 14 and Sprague 10. The scoring for Phi Kappa Psi was fairly evenly distributed although Dino Hadjis proved to be their key man.

Tonight, the Phi Delts meet Theta Chi at 6:30 in the old gym for the fraternity championship. The Phi Delts were runners-up in last year's Greek finals.

With M-2 meeting the Deacons for the independent championship, the intramural basketball schedule comes to a close tomorrow night with the winners of these games clashing in the all-University championship.

This will be followed immediately by The Daily Orange intramural all-star game pitting the best floormen of the fraternity and independent divisions. Last year's battle went to the independents in a tight battle.

Nats Face Bullets In NBA Action

The Syracuse Nationals seek to break a second-place tie in the National Basketball Association's torrid Eastern division race tonight when they visit the hapless Baltimore Bullets. The Nats are currently tied with Boston, which is idle tonight.

First place New York enjoyed a two-game advantage before last night's tussle with Milwaukee.

Boston has four games remaining, including a battle with the Nats here Thursday evening, which has been designated Oolph Schayes night. The Knicks and Nats each have three tilts remaining, closing the season with a weekend series, in New York Saturday and here Sunday.

Eli All-American

KERRY DONOVAN of Yale university will compete in both the 50 and 100-yard freestyle events in the NCAA championships in the Orange pool March 25-27. Donovan was named to the 1953 all-American team and finished second in last year's NCAA meet.

Orange Matmen Prepare For Easterns on Saturday

With the close of the dual meet wrestling season last Saturday, wrestling mentor Joe McDaniel has been busy preparing his charges for the intercollegiate wrestling championships which will be held at Ithaca this Saturday.

Coach McDaniel will start the identical lineup that closed the season against Cornell last Saturday. With the exception of Dick Anderson at the 123-pound slot, the lineup will be the same that McDaniel used throughout the season.

FOR SENIOR Garland Harris at 147 and Hank Gobetz at 167, the Easterns will be their last intercollegiate wrestling outings.

Sophomores Ed Welsz and Tom King, and junior George Finck will take care of the 130, 137 and heavyweight chores while co-Capt. Ed Rooney holds down the 157-pound starting position.

Saturday's attempt will be Rooney's third try at the Eastern championship. In his freshman year, Rooney was runnerup and last year, he finished third, despite a chronic knee injury.

Rusfeld of Princeton, who beat Rooney last year, promises to be the Orange captain's strongest opponent. Undefeated in dual meet starts this year, Rooney is expected to give Rumfeld a battle for the championship.

BESIDES SYRACUSE, 15 other schools of the Eastern Intercollegiate Wrestling association will compete in the Easterns. Among the other schools competing are Temple, Franklin and Marshall, Penn State, Lehigh, Army, Cornell, Pittsburgh, Navy and seven other squads.

Penn State, Navy, Pittsburgh and Lehigh are given the best chances of the 16 squads. Of the four, Pittsburgh is the favorite, as the steel city men beat both Navy and Penn State, ending Penn State's 34 match winning streak.

The Nittany Lions and Lehigh were both Orange opponents and Syracuse owes two of its defeats to them. Losers of six of their eight dual meet outings, the Orange wrestlers don't figure to be in the running for top honors.

Two of the Orange's runner-ups in the 1953 Eastern's will not be back this year. Heavyweight Dick Beyer graduated last June while Orange co-Capt. Chuck Debellis was injured earlier in the year.

Debellis was scheduled to start at either the 137 or 147 pound slot before he broke his wrist.

AXEL SPOTS—For the first time since pre-war years, Syracuse had separate varsity and frosh coaches. Ex-Orange grapplers Enzo Marrinelli and Dick Beyer were the frosh coaches this year. Don Clark, Ronald Marrinelli and Jim Rooney won all but one of their frosh bouts this year, while Bob Smith was undefeated in the 167-pound division. Clark, Rooney, and Marinelli held down the 123, 130 and 157 pound slots . . . Although he was defeated in all his dual meet starts this season, Ed Welsz has yet to be pinned. The spunky sophomore took over the 140 pound starting slot following the injury to Hank Bianowcz earlier in the year. Senior Garland Harris finished the season with an all-or-nothing record. Harris won two of his starts by pins and lost the other six on falls.

All-Star Lineups Selected

By AL GEFEN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Tomorrow evening the "dream classic" of the intramural basketball season will be played. In the contest, a team of 10 fraternity players representing the Greek flights will encounter a like number of men from independent and living center teams.

In a poll conducted by The Daily Orange among its freshmen sports reporters and the officials who have refereed the intra hoop games this season, 20 players and six alternates were selected to comprise the all-star aggregations.

THE PERSONNEL on the independent squad was dominated by four members of the Deacons. Ron Mantley, John Gordon, Pete Bratt and Gunnar Wirth are the Deacons who will participate in the court affair.

Other members of the independent team will be Doyle Roberts, Skytop M-2, Randy Stauffer, M-1, Don Reid and Oz Winters, M-10, Bob Conklin, Cleveland B and Paul Ripp, Irving D 1-3.

Alternate players chosen on the independent squad includes Ed Cheney, Skytop M-2, Bill DeVries, City Men and Sig Wirth of the Deacons. These alternates will only play if players from the first ten cannot make the game or are unable to play because of an injury. In this case, they will be advanced to the regular squad in the order they have been chosen.

The fraternity all-star team, unlike the independent group, shows almost no dominance by one team. Only one squad, Delta Kappa Epsilon with Ted Kukowski and Mickey Kyff, has placed more than one player on the squad.

ORVIE WAMBOLD, Sigma Chi, Curt Ford, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Don Moller, Theta Chi, Herb Steigler, Beta Theta Pi, Mel Kline, Sigma Alpha Mu, Chuck Williams, Tau Delta Phi, Dino Hadjis, Phi Kappa Psi and Sig Seiber of Phi Delta Theta will also see action in the game.

Ford, Moller, Steigler, Wambold and Kukowski are all repeaters from last year's fraternity all-star quintet. Wirth and Mantley are the only independents to make the team for the second consecutive season.

The fraternity alternates are George McGlynn, Sigma Chi, Ron Tyler, Phi Delt and Bill Sprague of Theta Chi.

Several of those picked have earned fame in various varsity sports. Steigler, Kukowski and Hadjis were members of the Orange football squad. Kyff is a pitcher on the baseball nine and Wambold and Wirth have seen considerable action as members of the Hill soccer team.

MEL BESDIN and Dick Jaskot have volunteered their services to coach the fraternity aggregation, while Lou Beverly and Billy Nelson will direct the play of the independent team.

The all-star game will begin at p.m. It will follow the all-University championship con-test pitting the fraternity champion against the victor of the independent living center crown. The opponents in this game will not be known until after tonight's games which will decide the respective titlists.

A board of four judges will pick an outstanding player in the all-star contest, who will receive several prizes which have been donated by Syracuse merchants.

Marc Guley, varsity hoop coach, Andy Mogish, freshman basketball and baseball mentor, Bob Bell, assistant Intramural Director, and Ed Meyer, Daily Orange Associate Sports Editor, will select the key player in the game.

THE PLAYER will receive a beer mug, which has been donated by the Hill Smoke shop and an album of records, "Syracuse Sings" from Olmsted's Record shop. In addition, he will receive a Palmolive Shaving Kit from Young's Pharmacy and a set of initialed cuff links donated by Lund's Men's shop.

A large crowd of students is expected to witness this doubleheader, which will mark the close of the intramural basketball season on the Hill. The all-University game will commence at 6:30 p.m., while the all-star game will begin immediately after the first game at approximately 8 p.m.

The all-star teams will work out today in the new gym. The fraternity all-stars will have use of the court from 6:30 p.m. to 8, while the independent team will take the floor at 8 p.m. The alternates on both teams are requested to be present at these practice sessions at the times when their squads are listed to drill.

NCAA SWIM TIX

Tickets for the NCAA swim championships are still on sale in the Archbold gym ticket office. Prices range from 60 cents for Thursday evening, March 25, to $1.20 for Friday and Saturday afternoons and $2.40 for the latter evenings.

No student tickets are available since this meet is sponsored by the National Collegiate Athletic association. A special series ticket may be purchased for $6, however, a saving of $1.80.

YESTERDAY'S SOLUTION

T	R	A	G	I	C		A	D	A	G	E		S	T	O	R	E	D
H	E	G	I	R	A		C	A	N	A	D	A		S	A	L	A	M
A	Z	A	T	H	A	R		E	P	O	D		S	N	U	G	L	Y
L	O	A	F	S		A	W	A	R	D		T	I	M	A	N	S
E	K	E		I	V	I	E	S		M	E	T	A	L	S		P	O	E	T
R	E	S	T	R	A	I	N		D	E	V	O	U	T		D	O	N	N	E
			R	A	N	S		I	M	A	R	K		A	R	S
B	E	T	T	I	S		S	P	R	O	S		G	L	A	S	S	E	S
A	P	E	S		G	O	R	I	L	L	A		S	A	B	L	E	N	K
N	I	T	E		S	O	P	A		S	A	V	I	N	G		K	I	T
A	M	A		W	H	I	N	K		L	I	E	N	S		K	I	T
N	E	T		H	U	N	T	S		A	L	L	I	E		P	I	P	E
A	R	I	S	I	N	G	S		H	L	U	K	E	S		M	A	N	S	E
S	E	C	A	N	T	I	S		E	R	A	S	E	D		R	A	N	G	E	S
	L	E	S		B	L	A	R	E	D		C	I	E	T	E
H	A	P	E	S		R	E	C	E	D	E		P	A	L	I	S	A	D	E
A	P	A	S		P	E	R	S		C	U	B	I	N		S	A	V	E	D
M	E	N		J	O	R	D	A	N		F	I	R	S	T		S	A	Y	S
P	L	A	N	E	T		D	E	B	A	T	E		T	I	G	H	O	T
R	E	M	O	V	E		N	O	T	A	T	E	S		N	E	G	A	T	E
S	T	A	T	E	S		G	R	A	N	T	I	S	M		G	I	S	T	I	S	T	E	D

SAE, ZBT Bowlers Gain Playoff Wins

Comptrollers Beat Nathan Miller, 7-2

In last night's intramural bowling three round 2 championships were at stake and ZBT, SAE and Army Comptrollers went on to win them.

The Zebes won their championship by taking a convincing 7-2 victory from Phi Gamma Delta. Barry Ross was the big noise for the men of Zeta Beta Tau and the men of Zeta Beta Tau and for very fine 210 single.

The best battle of the evening took place as the Army Coptrollers avenged a late season defeat by Nathan Miller and won a hotly contested match 7-2.

Nathan Miller piled up a 30-pin lead in the first string but the Comptrollers came back to take the second by 48 and wins the third with a great 869 effort.

SAE clinched their 2nd round championship by rolling over Delta Upsilon 8-1. Ed Dalton was high man for SAE with a three string total of 481.

OPEN BOWLING

The bowling alleys in the Women's building will be available for open bowling tonight and tomorrow night as the Intramural bowling schedule subsides. The only intramural match tonight will pit Skytop M-4 with the Army Comptrollers.

Come On Down To

DEB'S

DRIVE-IN LOUNGE

SERVING THE BEST IN HOME COOKED FOOD

"The Hill Rendezvous"

Bottom of Crouse Hill

On Erie Blvd.

ALL LEGAL BEVERAGES

Campus Wolf Looks Over Underwear Situation!

"GRRRR!" says Lupo Leer, notorious roue and famous library lover. "Yes, GRReat is the word for those comfortable Jockey brand Shorts! Don't overlook a good thing...get Jockey and comfort is in the books for you!"

Yes, college men choose Jockey comfort!

You don't have to be a wolf to appreciate the snug-fitting, tailored-to-fit comfort of Jockey brand Shorts! Jockey comfort goes for everybody, because...

13 separate contoured pieces are carefully crafted into one smooth-fitting garment.

Newly-developed heat resistant rubber in waistband outlasts other leading brands.

Nobelt® strip rubber in leg openings eliminates sag or bind around the legs.

Unique Jockey front opening never gaps.

Jockey Shorts

Jockey T-Shirts

all underwear gives you coverage but only Jockey® BRAND

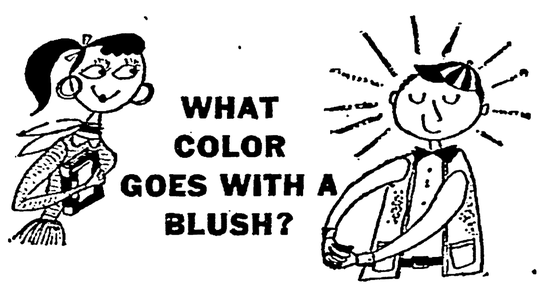
gives you full comfort!

Made only by Cooper Kenosha, Wisconsin



A modest little freshman named Caspar Doyle found himself getting quite neurotic. It seemed that every time a girl looked at Caspar, he blushed. His sallow little cheeks turned a violent crimson. Then he would blush more because he was blushing.

He didn't get very far with the ladies and began brooding. Fortunately, he was a wealthy modest little freshman, and he finally bundled his problem off to a psychiatrist.

"I even hate my shirts. I know when I wear a white shirt it's only going to make my blush look redder," he dolefully intoned from the couch.

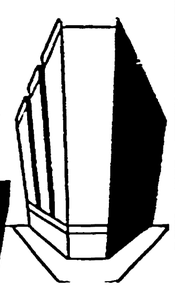
The head-shrinker's eyes lit up with dollar signs. He said: "Ahem. This trauma is obviously deep-seated and will take a long time to unravel. But meanwhile, try wearing some Vanahue shirts. Van Heusen makes them in lots of colors that will tone down your blush and you're bound to like the smart new collar styles. For your practical side, they're fine smooth broadcloth, color fast and Sanforized.
See my nurse for the bill, please!"

Caspar bought Vanahue in all the colors and smart new collar styles for $3.95 each. It worked. So many of the girls look at him now, he blushes constantly. Everybody thinks he just looks rugged and virile.

REST PERIOD

Take a "vacation" from the long study week—any evening in the Persian Terrace. Get away from the grind—dance for hours—enjoy the delightful entertainment—relax. The fare for your "excursion" will be surprisingly moderate.

Dancing to the music of Clair Perrault and his orchestra. At dinner and supper, Tuesday through Saturday evenings.



Persian Terrace

hotel SYRACUSE

Campus Notices

Daily chapel, noon-12:20 p.m. Dean Charles C. Noble will speak.

Graduate group meeting, 7:30 p.m., Colonial room, Hendrick's Chapel.

Frosh Executive council, 4 p.m., 203 HL.

JSF choir meeting, 7 p.m., 201 Crouse. Important meeting due to Saturday morning service.

Army ROTC trick drill team meeting, 7:30 p.m., 301 Machinery hall.

Piety Hill Alliance meeting, 7:30 p.m., Phi Sigma Sigma. Bring $5 dues.

Joint fraternity and sorority social chairmen meeting, 7:15 p.m., alumni lounge, Women's building.

DO Business staff meeting, 2 p.m., today and Friday, Hellbox, attendance is required.

Varsity debate meeting, 8 p.m., 414 HL.

Junior varsity debate meeting, 7 p.m., 415 HL.

Psi Chi applications due today at psychological center, 123 College pl.

ASME meeting, 7:30 p.m., 724 Comstock ave.

All those who have taken the MSG training program and haven't been interviewed yet are requested to come in for an interview either today, tomorrow, or Friday from 2-5 p.m., MSG office, building 30, room 12.

Ski club meeting 7:30 p.m., Ski lodge.

All those interested in a trip to Tuckerman's ravine during Easter vacation are requested to attend a meeting, 7:30 p.m., Ski lodge.

The following people are assigned to work at The Daily Orange today: Afternoon, Ros Brownstein, Joy Yunker, Polly Reed, Marion Berger, Elaine Chesin, Roberta Stern, Joan Connors, Jan Dukier; Night, Rog Herz, John Johnsrud, Grace Frary, Grace Sofleis, Gwen Mann, Tess Oesterreicher, Vivian Judge.

Outing club square dancing, 7:30-10 p.m., in large gym of Women's building.

Junior assembly meeting, 7:15 p.m., 305 Women's building.

Ski school instructors meeting, 4 p.m., Ski lodge. Please be prompt and bring instructors' manual.

All those who are interested in being on the freshman cheerleading squad are required to attend a meeting at 8:45 p.m., in gym B—Women's building.

WAA volleyball, 4:30 p.m., Women's building. Attendance required for girls interested in participating in playday.

JSF Hebrew classes, 7:30 p.m., 202 Maxwell.

USP meeting for all sophomores who are interested in applying for junior class officers. They must have applications in by 5 p.m., Friday to Frances Senerstein, Shaw dorm. Include name, phone, address, ideas for class, previous experience and activities.

Lutheran graduate group meeting 8 p.m., 329 Comstock ave. for discussion led by Edith Banuski on "Impressions of France."

Anyone interested in working on the promotions committee for the senior show, "Up in Lights," should contact Sandra Elster, 76-2186 or Maria Heitz, 4-9450.

Tryouts for cheerleader, gym B, 7-9 p.m., today and tomorrow. Please wear sneaks.

All interested in dates for Frosh weekend should contact James Tipka, 4-5976, or Ellie Bieg, 4-9222 today

DO Frosh class, 4 p.m., Attendance required.

MSG-WSG open hearing on reserved seating, 8:30 p.m., 204 HL.

Miniature Steele Cyclotron Furthers Study of Electrons

A miniature cyclotron is being used in the basement of Steele hall. This atomic particle accelerating unit is part of an experiment that may eventually result in the fuller understanding of electron behavior in the vacuum tubes of modern communication equipment—radio, television, radar.

The primary function of the project is to determine the effect on ion bombardment on a metal surface and the nature of particles resulting from this collision. By varying the type of ion element, the make-up of the metal target, and the environment of the surface, a better idea of the nature of electrons can be obtained.

Prof. Herbert W. Berry, of the physics department, has designed a machine for the study. Bottled helium enters a chamber where the atoms are hit by electrons produced by a heated coil. The atoms are changed into ions by the collision. In other words, they lose an electron.

These ions drift into an accelerating chamber similar to those used in a cyclotron but on a much smaller scale. Only the ions are speeded-up due to the charge of the acceleration plates.

The ions then hit a metal surface and regain their lost electrons, once more becoming atoms. Thus, the metal surface has been changed. This change can be measured by using electric and magnetic fields to investigate the nature of the particles resulting from the collision.

The project is being carried on under the sponsorship of the Office of Naval Research.

A HOME-DESIGNED cyclotron-miniature has been doing its part for local research in the basement of Steele hall. Designed by Prof. Herbert W. Berry, the cyclotron is used to change atoms to ions, for the study of electrons in modern communication equipment.

Dr. Piper . . .

(Continued from page 1)

dians. Among these is "Worship of the Elements" by Calvin Larvie.

The books will cover all the elements of time and eternity, beginning with chaos, continuing through creation, the birth of the soul, death, escape to freedom, aclours, the power of love, man's quest for God, the immanence of God, immortality, the infinite, and eternity.

Two paintings on the subject of eternity are "Beyond the Stars" by Ruth Harwood of California, and "Beyond and Beyond" by Jan Gelb, which will probably be the final work in the book.

Each photograph will be accompanied by a sketch of the author's life, his philosophy, and the meaning of the work.

ARTISTS WHO will have four or more works in the book are Americans Emil Bisttram, Cornelia S. Bogert, Marjorie arker, and Faith Vilas; E. Beotty from France, and Gherardo Dottori from Italy.

Also Elizabeth Brunner, a Hungarian residing in Italy, and Louise Janin, an American residing in France. Erwin Dom Osen, an Austrian, and Henri Fruges from Algeria.

Several works of Professor Ivan Mestrovic will be included.

MSG APPLICATIONS

The MSG merit board of the United Students party will accept applications for MSG presidential nomination until March 17. Applications should include name, address, phone number, qualifications and platform. They may be submitted to Paul Abrahams, Omega Pi Alpha.

MSG Ratifies Act On Budget Plan

By ED HARDY
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Men's student government assembly last night approved an activities budget control act that would give government a voice in the appropriation of funds for student organizations.

The lawmakers also voted down a bill to allow political parties to recruit, nominate, support and campaign for candidates for the MSG assembly.

IN OTHER action, the group:

1. Amended the political parties act to read that a party that does not post a $25 bond by one month before elections may not participate in elections for that semester.

2. Approved the constitution of the new Independence party.

3. Sent to ways and means panel an amendment to the class governing act that would require all male class officers, class executive council and assembly members to take the Future Student Leaders training program of MSG before or while they serve.

4. RECEIVED AN amendment to the class elections act stating that the elections protest board must meet and render a decision within 48 hours of a protest.

The budget control act, if approved by women's student government, will set up a board composed of the presidents, civil service chiefs and ways and means panel chairmen of both MSG and WSG. Also sitting in the group would be the dean of student services.

Each organization under control of the act would submit its budget to a civil service board, which would make recommendations to the budget board. This board would make an appropriation and sent it to the administration for review. Government assemblies would give final approval.

WAER 88.1 FM PROGRAM SCHEDULE

WEDNESDAY

2:58—Sign On
3:00—WAER News
3:05—Symphonic Matinee
4:00—Musical Heritage
5:00—This I Believe
5:05—Distaff Digest
5:15—Dinner Date
6:15—WAER News
6:25—Evening Showcase
6:35—WAER Sports Lineup
6:45—Fred Greisinger Show
7:00—WQXR Artists
7:30—Adventures in Research
7:45—United Nations Story
8:00—Evening With Hi-Fi Music
9:00—WAER News
9:05—Music Magazine
10:00—Final Edition—News
10:10—Final Edition—Sports
10:20—Sign Off

Classes in Hebrew Will Meet Tonight

Jewish Student Fellowship beginners' Hebrew classes will meet tonight in 202 Maxwell at 7 p.m.

All those who are interested are welcomed. New members will be admitted.

The instructor of the class will be Amos Kraurz from Israel, who has been teaching several Hebrew classes.

SU Revue Featured At Friday Mixer In Women's Bldg.

SU Revue, featuring Syracuse talent on parade, will be the main attraction Friday night at the regularly planned mixer dances in the Women's building. Sponsored by the freshman class, this variety show is entirely composed of frosh talent.

In keeping with the already established pattern of the dances, no admission will be charged. The show is scheduled to start at 8:30 p.m. and includes 12 variety acts.

Toni McCleand and Barbara Davis from Nottingham are harmonizing on a comic song routine "How Could You Believe Me When I Said I Loved You, When You Knew I've Been a Liar All My Life?"." Pat McCracen and "her girls" have planned a comic dance routine. Jay Allen has a magic act to astound the audience with the mystic.

Warren Kimble will demonstrate his ability as a tap dancer and Ronald Cohen will revive cowboy memories with his guitar. Barbara Carnella has planned to sing a semi-classical number. She and Guy Gelaard will also sing a duet together.

Swim Club Accepts 3 New Members

Three new members have been accepted into the Women's Athletic association competitive swimming club. Nancy Mains, Virginia Sheldrick and Joan Witmer became members after recent try-outs.

Try-outs will be held again from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. today in the pool at the Women's building.

The club is planning swim meets with other central New York schools and for some meets club members will travel to other cities.

Anyone with average skill in speed, form swimming or diving is eligible to try out for the club.

Housing . . .

(Continued from page 1)

housing assignment.

Change in class status during the academic year will not affect residence requirements, all room contracts being for one complete academic year. If a student becomes a junior at the end of the fall term, however, he may petition in writing for an exemption from the board contract for the spring term, provided he is not a resident of Marion dormitory.

Cummiskey's Cake Superb In Second Contest Victory

By HELEN EDWARDS
Daily Orange Cupcake Editor

Proving for the second straight year that he's "home on the range", WHEN's Joe Cummiskey baked his way to top honors in the annual Post-Standard cake baking contest for male members of the Fourth Estate yesterday at the War Memorial.

The men of the air waves made it a clean beat for the afternoon as Dick Workman of WSYR-TV took runner-up laurels and Ken Sparks of Syracuse university station WAER finished third.

A TOTAL of 10 representatives from Syracuse's newspapers, radio and television stations fought the battle of the batters for two hours while hundreds of helpful spectators attending the first day of the P-S's home show watched.

Cummiskey won the $50 first prize with a mystery recipe that developed into a chocolate cake he called "Crazy, Mixed-up Coconut Cake" because of the liberal amounts of coconut he sprinkled on his frosting.

As the winner was announced to the crowd, there were demands from the other bakers for a Federal Communications Commission investigation of Cummiskey and WHEN for a cake baking monopoly.

The radio man simply accepted the $50 bill from P-S columnist Helen Humphrey, who represented Publisher Richard H. Amberg, stuck the green stuff into his mocha frosting and walked away, licking the icing off the bill as he went.

HILL ENTRANT Ken Sparks, publicity director of WAER, was on the scene early to tackle a recipe for a chocolate devil's food cake. Chief Announcer Bob Martindale was technical supervisor for the production, identifying the ingredients for Sparks.

It was the third time in his life that he'd engaged in the culinary art, Sparks admitted after the contest. He's sure that a little practice at home had helped him out-bake seven of the pressmen.

Judges Kay Russell of WSYR-TV, Kay Larson of WHEN-TV and Ione Tracey of WHEN were faced with the task of judging the cakes. Texture, flavor and appearance were points considered. At last report, the three women were none the worse for their experience.

Art Peterson of WHEN never made a cake before yesterday but approached his task with all the vigor of an old hand. He whipped up a fudge cake, while Bill Reddy sports editor of the Post-Standard, baked a "triple-play unassisted cake."

DEACON DOUBLEDAY of WSYR attempted to broadcast his radio show and bake at the same time. Did you ever see anyone try to talk to a spoon thinking it was a mike?

Howard Carroll of the Herald-Journal, Charlie Shaw of WOLF, Denny Sullivan of WFBL and Frank Hennessy of WNDR also traded typewriters and mikes for electric mixers and cake ingredients.

Cummiskey brought a stop watch with him to make sure he would "mix well for two minutes."

Hennessy, favored to give Cummiskey a run for the money, flubbed up and his cake flopped—right in the middle of the top layer. He touched up with a thick covering of icing, but couldn't fool the expert judges.

YWCA Interviews Planned Next Week

Ruth Buckwalter, representative of the national Young Women's Christian association, will interview seniors and graduate women March 18 and 19 for positions with that organization.

Interested coeds should see Miss Osborn for appointments in 107 Administration building.

Positions are open for adult program director and executive director.

OPEN HEARING PLANNED

An open hearing on reserved seating is scheduled by the men's and women's student government joint welfare panel for 8:30 p.m. today in 204 HL. Originators of the present seating plan will be among the speakers.

Sociology Honorary Sets Rushing Today

Alpha Kappa Delta, national sociology honor society, will hold spring rushing at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Founder's room, Maxwell. Richard Hirschberg of the sociology department will be the guest speaker.

The qualifications for this honorary are a 2.0 overall average and 12 hours of sociology for sociology majors and a 2.0 average in sociology and 15 hours in that field for non-majors. Transfer grades in sociology will be accepted.

All those who are interested can obtain further information from Dr. Byron L. Fox, 105 Maxwell, or from Peter Rose, 4-6066.

HOME EC CLUB

Miss Elvira Hoffmire, physiotherapist, will address the home ec club at 7:30 p.m., March 17 in 305 Women's building. The lecture, which will be accompanied by a film, is open to the public. Miss Hoffmire is a physiotherapist at Percy Hughes school in Syracuse.

L. G. Balfour Co.
Fraternity Jewelers
JEWELRY GIFTS, FAVORS
BADGES · STEINS · RINGS
STATIONERY · PROGRAMS
CLUB PINS · KEYS
MEDALS · TROPHIES
Carl Sorensen '33
Jack Orr
Ginny Orr
University Post Office Bldg.
171 Marshall St.
Telephone 75-7857
Daily 10-5 Saturday 9-12

REGENT
SUN.—WED.
Keefe Brasselle
"THE EDDIE CANTOR STORY"
Color by Technicolor
also
"SEA OF LOST SHIPS"
John Derek
Wanda Hendrix

GUADALAJARA SUMMER SCHOOL

The accredited bilingual summer school sponsored by the Universidad Autonoma de Guadalajara and members of the Stanford University faculty will be offered in Guadalajara, Mexicol, June 27-August 7. Offerings include art, creative writing, folklore, geography, history, language and literature courses. $225 covers six-weeks tuition, board and room. Write Prof. Juan B. Rael, Box K, Stanford University, California.

CLASSIFIED ADS

IMPORTANT NOTICE—CLASSIFIED ADS to appear in this paper should be DELIVERED at the HELLBOX Classified desk between 1 and 3 p. m. NO ADS WILL BE ACCEPTED AFTER 3. ALL ADS MUST BE IN 2 DAYS IN ADVANCE. For further information call 4-7206.

ALL LOST ARTICLES should be turned into the CENTRAL LOST AND FOUND ROOM, 20 Bldg. 24 at 205 University Pl. Articles can be claimed there.

AUTO DRIVING INSTRUCTION. Learn to drive easily, correctly and safely. Call Upstate Auto Driving School. Phone 8-4040.

TYPEWRITERS RENTED: $3.00 per month, $8 3 months. Good selection. We deliver, Smith Brothers. 4-8833.

Typewriters rentals—New Models Reasonable Rates—Expert Service, All Makes—CORNER STORE.

SUMMER DAY camp counselors. Two men, one woman. Salary depends on experience. Weekends free. May live in. Elmcrest Children's Center. 72-4496.

INTERVIEWING: Camp Lawrence Cory, Director Weldon B. Hester, will interview applicants for staff and counselor positions this coming Wednesday, March 10th, between 1:30 and 5 at Appointment Office. Camp location—Keuka lake, N. Y. 62nd season, Capacity 300. Literature available at Appointment office.

TEMPLE ADATH YESHURUN. Corner Harrison and South Crouse Ave. Week day services 7:30 a.m.

EXPERT TYPING done in my home. 4-4220. Mrs. E. Garelick.

LOST: ID Bracelet; Lee Phillips inscribed, Call Betty 4-9815.

EXPERT TYPING, theses and term papers. Mrs. Raymond Webb, 2-1884.

WANTED: Ride to Boston. Monday afternoon or evening. Will pay for transportation, 4-7206 between 1-3 p.m.

BUICK, 1950. 4-door, Super Riviere. Top condition, dynaflow, fully equipped. Two cars, must sell one, 108 Winchell Road. University Heights, 75-4226.

MIMEOGRAPHING, SAME DAY SERVICE, EXCELLENT WORK FREEMAN LETTER CO., ECKEL THEATER BLDG. 2-4829.

1951 NASH RAMBLER HARDTOP: Grey body, red top. Like new. Original owner will sacrifice for quick sale. Will finance. Darrell Jones, 104 Clinton St., Homer, N.Y.

POLITICAL HELP WANTED: Wide-awake young men—young women to attend Young Democratic club meeting. No salary, but unlimited sense of achievement and personal satisfaction, pleasant social atmosphere, apply in person, Young Democratic club, 204 Maxwell, 7:30 p.m. tonight.

WANT LARGE UNFURNISHED ROOM: store or studio, few days a month by photographer. Arnold Marsa. 76-4411 ext. 2153. 72-4754 after 7 p.m.

1941 DeSoto convertible, radio & heater, fluid drive, good running reasonable 8-4175.

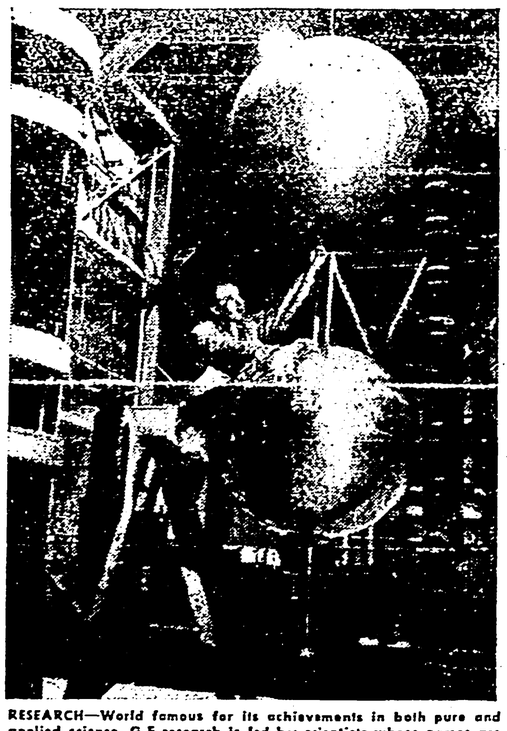
PONTIAC COUPE 1940, radio & heater, good condition, $150. Phone 74-4651 between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. after 5 p.m. 72-2405.

SALE: Oldsmobile '41 Coupe, with hydromatic drive. A-1 condition. 49,000 mileage. Has been a second car. Good tires. New battery. Call 76-8203 to inspect on campus. $140.

PARAMOUNT
JAMES STEWART
JUNE ALLYSON
"The GLENN MILLER STORY"
Technicolor
Those Musical "Greats" on Grand Stage!
FRANCES LANGFORD · LOUIS ARMSTRONG · GENE KRUPA
BEN POLLACK · THE MODERNAIRES
A Universal International Picture
Also "BLACK FURY" in color

Now MIDTOWN Open 6:30 P.M.
LOUIS de ROCHEMONT presents
Martin Luther
A MAGNIFICENT MOTION PICTURE FOR OUR TIME!

ECKEL STARTS THURSDAY
A Case of British Aplomb!
The delightful story of a gent who went on a wild weekend with his fastmoving first love named Genevieve...and took his wife along!
The J. Arthur Rank Organization presents
Genevieve
COLOR BY TECHNICOLOR



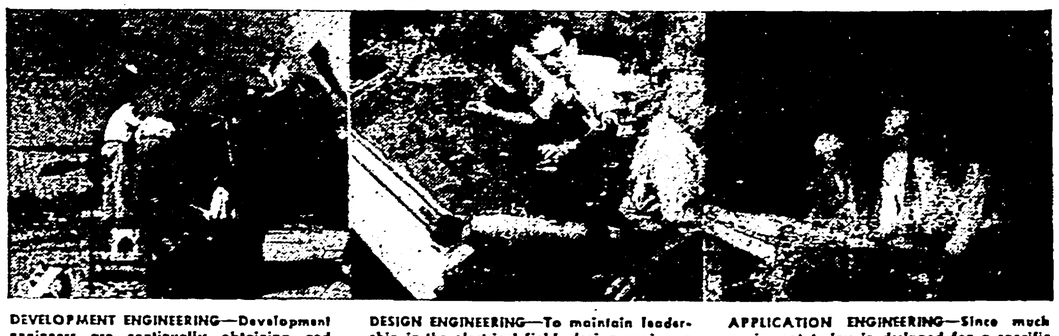
ENGINEERS
IS YOUR CAREER HERE?

Sound engineering is one of the foundation stones of General Electric's leadership in the electrical industry. The importance of the role of the engineer has been recognized from the very beginning of the Company. Since 1892, G.E.'s Engineering Program—the oldest on-the-job training program in industry—has been affording young engineers widespread opportunities for professional development.

Besides the engineering fields briefly described here, career opportunities with a bright future are waiting for engineers in other important fields at General Electric . . . in manufacturing engineering . . . sales engineering . . . installation and service engineering . . . advertising . . . administration . . . other specialties in engineering.

If you are an engineer interested in building a career with an expanding and ever-growing Company see your college placement director for the next visit of the G-E representative on your campus. Meanwhile, for further information on opportunities with G.E., write to College Editor, Dept. 2-123, General Electric Co., Schenectady 5, N. Y.

RESEARCH—World famous for its achievements in both pure and applied science, G-E research is led by scientists whose names are known everywhere. The many Company laboratories cover a wide range of scientific investigations. Research activities include physics, chemistry, metallurgy, mechanical and electrical problems, ceramics, and many other fields.



DEVELOPMENT ENGINEERING—Development engineers are continually obtaining and assessing new basic engineering and scientific knowledge to make possible new developments. They serve as consultants to help in the solutions of engineering problems, which often require research, experimentation, and the development of a new product or component.

DESIGN ENGINEERING—To maintain leadership in the electrical field, design engineers are constantly striving to develop new and better products. Their skill is largely responsible for the steam and gas turbines, motors, heat pump, control equipment, and many other products. In electronics, they design equipment for television broadcasting and reception, radar, and other electronic equipment.

APPLICATION ENGINEERING—Since much equipment today is designed for a specific use, the application engineer must have a broad knowledge of the industry for which a particular product is being designed. Because G-E products are widely used throughout industry, imagination, determination, and a sound knowledge of engineering are important assets in this ever-growing field.

You can put your confidence in—
GENERAL ELECTRIC

On the Inside
The Facts, Dear Brutus," Murrow or McCarthy, Page 2.

Syracuse Daily Orange

Weather Report
CLOUDY, COOLER
High temperature ----40
Low temperature ---- 25

Vol. 51, No. 87 | Syracuse, N. Y., Thursday, March 10, 1954 | 4 Pages—5 Cents

Daily Orange to Move Saturday to New Hellbox in Prefab 7

Piano Performance Slated by Mrs. Cox For Crouse Concert

A faculty piano recital by Mrs. Lillian Bauer Cox will constitute this Sunday's free concert in Crouse auditorium. The program is scheduled for 4:15 p.m.

Mrs. Cox, who has been with the School of Music faculty for one year, has a wide musical background. She has played all over the United States and Canada, appearing in Carnegie hall, Constitution hall, and the San Francisco Opera house.

SHE HAS appeared with the New York Philharmonic symphony, and formerly maintained a teaching Studio at Steinway hall in New York city. Mrs. Cox cites as one of her favorite performances one given before Queen Juliana of the Netherlands while the queen was on a Canadian tour.

Before coming to Syracuse Mrs. Cox was a faculty directrector of the Hamilton School of Music in New Haven, Conn. In addition to her teaching at Syracuse, she has given a number of radio and television recitals, and appeared with the Civic Morning Musicals, Inc.

Her most recent musical activity was a concert a few weeks ago at the Syracuse YMCA.

Sunday's recital will open with Bach's Prelude and Fugue in C major. Sonata in A major, opus 120, by Schubert, will be next on the program.

AFTER AN intermission, Mrs. Cox will play Ravel's Sonatine, including the modere, mouvement de minuet and anime movements. Prelude in C major, by Prokofieff, will be next. Two Debussy selections will be offered, "Reflects dans l'eau" and "Jardins sous la pluie."

Rachmaninoff's prelude in C major and Chopin's Polonaise in A major will conclude the recital.

The next presentation in the Sunday afternoon concert series will be a joint student recital by Sigma Alpha Iota and Phi Mu Alpha on March 21.

Piano Major Slates Concert in Crouse

Lucille Giers, a senior in the School of Music, will present a free piano recital at 8:15 tomorrow in Crouse auditorium. In addition to her studies here, the Hill student is a church organist choir director and a private piano teacher.

Her recital will include Bach's Chromantic Fantasy and Fugue, and Chopin's Sonata in B flat minor. Four pieces by the contemporary Russian composers Scriabin and Prokofieff will also be featured.

For two years Miss Giers has been organist and choir director for the St. Michael's church at Onondaga hill, southwest of Syracuse. She is currently giving 14 children private lessons in piano.

The noted student musician was awarded the prize for the best performance of the year 1952-53 by the School of Music. She is now studying piano here on a competitive scholarship, granted on the basis of annual auditions.

A soloist last year with the University symphony orchestra, Miss Giers is a performing member of Civic Morning Musicals, inc. She is a member of Sigma Alpha Iota, the women's professional music fraternity.

She will be accompanied in the recital by Victoria Gorcoff, a junior voice major, and Patricia Peluso, junior piano major.

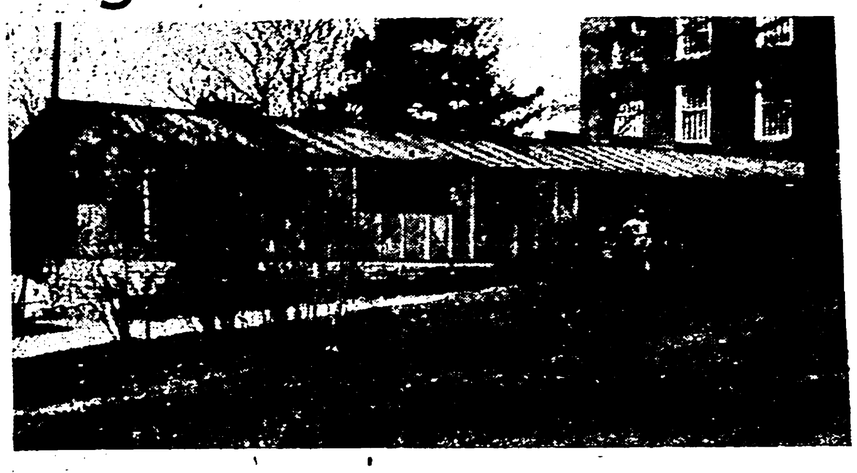
Students May Buy Cut-Rate Tickets

One hundred student tickets will go on sale at 7:15 p.m. today at Lincoln auditorium for the Agnes DeMille dance production at 8:15 p.m. today.

Murray Bernthal, director of Famous Artists series, said yesterday that the student tickets ordinarily sell at $3, but will be sold to students for $2.

The troupe, totaling 50 persons, includes a full orchestra.

Numbers scheduled include a production selection from "Top Banana" and a production of "Hell on Wheels," from the "old railroading" days.



IF YOU LOOK to the right, you'll see the Dean Emeritus of the Hellbox, FRANK LOCKE. For 11 years Frank was guardian of the building. Frank has already moved to campus—and The Daily Orange; the Syracusan humor magazine; and the Onondagan join Frank in the mass exodus to campus. The Hellbox and its better half, Yates Castle, will be completely vacated this weekend.

Offices of the Daily Orange and other student publications will be moved Saturday to prefab 7 on the main campus.

Formal dedication of the new "Hellbox" will take place at an open house at 2:30 p.m. Sunday. Various Administration personnel, faculty and students have been invited to attend the opening.

FOLLOWING the ceremony, DO staff members will complete the moving so that there will be uninterrupted publication.

Prefab 7 is one of the many temporary structures behind Maxwell. It is the building closest to the Journalism Center and Steele, directly overlooking gate 5 of Archbold stadium.

The Syracusan and Onondagan officers will also be placed in the center section of the prefab, on the left side. Students wishing to submit material for publication in either the DO, Syracusan or yearbook may come to the new offices beginning Monday.

Phones will be out of order Monday morning but should be back in use by mid-afternoon.

The new headquarters were made necessary because of the demolition of the Castle and old Hellbox scheduled for April 1.

Camp Counselor Positions Offered

Students interested in summer positions at camps may obtain information on a great many openings in the appointments office in the Administration building, Miss Vera Nicholls, appointments secretary, announced yesterday.

The appointments office receives notice of openings from summer camps, making a centralized placement for the summer months possible.

Independence Bloc Sets First Meeting

The first meeting of the newly formed Independence party will be held at 7 p.m. today in 303 Maxwell. Any interested independent student or Greek house without any previous political affiliation may join the party.

Applications for sophomore, junior and senior class officers to run on the party ticket will be accepted until the deadline 7 p.m. Monday.

The temporary executive council of the party includes Francis J. Procopio, Skptop M-3; George Heitmann, D-2, Irving ave.; and Mary Cole, Richards cottage. All applications must be submitted to one of the council members.

Radcliffe Rep Visits Campus Tomorrow

A visiting representing of Radcliffe college will interview prospective applicants for the management training graduate program tomorrow. There will be a limited number of qualified undergraduate women accepted.

Anyone desiring an interview should contact Mrs. Phillips in Room 108 of the Women's building.

ORGANIZATIONS

Civil service workers are processing the list of registered organizations, which will be distributed by Wednesday, March 17. Until then blanks may be obtained from Gerber at Tau Delta Phi or Miss Clark at Alpha Phi. They are also available at the women's student government and menn's student government offices

Six Men's Dorms to Go To Women Next Year

By ROGER J. HERZ
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Six present men's dormitories will be used for women's housing next year, Jack C. Buckle, director of men's counseling and residence, told The Daily Orange yesterday.

Alfred E. Smith house, 909 Walnut ave., will be demolished immediately after commencement this June to provide a parking area for the new men's dormitories, as required by city code, he said.

THE HOUSES to shift to the women next year are Thomas E. Dewey, 100 Walnut pl.: Levi Morton, 102 Walnut pl.; Charles S. Whitman, 106 Walnut pl.; Nathan L. Miller, 108 Walnut pl.; Charles Poletti, 110 Walnut pl.; and Theodore Roosevelt, 805 Walnut ave.

New names will probably be given to the houses as they officially become cottages next year, Buckle said.

Open houses for the inspection of available men's housing will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesday, March 23 and Wednesday, March 24, he said, and announced that a housing connvocation for men will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday March 25.

"The convocation will include a discussion of men's housing and will present an opportunity for men to present questions concerning policy or procedures," he said.

THE FOLLOWING houses will open the two nights: Washington Arms, Grover Cleveland, 202 Waverly ave., 504, 603, 607 and 609 Comstock ave., 106 Marshall st. and the Irving ave prefabs.

Washington Arms, which will have been a freshman dormitory for two years, will be open next year to all upperclassmen (sophomores, juniors, and seniors). Juniors will have preference, with sophomores and seniors next in line.

Sophomores will be given preference in Grover Cleveland, with seniors and juniors to get any additional rooms in that order.

Housing assignments will begin March 29 and run through April 13. Assignments will be made in the following order:

MARION DORMITORY: seniors March 29: juniors, March 30; sophomores, March 31.

Washington Arms: juniors, April 1; sophomores, April 2; seniors, April 5.

Grover Cleveland: sophomores,

(See DORMITORIES, page 4)

EVALUATION OF FOOTPRINTS REQUESTED

John Beach, senior class president and member of the continuation committee of the group sponsoring "Footprints" has been appointed to write a critique and overall evaluation of the conference.

Beach requests that all persons who have some constructive comment on the conference, its administration and its relative success, suggestions for future conferences and other pertinent comment, contact him at Phi Gamma Delta, 732 Comstock ave., preferably by postcard or letter.

Botany Honorary Installs Members

Formal initiation for Pi Sigma, plant science honorary, will be held at 7:15 p.m. today in Lyman museum lounge.

New members to be initiated are Avis Yaffee, Marjorie H. Lavine, Elizabeth Ragan, Sylvia Rubin, Joan De Gelleke, Sondra Rose, Gorgon Liebergall, Frank Arazy, Barry Fliegel.

Also, John Seo, Joseph Sebasta, Durwood Rowley, Martin Misiek, Arthur Krikszens, Amos Krausz, John Holt, Harry Higa, Milfrod Gates, Dominic Gangi, Peter Gaffney, Laverne Durkee, Helaired Decancq, Kenneth Barrus, Jack Yudell, Abdelmequid Badawi, Joseph McDade, George Beskid and Frank Lavello.

Guest speaker for the evening will be Dr. Justus F. Mueller, of Syracuse medical school. He will lecture at 8 p.m. on his trip down the Amazon. Refreshments will be served.

Seniors Named to Appear On 'Quiz Bowl' March 28

By DICK CASE

Four members of the senior class were selected yesterday to represent Syracuse University in the March 28 broadcast of "College Quiz Bowl" over the National Broadcasting Company.

The four are Janet Caro, American Studies-journalism major; Jane Bauer, Raymond Guenter, and John Beach, all of Liberal Arts. The final selection was made by Dr. Edwin H. Cady, English professor and director of the Syracuse's participation.

NAMED AS alternates for the test of knowledge between two college teams are, Elizabeth Brydon, Liberal Arts senior, Jean Brydon, Liberal Arts junior; Nancy Whittier, Liberal Arts, senior; and Ronald Gross, Liberal Arts, sophomore.

The selection of panelists and alternates was made by Dr. Cady on the basis of sessions with the students who were named by professors in the humanities division. NBC had suggested that the students have a knowledge in a variety of fields.

Dr. Cady's selection was also based on the student's answers to model questions, personal interviews and nominations by other nominees who were asked to vote.

Introduced in October 1953, "College Quiz Bowl" places emphasis on "brains not brawn." Each week, two teams, consisting of four students each, broadcast from affiliated NBC stations nearest their respective campuses with moderator Allen Ludden asking the questions from New York.

TOSS-UP QUESTIONS are asked by Ludden, and an electronic signalling device indicates which team is ready to answer. Quick and well-calculated responses are important. The use of split-second timing thereby eliminates any doubt as to who answered first. A point system is set up and the team with the largest total points wins, returning to the air the following week to oppose the representative school.

Washington and Lee defeated Princeton in last week's session and goes on its third straight contest against Barnard college this Sunday.

Each week, the winning team receives a $500 prize. In the case of Syracuse, a committee of student leaders and administration officials will decide what the University will do with the money if the Orange team should win.

While the broadcast will not be heard nation-wide until March 28, the actual program will be tape recorded on Thursday, March 25 at 8:30 p.m. A site for the broadcast has not been selected byt Edward C. Jones, producer of the Syracuse portion, has indicated that student tickets will be made available.

DEAN FRANK PISKOR and Assistant Dean Edwin D. Smith of Liberal Arts will advise the panelists.

Miss Caro, a member of Eta Pi Upsilon, senior women's honorary, is executive editor of the Daily Orange and was co-chairman of the recent Winter Weekend. Miss Bauer, a candidate for

(See COLLEGE QUIZ, page 4)

Special Rates Given At 'Lysistrata' Today

Half Fare Allowed To Engaged, Pinned

Two for the price of one. That's the rule of the day in the drama department, when engaged or pinned couples will attend the performance of "Lysistrata" this evening for half the usual fare.

Of course all students taking advantage of the offer are expected to be honest and above board about the state of their freedom. Housemothers may be called upon to testify that the couples in question are actually attached.

"LYSISTRATA" the Greek comedy which is entering it's fourth week of performance is under the guidance of Prof. Sawyer Falk, head of the department.

Starring in the role of "Lysistrata" is Barbara Hush, a sophomore in drama. Other people turning in notable performances are: Shirley Fenner, Millie McIntyre, Joanne Reed and Gerald Leider.

Regular weekend performances will be given tomorrow and Saturday, at the rate of $1.00 and $1.50 per person. The special rate for pinned couples will only effective for this evening's performance. Couples planning to attend the performance are requested to pick up their tickets prior to curtain time. They may be obtained at the box office, located on the first floor of the Drama building.

The set, one of the most impressive elements of the production of the comedy by Aristophanes, was designed by John Jay Moore, instructor in drama. Moore also designed the sets for "Tempest" and "Richard III."

Chapelites to Vote For New Chairmen

Elections will be held for Chapel Board chairmanships from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. today in Hendricks chapel lounge.

Those students who attended at least 40 per cent of a board committee's meetings are eligible to vote.

Two co-chairmen will be chosen from four candidates. The runners-up will serve on the executive committee of the board.

Running for office are James Fellows, Ann Cross, Elizabeth Wright and Arthur Kinney.

CHEER TRYOUTS

Tryouts for the University varsity cheerleading squad will be held at 7:30 p.m. today. Coeds should meet in the lobby of the Women's building and males should meet in the Trophy room of the Men's gym.

Tri-Orange Disbands; Three Parties Remain

By ED HARDY
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Tri-Orange party called it quits Tuesday night.

Its action narrows the competition in spring elections April 7 to three groups—Independence, Piety Hill Alliance and United Students parties.

ALL THREE posted $25 bonds by yesterday in accordance with the political parties act.

John Hennessey of Delta Tau Delta, who was chairman of the three-year-old Tri-Orange organization, resigned and walked out of a party meeting Tuesday taking his house with him.

Delta Kappa Epsilon, Beta Theta Pi and Sigma Alpha Mu immediately followed.

The balance of the 15-house party then voted to dissolve. The treasury of about $20 will be donated to campus chest, Hennessey said.

BESIDES THE Delts, DKE, Beta and SAM, Tri-O listed as members Alpha Chi Rho, Beta Sigma Rho, Phi Kappa Tau, Phi Sigma Delta, Pi Lambda Phi, Tau Epsilon Phi, Theta Chi, Alpha Omicron Pi, Kappa Delta, Phi Mu and Sigma Tau Delta.

Beta Sigma Rho has made application to Piety Hill Alliance, Larry O'Sullivan, PHA head, reported last night.

Four other houses—A Chi Rho, TEP, AOPi and STD—are rumored to have formed a bloc to join one of the other parties.

O'Sullivan said that PHA has set up a three-man committee to accept applications to his party from interested houses. They should contact Marion Campbell, Alpha Phi; John Stetson, Phi Gamma Delta; or Richard Sutter, Phi Delta Theta.

ROBERT GARVER, USP chairman, stated that his group "would be willing to accept and consider the applications of any Tri-O houses."

Tri-Orange was formed Dec. 6, 1950 after Co-op party disbanded when it made a poor showing in fall elections. Original membership was 2 houses.

Leading to the collapse of Tri-Orange this year fas the formation of Piety Hill in October. PHA took 10 Tri-O houses into its membership.

Two weeks ago, Phi Epsilon Pi and Edwin Hochberg, a Tri-O co-chairman, left the party for USP.

Only one class officer was a member of Tri-O. He is Robert Hecht of Beta Sigma Rho.

Meeting Slated By Geography Club

The newly-formed geography club will elect officers at its first meeting at 7:45 p.m. today in 316 Lyman, Russell Brigani, acting chairman, has announced.

Discussion of a geography trip to Toronto, Canada, will also be held.

Byrne Urges Youth To 'Cast Off Fear'

Take Positive Role, Hill Democrats Told

James E. Byrne jr., chairman of the New York State Young Democrats, in a speech prepared for delivery at an organizational meeting of the Hill Young Democrats last night, called upon youth to cast off the "garment of fear and assume a positive role in the political life of our nation."

Charging that the present administration is afraid "to cope with guilt with association and the frenzied allegations of distressed Republicans," Byrne saw only the infusing of new life and new ideas into our political system as the way of overcoming the nation's fears.

"Youth today lives in an era of fear based on doubt and insecurity," the state Democrat said. "There is the fear to investigate new ideas and to think. There is doubt as to the integrity of the state and national administrations. There is insecurity built upon the most doubtful future in history."

Byrne claimed that the national administration has created "doubt about its ability to meet the vast domestic and foreign problems facing the nation."

He urged students to become active members of the Young Democrats to "become leaders of the future."

Engineers to Select Ball Queen Finalists

Finalists for the title of "Queen of the Engineer's Ball" will be selected at 7 p.m. today in Maxwell auditorium by a board of contest judges. The winner will reign over the annual dance to be held March 20 in the main ballroom of Hotel Syracuse.

The ball, sponsored by Theta Tau, professional engineering fratrenity, will be open to the entire campus.

Selection of a queen, who will be named on the night of the dance, is being made from applicants submitted by the various campus living centers. No entrance fee was charged and each sorority or cottage was limited to two entries.

Judges are Dean Ralph Galbraith of the Engineering school, Dean Clark D. Ahlberg, assistant dean of Engineering; Prof. Robert Lett, of the electrical engineering department; Prof. William Hotchkiss, history department; and Kenneth H. Miller, mechanical engineering instructor.

Tickets for the Ball, priced at $3.60, are available from members of Theta Tau.

Assembly Meeting Scheduled by JSF

Jewish Student fellowship will hold its first all-JSF assembly meeting at 8 p.m. today in 207 Maxwell, president Henry Einhorn announced.

The meeting is designed to present the JSF program to students for discussion and suggestions. Future plans include the United Jewish appeal drive, Purim carnival and elections.

A nominating committee will also be elected to present a temporary slate of candidates for fellowship elections.

This is the first such program in the history of JSF.

Job Interviews To Open Monday

Interviews by company representatives during next week have been announced by the engineering office. Any interested students should contact the office, building 6.

Several summer openings are also available for juniors, who should register at the placement office.

The schedule:

Monday—Department of Navy, Bureau of Ships; Carrier corp. (also summer); Port of New York Authority.

Tuesday—North American Aviation (also summer); Philco corp.; Ingersoll-Rand co.; Standard Oil of New Jersey.

Wednesday—Standard Oil of Indiana; Pennsylvania Rail Road (also summer); Standard Oil of N.J.

Thursday — Olin Industries; Visking corp.; Continental Can co.

Friday—Olin Industries; Colgate-Palmolive co.; Metals Research Lab. (also summer).

Way Heads April 10 Military Ball

MAJ. and MRS. ROBERT E. WOOD were two of the guests of honor at Wednesday's coffee for coeds who want designation as Military queen of 1954. The coffee was held in Joe and Emily Lowe Art center. Maj. Wood is advisor to Scabbard and Blade, national military honorary. Staff Photo by Lee Jones

Clifford D. Way has been appointed overall chairman of Military weekend by the newly-organized Cadet Association of Syracuse university. Way will coordinate the military ball, scheduled for Saturday, April 10 in Archbold gym, and the military queen contest, currently being conducted.

First of three coffees for queen contestants was held Wednesday. Others will be held from 7-9:30 p.m. March 18 and March 23 in Lowe. No entry fee is required this year and each sorority and living center is requested to enter two coeds. City women are urged to attend the coffees, too.

The CASU will select eight girls, of whom the cadets will select one as queen and the other girls will comprise the court.

Frederick Piori and Robert Carpenter are co-chairmen of the queen contest.

The ball will be a traditional military affair. Dress uniforms will be worn and pageantry—including the Grand March—is also planned.

Music will be provided by the 19-piece Sampson Air Force band.

The newly organized Angel's Flight will assist the three military honoraries which are sponsoring the weekend. The honoraries are Scabbard and Blade, Arnold Air society, and Perishing Rifles.

SYRACUSE DAILY ORANGE

THREE R'S OF A COLLEGE NEWSPAPER: RESPONSIVENESS, RESPONSIBILITY AND RESOURCEFULNESS

Page 2 — Thursday, March 10, 1954

Editor-in-chief ——— Arlene Lambert
Business Manager ——— Robert Goldstein

SENIOR EDITORIAL STAFF

Managing Editor ——— Arthur Siegel
Editorial Director ——— Hugh O. Muir
Executive Editor ——— Janet Cerro
Sports Editor ——— Kenneth Lent

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Edward Meyer, Joan Nadelhaft, Phyllis Stotz, Howard Vankirk, Mary Vivian

BUSINESS STAFF

Asst. Business Manager ——— Sheldon Lessen
Layout Manager ——— Judith Berman
Classified Manager ——— Joan Jacobs
Circulation Manager ——— Anita Freyberg
Promotion Manager ——— Lloyd Eisenberg

DAILY STAFF

News Editor ——— Ros Brownstein
Night Editor ——— Roger J. Herz
Asst. Night Editor ——— John Johnarad
Editorial Page Asst. ——— Grace Freny
Night Sports Editor ——— Joel Feldelman

Published by the students of Syracuse University.

Telephones: News, 75-5155, 75-5197; Editor, 76-1445; Business: 4-7206. Subscription by mail $5 per year, $3.50 per semester. Entered as second class mail matter at the Syracuse Post Office. Exclusive national advertising representatives National Advertising Inc., New York City.

A step forward

Student government took unto itself more responsibility during the past two days as the MSG and WSG legislatures passed the long-awaited Student Activities Budget Bill.

The exact amount of responsibility to be assumed will depend on the Administration. Dean of Student Services Frank Piskor has given his stamp of approval to the measure, however, so one may expect that not a few organizations will be placed under the sphere of the law.

Although several years in the making, it was not until this semester that a bill could be worked out to the satisfaction of both the Administration and the students.

The new measure will not revolutionize the powers of student government, but will give those groups more influence in what had long been considered an Administration area.

Organizations which now receive appropriations from various sources within the Administration will gradually be placed under the provisions of the act. Members will no longer have to run from department to department chief for their budget, but will be able to go directly to one body.

This student government Civil Service board will then be able to facilitate the yearly headache and, because of its composition, be more receptive of student problems and needs. The complex organization for review will eliminate the possibility of bias toward or against one group.

Organizations such as the cheerleaders and the debate squad will especially be aided by the new law as soon as they can be placed under its jurisdiction. Personnel have long been wearing out feet and shoe leather in search of sources for funds.

We can now but await further administration action to make the law what its framers have envisioned.

Editor-in-Chief

On the highroad

Much talk is made about the future generations who will be responsible for the glories and the foibles of the world.

We of the University, in a world of our own for the present, will find that we, too, can be replaced. Replaced by the next college generation that is now at the crest of its fame in high school.

These Syracusans of the future will have a glimpse of our world this weekend when Sub-frosh day brings the enfants on campus.

Philosophizing on life is rather brittle even at the tender age of a college senior. But to us life seems to have been divided into stage after stage. The scene change now upon graduation for us involves a switch to an even vaster platform.

Whether we are ready for the switch or not is debatable . . . and irrelevent. We'll go if we are ready for it or not. Likewise, the high school kids are making what is to them a revolutionary move.

It is our job, even for this, their brief glance into the crystal ball, to prepare them for some knowledge as to what our college world is all about.

The fact that the days of revelation are also those of Freshman weekend adds a touch of spice to it all. For here is a fling at college ways in its most experimental mood. The Frosh, collectively, are rulers for a day, (or two.)

So into their hands falls the job of enacting college at its most fictional. They must somehow show the college mind as well as the college rah . . . for it is there that higher education should make its most lasting effect.

This is the last stronghold where we pay for our education . . . on the other side we are paid for our education; for learning continues on past here.

May this weekend aid in another step along the highroad to somewhere.

Editorial Director

THE UNIVERSAL CHARIVARI

JOTTINGS

Hugh O. Muir
Arthur Siegel
Richard Cree
Roger J. Herz
Jean Nadelhaft

SEN. McCARTHY isn't the only one who gets the opportunity to answer back.

Tuesday night Edward R. Murrow, on Alcoa's "See It Now," exploded completely, for the first time, the McCarthy myth, the sly McCarthy tactics and the ill-conceived investigatory tactics of the power-mad senator.

There is a difference in the use of this inherent right to answer back. Murrow stuck to his subject, whereas the senator, in his broadcast rebuttals, answered the "attacks" for a fraction of the air time and then proceeded to bring up new fabricated charges, using his free air time to do it.

Murrow offered McCarthy the chance to tell him off. The senator will probably take advantage of the opportunity to rebut Murrow for a few minutes and the attack on Harry Truman, Dean Acheson, a little grey-haired lady in Topeka and the man who wears pink T-shirts will continue.

If he talks only about Murrow, he'll have little he can say justifiably.

◆

GOING over the New York Times Book Review ratings, we noticed that "The Power of Positive Thinking" still rode in first place for the 70th week. Though perhaps an honor for the author, it is a sad commentary on the mind of our nation.

It looks like we all have the jitters to such an extent that both whimsy and fact go by the board and library shelves are filled with tomes on how to think. We picked up one of these books on mental salvation the other day and came to the conclusion that it was like reading an essay on how to tie a bow knot in a shoelace. Such directions look so odd on paper, important but vague.

We resigned ourselves to be called an old eccentric for the rest of our lives and went out for a walk in the early kiss of spring.

◆

OUR PHONOGRAPH broke down a few days ago. Suspecting that the trouble in the little machine was merely a loose connection, we took the chassis out of the cabinet and soldered the wire.

When we played the machine again it played perfectly. But the dinner bell rang and we did not have time to put the chassis back into the cabinet. While we were washing, a friend came in, saw the dismantled apparatus, heard a record playing, and exclaimed, "What did I tell you? So you finally bought a hi-fi set. Sounds great!"

So, next time you see an advertisement of a $1,500 high fidelity set here's what to do. If you like music but not enough to buy a real hi-fi set, and if you want to make the impression of an urban sophisticate on your buddies, all you need is a screwdriver and a pair of pliers.

In a few minutes you can have your own hi-fi set.

But hide the cabinet, whatever you do!

◆

GUILTY consciences are sometimes sheer hypocricy.

We were following a fellow in a car the other day when he passed a cop who had a car pulled over for going through a blinking red light. The guy ahead was approaching a blinking yellow light at the time.

So instead of slowing down and going on through as he should, he stops cold. Big display of following the law. He finally started again and we followed.

Two blocks later, out of sight of the law, he coasts on through a stop sign; a block later he goes through another.

We coasted through behind him, musing on the pangs that gripped his soul for those few moments.

Law is more than just proximity.

◆

CONTEMPLATING THE frightening thought of writing our copy in a new atmosphere next week, we were struck by the implications the move to the Hellbox add 1 could cause.

And, of course, since physicists are reputed to be always walking around in fogs, mightn't one of them walk into the Daily Orange by accident, and not realizing it think the clack of typewriters to be Geiger counters stuttering, and run to tell the world the place is radio active?

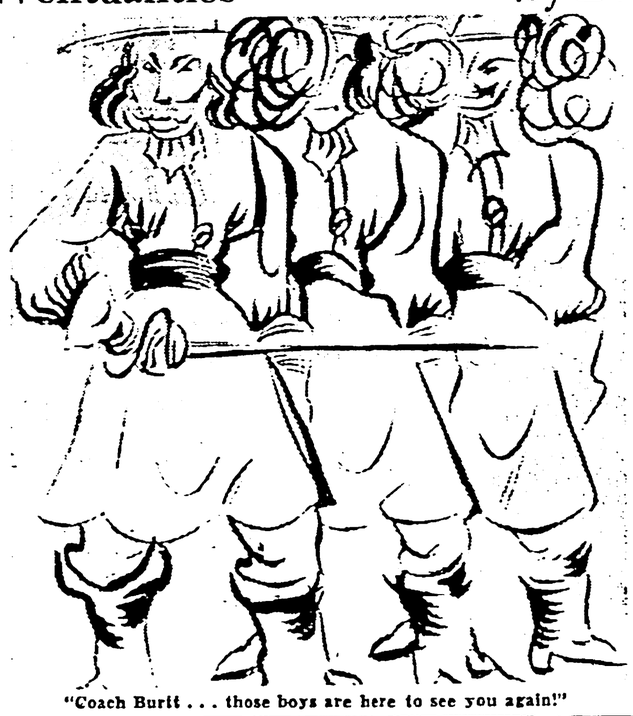
Oh well, change is inevitable, and the physicists must give way to the new . . . . but we're still worried what might happen when the journalism and the scientists clash.

◆

NOTHING IN the world is as frightening as a blank, pure, untouched, virginal sheet of paper, canvas, sheet of music paper, or block of granite.

So it just hapuened to occur to us that any time an individual is daring enough to write a word (or even a thought!) or a few notes on paper, or paint a canvas, or sculpt a stone, he deserves our undying gratitude and a salute from the heart.

EVentualities by EV



"Coach Burit . . . those boys are here to see you again!"

FROM BAD TO HERZ

Freedom to Starve

By R. JACQUES

Documents unearthed just recently (they were buried on the site of the College of Law construction) prove that the Declaration of Independence came about solely as a reaction to the king's law stating that all colonists must dine in "ye publick eating places."

Though this law did not cover the evening meal of the Sabbath, the colonists protested against this and basing their arguments on the rights of the gourmet, demanded separation of dining hall and estate.

There had been previous protests. Several cups of tea were dumped in Boston harbor in opposition to the system. "No tea without lemon!" was the cry of the age.

Another practice of the king that the colonists attempted to have removed were the foreign appointments of royal packet punchers. Armed with the weapon of their profession, these men ruled over the dining places in the new world, though appointed by a king many thousand miles away.

One of the most stirring occurences in American history came about when Patrick Henry, a man of conviction, arose in the publick dining hall in Virginia and declared "Give me liberty or give me sirloin steak!"

The Monroe Doctrine was set forth by Grover Cleveland as a warning to European nations to stay out of our eating habits. Any nation already having a dining hall on the American continent could keep it, but no new ones would be tolerated.

North and South were torn with conflict over board contracts. The battle was solved temporarily when the Missouri compromise set aside certain states as slave states, where citizens had to eat in the State dining hall. All others were free.

With the issuing of the Emancipation Proclamation, all men had the right to eat as they saw fit.

Recent history in this line of study was made by the New Deal. Whereas a recent French queen said "If they have no bread, let them eat in dining halls," the New Deal built the dining halls to let them eat in.

Final chapter in the long chain of events was the signing of the Atlantic Charter, guaranteeing to all "the right to eat in a dining hall of one's own choice . . ."

AN EVENING IN

The Fault, Dear Brutus

By DICK CASE

Editorial Page Writer

Late Tuesday evening, Edward R. Murrow sat in CBS-TV studio 8-H and quoted Shakespeare. "The fault, dear Brutus, is not in our stars, but in ourselves."

Behind his back on a line monitor, Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy speaketh: "Upon what meat doth this our Caesar feed that he is grown so great?" And, once again, the crisp, alert CBS commentator pulled on his gloves and prepared to prove a point.

The point: Something is wrong with Senator McCarthy.

Murrow's weekly "See It Now" has never been a show to shrink from controversial subjects. In fact, it is quite noted for its subjectivity. Tuesday's broadcast was a brillant piece of same. It has a definite attack on the Wisconsin senator but done in such taste and simplicity and sans temper, that a favorable impression was brought about.

Murrow's object was a decidedly editorial one. The point was proven by an excellent progression of film clips, documented proof and opinions of Murrow and his co-producer, Fred Friendly.

Murrow began his 30-minute documentary with a back-flash on some of McCarthy's speeches during the 1952 campaign when one day he stated that "the issue of Communism should not become a clash between political parties." Some weeks later, the senator was filmed during a talk when he argued that the Democrats had riddled their administration with Reds and proceeded to condemn the opposition party.

An obvious contradicition in policy, Murrow noted.

Noting that McCarthy sometimes had little concern for the truth when he went after a man, Murrow offered filmed documentary. The effect, in all cases, was a stinging, powerful right to the jaw by Ed Murrow who bobbed and weaved film and commentary, commentary and film toward his thesis that the fear generated by Joseph McCarthy is of great and wide danger to America.

John Smith in his armchair must have been knocked into thought. If so, Murrow would have accomplished his aim.

This being to say, as dramatically as possible, that the fault, dear Senator, is not in the investigations, but in yourself."

LETTERARY COMMENT

Merchant on Jacket Issue

March 8, 1954

Dear Mr. Meyer,

Congratulations on your fine article of March 3, 1954, concerning Varsity jackets. Your suggestions and observations are excellent, though difficult to carry out without the cooperation of the merchants of both the city and Marshall st. No one can prevent a merchant from selling a jacket, but it is possible to prevent the sale of emblems and letters. There are only four lettering companies in the city and they would most probably be willing to work with the University. By presenting a signed certificate from a coach, a Varsity letter might be sold, but only on such presentation.

It is possible for the athletic department to design a uniform jacket. Any jacket, no matter what the style or coloring, can be made up. We suggest that as associate sports editor, you encourage the coaches to design such a Varsity jacket, for a uniform jacket is the answer to your problem.

If a merchant could sell a reasonable number of these team jackets, it would be possible for him to restrict its sale only to team members, selling another Universjty jacket for the rest of the "Marshall Street Athletes" who wish to be associated with the University. Throughout the years, we have had only two calls for letters and our answer his been, "What sport and who's the coach?" This usually stops the student.

If the University wishes to stabilize Varsity jackets, our store would be more than glad to do its share. We are willing to stock any type, style, or color jacket, at a lower price than anyone else in the city, such a jacket to be sold to Varsity athletes only.

Sincerely yours,
Harvey L. Rumaner
Prop. LUND'S MEN'S Shop

SIGHTS ON SYRACUSE

FOOTPRINTS; KILROY '57; A LAMENT

By MILT SHEFTER

Footprint sights: Seems to be a general thought that the title, Footprints, was suggested by conditions which were influenced by that recent adversary against clean shoes—MUD.

• • •

The Footprints which were followed with thought stimulation sometimes ended in unusual situations. One person remarked at Dean Noble's house that a newspaper reporter, upon interviewing a noted Liberal, defined a Liberal as a radical with a wife and three kids.

• • •

Goon Laments: The two-headed ones have been crying for their activity keys, rightly earned, both from a financial and an activity standpoint. The ungarbled word is that a sum of moolah, $73 to be exact, is owed to the jewelers and only University red tape of one form or another has held up everything. Me thinks the people concerned might hurry things up a bit since promptness is a KEY to success.

• • •

Misty Sights: Among the many who saw the "Glenn Miller Story," were a couple of cold-hearts who snickered at their friends who told of an emotional sort of ending to the picture. Despite the tenderness of it all, we couldn't help but wonder how these same two developed such serious colds in the short interim of the picture. Who says that New Yorkers are cold?

• • •

Strange Occurrences Dept.: Although there was no premeditated thought behind it, it seemed funny to observe the program set-up on the TV show on which the Footprint speakers were interviewed. Drs. Davies and Homrighausen followed a fuse box demonstration and preceded a discussion on stone quarries. (Not the one in front of Machinery Hall). This was a case of being between stones and sparks in intellectual advancement. Dr. Fink was preceded by a children's story session. No doubt again a case of contrasting intellect.

• • •

The symbol picked by the Frosh of '57 for their Outer Spacian motiff, looks a lot like the once infamous Kilroy. In choosing such a general theme, the Frosh may have indicated an example of things to come. New fashion designs will be centered around air-tight features and pressure-proof mascara. And just imagine the top saying of the day "Naitram was here." Martian backwards).

• • •

Well, they're tearing it down, and there isn't a thing anyone can do about it. No more editorials or laments. Yates is doomed to make way for science. We looked around for a birds' nest or something else to use as a last story on the place, but the walls are empty and gray. And yet, the atmosphere around these somber pieces of mortar and stone isn't sad—rather happy to have served so many so well. And even in its destruction, it will serve again. Somehow, you can't say goodbye, for it'll live on in memory. Just say so-long, for now.

• • •

And now if you'll excuse us, we're going to try to round up the "Marshall St. Athletes"—for a doughnut dunking team.

IN THE HALLWAY

Parties in MSG

By ED HARDY

Men's student government assembly continues to roll along in high gear this semester, turning out many important pieces of legislation. Only elections at the beginning of next month with new blood in the assembly bring any hint of a slowdown.

Along with the bills passed this week came a bill rejected. Entitled the "MSG Political Bill," it was introduced last week by Sophomore Assemblyman Richard Koelling and was designed specifically to allow names of political parties to appear on the ballots in support of assemblymen in their election.

Koelling felt that at present there is no direct responsibility for the actions of men's student government. He saw "a decided need for such a responsibility if the assembly is to be a democratically functioning and representative body.

"There is a lack of individual initiative in connection with the recruiting of candidates for the MSG assembly," Koelling said in his original bill presented to the assembly. He cited the effectiveness of campus political parties in putting up candidates for student offices as a reason for wanting party backing for reps.

The bill was considered by Robert Garver's organizations panel, which recommended that the assembly reject it. "After the present organization setup becomes firmly established, then perhaps the bill would be favorably received," Garver told the assembly. MSG's task now is to build prestige, he added.

The assembly seemed to agree with the panel report. One man suggested that under such an act parties might put up candidates just for the sake of putting them up.

It might be pointed out too that political parties already have the power to select and support MSG candidates by campaigning if they desire. This was legalized by interpretation of the assembly elections act, passed last year. The only actual restriction imposed by the current ruling is that no names of parties may be associated with names on the ballots.

The assembly's action on this bill seems to show that the legislators this year are thinking—not only for the good of themselves, but for the good of student government.

ST PATRICK'S DAY
MARCH 17
A GREAT DAY FOR THE IRISH
Special
BIRTHDAY CARD
ST. PAT GREETINGS
The Hill Bookstall
147 Marshall Street
Opp. University Hospital

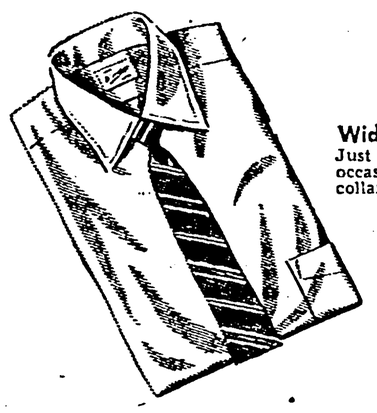
COUNSELORS — CAMP ADVENTURE

Men and women, 20, for positions in fine co-educational camp, Ridgefield, Conn. 65 miles from New York City. Athletics, General, Waterfront, Archery, Riftery, Fencing, Group Heads, Working Couples.

INTERVIEWS, TUESDAY, MARCH 16th, 2 to 4:30 p.m.

Appointments for Interview may be arranged with Miss Dorothy Osborn, Placement Director, Women's Building, Comstock Avenue.

Collar Styles
by MANHATTAN



Wide Spread Collar
Just the shirt for dressy occasions. Comes with collar stays.

Pointed Button Down
This is the one you wear at those informal times.

Round Collar
Here is the collegiate shirt; can be worn with either a suit or a sport jacket.

$4.50 each

This family of collar styles in beautiful oxfords, suited for all occasions. Available in white, pink, blue, tan and green and in all sizes. Also available in a Round Collar Button Down.

WELLS & COVERLY
So. Salina St. • Syracuse

COPY: FRED ROBBINS

Phi Delts, Deacons Vie for Hoop Title

Phi Delt Tops Theta Chi, 40-28 For Greek Intra Championship

By EV MURCH

The Deacons and Phi Delts last night earned the right to oppose each other in the all-University basketball championship game by knocking off Skytop M-2 and Theta Chi, respectively, to win the independent and fraternity titles.

The Deacons earned their crown the hard way, fighting a nip-and-tuck battle with M-2 that ended in a tight 42-40 victory.

BOTH TEAMS scrapped hard for every point and the pressure type of play resulted in numerous fouls. The Deacons were caught 26 times and M-2, 20.

The big factor in the win was the great ball possession game played in the final quarter by the winners. Leading at times only by scant margins, they kept the ball out of reach of M-2 until someone was open for an easy shot.

Sig and Gunnar Wirth and Ron Mantley proved themselves masters in this style of play, whipping the ball around and putting on some wonderful dribbling shows. Lyle Roberts of the losers continued the fine play which governed his selection for the independent all-star squad, giving the Deacons a hard time with his driving lay-ups and splendid ball-hawking.

IN THE fraternity championship game, the Phi Delta Theta found the going a little less rough as they disposed of Theta Chi, 40-28.

After being held to a low 14-11 lead at the half, the Phi Delts exploded for 18 points in the third quarter as compared to 11 for Theta Chi, and went on to easy victory.

Theta Chi hurt their own chances no end in the first half when they missed 13 of 14 foul tries. With a number of opportunities to get back in the game they continually fell down at the charity stripe and when they finally regained their form Phi Delta Theta was out of reach.

Don Moller of the losers was, without a doubt, the outstanding player on the floor. Jumping center he continually took the tap from much taller men, as a ball-hawk he stole a large number of dribbles and intercepted almost as many passes, and in the scoring column was tops with 11 points.

Sig Seiber also hit for 11 for the Phi Delts and was a tower of strength off the boards. Ron Tyler came next with 10 points, while John Kerr played outstanding ball throughout the game and garnered 6 points, all on foul shots.

ORANGE OPPONENTS

The Cornell university basketball team, beaten twice in regular season play by the Orange cagers, won the Ivy league championship Tuesday night by nipping Princeton, 46-44.

The victory over the Tigers was in a playoff game for the league title at Philadelphia. The win gave the Big Red their first Ivy league crown in 30 years.

Six Champs Defend Swimming Trophies In NCAA Tourney

Six defending champions and two former titleholders will be among the hundreds of swimmers taking part in the 31st annual National Collegiate Swim Championships to be held in the Orange Pool March 25-27.

Heading the list of returning champs is Yoshi Oyakawa of Ohio State, a backstroker who captured both the 100 and 200-yard events in last year's NCAA meet. The Hawaiian is also an Olympic champion, having won the 100-meter event in the 1952 games.

JERRY HARRISON, another Buckeye, will attempt to retain his diving title, while two Michigan stars, Burwell (Bumpy) Jones and Don Hill will be back to defend their 150-yard individual medley and 50-yard sprint crowns.

Other defending title-holders are Johnny Clemons of Illinois who won the 100-yard event last year, and Reid Patterson from the University of Georgia who captured the 100-yard free-style race.

Two 1952 stars who failed to win crowns last season will be attempting to re-capture their titles. Ford Konno hopes to repeat his victories in the 1500-meter and the 440-yard freestyle, while Dick Cleveland will be seeking a win in the 50-yard sprint. Both boys are from Ohio State.

Ohio State which finished second in last season's NCAA's, is favored to capture team honors this season since defending champion Yale has lost some of its top performers. However, Yale and Michigan should give the Buckeyes a tough battle for top honors.

FINALS IN all events in the Orange Pool will be held each night of the tournament, with preliminaries being conducted in the morning and semi-finals in the afternoon.

The fine condition of the Orange Pool should result in the establishment of new world records in some of the events. The million-dollar structure is one of the fastest in the country.

Orange Wrestlers Compete in Tourney

Coach Joe McDaniel's varsity wrestlers leave today for Cornell, where they will participate in the annual Eastern Intercollegiate Wrestling tournament Friday and Saturday.

The Orange wrestlers aren't accorded any chance of winning the tourney, but they can attain a fairly respectable ranking on the strength of co-Captain Ed Rooney's performance in the round-robin competition.

Team scoring is based on individual performances during the eliminating rounds as well as final position of the individual. Six, four, two and one point(s) are given to first, second, third and fourth place winners respectively, in each weight division.

However, one point is awarded a team for each time one of its members wins a qualifying match by a pin. Thus, when a team boasts a wrestler, like Syracuse does Rooney, who is a "pinner," each qualifying match has a two-fold importance.

Rooney won four of the eight dual matches this season by pins, and was robbed of falls in two others by time running out when he had a pinning hold on his opponent.

WAER PROGRAM SCHEDULE

WAER News
Symphonic Matinee
Musical Heritage
This I Believe
...—Distaff Digest
5:15—Dinner Date
6:15—WAER News
6:25—Evening Showcase
6:35—WAER Sports Lineup
6:45—Steps to Peace
7:00—Keyboard Concert
7:30—Poet and His Song
7:45—Torchbearers
8:00—Evening With Music
9:00—WAER News
9:05—Voices in the Night
9:30—Night at the Pops
10:00—Final Edition—News
10:10—Final Edition—Sports

The Time Is Now!
for
Watch - Clock - Jewelry
Repairing
College
Jewelry Shop
703 S. Crouse Ph. 4-9062

Army Artillery

UNDEFEATED FRANK HICKS of West Point is considered the outstanding contender for the heavyweight title this weekend in the Eastern boxing tourney at Virginia. Syracuse has won the team title the past five years, but a strong Penn State squad is set to challenge the Orange supremacy.

Saltine Boxers Invade Virginia for Easterns

The Syracuse university boxing team left by plane for Charlottesville, Virginia this morning to defend their team title in the Eastern boxing tourney scheduled for Friday and Saturday.

Although the Orange boxers have captured the title the past five years, Coach Roy Simmons feels that his charges can only be accorded co-favorite with the rampant Penn State pugilists in the tourney this year.

SIMMIE FEELS Syracuse will need three champions in the eight weight divisions to retain the title, or two champs and at least two other boxers in the finals. He likewise feels that Penn State has two definite champions on paper and two other boys who will probably reach the finals.

Leading the eight Orange boxers in this weekend's competition will be undefeated John Granger and Vince Rigolosi. Granger looks to be the class of the tourney at 139-pounds while Rigger is the favorite to capture the 165-pound title.

The Orange lineup will be the same as shut out weak CCNY last weekend. Frank Guelli will be at 125 pounds, Jerry "The Spoiler" Jaffe at 132, Granger at 139, Art Nelson at 147, Larry O'Sullivan at 156, Rigolosi at 165, Bruce Yancey at 178 and Sam Alexander at heavy.

The hopes of the Orange seem to rest on the shoulders of The Spoiler. Simmie feels that the 132-pound class is the most wide open in the tourney with any of the 6 contenders accorded a chance for the crown. Jaffe, sporting a 5-1 record, seems the man to beat.

IF HE can capture the crown, and defending champs Granger and Rigolosi come through in their customary style, the Orange will have an excellent chance of winning number six.

Outstanding contenders at 125-pounds are undefeated Gary Gerber of Maryland and Bill Banerdt of Virginia, with Guelli of the Orange rated the dark-horse. The Syracusan drew with Banerdt and lost a close decision to Garber during the past dual season.

Aside from the shifty Jaffe, undefeated Bob Rush of Virginia, Guido Capri of Maryland and rugged Harry Papacharlambous are given strong chances of taking the 132-pound title.

Granger is expected to win the 139-pound title without breaking a sweat while Jackie Stokes of Penn State is expected to walk away with the 147-pound crown. Undefeated Pete Potter of Virginia and Don Rundle of Army are logical favorites at 155 pounds.

Rigolosi is the favorite at 165-pounds but will get stern competition from Penn State's Frank Breidor and Maryland's Bill McInnis. The third defending champ, Penn State's Adam Kois is the favorite at 178-pounds, but Ron Rhodes, the pride and joy of Maryland has to be accorded a strong chance of upsetting the apple cart, as does Syracuse's Bruce Yancey with any luck.

Undefeated Frank Hicks of Army looks like the top in the heavy class, but reports from Penn State swear by newcomer Joe Golman who took over for Frank Della Penna last month in the Nittany Lion lineup.

INTRA FOUL SHOOTING

The annual university intramural foul shooting contest will be staged this Saturday at 2 p.m. in Archbold gym.

All entries must be submitted to Milt Howard in the Intramural office not later than noon tomorrow.

Intra Hoop Final Opens Action Followed by All-Star Contest

By AL GEFEN

The stage is set for the steller attraction of the intramural basketball season. In the opening game of tonight's action-packed twin bill, Phi Delta Theta, fraternity champions, will meet the Deacons, victors in the independent-living center division. This contest will start at 6:30 p.m.

In the second contest, 20 outstanding players will see action in the all-star game, sponsored by the Daily Orange. The two squads of ten players apiece were picked by a vote of The Daily Orange freshmen sports writers and the staff of intramural referees.

FOOTBALLER HERB STEIGLER is expected to control the backboards for the fraternity all-stars against the independent all-stars in their annual clash tonight in Archbold gym.

WITH FOUR members of the varsity hoop team coaching the teams, the fans should witness an exciting and tightly-played game. Mel Besdin and Dick Jaskot will direct the play of the fraternity quintet, while Lou Beverly and Billy Nelson will serve as co-coaches of the independent five.

The Phi Delt-Deacons contest will feature the fast-breaking attack of the fraternity five pitted against the ball-control style of play of the independent titlists. After their comparatively easy victory last night over Theta Chi, the Phi Delts rate as slight favorites to win.

The all-University title will be on the line in the initial contest. The winner of this game will receive a trophy symbolizing supremacy in intramural basketball for the 1953-54 season.

Coaches Besdin and Jaskot of the fraternity all-star team plan to employ the two platoon system. They are counting upon substituting these platoons freely in an attempt to wear down their opponents. A fast-break will feature the fraternity attack.

THE INDEPENDENT five, hindered by the lack of height, also plans to employ a fast break. Co-coaches Beverly and Nelson also expect to substitute frequently, but do not plan to use the two-platoon system.

With a definite height advantage, the fraternity quintet should enter the contest as heavy favorites. The game is expected to commence at approximately 8 p.m.

A board of four experts will choose the most valuable player of the game. This player will receive several outstanding gifts which have been donated by leading Syracuse merchants.

A set of initialed cuff links, donated by Lund's Men's shop, an album of records, "Syracuse Sings" given through the courtesy of Olmsted's, a Palmolive Shaving kit, donated by Young's Pharmacy, and a beer mug, given by the Hill Smoke shop, will be awarded to the most valuable player of the game.

All-University Championship tilt

Phi Delta Theta		Deacons
Kerr	F	Bratt
Beattie	F	G. Wirth
Seiber	C	Gordon
Coyne	G	Mantley
Tyler	G	Melana

Substitutes: Phi Delt—Newi, McCall, Daly, Ackley and Esmay. Deacons—S. Wirth and MacRae.

ALL-STAR GAME

Fraternity Team
Hadjis, Phi Kappa Psi	F
Kline, Sigma Alpha Mu	F
Steigler, Beta Theta Pi	C
Ford, Sigma Alpha Epsilon	G
Seiber, Phi Delta Theta	G
Independent Team
G. Wirth, Deacons	F
Mantley, Deacons	F
Bratt, Deacons	C
Conklin, Alfred Smith	G
Roberts, Skytop M-2	G

Substitutes: Fraternity—Williams, Tau Delta Phi; Wombold, Sigma Chi; Kukowski and Kyll, Delta Kappa Epsilon; and Moller, Theta Chi. Independent—Stauffer, M-1; Reid and Winters, M-10; Ripp, Irving D-1-3; and Gordon, Deacons.

Syracuse Gymnasts Await Easterns

Six members of Coach Paul Romeo's gymnastic squad will leave today for Philadelphia for the Eastern Gymnastic league individual championships. Temple will host the two-day competition which will begin tomorrow afternoon and conclude Saturday afternoon.

Co-Captains John Barkal and Ferdie Fournies will lead the Hillmen into action. Dan Traficante, Corky Sebbo, Milan Trnka and Andy Felice are the other members of the squad who will make the trip.

BARKAL AND Trnka will be the Syracuse entrants in the all-around competition. This will mark the first time this year that these two capable Piety gymnasts have been called upon to participate in all events.

Sebbo will be a strong favorite to repeat as Eastern champion in tumbling. He is the chief Orange hope to come back with an individual title.

Trnka in the horizontal bar and Fournies in the flying rings are rated good chances of winning their respective events. They will, however, have to roll up their best scores of the season to outdo their rival participants.

The remaining Syracuse entrants likely will not win titles, but are expected to be high in the final standings of the events they will participate in.

Coach Romeo left for Philadelphia ahead of the team in order to witness the Eastern High School gymnastic competition and get a line on possible prospects for admittance on the Hill.

INTRA BOWLING RESULTS

SAE 9, DU 0.

Army Comptrollers 9, Skytop M-4 0.

Along the Sidelines

By KEN LENT, DAILY ORANGE SPORTS EDITOR

"Only 6 weeks until we sink the Navy," says a sign currently on the crew room blackboard. The words reflect the spirit with which the Syracuse crew is attacking what is its toughest schedule in years.

Saturday, if the weather is right, Gus Erickson's boys plan to break water for the first time this year on Lake Onondaga. No one has to tell them that they must put all their energy and heart for the next 38 days.

Nevertheless, the Orange view is unusually optimistic. There looks to be a complete shakeup from last year's varsity which finished ninth out of 11 in the Intercollegiate Regatta.

Two men, '53 captain Dave Dibble and Sam MacFadden, are the only graduation losses from the No. 1 shell. Freshman coach Vic "Mike" Michalson reports that enough frosh are out to take care of three and a half boatloads. The spirit has never been better.

The first foe, Navy, is enough to give any crew coach nightmares. Like a Hoover vacuum cleaner, the Middies have swept everything in sight.

The Annapolis boys are working on the longest winning streak in United States inter-collegiate rowing history. They have now 20 victories including a modest collection of titles including two Eastern sprint crowns, two Regatta victories and the world Olympic championship.

Rowing enthusiasts almost to a man agree that the streak will be lengthened in 1954. Navy Coach Rusty Callow lost only two men from last year's champions which shouldn't be too hard to replace. He has six boatloads to work with.

When asked about this season, Callow answered, "The chances of Navy's varsity winning a few more races depend upon whether the seniors sustain their enthusiasm.' Not whether they're good enough, but whether they have enough spirit. Sometimes the hardest task of a coach is to keep a winning team from lapsing into a lackadaisical attitude.

It is this team which Syracuse will be pitted against no less than four times. After the dual meet at Annapolis, the Middies travel up here to head a five-squad crew carnival on Lake Onondaga.Boston university, Cornell and midwest power Wisconsin are also racing.

Both Navy and Syracuse will be clashing in the Eastern Sprints on the Potomac and in the Regatta here. The Orangemen also travel to Cornell one weekend for the Carnegie Cup races against the Big Red, Princeton and Yale.

That briefly is the "suicide" schedule. Syracuse is hitting the big time in the world of blade-benders too.

* * * * *

Russia, after claiming credit for most of the world's best inventions, has started on a sports record. A United Press story out of Stockholm tells that the U.S.S.R. recently claimed a world's record in the men's 400-yard medley relay.

The accepted mark is the one made by Yale last year in 3:57.1 Russia says its swimmers are 5.1 seconds better. There's only one fly in the ointment. The 400-yard medley is an entirely new event almost unknown in America. Most medley races are still 300 yards.

Just give the United States a chance to break records, Russia. When better records are broken, the United States will break them.

ORANGE SLICES: Former boxer and trackman Tom Coulter has been reported ill in an Army hospital . . . Ed Rooney will probably be the only Orangeman to get as far as the finals in wrestling's Easterns this weekend . . . Dean of Public Relations Ken Bartlett will be the toastmaster at the Block S banquet later this month . . . The Syracuse Chiefs, who go in training soon, are reported to have a hustling, crowd-pleasing team.

ORANGE ADIEU

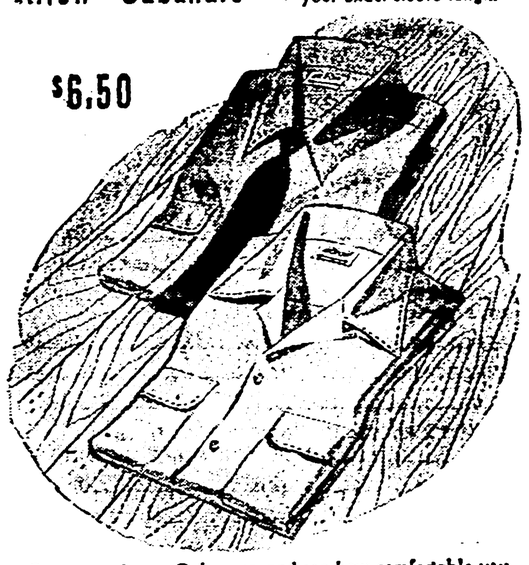
When Syracuse shut out the CCNY boxers last weekend, three members of the Orange team, seniors Vince Rigolosi, Bruce Yancey and Larry O'Sullivan were fighting their last bout here.

Europe in 1954
Outstanding 47 to 49 day personally escorted Eight Country Tourist and Cabin Class Tours. ALL EXPENSES, only $1295 up—Finest All First Class LUXURY TOURS, 47 to 70 days $1875 up. Frequent sailings Mar. thru Sept. in QUEEN ELIZABETH or MARY. Small parties. Don't delay! Write now for free booklets, or phone
DUFFY TRAVEL SERVICE
Hotel Onondaga

Complete Optical Service
Optometric Eye Examinations
Glasses in Latest Styles
Broken Lenses and Frames Replaced Promptly
Lindemer
for glasses
Optometrists Opticians
440 SOUTH WARREN ST.
Phone 74-4244

YOUR OFFICIAL SYRACUSE UNIVERSITY CLASS RING
Class Rings
A LASTING MEMENTO OF YOUR COLLEGE DAYS — A RING YOU'LL WEAR and BE PROUD OF— A SYMBOL OF ACHIEVEMENT
UNIVERSITY BOOKSTORE
903 University Place

3 Speed Electric —Play: All Record
BEAM Portable PHONOGRAPH
Powerful speaker and long life needle give full tone reproduction. Convenient alligator grain case.
19.95
$1 Weekly
Rudolph's
DEPENDABLE JEWELERS SINCE 1906
CORNER SOUTH SALINA AT EAST JEFFERSON STS.
Expert Watch and Jewelry Repair Service

EDWARD'S
fits you for a life of ease...
Arrow "Gabanaro"
• in your exact collar size
• your exact sleeve length
$6.50


Try on an Arrow Gabanaro and see how comfortable you can get—how smart-looking, too. Gabanaro's the trimmer, neater-fitting sports shirt—with the free 'n' easy Arafold collar that looks and feels great . . . worn open, closed, with or without a tie. Tell us your exact collar size, your exact sleeve length—and let us fit you to an Arrow Gabanaro from our huge selection of colors.
S. SALINA STREET

Collegians Bowled Over—Say "Arrow GABANARO Fits Perfectly"
Sports Shirts Feature Exact Collar Sizes and Sleeve Lengths

According to college men, Arrow "Gabanaro" is the best-fitting sports shirt on this and every campus — with built-in comfort . . . neater, smarter lines. "Gabanaro" features a wide range of colors in washable rayon gabardine.
ARROW
TRADE MARK
SHIRTS • TIES • UNDERWEAR • HANDKERCHIEFS • SPORTSWEAR

Student Budget Bill Passed by Assembly

By EILEEN CHAMBERLAIN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Women's student government assembly endorsed student administration of funds for campus organizations last night when they voted in the Student Activities Budget bill passed Tuesday evening by men legislators.

The bill provides for appropriation of funds for many Hill organizations through student government. Ways and Means Panel Chairman Marilyn Murtha explained to the assembly that the budget bill is an old issue which has recently been streamlined for more effective action.

Coed legislators also approved the Independence party, newest campus political group, after Co-chairman Philip Sperry told them its primary aim is "getting independents interested in campus politics." Party organizers call the Independence party the only purely democratic campus party. It aims to provide equal representation for all students.

An amendment to the WSG Elections act providing for freshman elections between Oct. 28 and Nov. 15 of any year was also carried by the assembly last night. This change was introduced by Elizabeth Bowman to coordinate the WSG regulation with that of men's student government.

Final approval was given to a plan for inviting all head residents to attend the WSG meeting scheduled for Wednesday, March 31. Public Relations Panel Chairman Dorianne Bright presented the plan as an outgrowth of curiosity of many head residents to know what role women legislators play in campus government.

The budget act goes into effect April 7 and coincides with campus elections. It provides for administration of organization finances through a budget board composed of seven members.

Administrators will be MSG and WSG presidents, the two Civil Service commissioners, MSG and WSG chairmen of Ways and Means panels and the dean of student services, who is at present Frank P. Piskor.

Following the budget decision of an organization in the future, its plan will be presented to an MSG-WSG Civil Service board and then to the Budget board for approval. From the board the budget proposal will go to the administration.

Following administration approval the budget will be reported to MSG and WSG assemblies and funds will be appropriated out of government finances for the organization.

Grad Students Plan Discussion on Music

During the regular weekly gathering of graduate students, from 7:30 to 11 p.m., today in the Colonial room of Hendrick's chapel, the second in a series of informal discussions on the "Value and Effects of Music on Our Minds and Emotions" will be held.

Dr. Arnold Cronk and Dr. Alexander Capruso will be on the panel, with Dr. John Wong as moderator. The discussion part of the program is scheduled for 9 p.m.

Refreshments will be served before and after the session.

PARAMOUNT
JAMES STEWART
JUNE ALLYSON
"The GLENN MILLER STORY"
Technicolor
Also "BLACK FURY" in color

Now MIDTOWN Open 6:30 P.M.
LOUIS de ROCHEMONT presents
Martin Luther
A MAGNIFICENT MOTION PICTURE FOR OUR TIME!

ECKEL NOW
The J. Arthur Rank Organization presents
'Genevieve'
starring Dinah Sheridan, John Gregson, Kay Kendall, Kenneth More
color by TECHNICOLOR

Fraternities and Sororities
—for—
"distinctive photography at moderate prices"
Call
Jones & Kibby
700 University Ave. Ph. 4-9416

CLASSIFIED ADS

IMPORTANT NOTICE—CLASSIFIED ADS to appear in this paper should be DELIVERED at the HELLBOX Classified desk between 1 and 3 p. m. NO ADS WILL BE ACCEPTED AFTER 3. ALL ADS MUST BE IN 2 DAYS IN ADVANCE. For further information call 4-7206.

ALL LOST ARTICLES should be turned into the CENTRAL LOST AND FOUND ROOM, 20 Bldg. 24 at 205 University Pl. Articles can be claimed there.

AUTO DRIVING INSTRUCTION. Learn to drive easily, correctly and safely. Call Upstate Auto Driving School. Phone 8-4040.

TYPEWRITERS RENTED: $3.00 per month, $8 3 months. Good selection. We deliver, Smith Brothers. 4-8833.

Typewriters rentals—New Models Reasonable Rates—Expert Service, All Makes—CORNER STORE.

SUMMER DAY camp counselors. Two men, one woman. Salary depends on experience. Weekends free. May live in. Elmcrest Children's Center. 72-4496.

SALE: Oldsmobile '41 Coupe, with hydromatic drive. A-1 condition. 49,000 mileage. Has been a second car. Good tires. New battery. Call 76-8203 to inspect on campus. $140.

PONTIAC COUPE 1940, radio & heater, good condition, $150. Phone 74-4651 between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. after 5 p.m. 72-2405.

WANTED: Ride to Boston. Monday afternoon or evening. Will pay for transportation, 4-7206 between 1-3 p.m.

BUICK, 1950. 4-door, Super Riviere. Top condition, dynaflow, fully equipped. Two cars, must sell one, 108 Winchell Road. University Heights, 75-4226.

EXPERT TYPING done in my home. 4-4220. Mrs. E. Garelick.

WANT LARGE UNFURNISHED ROOM: store or studio, few days a month by photographer. Arnold Marsa. 76-4411 ext. 2153. 72-4754 after 7 p.m.

LOST: ID Bracelet; Lee Phillips inscribed, Call Betty 4-9815.

FOR SALE: Remington Portable Typewriter. Call 75-0215 after 7 p.m.

1941 DeSoto Convertible, Fluid drive, Good running. Reasonable. 8-4175.

IMMEDIATE OPENING—Sales work for clean cut young man, 25-35, to show nationally advertised fine table settings. Under consultant direction of Emily Post. Car necessary. Complete training and all equipment our expense. For interview call Mrs. Young, 8-1196.

Welcome '58

SHOWN DISCUSSING plans for Sub-frosh day this Saturday are MARY LOU STEIGERWALD, DICK KOELLING, JOHN SALES, and JANET LEMP, co-chairmen of the affair. They are in charge of the program designed to acquaint local high school students with life on the Syracuse campus.

Sub-frosh to Learn Of Life on Campus

Tours, Convo, Dance Will Inform Visitors

What is less than a freshman? Answer: a sub-frosh.

High school students from the Central New York area will invade the Orange campus Saturday to find out beforehand what college life is like.

THE DAY is scheduled to give the high school students an overall glimpse of campus, including studies, activities and recreation.

Following 8:30 a.m. registration, the sub-frosh will be welcomed by Dean John S. Hafer and student government presidents Mary Anne Dalton and Stanley Leff in Maxwell auditorium.

Conferences with academic deans, Chapel convocation and campus tours will conclude the morning. After lunch in Shaw dining hall, the high school people will attend an assembly in the Women's building where they will have an opportunity to ask questions about campus activities.

STUDENT co-chairmen of the weekend are John Sales, Janet Lemp, Richard Koelling and Mary Lou Steigerwald, all members of city guides and city men's organization.

City guides in charge of the weekend are Janet Jordan, Sheri Goodrich, Cynthia Overton, Martha Allen, Ann MacKaig, Sue Hungerford, Lois MacCrae, Mary Ann Lana, Carol Campbell and Dolores Hytron.

Also Hollis Strong, Susan Brooks, Ann Hamilton, Carmella Brescia, Barbara Witter, Barbara Bushnell and Sally Soper.

GUADALAJARA SUMMER SCHOOL

The accredited bilingual summer school sponsored by the Universidad Autonoma de Guadalajara and members of the Stanford University faculty will be offered in Guadalajara, Mexicol, June 27-August 7. Offerings include art, creative writing, folklore, geography, history, language and literature courses. $225 covers six-weeks tuition, board and room. Write Prof. Juan B. Rael, Box K, Stanford University, California.

Dormitories . . .

(Continued from page 1)

April 6; seniors, April 7; juniors, April 8.

All other living centers and prefabs on Irving ave. and at Collendale; seniors, April 9; juniors, April 12; sophomores, April 13.

APPLICATIONS WILL be accepted for specific dormitories and with class preference only until April 13. After that date assignments will be made in the order of application.

Completed applications, which will be available through resident advisors and proctors or in the office of the dean of men, should be turned in on the appropriate date to that office.

Assignment to the specific room will be made upon presentation of an application. Actual IBM assignments will be made in mid-July, with students receiving these at home.

Room assignments will be made up to August 1 without penalty. Cancellations after that date will result in the forfeit of the $25 room deposit.

GRADUATE STUDENTS, who are not restricted as to housing may apply for University housing starting March 29.

If two or more students of different class status wish to room together, assignment will be made in the lowest class preference in the group.

Approved lists of private housing will be available to juniors, seniors and graduate students beginning April 22. Any student making arrangements with a private householder before that date must check the list to be certain the home is approved for the coming academic year, Buckle said.

Silverman Leads Physics Colloquium

Dr. Searl J. Silverman will be the speaker at the Physics colloquium today at 4:00 p.m. in 106 Steele. His topic of discussion is "The Electrical Properties of Single Crystals and Thin Films."

Students are invited to a tea which will precede the meeting at 3:30 p.m. in the library of Steele.

SHOP WHERE THE COLLEGE SHOPS
OLMSTED'S
POP PARADE

• THE LATEST HITS BY TOP ARTISTS •

A GIRL, A GIRL ---------- Eddie Fisher
THE KID'S LAST FIGHT ---------- Frankie Lane
A SALUTE TO GLENN MILLER ---------- PART I
(Songs Featured In "The Glenn Miller Story")
LOST LOVELINESS ---------- Doris Day
WAY PAESANO ---------- Al Martino
SOUTH ---------- Les Paul
YOU DIDN'T WANT ME WHEN YOU HAD ME ---------- By THE MILLS BROTHERS
AMOUR ---------- Four Aces
WANTED ---------- Perry Como
THE SPARROW SINGS ---------- Vic Damone

OLMSTED'S
VICTROLA SHOP
754 S. CROUSE PHONE 4-7478

Spiritualist Discloses Future For Students

By JOAN NADELHAFT
Daily Orange Associate Editor

According to the spirit world, Syracuse is doomed to be without a Student Union as such for the next five years. And President Eisenhower will be president for another term.

At least, that's what Dr. Gerald Ralph Ceppi, spiritualist minister and reader, told an overflowing classroom in philosophy 150 Tuesday. Dr. Raymond F. Piper invited the medium to the class, and when the word got around students jammed the place.

THEY SAT on the floor to hear Dr. Ceppi answer questions for class members by communicating in the spirit world.

The students handed him slips of paper on which were written questions they wanted answered. Dr. Ceppi, who had been blindfolded by a member of the class took the slips of paper, and he asked for the person who had signed each one.

If a slip was signed with numbers, he asked for those numbers and then began to tell the person about the subject written on the paper. He could also distinguish when the color had been changed, as some students wrote on pink or blue paper.

He told Joanne Swalm the Campus Chest drive would conclude favorably for her, and told various students they would recover lost articles or take trips, or be married or evade the draft, or other things close to the hearts of students at Syracuse.

DR. CEPPI said afterwards that he teaches others to become psychic mediums, and takes classes no larger than ten people, "because I can only control the minds of so many people at once.

He also stated that if the students had difficulties in absorbing the material, he would come to them in their dreams and teach them that way.

Oh yes, he also said that a stranger from the southwest of campus whose name begins with an H will rise up from nowhere and assume the position in the drama department now held by a person whose name begins with F.

St. Patrick's Day Tickets Go on Sale

Tickets for the annual St. Patrick's day party at St. Thomas More chapel are now on sale co-chairmen Anthony Ponturiero and Shirley Lemax have announced.

The tickets, priced at 75 cents each, are available for committee and executive council members and at St. Thomas More.

Committee members are Judith Sliney and Helen Bowka, food; James Curley and Mary Lynn Miller, entertainment; John Babarovic and Rosemary Ferris, decorations; Sylvia Burger and Marie Basil, publicity; Thomas O'Sullivan and Jean Burns, tickets.

Applications Due For 1954 Marshals

Applications for college and class graduation marshals are now available for seniors from Miss Marian Houck, commencement secretary, 203 Administration building.

"Applicants should possess strong leadership abilities, in addition to an above average scholastic rating," Dean Edwin Smith, University marshal for undergraduates, said.

As in the past, selection of class and college marshals will be made on a merit basis by the University commencement committee. Deadline for applications is March 24.

For the Man Who Takes Pride in the Individuality of His WARDROBE

REVERSIBLE VESTS
LINEN STYLE SOLID On One Side
TARTAN PLAID On The Other
COMPLIMENTS YOUR ENTIRE WARDROBE
SIZES 36-44
"Charge it"
$8.95
THE WARDROBE MEN'S SHOP
337 SO. WARREN ST. opp. HOTEL ONON. on WARREN
SYRACUSE'S PROGRESSIVE MEN'S SHOP

College Quiz . . .

(Continued from page 1)

Phi Beta Kappa, is active in Campus Chest and a member of the Onondagan staff.

Beach, a past president of Orange Key, is currently president of the senior class and a member of Phi Beta Kappa. Raymond Guenter, chief justice of the men's student court, is a former chairman of the MSG organizations panel and has been active in campus politics.

Pi Phi Announces Officers, Pledges

Pi Beta Phi, social sorority, announces the following officers for the spring semester; Marian Geipel, president; Betsy Weilbacher, vice-president; Polly Ambrister, secretary; and Lynna Stephens, treasurer.

The following pledges are also announced: Gale Apman, Janet Battenfeld, Jan Beamer, Jeanne Clark, Charlotte Cushing, Betsy Greeman, Trudy Hammond, Alice Hotchkiss, Betsy Noone, Carol Osborne, Kay Senderowitz, Alice Skahen. Prue Smith, Julie Tanner, Barbara Traynor, Mary Lu Turner, Jackie Clark, Anne Marie Kupfer, and Carol Roice.

CAMPUS NOTICES

Daily Chapel, noon to 12:20 p.m., Dean Noble will speak.

Student-faculty tea, 4-5 p.m., Alumni lounge, Women's bldg.

WAA blazer sale today in the women's building, third floor in WAA board room. Fittings will be taken between 1-2, 4-5 p.m.

WAA lower house, meeting, 4:30 p.m., today, 207 HL.

Blanks for registration of campus organizations may still be obtained at MSG and WSG offices or from Jerome Gerber, Tau Delta Phi, or Lois Clark, Alpha Phi.

All sophomores in the USP interested in applying for unior class officers must have applications in by 5 p.m., tomorrow to Frances Feuerstein, Shaw dorm. Include name, phone, address, ideas for class, previous experience and activities. Yesterday's DO had a misprint. There is no meeting for USP sophs, just applications due Friday.

Rowing club meeting, 8 p.m., Phi Gamma Delta, 732 Comstock ave. Freshman and varsity team members invited.

All chairmen of committees of the Holy Name society and Blessed Virgin Mary Sodality of St. Thomas More chapel should hand in recommendations for successors by tomorrow.

Dress rehearsal for SU Revue, 7 p.m., dance studio in Women's building.

Judging for the Queen of the Annual Engineers ball will be held at 7 p.m. today in Maxwell auditorium. Contestants are asked to wear sweaters and skirts, and to bring their application blank.

USP, rep meeting, 7:30 p.m., Alpha Delta Pi.

Independence party, meeting, 7:30 p.m., 303 Maxwell.

Daily Orange business staff meeting, 2 p.m., today and tomorrow, Hellbox.

Yacht club exec meeting, 5 p.m., women's lounge of men's gym.

Yacht club shore school and team, meeting, 7 p.m., HL.

Anyone interested in working on the promotions committee for "Up in Lights", should contact Sandra Elster, 76-2186 or Maria Heitz, 4-9450.

Soph Exec council meeting, 9 p.m., Sigma Delta Tau.

The following are assigned to work at the Daily Orange today: Afternoon: George Meek, Irene Nowikas, Eileen Chamberlain, Joanne Hess, Pete McNally. Night: Pearl Bernstein, Polly Reed, Grace Frary, Carol Gooter, Joanne Stern, Myrna Lictman.

Campus Chest chairmen meeting, 7:15 p.m. 305 Women's building. Discussion of reports, keys and party.

American Marketing association, meeting, 7:15 p.m., 117 Lyman. Movies will be shown.

Philosophy club, 7:30 p.m., Lowe Art center. Discussion of Thomism.

Hy Kassel

Says Don't Wait Buy Now and Save $15 to $30 on each and every SUIT or TOPCOAT Sportcoats $18.90

Biggest Clothing Bargain In History
1/2 Price Sale
Any Suit Topcoat or Overcoat 1/2 Price

New Spring Slacks $5.95

GIGANTIC BARGAINS!
Newest spring arrivals included in this amazing SALE! Hurry down tomorrow for the Savings.

SUITS and TOPCOATS 2 For 1 Price

Hy Kassel's
UPSTAIRS
309 South Warren St.
Open Monday & Friday Nights

REGENT
ON OUR HUGE NEW MAGNAVUE SCREEN
THURS.—SAT.
Tony Curtis / Joanne Dru
"FORBIDDEN"
also
Joel McCrea Yvonne DeCarlo
"BORDER RIVER"
Color by Technicolor

A FRIENDLY PLACE FOR FRIENDLY PEOPLE
OUR SPECIALS DAILY:
A 1/4 lb. of Ground Round Steak (on a home made roll) ---------- 25c
A 3/4 lb. T-Bone Steak (U. S. Choice Beef) ---------- $1.50
482 SOUTH SALNA STREET Inc.
(Formerly the Turf)

NEW YORK'S FINEST RESTAURANTS AND NIGHT CLUBS
WELCOME SYRACUSE PATRONAGE!

Seafood is always the ANCHOR
200 W. 57th at 7th AVE
STEAKS & CHOPS TOO!
CI. 6-4107
LUNCHEON - COCKTAILS
DINNER - AFTER THEATRE
7 DAYS A WEEK

Different
86th STREET Brauhaus
BAVARIAN CABARET
E. 86TH ST. bet. 2nd & 3rd Aves.

New York's Most Exciting
FOOD & MUSIC
DINNER SERVED FROM 5 P.M.
MUSIC TILL 4 A.M.
MEMBER DINERS' CLUB
NO 20% TAX
EMBERS
161 EAST 54TH ST. PL. 9-3228

OVERSTUFFED SANDWICHES
AFTER THE SHOW---TOODLE ON OVER TO Arthur Maisel's
FLORIDIAN
DELICATESSEN-RESTAURANT
BROADWAY AT 51ST ST.
At the Top of Times Square
AND FABULOUS DESSERTS

Say La Vie—The Place to be
FOR DINNER AFTER THEATRE AND REAL LATE
MONTE PROSER'S
La Vie en Rose
123 E. 54th • MU8-8420

WORLD'S MOST FAMOUS BALLROOM • CAFE • COCKTAIL LOUNGE
ROSELAND
BROADWAY at 51

NEW YORK'S FINEST
Authentic! Exotic!
ORIENTAL CUISINE
Chen's SINGAPORE
Dinner - Supper
Diners' Club
ATOP WINTER GARDEN THEATRE
BROADWAY at 50th STREET

Dine and Dance
BEFORE & AFTER THEATRE
FREE PARKING FOR SHOW-GOING PATRONS
OPEN ALL YEAR in CENTRAL PARK
Tavern ON THE GREEN
SChuyler 4-9100
W. 67TH ST. ENTRANCE

GEORGE WHITE
"NICE TO SEE YOU"
by JACK YELLEN • IRVING CAESAR • GEORGE WHITE
NIGHTLY AT DINNER AND SUPPER
Versailles
151 EAST 50TH • PL 8-0810
EXTRA LATE SHOWS FRI & SAT

IT'S A LOTTA FUN!
with LARRY McMAHON
"your singing host"
3 floor shows nitely
HAL GRAHAM orch.
no cover charge
Village Barn
52 WEST 8TH ST. • GR 7-4687
GREENWICH VILLAGE, U.S.A.

Freshman Weekend Edition

Syracuse Daily Orange

Vol. 51, No. 88 | Syracuse, N. Y., Friday, March 12, 1954 | 6 Pages—5 Cents

ALREADY FILLING HIS official duties, DAVE BOREANAZ, the elected MAYOR OF MARTIAN STREET, listens attentively to the plans for his installation. Representinng Skytop M-9, Dave defeated four other candidates for the title. He will reign tomorrow over the festivities at the University formal, "Universally Yours" held from 9-1 in the Women's building.

Class of '57 Picks Boreanaz For 'Mr. Universally Yours'

By RUTH ANDERSON, '57

The class of '57 elected by a large majority David T. Boreanaz "Mr. Universally Yours," the mayor of Martian st. He was chosen from six freshman candidates representing Skytop, Washington Arms and fraternity pledge classes.

Supporting the mayor, who was nominated by Skytop M-9, is the "council" of runners-up, including Arthur Browner, Phi Epsilon Pi; David John, Washington Arms; Raul (Rudy) Mendez, Lambda Chi Alpha; Michael Minko, Collendale A-7; and Robert Pearce, M-1.

ALMOST THE entire freshman class participated in the balloting at last Sunday's house meetings. He will reign at "Universally Yours" from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. tomorrow night at the Women's building.

David Boreanaz, who came to Syracuse university for radio-TV, hails from Buffalo. He attended Bishop Fallon high school, where he received several honors at graduation.

A resident of M-9, Dave said "I think Skytop should be done away with, as they are planning, because it is too far from campus.'

A former dishwasher at Sims dining hall, Dave is at present looking for another job. "I'd like to get in at the "O," when it opens, waiting on tables," he revealed. If the "mayor" does not obtain another job this spring, he might join the frosh baseball team. This is his major sports interest, and the one in which he participated most in high school.

DAVE'S impression of Syracuse university is that, "it's great, and will be even greater after all the construction in progress is finished." His only peeve against the University is the lack of good home-cooked food. Along the culinary line he prefers spaghetti, pizza and other Italian food.

When asked what were his first thoughts when he learned he had been elected mayor of Martian st., Dave confessed that he was "very confused and quite surprised." He also revealed that he had been constantly teased ever since his nomination two weeks ago.

The "mayor" believes his election was assured only by the campaigning of his loyal friends. He said, "if it weren't for the loyalty of the freshmen in M-9, we never could have won. They did it all as far as I'm concerned." Posters were placed in all freshman cottages and intensive campaigning was carried on in Sims.

"Mr. Universally Yours" awaits the "blastoff" at 7:30 p.m. today on the quad. Dave believes it will be "really out of this world, and the biggest weekend that ever hit campus from a frosh point of view."

Decoration Plans Finally Revealed For Frosh Dance

Women's Gym to Become Martian-type Campus Tomorrow Night

"Universally Yours," the Freshman weekend semi-formal, will be held from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. tomorrow in the main gym of the Women's building. Details of the futuramic decorations for the affair, which have been kept secret for weeks, were revealed yesterday.

The Women's gym will take on the atmosphere of a Martian campus, according to decoration co-chairmen Sabra Jones and Richard Hazelton. Six stores on "Martian st.", modernistic dormitories and a new style HL will be featured.

EVERY CORNER of the gym will be filled with the "campus of the future." The new HL will have a rocket parking lot on its roof, and the "Martian st." stores will include a beauty parlor with ultra-modern styles, a restaurant, and a "Mars bar."

Adding life to the decorations will be some unusual creatures called Mars men. These characters are armless, and do all manual labor with large hooks located on the tops of their heads. They will circulate around the dance floor.

A picture of one of these "out of this world" men may be found on page 3 of today's paper. A seven foot tall version of one of them will be hanging from the center of the gym ceiling at the dance.

The recently elected "Mayor of Martian st." will reign over the semi-formal, and sit in an unusual modern throne. Refreshments for the dance will be sold in one of the stores along Martian st.

TICKETS FOR the affair, priced at $2 per couple, will be on sale throughout campus today. If the limited supply holds out, they will be sold at the door. The ticket chairmen for the dance urge that tickets be bought in advance, because the supply may not last.

"Universally Yours," although semi-formal, will be corsageless. The band selected for the occasion is Sam Blumpkin's orchestra, a local organization that will provide "excellent music," according to the dance committee.

Since the ball is a registered University dance, coeds may use pink slips to obtain special 2 o'clock permissions.

Entertainment for the semi-formal will feature three of the best acts from the S.U. Revue, the talent show to be presented tonight.

OVERALL chairmen for "Universally Yours" are Barbara Murray and Richard Greenburg. Their subcommittees include tickets, decorations and refreshments.

Miss Jones and Hazelton head decorations. Myrna Paul and John Cullen are in charge of tickets and Paula Thaylor and Joseph Easton are arranging refreshments.

Blast Off Tonight Begins Eighth Frosh Weekend, Semi-Formal Space Event

THE ORIGINAL DECORATIONS for the Saturday night dance are being worked out by the co-chairmen of decorations, SABRA JONES and DICK HAZELTON. The committee has planned to transform the gym into a scene from outer space, that famed MARTIAN street.

'Mr. Universally Yours' Reigns Over Outer Space Weekend

By GEORGE MEEK, '57

A full "blast off" will open the annual Freshman Weekennd tonight at 7:30 p.m. Events planned for the three-day affair will also include a semi-formal, a jazz concert talent show and religious services.

University officials will "give the campus" to the Freshman President Francis Procopio at the "blast off." Some of the little characters from outer space, the symbols of the weekend, will be on hand at the official opening.

NORMAN HADDOCK, who is arranging tonight's ceremony, says that the ATO cannon will be available to help blast off in style.

David Boreanaz, chosen as Mayor of Martian St." by the freshman living centers, will reign over the weekend's activities. A Skytop M-9 resident, he was elected from a field of six finalists, including Arthur Browner, Phi Epsilon Pi; David John, Washington Arms; Robert Pearce of Skytop M-1; Paul Mendez, Lambda Chi Alpha and Michael Minko, Collendale A-7.

Twelve acts will be featured at the SU Revue, student talent show, to take place tonight at 8:30 p.m. in the Women's building. No admission will be charged to the show, or to the regular University Friday night mixer dance, which will follow on the program.

Tomorrow at 11:30 a.m., the Jewish services will include a sermon by Dr. Fred Krinsky, assistant Jewish chaplain. A brunch of Jewish dishes will be served after the service.

JIMMY CAVALLO's jazz band will offer a concert tomorrow at 2 p.m. in the Trophy room of the Men's gym. Tickets for the "crazy" session are on sale at 35 cents each.

The corsageless semi-formal will be the main attraction of the weekend. Entitled "Universally Yours," the affair will be held at 9 p.m. tomorrow in the Women's building gym. Tickets still on sale, are priced at $2 per couple. The big feature of the dance is the "outer space" decorations.

Dean Charles C. Noble will preach at the interfaith service scheduled for 11 a.m. Sunday in Hendricks chapel. His sermon topic will be "God's Perennial Freshman."

Sims III promises open house for Sunday afternoon. Two other freshmen living centers have also planned parties for the weekend.

OVERALL CHAIRMEN for the weekend, Karl Sharl and Lexie Toth expressed a wish for "all-University support behind the events."

Scharl and Miss Toth stress that tickets for both the jazz concert and "Universally Yours" are still on sale, as well as the colorful black and yellow buttons.

Serving under the overall chairmen are the following committee chairmen: Ruth Anderson and Jerome Parmet, publicity; Eleanor Beig and James Tipka, date bureau; Judyth Goldstein and George Winston, welcoming; and Doris Lemp, business.

Heading the various branches of the semi-formal committee are Barbara Murray, Richard Greenburg, Sabra Jones, Richard Hazelton, Myrna Paul, John Cullen, Paula Thaler and Joseph Easton. Other committee chairmen are Harriet Epstein and James DePiero, jazz concert; and Elizabeth Blackwell and Paul London, interfaih chairmen.

Variety Show Hits Mixer Stage Today

Evening Will Feature Contest, New Traditions

By DIANA DAHLMAN, '57

SU Revue, the freshman variety show, goes on stage tonight at 8:30 p.m. in the Women's building preceeding the regularly planned mixer. Featuring a great variety of talent, the show is entirely produced and directed by members of the class of '57.

To further add to the variety of the evening, two new traditions will be introduced at the mixer immediately following the show.

THE STUDENT Activities committee, sponsors of the dance, will play an unfamiliar record. The first three people to recognize the melody will be awarded prizes.

A suggestion box will also be introduced at the dance and students are urged to fill out blanks requesting new records. Each week, the most requested record will be bought by the committee. In the lounge where recreational games may be played, the music of Rogers and Hart and Rogers and Hammerstein will be heard.

The talent show features acts which range from semi-classical music to comic dance routines. Jay Allen intends to mystify the audience with his magic act. Pat McCracken, Clare and Peggy Rex, and Beverly Humphries are doing a dance number.

Along the same line Toni McCleand and Barbara Davis have planned a comic song routine. Ron Colton will sing to the accompaniment of his guitar and Harvey Cohen has planned a guitar band.

ON THE MORE serious side, Barbara Carmella will sing a semi-classical number and has also scheduled a duet with Guy Geleerd. Robyne Hone has composed a comic dance and Warren Kimble intends to do a tap dance.

Rehearsals have been held for the past two weeks under the direction of Guy Geleerd and Merry Dash, co-chairmen of the affair. The best acts from tonight's show will be repeated again tomorrow night at the dance, "Universally Yours." A large crowd is expected at the talent show and for the mixer following, according to the co-chairmen.

Thus far, the dances have been very successful. Student interest has increased and the committee feels it will continue to do so if new ideas such as the contest and the suggestion box are added.

Equally as popular as the dance itself, has been the game room where people may engage in a fast game of bridge or checkers or simply relax and enjoy the special music provided in the background.

Frosh Class Invades University Cafeterias

By CAROL GOOTTER, '57

It was almost "Farewell to Arms" last night! It didn't seem as though Washington Arms would survive the invasion, as the frosh weekend cheerleaders stampeded their way into the Arms' dining hall.

Even the chef peered out of the kitchen to make sure it wasn't the food that was causing the commotion. No, chef, it was just a bunch of rah-rahs, a bunch of orange lids tipping their hats to their big coming weekend.

IT WAS to a mass of smiling faces and gaping mouths that they cheered about the jazz concert, the SU review, the interfaith service, the Jewish brunch, and Universally Yours. The cheering squad consisted of Patricia McCracken, Marilyn McIntyre, Alice Dadowski, Daye Burleson, June Borda, Joan Tartar, Carol Harry and Alice Whiting.

Lloyd Rawlings and Julian Ives looked "baggy" as they wandered around in gigantic clothing bags which advertized various events of the weekend schedule. Onlookers were splitting their sides laughing, and Lloyd's side was splitting, too, as the paper which covered him from head to foot was slowly "cracking up."

Before this Washington Arms escapade, the boys had paraded Sims dining hall. As they pushed their way through the laughter, Burt Gomory, Mayor of Skytop, entered. Donned in a white sheet, a green scarf completely covering his face, and an orange lid with a hanger streaming out of the top somewhere, he couldn't understand why everyone was staring at him.

"You'd think I looked out of the ordinary!" he exclaimed. Then he added that he looked better from the right side, and the walking advertisement continued promenading the hall, arousing spirit and curiosity for the weekend—to say nothing of the audience's curiosity concerning his identity.

ONE GIRL suggested he go from door to door saying, "Trick or treat!" and another spectator yelled that Burt looked like he was from Mars.

"That's the general idea," he answered.

Jerome Parmet, co-chairman of publicity, proudly grinned at Burt's attire. "It's different—but great!" and then he lit up and exclaimed, "You know, that's just what we want the whole weekend to be."

Patricia Jones and Norman Haddad, who were co-chairmen of the Stunt committee, sub-committee of publicity worked in cooperation with Ruth Anderson and Jerome Parmet, who headed the entire publicity committee.

It is claimed that this is just a preview of the large invasion that is planned for tonight on the University library steps. At that time Dean Frank Piskor, vice-president and dean of student services, will turn the campus over to Frank Procopio, president of the class of '57.

Weekend Parties Slated by Houses

Three freshman dorms have registered events for frosh weekend, with Miss Margaret Parker, University social director. One open house has been scheduled, as well as a date party and a blind date party.

The open house will be held by Sims III from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday. Joan Miller is social chairman of the dorm.

Hurst cottage, 932 South Crouse ave., will hold a date party tonight. Hurst's social chairman is Susan Coughlin.

Charles cottage, 400 Walnut pl., has planned a blind date party, which will be held from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. today.

Weekend Will Close With Interfaith Service

By ELAINE CHESIN, '57

In honor of Freshman Weekend an Interfaith service will be held Sunday in Hendricks chapel. The service, planned for 11 a.m. will close the weekend.

Dean Charles C. Noble will be the speaker at the service and his sermon will be "God's Perennial Freshman." The worship leader will be Rev. Arnold Nakajima, Presbyterian chaplain. Freshmen will participate in the service.

ARLENE PLOTKIN, vice-president of the freshman class, will read from the Old Testament and Norman Butterfield, class trasurer will read from the New Testament. Freshmen executive council members and Paul London, a co-chairman of the service, will usher along with the regular group.

The flowers for the altar will be carnations and gladiolas bought with money collected in Haven hall and Skytop. Half the flowers will go to Crouse, for Sunday Mass, and the other half will be divided between the JSF Saturday morning service and the Sunday Interfaith service.

The service was arranged by co-chairmen London, Elizabeth Blackwell, and Edward Collier. Holding a similar service on the Sunday of Freshman weekend has become an annual Syracuse tradition.

The idea of a brotherhood service is the direct result of a trend in recent years toward a closer understanding between the Christian and Jewish faiths on the campus.

THIS TREND has been carried out by many recent activities, including the Brotherhood banquet held on Feb. 28 in Sims dining hall. Representative Walter Judd spoke at the dinner. "Footprints," a three-day religious conference held last week, was another recent attempt by the University at greater understanding between faiths.

Weekends at Syracuse have traditionally included services like this one. The Colgate weekend included a Jewish-sponsored service and the Winter Weekend featured a Protestant-sponsored one.

Frosh in Charge Of Special Issue

Today's Daily Orange, is the product of the freshmen on the editorial and sports staff.

Editor-in-chief for this edition is George Meek. Peter McNally and Diana Dahlman are co-managing-editors, and Everett Murch and Robert Tata are co-soprts-editors. Ruth Anderson is the edition's feature editor.

'Space Ship' Buttons Designed By Frosh

By LOIS FELDMAN, '57

With Freshman weekend just around the corner, many frosh are proudly, displaying their badges of recognition. As usual, the freshmen have designed the buttons for the weekend.

The early part of last week 1500 buttons were bought, and according to yesterday's totals 1000 have already been sold. The buttons were being distributed to the students from many campus booths including Sims dining hall, Slocum and Washington Arms.

BUTTONS COST 15 cents apiece and whatever profit is made from them will go to the treasury of the class of '57. If their treasury is not spent at the end of this year, the amount remaining will be brought over to their sophomore account and carried over until they graduate.

The buttons consist of a black rocket ship on a yellow background. On the rocket is printed '57, to denote the class, and just above it in bold black letters is the slogan, "Out of this World," which ties in with the outer space theme of the whole weekend.

A few of the buttons, instead of reading "Out of this World," say "Chairman" to denote the different chairmen of the activities connected with the weekend. The buttons were designed by chairman Jerome Parmet of Skytop M-6.

Jazz Concert Tomorrow To Feature Cavallo Band

MYRNA PAUL, ONE of the chairmen for the weekend, smilingly sells tickets for the JIMMY CAVALLO jazz concert to EILEEN COSTELLO, JANE HANDELMAN and JOAN UNGAR. The concert is set for Saturday afternoon in the Trophy room of the Men's gym.
Staff Photos by Richard Greene, '57

By BRENDA MORRIS, '57

In keeping with the overall theme of Freshman weekend, Saturday afternoon's jazz concert will be strictly "out of this world." Jimmy Cavallo and his band will "send" University jazz fans with "cool" modern music.

The concert will be held from 2-5 p.m. in the Trophy room of the Men's gym and tickets will be priced at 35 cents. Harriet Epstein and Jim DePiero, co-chairmen for this event, have announced that as an additional attarction refreshments will be sold during the entire concert.

CAVALLO AND his five "hepcats" have long been favorites with Hill students. His heavenly music has been featured at many sorority and fraternity functions throughout the year.

Currently the Cavallo band is being highlighted at Andre's in downtown Syracuse. The group has also played at night spots like Luigi's and the Supper club.

Cavallo announced that Saturday's jazz concert will not be of the Dixieland variety. The band leader, in keeping with the outer space theme of the weekend, promised to feature what he calls "Rockhouse Jazz."

Aiding Miss Epstein and DePiero in planning this affair were the followinng students: Joni Cart, Jim Gysel, Nina Loth, Debbie Manges, Carol Rottner, Arlene Sussman, Carole Tipkin and Ben Zhalman.

Dr. Fred Krinsky to Speak At JSF Service Tomorrow

By ROBERTA STERN, '57

Jewish Student fellowship will hold its second Torah service tomorrow in the Chapel auditorium as part of the freshman weekend program.

The group announced that the service is open to students of all denominations. The time has been changed from 11:00, as originally scheduled, to 11:30 a.m.

Dr. Fred Krinsky, assistant chaplain to Jewish students, will deliver a sermon, "Inner Freedom." He is also well known to many students as a Citizenship professor.

Participants in the service include Stanley Goldsmith, cantor, Barry Gipstein of ZBT, student leader, and Miriam Fisk of Wilson cottage, student reader.

There will be a brunch immediately following the service which is sponsored by sororities and fraternities in honor of their pledge classes.

Because there are no Friday night services being held this week, students have been invited to attend services tonight at local synagogues.

Tomorrow's service, since it is open to all students, will provide those who recently heard Dr. Krinsky in a Sunday morning service a chance to listen to him again.

SYRACUSE DAILY ORANGE

THREE R'S OF A COLLEGE NEWSPAPER: RESPONSIVENESS, RESPONSIBILITY AND RESOURCEFULNESS

Page 2 — Friday, March 12, 1954

Editor-in-chief ..... Arlene Lambert
Business Manager ..... Robert Goldstein

SENIOR EDITORIAL STAFF

Managing Editor ..... Arthur Siegel
Editorial Director ..... Hugh O. Muir
Executive Editor ..... Janet Card
Sports Editor ..... Kenneth Lent

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Edward Meyer, Joan Nadelhaft, Phyllis Sachs, Howard Vonkirk, Mary Vivian

BUSINESS STAFF

Asst. Business Manager ..... Sheldon Lessen
Layout Manager ..... Judith Berman
Classified Manager ..... Jean Jacobs
Circulation Manager ..... Anita Freyberg
Promotion Manager ..... Lloyd Eisenberg

FRESHMAN EDITION STAFF

Editor-in-Chief ..... George Mees
Co-managing Editor ..... Diana Dahlman
Co-managing Editor ..... Peter McNally
Editorial Director ..... Ruth Anderson
Co-sports Editor ..... Everett Marsh
Co-sports Editor ..... Robert Tate

Published by the students of Syracuse University.

Telephones: News, 75-5196, 75-5197; Editor, 76-1445; Business: 4-7206. Subscription by mail $5 per year, $3.50 per semester. Entered as second class mail matter at the Syracuse Post Office. Exclusive national advertising representatives National Advertising Inc., New York City.

Class of Fifty-Seven Goes 'Out of This World'

Blast off with us

Our space ship has arrived!

We of the Freshman class have finally landed as an organized class upon the Syracuse campus and are ready to transport you "out of this World."

For weeks we have been planning this event and have arranged to bring you the best in a varied weekend of entertainment. And by you, we mean the whole campus!

There is an all too prevalent idea, held by many upperclassmen, that Freshman weekend is only for freshmen. If a similar attitude prevailed, regarding other major weekends, then only sophomores would be found at the soph hop, juniors alone would attend the sno-ball and seniors would enjoy spring weekend by themselves.

Students from all classes get together and enjoy these events. As Freshmen, we have given our wholehearted support to upperclass activities and have looked forward to the time when we could plan some by ourselves.

The variety show, SU Revue, the jazz concert with Jimmy Cavallo, and the dance, "Universally Yours" are not "low class events" just because they were prepared by lower classmen.

We have done everything possible to make this a successful undertaking, but without your support as upperclassmen, we cannot obtain a full measure of success.

Let's all hop on the rocket ship and enjoy a full weekend of activities designed to send you "out of this world."

Faith in inter-faith

As freshmen at Syracuse university we feel we have found college to be a melting pot of many religious creeds. This Sunday's Interfaith service, sponsored by the Freshman class, provides a chance to test this brotherhood.

Brotherhood shows that there are other people who have a right to believe just as strongly in their way of life as we do in ours. The best part of this philosophy is the realization that there is room here for everyone, no matter what religion he adheres to or what his race may be.

A greater understanding of life becomes apparent when the various cultures work together to bring out the best in each other. The results of such efforts may be seen in projects like the recent Footprints conference.

During the coming weekend there will be two important religious services.

The Jewish services will be held on Saturday morning to take the place of the usual Friday service and on Sunday the Freshman class is sponsoring an Inter Faith service. Both will be held in the chapel.

Students will participate in both services.

These gatherings are an important part of the weekend and deserve as much support as the social events. They represent a chance to practice brotherhood in a down to earth fashion which is too often ignored.

Strength in youth

It is said that a nation's strength lies in its youth; likewise, the prowess of an athletic team lies in its neophytes. Continued success on the field of friendly combat depends on the ability and sportsmanship of the lettermen of the future.

The athletes of the class of '57 have proven their ability and sportsmanship. They will undoubtedly make even greater contributions to the prestige of Syracuse university in future varsity seasons.

Congratulations to the Tangerines. May they make 1957 a memorable year in Orange athletic history.

Filmdom's Frosh Glee

By CHARLES SAMUELS

The accent on youth in this year's Academy Award nominations gives an indication of Hollywood's belief in its new luminaries. While Cinemascope, Cinerama and 3-D may be sure audience attractions, a surer audience attraction is a bright new face. The producers know this and they have paraded a whole group of eager young 'uns before our eyes in the year 1953. Just as Syracuse university looks to its freshman class for future leadership, so Hollywood looks to its new actors for future greatness. It might prove interesting to discuss some of Hollywood's freshmen.

By all odds, the most interesting face to be turned up in a long, long time belongs to a pixie named Audrey Hepburn. Miss Hepburn's skyrocket to fame and fortune sounds like the plot of a Hollywood "B" film. Nevertheless, it is true and deserved. After captivating Broadway as the young cocotte in "Gigi" Miss Hepburn set critics and public to dreaming and rhapsodising over her charming performance in "Roman Holiday." Whether or not Miss Hepburn has any range, is still a moot question. She does have the power to make the male heart skip a beat and that means money in the till.

Of all the newcomers last year, the vast majority were called to the California money-fields from other media. Broadway furnished us with glimpses of Miss Hepburn, Geraldine Page, Helen Wood, Grace Kelly and Robert Strauss. Television sent John Forsythe as its envoy. Claire Bloom was imported from England and Italy supplied its most welcome export since spaghetti: Gina Lollobrigida. Jeanmaire comes stright from Les Ballets de Paris.

Award nominations proves the great Hollywood hunger for new talent.

Robert Strauss' superb portrait as Animal in "Stalag 17" was the high point of the film and his performance in "Money From Home" was an oasis in the desert of banality. If early indications are accurate, this young comedian should reach the top.

TV's envoy, John Forsythe, has yet to be given a part worthy of his talents. Though his performance in "Escape from Fort Bravo" was admirable, he is currently demonstrating a well of talent in "The Teahouse of the August Moon" that has been left untapped by Hollywood.

Of the entire crop of newcomers, England's Claire Bloom shows greatest promise as a serious actress. Her portrayal of the ballet dancer in Charles Chaplin's difficult, fascinating "Limelight," possessed a grace and perception indicative of great talent.

Jeanmaire, the French ballerina, brought not only dancing skill but singing and acting ability as well, to her role in "Hans Christian Anderson." Mlle. Jeanmaire will be a welcome visitor whenever she chooses to call.

its duds.

Syracuse Frosh meet Hollywood Frosh. May you both hit the top!

HOUSING ANCIENT HISTORY

By DIANA DAHLMAN, '57

In the fabric of our campus architecture, there is one pattern that dates back to the times of old HL itself. The pattern has long since ceased to be regarded as beautiful, yet despite its drab appearance on the outside, its inner warmth cannot be fully contained by sagging wooden walls.

Freshman cottages boast a long and varied history, dating back to the year 1908. Even before this in 1904, Haven hall first opened its doors to incoming students in fine arts. t was described upon its opening as "an elegant building of brick with sandstone trimmings, costing $50,000 and guaranteed to be thoroughly modern and fireproof." (It wasn't until 1923 that fire escapes were added.)

The first four cottages to be used as living centers opened in 1908. They were White (wich became Wilbur), Parker, Tylor and Cherry (which is now Schultze.)

Interesting mannerisms are evident in the early life of the freshmen cottages. For instance, at Reid cottage (no longer used as a freshman living center) a maid was paid to open the door, while at Cherry (now Schultze) anyone who happened to be around did the honors. Cows were maintained by the university to provide milk for the dining rooms in Winchell and Haven. No visitor was allowed to remain after 10 p.m. and lights were off at 10:30 p.m.!! Cartoons in early copies of the Daily Orange show the sad fate of boyfriends who dared to violate the curfew.

A few cottages have had some interesting occupants during the course of their existence. For instance, Butler served as a men's athletic house for some time, and

(See HOUSING, page 3)

This guy has been reading too much Freud, he keeps saying he's a symbol.

Lovely, Lousy World

By MOLLIE GLASER, '57

With most humble apologies to R. J. Herz.

Statement: We're all going to heaven.

Reason: We're all so very good.

Ever thought how nice and cool it must be up there? No? You had better start taking notice of yonder celestial regions because we're getting there pretty fast, and this unseasonable weather we've been having lately isn't the only indication.

Things on our earthly planet have been going pretty good this year. Of course there have been a few little wars now and then, and maybe five or seven thousand murders, but in comparison with the millions on earth the number is exceedingly insignificant.

Each year our world is growing in size and population. Not only are millions of infants born each year, but meteor dust adds one inch to the diameter of its surface every twelve months.

Just think, in seven or nine billion years our planet will be seven or nine billion inches larger than it is now. There are 63,360 inches to a mile.

And the tots, what kind of a world are they going to grow up in? The one we live in today is prepared to teach them a lot, the only difficulty being that what we can teach them isn't absolute perfection.

What can the "United" States offer them? Well, we might tell them that the frosh class has been pretty lucky this year. McCarthy hasn't opened any investigations on their activities, and this is a pretty significant thing in itself.

Girls are beginning to participate in more activities, too. Go to ski classes or shore school. All girls. Girls are taking over ROTC. Before long, girls will be tolling the bells in Crouse.

What's left for the fellows? They can always participate in collegiate sports—that is, if they're lucky enough to get an athletic scholarship. And if they don't go to college there's still a lot left for them. Why they can . . . they can . . . then there's . . . well, anyway, Uncle Sam is always waiting for them.

Service to your country, travel, opportunity for advancement, good pay—what more can a fellow ask for? Of course there is the possibility that you might get killed any minute. And so I repeat, lovely world, isn't it?

How It All Began

By VIVIAN JUDGE, '57

Back in 1946, the Daily Orange headlined a new Syracuse weekend. Women's student senate had given the freshman class permission to have a weekend of its own. Freshman weekend is the newest one on campus, but in its eight years of life, it has become a Syracuse tradition.

The "Frosh Frolic" of '46 began by a mass meeting in the old oval of all freshmen on campus. Such amazingly delicious things as cotton candy, pink lemonade, and apple sticks appeared at the first semi-formal ball.

Enthusiasm mounted with the presentation of a year book edited by the class. Orange lids and "tip it" became once more synonomous. There was one change—the Goon squaders had to do all of the tipping.

In 1947, the "Bunny Hop," a semi-formal and the only social function of the weekend, saw only a poor showing. Freshman weekend of that year was a financial failure which put the frosh class in debt.

Red glazed doughnuts from local restaurants were sold in honor of the frosh weekend of '48. Their weekend featured a tug-of-war between the freshmen and sophomores that was staged near Archbold gym. A semi-formal and a variety show held in the Hotel Syracuse ended the weekend happily.

The frosh of '49 take honors for holding one of the most highly spirited weekends. Among the hilarious "goings-on" was a "Mothball dance. Couples came in their oldest clothes and the sloppiest pair were awarded a prize. An afternoon of athletics at the Ski lodge and a freshmen vs. sophomore tug-of-war occurred.

The successful freshmen capped their weekend with the annual semiformal where, at intermission five finalists of the "National all-American college freshman" were introduced. Glory came to Claire Molzen who won the frosh beauty contest sponsored by 20th Century Fox. Miss Molzen received $100 and a trip to California.

"Fool's Fantasy," frosh weekend theme of '50 topped them all! Marshall st. sprouted posters advertising the event far in advance There was a field day in Thornden park along with a Carnival Fun house in the Student Union to make the weekend bright. Freddy Vare's orchestra played at the semi-formal which was entitled "Moon-Mist."

'51 frosh boast a weekend of firsts. Skytop was serenaded by freshman coeds in order to stimulate ticket sales. "Mr. and Mrs. Frosh Talent" were chosen at the annual talent show and freshman weekend pins were sold to give a boost to the treasury.

A "Weekend in Manhattan" was planned by the freshmen in '52. High on the list of activities were a jazz concert and a talent show.

The frosh of '53 presented a "Salute to Syracuse." Frank Hennessey, local WNDR disk jockey MC'd the talent show. The officers of the freshman class were honored for the first time at an Open House in Sims. Another jam session made another success during that weekend and an Aquatic theme prevailed at the annual semi-formal.

We hope histories of the future will record the class of '57 produced the freshman weekend that was most "Out of This World."

Come On Down To
DEB'S
DRIVE-IN LOUNGE
SERVING THE BEST IN
HOME COOKED FOOD
"The Hill Rendezvous"
Bottom of Crouse Hill
On Erie Blvd.
ALL LEGAL BEVERAGES

Modern Styles
City Opticians
EYEGLASSES
Eyes Examined — Glasses Fitted
EASY CREDIT TERMS
1 to 24-Hour Service
No Appointment Necessary
BROKEN LENSES AND FRAMES REPLACED PROMPTLY
Open Daily—Sat. 9 A.M. to 6 P.M.
Mon. and Fri. 9 A.M. to 9 P.M.
J. C. Wozniak, Reg. Opt.
N. H. Kinbey, Reg. Opt. Phone 2-6065
211 E. FAYETTE ST.
COR. S. WARREN

CAROMA
A Restaurant of Distinction
Steaks - Chops - Broilers
Italian Cuisine Our Specialty
Baked Lasagna—Raviola—Cacciatore—Hot Pizza
402 Lodi — 74-2119

COTTONS
You Name It And We Have It
SKIRTS—PEDDLE-PUSHERS—DICKIES
BLOUSES—BURMUDA SHORTS—LINGERIE
SUITS—JACKETS—PAJAMAS
THE TOWN SHOP
Open Tuesday and Friday Evenings
736 South Crouse Avenue — Phone 4-0461

Farewell To The Hellbox....
The Staff of The DAILY ORANGE takes time out to say goodbye to and old friend -- its home

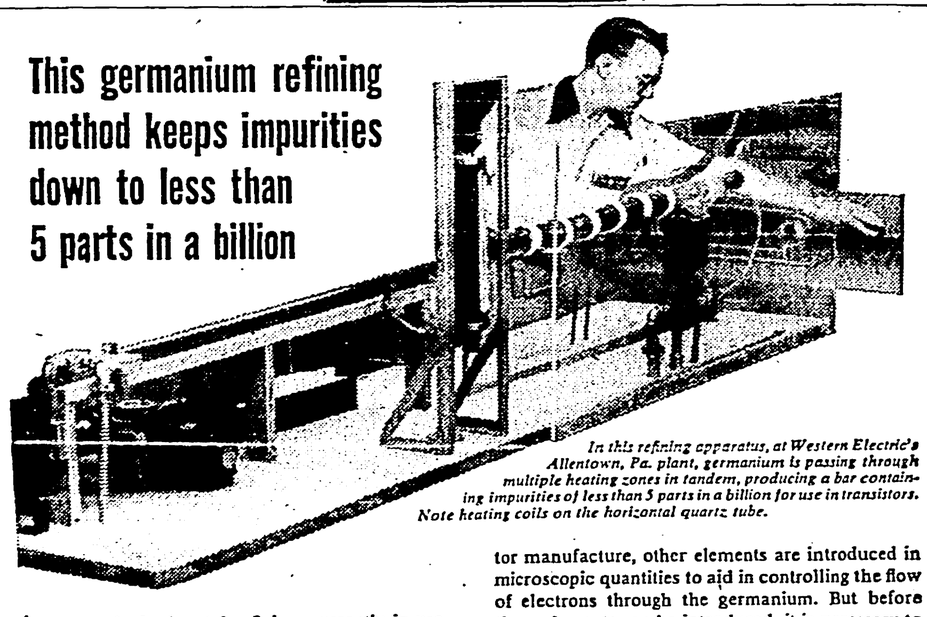
So Long, Hellbox .....
.....Hello, Hellbox add!!

This germanium refining method keeps impurities down to less than 5 parts in a billion



In this refining apparatus, at Western Electric's Allentown, Pa. plant, germanium is passing through multiple heating zones in tandem, producing a bar containing impurities of less than 5 parts in a billion for use in transistors. Note heating coils on the horizontal quartz tube.

A new method of metal refining, currently in use at the Western Electric plant at Allentown, results in the production of germanium that is better than 99.9999995% pure — the highest degree of purity ever attained in a manufactured product.

The need for germanium of such exceptional purity came about when research by Bell Telephone Laboratories in the field of semi-conductors led to the development of transistors, which are manufactured by Western Electric.

The transistor is a tiny crystal device which can amplify and oscillate. It reduces space requirements and power consumption to a minimum.

Germanium crystals of the size required in transistors do not occur in nature; they are artificially grown at Western Electric. At this stage in transistor manufacture, other elements are introduced in microscopic quantities to aid in controlling the flow of electrons through the germanium. But before these elements can be introduced, it is necessary to start with germanium of exceptional purity, so that the impurities will not interfere with the elements that are deliberately added.

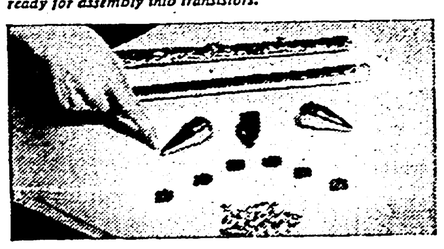
So Bell Telephone Laboratories devised an entirely new method of purification, known as zone refining, which was developed to a high-production stage by Western Electric engineers.

In zone refining a bar of germanium is passed through a heat zone so that a molten section traverses the length of the bar carrying the impurities with it and leaving behind a solidified section of higher purity. By the use of multiple heating zones in tandem, a number of molten sections traverse the bar. Each reduces the impurity content thus producing a bar which contains impurities in the amount of less than five parts per billion.

Because of the importance of the transistor in electronics, the zone refining process—like so many other Western Electric developments—has been made available to companies licensed by Western Electric to manufacture transistors.

This is one more example of creative engineering by Western Electric men. Engineers of all skills—mechanical, electrical, chemical, industrial, metallurgical, and civil—are needed to help us show the way in fundamental manufacturing techniques.

Various forms which germanium takes before being used in transistors are shown in this photo. Bar at top is an ingot of germanium after reduction from germanium dioxide. Next is shown the germanium ingot after the zone refining process used by Western Electric. Below the ingots are shown 3 germanium crystals grown by machine, 6 slices cut from these crystals, and several hundred germanium wafers ready for assembly into transistors.



Western Electric
A UNIT OF THE BELL SYSTEM SINCE 1882

Manufacturing plants in Chicago, Ill. • Kearny, N. J. • Baltimore, Md. • Indianapolis, Ind. • Allentown & Laureldale, Pa. • Burlington, Greensboro & Winston-Salem, N. C. • Buffalo, N. Y. • Haverhill & Lawrence, Mass. • Lincoln, Neb. • St. Paul & Duluth, Minn. Distributing Centers in 29 cities and Installation headquarters in 15 cities. Company headquarters, 195 Broadway, New York City.

..ALL THAT'S HERE AND SKYTOP TOO

MEMBERS OF THE CLASS of '57 attending their first pep rally in Archbold stadium. The faces were even more peppier this year due to the presence of Alta Burg and Eunice Millot, the two new twirlers. On many a Saturday afternoon the frosh were to be thankful for this first practice session. Here it was that class first became familiar with the Alma Mater, the Saltine Warrior and our own class cheer, "We're the class that's closest to Heaven, we're the class of '57.

AT A TABLE in the Dutch Haven, over-all chairmen of the outer Space weekend, KARL SCHARL and ALEXANDRA TOTH discuss for SU Revue, the jazz concert, the dance and the interfaith service, all major events of the weekend.

FRANCIS PROCOPIO, class president, smilingly accepts the first button advertising the weekend. On sale for over a week, these buttons of a vivid yellow with a jet black rocket ship have been sported all over campus.

HERE, GUY GELEERD and BARBARA CARMELLA rehearse their duet for SU Revue, the frosh variety show which will be given tonight in the Womenn's building before the mixer which is a regularly scheduled event for Friday night.

Two Reps Named To Junior Assembly

Two independents, Malcolm Foster and Lowell Toenniessen, were appointed junior class representatives to the MSG assembly by the junior assembly this week.

They will fill slots for independent men which have been vacant for some time. According to the class governing act, class assemblies are empowered to fill any vacancies in MSG which are not filled during elections.

Both new assemblymen are members of Orange Key, junior men's honorary and both have been in the assembly before. Foster is editor-in-chief of the Syracusan and Toenniessen is a Daily Orange junior editor and a member of the marching band.

Forestry Alumni To Sponsor Panel

Alumni of the New York State College of Forestry will be at the College today to offer their advice and discuss career opportunities with forestry freshmen.

The graduates will sponsor a curriculum choice forum, a series of six panels representing each of the College programs. Each panel will be manned by men who have been doing the work for which a particular program has prepared them.

The forestry freshmen must decide on a course before their first year ends. They can decide whether to major in general forestry, landscape and recreational management, conversion and distribution of lumber and wood products, retail merchandising and light construction, wood technology, or pulp and paper technology.

Three Best Programs Announced by WAER

Radio Station WAER announces four of its top program prospects for the coming weekend.

"A Date With Adele", to be offered at 6:45 p.m. today, will feature a group of songs in honor of St. Patrick's day. Adele Cohen will sing "The Kerry Dancers," "Too-Ra-Loora," "Always in My Heart," "All My Love," and "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling". The broadcast is announced by Donald Lloyd and produced by Wallace Bradley.

ROBERT MARTINDALE'S "Saturday Matinee," tomorrow at 4 p.m. will spotlight the music of Glenn Miller. Martindale's hour of words and music by the stars of the hit parades of yesterday and today will present melodies from the recent "Glenn Miller Story" as played by the original Miller orchestra.

Spotlight Syracuse," heard weekly at each Saturday at 5 p.m., will this week present Mrs. Ruth Sherwood of the Syracuse Volunteer center who will explain the functions of that organization. Phyllis Lavine is the moderator of the program.

The second in a series titled "Inside City Hall" will be broad cast Sunday at 6:10 p.m. The show, which features various Syracuse city hall officials, will concern an interview with acting city health commissioner, Dr. A. C. Silverman.

Interviewed by Wallace Bradley, Dr. Silverman will talk about the steps taken to combat last summer's polio outbreak and the work of City hospital.

DO MEMBERS MUST ATTEND DEDICATION

All staff members of The Daily Orange—editorial, sports and business—are required to be present at the formal dedication ceremony of the new Hellbox at 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Persons in charge of moving activities must complete their assignments by 8 p.m. today.

Those in charge of refreshments and other committees for the Sunday dedication should report to Arlene Lambert or Art Siegel this afternoon for instructions.

WSG to Permit Semi-Formal 'Twos'

Coeds attending the freshman weekend semi-formal "Universally Yours" may take special 2 o'clock permissions.

Elizabeth Brydon, vice-president of Women's student government, emphasized that pink slips must be filled out completely in ink and that dance ticket stubs must be attached.

Women's Honorary Slates Reception

Members of Lambda Sigma Sigma, junior women's honorary, will entertain at a reception for Mrs. Lillian Bauer Gox following her Crouse piano concert which is scheduled for 4 p.m. Sunday.

The reception will be held in the Founders room of Maxwell. All faculty members and students are invited to attend.

Mrs. Cox is a graduate of the Julliard Graduate school of Music in New York and has appeared with the New York Philharmonic a number of times. She has also presented concerts throughout the United States and Canada.

Before coming to Syracuse she was a faculty director of the Hamilton School of Music in New Haven, Conn. Mrs. Cox is currently a piano instructor.

EPIC IN '57 TIME

OUR ODE TO SIX MONTHS OF COLLEGE

By MICHAEL BRAUN

When was it that we arrived?
Oh yes, I remember,
The 21 of September.
The quad,
That now we trod,
Was,
(we were told)
The oval of old.
We felt like kids
In our orange lids;
Then began Orientation,
And convocation,
And registration,
With much frustration
And then Prostration.

• • •

We forgot our past
Here was college at last
No more parental supression
At least that was our impression
Until,
"They" were produced,
And we were introduced.
By "they" we of course mean
The RA and the student dean.
They seemed our freedom to rob
I guess that was their job.
Just when we started to become pals
A further shock confronted the gals.
Monday and Thursday and all between
Every coed in at nine-fifteen!
But on Saturday night, dress real purty,
Curfew doesn't ring until one thirty.
Most of us shes and hims
Had to eat at Sims—
However, now everything is fine
We don't even mind the line
When we go to dine.

• • •

Our purpose, (supposedly)
In attending college
Was to try and acquire knowledge.
So we couldn't even hate
Classes that commenced at eight.
Thus, every morn we went to work
With English books by Birk and Birk.
And pretty soon you heard this plea,
"What are they doing to me?
Every theme receives a C."
After this we felt like h---
So we hurried over to Maxwell.
In English we might be sinking
But never, never, in critical thinking.
McCarthy yes,
McCarthy no,
Some opinions had to go.
So listen my children to S. G. Brown
He will never let you down.
After cit we went to Lyman and HL,
For minerals, rocks, or je m'appel.
Or Marshall for general forestry,
Or Smith for solid geometry,
Or Bowne for chemistry,
Or Slocum for domesticity.
The midnight oil we burned,
The knowledge we had learned.
The coffee dates we spurned,
For the degree to which we yearned.

• • •

After we had been in schol a week
We started hearing words of Greek
What they were we couldn't tell
Till someone said "IFC and Pan Hell."
Some we understood,
Some we couldn't see,
F'r instance
Why A E Phi and not Alphia Phi?
The names resounded in our ears
Oh well, what did we find?
to mind?
Wonder what ever brought that
Like foam in a couple of beers.
On Comstock, Walnut, and Ostrom ave.
Who are the Greeks that us will have?
We see Chi O, Sig Ep and SAE,
All united in fraternity,
SAM and Sigma Chi,
Phi Sig Sig, and Deltas tri,
ZBT, AGD and KKG
Sounded like New Deal agencies to me.
And so we rushed, informal first,
Then formal till we almost burst
At last we became fledges
Otherwise known as pledges.
And sported our pins on our chest
Because we were with "The best."
But some of us, to this said "fie"
And remained a GDI.
But Greeks, and also those nonhellenic,
Equally excelled in things polemic.

• • •

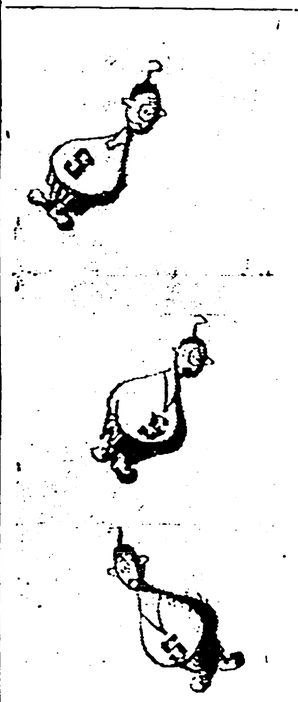
We began to fit in the campus scene
Tried not to get known by the Dean
We all felt so very bright
We worked on everything in sight
Colgate Weekend, Tri-O, and USP,
Winter Weekend, the DO, and SUSKI,
Student government and WAER
All produced classmates that will go far,

• • •

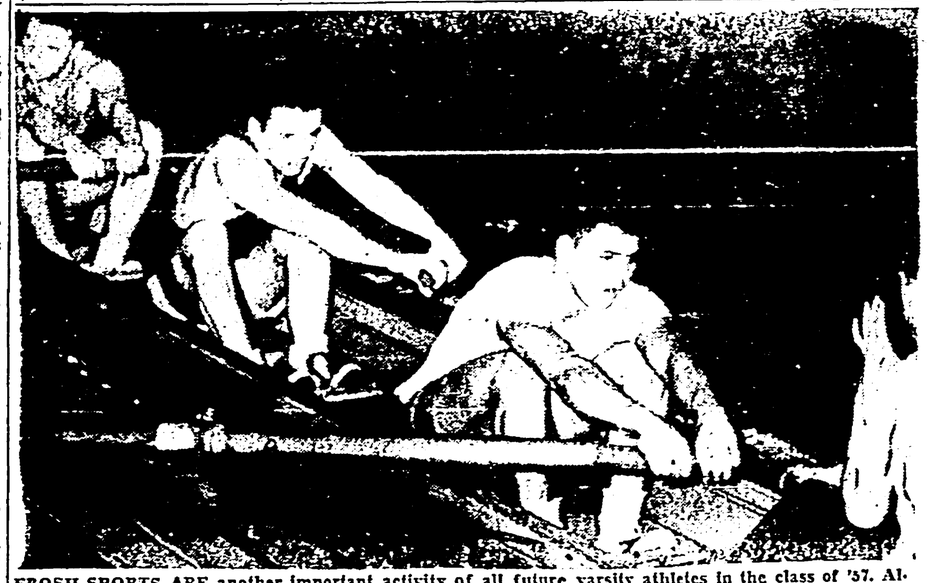
So much to reminice and think about
So much that we want to shout
(well not literally)
And call it to the highest heaven
"Thank you, Syracuse," for fifty-seven.

All Freshman Edition Photographs by Richard Greene '57

THIS CONFUSED CREATURE from outer space is the symbol of the weekend. Better known as OO TW (out of this world) he appeared for the first time last Wednesday in the Daily Orange. If you've been wondering how he manages to manipulate without the use of arms, note the question mark on his head. He doesn't get things, he hooks them.



ANTICIPATING THEIR TAKE-OFF into outer space for the coming weekend, JOEL KARPAY and ARNOLD SCHORSKY of Washington Arms aim the space ship poster towards tomorrow, when "Universally Yours" will be held in the Women's gym.



FROSH SPORTS ARE another important activity of all future varsity athletes in the class of '57. Although not as greatly publicized as upperclassmen, the freshmen athletes practice equally as hard. Here, ardent members of the crew team are at workout already getting in shape for the spring meets on Onondaga Lake.

Housing . . .

(Continued from page 2)

until 1950 was a fraternity. Parker Sims as a wedding present for his daughter, Mary Sims and her husband, George Parker, dean of Fine Arts.

Richards was once the home of Chancellor Sims. Phillips cottage used to house Phi Delta Theta. Schultze was used for a year by students majoring in French and was later set aside by the student deans for a year as a place for undisturbed sleep and study.

Until 1944, Sims was a men's dorm. Room rent at Sims was once $66 to $84 a year and board was $3.50 a week. Times have changed.

We freshmen live in houses literally haunted by ghosts of the past. But these are happy specters who leave only the lightest hint of a by-gone day when they, too, were young.

WAITING THEI RTURN to perform, ALTA BURG and EUNICE MELLOTT, the new freshmen majorettes, were seen standing attentively at a game. The two meet with campus-wide approval and promise some spectacular twirling for the next three years.

"SHOP WHERE THE COLLEGE SHOPS"

STARTS TODAY For A LIMITED TIME ONLY

AT OLMSTED'S
SAVE up to $145.00
DURING OUR ANNUAL FACTORY APPROVED CLEARANCE SALE

JUST	WAS	NOW
3—27" Magnavox Consoles (OAK OR MAHOGANY)	$595	$450
1—21" Magnavox Mahogany (WITH DOORS)	$398.50	$299.95
1—20" Magnavox Blonde	$395	$275
1—Magnavox Radio Phonograph (3-Speed Changer—AM-FM RADIO)	$298.50	$199.50

BRAND NEW MODELS — CARRY FULL WARRANTIES

OLMSTED'S
VICTROLA SHOP
754 S. CROUSE PHONE 4-7478

COUNSELORS — CAMP ADVENTURE

Men and women, 20, for positions in fine co-educational camp, Ridgefield, Conn. 65 miles from New York City. Athletics, General, Waterfront, Archery, Riflery, Fencing, Group Heads, Working Couples.

INTERVIEWS, TUESDAY, MARCH 16th, 2 to 4:30 p.m.

Appointments for Interview may be arranged with Miss Dorothy Osborn, Placement Director, Women's Building, Comstock Avenue.

FILM—
• All Sizes Now In Stock
DEVELOPING—
Your Pictures Deserve The Best Service
The Corner Store
SINCE 1908

Cut Flowers
Corsages — Weddings
Flowers for all Occasions
FLOWERS by MARIE
948 E. Genesee St.,
75-4393
(Member of Student-Discount Service)

MEG HALE
Is Your PHOTO STUDIO On The Campus
ASK FOR OUR EASTER SPECIAL
See Our Window at the Varsity
601 Comstock Ave.
(Corner of Waverly)
Call 75-5459 for Appointment

SYRACUSAN Campus Humor Magazine
featuring
◆ Jokes ◆ Cartoons
◆ Sports ◆ Personalities
◆ Fiction
Wishes The Class of '57
A Good Frosh Weekend

Flashes of '57

By EV MUECH and BOB TATA
Freshmen Edition Sports Editor

As this special freshman issue of the DO is ready to go to press, about three-quarters of the school year is over. Looking back at the Orange freshman sports scene, we find that the 1953-54 season was a very successful one. The Tangerines compiled an impressive 21-15 record in all sports. This success was due in large to a number of outstanding performers. It is our aim in this column to commend the fine work of these freshman athletes.

The first sport in the fall was football and the team came up with some fine prospects for next year's varsity club. Jim Ridlon, an end, showed considerable talent on both offense and defense. Jerry Cashman and Joe Krivak were towers of strength in the line. Ron Tyler and Alan Cann head the list of backfield men. Both are good runners and excellent defensemenn and should see quite a bit of varsity action next year.

The other two fall sports had dismal seasons as far as cold figures go, with the soccer team dropping both of its games and the cross-country boys losing all three meets. However, Bob Milner showed great promise in cross-country, ending the year unbeaten and the booters had a number of players who should see action next year for the varsity.

The most successful sport to date has been basketball. Boasting a 14-1 record the Tangerines were as hustling and hard working a bunch as ever hit any court.

Coach Andy Mogish believes that at least eight of his boys, Gary Clark, Jim Snyder, Vin Cohen, Lou Stark, Vinnie Albanese, Jim Roper, Niel Wilcox and Jim Brown all have a definite chance of making the varsity next year if they continue their progress and maintain the fighting spirit they displayed this year.

On the basis of this past season's play, Vinnie Cohen has the best chance of cracking the starting lineup if he can bring his defensive play up to a par with his offense.

Gary Clark and Jim Snyder are real threats as corner men, each possessing great rebounding annd driving ability and a collection of good outside shots. Strong bidders for a spot in the backcourt are Lou Stark and little Vinnie Albanese, since both are excellent playmakers and ball-handlers. Another great help would be big Jim Roper at 6 ft.-6 if he could develop his rebounding potential.

The wrestling team has four good prospects for the future in Bob Smith, Don Clark, Jim Rooney and Ron Marinelli, all of whom had very good records during the season.

In swimming Syracuse is lucky enough to have five stars coming up. Dave Stoll and Chuck Kiblinng perform the fancy dives, while Jon Buzzard, John McGill and Graham Vanderveer rack up the points in the breaststroke, relay, and freestyle events.

Coach Roy Simmons believes that a few of his freshman boxers are definitely "varsity timber." High on his list is Bob Rigolosi, brother of Charlie and Vince. Louie Iannicello, at 178 annd Nick Georgiade, a heavyweight, were both undefeated. Tony Cipriano, although he lost his only start, displayed fine style.

In crew the lineup for first boat is very tentative. To date, it shows Tom Christie, John McLelland, Dick Kovac, Dave Acker, Bob Bieri, Chuck Crosby, Mike Smyth, and Pete Beckett in starting positions.

The other spring sports have not yet got under way. The baseball team starts practice in a few weeks and the track squad has barely started workouts. So far, Coach Grieve has five former high school stars that should make quite a bit of news this spring.

Art Richie is the former National Interscholastic quarter-mile champ and Roger Gilbert holds the New York state title for the same event. Others to watch are Jim Brown in the high ump, Bob Milner in the distance runs and Dick Day in the sprints.

Phi Delt, Greek Stars Win

Greeks Outscore Independent Five In All-Star Game

By ERNIE ETOLL

The second annual all star game played last night found the Fraternity all stars swamping the Independent all stars by 15 points, 48-33.

After Doyle Roberts of Skytop M-1 and Don Moller of Theta Chi traded foul points to open the scoring, the Greeks spurted to a seven to two lead. Led by Herb Steigler of Beta Theta Pi and Mel Kline of Sigma Alpha Mu. The game's pace slowly diminished after that until the last two minutes of the quarter when, led by Pete Bratt of the Deacons and Roberts, they came back to tie the score at 9-9. A last second basket by Chuck Williams of Tau Delta Phi gave the fraternity team a 11-9 lead at the end of the quarter.

WILLIAMS PUSHED his team out ahead at the beginning of the second quarter with two buckets and a foul. The Independennts, as in the first quarter, found the going tough in the beginning, but at 3:15, Ron Mantley of the Deacons cashed a foul and they started to pull back up. Field goals by Gunnar Wirth of the Deacons and Bratt and foul points by Don Reid of Skytop M-10 and Bob Conklin of Alfred Smith pulled the team within one point at 17-16. Kline got a basket and then Roberts and Conklin got a basket and a foul point to tie the score 19-19 at the halfway mark of the game.

The Independents spurted to a 23-19 lead at the beginning of the second half. But that is where their effectiveness ended as they were able to score but 10 points to the Greeks' 27-point output for the remainder of the game.

ma Alpha Epsilon on foul shots after time had run out.

Steigler was chosen as the outstanding player of the game due to his fine rebounding of either board and his 13 points which was high for the game. Williams and Kline added 12 and 10 points for the fraternity team, while Roberts with 10 and Bratt with nine were high for the losers.

Fraternity Five	G	F	T
Kline	5	0	10
Reid	1	2	4
Steigler	6	1	13
Moller	1	2	4
Hodges	1	0	2
Rukowski	1	0	2
Wennbold	0	0	0
Williams	5	2	12
Sieber	0	1	1
	20	8	48

Independents	G	F	T
Conklin	0	3	3
Bratt	3	3	9
Wirth	2	1	5
Roberts	3	4	10
Stauffer	0	0	0
Winters	0	0	0
Reid	1	1	3
Mantley	0	2	2
Dennis	0	0	0
Rapp	0	1	1
	9	15	33

HERB STEIGLER and PETE BRATT go way up into the air as referee GEORGE ROVERE tosses the ball up to start last night's intramural all-star game at Archbold gym. The fraternity stars won the contest, 48-33. Photos by John Johnsrud

Phi Delts Clinch University Title; Defeat Deacons

By ART STERNBERG

Among the more trite phrases in sports is the ever popular "Wait 'til next year" slogan. Last night the Phi Delta Thetas, realizing that sometimes myths do come true, proved their faith in them by winning the first University intrabasketball championship in nearly 15 years.

The Phi Delts, who perennially have top hoop fives, finally copped the championship last night at Archbold Gym by beating the Independent leaders, the Deacons, by a decisive 44-34 score.

THE GAME, which got pretty rough in many spots, was controlled all the way by the winners. Phi Delt, led by Sig Sieber and Ron Tyler, took an early lead in the first quarter of play and were never headed thereafter.

The Deacons played most of game with a possession type style but began pressing as soon as the last quarter got underway. Their close guarding of the opposition cost them much fouling and made frequent substitution of men more necessary than desired.

At halftime, the Phi Delts led, 16-12. Tyler had sparked his team thus far, converting some classy jump shots and scoring nine points throughout the first two periods of play. The fraternitymen speeded up their pace in the third quarter, building the leading margin to six points.

It was during this time at Ron Mantley of the Deacons made the play of the game. A teammate had stolen a pass near his own backboard and flung it high over Mantley's head. However, Ron, who had been playing pivot, leaped desperately for the ball, barely grasped it, and tapped it backwards into the basket.

But this fine effort was not enough to further incite his team. The Phi Delts' steady type of ballhandling enabled them to compile a 14 point lead late in the fourth quarter and finally win out, 44-34.

The Box Score:

Phi Delta Theta	G	F	T	Deacons	G	F	T
Kerr, f	0	0	2	Mantley, f	3	1	7
Brattle, f	0	0	0	S. Wirth, f	1	3	5
Sieber, c	4	2	10	Gordon, c	5	2	12
Tyler, g	4	3	11	Bratt, g	2	0	4
Cohne, g	4	2	10	Meiner, g	1	1	3
Newt	4	2	10	G. Wirth	0	3	3
McCall	0	0	0	MacRae	0	0	0
Finney	0	0	0
Milham	0	0	0
Daly	0	1	1
	16	12	44		12	10	34

Orange Boxers Fight For Easterns Tonight

LATE BULLETIN

CHARLOTTSVILLE, VA.—Six Syracuse boxers will go to the post tonight as the Eastern Intercollegiate Boxing tournament commences. Only John Granger, defending 139-pound titlist, and Artie Nelson, fighting at 147, will draw byes. Frank Guelli, Jerry Jaffe, Vince Rigolosi and Sam Alexander will engage in first-round competition. Larry O'Sullivan will meet Virginia's Pete Potter and Bruce Alexander will fight Bill McInnes of Maryland in semi-final bouts.

By JOEL FEIDELMAN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

The culmination of endless days of practice, sparring, skipping rope and the like for eight Syracuse boxers will be found tonight in Charlottesville, Virginia when the Orange begins a quest to gain their sixth straight Eastern crown.

For the past five years, the Piety pugilists have dominated the Easterns but Penn State has emerged this year with an outstanding team and is expected to give the strongest opposition to the Orange retention of the championship.

THE CHARGES of Coach Roy Simmons have been in the South since yesterday afternoon preparing for tonight's preliminary rounds; tomorrow afternoon's semi-finals and the eight all important final bouts tomorrow night.

Co-Capts. John Granger and Vince Rigolosi of the Orange are accorded an excellent chance of retaining their individual championships which they won last year. A third Hill mittman, Artie Nelson, will be out to regain the Eastern title he captured two years ago. Adam Kois of Penn State and Andy Maloney of Army are the only other returning titleholders.

Orange sophs Frank Guelli and Jerry Jaffe, fighting at 125 and 132 pounds respectively, are accorded strong chances of winning their weight. The Spoiler is favored in his class while Guelli is seeded close to Maryland's Gary Gerber and Virginia's Bill Bancrdt.

The outcome of the 139-pound class should raise no questions as Granger outclasses the field. Even pessimistic Simmie has put away the crying towel and conceded that Thumping John should win. Larry O'Sullivan is the Orange entry at 147 pounds, but undefeated Jack Stokes of Penn State or Maloney of West Point, the defending champ, are strong prematch favorites.

LARRIE O'SULIVAN'S chief foe at 156 pounds will be Pete Potter, the pride and joy of Virginia, Captain of the Cavaliers for the third straight year, Potter will be extremely hard to beat.

Rigger seems the standout at 165 pounds, but Maryland's Bill McInnis or Penn State's Jack Bretcher might have something to say about this, while Kois of the Nittany Lions should experience no competition at 17 pounds tho Syracuse's Bruce Yancey is expected to give a good account of himself.

In the final weight, Frank Hicks of West Point looks like the future champ. Representing the Orange in this class will be Sam Alexander. Simmie is hoping that Yancey and Alexander will garner some important points in the Orange quest for a sixth straight championship.

Freshmen Hoopsters Finish With 14Win-1Loss Record

By DAVE BENNETT
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Sometime back in December, a newly organized basketball team took the court for its first game of the then very young hoop season. The team was the Syracuse frosh and the game was with Ithaca college. It was the first intercollegiate contest for the untried yearlings.

Now, in March, the cage campaign has ended. The frosh are no longer an unknown quantity in collegiate competition. Instead, after compiling a brilliant record as a freshman unit, the team members have become candidates for next year's Orange varsity.

COACH ANDY Mogish's squad won 14 out of their 15 games this year. Only traditional rival Colgate was able to pin a defeat on the Tangerines and that loss to the Raiders was avenged later in the season with a resounding victory.

Moreover, the frosh won 13 of their games by a margin that was in double figures. Utilizing a blazing fast break and an abundance in height, the Hillmen were hard to stop once their attack started to click.

Vince Cohen, a 6 ft.-1 forward from Brooklyn's Boys high school, was the outstanding scorer on the yearling quinntet. Vin averaged over 20 points per game for the season and his amazing jumping ability enabled him to grab rebounds time and again against taller opponents.

And there were other high-scoring yearlings. Jim Snyder and Gary Clark, a pair of 6 ft.-4 first stringers, provided much of the frosh backboard strength as well as scoring power. Lou Stark and Vin Albanese were able backcourt performers while Jim Brown, developing late in the season, was a fine all-round competitor.

But the Tangerine squad had other talented players, Niel Wilcox and Jim Roper to name two. The excellent season record was truly a result of team performance and it was quite a team.

CADILLAC
LOUNGE and RESTAURANT
515 West Genesee Street
• New Policy •
Red Thomas Playing 9 -- 2
FEATURING JOYCE LEROY
Remember Us
After That Special Date
THOMAS RESTANI — Your Host
at the
CADILLAC LOUNGE & RESTAURANT

MONDAY AND FRIDAY OPEN 'TIL 9

3-Way SPRING COSTUME

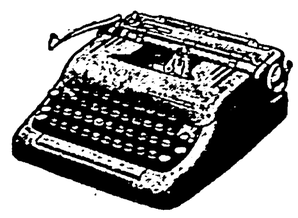
with mix-and-match possibilities. Imported English tweed topper, sweater and flannel skirt. Blue and white trio in fine 100% wool.

$49.95

PARKING

Engel's

Corona Portable Typewriters



The Students' Streamlined Portable Typewriter With Improved Features

Smith-Corona Silent ---------- $97.50 plus $6.05 Tax
Smith-Corona Sterling ---------- $92.50 plus $5.75 Tax
Smith-Corona Clipper ---------- $87.50 plus $5.45

We Have For Your Convenience
LATEX RUBBER TYPEWRITER PAD
Sound absorbing mats lessen noise and prevent machine from skidding.
DO THOSE PAPERS THE EASY WAY
BARDEEN'S
543 EAST GENESEE STREET

SIEGEL'S NOW HAS THEATRICAL MAKEUP
• Also •
The 100 Sheet Box of University Seal Stationery at Only
$1.25 per box
SIEGEL'S PHARMACY
173 Marshall St.
Phone 76-7194

Six Hill Tumblers Will Compete For Titles In Gymnastic Easterns

By AL GEFEN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Six Syracuse gymnasts will vie for individual titles, as the Eastern Gymnastic league individual championship competition gets under way this afternoon at Philadelphia.

Corky Sebbo, defending tumbling titlist, Co-Captains John Barkal and Ferdie Fournies, Milan Trnka, Dan Traficante, and Andy Felice will participate for Syracuse in the two-day competition, which will run through tomorrow afternoon.

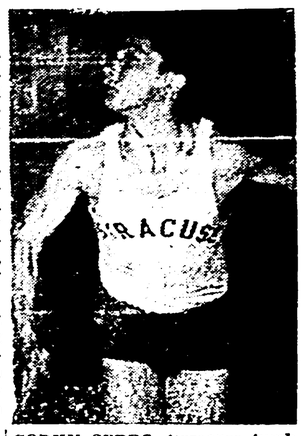
SEBBO IS conceded as a strong favorite to defend his tumbling title. If he encounters any difficulty it will probably come from Bob Munger of Navy, Joe Charles of Army or Bill Paxton of Penn State.

Corky will be the only Syracuse entrant in this competition while most of the other participating teams will enter two or three men.

Bob Lawrence, Penn State's crippled side horse defending champion, also rates as the man to beat in that event. The Pietymen will send Barkal, Traficante and Fournies into this competition.

Lawrence's teammate, Frank Wick, Bob Soltys of Navy and Anthony Coco of Temple figure to give the Nittany ace a run for his money in this event.

STATE'S JEAN Cronstedt, considered by many as the outstanding gymnast in the East, looms as the favorite in the horizontal bar. Milan Trnka of Syracuse could easily hook up into quite a duel with Cronstedt in this event.



CORKY SERBO, Syracuse tumbler, is favored to retain his Eastern crown against stiff opposition. He is one of six Pietymen participating in the competition.

John Cronk of Navy, Tony Procopio of Penn State, John Jengo of Temple, Bob Jellison of Army and Barkal should make this an interesting fight for Cronstedt and Trnka.

Army's duo of John Ballantype and John Funkhouser and Gene Scholl of Temple will probably fight it out for top honors in the rope climb.

The Saltine gymnasts' entrants, Fournies and Felice, could surprise and take the marbles in this one. But they will be forced to put out their finest efforts of the season if they hope to defeat Ballantyne and Funkhouser. Burritt Haag of Penn State figure as a dark horse in the rope climb.

AL WICK of Penn State, Trnka, and Barkal figure as favorites in the parallel bars. They will be rivaled by Cronstedt, Navy's Bob O'Malia and another Nittany Lion Karl Schwensfeir, for honors.

Procopio and Schwensfeir figure to fight it out for the top spot in the flying rings. Fournies, with his best effort of the season, could make this competition highly interesting.

Bob Shuman, who defeated Fournies in the dual meet between the Middies and Syracuse, can also be expected to finish strongly in the rings. John Bretcher figures to be Temple's main hope.

Hill Mermen Face Dartmouth Tonight In Archbold Pool

By BOB GROGAN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Syracuse university's swimmers end their dual meet season tonight when they oppose the highly rated Dartmouth Indians at 8:30 p.m. in the Orange pool.

Coach Ted Webster of the Piety swimmers rates the Indians on a par with Cornell which means the Orange must retain their usual role of underdogs.

The New Hampshire boys face Cornell on Saturday and Webster hopes they may be caught off guard for tonight's meet.

John Glover is the big Dartmouth threat. His fine times this season in both the 100 and 200-yard sprints may enable him to break the Orange pool record in one or both of these events.

Bob Downing and Ed Lesko, two steady performers for Syracuse, will be swimming in their final dual meet as Orangemen. Downing has lost only once in his specialty, the 200-yard backstroke, while Lesko has been either first or second in all the 200-yard breaststroke races.

Rooney Seeks Eastern Wrestling Title

By ALEX STRASSER
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Orange co-Capt. Ed Rooney makes his third bid for an Eastern Intercollegiate Wrestling championship this Saturday when Syracuse joins 15 other squads in competing for the EIWA championship.

CO-CAPT. ED ROONEY, 147-pound junior, will be Syracuse's chief title threat in the Eastern tourney this weekend at Ithaca.

Pittsburgh is the favorite to cop the classic, with defending Champion Penn State, Navy and Lehigh given outside chances of emerging victorious.

AMONG THE list of Panther victims are Penn State and Navy. Both Navy and Pittsburgh beat Penn State, which had a 35-match winning streak running earlier in the season. As the Panthers also beat Navy, they were made favorites to replace the Nittany Lions as Eastern champions.

Lehigh beat Syracuse earlier in the season and is given an outside chance of emerging victorious. On the basis of their 2-6 won and lost record, Coach Joe McDaniel's charges aren't given much of a chance of finishing in the top half of the teams competing.

Syracuse's chances for an individual championship rest on the shoulders of co-Capt. Rooney. Last year Rooney finished third in the 157-pound class, despite a chronic knee injury.

When he was a frosh, the freshman rule of eligibility was in effect. That year, the Orange co-captain finished second in the 147-pound class.

UNDEFEATED IN eight dual meet starts this year, Rooney probably will receive his toughest opposition from Rumfield of Princeton. In last year's semi-finals Rumfield upset Rooney on a decision.

The other squads that will be represented at Ithaca this Saturday are Temple, Columbia, Franklin and Marshall, Army, Cornell, Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Brown, Pennsylvania and Rutgers.

The only new team in this group is Pittsburgh, which replaces Virginia this year.

Besides Rooney, Coach McDaniel will be sending Dick Anderson, Ed Weisz and Tom King at the 123, 130, and 137 pound slots, followed by Garland Harris at 147, Hank Gobetz at 167, Murray Winer at 177 and George Finck at heavyweight.

ANDERSON WILL be making only his second start of the year at the 123-pound slot. Previously, John Husband held down the 123-pound starting position.

Saturday's tourney will be the last intercollegiate wrestling match for seniors Gobetz and Harris.

A familiar face that will be missing from this year's Easterns is Orange co-Capt. Chuck DeBellis. The husky senior was sidelined for the season following an injury suffered in pre-season practice. Last year DeBellis was runner-up in the 137-pound class.

Tonight... Let's Dance!

To the Scintillating rhythms of
Johnny Francher's Band
Smooth dance music, delightful supertime snacks, superb drinks.
You'll have a wonderful evening
And how about giving "tonight out" a big sendoff with dinner
Dance every weekend at the Travel Room!

Travel Room* Hotel Onondaga
PAT MILLER V.P. & MNG. DIR.

WARNING!

WARNING—More than once we have had to turn people away on big weekends because all our cars were reserved far in advance. Don't let this happen to you. If you have that "big date" or formal coming up soon, be sure you hurry and reserve your R. S. Robie Date Special now. Remember an R. S. Robie Date Special offers you:

1. A car from 6:00 P.M.—8:00 A.M.
2. Free Gas, Oil and Insurance
——All this for $5.50 and .07 a mile.

R. S. ROBIE, INC.
Address 104 MADISON ST. Telephone Nos. 3-6223—3-7744

MUSIC AS YOU LIKE IT
By The Tony Riposo Quartet
Featuring Lovely ANNA MARIE
(winner of "Chance of A Lifetime")
FRIDAY, SATURDAY NIGHT
SPECIAL FOR JAZZ CATS
LOU DESANTIS
And His Dixie-Land Five
SUNDAY NIGHT

Special Food Prices for Hill Students
CASABLANCA
253 East Water Street Phone 3-9512

遠東
Serving Mandarin Dinner
At All Times
There's Nothing to Equal
The Food at The
FAR EAST
121 W. ONONDAGA ST.
Chinese and American Cuisine
EXPERTLY PREPARED GRACIOUSLY SERVED
Open Week Days & Saturdays 11 A.M. to 12 P.M.
Sundays 12 Noon-Midnight Tel. 3-9880

SWEATER SALE
ORLON SLEEVELESS
BLUE, GREY, BEIGE
$4.95
SPRING PULLOVERS
LONG SLEEVE WOOL
LIGHT BLUE, LIGHT TAN
OR LIGHT GREEN
$7.90
BERNARD ALTMANN
LONG SLEEVE CASHMERE
GREY, BLUE, BEIGE
NOW $15.95
DON'T MISS THESE VALUES!
LUND'S SPORT SHOP
738 So. Crouse Ave.

SOCK SALE
MANY STYLES
ONLY 57c, 3 for $1.50
Originally 75c and 85c
COTTON ARGYLES
AT
ONLY 80c
WOOL ARGYLES
$1.55 were $1.95
$2.35 were $2.95
CASHMERE SOCKS
$4.75 were $5.95
LUND'S SPORT SHOP
738 So. Crouse Ave.

chappell's
dig these 'tweedy' sport coats!

OVER 200
IMPORTED ENGLISH TWEED SPORT COATS
at only 27.95 and 29.95

- the largest selection of imported English wool sport coats in all of Syracuse!
- amazingly low prices . . . shop and compare!
- choose from two most-wanted styles . . .

(1) center vent with 3 patch pockets
(2) double side vents with 3 flap pockets!

Spring's in the air . . . and here in our top fashion men's shop! So . . . hurry down, with your hubby, dad and son . . . and scoop one of these dashing sport coats. Another top buy of the season during our annual Old Fashioned Fair! Dashing, debonaire sport coats . . . all loomed and tailored of luxurious, imported English woolens and cashmere-wool fabrics . . . masterfully tailored to fit with perfection. Don't miss this great event . . . be here early tomorrow . . . scoop this new spring fashion at two spectacularly low prices!

• Chappel's Men's Shop—Street Floor Also at Eastwood

Frosh Squads Molded Many Standouts During Season

All Teams Show Good Prospects For Next Year

Although the frosh boxing, wrestling, swimming, and gymnastic teams had unimpressive records many of the boys showed great promise for the future of Syracuse varsity sports. Listed below are summaries of these sports and some of the stars of tomorrow.

Wrestling

Ably coached by Dick Beyer and Enzo Marinelli the frosh grapplers compiled a 3-3 record for the season. Wins over Colgate, 18-12, and Oswego State teachers twice by scores of 26-6, 28-5 enabled them to stay on the winning side of the ledger.

The early season losses to Cornell 27-10, and to Wyoming Seminary 19-11 and the second loss of the season to Cornell this time by a closer margin 16-12 marred the record.

Probably the two most outstanding grapplers and best prospects for the varsity next year are Don Clark with a 5-1 record, and Bob Smith at 167 who had a record of 6-0. Other prospects for the varsity are Ron Marinelli at 157 with a 4-1 record and Jaop Boozman at 147 who compiled a 4-1 record.

Jim Rooney at 130 compiled a 5-1 slate for the year his only loss coming in the first Cornell match, he later atoned for this defeat in the next meeting.

—Ernie Etoll

Swimming

The freshman swimming team ended its 1953-54 season last Saturday when they traveled to Cornell to meet the little Red. The contest was not as one sided as expected, but the dismay of our mermen, Cornell proved a little to strong and beat us by a few points.

The Frosh's final record for the season was 3-3, but the teams' record did not show the individual stars that were uncovered and who will swim for the varsity next semester.

Jon Buzzard, John McGill and Graham Vandeveer, were the outstanding swimmers of the past season. Coach Ted Webster said, "If I always had a freshman team like this we would have an excellent varsity."

—Jeff Wenig

Boxing

Syracuse university's Tangerine boxers gained a split for the season, winning 5-3 over the Plebes of West Point at the Point and losing 4½-3½ to Penn State's frosh.

Bob Rigolosi at 147, Nick Georgiade, heavyweight, and Lou Iannicello at 175 are considered to be the most outstanding boxers on the squad. Georgiade in his two bouts this season won both by KO's. Iannicello also had a clean slate winning both of his bouts via the decision route.

Rigolosi, third in the line of Rigolosi brothers, compiled a 1-1 record winning at West Point and losing at State College. He showed very well against 1952 NCAA champion Bob Morgan of Wisconsin.

Winners for the frosh at West Point were George Marks at 132, Rigolosi, Joe McCourt at 165 all by decision and Georgiade by KO.

At Penn State Dick Densha at 125 and Iannicello won by decision, while Dick Green at 155 fought to a draw. Georgiade ended the season with a knockout in the heavyweight class.

Gymnastics

With John Barkal and Ferdie Fournies graduating this year, Gymnastics Coach Paul Romeo will have to find replacements for them on the squad: Bill Hogeboon, a newcomer to the sport, shows promise in the rings, ropes and parallel bars.

Paul Barkal, John's younger brother, has come along fine in the past few months. He may be just the man to replace his brother. Another yearling, Frank Cipoletto, is a comer to the parallel bars. A Navy vet, he was a hand balancer before entering the service.

Although the freshmen had no formal meets, they have worked out with the varsity team and are expected to make the team next year.

Campus Notices

Daily Chapel, noon to 12:30 p.m. Dean Noble will speak.

Daily Orange business staff meeting, 2:00 p.m., Hellbox. Attendance required.

Freshmen interested in decorating for the dance, report anytime tomorrow, 8:30 a.m.-8:30 p.m., Women's gym.

FRESHMEN USP members interested in applying for Soph offices, call Don Fulson, Sigma Phi Epsilon or Katie Jackman, Tri-Delta.

Applications for junior class offices for PHA should be turned in to Kay Horan, Theta Phi, or Larry Lorentzon, Pi Alpha by Friday, March 19.

Applications for senior class officers for PHA should be turned in to Nita Chappa, KKG, or John Stetson, Phi Gam by Friday, March 19.

Applications for MSG offices for PHA should be turned in to Gail Brooks, AGD, by Friday, March 19.

Applications for sophomore class offices for PHA should be turned in to Myrna Horowitz, Phi Sig, or Norm Hayman, by Friday, March 19.

WAA blazer sale, 1 to 2 p.m. today, Board room, Women's building.

Sabbath morning services, tomorrow, 11:30 a.m. Dr. Fred Krinsky will speak on American freedom.

JSF religious committee, 1:30 p.m. tomorrow, Chapel Board room.

WAA badminton—all those interested in trying for a sports day March 27 must attend practice today, 2:30-4:30 p.m., Gym A, Women's building.

Panel secretaries meeting, 2:00 p.m., MSG building 30.

Methodist Student Fellowship, Sunday, 5:30 p.m., Women's building. Panel discussion — "Campus Gods on Trial."

Sophomores in USP interested in applying for junior class offices must have applications in by 5:00 p.m. today to Fran Feuerstein, Shaw dorm. Include name, address, phone, ideas for class, previous experience and activities.

Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, Friday, 7:30 p.m., Chapel lounge; Panel discussion — "Christian Experiences," co-ordinated by Herb Kagi.

All ticket sellers for the St. Thomas More St. Patrick's day party Wednesday should turn in tickets by tonight. Dead line for buying tickets is tonight.

WAA tennis, 2:30-4:30 p.m., Gym A, Women's building.

All building captains of the Syracusan meet at Alpha Epsilon Phi, 4:00 p.m. today.

Anyone intereste in working on the promotion committee for "Up in Lights" contact Sandra Elster, 76-2186, or Maria Heitz, 4-9450.

Pershing Rifles meeting, Sunday, 3:00 p.m. Uniforms not required.

The following people are assigned to work at the Daily Orange today: Afternoon, Maria Heitz, L' Goddard, Adele Goodman, Vivian Judge, Fleurette Reon; Night, Howie Van Kirk, Jack Reilly, Tom Long, Roger Kemp, Irene Nowikas, Myrna Litchman.

Final Tour of Castle Made By Daily Orange Members

By THE STAFF

Daily Orange Kastle Kids

YATES CASTLE, N. Y.—We who climbed it were the last.

About 30 Daily Orange staff members, ignoring March winds and a century of accumulated dust, made an informal pilgrimage yesterday to the roof of their beloved Castle.

The world looks different from the top of a doomed building more than a century old. Its chimneys and battlements are in juxtaposition with the red brick of an expanding medical school on one side, a gigantic angular veterans' hospital on the other.

Soon the isolation was ended as a junior editor climbed to the top armed with an old L. C. Smith and some copy paper. Perching himself where all the world was below his gaze, he typed part of the story that appears here.

Finished stories were rolled up and tossed via the winds to the world and the Hellbox below.

We had gotten out to the lower roof through a window and climbed ladders to the heights above. Both enchantment and disillusionment met our gaze as we saw the tarpaper roof, decaying wood and beautiful sandstone ornaments.

It was a photographer's paradise up there, with shots being taken of classic architecture and even cheesecake. Every background imaginable was there for the cameraman—the city skyline, the med school, the vets' hospital and even Crouse—against the eastern sky.

One photographer asked for smiles in a group picture. He was reminded by a despondent looking junior editor that they should be sad smiles.

Someone asked why we had climbed to the top—the top of our world:

"Because it was there," came the soft-spoken answer—an answer that under the circumstances might have been funny or melodramatic. But to us, it was the straight truth—"because it was there."

Reinforcements in the shape of more staff members, coats, Hershey bars, Pepsi's, film and copy paper came to the ramparts up the spiral staircase.

Some of the adventurers yelled, "Doctor, Go Home," thinking again of the impending Castle demolition. Others sang the informal DO alma mater.

". . . Proudly stands the Daily Orange
Twenty-one inches high . . .
May the prints be always glossy,
And thy subscriptions free."

Yates Castle is an ideal stage for Shakespeare; and the air resounded with "Tomorrow and tomorrow and tomorrow . . ."

Five o'clock was time for the Castle to be closed and for the Daily Orange family to return to the Hellbox for the last full day in the pre-fab.

We went back to the copy desks and vocally hoped that the medical school would be a great help to humanity. It will have to go far to make up for the loss of the Castle . . .

THIRTY

MEMBERS OF THE Daily Orange staff take a tour of the towers and roof of Yates Castle, soon to be demolished. The staff even turned out newspaper copy on the roof top. An excellent view of the surrounding area was obtained from this vantage point.

Staff Photo by Lee Jones

"LIGHTS" REHEARSAL

"Up in Lights" rehearsals will now take place in Yates hotel starting on Sunday afternoon from 2-5 p.m. The revue which was previously rehearsing in Yates castle will permanently be rehearsing in the hotel.

TV's University Reporter Will Present SU Activities

A pictorial panorama of Syracuse's major extra-curricular activities will be presented Saturday at 5:45 p.m. over "University Reporter," produced in the campus radio-TV center and telecast over WSYR-TV.

Moderated by Edward Jones of the radio-television faculty, the bi-monthly program features campus news and feature material.

THE 8-MINUTE filmed view of campus activities will include a glance at the workings of the Syracuse Daily Orange, Men's and Women's student government, Syracusan, Station WAER, Chapel board and the Outing Club. The organizations will be pictured during their actual meetings and similar operations.

The Daily Orange will be viewed from the angle of a story from "start to finish".

Scenes in the paper's Hellbox offices and the Orange Publishing co. will be seen. The Outing club will be shown during its recent folk festival.

This feature portion has been prepared by graduate students Joel Heller and Norris Heineman.

The program is produced by Jones who is assisted by Shirley Brocker. Arthur Hook is the film narrator and Norman Ross is the director.

Future telecasts of the "University Reporter" will include stories on the Special Education building and the razing and history of Yates castle.

WAER Weekend Broadcast Schedule

FRIDAY

2:58—Sign On
3:00—WAER News
3:05—Symphonic Matinee
4:00—Musical Heritage
5:00—This I Believe
5:05—Distaff Digest
5:15—Dinner Date
6:15—WAER News
6:25—Evening Showcase
6:35—WAER Sports Lineup
6:45—Date With Adele
7:00—Paris Star Time
7:30—Chicago Round Table
8:00—Evening With Music
9:00—WAER News
9:05—Music Magazine
10:00—Final Edition—News
10:10—Final Edition—Sports
10:20—Sign Off

SATURDAY

2:58—Sign On
3:00—WAER News
3:05—Showtime
3:30—Guest Star
3:45—Serenade in Blue
4:00—Saturday Matinee
5:00—Spotlight Syracuse
5:30—Dinner Date
6:15—WAER News
6:25—Evening Showcase
6:35—WAER Sports Lineup
6:45—Here's to Veterans
7:00—WAER News
7:05—Operetta Time
8:00—Masterworks of Music
9:00—WAER News
9:05—Portraits in Music
10:00—News and Sports
10:20—Sign Off

SUNDAY

2:58—Sign On
3:00—WAER News
3:05—Sunday Symphony
4:00—Crouse Concert
5:30—Dinner Date
6:00—WAER News
6:10—Inside City Hall
6:20—WAER Sports Lineup
6:30—Chapel Highlights
7:00—WAER News
7:05—Symphony Hall
8:00—WAER News
8:05—Opera House
10:10—Your Show
10:10—Final Edition—News
10:15—Final Edition—Sports
10:20—Sign Off

ECKEL NOW
The J. Arthur Rank Organization presents
Genevieve
starring Dinah Sheridan, John Gregson, Kay Kendall, Kenneth More
color by TECHNICOLOR

MEMORY LANE
INVITES YOU TO AN AFTERNOON OF DIXIELAND
LOU DESANTIS
AND HIS DIXIE-LAND JAZZ FIVE
SUNDAY, 3:30 to 7:30
2849 South Salina Street Phone 75-9549

RKO KEITHS Syracuse, N. Y. Phone 2-1307 MAIL ORDERS NOW
ON STAGE IN PERSON
MON., TUES., WED. — March 22, 23, 24.
Eves. at 8:30. Mat. Wed. 2:30 P. M.
THE FABULOUS MUSICAL GUYS & DOLLS
New York Cast Intact
PRICES—EVENINGS: Orch. $4.80, $3.60; Loge $4.80. Boxes $4.20; Balcony $3.00, $1.80.
WED. MAT.: Orch. $3.60, $3.00; Loge $3.60. Boxes $3.00; Balcony $3.00, $2.50, $1.80, $1.50. Tax included.
Mail Orders Given First Choice of Seats. Please enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope with Money Order or Check. Box office sale begins TODAY at 10 A.M.
ALL SEATS RESERVED

TOPS IN TOWN FOR FUN AT THE CLOVER CLUB
featuring
RAY CALDIERO
and his ALL-CAMPUS FOUR
DANCING
Friday & Saturday 9-1
NO COVER CHARGE
NO ADMISSION
SHAMROCK SPECIAL!!
JAM SESSION--DANCING
—and on the horn—
Ray Caldiero
From 6:30 to 10:00 P.M.
The CLOVER CLUB
Almond & Cedar Sts. Reservations Phone 75-9612

Now MIDTOWN Open 6:30 P.M.
STARTS TODAY
Syracuse Premier
2 New Hits
From an Academy Award Winner. JOHN FORD who gave you the "QUIET MAN", another triumph.
"The Sun Shines Bright"
with Charles Winninger, Arlene Whalen, plus the Secret Thrill that Every Woman remembers and will never tell.
"Sweethearts on Parade"
In Glorious Color
Starring Ray Middleton, famed Broadway star of "South Pacific."

REGENT
ON OUR HUGE NEW MAGNAVUE SCREEN
THURS.—SAT.
Tony Curtis Joanne Dru
"FORBIDDEN"
also
Joel McCrea Yvonne DeCarlo
"BORDER RIVER"
Color by Technicolor

PARAMOUNT
JAMES STEWART
JUNE ALLYSON
"The GLENN MILLER STORY"
Technicolor
FRANCES LANGFORD - LOUIS ARMSTRONG - GENE KRUPA
BEN PALLACE - THE MODERNAIRES
Also "BLACK FURY" in color

DRUMLINS
Dancing Every Saturday Night
One of the Largest Ballrooms
in Central New York
Williamson's Parisians ★ Dick Kowell's Orchestra
Tomorrow Night Dick Kowell's Orchestra
$1.75 per couple (tax inc.)
City Bus Marked Drumlins
Dancing 8:30 to 12:30

Finest Quality
DIAMOND
Solitaires . . . and only $200
Flawless HOWE quality diamonds . . . the finest money can buy! Beyond your means? Not at all! These four beautiful engagement solitaires illustrate how our quality diamonds are within the reach of all!
DIVIDED PAYMENTS AT NO ADDITIONAL CHARGE
Open Monday Evenings
H. J. HOWE Inc.
Two Hundred One South Salina
Independent Jewelers Since 1860

CLASSIFIED ADS

IMPORTANT NOTICE—CLASSIFIED ADS to appear in this paper should be DELIVERED at the HELLBOX Classified desk between 1 and 3 p.m. NO ADS WILL BE ACCEPTED AFTER 3. ALL ADS MUST BE IN 2 DAYS IN ADVANCE. For further information call 4-7206.

ALL LOST ARTICLES should be turned into the CENTRAL LOST AND FOUND ROOM, 20 Bldg. 24 at 205 University Pl. Articles can be claimed there.

AUTO DRIVING INSTRUCTION. Learn to drive easily, correctly and safely. Call Upstate Auto Driving School. Phone 8-4040.

TYPEWRITERS RENTED: $3.00 per month, $8 3 months. Good selection. We deliver, Smith Brothers. 4-8833.

Typewriters rentals—New Models Reasonable Rates—Expert Service, All Makes—CORNER STORE.

SUMMER DAY camp counselors. Two men, one woman. Salary depends on experience. Weekends free. May live in. Elmcrest Children's Center. 72-4496.

SALE: Oldsmobile '41 Coupe, with hydromatic drive. A-1 condition. 49,000 mileage. Has been a second car. Good tires. New battery. Call 76-8203 to inspect on campus. $140.

PONTIAC COUPE 1940, radio & heater, good condition, $150. Phone 74-4651 between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. after 5 p.m. 72-2405.

WANTED: Ride to Boston. Monday afternoon or evening. Will pay for transportation, 4-7206 between 1-3 p.m.

BUICK, 1950. 4-door, Super Riviere. Top condition, dynaflow, fully equipped. Two cars, must sell one, 108 Winchell Road. University Heights, 75-4226.

EXPERT TYPING done in my home. 4-4220. Mrs. E. Garelick.

WANT LARGE UNFURNISHED ROOM: store or studio, few days a month by photographer. Arnold Marsa. 76-4411 ext. 2153. 72-4754 after 7 p.m.

IMMEDIATE OPENING—Sales work for clean cut young man, 25-35, to show nationally advertised fine table settings. Under consultant direction of Emily Post. Car necessary. Complete training and all equipment our expense. For interview call Mrs. Young, 8-1196.

FOR SALE: Remington Portable Typewriter. Call 75-0215 after 7 p.m.

EXPERT TYPING, theses and term papers. Mrs. Raymond Webb, 2-1884.

TEMPLE ADATH YESHURUN. Corner Harrison and South Crouse Ave. Week day services 7:30 a.m.

MIMEOGRAPHING, SAME DAY SERVICE, EXCELLENT WORK FREEMAN LETTER CO., ECKEL THEATER BLDG. 2-4829.

ALTERATIONS DONE WITHIN A DAY: 4-5847. 5 minutes from campus. Lillian Potter, 207 Comstock Ave.

COUNSELORS—CAMP ADVENTURE Men and Women, 20—for positions in fine co-educational camp, Ridgefield, Conn. 65 miles from New York city. Athletics, General, Waterfront, Archery, Riflery, Fencing, Group Heads, Working Couples. Interviews Tuesday, March 16th, 2 to 4:30 p.m. Appointments for interview may be arranged with Miss Dorothy Osborn, Placement Director, Woman's building, Comstock Ave.

Excellent typing done. 860 Ostrom Ave.

FRATERNITY COOKS: If you are interested in summer resort work, good salary, fine living conditions, write: John E. Rogers, Neodack Lodge, Inlet, N.Y.

HELD OVER 4th WEEK
FRIDAY SATURDAY AT 8:15
ALYSISTRA
Romance Special
Pinned & Engaged Couples
Admitted For The Price of ONE!
All Seats $1.00
And $1.50 At
Drama Box Office

Last Hellbox Issue

Daily Orange Evacuates to Prefab 7

(See Story, Pgs. 4 & 5)

On the Inside

Interior Sketch of New Hellbox. See Page 6.

SYRACUSE Daily Orange

Inside Peek Of DO: How It Works

Vol. 51, No. 89 | Syracuse, N. Y., Monday, March 15, 1954 | 8 Pages—5 Cents

Dance Studio Set For College Quiz

The tape-recorded broadcast of NBC's "College Bowl Quiz" which will feature a panel of four students from Syracuse university, will be presented at 8:30 p.m., Thursday March 25 in the dance studio of the Women's building.

The program, which is actually broadcast nationwide 6 p.m. March 28, will pit Syracuse against another college or university in a test of knowledge. The broadcast will be heard locally over station WSYR which is handling technical aspects of the show.

A studio audience will be admitted to the dance studio for the broadcast recording. The room is limited to a capacity of 350 persons. According to Edward C. Jones, radio advisor to Syracuse's participation, arrangements for distribution of tickets to the show are currently being worked out.

The four panelists are Janet Caro, Jane Bauer, John Beach, and Raymond Guenter. Alternates are Elizabeth Brydon, Jean Brydon, Ronald Goress and Nancy Whittier. Syracuse's opponent in the contest will be unknown until a week before the broadcast.

"College Quiz Bowl", moderated by NBC's Allen Ludden, tests student panelists in a wide range of subjects including ancient and modern American and European history, American and English literature, classical and poular music, myhtology, the Bible, children's literature, philosophy and current events. A winning team goes on in competition until it is defeated.

The Syracuse panelists were selected last week by Dr. Edwin H. Cady, professor of English. Student participation is being co-ordinated by Dr. Cady, Dean Edwin D. Smith, assistant dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Dean Frank Piskor.

Bob Whitney of station WSYR will act as announcer or "referee" for the Syracuse portion of the broadcast.

Chapel Installs New Chairmen

James Fellows and Bettsy Wright were installed as co-chairmen of Chapel board at ceremonies in Hendricks chapel yesterday afternoon.

Serving as vice-chairmen of the new board will be Annabel Cross, Arthur Kinney and Ethel Smetts. David Crossman and Mary Ann Lana were elected secretaries of the group.

Chairmen of the board committees include Gayle Kepner and James Maneval, House representatives; Joan Bosworth and Marjorie Clarke, Chapel service, Andrey Lou Benn, international students; Lou Ann Miller and Larry Steiner, music.

Also Robert Martindale and Gail Kepner, radio; James Fergusen and Harold Vikoren, ushers; Ann Wiegreffe and Lee Pierce, worship, Barbara Watson and Edward Everding, human understanding; Beverly Nason, skeptics corner.

Also Louise Garretson, library; Marion Campbell and Barbara Anderson, public relations; Barbara Elwood and Beverley Darrow, mental hygiene; Sherrell Wolever and Ann Schafale, social service; Marilyn Persse and Elsa Shimon, social hygiene.

PHA Applications For Officers Due

Greeks, Independents Eligible for Posts

Piety Hill Alliace will accept applications from all students—Greeks and Independents—for class offices and men's student government president, PHA Chairman Larry O'Sullivan announced yesterday.

Applications will be taken until March 19 as follows: soph class: Norman Hayman, Myrna Horowitz, Phi Sigma Sigma; juniors: Lars Lorentzon, Phi Alpha Chi, Kay Horan, Theta Phi Alpha; seniors: Anita Chappa, Kappa Kappa Gamma, John Stetson, Phi Gamma Delta; and MSG, Gail Brooks, Alpha Gamma Delta.

Drama Honorary To Hold Initiation

Five new members will be initiated tonight into Boar's Head, the drama honorary, according to an announcement by Jane Esmay, president of the organization.

The society works on the basis of having apprentices who desire to become members, working for points by offering their services to work on productions, presented by the department.

Apprentices who will be initiated into the honorary this evening are: Teri Seidman, Millicent McIntyre, Joann Reed, Suzanne Taylor and Audrey Hazlett.

BLAZER SALE CONTINUED

WAA blazers may be ordered between 1 and 2 p.m. or 4 and 5 p.m. today through Wednesday in the WAA Board Room in the Women's building.

Naturalist Speaks At Forestry Club's 41st Annual Affair

Before 600 students and faculty members, H. Raymond Gregg, Assistant Chief Naturalist of the Department of Interior urged the foresters to do their utmost to conserve natural resources, at a banquet last Friday.

Gregg spoke at the 41st annual banquet of the New York State College of Forestry Club, held at the Hotel Syracuse.

Awards presented to the outstanding students were as follows:

Alumni Memorial awards: Senior, Richard Schultz; Junior, John W. Bright.

Robin Hood Cup: William Fessel.

Barbeque Cup for athletics: Pedror Gonzales.

Papyrus award to outstanding senior: Walter Smith.

Alpha Xi Sigma award to outstanding student in each class: Senior, Foster Trainer; Junior, Kling Goodwin; Sophomore, Walter Rew; Freshman, Ralph Noe.

Chemical Rubber company award for chemistry: Karl Newton.

Photo Contest award: Sandy Stewart, Jr., Dr. Donald P. White and Arthur Flick.

Key award winners were: Dieter Kutscha, James Schaad, James Brewer, Robert Reimann, Walter Smith, Edward Morse, Gene Namkoong, Gary Sargeant, Frank Burggraf, Nelson Button, James Goodwin, Edward Stone and William Fessel.

Also, James Girytys, Robert Reimann, James Craine, Alton Cronk, George Tollman, Richard McEvoy, James Goodwin, Surge Demchuck and William Kratzenstein.

USP INTERVIEWS

All freshmen interested in applying for sophomore class office with United Students party backing should file applications by tonight with Donald Fulson, Sigma Phi Epsilon or Kathleen Jackman, Tri-Delta.

Applications should include name, address, phone number, college, activities and ideas for the class.

April 1st Planned For 'Gigi' Opening

Plans for the second production of the year, "Gigi", are now underway in the Drama department. Rehearsals for the play are in full swing, and the opening date has been set for April 1 in the Drama building.

The production which is under the supervision of Prof. Sawyer Falk, head of the Drama department, is from a novel by Collette, and adapted for the theater by Anita Loos.

PRINCIPALS IN the cast include Betty Schwartz and Shirley Fenner, both taking the "Gigi" lead on varying nights. Miss Schwartz is a freshman in the School of Speech and resident of Syracuse. She is currently appearing in "Lysistrata" and was also active in Children's theater

Miss Fenner is a senior in drama and a member of Gamma Phi Beta. She is also currently playing a lead in "Lysistrata" and has appeared in numerous Boar's Head productions.

Jerry Reidenbaugh, an instructor in drama is playing opposite Misses Fenner and Schwartz. Reidenbaugh, a familiar figure in Hill dramatics, wrote a play which the department presented last year, "My Heart Don't Say So."

Also appearing in "Gigi" are: Marlene Muller, Zeta Phi Eta, and a junior in drama, also Nancy Edwards, a graduate in drama (formerly a music major). Miss Edwards appeared in "Richard III", "Red Rose and the Briar" and was musical director for "Patience."

OTHERS IN the cast include: Ken Bowles, Fran Trantum and Millie McIntyre.

The set for the production is being designed by John Jay Moore who has added the unique touch to numerous other dramatic productions on the Hill. For "Gigi", a wagon type set will be utilized for the convenience of changing scenes.

Members of the production staff for the show are: Sheldon Wiener, who will assume duties as stage manager. Assisting him are Barbara Baird and Hugh Fordin. Pete Forward will act as technical director for the production.

Syracuse Nurses Offered Grants

Solvay-Geddes Makes Awards Available

Syracuse university is one of three places offered $200 nursing scholarships by the Solvay-Geddes Nursing Scholarship committee.

The scholarships will be available to students at St. Joseph's and Syracuse General hospitals, and at Syracuse university.

Applicants must be residents of Geddes or Solvay, and must meet basic requirements for admission to the School chosen. Awards will be made on the basis of aptitude, scholastic standing and financial need.

New Party Calls For Candidates

The newly formed Independence party has announced that it will be interviewing any student interested in applying as a candidate for any of the class offices of MSG. Interviews will be held tonight at 7:30 p.m. in 303 Maxwell.

If it is impossible for anyone to be there at that time, they are urged to contact Phillip Speery, Joseph Eaton, George Allen or Mary Cole, members of the executive committee. They will arrange for an interview at another time.

DO FROSH CLASS

Freshman edition of the Daily Orange will be criticized in freshman class, today at 4 p.m. in prefab 7 classroom. Attendance is required, and all freshmen should bring copies of the freshman edition with them.

$1000 Offered For Best Essays

Essays entitled "Why the United Nations?" may win lucky students a total of $1,000 in prizes April 23.

Sponsored by the Association of International Relations clubs in cooperation with the Youth's Friends association, the contest closes at midnight Monday, March 15. Essays should be turned in to Dr. Donald G. Bishop in the political science office or to Ethel Falkin at Alpha Epsilon Phi by Monday afternoon at the latest.

Only college or university students under 30 years of age are eligible for the national contest, and each entrant should be a member of an international relations club of some kind.

Each essay must be no longer than 1,500 words, typed and double-spaced on 8½ x 11 inch white paper. Entrants should sign full names, addresses, colleges, years and ages at the end of the essays.

First prize in the contest is $300 and there are also a $200 second prize and five $100 honorable mention awards.

Soph Named Orchid Girl

Sophomore Mary Ann Jensen of Baldwinsville was named 1954 Orchid Girl for the College of home economics Thursday night at the 20th annual orchid dinner held in Sims dining hall.

Joan Hollister of Cortland received an award for achieving the highest freshman average in the home ec college last semester.

MISS JENSEN, who received the freshman award last year, merited her orchid with a 2.6 accumulative average, the highest of home ec upperclassmen. She is an Applied Arts major and a member of Kappa Alpha Theta.

Miss Hollister, a resident of Wilson cottage, had a 2.75 average last semester. She is a Delta Delta Delta pledge.

Dean M. Eunice Hilton of the home economics college was toastmistress and made the presenta-

(See ORCHID QUEEN, page 8)

Coed Graduates Eligible to Work In Boston Store

Peter C. Quinn of Filene's will be at Syracuse university Wednesday March 17 to interview women students interested in job opportunities at the Boston department store.

Coeds who complete work in Liberal and Fine Arts, speech and drama, home economics and business administration are eligible for positions in Filene's.

Those who wish to see Quinn should make appointments before Wednesday with Miss Dorothy Osborn in the dean of women's office.

Filene's representative is one of several business people who are interviewing students of the University for the first time in a new vocational guidance program.

Three Frosh Coeds Vieing for Title Find Wallets Gone

Missing wallets, is a problem which three coeds who were vieing for a beauty title are now facing. The three freshmen were being judged to reign as queen over the forthcoming "Annual Engineer's Ball." While the judging took place in Maxwell auditorium last night their wallets were taken from their coats, which were deposited in another room.

Patrolman John Ludgate, who investigated the matter said that the wallets contained money and personal papers belonging to the coeds.

The girls are Nancy Garfiels, 515 Wescot t., Mary H. Bloom, Sims, and Jane E. Les Veaux, 811 University ave.

SYRACUSE DAILY ORANGE

THREE R'S OF A COLLEGE NEWSPAPER: RESPONSIVENESS, RESPONSIBILITY AND RESOURCEFULNESS

Page 2 Monday, March 15, 1954

Editor-in-chief ---------- Arlene Lambert
Business Manager ---------- Robert Goldstein

SENIOR EDITORIAL STAFF

Managing Editor ---------- Arthur Siegel
Editorial Director ---------- Hugh O. Muir
Executive Editor ---------- Janet Caro
Sports Editor ---------- Kenneth Lent

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Edward Meyer, Joan Nadelhaft, Phyllis Sirota, Howard Vankirk, Mary Vivian

Issue Editor ---------- Joan Nadelhaft

BUSINESS STAFF

Asst. Business Manager ---------- Sheldon Lessen
Layout Manager ---------- Judith Berman
Classified Manager ---------- Jean Jacobs
Circulation Manager ---------- Anita Freyberg
Promotion Manager ---------- Lloyd Eisenberg

News Editor ---------- Maria Heitz
Night Editor ---------- Howie Van Kirk
Asst. Night Editor ---------- Jack Reilly
Editorial Page Asst. ---------- Tom Long
Night Sports Editor ---------- Alex Strasser

Published by the students of Syracuse University.

Telephones: News, 75-5196, 75-5197; Editor, 76-1448; Business: 4-7266. Subscription by mail $6 per year, $3.50 per semester. Entered as second class mail matter at the Syracuse Post Office. Exclusive national advertising representatives National Advertising Inc., New York City.

The end...

Friday was a crisp afternoon and we were in no mood for sticky farewells.

We rounded the Castle and shrugged off the nostalgia we had inherited from somewhere. The Hellbox looked secure as we strode down the narrow hall inside the front door and rounded the corner to the editorial room for the hundredth time.

Things, unfortunately, were different.

The old room, and we use old in the fleeting sense of 11 years, was no longer orderly littered with the precious junk of over a decade.

Everything, instead of being piled casually, was revoltingly neat in boxes. The walls, that had accumulated notices and old front pages, had been stripped of their moulding glory.

We slipped in behind the desk and the boxes to get out another issue. We did . . . the job can be done in the most unromantic surroundings.

By 5 o'clock the editing and layout were done. We stacked the last of the papers and folders in a drawer and carried it out to the car.

We glanced at old prefab 32 as we swung the door shut. It had been home for a good stretch . . . we shrugged, punched the starter button and backed down toward the VA hospital.

Beautiful day . . . everyone should be on the move with Spring around the corner.

Editorial Director

...of a beginning

We have paid tribute to the old and have gloried in our remembrance of it. But we must sadly put these thoughts behind us to contemplate on the new world before our typewriters.

It is fitting, perhaps, of all the years when the Daily Orange should be asked to move, that the final action should be taken in our 51st year of publication.

We begin, therefore a new half-century in fresh surroundings. We can look forward to a second home which can grow in spirit with the paper, unfettered by any unwanted memories of the past. (And "home" it is for the many dozens of staffers who spend half their waking time within its walls.)

The time is not far away when the now still halls of "Hellbox add 1111111" will absorb the very energy and enthusiasm of those who abide within. It will become an industrious laborer with perserverence its only tool.

And so we wait . . . for the future and for the new personalities who will breathe added life into the home and its product.

And now to print again.

Editor-in-Chief

Farewell but Not Goodbye!

By ROGER J. HERZ
Editorial Page Writer

This is not intended as an obituary.

There is always the question as one moves from one place to another or sees progress destroy a loved part of the past as to whether it is a beginning or an end.

Although the massive carved oak doors of Yates Castle closed for the last time Friday afternoon as far as the University is concerned, memories live on and the Castle remains an influence in the hearts of many.

Trite to call an old building an influence? Not when you've lived, learned, and worked there, when walking through those doors became an accepted daily routine, and yet always a time of appreciation.

In the somewheres of the world, some people joke of their homes. Some joked about the Castle, too. But to our ears it was always done with a sort of reverence by those who knew the building well.

Here was a building of architectural rarity, one of the few extant examples of Renwick castle architecture. Within its stone and brick walls were a sweeping wooden staircase, stained glass windows, ornate interiors, an almost floor to ceiling mirror, frescos.

The building's history was a fine one. Originally a private home, it was the center of Syracuse society. There were surrounding woods and a dirt path to its door from the small city of Syracuse.

It went on to become a private school and then a part of the University. The School of Journalism was founded in 1934 and Yates Castle became its home.

The building has much tradition that will be carried on. The ghost of Renwick's young English bride roams the Castle towers. Secret passages and rooms four feet high are a part of the intriguing structure. And soon —they will have been a part of the intriguing structure.

Is the great love shown for a creation of beauty an irrational thing? Or the effort to save such a work of man set among the creations in the world in which he finds himself?

The Castle stands empty tonight. The parties of the distant past and the student gatherings of the recent past have gone. Eyes turn toward new classrooms and other buildings but the heart remembers.

We hold the Castle to symbolize a great many things. The decaying wood of the towers perhaps indicates change relevant to the world about us. The passing from the scene of a work of art perhaps will urge us to create anew.

It is indeed of great difficulty to leave. The closing doors seal us off materially from years that will be long recalled and will long provide inspiration.

Attachment even to a prefab can be strong. It is perhaps because one's work is so intimately tied up with one's surroundings. The Hellbox cannot claim merits of art, but it will probably never be replaced by the new offices during the time left on campus of those who worked there.

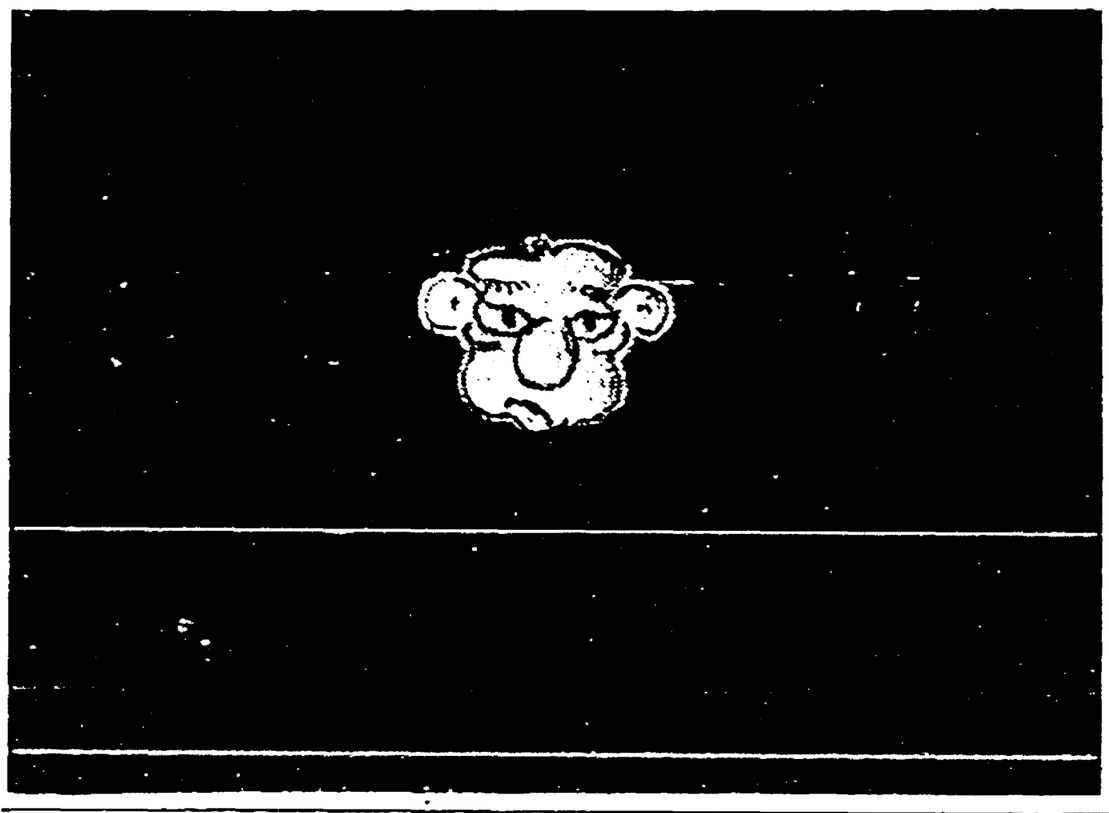
We who had the Castle as our home can be thankful for the days within its greyed brick walls. Those days that live in memory will hardly fade with the years, and as the almost-cliche has been stated, "The Castle will never die."

As we go on in a world of progress, we hope never to slow down such steps forward. We shall try logically never to advance at the expense of treasured accomplishments of the past.

We shall try to evaluate and pass along an even richer heritage to the future.

The Time Is Now!
for
Watch - Clock - Jewelry
Repairing
College
Jewelry Shop
703 S. Crouse Ph. 4-9062

Last laugh by Humor



A Deft Touch of Humor

By CHARLES SAMUELS
Daily Orange Movie Critic

Some British Whimsy

Britain is the undisputed mistress of high comedy and satire. The brittle, English humor, the deft touch, the British aplomb, whatever you chose to call it, inevitably adds up to comic brilliance. However, in recent years the English have shown equal ability in the field of slapstick. It will be good news to the devotees of slapstick comedy that the Eckel's new tenant "Genevieve" is the brightest import, of this type, from the land of the crumpet in quite a spell.

This sprightly little item has to do with the antics of a couple of antique automobile enthusiasts and their problems both marital and mobile. William Rose's script is well aware of all of the humor inherent in the situation and liberally peppered with the kind of wit and humor which distinguished films like "Tight Little Island." To add to the show is some wry observation on the rigours of married life and an amusing depiction of a wolf who divides his time between motoring and attempting to seduce his weekend companion.

The gentleman's ambivalence was much admired by this reviewer as his lady friend was played by a delectable young English woman named Kay Kendall. Dinah Sheridan, a British June Allyson was quite charming and the rest of the cast performed as if they were having a jolly time of it.

The harmonica was used with excellent results in the background score of "Little Fugitive." In "Genevieve" it is used for a different purpose but like the film it is a delight from beginning to end.

WEEK-END GOLFER . . . OR TITLE HOLDER

THESE CLUBS
WILL SAVE YOU STROKES!

Shooting to break 100 . . . 90 . . . 80 . . . or to take a title?

Spalding's sensational advance in clubs — new '54 Synchro-Dyned woods and irons — can do more to save you strokes than any other clubs you ever played!

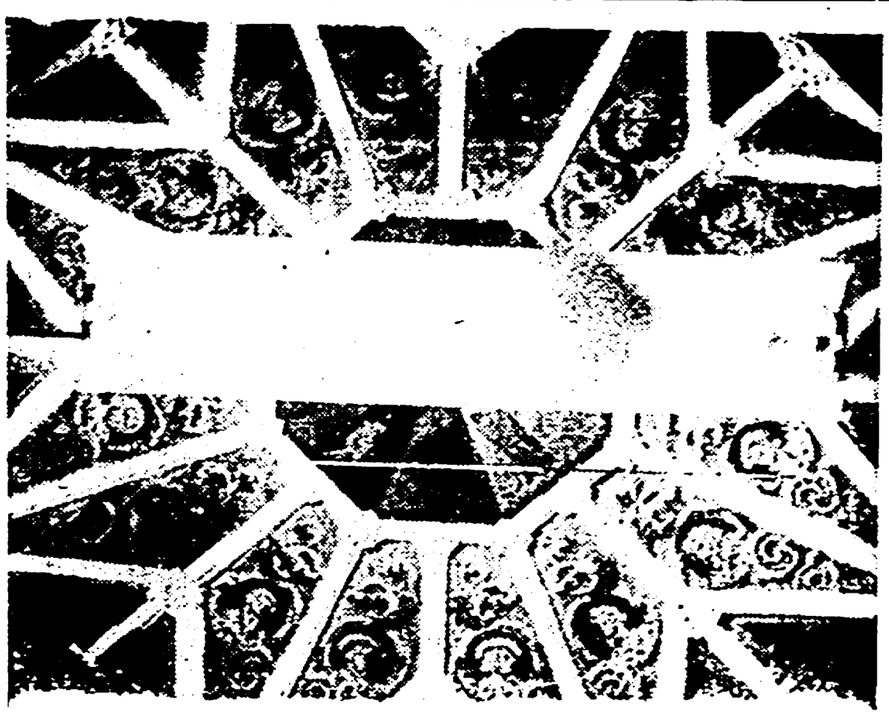
Reason? Try a few swings — and see. Every wood, every iron now has identical contact feel. You naturally swing freer, improve timing . . . get the ball away straighter and for more distance.

Will you shoot better golf consistently? Ask any golfer who owns a Spalding Synchro-Dyned Top-Flite set . . . and then have your professional fit you.

SPALDING
Synchro-Dyned
TOP-FLITE
REGISTERED GOLF CLUBS
SOLD THROUGH GOLF PROFESSIONALS ONLY

THIS IS HOW it looked quite a ew years ago, as that streamlined car in the foreground shows. Automobile experts in the audience can tell how old it is, but we put it about 18 years ago.

A MORE RECENT picture shows how the 18 years have changed the exterior of the 100-year building. From a swank private mansion to rubble in a century, the story of Yates Castle.



OLD AND NEW meet in the stained glass pattern, with the flourescent light cutting across to make the contrast of the old decorations and the new lighting methods. The same contrast of beauty and utility is apparennt throughout the building.

We wish to publicly pay our last respects to Yates Castle
The past few years
have endeared it to us
and to the family that edits The Daily Orange
We grew up there.
Art and Rog
Two Castle copy boys

DAY
MARCH 17
A GREAT DAY FOR THE IRISH

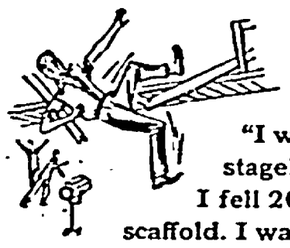
Special
BIRTHDAY
CARD
ST. PAT
GREETINGS
Shamrock and Flag Flavors
Napkins and Table Cloths

The Hill Bookstall
147 Marshall Street
Opp. University Hospital

How the stars got started ☆☆☆



Alan Ladd says:

"I was a Hollywood stagehand. One day I fell 20 feet off a scaffold. I wasn't hurt, but I decided acting was safer. I went to acting school, played bit parts ...finally I hit pay dirt in 'This Gun for Hire'."

START SMOKING CAMELS YOURSELF! Smoke only Camels for 30 days and find out why Camels are first in mildness, flavor and popularity! See how much pure pleasure a cigarette can give you!

I STARTED SMOKING CAMELS BECAUSE SO MANY OF MY FRIENDS DID. ONCE I STARTED, I KNEW CAMELS WERE FOR ME. FOR MILDNESS AND FLAVOR, YOU CAN'T BEAT 'EM!

R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.

for Mildness and Flavor— CAMELS AGREE WITH MORE PEOPLE THAN ANY OTHER CIGARETTE!

WHEN COL. YATES lived in the Castle, he demanded that its furnishings be the best. The large mirror which dominated the upper hall was about eight feet in height, and surrounded with a polished wood frame. The rest of the great hallway is decorated in the same wood.

DEAN OF THE Castle and Hellbox, FRANK LOCKE, poses in his scholastic garments. Frank, who lived in the Castle for 12 years, will take its destruction harder than anyone. He tended to it manny hours a-day and it was more than just a job to him.

PHONES RINGING, TYPEWRITERS c[l]ers screaming are the apparent parts of [e]each issue of The Daily Orange. What d[o]the hours of hard work, and the staying [a]g and report-[ers] to make sure that students get their 9 a.m. copy of the paper. [D]go into making [i]'t show here is [a]ntil 2 or 3 a.m.

IT'S PRETTY HARD to read type upside down, but that's how it is put into the chases before printing. The girl standing on her head is Ruth Anderson, one of the frosh edition editors.

LINOTYPE OPERATOR Ben Simonds tries to puzzle out a student's copy. Just out of the picture is Joe Fredericks, the other Linotype operator.

Staff Photos by Lee Jones

Students go Through Dai[l]y Routine In Producing Newspaper fo[r] Campus

Arlene Lambert

Robert Goldstein

Arthur Siegel

By ARTHUR SIEGEL
Daily Orange Managing Editor

Losing an old pre-fab isn't enough to hurt The Daily Orange.

But if anyone thinks we're happy about leaving Irving ave. and the Hellbox—even for a central campus location—well, they're dead wrong.

We try to be like the mailmen. When there's a paper to be published, it's published.

It's no small job for the staff members Many of them work more than 10 hours a week for the paper. Many of their exams that should come back "A" read instead "C" or "D" because of that late story or the broken engraving machine.

Those that think it's worth it remain. The others quit.
Most remain.

For nearly all of them the payment is not in gold coin. For many it's a byline . . . or a promotion . . . or a favorable comment about a story.

And, apparently, that's payment enough.

The business of putting out a daily paper begins—well, let's start in the morning.

During coffee, the reporters think of material for the next day's paper. As soon as they get a chance, they see the persons on their beats who can give them copy. They interrogate, investigate and even snoop a bit.

Early in the afternoon, they come down to the office to write their stories. The managing editor then assigns the reporters to particular stories: meetings, sessions with mediums, political harangues, ice shows and even cake baking contests.

And away they go, to coin a bad cliche.

As the copy comes in, the afternoon editor, sitting around a circular copy desk, reads the copy for punctuation, style, grammar and correctness of fact. Then he "schedules" it.

Staff members who are assigned for the afternoon handle articles that are being phoned in.

Meanwhile, Hugh Muir is scheduling copy for the editorial page. He considers what cartoons, letters, feature articles and photographs will be interesting and timely for page 2. It may be a story about a runaway library or an interpretation of Edward R. Murrow's McCarthy broadcast.

Arlene Lambert, editor, is considering topic matter for the editorials. She is interrupted by phone calls from persons with gripes and comments, and is coordinating what may seem to the outsider to be an ugly mess, but what really is—we hope—an efficiently-running organization that will meet the deadline.

Ken Lent is rallying the sports staff around to discuss what will be covered and who will send the wire story on the boxing matches.

In the inner sanctum of the business office, a group of ladies and gentlemen are mailing out copies of the day's paper.

Others, led by Bob Goldstein, are making up displays for ads and some [f]or ads

When the advertising lineage are totaled up, the layout staf begins to map in placement of the ads. At that moment, the sports staff, edit page staff staff and news page staff comes tearing in to plead that their pages be "light" because they have tons of "must" copy.

(As you see, we have our own vocabulary—one that borders on English and Newspeak.)

The deadline reached, each staff begins to determine just where each story will be placed, what photos are available and what headlines and "play" will be employed.

The senior editors are meeting to decide topic and policy stand for the editorials.

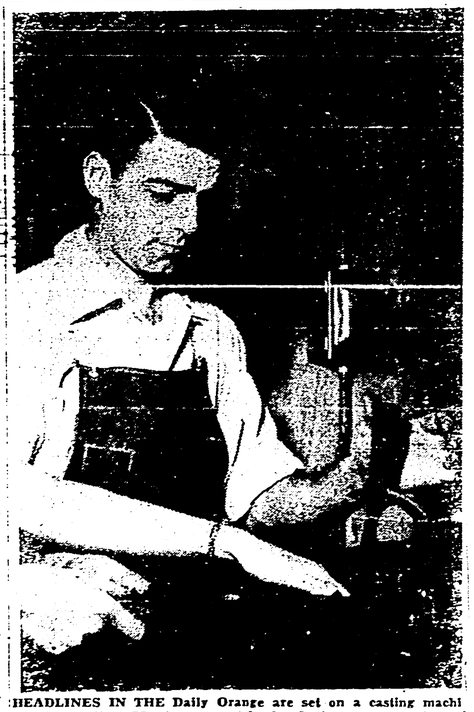
It's about the time that some persons eat dinner and the layout is just about completed.

The place clears out until only about 10 staff members and the senior editors remain. Late stories are being written and copy reading and layout is being "wrapped up".

About 6:30 p.m. (when we're lucky) the night staff comes pouring (?) in. The night staff immediately begins the headline writing chore.

Writing heads entails use of only certain allowed words. Each letter in

Union Printers Play Key Role In Publishing DC



HEADLINES IN THE Daily Orange are set on a casting machi[n]called a Ludlow. Matrices are set by hand, then cast to make ty[pe]These are placed end to end in the right size, and placed in t[he]paper. Emile Coulombe, one of the printers at the Orange Publishi[ng]co. shows how to work it correctly.

Staff Photo by Lee Jo[nes]

headline is assigned a certain unit count and each type of head has a maximum and minimum unit counts per line.

Meanwhile—

Down in the catacombs of the journalism center a curious machine that looks like something left over from the day the earth stood still is making a curious buzzing sound. 6

It's the Fairchild Scan-a-Graver, which makes engravings of all photos hat will be printed.

About 9 p.m., the coats are put on back at the Hellbox and the one-block now it will be more) trek to the plant begins The "plant" is the Orange publishing co., near Archbold stadium, where type is set and the paper is rolled."

Linotypers Joe Fredericks and Ben Simonds are setting type and Emile Coulombe is composing the ad sections of the paper. He puts the completed ads into the page forms—heavy massive frames that rest on heavy massive tables called "turtles."

But turtles move slowly. So do the night staff. Two of them are setting ype for headlines. Another is reading proof to ascertain that Mestrovik's ame is spelled Mestrovic.

Four other staffers are cutting type headlines and column rules and placing them in their proper positions on the page. One takes a moment out o call the Coke and Caper club for food.

About that time a senior editor drops around to see that everything is going according to all good New York Times rules.

And, if we're lucky, at 2 a.m., the paper is "put to bed."

The gals go home. And the fellas grab some coffee at the Toddle House, Sim-O-Dill's or Deb's.

There are, to be sure, variations on this theme, but that's the basic operation of the paper.

For Monday's and special editions, an extra process, implemented by associate editors Joan Nadelhaft, Howie Vanklin, Flip Sirota and Mary Vivian is added.

Probably the paper has as many traditions as the University and all of its departments. The Daily Orange staff observes and honors these traditions but it fools around only when there's no deadline staring it in the face.

We have a dean: that's Frank Locke.

We also have a trophy: and Frank gives it away. It's a bottle that once contained legal beverages.

We have a bovine skull hanging from the center of the newsroom.

And on the ceiling a sign that reads, "We're all going to . . ." Where is that place?

We have several happily married couples as alumnae—the results of romances that began over some hot type.

And we have the reverse, too . . . the ones that broke up because they saw each other too much.

We have a strict rule that the verb "to be" is never—but never—used in a headline.

We don't sleep much.

And we like cheese sandwiches and Pepsi Cola.

We think we're about the most important activity on campus.

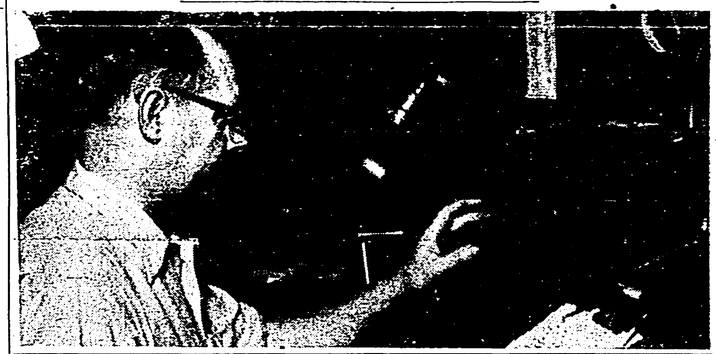
As for philosophy, we are independent politically—both on campus, and where the donkeys and elephants are concerned. Insofar as we have the ability, we hope we are objective and unbiased. We allow our columnists to write whatever they please, so long as it's in good taste.

We're not a bulletin board but we try as must as possible to cover all campus news—whether it's for an all-University function or for the Outing club's meeting on the library steps.

We like constructive criticism as much as we like favorable comment.

And, lastly, we like to think of ourselves as a family. This thought is a more powerful tie than our Greek and other organizational ties.

The Daily Orange—21 inches high, 98.33 picas wides, five cents a copy: to you—free!



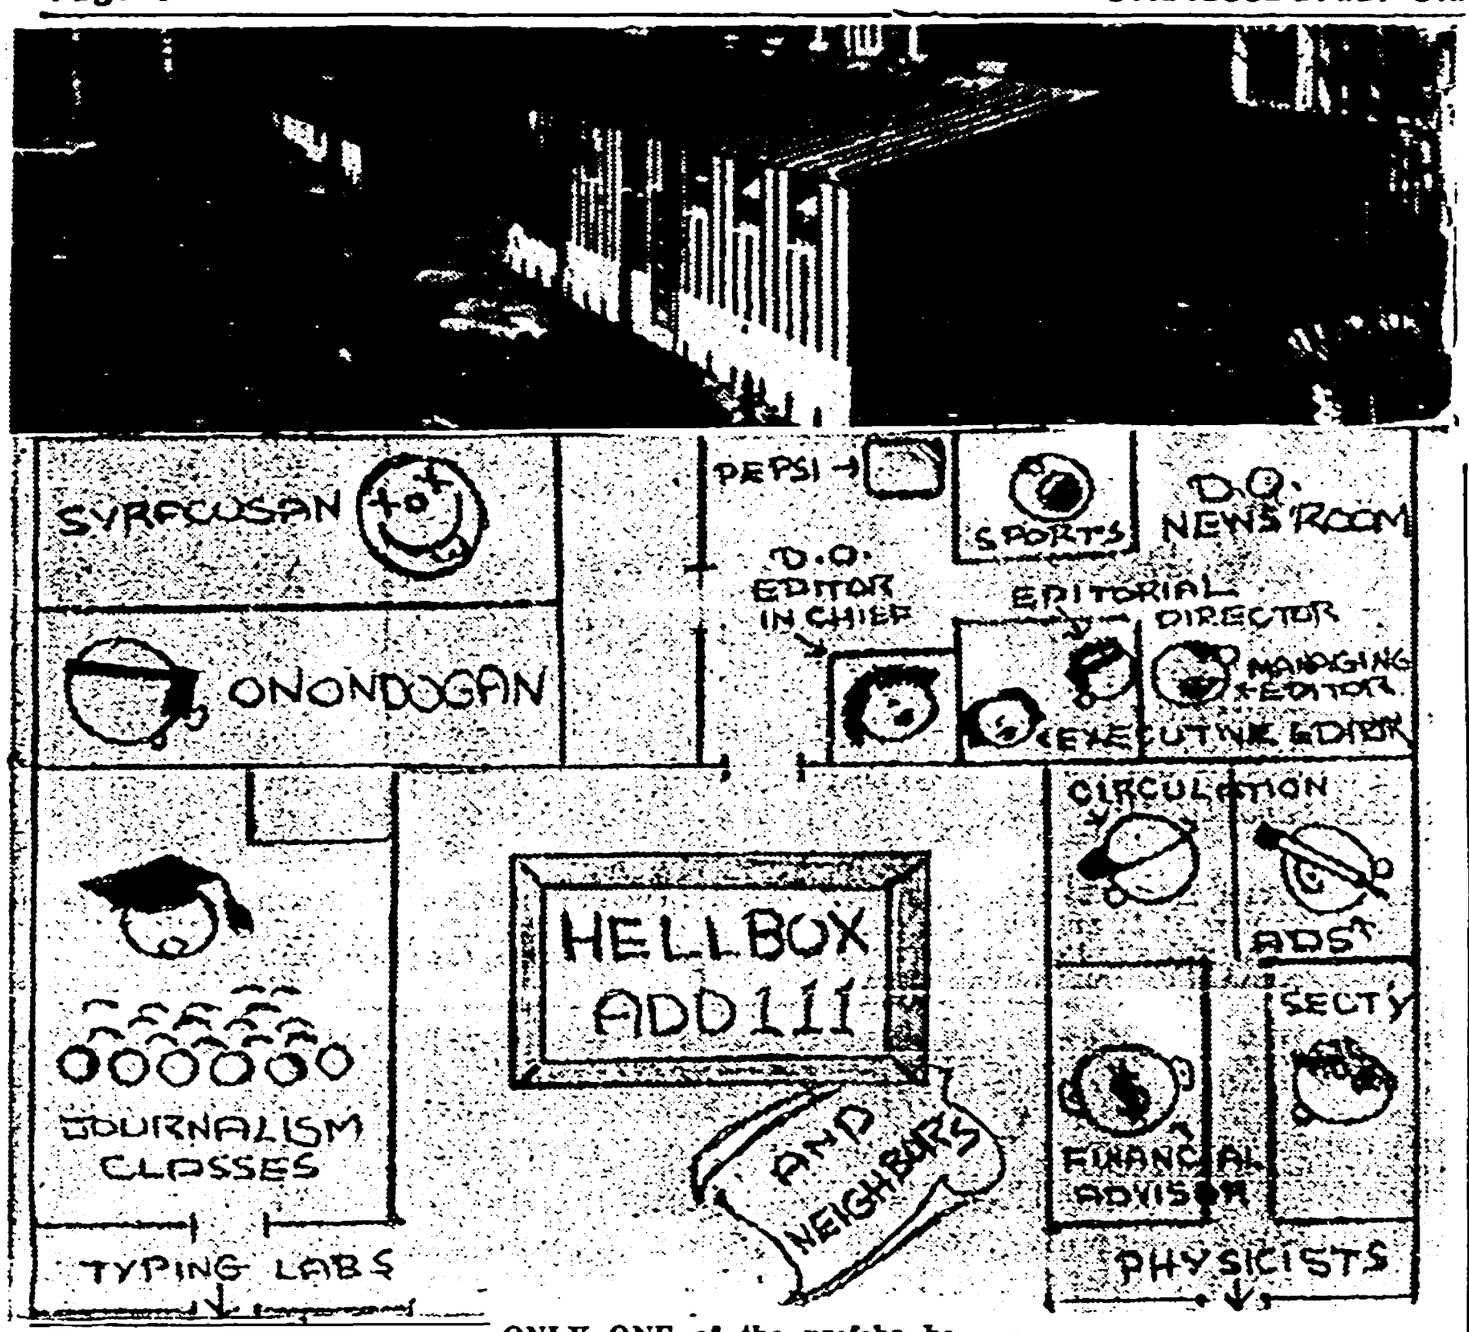
THE TELEPHONE MUST ring constantly in the publications offices, it's a tradition. So-o-o the Bell co. man must come to do his job before they can start. Those miles of cable will connect the editors and the staff, as well as make a link to the news.

JUNIOR EDITORS GET all the heavy loads to carry. Roger J. Herz grunts a little while carrying a box from old to new. It's probably an old cow's skull, and several trophies, including the junior editor's for the worst story of the week.

Hugh O. Muir

Janet Caro

Kenneth Lent



DO Alma Mater

With a little collaboration, staff members wrote the Daily Orange alma mater, to be sung to a tune all Syracusans know. Its feeling transcends Castle, Hellbox and the physical plant of the Daily Orange.

Where the vale of Onondaga,
Meets the eastern sky,
Proudly stands the Daily Orange,
21 inches high.
Rag we love, Orange,
Roll for aye,
Campus notices for free,
(Deadline is 3:30)
May thy cuts be always glossy,
And thy subscriptions free.

NOW IS THE TIME TO PLAN SUMMER VACATIONS!

Pine Cove Camp, Hiram, Maine. On lake in foothills of the White Mountains. Housekeeping cabins—one to five rooms. For rent and sale.

ADELE POSTON
145 East 35 Street
New York, 16, N. Y.

COUNSELORS — CAMP ADVENTURE

Men and women, 20, for positions in fine co-educational camp, Ridgefield, Conn. 65 miles from New York City. Athletics, General, Waterfront, Archery, Riflery, Fencing, Group Heads, Working Couples.

INTERVIEWS, TUESDAY, MARCH 16th, 2 to 4:30 p.m.

Appointments for Interview may be arranged with Miss Dorothy Osborn, Placement Director, Women's Building, Comstock Avenue.

Repaired Prefab 7 Becomes Hellbox

Newly painted, and fixed up to meet the needs of the new tenants, the Hellbox add 1111111, nee prefab 7, will have its first working day today.

Prefab 7, oooops, Hellbox, add 1111111, is part physicist, part journalism student, part Syracusan, Onondagan, and part Daily Orange.

THE FINANCIAL blood of the publications will be at home in the right hand wing of the building, along with the scientists, while the J-School will take the opposite part. There, the typing lab, and clasrooms will be the place where students learn the theoretical aspects of the trade.

In the center, the Syracusan and Onondagan, will have their new offices. They take the left side of center, no political implications intended. Their offices have been fixed up with special desks for magazine layout work and circulation problems.

On the right side of the center, the DO will have its new edit rooms. The old, black copy desk will dominate the newsroom for a while, at least, while the sports staff, will have a room of its own. The editorial director and executive editor have their own small office.

In a few days, the funny (?) signs will go up on those newly-painted walls, and the usual clutter will accumulate in all corners of all the offices, and the publications people will begin to feel at home. Soon they'll even drop the add 1111111 after Hellbox.

ONLY ONE of the prefabs behind Crouse, but prefab 7 is now home for the campus publications, and some of the journalism classes. Physicists work in part of the building, but will have to derive their formulas to the clack of typewriters.

INTERIOR SKETCH of the building, while not to exact size gives an idea of what it will be like in there, when all the activity starts. The central location should save the average DO reporter one pair of shoes a year in saved steps.

ADVENTURE 21st Year
EUROPE, 60 Days, $490 (all expense incl. steamer)
Bicycle, Faltboot, Ski, Motor, Rail. Also Latin America, West, Orient.

TRAVEL
Around the World, $995 all expense. Low cost trips to every corner of the globe. Congenial groups for those who wish to get off the beaten track . . . even trips for explorers.

STUDY Special Groups
LANGUAGES, ART, DANCE, MUSIC. College Credit. Some scholarships available.
See More Spend Less

SITA
Your Travel Agent or Students International Travel Association
545 FIFTH AVE., NEW YORK 17 • MU 2-6544

It's Later Than You Think

-CLASS RINGS
With Degree, Year
CHOICE OF STONE
WOMEN'S or MEN'S

Engineers include Degree Year and Choice of Stone

Hill Smoke Shop
MARSHALL STREET
Headquarters for Everything

SYRACUSAN

ST. PATRICK'S ISSUE

featuring

◆ Cartoons ◆ Jokes
◆ Fiction
◆ Sports ◆ Personalities

Copies Mailed Free
On Sale Wednesday

Scanning the Intramural Scene

By AL GEFEN
Daily Orange, Intramural Director

Sitting at the scorer's table last Thursday evening, it was a pleasure not to have to worry about writing a story after the games. All we were obliged to do was to sit back, relax and enjoy the doubleheader.

While watching the games, we saw many interesting occurances, which might go unnoticed to the average fan watching the games or reading about their results in the next morning's newspapers.

IN THE Phi Delt-Deacons' contest, the officials, George Rovere and Chuck McGlynn, were constantly blowing their whistles. Yet the Deacons felt that they failed to detect some of the most obvious fouls in the game.

Sig Wirth of the Deacons was the only casualty of the fiercely-fought battle. Late in the first quarter, he picked off a fist and suffered a cut right eye. The injury was not serious.

The all-star game started out to be a real thriller-diller. The entire first half was very closely contested and the two teams were locked in a 19-19 deadlock at the end of the first 16 minutes.

The independents were way off in their shooting in the first half. They scored only five from the field, while converting nine out of 19 free throws. The fraternity quintet netted 8 from the floor and sank three of seven from the charity stripe in the initial two quarters of play.

IT SEEMS that John Gordon of the Deacons was so worn out after the first game that he went down to dress and failed to put an appearance on the court in the second affair. Bill DeVries, an alternate chosen on the squad, took his place.

Fraternity coaches Jaskot and Besdin had planned to employ the two-platoon system of substitution, but had to change their plans when Mickey Kyff failed to show up. None of the Greek alternates were in attendance, so they had to play with only nine men.

After the independents had scored two quick baskets after the start of the second half, the fraternity team called a time out and went into a huddle. Herb Steigler started to tell the boys what was wrong, when Besdin chimed in, "Herb, how about you taking over the coaching and let me play?"

Steigler threw in the most beautiful shot of the game—a neat backhand underhand layup—despite being fouled on the play. Ironically, he missed his try from the foul line.

DOYLE ROBERTS certainly had enough chances to cash in from the free throw line. He had ten tries in the game, cashing in on only four.

Chuck Williams threw in some nice one-handers. Also, Sig Seiber and Mel Kline did a fine job of rebounding for the Greek quintet. Pete Bratt and Roberts did most of the scoring and rebounding for the independent club, receiving some able assistance from Bob Conklin in the ball-handling department.

Ted Kukowski reported over to the scorer's table late in the fourth quarter to replace Steigler in the fraternity lineup. When the timer blew the whistle, Kukowski remarked, "Wait 'till I blow myself up."

THE TWO GAMES, despite the ranges in scores, were very tightly-played contests. The boys gave it all they had and had fun in doing so. We certainly enjoyed watching them.

* * * * *

We'd like to pass on our appreciation to Bob Bell, who helped us in making this all-star game possible. In addition, we'd like to thank the game officials, the judges for the most valuable player, the coaches and the players for putting on such a good show for us.

Then too, we also owe our appreciation to those merchants who donated gifts for presentation to the game's most valuable player. Herb Steigler, recipient of the awards, sends along his thanks, too.

* * * * *

This brings to an end the series of weekly columns, "Scanning the Intramural Scene." We sincerely hope that you've enjoyed reading this column as we have in writing it for you.

Math, Athletic Dept. Teams Lead In Intramural Bowling League

As the bowling season approaches its end, the Mathematics and Athletic departments are tied for first place with 108 points.

The Mathematics and Athletic departments have been in the running for top honors throughout the season. As soon as the Math department moved into first place, it was deposed by the Athletic department and vice versa.

To date the high team score, without handicap has been 1122. This score was registered by the Foresters. In addition, the Foresters bowled the high total for a single game, without handicap, and the high team three game total without handicap.

INTRA NOTES—With the close of the basketball intra-mural season this week, intramural director Milt Howard, announced the opening of the handball and vollyball tournaments. The schedule for these tournaments will be posted on the intra-mural bulletin board. As in the basketball tournament separate fraternity and independent divisions exist. The divisions are divided into flights, with the winner of the flights fighting for fraternity and independent titles.

BOWLING SCHEDULE

March 15, 7:00 p.m.—Marshall vs. Foresters; Mathematics Department vs. Foresters.

9:00 p.m.—Stinkers vs. Engineers; R.O.T.C. vs. Holy Rollers; Athletic Department vs. Pinknots.

Dartmouth Mermen Down Piety, 55-29 In Orange Pool

Hill Records Fall Before Powerful Ivy Leaguers

By STAN ROSENFELD
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Coach Ted Webster's mermen, after completing their season last Friday night with a 55-29 loss to Dartmouth, are now readying for the host team role in the NCAA tourney scheduled for the 25th, 26th and 27th of March at Orange pool.

The Piety swimmers closed out one of their poorest seasons with but two wins against six setbacks. Syracuse's only victories were taken from Fordham and Buffalo, while losses were sustained at the hands of Pitt, Columbia, Colgate, Cornell, Williams and Dartmouth.

FOUR POOL records were smashed as the Green coasted to an easy win. John Glover, sensational Dartmouth all-American broke two records, teammate Tom Hust one and Bob Downey garnered one for Syracuse.

Glover cracked the marks in the 50 and 100-yard freestyles with marks of 0:22.8 and 0:50.0 respectively. His times also smashed his own Dartmouth records which he set last year. These marks are a high standard for NCAA swimmers to shoot at.

Pietyman Downing lead all the way as he won the 150-yard individual medley by several lengths and set the new pool mark of 1:39.5. The record betters the time of frosh John McGill who posted his time last month.

The first race of the evening which was the 300-yard medley relay proved to be the most exciting of the night. Phil Pendleton of Dartmouth opened up a five-length lead over Jim Sutton in the opening lap. Ed Lesko giving it all he had cut the lead to two lengths and set the stage for a brilliant winning spurt by Bob Beaumont of the Orangemen.

LESKO CAME up with another good performance in capturing the 200-yard breaststroke. Capt. Bob Curran of Syracuse was a close second and Daye Creighton of Dartmouth was third. The winning time was 2:33.0.

SWIM SUMMARY

300-yard individual medley—Won by Syracuse (Sutton, Lesko, Beaumont). Time: 3:08.9.

220-yard freestyle—Won by Hust (D), 2) Wilson (S), 3) Dodge (S). Time: 5:18.2.

50-yard freestyle—Won by Glover (D), 2) Heyn (D), 3) Lewis (S). Time: 0:22.8.

150-yard individual medley—Won by Downing (S), 2) Coffin (D), 3) Wilson (S). Time: 1:39.5.

Fancy Diving: Won by Cremer (D), 2) Bentman (D), 3) Gozigan (S). Pts.: 89.17.

100-yard free style—Won by Glover (D), 2) Beaumont (S), 3) Lewis (S). Time: :50.0.

200-yard Backstroke—Won by Coffin (D), 2) Pendleton (D), 3) Sutton (S). Time: 2:22.6.

200-yard breaststroke—Won by Lesko (S), 2) Curran (S), 3) Creighton (D). Time: 2:33.0.

440-yard freestyle—Won by Arsley (D), 2) Kelsy (D), 3) Dodge (S). Time: 2:13.6. 3:46.2.

400—yard medley: Won by Dartmouth (Heyn, Castlis, Hughson, Esser). Time: 3:46.2.

Misfortune Hits Piety Swordsmen

By ALEX STRASSER
Daily Orange Junior Editor

A swordsman is jinxed if he is both a senior and No. 1 man on a Syracuse fencing section. If you disagree with this statement, drop down to the fencing room and have a chat with foil veteran Sam Stornelli. He might straighten you out on this matter.

Stornelli joined the team in his junior year and before the season was over, he held the No. 1 foil position on the squad. Rated by coach Benjamin P. Burtt as one of the better foilsmen he has coached, Stornelli more than made up for his inexperience with his quickness on foot and blade.

SAM STORNELLI, former professional boxer, who has made good with Coach Ben Burtt's fencers. Stornelli currently holds the No. 1 position on the Orange foil section.

TO OLDTIMERS, Stornelli brought back the memory of Jim Mailler, who was holding down the No. 2 foil slot under the regime of former Orange Capt. Len Rubin. Mailler was known for his "volcanic style."

While Stornelli is not as swift as Mailler, he is stronger on defense than the former Orange star. If Mailler was put on the defensive, the match was as good as lost. With Stornelli, this is not the case.

Last year Stornelli turned in a .666 won and lost percentage, second only to that of Capt. John Goldstein.

This summer, Stornelli's convertible turned over when he tried to avoid a truck. Laid up in the hospital the entire summer, it was thought for a time that Stornelli wouldn't be able to fence again.

TO MANY a person's surprise, Stornelli started practicing in late fall and finally made his return to the fencing game, winning half of his matches. Pretty good for a man who just had a close shave with death.

For two years, Al Peck was either the No. 1 or No. 2 saberman on the Orange squad. Last year, Peck tied Stornelli for second place honors in the won and lost race.

With the graduation of Capt. Bill Robinson last June, Peck was left as the only experienced saberman on the squad. The other duelers had little if any saber experience.

Peck started the 1953-54 season in the same winning way he started last year. Then came the blow. Fencing at Cornell a few weeks back, Al made a lunge. By a quirk of fate, his opponent's sword ripped through the seams of Al's fencing jacket, under the arm pit and through his shoulder into the lung.

Under normal circumstances the blade would have bent, giving Al only a minor shoulder wound. Peck is now recovering in the university infirmary but will be out for the remainder of the season.

If you are superstitious, you better thing twice before joining the Syracuse fencing team, for who knows, you may be the No. 1 dueler on the foil or saber section. Did they say that history repeats itself?

RKO KEITH'S
SYRACUSE, N. Y. — TEL. 2-1307
Box Office open 10 A.M. to 9:30 P.M.
3 DAYS ONLY
MON. TUES. WED.
MARCH 22, 23, 24th
Evgs. at 8:30—Mat. Wed. 2:30
ON STAGE! IN PERSON!
BROADWAY'S FABULOUS MUSICAL
GUYS & DOLLS
NEW YORK CAST INTACT!
ALL SEATS RESERVED
PRICES — EVES.: Orch., $4.80, $3.60; Lges., $4.80; Boxes, $4.20; Balcony, $3.00. $1.50. WED. MAT.: Orch., $3.60, $2.60; Lges., $3.60; Boxes, $3.00; Balcony, $2.00. $2.50. $1.50, $1.20. (Tax Incl.)
Mail Orders Filled Promptly
Please Enclose Self Addressed, Stamped Envelope.
Tickets Now On Sale at Box Office

ECKEL NOW
The J. Arthur Rank Organization presents
Genevieve
color by TECHNICOLOR
starring
Dinah Sheridan
John Gregson
Kay Kendall
Kenneth More

The Broadway Musical Revue in CINEMASCOPE
Edward L. Alperson presents
Leonard Sillman's
NEW FACES
starring
RONNY GRAHAM · EARTHA KITT
ROBERT CLARY · ALICE GHOSTLEY
Glorious COLOR!
SING 'EM! SWING 'EM!
PARAMOUNT TOMORROW

Relax This Weekend
Syracuse Operetta Guild
Presents
H.M.S. PINAFORE
Fri., Sat., 8:30 p.m.—Adm. $1.00
March 19, 20 At
Museum of Fine Arts
Tickets At Clark Music Store or Museum

Now MIDTOWN Open 6:30 P.M.
STARTS TODAY
Syracuse Premier
2 New Hits
From an Academy Award Winner. JOHN FORD who gave you the "QUIET MAN", another triumph.
"The Sun Shines Bright"
with Charles Winninger, Arlene Whalen, plus the Secret Thrill that Every Woman remembers and will never tell.
"Sweethearts on Parade"
In Glorious Color
Starring Ray Middleton, famed Broadway star of "South Pacific."

REGENT
SUN.—TUES.
Jeff Chandler Susan Ball
Maureen O'Hara
"WAR ARROW"
Color by Technicolor
also
"DECAMERON NIGHTS"
Joan Fontaine
Louis Jourdan
Color by Technicolor

Prof. Robert Root Named to Board

Robert Root, associate professor of the School of Journalism, has been named to the board of directors of the American Institute of International Information, Inc. in New York.

The institute, organized in 1946 by Herbert Bayard Swope, has distributed pamphlets, news and other information about international affairs.

TOLLEY CUP

Fraternities who plan to enter the Tolley cup competition must turn the report in at the Dean of Men's office today.

Six weeks with Luther, 4:15 p.m., 101 HL, open to all interested.

Ski school students, must take their skis and equipment from their lockers at the Ski lodge by Thursday.

WAA tumbling and apparatus, 4:30-5:30 p.m., gym B, Women's building.

The following people are assigned to work at the Daily Orange today. Afternoon: Al Bartkevicius, Tom Long, Eileen Chamberlain, Lois Feldman, Joan Russell, Mollie Glazer, Lorraine Cipolla; night: Roger J. Herz, Liz Goddard, George Meek, Grace Frary, Brenda Morris, Peter McNally, Joan Rukler and Marilyn Teschmacher.

Scholarships to Aid Pittsburgh Girls

Scholarships amounting to $100 are available to sorority members whose home is Pittsburgh, assistant dean of women Ruth Haddock said.

Greek coeds interested in the offer may obtain further information from Miss Haddock, in room 108 of the Women's building or by writing directly for an application to Miss Audrey Green, Scholarship chairman, 5921 Hobart st., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Applications for the scholarships must be made by April 1.

PI SIGMA ALPHA

Pi Sigma Alpha, national political science honorary, announces membership openings for political science majors. Applications can be obtained in 218 Maxwell.

Orchid Queen Chosen . . .

(Continued from page 1)

tions. Ellen (Billie) Williams, president of Omicron Nu, home ec honorary, gave the welcome, and Dean of Women Marjorie Smith asked the invocation.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jensen and Mr. and Mrs. Duane Hollister, parents of the two award winners, were special guests at the dinner.

LAST YEAR'S Orchid Girls were Claire Church of Ashland, Ky., and Mrs. Patricia Sciutto of Syracuse.

Miss Laura Ellenwood, supervisor of home economics for Syracuse public schools, was the guest speaker.

Talking on "The Home in Home Economis," Miss Ellenwood outlined that a home economist has many choices for an interesting career. She stressed that the 1954 version of home economics focuses on the home and the family.

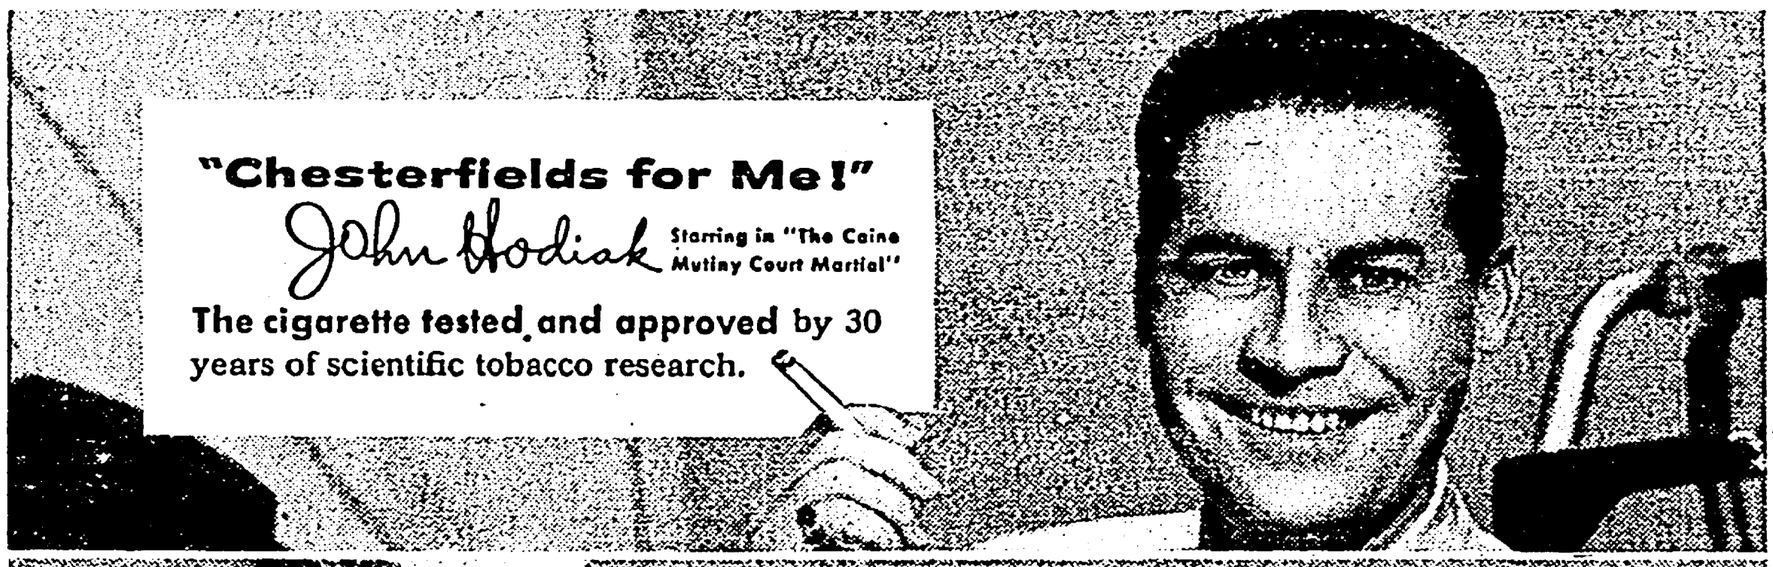
Outstanding members from each class were invited to attend the dinner, which was begun by Dean Annie Louise McLeod in 1934.

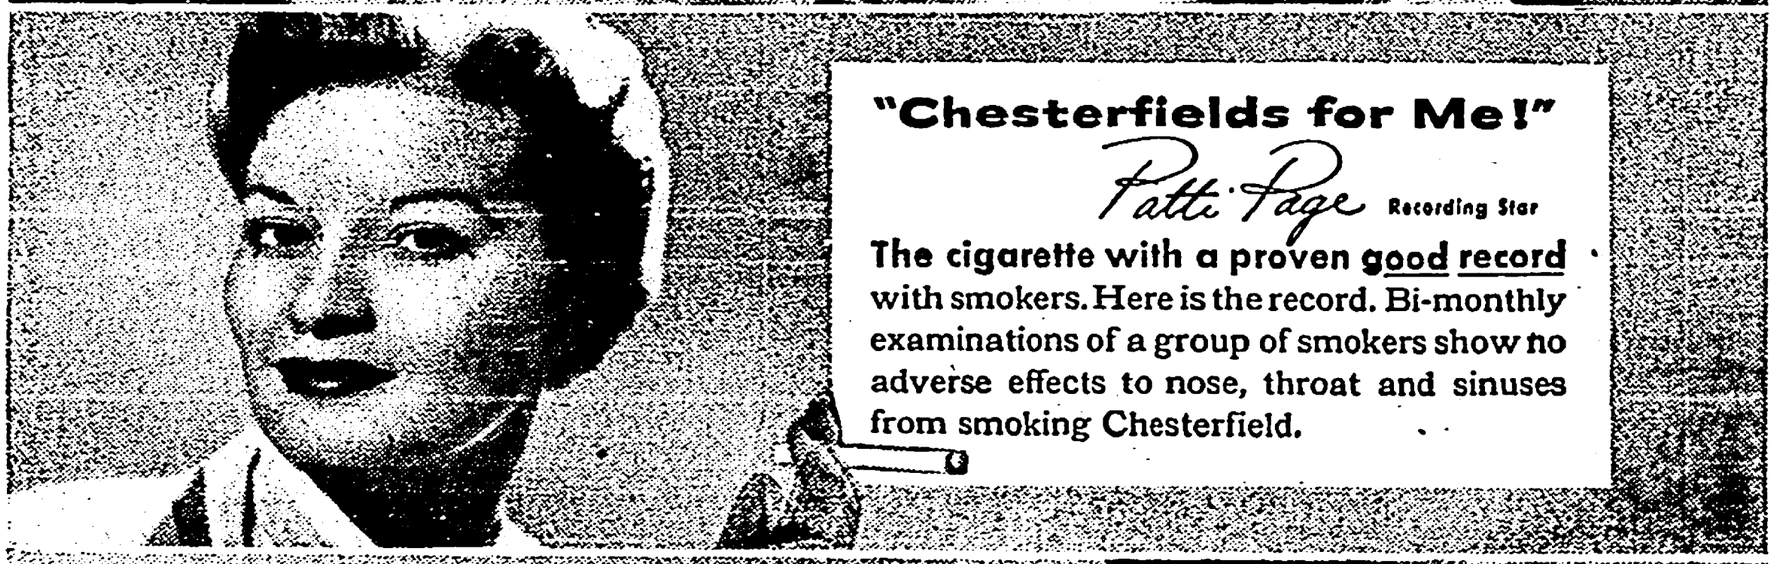
Applications Due For Law School

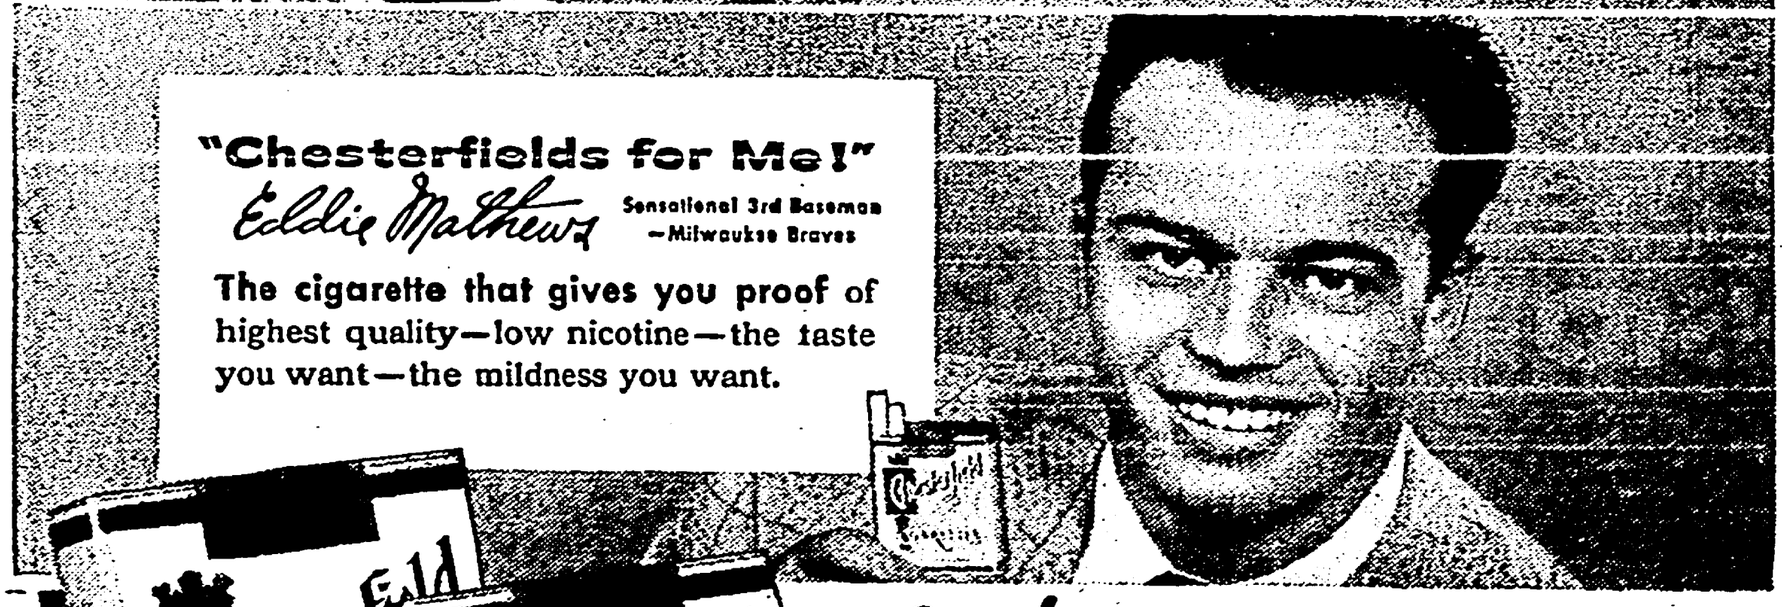
Prospective law school applicants who plan to take the Law school admission test at Syracuse university on April 10, must file their completed applications with Educational Testing service, P.O. Box 592, Princeton, N.Y. Applications for the test must be in no later than March 31.

A bulletin of information which describes the procedure for making applications may be obtained from the same address.

Today's Chesterfield is the Best Cigarette Ever Made!







Smoke America's Most Popular 2-Way Cigarette

CHESTERFIELD BEST FOR YOU

Copyright 1954, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

CLASSIFIED

IMPORTANT NOTICE—CLASSIFIED ADS to appear in this paper should be DELIVERED at the HELLBOX Classified desk between 1 and 3 p. m. NO ADS WILL BE ACCEPTED AFTER 3. ALL ADS MUST BE IN 2 DAYS IN ADVANCE. For further information call 4-7206.

ALL LOST ARTICLES should be tufned into the CENTRAL LOST AND FOUND ROOM, 20 Bldg. 24 at 205 University Pl. Articles can be claimed there.

AUTO DRIVING INSTRUCTION. Learn to drive easily, correctly and safely. Call Upstate Auto Driving School. Phone 8-4040.

TYPEWRITERS RENTED: $3.00 per month, $8 3 months. Good selection. We deliver, Smith Brothers. 4-8833.

Typewriters rentals—New Models Reasonable Rates—Expert Service, All Makes—CORNER STORE.

IMMEDIATE OPENING—Sales work for clean cut young man, 25-35, to show nationally advertised fine table settings. Under consultant direction of Emily Post. Car necessary. Complete training and all equipment our expense. For interview call Mrs. Young, 8-1196.

EXPERT TYPING, theses and term papers. Mrs. Raymond Webb, 2-1884.

SALE: Oldsmobile '41 Coupe, with hydromatic drive. A-1 condition. 49,000 mileage. Has been a second car. Good tires. New battery. Call 76-8203 to inspect on campus. $140.

FRATERNITY COOKS: If you are interested in summer resort work, good salary, fine living conditions, write: John E. Rogers, Neodack Lodge, Inlet, N.Y.

ALTERATIONS DONE WITHIN A DAY: 4-5847. 5 minutes from campus. Lillian Potter, 207 Comstock Ave.

COUNSELORS—CAMP ADVENTURE Men and Women, 20—for positions in fine co-educational camp, Ridgefield, Conn. 65 miles from New York city. Athletics, General, Waterfront, Archery, Riflery, Fencing, Group Heads, Working Couples. Interviews Tuesday, March 16th, 2 to 4:30 p.m. Appointments for interview may be arranged with Miss Dorothy Osborn, Placement Director, Woman's building, Comstock Ave.

EXPERT TYPING done in my home. 4-4220. Mrs. E. Garelick.

WANTED: Ride to Boston. Monday afternoon or evening. Will pay for transportation, 4-7206 between 1-3 p.m.

WHO IS SYLVIA? She's the slick chick who went to Sarkin's for a portrait. 708 E. Raynor Ave. 4-1145.

MAN DESIRES PART TIME WORK: 1:30 to 5:30 P.M. House man call after 6 P.M. 3-5838.

TEMPLE ADATH YESHURN. CORNER HARRISON AND SOUTH CROUSE AVE. WEEK DAY SERVICES 7:30 A.M.

On the Inside
Color television is discussed on page 2.

Syracuse Daily Orange

Weather Report
CLOUDY, COLDER
Low temperature ___ 20
High temperature ____ 35

Vol. 51, No. 90 | Syracuse, N. Y., Tuesday, March 16, 1954 | 4 Pages—5 Cents

Policy on Campus Parking Restated by Committee

Restatement of the Syracuse university parking committee policy was announced recently by Prof. William P. Crane, a member of the committee, because the committee felt "that many may not understand the limits within which it operates."

The parking committee was established to limit parking on the campus to the space available and to "try to assign spaces off-campus in a fair manner." The committee has nothing to do with the creation or manitenance of the areas, uotside of the right to make suggestions.

PRESENT POLICY is to grant on-campus parking permits to the following:

1. All deans, directors or department chairmen and full professors who have been at Syracuse five years or more.

2. All other faculty or staff who have served the University for 15 or more years.

3. Anyone over the age of 60 is automatically granted the privilege, as are Emeritus professors and a few medical cases.

"AS MORE SPACES become available with development of the campus plan," the statement reads, "the committee will see to it that they are occupied."

"It is obvious," it continues, "that off-campus parking lots are woefully inadequate and the committee would like to see large permanent parking areas created off-campus as part of the future development plan. Undoubtedly the Campus Planners have been aware of this and we hope will take some action to improve the situation.

Parking tickets go to the custodial and security office where they are identified and sent to the cashier's office for collection. "Follow up is slow but sure," the committee states.

Fines are graded, $1 for the first offense, $3 for the second and $5 for the third.

In student cases, if the fine is not paid within one week the matter is reported to the student personnel offices for action by the dean of men or dean of women. In the event of multiple violations, the matter is referred to the student court.

In the case of faculty members, the committee notes, a first offense not paid within one week is reported to the individual's dean or director by the comptroller. A staff violation is acted on by the comptroller.

Hellbox in Prefab 7 Formally Dedicated

Typewriter Ribbon Cut, Paper's Offices Opened

The editorial, sports and business offices of The Syracuse Daily Orange in "Hellbox Add 1111111" were formally dedicated at 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Ceremonies in prefab 7 were started with the cutting of a typewriter ribbon across the hall to the newsroom by Dean of the School of Journalism Wesley C. Clark.

Editor-in-chief Arlene Lambert noted that "we made way for progress and hope we will ourselves progress." A poem by Dean of the Hendricks chapel Charles C. Noble, which was titled "Ode to Hellbox Number Two," was read by Arthur Siegel, managing editor.

Next on the dedication agenda was the sprinkling of dust from the old Hellbox by Roger J. Herz, who noted that "Sic transit gloria munda"—with this passes the world's glory.

The formal dedication was ended with the dropping of a bottle of Pepsi-Cola into a newspaper-covered wastebasket by Dean of Women Marjorie Smith.

Also present at the opening were Carlton L. Krathwohl, associate dean of men, M. Eunice Hilton, dean of the College of Home Economics, Francis A. Wingate, comptroller, Frederick Pettengill, assistant to the comptroller, Francis E. O'Brien, financial advisor to student publications, Journalism Prof. Robert Root, David M. Norton, graphic arts instructor, and Mary Anne Dalton, president of women's student government.

"Add IIIIIII" is placed at the top of the second page of newspaper copy, with the third page being slugged "add 2222222," etc. Thus prefab 7 is the second Hellbox.

The entire project of moving from prefab 32, behind Yates Castle to prefab 7, which is north of the stadium and southwest of the Chapel, was finished by Saturday afternoon. This issue is the first Daily Orange written in the new building.

Four Greek Houses In Sing Semi-finals

Alpha Chi Rho beat Sigma Alpha Epsilon, and Sigma Phi Epsilon won by forfeit in the IFC singing eliminations held last Tuesday, March 9.

Acacia lost to Delta Tau Delta and Psi Upsilon came out ahead of Kappa Sigma in Wednesday's eliminations.

The semi-finals will be held with Alpha Chi Rho competing against Sigma Phi Epsilon at 7:15 p.m. and Delta Tau Delta singing against Phi Upsilon at 7:45 p.m. in Hendricks chapel, Tuesday, March 16.

The finals will be held at the Interfraternity ball, on April 3rd.

The judges Tuesday night were Dr. Irving Cheyette, Mr. Kirk Ridge and Rev. Arhold Nakajima. On Wednesday evening the judging was done by Miss Ruth Pinnell, Miss Arsine Schmavonian and Miss Ada Crouse. On Tuesday, March 16, the judges will be Miss Ruth Pinnell, Mrs. Lillian Cox and Mr. Pedro Losano.

March Syracusan Features Politics

St. Patrick's day and student politics: these are the sugar and spice that the March Syracusan is made of. Yes, St. Patrick's day it is. That's Wednesday, tomorrow, the day the Syracusan hits the stand all over campus.

And since student elections are coming up very soon April 7—the Syracusan people have included two articles on campus politics: "As Maine Goes" by Roger Herz, and a Syracusan Guide to "Campus Corruption."

But besides these, there's a photo feature on Boar's Head, by Joan Nadelhaft and Maria Heitz, plus a short story ("The Quail") by Hugh Ferguson. Then jokes, cartoons, and all sorts of humor go to fill out the rest of the March Syracusan.

Included will be a stirring tribute to the Internal Revenue department by Paul B. Sexton.

CLIP THIS: DAILY ORANGE PHONES LISTED

Because there is no direct entrance from the editorial offices to the business offices, The Syracuse Daily Orange must insist finally that no news copy will be taken at the number 4-7206. That number is listed by error in the directory as being the paper's number. It is the number only of the business office.

All persons wanting to contact the editorial offices should call 75-5196 or 75-5197. Editor-in-chief or managing editor can be reached at 76-1448.

Because of moving, if for the next few days either of these numbers is out of order, one of the other editorial office numbers should be called.

The editors suggest that living centers clip this notice and paste it in their directories.

Blood Drive Blank Deadline Thursday

500 Pint Quota For March 24, 25

Red Cross blood drive applications, distributed to fraternities, sororities and living centers, should be turned in to Mary Flavin, campus chairman, at the Theta Phi Alpha house by Thursday.

The blood will be collected from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. in the Men's gym on Wednesday and Thursday, March 24, 25. Students in the School of Forestry will contribute on Friday, March 26.

Quota for the all-University drive has been set at 500 pints. All persons able to donate are urged to do so.

Donors under 21 years of age must show written proof of parents or guardians consent.

Angels' Flight, women's AFROTC group, has distributed posters and will aid the Red Cross workers in the blood collection.

A recommended list of foods to be eaten by the donor on the day of contribution will be printed next week in the DO.

Students wishing to donate, but who are unable to obtain applications, should contact Miss Flavin at 75-3341.

Second Meeting Set By Geography Club

The second meeting of the Geography club will be held in room 316 Lyman at 7:15 p.m. All students are welcome, whether they are club members or not,.

Officers elected at the last meeting are President, Russell Briganci; Vice-president, William Wessel; Secretary, Margie Jones; Corresponding secretary, June Shaughnessy; Treasurer, Joseph Sieber, and Social Chairman, James DiCastro.

At the first meeting which was held last Thursday, plans were discussed for a trip to Toronto, Canada, and for other functions which the club plans in the near future.

Home Ec Group To Sell Cookies

The Home Economics club will hold a cookie sale tomorrow from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the basement of HL and Slocum.

The cookies are made by members of the Home Ec club. Proceeds from the sale will be used to send club members to different regional conventions and to the National Home Economics association meetings.

Chaplain, Crawford Meet to Consider Religious Problem

Further Conferences On 'Non-sectarian' Issue Indicated

The Rev. Gannon F. Ryan, Hill Catholic chaplain, and vice-Chancellor Finla G. Crawford, met yesterday to discuss the University's position as a non-sectarian institution. Statements made after the meeting indicated that more conferences would be held later this week or early next.

The issue arose publically last week, when The Catholic Sun reprinted Father Ryan's sermon to the Catholic students given on March 7. A letter was also sent to the vice-chancellor indicating some of the sources of the problem and asking the University to clarify its position.

Vice-president Kenneth Bartlett stated that the purpose of yesterday's meeting was "exploratory," and designed to review "procedural and substantive" matters which Father Ryan felt had developed. No attempt was made to issue a complete statement after the meeting, although it was suggested that more meetings between the chaplain and the vice-chancellor would be held in the near future.

After Father Ryan's letter to the vice-chancellor had been received, the University issued a statement which said that it would "deal in a friendly way with any problem which might arise with respect to campus religious activities and would take whatever steps would be necessary to lessen tensions as they arise."

Father Ryan had declared in his Sunday sermon of March 7 that the attitudes of the Administration toward Hendricks chapel activities was more reminiscent of a Protestant Church-related college than a non-sectarian university and asked for clarification of its stand.

He stated that "the issue did not involve personalities, but principle and policy. This is purely a case of our inability to concede that the head of one program can be the coordinator of all the religious programs."

Further meetings will attempt to clarify this question.

JSF Will Present Original TV Script

Jewish Student fellowship television will present an original script on WHEN-TV tomorrow morning at 8:55 p.m. The show will be presented as part of a series called "These Things We Share" which is directed by Jean Daugherty.

The JSF show is called "Dear Mom" and is the story of a girl writing home to explain all her activities in JSF. Maxine Levy narrates the script which includes Carole Leib, Barbara Katz, Mitzi Fields, Lenora Neiman, Ruth Barme and Dorothy Stein. The script was written and produced by Jane Issacson and directed by Milton Shefter.

The group will then cast for a fifteen minute show about Passover which will be presented on Sunday, April 11, at 1 p.m.. All interested persons can try out Thursday at 7 p.m. in 107 HL.

IFC Weekend to Feature Music of Elliot Lawrence

ELLIOT LAWRENCE and his orchestra will provide the music for the IFC ball on Saturday, April 3. Music for an all-University open house on April 2 in Sims dining hall will be played by jazz pianist Teddy Wilson and his quintet.

"Fraternally Yours," 1954 Interfraternity council weekend, April 2-3 will be highlighted by the music of Elliot Lawrence and his orchestra; and Teddy Wilson and his quintet.

The entire weekend, according to co-chairmen Robert Goldstein and James Messina, will be dedicated to Vice-Chancellor Finla G. Crawford, celebrating his 35th year on the Hill.

TEDDY WILSON, who will play at the all-University open house from 8-12 p.m. in Sims dining hall on April 2, is a world-renowned jazz pianist. Goldstein said he has appeared with Benny Goodman, Gene Krupa and other jazz greats.

Wilson recently appeared on "Omnibus," CBS television show, in a jazz concert.

Lawrence, who will provide the music at the IFC ball, has appeared at Syracuse university previously, and has been voted the Most Popular Band Among Colleges in American three consecutive times. His orchestra, Goldstein continued, has been featured at more than 300 college dances: including University of Missouri, Drake, Purdue, Iowa and Iowa State, Virginia Military institute, University of New Hampshire, The Citadel, Niagara, Florida State, University of Pennsylvania and Syracuse.

Recording for Decca records, one of his albums, "College Prom Favorites" is a result of his many "dates" at colleges.

GOLDSTEIN SAID that the IFC ball will feature a water show and a female water ballet.

Also, the Tolley cup, IFC Sing winners and the scholarship cup winner will be presented at the ball.

Dr. Martin Stresses Politics of Planning In All Governments

By PEARL BERNSTEIN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

"Wherever you find government you also find planning," said Dr. Roscoe Martin, chairman of the political science department, in yesterday's citizenship lecture.

Dr. Martin, in discussing the "politics of planning," described the present governmental setup as consisting of 120,000 units employing seven million people and paying out $2 billion in wages monthly.

"IS THIS forest of government adequate to the demands we have on it?" he asked. Government is a product of experience, and our modern technology requires that government adjust to our needs.

"If this is true then it is stranger we look with such dread on the concept of planning," said Dr. Martin. Many Americans seem to feel that there is something subversive about planning, but remember, he cautioned, that the men who made up the constitutional convention of 1789 were a bunch of planners.

That planning pervades all aspects of government and is vital if we are to have good government was the main point of the hour lecture.

Dr. Martin cited several examples of planning which are familiar to most Americans. Since our governmental setup provides for three levels of government, county or local, state or national, certain problems arise which do not naturally fall into the jurisdiction of any one.

THE RAPID development of metropolitan districts around large cities, like Syracuse, presents a problem in administration, since there is no governmental agency big enough to do the job.

New York city, with a metropolitan population of 12 million, an area covering two states and hundreds of local administrative units, has in part solved its problems by the creation of the New York Port Authority, Dr. Martin stated.

Other problem regions are those drained by common watershed, notable examples being the Missouri, Tennessee and Colorado valleys. Most of these areas cover several states and a multitude of industries and resources.

The only valley which has been attacked in terms of comprehensive planning is the Tennessee river region, Dr. Martin said. This was done by the creation of the famous Tennessee Valley authority.

"TVA fills the gap in govern-
(See MARTIN, page 4)

Panel to Discuss Bermuda Shorts

Bermuda Shorts panel, sponsored by WSG Social chairman assembly, will meet at 7:15 p.m., today, 305 Women's building.

The panel is composed of Miss Margaret Parker, University social director, Stanley Leff, MSG president, Elaine Kiebola and a representative from the Administration. The model for the evening in regards to the problem will be Nora Hutton, a sophomore in the College of Home Economics.

Judy Perry, WSG social chairman, announces that the panel is an outgrowth of feeling on campus of both men and women as to whether or not girls should be allowed to wear Bermuda shorts on campus. She says that, with the coming of spring, the question will be of great importance.

Social chairmen from all living centers will be present and everyone on campus is invited to attend. Miss Perry urges all to come and voice their opinions.

April UN Tour Set By ForeignStudents

Foreign students will have the opportunity to tour the United Nations headquarters in New York city during the International study weekend, April 2-4, 1954.

Visitors will meet UN leaders, attend Economic and Social council meetings and tour the UN building.

The trip will cost $3.00, which does not include room and board. Interested students should see Dr. Donald Bishop in 103 Maxwell.

New Advisory System Installed by LA School

By GRACE FRARY

A new advisory system in the College of Liberal Arts will go into effect this September, covering both entering freshmen and next year's sophomores.

Meeting of the student and his adviser will continue throughout the year, and special contact will be arranged for students on probation.

THOSE ADVISORS participatinging in the program will take a one month's training course beginning in April, covering the techniques of advising.

The Liberal Arts Advisory Council has worked on this system for the past two years, and has announced that each student will be assigned an advisor in his major field.

If a student has not decided on a major, he will be arbitrarily assigned one until he does decide.

The council has also worked this year on the gifted student problem, and is planning publicity for the sophomore honors program.

A TEACHER-evaluation system has been worked out by the council to provide for improved student-teacher relationships.

The council has discussed the possibility of a convocation for parents during orientation week, and the idea has been submitted to the Orientation committee.

The Liberal Arts Advisory council is composed of seniors Elizabeth Brydon, John Beach, James F. Carr, Jean Clark, and Winona Brierly.

Juniors on the council are Howard Osofsky, Stuart Parker, Jean Brydon, and Sidney Weinstein; and sophomores are Milton Shefter, Arlene Blum, and Richard Sutter.

Advisors to the council are Dean Eric Faigle and Dean Edwin Smith, with the dean of men's and dean of women's offices represented by Dean Carleton Krathwohl and Miss Dorothy Osborn.

AFROTC Drill Set At Noon in Uniform

Air Force ROTC indoor drill will begin today, according to Cadet Lt. Col. Robert Leberman, wing commander.

All cadets will be required to wear uniforms beginning today, and each Tuesday and Thursday until further notice.

Air Science I cadets will report to 312 Bowne; Air Science II to Maxwell auditorium; plans and training officers to 102 Machinery hall; and all other Air Science IV cadets will report to 207 HL.

Further information is available in the cadet office in Machinery hall.

GAMMA ALPHA CHI

The following women were recently initiated into Gamma Alpha Chi, professional advertising fraternity for women: Carolyn Veber, Joan Reed, Mary Bruce, Marilyn Schaeffer, Mary Eckberg, Camilla McCarthy, Barbara McDonald, Harriet Donaldson, Peggy Raffl, Joyce McGrath, Jean Liberman, Sandra Gross, Barbara DePuy and Marlene Smith.

'Up in Lights' Staff Plans Rehearsals

Gerald Leider, Faculty advisor to Boar's Head has announced that rehearsals for "Up in Lights" will be held at the following times this week.

On Tuesday, from 3-5 p.m. all specialty numbers will be rehearsed in pre-fab 8a, and from 7-10 p.m. the singing ensemble will practice in Yates hotel. Wednesday from 3-5 p.m. the ballet rehearsal will be in prefab 8a and from 7-10 p.m. the full ensemble will practice in Yates hotel.

Thursday, from 3-5 p.m. the specialty numbers will be in prefab 8a. From 3-5 p.m. on Friday, girl singers will report to prefab 8a. Saturday, from 2-5 p.m. the full ensemble will rehearse in University college and Sunday the full ensemble will rehearse from 2-5 in Yates hotel.

Graduates Plan St. Patrick Party

All grad students are invited to a St. Patrick's day party and dance from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. Saturday, March 20, in the dance studio of the Women's building.

Entertainment will consist of Irish country dancing. Refreshments will be served. The affair is stag or drag, at a cost of 50 cents per person.

General chairman is Diana Smith, who is being assisted by the following committees: publicity, Myrna Wingert, (chairman), Margot Kalberman; decorations: Julianne Bean, (chairman), Claire Mosley, Adele McDevitt, Moshe Levy, John Throssell; food: Ann Gleitsman, (chairman), Delores Castanon, Janet Bloch, Betty Murphy, Nancy Heath, Mureen Ryerson, Allen Sliker.

Orchids to You

MARY ANN JENSEN, sophomore and JOAN HOLLISTER, freshman, appear with DEAN M. EUNICE HILTON at the 20th annual orchid dinner sponsored by the College of Home Economics. Miss Jensen was named 1954 Orchid Girl and Miss Hollister received an award for achieving the highest average in her class at the dinner in Sims dining hall last Thursday night.

Senior Honorary Taps 20 Women

Twenty outstanding junior women were pledged to Eta Pi Upsilon, senior women's honorary, in surprise serenades late Friday night.

The women were chosen on the basis of scholarship, activities, service to the University, character and head residents' ratings. The new pledges, their averages and major activities, include:

ROBERTA BALIBA, liberal arts education, 1.647, women's student government junior officer, chairman of the WSG academics panel, ex-officio member of the LA advisory council, chapter president of Alpha Epsilon Phi;

Nancy Boerner, LA, 2.314, junior assembly, chairman of Friday night events in the Women's building, Peck two;

Betty Bowman, elementary education, 1.9, junior guide, executive council of Westminster Fellowship, Lambda Sigma Sigma, director of the release-time program at Grace Church, Chi Omega house president;

Dorianne Bright, home economics, 1.906, WSG junior officer, chairman of WSG public relations panel, Traditions commission, Lambda Sigma Sigma secretary, Kappa Kappa Gamma pledge mistress;

JEAN ANN Brydon, LA, 2.887, co-chairman LA advisory council, junior assembly, Lambda Sigma Sigma vice-president, Campus Chest captain, Traditions commission Kappa Alpha Theta sorority;

Carol Campbell, LA, 2.113, city guide, WSG assembly, Gamma Phi Beta house president;

Eileen Chamberlain, LA-Journalism, 2.228, Daily Orange junior editor, foreign students guide, Lambda Sigma Sigma, Alpha Gamma Delta sorority;

Lois Clark, fine arts, 2.217, WSG junior officer, chairman of the organizations panel, Traditions commission, Lambda Sigma Sigma president, Alpha Xi Alpha, Alpha Phi sorority;

LOIS COHN, LA, 1.73, Traditions commission, co-chairman of the 1954 Stockingfoot dance, junior guide, junior executive council, Lambda Sigma Sigma, Alpha Epsilon Phi sorority;

Charlotte Easterbrook, home ec, 2.397, WSG junior officer, chairman of house policy panel, Lambda Sigma Sigma, Gamma Phi Beta treasurer;

Marilyn Empie, home ec-education, 2.24, junior guide, Chapel board, chairman Human Understanding committee, secretary of the home ec student board, teacher in Grace church release-time program, Chi Omega assistant treasurer;

Inez France, LA-radio, 2.437, WAER continuity director, program chairman of Canterbury Fellowship, Grace church choir, Alpha Epsilon Rho, Fairfield cottage treasurer;

ELIZABETH GODDARD, LA-journalism, 2.317, Daily Orange junior editor, junior delegate to journalism council, Theta Sigma Phi, co-chairman of the "Footprints" conference, Hurst cottage;

Elaine Greenberg, LA-ed., 2.658, junior guide, WSG elections commissioner, chapter president Sigma Tau Delta sorority;

Joanne LaFaro, FA, 2.435, St. Thomas More exec council, director Catholic choir, WSG communications staff, Sigma Alpha Iota

(See HONORARY, page 4)

SYRACUSE DAILY ORANGE

THREE R'S OF A COLLEGE NEWSPAPER: RESPONSIVENESS, RESPONSIBILITY AND RESOURCEFULNESS

Page 2 Tuesday, March 16, 1954

Editor-in-chief ——— Arlene Lambert
Business Manager ——— Robert Goldstein

SENIOR EDITORIAL STAFF

Managing Editor ——— Arthur Siegel
Editorial Director ——— Hugh O. Muir
Executive Editor ——— Janet Caro
Sports Editor ——— Kenneth Lent

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Edward Meyer, Joan Niedelbelt, Phyllis Sroka, Howard Vonkirk, Mary Vivian

BUSINESS STAFF

Asst. Business Manager ——— Sheldon Lessen
Layout Manager ——— Judith Berman
Classified Manager ——— Joan Jacobs
Circulation Manager ——— Anita Freyberg
Promotion Manager ——— Lloyd Eisenberg

Published by the students of Syracuse University.

Telephones: News, 75-5156, 75-5197; Editor, 76-1442; Business: 4-7204. Subscription by mail $5 per year, $3.50 per semester. Entered as second class mail matter at the Syracuse Post Office. Exclusive national advertising representatives National Advertising Inc., New York City.

Advisors, note:

The Liberal Arts Advisory Council has come up with one of the soundest programs yet for solving the dilemmas of counseling-registration for freshman and sophomores.

It's not exactly a new program: the committee has worked several years in perfecting this system. But the new set-up, if effected as planned, is well worth the waiting and the hundreds of hours put into completing the modernized product.

The most laudable part of the program will consist of a training course for advisors. It has long been a source of irritation to students to find themselves assigned to an advisor who knows only his own area of study and who can not adequately advise on other courses.

The most important time for counseling on various course subjects, how to study and take exams, and choosing a major are the first two years. And yet, it is these very years, which have so often been neglected with sometimes disastrous results.

The fact that the improved advising system will not come to a dead halt the day following registration is proof that the administration has at last taken cognizance of the former neglect. The Council has arranged a program whereby the students will be able to meet with their advisors throughout the year.

There is also the promise that students on probation, many times left without specific counseling, will have special contacts for additional aid.

The program has been committed to paper and the plans are laid for the training program to begin next month. The advisors themselves must now fully accept the new program, its aims and purpose and assume the increased responsibility for the welfare of the students assigned to them.

Without their complete cooperation, the plans will be but one more attempt to remedy an unnecessary situation and one more example of "the light that failed."

Editor-in-Chief

Minds to read

Last week approximately 150 students crammed a small classroom in HL to hear a "spiritualist minister and reader" tell students in a philosophy class what was going to happen to them in the near future.

Reports have been coming into our offices all week about his predictions; and we have information that many students who watched him and asked him questions actually believe his predictions and are changing their affairs in the expectation of the fulfillment of the forecasts.

All of which certainly made for an interesting afternoon.

Regarding the whole topic of telepathy and mental communication, psychologists are somewhat split on whether the so-termed "sixth sense" or extra sensory perception actually exists. A professor at Duke is conducting statistical studies through controlled experiments and he claims that there is reason to believe it is possible to "read" thoughts transmitted in the present.

No scientist seems to believe, however, that so-called "clairvoyant" powers exist. Man, they say, can control his environment to some extent, but he cannot tell what will happen to him in the future.

We don't mean to imply that minds should be closed; quite the opposite, so long as there is anything that remains unknown.

All great feats of progress have been the direct results of persons believing in what they did, whether or not it did at the time conform to the general ways of the world.

These persons acted upon reason, however: Newton, Lincoln, Galileo, Locke, Franklin, Einstein and legion others.

Therefore, if some of us are ready to throw off our so-called "bonds" of contemporary beliefs, this is our right.

But, we suggest, especially in something like this clairvoyance—something that challenges everything we have ever believed in and has not been proven empirically—that much more thought be taken.

Lest we fool ourselves.

Managing Editor

LETTERARY COMMENT

SPANISH SU; JOT PRAISE; SOUND IDEAS

Deeg that!

Dear Editor:

Greetings from SU to SU! (From Salamanca university to Syracuse university, that is.) Never thought I'd see another college town with said college on a Hill, with an equivalent Marshall street, "Orange," Cosmo restaurant, slushy streets and Spring water fights, especially in Spain. But here I am and here it is. And our "Orange" goes Bennie's South Crouse establishment one better; we have a real live girl entertainer instead of a juke-box. Now if Esther would only learn how to do the soft-shoe routine.

Have been keeping up-to-date on Hill activities through the DO, which is sent me regularly by my friend Lester G. Wells in the Library. And that brings me to the point of this letter.

There are several young Spaniards in the university here who are learning English. I give them my copies of the DO to read. The other day one came to me with a desperate look on his face.

"What gives, Enrique?" I ask.

Enrique holds up one of my copies of the DO. "These paper ees een English, no?"

"Of course," says I.

"Then English ees too deeficult for me," he replies. "Thees column by thees fellow 'Bop' I no understand. Deeg thees and deeg that, oscillate thee asphalt and you are a guy gone—hombre, thees fellow ees loco!"

Enrique has a point there. You can imagine how far I got trying to explain the bop language to him, most of which is Greek even to me. The last I heard of Enrique, he had signed up for Hindu 1A.

Enjoy very much the rest of the paper, however. Am deeply sorry to learn of the Castle's doom. I'm afraid we're just too modern in America. If they tore down every building over 200 years old in Salamanca university, there would't be any school left.

Will close now and traipse down to the local pub for a beer, (which costs four cents, by the way. O. K. men, don't crowd—tickets for Spain form on the left.)

Best regards to everyone in the Journalism center, wherever it may be.

Sincerely,
Harry Whitney, '52

Analysis

Dear "Jotters,"

Three rousing cheers are in order for your column. However, I think it would be a good idea to enlarge the section which concerns current world news stories. Your excellent analysis of these events make valuable reading for a student body whose "general" knowledge consists primarily of a little professor-taught political science augmented by a profound understanding of all the local campus "bits."

The two dailies available in the city are usually neglected, and a comprehensive analysis of various world happenings should be presented.

Congratulations again on a swell piece of writing.

Sheldon Lessen

No Gap

To: Student Sponsors of the Footprints Conference,

Footprints Conference was one of the finest student projects ever carried out at Syracuse university, and its execution in every detail seemed faultless. The student reaction to it was very encouraging and should indicate that the program filled a large gap in our school's curriculum.

Contrary to the opinion of a few skeptical people, the students were ready for such a conference and found it inspiring and helpful. Its purpose was to promote sound thinking by giving up an opportunity to hear stimulating ideas from the field of religion. Comments overheard from those leaving each session showed a genuine appreciation of this opportunity. Most of those who missed the conference now regret not having spared a few hours from their schedules.

Marcia Frink

How to Simplify Job-Hunting!

Jobs will fall into your lap if you can offer employers business skills combined with your college training. Dreaming of a career in advertising, retailing, television, publishing, government, social service? Get your start in these hard-to-enter fields as a Berkeley-trained executive secretary. Many Berkeley graduates move up to administrative positions.

Berkeley School has an outstanding record of placing graduates in preferred fields. The thoroughness of Berkeley training is widely recognized among personnel directors and executives. Alumnae include girls from nearly 300 colleges and universities.

Write Director for Catalog.

BERKELEY School

New York 17: 420 Lexington Ave. • White Plains, N. Y.: 80 Grand St. East Orange, N. J.: 22 Prospect St.

Man on Horseback

The Sport of Kings

By HUGH O. MUIR
Editorial Director

Contrary to popular cliche, Politics is the sport of kings, or an authoritarian facsimile thereof. Men with an eye on power have set up more forms of government then there have been societies to follow them . . . and with varying results.

These political individuals have the writer pause for reflection on ular government in vogue, but have frequently veered off on their own interpretations. The present series of conflicts within our form of government can be reduced to a common denominator, that of a challenge to its basic organization.

This problem was discussed in the "Letters to the Times" of last Sunday. The writer brought forward the point that we are so preoccupied with certain investigators' methods that "we must not lose sight of the great constitutional question raised by the assertion of the right to investigate the executive department."

The writer points out that "this assertion is a direct attack upon the time honored principle of separation of powers inherent in our constitutional system."

The writer's thesis leads up to this point: wither could we goest?

The question revolves around the conflict between the basically American principle of separation of powers and the latest American bent of the investigation. The latter's challenge to the former gives the writer pause for relection on what course to take.

He suggests the British form of government.

We question his choice.

The writer seems to fail to realize that our form of government has not evolved just from the paper formulae of 18th century politicians. Vital geographical and sociological facts have moulded our government.

But first to outline the British government. There, the Prime Minister is also a member of Parliament. Thus, executive and legislature are effectively one.

If the Prime Minister is challenged by the legislature, he can call for a general election where the whole government, executive and legislature alike, must stand on the conflicting issue before the people.

A legislator thinks twice before he will put his job in jeopardy.

Also, if the British have a mind to investigate communist infiltration in any executive department, they issue a Royal Commission. But this commission is appointed by the Prime Minister so that, in effect, Parliament would be investigating its own departments.

At first glance, such a format seems rather good in this country of ours beset by little men who wish the executive to heel to. But there is, unfortunately, a weakness.

To get back to the geographical and sociological factors. The British system, to work, demands a legislature devoid of petty sectional interests. It demands a people who react, as a nation, similarly to questions. The Parliamentary system there gives great power to the executive, power that no single section of the country here would be willing to surrender.

Thus the geographical factor of America creates many divergent interests. And our many nationalities and racial temperments also make it idifficult to wrest a coherent single opinion on a single topic.

Our form of government has not arisen by chance. Neither was it created by men's individual whims. A definite cleavage between the multi-faceted legislature and the spherical executive is necessary in our country.

Let this be remembered by those imps who see themselves as the man on horseback. Even mechanized, this form of the cavalry is quite out of style here.

AN EVENING IN

Color TV's 2nd Round

By DICK CASE
Editorial Page Writer

"The beauty which old Greece and Rome sung, painted, wrought, lies close at home."—John Greenleaf Whittier.

NBC brought out its new technicolor paint box once again last Saturday afternoon, this time for a color video junket into Vittorio Giannini's modern opera "Taming of the Shrew"; via William Shakespeare.

A Syracuse press audience got its second gaze at the new wonder during a showing held by station WSYR-TV. The local outlet recently completed installation of color transmission equipment with which it can telecast all network shows offered in color.

I think television will eventually come into its forte through productions like the NBC Television Opera theater and most certainly, the addition of color to the images will serve only to dice the mixture of drama and music to its ultimate fascination. Opera would seem to be one form of entertainment ideally suited to video's potential.

"Taming of the Shrew" is something of a vigorous rotogravure based on Shakespeare's tale of the torrent named Katherine and her loud advances upon love. The gay plot, sent in middle age splendor, affords a wide opportunity for musical and visual glee. May it be known that Mr. Giannini and NBC made the most of the situation.

Speaking, first of all, in strictly monochrome nature, the Saturday opera was smartly performed by a group of polished voices which included Susan Yaker as Kate and John Raitt as Percuchio. Giannini's opera, while not a masterpiece, was productive in the sense that it gave us a new view of "Taming of the Shrew" exclusive of some group shouting which tended to destroy interest.

But once more, it was the injection of this beauteous new electronic color which lifted the performance out of the ordinary. Minus color, the show might have been only a fair NBC opera try out when General Sarnoff whipped out his little palet and let fly with the technicolor, the show benefited greatly from new blood.

Sitting in view of two of the three color sets available during the demonstration, it was obvious that each individual receiver was particularly prejudiced as to what shade of color it would offer. This was explained as a degree of tuning. One set, to the left, gave a definite bluish impression while the second had a green tint. It may be noted, however, that the second receiver presented a sharper, more faithful reproduction.

The colors were, in fact, most stimulating.

If Saturday's performance was any indication, and I'm certain it must be, scenic and costume designers will have an extremely happy time in this new medium. "Taming of the Shrew" offered a large opportunity for costume splendor and the advantage was well taken in the form of brilliant reds, greens and what all assortment of rainbow tints. The screen was, if you will, splashed.

A tendency to stick to a certain color pattern, in this case green, was noted in the production with the background and the costume almost blending at times. This fault will obviously be corrected in time.

Picture-wise, NBC's "Taming of the Shrew" was the equal, if not the better, of many of our more recent Hollywood true-color, super-screen, super-sound, super-super bubbles. The fact that things such as this will one day be available to most Americans in their front parlors lifts the medium above anything Hollywood can do.

Exuberance, once again, is the overpowering factor in the examination of color television. The novelty, I presume, will eventually tarnish.

It is unnecessary to add that this is a rave review.

Consult us for eye care information

CARPENTER and HUGHES

Guild Opticians

State Tower Bldg.

Syracuse

74-4691

Special consideration given to students

AT THE FLICKERS

A PARODY WITH A BACKFIRE

By CHARLES SAMUELS
Daily Orange Movie Critic

John Houston is not only a first-class director; he is a motion picture magician with a full bag of tricks. In his latest film "Beat the Devil," on view at the State, he unloads the whole works on the unsuspecting audience. Unfortunately the result indicates that he would do well to get his wand recharged.

Mr. Houston, aware that modern movie-goers have been bred on the kind of intrigue thriller exemplified by "The Maltese Falcon" has taken the formula and done some queer things with it. The keynote of the film is exaggeration and the result is parody that is often (but not often enough) quite devastating. The casting is right in line with this and every performance is a gem.

Humphrey Bogart is on hand as the personification of the man of adventure. For his earlier stint as a detective a new kind of role has been substituted, but it fits him quite as well as the other. Peter Lorre is surely the most sinister villain and Robert Morely, in a burst of divine inspiration, has been substituted for the late Sydney Greenstreet. Edward Underdown completes the quartet as the absolute epitome of stiff upperlip English gentry.

The breathtaking scenery of Lisbon, Algiers, etc. is augmented by the equally picturesque Gina Lollobrigida and Jennifer Jones. Miss Lollobrigida is every bit as delightful an actress as she is a pin-up girl and in "Beat the Devil" all of her talent is exhibited. Miss Jones has one of the most attractive parts in the film and she turns in a deft performance.

"Beat the Devil" comes so close to being a masterpiece of grotesque humor that its failure is maddening. Every thing in the film is outrageous. The script, a joint effort of Mr. Houston and the literati's number one boy, Truman Capote, is half Oscar Wilde and half Mickey Spillane. It is studded with the kind of ultra-sophisticated humor that makes the tres jours gay set fairly swoon. The camera work is the result of sending "The Cabinet of Dr. Caligara" to finishing school and the background music provided by an Italian village band is equally absurd.

The trouble with "Beat the Devil" is that it is essentially a private joke meant for students of the cinema whose knowledge of both Mr. Houston and Hollywood techniques are extensive. By imbedding his tounge so firmly in his cheek, Mr. Houston has gone clear through it, and the resultant product is just too prescious for words.

EVentualities by EV.

"But, Boss, the old Hellbox was larger!"

BACK TO THE SALT MINES

Going it Alone on Eats

By ROGER J. HERZ
Editorial Page Writer

The overall University housing and eating policy is, we believe, a major one within the University context and deserves to be studied fully by all concerned.

Requiring all except those students working for board or living at home or in fraternities to eat in a University dining hall would have many advantages: it would better integrate the student into the University society better, it would assure his getting proper nutrition at the proper times.

The policy has one great, and we feel, overwhelming disadvantage: that it cuts down the independence of the student in the University society.

The object of education is to make a better citizen. Not just to teach a mathematical truth or a group of classifications, but to teach reasoning and wisdom in living.

The student should learn in college to make his own decisions; thus we feel that the choice of eating at a certain hour and in a certain place should be left to the individual. There is a world of decision forthcoming after college and the student must learn to make them while here.

We grant that the overall housing program is wise; once there is sufficient space in good dormitories, social integration will be better. But eating is a more private matter.

We can see the logic behind requiring freshmen to eat in dining halls, for they face great adjustments. For many, it is the first living experience away from home and a difficult transition to make.

Many have a difficult time of it —some try to adjust by getting clobbered every other night; others are able to settle down more easily.

By the sophomore year, the student is either adjusted to the society or will be unable to adjust. We cannot see that those unable to adjust should cause unnecessary restrictions on those who have adjusted.

If the quality of food in the dining halls should improve, which it should do in time, and the present good atmosphere of the modern dining halls is kept, it would appear that students could be drawn in on a voluntary basis.

Provide a really good meal in serious competition with other restaurants in the area and students will eat in University dining halls by choice. To our minds there is a great difference here. It is vital to maintain a freedom of choice and recognize the student to be a citizen of the University society.

YOU CAN SEND THE

SYRACUSAN

WHICH IS ON SALE WED.

featuring

● Sports ● Cartoons

● Personalities

● Jokes ● Fiction

FREE

ANYWHERE IN THE WORLD

only 35c

Along the Sidelines

By KEN LENT
DAILY ORANGE SPORTS EDITOR

Thomas Paine once said, "These are the times that try men's souls," an axiom which could easily sum up this weekend's activities in the Easterns for the Syracuse boxing team.

Other Orange sports, however, made out decidedly better in their Eastern tests. Congratulations are in order to wrestler Ed Rooney and to the Syracuse gymnastic squad both of whom brought back laurels from their travels.

For Ed Rooney, it was like finding the proverbial pot of gold at the end of the rainbow. In winning the 157-pound Eastern title, he did a feat which he had tried to accomplish for three years.

Last year he finished third because of a bad knee and two years ago in the 142-pound class he missed out after establishing himself as the great competitor he is.

Ed Rooney

Perhaps the greatest compliment which can be paid to a vertually unpublicized Orange gym squad is to use a quote which appeared in a Philadelphia paper. Down there they were calling Syracuse the "Six Iron Men."

Penn State won the title with the Orange third but when six men take home nine trophies as our boys did, you know that they were in the meet.

In talking to captain Fred Fournies, one feels just an inkling of pride which the gymnasts have for each other and for their coach, Paul Romeo. They more than proved that their pride is well-founded this weekend.

• • •

Just a look at the papers shows how the boxing team feels today but as always there are some bright lights in the dismal picture. The biggest surprise, of course, was Jerry Jaffe's win in the 132-pound class.

Actually, it wasn't a surprise to Coach Roy Simmons who predicted last week that "The Spoiler" had a better-than-average chance of taking the title. "That boy really deserves credit for a good win," Simmie said, "Against Palumbo he fought well although he tired a little in the third round."

The Orange coach also had praise for Bruce Yancey who took what the papers called a "clean-cut victory" from Ron Rhodes of Maryland and then extended Penn State's Adam Kois in the finals before losing a close decision.

As for the team's showing, Simmons echoed the words of Arnie Burdick who said, "A champion must be good and he must be lucky. We were good but not lucky." Orange plans were thrown out of kilter right from the outset.

Artie Nelson and Larry O'Sullivan, both seeded second, were unlucky enough to draw Jack Stokes of Penn State (named outstanding boxer of the tourney) and Virginia's Pete Potter respectively. Both were eventual winners.

The Associated Press called John Granger's fight a "laughable split-decision." Simmie doesn't alibi for anything but it was a tough weekend all-around.

Maryland Boxers Take Easterns; Jaffe Gains Only Orange Crown

Roy Simmons, unfortunately, can still count his consecutive Eastern boxing championships on one hand. Last weekend there was some betting and more hope that Syracuse would get their sixth straight Eastern crown. Maryland won the team title while upstart Jerry Jaffe at 132 was the only Orange champ.

Maryland gathered five men into the finals and these five gathered the bulk of the Terrapin's winning 35 points.

SYRACUSE WENT down to Charlottesville, Vir., with two defending champs, and after the first evening of preliminary bouts, the situation looked good. Syracuse had eight points, three wins, six men advancing in the tourney and the lead for the first night's work.

Frank Guelli won over Penn State's Harry Papacharalamous, Vince Rigolosi decisioned State's Frank Breidor and Bruce Yancey flashed his way by Ronnie Rhodes, Maryland's lightweight who beat Yancey once this year.

These three added to Thumpin' Johnny Granger, Artie Nelson and Jerry Jaffe, all of whom drew byes, accounted for Syracuse's six advancing men. Larry O'Sullivan and Sam Alexander were eliminated.

It was a disastorous Saturday afternoon, however, that completely eliminated the Orange. While Syracuse won only one out of five matches that afternoon, Maryland landed five in the finals.

FRANK GUELLI lost his 125-pound semi-final bout to Bill Banerdt of Virginia via a decision. Jaffe, proving that this was no omen, came on and whipped Army's Mike Stevenson.

Thumpin' Johnny Granger, Syracuse's defending champ then ran into a combination of Maryland's Erich Hintze and a decision which the Associated Press called: "unpopular with the gymnasium crowd." Granger never entered the finals.

Another Syracuse defending champ bit the dust when Vince Rigolosi lost an unamious decision to Estel Nichols of Virginia. Syracuse was doomed.

Jerry Jaffe won an extremely close decision over Maryland's lefty Vince Palumbo and became a new Orange title holder.

JERRY JAFFE was the only Syracuse boxer to win an Eastern boxing championship in the tourney held last weekend at Virginia. The 132-pound sophomore won a close decision over Vince Palumbo of Maryland to take the crown.

Hill Fencers Defeat RIT, St. Lawrence

With last Saturday's victory over St. Lawrence and RIT at Canton acting as a morale booster, the Piety fencers began a week of earnest practice yesterday in preparation for the North Atlantic Intercollegiate Fencing classic at Buffalo this weekend.

Both St. Lawrence and RIT are entered in the tournament so the victory means that the Orange should fare quite well comes Saturday.

THE SYRACUSE swordsmen looked good in every weapon but the saber as they beat the two schools by identical 15-12 scores.

In the epee, with Capt. John Goldstein having his best afternoon of the season and winning every bout, the Hill bladesmen won a pair of 7-2 decisions.

In the foil Ed Wang and Saul Klein each took four of their five bouts, resulting in a narrow 4-5 loss to St. Lawrence and a 6-3 triumph over RIT.

The saber matches were entirely different stories, however, with the Larries tripping us 5-4 and the men from Rochester walking on us, 7-2.

MANY OF the Piety Hill foilers put out their best efforts and had very good afternoons for themselves. The most notable of these was George Wooding who continued to come along in the epee, winning five bouts and dropping but one.

Dave Rose, of St. Lawrence,, was, as usual, a thorn in the side of the Orangemen as he took three bouts in the saber and the same in the foil. He will be an especially hard man to beat in the NAIFC this Saturday since he must defend the saber championship.

Five Piety Gymnast Win Medals In Easterns Meet at Philadelphia

Five Syracuse gymnasts brought back a total of five medals from the Easterns last weekend at Philadelphia. In addition, two Pietymen won first in the Eastern competitions and another Hillman won an Eastern Olympic event.

Corky Sebbo successfully defended his tumbling title. His nearest competitor, Anthony Rocco, came in 40 points behind Sebbo in the opinion of the judges. Joe Charles of Army finished third, a sole point behind the Temple star. Sebbo's winning score was 278.

MILAN TRNKA, Syracuse gymnast who garnered first place in the long horse at Philadelphia, is shown performing on the horizontal bar.

IN THE flying rings, Ferdie Fournies came through to surprise many of the experts by copping first place with an aggregate score of 270. John Baffa, Penn State's top ringman who had defeated Ferdie in a dual meet earlier this season, placed second with a 249 score.

Penn State's Jean Cronstedt, however, was the outstanding gymnast of the two-day competition. The Nittany ace easily won the Olympic all-around with a score of 1609 as compared with 1470 compiled by Emanuel Procopio, a teammate who was his nearest competitor.

Cronstedt captured first place in the horizontal bar, parallel bars and free exercise; second place in the long horse; a third in the still rings; and a fourth in the side horse. He withdrew from the Eastern all-around, which he most probably would have won.

The Orangemen failed to win medals in the side horse, in which Syracuse had previously been considered strong. Dan Traficante, who had done so well all season, fell and lost a chance to win a medal. He was the only Syracusan not to win a medal.

FOURNIES AND Andy Felice once again tied on the rope climb, this time for fourth place with a time of 3.9 seconds. Gene Scholl of Temple copped first with a 3.6 time, followed by John Ballantyne and John Funkhouser, the Army one-two punch, with a 3.6 effort.

Trnka, in addition to copping the long horse, came third in the parallel bars, fourth in the horizontal bar and free exercise, and fifth in the still rings. He also finished third in both the Eastern all-around and the Olympic all-around.

John Barkal copped fifth place in the horizontal bar. Bothered by weakened wrists, John was forced to remain out of the Olympic all-around competition. He finished fourth, however, in the Eastern all-around.

It is not known yet who will be sent to represent Syracuse in the NCAA's, which will be staged at Champaign, Ill. A shortage of money in the athletic budget may prevent several of the deserving Orangemen from making the trip. This would tend to indicate that Syracuse may not be able to enter a team in the team competition.

Intra Schedule

Here is tonight's intramural volleyball schedule: 6:15 p.m.— Skytop M-2 vs. Skytop M-7, Skytop M-4 vs. Skytop M-8, Beta Theta Pi vs. Lambda Chi Alpha, Delta Kappa Epsilon vs. Tau Delta Phi; 7 p.m.— Alpha Epsilon Pi vs. Sigma Chi, Sigma Alpha Epsilon vs. Sigma Phi Epsilon, Theta Chi vs. Phi Kappa Tau, Alpha Chi Rho vs. Phi Gamma Delta; 7:45 p.m.—Delta Tau Delta vs. Pi Alpha Chi, Phi Kappa Psi vs. Kappa Sigma, Phi Delta Theta vs. Tau Epsilon Phi.

Altieri Cops Title In Intra Foul Shoot

Tony Altieri, Beta Theta Pi, won the intramural foul shooting contest Saturday at Archbold gym, breaking a tie with Joel Lasko, Tau Epsilon Phi, and Al Walker, an independent, to cop the crown. Altieri sank 23 or 25 shots in the playoff for first place to nose out Lasko by two and Walker by four.

Altieri was awarded a gold medal for winning the title. Lasko and Walker received silver medals for their achievements.

The leading 10 foul shooters and their scores:

1.	Tony Altieri, Beta Theta Pi	106
2.	Joel Lasko, Tau Epsilon Phi	104
3.	Al Walker, Independent	102
4.	Curt Ford, Sigma Alpha Epsilon	78
5.	Bud Forrester, Sigma Alpha Epsilon	77
6.	Don Kneas, Skytop M-7	73
7.	Don Conner, City Men	69
8.	John Kerr, Phi Delta Theta	69
9.	James Culver, Independent	65
10.	Ronnie Howard Skytop M-1	64

For Cups in Quantity Lots Check Our Commerical Pricing Policy on Flavors
Call 2-4282
Jeweler W. C. BREH Engraver
The Trophy Shop
128 West Washington St.
ALL-AMERICAN TROPHIES

EARN $280.00 to $550.00 IN TWO WEEKS
We need a campus agent to sell nationally advertised Drawing Sets and Slide Rules to Entering Engineering Freshmen at the start of the 1954 Fall term. High profit. Free brochures and posters. Write: Sls. Mgr., Empire Engineering Supply Co., P.O. Box 114, Canal St. Station, NYC 13, New York.

Rooney Wins Mat Crown At Cornell Tournament

Following his victory in the 157-pound division of the Eastern Intercollegiates last weekend, Orange co-Capt. Ed Rooney resumed preparation for the National Intercollegiate wrestling championships which will be held at Oklahoma later this month.

In addition to his triumph in the 157-pound class, Rooney was also voted outstanding matman of the meet.

Pittsburgh, competing for the first time in the EIWA finished first with 37 points, followed by defending champion Penn State with 25 and Lehigh with 23.

Navy was fourth with 18, followed by Syracuse which finished fifth with ten points.

Rooney garnered eight of the ten Orange points, with Senior Hank Gobetz and heavyweight George Finck capturing the other two on first period pins.

For Gobetz, the EIWA was his last intercollegiate wrestling match. Another Orange senior who bowed out of intercollegiate wrestling was Garland Harris, who held down the 147 pound slot.

Dick Anderson, Ed Weisz, Tom King, and Murry Winer were the other Orange grapplers to attend the Easterns at the 123, 130, 137, and 177-pound positions.

Pittsburgh captured three of the individual crowns with Hugh Perry taking the 123-pound championship. Charley Uram won the 147-pound crown and George Beresford rounded out the Panther victories with a triumph in the 177-pound class.

Dick Lemyre at 130 pounds and Gerald Maruey at 137 pounds won titles for runner-up Penn State.

PAT MEETING

A meeting of Pi Alpha Tau, captains and managers honorary, will be held tonight at 7:30 at the Phi Kappa Psi house. The athletes' picnic will be the topic of discussion.

Complete Optical Service
Optometric
Eye Examinations
Glasses in Latest Styles
Broken Lenses and Frames
Replaced Promptly
Lindemer
for glasses
Optometrists Opticians
440 SOUTH WARREN ST.
Phone 74-4244

Today's Crossword Puzzle

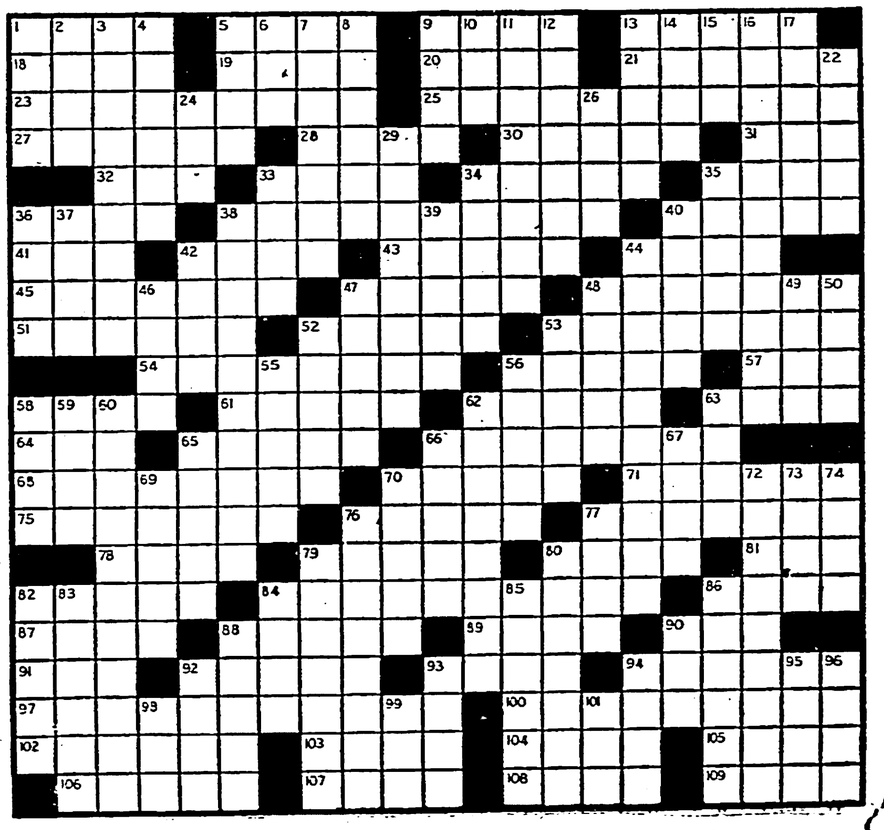
By HERBERT ETTENSON

ACROSS

1 Cure for adiposity
5 Dunderheads
9 Future fowl
13 Steering wheels
18 Jai ——
19 Send a telegram
20 Reveal
21 Baltimore ballplayer
23 Aviator in the latest model plane: 2 wds.
25 Head of the family
27 Refuge
28 Ornamental feathers
30 Priced at a bargain 2 wds.
31 Knowledge
32 Receive
33 Handle clumsily
34 Starts to awaken
35 Glacial snow
36 Rivers: Sp.
38 Something retarding production
40 He wrote "The Highwayman"
41 Cuckoo
42 Mean
43 Piece of luggage
44 Famous coloratura
45 Perfume holders
47 Common fish
48 Seller of viands
51 Sea near Greece
52 Oozes
53 Ideate
54 Peddler's "store"
56 Quantity
57 Born
58 Sitwell or Sandburg
61 Poke fun at
62 Small seed-eating bird
63 Give temporarily
64 Macaw
65 River in France
66 Anniversary
68 Part of theater under balcony
70 Beach
71 Whirled
75 Patriotic songs
76 Lawyers chores
77 Superficial
78 Possessive pronoun
79 Famed pioneer in electricity
80 Resembling rattan
81 Emulate
82 Weight allowances
84 Product of metalcraft
86 Hang
87 Mrs. Charles Chaplin
88 Canton in Switzerland
89 So
90 Bend down
91 Gullet
92 Girl of many adventures
93 Autocrat
94 Vituperous outburst
97 Indulger in vainglory
100 Parvenu
102 Related events
103 Road sign
104 Gee whillikins!
105 Part of spectacles
106 Dullwitted
107 Thrall
108 Makes clothes
109 Princely Italian family

DOWN

1 Facts
2 —— Brody, author
3 Placid
4 Headings
5 Emulate Florence Chadwick
6 Trouble
7 Evidence
8 Begin: 2 wds.
9 Recedes
10 Elongated fish
11 Increases
12 Adjective for a poor sailor
13 Ululates
14 Cleveland's view
15 —— Yutang
16 Caper
17 Garment part
22 Sea birds
24 Place
26 Stygian
29 Sane: 2 wds.
33 Lichen
34 Spurns
35 Present
36 Worthless: Bib.
37 Arrow poison
38 Plays in small towns
39 Burst
40 Nick
42 Swain
44 Descriptive of a pugilistic has-been
46 Division
47 Halt
48 Do ineptly
49 Monotonous
50 Supreme Court member
52 Panic
53 Lists
55 Legatees
56 Residents of an aviary
58 Father
59 Algerian port
60 Pottery
62 Painting, sculpture, etc.: 2 wds.
63 Caustics
65 Sly glances
66 Sew lightly
67 Eagle's nest
69 Greek letter
70 Balm
72 Runaway tennis matches: 2 wds.
73 Land of shamrocks
74 Changed color
76 Amasses
77 Coupes, etc.
79 Ingredient of rayon
80 Grit
82 Mausolea
83 Thundered
84 Spoke
85 Large ocean creatures
86 Word of honor
88 Effete
90 "—— semper tyrannis!"
92 Years
93 Drink
94 Spreads hay
95 Fender damage
96 Gaelic
98 Snare
99 Electrified particle
101 Marble



IT'S ALL A MATTER OF TASTE

In plane or train, in boat or car,
While traveling through the day,
For cleaner, fresher, smoother taste
Smoke Luckies all the way!

Keith L. Monroe
Michigan State College

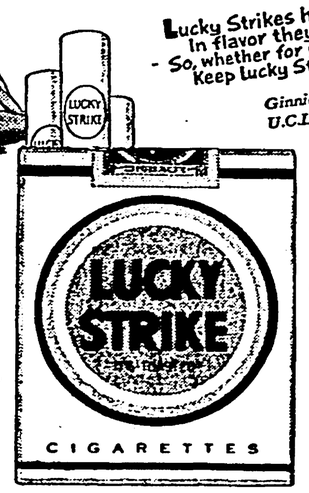
When you come right down to it, you smoke for one simple reason . . . enjoyment. And smoking enjoyment is all a matter of taste. Yes, taste is what counts in a cigarette. And Luckies taste better.

Two facts explain why Luckies taste better. First, L.S./M.F.T.—Lucky Strike means fine tobacco . . . light, mild, good-tasting tobacco. Second, Luckies are actually made better to taste better . . . always round, firm, fully packed to draw freely and smoke evenly.

So, for the enjoyment you get from better taste, and only from better taste, Be Happy—Go Lucky. Get a pack or a carton of better-tasting Luckies today.

Lucky Strikes have better taste!
In flavor they are grand!
So, whether for yourself or friends,
Keep Lucky Strike on hand!

Ginnie Sutton
U.C.L.A.



In cigarettes you look for taste—
Now here's a tip you'll like:
Go out and buy that fresh white pack
Of smoother Lucky Strike!

Jerry Kane
Columbia University

Where's your jingle?
It's easier than you think to make $25 by writing a Lucky Strike jingle like those you see in this ad. Yes, we need jingles—and we pay $25 for every one we use! So send as many as you like to: Happy-Go-Lucky, P. O. Box 67, New York 46, N. Y.

COPR., THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY

LUCKIES TASTE BETTER CLEANER, FRESHER, SMOOTHER!

LUND'S FOR
FORMAL RENTAL SERVICE
738 So. Crouse Ave.
75-1459

NOW at Schine's
PARAMOUNT
The Broadway Musical
Review In CINEMASCOPE
"NEW FACES"
Ronny Graham Eartha Kit
Robert Cary Alice Ghostley
In Glorious Color

REGENT
SUN.—TUES.
Jeff Chandler Susan Ball
Maureen O'Hara
"WAR ARROW"
Color by Technicolor
also
"DECAMERON NIGHTS"
Joan Fontaine
Louis Jourdan
Color by Technicolor

Four Houses Gain USP Membership

Four former Tri-Orange houses moved to United Students party last week.

Alpha Chi Rho, Alpha Omicron Pi, Sigma Tau Delta and Tau Epsilon Phi were accepted by a unanimous vote of USP members, bringing the party's list to 25 houses.

TEN OTHER former Tri-Orange houses are still on inactive status. At least one of them is expected to go to USP, while several others will probably move over to Piety Hill Alliance.

USP and PHA are still accepting applications from students desiring party backing in races for class officers and men's student government president.

PHA will take applications until Friday as follows: soph class: Norman Hayman, Myrna Horowitz, Phi Sigma Sigma; juniors: Lara Lorentzon, Pi Alpha Chi, Katherine Horan, Theta Phi Alpha; seniors: Anita Chappa, Kappa Kappa Gamma, John Stetson, Phi Gamma Delta; MSG, Gail Brooks, Alpha Gamma Delta.

Nominations for the party will be made at 2 p.m. Sunday at Phi Delta Theta. PHA will have no merit board.

USP APPLICATIONS are due by noon today. They should be submitted as follows: sophs: Kathleen Jackman, Delta Delta Delta; juniors: Frances Feuerstein, Shaw, seniors: Beverly Barr, Chi Omega MSG, Carmen Malagisi, Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

USP merit boards will meet as follows: sophs: 2-5:30 p.m. today and tomorrow, 730-9:30 p.m. tomorrow at Tri-Delta; juniors: 7-9 p.m. today and tomorrow at Delta Phi Epsilon; seniors: 7-9 p.m. today and tomorrow at Chi Omega; MSG: 3-5 p.m., today, 7-8:30 p.m. tomorrow at Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Nominations are slated for a party meeting at 2 p.m. Sunday at Alpha Xi Delta.

Both parties request that applications include name, address, telephone number, activities and ideas for the position being sought.

Fiction Competition Slated by Magazine

Mademoiselle magazine is sponsoring concurrently the annual College Fiction contest and the Dylan Thomas Poetry contest. Two five hundred dollar and two one hundred dollar prizes will be offered in the fiction contest and the poetry contest respectively.

This contest is open to any undergraduate. All entries must be post-marked on or before April 15, 1954. Submit manuscrips to 575 Madison ave., New York 22, N. Y.

All stories and poems are acceptable, including those that have appeared in undergraduate publications.

Humanities Lecture To Feature Shapiro In Poetry Reading

Poetry Magazine Editor Won Pulitzer Prize, Served in Army

Karl Shapiro, pulitzer prize winner, will read his poetry at a humanities lecture at 4:15 p.m. Thursday in Hendricks chapel.

The lecture, which is the fourth in the current series, will be held in Hendricks chapel instead of the usual location, Maxwell auditorium, to accommodate the expected crowd.

Shapiro is editor of "Poetry" magazine. He received the Pulitzer prize in 1945, the same year his "Essay on Rime" appeared.

His first collection of poems, "Person, Place and Thing," was published in 1942. While serving with the U.S. Army in the Pacific, he wrote "V-Letter and Other Poems."

After his discharge from the army, he was named consultant in poetry at the Library of Congress. He served as associate professor of writing at Johns Hopkins university for three years until he assumed his present post with "Poetry."

Critics commenting on Shapiro's versatility say he ranges in the best of his poems from "tenderness to irony to stinging satire."

The lecture Thursday is open to students, faculty and the general public.

ENGINEERS' BALL

Coeds planning to attend the Engineers' ball on Saturday, March 20, may have "special 2" permission by filling out a pink slip completely in ink and leaving it on the proctor desk, WSG vice-president Elizabeth Brydon announced.

Air Society Picks Syracuse as Site

Syracuse university has been selected as the site of the new upstate New York headquarters for the "B" area of Arnold Air society, national military honorary. Syracuse was picked at a meeting Saturday by delegates who were attending a three-day conference on the Hill.

Under the new plan, Syracuse will be headquarters for Rensselaer Polytechnic institute, Cornell university and the University of Buffalo.

THE "B" area, with headquarters at New York university, covers 19 colleges and universities in the northeastern United States. Schools in the area include, Georgetown university, Howard university, Catholic university of America, George Washington university, University of Maryland, Rutgers university and Newark college of English.

Also Stevens institute of Technology, Cornell, Fordham, New York university, Columbia, R.P.I., Brooklyn college, Manhattan college and Queens college.

The fifth annual conference of area schools will be held at the University of Buffalo in 1955. The conference is rotated among each of the "B" area schools.

Saturday night the delegates attended a banquet at Sherman's restaurant. Major Robert E. Wood, assistant Professor of Air Science and Tactics at Syracuse delivered the keynote address. Major Wood recently returned from an assignment in the Korean theater of operations.

THE CONCLAVE representatives were housed in Collendale dormitories, and dined in Slocum cafeteria.

Advisors to the unit are 1st Lt. Glen C. Tomb, USAF, and M/Sgt. Clinton Miller, USAF. The national honorary was organized in January, 1948. It was named in honor of the late General H. H. "Hap Arnold and established its national headquarters at the University of Cincinnati.

It is now the world's largest honorary military organization boasting over 160 squadrons located at colleges and universities all over the United States and Hawaii.

The "Robert P. Halloran Squadron," named after Syracuse university's Professor of Air Science and Tactics who was one of the most influencing and inspiring organizers of the local unit, was formally organized in February 1952.

The national conference will be held at the University of Omaha, Omaha, Neb. in April of this year.

Honorary Taps . . .

(Continued from page 1)

corresponding secretary, Theta Phi Alpha sorority;

Patricia Mosher, FA, 1.666, WSG junior officer, chairman student welfare panel, co-chairman Chapel social service, Westminster fellowship, Lambda Sigma Sigma, Chi Omega sorority;

MARILYN MURTHA, special ed, 2.617, WSG junior officer, chairman ways and means panel, junior guide, Lambda Sigma Sigma, Chi Omega sorority;

Joanne Swaim, business administration, 1.846, junior guide, WSG court justice, co-chairman Campus Chest drive, Campus Leaders, Lambda Sigma Sigma, Mott cottage;

Betsy Wright, special ed, 1.862, WSG court justice, foreign student guide, co-chairman Chapel board, sorority division chairman for Campus Chest, International Students chairman, Delta Gamma house manager;

Christine Wulfetang, home ec 1.795, WSG elections commission, city guide, home ec club, Chi Omega chapter president.

Martin Speaks . . .

(Continued from page 1)

ment jurisdiction," he went on. TVA was established by the federal government, and although it started out to control floods and navigation, it has branched into the fields of power generation, soil conservation, agricultural practices and many others.

Dr. Martin emphasized the role of leadership when he said, "If it had not been for President Roosevelt, there may not have been a TVA."

Interstate compacts are another form of overall planning which Dr. Martin discussed. Examples are the states drained by the Colorado river and "Incodel", for the Delaware river.

"Remember the term government corporation—you will hear more about it," he said. This type of planning is mainly used in backward areas where private business cannot or will not supply the necessary capital for development.

Dr. Martin concluded that democratic government is of necessity cumbersome because of the many restrictions placed on it. There is not such a thing as a perfect government, he declared, only a constantly evolving one that is attempting to meet the needs of the people.

"Government abhors a vacuum. When there is a need to meet and a demand that it be met, but no agency to do so, government steps in."

Maxwell Grad Fellowships Open

Fellowships and scholarships for graduate study in the Maxwell School of Citizenship are available for 1954-1955.

Programs of study will be in public administration, political science, social and political psychology, and in the social sciences.

Applications and information about the grants can be obtained in the Admissions office in Maxwell.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS

The Young Democrats club will hold a meeting 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in 103F Slocum. The committee in charge of arrangements is composed of John Mallan, Elizabeth Lynch and Joseph Cleary.

Campus Notices

Daily Chapel, noon-12:20 p.m. Rev. Harold Riber, missionary from India, will speak.

All money from freshman weekend button sales and unsold buttons must be returned to Katharine Soulen, Butler cottage, or Ellen Wallace, Marshall cottage, by 6 p.m. tomorrow.

Alpha Phi Omega, 7:30 p.m. 309 Women's building. Speaker: K. A. Wells, Research director, BSA. Refreshments.

Bermuda shorts panel, 7:15 p.m., 305 Women's building.

Outing Club executive council meeting, 6:45 p.m., top floor, Lyman. Followed by open council, 7:30 p.m.

WSG Ways and Means panel, 7 p.m., 101 HL. Bring pens.

Piety Hill Alliance meeting, 7:30 p.m., Theta Phi Alpha.

Ski School students be prepared to ski. Bus meets to take afternoon and evening classes to facilitate removal of ski equipment from lockers.

NSA, 4 p.m., 204 Maxwell.

Angel's flight meeting, 7:30 p.m., 313 Machinery hall.

JSF executive council meeting, 8:15 p.m., Chapel Board room. Attendance compulsory.

JSF social committee meeting, 7 p.m., 110 Maxwell. Attendance imperative.

MSG assembly meeting, 7:30 p.m., 207 HL.

SAM meeting, 7:15 p.m., G Smith. Movie and sign up for plant tour of Crouse-Hinds co.

Sigma Iota Epsilon meeting, 3:45 p.m., 106 Slocum hall. All members please attend.

The following people are assigned to work at The Daily Orange: Afternoon: Pearl Bernstein, Grace Frary, Ed Hardy, Helene Bloom, Diane Dahlman, Joan Connors and Lynn Teschmacher Night, Al Bartkevicius, Joy Yunker, Ruth Anderson, Lois Feldman, Carol Gootter, Irene Nowikas, Richard Walrath and Roberta Stern.

Campus Guide meeting, 7:15 p.m., 111 Maxwell. Bring your junior guide evaluations.

Alpha Kappa Psi, 7 p.m., Maxwell founder's room. Rushing.

St. Thomas More missions committee, 8:30 p.m., 112 Walnut pl.

Just for You Two-
THE PERFECT HONEYMOON
Enjoy the perfect privacy of a secluded cottage all your own, at a friendly guest house just for newlyweds. Wonderful meals (breakfast until 11:00). Lots to do when you wish, or utter relaxing. For company, you'll find lighthearted young college folk starting life together, like yourselves. Mention dates and we'll include our helpful THREE HONEYMOON PLANS, other folders.
THE FARM ON THE HILL
Swiftwater 94, Pennsylvania

"It's TV for me!"

"I live on excitement and love every minute of it. As secretary to a TV producer I certainly use my Gibbs training. Thoroughness, accuracy, and poise under pressure are everyday musts."
Katharine Gibbs secretarial training qualifies college girls for today's jo and tomorrow's promotion. Special Courses for College Women. Write College Dean for "GIBBS GIRLS AT WORK."
KATHARINE GIBBS
SECRETARIAL
BOSTON 16, 90 Marlborough St. NEW YORK 17, 230 Park Ave.
CHICAGO 11, 51 E. Superior St. PROVIDENCE 6, 155 Angell St.
MONTCLAIR, N. J., 33 Plymouth St.

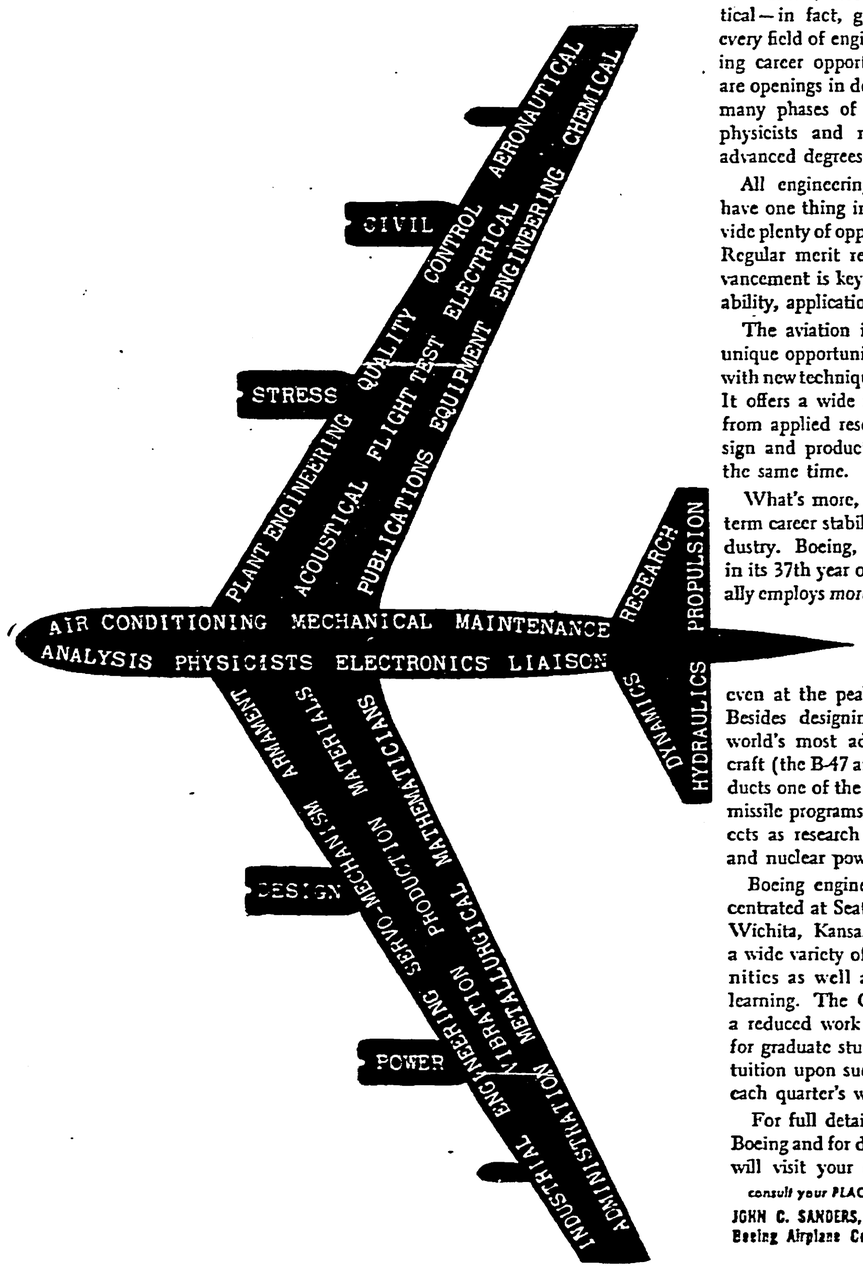
RKO KEITH'S
SYRACUSE, N. Y.
Box Office open 10 A.M. to 9:30 P.M.
3 DAYS ONLY
MON. TUES. WED.
MARCH 22, 23, 24th
Evgs. at 8:30—Mat. Wed. 2:30
ON STAGE! IN PERSON!
BROADWAY'S FABULOUS MUSICAL
GUYS DOLLS
NEW YORK CAST INTACT!
ALL SEATS RESERVED
PRICES—EVES.: Orch. $4.50, $3.60; Loge, $3.60, Boxes, $3.00; Balcony, $2.50; MAT.: Orch., $3.00, $2.60; Loge, $2.60; Boxes, $2.50; Balcony, $2.00; $2.50, $2.20, $1.80 (Tax Incl.)
Mail Orders Filled Promptly
Please Enclose Self Addressed, Stamped Envelope.
Tickets Now On Sale at Box Office

Now MIDTOWN Open 6:30 P.M.
STARTS TODAY
Syracuse Premier
2 New Hits
From an Academy Award Winner. JOHN FORD who gave you the "QUIET MAN", another triumph.
"The Sun Shines Bright"
with Charles Winninger, Arlene Whalen, plus the Secret Thrill that Every Woman remembers and will never tell.
"Sweethearts on Parade"
In Glorious Color
Starring Ray Middleton, famed Broadway star of "South Pacific."

MEDICAL STUDENTS
LOOK!
- SCALPELS AND BLADES
- SCISSORS
- FORCEPS
- PROBES
- SLIDES AND COVERS
- LENS PAPERS
- EMULSION OIL
- INNOCULATING NEEDLES

Etc.
Always In Stock
The Corner Store
SINCE 1908

Engineers of virtually EVERY type are needed on the Boeing team



Mechanical, electrical, civil, aeronautical—in fact, graduates in virtually every field of engineering—find rewarding career opportunities here. There are openings in design, research, in the many phases of production, and for physicists and mathematicians with advanced degrees.

All engineering careers at Boeing have one thing in common: they provide plenty of opportunity to get ahead. Regular merit reviews are held. Advancement is keyed to your individual ability, application and initiative.

The aviation industry offers you a unique opportunity to gain experience with new techniques and new materials. It offers a wide range of application, from applied research, to product design and production, all going on at the same time.

What's more, you can expect long-term career stability in the aviation industry. Boeing, for instance, is now in its 37th year of operation, and actually employs more engineers today than even at the peak of World War II. Besides designing and building the world's most advanced multi-jet aircraft (the B-47 and B-52), Boeing conducts one of the nation's major guided missile programs, and such other projects as research on supersonic flight, and nuclear power for aircraft.

Boeing engineering activity is concentrated at Seattle, Washington, and Wichita, Kansas—communities with a wide variety of recreational opportunities as well as schools of higher learning. The Company will arrange a reduced work week to permit time for graduate study and will reimburse tuition upon successful completion of each quarter's work.

For full details on opportunities at Boeing and for dates when interviewers will visit your campus, consult your PLACEMENT OFFICE, or write:

JOHN C. SANDERS, Staff Engineer—Personnel
Boeing Airplane Company, Seattle 14, Wash.

BOEING

WAER 88.1 FM
PROGRAM SCHEDULE
TUESDAY
3:00—WAER News
3:05—Symphonic Matinee
4:00—Musical Heritage
5:00—This I Believe
5:05—Distaff Digest
5:15—Dinner Date
6:15—WAER News
6:25—Evening Showcase
6:35—WAER Sports Lineup
6:45—Steps to Peace
7:00—Keyboard Concert
7:30—Poet and His Song
7:45—Torchbearers
8:00—Evening With Music
9:00—WAER News
9:05—Voices in the Night
9:30—Night at the Pops
10:00—Final Edition—News
10:10—Final Edition—Sports
10:20—Sign-off

ECKEL NOW
The J. Arthur Rank Organization presents
"Genevieve"
color by TECHNICOLOR
starring
Dinah Sheridan
John Gregson
Kay Kendall
Kenneth More

CLASSIFIED ADS

IMPORTANT NOTICE—CLASSIFIED ADS to appear in this paper should be DELIVERED at the HELLBOX Classified desk between 1 and 3 p. m. NO ADS WILL BE ACCEPTED AFTER 3. ALL ADS MUST BE IN 2 DAYS IN ADVANCE. For further information call 4-7206.

ALL LOST ARTICLES should be turned into the CENTRAL LOST AND FOUND ROOM, 20 Bldg. 24 at 205 University Pl. Articles can be claimed there.

AUTO DRIVING INSTRUCTION. Learn to drive easily, correctly and safely. Call Upstate Auto Driving School. Phone 8-4040.

TYPEWRITERS RENTED: $3.00 per month, $8 3 months. Good selection. We deliver, Smith Brothers. 4-8833.

Typewriters rentals—New Models Reasonable Rates—Expert Service, All Makes—CORNER STORE.

IMMEDIATE OPENING—Sales work for clean cut young man, 25-35, to show nationally advertised fine table settings. Under consultant direction of Emily Post. Car necessary. Complete training and all equipment our expense. For interview call Mrs. Young, 8-1196.

FRATERNITY COOKS: If you are interested in summer resort work, good salary, fine living conditions, write: John E. Rogers, Neodack Lodge, Inlet, N.Y.

MAN DESIRES PART TIME WORK: 1:30 to 5:30 P.M. House man call after 6 P.M. 3-5838.

MIMEOGRAPHING, SAME DAY SERVICE, EXCELLENT WORK FREEMAN LETTER CO., ECKEL THEATER BLDG. 2-4829.

Outstanding 47 to 49 day personally escorted Eight Country Tourist and Cabin Class Tours. ALL EXPENSES, only $1295 up—Finest All First Class LUXURY TOURS, 47 to 70 days $1875 up. Frequent sailings Mar. thru Sept. in QUEEN ELIZABETH or MARY. Small parties. Don't delay! Write now for free booklets, or phone
DUFFY TRAVEL
SERVICE
Hotel Onondaga

HELD OVER
5th WEEK
FRIDAY
SATURDAY
AT 8:15
LYSISTRATA
Reserved Seats Available
All Seats $1.00
And $1.50 At
Drama Box Office
"The Greeks Had A Word For It"

'GIGI'S' COMING!!

On the Inside
See How the Infirmary Works, Page 4.

Syracuse Daily Orange

Vol. 51, No. 91 — Syracuse, N. Y., Wednesday, March 17, 1954 — 4 Pages—5 Cents

Weather Report
CLOUDY, COLDER
Low temperature ___ 20
High temperature ____ 35

Reserved Seating Changes Offered

By ED HARDY
Daily Orange Junior Editor

A resolution in favor of reserved seating at football games, but suggesting a five-point program of improvement for more efficient handling of the plan, was passed by men's student government assembly last night.

The resolution, which was the result of joint work by the welfare panels of MSG and women's student government, will be considered by women lawmakers tonight.

SPECIFICALLY, THE recommendations which will be submitted to the University administration, call for opening of a special gate to handle only reserved seat ticket holders, an increase of student ushers, a block seating section, continuation of the present priority system and investigation of seats for married couples and dates when only one of the pair is a student.

Curtis Ford, chairman of the MSG sub-committee on reserved seating, said that it is hoped the gate under section A could be opened for students reserved seating only, while the present student gate would be open for non-reserved ticket holders only.

The latter would not be allowed into reserved sections until a specified time before the kick-off.

The panels recommended that a greater number of ushers come from sources such as MSG civil service, service fraternities, social fraternity pledge classes or a special group formed for the purpose.

A RESERVED section for block seating in a good location is proposed. Seats would be reserved early in the week, with tickets picked up later.

Suggestions were also made to investigate the possibility of reduced price tickets for non-student dates or husbands or wives of students.

In other action, the MSG assembly approved the constitution of the freshman cheerleading squad; OK'd an amendment to the class elections act setting up a manuel of procedure for the protest board and requiring board action on an issue within 48 hours and seated six new members.

The group also sent the Piety Hill Alliance constitution to organizations, rules and elections panel; put in conduct and welfare panel, a proposed resolution on University living and dining hall policies and accepted a resolution to recommend preservation of important parts of Yates' castle, slated for demolition April 1.

Syracusan Booths Sell Banquet Ducats

Block S Purchasers To Receive Copies

Tickets went on sale yesterday for the annual Orange Key-sponsored Block S banquet, scheduled for 6 p.m. Sunday, March 28 in Sims dining hall.

Hugh (Stubby) Daugherty, head football coach of Michigan State college, will be featured speaker at the affair.

PRICED at $2.50, ducats may be bought from Orange Key members, the athletic ticket office in Archbold gymnasium, the University Book store, Corner store, Hotel Onondaga cigar stand downtown and from members of Lambda Sigma Sigma, junior women's honorary.

Block S tickets will also be sold today at all Syracusan booths, with purchasers of tickets receiving a free copy of the campus variety magazine. Girls manning the booths will be wearing green gloves for St. Patrick's day.

Daugherty, who took over as Spartan grid coach after last season, is a graduate of the class of 1940 of Syracuse university. He was co-captain of the 1939 Orangemen and played under Ossie Solem and Biggie Munn.

Following graduation, Daugherty spent five years in service and was discharged as a major in 1945. He returned to the Hill as line coach under Munn in 1946 and went to State in 1947.

NOW RATED one of the best coaches in the nation, he built Michigan State's line in a hard-charging group that gained last year's almost a 2-1 edge over its opponents.

Daugherty's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth W. Daugherty, is house mother of Alpha Delta Pi sorority here. She will be guest of honor at the banquet, co-chairmen Oliver Richards and Harold Steinberg have announced.

A sister, Jean, works at WHEN-TV downtown and was the winner of the recent Post-Standard cake baking contest for women of the press.

Assisting Richards and Steinberg are the following members of the junior men's honorary:

Robert Lefko, tickets; Leonard Eisen and Howard Osofsky, arrangements; James Fellows and Edward Hardy, publicity; Malcolm Foster, speaker; Marven Wallen, invitations; Samuel Shawhan, awards; Gilbert Katz and Lowell Toenniessen, programs.

Science Interviews Scheduled by Office

Interviews during next week for engineers, chemists, physicists and architects have been announced by the College of Engineering placement office.

All interested students should make application for interviews at the office, building 6.

The schedule:

Monday: Crucible Steel co., Bell Aircraft co., Carborundum co.

Tuesday: New York Naval Shipyard, Bell Aircraft, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Rural Electrification administration, Linde Air products.

Wednesday: Truscon Steel of Republic Steel, New York Civil Service, Chicago Pneumatic Tool co., Westinghouse Electric co. (also summer jobs for juniors and graduate students).

Thursday: Gulf Oil co., Jack & Heints, Burndy Engineering co., Westinghouse.

Friday: York corp., Diamond Alkali co., Sun Tube corp.

Group to Outline Plans for Guide

The steering committee of the student group in charge of the Orange Guide book for freshmen will hold its first meeting at 7 p.m. today in 303 Maxwell.

All persons who applied to work on the committee and other interested should attend.

Plans for the orientation book, which will incorporate the present Newcomer's Daze and Orange Guide, will be made and staff positions assigned.

Forming the nucleus of the committee are Arthur Ehrenreich, Lois Clark, Ellen (Billie) Williams, Stephen Reis and Richard Morgan.

Patty's Day Party Planned for Tonight

International Students committee will hold a Saint Patrick's day party at 8 p.m. today in the Colonila room of Hendrick's chapel.

There will be Irish games, songs, and dances followed by refreshments. All foreign students have been invited and any university students or faculty members may attend.

Slide Rule Belles

AH, BEAUTY, thy name is woman—or something like that. Finalists in the Engineers' Queen contest array themselves before the camera, in preparation for the Engineers' Ball Saturday night at Hotel Syracuse. The queen will be announced later this week. From left to right are GRETA WOLFE, Haven; BEA MELLEN, Shaw; LOIS HEYL, French; MARY AUSTEN, DG; and NANCY LUYSTER, Butler.
Staff Photo by Owen Kendall

Sigma Kappa Tops 1954 Drive, Receives Mantle Clock Trophy

Sigma Kappa sorority will have a new mantle clock for their house, having won the award as the living center contributing the most to the 1954 Campus Chest drive. The Sigma Kappa donated $335 to the drive to also win the trophy as the sorority division leader.

Total donation was the basis for the mantle clock award while division trophies were awarded on contributions per rata. Other division winners were Tau Epsilon Phi fraternity, French cottage in the independent women's division and Skytop M-3 for independent men.

OVERALL COLLECTIONS for the drive total approximately $4,600 according to the final report released by co-chairmen JoAnn Swalm and Stuart Parker.

All sororities contributed to the drive with collections totaling $1,179.18. Other top houses after Sigma Kappa were Alpha Gamma Delta, $116.90, Delta Delta Delta, $107. 75 and Chi Omega, $75.50.

Only 20 of the 34 fraternities gave to the drive with their contributions totaling $493.50. TEP's top total was $118.36 while Zeta Psi and Delta Upsilon gave $78 and $59, respectively.

Shaw C-5 contributed the most in the independent women's division, $71.90; but the trophy was won by French cottage which averaged $1.91 donation per person. Shaw's average was $1.43 while Nottingham cottage gave $31, $1.43 per person. Total collections of the 59 of 62 houses which gave was $626.86.

SKYTOP M-3 not only won the trophy in the independent men's division but representative Hugh Ober was awarded a date with Sigma Chi sweetheart Joan Davey as an added prize. Contributions in this division totaled $168.74 with 18 of 58 living centers not not participating. Second highest donor was Skytop M-2 with $20.50

Other donations adding to the drive, which fell far under its $7,500 goal, included $35 from the city division, $126 from faculty gifts and $65 from special gifts. These individual donations were further supplemented from funds received from the carnival, Feather day, and Queen contest and Campus wheel auction.

The co-chairmen have announced that allocations of the collected funds will be announced in the near future when all late collections are accounted for. Winner's trophies will be distributed early next week.

Applications for next year's overall chairmanship and committee chairmanships must be submitted to Miss Swalm, Mott cottage or Parker, Phi Gamma Delta, by April 1. Final committee reports are also due at that time.

Danish Educators Study Production

For the past four days, six Danish production planning and control study educators have been the guests of Syracuse university.

The group, consisting of K. M. Bredahl Sorenson, Carl Johansen, Hans K. V. Jensen, Erik T. Jensen, Niels T. Agersnap and Paul A. Rosvall, have been studying production planning and control in American industries.

Working in conjunction with the group are Bert H. Norem and Allen B. Dickerman of the University faculty .

Bob Hope Seeks College 'Casanova'

Winner Will Receive Hollywood Trip

Are you a Casanova? Would you like to win an all-expense paid trip to Hollywood? Then the Daily Orange has just the thing for you.

Bob Hope, star of the new Paramount film, "Casanova's Big Night", is sponsoring a contest to find the perfect college sequel to the fabled Casanova, the immortal heart-breaker.

On each campus across the nation, a search will be held for the one who will bear the t itleof one who will bear the title of "America's Campus Casanova." Any Syracuse male student is eligible. All he need do is send his picture to the Daily Orange with a statement of 100 words or less explaining his qualifications for the title. The deadline is March 24 at 3 p.m.

The national winner will be decided by five of Hollywood's most glamorous stars. He will be the guest of Bob Hope for an entire week. The crowning of the king will take place April 13 on the Bob Hope show.

JSF NOMINATIONS

Jewish Student fellowship nominating committee will release its temporary slate of officers at 8 p.m. today in the Chapel Board room.

Candidates may be nominated from the floor. Elections are scheduled for Tuesday, March 30.

Comedian Dishy Takes Bad Spin

MEMBERS OF the cast of "Up in Lights" nurse the show's star, ROBERT DISHY, back to health. Dishy took a spin, tripped and sprained his ankle. The senior show suffers, temporarily, but Dishy—well, look for yourself. Do you call that suffering? Many a Hill male would doubtless be glad to change places with the presently incapacitated commedian.
Staff Photo by Owen Kendall

Even the stars fall! This was certainly the case with Robert Dishy, star of the spring show "Up in Lights." The Hill commedian is presently in the student infirmary nursing a badly sprained ankle, which even a sense of humor can't cure.

Dishy, a junior in drama was rehearsing a number for the Spring show, when he took a spin and tripped. The result is that he will be dragging a cast around for the next few weeks. True to tradition however, the "show will go on," and with Dishy.

According to Dr. Gary Cronk, of the Student health service, "Dishy will be ready for the show on the first of May." Dishy will be out of rehearsals for "Up in Lights" for three weeks, but, May 5th, when the show is scheduled to open, he'll be right on stage doing the same precarious spin that put him in the infirmary. (Without the same results, of course!).

In the meantime, his part as the senator in "Lysistrata" is being taken over by Hugh Fordin, a freshman in the school of speech.

Dishy's comment on the entire situation was, "If Jackie Cleason can do it, why can't I?"

It looks to us like he can, and has!

University Answers Councilman's Plan

Shapiro Will Appear In Humanities Lecture

Pulitzer prize winner Karl Shapiro will be on campus this week to give the fifth in the current series of humanities lectures. The lecture is slated for 4:15 p.m. tomorrow in Hendricks chapel.

The program, which will be open to the general public, will feature readings by the noted contemporary poet.

Shapiro has been editor of "Poetry", a magazine of verse, since 1950. He previously served as consultant on poetry for the Library of Congress, and associate professor of writing at Johns Hopkins university.

In addition to the Pulitzer prize in 1945, Shapiro has received many other awards and prizes. He was given the Jeanette S. Davis prize in 1942, and the Levinson prize in 1943.

The contemporary poets prize was awarded him in 1952. In 1944 he received a grant from the American Academy of Arts and Letters. He also received the Shelley Memorial prize in 1945 and Guggenheim fellowship in 1945-46.

Shapiro's many works include "Poems," "Person, Place and Thing," "The Place of Love," "V-Letter and Other Poems," "Essay on Rime," "Trial of a Poet" and "Bibliography of Modern Prosody."

Dr. J. F. Olson, in charge of the humanities series, recommends Shapiro's lecture as of interest to the general student body, especially English majors.

The lecture location has been changed to the chapel because Maxwell auditorium, which was overcrowded at the four previous lectures, would be inadequate for the expected audience.

Syracuse Debaters To Defend Issue

Team Will Discuss Free Trade Policy

Syracuse university's debators will uphold the negative and affirmative side of the question, "Should the United States Adopt a Policy of Free Trade?" at Hamilton and Colgate in afternoon and evening debates today.

Senior Rudy Johanns and Junior Alex Strasser will uphold the affirmative side of the question, while sophomores Doug Ingalls and Marx Baratz will uphold the negative side.

Johanns and Strasser were members of the Syracuse team that won the Hamilton debate tournament in the fall of 1952.

Last Wednesday, Howard Osofsky and Baratz successfully defended the negative side of the question against Canisius, while Johanns and Robert Hecht drew against Canisius defending the affirmative side.

In a debate two weeks ago, Baratz and Osofsky triumphed against Hamilton university.

Today's debates will be Ingall's fifth and sixth with Baratz. The two forensic members previously debated together at LeMoyne debate tournament.

Following today's debates, Syracuse will participate in the Rochester, LeMoyne and Dartmouth invitational tournaments.

SKI CLUB ROAST

Ski club will have an outdoor hot dog roast tonight at the Ski lodge which will precede the weekly meeting.

All SUSKI members are invited The supper costs fifty cents. Those attending can take the 5, 5:20 or 5:40 buses from Sims.

Movie Series Set By Boar's Head

Entertainment on the hill is being extended. In addition to the plays which Board's Head is presenting during this theater season, arrangements have also been made to show comedy films on five Sunday afternoons.

The movie series, which will begin this week, March 21, will be presented in the Drama building on the proscenium stage. According to Sheldon Wiener, who is in charge of the activity, the films scheduled will be shown at two performances, 3 p.m. and 7 p.m.

DOORS WILL be open to the public at 2:30 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. to insure adequate seating. Admission fee for the presentations will be 50 cents per person.

The scheduled series of films include one feature length comedy and two shorts, every Sunday. They will be presented as follows:

March 21, "Burlesque on Carmen" with Charlie Chaplin. The shorts to be presented with the film are, "The March of the Movies" (a survey film) and "The Immigrant," also with Chaplain.

March 28, "Kind Hearts and Coronets" with the British comedian Alec Guiness. Short subjects to be presented along with the feature length film are: "No More West" with Bert Lahr, and "The Loves of Franistan."

April 4, "My Little Chickadee" with W. C. Fields and Mae West. Also three shorts with Willie Howard, Joe Cook and Harry Langdon.

APRIL 25, the Marx Brothers will appear in the film, "Duck Soup." The short will feature W. C. Fields in "The Barber Shop."

May 2, the Frank Capra film "You Can't Take It With You," with Jimmy Stewart and Lionel Barrymore. The two shorts to be presented with the feature are "Laughing Gas" and "The Count," both with Charlie Chaplain.

BLAZER SALE

The WAA Blazer sale will be continued through Wednesday, March 17 in the WAA Board room in the Women's building. The jackets, with or without the Syracuse emblem, and matching skirts, may be ordered today between 1 and 2 p.m. and Monday through Wednesday between 1 and 2 p.m.

MSG Seeks New Civil Service Head

The men's student government trust board will meet April 1 to choose a new chief commissioner of civil service for MSG, it was announced yesterday.

All persons interested in the position should make application at the MSG office, building 30, Stephen Reiss, present chief of civil service, said.

The civil service chief is responsible for all administrative work of MSG, including supervision of elections, public relations, finance, education, investigations, maintenance of records, preparation of reports and other functions delegated by the executive, legislative or udicial departments.

The trust board is made up of the retiring chief commissioner, the president of MSG, chief ustice of the court, the dean of men and another faculty member.

Irish Colleens Sell Syracusan

Watch the girls with the green gloves today. Why? They're not Sin Feiners, but they are selling the March Syracusan which goes on sale across campus and at the same time they're selling tickets for the Orange Key-sponsored Block S banquet.

It's the Syracusan's St. Patrick's and student elections issue and what's more, you can get it free by buying a ticket to the Block S banquet, scheduled for March 28.

Fiction, humor features, cartoons and jokes are all combined inside the bright green cover of your three-armed Irish colleen, to make another sparkling Syracusan. If you want your Syracusan free, better buy that Block S ticket today, providing you've got $2.50.

PHI MU ELECTS

Phi Mu sorority announces the election of the following officers: president, Margie Lee Johnson; vice-president, Lucy Porter; secretary, Evelyn Davis; treasurer, Helenn Meister; pledge director, Marion Stevenson; rushing chairman, Joyce Skinner; social chairman, Francis O'Connor; historian, Anne Wiegreffe and publicity chairman, Jane Stanyon.

Syracuse university has done more than any other institution in relieving the city's parking problems, according to a statement made yesterday by University Vice-president Kenneth G. Bartlett.

While Bartlett did not make a specific reference, it was obvious he was commenting on a proposal by City Councilman Raymond J. Bordynski that would "prevent further building on University Hill" in the future unless parking facilities are provided.

BORDYNSKI's statement of intention to introduce the proposal was made early this week.

"The University section is not the only area of the city in need of additional parking facilities," Bartlett said, and recommended that the city look into some of the city's more serious parking problems. He said that it is to be regretted that attention has been directed at the University, where "substantial improvements have been made."

In 1940 Syracuse university had 600 off- and on-campus parking spaces. It now has a total of 1,200.

Stating that Syracuse university's post-war building and development program has solved far more parking problems than it has created, Bartlett listed the following "salient" facts as pertinent to a clear understanding of what the University has done to end congestion:

"1. During the last decade the University has doubled the number of off-campus parking spaces.

2. The University has spent $250 thousand in its building program to improve on-campus and off-campus parking facilities.

3. Every new building constructed within the past decade has provided not only off-street parking but also off-street loading zones.

4. The two new engineering buildings and the College of Law building have been placed on the main campus to prevent off-campus parking congestion.

5. The old oval on the main ampus was redesigned last summer to creat additional parking space and increase the flow of on-campus traffic.

6. The proposed new women's dormitory was placed on Mt. Olympus for the very purpose of preventing an off-campus parking problem.

7. To redue the amount of traffic congestion on the main campus, the University has followed the policy of having its chartered buses receive and discharge passengers at off-street waiting points."

Bartlett added that in view of the above considerations the pro-

(See STATEMENT, page 4)

Cheer Squad Plans Additional Tryouts

The Syracuse university varsity cheering squad is holding tryouts again at 7:30 p.m. today and tomorrow. Male applicants will meet in the trophy room of the men's gym and girls will meet in the lobby of the Women's building.

The squad is planning to take trips to Boston university, Illinois, Cornell and Fordham. They also plan to attend all home games.

This past year they attended away games at Cornell, Holy Cross and Penn State as well as all home games.

Next year the squad will be cut from 14 to 10 to allow for efficiency in executing cheers and organizing. It was decided to have only two male and female seniors to give more chance for undergraduates to show their spirit and support.

The squad as it exists for next year will be comprised of Sara Hoople, Diana Savey, Dean Brink, William Gregory, Charles Irwin and Richard Nelson. The head cheerleader will be chosen from these last four.

Fifty Pass MSG Training Program

Fifty men successfully passed the Future Student Leaders training program during the first semester, civil service announced this week.

Names of those who completed the six weeks program are available in the MSG office, building 30.

Interviews will be held there daily from 2 to 5 p.m. for all men who passed the program and wish to enter civil service.

The training program will be held during the coming semester starting next Wednesday under the direction of Philip Stern, junior officer. All men interested should contact Stern, 4-9842, or sign up at the MSG office.

SYRACUSE DAILY ORANGE

THREE R'S OF A COLLEGE NEWSPAPER: RESPONSIVENESS, RESPONSIBILITY AND RESOURCEFULNESS

Page 2 Wednesday, March 17, 1954

Editor-in-chief ——— Arlene Lambert
Business Manager ——— Robert Goldstein

SENIOR EDITORIAL STAFF

Managing Editor ——— Arthur Siegel
Editorial Director ——— Hugh O. Muir
Executive Editor ——— Janet Caro
Sports Editor ——— Kenneth Lent

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Edward Meyer, Joan Nadelhaft, Phyllis Sacia, Howard Vankirk, Mary Vivian

BUSINESS STAFF

Asst. Business Manager ——— Sheldon Lessen
Layout Manager ——— Judith Berman
Classified Manager ——— Jean Jacobs
Circulation Manager ——— Anita Freyberg
Promotion Manager ——— Lloyd Eisenberg
News Editor ——— Grace Friary
Night Editor ——— Pearl Bernstein
Asst. Night Editor ——— Lowell Teennissen
Editorial Page Asst. ——— Joy Yunker
Night Sports Editor ——— Grace Friary

Published by the students of Syracuse University.

Telephones: News, 75-5195, 75-5197; Editor, 76-1443; Business: 4-7206. Subscription by mail $6 per year, $3.50 per semester. Entered as second class mail matter at the Syracuse Post Office. Exclusive national advertising representatives National Advertising Inc., New York City.

Whose hands?

The call has been put out for interested, talented students to return a now-Administration function to student hands: editing the Orange Guide.

Solutions to the problem of who should compile the handbook have been touch-and-go for several years. Now, the ball is once more being tossed to the students.

Not too long ago, students did take charge of the editing. But whether because it was compiled by the overly "rah-rah" type or appointed personnel, the project failed. Back it went to the registrar's office to be rewritten—and there it stayed.

Last spring, however, the chief of civil service sought to bring it once more under student direction. Student government and the Traditions commission cooperated in the venture and this year set up a steering committee to handle the Orange Guide and any revision necessary.

Applications are still being accepted for those who would like to assist in this project. Freshmen are especially wanted because of their recent orientation experience.

By reviewing qualifications and by taking only those students who have volunteered, the committee hopes to effect an Orange Guide, combined with the Newcomers Daze, which will be more useful, practical, easy to read and complete. The important academic side of college will also be included along with valuable hints on the subject.

We hope that with these improvements this year's effort will be such a success that the administration will leave the student handbook forever in the hands of the students.

Editor-in-Chief

Green with envy

What with Orange the school color and all that it's a wonder that we've got any Irishmen around atall.

Well, we'll draw our national lines and square off. Just why go to all this palaver about a St. Patrick's day? What in the worl' makes it worthwhile to paint a green stripe down the center of Fifth avenue in New York for $120?

Why there are even rumors that St. Patrick was born a Scot which should give heart to the Ulstermen and rile all the Irish to their bones.

One of the principal ingredients of the day o' green is beverage. That most soothing of medicines that heals the soul and quickens the step. Musty prohibition may dampen the Irish in these parts, but lest they be too critical of the local law, let them refer to the auld homeland.

The Irish swung shillelaghs for years to get their freedom from the British. And the first thing they did when they got home-rule was to void the pouring of the brew on St. Patty's day. Narry a dry eye or a moist throat on the mainland of Ireland . . . except at the Annual Dog Show which somehow obtains a license.

(Perhaps we coin a phrase about Ireland going to the dogs? Then, perhaps we don't.)

Well, we may josh it all, but down under our alien skins we feel a tinge of envy for a nation and race that can call it a day from the demanding world and feel proud to be what they were born to be, not something they weren't. The latter is too often the goal of many of us.

We say "Merry" this and "Happy" that and "Will you be my" something else. To follow the custom and yet be different we guess we'll have to just say to the Irish "A colorful St. Patrick's day . . . and may all your friends be Green with envy."

Editorial Director

THE UNIVERSAL CHARIVARI

JOTTINGS

Hugh O. Muir
Arthur Siegel
Richard Cave
Roger J. Hertz
Joan Nadelhaft

SO THE junior senator from America's dairyland has found a way to get free TV time from CBS. Edward R. Murrow's invitation to the aspiring equestrian has been taken up and both will appear on the broadcast of April 6, according to Murrow.

This performance could very well go down in television annals along with the Ford anniversary show and Milton Berle. A point the senator better keep in mind is that he will be the one on the stand this time, not Murrow. As we said last week, the senator better stay to fact or he'll be fighting fire with a bucket of kerosene.

This is the key point to remember, however. The senator as one man is inconsequential. But the investigator as a jack-of-all-trades is misrepresenting the product in trying to sell us on his idea of Constitutional government.

◆

THE tax situation is in one big mess.

Monday, President Eisenhower told the nation he cannot "see" lowering individual income tax exemptions in the near future. The Democrats had proposed the decrease.

Some will condemn his move and some praise it, obviously.

Some will say the administration has violated its campaign promises, some will maintain that there have been no reforms since the new administration promised them.

Others will praise the President for trying to maintain the economy at a high level.

That does not seem to be the real issue. The issue should be the explaining of implications of tax measures.

How many of us know what the effects would be, say, of a decrease of 5 per cent in all individual taxes—or a decrease by income bracket—or a decrease of $100 or $200 in individual exemptions?

We are attacking or praising tax policies on how they sound for the individual.

We are attacking or praising the government on the basis of how each plan sounds to us—individually.

Unless we study the cumulative effects—and a government program of education is instituted, some half-cocked plan may be pressured, and chaos result.

If it hasn't already.

◆

LATE bulletins from afar give us report that a WSG panel is currently studying the problem of Bermuda shorts at Syracuse.

This, indeed, a subject for deep deliberation.

The question: Should they or shouldn't they?

Well, there are those of the modest school who would have the females completely covered in the lower portions. Then, of course, there are those of the other school.

Having had the benefit of several excursions into the Bermuda mood, we would at once question the ability of many of our local female legs to be unclad for public consumption. Then, there are others.

It is earnestly hoped that the WSG panel arrives at a safe, though entertaining, conclusion.

◆

THE Supreme Court yesterday barred Alabama and Rhode Island from challenging the constitutionality of the Submerged Lands Tidelands Oil Act of 1953. The action was by a 6 to 2 decision.

We think this is unfortunate. Certainly we realize that national wealth is being given to the states, rewarding a few and depriving the many. Certainly we realize that it is just a big give-away.

But the thing that bothers us more than anything is that someday the law may be used to keep New Yorkers from going swimming in the sea beyond the rocky coasts of Maine and the ocean beyond the sunny shores of California.

◆

IT seems that Syracuse has no elephant.

Now, on the surface this may appear no large calamity but for a good Republican city to be without and elephant in its zoo is at best a political felony of the first degree.

The city fathers discovered a few days ago that the local animal sanctuary has been minus the adornment of an elephant for some time. They were slightly shaken.

When questioned as to why the municipality could not boast such a beast, the parks commissioner calmly retorted, "It's such an unusual animal . . . anyway, we haven't got room for one."

Unusual, indeed, Mr. Commissioner. Why some of our best friends are elephants . . . errrrrr, Republicans. Pardon.

◆

EVEN though the spirit of the editorial page is of Scottish (or Scotch, if you prefer) derivation, we feel we should say something about St. Patrick's Day.

SYRACUSE INTERNATIONAL

C'est Tres Gay In the U.S. Too

By ANDRA KADILIS

The Can Can is still being danced and in some of the most fashionable places. The students of Sorbonne and all the other inhabitants of the Latin Quarter are still as noisy as can be with their gatherings and colorful carnivals. The first day of school water is poured on everyone.

The Louvre stands as sophisticated as ever with the dust covered art treasures of the past. But the modernists are gathering in the Existencelist clubs way in the basements, the accepted fashion in these clubs being a long beard, long hair and crazy sports shirts.

These are the news that Lucien Quin brings us right from Paris, the city that everyone at least once in his lifetime has dreamed of seeing. Lucien has been in Syracuse for two days, although he has been in the United States for several months.

Lucien is here under the exchange students program. In Paris Lucien worked as a mechanical engineer, but was chosen as a representative of his colleague. Because of this he was sent to the United States to study Labor Administration and the way to be able to help in solving some of the labor problems in France. In connection with this Lucien thinks that the life here in America is much easier for the common people as in France, the living conditions being uncomparable.

Because he is only such a short time in the United States, Lucien is not very strong in English, but also has not had much luck in learning it.

"As I first came here, I was at the Toledo university. Here my roommates happened to be French-speaking people. Realizing, that in this way I won't get far in learning English I asked to be transferred to another room. After moving I found out, that my new roommate was a German boy, who knew about as much of English as I did! But at least we both tried.

Isn't it a rather odd combination French and German? Lucien laughed and explained that the young people of these two countries have completely grown out of the bitterness, that still remains in some of the elder people against each other.

The boy from Paris likes the United States quite well, except that he thinks that people here work a little too much, and don't have enough time for "fun."

Of course Paris is not France, and France is not Paris! Remember!

SCANNING CAMPUSES

Dodging a 'Campus'

By POLLY REED
Editorial Page Writer

Any coed bothered with the problem of late minutes can take heart at the solution one girl at Stanford university found. However, we recommend this method be tried only once in each house.

After our Stanford coed was pinned, she encountered the problem of never quite making her 2:30's every night. After her late minutes stacked up to the danger point, she devised an ingenious method of outwitting student government.

In spite of the fact that she left the local pub early, one night, she was still late . . . and locked out. She whistled to her roommate, who threw down from their second story room her night-clother, one slipper and a rope. After a quick change, our heroine tied her clothes to the rope, which the roomie pulled up, put on the one slipper, mussed her hair, draped herself over a shrub under her window, and "passed out."

After her roommate woke the drom with cries of "Help, girl overboard," the entire dorm population and the housemother rushed out. They gently carried her through the now unlocked entrance, and into her room. She managed to recover in time for her date the next night.

• • •

You can easily tell what channels student's minds take. The Technology News tells of a prof who asked a student to spell straight. He answered s-t-r-a-i-g-h-t. When asked the meaning of the word, however, the student's reply was, "Without ginger ale."

• • •

For those who haven't had time to keep up with your reading:

Richard Armour's new version of American history entitled, "It All Started With Columbus," makes these deft definitions: George Washington . . . returned home only long enough to marry Martha Washington, and make preparations to become the father of his country."

Also: "Persons who pulled their pistols from their holsters first were known as the Quick; the others were known as the Dead."

• • •

The value of higher education: The Muhlenberg Weekly reports that a student who had been asked the relative worth of a course he had taken replied, "The only value I found in my Latin knowledge was that I was able to read the coat of arms on Pall Mall cigarettes."

FROM BAD TO HERZ

Ravaged Trail Of Progress

By R. JACQUES

Plans for demolition of the Louvre, internationally famous museum, were announced yesterday by the French government health department. The site is intended for use as an infirmary wing.

News of this change in the Paris skyline came on the same day as Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, secretary of health, wealth and welfare, announced that the Capitol building of the United States of America would come down on or about April 1 to make way for a fingernail clinic, presently located next door in the Library of Congress.

Shortly thereafter, the department of health resorts in Siberia of the USSR announced that it was taking over Italy, France, Germany, Great Britain and Norway to provide room for expansion of the national college of medicine.

Several doctors in Syracuse were asked to comment on the possible danger behind these moves but all noted that all these steps were "great steps forward." One doctor said that it proves that "PROGRESS" will be victorious in all cases.

Five members of the Congress of the United States met yesterday and demanded that space be made in prefab 7 for any refugees from the above named countries.

Men's student government steering committee last night discussed plans to ban pre-medical students from the University as "agents of an aggressive and dangerous conspiracy."

Nonentities by Norm

"But professor, if I'm not right, who is?"

Candelabra and Cake

By MICHAEL BRAUN

Over the weekend we kept hearing reports of a new feature that has been set up in the basement of Slocum. Yesterday afternoon we went over to take a look for ourselves. Placed in the middle of the lounge and looking quite incongrouous among its surrundings was a table, complete with linen tablecloth, flowers and shades of Liberace, candleabra.

We walked over to the table and started talking to Mrs. Marte who is the chief dietician of Slocum.

We asked her when this afternoon coffee hour had started. "It began about three weeks ago to relieve the pressure in the Coke and Caper club. It has been so popular that we've had to keep it open until 4:15 instead of 3:30 as originally planned." As we were talking people were passing in front of the table to buy a cup of coffee and some pastry.

We admired the attractive floral display, which consisted of white flowers and green ferns. Mrs. Marte noticed us looking at the flowers and invited us into the Commons. She continued working on a log, which she was covering with Irish moss in preparation for St. Patrick's day. When the log was covered she stuck the flag of Erie into it.

"Besides the log we also have little shamrocks which we plan to put on the cupcakes which we sell on Wednesday" she said. She also showed us some toy chickens which she was planning to use during the Easter season.

While Mrs. Esme was preparing for future decorations, we went back outside to watch the progress. There were thirty six people sitting around the lounge sipping coffee. Mrs. Pettingill, the director of the Food service, came over. "Isn't it wonderful about this coffee hour," she said. We agreed and she introduced us to Sarah Nauhbauer, who was pouring the coffee.

Sarah told us that she has been with the University for ten years and that she likes her present job very much. Someone over the weekend had mentioned that he enjoyed Sarah's pleasant conversations as much as the coffee itself.

Speaking to her as she served in her white uniform and heart-covered handkerchief we could see why.

A woman came up to the table to order a cup of coffee and a cherry tart. When she had paid Sarah turned to us to continue our conversation. All we could say was "some coffee, please."

ALUMS OF NOTE

A Photographer On the Rove

By JOANNE STERN

The only woman to hold the position of photographic and art editor on a metropolitan daily; the first woman photographer to be at a European battlefront; and the first woman member of the White House Photographers Association; all this and more is "Jackie" Cecelia Barber Martin.

Miss Martin began her spectacular career 30 years ago, when she left Syracuse university after her freshman year. She took the job of sports editor for the Washington-Herald, and then five years later joined the Olympic half-mile run team. She dropped out because of a pulled tendon and was then hired by the Times.

Always on the go, Miss Martin quit the Times to become part of Underwood and Underwood, commercial photographers. While with them she studied portrait work in Indiana and newspaper photography in Copenhagen, Paris and London.

She accompanied Ruth Bryan Owen, minister to Denmark, and was elected associate to the Royal Photographic Society of London.

Even though flash bulb photos were prohibited Miss Martin managed to take one of King George and Queen Elizabeth's meeting with the Congress in the Capitol rotunda. And at the funeral of Joseph Byrnes, speaker of the House of Representatives, she placed the lens of a miniature camera through a hole in her purse, in order to get a picture.

Her remarkable talent has not gone unnoticed. In 1941, Syracuse university awarded her the George Arants medal for achievement in the field of newspaper illustration, and in 1944 she was given a citation of merit for her work as a battle front photographer.

After leaving Underwood and Underwood, Miss Martin served as assistant society editor for the Washington News under Lowell Mallet, but was lured away by Eleanor "Cissy" Patterson to become editor of the old Herald.

She has written and illustrated numerous articles. Some having appeared in the Saturday Evening Post, the Ladies' Home Journal, Mademoiselle, Newsweek, Cosmopolitan and many more.

Miss Martin, a native of Pittsburgh, is a one-woman show. She takes, develops and prints her own pictures.

'A Troubled World'

The 1954 Godkin lectures at Harvard university will be given by Adlai Stevenson, Democratic nominee in 1952. As a service to the student body, the Daily Orange is sending a reporter to cover the talks which are entitled "A Troubled World."

"Ordeal of the Mid-century" will be the title of Mr. Stevenson's first speech this evening. A report on each of the talks will be printed in the following day's edition of the Daily Orange.

Last year the speaker was the former German high commissioner John J. McCloy. His talks have since appeared as the book "The Challenge to American Foreign Policy."

The lectures are sponsored by the Edwin Godkin foundation and are given at Harvard every year by an important public figure. Mr. Godkin was the editor of "The Nation" during the latter part of the 19th century.

During that time, the magazine was recognized as being the leading American journal of public opinion. When he died, Mr. Godkin stipulated in his will that the lectures would stress "the essentials of free government and the responsibility of the citizen."

ADLAI E. STEVENSON, former presidential candidate, will speak today through Thursday at the Godkin lectures at Harvard university. Stevenson, who recently completed a world tour, is the nominal head of the Democratic party.

Relax This Weekend
Syracuse Operetta Guild
Presents
H.M.S. PINAFORE
Fri., Sat., 8:30 p.m.—Adm. $1.00
March 19, 20 At
Museum of Fine Arts
Tickets At Clark Music Store or Museum

Come On Down To
DEB'S
DRIVE-IN LOUNGE
SERVING THE BEST IN
HOME COOKED FOOD
"The Hill Rendezvous"
Bottom of Crouse Hill
On Erie Blvd.
ALL LEGAL BEVERAGES

You "write your own money" as you need it when you pay by CHECK...avoid the risks of carrying cash. And it will probably cost you less to maintain a checking account than to pay your bills in person. Manage your money matters safely...economically: with a checking account here. Open one soon.

FIRST TRUST & DEPOSIT COMPANY
MEMBER FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORPORATION
SYRACUSE, N. Y.
BALDWINSVILLE . . . CANASTOTA
LIVERPOOL . . . MATTYDALE . . . PARISH

BEGORRAH What A WONDERFUL DAY FOR ALL THE SONS and DAUGHTERS OF ERIN

We, At The Daily Orange, Salute You
And Congratulate You On This,
YOUR DAY

THRU THE MUCK with MEYER

By ED MEYER, Associate Sports Editor

Monday we visited the Mayor in his office. The mayor of Marshall st., that is, the Hon. Vincent Rigolosi. As usual his office, the Dutch Haven, was crowded with people anxiously waiting for consolation on some matter or other. But his honor, the usually happy-go-lucky magistrate, wasn't in his daily mood of carefree joy. The guy was a little burned.

When we finally got to speak with his honor, it all boiled down to the problem which by now has been told and restated all over the campus: What happened over the weekend in the Eastern boxing championships?

"It was a tough one to lose, especially when this is my last season," the Rigger opened up. "You know, when you're captain of a team and they've won five straight titles, it's not the easiest thing to take when the sixth one just doesn't come. Like the Brooks and the World Series. So close, but yet so far.

When a team has won five straight it gets to the point where the other squads will do practically anything to beat you out. They'll switch men around in different weights, but that isn't so bad. We can do it too. But, when the refs begin to call the close ones the other way then it really begins to hurt.

"Take the Granger bout. They rate a college boxer on four points: aggressiveness, defense, offense and ring generalship. Johnny met Maryland's Erich Hintze in the semi-final bout and chased him all over the place. The only thing that the Maryland boy could win was defense and he had to move backward to prove that. But who got the decision? That really got us burned, but what could we do?

Vince Rigolosi

"You see, Ed, this sport is different than the others. In wrestling you get points for breaks, etc., but in boxing there isn't any set pattern. It's sort of an accumulation of the four points in one decision. That's the reason so many college surprises take place when one man is the deciding factor. We had three refs in the Easterns but that same trouble continually plagues them, too. Maybe they'll get a better set of pin-pointed rules someday. I hope so."

By this time his honor was really moving with the words. Every once in a while some of his many friends would step up, pat him on the back and ask, "What happened over the weekend," or "too bad, Rigger." Although they all meant well you could see the modest Mayor was in no mood for consolation. To him, it was just the way the ball bounced and that was all.

The conversation began to move back to the fine career which the bronzed-faced captain was completing. In four years a guy has many thrills and experiences in the college. The Mayor has had his share and more to boot.

"Yes, it's kind of tough to close it up now. And this was probably the end. I don't know about the Nationals. Not many people knew I had a broken nose after the CCNY bouts but somehow Nichols of Virginia, who beat me in the Easterns, did. And I don't blame him a bit for taking advantage of it. But I do hope it will heal before the Nationals. I'd love to get a crack at that title.

"If I don't go west, then it will probably be my last fight. Larry O'Sullivan and I are both hoping to go to law school. I guess four years of college boxing is enough for any guy. Now it's time to get to work for the big world outside.

"You know, in four years you get quite a few chances to see some pretty good boxers. I'd say Marty Crandell and Ben Dolphin of Syracuse were two of the best. Then there was Bob Rank of Wisconsin, a guy who was so good he won most of his bouts by forfeit. I was always anxious to meet Ray Zale but never got the chance. Simmie was going to switch me to his weight in the match against Wisconsin but didn't. Perhaps if I go west we might meet."

It was getting late but his honor was still relating some of the things that have made his college career so memorable. "There isn't a guy around who can manipulate fighters into the right positions like Simmie. The fellow is like a magician when it comes to that. It's one of the main reasons we win so many bouts. Some guy."

The Mayor went on to talk about the brilliant showing of Bruce Yancey in the Easterns and how he felt that Bruce was given a bad decision. He also told how he worked in the Nichols' corner after he had lost to him. The Marylander asked him and his honor was glad to oblige.

It was time to go and we both got up for the door. The Mayor wasn't mad about his loss either. He said he thought it was a close decision but that he got beat and there were no alibis. That's just the way the Mayor of Marshall st. is. No excuses. That's the reason you can't help but like him and probably why he is captain and mayor.

And say, Vin, don't feel so bad. "They'll catch up with the Yankees someday, too."

Injuries, Squad Losses Hamper Hill Grapplers in Losing Season

By ALEX STRASSER
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Co-Capt. Ed Rooney's triumph in the Eastern's last weekend brought the 1953-54 wrestling season to close on a bright note.

At the beginning of the fall term, Coach Joe McDaniel had, at least on paper, a potential Eastern champion. Then things began to happen.

FIRST, LEE Martin, who combined with Rooney to give the Orange two capable grapplers at the 157-pound slot, left Syracuse for Oklahoma.

Then Tom McDougal, on whom McDaniel was counting heavily at the 147-pound slot, also left school.

McDougal's loss was followed by nearly simultaneous injuries to co-Capt. Chuck Debellis and heavyweight Charles Dinkelmeyer.

DeBellis broke his wrist in a pre-season practice session, while Dinkelmeyer broke his foot after he placed third in the 191 division at the Wilkes tournament.

TO MAKE matters worse, Hank Bianowicz's old back injury began to kick up and ultimately forced him to quit the team.

The final blow came soon after when Jim Rose quite the team at the conclusion of the fall term. Rose won his first three bouts against Cortland, Temple and Michigan and was rated as one of the brightest newcomers to hit Syracuse since Bob Gebrino.

The loss of Rose and Bianowicz left McDaniel with gaps at the 123 and 137-pound positions, in addition to the holes at the 147 and heavyweight. McDouglas and DeBellis were vying for the starting 147-pound slot before the previously described events occurred.

As a result of these personnel losses, the Orange had one of its poorest seasons in recent year, winning only two of eight dual meets.

BRIGHT SPOTS for McDaniel, however, were the performances turned in by two newcomers to the varsity. Tom King at 147 and George Finck at the heavyweight spot were pleasant surprises and figure strongly in McDaniel's plans for next year.

The 1953-54 season brought to a close three other intercollegiate careers besides those of DeBellis and Dinkelmeyer. Hank Gobetz, Murry Winer and Garland Harris concluded their collegiate wrestling last weekend. Gobetz and Harris each won two of their outings.

Rooney, King and Finck, plus Don Clark, Jim Rooney, Jaap Boosman, Ron Marinelli and Bob Smith from the frosh squad, will be the nucleus around which McDaniel will build next year's squad.

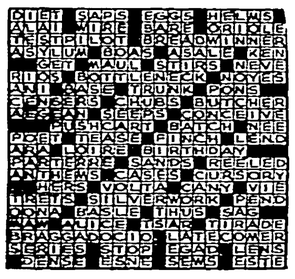
The above grapplers could well give Syracuse one of the better teams in the East. That is, if history doesn't repeat itself.

CHARLIE DINKELMEYER, senior grappler, was one of many squad losses suffered by the Orange matmen during the past season. The Piety heavyweight sat out the entire dual-meet season following an early practice injury.

Gym Exhibition

The Syracuse gymnastics team will put on an exhibition this afternoon at Ithaca college. Coach Paul Romeo's Orangemen collected eight medals in last weekend's Eastern tourney at Temple.

TODAY'S SOLUTION



Orange Hoopsters Picked For 1954 Holiday Festival

Syracuse will play in the Holiday Festival basketball tournament in New York's Madison Square Garden next season.

The eight team tourney, scheduled for December 27, 29 and 31 will be sponsored by the Eastern College Athletic conference for the first tmie this year. Six member teams from the ECAC were selected along with two guest squads.

ASA S. BUSHNELL, ECAC commissioner, announced the selections at a meeting of the Metropolitan Basketball Writers association in New York city Monday. Also chosen from the East for the select lineup were Duquesne, winner of the 1953 event, LaSalle, Niagara, St. John's of Brooklyn and Villanova. Rounding out the Festival field are the two guest teams, the University of California at Los Angeles and Dayton.

The tournament invitation marks the sixth time an Orange basketball squad has been selected for a national tournament. In 1946 and '50 the Hill cagers participated in the National Invitation tournament in New York city. In 1947, the Lew Andreas-coached Syracusans competed in the Los Angeles invitation tourney.

The 1950-51 season found the Piety quintet playing in two important events. Over the holiday vacation, the Orangemen traveled to New Orleans to take part in the highly-regarded Sugar bowl tournament.

Playing against the tops in the nation, Syracuse finished fourth in the tourney. Although the Guley Guys lost both their games, 10 point defeats at the hands of Kentucky and Bradley, both in the country's first five in press polls, were far from humiliating.

IN FACT, the fine performance in the Southern invitational was a major factor in securing for the Orange a bid to the National Campus tournament at Peoria, Illinois. The Saltines won this tournament in one of the most thrilling finishes in cage tourney history.

After defeating Utah and Toledo easily in opening round games, unseeded Syracuse found itself playing the host and favorite team, Bradley, in the finale. The Braves jumped to a seemingly impregnible 18-0 lead in the first period. But the Orange refused to quit. Rallying in the second period and playing near-perfect ball in the last half, the Piety five won the game and the tournament with a nip-and-tuck 76-75 victory.

In the holiday tournament, Syracuse will once again be competing in a rugged field. Duquesne won last year's event and also placed second in this month's NIT tourney. LaSalle, Niagara and Dayton also fared well in post-season tourneys this year.

For the Syracuse team members, this will be the first taste of intercollegiate tournament competition. For Coach Marc Guley, this will mark the third time he has coached a tournament team.

Phi Ep Bowlers Win Greek Title

By JEFF WENIG

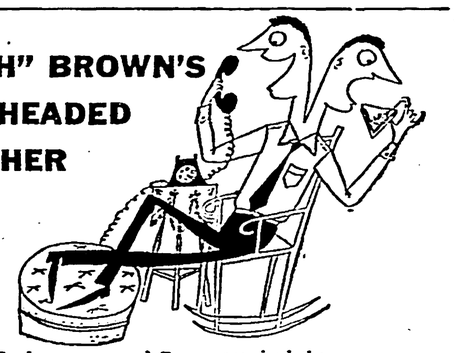
Phi Epsilon Pi, which has turned in some excellent bowling through in excellent bowling during the tournament, last night beat Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 7-2, for the Fraternity championship. Tonight they will meet the Army Comptrollers, Independent titlist, for the University championship.

Although the scores were not as high as usual, the Phi Ep keglers all bowled high 400 triples. Their lineup included, Freddie Robbins, Bob "Moose" Stein, Ernie Shapiro, Max Siekin and Lanny O'Kun. The Phi Eps won two out of three games, took total pins by 55 and also had the high game of the night.

L. G. Balfour Co.
Fraternity Jewelers
JEWELRY GIFTS, FAVORS
BADGES - STEINS - RINGS
STATIONERY - PROGRAMS
CLUB PINS - KEYS
MEDALS - TROPHIES
Carl Sorensen '39
Jack Orr
Ginny Orr
University Post Office Bldg.
171 Marshall St.
Telephone 75-7837
Daily 10-5 Saturday 9-12

Studebaker Owners
Bring Your Service Problems To Us
We have factory trained mechanics and a service department equipped to handle every service operation. Our parts department is stocked with a complete line of genuine Studebaker parts and accessories.
A. Robert Perry INC.
STUDEBAKER DEALER
4727 S. Salina St. 9-3226

"FLASH" BROWN'S TWO-HEADED BROTHER



A certain Sophomore named Brown acquired the appellation "Flash," not because he was lightning on the gridiron, but just because he was never without an answer.

You'd pass him on the quadrangle and say "How's it goin', Flash?" He'd answer, "Air Express." Get the pitch?

Brown often referred to his "two-headed brother" in conversations. One day a few men in his fraternity were needling him.

"Your brother's two heads must present quite a few problems."

"Not really. The only problem was his neatness," said Flash.

"Neatness?" "Yes," answered Flash, "he worried about it. Said he couldn't find a shirt that didn't wrinkle around the collar. You see, he was often looking in two directions at once, or eating and talking on the telephone. Hard on a collar."

"What did you do?" They knew he did something about it.

"Simple. I got him the Van Heusen Century shirt with the exclusive soft collar that won't wrinkle ever! I got him different collar styles and colors. $3.95 for the white, $4.95 for the colors and superfine whites. You should have seen the grins on his faces when he saw how those collars stayed neat all day and night without starch or stays."

"I guess he can really hold his heads up now," said one.

"Yep. He figures he gets four times more wear from Century than from other shirts. Of course, he actually only gets twice the wear. He just figures in both heads."

One of the men visited Brown at Christmas, and found it was all true.

Forfeits Fill Second Night Of Intramural Volleyball

Last night at Archbold gym, the intramural volleyball season went into its second round. Although 11 games were scheduled, six were called because the opposing teams did not show up.

Among the forfeits, M-7 beat M-2, M-4 over M-8 and Beta Theta Pi over Lambda Chi Alpha. Delta Kappa Epsilon beat Tau Delta Phi in the early event; Theta Chi whipped Phi Kappa Tau and Kappa Sigma won over Phi Kappa Psi in the later part of the night.

Winners of the evening by actual competition were: Phi Delta Theta over Tau Epsilon Phi; Delta Tau Delta beating Pi Alpha Chi; Alpha Chi Rho over Phi Gamma Delta; Sigma Phi Epsilon winning over Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Sigma Chi beating out Alpha Epsilon Pi.

Nats Play Boston

The Syracuse Nats move up to play the second game of the round robin playoffs tonight. Boston got a big boost when they beat the league winning New York last night, 93-71.

This will be the first playoff game for the Nats. They play the second tomorrow afternoon against the Knicks.

"ANSWER THE CALL"
GIVE BLOOD NOW!!
CONTACT YOUR ORGANIZATION
RED CROSS REPRESENTATIVE FOR AN APPOINTMENT TODAY... OR CALL THE LOCAL RED CROSS
CHAPTER, PHONE 3-3111

Ski club hot dog roast, 5:30 p.m., Ski Lodge. Buses leave at 5, 5:20 and 5:40 from Sims. Price 50 cents.

JSF informal discussion group, 7 p.m., 212 Maxwell. Topic: "Inter-religious Dating." Guest speakers, Dean Noble and Rabbi Hyman.

Daily Chapel, noon to 12:30 p.m., Rev. Harold Riber, missionary from India, will speak.

Army ROTC Trick Drill team, 7:30 p.m., Machinery hall. Uniforms required.

No JSF public relations meeting today.

Orange Guide committee, 7 p.m., 303 Maxwell.

Purim Carnival representatives from fraternities and sororities meet 3:45 in Chapel Colonial room. Attendance compulsory.

Last day for fittings for girls interested in purchasing blazers, 1 to 2 and 4 to 5 p.m., Board room, Women's building.

Lutheran Faculty-Graduate discussion group meets 8 p.m., 329 Comstock, Apt. 8. Everyone is welcome. Guest: Pastor Riber.

International Students' committee, St. Patrick's day party, 8 p.m., Colonial room.

JSF Choir rehearsal, 7 p.m., Colonial room.

St. Patrick's day Square dance, Irish dancing featured.

DO Business staff. Those scheduled to work today are: Judy Orserck, Peter Base and Barbara Katz.

Christian Science organization, 7:30 p.m., Colonial room.

HPA reps bring Red Cross applications to meeting tonight.

WAA volleyball, 4:30 p.m., Gym B, Women's building. Required for girls interested in participating in play day.

Rusing chairmen's meeting, 7:15 p.m., 204 Maxwell.

Tuckerman's trip meeting, 8 p.m., Ski lodge. Equipment check.

The following people are assigned to work at The Daily Orange today: Afternoon: Maria Heitz, George Meek, Pearl Bernstein, Ruth Anderson, Marion Berger, Jan Dukier, Marianne Oesterreicher; night: Howard VanKirk, Roz Brownstein, Polly Reed, Grace Soflcis, Joanne Hess, Vivian Judge, Gwen Mann Lorraine Cipolla and Allayne Smith.

"The Editor's Notebook," sound movie of Chicago Daily News' expose of Skid Row, 3 p.m., Room 212, Journalism center. Open to all interested.

Daily Orange staff members interested in an old-fashioned fox hunt Saturday afternoon are urged to sign up in Hellbox add 1111111. The group will leave for the stables at 2:30 p.m. from pre-fab 7.

All candidates for election can pick up new petition forms at the MSG office Monday through Friday from 2-5 p.m., from Sanford Patel, executive commissioner. Deadline is March 23.

The full cast rehearsal for "Up in Lights", originally scheduled for the Yates hotel tonight will be held at 7 p.m. in prefab 8A.

Statement . . .

(Continued from page 1)

posal that the University be singled out for special ordinances "ignores the tremendous progress which has been made in the past 10 years."

He explained that within this period the University added 753 off-street parking spaces and in every instance where a new building has been erected the University has "met and exceeded the regulations set forth in the city's zoning law."

When Lowe art center was built, 20 off-street spaces were provided; special ed building, 16 spaces; Shaw dorm, 50 spaces and Watson dorm for men, 63 spaces (although the dorm will house frosh, who cannot have automobiles here).

Marion dormitory for men has a parking area for 16 vehicles, while the new Women's building has 30.

The University, Bartlett said, has also built parking lots off Waverly ave. to accommodate 100 cars; in the rear of 123 College pl. to accommodate 15 cars, in the 100 block of Walnut pl. to accommodate 125 cars and in the rear of the University bookstore to accommodate 115.

In renovating the Old Oval, the University also increased the number of on-campus parking spaces to accommodate 150 vehicles, Bartlett said.

REGENT
WED.—SAT.
Triple Hit Show
Walt Disney
"ROB ROY"
Richard Todd Glynis Johns
Color by Technicolor
plus
Johnny Sheffield
"THE GOLDEN IDOL"
plus
Walt Disney's
"PECOS BILL"

Infirmary Regularly Splints Bones, Dispenses Pills to Ailing Collegians

By PEARL BERNSTEIN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

From 200 to 300 cases of assorted ills and ails are treated by the student infirmary every day.

Most of the patients come with legitimate ailments, colds, broken bones, sabre wounds and the like. But recently there has been an overabundance of requests for special diets and parking permits.

CERTAINLY THERE are students who need and should get such special treatment. Unfortunately many seem to be abusing the privilege, says Dr. J. Arnold Cronk, who heads the infirmary staff.

Thirteen girls out of a house of 15 are presently on special diets, and as many as 14 requests in one day for parking permits for medical reasons have been recorded.

Last year $5 extra per week was charged for special diets. Dr. Cronk felt this was unfair, and so this year the regular fee is charged, and the special cases eat in Slocum dining hall. Special diets are granted on the request of the family physician, and the large number of such requests have made it necessary to refuse persons who are in real need.

This is measles season, but fortunately nothing like the epidemic of three years ago is expected. At that time over 600 Syracusans blossomed with the red spots and an immunity was built up, so that only those who were not exposed recently are likely to become victims.

A suggested way of solving the food problem has been for the University dining halls to offer a choice of foods to accomodate underweight, overweight and other dietary problems.

FOOD AND parking are just two of the problems regularly tackled by the staff of the gray wood frame health center.

The infirmary has 60 beds, and the average bed patient spends 3.4 days in one of them. About an equal number of males and females come for treatment, and since they are more males on the campus, this may imply that the girls have more intelligence about such matters. It may also of course imply that the boys don't get sick as much.

Influenza is one of the most prominent among respiratory ailments, having claimed 595 students last year. An interesting sidelight is that the infirmary staff has been able to diagnose 90 per cent of the respiratory ills absolutely by the use of throat washings. This is something of an innovation in medical history.

MONONUCLEOSIS, commonly thought to be the bugaboo of the college kid, afflicts only 50 to 75 students per year. "Mono" is moderately infectous and is caused by a virus like measles.

One of the genuine "bugaboos" on campus is injury incurred during intramural games, football in particular. During the five or six weeks of playing this year, 12 men received serious injuries. This is to say nothing of broken fingers and toes and bruises and abrasions.

The answer is not better equipment, says Dr. Cronk. Other colleges where the players have all the equipment needed still have high injury rates.

Training is the only solution, but most of the players don't have the time to spend several hours a day learning how to fall and how to sustain a heavy body blow.

ONE OF the biggest problems used to be injuries incurred while skiing, but since the ski school has installed an intensive training program, these have fallen off considerably, providing a case in point.

Someday Syracuse will have a new infirmary where special diets, pink pills and splints can be dispensed and applied in adequate surroundings.

First things come first, however says Dr. Cronk and Syracuse will first have to provide housing and classrooms for the influx of freshmen who should be invading campus a year from this coming September.

Rock bottom in seniors graduating from high school will be reached in June and the classes coming after that will provide a bulge of students who will most certainly need medical care, but who will be in more urgent need of a roof over their heads.

DR. KENNETH McDEMMITT is splinting an injured finger, while a nurse assists. Last year 125 fractures were treated, and 300 students suffered sever e sprains. The cast remains on anywhere from 10 days to six weeks and the biggest offender are fra ctured fibulae received during intramural sport games and while skiing.
Staff Photo by Lee Jones

TWO NURSES visit with S.U. fencer ALLEN PECK, who received a sabre wound in his chest while fencing at Cornell several weeks ago. Peck is on the road to recovery, but will probably have to remain in bed for three or four more weeks.

Music Fraternities Schedule Program

Sigma Alpha Iota, women's professional music fraternity, and Phi Mu Alpha, men's professional music fraternity, will present a joint recital of contemporary music at 4 p.m. Sunday in Crouse auditorium.

The program will open with an organ selection and a number for trumpets, trombones and horns. The Sigma Alpha Iota chorus will sing five selections.

A soprano, cello and piano ensemble; a flute, bassoon clarinet, French horn and oboe group; and a piano duet will also be featured at the recital.

The concert will feature student work exclusively, and many School of Music seniors will be soloists.

Hyman, Noble Set Dating Program

Inter-religious dating will be the topic of a discussion at 7 p.m. today in 202 Maxwell.

Rabbi Irwin Hyman and Dean Charles C. Noble will lead the discussion, which is part of a series sponsored by Jewish Student fellowship.

Students and faculty members of all faiths are urged to attend and participate, chairman Miriam Fiske announced. Refreshments will be served.

Trick Drill Team Practices Tonight

The Army ROTC Trick drill team is required to wear uniforms to practice at 7:30 p.m. tonight in Machinery hall. Pictures will be taken for publication.

Interested Army cadets are invited to attend. The purpose of the group is to better regular drill and learn and execute trick drill formations.

Capt. Harold J. Sternberg is advisor to the group, which has 20 members.

Sammons to Speak On Security Quest

John S. Sammons of Chicago will deliver a public lecture on Christian Science at 8:15, Tuesday, in First Church of Christ, Scientist, 728 E. Jefferson st.

Open to the public without charge, the lecture will be sponsored by the members of Second Church of Christ Scientist. Sammons, a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship, will speak on the subject "Christian Science and the Quest for Security."

JSF Choir Sings At Torah Service

Jewish Student fellowship choir, unpder the direction of Miss Joan Sugarman, assisted Stanley Goldsmith, student cantor at the special Torah service Saturday morning in Chapel.

Managed by David Simon, the new choir was formed in the fall with Dr. Bernard Carp as director. Dr. Carp handed over the directorship to Miss Sugarman this semester.

NOW-at-Schine's
PARAMOUNT
The Broadway Musical Review In CINEMASCOPE
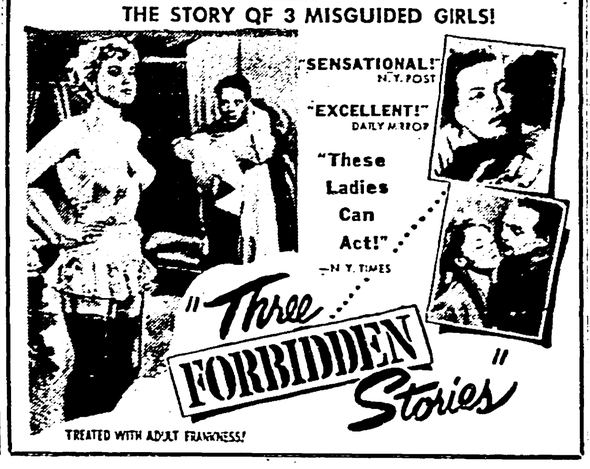
"NEW FACES"
Ronny Graham Eartha Kit
Robert Cary Alice Ghostley
In Glorious Color

NOW MIDTOWN 248 SOUTH SALINA ST. — PHONE 2-0000 Doors Open 6:00 P.M.
THE STORY OF 3 MISGUIDED GIRLS!



TREATED WITH ADULT FRANKNESS!

Hill Catholics Plan St. Patrick's Party With 'Jig' Contest

Shirley Lemax, Ponturiero Head Committee For Irish Fete

"Erin go bragh!"

Sure an' th' Irish 'twil be in all their glory today.

For today's the day of St. Patrick, patron saint of Ireland. And to celebrate the festive ocassion there will be Irish goings-on tonight at St. Thomas More chapel as the Hill Catholics hold their annual St. Patrick's day party.

From 8 p.m. to midnight there will be dancing and refreshments and tales of Ireland. A special feature will be an Irish jig contest, with sons and daughters and distance relatives of old Erin trying their skill.

Anthony Ponturiero and Shirley Lemax are co-chairmen of the affair. They are assisted by Judith Sliney and Helen Bowka, food; James Curley and Mary Lynn Miller, entertainment; John Babarovic and Rosemary Ferris, decorations; Sylvia Burger and Marie Basil, publicity; and Thomas O'Sullivan and Jean Burns, tickets.

570 kc. WAER 88.1 PROGRAM SCHEDULE

WEDNESDAY
2:58—Sign On
3:00—WAER News
3:05—Symphonic Matinee
4:00—Musical Heritage
5:00—This I Believe
5:05—Distaff Digest
5:15—Dinner Date
6:15—WAER News
6:25—Evening Showcase
6:35—WAER Sports Lineup
6:45—Fred Greisinger Show
7:00—WQXR Artists
7:30—Adventures in Research
7:45—United Nations Story
8:00—Evening With Hi-Fi Music
9:00—WAER News
9:05—Music Magazine
10:00—Final Edition—News
10:10—Final Edition—Sports
10:20—Sign Off

PANHEL PROPOSAL

A proposal for a new women's rushing system will be brought up at tonight's meeting of Panhellenic association. Either the rushing chairmen or the chapter president of each house is required to attend.

The meeting will be held at 7:15 p.m. in 204 Maxwell.

J-Alumni Will Save Parts of Yates Castle

By ROGER J. HERZ
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Several parts of Yates Castle will be saved and placed in a "Journalism Hall of Fame" room in the future School of Journalism building, Henry A. Rosso, president of the Journalism alumni association, told The Daily Orange yesterday.

He said that the group hopes to be able to make arrangements to save the pieces with the contractor getting the demolition contract.

THE ASSOCIATION intends to save the heavy wooden doors which face the old Hellbox, some of the stained glass windows, the railing around the well on the second floor and portions of the colored glass skylight.

A complete photographic record of the Castle's interior has been made by Wesley C. Brewster and will be used in the "Hall of Fame" room to show the surroundings from which the pieces were saved.

Also to be included in the room will be other treasures belonging to the School of Journalism, such as the Goudy originals. The Chancellor has given tentative approval of the plan for the room.

The drive to save parts of Yates Castle started last Spring, at which time it was hoped that the entire building could be saved.

THE CASTLE now belongs to the State, and contractors will soon submit bids for demolition. Wesley C. Clark, dean of the school of Journalism, told The Daily Orange recently that arrangements were being worked on whereby the University will be given first purchase rights.

The dean noted that in addition to the parts of the Castle mentioned by Rosso, it is hoped that the floor-to-ceiling mirror at the head of the stairs and some of the woodwork can be saved.

He noted that he has been told that the mantles from the Castle, which had been removed some time ago, had been stored someplace, but have not yet been located.

RKO KEITH'S
SYRACUSE, N. Y. — TEL 2-1307
Box Office open 10 A.M. to 9:30 P.M.
3 DAYS ONLY
MON. TUES. WED.
MARCH 22, 23, 24th
Evgs. at 8:30—Mat. Wed. 2:30
ON STAGE! IN PERSON!
BROADWAY'S FUNNIEST MUSICAL
GUYS & DOLLS
NEW YORK CAST INTACT!
ALL SEATS RESERVED
PRICES — EVES.: Orch., $4.80, $3.60; Loge, $4.80; Boxes, $4.20; Balcony, $3.60, $3.00. WED. MAT.: Orch., $3.60, $2.40; Loge, $3.60; Boxes, $3.00; Balcony, $2.40. Mail Orders Filled Promptly. Please Enclose Self-Addressed, Stamped Envelope. Tickets Now On Sale at Box Office
($2.50, $1.80, $1.20, Tax Incl.)

ECKEL Starts Tomorrow

ST. PATRICK SEZ
TODAY IS MY DAY
TO BUY THE NEW SYRACUSAN
featuring
◆ Sports ◆ Personalities
◆ Jokes
◆ Humor ◆ Fiction
Copies Mailed FREE

CLASSIFIED ADS

IMPORTANT NOTICE—CLASSIFIED ADS to appear in this paper should be DELIVERED at the HELLBOX Classified desk between 1 and 3 p. m. NO ADS WILL BE ACCEPTED AFTER 3. ALL ADS MUST BE IN 2 DAYS IN ADVANCE. For further information call 4-7206.

ALL LOST ARTICLES should be turned into the CENTRAL LOST AND FOUND ROOM, 20 Bldg. 24 at 205 University Pl. Articles can be claimed there.

AUTO DRIVING INSTRUCTION. Learn to drive easily, correctly and safely. Call Upstate Auto Driving School. Phone 8-4040.

TYPEWRITERS RENTED: $3.00 per month, $8 3 months. Good selection. We deliver, Smith Brothers. 4-8833.

Typewriters rentals—New Models Reasonable Rates—Expert Service, All Makes—CORNER STORE.

TEMPLE ADATH YESHURN. CORNER HARRISON AND SOUTH CROUSE AVE. WEEK DAY SERVICES 7:30 A.M.

EXPERT TYPING, thesis and term papers, reports. Mel Sherman 76-0612.

IMMEDIATE OPENING—Sales work for clean cut young man, 25-35, to show nationally advertised fine table settings. Under consultant direction of Emily Post. Car necessary. Complete training and all equipment our expense. For interview call Mrs. Young, 8-1196.

MIMEOGRAPHING, SAME DAY SERVICE, EXCELLENT WORK FREEMAN LETTER CO., ECKEL THEATER BLDG. 2-4829.

WANTED: GUYS & GALS who need application pictures. MARVIN SARKIN'S STUDIOS. 708 E. Raynor. 4-1145.

WANTED: Ride to New York on March 26, returning Sunday night. Call 76-7481, extension 9 between 1 and 5 p.m.

LOST: Leather wallet. Not much money, but valuable papers. Call Ed 72-5040.

LIKE NEW—Northland 6 ft. skiis, including aluminum poles and binding. $30. Call June Ammon 75-2155.

On the Inside
First Godkin Lecture from Harvard, Stevenson Speaking, Page 2.

Syracuse Daily Orange

Weather Report
FAIR
High temperature ____45
Low temperature ____ 28

Vol. 51, No. 92 | Syracuse, N. Y., Thursday, March 18, 1954 | 4 Pages—5 Cents

1,000 Cit Students Apply For City Housing Survey

By PEARL BERNSTEIN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

More than 1000 students have already signed up to take part in a survey of housing conditions in the city of Syracuse, with particular emphasis on the 15th ward and surrounding region.

The survey is being conducted by the state planning commission, and is under the supervision of Morton Archer, director of the Bureau of research.

RESULTS OF the survey will be used to determine the housing needs of the city. Briefing sessions for group leaders have already gotten underway, and the actual door-to-door tallying will begin at the end of the month. Results should be tabulated by the end of the current semester.

Groups participating are the citizenship program, the political science department and possibly the sociology department.

The University is not committed to any particular solution of the problem, William Ehling, director of the Bureau of Public Information, told the Daily Orange yesterday.

After the information is compiled, it will be submitted to the state and city planning commissions, for consideration and action.

ASIDE FROM the public service aspect of the project, University officials believe that the survey process will provide invaluable experience for students in sampling methods and in understanding sociological conditions.

Students will take an intensive, door-to-door tallying of the 15th ward region, and will take sample tallies in the rest of the city.

Volunteers are still needed for the survey work, despite the large number of signups. Any interested students can obtain further information in the citizenship office in Maxwell.

Women's Justices Sworn Into Office

Three recently-appointed women's student court justices were sworn in by Chief justice Winona Brierly, Tuesday.

The new justices are Rita Frankiel, Elizabeth Noone and Susan Snider.Miss Frankiel, a first-semester senior, will occupy her post until June. Miss Noone and Miss Snider, both juniors, will be in office until they graduate.

Co-chairman of National Students association at Syracuse, Miss Frankiel was recently pledged to Eta Pi Upsilon, senior women's honorary.

Miss Noone transferred here in September from Keystone Junior college. She is a liberal arts major and has recently completed the "Through the keyhole" course. She is a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority.

A fine arts major, Miss Snider is a junior guide and a member of Sigma Kappa sorority.

Yiddish Meetings Set for New Time

Jewish Student fellowship sponsored Yiddish class will hold its third meeting at 7 p.m. today in the Chapel lounge. At the request of the students, the class will begin at 7 p.m. instead of 7:15 p.m.

Cecilia Sigalowski, student leader of the group, has announced that the class will listen to Yiddish records in the near future. Students are encouraged to locate any such records and bring them when asked.

Everyone will have the opportunity to participate in conversations. Each week memeogra hed sheets are made up containing new words learned at the previous meeting.

Students and faculty members of all faith are invited to attend. Loz grissin.

Irwin to Head Speech Honorary

Sigma Tau Rho, men's professional speech honorary, is being re-organized under the leadership of Dr. Ray Irwin, Chairman of the Interpretation department of the School of Speech and Dramatic Art.

Qualifications for the honorary are: second term sophomore and upper class men having a minimum 2.0 average in speech courses and an accumulative 1.5 university average, showing outstanding ability and service in one or more of the extracurricular speech activities.

Manual Incorporated In Class Election Act

By EILEEN CHAMBERLAIN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

A manual of procedure for the Protest board was incorporated into the Class Elections act by women's student government assembly at last night's meeting. The vote to approve this and other amendments to the elections act followed similar action by men's student government assembly Tuesday night.

The WSG assembly also heard proposals which are presently being studied by the administration in an effort to set up an honors program for gifted students at the University.

STUDENT WELFARE panel chairman Patricia Mosher introduced a series of areas in which the reserved seating system at football games might be improved. These were returned to panel for clarification.

The Protest board manual specifies procedure in filing and processing complaints, conduct of hearings and procedure in filing decisions. Members of the board are MSG and WSG elections commissioners, who alternate as chairman year by year. WSG president and MSG Civil Service commissioner.

All Protest board decisions must be filed within 48 hours after receipt of protests and the board member who receives the original complaint must sign and place on it time and date of receipt. The chairman notifies board members, plaintiff and dependant of the time and place of the hearing in each complaint.

Under the proposed honors program a student in the junior or senior year might do outside work in some project which would add credit hours toward graduation in his major field. Minimum credits given for this program would probably be six.

THE PROGRAM may be incorporated into next year's catalog of courses if it is approved by the administration. It will probably limit the number of students participating from each academic department. Permission to take part will be at the discretion of faculty members or department heads, although cumulative average will be considered in approving candidates.

New recommendations in the reserved seating resolution ask for a greater number of qualified ushers from suggested sources, such as MSG Civil Service, service fraternities, social fraternity pledge classes or special groups formed for that purpose.

The recommendations, the outgrowth of a recent open hearing on reserved seating, also seek one section for block seating and opening of Gate A for holders of reserved seat tickets.

In addition to a clause recommending investigation of the problem of seating married couples when only one spouse attends the University, women legislators last night brought up the problem of

(See ELECTIONS ACT, page 4)

J-School Sponsors Editors' Lectures

Speakers Will Discuss Industrial Journalism

Four prominent industrial publications editors will deliver a series of public lectures on journalism in industry beginning March 23 in the journalism center.

Sponsored by the School of Journalism and the American Association of industrial editors, the talks will be directed to members of the staffs of more than 60 industrial publications in the Central New York area as well as Syracuse university students who are studying in the related fields.

Sessions will be held at 7:30 p. m. on March 23, March 30, April 6 and April 27. Arrangements for the series were made by Professor Roland E. Wolseley chairman of the magazine department.

Speakers and their topics are: Elmer M. Applegit, coordinator of publications for Socony Vacuum Oil co., "An Introduction to the Field of Journalism"; Mrs. Ellen Van Dusen, editor of Crouse-Hinds Co. publication Family Circle, "Editing the Publication;" W. L. Peck, director of publications of Revere Copper and Brass co., "The Editor and His Facilities"; and W. B. Talman, director of publications for the Texas Co., "A Look at Outer Space."

Queen Contestants Coffee Scheduled

The second of three coffees for determining the Military ball queen will be held 7:30 p.m. today at the Lowe art center. The series of three coffees, the next of which will tae place March 23, is sponsored by the military honoraries Scabbard and Blade, Pershing Rifles and Arnold air society.

No entry fee is required and each sorority and living center is requested to enter two coeds in the competition. Information about entries may be obtained from Robert Carpenter, 4-8926 and Fred Priores, 75-9285, cochairmen of the queen contest.

The queen will receive prizes and reign over the Military bal April 10. She and her court will review the Cadet corps on Military day. The Cadet association of Syracuse univeristy will select the quen and her court from the contestants picked at a final coffee which will be announced at a future date.

Rosso to Lecture To N.P. 1a Class

Henry Rosso will speak on "Careers in Public Relations" at the N. P. 1A lecture session at 11 a.m. today in Prefab 7-F.

A former weekly newspaper editor, Rosso is president of the Jounralism alumni association, and a partner in the Doug Johnson public relations firm downtown. All interested students are invited to attend the lecture.

Hot Piano

TEDDY WILSON, world-famed jazz pianist, is slated to appear at the Interfraternity council's all-University Open House, from 8-12 p.m., April 2 in Sims dining hall. Wilson will appear with his combo. His past laurels include stints with Benny Goodman and Gene Krupa.

WAER to Broadcast Humanaties Lecture

Radio Station WAER will rebroadcast at 9 p.m. today Karl Shapiro's humanities lecture, which will be given in Hendricks chapel this afternoon at 4:15 p.m.

Shapiro, a Pulitzer prize winner and editor of "Poetry" magazine, will read selections from his works and those of other contemporary poets. The lecture will be the fifth in the current humanities series.

THE NOTED poet, like the previous speakers, will be available for questions and discussion following his lecture. This session will take place tonight at 8 p.m. in the Faculty club 910 University ave. Students and faculty are invited to attend this session.

Shapiro has held his present position as "Poetry" editor for four years. His wife, Evelyn Katz, is managing editor of the publication. A graduate of Johns Hopkins university in 1939, Shapiro returned there in 1947 as an associate professor in writing.

The speaker served with the army in the Pacific, and received his Pulitzer prize while a sergeant in the Medical corps, serving in the Netherlands East Indies. His many awards include the Jeanette S. Davis prize, the Levinson prize, the contemporary poet's prize and the Shelley Memorial prize.

He has also received a grant from the American academy of letters, and a Guggenheim friendship. Shapiro's works include "Person, Place and Thing," "The Place of Love," "V-Letter and Other Poems," "Essay on Rime," and "Trial of a Poet."

SHAPIRO'S MOST recent book "Poems 1940-1953," is a collection of his work during three years.

The poet's frank, modern style which is especially evident in his war poems, has received much favorable comment from literary critics.

Halloran Attends Air Force Convo

General Twining Praises Service

"We're not on the defensive any more," Gen. Nathan F. Twining, USAF Chief of Staff, said last week at the Second Annual Professor of Air Science and Tactics conference in Montgomery, Ala.

Twining, referring to the comparatively young air force said that service has come of age. "The air force is nationally accepted as one of the three services," he continued.

ATTENDING THE conference was Col. Robert P. Halloran, professor of air science and tactics at Syracuse university. More than 200 other high ranking officers also attended the meetings at the AFROTC headquarters.

Congratulating the professors, Twining said the work they are doing across the nation and the "experience in Air Force ROTC work is invaluable to the career of an air force officer.

He added that each AF officer "can do a real job of telling the air force story to the American people."

The Chief of Staff said that the main problem of the air force is people. Officers, he said, must have more background and education. He cited the air force ROTC program as the solution to that problem.

HE STRESSED the need for obtaining qualified young men to fly with the air force and the need for building their confidence that "they can fly the aircraft of today In the old days, when flying machines were really dangerous, they had to push the youngsters away."

Twining said that although the air force grew effectively during the war, it is preferable to encourage future officers to finish their education first. He listed ROTC as a means toward this.

WSG Schedules Panel Meetings

The regular schedule of women's student government panel meetings was released recently by assembly secretary Carol Leland.

Any Syracuse university coed interested in working in WSG may become a member of the panel.

Four panels hold sessions following the regular assembly meeting at 7 p.m. Wednesday. These panels are Student welfare, Academics, Public relations and organizations. Members of these panels meet in the Women's building.

House policy panel meets at p.m. every Tuesday at Gamma Phi Beta, and Ways and Means panel meets at 7 p.m. Tuesdays in 101 HL.

Purim Megillah Readings Today

There will be a reading of the Purim Megillah at 6 p.m. today at Temple Adath Yeshurun on the corner of S. Crouse ave. and Harrison st.

Another reading will be made at Temple Beth Israel, corner of Irving ave. and Harrison st., at 6:30 p.m. Students are invited to attend either reading.

Grants Available For Upperclasses

By ROGER J. HERZ
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Applications for upperclass scholarships and grants-in-aid for men and women for the academic year 1954-55 are now available. Frank P. Piskor, vice-president and dean of student services, told the Daily Orange yesterday.

Women will pick up their applications in the office of the dean of women, where they will review their case with a staff member. The application will be turned in to that office. Men will follow a corresponding procedure in the office of the dean of men.

THESE SCHOLARSHIPS and grants-in-aid are open only to undergraduate upperclassmen, he stressed, including present freshmen who will be sophomores next fall.

Piskor announced the appointment of two liason officers on scholarships to expedite the application procedure, Earle W. Clifford, assistant dean of men, and Ruth Haddock, assistant dean of women, will serve in this capacity.

Piskor will continue to serve as chairman of the scholarship committee, which will work with the offices of the deans of men and women through the two officers in decisions regarding scholarship applications.

"Despite the designation of these two officers," he said, "students should continue to feel free to contact any staff member in either of the two offices regarding financial problems."

APPLICATIONS FILED by May 31 will be processed during June and awards will be announced by July 5. Those filed between May 31 and Aug. 2 will be processed by Aug. 16 and those awards announced by Aug. 30. Aug. 16 will be the deadline for the upperclass scholarship applications for 1954-55, he said.

(See SCHOLARSHIPS, page 4)

Parking Violators to Face MSG Court Trial Tonight

Five male students, including three varsity athletes, face trial tonight in men's student court in connection with thefts and misuse of campus parking permits.

Howard Osofsky, attorney-general for MSG, said that the five would be tried as separate cases.

CHARGES OF illegal removal of a campus parking sticker from the custodial and security office, 907 S. Crouse ave., where he worked, has been filed against an Orange basketball player. He will also have to answer for illegal use of the sticker.

The same charges, in addition to two others, have been placed against a member of the boxing team. The athlete is alleged to have given a sticker to another student and failed to obey campus police officers.

A star of last fall's football squad will be in court on charges of illegal acceptance and use of a campus parking permit and repeated violation of parking rules.

The prosecution claims that a fourth student removed stickers from the parking office, gave one to another person and used on illegally himself.

ANOTHER STUDENT will be tried for alleged acceptance and illegal use of a sticker.

Osofsky stated that a total of nine campus parking stickers were reported missing last semester by F. B. Pettengill, director of the custodial and security office.

Campus police apprehended the five and reported the stickers' use to the dean of men's office.

Tonight's trials will be the first of the semester for the men's court.

Seven Tri-O Houses Join Piety Hill Party

By ED HARDY
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Seven former Tri-Orange houses were accepted as members of Piety Hill Alliance Tuesday night.

This brings the number of PHA houses to 23, compared to United Students party's 25. Four former Tri-O houses had moved to USP last week.

FOUR OF the old Tri-O houses are still inactive.

Moving to PHA were Beta Sigma Rho, Beta Theta Pi, Delta Tau Delta, Sigma Alpha Mu, Theta Chi, Phi Mu and Delta Kappa Epsilon. John Hennessey, political rep of the Delts, was president of Tri-Orange when it disbanded last week.

PHA will accept applications until Friday from all students—Greek and independents—interested in running with party backing for class offices or men's student government president.

Applications should be given to the following: soph class offices: Norman Hayman, Myrna Horowitz, Phi Sigma Sigma; juniors: Lars Lorentzon, Pi Alpha Chi, Katherine Horan, Theta Phi Alpha; senior: Anita Chappa, Kappa Kappa Gamma, John Stetson, Phi Gamma Delta; MSG, Gail Brooks, Alpha Gamma Delta.

NOMINATIONS OF PHA candidates will be made at 2 p.m. Sunday at Phi Delta Theta. PHA will have no merit board.

Nominations of Independence party candidates will be made at 7:30 p.m. tonight in 303 Maxwell. USP has scheduled its nominations session for 2 p.m. Sunday at Alpha Xi Delta.

New Assemblymen Seated by MSG

Six men appointed by class assemblies to fill vacancies in the men's student government assembly were seated by the MSG group Tuesday night.

The new assemblymen are Everett Aison and Stuart Fishman, sophomore fraternity men; William Murray and George Hiteman soph independents; Lowell Toenniessen, junior independent and Alvin Applegate, senior independent.

Membership in the assembly now stands at 33 men. A junior city student ,soph independent and freshman city student are still being sought to fill out the assembly to full 36-man strength.

Theta Phi Alpha Pledges Fifteen

Fifteen women have been pledged to Theta Phi Alpha sorority. They include: Barbara Brinley, Barbara Brower, Nancy Carr, Eileen Costello, Margaret Craig, Joyce Finnigan, Helen Gildea, Patricia Goldie and Jean Hanshaw.

Others include Joyce Kunzelman, Elizabeth Maziuk, Helen Molitor, Patricia Nagle, Barbara Schifferli, and Carol Wesolowski.

Recent initiates are Margaret Lynch, Edna Pechette and Janet Sheedy.

Councilman Okays Hill Car Facilities

Official Tours Campus To Survey Parking

City Councilman, Raymond J. Bordynski, who Tuesday proposed that "further building on University hill" be prevented unless parking facilities are provided, yesterday toured campus with Noreda Rotunno, University architect, and said he "received an education."

Calling the tour "very enlightening," Bordynski told The Daily Orange that he was "very much impressed and pleased" that the University has provided a coordinated parking program in its building development." He noted that he hadn't been brought up to date on the situation until today.

BORDYNSKI expressed the hope that the businesses around the University and the hospitals would follow the pattern the University has set up as to off-street parking facilities.

"The city laws," he said, "were set up years ago when there were lots of bicycles around." These have been replaced by cars, he remarked, and so we "need a few minor adjustments."

The Syracuse councilman suggested a ratio of 8:1 of persons in a building to the number of off-street parking places.

After a survey, Bordynski said, "We don't honestly believe there is as big a traffic problem as most people would want us to believe," but plans must be made for the time when arterial highways and the north-south highways connect with Syracuse, he said.

"IT'S PUTTING the horse in front of the cart at the right time, he said.

He stressed that a common coordinated program for the city must be worked out by merchants, trucking companies, and all groups concerned with parking.

University Vice-president Kenneth G. Bartlett released a statement Tuesday which noted that Syracuse university has done more than any other institution in relieving the city's parking problems.

Hill Station to Air News for Females

Harriet Kushner, junior radio TV major, will broadcast news exclusively for the female on station WAER from 5:05 to 5:15 p.m. Monday through Firday.

"Distaff Digest" features the latest in fashion, beauty and homemaking news. It is the first and only WAER program this year to be broadcast by a woman announcer and include news with a feminine slant.

Miss Kushner is a transfer from the University of Maryland and has been active in radio since its revival on the Syracuse campus. She also produces "Ebb and Flow" a series of interpretive readings every Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

Forestry Sophs To Decide Careers

Which career as a forster do you want?

That is the question freshmen of the State University of New York College of Forestry must answer before they begin their sophomer year.

Alumni of the College sponsored a Curriculum Choice Forum last Friday to offer advice and discuss the opportunities of the various careers with freshmen, who must choose from several majors offered in the College.

Among the alumni who counselled the freshmen interested in general forestry were Richard Haussman, assistant forest supervisor of Allegheny National Forest; Milton Bock and Donald Ryan, foresters for the New York State Conservation Department; Raymond Benson, county forester for the Onondaga County Park and Planning Board; and John Stock, chief forester for the Conifer Lumber co. of Conifer, N. Y.

Advisers in varied fields were also on hand to explain opportunities in landscape and recreational management. A panel discussed on-the-job experiences in conversion and distribution of lumber and wood products. Also, retail merchandising and light construction.

Opportunities of training in wood technilogy were discussed by members of the forestry school faculty. President Fred Flaherty of the Alumni Association was director of the Forum.

Insurance Agent To Interview Coeds

Women who hold college degrees in almost any field may be eligible for employment in the home office or in branch offices of the Travelers insurance companies.

Richard A. Leggett will be at Syracuse university Monday, March 22 to interview coeds interested in insurance work. Women who expect to be graduated this year and who wish to see the representative should make appointments this week with Miss Dorothy Osborn in the dean of women's office.

The company usually employs college graduates in one of five fields—sales, service, claim, administration and underwriting. The largest multiple line organization in North America, Travelers employs about 53,000 people.

"UP IN LIGHTS"

All those on the promotion staff for "Up in Lights" and any others who are interested should attend a meeting at 7:30 p.m. tonight at Alpha Epsilon Phi. Those who cannot attend should contact S. Wohl, 76-2186.

Gratis Broadcast Tickets Available for 'Quiz Bowl'

Free admission tickets to the broadcast of "College Quiz Bowl," 8:30 p.m., March 25 in the dance studio of the Women's building, have been printed and will be distributed through the dean of men's and dean of women's offices.

The tickets, numbering 350 for all available seats, will be offered on an equal basis to all living centers. It will be possible to allow only one ticket per house, including sororities and fraternities.

Tickets for city men and women not living in campus dorms will also be handled through the dean of men's and women's offices.

TICKETS WERE ready for distribution at the meetings of the sorority head residents on Tuesday, and women's dormitory head residents yesterday. Miss Kathryn Copeland, director of women's resident housing will distribute the tickets.

City women will receive their tickets through the office of Miss Ruth Haddock, assistant dean of women. The resident advisors or proctors of each living center will receive a ticket for the house. City men will receive theirs through the city men's organizations.

A ticket for each fraternity will be mailed to the president of each house.

The guest list receiving complimentary tickets includes faculty members and students who have assisted materially in the preparations for Syracuse university's participation in the nationwide program. The broadcast will be tape-recorded during the March 25 session and aired over WSYR and NBC Sunday, March 28 at 6 p.m.

EDWARD JONES, coordinator of the program, reported that there has been a great demand for tickets. "Because of the limited number of seats, we have sought the fairest way of distributing tickets. If anyone who receives a ticket finds he will not be able to use it, he should pass it on to someone else who can."

Four student panelists—Janet Caro, Jane Bauer, Raymond Guenter and John Beach—will vie against another college team in a broadcast test of knowledge. They will be asked questions from a variety of subjects. The Syracuse team "boned up" yesterday in the radio-TV center by listening to a tape recording of last Sunday's program. Washington and Lee won their fourth victory, this time over Barnard.

NBC's Allen Ludden acts as moderator of the show with the college teams speaking through affiliated stations near their respective campuses. An electronic signalling device is used by each team to indicate a desire to answer the questions posed by Ludden. WSYR's Bob Whitney will act as announcer or "referee" for the Syracuse portion.

SYRACUSE DAILY ORANGE

THREE R'S OF A COLLEGE NEWSPAPER: RESPONSIVENESS, RESPONSIBILITY AND RESOURCEFULNESS

Page 2 Thursday, March 18, 1954

Editor-in-chief ..... Arlene Lambert
Business Manager ..... Robert Goldstein

SENIOR EDITORIAL STAFF

Managing Editor ..... Arthur Siegel
Editorial Director ..... Hugh O. Muir
Executive Editor ..... Janet Caro
Sports Editor ..... Kenneth Lent

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Edward Meyer, Joan Nadelhaft, Phyllis Sachs, Howard Venkirk, Mary Vivian

BUSINESS STAFF

Asst. Business Manager ..... Sheldon Lassen
Layout Manager ..... Judith Berman
Classified Manager ..... Jean Jacobs
Circulation Manager ..... Anita Freyberg
Promotion Manager ..... Lloyd Eisenberg
News Editor ..... Marie Heltz
Night Editor ..... Howie Von Kurz
Asst. Night Editor ..... Ros Brownstein
Editorial Page Asst. ..... Polly Reed
Night Sports Editor ..... Joel Feldelman

Published by the students of Syracuse University.

Telephones: News, 75-5195, 75-5197; Editor, 76-1448; Business: 4-9266. Subscription by mail $5 per year, $3.50 per semester. Entered as second class mail matter at the Syracuse Post Office. Exclusive national advertising representatives National Advertising Inc., New York City.

'Reserved' comment

The revisions for reserved football seating hit a temporary snag last night when women's student government legislators asked that the resolution be put back into panel for clarification.

The section in question recommended that special consideration be given married students when only one of the students attend the University. The coeds amended this section to include "non-University guests" of students.

After including dates, friends and parents who wish to see the Orange in action, the assembly saw that other sections would also have to be amended.

Obviously, the coeds wish to help the students who want to attend games with non-students to sit with their friends without paying double. Perhaps one of the suggestions voiced at MSG on Tuesday would aid in the solution of this problem.

Is it possible, under the tax laws, for students to exchange their student ticket for a regular seat in a special combined "student and non-student" section just by paying the tax attached to the regular ducat? If so, a special section set aside for these people would go a long way toward alleviating one of the headaches occurring under the reserved seating plan.

One of the best features of the MSG-WSG resolution is the section requesting that another gate be open, under Section A, for reserved ticket holders only. Students not holding these reserved stubs would then use the regular student entrance. In this way the congestion so evident in the fall could be eliminated.

We expect that when the resolution is finally cleared and sent to the Administration, the athletic governing board will seriously consider the proposals set forth and take appropriate action.

Editor-in-Chief

A Gift of life

Blood is soon to flow.

From the veins of healthy Syracusans the red stuff will be processed and used to build up the low blood reserves in Syracuse and elsewhere in the nation.

With the Korean action at an end, many of us have the wrong idea that blood is no longer needed by the Red Cross.

Blood, however, is not used solely for the military. It has important uses here at home.

It is used in surgical operations, after accidents and disasters. It is maintained in such form and in such location that it can be dispatched wherever needed.

Syracuse university has one of the outstanding records in the nation for blood donations. The Hill is one of the pioneers in the recent series of drives.

We are assured that all persons making appointments will be allowed to give at the designated times, if they meet physical requirements; and that there will be no unnecessary delays in the donation procedure.

The blood drive is important. We have stressed this before each semi-annual drive. We offer two more important considerations:

Some of us, being students and not too financially solvent, cannot afford to support organizations like the Red Cross with money.

Blood donations are more important than gifts of money.

Many of us have been lulled into the feeling that blood is useful only during wartime or during a similar crisis.

There is a need for blood when we are at peace.

Death does not take a holiday here at home when the guns over there are laid aside.

Managing Editor

AN EVENING OUT AT THE FLICKERS

No Intimacy Here; Giant Film Lollipop

By CHARLES SAMUELS
Daily Orange Movie Critic

The Grand Stretch

Twenty Century Fox has taken the Broadway revue "New Faces," stretched it out on a CinamaScope screen and deposited the whole mammoth job at the Paramount theater. "New Faces" was a smart, sophisticated revue which owed its charm to an intimacy that is thoroughly destroyed in the current reproduction. The result is the same one that might be gotten were Bea Lillie to perform in the Coliseum. No intimacy here; no electricity between actor and spectator that is the hallmark of the legitimate theater. The work has been transferred to the screen with no awareness of the demands of the form. It has been filmed directly from the Broadway production and this is a fatal mistake.

Although the flaw in "New Faces" is painfully obvious many of the show's bright spots have been reproduced with reasonable accuracy. There are some very personable young people in the show but the one who most clearly benefits from the dimensional elephantitis is Miss Eartha Kitt. Miss Kitt, whose technique is a blend of Place Pigalle and Times Square, has the grace and stealth of a cat, the form and face of a Venus and a personality that gives the word sex a new meaning. Her singing of "Monotonous" is well calculated to melt the celluloid.

Ronny Graham is an excellent commedienne. His satire on Truman Capote is trimmed down to almost nothing but, it is still a masterful piece of travesty. Some fine singing is delivered by June Carroll and Rosemary O'Rielly and the songs and sketches are among the most pithy that Broadway revues have come up with in the past.

The two performers that are on the losing end are Robert Clary and Alice Ghostley. Mr. Clary is an atypical Frenchman (five feet tall) who possesses a considerable off-beat charm. On the stage his renditions of "I'm in Love with Miss Logan" and "Lucky Pierre" were delightful. In CinemaScope his unusual kind of mugging becomes grotesque.

"New Faces" stands as a graphic example of the artistic differences between the stage and the screen. Unfortunately, it is an example of how not to mate them.

By DICK CASE
Editorial Page Writer

Sitting among the million or so souls who didn't get to see "New Faces of 1952" when it played on Broadway, a considerable delight was present in viewing the film version of same now dancing on the Paramount screen. In fact, it was much like meeting an old friend.

I suspect, that as a pure film venture, "New Faces" is balancing upon a very thin wire between a motion picture and a non-motion picture, if there is such a thing. I have never seen a Hoolywood product which came so close to being a Broadway product. Actually, the film camera is merely allowed to kibitz into the doings of a stage revue.

Regardless of plot and structure troubles, though, "New Faces" is an entertainment gem. A giant-size lollipop chewed down to moppet and film proportions.

The songs, ah the songs, are among the best show tunes to hop along in some time. Ronny Graham, Art Siegel (the other one) and June Carroll have "mostly" produced a basket of delightfully melodious melodies and a smart collection of talkative lyrics. "Love is a Simple Thing" and "Penny Candy" are the show's top sweet tunes with "Boston Beguine (a perfect roar) and "Miss Logan" coming through in the novelty line.

Things like "Urska Dara," "Santa Baby" and "C'et Si Bon" while not in the original production, were injected for the benefit of Miss Eartha Kitt.

While on the subject of Miss Kitt, it must be noted that this coiling female crooner is something of an anticing ingredient in this little skirmish. This was my first meeting with the visual Eartha which is certainly a vast improvement over the Eartha which comes to one by the ear. Her voice can only be compared to the sound produced during intense amplication of a kitten's purr. It is quite a bad voice actually but nevertheless interesting.

I doubt if there is another dame singing anywhere, and dame is the word, who can so visually surpass the intent of a melody.

I think Hollywood has produced a definite film freak in "New Faces." It is decidedly in another part of the forest from any musican to date and most certainly productive of a good laugh and a warm whistle—but little else.

Masses

Note to Roger J. Herz

The mass crushes beneath it everything that is different, everything that is excellent, individual, qualified and select.

Anybody who is not like everybody, who does not think like everybody, runs the risk of being eliminated.

It is clear, of course, that "everybody" is not "everybody." "Everybody" was normally the complex unity of the mass and the divergent, specialized minorities.

Nowadays, "everybody" is the mass alone. Here we have the formidable fact of our times, described without any concealment of the brutality of its features.

Ortega Y Gassat
—Revolt of the Masses

SIGHTS ON SYRACUSE

TORNADOES; DEAD DATE; HIGH HOME

By MILT SHEFTER

If you've been hearing about these terrible tornadoes down in Georgia, you might be interested in what one Orange boxing fan has to say—blames it on repercussions from that Intercollegiate boxing decision down at Virginia last Saturday night.

• • • •

Another yell was heard Saturday night but this one came from the Syracuse vicinity. Seems there were four Hill frat men dating gals from a certain hill sorority. Came time for the sorority formal, these four boys weren't invited. And to rub salt in the wound, the gals wrote a special song into their entertainment kidding them about it. Many were the red faces when the gals found their first course at the formal being served by the four boys, decked out in tuxes and their best waiter's manners. P. S. They changed the entertainment.

• • • •

And speaking of red faces, who was the gentleman who got tired of waiting until one extention of a sorority house was clear. He called information and finally got another number for the house, and it was for the house all right. But imagine his surprise when the voice on the other end replied to his greeting line with, "I am most certainly not your honeybunch and I will not call your young lady to the phone!" Yeah, it was the housemother's private extention.

• • • •

Traffic light iv: We were so happy when our crusade for lights at College and University succeeded after Christmas. But to look at the situation now, one would think the lights are only for decoration. Motorists on University don't know when to turn into College or Walnut and the cars coming out of Walnut don't know what the blinking red is for—stop or go. Nowadays when there's a collision at this intersection, each motorist can claim to have the authority of the traffic light on his side. Ah, the penalties of progress.

• • • •

And after all the laments of R. J. H. and all the other "copy boys" have been erased, behold the new Hellbox add 1111111. It took a long, long climb up those Crouse steps but we finaly got a look at it. All the trophies and souvenirs are there now and Frank Locke was cutting a typewriter ribbon to dedicate the newsroom. Even the sports department has their own room now. Only one thing was forgotten. Phones. And so a lowly Frosh staffer has to make the long trek back to The Hellbox to answer all incoming calls until the phones were transferred. The old place sure isn't giving up without a fight.

• • • •

And now if you'll excuse us, we are trying to dope out a shorter short cut to Hellbox add 1111111. We're not in condition for those those Crouse steps.

Malaria Gets the Bird

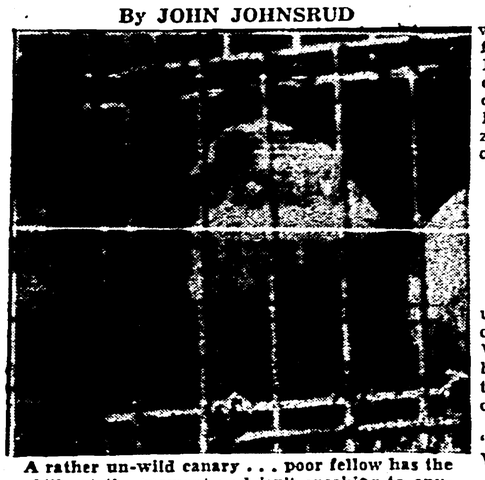
By JOHN JOHNSRUD

War, malaria and birds.

All of these, although seemingly unrelated, are really closely associated. No nation lacking efficient malarial control could long survive a war in any of the large areas of the world, as was sadly found out in the last war.

For many years the successful treatment of malaria was dependent on the supply of quinine from the few places in the world where the cinchoma tree, its source, grows. Without this drug, artificially synthesized chemicals had to be developed and tested.

Birds, closer to humans in response to malaria than any other animals, are used to establish the effectiveness of the new drugs in destroying various types of malaria parisites.



A rather un-wild canary . . . poor fellow has the chills at the moment and isn't speaking to anyone. But then, we prefer he do the shivering than us; science is so demanding.

Dr. Reginald D. Manwell of the Department of Zoology, is the director of such tests being currently made. Quinine, atabrine, plasmochin and other drugs are tested to show their relative ability in the treatment of the disease.

Caged canaries in Dr. Manwel's office in the basement of yman are all experimental victims of malaria. Another room in the building houses other infected birds—ducks, pidgeons, turkeys.

The strain of malaria now being used in the tests was found in a sparrow caught in Fayetteville. The strain was transmitted to canaries for development and then to ducks for tests and studies. Ducks, being large birds, are best suited for studies on parasite bodies.

Although malaria can be successfully treated and cured by modern drugs, the actual working of the drugs and the ineffectiveness of some against different types of malaria parasites is not fully understood.

For many years Dr. Manwell has been one of the foremost men in this field. He graduated from Amherst college in 1919, received his doctorate from Johns Hopkins in 1928 and joined the zoology faculty in 1930, becoming a professor in 1938

80 mph... Boom!

A member of Creighton university has organized a club called "Behind the Wheel Doing 80", and members are required to sing the following songs as they drive:

At 45 miles per hour—"Highways Are Happy Ways."

At 55 miles per hour—"I Am But a Stranger Here, Heaven Is My Home."

At 65 miles per hour—"Nearer My God to Thee,"

At 25 miles per hour—"When the Roll is Called Up Yonder I'll Be There."

At 85 miles per hour—"Lord, I'm Coming Home."

• • •

Ten hardy souls at Hofstra have invited the members of the faculty and administration to participate in the first venture of their new mountain climbing club. It looks like a plot to me.

THE GODKIN LECTURES

American's Role A Vital Factor In World Peace

By MICHAEL BRAUN
Special to The Daily Orange

HARVARD UNIVERSITY, MARCH 17, 1954—"The role of the American citizen is the single most important factor towards ultimate peace in the world today," stated former governor Adlai E. Stevenson to an overflow audience at Harvard university tonight.

The Democratic Presidential nominee, delivering the first of three Godkin lectures, warned that "unrest and extremism on the part of Americans will alienate our friends and fan the flames of neutralism in the world, as well as misleading the American people."

"Rather," he stated, "consciousness of the limits of our wisdom is our best companion because it is the very root of responsibility."

Stevenson stated that in the current world crisis both adversaries suffer from definite, though different, handicaps. The United States, through the advent of the long-range bomber and the guided missile, is experiencing for the first time the actual sensation of physical vulnerability.

On the other hand, Russia is faced with the problem of never having her control submitted to the test of popular consent, "because no one fears a conspiracy as much as a conspirator."

Although these facts are evident, Stevenson warned that the West, in the mid-point of this incredible century, faces the most serious challenge of modern history."

"It is as if to say that we are all standing shoulder to shoulder with an atom or hydrogen bomb ticking in our pocket."

He emphasized the point that within a few years new sovereignties and more than 625 million people have been made free and independent, or are on the way.

However, this freedom, while admirable in theory, has in fact "served to divide its followers and multiply the parties, flags, tariffs, currencies, armies, ambitions and voices that bedevil the world."

"But numbers are misleading," he said, "and the really important question is whether nations new or old can preserve their independence."

"If the lesson of history is that only the strong can be free and the weak must unite or perish, then it is well to remember that the post-war development has been the disunity and subdivision of power."

In view of this situation that is so prevalent today, Stevenson emphasized the role of the American. "In our system of government public opinion is our sovereign; its temperance or caprice is the public's shield or hazzard. It is easier to light fires than to extinguish them, and passion and extremism are dangerous leaders."

Before beginning the lecture, which was entitled "A Troubled World," Stevenson told the audience that it was the most "literate group that he had ever faced since entering politics."

He told them that he was inadequately prepared but was comforted by "the abiding truths of those classic words that never occurred to Horace: 'Via Ovicipitum Dura Est,' or for the benefit of the engineers: 'The way of the egghead is hard.'"

In introducing Stevenson, Edward S. Mason, dean of the graduate school of public administration which sponsored the lecture, stated that "in the 50-year history of these talks, never had we been honored by a more tireless, faithful and honored public servant."

The second lecture of the series entitled "Perpetual Peril" will appear in tomorrow's edition of the Daily Orange.

LETTERARY COMMENT

Silence Not a Weapon

'Expose'

Dear Miss Lambert:

It has been brought to my attention that a number of students have been irritated by a recent "expose" in The Syracuse Post-Standard in which I was quoted.

The article stated that I said I knew of "two pinkos" in the student body. This statement was printed on tthe front page of the March issue of The Post-Standard, and appears to be an irresponsible claim on my part. The report is the result of a short telephone conversation which the article's author and myself had a few months ago.

During the course of the conversation, I told the reporter that there was little to be concerned about as regards the Communist problem on the Syracuse campus. I pointed out that the student governments had found no need to ban subversive organizations because organizations which were of a "suspicious" nature had been shunned by the student body and, thus, had "died a democratic death." In reply to a question about individual students who were involved in the organization of these groups, I stated that there were probably a couple still in attendance at the Universiy. Evidently anxious for some quotable and sensational statement, the reporter drew upon this portion of our discussion to set the tone (a false one) for his report on the subversive activities, (which, conveniently, is placed on page ten) carefully, the sensation of the front-page paragraph fades into the admittance that groups and individuals "couldn't make progress" in advancing causes of a "fellow-traveler" or "subversive" nature.

Because of the misunderstanding which resulted from this article and because of the criticism which has been levelled toward me, let me state emphatically that I know of no individual in the student body of Syracuse university who seeks to advance the ideals of Communism. I carry neither in my hand nor in my head the names of anyone so inclined.

It is too bad that the label "pinko" was used because its presence in the article tended to be misleading. Its presence was not accompanied by what the author meant by the term. In these days of the "big smear" technique, it is necessary to know whether the definitions of the author coincide with that of the reader. For instance, I doubt that what I would term as pink would satisfy the tastes of a well-publicized senator from Wisconsin.

It is unfortunate that I became involved in this situation of unfair sensationalization of the truth. Some of my friends have advised me to "keep my mouth shut" in future situations of this sort. This technique, however, seems to me to be highly undesirable. Neither the McCarthyites nor the Communists nor bad reporters can be combatted effectively by silence. It is, rather, a matter of telling the truth tersely and responding to questions alertly. There is also a lesson to be learned in regard to interpretating what we read. Alertness is an essential part to an informed reading public; we must know what points of view and prejudices are behind what we read and know out of what context the "facts" have been taken before accepting them.

This affair has served as a lesson to me. I am writing this letter to clarify the situation for my fellow-students with the hope that they, too, will benefit from it.

Yours Sincerely,
Stanley Leff
MSG PRESIDENT

Nausea

To the Editor of the Daily Orange:

Your Tuesday movie review did writing was one of mild amusement. I'm afraid the review on "Beat the Devil" stirred up a real case of nausea. A review should act as a guide to the person who is trying to decide whether or not to see the picture, not as a display case for senseless verbosity.

Jim Packer

Incapable

March 16, 1954

To the Editor of the Daily Orange:

In Tuesday's copy of the DO, your movie "critic" Mr. Samuels has presented a review of the movie "Beat the Devil" which surpasses his usually non-descript criticism. "Beat the Devil" emerges from his verbal battering completely "beat." Perhaps Mr. Sauels did not like the film, but this is no reason, even for a critic, to rationalize his dislike with talk that pretends to some kind of critical erudition. If anything, his review shows him to be rather completely incapable of appreciating anything which does come right out of the screen and hit him between the eyes.

It is very strange that one of the wittiest movies in years should be castigated for being too witty. It is a parody, and a good one. It may not have universal appeal, but what movie does? In comparison with the usual run of the mill tripe which the movie-makers grind out by the reel it is as an oasis in a desert of Wide Screens, 3-D, "last stands" at various creeks and rivers, and musicals which present a panorama of light, noise, and sound calculated to impress even the most optically and orally hardened television addict. It is a comedy of situation and dialogue, and perhaps a little more attention to this dialogue and a little less sarcasim about its author, Mr. Capote, would have produced a far more intelligent criticism.

"Beat the Devil" is a movie which assumes that people are just a bit tired of watching stuff calculated to please the most discriminating twelve-year old. I cannot see how this in any way makes it less of a good movie. We may or may not be living in a country of mentally retarded citizens, but it is refreshing to find a film producer who likes to think that all is not lost.

Signed,
Rene R. Beauchesne

WEATHER REPORT FOR MARCH AND APRIL:

get set for

SHOWERS and HIGH WINDS

$10.95

Be prepared for all kinds of weather conditions here on the hill. Buy the McGregor Drizzler Jacket—Both water-repellent and wind-proof. No dry cleaning needed; just bring it to the Marshall Street Laundromat.

Attractive Colors

YELLOW	TAN
BLUE	LIGHT GREEN
CORAL	NAVY
BLACK	FIRE RED

Sizes 36-46. Regular and Longs
Extra Sizes 48-50-52
Longs: $11.95 EXTRA SIZES: $12.95

WELLS & COVERLY
So. Salina St. • Syracuse

Copy—Fred Robbins

Along the Sidelines

By KEN LENT, DAILY ORANGE SPORTS EDITOR

For every man who has scaled the heights of success, usually there are several outsiders who provided a well-placed boost when the going got tough. Such is the story of Ed Rooney.

Last week, Ed reached the top in the Eastern wrestling world by winning the coveted 157-pound championship. In the congratulating crowd were two of the men whom Rooney feels helped him most —Syracuse coach Joe McDaniel and his former high school mentor Sprig Gardner.

Sprig did a good job with his protege for Rooney swept the 133-pound titles in three AAU meets and a South Shore championship. This was done on a team which is currently on a wrestling winning streak of over 100 straight.

The second booster, Coach McDaniel, took over what Sprig had started in the opening practice sessions of the 1951-52 season. For awhile it didn't go too well for frosh Rooney who was attempting to buck a top-notch varsity squad during the year of freshman eligibility.

He failed to start in the opening meet and early in the year when he got his chance, he lost his only bout of his college career to Frank Bettucci of Cornell. "The match that I remember the best that year," Rooney relates, "is the win over Don Frey of Penn State. That victory gave me the confidence I needed."

The Rooney-Frey match created quite a sensation, for the Penn Stater was one of the East's best wrestlers. Ed was the first man to beat him.

The story from there on is a typical rags-to-riches tale. He wrestled in the Easterns his freshman year and lost. Last year, he tried again but finished third because of a torn cartilege in his knee.

Saturday afternoon before the semi-finals Ed was a little nervous. A strategy talk with McDaniels and Gardner again gave Rooney confidence. Following his Eastern title win, Ed has been working out in anticipation of going to wrestling's two biggest spectacles, the Nationals in two weeks and the AAU's after that.

Going on the trip will be McDaniels. With him in spirit will be Gardner. A man needs no better help than the good wishes of his boosters.

* * * * *

As if the boxing Easterns weren't discouraging enough, the plane ride back added insult to injury by being considerably bumpy. Jerry Jaffe, along with several other Orange boxers, didn't feel quite up to par.

The newly-crowned titlist looked greener than a Shamrock on St. Paddy's day. Arnie Burdick reports that after a round of friendly jibes had been hurled in Jaffe's direction, the concerned stewardess, possibly trying to take Jerry's mind off his troubles, asked demurely, "Are you really a champ?"

The Spoiler grinned as well as anyone can grin under the circumstances and pulled his gold medal out for proof.

"There he was," says Burdick, "Sprawled along the chair with as much punch in him as a two-day-old kitten saying weakly, 'I'm champ.'"

Swimmers Participate In Regional Tourney

By BOB GROGAN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Bob Downing and Ed Lesko, two-thirds of Coach Ted Webster's fine medley relay team, will represent the Orange in the Eastern Intercollegiate swimming championships to be held at Princeton, March 18-20.

Downing has entered the 100-and 200-yard backstroke races and also the individual medley event. Lesko will compete in the 100- and 200-yard breaststroke. Each contestant is limited to three events just as in the NCAA meet and all dual meets.

ED LESKO will be one of the two Orange entries in the Eastern Intercollegiate swim championships being held at Princeton.

ONLY INDIVIDUAL titles are at stake at Princeton and all the Ivy league teams plus many of the Eastern independent schools have entered their top performers.

Downing's chief competitor in the individual medley should be Bill Grohe of Colgate. He had a time of 1:34.6 in a meet against Yale while Downing's best time was his 1:39.5 against Dartmouth in the Orange pool. Downing's time set a new pool mark.

In the 200-yard backstroke, Downing will get a chance to avenge his only dual meet loss of the season when he swims against Howie Moskoff of Colgate. Moskoff not only defeated the Orange merman, but set a new pool record in this event.

Lesko was a surprise entry in the Easterns. He has been a steady performer for the Pietymen but has not faced the competition that will be present in the sectional meets.

BOTH DOWNING and Lesko are seniors at Syracuse and may be entered in the NCAA meet to be held in the Orange pool March 25-27. Their showings in the Easterns may determine whether or not Webster feels they can give a good account of themselves against the "best in the nation."

Several of the entrants in the Princeton meet will be seen in action here during the NCAA's. Although no team honors are at stake in the Easterns, most swim experts expect Yale and Dartmouth to walk away with the majority of the individual championships.

INTRA HANDBALL

The Tau Delta Phi handball team, composed of Dan Present, Terry Turkat, Tony Gross and Charley Wililams, defeated Zeta Beta Tau last night, 3-0, to qualify for the semi-finals in intra ball.

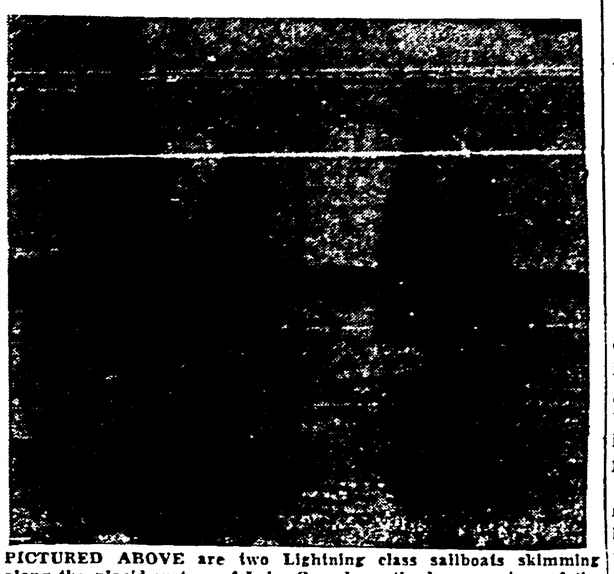
Volleyball Game Won by Tau Delt

Tau Delta Phi took another step toward the intramural volleyball finals last night when they routed Phi Epsilon Pi by scores of 15-7 and 15-0.

Other teams to advance were Phi Delta Theta, who outscored Beta Theta Pi, 15-5 and 15-8; Phi Kappa Psi, who knocked off Sigma Phi Epsilon, 15-9 and then nosed them out, 16-14; Pi Alpha Chi who beat Kappa Sigma, 15-4 and 15-10; Alpha Chi Rho, who defeated Sigma Aipha Mu 15-7 and 15-6; and Phi Gamma Delta who won a close match with Alpha Epsilon Pi, three games to two.

It was erroneously reported in yesterday's DO that Delta Kappa Epsilon had beaten Tau Delta Phi on the previous night. Tau Delt actually won the match by scores of 15-3 and 15-6.

Drifting Along



PICTURED ABOVE are two Lightning class sailboats skimming along the placid waters of Lake Onondaga, the home waters of the Orange sailors.

Syracuse Sailors Look Ahead to Busy Year

By BOB TATA

Ever watch a sleek, graceful sailboat gliding through the emerald-green waters of some secluded bay? If you have, it's a sure bet you wished that you could pilot such an elegant craft.

Out on Lake Onondaga on any given afternoon in the early spring, you can see a number of trim little dinghies, bearing the familiar orange and blue, dotting the rippling waters. In these boats, the Syracuse university sailors, captained by Jack Cummings, will soon be preparing for their early season regattas.

THE SETUP of an inter-collegiate racing regatta deserves a few words. The regatta is usually a weekend affair with races on Saturday and Sunday. The host team supplies the boats, and is responsible for the course, the "ground rules," and other facilities of the race.

About half an hour before the first race, the chairman of the race committee calls a meeting of the skippers and outlines the day's procedures. The boats are then rigged and the inaugural race is ready to begin.

Most two-day regattas are intersectional in scope. That is, they include entrants from the four sections of the Inter-Collegiate Yacht Racing association, namely: the New England, the Mid-west, the Pacific coast, and the Mid-Atlantic association. Syracuse is a member of the latter organization.

In order to determine the champion of any one of these four sections, sub-divisions of each are set up. The teams ranked first and second in these sub-divisions meet for the sectional championships. In turn, the winner and runnerup of the sectional championships become eligible for the national championships in June.

POINTS ARE scored in these races for starting, finishing and each boat beaten. The constestants supply A and B teams which consist of skipper and a crewman. The teams alternate boats during the running of the regatta so that no one team will have the advantage of an exceptional boat. The standard collegiate racing boat is the dinghy.

The classic of intercollegiate racing takes place in April with the advent of the McMillan cup series at Annapolis. The Navy's 44-foot yawls are the craft which circumvent the nine-mile course in Chesapeake bay. Each of the yawls is manned by a crew of eight. The Orangemen have received invitations to this classic for two consecutive years, last year finishing an excellent fifth.

The Syracuse University Yacht club, by an arrangement with the Onondaga Yacht club, has the use of a clubhouse and other excellent facilities on Lake Onondaga. The racing team has received no financial support from the University as yet. The club is a growing organization and is always open to interested students.

Syrcause Pugilists Given Week's Rest

A tired Syracuse university boxing team has been given a week's rest by Coach Roy Simmons before intensive practice is started in preparation for the NC AA's at Penn State on April 10 and 11.

Most talk around the boxing loft in Archbold stadium still centers on last weekend's Eastern pugilistic tourney at Charlottesville, Va. The eight Orange boxers, along with Doc Hugo, Al Zak and any bystander who are apt to put in an opinion are still trying to explain what happened this past weekend to the Orange quest for a sixth straight Eastern crown.

OF THE opinions rendered, many felt that Orange 125-pounder Frank Guelli was robbed of a victory in his semi-final bout with Bill Banerdt, a hometown Virginia boy, by a ref who bent over backwards, after he had been accused the previous night of being partial to Guelli.

The strange case of a John Granger loss still invoked comment. The entire Syracuse team felt that Granger was winning by anywhere from 3-5 points at the end of the second round, and that his opponent, Eric Heitz of Maryland, would have to knock Thumping John out to win. Few still couldn't figure out how the ref gave Heitz the decision after the Southerner ran for three rounds and only landed two substantial blows on Granger all evening.

The third controversial bout of the past weekend found Vince Rigolosi dropped from the undefeated ranks by Sonny Nichols of Virginia in a very close decision which could have gone either way.

The rest of the locker room talk was just generalities—the bad breaks the Orange got in the draw, such as Larry O'Sullivan meeting undefeated Pete Potter in the opening round of the 156-pound class. Potter eventually emerged as champ as was expected.

THE EVIDENT partiality of the home fans not only for a Virginia championship but especially for the demise of the Orange reign was another topic of conversation in this off-week for boxing practice. Most of the boxers agreed that this could be a significant factor in some of the unexplained decisions by the three rotating referees.

Orange Tracksters Divide Squad for Coming Meets

Two-Mile Relay Team Sees Action In New York

By DON HENRY
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Fresh from winning a host of blue ribbons in the Canadian 91st Regiment Army games, Coach Bob Grieve's talented striders will appear in Cleveland, Buffalo and New York City this weekend.

The Orange runners will divide forces for the coming races. The highly rated two-mile relay team will journey to Cleveland tomorrow for an evening race. Then the quartet of half-milers will make an appearance Saturday in the big city.

THE RELAY team, consisting of Jack Hubbard, Les Vielbig, Don Shupe and Steve Armstrong, is acclaimed as one of the best in the East. The Orange boardmen won the IC4A two-mile race recently to live up to advanced notices.

While the relay team is making the trip across state Saturday, the remainder of the Hill tracksters will journey to Buffalo for the Niagara A.A.U. meet that evening.

Spearheading this aggregation will be Ray Osterhout, who will compete in the mile run. Osterhout won the mile event in 4:23 last weekend in the Canadian-sponsored games. Sophomore Jim George, freshman Bob Milner, and senior Frank Calzi will also run the mile for the Orange.

Four freshmen runners will compete in the mile relay. They are: Art Ritchie, Roger Gilbert, Dick Day and Al Rowe. Ritchie ran an astounding 600-yard race in Ontario last weekend. The stellar frosh tied a record set by Mal Whitfield, but was nosed out by .5 second for first place. Don Shupe came in third in this event.

ED ALGER and Calzi will run the half-mile Saturday. Alger has been timing at and below 1:58 for the 880-yard event. Bob Pugsley, a sophomore, will represent the Orange in the 440-yard dash.

Pugsley was a member of the mile relay team which gained a first place in the Canadian race. Jack Hubbard, Don Shupe and Les Vielbig were the other quartermilers. Their winning time was 3:28.

Chuck McGlynn will be the other Hill runner to compete at Buffalo. The fleet junior will run in the 100-yard dash and the 70-yard low hurdles. McGlynn's high school mark in the 180-yard low hurdles still stands in the New York State schoolboy books.

Les Vielbig, perhaps the most promising sophomore, came through at Ontario with a tape-breaking time of 2:16.5 in the 1000-yard run. Vielbig's time was a mere .3 second off the record. Les has also been running some excellent half-miles in the two-mile relay team's efforts.

The other Piety runner to place in last week's competition was freshman Bob Milner. Milner came in second in the 18-year-and-under mile race.

ARMSTRONG ELECTED

Steve Armstrong, a junior in the College of Liberal Arts, was elected captain of the 1954 cross-country team yesterday. Armstrong, who lives in Amityville, has earned three varsity letters in the sport. He was a member of the 1951 National Champion Syracuse team.

JUNIOR JACK HUBBARD is the leadoff man for the Syracuse two-mile realy team which has won national acclaim. Hubbard also runs the quarter-mile for Coach Bob Grieve's trackmen.

WAA Basketeers Await Semi-Finals

By JODY CRONAU

Pi Beta Phi and Kappa Kappa Gamma basketball squads will vie in the Women's building tonight at 9 p.m. for the chance to enter basketball semi-finals next week.

Playing Tuesday, Gamma Phi Beta and Delta Gamma will meet in quarter-final competition.

WINNERS OF the Pi Phi-Kappa Gamma tilt will play Peck II, undefeated upperclass cottage. Theta Phi Alpha will tangle with the winners of the Gamma Phi Beta-Delta Gamma game. Winners of these games will meet in the championship finals, slated for the week of March 29.

Freshman living centers Sims III and Walker are scheduled to compete next week for the freshman basketball cup. Sims III dropped Haven Hall in the semi-finals Tuesday, 32-25, as Sims captain Libby Harner recorded 26 points.

Scheduled to bowl for the University WAA championship are: Alpha Gamma Delta, Alpha Xi Delta, Charles, Smalley, Kappa Delta and Delta Gamma.

SAILING SCHEDULE

April 3-4: McMillan Cup Regatta—at Annapolis (by invitation.

April 24-25: Boston Dinghy Cup Regatta—at MIT.

May 1-2: Mid-Atlantic Intercollegiate eliminations—at Kingsport.

May 8:Pentagonal Regatta—at Colgate.

May 15-16: Mid Atlantic Intercollegiate championships—at Annapolis.

May 22: Upper New York State championships—at Syracuse.

BLOCK S TICKETS

All varsity athletes are requested to pick up their free tickets to the Block S dinner as soon as possible. The ducats are available in Mr. Decker's office in Archbold gym. Each athlete must pick up his own tickets.

Army Comptrollers Beat Greek Kings; Win Bowling Crown

By EV MURCH

In a match that was undecided to the tenth frame of the third game, the Army Comptrollers last night won the all-University bowling championship from Phi Epsilon Pi, 5-4.

Both teams suffered from pressure jitters at various points in the contest, with the result that while one team was down the other was up.

THE COMPTROLLERS suffered the first attack in the opening game as the Phi Eps took a big 166-pin lead. Seiken was the big man for the Phi Eps as he toppled 211 pins.

In the second game the men of the Army rolled up the high string total of the night, 843, which ultimately provided the team with the winning point, but they still trailed by 91 in total pinfall, which meant that it was do or die in the third game.

The Army men jumped into a lead after the first few frames of the final set but the Phi Eps overhauled them in the final frames and both teams went into the final inning with a chance at the championship.

The Comptrollers broke out with a rash of marks at this point and salted away the match by a score of 749-693. This gave them two winning games plus their high single for five while the Greeks had total pinfall and one game.

HELD OVER!
2
Performances
ONLY
FRIDAY & SATURDAY
AT 8:15

LYSISTRA

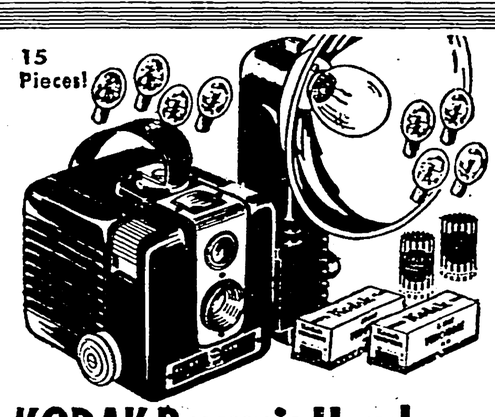
TA

Reserved Seats Available
All Seats $1.00
And $1.50 At
Drama Box Office
"The Greeks Had A Word For It"

Europe in 1954
Outstanding 47 to 49 day personally escorted Eight Country Tourist and Cabin Class Tours. ALL EXPENSES, only $1295 up—Finest All First Class LUXURY TOURS, 47 to 70 days $1875 up. Frequent sailings Mar. thru Sept. in QUEEN ELIZABETH or MARY. Small parties. Don't delay! Write now for free booklets, or phone
DUFFY TRAVEL SERVICE
Hotel Onondaga

TYPEWRITER PAPERS
- Rag Bonds
- Sulphite Bonds
- Onion Skin
- Mimeograph
- Ezerase

The Corner Store
Since 1908



KODAK Brownie Hawkeye
For indoors or out. Camera, flash holder, flashguard, batteries, 8 No. 5 lamps, 2 rolls Kodak Verichrome and instruction book.
13.95
$1 Weekly
Watch & Jewelry Repair
Rudolph's
DEPENDABLE JEWELERS SINCE 1906
COR. S. SALINA & E. JEFFERSON STS. and 2501 JAMES ST. - EASTWOOD

ORDER YOUR CORSAGES NOW
LARGE LAVENDER ORCHIDS 3.00
BEAUTIFUL WHITE ORCHIDS 5.00
2 GARDINAS 3.00
SPRING CORSAGES AS LOW AS 3.00
BOUTONNIERE FREE WITH EVERY CORSAGE
OUR FLOWERS ARE GUARANTEED FRESH
DEAL FLORIST
734 SO. CROUSE PHONE 4-6321 ON THE HILL

OPPORTUNITIES at Linde . . .
Take a quick look at this list of nationwide career opportunities which are open to men who join the growing Linde Air Products team:
Research
Development
Design
Production
Factory Management
Sales
Service Engineering
If you are getting a degree in engineering (especially mechanical or chemical), you owe it to yourself to consider Linde. Learn more about our work in industrial gases, organo-silicon chemicals, flame-plating, welding equipment, etc. Find out what we have for YOU.
Plan to discuss informally with our representative on March 23. Check your placement office for details.
LINDE AIR PRODUCTS COMPANY
A DIVISION
UNION CARBIDE AND CARBON CORPORATION

Complete Optical Service
Optometric Eye Examinations
Glasses in Latest Styles
Broken Lenses and Frames Replaced Promptly
Lindemer
for glasses
Optometrists Opticians
440 SOUTH WARREN ST.
Phone 74-4244

'GIGI'S' COMING!!

Reward Seekers Offered Syracusan

Ambitious Telephoners Can Secure Copies

As a semi-public service, The Daily Orange has secured several hundred copies of The Syracusan of April, 1952, which as Editor Malcolm Foster said yesterday, "was a good year for grapes."

Foster suggested that all students who can identify the picture of him at the right call him personally at The Syracusan anytime today and tell him that they have won a copy.

Phone 76-9865.

Looking somewhat confused after reading his magazine, Foster told The Daily Orange yesterday that it is possible, though the use of soap and water to remove the ink after or before reading and use the Syracusan for notebook paper.

Foster said he denies that his visa has been revoked by Sen. McCarthy, (R-Wis.).

Do You Know Him?

IF YOU CAN IDENTIFY the above photograph of MALCOLM FOSTER, editor of the Syracusan, alleged humor magazine, we will award up to 400 copies of the April, 1952 issue. We cannot give away the current issue, but it is still on sale today. You will note in the above picture that Foster is contemplating how he can give away free copies of The Daily Orange. Read the adjoining story on the left for complete details on how you can be the first one in your block to have a Syracusan.

YOUR FRIENDS WILL LIKE IT HERE!

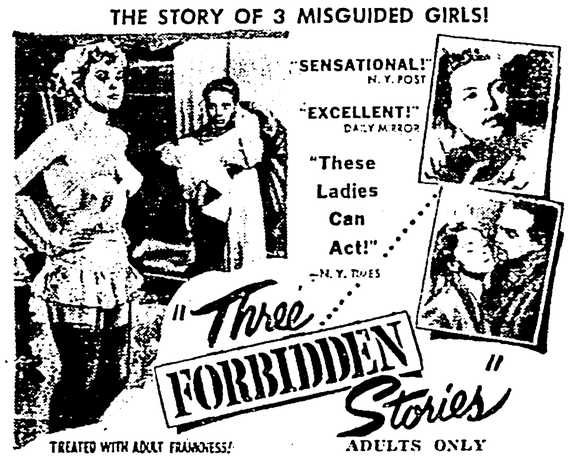
DANCING EVERY EVENING ON OUR LARGE DANCE FLOOR. SERVING THE FINEST IN FOOD AND BEVERAGES IMPRESS YOUR DATE AT THE

KENMORE HOTEL

215 W. Manlius in East Syracuse — Ph. 77-5985

NOW MIDTOWN 228 SOUTH SALINA ST. — ONE BLOCK Doors Open 6:00 P.M.

THE STORY OF 3 MISGUIDED GIRLS!



"SENSATIONAL!" N. Y. POST

"EXCELLENT!" DAILY MIRROR

"These Ladies Can Act!" —N. Y. TIMES

"Three FORBIDDEN Stories"

TREATED WITH ADULT FRANKNESS! ADULTS ONLY

Election Act . . .

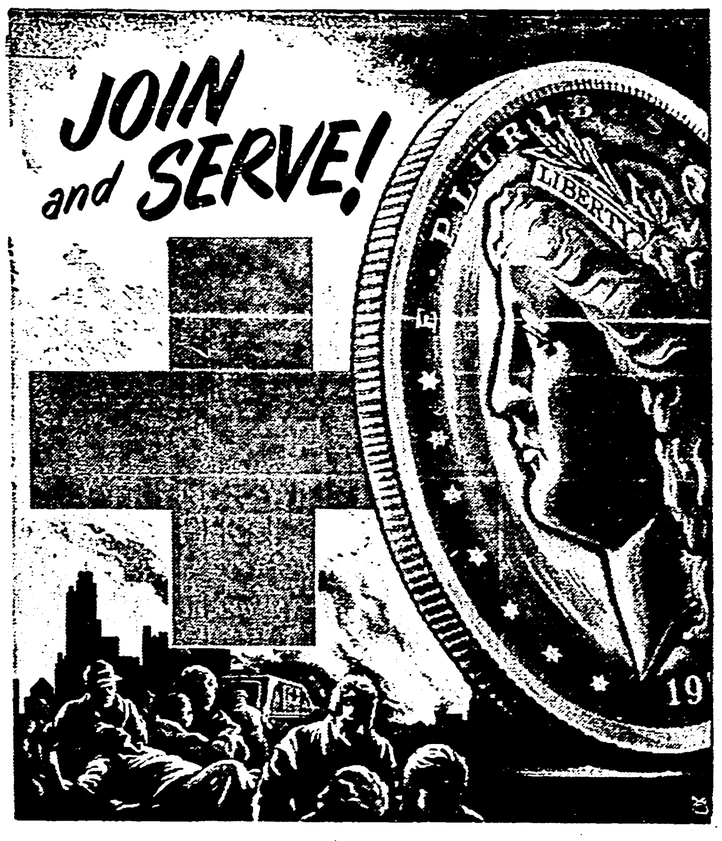
(Continued from page 1)

seating University students with dates from other colleges at no extra cost to the Syracuse students. The resolution was returned to panel for clarification and further study of this aspect of reserved seating.

Assembly members chose two candidates last night for next year's speaker. The candidates will be announced at next week's WSG convocation and a speaker will be chosen in spring elections, April 7. Those seeking the nomination last night were Barbara Anderson, Elizabeth Ann Cramer, Carmela (Connie) Curreri and Martha Tallman.

Schine Eckel Now

SILVANA MANGANO IS BACK... IN HER NEW AMERICAN LANGUAGE HIT!



"ANSWER the CALL"

YOUR BLOOD IS NEEDED!

MAKE AN APPOINTMENT TODAY! CONTACT YOUR HOUSE OR ORGANIZATIONAL REPRESENTATIVE

OR CALL THE LOCAL RED CROSS CHAPTER AT 3-3111

Campus Notices

Daily Chapel, noon to 12:20 p.m. Rev. Harold Riber, missionary from India, will speak.

Male graduate students interested in vacancies in an Army reserves, strategic intelligence unit, call R. Shafer, university ext. 211 or 72-1321. Officers and enlisted men who have had Army - Navy - AF experience, whether or not currently in reserve, are eligible.

Art Students association, 7:15 p.m., Lowe center lecture room. Professor George Vander Sluis will present a color slide-illustrated lecture on his recent study in Italy under a F 'bright award. All ASA members are urged to attend.

JSF Yiddish class meets, 7 p.m., Chapel lounge.

Foreign students' meeting for those who were called Tuesday night, 8 p.m., Alumni lounge, Women's building.

Promotion staff meeting for "Up in Lights," 7:30 p.m., Alpha Epsilon Phi. Those who cannot attend should contact S. Wohl, 76-2186. Any who are interested may also come.

Water Safety instructor's club, 7:30 p.m., 121 Women's building. Important.

All interested in Frosh cheerleading squad must attend meeting 8 p.m., 305 Women's building.

Release-time Religious education meeting, 3 p.m., Grace church, for all leaders. Prof. Kindlesburger will speak.

Frosh weekend chairmen's meeting, 6:45 p.m., Zeta Tau Alpha. Budget reports due.

The following people are assigned to work at the Daily Orange today: Afternoon, Polly Reed, Joy Yunker, Roger Herz, Joanne Hess, Pete McNally, Irene Nowikas, Allyne Smith; Night, Ed Hary, Jack Reilly, Jo Stern, Grace Sofleis, Marion Berger, Elain Chesin, Adele Goodman, Joan Russell.

JSF-TV-casting for Passover show, 7 p.m., 107 HL. All interested must try out at this time.

Those scheduled to work on the Business staff, Daily Orange, today, are Paul Vogel, Norman Berkman, Fred Sliter, Lila Rosen.

Scholarships . . .

(Continued from page 1)

Students are expected to repay money awarded them under a grant-in-aid at some time after graduation. No interest is charged and no specific time set for repayment. "The repayment percentages are extremely high," Piskor said.

Awards are made for a year primarily on the basis of need, although no specific academic standard is required. "Winners of these awards in the past have tended to exceed the 1.5 standard set for retaining scholarships won on admission," he noted.

"Just as awards are made primarily on the basis of need, repayment is based on the ability to repay," he said. Graduates who repay the grants to the University are allowed by the Federal government to deduct these payments on their income tax returns.

TOTAL OF those receiving scholarship aid last semester was 1,634, including 907 men and 878 women. Of these, 1,172 were administered by the University from University funds, of which 602 were held by men and 570 by women.

One hundred thirty-one students held University grants-in-aid, including 81 men and 50 women.

Figures for the current semester are approximately the same, Piskor said.

On WAER PROGRAM SCHEDULE

THURSDAY

3:00—WAER News
3:05—Symphonic Matinee
4:00—Musical Heritage
5:00—This I Believe
5:05—Distaff Digest
5:15—Dinner Date
6:15—WAER News
6:25—Evening Showcase
6:35—WAER Sports Lineup
6:45—Steps to Peace
7:00—Keyboard Concert
7:30—Poet and His Song
7:45—Torchbearers
8:00—Evening With Music
9:00—WAER News
9:05—Voices in the Night
9:30—Night at the Pops
10:00—Final Edition—News
10:10—Final Edition—Sports
10:20—Signoff

NOW at Schine's PARAMOUNT

The Broadway Musical Review In CINEMASCOPE

"NEW FACES"

Ronny Graham Eartha Kit

Robert Cary Alice Ghostley

In Glorious Color

As I Was Saying...

FRIDAY NIGHT MARKS the ifth straight week in the run of "Lysistrata." Show above, discussing the Boar's Head comedy are PROF. SAWYER FALK, head of the Drama department, and BARBARA HUSH, who takes the leading role. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m.

Church Drive Begins For Japanese House

By LIZ GODDARD

Daily Orange Junior Editor

Funds are currently being solicited in Syracuse to build a Syracuse house on the campus of the International Christian university in Japan.

The drive, sponsored by the Syracuse Council of Churches, is headed by Mrs. Ewing Scott, wife of a Hill chemistry professor. Dean Charles C. Noble is also on the committee and Dr. Floyd Carlson, of the forestry college, is treasurer of the campaign.

PROTESTANT COUNCIL of Hendrick's chapel recently voted to donate the contributions collected at the Wednesday morning communion services both this year and last year.

The university, located 18 miles northwest of Tokyo, first opened last April. Its students and faculty come from all countries in the world, with a current enrollment of 300.

Dr. Morris Troyer, formerly in charge of testing services on this campus and currently on a leave of absence from the School of Education, is a member of the faculty.

While the Western members of the faculty have been provided with adequate housing on the campus, many of the Japanese instructors do not enjoy the same facilities.

THE PURPOSE of the Syracuse house would be to provide a home for one of the Japanese professors and his family.

Dr. Ichimada, president of the Bank of Japan, and recipient of an honorary degree from Syracuse, led the fund raising drive for the establishment of the university in Japan. The Japanese were able to contribute $450,000 to purchase the building site.

The rest of the money needed to open the college last year was provided by people of other nations. The community church now being constructed on the campus was made possible by contributions of the people of Iowa.

It is hoped that a graduate school will be opened within a year. The purpose of the university is to train leaders in Japan to go back to their own communities as leaders in education, government and social service. The graduate program will emphasize these three areas.

ABOUT HALF of the faculty of 50 are Japanese. The others are primarily Chinese, German and American. The only requirements to teach at the ICU are that a man be a Christian and that he be outstanding in his particular field.

Enrollment has already been completed for the second school year, which starts in April. About three times as many applications are received as students can be accepted. A limit of 500 will be placed on the undergraduate program at the end of four years.

Classes are taught in Japanese and English, since English is a required subject in the public schools of Japan.

Alpha Delta Sigma Works on Project

Members Write Ads For Wells, Coverly

Alpha Delta Sigma, national fraternity at Syracuse university is in the process of working on one of the newest forms of advertising projects ever allowed a college organization.

The members of the Arthur Brewster chapter here on the Hill are working with Wells and Coverly, downtown men's clothing store in writing advertisements for both the Daily Orange and LeMoyne college paper.

ACCORDING TO George Dowley, president of Wells and Coverly, commenting on the project, "this is a fine opportunity for college students to get some practical advertising work before actually going out into the field."

Professor Phillip Ward Burton, head of the Syracuse Advertising department and current national president of ADS, explained that it was very rare that students had the chance to work under such a project while actually going to school. Prof. Burton felt that both students and advertisers would benefit greatly in the long run.

At the present time a system has been set up whereby every member of the honorary participates in the new program. The schedule is set up like an advertising agency with men working in copy, traffic, art and contact work.

Each week an advertisement is placed in both college papers usually with emphasis on coming spring items handled by Wells and Coverly.

WAER to Begin Program Series

"Bachelor's Quarters," a new program series of station WAER, will be heard for the first time from 6:45 to 7 p.m. today.

Kenneth Sparks, publicity director of WAER will sing "Side by Side," "Return to Paradise," "It Had To Be You," and "Dear Hearts and Gentle People."

REGENT

WED.—SAT.
Triple Hit Show
Walt Disney
"ROB ROY"
Richard Todd Glynis Johns
Color by Technicolor
plus
Johnny Sheffield
"THE GOLDEN IDOL"
plus
Walt Disney's
"PECOS BILL"

CLASSIFIED ADS

IMPORTANT NOTICE—CLASSIFIED ADS to appear in this paper should be DELIVERED at the HELLBOX Classified desk between 1 and 3 p. m. NO ADS WILL BE ACCEPTED AFTER 3. ALL ADS MUST BE IN 2 DAYS IN ADVANCE. For further information call 4-7206.

ALL LOST ARTICLES should be turned into the CENTRAL LOST AND FOUND ROOM, 20 Bldg. 24 at 205 University Pl. Articles can be claimed there.

AUTO DRIVING INSTRUCTION. Learn to drive easily, correctly and safely. Call Upstate Auto Driving School. Phone 8-4040.

TYPEWRITERS RENTED: $3.00 per month, $8 3 months. Good selection. We deliver, Smith Brothers. 4-8833.

Typewriters rentals—New Models Reasonable Rates—Expert Service, All Makes—CORNER STORE.

LIKE NEW—Northland 6 ft. skiis, including aluminum poles and binding. $30. Call June Ammon 75-2155.

Dazor desk lamp almost new. Cost $35. Price $20. 75-1831.

LEARNING TO DRIVE? Learn quickly, easily, scientifically. 17 years experience. Car furnished. SULLIVANS DRIVING School Inc. 73-3451.

Architects to Exhibit Models in Memorial

The students in architecture will again exhibit in the Builder's show at the War Memorial, which starts March 25 and will run for one full week.

Already a model is on exhibit in the Lincoln bank in the Chimes building.

According to the amount of space which is given to the students, Professor A. B. Moore, who teaches a model design class, expects to be able to have an exhibit of 40 models. The models vary in that they will be of residences, churches, synagogues, schools and office buildings.

The entire show will include exhibits from manufacturers in the city, which have anything to do with the process of building. The exhibits will have photographs and drawings of the different fields of building.

The free exhibit will be on the lower floor of the War Memorial, which realized a crowd of 70,000-60,000 people last year, will be open all day until 10 p.m., and will offer door prizes to the public.

RKO KEITH'S SYRACUSE, N. Y. — TEL. 2-1307

Box Office open 10 A.M. to 9:30 P.M.

3 DAYS ONLY MON. TUES. WED. MARCH 22, 23, 24th

Evgs. at 8:30—Mat. Wed. 2:30

ON STAGE! IN PERSON!

BROADWAY'S FABULOUS MUSICAL

GUYS & DOLLS

NEW YORK CAST INTACT!

ALL SEATS RESERVED

PRICES — EVES.: Orch. $4.80, $3.60; Legs. $4.80; Boxes, $4.20; Balcony, $3.60. $1.80. WED. MAT.: Orch. $3.60, $2.60; Legs. $3.60; Boxes, $3.00; Balcony, $2.40. $2.50, $1.80, $1.20. (Tax Incl.)

Mail Orders Filled Promptly Please Enclose Self Addressed, Stamped Envelope. Tickets Now On Sale at Box Office

A FRIENDLY PLACE FOR FRIENDLY PEOPLE

OUR SPECIALS DAILY:

A ¼ lb. of Ground Round Steak (on a home made roll) ---------- 25c

A ¾ lb. T-Bone Steak (U. S. Choice Beef) ---------- $1.50

482 SOUTH SALNA STREET Inc.

(Formerly the Turf)

YOUR OFFICIAL SYRACUSE UNIVERSITY CLASS RING

Class Rings

A LASTING MEMENTO OF YOUR COLLEGE DAYS — A RING YOU'LL WEAR and BE PROUD OF—

A SYMBOL OF ACHIEVEMENT

UNIVERSITY BOOKSTORE

303 University Place

NEW YORK'S FINEST RESTAURANTS AND NIGHT CLUBS WELCOME SYRACUSE PATRONAGE!

Seafood is always the ANCHOR

STEAKS & CHOPS TOO! C.I. 6-4107

LUNCHEON - COCKTAILS DINNER - AFTER THEATRE 7 DAYS A WEEK

200 W. 57th at 7th AVE

Different

86th STREET Brauhaus BAVARIAN CABARET

E. 86th ST. bet. 2nd & 3rd Aves.

New York's Most Exciting FOOD & MUSIC

DINNER SERVED FROM 5 P.M. MUSIC TILL 4 A.M. MEMBER DINERS' CLUB

NO 20% TAX

EMBERS

161 EAST 54TH ST. PL. 9-3228

OVERSTUFFED SANDWICHES

AFTER THE SHOW---TOODLE ON OVER TO Arthur Maisel's FLORIDIAN

DELICATESSEN-RESTAURANT

BROADWAY AT 51ST ST. At the Top of Times Square

AND FABULOUS DESSERTS

Say La Vie—The Place to be FOR DINNER AFTER THEATRE AND REAL LATE MONTE FROSER'S La Vie en Rose 123 E. 54th • MUB-8420

WORLD'S MOST FAMOUS BALLROOM • CAFE • COCKTAIL LOUNGE

ROSELAND BROADWAY at 51

NEW YORK'S FINEST Authentic! Exotic! ORIENTAL CUISINE

Chen's SINGAPORE

Dinner • Supper Diners' Club

ATOP WINTER GARDEN THEATRE

BROADWAY at 50th STREET

Dine and Dance BEFORE & AFTER THEATRE FREE PARKING FOR SHOW-GOING PATRONS

OPEN ALL YEAR in CENTRAL PARK

Tavern ON THE GREEN

W. 67TH ST. ENTRANCE

GEORGE WHITE presents "NICE TO SEE YOU" by JACK YELLEN • IRVING CAESAR • GEORGE WHITE

NIGHTLY AT DINNER AND SUPPER

Versailles

151 EAST 50TH • PL 8-0310

EXTRA LATE SHOWS FRI & SAT

IT'S A LOTTA FUN! with LARRY McMAHON "your singing host" 3 floor shows nitely HAL GRAHAM orch. no cover charge

Village Barn

52 WEST 8TH ST. • GR 7-4687

GREENWICH VILLAGE, U.S.A.

On the Inside

Second Godkin lecture at Harvard, page 2.

Syracuse Daily Orange

Vol. 51, No. 93 — Syracuse, N. Y., Friday, March 19, 1954 — 4 Pages—5 Cents

Weather Report

WARMER, CLOUDY
High temperature ____58
Low temperature ____ 38

Editor Shapiro Cites Poetry Inspiration

By GEORGE MEEK

Karl Shapiro, Pulitzer prize winner and editor of Poetry magazine, read samples of his poetry before approximately 700 persons in the humanities lecture yesterday afternoon in Hendricks chapel.

The noted poet, who was introduced by Professor Mary H. Marshall of the English department, read thirteen selections including realistic war poems, humorous satires and other works.

SHAPIRO NOTED that a number of his poems dealt with death and suffering. He read several of these. "Elegy for a Dead Soldier," one of the longer selections, described and commented on witnessing a battlefield death. It posed the question of the underlying sentiments and factors and the inspiration that could be gained from the experience.

"The Leg," described in a semi-religious manner, the desire of a war amputee to find where his leg had gone. Two poems involving deaths were read, one commenting on the suicide of a Harvard professor, and the other on the death of a confined victim of lingering paralysis.

Shapiro, a war veteran, described the seemingly never ending stress and tension that precede a war in his poem "The Dome of Sunday."

"Auto Wreck" dealt with the horror of a gruesome accident, as seen and meditated upon by a witness. Shapiro's "The Dirty Word" described the course travelled by a dirty word, which was symbolized by a large wild bird.

ONE OF HIS newer poems, which has appeared in a magazine but has not yet been published, was read to open the session. Entitled "Alphabet," the poem dealt with the fire-like, flower-like images that a person sees when reading the Hebrew alphabet.

"The Glution," an amusing and colorful satire on overeating, brought many laughs from the audience. Shapiro also made humorous references to comments that various persons have made regarding his poems. "The Intellectual," another satire, was read.

"Love for a Hand," the only love poem read, was written by the poet to his wife, who is managing editor of "Poetry." Shapiro's final reading was a group of poems entitled "Adam and Eve," which attempted to understand the legend and meaning behind the creation story.

Purim Plans

COMMITTEE MEMBERS map plans for the annual purim carnival scheduled for March 21 in Temple Concord. Booths and concessions will be featured in the Jewish celebration.

Photo by Owen Kendall

Purim Celebration Slated for Sunday

With spring comes carnival time again! Gail Dudkin of Iota Alpha Pi and Gene Sandler of Phi Epsilon Pi, co-chairmen of the purim carnival have announced plans for the annual event.

The festival, slated for March 21 at 7 p.m. in Temple Concord, will feature booths and concessions set up by the Jewish sororities and fraternities.

PURIM, ALSO referred to as "The Feast of Lots" commemorates the liberation of the Persian Jewish community from the oppression of the tyrant Haman.

The story is found in the book Bible's of Esther, and celebration of the holiday began at sundown yesterday. All proceeds from the carnival will go to the United Jewish Appeal.

The theme of the entire affair will center around the traditional story of purim. "The Purim Campus" will highlight the Iota Alpha Pi and Alpha Epsilon Pi booth, while Phi Eplison Pi will have a sponge throwing booth. Sigma Delta Tau will feature a Fish and Chips booth with goldfish as prizes.

Cups will be awarded to the fraternity and sorority accumulating the most tickets from their booth. Last year's winners were Delta Phi Epsilon and Phi Epsilon Pi. Delta Phi Epsilon has maintained the sorority cup for three consecutive years.

ST. PAT'S PARTY

A St. Patrick's day party and dance for all graduate students will be held from 8-1 p.m. tomorrow in the Women's building. The dance, sponsored by the graduate commission, will feature exhibition of Irish dancing.

Sabbath Services Open Jewish Drive

Trophy Prizes Offered In Four Divisions

Tonight's Jewish Sabbath Eve services at Hendricks chapel will mark the opening of the United Jewish Appeal campaign throughout campus. The fund-soliciting drive will aid over 70 organizations.

Solicitations for the drive will be held next week with cups awarded to living centers which contributes the most per rata. Awards will be in four divisions: fraternity, sorority, independent men and independent women.

Tonight's keynote opening of the campaign scheduled for 7:15 p.m. will feature talks by Melvin Besdin and Blanche Krisher describing their experiences and observations while on a trip to Israel. The next big affair of the drive will be Sunday's purim carnival at the Temple Concord. Climax of the drive will be a surprise ending on March 28.

Groups benefitting from collections made in the appeal include Funds for United Israel, United Cervice for New Americans and Jewish Distribution Committee. In addition, over 70 local and national Jewish agencies as the Young Men's Hebrew association will be aided.

Co-chairmen of the drive are Besdin and Lloyd Dunsker. Committee chairmen include David Simon, fraternities; Miss Krischer, sororities; Henry Einhorn, independent men; Miriam Fiske, independent women; and Gail Dudkin and Eugene Sandler, purim carnival.

Music Honoraries Plan Performance Sunday at Crouse

Program to Include Modern Selections, Instrumental, Voice

Sunday's concert in Crouse auditorium will feature a recital of contemporary instrumental and voice selections by Sigma Alpha Iota, women's professional music fraternity, and Phi Mu Alpha, men's professional music fraternity. The program will begin at 4 p.m. and is free.

The program is divided into seven groupings, which will include selections by Gershwin, Moore, Dupre, Dietz, Hindemith and others. All selections will be presented by students, most of whom are music majors.

AN ORGAN selection, "Symphonie-Passion" by Dupre, will open the concert. This will be followed by a brass ensemble which will play "Modern Moods" by Dietz.

The six featured in this ensemble are Kirby Jolly and Jean Chamberlain, trumpets; John Iannotta and Lyndon Schuldt, trombones; and Ann Simmons and Susan Radcliff, horns.

Joseph Retino and Jerrold Cox will next present a Sonata for clarinet and piano by Hindemith. The Sigma Alpha Iota chorus, directed by Evelyn Davis and accompanied by Natalie Goldman, plans four selections.

They will sing McGrath's "Kyrie Eleison," Spencer's "The Search," Hendl's "Loneliness," and Persichetti's "Hist Whist."

AFTER AN intermission, Lorraine Smoral, soprano; Anita Scalise, cello; and Jerrold Cox, piano, will present "Bachianas Brasileiras No. 5" by Villa-Lobos. Douglas Moore's "Woodwind Quintet" for a flute, basson, clarinet, horn and oboe will be offered by Miss Davis, Dennis Murphy, Retino, Miss Radliff and John Thomas.

A piano duet by Shirley Kidder and Judith Hicks will close the program. They will play the allegro movement from Gershwin's "Concerto in F."

The University symphonic band, under the direction of Dr. Harwood Simmons, will present a concert on Sunday, April 4.

'Sunday Summary' Program Scheduled

"Sunday Summary," a news program, will be aired at 7:00 p.m. beginning this Sunday over WAER.

Donald Lloyd will review the news of the week on the national and international levels, using reports from the capitals of the world.

"Sunday Summary" is a concise and current resume of the important world events and their relation to one another.

Richards Dorm Sets Irish Open House

It will be the "wearing of the green" again this Sunday when Richards cottage sponsors their St. Patrick's open house from 2:30-4:30 p.m. A freshman cottage, it is located at 900 University ave.

Although featuring an Irish theme, everyone, whether swearing by the "green" or "orange" is cordially invited to attend. Plans have been made to have plenty of coke and cookies for all.

Hill Men's Housing Prices Will Stay Same Next Year

By ROGER HERZ
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Housing prices will in all but three cases be the same next academic year as this year, Jack C. Buckle, director of men's counseling and residence, told The Daily Orange yesterday.

Washington Arms rooms have been scaled from $320, for a double with bath, to $240, for a double in a four-room suite. Last year the building was covered by a flat price.

RATES IN THE Marshall and Flick apartments, graduate dormitories, have been raised from $64 to $120 for some of the rooms. The latter applies only to two single apartments in Flick. Graduate apartments range from $320 to $480.

Included in all contracts for next year for the first time, Buckle says, is a phrase in which "the University reserves the right to use rooms during any period for which the student does not pay rent, including vacations."

This is normal practice at most universities, he said, and noted that over Christmas or other vacations in the past that permission was obtained from individual students for use of their room, with the University guaranteeing any loss.

Rates for campus living centers runs from $208 to $240. Prefabs at Collendale and on Irving ave. will be $160 for triple accommodations and $176 for doubles.

GROVER CLEVELAND ranges from $224 to $304. Marion dormitory will be $322, including the $2 residence fund. All students living in Marion must eat in the Watson dining hall, unless working for board. Board will be $440 for the academic year.

Graduate housing will also be available in small living units, with singles renting for $240 and double rooms for $224.

One hundred forty-two places will be available in Marion, with seniors having preference. The 90 openings in Washington Arms go first to juniors, and sophomores get first pick of the 104 rooms at Grover Cleveland.

Ninety-two places are open for upperclassmen at Collendale, 70 in campus prefabs, and 130 in small campus living centers. Graduate students have a total of 137 places available to them.

OPEN HOUSES for inspection of men's housing will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. next Tuesday and Wednesday. A housing convocation for men will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 25, in Maxwell auditorium.

An opportunity will be given at this meeting for presentation of questions concerning policy or procedures.

Osofsky Elected IFC Prexy; Turner Takes Second Position

By AL BARTKEVICIUS
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Howard Osofsky was unanimously elected president of the Interfraternity Council at Wednesday's meeting and annual elections of the council.

The body voted to seat Osofsky after a motion to allow an other applicant to change his application for vice-president to president was defeated.

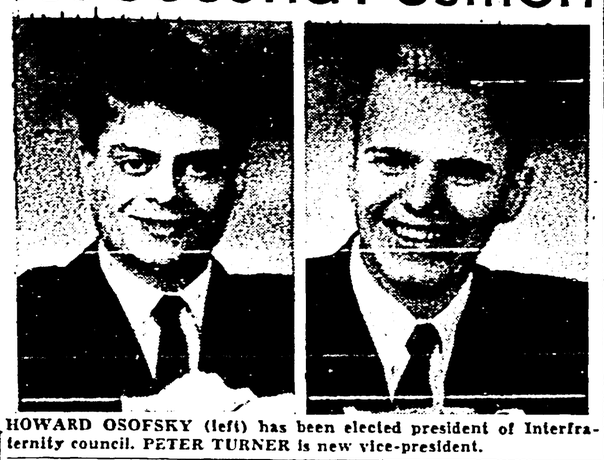
PETER TURNER, Kappa Sig, was elected vice-president for the coming year, after a first ballot tie with Robert Lefko. Burt Polishook, Alpha Epsilon Pi, and Richard Menschel, Zeta Beta Tau, were named secretary and treasurer respectively.

Letters circulated to the individual fraternity houses a few days before the meeting announced the desire of one candidate to switch his nomination. If the motion to allow this move had been passed by the Council, nominations would again be open and the elections would have been postponed one week and held at a special meeting. The motion was defeated in a closed ballot, 42-12.

Turner, Kappa Sigma, defeated Lefko on the second closed ballot, after the first had resulted in a deadlock. The second ballot was taken after both candidates delivered a brief talk to the Council.

Osofsky, a Sigma Alpha Mu, succeeds Frederick Briggs. The four new members of the executive council of IFC will hold office until the next election, one year from now.

THE NEW secretary and treasurer were chosen by the former exeutive council and Dean of Student Services Frank Piskor, according to Briggs.



HOWARD OSOFSKY (left) has been elected president of Interfraternity council. PETER TURNER is new vice-president.

Rotary Sets Dinner For Foreign Students

Foreign students attending Syracuse university, LeMoyne college and the local and nearby high schools will attend the second annual rotary dinner from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m., Sunday, March 21 in Sims dining hall.

Members of the Rotary club of Syracuse and their wives will give the buffet dinner. During this time the students and Rotarians will mingle to get to know each other.

They hope to swap tales of different lands and different customs and experiences. At 6:30 a program of entertainment will be presented by the students.

Included in the program will be the Rotary barbershop quartet. Group singing will follow the program.

All foreign students are urged to accept the invitation to attend.

Fall Senior Coeds Will Select Rooms

By EILEEN CHAMBERLAIN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Women students who will be seniors next semester are scheduled to draw numbers for preference in next year's room assignments from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Thursday, April 1 in room 110 of the Women's building.

Numbers drawn by coeds at that time will determine the order in which their room assignments are made. Students will not be allowed to draw unless they bring applications properly filled out with signatures of parents or guardians to the Women's building at the time of drawing.

EACH COED may indicate three room choices on her applications. Additional choices should be numbered and listed under the section labeled "Remarks" on the application.

Coeds who wish to room together should indicate their choices of roommates in a uniform matter on all applications. If it is more important to a student that she obtain a specific room this should be indicated. If a coed is more concerned over choice of roommate this should also be noted on the application.

All room contracts are made for two semesters and students will be held responsible for this arrangement, according to Miss Kathryn Copeland, women's residence director. Assignments will be made as quickly as vacancies permit and their will be no changes until after registration in September.

Eighteen living centers have been listed as upperclass residences for next year. These include one full cooperative, Peck II, two semi-cooperatives, Genesee and Mott and two nurses' cottages, Hyde and Powers.

Regular upperclass living centers listed are Berwald, Brewster, Charles, Corneille, Fairfield, Hurst Jewell, Lima, Reid, Root, Scott, Shaw and Winchell.

Each student should visit the women's living centers prior to the date she draws her number.

Nine Seniors Named For Phi Beta Kappa

Nine members of the senior class were recently elected to Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic honorary for students in the liberal arts program.

Named to the honorary after 105 hours were the following June graduates: Margaret Hake, 2.572; Nancy Jones, 2.495; Mary Flavin, 2.491; Frances Taube, 2.477; John Gordon, 2.464; Rudolph Johanns, 2.447; Barbara Barnes, 2.435; Edna Reynolds, 2.398 and Peter Rose, 2.352.

The above students, along with those initiated in the fall, will be guests of the New York Kappa chapter at a dinner, April 29 in Shaw dorm. Dr. Charles Meirow, former president of Colorado college, will be guest speaker. His talk is entitled "The Most Modern Voice From Antiquity."

The candidates for initiation will be pledged April 29 at 2:45 p.m. at 221 Maxwell. They will attend the Phi Beta Kappa humanities lecture at 4:15 p.m. and will then be the guests at the dinner.

The candidates must return their registration card to Dr. Ewing C. Scott, 212A Bowne, before Thursday. The key order may also be placed at this time.

Student Injured As Car Crashes

A sophomore coed was admitted to the University infirmary yesterday for treatment after a car she was operating crashed into a tree on University pl. about 11 a.m.

Barbara Corcoran, a home economics major, told The Daily Orange yesterday that she swerved the auto after turning right onto University pl. from College pl. to avoid hitting a pedestrian.

Miss Corcoran suffered a cut on the nose and entered the infirmary for x-rays to determine if she had received other injuries.

The right fender and headlight of the car were smashed when it hit the tree, located in front of the Psi Upsilon fraternity house. Also damaged was the front bumper.

Hill Rowing Club Will Hold Dance

The fifth annual crew dance, sponsored by the Syracuse Rowing club, will whirl away from 8 to midnight, Saturday in the Ski lodge.

All persons associated now or in the past have been urged by the club to attend the dance. It will feature the music of the Silvertones, a band made up of university students.

Tickets will cost $2 and entertainment will be supplied by the "oarsmen." Refreshments will also be served.

Transportation to the Ski lodge will be provided, for those who want it, leaving from Archbold gym about 8 p.m. Corsages will be presented at the dance to the wives of the coaches who are chaperones.

This is the last social event before the crew goes into strict training.

WAER Will Air New Broadcast

The second program in the series "Syracuse This Week" will be heard at 6:10 p.m. this Sunday.

An objective account of the week's news of Syracuse is presented by reporters Dick Ballentine and Ronald Merson. It is produced by the WAER news department. The program features on-the-spot recordings with people who make the news and who are directly concerned with the current happenings in the city.

The first "Syracuse This Week" program presented a survey of the living conditions in the 15th ward. Interviews and on-the-spot recordings pointed up the lack of good accommodations in this area.

SATURDAY MATINEE

WAER will present an hour of recorded popular and semi-popular music this Saturday afternoon. Bob Martindale's popular disc jockey show, Saturday Matinee, will feature the music of Hugo Winterhalter and his orchestra.

Engineers' Ball Tickets Available; Lois Heyl Will Reign as Queen

LOIS HEYL, named queen of the annual Engineers' ball, offers a royal smile for the camera. The Home Economics freshman from French cottage is flanked by her court, BEA MELLEN, Shaw dorm; GRETA WOLFE, Haven Hall; MARY AUSTEN, Delta Gamma; and NANCY LUYSTER, Butler cottage. The dance is scheduled for tomorrow evening in the main ballroom of Hotel Syracuse.

Photo by Owen Kendall

Tickets for the annual Engineer's Ball, 9-1 a.m. tomorrow in the main ballroom of Hotel Syracuse, will be available today in the basement of Slocum hall and at the door prior to the dance.

The semi-formal, corsageless affair features music by Williamson's Parisians. Sponsored by Theta Tau, professional engineering fraternity, the ball is open to the entire University the first time since the engineers returned to campus from Thompson road.

LOIS HEYL, a home economics freshman from French cottage, has been selected queen of the ball. Her court includes Bea Mellen, Shaw dorm; Greta Wolfe, Haven hall; Mary Austen, Delta Gamma; and Nancy Luyster, Butler cottage.

The theme of the dance is based on St. Patrick's day. St. Patrick is the patron saint of engineers.

According to Women's Student government, coeds attending the Engineer's Ball may obtain special "2" permissions by filling out

(See ENGINEERING, page 4)

MSG Appoints Junior Officers

Nine members of civil service of men's student government have assumed new positions as junior officers for the second semester.

Several of the men were junior officers last fall, but they are being rotated to provide them with more expereience, Stephen Reiss, chief of civil service, said.

The officers and their positions are: Philip Stern, director of education; Robert Hubbell, director of public relations; John De Palma, director of elections; Lester Rendelstein, personnel director.

Also, Kenneth Brown, secretary of the court; Thomas Nelipowitz, secretary of the assembly; Williard Schop, office manager; Jerome Gerber, director of organizations; and Richard Zallen, executive junior officer.

WSG Gives Two's For Engineers' Ball

All coeds who attend the Engineers' ball tomorrow evening have been granted special two o'clock permissions by women's student government standards council. Coeds must use pink permission slips if they take the later curfew. No ticket stubs are required.

Two Hill Teams Debate in Hamilton

Two Syracuse university debate teams took part in debates at Hamilton and Colgate Wednesday.

Both teams lost to Hamilton. No decision was given in the Colgate matches.

Max Baratz and Douglas Ingalls represented the negative, with Rudolph Johanns and Alexander Strasser, secretary of the Hill Forsenic Society, arguing the affirmative side. Johanns, a senior, has participated in more debates than any other member of the team.

Strasser and Johanns were members of the Syracuse university team that won the Hamilton colege debate tournament in 1952. Fourteen other colleges competed in the tournament.

Next weekend the team will participate in debate tournaments at LeMoyne and Dartmouth. Howard Osofsky, president of the hill debate organization, and Max Baratz will represent the Orange at Dartmouth.

Methodists to Hold Senior Banquet

The third annual Methodist Senior banquet will be held at 6 p.m. Sunday at the Erwin Methodist church.

The active seniors and Methodist Crusade scholars are to be guests. Jack Miller is the general chairman and Bill Meyse is in charge of tickets, which will sell for $1.

Banquet speaker for the evening will be Dr. Hiel D. Ballinger, of the Methodist Board of Education. He has been in charge of the Student Work program at the church for sixteen years.

Dr. Ballinger has served on many world-wide student leader committees, having made a round-the-world visit to students in 1952.

SYRACUSE DAILY ORANGE

THREE R'S OF A COLLEGE NEWSPAPER: RESPONSIVENESS, RESPONSIBILITY AND RESOURCEFULNESS

Page 2 — Friday, March 19, 1954

Editor-in-chief ——— Arlene Lambert
Business Manager ——— Robert Goldstein

SENIOR EDITORIAL STAFF

Managing Editor ——— Arthur Siegel
Editorial Director ——— Hugh O. Maclellan
Executive Editor ——— Janet Caro
Sports Editor ——— Kenneth Levi

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Edward Meyer, Joan Nadelhaft, Phyllis Sirota, Howard Vanklirk, Mary Vivian

BUSINESS STAFF

Asst. Business Manager ——— Sheldon Lessen
Layout Manager ——— Judith Berman
Classified Manager ——— Jean Jacobs
Circulation Manager ——— Anita Freyberg
Promotion Manager ——— Lloyd Eisenberg

DAILY STAFF

Night Editor ——— Ed Hardy
Asst. Night Editor ——— Jack Reilly
Editorial Page Asst. ——— Joanne Stein
Night Sports Editor ——— Dave Bennett

Published by the students of Syracuse University.

Telephones: News, 75-5195, 75-5197; Editor, 76-1443; Business: 4-7496. Subscription by mail $5 per year, $3.50 per semester. Entered as second class mail matter at the Syracuse Post Office. Exclusive national advertising representatives National Advertising Inc., New York City.

Threefold problem of the Marching Band: few trips, inadequate space, lack of scholarships.

True education

Although plans for a survey of Syracuse housing by over 800 University students have not been completed, the project looms as one of the most beneficial (for students and community alike) in recent years.

Original plans called for students to survey housing conditions in the 15th ward. However, it has now been decided that a city-wide sampling of the housing situation would be of more advantage in the overall program.

Students will be used in this phase of the project which is still scheduled to begin April 1. Seniors and graduate students may also be asked to continue participation when the State committee starts to concentrate on the 15th ward area and other trouble spots.

For the citizenship, poli sci or sociology student, the benefit will be three-fold. They will learn about sampling techniques, housing conditions and, most important of all, people.

Here is an opportunity for the student to come out from behind the books and take a look at the non-collegiate world about him. Here, too, is the chance to put into practice many of the theories that came along with the textbook.

He must learn to make rapid adjustments, to establish rapport with all classes and to evaluate the sources and the data with which he comes in contact.

The community, of course, reaps the benefit of added statistics upon which to base recommendations and projects to improve the Syracuse housing picture.

It is our hope that the plans will soon become definite and that all the University students who applied will be given the opportunity to increase both their own education and the welfare of the city of Syracuse.

Editor-in-Chief

'Land of the Free'

We are a difficult people to understand, we Americans. Our fast and furious and rather luxurious way of life "is a puzzlement" as the king of Siam now on Broadway notes.

Therefore we are gratified with such information as we received in the letter printed in column eight on this page today.

Syracuse university's bit of missionary work in the person of Tom Gill has produced results that are of a benefit to the whole country. To quote: "Since his arrival, he has been energetically interpreting to us his country and people, thereby correcting some misconceptions about them and helping to promote a better understanding between Thai and American people."

Siam lies geographically between Burma and French Indo-China in the southeastern corner of Asia. Politically, the country is the keystone in the great southeastern arch linking the Indian and Pacific oceans.

Our delicate world balance depends on the stability of such relatively small pieces of land. And the stability of international understanding is the most valuable of all.

In this age of ours the Pacific ocean has turned from a gulf into a back fence making former strangers into next-door neighbors.

We extend our thanks to Tom Gill and Syracuse-in-Asia for dropping next door, so to speak, and getting acquainted.

There is a note in the name "Thailand" that sounds a responsive tone in our thinking. It means "Land of the Free." In the smouldering war that is Asia today, knowledge and understanding are the most effective dashes of water on the encroaching fires from the north.

Editorial Director

IN THE HALLWAY

On Election Procedure

By ED HARDY

A manual of procedure has finally been set up under which the elections protest board will operate.

In the past the board has held its sessions under an informal plan, with no written rules to govern it.

A section of the class elections act defining the protest board and its jurisdiction states that an appeal of its decision could be made to the joint student court for "violation of procedure by the protest board." The catch here was: who was to determine what the procedure actually was?

The question of procedure was raised during a trial resulting from campaigning for freshman elections last fall. At that time the defense claimed that the board's procedure was too informal.

Now the class elections act, as amended this week by men's and women's student government, states specifically that the "manual of procedure" shall be followed.

An important addition to this elections act change concerning the two men-two women board is a ruling that a hearing of a protest must be held and a decision rendered within 48 hours of receipt of a protest.

This will provide swift action on any complaint and might stop postponement of an election on a minor point.

Specific points in the manual include method of filing and processing complaints, exact procedure at the board's meeting and way of filing the decision. Execution of the decision is left up to the elections commissioners.

A clause dealing with amendments to the rules caused some slight controversy in the MSG assembly when the manual was presented for acceptance Tuesday. A majority vote of the total membership of the board can change the rules, article seven of the manual states.

A few assemblymen felt that this was handing out too much power to a group that already had a great responsibility. However, since three members of the board would have to favor any amendment, that means that nothing could be "put over." And in general the class elections act limits anything more radical than minor changes in the steps used to run the meeting.

A related bill to the protest board is the one to set up the joint student court as a permanent body. This is stalled in panel and may not get out for a month.

With the manual of procedure for the protest board, and the court bill once it is approved, student government will be ably prepared to cope with any situations that might arise in the coming elections.

THE GODKIN LECTURES

A 'Fear of Aggression' & 'Battle of Ideologies'

By MICHAEL BRAUN

Special to The Daily Orange

HARVARD UNIVERSITY, MARCH 18, 1954—In the second of a series of lectures, at Harvard university, Adlai E. Stevenson declared that the current world situation can be broken down into two distinct ideas: the fear of actual aggression and the battle of ideologies.

"In Europe and the Western world there is mainly a power struggle. In the countries of Asia, however, that are only recently awakening to political independence, the struggle is of an ideological nature.

"In both these struggles the American is at once suspect because of his tenets of self-righteousness and self-delusion. In our anxiety to soothe both factions we have aroused doubt in the minds of some men."

Stevenson stated that "The European thinks of a friend, neighbor or a relative who votes Communism, not as supporting Russia, but merely to express his disapproval over his living and working conditions." He chooses to ignore the political ideals of Russia in the hope that his government will eventually succeed to something better. "Europe, then, while not completely at our goal, is moving along the path of unity and strength as evident in the Schuman Plan.

The only caution that we must use is that of not demanding that our ideals become their doctrine; that our way of life becomes theirs. We must not succumb to what E. W. Brogan called the "delusions of American omnipotence."

"The situation in Asia, however, is reversed. Nationalism in these new states is rampant. The West, identified with the hated colonialism, is immediately suspect. They admire Communist China who appears to have ridded itself of the ignominy of the white invader.

"The Asians maintain a reverent admiration for the ideals on which our country was founded, but they think that they see in the current wave of conformity here at home a contradiction of our profession. Our alliance with the hated Western colonial powers only tends to make our professed devotion to freedom and self-determination seem more hypocritical."

Stevenson declared that this "Operation Bootstrap" cannot be won merely by anti-Communist pronouncements nor by exclusive emphasis on military defense. "We must win it also by negotiation.

"Negotiation not only in terms of military preparedness but negotiation as to economic desires which are foremost in the Asiatic mind.

"The ultimate objective of the United States is to have every country in the world work out its own destiny in its own way in independence and freedom. To accomplish that military strength to deter or to defeat aggression; and economic strength to resist division is the first requirement; and the second is a community of interest and purpose among us in order to keep our strength intact and in order to negotiate as one, not as many. Our end being peace, our means must be negotiation.

"In spite of all these failings the devotion to the democratic ideal of government by the leaders of Asia is impressive. They have struggled with Communist insurrection and while they have not reached Utopia they are steadily progessing on the road to peace, dignity and freedom.

"In view of all this, the American people must remember that a policy based on self-interest alone will lift no hearts and win no minds in Asia."

At the conclusion of the speech Stevenson received a standing five-minute ovation. Calling for silence he stated "If you encourage me enough, I'll invite you to a political rally."

Stevenson is in Cambridge to deliver the annual Godkin Lectures and is speaking on the overall topic of "A Troubled World." His topic in the third and last speech tomorrow evening will be "Some Cautionary Comments."

"The Democratic party will win both the House and the Senate race in the coming election," predicted Stevenson this morning at a press conference.

"The people have had two years to judge and evaluate the Eisenhower Administration. The overwhelming feeling is that it has not lived up to its promises or even in some matters to the policy already in effect under the Democrats."

Asked whether he will blanketly support all the Democratic candidates this fall, Stevenson replied that "he will support only those men who he feels will benefit the people."

He also stated that the rift between the North and the South has narrowed and that eventually, through more understanding and cooperation, it will completely disappear.

He declined to say whether he will accept the presidential nomination in 1956 if it is offered to him.

AT THE FLICKERS

BIT SHALLOW BUT SMART AND SLICK

By CHARLES SAMUELS

Daily Orange Movie Critic

More About Eve

Paramount has taken the old one about the hardheaded playwright, torn between two actresses at opposite ends of the age scale, dressed it to the teeth and set the whole fancy-wrapped package down at the Keith's. The trouble with this cinematic study of Broadway is that it comes after another cinematic study of Broadway, "All About Eve" and where the former film had some mighty probing comments to make, the current exhibit has very little comment, probing or otherwise. "Forever Female" is just as bright and artificial as Christmas. Fortunately, it is just as entertaining.

The new film is a smart, slick job that is witty enough for you to wish it had something more solid up its sleeve. Shots of places like Sardi's, 21 and other spots where the New York flora and fauna like to vegetate, give the film an appropriate setting. The costumes are elegant; the music is clever, and the direction is thoroughly professional.

What gives this new look at James M. Barrie's "Rosalind" a special appeal is a literate, adult, script by Julius and Irving Epstein. What gives it the edge is a set of people who know how to toss a cutting phrase with telling skill. These people are Ginger Rogers, Paul Douglas, William Holden and Pat Crowley and they are a team with a surer aim than the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Miss Crowley who managed to escape from the latest Martin and Lewis fiasco with her charm intact, is more delightful in "Forever Female." She is a young lady with the ability to be charming without being coy and beautiful without being gaudy. Her appearance on the Hollywood scene is a welcome one.

William Holden has the least attractive role in the quartet. All that is required of him is that he look by turns masculine, bewildered and enamoured. Since he does these things with more skill than almost any other Hollywood leading man he fares quite well.

The two most attractive jobs are turned in by the more mature members of the combo. Miss Rogers is that remarkable woman who knows how to age gracefully and honestly. Her appearance is just as breathtaking as it ever was and her lesson in how to play high comedy is equally so.

Mr. Douglas is every bit as crafty a comic as Miss Rogers; what makes his performance a gem is the warmth and casualness which no one but he possesses. His way with a line would gladden the heart of Phillip Barry.

If the female has an empty head; her make-up is sure good.

Basically Poor Morale

By POLLY REED

Editorial Page Writer

(Editor's note: This is the first of a series of two articles on the difficulties of student organizations connected with the School of Music.)

For several years the Syracuse university marching band has been laboring under various handicaps which prevent the band from attaining the ultimate peak of quality which it is striving for.

Although the Syracuse band is a good one, (football fans will attest to that,) it could be improved in many ways. The University is aware of these band difficulties, and is doing many things to improve the situation.

One of the problems is that of poor morale. Although Kenneth Fredericks, graduate assistant, has done an excellent job in raising the standards and morale of the group, there is still a threefold problem which can be traced to:

1. Lack of a trip to a school farther away than Cornell. (This year the band took no long trips.)
2. Lack of adequate space, in which to store music, instruments and to rehearse.
3. Insufficient scholarships given to promising high school musicians to induce them to attend Syracuse.

First the trip problem.

Many band members feel that they rehearse every week in the football season in rain and cold. They can't take dates to the football games, and, as band members, they have poor seats. Their remuneration should come in the form of a trip. They don't consider Cornell an away trip, because most of the men would go anyway. In addition, Cornell will not be on Syracuse's football schedule after next year.

It has been the practice in the past to schedule one near trip like Cornell and one trip farther away.

Bandsmen feel that if members, especially freshmen, who expect it, could be assured a trip away each year it would stimulate their interest and attendance at rehearsals, resulting in a superior band, for Fredericks to work with.

No trip was scheduled this year, outside of the Cornell game. Next year the band will perform at the NYU game in New York city, in addition to Cornell. But what will happen when Syracuse no longer plays Cornell?

There is also the problem of a lack of sufficient space for the band. On the second floor of Crouse, in one medium-sized room are the offices of Dr. Harwood Simmons, band director and Fredericks, who is a graduate assistant. Instruments are piled in one corner; music sometimes has to be stored here, it doubles as a classroom and it is used for a practice room.

Members of the band feel that if they were allowed to use another room to store instruments and music, and to rehearse and meet, much of their space problem would be relieved.

Instruments such as sousaphone and tympani have to be stored in the hallway, subject to the pokes and jabs of passerbys.

Dr. Simmons said that the University has been working on the problem of space and a solution may be found shortly.

There are 18 $50 grants given yearly to outstanding musicians. Many staffers feel that if tuition scholarships were granted to promising high school musicians, the caliber of Syracuse's marching band would rise accordingly. A top band like Michigan has all scholarship men in its ranks.

These problems could be solved by a larger appropriation. The entire band system works under two budgets; one from the athletic department for the marching and pep band and one from the School of Music for the symphonic and concert bands.

Under the $2,400 allotted to the marching band this year, it was virtually impossible to schedule a big away trip, pay for new music and arrangements and still foot a bill for repaired instruments such as the one which the band pays every year.

Members of the band staff feel that if the band were allowed to give concerts outside of football seasons and sell tickets to them, they could make enough to underwrite expenses of a long trip away for the next football season.

Michigan and other top bands accept funds from local industries to help them. Syraiuse's policy is not to accept any outside grants such as this. One might ask "Why"? since it would obviously help the band if it were allowed.

The entire band seems to be in agreement on two points: First, that Ken Fredericks has done a superhuman job in running the marching band.

Second, that the proposed sophomore class project of "sponsoring the band" would be an excellent idea. The class proposes to take any money left from a dance or other function and use it to promote trips for the band and serve refreshments free to the bandsmen who play at home football games.

The band is one of our greatest potential advertising sources. Bands which perform before colleges or high schools, or alums bring Syracuse and the Orange to the eye and the mind. Such a chance for good public relations and advertising should not be overlooked.

A Target!

A new society has been formed at Cambridge university—dedicated to the advancement and promotion of knife throwing at the institution.

Undergraduate members of the Cambridge Knife throwing club are now in the process of hunting up targets.

LETTERARY COMMENT

AIDING THAI KNOWLEDGE OF AMERICA

Chulalongkorn University
Phya Thai Road,
Bangkok, Thailand
March 15, 1954

Miss Ruth Hoople
Syracuse-in-Asia
Dear Miss Hoople,

I am writing to you in connection with Mr. Thomas W. Gill whom your organization kindly sent out to teach at Chulalongkorn university two years ago. He has told us that he will be leaving Bangkok for the U.S.A. in the first week of April, since his two years assignment will have expired by then.

He has a very pleasant personality, and it is a real pleasure to have him here. He has been teaching English to Arts, Science, Engineering, Commerce, and Political Science students with excellent results. He is also ready and willing to do anything that is asked of him besides his regular work, and is enjoying wide popularity among the staff and students.

There is one aspect of work that I must not fail to mention. Since his arrival, he has been energetically interpreting to us his country and people, thereby correcting some misconceptions about them and helping to promote a better understanding between Thai and American people. We have a great liking for your people, and we are also extremely grateful to them for much needed assistance in the various fields of work such as education and economic development.

I wish to add that the University has been giving him financial assistance to help him to meet the cost of living. This assistance is paid out in the form of an allowance for the house—rent which was at first 3,000 bahts a month and has since last year been increased to 4,000 bahts a month of about 200 dollars at the prevailing market rate of exchange.

His valuable services are appreciated by all of us. We shall be very sorry to lose him. The University would therefore like to have someone like him to continue his good work, and the offer of 4,000 bahts for the house-rent allowance also holds good. At present, the University still requires a large number of teachers of English to cope with the students numbering about 3,000 who must all take this subject between two and four years during their university careers. I sincerely trust that our request will receive a very sympathetic consideration.

Yours sincerely,
Professor M. R. Salab Latavalya
Secretary-General

Serving Mandarin Dinner
At All Times
There's Nothing to Equal
The Food at The
FAR EAST
121 W. ONONDAGA ST.
Chinese and American Cuisine
EXPERTLY PREPARED — GRACIOUSLY SERVED
Open Week Days & Saturdays 11 A.M. to 12 P.M.
Sundays 12 Noon-Midnight — Tel. 3-9880

CAROMA
A Restaurant of Distinction
Steaks - Chops - Broilers
Italian Cuisine Our Specialty
Baked Lasagna—Raviola—Cacciatore—Hot Pizza
402 Lodi — 74-2119

Secretary to a VIP

"My day is packed to the brim with celebrities, phone calls, mountains of mail. . . . Thank goodness my Katie Gibbs training anticipated pressure along with the usual secretarial duties."

Gibbs training opens doors for college women to career opportunities in their chosen field. Special Course for College Women. Write College Dean for "Gibbs Girls at Work."

KATHARINE GIBBS
SECRETARIAL
BOSTON 16, 90 Marlborough St. NEW YORK 17, 230 Park Ave.
CHICAGO 11, 51 E. Superior St. PROVIDENCE 6, 155 Angell St.
MONTCLAIR, N. J., 33 Plymouth St.

Come On Down To
DEB'S
DRIVE-IN LOUNGE
SERVING THE BEST IN
HOME COOKED FOOD
"The Hill Rendezvous"
Bottom of Crouse Hill
On Erie Blvd.
ALL LEGAL BEVERAGES

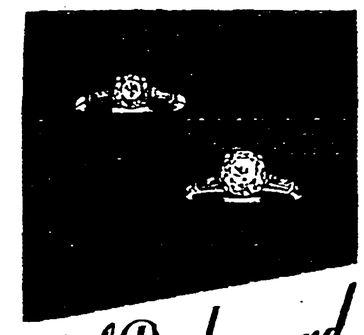
Modern Styles

City Opticians

Eyes Examined — Glasses Fitted
EASY CREDIT TERMS
1 to 24-Hour Service
No Appointment Necessary
BROKEN LENSES AND FRAMES REPLACED PROMPTLY
Open Daily—Sat. 9 A.M. to 6 P.M.
Mon. and Fri. 9 A.M. to 9 P.M.
J. C. Wozniak, Reg. Opt.
N. H. Kinney, Reg. Opt. Phone 2-8065
211 E. FAYETTE ST.
COR. S. WARREN

SUN TANS AND GREYS — ALL SIZES
DUNGAREES FOR MEN AND WOMEN
SPECIAL $3.95 ALL TYPES
Skivvies Tee Shirt with Nylon Neck Band
SPECIAL $1.00 ea., 3 for $2.65
• WE HAVE CHARCOAL SNEAKS FOR GIRLS •
The Only Store in Town
KED'S ONLY $3.85
See These Super Springtime Specials
at
LUND'S
UNIVERSITY SHOP
738 South Crouse Avenue
Phone 75-1459
"On Campus"

$695
$1475



Beautiful Background

for round-cut diamonds is the baguette setting. Like a mirror that reflects the beauty of its surroundings, the baguette has the same quiet quality of emphasizing the loveliness of a gem. Tapered or straight, as in the rings shown, nothing equals it as a foil for fine stones.

Prices include Federal tax — Charge or budget
Illustrations slightly enlarged

Open Monday Evenings

H.J. HOWE Inc.
Two Hundred One South Salina
Independent Jewelers Since 1860

Attend the Block S Banquet

CADILLAC
LOUNGE and RESTAURANT
515 West Genesee Street
• New Policy •
Red Thomas Playing 9 -- 2
FEATURING JOYCE LEROY
Remember Us
After That Special Date
THOMAS RESTANI — Your Host
at the
CADILLAC LOUNGE & RESTAURANT

ORDER YOUR CORSAGES NOW
LARGE LAVENDER ORCHIDS 3.00
BEAUTIFUL WHITE ORCHIDS 5.00
2 GARDINAS 3.00
SPRING CORSAGES
AS LOW AS 3.00
BOUTONNIERE FREE WITH EVERY CORSAGE
OUR FLOWERS ARE GUARANTEED FRESH
DEAL FLORIST
734 SO. CROUSE PHONE 4-6321 ON THE HILL

Hugh Daugherty Called 'A Realist'

MSC Mentor

By ED HARDY
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Hugh Daugherty, new head football coach of Michigan State college and speaker at the Orange Key-sponsored Block S banquet March 28, has been called by the experts "a realist."

He recognizes that even the most studied football theorist is helpless without the talent on the field.

AS AN ASSISTANT coach for seven years, he was always a top-notch recruiting agent for new talent. Now he is seen to be pursuing the job with more vigor, since he must assemble players for himself.

Daugherty was moved up to the top coaching spot after the Spartans' Rose Bowl victory over UCLA in January. Reorganization of the State athletic department placed Biggie Munn in the athletic director's chair.

"Duff has ability and sound intelligence," Dr. Edgar Harden, Michigan State representative on the Big Ten, told Barnesboro, Pa. residents last month in a special hometown testimonial affair for the new coach.

He added, "Duff shows boundless initiative, is willing to work . . . and has a great sense of loyalty. He truly inspires confidence."

DAUGHERTY WILL be no stranger on the Orange campus when he comes next week to speak. He is a Syracuse graduate and was line coach for the Orangemen in 1946. Friends here called him "Stubby", but it since has become "Duffy", short for his last name.

The Spartan mentor, 38 years old, was born in Emeigh, Pa. and grew up in Barnesboro, Pa. He was a halfback and center on the high school grid squad there.

He went to Syracuse in 1936 as a guard and played under famed Munn, who was line coach for Ossie Solem. Bud Wilkinson, now at Oklahoma, also was on the staff. Daugherty won a first-team berth in his sophomore year and was named co-captain in his senior year.

Following graduation in 1940, he entered the army as a private. Four years later he was discharged a major with a brilliant war record that included action in major campaigns in the Pacific theater.

HE COACHED at Trinity Prep school in New York in 1945, but Munn remembered him and brought him to help with the coaching chores at Syracuse in 1946. Within a year Munn moved westward, taking Daugherty and the rest of the staff along.

For seven years the Syracusan had charge of the huge Spartan line and has made valuable contributions to State's spectacular record.

He has produced many all-Americans such as Don Coleman, Don Mason, Ed Bagdon and John Yocca.

Daugherty is married to the former Frances Steccati of Port Chicago, Calif. They have a son Danny, 7.

OTHER MEMBERS of the Daugherty clan have made themselves known in Syracuse too. His mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Daugherty, is house mother of Alpha Delta Pi sorority here. Joe, one of two brothers was graduated from Syracuse. A sister, Jean, is a director at WHEN-TV downtown.

HUGH "STUBBY" DAUGHERTY, newly appointed head football coach at Michigan State college, will be the featured speaker at the annual Orange Key-sponsored Block S banquet on Sunday, March 28.

Athletic Honorary Sponsors Picnic

Pi Alpha Tau Affair Slated for April 25

Plans are now underway for an Athletes Picnic to be held Sunday afternoon, April 25, Ferdie Fournies, president of the captains and managers honorary, Pi Alpha Tau, announced yesterday.

Green Lakes has been picked as the tentative site for the affair. It will be either stag or drag. Tickets will cost $1.50 for either a couple or stag.

Not only athletes, but the entire campus is invited. Special invitations will be sent out to the various coaches on the Hill.

The main purpose of the picnic is to act as a get-together for the three segments of the Syracuse athletic scene, the players, the coaches and the fans. Members of PAT and team captains will have tickets ready to sell in two weeks.

Goldstein Defends As Piety Fencers Battle in NAIFC

Syracuse's fencing team enters its most important competition of the season tomorrow when it journeys to Buffalo for the North Atlantic Intercollegiate Fencing Classic.

The tournament, consisting of 10 teams in the Buffalo area, is the big event in fencing in this section and winning is quite an accomplishment.

THE ORANGE will be hard pressed, however, since some of the teams appearing are rumored to be on a par with nationally ranked Cornell, which handed the Pietymen two losses this year. Also they will be minus two of their best bladesmen, Al Peck and Sam Stornelli.

The Hill will be well represented, though, with Capt. John Goldstein leading them and attempting to defend the epee championship he won in the classic last year.

Supporting Goldstein in the epee will be George Wooding, who has come a long way in the latter part of the season, as shown by his winning five of six bouts in last week's dual match with St. Lawrence and RIT.

Ed Wang and Bodo Trenk will be Syracuse's entries in the foil and are two other boys who have shown well in recent meets.

In the saber, it will be Willard Schop and Abe Gilman. If Schop can regain his early season form he could very well be a contender for this title which is now held by St. Lawrence's Carwford Rose.

Ohio Freestyler Konno Pursues Swim Record

(This is the first in a series of articles which will preview the coming NCAA swimming championships to be held in the Orange pool, March 25-27. Today's article concerns the 1500-meters freestyle event.)

By BOB GROGAN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Ford Konno, Ohio State's Hawaiian-born Neptune, should find the confines of the Orange pool well enough to his liking to at least come close to breaking his own meet record in the 1500-meters freestyle.

With the first four finishers in last year's meet graduated the 1952 champ can practically float to victory. But the fast waters of the million-dollar pool here at Syracuse offers the Buckeye star a chance at a record-breaking performance.

KONNO DID not enter the NCAA's last season because of illness. The 1500 meters was won by Jim McLane of Yale with Wayne Moore, also an Eli merman, finishing second. Both boys have gone the way of all fourth year students with the proper marks.

Three of last year's first six finishers will be back to give Konno a swim for his money. Of the three, only Bill Yorzyk of Springfield could better 19 minutes. His time of 18:57.7 was good enough for a fourth in last season's NCAA's.

A dark horse in this event may be Pete Duncan, the South African-born star swimming for Oklahoma university. Duncan finished seventh in the 1952 Olympics Who won the 1500-meters in the Olympics? A guy named Konno.

Konno's record-establishing time in the NCAA's was 17:52.0. He is the only swimmer in the 30-year period of the national championships to ever break 18 minutes.

THE 1500-meters event over the 25-meter Orange pool course will be staged Thursday, March 25. Finals will be on a time basis with the action scheduled to start at 7:30 p.m. Scratches and drawings for this event are slated for 6 p.m.

Since entries for the NCAA meet do not close until Monday, March 22, the exact number of swimmers in the 1500 will not be determined until next week. But Konno will be there and he alone should be worth the price of admission.

Phi Eps Win Two In Intra Volleyball

In a closely contested match last night the Phi Epsilon Pi volleyball team won over Delta Upsilon by scores of 17-15, 9-15, 15-13. In their other match they romped over Phi Kappa Tau 15-11, 15-12.

Other scores:
Alpha Chi Rho 2, Sigma Chi 0.
Phi Kappa Psi 2, Kappa Sigma 0.
Phi Epsilon Pi 2, Delta Epsilon 1.
Sigma Alpha Mu 2, Zeta Psi 1.
Phi Kappa Psi 2, Delta Tau Delta 1.
Phi Epsilon Pi 2, Phi Kappa Tau 0.
Sigma Alpha Mu 2, Phi Gamma Delta 0.
M-6 2, M-7 1.
M-7 over M-8 by forfeit.

SAILORS GET INVITATION

Syracuse's sailing team received an invitation to the McMillan Cup regatta yesterday. The races, scheduled for April 3-4 at the Naval Academy, will mark the opening appearance of the sailors this year.

The Orange lakemen finished fifth in the ten-team field last year. Schools from New England and Middle Atlantic states are invited to the event.

Cut Flowers
Corsages — Weddings
Flowers for all Occasions
FLOWERS by MARIE
948 E. Genesee St.,
75-4393
(Member of Student-Discount Service)

DRUMLINS
Dancing Every Saturday Night
One of the Largest Ballrooms
In Central New York
Williamson's Parisians★ Dick Kowell's Orchestra
Tomorrow Night Williamson's Parisians
$1.75 per couple (tax inc.) | City Bus Marked Drumlins | Dancing 8:30 to 12:30

WARNING!

WARNING—More than once we have had to turn people away on big weekends because all our cars were reserved far in advance. Don't let this happen to you. If you have that "big date" or formal coming up soon, be sure you hurry and reserve your R. S. Robie Date Special now. Remember an R. S. Robie Date Special offers you:
1. A car from 6:00 P.M.—8:00 A.M.
2. Free Gas, Oil and Insurance
—All this for $5.50 and .07 a mile.
R. S. ROBIE, INC.
Address 104 MADISON ST. Telephone Nos. 3-6223—3-7744

SPRING IS IN THE AIR
BE WISE — SHOP EARLY
Complete stock of:
SKIRTS—DRESSES—SUITS—JACKETS
BLOUSES—BURMUDA SHORTS—LINGERIE
THE TOWN SHOP
Open Tuesday and Friday Evenings
726 South Crouse Avenue Phone 4-0461

SECOND CHURCH OF CHRIST SCIENTIST of Syracuse, New York
Cordially Invites You and Your Friends to a FREE LECTURE
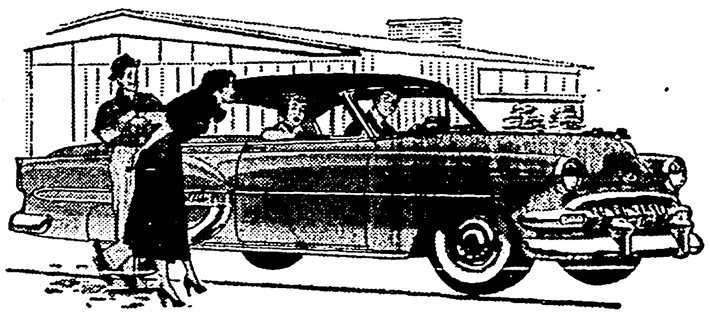
Entitled
"CHRISTIAN SCIENCE AND THE QUEST FOR SECURITY"
by
John S. Sammons, C. S.
Of Chicago, Illinois
Member of the Board of Lectureship of the Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts
TUESDAY EVENING AT 8:15
MARCH 23rd
in
First Church of Christ, Scientist
728 East Jefferson St., Syracuse, N. Y.
ALL ARE WELCOME



(Isn't this why more people want—and buy—Chevrolets than any other car?)

What you want most Chevrolet gives you first

See how Chevrolet stays ahead of other low-priced cars in all the things that mean the most to you. See how much less Chevrolet costs you—it's the lowest-priced line of them all. Come on in and let us show you how you can have the things you want and be a good many dollars ahead with a new Chevrolet. That's promising a lot, but we welcome the chance to prove it!

OUT AHEAD with that bigger, lower look. Only Chevrolet and leading higher-priced cars have Body by Fisher with that big, smooth, low-slung look.

OUT AHEAD with zippy, thrifty Powerglide. It's the first and most advanced automatic transmission in the low-price field. Acceleration is instantly responsive and as smooth as silk. Optional on all models at extra cost.

OUT AHEAD with the highest-compression overhead valve engines. Chevrolet's great engines have the highest compression ratio of any leading low-priced car.

OUT AHEAD with bigger brakes. Chevrolet brakes are largest in the low-price field for smoother, safer stops!

OUT AHEAD with that smooth and solid big-car ride. Chevrolet's the only low-priced car with Unitized Knee-Action—one reason for its finer road-smoothing, road-hugging ride.

OUT AHEAD with automatic power controls. Chevrolet is the first low-priced car to bring you all the latest automatic power features and controls as extra-cost options.

SYMBOL OF SAVINGS — CHEVROLET — EMBLEM OF EXCELLENCE

SEE YOUR CHEVROLET DEALER FOR ALL YOUR AUTOMOTIVE NEEDS!
Conveniently listed under "Automobiles" in your local classified telephone directory

OLMSTED'S POP PARADE

WHAT EVERY GIRL SHOULD KNOW • Doris Day •
LOOK OUT THE WINDOW • Perry Como •
THE KID'S LAST FIGHT • Frankie Laine •
THE SPARROW SINGS • Vic Damone •
JILTED • Teresa Brewer •
DESTINY • Johnny Ray •
SOUTH • Les Paul •
ANSWER ME, MY LOVE • Nat "King" Cole •
A GIRL, A GIRL • Eddie Fisher •
SUCH A NIGHT • Johnny Ray •
THERE'LL BE NO TEAR-DROPS TONIGHT • Tony Bennett •
Olmsted's Victrola Shop
724 S. Crouse Ave.
Phone 4-7478

MEET YOURSELF— 10 YEARS FROM NOW

Ever wonder what you'll be like when the class of '54 holds its 10th reunion? If you started to work for one of the Bell System companies after graduation, here's a pretty good idea.

INTERESTING, RESPONSIBLE WORK: Perhaps a Commercial Manager, the company's representative and spokesman to as many as fifty thousand customers. Or a Transmission Engineer, helping to provide the telephone needs of an entire state. Or a Supervisor in the Traffic Department, responsible for the speed and quality of local and long distance service in several cities and for the personnel relations of a large number of employees.

WE MAKE SURE THERE ARE PLACES TO GO: The number of college men hired is related to the number of administrative and technical positions expected to be available in the next 10 or 15 years. It is our policy to fill these positions from within our organization.

ARTS, SCIENCE, BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION AND ENGINEERING GRADUATES are among our particular needs. The specific degree is not as important as the total effect of your college training.

NO MATTER WHAT YOUR MILITARY STATUS, contact your Placement Officer soon for details on the opportunities for employment with the Bell System.

BELL TELEPHONE SYSTEM

MEMORY LANE
INVITES YOU TO AN
AFTERNOON OF DIXIELAND
LOU DESANTIS
AND HIS DIXIE-LAND JAZZ FIVE
SUNDAY, 3:30 to 7:30
2849 South Salina Street Phone 75-9549

Tonight... Let's Dance!

To the Scintillating rhythms of
Johnny Francher's Band
Smooth dance music, delightful supertime snacks, superb drinks.
You'll have a wonderful evening
And how about giving "tonight out" a big sendoff with dinner
Dance every weekend at the Travel Room!

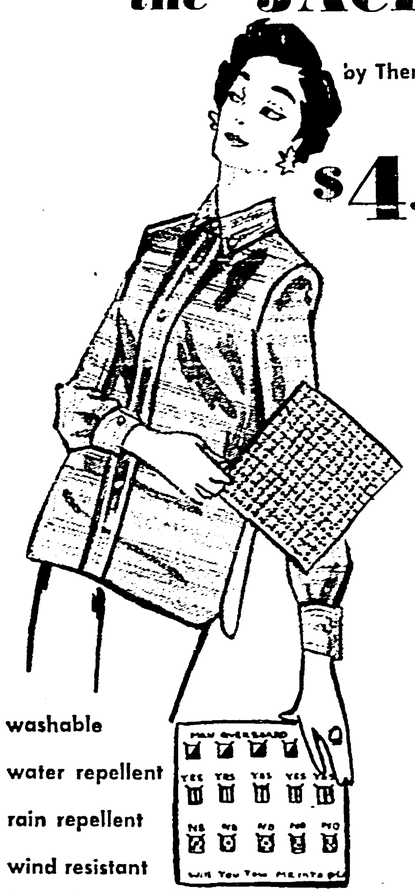
Travel Room Hotel Onondaga
PAT MILLER V.P. & MNG. DIR.

COME TO THE CLOVER CLUB
RAY CALDIERO
and his
ALL-CAMPUS FOUR

DANCING
Friday • Saturday
9-1
NO cover or minimum

SUNDAY NITE — JAM SESSION — DANCING
6:30...to...10:00
The CLOVER CLUB
Almond & Cedar Sts. Reservations Phone 75-9612

Dey Brothers PRESENTS
the "JACK"
by Thermo-Jac
$4.95



- washable
- water repellent
- rain repellent
- wind resistant
- latest in man-tailored fashions

Outdoor weight poplin to wear with your skirts, shorts and jeans. Solids: yellow, aqua, pink, checks: white with red or navy, prints: a distress signal print. 9-15.
teen shop, DEY's third floor

ADDRESS ENVELOPE TO:
MAIL ORDER DEPT., TEEN SHOP
DEY BROS. & CO. SYRACUSE 2, N. Y.
Please send me____the "Jack" by Thermo-Jac @ $4.95 ea.
Color _____ 2nd choice _____ size _____
NAME _____
ADDRESS _____
CITY _____ ZONE ____ STATE_____
☐ check ☐ charge ☐ money order

Weekly Film Series Commences Sunday

The first in a series of five weekly film showings will be held at 3 p.m. and 7 p.m. Sunday in the drama building playhouse.

"Burlesque on Carmen," with Charlie Chaplin will be Sunday's feature on the comedy series. Shorts with the film will be "The March of the Movies" and "The Immigrant." Chaplin also stars in the latter picture.

Doors will be opened at 2:30 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. Admission is 50 cents per person.

Hill Fraternities Enter Sing Finals

Sigma Phi Epsilon and Psi Upsilon won over Alpha Chi Rho and Delta Tau Delta in the semi-finals of the IFC sing eliminations Wednesday evening. These two houses will sing in the finals of the contest to be held during the intermission of the Interfraternity Council ball, April 3.

The event is sponsored annually by Tau Theta Upsilon, senior men's honorary. The trophy will be presented to the winning house by John Beach, president of Tau Theta Upsilon.

Engineering Ball ...

(Continued from page 1)

a pink slip in ink and leaving it on the proctor's desk.

Dance tickets, priced at $3.50, are available from members of Theta Tau who may be identified by large gold buttons labeled "Engineer's Ball."

As an added attraction to the dance, John Matheson, a graduate student, will sing a number of Irish songs during the intermission.

HONEYMOON DEEP IN WOODED HILLS
Spend life's happiest hours where you'll find other newly married collegians. Have a secluded cottage all your own at a friendly guest house just for newlyweds. Leisurely life (breakfast until 11:00), vigorous outdoor fun or complete relaxation . . . meals you'll remember always . . . jolly gatherings of young people enjoying life's greatest experience. Mention dates and you will receive our THREE HONEYMOON PLANS and other helpful folders.
THE FARM ON THE HILL
Swiftwater 94, Pennsylvania

NOW at Schine's PARAMOUNT
The Broadway Musical Review In CINEMASCOPE
"NEW FACES"
Ronny Graham Eartha Kit
Robert Cary Alice Ghostley
In Glorious Color

Now MIDTOWN Open 6:30 P.M.

You will never forget these three girls...
and their
"Three FORBIDDEN Stories"
TREATED WITH ADULT FRANKNESS!
ADULTS ONLY

TODAY

Daily Chapel, noon to 12:30 p.m., Rev. Arthur Hopkins will speak.

JSF Sabbath evening services, at 7:15 p.m., Chapel auditorium. This is the start of the U. J. A. campaign.

JSF religious committee meeting, 1:30 p.m., Chapel Board room. Attendance compulsory.

Inter-Varsity Christian fellowship prayer meeting, 7:30 p.m., Murphy's, 729 Sumner ave.

The following business staff members of the Daily Orange are assigned to work today: Barbara Katz, Sharlyn Shuman, Sue Loeb, Ruth Frank, Winnie Bogardas, Judy Arm, David Prager.

WAA badminton tournament, 2:30 to 4:30 p.m., Gym B, Women's building.

Tem's club meeting, 3:30 p.m., 201 Women's building.

The following people are assigned to work at The Daily Orange today: Afternoon: Jack Reilly, Liz Goddard, Elaine Chesin, Adele Goodman, Vivian Judge, Myrna Litchman, Carol Royce: Night: Eileen Chamberlain, John Johnsrud, Tom Long, Roger Kemp, Carol Gootter, Mollie Glaser, Fleurette Reon.

TOMORROW

Yacht club party, 8 p.m., Onondaga Yacht club; $1.25 per person. This is the opening of the club's spring season.

St. Patrick's party and dance for all graduate students, 8-1, Women's building dance studio, sponsored by graduate commission. Special entertainment will be exhibitions of Irish dancing.

Inter-Varsity Christian fellowship Dr. Everett Fuller will show missionary slides, 7:30 p.m., 209 Women's building.

SUNDAY

Movie, "Burlesque on Carmen," with Charlie Chaplin, plus short subjects, "The Immigrant" and "The March of the Movies." Performances at 3 and 7 p.m. in the Drama building. Admission, 50 cents.

Lutheran Student association supper meeting, 5:30 p.m. There will be a study of Philippians.

JSF Purim carnival, 7 p.m., Temple of Concord.

Methodist Student fellowship annual senior banquet, 6 p.m. at Erwin Methodist church, corner of Euclid and Westcott st.

Men graduate students interested in vacancies in Army reserves, strategic, intelligence unit should call R. Shafer, ext. 211 or 72-1321. Officers and enlisted men who have had Army-Navy-AF experience, whether or not currently in reserve, are eligible.

WAER 88.1 PROGRAM SCHEDULE

FRIDAY

2:58—Sign On
3:00—WAER News
3:05—Symphonic Matinee
4:00—Musical Heritage
5:00—This I Believe
5:05—Distaff Digest
5:15—Dinner Date
6:15—WAER News
6:25—Evening Showcase
6:35—WAER Sports Lineup
6:45—Date With Adele
7:00—Paris Star Time
7:30—Chicago Round Table
8:00—Evening With Music
9:00—WAER News
9:05—Music Magazine
10:00—Final Edition—News
10:10—Final Edition—Sports
10:20—Sign Off

SATURDAY

3:00—WAER News
3:05—Showtime
3:30—Guest Star
3:45—Serenade in Blue
4:00—Saturday Matinee
5:00—Spotlight Syracuse
5:30—Dinner Date
6:15—WAER News
6:25—Evening Showcase
6:35—WAER Sports Lineup
6:45—Here's to Veterans
7:00—WAER News
7:05—Ballet Stage
8:00—Masterworks of Music
9:00—WAER News
9:05—Portraits in Music
10:00—News and Sports

"YOUR CLASS RING"

The Ever Popular New Design
Syracuse Ring Is Here For YOU
• also •
We Have The Ring With Your College
And Degree If You Care For It
BEFORE YOU BUY, COME TO US!
The Corner Store
SINCE 1908

PHA, USP Will Appoint Candidates on Sunday

By EILEEN CHAMBERLAIN and ED HARDY
Daily Orange Junior Editors

Piety Hill Alliance and United Students parties will nominate their candidates for class officers and men's student government president Sunday afternoon. PHA will meet at 2 p.m. at Phi Delta Theta, while USP gets together at the same time at Sigma Chi instead of Alpha Xi Delta, as previously announced.

• UNITED STUDENTS PARTY •

In the MSG field for USP are three applicants for the presidency. Possible candidates for the top post is Arthur Kinney of Alpha Tau Omega. Stiff competition may come from Sigma Alpha Epsilon's Curtis Ford, with only mild opposition from supporters of Michael Newcomb of Alpha Chi Rho.

A clear field is seen for nomination of Samuel Shawhan, Sigma Chi, Arthur Koeppel, Tau Epsilon Phi, Jacquelyn Jarrett, Sigma Kappa and Gregory Doherty, SAE, as candidates for senior class president, veep, secretary and treasurer respectively.

SHAWHAN, DOHERTY and Miss Jarett seek reelection from junior class offices and each is the sole applicant for the office indicated. Patricia Bowen (Alpha Omicron Pi) and Koeppel, insurgents from the disbanded Tri-Orange party, vie for the senior veep nomination.

With applications for junior class officers still open, as of last night, Robert Fairbanks, (Alpha Chi Rho) is the sole candidate for prexy nomination and Everett Alson (Phi Epsilon Pi) the single applicant for the treasurer spot.

Carol Tucker, Alpha Delta Pi, and Harriet Ehrlich, Sigma Delta Tau, seek the nod for vice-president. Miss Tucker will probably be nominated for this spot Sunday, with Miss Ehrlich in the secretary position, for which she has also applied.

In the sophomore class Arthur Browner of Phi Ep may get the USP nod for president. Arlene Plotkin, Alpha Epsilon Phi, seems a good bet for vice-presidential nomination. From eight applications for secretary, it seems possible that competition will be pinpointed between Alexandra Toth (Zeta Tau Alpha) and Margaret Churchill (Tri-Delt). Donald Fulsom, Sigma Phi Epsilon, the present frosh treasurer, is the only applicant for the similar soph position.

• PIETY HILL ALLIANCE •

The race for MSG president as far as PHA is concerned is shaping up with John Hennessey of Delta Tau Delta opposing favored Stuart Parker of Phi Gamma Delta for the nomination. There had been some question as to Parker's eligibility, but this was cleared up yesterday. A third candidate withdrew from the contest for PHA backing yesterday.

PHA may experience difficulty in finding a candidate to run against USP's Samuel Shawhan for senior class president. JoAnn Swalm, an independent, may consider the vice-presidential nod. Lloyd Dunsker of Beta Sigma Rho is a dark horse possibility for treasurer. Kappa Kappa Gamma's Cynthia Satow is in line for secretary.

CONTENDERS FOR the junior class presidency include Samuel Braun of Phi Gam and Roy Place, Delta Tau Delta. The loser may move to another spot on the class ballot. Jane Werner, Iota Alpha Pi, will probably compete for the vice-presidency, with Thomas Bird of Tau Delta Phi reported to be somewhere in the class picture.

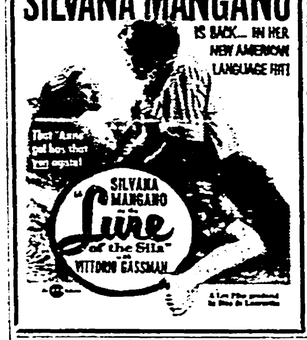
The party will have to choose from among a carload of prospective candidates for sophomore class positions. Norman Butterfield of Theta Chi holds the inside rail over Carleton Hence, Psi Upsilon. Elaine (Mickey) Kaner of Phi Sigma Sigma, Ruth Anderson of Kappa Kappa Gamma, Cityite Patricia Goldie and Joan Scisin, Theta Phi Alpha, mentioned as contenders for vice-president and secretary.

Capurso Writes For Magazine

Dr. Alexander Capurso, director of the School of Music, has written an article featured in the March issue of "Music Journal."

The article, "Does Music Mirror Emotion," is an informal discussion with Dr. Joseph Downing, principal clinical psychiatrist of the New York State Mental Health commission's social research unit. It reflects Dr. Capurso's recent study carried on under a grant from the Music Research foundation.

Schine Eckel Now
SILVANA MANGANO
IS BACK... IN HER NEW AMERICAN LANGUAGE HIT



Freshmen Featured At Friday Dance

Winners of the freshman weekend talent show will provide special entertainment at the weekly Friday night mixer dance tonight at the Women's building.

The dance will be held from 8:30 p.m. to midnight.

RKO KEITH'S
SYRACUSE, N. Y. — TEL. 2-1307
Box Office open 10 A.M. to 9:30 P.M.
3 DAYS ONLY
MON. TUES. WED.
MARCH 22, 23, 24th
Evgs. at 8:30—Mat. Wed. 2:30
ON STAGE! IN PERSON!
BROADWAY'S FABULOUS MUSICAL
GUYS DOLLS
ALL SEATS RESERVED
NEW YORK CAST INTACT!
PRICES — EVES.: Orch., $4.80, $3.60; Lges., $4.80; Bcnys., $3.60; Balcony, $2.40. WED. MAT.: Orch., $3.60, $2.40; Lges., $3.60; Bcnys., $2.40; Balcony, $2.40. $2.50, $1.50, $1.20. (Tax Incl.)
Mail Orders Filled Promptly
Please Enclose Self Addressed, Stamped Envelope.
Tickets Now On Sale at Box Office

NOMINATED FOR THE ACADEMY AWARD!
CONTINUOUS SHOWINGS
MGM's PRODUCTION OF WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE'S JULIUS CAESAR
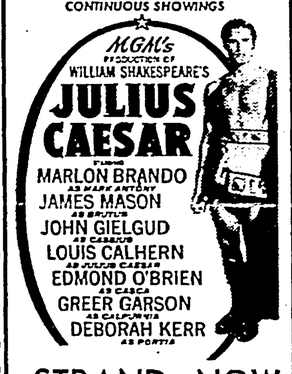
MARLON BRANDO as MARK ANTONY
JAMES MASON as BRUTUS
JOHN GIELGUD as CASSIUS
LOUIS CALHERN as JULIUS CAESAR
EDMOND O'BRIEN as CASCA
GREER GARSON as CALPHURNIA
DEBORAH KERR as PORTIA



STRAND NOW

REGENT
WED.—SAT.
Triple Hit Show
Walt Disney
"ROB ROY"
Richard Todd Glynis Johns
Color by Technicolor
plus
Johnny Sheffield
"THE GOLDEN IDOL"
plus
Walt Disney's
"PECOS BILL"

TONIGHT & TOMORROW
NIGHT AT 8:15
LYSISTRATA
ALL SEATS RESERVED
$1.00-$1.50 AT DRAMA BUILDING

IN THE

A Young Man's Fancy Lightly Turns To Thoughts Of . . . (Sports Equipment?)

YES, SPORTS EQUIPMENT

SOFT BALL BATS—OFFICIAL, ASH WOOD.....$.85 ea.
SOFT BALLS—with OFFICIAL "PROTEX" SEAM..$2.10 ea.
SOFT BALLS—with RUBBER COVER.....$1.85 ea.
KREN BASEBALL BATS—MANY WEIGHTS AND SIZES $.70 up
BASKETBALLS—OFFICIAL "PLY SEALED".....$14.95
(Just build the backboard and play outside)
BADMINTON SET with FOUR PEARL RACKETS....$10.85

BARDEEN'S
543 EAST GENESEE STREET

WANTED
BRAIN SURGEONS
FOR GUIDED MISSILES

Fundamentally, guided missiles are planes without pilots or "pilotless" aircraft. To enable the missile to fulfill its mission, a substitute is needed for the human element.

Our "brain surgeons"...scientists and engineers of Bell Aircraft's electronics and servomechanisms departments...supply this substitute.

Complex electronics systems are the brains of a missile. Servomechanisms provide the "muscles." Engineers are needed to develop these important "brain-muscle" systems. You can't possibly find a more challenging or satisfactory assignment!

- ELECTRONIC ENGINEERS
- MECHANICAL ENGINEERS
- AERONAUTICAL ENGINEERS
- PHYSICISTS
- MATHEMATICIANS

Contact your Placement Director to arrange for an appointment on...

MARCH 22&23
or write to
ENGINEERING PERSONNEL
BELL Aircraft CORPORATION
P.O. Box 1
Buffalo 5, N.Y.

CLASSIFIED ADS

IMPORTANT NOTICE—CLASSIFIED ADS to appear in this paper should be DELIVERED at the HELLBOX Classified desk between 1 and 3 p. m. NO ADS WILL BE ACCEPTED AFTER 3. ALL ADS MUST BE IN 2 DAYS IN ADVANCE. For further information call 4-7206.

ALL LOST ARTICLES should be turned into the CENTRAL LOST AND FOUND ROOM, 20 Bldg. 24 at 205 University Pl. Articles can be claimed there.

AUTO DRIVING INSTRUCTION. Learn to drive easily, correctly and safely. Call Upstate Auto Driving School. Phone 8-4040.

TYPEWRITERS RENTED: $3.00 per month, $8 3 months. Good selection. We deliver, Smith Brothers. 4-8833.

Typewriters rentals—New Models Reasonable Rates—Expert Service, All Makes—CORNER STORE.

LIKE NEW—Northland 6 ft. skiis, including aluminum poles and binding. $30. Call June Ammon 75-2155.

Dazor desk lamp almost new. Cost $35. Price $20. 75-1831.

LEARNING TO DRIVE? Learn quickly, easily, scientifically. 17 years experience. Car furnished. SULLIVANS DRIVING School Inc. 73-3451.

ALTERATIONS DONE WITHIN A DAY: 4-5847. 5 minutes from campus. Lillian Potter, 807 Comstock Ave.

TEMPLE ADATH YESHURUN. Corner Harrison and South Crouse Ave. Week day services 7:30 a.m.

MIMEOGRAPHING, SAME DAY SERVICE, EXCELLENT WORK FREEMAN LETTER CO., ECKEL THEATER BLDG. 2-4829.

EXPERT TYPING, thesis and term papers, reports. Mel Sherman 78-0612.

Excellent typing done. 860 Ostrom Ave.

WATCH found in men's room of Lyman Hall. May be claimed upon identification in 110 Lyman. See Mrs. Hill.

THESES typed, 18 cents page. Accurately and neatly, 15 years experience. 92-0913.

3 ROOM unfurnished apartment, heated, private bath with shower. 116 Standart St.

LOST: White gold Lady Elgin watch with black hands. Probably lost at Frosh jam session. Great sentimental value. Notify: Jean Lodge. Shaw 5-C, 4-3121.

EXPERT typing done at home, 72-0716.

On the Inside
Syracuse's Music School in annals and action.
See Pages 4 and 5.

SYRACUSE Daily Orange

Music School Edition

Vol. 51, No. 94 | Syracuse, N. Y., Monday, March 22, 1954 | 8 Pages — 5 Cents

A Large Goal

AID WORTH $400,000 will go to Jewish communities in Europe and to Israel if the Syracuse goal in the United Jewish Appeal is reached. Some of the student campaign chairmen are DAVID SIMON, MIRIAM FISKE, MELVIN BESDIN and BLANCHE KRISCHER.

UJA Campus Drive For Funds Begins During This Week

$400,000 Goal Revealed By Student Chairmen Dunsker, Besdin

United Jewish Appeal campus drive for funds will get under way this week after being opened at Friday's Sabbath eve services, student chairmen Melvin Besdin and Lloyd Dunsker announced.

FOUR HUNDRED thousand dollars has been set as the local goal contributing to the national aim of $119 million.

The major beneficiary of the Syracuse Jewish Welfare federation, UJA divides its funds among three overseas organizations.

United Israel Appeal receives the largest amount. This agency provides for the absorption of 800,000 immigrants from Europe and for production and agricultural enterprises.

The Joint Distribution Committee operates in Europe and North Africa with an accent on youth in the latter area. It aids Jewish communities in western Europe and provides social services for the aged and tubercular and mental patients in Israel.

THE THIRD UJA-supported agency is the United Service for New Americans which assists the newcomers to this country in resettlement and absorption into the community.

The remaining funds are used locally for Jewish education, Jewish Student fellowship and new families in the community.

Of the funds collected by the Syracuse Welfare federation, 70 to 80 per cent go to the overseas agency.

Awards for campus contributions will be made in four divisions: fraternity, sorority, independent men and independent women.

Chairmen of these divisions are David Simon, Blanche Krischer, Henry Einhorn and Miriam Fiske.

Court Convicts Five In Parking Violations

By ED HARDY
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Five students were convicted and fined in men's student court Thursday night in separate related cases concerning illegal use of stolen campus parking stickers.

Decisions of the eight-man court were released Friday.

IN THE FIRST case a student was charged with illegal removal of campus parking stickers from the custodial and security office last semester. The prosecution also claimed he illegally used a sticker, transferred one to another student and refused to obey a campus police officer at a later date.

The court discounted the last charge, but found the student guilty of the first three and fined him $15. Ten dollars of the fine was suspended because of the poor financial condition of the defendant, his cooperation with the court and administration, and his need for driving on campus for part-time work he does.

The student was placed on his good behavior for the remainder of his college career. The court also ruled that any future conviction will subject the man to payment of the suspended portion of his fine and restriction from all extra-curricular activities.

A fine of $5 was imposed in the second case upon a student charged with illegally accepting and using a campus parking sticker. The court in this case concluded that the student was ignorant of regulations for obtaining and using parking stickers, but "Ignorance of the law is not a valid excuse for committing an offense," the judiciary ruled.

IN THE NEXT case charges of illegal removal of a sticker from the security office and the permit's illegal use were substantiated. The student was fined $10.

The fourth case concerned a student who allegedly accepted and illegally used a sticker. A $10 fine was set as the tribunal stated that it could accept no pleas of leniency because of

(See COURT TRIALS, page 8)

Candidate Petitions Due by Tomorrow

Petitions of prospective candidates for class offices, men's student government assembly and MSG president are due by tomorrow, civil service has announced.

Forms are available in the MSG office, building 30 and at the women's student government office, third floor, Women's building. WSG is open from noon to 1 p.m. and from 4 to 5 p.m. daily.

Completed petitions must be returned to either of the offices.

Civil service will review the eligibility of candidates and release the official list of candidates on March 30. Campaigning is scheduled to begin that day.

Spring elections will be held on April 7, with about 3,500 students expected to go to the polls.

Elected will be presidents of the MSG and WSG, six WSG junior officers, 27 MSG assemblymen, the WSG assembly speaker, sophomore, junior and senior class officers, Red Cross co-chairmen and Eta Pi Upsilon Spring weekend queen.

Women's ROTC Elections Slated

Nominations for the officers of Angel's Flight, the coed branch of ROTC and Scabbard and Blade, were made at a recent meeting of the organization. Elections will be held March 30 in Machinery hall.

Mrs. Robert P. Halloran has been chosen as honorary flight leader. Up for the office of flight leader are Nancy Bell and Anh Middleton. Miss Bell, Betty Curtiss and Jo Ann Wallace are running for the operations officer.

Alice Camp, Dorothy Deiso and Judy List were nominated for adjutant recorder. For the office of comptroller, Miss Deiso, Miss Curtiss and Miss Wallace are candidates. Audrey Lou Benn, Joan Vitiano and Lorraine Chanatry are running for public relations officer. Those nominated for publications are Lynn Keation, Leslie Townsend and Helen Gestal.

Members are urged to consider these candidates and be prepared to vote on them at the March 30 meeting.

Arabian Students Eligible for Grants

The Syrian and Lebanese American Federation offers a number of scholarships to Arabic-speaking students. Available to students already in college, the grants will go to students needing financial assistance. More information may be obtained in the office of the dean of men.

Marshal Positions Open to Seniors

Applications for college and class graduation marshals are due no later than March 24 to Miss Marian Houck, commencement secretary, 203 Administration building.

Dean Edwin Smith, Hill marshal for undergraduates said, "Applicants should possess strong leadership abilities, in addition to an above average scholastic rating."

The University commencement committee will select the marshals on a merit basis.

Four Seniors Vie In Sunday's Quiz

Four student panelists from Syracuse will face a high-flying team from Washington and Lee on "College Quiz Bowl" which is slated to be broadcast at 6 p.m Sunday, March 28, over the National Broadcasting Company through local station WSYR.

The Washington and Lee panel went on to its fifth consecutive win in the broadcast test of knowledge yesterday by defeating a squad from the University of Pittsburgh. The nation-wide program will be tape-recorded at 8:30 p.m. Thursday in the Women's building dance studio. 350 free admission tickets to the broadcast are currently being distributed by the dean of men's and dean of women's offices.

DOORS WILL be opened at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday and all persons must be in their seats by 8:10. A rehearsal of the opening and a local warmup will follow. Prior to this at 7 p.m., technical portions of the program will be checked and at 7:15 p.m. sample "tossup" questions will be offered the panelists from each school by NBC's moderator in New York, Allen Ludden.

The Syracuse panel, Janet Caro, Jane Bauer, John Beach and Raymond Guenter and the four alternates, Nancy Whittier, Jean Brydon, Elizabeth Brydon, and Ronald Gross, will meet for the last time Wednesday to listen to tape recordings of previous broadcasts and to receive final instructions.

Syracuse's participation in "College Quiz Bowl" is being produced by the campus radio-television center in cooperation with WSYR. Edward Jones of the radio faculty is overall supervisor.

WSYR Announcer Bob Whitney, a junior in Syracuse, will act as moderator or "referee" of the local portion of the show.

The winning team receives a $500 award, to be administered by the college and used for whatever purpose the college deems appropriate. Each member of the losing team receives a wrist watch.

Washington-Lee Defeats Pittsburgh In Thursday Quiz

By ANDY GREENMAN
News Editor, Washington & Lee

LEXINGTON, Va.—Washington and Lee university, winner of four consecutive "College Quiz Bowl" contests, Thursday night defeated a weak University of Pittsburgh team, 260-85, guaranteeing the southern school a place against Syracuse university next Thursday.

In a National Broadcasting company's tape-recorded session 350 persons gathered Thursday in Washington chapel here, saw Frederick Lackman, journalism major, and Robert Paxton, history major, both of Lexington; Harold Quinn, pre-med major of Shreveport, La.; and Harold Turner, history major, of Bathesda, Md. swamp the Pitt efforts.

LACKMAN SAID that his team is looking forward to adding Syracuse to its list of successfuly-downed opponents.

The Washington and Lee scholars have downed teams representing Smith college, University of Chicago, Princeton university and Barnard college of Columbia university. The win over Pitt increased their winnings to $3,500.

Washington and Lee team members said that they would aim for victories over Syracuse this week and Colorado next week to run their winnings to a near-record $3,500.

Thursday's program was no battle fo rthe rapid-answer return of the southern students. The quiz champions secured an early lead and steadily increased it to a wide margin. The Pittsburgh scholars had no chance in the closing minutes of the show to close the gap.

The April 4 session of the "Quiz Bowl" is scheduled to be the last in the current series.

Athletic Program Set for Graduates

All graduate women and fifth year nurses are invited to the weekly athletic program at 7:30 p.m. today in Gym B of the Women's building.

Tonight's program will consist of badminton, volleyball and basketball, all of which are free, and swimming for those with athletic privilege cards.

The attendance at these sessions has been disappointing and the program may have to be disbanded if more students do not participate in the near future, according to Dorothy Smith, head of the graduate commission.

Special teams may be formed if interest is shown.

SDT ANNIVERSARY

The Omega chapter of Sigma Delta Tau, in its eighth anniversary on the Syracuse campus this year, will celebrate the 37th year of the national sorority this Thursday. The chapter won the Panhellenic activities cup last year.

Kulski to Address More House Group

Dr. Wladyslaw Kulski, professor of international relations of the Maxwell school, will discuss "Education—the Key to Soviet Careers" at a meeting of the graduate students section of St. Thomas More chapel at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Dr. Kulski won his master's degree in law at Warsaw university and his doctorate in laws at the University of Paris. From 1929 to 1945 he was in the Polish diplomatic service and served for a period as minister plenipotentiary in London.

A member of many European and American intellectual groups, he has published several significant books concerning the years of which he was a part. He is said to have an intimate knowledge of the men and affairs which are at work in Europe.

An open forum and social hour will follow the lecture.

Mrs. James S. Collins is chairman of the graduate group.

Castle Destruction Will Cost $5,900

The State Public Works departments announced yesterday that the razing of Yates Castle at Syracuse university will cost $5,900.

Bielec Wrecking & Lumber co. of Syracuse was the lowest of five bidders on the razing, which will make room for an addition to the basic science building of the State University Medical college.

Yates Castle is the former home of the School of Journalism.

SYRACUSE DAILY ORANGE

THREE R'S OF A COLLEGE NEWSPAPER: RESPONSIVENESS, RESPONSIBILITY AND RESOURCEFULNESS

Page 2 Monday, March 22, 1954

Editor-in-chief ..... Arlene Lenarch
Business Manager ..... Robert Goldman

SENIOR EDITORIAL STAFF

Managing Editor ..... Arthur Siegel
Editorial Director ..... Hugh O. Muir
Executive Editor ..... Janet Caro
Sports Editor ..... Kenneth Lent

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Edward Meyer, Joan Nadelhaft, Phyllis Sachs, Howard Vankirk, Mary Vivian

Issue Editor ..... Joan Nadelhaft

BUSINESS STAFF

Asst. Business Manager ..... Sheldon Lessen
Layout Manager ..... Keith Berman
Classified Manager ..... Jean Jacobs
Circulation Manager ..... Alan Freyberg
Promotion Manager ..... Steve Eisenberg

DAILY STAFF

News Editor ..... Jack Reilly
Night Editor ..... Eileen Chamberlain
Asst. Night Editor ..... John Johnsrud
Editorial Page Asst. ..... Tom Long
Night Sports Editor ..... Alex Strasser

Published by the students of Syracuse University.

Telephones: News, 75-5196, 75-5197; Editor, 76-1448; Business: 4-7206. Subscription by mail $5 per year, $3.00 per semester. Entered as second class mail matter at the Syracuse Post Office. Exclusive national advertising representatives National Advertising Inc., New York City.

Problem pattern

Today's story on the symphonic band and men's glee club concludes a series of articles concerning some of the problems faced by the student organizations connected with the School of Music.

We noted the problem of securing top-notch performers and upholding morale within the organizations. In many cases the difficulties were traced to a lack of such facilities as away trips and concerts and rehearsal and storage space.

The roots of the problem, of course, lie in the fact that the University is going through the "lean years" of small enrollmen and cannot be as financially generous as every organization would wish.

We did not bring the band problem to print in order to "campaign" for huge funds for any one group. The difficulties which the bands are encountering are not unique. Rather, they typify the problems which other organizations face.

However, we feel that the bands and glee club are of great importance in the realm of student activities. As such, their troubles should not go unrecorded.

The director of the School of Music has also been aware that these problems exist and has been working for their solutions. But, as in other groups, many difficulties can be solved only through additional funds.

There are some suggestions, however, which could be effected now without too heavy a monetary burden. These include refreshments for band members, at least on away trips, guaranteed trips, additional space in which to rehearse and store material, annual banquets and emblems awarded members after several years service.

The University Administration would do well to examine these projects. The bands have a huge potential for advertising the University to the outside community. Alumni are always gratified to be able to praise one of their bands or glee clubs. High school students, too, are favorably impressed with good performances. All this means increase in good public relations for the University.

In the future, when enrollment once more catches up with the cost of living, we presume that most of these difficulties will automatically be eliminated.

However, added Administration interest in the band and glee club system should not wait until then. It should be focused on the organizations now to encourage better participation and morale for one of the University's largest (in numbers and potential value) extra-curricular activities.

Editor-in-Chief

AT THE FLICKERS

SITUATION RIPE FOR TRAGEDY

By CHARLES SAMUELS
Daily Orange Movie Critic

A Tepid Tragedy

Many movies in the past, have concerned themselves with tales of lovers in wartime. "Act of Love" at the State is the latest of these films.

These situations are always ripe with tragedy. Unfortunately Anatole Litvak who won acclaim for his no holds barred look at an insane aslyum, "The Snake Pit," has barred all his hold here and for tragedy he has substituted something that approximates polite drawing room melodrama. Where he should have punched his audience he has been content to tap them lightly.

"Act of Love" has a tale of star crossed love which is the stuff of great tragedy. Though this reviewer is not one of them, readers of the Alfred Hayes novel "The Girl on the Via Flamina" from which the movie was taken say it was such a tragedy. This impression is unfortunately not to be gotten from the film version.

It concerns itself with a bargain between a soldier and a girl. The bargain which is as delicately handled as if it were the most censorable stuff (which according to the archaic Breen code it probably is) is an exchange of food and lodging for the offer to share the soldier's bed. The soldier turns out to be uncommonly sensitive, the girl turns out to be uncommonly pure and the two of them turn out to be uncommonly taken with one another. Their love s shattered by the military, the police and by inference modern warfare and the girl finally makes her exit into the river Siene.

The situation is certainly not a pleasant one and while Irwin Shaw's script is unpleasant enough it is sentimental, rather than tragic. Whinning violins, agonized glances and understated acting make up "Act of Love" and while the violins sound pathetic and Kirk Douglas and a lovely new atcress named Dany Robin are proficient with the glances and the understatement, the film never generates much steam. There is no sense of torture and urgency in "Act of Love"; there is only the shallowest reflection of sadness.

Inklings by Jim Blier

"Boy, look at that bunch of dogs!"

LETTERARY COMMENT

'Unwarranted Tirades'

(Editor's note: May we say a few clarifying words: First, columns appearing in the Daily Orange are not necessarily consistent with the newspaper's editorial policy. The ideas presented in columns are those of the columnist.

Second, The Daily Orange, in its official stand in the editorial columns, has repeatedly stated that it realizes the benefits of this progress and approves the expansion.

Third, the fact we have been connected with such an historical building as Yates castle, moves us to humorous yet civil protests. Certain writers have held a true conviction on the value of the Castle. We certainly have not attacked the Medical school in any malicious way. All comments were made in what we consider the proper spirit.)

'Sneering'

To the editor of the Syracuse Daily Orange:

A recently intensified series of articles and apparently editorial, comments on the forthcoming demolition of Yates Castle to clear the way for construction of a new south wing to the medical college, has provoked renewed criticism of the extremely poor judgment displayed by the editor in allowing these totally unwarranted tirades to come to print.

These outcries are after the fact, or almost so (within the limits of two weeks) and as such have lost any degree of utility they might have laid claim to a year or so ago when the battle for the survival of Yates Castle surged forth in its fullest glory, true to the resplendent traditions of Colonel Cornelius Tyler Longstreet himself.

The allegedly facetious, though obviously sneering, bit of sarcasm entitled, "Ravaged Trail of Progress," by Mr. R. Jacques which appeared in the March 17th edition of the Daily Orange, bears witness to this point. The implied analogies in that article of the Castle to the Louvre and of the College of Medicine to a fingernail clinic, though they might provoke laughter in small minds, nevertheless, to be sure, indicate a severe lack of sense of proportion on the part of Mr. Jacques. Needless to say, the alleged humor was not appreciated by this writer.

The fact that a vindictive pronouncement such as this was printed and printed on page 2 of your newspaper, leaves me with no alternative other than to believe that the article not only was written and published with editorial sanction, but decidedly reflects the opinions of the editor and of the staff on the matter. Such being the case, unfair editorial advantage has been taken, in this as well as in previous instances, to put forth the biases of these people in pure and unadulterated form, since the views of those concerned with seeing the new medical wing go up have been slighted to the point of disregard.

Other recent articles point to the same conclusion. In another edition of the past week, the account of your staff excursion to the roof of Yates Castle was not without its share of caustic remarks aimed at this "ogre of progress," the proposed south wing of the medical school.

With full understanding we at the College of Medicine admire the respect and pride you manifest for your chosen academic endeavor and for the institution at which you pursue it, the School of Journalism. Only common dencency, however, dictates that you accord similar understanding to us and to our school. We believe we have just and ample reason to be proud of the State University College of Medicine at Syracuse—and the Syracuse community as a whole not only shares this pride, but in due measure is responsible for having made the medical center what it is today.

To anticipate those who will require elucidation on the latter point, the medical school at Syracuse is today one of the foremost in the country, in our minds, and with rapidly increasing potential too, both in the research and in the teaching fields. This potential will be actualized, we hope, with the addition of new facilities no small part of which will be the new south wing of the basic sciences building—that "ogre of progress" to paraphrase again.

The persistent and blatant vituperations concerning the College of Medicine which have appeared in your newspaper with resultant, if indirect, affront to its faculty and students as well as to the medical profession itself, have been in extremely poor taste and represent a gross abuse of editorial license as well as a complete disregard for journalistic ethics.

In these days of dissension, distrust and fear, ethics takes on a deeper significance than merely an abstraction applicable only to legislative committees and to the medical profession. Those of us in positions of responsibility, be it to readers or to patients, there being little difference between the two in this respect, have an obligation to fulfill our respective tasks with due humility and respect for correct principles of actions. I sincerely hope that the latter couplec with sage judgment will prevail in future publications of the Daily Orange, true to the standards of good journalism.

Yours very truly,
Class of '57, Medicine
Gilbert Wildstein

P.S. In all fairness, I would like to request that this letter be printed in a forthcoming issue of the Daily Orange in its entirety, if at all possible inasmuch as first, to my knowledge no letters answering any of your editorials or articles on the Yates Castle affair have been published within the past few months and second, am sure that decidedly more total space has been allotted to presenting your own and your staff's opinions on the matter than this letter in its totality would require. Thank you.

'Irrational'

To the Editor: (The Old Order Changeth)

A series of articles has recently appeared in the Syracuse Daily Orange concerning the clearance of the Yates Castle cite to make way for the construction of the new south wing of the medical school.

The recent articles, with inept attempts at humor and irrational vituperations directed against the medical school, have only made weak sentimentality of, I am sure, otherwise genuine grief. We of the medic school are also fiercely proud of our past traditions. We take pride in our history, in our present accomplishments, and in our future program expansion—this program including the erection of a south wing to the medical school.

But the castle must go—shall we muffle the anguished cries and let the castle die like a "grand old lady" "The old order changeth". Face up to reality, gentlemen!

Lewis M. Neperent

Bright Spots

By POLLY REED
Editorial Page Writer

(Editor's note: This is the second of a series of two articles on the difficulties of student organizations connected with the School of Music.)

One of the brightest spots on the band horizon is the new University attitude toward trips made by the symphonic band.

The symphonic band is composed of the very best players of the marching band, with the additions of oboe, bass fiddle and other instruments. It is under the direstion of Dr. Harwood Simmons.

Formerly, the band had a limit of five concerts which it could make in surrounding areas. The University has now changed this policy, and the symphonic band, the cream of Syracuse bands, may play more concerts.

The pep band also seems to have a bright future. It is composed of 5-30 volunteers from the marching band under the direction of student leader Peter Manicas. Playing at basketball games this season, it has been well received. The band has journeyed to Utica twice and to West Point for its second national TV appearance.

The men's glee club has a morale problem similar to the marching band's which we enumerated Friday. However, a solution cannot easily be found.

Attendance at the men's glee club rehearsal has been so poor that its one concert this year had to be postponed until later in the spring.

Another problem is to get men from all colleges interested in the group. Right now there is a nucleus of about 25 men, mostly freshmen, but only three or four music students.

The group has never had an extensive touring schedule, which may be one reason why so few men try out for the glee club.

In trying to pinpoint the reason for a lack of enthusiasm in the glee club, it is also necessary to consider all the other singing groups on campus. Maybe there are just too many for the student singing population. However, the arrangements of light music which the glee club does should appeal to many men.

Right now the club is trying to arrange an off-campus spring tour. Many members feel that with the assurance that the University would make up any deficit, the club could promise tours to interested freshmen and stimulate interest.

The problems of the University bands and men's glee club are many. But with cooperation and understanding among all departments and the University, many can be solved, resulting in bigger and more profitable aggregations to represent Syracuse.

SHORT ANSWER?

SPECULATION ON TH' IMPORT EX BERMUDA

By EILEEN CHAMBERLAIN

Spring came Saturday. But four days prior to this annual event, speculation on something new was rife at Syracuse university.

Following a marked influx of Bermuda shorts in the fall, some student government standards markers wondered how many bare coed knees will appear on campus between March and June, 1954.

A panel discussion scheduled last Tuesday night brought out some unexpected views from both male and female participants on the question of "To Wear or not to Wear, and Where?"

Bermuda shorts are here to stay, asserted University Social Director Miss Margaret Parker, but Jack C. Burkle, director of men's housing, indicated a definite dislike for the newest fad in women's sport apparel. Too long, he said.

University policy directs that conventional-type shorts may not be worn on the street by coeds since they create bad public relations with city residents, many of whom traverse thoroughfares on and around campus during the course of each day. Policy also rules dungarees on a coed, unless covered by a long coat.

Elaine Kiebala, representing the student distaff side, said she opposes the Bermuda shorts on campus but thinks they are nice for parties. She also says they are good for morale, although she did not specify whether she meant the morale of men or women students.

MSG prexy Stan Leff brought his blue beret along for side interest. He compared this to Bermuda shorts. Both are a fad, he said. He is one of about three men on campus who sport berets, and he wears to to look different and attract attention, he says.

Stan thinks the Bermuda shorts fad will die out as soon as every coed starts wearing them. When that times comes, an intrepid coed will probably start a new fad—wearing dresses on campus!

THE GODKIN LECTURES

"Cautionary Comment"

By MICHAEL BRAUN
Special to The Daily Orange

HARVARD UNIVERSITY, MARCH 19, 1954—Adlai E. Stevenson concluded his presentation of the Godkin lectures Friday evening with specific "cautionary comments" on the current world situation.

He replied to a question on whether "it was the duty of the legislative or executive branches to limit McCarthy's actions" by stating "I have no narrow ideas that this task can be accomplished by one person or one group.

"The major problem facing the United States today is the fact that certain people in the administration sit in judgment on the past and ignore the present danger."

In regard to our relations with Russia, Stevenson said that our State department's hardest job has been to dispell the impression that our way is the best way. "This," he stated, "is the falacious opinion that most of the people of the world, particularly the Asiatics, hold.

"The Asian does not think of the Russian in the same light as the American. He regards us as 'colonials' or at best the friend of colonials. Russia, being closer both physically and historically to Asia, is regarded in a more favorable light."

They regard Russia with wonderment and admiration for the achievements that she has accomplished in so short a time. The problem of these new states is how to match "with performance the promise of their revolution." The Soviet Union's spectacular success in similar circumstances naturally incites admiring attention and respect.

"In truth, it is the stability of indigenous strength of free Asia that will determine her own future. Neither American money, technicians nor advice is likely to be decisive. We must, therefore, educate them particularly to the fact that the Soviet places great emphasis on the premise that economic development will be Asia's main concern for years to come.

"Communist China is the main weapon in the Kremlin's fight for ultimate possession of Asia. The Chinese are motivated, supposedly, by three compulsions: 1. to liberate fellow Asians from "imperialist domination and feudalism"; 2. to "right the wrongs done Asia by the western powers" and restore the nations to their "rightful status in the world"; and 3. to forestall western support action against the communist regime by creating situations that make such actions less possible.

Stevenson said that emotion must play no part in national security. To act "cooly, intelligently and prudently in perilous circumstances is the test of a man or a nation."

"The British withdrawal from India in 1947 was ceratinly an advantage to the Kremlin but there were no repercussions from the British minority conservative faction. Why, then, in our country, must policies that for one reason or the other turned out unsuccessfully be attacked at a later date as being fumbling and bungling or even betrayal or treachery purely for political reasons?"

A main stand that has been taken by these "retrospective politicians" has been in attacking intellectualism. This feeling abominates thought. They state that thinking implies disagreement; and disagreement implies nonconformity; and non-conformity implies heresy; and heresy implies disloyalty—so, obviously, thinking must be stopped. But bowling is not a substitute for thinking and reason is not subversion but the salvation of freedom.

"The offensive task never ends. There are no blacks or whites in international politics. We must strive to forge ahead but we must act judiciously at all times." We must not seek a "solution" because there is none. Rather the problems that seem paramount today will fade away with time and cease to have the importance that they now seem to have."

Tonight's lecture, entitled "Some Cautionary Comments," was the last of a series that had the overall topic of "A Troubled World." The complete set of lectures will be published sometime next month in book form.

Syracuse Music School Features N
Capable Staff, Which Help Make

Former Crouse College, Situated Above Campu

SU Departmental Series

SPRING BUDS ALMOST hide the front of Crouse, which looks out over the entire city. The towered building is the highest structure in the city, by virtue of its hilltop position. John R. Crouse donated it to the University during the 19th century.

By TOM LONG

Take four new organs, a host of other musical instruments, an able director with a competent staff, world renown alumni, and a young group of students eager to make their place in the musical world, add them together, and you have the Syracuse University School of Music.

Along with the Schools of Art and Architecture, the music school comprises the Fine Arts college. Musical director Alexander Capurso, Art director Norman Rice, director of architecture, L. C. Dillenback and Vice-chancellor Finla G. Crawford form the Fine Arts Executive Committee. This group consults and clears up problems of courses, staff and budget.

A total of 15 full professors, associates, assistants and instructors are employed by the Music school. In addition to these, 16 studio associates and studio assistants are also on the staff.

Studio assistants and associates are paid in proportion to the number of students they instruct. This system allows for the wide variations of students which are taking lessons only on a part time basis. This number is considerably increased during the second semester of each year due to the new freshmen who have learned of this instruction and are taking advantage of it.

Full time students who are aiming at a performing career, must present a full concert recital before they can be graduated. In this recital the student must demonstrate a certain level of ability and must be able to play diverse forms of music.

A board of faculty committee members judge the performance. Although high standards are set for the recital, the general air is informal and a very small percentage of students have ever failed.

According to Capurso the screening system is so thorough that when students reach their fourth year they are fully qualified, and, to most, the recital is not too difficult a hurdle.

Candidates for graduate work in the School of Music must demonstrate high musical qualities for admittance. On completion of the graduate course a Master's recital is required. This is on the same basis of the undergraduate recital except that more polished theory and composition as well as performance are looked for.

The four new organs recently constructed under the direction of the music school are of different types. A new concert organ in Hendrick's chapel and a new grand concert organ in Crouse college are the larger additions. Two miniatures of these were built in the studios of Arthur Poister and David Johnson.

Dr. Alexander Capurso

Professor Capurso came to Syracuse in July, 1948 from the University of Kentucky School of Music where he was director. Previous to this he had been associate director of the Carnegie Community Music research project. In this position he worked on a three year national study of the function of music in American society.

Courses in the school are conducted on an informal basis. Students can be seen sitting in the halls of Crouse talking "shop" with other pupils or instructors. The classrooms offer a homey atmosphere and sound proof, air-conditioned practice studios are provided in the basement for student use.

The four year courses in piano, violin, voice, organ, trumpet and other instruments train the students to instruct as well as perform on the instrument. It develops the student's overall knowledge of music as well as advancing him in the mastering of certain instruments.

Graduates of the Syracuse university School of Music are known all over the world. The school is ranked by experts as one of the top in its field.

Among the more famous alumni of the school are Richard Bonelli, renown baritone, who has performed with the Metropolitan Opera co. as well as on radio and the concert stage; Bruce Foote, baritone star of the Chicago Opera of the Air, who heads the voice

THE PHRASE "ON her hilltop high" undoubtedly refers to the towered structure which looms as a familiar landmark above the city. Alums think of Crouse when they sing the second line of the alma mater. It is probably the most distinctive of the older campus buildings due to its prominent positioning. John R. Crouse presented the building to the University in 1889.

THE LARGE AUDITORIUM in Crouse is the scene of almost weekly Students must give recitals to receive degrees on all levels. In additi and outside artists are invited to perform. The post is one of the stained glass a feature of the ornately decorated hall.

ew Equipment, uture Artists

, Dominates City

t of the University of ıool of Music.

ı Gillette, another
was the star of the Brigadoon" and is now
ı television and drama.

ker, a violin major, is ırming on the concert ıcert pianist, Richard prominent New York
Vernon DeTar, also in the musical world.

ıartment of Music at ıas established in 1877
lirection of Dr. William
e. It offered instrucano, voice, violin, enıying and organ with ary work in history,
ıglish and appreciation

majoring in organ
ıered somewhat by the ıt instrument on cam-
were forced to practice
ırches until the church ncreased so that even ties were not available.

ms. Chancellor at that ded that an organ was needed and in June
-stop pump organ was ıt the north end of the ginal School of Music

ices in the top floor of ıf Languages, but the ɔf the Liberal Arts de-ıter forced it to move.
it was set up in Crouse ich has been its home

in the competent mu-
staff are Kirk Ridge,
ınist who has played
ed Path concert man-
ogram in this country erformed in Germany
a; and Ernst Bacon,
; contemporary Amer-
ɔser of chorale works,
ritten two operas and
ırking on a symphony
uisville Symphony or-

Krasner, international plinst who has soloed
ymphony orchestras in States and Europe; and koenig, concert pianist to Syracuse from the chool of Music, New are also staff members.

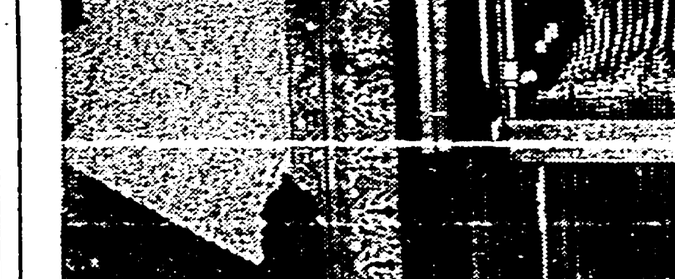
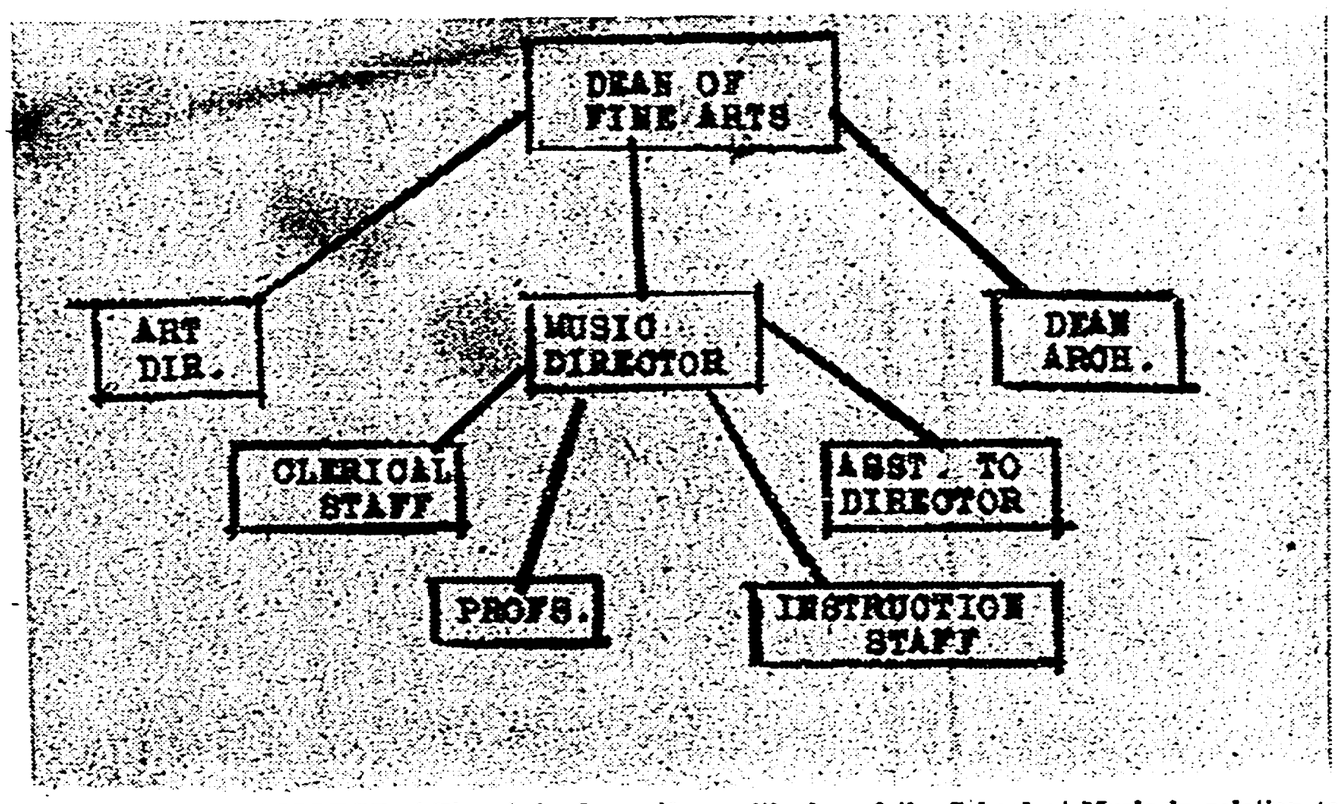
THE THOUSAND and one steps, well almost, that lead to the heights of Crouse. Underneath, is the inner workings of the old pipe organ which used to dominate the Crouse auditorium.



MANY MEMBERS OF the University marching band are students in the School of Music, and thus the School has an interest in its welfare and its quality.

ONE OF THE local string groups associated with the University, this string quartet presents recitals for the public. Performances such as these given by this group are free, and are usually held on Sunday, although other days are chosen for the student degree requirements.



OUTLINE OF THE COLLEGE of Fine Arts shows the positioning of the School of Music in relation to the other branches. Some of the instructors in the School of Music are nationally known in the music world.

during the school year.
culty presents programs
a the balcony and the

THE UNIVERSITY SYMPHONY orchestra, the only resident classical orchestral group in the area performs regularly in the auditorium of Crouse, often with guest artists. The orchestra is composed of faculty members of the School of Music and musicians from Syracuse. The pipe organ featured in the background is the new organ, which was built a few years ago. The local chapter of the American Organists Guild invites famous organists from throughout the world to give concerts in the auditorium.

NCAA Sprints Rated as Tossups

By STAN ROSENFELD
and BOB GROGAN
Daily Orange Junior Editors

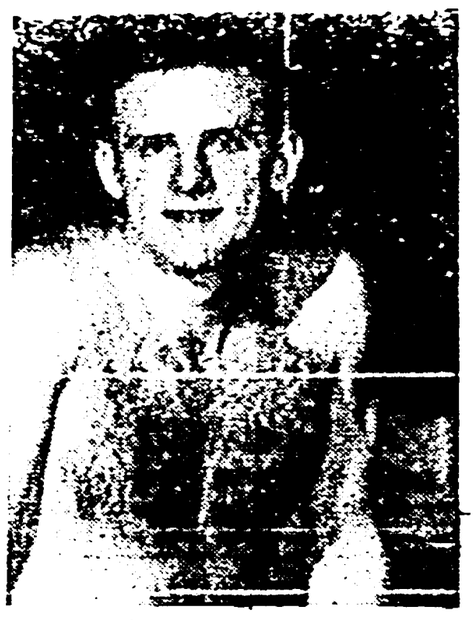
(This is the second in a series of articles which will preview the coming NCAA swimming championships to be held in the Orange pool, March 25-7. Today's article concerns the 50- and 100-yd. freestyles.)

Two of the most exciting races of the NCAA swimming championships may turn out to be the 50- and 100-yard freestyle events. Although both defending title-holders are back, most of their competitors are also returning to see that the champs live up to their press clippings.

Don Hill, Michigan's star sprinter and anchor man on the 400-yard relay team, is back to defend his 50-yard title. But returning to challenge the Wolverine merman in his quest for a repeat victory are the five men who gave him the most trouble last year in the NCAA's.

DICK CLEVELAND of Ohio State won the event two years ago but had to settle for a fourth last season. He's back to try to cop the "rubber" in his personal dual with Hill.

The Orange pool will not be a strange swimming cite to one of the chief threats in the 50- and 100-yard events. John Glover of Dartmouth liked the Syracuse university pool so well, he decided to show his gratitude by establishing new records in both the short sprints.



DON HILL of Michigan will be defending his 50-yard freestyle title next weekend in the 31st annual NCAA swim championships to be held in the Orange pool.

His time of 0:50.0 in the 100-yard race would have been good enough to win last year's NCAA title in this event. Reid Patterson of Georgia took the race with a time of 0:50.5, and will probably have to improve to repeat his victory.

Another distinct threat in both the 50- and 100-yard sprints is Kerry Donovan of Yale. The Eli speedster turned in times of 0:23.3 and 0:50.3 respectively against Harvard in Yale's last dual meet. The victory for Yale, was incidentally their 113th successive in duel meet competition.

A DARKHORSE candidate in the field is Ralph Brisco of Brown. His team recently won the New England Intercollegiate Swimming Championships from highly rated Williams. Brisko easily won both sprint races.

Last year's winning time by Hill in the 50-yard event was 0:22.4 and that was good enogh to win by five yards over Donovan. Another such performance might be good enough to win, or certainly be right in the thick of it.

Glover of the mermen of Dartmouth seems to have a slight edge in the 100-yard competition. Although Glover was not among the top six finishers in last year's NCAA event, his times this year have been something short of sensational. At the Orange pool Big John turned in an eye catching performance in a one man performance against the clock.

Ron Gora of Michigan, although finishing a poor sixth in the '53 fracas is capable of better things. The sturdy senior competed in the last Olympics and might be able to keep up with the field.

In any event one thing is positive and that is the 50- and 100-yard events will be the fastest of the competition. It usually follows that the fastest splashes are usually the most exciting, and the judges are going to be hard pressed to come up with the winners.

Dodgers Display Improved Pitching

The National League champion Brooklyn Dodgers have hit a hot streak in their early gamts in the Grapefruit League. The Brooks chalked up their ninth win in a row last Thursday with a 4-1 victory at the expense of the Yanks.

The story of the Dodgers' success has been quite a change from their regular season play. They are now getting strong pitching and rather weak hitting.

Sig Wirth, Nelson, Just Miss Honors As All-Americans

Led Soccer Squad To Second Straight Winning Year

By ALEX STRASSER
Daily Orange Junior Editor

"So close, but yet so far." These are the words that best summarize the efforts expended by two Orange soccer players in a futile attempt to achieve all-American honors.

Sig Wirth and Bill Nelson were two of the main reasons for the Orange's fine 4-1 won and lost record this fall.

LAST YEAR, Nelson was named all-American on the forward wall. Wirth didn't win all-America honors as he played at too many positions, thus scattering his votes in all directions.

This season, Wirth didn't switch around as much as before, so his chances for honors improved.

Placing a premium on skill, but still not neglecting the importance spirit plays in the game, Wirth combined with his brother Gunnar to give Syracuse one of the strongest one-two punches in the nation. When Gunnar Wirth took over the goal slot, Sig's efficiency didn't diminish.

Rated by ex-soccer mentor Art Horrocks as one of the better forwards he ever coached, Nelson was not only leading scorer for the Syracuse booters, but also a key playmaker, second only to Capt. Don Moller in that capacity.

JUDGING FROM their season's record, Wirth and Nelson were sure bets to make all-American. That was, until both were discovered playing amateur ball. Although they got no salary for their services, Wirth and Nelson were declared ineligible.

As both booters are seniors, the 1953 season marked their last chance for all-American honors. Perhaps the officials one day will clear up the rules concerning amateur soccer, so that future players won't have to say, "So close but yet so far."

Bowling Tourney To Open Next Week

Applications are still being accepted for the Syracuse Individual Bowling Tourney to be held in the Women's gym from March 29 through April 3, director Mike Hickok announced.

Application fee is $1 per person and each entrant bowls in one of two classes. According to Hickok, bowlers will be divided into "A" and "B" divisions with those who have an average of over 150 placed into the "A" class.

Each entrant will bowl three games on one night. The competition starts Tuesday, March 29 and continues every night except Friday, April 2.

Anyone interested in entering can contact Hickok any night this week in the bowling alleys located in the Women's gym.

What do YOU look for in an employer?

Undoubtedly, you'll want most of the following characteristics:

1. Job satisfaction—the chance to do work you really enjoy.
2. Recognition—the assurance that good work will be noticed, appreciated, and properly rewarded.
3. Opportunities for advancement—a growing company can provide them.
4. Security—the knowledge that a company is both stable and progressive.
5. Pride—a feeling that your company is respected by the public and produces goods which contribute to a better way of life.
6. Good companionship—a factor which contributes greatly to happiness on the job.
7. Good pay—not in salary alone, but also in terms of vacation plans, pensions, and other benefits.
8. Safe working conditions.

How can you obtain this kind of information in advance?

One of the best ways is to discuss the matter with an acquaintance already working for the company you are considering. You will also find it helpful to consult your college placement officer, your professors and company representatives visiting your campus.

The selection of an employer is one of the most important decisions you'll make. It justifies considerable thought and effort.

SOON AVAILABLE for student ASME chapters and other college groups, a 16-mm. sound colormovie—"Mechanical Engineering at Du Pont." For further information, send post card to E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. (Inc.), 2521 Nemours Building, Wilmington, Delaware.

DUPONT
BETTER THINGS FOR BETTER LIVING
...THROUGH CHEMISTRY

Watch "Cavalcade of America" on Television

ADVENTURE This Year
EUROPE, 60 Days, $690 (all expense incl. steamer)
Bicycle, Faltboot, Ski, Motor, Rail. Also Latin America, West, Orient.
TRAVEL
Around the World, $995 all expense. Low cost trips to every corner of the globe. Congenial groups for those who wish to get off the beaten track . . . even trips for explorers.
STUDY Special Groups
LANGUAGES, ART, DANCE, MUSIC. College Credit. Some scholarships available.
See More Spend Less
Your Travel Agent or Student International Travel Association
SITA
545 FIFTH AVE., NEW YORK 17 • MU 2-8686

Bruce Yancey Honored as Orange Athlete of the Year

By KEN LENT
Daily Orange Sports Editor.

Three-letterman Bruce Yancey has been named as Syracuse's Athlete of the Year by the Orange coaches, it was announced Friday by athletic director Lew Andreas. The Long Island senior will be honored at a special dinner in New York City on April 17.

An All-East mention at halfback and a 1954 All-American selection in lacrosse, versatile Yancey also made an excellent showing in this year's boxing Easterns.

SPURRED BY an upset in the semi-final round, Yancey carried the fight to champion Adam Kois of Penn State in the light-heavyweight division last weekend in one of the most exciting bouts of the tourney.

A quarterback-turned-halfback, Yancey was third in scoring for the Orange gridders with 30 points in the 1953 campaign behind Pat Stark and Bob Leberman.

He finished first in pass-receiving by snatching 14 passes for 226 yards. The former Sewanaka high school sensation also ground out 150 yards for a 4.3 yards-per-carry average.

Generally conceded to be one of the top lacrosse players in the nation, Yancey will culminate what should be a driving finish to a brilliant lacrosse career. While defending his All-American rating, he will act as co-captain for the Orange stickmen.

THE DINNER honoring him will be held at the Fraunces Tavern at Broad and Pearl streets in the Wall street section of New York. Speaking at the affair will be Orange head football coach Ben Schwartzwalder plus Yancey's boxing and lacrosse coach Roy Simmons.

An "outstanding leader" in the sports world as yet unnamed will also be there. The dinner begins at 6:30.

BRUCE YANCEY, pictured above, has been named Orange Athlete of the Year. Yancey has earned letters in lacrosse, boxing and football.

Piety Sailors Seek Win at Annapolis

The Piety Hill Sailors have been recently honored for the third consecutive year with an invitation to the classic of intercollegiate sailing, the McMillian Cup races at Annapolis.

The Orange must now choose a team of eight to man the Navy's big 44-foot yawls. The crew will be chosen on the basis of big boat experience and senority in the Yacht Club. This will be the only race of the year in which the standard dinghies will not be used.

Foresters Gain Lead In Faculty Bowling

In tonight's faculty bowling, the third place math department will attempt to climb back into the top spot as they take on the second place Athletic department. he mathematicians were bounced out of first place last week when they dropped nine points to the now reigning Foresters.

However, the Foresters will be taking on the Linguists who are firmly entrenched in tenth and aren't expected to cause too much trouble.

Another important match will be the contest between the Engineers, who are tied for third with Math.

THE SCHEDULE

ROTC vs. Stinkers
Forestry vs. Holy Rollers
Utes vs. Pin Knots
Foresters vs. Linguists
Math vs. Athletic
Marshall vs. Engineers

FRATERNITY STANDINGS

Team	Points
Phi Kappa Psi	103½
Beta Theta Pi	93½
Sigma Chi	89½
Phi Delta Theta	85
Zeta Psi	81
Theta Chi	80
Psi Upsilon	75
Phi Epsilon Pi	74
Delta Upsilon	73½
Sigma Alpha Epsilon	72½
Phi Gamma Delta	71½

Phi Psi Holds Comfortable Lead In Greek Intramural Standings

Wth five major fall and wniter sports seasons completed, Phi Kappa Psi holds a commanding lead in fraternity intramural athletic standings.

Figures released late last week gave the Phi Psi's 103½ points, ten more than their nearest competitors. Beta Theta Pi Sigma Chi trailed the Betas by five points with Phi Gamma Delta and Zeta Psi rounding out the first five.

SPORTS INCLUDED in the standings are football, cross-country, swimming, bowling and basketball. Phi Psi won only one of these competitions, but was consistently high in the final standings in all of the others.

Theta Chi, sixth in the standings, won the first fraternity championship of the school year when it beat Phi Psi 20-18 in the Greek football finals in November. Beta took the next title with an impressive victory in the cross-country event. The Beta harriers scored 49 points in the meet while their nearest rivals, Kappa Phi Delta accumulated 75.

Phi Psi annexed the swimming championship last month with Beta second. The basketball title went to the powerful Phi Delt cagers. The University champions defeated Theta Chi decisively, 40-28 in the fraternity finals.

FLOWERS TELEGRAPHED
J. ALLEN DEAL
734 So. Crouse On the Hill

Far Away Places—Stay at Home Prices
EUROPE 1954
All Expense—Budget Wise Tours
Prices From $798.00 Include
Operas and Theaters
Student Tours
THE GRAND TOUR WITH SCANDINAVIA AND VIENNA
To: Miss M. W. McKay
11 W. 42nd St., New York 36, N.Y.
Please send me free catalogue
☐ THE GRAND TOUR
☐ STUDENT TOURS
☐ GENERAL TOURS
Name ----------
Address ----------
City ---------- State ----

It's Later Than You Think
CLASS RINGS With Degree, Year
CHOICE OF STONE
WOMEN'S or MEN'S
Engineers include Degree Year and Choice of Stone
Hill Smoke Shop
MARSHALL STREET
Headquarters for Everything

Join a Leader ...in ELECTRONICS
Successful creation of entirely new concepts in control systems has made Bell Aircraft an important factor in the fast-moving science-industry... Electronics. Servomechanisms and electronic controls now are designed and produced by Bell for its own products and for other major aircraft and guided missile manufacturers. These developments point the way to revolutionary new applications for business and industry.
This vital, expanding activity opens opportunities for stimulating, renumerative careers to graduate...
ELECTRONIC ENGINEERS
MECHANICAL ENGINEERS
AERONAUTICAL ENGINEERS
PHYSICISTS
MATHEMATICIANS
Want to know more? Contact your Placement Director to arrange an appointment on...
MARCH 22&23
or write to
ENGINEERING PERSONNEL
BELL Aircraft CORPORATION
P.O. Box 1
Buffalo 5, N.Y.

THE GREATEST!
--OUR NEW "LONG JOHNS"
THE HILL BOOKSTALL
147 Marshall Street Opposite University Hospital

Bob Hope Conducts National Contest To Find Casanova

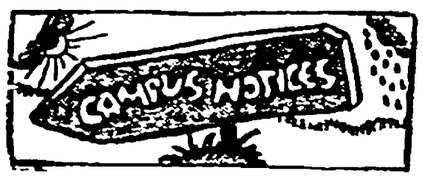
A nation-wide search for "America's Campus Casanova" with an all-expense paid trip to Hollywood for the winner is being conducted by Bob Hope, star of Paramount studios.

Hope, star of the film, "Casanova's Big Night", is sponsoring a contest to find the perfect college sequel to find the fabled Casanova.

THE CONTENDER for the title must submit his picture to The Daily Orange with a statement in 100 words or less explaining why he should be the one to wear the crown. The deadline for the contest is 3 p.m. March 24.

The winner of the national contest will be selected by a board composed of five of Hollywood's most glamorous stars. The lucky male will spend the week in movieland as the guest of Hope. Each one of the lovely judges will be his hostess for one day and one evening.

The local winner, whose picture and qualifications will be sent to Hope will be chosen by members of The Daily Orange senior staff.



Daily Chapel, noon-12:20 p.m. Rev. Wesley Konrad will speak.

Psych students, applying for Psi Chi, who have not filed out pledge blanks, do so immediately at the Psych Center, 123 College Place.

Grad Athletics, 7:30 p.m. today, at Gym B of the Women's building.

Independence Party meeting for all party candidates for class and MSG offices, 7:30 p.m., 303 Maxwell. Committee members, coordinators and exec council members should attend.

WAA tumbling and apparatus club, 4:30 p.m. at Gym B.

Those assigned to work at the DO today are: afternoon, John Johnsrud, Polly Reed, Mollie Glaser, Carol Royce, Joan Russell, Pete McNally, Liz Goddard; night, Roger Herz, Maria Heitz, Grace Frary, Joan Connors, Marion Berger, Lorraine Cipolla, Lois Feldman, Bobbie Stern, Jan Dukler and Dick Case.

Officials club meeting, 4:30 p.m., at the Women's building to elect managers. Attendance compulsory.

FM WAER 88.1
PROGRAM SCHEDULE

MONDAY
3:00—WAER News
3:05—Symphonic Matinee
4:00—Musical Heritage
5:00—This I Believe
5:05—Distaff Digest
5:15—Dinner Date
6:15—WAER News
6:25—Evening Showcase
6:35—WAER Sports Lineup
6:45—High on a Hilltop
7:00—Masterworks from France
7:30—Travels in Music
8:00—Evening with Music
9:00—WAER News
9:05—Meet the Composer
9:30—Proudly We Hail
10:00—Final Edition—News
10:10—Final Edition—Sports
10:20—Sign-off

NOW at Schine's
PARAMOUNT
The Broadway Musical Review In CINEMASCOPE
"NEW FACES"
Ronny Graham Eartha Kit
Robert Cary Alice Ghostley
In Glorious Color

Poli Sci Program Offered in June

By EILEEN CHAMBERLAIN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

A three-credit undergraduate course for intensive study of some government processes in Washington, D. C. will be offered by the Syracuse university political science department from June 14 to June 26.

Titled "Institute of Government in Washington," the course will be in session for the first time this summer, according to Prof. Phillips Bradley of the Maxwell political science department.

STUDY IN the course will be concentrated on Congressional investigating committees and presidential leadership and administrative management. Political Science 103s will be open to a group of 30 students, including some from colleges and universities other than Syracuse.

Applications are available now in 218 Maxwell. Completion of political science 2 is a general prerequisite for acceptance in the Washington course, although some students may be admitted by consent of the instructor. Dr. Bradley stresses that interested students should pick up applications at an early date, since some students have already been accepted.

John Owens of Wesleyan university and Dr. Bradley are in charge of the two-week course and will alternate in instructing the class.

There will be no examinations in the course, but each student will be expected to prepare a paper on the function of his area of interest in Washington government. Five seminars are planned in the course. The five remaining class periods will be used for sessions on Capitol Hill in committees and interviews with individual Congressmen and Senators.

ARRANGEMENTS HAVE not yet been completed, but Dr. Bradley expects the sessions will include interviews with such people as Senators Ives, Lehman, Douglas, Symington and Margaret Chase Smith and Representatives Keating, Reed and Tabor.

Students will visit various committees and talk with staff members. They will also see the Senate and House in session and the White House staff, Bureau of the Budget and a number of agencies such as the Department of Agriculture, Dept. of Commerce, Dept. of Labor, National Labor Relations Board and the Civil Service commission.

Each student will select one or more agencies dealing with governmental functions in which he is interested and he will have the opportunity to consult with its administrative officers and to observe its operations.

The first meeting of the course will be Monday, June 14 in Washington. Arrangements for student living quarters will be made through the political science department at an approximate cost of $2.50 each per night. However, each student must arrange his own transportation to the capital, Dr. Bradley stated.

PRICE OF meals will run from about $3 up per day, according to choice of the students and incidental costs, including taxi fares, are expected to be about $1 a day.

In addition to the regular course setup, arrangements will be made for students to visit important culture places of interest in Washington, including the National Gallery, the Smithsonian institute and the Folger library.

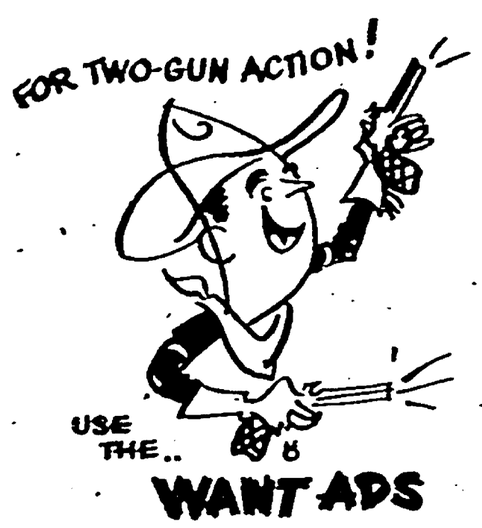
The course results from suggestions made last year that students, especially seniors who lack three credits for graduation, be given an opportunity to pick up credit hours before the beginning of the regular summer school session at the University. This course enables students to earn three credits and also work during the summer.

New Iota Initiates Listed by Sorority

Iota Alpha Pi sorority recently initiated 18 pledges at a ceremony and dinner March 4, at Sherman's restaurant.

The new sisters are Jane Handelman, Linda Gladstone, Enid Beller, Carol Pitkin, Lenore Engel, Merry Dash, Florence Schulman, Sue Cassell, Lori Heller, Lois Aaron, Barbara Solomon, Marilyn Farber, Shiela Jacobson, Dorothy Beham, Namoi Brown, Sylvia Stayman, Sandra Sweet, Margerie Nievert.

REGENT
SUN.—TUES.
In CinemaScope
"THE COMMAND"
Guy Madison James Whitmore
Color by Technicolor



'SHOOT' Over To The HELLBOX Or
CALL JEAN JACOBS 4-7206
(Before 3 P. M.)
Classified is the quick, easy way to
BUY – SELL – RENT – HIRE

Court Trials . . .

(Continued from page 1)

participation in extra-curricular activities by the defendant.

In the final case, charges of illegal taking, use and transfer of a campus parking sticker were upheld by the men's court and the student fined $15.

The student had said that he needed to drive on campus because of medical reasons, but the court found no grounds to justify his actions. "The defendant is to be severely reprimanded for his failure to pursue the legal channels with which he was fully aware."

All five men were given until May 1 to pay their fines.

Schine Eckel Now
SILVANA MANGANO
IS BACK... IN HER NEW AMERICAN LANGUAGE HIT!

The Time Is Now!
for
Watch - Clock - Jewelry Repairing
College Jewelry Shop
703 S. Crouse Ph. 4-9062

RKO KEITH'S
SYRACUSE, N. Y. — TEL. 2-1307
Box Office open 10 A.M. to 9:30 P.M.
TONIGHT 8:30
Tuesday & Wednesday
Eves. at 8:30—Mat. Wed. 2:30
ON STAGE! IN PERSON!
BROADWAY'S FABULOUS MUSICAL
GUYS & DOLLS
NEW YORK CAST INTACT!
ALL SEATS RESERVED
PRICES — EVES.: Orch., $4.80, $3.60; Lodge, $4.80; Boxes, $4.20; Balcony, $3.00. $1.80. WED. MAT.: Orch., $3.60, $3.00; Lodge, $3.60; Boxes, $3.00; Balcony, $2.00. $2.50, $1.80, $1.20. (Tax Incl.)
Mail Orders Filled Promptly
Please Enclose Self Addressed, Stamped Envelope.
Tickets Now On Sale at Box Office

OPPORTUNITIES
at Linde . . .

Take a quick look at this list of nationwide career opportunities which are open to men who join the growing Linde Air Products team:

Research
Development
Design
Production
Factory Management
Sales
Service Engineering

If you are getting a degree in engineering (especially mechanical or chemical), you owe it to yourself to consider Linde. Learn more about our work in industrial gases, organo-silicon chemicals, flame-plating, welding equipment, etc. Find out what we have for YOU.

Plan to discuss informally with our representative on March 23. Check your placement office for details.

LINDE AIR PRODUCTS COMPANY
A DIVISION
UNION CARBIDE AND CARBON CORPORATION

CLASSIFIED ADS

IMPORTANT NOTICE—CLASSIFIED ADS to appear in this paper should be DELIVERED at the HELLBOX Classified desk between 1 and 3 p. m. NO ADS WILL BE ACCEPTED AFTER 3. ALL ADS MUST BE IN 2 DAYS IN ADVANCE. For further information call 4-7206.

ALL LOST ARTICLES should be turned into the CENTRAL LOST AND FOUND ROOM, 20 Bldg. 24 at 205 University Pl. Articles can be claimed there.

AUTO-DRIVING

AUTO DRIVING INSTRUCTION. Learn to drive easily, correctly and safely. Call Upstate Auto Driving School. Phone 8-4040.

LEARNING TO DRIVE? Learn quickly, easily, scientifically. 17 years experience. Car furnished. SULLIVANS DRIVING School Inc. 73-3451.

RENTALS

TYPEWRITERS RENTED: $3.00 per month, $8 3 months. Good selection. We deliver, Smith Brothers. 4-8833.

Typewriters rentals—New Models Reasonable Rates—Expert Service, All Makes—CORNER STORE.

TYPING

EXPERT TYPING, thesis and term papers, reports. Mel Sherman 76-0612.

EXPERT typing done at home, 72-0716.

THESES typed, 18 cents page. Accurately and neatly, 15 years experience. 92-0913.

FOR SALE

Dazor desk lamp almost new. Cost $35. Price $20. 75-1831.

LUCKY YOU: New Tape recorder in factory carton. Any fair offer. Unlucky me. 4-7960.

1949 DELUXE Styline Chevrolet, 4-door with air condition, radio, new tires, new rings, new paint. $595. 92-0913 after 6 p.m.

CHURCH SERVICE

TEMPLE ADATH YESHURUN. Corner Harrison and South Crouse Ave. Week day services 7:30 a.m.

FOR RENT

3 ROOM unfurnished apartment, heated, private bath with shower. 116 Standart St.

CLOSE TO CAMPUS: Modern 3 bed upper flat, fire place, venetian blinds, shower and gas heat. Adults only. About May 1. Phone 4-8554.

MISCELLANEOUS

ALTERATIONS DONE WITHIN A DAY: 4-5847. 5 minutes from campus. Lillian Potter, 207 Comstock Ave.

On the Inside

New Pan-hel Rushing system, see story on page 4.

Syracuse Daily Orange

Weather Report

Cloudy, light snow or rain
High temperature ____ 42
Low temperature ____ 32

Vol. 51, No. 95 | Syracse, N. Y., Tuesday, March 23, 1954 | 4 Pages—5 Cents

Eta Pi, WSG Set Chapel Meeting

Candidates for nine campus offices for women will be announced and Spring Weekend themes and chairmen introduced at a joint Eta Pi Upsilon-women's student government convocation at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow in Hendricks chapel.

Phoebe Baner, a former member of the senior women's honorary at Syracuse university, will outline the history of Spring Weekends on the Hill and Eta Pi Upsilon president Judy Perry will introduce John Beach and Lawrence O'Sullivan, presidents of the senior men's honoraries, Tau Theta UPsilon and Phi Kappa Alpha.

CANDIDATES FOR WSG president, assembly speaker and chief of civil service will be announced and introduced tomorrow night. Twelve sophomores who have been chosen to run for WSG junior officers will also be presented to the student body.

Other candidates for offices in connection with WSG activities will also be announced at that time. These include women nominated for chairmen and secretary of campus guides, city guide chairman and foreign student guide chairman.

Two coeds vying for president of City Women's club will also appear at tomorrow's convocation.

Five members of the senior women's honorary have been nominated for Spring weekend queen, and they will be introduced at the convo. The queen will be selected by all women students in the spring elections.

THEME AND events for Spring weekend are scheduled to be revealed at the meeting. In addition to announcement of the weekend agenda and chairmen of events, who are members of the three senior honoraries, there will be an opportunity for committee signups following the convocation.

New pledges of Eta Pi Upsilon will also be announced and presented tomorrow night.

Leaders' Program To Start Tomorrow

The Future Student Leaders training program of men's student government will get underway again tomorrow, Philip Stern, director of education, has announced.

The opening session is scheduled for 7 p.m. in 207 Hall of Languages.

Signups are being held at the MSG offices, building 30. Interested men who do not sign up ahead may register at the first meeting.

The course, open to all male students, is required for holding office in student government or classes, according to a recent announcement of the class elections act.

The FSL series is designed to give students an insight into the various phases of student activity on campus through seven meetings devoted to lectures by members of the administration, student leaders, discussion groups, audio-visual aids, special projects and attendance at special functions.

A general orientation for all students is provided, Stern emphasized.

Herbert Portnoff, assistant director of education, will aid Stern in administering the program.

Music Honorary Initiates Contest

Sigma Alpha Iota, women's professional music fraternity, will officially open the preliminaries for the Spring weekend step singing contest at 7 p.m. today in the Chapel.

The honorary has chosen "Kyrie Eleison" by Joseph J. Grath from the mass honoring St. Cecilia, the patron saint of music and the "Sigma Alpha Iota Chorale" as their opening numbers. Anne Forrest, chairman of the contest, will give the official welcome.

The following living centers are participating in tonight's sing. In the small house group are: the Sophomore Nursing class, Charles cottage, Winchell waitresses, Phillips cottage and Beebe cottage.

In the large house division are: Kappa Alpha Theta, Delta Delta Delta, Phi Mu and Alpha Delta Pi.

The houses are urged to be there on time as the contest will start promptly at 7.

WAER to Present Original ShortStory

The "Poet and His Song", a program of original readings, will be aired at 7:30 p.m., today over station WAER.

Malcolm Foster will read an original short story titled "The Grass of Parnassus." His many literary talens have earned him the position of editor-in-chief o the Syracusan, the campus humor magazine.

The presentation tonight will be produced by Phyllis Perkins.

Dr. Preston James Praises Puerto Rico

Lecturer Dicusses Democratic Process

By PEARL BERNSTEIN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Dr. Jreston James, chairman of the geography department, told cit students yesterday that the progress of Puerto Rican democracy in raising the level of living in a society is "the best answer to the communist program of which I know."

Tracing the history of the Carribean island from the times of Spanish domination to the present, the well known geographer and historian presented an object lesson in "Population and Land Planning," his topic.

HE DESCRIBED Puerto Rico as "one of the most exciting places in the world—a showplace of what can be done in the face of pressing problems," and suggested that the results could be applied to other areas with similar problems, such as India.

For years the island had what Prof. James described as a traditional Spanish agrarian system. This means that prestige property, and was practiced is in accord with possession of throughout much of Latin America. Therefore the overwhelming mass of the land was owned by a very small percentage of the population.

The better part of the land was used as grazing pasture for cattle and horses, and the poor either settled as "squattors" or cultivated slopes.

With the Spanish-American war in 1898, the United States acquired the island possession. Because Puerto Rico had all the qualifications for low cost cane sugar production with tremendous profits, four large sugar companies bought out most of the land and started cultivating it.

"MOSTLY THE labor is done by hand," said Prof. James, and there is work only during the dry season, about four or five months a year. The sugar companies exploited the land and workers to such a degree that in 1917 the Congress made Puerto Rico a territory and set a limit of 500 acres per corporation. This was not enforced until 1940.

It was then that a political movement under Luis Monoz-Marin took over the government and the reform began.

Dr. James cited figures on the progress made since then. In 1940 17.9 per cent of the population was unemployed, the death rate was very high, and despite the American school system, one out of three Puerto Ricans was illiterate.

In 1952 unemployment was down to 11.5 per cent, the death rate had dropped to half and the income per captia had almost doubled.

"PEOPLE RAISED on tropical soil are almost always undernour-

(See PUERTO RICO, page 4)

Male Living Center Open Houses Slated Tonight, Tomorrow

Convocation Scheduled For Thursday Night; Questions Invited

Open houses for inspection of available men's living centers will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. today and tomorrow.

A housing convocation for men is scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Thursday. The convocation will include a discussion of housing and an opportunity to present questions concerning policy or procedure.

THE FOLLOWING houses will be open: Washington Arms, Grover Cleveland, 202 Waverly ave., 504, 603, 607 and 609 Comstock ave., 106 Marshall st., Irving ave. prefabs, and prefabs A1, 3, 4, 9, 10 at Collendale.

Students now living outside dormitories may pick up housing information and applications at the office of the dean of men, but dormitory residents may secure this material only from their resident advisors or proctors.

Applicants for rooms should secure assignments in the office of the dean of men, entering through the appointments office.

Housing assignments will begin Mrach 29 and run through April 13. Assignments will be made as follows:

MARION DORMITORY; seniors, March 29; juniors, March 30; sophomores, March 31.

Washington Arms; juniors, April 1; sophomores, April 2; seniors, April 5.

Grover Cleveland; sophomores, April 6; seniors, April 7; juniors, April 8.

All other living centers and prefabs on Irving ave. and at Collendale; seniors, April 9; juniors, April 12; sophomores, April 13.

APPLICATIONS for specific dormitories will be accepted only until April 13. Assignment to a specific room will be made at the time of application, which should be on the date listed above. Actual IBM assignments will be made in July.

Cancellations may be made up to August 1 without penalty. Cancellations after that date will result in forfeit of the $25 room deposit.

Chapel Guide Book Now in Final Stage

Hendricks chapel guide book, to be mailed to all incoming freshmen, is being prepared for a final check before going to the printer.

Editors Ethel Smetts and Arthur Kinney have announced that the booklet will be patterned after Look magazine and will include new coverage of all Chapel events.

Titled "The Heart of the Campus," the cover will be an aerial photograph of the campus. The book has been divided into four sections: steering committee, Chapel board, Jewish Student fellowship and Protestant council.

Editors for these divisions are Barbara Anderson, Marion Campbell, Winifred Bogardus, Nancy Lana and Mary Dorn. Photographs are by Oscar Keuker and Elizabeth Eger is lay-out editor.

Kinney, Parker Get MSG Prexy Nominations as 3 Parties Meet

Sophomore, MSG Candidates Named By 'Independence'

By POLLY REED
Daily Orange Junior Editor.

Independence, newest of the campus political parties, will run a full slate of sophomore class officers in this spring's election. The party will also back several candidates for men's student government representatives.

Joseph Easton, speaker pro-tem of the freshman assembly, was nominated for president of the class of '57 by the Independence party last Thursday.

EASTON WAS campaign manager for Francis Procopio, freshman class prexy. He was chairman of the refreshments committee for frosh weekend, is a Lenten lay reader in Chapel, participates in the release time religious education program, Youth fellowship, and is vice-chairman of the Independence party.

Elizabeth (Betsy) Blackwell was nominated for the vice president's spot. Miss Blackwell is currently the secretary of frosh assembly. She was co-chairman of the Chapel program for frosh weekend, and works on the Syracusan and Onondagan.

Elnora (Honey) Hoyt, was placed in the secretarial slot. She is a member of frosh assembly, WAA assembly, Angel's flight, student activities committee, and skated in the Winter Carnival Ice Pageant.

David (Mayor of Martian Street) Boreanaz was nominated for treasurer of the sophomore class. Boreanaz is a frosh assembly representative, and worked on freshman weekend.

INDEPENDENCE party has announced that any other candidates wishing its backing should apply to Mary Cole, George Allen, Phillip Sperry or Francis Procopio. They will consider applications for junior and senior class offices and some men's student government representatives. Dead-

(See INDEPENDENCE, page 4)

STUART PARKER, co-chairman of Campus Chest this year is the PHA candidate running for president of MSG.

Honorary Will Hold 'Block S' Banquet

Dean Bartlett to Act As Toastmaster

University Vice-President Kenneth G. Bartlett, dean of public relations, has been announced as toastmaster for the annual Block S banquet at 6 p.m. Sunday in Sims dining hall.

Hugh (Stubby) Daugherty, head football coach of Michigan State college, will be guest speaker.

Tickets, priced at $2.50, are on sale from members of Orange Key junior men's honorary, the athletic ticket office in Archbold gymnasium, the University Book store, Corner store and Hotel Onondaga cigar stand.

All athletes should pick up their free tcikets immediately at the athletic office

More than 200 athletes will be honored at Sunday's dinner, with 14 special awards being presented. Bruce Yancey will get mention as athlete of the year for the Orange.

Piety Hill Alliance Will Support 13 In Race for Office

By ED HARDY
Daily Orange Junior Editor

In a five-hour session Sunday afternoon, Piety Hill Alliance sifted out 13 candidates from among a total of 26 applicants for places on the spring elections ballots.

Top man to lead the group into the campaign wars will be Stuart Parker of Phi Gamma Delta, seeking the presidency of men's student government. The Campus Chest co-chairman was opposed for the nomination by Delta Tau Delta's Jack Hennessey. Nineteen of the 24 houses present swung behind Parker to give him the nod.

HENNESSEY TRIED again later and swept the nomination for senior class president over Lloyd (Chet) Dunsker of Beta Sigma Rho.

Cynthia Satow, Kappa Kappa Gamma, was named to run for the vice-presidency of the class, while Marcia Sank, Iota Alpha Pi, will vie for secretary. Both experienced little opposition in garnering the nominations.

Harold Vikoren, Sigma Nu, will seek the treasurership of the senior class for PHA.

A darkhorse, Robert Martindale of Kappa Sigma, won the nomination for junior class president over Samuel Braun of Phi Gamma Delta, Roy Place of Delta Tau Delta and Robert Hecht, Beta Sig. Braun received the vice-presidential position on the ticket.

THE RACE for the secretarial nomination developed into a battle between Annette Manzella of Pi Beta Phi and Sheila Hicks of Kappa Alpha Theta—a politically-inactive house. Miss Manzella finally got the party's OK after five ballots. Miss Hicks was nominated over Hecht for treasurer after two ballots.

Norman Butterfield of Theta Chi, frosh treasurer, was nominated by PHA for sophomore class president. His only opponent was Carleton Hence, Delta Kappa Epsilon.

Six candidates vied for the vice-presidential nomination, with Joan Scism, Theta Phi Alpha, being selected. Two of the five others took the remaining posts on the soph ballot for PHA. They were Marianne Oesterreicher, Phi Sigma Sigma, secretary; and Theodore VanSyckel, Phi Delta Theta, treasurer.

An Alpha Xi Delta candidate, Grace Sofleiss, failed to gain any spot in the class under PHA. The sorority had left the United Students party meeting earlier in the afternoon when she could get no nomination there.

Two new houses—Pi Lambda Phi and Sigma Nu—were voted membership in PHA before the nominations began. Pi Lam was a former Tri-Orange house, while Sigma Nu was inactive.

ARTHUR KINNEY, ATO, will carry the USP nomination for MSG president in the forthcoming election.

Women's Building Houses New Library

Plan to Employ Honor System

The Women's building library will open today on the honor system, according to James F. Carr and Barbara Bushnell, co-chairmen of the library.

This system is only experimental, Carr stressed. No books will be taken out and as long as there is no loss of books, pamphlets, or periodicals, the library will remain on the system.

THE HOURS for the library will be from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday. The library will be closed Saturdays and Sundays.

Approximately 1,000 volumes in the general area of the arts are located in the library for browsing and relaxation.

The collection of books has come from the former Student Union browsing library, the old Hall of Languages collection, and the textbook lending library. There is a wide range of literature in the area of the belle letres.

There are four shelves of graduate catalogues representing all major universities in the country. It is the most complete list of professional and non-professional graduate schools in the University. This up-to-date information includes scholarships, housing, and course areas.

GOOD SETS of Onondagans, Syracusans and Dilemmas are also available, in addition to information on the University's student activities. This information is a valuable source to any students who might be writing papers on this topic.

A very comprehensive collection of summer travel and study information also can be found there. It includes up-to-date data on tours, academic credits, and scholarship opportunities, in addition to religious and pleasure trips.

Among the faculty who have given gifts to the library are Chancellor and Mrs. William P. Tolley, Vice-chancellor and Mrs. Finla Crawford, Vice-president Kenneth Bartlett, Mrs. Margaret Bonisteel, Professor J. Edward McEvoy and E. E. Thompson.

Also, James V. Latoore, Dean Frank Piskor, the estate of Jean Marie Richards, Major Milton Falk, Lt. Col. George R. Stevens III, Prof. Raymond F. Piper, Francis Windgate, Dean Edith Smith, and the parents of the late Stewart Stephens and the late Peter Hofmann.

THE 1953 Goon Squad also con-

(See LIBRARY, page 4)

Senior Nominees Picked by USP On White Ballot

By EILEEN CHAMBERLAIN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Arthur Kinney was nominated Sunday to seek the men's student government presidency on the United Students party ticket. He defeated Curtis Ford of Sigma Alpha Epsilon after Alpha Chi Rho's Michael Newcomb declined a nomination from the floor.

Kinney, the merit board's selection for the MSG post, is a member of Alpha Tau Omega, and has been speaker pro tem of the assembly this year. His nomination followed voting for all candidates for class offices and concluded a three-hour USP session Sunday.

NOMINATED ON white ballots (unanimous vote) after recommendation by the merit board were the four candidates for senior class offices. Samuel Shawhan, Sigma Chi, will vie for senior president in the April 7 elections. His running mates are Arthur Koeppel, Tau Epsilon Phi, for vice president; Jacquelyn Jarrett, Sigma Kappa, for secretary; and Gregg Doherty, SAE, for treasurer.

Two applicants backed by the merit board for junior class nominations lost out when the party voted Sunday. William Boardman, Sigma Phi Epsilon, won the presidential candidacy over merit board nominee Robert Fairbanks of AChiRho, and Jack Most, Zeta Beta Tau, was nominated over Alpha Delta Pi's Carol Tucker for treasurer.

Nominated on white ballots were Harriet Ehrlich, Sigma Delta Tau, for vice-president and Dilys Chuba, Chi Omega, for secretary.

Party members voted early in the afternoon to suspend a USP requirement that all candidates must have appeared before the merit board to be eligible for nomination. Following nominations of senior and junior class officers, Edwin Hochberg of Phi Epsilon Pi, requested that the requirements be reinstated. This motion was defeated by a large majority.

AFTER THREE ballots, John Cullen, Zeta Psi, got the USP nomination over Arthur Browner, Phi Ep, for sophomore class president. Arlene Plotkin, Alpha Epsilon Phi, is the candidate for soph vice-president. She and Grace Sofleiss, Alpha Xi Delta, sought the nomination.

Candidates for sophomore secretary and treasurer are Mar-

(See USP, page 3)

Journalism Talks Begin in J-Center

First of a series of public lectures on industrial journalism will be given at 7:30 p.m. tonight in Room 202 of the Journalism Center.

Elmer M. Applegit, coordinator of publications, Socony-Vacuum Oil co. will speak on "An Introduction to the Field of Industrial Journalism." He has served as the editor of industrial publications. Before entering industrial journalism, he was feature editor of the Brooklyn Daily Eagle.

This lecture, intended for a class in "The Specialized Press" and all others interested is being jointly sponsored by the university and the American Association of Industrial Editors, of which Applegit is a director.

Other speakers will appear on March 30, April 6, and April 27.

Krinsky to Talk To UNASU Group

Dr. Fred Krinsky, assistant professor of citizenship, will be the guest lecturer at 7:30 p.m. at the United Nations club meeting in 307 of the Women's building. All members of the UNASU group and any interested students are invited.

Dr. Krinsky will speak on the Far East: Revolution and Counter Revolution. A discussion session will follow his talk.

Also scheduled for tonight's meeting is a discussion of plans for the next General Assembly meeting at Alfred university early next month.

Membership in UNASU is open to any interested Syracuse student. Meetings are held usually bi-monthly. Mock security council sessions and General Assembly meetings at various Eastern universities highlight the club's activities.

Also in the planning stage for later this year is an excursion to the United Nations headquarters in New York city.

MSG, Class Petition Filing Deadline Today

Deadline for filing petitions for candidacy in spring elections in men's student government and class office races is 5 p.m. today.

Forms are available at the MSG office, building 30, and at the women's student government office, third floor, Women's building. The WSG office is open from noon to 1 p.m. and from 4 to 5 p.m. Completed petitions must be returned t o iterehzFa turned to either office by 5 p.m.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT election officials have emphasized that no student may have his name on a ballot in elections April 7 unless his petition is returned by this afternoon.

A candidate for class office must be endorsed by at least 25 members of his class. Twenty signatures from the class and classification (Greek, independent, or city) of a MSG assembly candidate are required on assemblyman petitions.

Candidates for MSG president must file a petition with 100 names.

In cases of MSG head and class offices, name of political party affiliation, if any, and party officers must accompany the petition.

CIVIL SERVICE will review the eligibility of candidates and release the official list of candidates at 5 p.m. March 30. Campaigning will begin at that time.

Elected will be president of the MSG and WSG, six WSG junior officers, 27 MSG assemblymen, the WSG assembly speaker, sophomore, junior and senior class officers, Red Cross co-chairmen and Eta Pi Upsilon Spring weekend queen.

Make Phone Call, Win Syracusans

Heart in mouth, Malcolm Foster, Syracusan editor, told The Daily Orange in an exclusive interview yesterday that only one person called up to identify his picture; and consequently, only one April 1952 issue has been claimed.

Foster added, in the same dismayed tone, that the person who called, did not even come to the office to pick up the magazine.

Thuhbing through the other unclaimed 399 magazines, Foster said he couldn't understand why no one else had entered. "Gee," he said, "Gee."

The Daily Orange has promised Foster that it would rally to his aid. Therefore, if students reading this article call 76-9865 today, they win free Syracusans—April 1952—without even identifying the picture.

Visiting Professor Speaks on Music

Dr. Roy Freeburg, professor of music education at San Francisco State college, is at Syracuse university this week to lecture to music education students.

Yesterday he spoke on elementary school music and today will hold sessions on junior and senior music education. A nationally-known authority in this field, Dr. Freeburg is on leave of absence from San Francisco to do research work on music for the Library of Congress.

Dr. Freeburg visited Syracuse last November as guest speaker at the New York State Music Teachers association annual conference.

Rehearsals Slated For 'Up in Lights'

The drama department has released the rehearsal schedule for "Up in Lights" for the week of March 23 to the 28.

Tuesday, specialities (will be called) from 3-5 p.m. prefab 8. Singers will meet from 7-10 p.m. at Yates hotel.

Wednesday, the entire cast will meet from 7-10 p.m. Yates hotel.

Thursday, "ballet" from 3-5 p.m. prefab 8a.

Friday, specialities (will be called) 3-5 p.m., prefab 8a.

Saturday, skits (will be called) 10-12 prefab 8a. The entire cast will meet from 2-5 p.m. at University college.

Sunday, full cast rehearsal, 2-5 p.m. Yates hotel.

If there is any doubt about rehearsal schedule or times, dancers are asked to call Parker Connors at 4-9756. Singers may call Al Gross at 4-8926.

Taft-Hartley Discussed at Convo

"Significant Trends under the Taft-Hartley Law" was the theme of the second annual Labor Law Conference Saturday, March 20.

The central New York conference is designed to present informative, up-to-date material on legal and other problems encountered in labor-management relations. This year's conference was devoted largely to problems of current interest and informative not only to attorneys engaged in general practice, but also to all representatives of labor and management.

AFTER REGISTRATION in the morning Dean Ralph E. Kharas of Syracuse University College of Law welcomed the participants.

Several different speeches were given during the morning. Robert F. Koretz, associate professor in the College of Law spoke on "Employer Free Speech Under Taft-Hartley Act." Then there were comments on his topic by Andrew Barta, professor of Industrial Management in the College of Business Administration, with questions from the audience.

At 1 p.m. a luncheon took place in Sims Dining Hall and a speech was given by Prof. Clyde W. Summers from the University of Buffalo Law School.

The afternoon session was rounded up with a talk by Helen

(See TAFT-HARTLEY, page 4)

JOSEPH E. LYNCH, attorney for Hancock, Dorr, Ryan & Shove in Syracuse explains to NICHOLAS FERRANTE and W. EDWARD THOMPSON of the AFL about the personnel policies and practices, preceding the second annual central New York Labor Law conference.

SYRACUSE DAILY ORANGE

THREE R'S OF A COLLEGE NEWSPAPER: RESPONSIVENESS, RESPONSIBILITY AND RESOURCEFULNESS

Page 2 Tuesday, March 23, 1954

Editor-in-chief ——— Arlene Lambert
Business Manager ——— Robert Goldstein

SENIOR EDITORIAL STAFF

Managing Editor ——— Arthur Siegel
Editorial Director ——— Hugh O. Muir
Executive Editor ——— Janet Core
Sports Editor ——— Kenneth Lent

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Edward Meyer, Joan Nadelhaft, Phyllis Sirota, Howard Vankirk, Mary Vivian

Issue Editor ——— Joan Nadelhaft

BUSINESS STAFF

Asst. Business Manager ——— Sheldon Lassen
Layout Manager ——— Judith Berman
Classified Manager ——— Jean Jacobs
Circulation Manager ——— Anita Freyberg
Promotion Manager ——— Lloyd Eisenberg

DAILY STAFF

News Editor ——— John Johnsrud
Night Editor ——— Roger J. Herz
Asst. Night Editor ——— Maria Heitz
Editorial Page Asst. ——— Grace Frary
Night Sports Editor ——— Don Henry

Published by the students of Syracuse University. Telephones: News, 75-5155, 75-5197; Editor, 76-1443; Business: 4-7205. Subscription by mail $6 per year, $3.50 per semester. Entered as second class mail matter at the Syracuse Post Office. Exclusive national advertising representatives National Advertising Inc., New York City.

Rushing made easy

A committee of Panhel has just come forth with some of the most sensible revisions for fall rushing that we've seen in years.

The individual houses voted on the sweeping proposals at their chapter meetings last night. Their answers will be reported to Panhel at tomorrow's meeting.

Many of the revisions are designed to aid the rushee and the smaller Greek sororities. However, all will benefit should the revisions be approved.

Three proposals will specifically help the rushees:

1. A list stating which houses can take sophomores, juniors and nurses. In past years many of the upperclassmen were confused and hurt by not knowing that certain houses were unable to fit upperclassmen into their quotas.

2. Earlier cutting by the houses. Some of the sororities made a practice of asking back a large number of girls for the sake of numbers only. This would result in many unbid rushees when the time came for those houses to make their final choice. This measure would also mean that smaller sororities would have a more equal opportunity in rushing.

3. The measures dealing with the city girls, if approved, would mean the end of the disadvantage they now face because some houses have a city-student quota. By having two city girl lists, these students would indeed be given a helpful boost.

The new cooperative list proposed by the Panhel committee would aid both the rushees and the houses. Should either want to pick up the name of a rushee or house that was previously dropped, they would then be given the opportunity to do so.

Some of the phrasing of these revisions may still need changes or further clarification. There will probably be much discussion on whether certain lists should be made public or kept with the advisor.

But the essence of the proposal should remain intact. The revisions are practical, equitable and necessary. We hope we will see these principles in operation next fall.

Editor-in-Chief

Today is D day

It's deadline day.

Petitions are due for candidacy for class offices and MSG and WSG assemblies.

The election fever is upon us and soon the convertible parades, colored posters and articulate voices will be sounding the political merits of Joe Smith, Tom Jones and the rest.

Student government can be an effective force to assist students in making a better University and consequently a better four year stay here.

But the other guy isn't going to do it all. Nor is the guy next to him.

If we leave it to the other guy, he's not going to be able to do his best job. He may get led astray—it happens—and make a big mess of the whole shebang.

That's when student government turns into a personality race, a scandal, court trials, injured pride, and ineffective government.

It has always been an honor and a serious duty to be elected to class office or to either of the student government assemblies.

Let's keep it that way.

Petitions are due today.

Managing Editor

CITY STUDENTS

'WE'RE NOT SO BAD AFTER ALL'

By EILEEN CHAMBERLAIN

"We're not so bad after all," said two city coeds who have good reason to know.

They receently compleeted a survey of city student participation in activities at Syracuse university and at a number of other colleges and universities in this country and Canada.

After sending questionnaires to campus activities as part of a TTK project and receiving answers from most of them, Genevieve Volotta and Marcia Frink, city students themselves, found that about 795 native Syracusans spend their spare time to the advantage of the University.

Most of 14 colleges and universities returning their questionnaires are much larger than Syracuse and use of statistics concerning city student participation on those campuses would value little in comparison. However, most report that a large proportion of city students participate in campus activities.

Two universities, Bradley (Peoria, Ill.) and Denever, report more than half of their student bodies are city or commuting students. They have therefore made no special provisions for those people.

After answers by 29 Syracuse campus activities, it was discovered that all but five had at least one city student. The five with no city student participation are the Syracusan, the Onondagan, chapel comptroller and the sophomore class executive council.

Of these people over 50 per cent are sorority or fraternity affiliates, according to the survey.

One important development in the survey came from the organizations themselves. Every activity indicated definite interest in including more city students as members of its group.

Since both coeds conducting the survey are city students, their main interest in this research was to find out what could be done to benefit city students here.

Activities participation is only a small portion of city student life. Marcia and Genevieve were also interested in university facilities for use between classes and meetings. Along this line they discovered a few existing facilities previously unknown to them and a good deal of unsatisified want in this realm.

They found "several libraries well equipped and comfortable for serious studying." Also discovered in their search was a somewhat forgotten lounge for women on the fourth floor of HL. However, their report states this is the only comfortable place to lounge with the exception of the city women's room in the Women's building.

This is quite an unfavorable comparison with many of the universities and colleges surveyed by the two TTKers. The assistant dean of women at Ohio State university reported, "The city students do not have a specific place on the campus which they may call their own." Yet these students are able to make extensive use of two large campus buildings which both contain cafeterias and lounges.

At the University of Nebraska, although they receive no special consideration, a large Student Union is open for their use. At Minnesota, a commuters' lunch room is provided and at the University of California in Berkeley, lounges in a student union are available in addition to a large cafeteria.

The city student aparently constitutes a problem at every college and university contacted, largely because this person requires attention of a different kind than that which is necessary for the resident student.

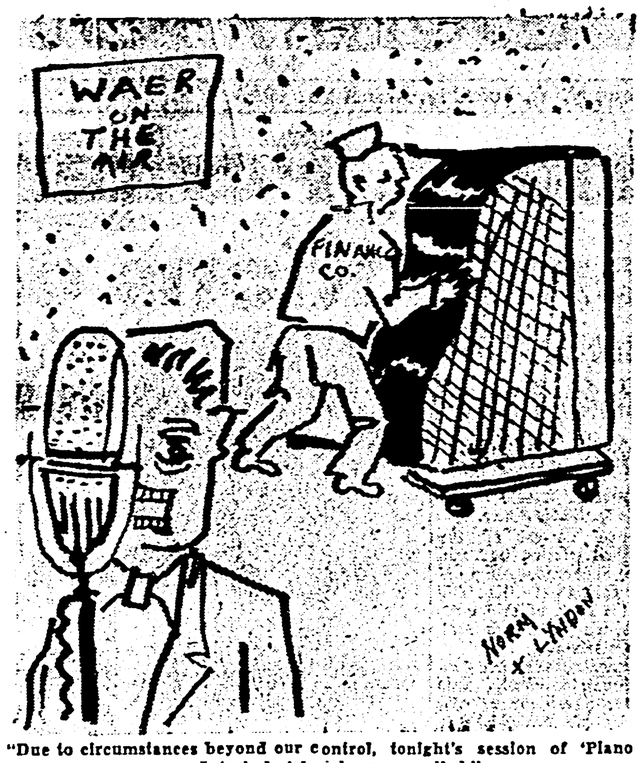
Officials at many universities agree that something must be done; most of them are unsure how to proceed. Of 14 officials who answered this survey, only one admits the appalling extent of the problem. Dean Elsbeth Melville at Boston university states, "This is a top priority problem with us and we are attacking it as you are (by survey)."

In the way of suggestion the two TTK inquiring reporters ask for some rennovation of existing city student facilities such as the lounge in HL and the Coke and Caper club. They also find that city students can best communicate the necessity for more and better facilities by using those which exist now.

In activities it is up to the city students to make contacts themselves. They state, "It is the apathy of the students themselves that is the strongest factor. One of the best ways to conquer this is to stress membership in the city organizations on this campus.

"The students who belong to one of these organizations find that they have many friends who have many things in common with them. They begin to see that they have a very definite place on campus and can enjoy carrying out the projects encouraged by these groups."

Nonentities by Norm



"Due to circumstances beyond our control, tonight's session of 'Piano Interludes' has been cancelled."

A Monopoly in Money

By ART SIEGEL
Managing Editor

Government monopoly in money was fiercely condemned last night in a wild howl by Prof. George P. Renalls, member of the College of Business Administration at Fling university. Renalls spoke to 500 plant science students gathered in the Lyman hall museum.

Renalls, in Syracuse on a tsetse fly hunt for the next two weeks, said that since the birth of us all, the government has had virtually exclusive rights so far as money is concerned. "The price of money is too high," he screamed.

"You at Syracuse can make dollars that will sell for 98 cents. But what's holding us back? I'll tell you what. A bunch of printers who refuse to let business do what it does. That's what!"

Meanwhile, the Treasury department announced that it is inquiring into Renall's activities. John P. Walrath, executive assistant to the Secretary of the Treasury, reported early today that the Justice department has been informed of Renall's speech.

Officialdom in Washington was completely silent today—all, that is, except President Eisenhower.

Standing stolidly on the White House balcony, the President said, "As you know, I am in favor of helping private business affairs: to wit, the cabinet is comprised of 10 businessmen.

"However," he said, "the government will not allow Syracuse university or any other institution to print money or to sell it cheaper than list."

Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R.-Wis.) called Renalls a Communist early in the morning.

The senator said that Renalls is no more fit—than Secretary Stevens."

"He is not fit to coin the money of the United States," McCarthy declared.

Edward R. Murrow, however, immediately retaliated and stated over a coast-to-coast color television hook-up, "He is too fit to coin the money of the United States. I can see it now."

Only a few minutes before this paper hit the streets, Prof. Renalls said that the Carrier corp. is in a position to convert to manufacturing money within a fortnight.

Chancellor William P Tolley of Syracuse university was unavailable, but an unnamed University official said this morning that if we (Syracuse) don't jump the gun, Cornell will be reaping profits from cheap money.

Prof. Sandler Macy of the psychology department reported that he was working on a new color for the dollar bills and a different color for each denominations.

"This will insure," he said, "that persons who can't read can still tell how much money they have."

Martin Rosworth, advertising instructor, said that he is beginning work on a new design for the money, and a University sculptor said that he is sculpting a new bust of Washington already—for the dollar bills.

Harry S. Truman, former president of the United States, was asked for comment on this matter this morning. He replied, "If McCarthy was assassinated, what would we do for entertainment?"

And in Pittsburgh, James Farley, touring the East, commented, "In spirit—nay, in fact—the Castle will never die."

BACK TO THE SALT MINES

Commandment That Says Nix?

By ROGER J. HERZ
Editorial Page Writer

Seems that no decision came out of the panel of Bermuda shorts last week. But here's a vote for the freedom to wear them.

Time was once that society was reactionary. People would stand outside on March 20 and organize and send spring back where it came from. Back in that day and age men wore tall stiff collars, parted their hair in the middle and opposed woman suffrage.

Women at that time were dressed so completely that at times it was difficult to locate the individual within the clothing.

But time marched on and it doesn't appear to be affected by anyone calling a "halt, one two."

This is the brave new world, a world where there is a wee bit of choice to be made. Making the choice can be very dangerous, we'll agree, but this is the disadvantage behind progress.

So if a gal or a guy wants to wear Bermuda shorts, what is there to stop him? Is there a commandment that says nix to the custom? Should there be one? We don't think so.

It would be our opinion that too often these dark and dangerous days do we insist that a painting of Abraham Lincoln must have a beard or that all sentences begin with a capital and end with a period.

One professor of industrial design on the Hill remarked a while ago that Americans like to differ, but not much. "They will paint the shutters on their Cape Cod houses in blue instead of green," he noted.

So, anyway, we think there ought to be fewer restrictions in the world, so recently invaded once more by spring, so that perhaps some small percentage of the race may crawl out of their shells for two or three minutes each day.

MEG HALE
IS Your PHOTO STUDIO
Not Only For Your PORTRAIT
BUT ALL THE ACTIVITIES
ON THE CAMPUS
See Our Window at the Varsity
601 Comstock Ave.
(Corner of Waverly)
For Appointment Call 75-5459

Test Tube Mysteries

"Always loved to probe the unknown, so my job as secretary to the head chemist is made for me.... Katie Gibbs has the happy knack of matching the girl and the job."

Every year hundreds of college women use Gibbs secretarial training to secure the right job and assure rapid promotion. Special Course for College Women. Write College Dean for "Gibbs Girls at Work."

KATHARINE GIBBS
SECRETARIAL

BOSTON 16, 90 Marlborough St. NEW YORK 17, 230 Park Ave. CHICAGO 11, 51 E. Schiller St. PROVIDENCE 6, 155 Angell St. MONTCLAIR, N. J., 33 Plymouth St.

HEARING AIDS

UNIVERSITY ASSISTANCE FOR BANDS

By DICK CASE
Editorial Page Writer

I read with considerable interest the recent articles which appeared on this page under the authorship of Miss Polly Reed concerning the assorted ills of the musical organizations on campus. This series pointed up a little theory which I've had all along that Syracuse takes its music pretty lightly. Perhaps, too lightly.

It would seem, upon reading Miss Reed's essays, that the main problem is a financial one . . . a lack of scholarship funds, and a lack of funds to operate musical organizations in a manner which the musicians would like to have them run. This may be. However, I would submit a slightly different aspect of the muddle.

Les Brown, the noted band leader and Bob Hope straight man, dropped a few highly interesting suggestions in a late issue of "Downbeat" magazine. Mr. Brown, pointing to his own experiences as an undergraduate at Duke university, related how the Duke Blue Devils, a student band of which he was leader, worked their way through college with assistance from the university itself.

The scheme worked something like this: the Blue Devils played at special concerts and during meals in the campus dining halls: in return the boys received their meals at the student union. On weekends, the band took commercial dates and thereby brought in cash for tuition and expenses. It was a sort of co-op group and, re: Mr. Brown, a very successful venture.

Now, the point in bringing up all these words by Les Brown, is to pose the simple question: Couldn't something in the line of a co-op band be nurtured at Syracuse?

I haven't any idea of how such a thing might be started but certainly if there were a small five piece group available to play at dining halls during the supper hour on a revolving basis and which would be on hand to perform at some of the smaller University functions, it would be a decided asset to our campus. This would be done, of course, for a small return to the participants such as meals or board or books, etc.

A co-op band might be an offshoot of the marching band or a separate organization obtained on, perhaps, a competitive basis. It would provide not only an opportunity for capable musicians to receive minor reward for their work but also offer campus organizations who are unable to afford even moderately-priced local bands, good "live" music. Maybe, such a band would be entirely financed by the University.

There may be those who would shout that a co-op band would not go at Syracuse or, even further, that it is not needed. I would argue with this last but I think the whole problem dissolves down to whether or not the University would be willing to enter such a plan.

Mr. Brown's idea is, however, a fine one.

In fact, Syracuse at present has a small scale venture of this type in Lanny O'Kun who plays each evening in Sims Hall for his supper. All we would have to do is add a bass, drums, trumpets, and so on, and we might have a co-op band. Right now, Lanny is doing a downright fine job as a one-man group.

So, we have heard the voice of the turtle. Perhaps, a co-op band will be an answer to some of our contemporary music problems. At any rate, nothing more substantial offers itself at the moment.

Consult us for eye care information

CARPENTER and HUGHES

Guild Opticians

State Tower Bldg.

Syracuse

74-4691

Special consideration given to students

Youngest of Three

By DIANA DAHLMAN

One of the clan.

Although Hugh Duffy Daugherty, onetime football star and coach of the Saltine Warriors, has left Syracuse for some years already, his recent appointment as head football coach at Michigan State was the cause of some pride on the part of his old Alma Mater. In fact he's been invited as speaker at the annual Block S dinner. And probably the proudest person here on the Hill was his mother, Mrs. Joseph Daugherty, who is now house mother at Alpha Delta Pi. From the days that Duffy first entered Syracuse, she has had many vivid memories of Syracuse, for although Duffy, the youngest of her three sons was the first to come here, it ended up as a family affair when another of her sons and also her daughter decided upon Syracuse as a place to continue their studies.

Mrs. Daugherty remembers the event of her first visit to the college. Duffy had been injured in a football game and it was first reported that her son was dead. Friends and neighbors had already begun to send their condolences to the family when it was discovered that actually he was suffering from a fractured vertebrae. It took her older son and her sister to bring her up here from Barnesboro, Pa., their hometown, to convince her that Duffy was actually all right.

When she arrived, she found Duffy feeling quite well and as full of enthusiasm for football as he had been when he had first arrived on a football scholarship. He was unable to play again that season, but the following year, he resumed his place on the team and went on to become the co-captain in his senior year. His mother said very few people realized the courage it took him to come back and play again after the accident.

Duffy, through his sucess in Syracuse, encouraged many other young people from his district to come to Syracuse and with them came his older brother Joe and his sister Jean. Joe studied in the college of Business Administration and Jean went into radio and television in the school of Journalism. When Jean had finished her studies, she became associated with WHEN-TV and remained in Syracuse.

When Mrs. Daugherty's husband died, she felt that perhaps it would be a good idea to come to Syracuse and live with her daughter, who was also alone. But after she arrived, she realized that she could never be completely happy unless she was doing something useful, so she applied for guidance work on the campus. It was then that she became house mother at Alpha Delta Pi and was the last of her family to come to Syracuse. Here, she feels she is really able to add something to the friendly spirit that is so prevalent on the campus and at the same time continue to be a mother to the girls in the house.

"Of course," she says, "I'm proud of my son Duffy, but I'm also proud of all my children. My goal posts in life were to have my children go to college and to have each of them take their place in the world as a useful individual. I think I've scored four touchdowns," she added proudly.

LETTERARY COMMENT

A Correct Impression

The Editor of The Daily Orange:

I'd like to correct an impression that may have been made by two letters recently.

Many of us in the Medical school like you on the Hill. We like The Daily Orange, and its support in opposing Uncle Carlson's "Guilt by association" fraternity banning edict. We appreciate the football games, the gym and the other benefits we have because you are willing to share them.

We shared the regret in seeing Yates go, though most of us have not been as closely attached to her as you have.

And a fair percentage of us appreciated your "fingernail clinic" humor.

Unfortunately, an incident like Yates can generate friction—first, when satirists hide unfriendly claws in humor (and I'm NOT sure that this is the case) and second, when a minority—or a majority, for that matter—gets hypersensitive to the satire.

In the interest of harmony (to be sugary about it) if nothing else, isn't it time to bury the hatchet in something other than each other's skulls?

Sincerely,
J. Walden Retan
(Editor's note: What hatchet?)

WILL YOU ACCEPT A Challenge?

To young men prepared to enter a life-time engineering career, Bell Aircraft Corporation offers a stimulating challenge in the science of flight.

Here at Bell, imaginative teamwork of our engineers has created many "firsts" including the first supersonic aircraft and the research X-1A, which only last December rocketed through the skies at more than 1600 miles an hour.

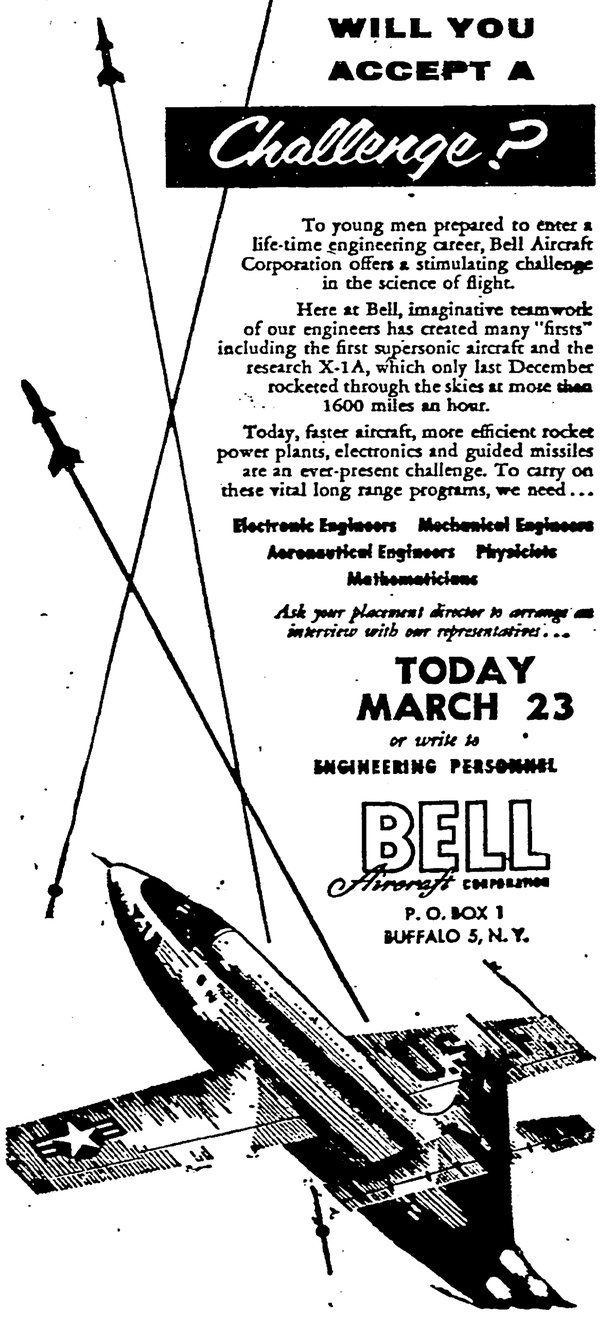
Today, faster aircraft, more efficient rocket power plants, electronics and guided missiles are an ever-present challenge. To carry on these vital long range programs, we need...

Electronic Engineers Mechanical Engineers
Aeronautical Engineers Physicists
Mathematicians

Ask your placement director to arrange an interview with our representatives...

TODAY MARCH 23
or write to
ENGINEERING PERSONNEL

BELL Aircraft CORPORATION
P. O. BOX 1
BUFFALO 5, N. Y.



Along the Sidelines

By KEN LENT, DAILY ORANGE SPORTS EDITOR

Perhaps it was ideal that a squad such as Iowa State was the first to arrive yesterday afternoon for the NCAA swimming extravaganza.

One of the 51 teams which will be straggling into Syracuse this week by car, train, plane and thumb, the Corn Staters (who boast four National records) are representative of the fine talent which will be on display this weekend.

State's coach Jack McGuire is a likeable, straight-forward individual who is duelly proud of his club's record. His teams have yet to lost a conference meet in the six years he has coached.

A member of the Big Seven, Iowa State had its league record almost broken this year when it was edged out by a top-notch Oklahoma club. The Sooners, however, were forced to forfeit when their South African star Graham Johnson was declared ineligible for scholastic reasons.

The event in which they will probably stand out the most will be the medley relay featuring Loran Braught, Mike LaMair and Jim McKevitt.

Backstroker Braught reminds you of a midget seatback on a team of football giants. Although small in size, he can deliver. Two years ago, he was high school backstroke champ.

LaMair holds the 20-yard-pool NCAA record for the breaststroke at 1:01 flat. McKevitt, who is only a sophomore, already holds two like national marks in the 100-yard freestyle and the individual medley.

The performances of these three gives you some idea of the type of competition which is expected starting Thursday night. Even with four NCAA records, (the medley relay holds one too) Iowa State is seeded no higher than fourth.

It might be explained that NCAA records are divided into three types according to the length of the pool in which they were made. There are 20-yard pools, where Iowa State's records were made, the short-course (25 yards) and the long-course (50 yards).

A champion, however, is a champion in any man's language.

* * * * *

ORANGE SLICES: The smart money is on Ohio State as the next NCAA swimming champions with Michigan as the runnerup . . . Kev Wilson and Doug Dodge are reported to be the only Orangemen entered . . . Roy Simmons, who coached Bruce Yancey in all three of his sports, was really enthusiastic about the popular senior winning the Athlete of the Year award . . . Last three-letter winner B.Y. (Before Yancey) was Tom Coulter who won his Block S in cross country, track and boxing . . . Frosh lacrossers have an attractive schedule set up including a tilt against the Hamiltpn College Varsity . . . Mike Trnka, Corky Sebbo and Fred Fournies will be going to the gymnastic NCAA's . . . Frosh grid coach Dick Beyer wrestles in the AAU meet on the West Coast . . . Eastern titlist Ed Rooney will also grapple there and in the NCAA meet in Chicago.

Buckeyes Boast Top Divers

By STAN ROSENFELD
Daily Orange Junior Editor

(This is the third in a series of articles which will preview the coming NCAA swimming championships to be held in the Orange pool, March 25-27. Today's article concerns the one and three meter diving events and the 220- and 440-yard freestyles.)

In a very few days, swim fans will have a great opportunity to see if Ohio State will be able to continue their dominance in the diving and freestyle events of the NCAA swimming championships.

Last year in the national championships which were held at Ohio State, the Buckeyes ran wild in the fancy diving events placing the first three positions in the one meter diving and one, two, six in the three meter contest. Of the divers who accomplished this feat, only one has graduated from the midwestern school.

JERRY HARRISON and Morley Shapiro form the backbone of State's squad. Harrison captured the one meter at the NCAA's last year and was second in the three meter affair. Shapiro was third and sixth in the events respectively.

Ohio State's swim coach, Mike Peppe is especially respected for his tutooring of diving. He has had frequent experience in teaching his specialty to Olympic teams.

For the simple reason that a Peppe-coached diver has got to be fairly good, the rest of the Ohio State diving squad has to be reckoned with. They consist of Vernon Kent, Frank Farenfelter and Fletcher Gilders.

Syracuse students will have an opportunity to see the Friday and Saturday morning sessions of the NCAA swimming championships free. The one and three meter diving preliminaries and 50-yd. freestyle trial heats will be run off at these times. This will be a golden opportunity to see the top divers and sprinters in the country and will be a first for most of us. On Thursday evening for a nominal charge of $.60, the finals of the 1500 meter freestyle can be seen. These are FINALS on a time basis on a 25 meter course.

A strong contender to break Ohio State dominance is a big rawboned lad from Yale, Kenneth Welsh. Welsh came up with wins in both diving events in the easterns conducted at Princeton this weekend.

First mention in the 220- and 440-yd. freestyle events must be given to Ford Konno of Ohio State. Konno is expected to crack national records in both events and only a technicality holds him back from world records. For a mark to be recognized as a world's record it must be competed in a 50-meter pool.

BILL YORZYK of Springfield college who also competes in the 1500 meter event is a strong competitor for the freestyle titles. Yorzyk came through with victories in the easterns and was a consistent winner for his championship New England team. Graham Johnston of Oklahoma was considered a prime contender until he was declared ineligible over the weekend. Johnston had finished third in last year's 440-yd. freestyle.

MORLEY SHAPIRO, Ohio State's top diving star, will be one of the favorites in both the one-meter and three-meter diving events to be held in the Orange pool March 25-27, as part of the NCAA swim

Runners Cop AAU Meet; Relay Team Edged Twice

The Syracuse track team proper won just about everything there was to win Saturday at Buffalo in the Niagara A.A.U. meet, while the four-man counterpart—the two-mile relay team—just about won their event at Cleveland and New York city.

In the Friday night race at Ohio, Coach Bob Grieve's half-miling quartet was nosed out for second place by its arch Eastern rival, Fordham, in the las 50 yards of the race.

JACK HUBBARD, Les Vielbig, Don Shupe and Steve Armstrong ran in that order for the Orange. Armstrong however, is suffering from a severely lacerated forehead, and was slowed down considerably.

Michigan won the race in 7:39. Saturday Fordham once again edged the Syracusans, this time to take first place.

The team proper won first place in every event but one in which it participated. In fact, each trackman placed in at least one event.

Ray Osterhout led the Hill winning parade with a first in the mile run and a second in the half-mile run. The gliding senior's time in the mile was 4:20.8.

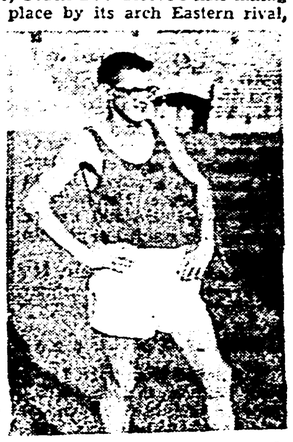
SOPHOMORE JIM George and freshman Bob Milner also placed in the mile. The former took third place and Milner followed him across the finish line.

Eddie Alger paced a quartet of Hillmen across the finish in the 880-yard run. Alger ran a 1:55.8 half, and was followed by Osterhout, Frank Calzi and George.

Another event which the Orange monopolized was the 440-yard dash. Freshman quarter-miler Art Ritchie broke the tape in 51.4 seconds and was followed by Roger Gilbert and Bob Pugsley.

Ritchie, Gilbert, Dick Day and Al Rowe pooled talents in the mile relay. The four first-year men made up for the lack of a varsity entry by coming in first.

Day and Rowe placed third and fourth respectively in the 220-yard dash and junior Chuck McGlynn completed the Orange romp with a blue ribbon in the 70-yard low hurdles.



SENIOR RAY OSTERHOUT led the Orange tracksters to a team victory in the Niagara AAU meet Saturday with a first in the mile and a second in the half-mile runs.

Photo by Ozzie Keuker

Senior Hill Oarsmen Take First Place In Class Day Race

The senior oarsmen of the Orange crew team won the annual Class Day race on Onondaga Lake Saturday by 3½ lengths. The seniors thus repeated their victory of last year, when as juniors they flashed across the line first.

The juniors came in second Saturday and the sophs finished third. It was the first day on the water for Coach Gus Erikson's crewmen. They had been working out since the end of January on the indoor tank however.

The winning boat was manned by the following: Jerry Glasser, stroke; Dick Revelle, at No. 7; Capt. Bob Curran, 6; Roger Parfitt, 5; Hank Einhorn, 4; Dick Slingeland, 3; Bob Hick, 2; and Roger Craig at bow. Jack Cooper was coxwain in the "old men's" boat.

This year promises to be a much improved year for the Orange crew teams. The reason is simply that the boys will be rowing the same style. When Erikson took over the coaching chores along with frosh coach Victor (Mike) Michalson, he brought along with him a different style of rowing than had been taught here.

However, the last of the oarsmen who had not been taught by Erikson and Michalson graduated last year, and the crew promises to be better coordinated this year because of that.

FROSH LACROSSE

All freshmen interested in trying out for the yearling lacrosse team report to Al Zak at 3:30 p.m. today in the Archbold gymnasium locker room. Candidates should wear old clothes. Sticks will be issued, according to John Echeandia, freshman lacrosse coach.

USP Nominees . . .

(Continued from page 1)

garet Churchill, Tri-Delt and Arthur Browner.

Following sophomore nominations Alpha Xi Delta, represented by Eugenia Haaf, left the party. Loss of this house leaves USP with a total membership of 24 houses. The party campaign manager, Barbara Faust, is also a member of Alpha Xi, but The Daily Orange was unable to find out yesterday if she will continue in this capacity.

MSG nominations were the last order of business at Sunday's conclave. Campaigning is scheduled to begin Tuesday, March 30.

SAM Garners Intra Volleyball Flight Crown With Double Win

Sigma Alpha Nu's intramural volleyball team twice defeated Alpha Chi Rho last night, 15-7 and 16-14 to win first place in Flight 3 of the volleyball loop.

The Sammies and Chi Rhos were the first of the five flight finalists to complete their regular season matches. The rest of the games are scheduled for this week.

The once-beaten SAM team found an easy time of it in the first match as they racked up an 8-point win. This was the first defeat for A Chi Rho and the two then had to play a rubber match under the double-elimination rules by which the league is governed.

It looked like the Chi Rhos had it wrapped up when they worked their way to a 14-5 lead. They lost the services on the attempt for the winning point however, and that was the break of the match.

SAM came up with their top server, and proceeded to garner 11 consecutive points to gain the flight crown.

BLOCK S TICKETS

All varsity athletes must secure their free Block S tickets this week at Mr. Decker's office in Archbold gym. Each athlete must pick up his own ticket.

Hill Swimmers, Lesko, Downing Fail to Place in Eastern Finals

Bob Downing and Ed Lesko found the competition a little too keen at the Eastern championships held at Princeton last weekend. Best the Piety mermen could do was Downing's 7th in the 100-yard backstroke.

For both boys, this meet was their last as members of the Syracuse university swimming team since both are seniors and have not been entered in the NCAA's.

Lesko was entered in the 100- and 200-yard breaststroke races and placed 9th in both events. Harvard's Australian-born star, Dave Hawkins, was one of six double winners in the Easterns as he captured the two breaststroke events.

Downing was entered in the 100 and 200-yard backstroke races and also the individual medley. Besides his 7th in the 100-yard, he placed 8th in the individual and 9th in the 200-back.

The personal dual between Ed Downing and Howie Moskoff of Colgate did not materialize since the Maroon swimmer was confined to the Princeton infirmary with a severe cold. Moskoff was the only swimmer to defeat Downing during the dual meet season.

The two Orange swimmers were the most consistent point-getters of Coach Ted Webster's team this year. Both were versatile swimmers.

WAA Hoopsters Clash for Trophy

Freshman dorm basketball squads from Walker and Sims III will clash at 8:30 tonight in the Women's building for the freshman basketball cup offered by WAA. Walker suffered a setback last week when team captain Barbara Traynor broke a finger in a practice session. The team holds a 4-1 record. Sims III, led by top freshman scorer Libby Harner, is undefeated.

In a quarter-final upperclass contest at 7:15 tonight, Gamma Phi Beta will meet Delta Gamma. The winners will play Theta Phi Alpha Thursday night. Another Thursday night contest will pit Peck II against Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Bowling quartets from Smalley, Kappa Delta and Delta Gamma will roll games this afternoon to determine which house will enter finals to be held Thursday afternoon. One team will vie with finalists Alpha Xi Delta, Charles and Alpha Gamma Delta.

NOTE ON CRADDOCK

Former Syracuse pitcher Walt Craddock will be hurling for Ottawa in the International league this year. Craddock, who graduated last year, was an outstanding hurler for Coach Ted Kleinhans' baseball nine.

FROSH BASEBALL

There will be practice at 3 p.m. today in the Old gym in Archbold for pitchers and catchers trying out for the freshman baseball team. Gloves and sneakers are required at this session, according to Coach Andy Mogish.

GOLF CANDIDATES

There will be a meeting of all candidates for the golf team at the Delta Kappa Epsilon house this Wednesday starting at 7:30 p.m.

LUND'S FOR FORMAL RENTAL SERVICE
738 So. Crouse Ave.
75-1459

Far Away Places—Stay at Home Prices
EUROPE 1954
All Expense—Budget Wise Tours
Prices From $798.00 Include Operas and Theaters
Student Tours
THE GRAND TOUR WITH SCANDINAVIA AND VIENNA
To: Miss M. W. McKay
11 W. 42nd St., New York 36, N.Y.
Please send me free catalogue
☐ THE GRAND TOUR
☐ STUDENT TOURS
☐ GENERAL TOURS
Name _____
Address _____
City _____ State _____

"YOUR CLASS RING"

The Ever Popular New Design
'Syracuse Ring Is Here For YOU
• also •
We Have The Ring With Your College
And Degree If You Care For It
BEFORE YOU BUY, COME TO US!
The Corner Store
SINCE 1908

Europe in 1954
Outstanding 47 to 49 day personally escorted Eight Country Tourist and Cabin Class Tours. ALL EXPENSES, only $1295 up—Finest All First Class LUXURY TOURS, 47 to 70 days $1875 up. Frequent sailings Mar. thru Sept. in QUEEN ELIZABETH or MARY. Small parties. Don't delay! Write now for free booklets, or phone
DUFFY TRAVEL SERVICE
Hotel Onondaga

Complete Optical Service
Optometric Eye Examinations
Glasses in Latest Styles
Broken Lenses and Frames Replaced Promptly
Lindemer
for glasses
Optometrists Opticians
440 SOUTH WARREN ST
Phone 74-4244

IT'S ALL A MATTER OF TASTE

COPR., THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY

LUCKIES TASTE BETTER CLEANER, FRESHER, SMOOTHER!

TICKETS NOW ON SALE AT THE DRAMA BLDG.
All Seats Reserved

HELD OVER—6th WEEK!!
LYSISTRATA

PERFORMANCES
FRIDAY
SATURDAY
8:15 P.M.

Sororities Revise Rushing Program

By POLLY REED
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Four major changes in the women's rushing system were voted on in sorority chapter meetings last night.

The revised rushing system and other constitutional changes were brought up at the Panhellenic representatives meeting last week. They included a system by which a girl may pick up a house previously cut or vice versa, separate final lists for city girls, an earlier and stricter cutting system and a list of individual house quotas.

The changes include:

1. A new cooperative list whereby a girl dropped a house and later felt she would like to rush the house again could place her name on a private list in the Panhel office. The sorority would be notified and decide whether they wanted to pick up the girl again or not.

This also works inversely. If a house drops a girl and reconsiders, the house can place its name on a list and the girl will be notified that a particular house wishes to rush her again. It is up to her whether or not she goes back to the house.

2. Separate final lists for city girls. As the system stands now, there is one first list and one second list, with the city girls on both. The new system would leave it up to the individual house whether they they wanted four lists or not. There would be a first and second campus girl list, and a first and second city girl list.

THE COMBINATION of city and campus first lists would make up the maximum number of pledges a house could take. If a city girl did not have the house down as her first choice, then the second list city girls would be put in her place. When the first and second city list girls were placed on the sorority's pledge list, if there were still room, the second list campus girls would be placed on the pledge list.

3. An earlier and stricter cutting system. A minimum of seven times and a maximum of eight times the number of girls which a house can pledge would be asked back to the costume party.

Last fall's system of cutting to three times the number of pledge quota with a leeway of five extra girls after the costume party would be continued. Thus, eight times the number of possible pledges would be invited to the costume party, and three times the number of possible pledges to the formal party.

4. A list of individual house quotas, including quotas on sophomores, juniors and nurses. The number of these girls which each house could take would be posted in the Panhel office or with the rushing advisors.

The question of wearing sorority pins during the fall semester, including the rushing season, was discussed. A straw vote was taken among the reps and all were in favor of wearing pins except when in an advising capacity, such as guide, chum or goon.

Independence . . .

(Continued from page 1)

line for petitions is 5 p.m. today.

Independence has all its sophomore MSG independent rep spots filled. They include Francis Procopio, John Yancey, Phillip Sperry, George Allen, and William Murrey.

The party will consider any other MSG rep classifications.

Running in the sophomore fraternity division are David Rogers and Melvin Scott. John Emmons will be vieing for sophomore city spot.

In the junior independent category, Independence has three candidates. They include George Hiteman, Oak McEachren, and Gene Romeo.

Taft-Hartley . . .

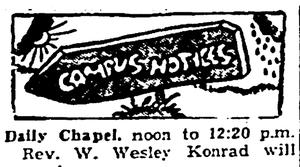
(Continued from page 1)

F. Humphrey, who is an attorney in Washington, D.C. and is also chairman of the National Enforcement Commission on the Wage Stabilization board.

HER TOPIC was "The Government at the Bargaining Table," asking "has the American National Insurance Company Case Liberated the Parties from the National Labor Relations Board?"

Later there were comments by Isadore Greenberg, who is an attorney for the CIO unions in Syracuse.

The conference was arranged by the Adult Education Division of University College.



Daily Chapel, noon to 12:20 p.m. Rev. W. Wesley Konrad will speak.

Anyone interested in modeling or working on the UJA fashion show from 2-5 p.m. Sunday, see Mrs. Rothman in the Chapel board room or call 76-5571, ext. 496.

All those interested in working on a committee for the Friday night Sadie Hawkins dance should attend a meeting at 4:45 p.m., room 305, Women's biulding.

JSF executive council meeting, 8 p.m., Chapel board room.

MSG assembly meeting, 7:30 p.m., 204 HL.

WSG student welfare panel, 7:30 p.m., 209 Women's building.

Student Activities committee, 4:45 p.m., 305 Women's building.

Alpha Phi Omega, 7:30 p.m., fourth floor, Lyman hall, brothers and pledges, movies will be shown.

The following people are assigned to work at The Daily Orange today: afternoon: Tom Long, Joy Dahlman, Brenda Morris, Joan Yunker, Helene Bloom, Diana Dahlman, Brenda Morris, Joan Connogs, Pearl Bernstein; night: Liz Goddard, Jack Reilly, George Meek, Ruth Anderson, Richard Walrath, Mollie Glaser, Lynn Teschmacher, Joy Yunker.

WSG Ways and Means panel, 7 p.m., 101 HL.

Lending Library . . .

(Continued from page 1)

tributed a collection of books primarily concerned with extra-Syracuse. This includes particularly information on the thousands of scholarship and philanthropic agencies which give out scholarships to higher educational institution. This is currently being compiled under the direction of Lucile Allen and includes application blanks and brochures of all the agencies offering scholarships.

The women's professional physical education library is located here but is not open except to students with permission of Grace M. Rockwood of the physical education department.

Anyone wishing to work on the library, should leave their name with Mrs. Margaret Bonistele at the information desk in the Women's building. Carr or Miss Bushnell will contact them.

Blood Donations Begin Tomorrow

This semester's all-campus Red Cross blood drive will be held at 10 a.m.-4 p.m. tomorrow and Thursday in the Men's gym. Students in the School of Forestry have been requested to donate on Friday, March 26.

According to Mary Flavin, chairman of the drive, the Syracuse university quota has been set at 500 pints. All are urged to give and students who have not filled out applications will be accepted if they report to the gym on either day.

THIS YEAR for the first time, donors may receive dual credit for their contribution. ROTC men who donate will be credited in the corps as well as in their fraternity or living center. The same holds true for forestry students.

Members of Angels' Flight, women's AFROTC organization, and Phi Epsilon Kappa, men's physical education honorary, have been aiding Red Cross workers in their drive.

Students under 21 years of age must present written proof of parent or guardian's consent before they will be allowed to donate. Donors will be tested to determine if they are capable of giving.

Those contributing blood are warned against eating heavily before donating. Fats are particularly detrimental and no one will be allowed to give who has eaten fats within four hours of the contribution.

FRIED FOODS, butter, fat meats, mayonnaise and other salad dressing are not to be eaten on the day of contribution.

Food containing milk, cream or fatty substances are also not recommended.

Fruits and fruit juices, lean meats, and vegetables are fully acceptable. Coffee or tea without cream and salads without dressing may be used without preventing the donor from giving.

Students wishing additional information should call Miss Flavin at 75-3341.

Meeting Planned By Outing Group

A general meeting of the Outing club will be held at 7 p.m. today on the fourth floor of Lyman.

The program for the meeting will include slides and demonstrations on canoeing techniques. The speakers will be Phillip Hamelten and Donald Moore, club members.

Following the meeting there will be a discussion of coming trips, spring activities and plans for the trip to be made over Easter vacation. Refreshments will be served.

THETA CHI

The Theta Chi fraternity will be hosts to the annual "Regional Roundup" for members of Theta Chi chapters from New York state

The weekend will consist o panel discussions on house finances, alumni relations, pledging and public relations.

A banquet at Drumlins Country club featuring Dean Charles Nobie as guest speaker will be followed by dancing.

REGENT
SUN.—TUES.
In CinemaScope
"THE COMMAND"
Guy Madison
James Whitmore
Color by Technicolor

Puerto Rico . . .

(Continued from page 1)

ished because tropical soil is undernourished, contrary to popular myth," said Prof. James.

Therefore one of the basic problems was providing food and reeducating the population to eat dairy foods to supplement their diet of corn and beans.

In 1949, Dr. James pointed out, there were 100,000 "hopeless illiterate, poverty striken undernourished squattors in the island." Since then, through enforcement of the 1917 law, the government has acquired over 100,000 acres and is in the process of acquiring the rest. The sugar companies now buy the cane, refine it and ship it.

A Land Authority operated the acreage on a proportional profit basis, with workers being paid in accordance with the amount of work done. This, said Dr. James, is a form of collectivism operated on the profit system.

OTHER improvements include social security benefits, credit and market facilities and new industries to supplement the agricultural program.

In 1952 Congress made Puerto Rico a commonwealth, freely associated with the United States. "The lunatic fringe which shoots at Congressmen and presidents once in a while, is small," said Prof. James. Most of the people do not want independence.

Problems, such as the exceedingly high birth rate, must still be resolved, but today the people are happy and excited, with faith in themselves, Prof. James concluded.

NOW at Schine's PARAMOUNT
STARTS TODAY
"MA AND PA KETTLE BACK HOME"
MARJORIE MAIN
PERCY KILBRIDE
also
In Technicolor
"STAY CLEAR of DIABLO"
Dan Duryea Audie Murphy

Schine Eckel Now
SILVANA MANGANO
IS BACK... IN HER NEW AMERICAN LANGUAGE HIT!

Now MIDTOWN Open 6:30 P.M.

You will never forget these three girls
and their
"Three FORBIDDEN Stories"
TREATED WITH ADULT FRANKNESS!
ADULTS ONLY

Borgese Will Plan European Travels

Students interested in European travel will be glad to learn that a representative from the "Experiment in International Living" program will be on campus this Thursday.

The representative, Henry Borgese, a 1950 Syracuse graduate, will show movies of Europe from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Thursday in the Alumni room of the Women's building. Borgese has been to Europe four times and will outline the travel program.

The non-profit organization offers low priced trips to students between 18-30 years of age. More than 7,000 college students have already taken advantage of the plan.

Those going on the trips will live with families in the country of their choice for four weeks. The other four to six weeks will be spent traveling in other European countries.

This system offers the student a chance to get to know the people of one country well and also to get a general idea of how Europeans live.

If the student elects to live in England the cost will be $695. The price is $725 for Austria and $755 for France. A limited number of $100 grants are offered by the organization to worthy applicants.

Academic credit can be gained for the trip. The boat will sail between June 15 and July 4. More information will be available at the meeting.

WAER 640 PROGRAM SCHEDULE

TUESDAY
2:58—Sign On
3:00—WAER News
3:05—Symphonic Matinee
4:00—Musical Heritage
5:00—This I Believe
5:05—Distaff Digest
5:15—Dinner Date
6:15—WAER News
6:25—Evening Showcase
6:35—WAER Sports Lineup
6:45—Steps to Peace
7:00—Keyboard Concert
7:30—Poet and His Song
7:45—Torchbearers
8:00—Evening With Music
9:00—WAER News
9:05—Voices in the Night
9:30—Night at the Pops
10:00—Final Edition—News
10:10—Final Edition—Sports
10:20—Sign-off

RKO KEITH'S
SYRACUSE, N. Y. — TEL. 2-1307
Box Office open 10 A.M. to 9:30 P.M.
TONIGHT 8:30
Wednesday Matinee 2:30
Evening 8:30
ON STAGE! IN PERSON!
GUYS and DOLLS
NEW YORK CAST-INTACT!
ALL SEATS RESERVED
PRICES — EVES.: Orch., $3.60, $3.00; Loges, $4.00; Boxes, $4.20; Balcony, $2.40; WED. MAT.: Orch., $2.40, $2.00; Loges, $2.60; Boxes, $3.00; Balcony, $2.00; $2.50, $1.80, $1.20. (Tax Incl.)
Mail Orders Filled Promptly
Please Enclose Self Addressed, Stamped Envelope.
Tickets Now On Sale at Box Office

CLASSIFIED

IMPORTANT NOTICE—CLASSIFIED ADS to appear in this paper should be DELIVERED at the HELLBOX Classified desk between 1 and 3 p. m. NO ADS WILL BE ACCEPTED AFTER 3. ALL ADS MUST BE IN 2 DAYS IN ADVANCE. For further information call 4-7206.

ALL LOST ARTICLES should be turned into the CENTRAL LOST AND FOUND ROOM, 20 Bldg. 24 at 205 University Pl. Articles can be claimed there.

AUTO-DRIVING

AUTO DRIVING INSTRUCTION. Learn to drive easily, correctly and safely. Call Upstate Auto Driving School. Phone 8-4040.

LEARNING TO DRIVE? Learn quickly, easily, scientifically. 17 years experience. Car furnished. SULLIVANS DRIVING School Inc. 73-3451.

RENTALS

TYPEWRITERS RENTED: $3.00 per month, $8 3 months. Good selection. We deliver, Smith Brothers. 4-8833.

Typewriters rentals—New Models Reasonable Rates—Expert Service, All Makes—CORNER STORE.

TYPING

EXPERT TYPING, thesis and term papers, reports. Mel Sherman 76-0612.

EXPERT typing done at home, 72-0716.

THESES typed, 18 cents page. Accurately and neatly, 15 years experience. 92-0913.

FOR SALE

Dazor desk lamp almost new. Cost $35. Price $20. 75-1831.

LUCKY YOU: New Tape recorder in factory carton. Any fair offer. Unlucky me. 4-7960.

1949 DELUXE Styline Chevrolet, 4-door with air condition, radio, new tires, new rings, new paint. $595. 92-0913 after 6 p.m.

CHURCH SERVICE

TEMPLE ADATH YESHURUN. Corner Harrison and South Crouse Ave. Week day services 7:30 a.m.

FOR RENT

3 ROOM unfurnished apartment, heated, private bath with shower. 116 Standart St.

CLOSE TO CAMPUS: Modern 3 bed upper flat, fire place, venetian blinds, shower and gas heat. Adults only. About May 1. Phone 4-8554.

MISCELLANEOUS

ALTERATIONS DONE WITHIN A DAY: 4-5847. 5 minutes from campus. Lillian Potter, 207 Comstock Ave.

Today's Crossword Puzzle

By EUGENE MALESKA

ACROSS
1 Beige
5 Flora and ——
10 Holes
18 Killed
19 Mme. Gluck and others
20 Water between Greece and Turkey
22 Word used by magicians
24 Novel by Percival Wren
25 Unobservant chaperon
26 Coin of Italy
27 World War II theater
28 Borer
29 Girl's nickname
30 "Kind Sir" playwright
33 Presently
34 Wages, in New Zealand
35 Ordained minister
37 Mae West role
39 Grandee
43 Sheds
46 Supreme Court Justice from Alabama
50 Famed violin-maker
51 Duck
53 Left
54 Composer Copland
55 Lucifer
56 Stole in 58 Magsaysay
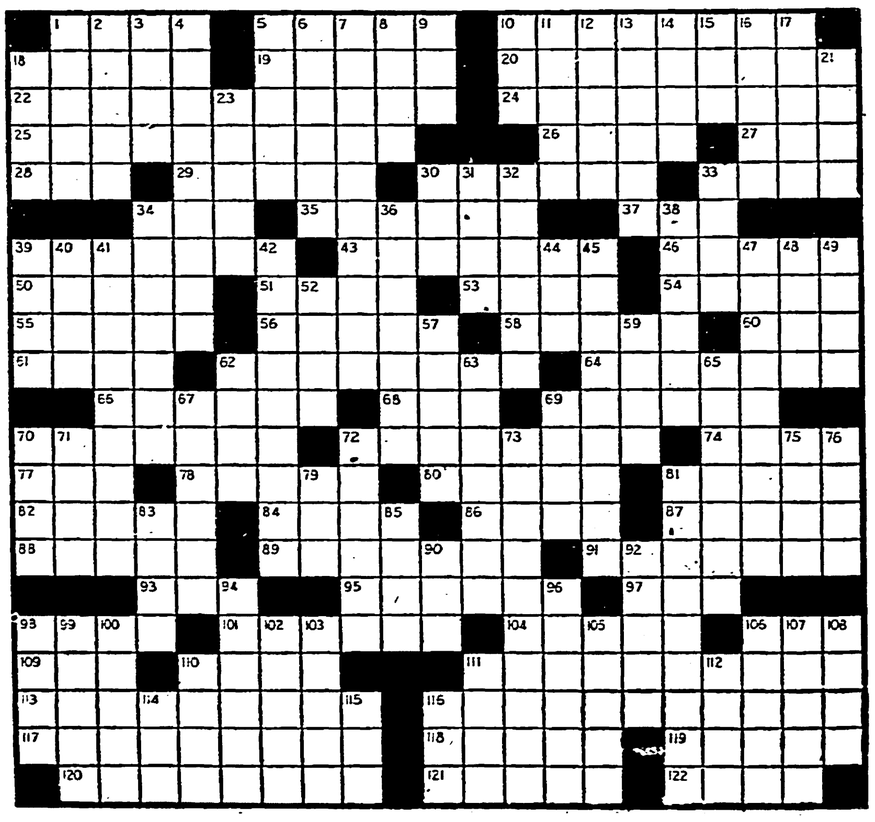
60 Fan's Jis-approval
61 Check
62 Decorates again
64 Poetess Lowell was one
66 Earns
68 Greek letter
69 Sir Bors
70 Make
72 Traitor
74 Native of Mecca
77 Poetic contraction
78 Canary's cousin
80 What "curfew tolls"
81 River in Kenya
82 Concerning
84 South African fox
86 Walking stick
87 Water animal
88 "R" in R.A.F.
89 Hone
91 Camp-followers selling provisions
93 Things: Law
95 Highest kind of knowledge: Plato
97 King Arthur's seneschal
98 Fat stuff
101 Lightest
104 Taj ——
106 Presidential nickname
109 Indian of Oklahoma
110 Mud
111 Fawning for food or favors
113 Ferocious
116 Regions of conflict: 2 wds.
117 Tickle
118 Ward off
119 Growing out
120 Taxed
121 —— and Persians
122 Part

DOWN
1 Sharp angle
2 "Adeste Fideles" is one
3 Creeks
4 Vacillating
5 Grows dim
6 Conqueror of Rome
7 Sheltered
8 Not one: Dial.
9 King of Judah
10 Engineer's shelter
11 Staggers
12 Afresh
13 Of nerves
14 City in Philippines
15 Chemical suffix
16 City in Germany
17 Bout
18 Tale
21 Long time
23 Concerning
30 Suez isthmus
31 Wagnerian "cycle"
32 Thespians
33 Actress Nazimova
34 Wild
36 Traps for certain fish
38 A language of Luzon
39 Group
40 Amo, amas, ——
41 The "take": 2 wds.
42 Appendant items
44 Actress Munson
45 Florida Indians
47 Act as judge
48 Doves' cries
49 Clove hitch
52 Epochs
57 College sport
59 Leave out
62 Playwright, college or food
63 Delicate gradations
65 Frightful
67 Steal cattle
69 Oven
70 Bartlett
71 Nevada city
72 Demented
73 Revived
75 Assert
76 Lancelot's nephew
79 —— Kabibble
81 Adding machine
83 Ointment
85 God of love
90 Fondle
92 Decree
94 Slops over
96 Existentialist author
98 Tennis star of '32
99 Roman rooms
100 Utter defcats
102 Regions
103 Festina —— (make haste slowly)
105 Stops
106 Welland or Suez
107 Sharp crest
108 Verb form
110 West Point mascot
111 Macadamize
112 "——Bungay": H. G. Wells
114 —— Alpine Gaul
115 Man's nickname
116 Cheat: Slang



Your Wings are your Passport

wherever you go...

Your Air Force wings are your personal passport to universal respect and admiration. They're a sign—recognized everywhere—that mark you as one of America's finest.

To wear them, you must win them . . . as an Aviation Cadet. They come with the gold bars of an Air Force Lieutenant and earnings of over $5,000 a year! They come complete with the admiration of a grateful Nation.

If you're single, between 19 and 26½, prepare to win this passport to success. Join the Aviation Cadets! For further information, fill out this coupon today.

UNITED STATES AIR FORCE

CN1
AVIATION CADET, AFPTR-P-4
Headquarters, U.S.A.F.
Washington 25, D.C.
Please send me information on my opportunities as an Air Force Pilot.
Name.....
Address.....
City..... State.....

On the Inside
"Letterary Comment" from the School of Music. See page 2.

Syracuse Daily Orange

Weather Report
FAIR WITH LITTLE CHANGE
High temperature ----45
Low temperature ----30

Vol. 51, Vol. 96 | Syracuse, N. Y., Wednesday, March 24, 1954 | 4 Pages—5 Cents

Campus Scholars Prep

THE FOUR students seated in front of the microphones will be Syracuse's entry in the National Broadcasting company's "College Quiz Bowl" radio program tomorrow. Vying will be seniors JOHN BEACH, JANE BAUER, JANET CARO and RAYMOND GUENTER. Standing behind the Hill hopes are Prof. EDWARD C. JONES, producer of the Syracuse portion for WSYR and the radio-television center, and Dr. EDWIN CADY of the English department, who picked and coached the four students.

FIVE-TIME WINNERS, the Washington and Lee team is shown at last week's broadcast in which it defeated Pitt. FREDERICK LACKMAN, ROBERT PAXTON, HAROLD QUINN and HAROLD TURNER have already run up $2,500 in prize money with their knowledge.

Blood Drive to Start at 10 Today; 500 Pint Goal Set for University

Five hundred pints of blood is the Syracuse univesity quota in the all campus Red Cross blood drive being held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. today and tomorrow in the Men's gym.

Students who have not filled out applications, but who wish to donate blood will be accepted if they report to the gym on one of the days. School of Forestry members are requested to donate on Friday, March 26.

ACCORDING TO Mary Flavin, chairman of the drive on campus, the Red Cross counts heavily on Hill donations. All students who are physically able to donate are urged to do so.

Donors under 21 years of age must show written consent of parent or guardian.

Students desiring dual credit for the donation will be able to receive it for the first time this semester. Fraternity and ROTC credit will be given and also extra recognition for donors enrolled in the forestry school.

Red Cross officials warn students against eating any fatty foods on the day of donation. No one will be allowed to contribute who has taken fats with four hours of the donation.

FRIED FOODS, butter, mayonnaise, food containing milk and pastries should not be used by the donor. Large meals directly prior to the contribution also are not recommended.

Fruits and fruit juices, lean meats, and vegetables are acceptable. Cream should not be used in coffee or tea before the donation.

Working with Red Cross members on the drive have been Angels' Flight, women's AFROTC society, and Phi Epsilon Kappa, men's physical education honorary.

Eta Pi, WSG to Announce Spring Election Nominees

Coed campus guides, city and foreign student guides will be announced at the joint Eta Pi Upsilon-women's student government convocation, scheduled for 8:30 tonight in Hendricks chapel.

Chaired by Eta Pi president, Judy Perry, the convocation is held to present all candidates for offices in connection with WSG. The offices will be filled when campus coeds vote in spring elections, Wednesday, April 7.

CANDIDATES for guide chairmanships, Spring Weekend queen and president of City Women's club will also be announced tonight. Recent Eta Pi Upsilon pledges will be introduced to the campus at this time also.

At the convocation Spring Weekend themes and agenda will be revealed to the general student body for the first time. Students attending the convo will have an opportunity to sign up for work on the weekend committees, chairmen of which are members of the senior honoraries, Tau Theta Upsilon, Phi Kappa Alpha and Eta Pi Upsilon.

Barbara Healey, alumna of Eta Pi, will present a brief history of past Spring Weekends at the convo, and John Beach and Lawrence O'Sullivan, presidents of the senior men's honoraries, will be introduced.

Those candidates for WSG offices which will be announced are president, civil service chief, speaker of the assembly and junior officers.

Four Houses Win Sing Preliminaries

Ten Groups Scheduled For Today's Contest

Delta Delta Delta, Phi Mu, Winchell Waitresses and Philips Cottage were the winners in last night's step singing contest.

In the first flight of the small houses, Winchell Waitresses sang "Black is the Color of My True Love's Hair" a Kentucky folk song arranged by John Niles as their chosen song. They defeated the Sophomore Nursing class who sang "British Children's Prayer" by Jacques Wolfe, and Charles Cottage's "Follow Me Down to Carlow" a Scottish folk song arranged by Leslie Bell. Barbara Peck, the song leader of the Winchell Waitresses received special commendation for her directing.

IN THE SECOND flight, Phillips cottage singing "Give Me Your Tired, Your Poor" by Irving Berlin won by default.

"How Blest Are They" by Tschaikovsky was the number chosen by Delta Delta Delta which won over Kappa Alpha Theta's "In a Monastary Garden" by Albert W. Ketelbey. Phi Mu's "God Speaks to Me" by Glad Robinson Youse defeated Alpha Delta Pi's "The Holy City" by Stephen Addams.

Sigma Alpha Iota women's professional music honorary opened the contest and Anne Forrest, contest chairman, gave the welcome. Miss Forrest pointed out how much the contest had grown starting in 1926 with five houses. This year nearly 50 houses are entered in the competition.

Judges for the contest were Miss Elizabeth Mann, teacher in the Syracuse schools and a former member of Sigma Alpha Iota, Mrs. Lillian Cox, a faculty member of the school of music, and Dr. Irving Cheyette, a dual professor in the schools of music and education.

THE SECOND of the preliminary sings will be held at 7 p.m. today in the chapel. The following houses are scheduled to sing. In the small house division are Blackwell, Sperry, Peck II and Butler.

Kappa Delta, Alpha Omicron Pi, Alpha Xi Delta, Alpha Chi Omega, Alpha Epsilon Phi and Kappa Kappa Gamma will sing in the large house division.

Winners in each flight will be allowed 11 more hours of practice before the quarter finals scheduled tentatively for April 6 and 7. The finals in the contest will be one of the featured events of Spring Weekend where the successful houses in the large and small groups will be awarded a cup by Eta Pi Upsilon, senior women's honorary.

Parking Decisions May Set Precedent

MSG Rulings Affect Future Court Cases

By ED HARDY
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Parts of three decisions issued by men's student court in parking sticker cases last week are expected to establish precedent for future cases.

Once again the tribunal reiterated a past stand that participation in extra-curricular activities is no basis for immunity from the law. The court said that this law —"the laws and regulations of Syracuse university"—must be known and upheld by all students.

"THE COURT must reaffirm the doctrine that each student, regardless of extra-curricular status, will receive full and impartial justice and that only particular extenuating circumstances will be considered.

"From this doctrine there can be no exception."

The defense in the case had pleaded that the court be lenient because of the defendant's record in extra-curricular activities and in representing the University at other schools.

A distniction as to what information can and can not be admitted as evidence was also drawn by the men's court in another case Thursday.

THE EIGHT-man court decided that in the future no letters to the dean of men or his staff from the defendant in a misconduct case will be admitted, unless the defendant had advice of counsel when writing the message.

All other material bearing on the case will be accepted by the court. Certain material other than evidence in deposition form will be used as general information to aid the court in establishing a frame of reference, it was decided.

In two cases the judiciary ruled that "ignorance of the law is no excuse."

"The use of an automobile by a student of this University is a privilege conditioned by certain student regulations. It is the duty of every student using an automobile not only to seek information concerning his privilege, but to obey the regulations protecting it."

'Lysistrata' Enters Sixth Week of Run

"Lysistrata," the Greek comedy produced by Boar's Head is entering its 6th week of presentation. Hill and downtown audiences have been flocking to see the play during its weekend runs in the Drama building.

Curtain time for the Friday and Saturday performances this week has been set at 8:15 p.m. Tickets for the performances may be obtained for regular prices of $1 and $1.50. Persons attending the play in groups of 10 or more may obtain tickets at reduced rates by calling the box office in the Drama building, 4-2776.

Prof. Sawyer Falk, head of the drama department is in charge of the entire production. Principals in the cast include: Barbara Hush, who is playing the lead role, Shirley Anne Fenner and Gerald Leider.

In the absence of Bob Dishy, who recently suffered a severe ankle sprain, Hugh Fordin, a freshman in speech is taking the part of the Athenian senator.

While the "Lysistrata" performances continue, the drama department is also working on "Gigi" which is scheduled to open the beginning of next month.

ALPHA KAPPA PSI

William N. Pope, former vice-president of the First Trust and Deposit co. will speak at the Alpha Kappa Psi, a commerce and finance honorary, meeting at p.m. Thursday at Sigma Nu fraternity.

Professor Horace J. Landry, faculty advisor, will speak to the group.

Civic Leader to Talk At Panhel Banquet

Mrs. Shelton Scheduled To Speak on Theme

Guest speaker for the annual Panhellenic council banquet will be Mrs. Le Roy Shelton, speaking on the banquet theme, "Think of what you can do with what there is." The affair will be held at 1 p.m. Saturday in the Hotel Syracuse.

Mrs. Shelton is a civic worker in Chicago, and a recognized authority on parks. She is commissioner of parks in Chicago. She was speaker at the Alpha Phi convention in 1952, and at the Panhellenic luncheon at Ohio State university.

THE THEME was suggested by Zeta Tau Alpha sorority. Three skits, built on the theme, will be presented by Alpha Epsilon Phi, Delta Zeta, and Pi Beta Phi sororities.

Miss Elizabeth Dyer, national president of Chi Omega sorority, and Mrs. Carl Steigerwald, national president of Theta Phi Alpha, will be guests of honor.

The annual Panhel cups for achievement in the fields of scholarship and activities will be presented. The sorority with the highest average for 1952-53 will receive the scholarship cup, and the sorority with the greatest number of points for activities will receive the activities cup.

An award will also be presented to the sorority presenting the best skit.

JEAN BURNS, Theta Phi Alpha, is general chairman of the banquet.

Miss Margaret Parker, University social director, and Miss Marjorie C. Smith, dean of women, will be guests at the banquet.

Head residents and members of the Panhel preferential committee will also be guests.

ORANGE GUIDE MEETING

The student committee in charge of planning the Orange Guide for freshmen will meet at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow to issue assignments.

Commissions Set For Army ROTC

By TOM LONG

All students who graduate from Army ROTC this June will receive commissions as second lieutenants according to Lt. Col. George R. Stevens III, professor of Military Science and Tactics, here at Syracuse.

Most of the graduates will be commissioned in the Reserve. The top percent of the class has been offered Regular Army commissions.

THE SECOND lieutenant commission in the reserve is given to qualified individuals who complete the ROTC course, but who intend in all probability to follow a civilian career. They will be available for duty if they are needed.

These reservists must serve an obligatory period of two years active duty and six years in the reserve. This is the same amount of time that all physically qualified males in the United States between the ages of 18-26 must serve. Set up by Congressional law, it affects draftees and those who enlist.

Promotions in the reserve are on the same basis as in the regular army. However, there are some definite advantages in a regular commission.

The regulars are made up of officers who have graduated from one of the service academies, or with high honors from ROTC. Outstanding men in Candidate School and those who have distinguished themselves in service also make up this group.

ROUGHLY ONE-third of the officers on duty with the Army hold regular commissions. Two of the advantages of this type of commission are a system of regular promotion and the assurance of job retention if the Army shrinks in times of peace or for economic reasons.

Students who successfully complete the basic ROTC course, covering the first two college years, receive benefits from this training, even if they do not continue into the advanced course.

Training Course To Start Tonight

The first session of the Future Student Leaders spring training series will be held at 7 p.m. today in 307 Hall of Languages, Philip Stern, director of education for MSG, has announced.

Signups will be held at the MSG office, building 30, this afternoon. Interested men may also register for the course at tonight's meeting.

Quiz Bowl Team Assembles For Last Program Instruction

By DICK CASE

Syracuse's team of air-borne scholars, four panelists and four alternates, will meet for the last time today prior to participation in the nation-wide broadcast of "College Quiz Bowl," 8:30 p.m., Thursday.

The NBC show, which pits two college teams in a test of knowledge, will be tape recorded Thursday in the dance studio of the Women's building and offered over the national network at 6 p.m., Sunday. It will be heard locally over radio station WSYR.

THE FOUR Syracuse panelists, Janet Caro, Jane Bauer, Raymond Cuenter and John Beach, will face a team from Washington and Lee university which last Sunday captured its fifth consecutive victory in the series.

Defeating the University of Pittsburg in the question session, the southern representatives boosted their total "College Bowl" winning to $2,500. The winning team's weekly $500 may be administered as the university deems fit.

Three hundred and fifty-three tickets were made available for the broadcast and those have been distributed through the Dean of Women's and Dean of Men's offices. No one will be admitted without a ticket. According to a spokesman in the radio-television center which is producing the local broadcast, the supply of tickets has been exhausted.

The doors to the dance studio will be opened at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday and all those attending the show must be in their seats by 8:10 p.m. A "live" rehearsal and local warm-up will follow.

PRIOR TO opening the doors at 7:15, the panelists from Syracuse and Washington & Lee will run over "toss-up" questions from moderator Allen Ludden in New York. The show is being produced through the radio-TV center in co-operation with WSYR. Edward Jones of the radio faculty is supervising the production and Bob Whitney from WSYR will act as announcer for the Syracuse portion.

Dr. Edwin Cady, English instuctor, has been acting as coach of the panelist and alternates. He is assisted by Edwin Smith, assistant dean of the college of Liberal Arts, and the Liberal Arts Advisory council. Dr. Cady has held numerous personal and groups interviews with the participants as well as listening sessions with tapes of previous shows.

Due to the large scope of material covered in the quiz questions, the panelists have been forced to dip into a great number of reference sources and current material.

According to producer Jones, a special sound system has been installed in the dance studio for the convenience of the audience. A complicated system of radio line connections are involved in the production of "College Quiz Bowl."

HE ALSO emphasized that there will be a strict "No Smoking" rule in the dance studio.

Reports from Washington and Lee have indicated that the campus is "hysterical" over their team's success in the network competition. Over-flow crowds have been recorded at all of the Lexington broadcasts and according to sources at the Washington and Lee student newspaper, the spirit for the panel's sixth straight win is running high on that campus.

NBC has revealed that the April 4 broadcast of "College Quiz Bowl" will be the last in the current series. Due to commercial problems, the future of the program is uncertain but it is expected to return in the fall, in some form.

Three Agencies Get UJA Funds

Funds from United Jewish appeal are distributed to three sources: United Israel appeal, Joint Distribution committee and United Service for New Americans.

A minimum of $91,620,000 is needed for the first of these agencies to meet the needs of 300,000 recent immigrants and to speed work on urgent programs of agriculturai development.

Aims of United Israel appeal for this year include:

1. To build at least 15 new agriculturai settlements and strengthen many established settlements.
2. To irrigate another 40,000 acres of wasteland.
3. To build a minimum of 10,000 housing units.
4. To transport to Israel a minimum of 15,000 to 20,000 refugees, the majority of them from European and Moslem lands.
5. To maintain a minimum of 100,000 recent immigrants in temporary work villages until new settlements, housing and opportunities can be created for their absorption.

Freshman Tea Set By Speech School

The department of audiology and speech pathology in the School of Speech is honoring its freshmen with a tea between 3 and 5 p.m. this Friday in the Women's building.

Any students interested in audiology and speech pathology are invited to attend.

NO CONCERT

No concert is planned for this Sunday in Crouse auditorium. The next program in the current series will be the University Symphonic band, directed by Dr. Harwood Simmons, on Sunday, April 4.

Block S Sales Will End Tomorrow, Banquet Co-chairmen Announce

Tomorrow is the final day for buying tickets for the Block S banquet Sunday night, co-chairmen Oliver Richards and Harold Steinberg have announced.

Ducats priced at $2.50 are available from Orange Key members at the athletic office in Archbold gymnasium, the University Book store, Corner store and the Hotel Onondaga cigar stand.

HUGH DAUGHERTY, head football coach at Michigan State college, will speak at the annual Orange Key-sponsored athletic dinner, which gets underway at 6 p.m. in Sims dining hall.

University Vice-president Kenneth G. Bartlett, dean of public relations, will be toastmaster.

More than 200 Orange athletes will be honored at the banquet, with 15 special awards being presented to outstanding members of athletic teams.

Guest of honor will be Daugherty's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth W. Daugherty, who is house mother of Alpha Delta Pi sorority here.

Daugherty, who took over as Spartan grid coach after last season, is a graduate of the class of 1940 of Syracuse university. He was co-captain of the 1939 Orangemen and played under Ossie Solem and Biggie Munn.

FOLLOWING GRADUATION, Daugherty spent five years in service and was discharged as a major in 1945. He returned to the Hill as line coach under Munn in 1946 and went to State in 1947.

Assisting Richards and Steinberg are the following members of the junior men's honorary:

Robert Lefko, tickets; Leonard Eisen and Howard Osofsky, arrangements; James Fellows and Edward Hardy, publicity; Malcolm Foster, speaker; Marven Wallen, invitations; Samuel Shawhan, awards; Gilbert Katz and Lowell Toenniessen, programs.

Foreign Students Will Sing Tonight

A community sing will be held by the International Students' committee at 8 p.m. today in the Colonial room of Hendrick's chapel.

Folk songs by students from Germany and Austria will be featured and American "old favorites" will also be included.

Musicians for the sing will be Volker Weiss, Austria, the accordian; Dieter von Streit, Germany, the guitar; Betsy Pritchard, the United States, the piano.

Singing will be followed by refreshments and a discussion of the Rotary club dinner for foreign students which was held Sunday evening in Sims.

Members of the German department faculty will be guests of committee tonight and all university students are invited to attend.

Applications Ready For Lawyers' Tests

Students planning to take the Educational Testing Service law school admission test at Syracuse should pick up their applications immediately, according to James S. Weeks, head of the evaluation and testing service.

Applications for the April 10 test must be submitted to the testing service center in Princeton, N. J., before March 31.

This will be the last administration of the test before August. Many colleges prefer that students applying for admission take the test in April rather than waiting until after summer vacation.

All students interested should obtain additional information from Weeks in room 111 of the psychological research center.

JSF Will Teach Hebrew Tonight

Jewish Student fellowship beginners Hebrew class will meet at 7:30 p.m. today in 202 Maxwell.

Amous Krausz, who has recently come from Israel and who also teaches several Hebrew classes a day, will teach tonight's class.

Students who have attended previous Hebrew classes are urged to attend this one as all those in the future. Classes are scheduled for alternate Wednesday nights.

New students are also welcome and will be given a resume of the past lessons.

SYRACUSE DAILY ORANGE

THREE R'S OF A COLLEGE NEWSPAPER: RESPONSIVENESS, RESPONSIBILITY AND RESOURCEFULNESS

Page 2 Wednesday, March 24, 1954

Editor-in-chief ——— Arlene Lambert
Business Manager ——— Robert Goldstein

SENIOR EDITORIAL STAFF

Managing Editor ——— Arthur Siegel
Editorial Director ——— Hugh O. Muir
Executive Editor ——— Janet Caro
Sports Editor ——— Kenneth Lent

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Edward Meyer, Joan Nadelhaft, Phyllis Sirota, Howard Vonkirk, Mary Vivian

BUSINESS STAFF

Asst. Business Manager ——— Sheldon Lessen
Layout Manager ——— Judith Berman
Classified Manager ——— Joan Jacobs
Circulation Manager ——— Anita Freyberg
Promotion Manager ——— Lloyd Eisenberg

DAILY STAFF

News Editor ——— Tom Long
Night Editor ——— Liz Goddard
Asst. Night Editor ——— Jack Reilly
Editorial Page Asst. ——— George Meek
Night Sports Editor ——— Lee Kahler

Published by the students of Syracuse University. Telephones: News, 75-5195, 75-5197; Editor, 76-1445; Business: 4-7206. Subscription by mail $6 per year, $3.50 per semester. Entered as second class mail matter at the Syracuse Post Office. Exclusive national advertising representatives National Advertising Inc., New York City.

Charity begins at...

Philanthropy is hardly in the line of the average financially-pressed college student.

However, in our correspondence with the Intercollegiate Press we came across the following project at Iowa state that provoked us to this editorial.

A program sponsored by the Campus Chest there is the Foster Parents plan which entails the "adoption" of a war orphan by any group at the school.

The cost is a mere $180 a year for food, clothing, medical care and schooling for some kid who fared rather badly in the great war 1939-1945.

Two sororities and the Pan-hel council at Iowa each sponsor a war orphan and write occasional letters to the child.

We broke the cost down and realized that the average group of say 30 persons would have to spend about two cents a day to provide the vital needs listed above . . . for an entire year.

We pass this idea on to Syracuse. Of the many little things that concern us in our fortunate sojourn through college, this strikes us as one beneficial not only to the bodies of kids overseas but to the spirits of we kids at home.

We've said our say; the rest is up to you.

Editorial Director

More on mud

The letter concerning muddy parking lots in today's "letterary comment" points out another of the problems facing the University parking committee.

The lot to which the writer referred is not a recognized University parking lot at the present time. Similar vacant lots on University property exist in various parts of the campus where buildings have been demolished.

The parking committee, mindful of the scarcity of good parking places, sent reports to the Administration last spring requesting that these spaces be cleared, smoothed and paved.

However, the University has obviously decided that other measures are more imperative and has not appropriated the necessary funds.

Since the number of places near campus on which students can park is still insufficient, we suggest that the University reevaluate its policy concerning the urgency of paving these empty lots.

Editor-in-Chief

Sport for spectators

Tomorrow is the last chance for those who have always watched sporting events to finally get into the act.

It's the last day for buying tickets to Sunday's Block S banquet, an annual affair that pays homage to the more than 200 athletes who, since last spring, have worn the Orange colors in intercollegiate competition.

Sponsored by Orange Key, junior men's honorary, the banquet has become a must on the Hill's spring knife and fork circuit. Sunday will be the 50th anniversary of the dinner's founding. Syracuse in 1904 was the first school to so honor its athletes.

Once again a top-notch speaker will be on hand. Hugh Daugherty, former Syracuse player and later line coach, will return to his alma mater from Michigan State college, where he was recently appointed head football coach.

The chance to repay Syracuse's athletes with much-deserved recognition is possible for the small sum of $2.50, the price of a ducat from Orange Key members or at the Archbold gym ticket office. As since 1951, coeds are welcome to attend.

The Block S banquet promises to make Sunday night in Sims time well-spent.

Junior Editor

THE UNIVERSAL CHARIVARI

JOTTINGS

Hugh O. Muir
Arthur Siegel
Richard Caw
Roger I. Herz
Joan Nadelhaft

YESTERDAY'S PAPERS carried an article warning us that an atomic bomb could be smuggled into the country in a brief case.

This sort of thing may spread varying forms of terror. But to us it seems to bring things down to perspective.

Atomic bombs can be as prevelent as germs now . . . but no one goes into a panic about a few germs floating around. People don't fight diseases by going around and smashing germs with a hammer and a block of wood.

Control of conditions or people who make dangerous conditions is man's most effective way of combatting unhealthy elements. Scientists attack the breeding grounds for the seeds of pestilence; political scientists now have the task of cleaning up the international conditions that could breed the atomic plague.

But nothing will be accomplished by panic.

◆

GLANCED OVER Punch magazine yesterday. Strange how ignorant these foreigners are sometimes. There's an ad in there for Ekcovision, for instance. Now who ever heard of Ekcovision? You'd think that a British magazine would show some intelligence and carry ads for real TV sets, like RCA or Philco.

Then there's an ad for Exide-Ironclad batteries. Didn't they ever hear of Eveready or Rayovac?

Seems these foreigners are pretty stupid.

◆

WINDOW-SHOPPING along Marshall street the other day we noticed one of those animated watch advertisements perking away. Claiming a timepiece that was shock proof and waterproof, the mechanism was wanging and ducking away with a pair of watches.

All that energy impressed us, but we suddenly saw that neither watch was running. In fact, one had stopped at 11:29 and the other marked a persistant 3:23. Our faith in advertising melted away in the rain . . . we figured if you couldn't trust the timekeepers there was no point in rushing to keep on schedule.

We glanced sadly at a cigarette ad, hacked, and mosied off.

◆

CERTAINLY MR. Walgreen and Mr. Rexall have cause to be jolted if a "letter to the editor" comment printed recently in one of the metropolitan newspapers. The subject: drug stores and their evolution.

It seems that an irritated housewife complained that her neighborhood drug store had developed into a mild form of a super market and certainly had greatly outgrown its service as a dispensary of medical ingredients and assorted "cure-alls". In fact, the lady shouted, drug stores were far from being drug stores.

More shopping center, what with the addition of a thousand and one things other than drugs. The writer also cried that she was unable to locate the drug counter any more.

Well, now, my dear lady, in gallant defense of the drug store trade, we must admit that things have changed but you should certainly be able to locate the drug counter.

Why, you'll find it right there behind the meat counter.

◆

QUITE CONTRARY to our noted atomic doubledomes, us folks here in New York have large cause to fear the approach of the atom age. Most appropriate at the moment, the current A-bomb, pardon "device," experiments being conducted in the south Pacific.

We would offer in proof, a group of slightly shaken Oriental fishermen who returned to their native soil last week from an unprofitable trip in Pacific waters. These gentlemen displayed the remarkable effects of atomic radiation in the form of disturbing body burns and severe internal annoyance. All this brought on by atom tests.

The fishermen thought they were far from the proving grounds but apparently they weren't. In lieu of the recent announcements that the atom and hydrogen bombs ("devices") are being increased in strength, we must be permitted to silenty shudder. After all, San Francisco isn't so far from the South Pacific. Then there's Denver, Chicago, Cleveland and on and on.

Why, just last week, someone's car back-fired down the street and we ran in the closet.

◆

THIS IS AN odd sort of time of the year, with spring so recently come upon us and all. Midterms have crept into the atmosphere and some theses are about due.

So can't say we were too surprised when we heard one sleepy-eyed guy wander into the local groccriteria and ask for "Canadian Club ginger ale."

LETTERARY COMMENT

Omissions in Music Series; Muddy Parking

Music Ed

To the Editor:

With all due respect for the applied music majors of the Syracuse University School of Music, may I remind all interested readers of The Daily Orange of March 22 that there was a rather serious omission in the article on the School of Music.

I am speaking for the students of Music Education who are not wholly frustrated performers, but who are at least somewhat interested in giving the future concert artists a steer in the right direction.

Perhaps the most appalling omission is the fact that the enrollment in the Music Education program composes 54% of the total enrollment of the School of Music. I would challenge anyone to ignore 54% of any group.

May I say that we also have the privilege of studying with the same professors and instructors as those students in applied music and that those in applied fields miss out entirely on study with some of those professors and instructors in the Music Education department.

Where did I get support for writing this letter? Only from my eloquent coffee companions who might have been suffering from severe stimulation by that beverage. However, I feel safe in saying that even if the Music Education student is roused out of a sound sleep, which sometimes happens, we are always willing to talk about one of our favorite topics, Music Education today. If there is anything a teacher hates it is to be ignored. We, the students of Music Education at Syracuse university are no different.

Mary M. Harper,
Senior in Music Education

Organists

To the Editor of the Daily Orange:

Thanks for the fine story on the School of Music in Monday's Daily Orange.

May I call to your attention three omissions which spoiled for me an otherwise well written article? You mentioned the four new organs, one in Crouse Auditorium, one in Hendricks Chapel and two studio organs, but failed to mention the builder, Walter Holtkamp, of Cleveland. These wonderful intruments are available in great part because of Professor Arthur Poister's efforts to make the school of organ playing at Syracuse university one of the top organ departments in the country.

You mentioned several faculty members with national reputations as performers, yet fail to mention either Professor Poister or Professor Harvey Smith-Spencer of the voice faculty. Both these men enjoy national fame as performing artists today, and certainly enhance the prestige of our school.

Professor Poister is one of the two or three greatest American organists, a faculty member of the Organ Institute at Andover and a recitalist for the 1954 National Convention of the American Guild of Organists. Professor Smith-Spencer sang with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra as tenor soloist in Beethoven's "Missa Solemnis" and this winter has served as soloist with the Bach Festival Choir at Bethlehem, Pa. He will give a concert this spring in Toronto, Seattle, Portland, Los Angeles and Mexico City.

I hope you will rectify this omission of these artists names from your story by printing my letter. We have a school of music to be proud of and these men are an important part of it.

Sincerely,
Louise Childs
FA '56

Mud-lots

To the editor of the Daily Orange:

When University officials proudly showed City Councilman Bordynski our Hill parking lots, did they show him the mud hole opposite F.D. Roosevelt house at 815 University avenue?

When the special education department moved to its swank new building, the old building at this address was razed, leaving a muddy void.

Adjoining the lot is a University parking space, fronting on Waverly avenue. Overflow cars park on the frozen mud in the morning, only to be bogged down by mid afternoon.

While the University boasts of its plans in the future, let it not forget the present. One day of bull-dozing, topped by a few truck loads of gravel, would create space for a couple dozen more cars.

An oft-stuck grad,
Robert Laubach

FROM THE ORCHESTRA

Ma, Pa Kettle Attempt Humor, Don't Succeed

By JOAN NADELHAFT
Daily Orange Drama Critic

Every old cliche in the book was used in another frantic attempt to be funny in the little gem "Ma and Pa Kettle at Home" which opened yesterday at the Paramount.

Marjorie Main has so much talent, it's a shame to do to her what this script does. From her opening scenes, when she skates the full length of a kitchen floor on a coating of meringue, to her closing homey all's-right-with-the-world grin, she suffers through all the tortures of an insipid script.

And the plot? They've grab-bagged this one out just too many times. Farm boy writes essay praising non-existent virtues of farm, wins prize, judges come to see if it is all he says, frantic scramble to pull off the gentle fraud.

But, there is a funny scene. When the local Indians borrow their wives' cosmetics, and dress up as fierce Indians on the war path, with the aid of a book on Indian costumes, they do it up brown, or red, if you prefer.

"Ride Clear of Diablo," a souped-up technicolor western is the second feature. On the whole, it is better than the main film—then, it would have to go some to be worse.

Dan Duryea unfolds his famous menacing giggle again, but turns out to be a gunman with an irrepressible yen to cause trouble for the fun of it. "Some people run to fires, I run to shootings." He gives the film all its quality.

Abbe Lane plays her first movie role of any size in this and pulls it off well, particularly since it requires little more than being her band singer self.

Again the usual plot, but done up in a rather refreshing fashion, with a heroine (Susan Cabot) who has the sense to ditch her boy friend, and doesn't wait around all movie for him (of course, one of the villains) to be exposed, before confessing her love for the hero.

The technicolor is subdued in tone, and shows the southwest scenery off well, as these movies have a habit of doing. However, the script isn't too original, and is studded with supposedly meaningful monosyllables.

Both these films have something in common—they are not very good. In fact, we're wondering why Ma and Pa didn't stay home.

The Age of Machines

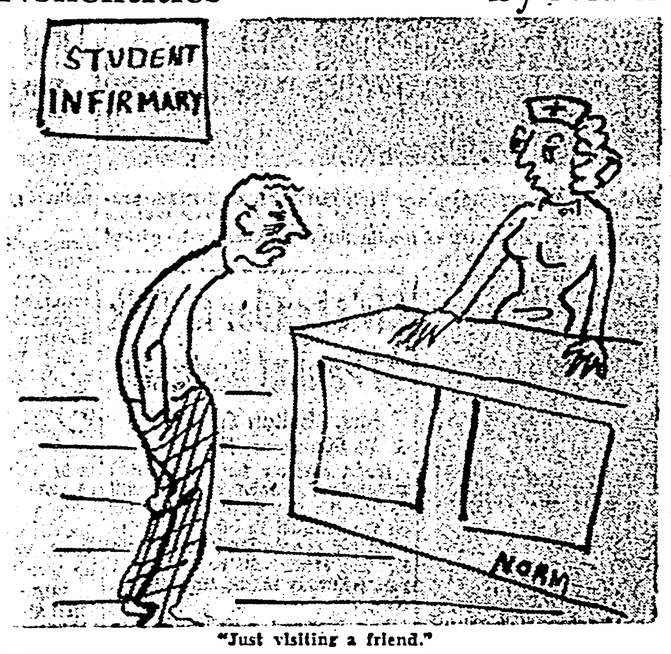
Surveying our grade slip the other day, we began to wonder what the holes on the sides of the small yellow sheet were for, when it came to us in a flash that what we were contemplating was a small section of a long, long IBM sheet.

Calling upon our wide experience with IBM machines, we realized that the names of the courses, and the numbers, grades and other miscellaneous information were printed on the paper by a rapidly moving machine which spits out the paper from a folded pile as if it were going to get a prize if it could process so many sheets in an hour.

Thinking about it a little more, we realized that our grade cards were fed into the machine at a rapid, alphabetical rate, and the pertinent information transferred.

Then we wondered about the worries and hopes of the students whose grades were worked over so cold-heartedly. All the hopes of graduate school, of brilliant futures in business or social work were bolstered or doomed here. It got a little sticky, so we shook ourselves and went off to class.

Nonentities by Norm



"Just visiting a friend."

In a Paper World

By JACK REILLY

Each Tuesday, the pulp and paper technology laboratory at the State University of New York College of Forestry might best be described as resembling a full-sized, commercial-type paper mill.

For each Tuesday, students in the pulp and paper division of the College, under Prof. Frederic W. O'Neil, gain practical experience in the very practical art of papermaking at the modern and well-equipped laboratory.

These forestry students learn their art by an extremely complicated process which is basically the following:

The wood pulp is first treated in a beater until the fibers are thoroughly separated and made flexible. The Beater is an oblong tub with a dam down the middle. A heavy roll with over 100 iron bars rotates in the tub pushing the fibers against a grooved stationary bar or bedplate.

The pulp then circulates in the tub in a mass containing 95 parts water, 5 parts fiber and looking similar to applesauce. If the paper is to be colored or if it must have have water resistance, ink resistance or strength when wet, various chemicals are added so that they will be thoroughly intermixed with the pulp and the finished product will have the desired characteristics. Eventually, this type of pulp and water is diluted and metered to the $200,000 paper machine.

The paper machine consists of a large open box known as the headbox, a dram with an opening on the bottom known as the slice and movable wire screen similar to a window screen, but much finer.

Several boxes are then placed underneath the wire, which removes the water. Following this, a number of steam-heated cylinders 4-8 ft. drain, revolve, and carry the paper through a long section of rolls where steam heat dries the paper.

The surface is next smoothened or polished by passing the sheet between several chilled steel rolls. Then, the paper is wound on a reel.

Paper is made by flowing a mixture containing a pulp and water ratio of 99.5 lbs. of water and .5 lbs. or chemicals and pulp through the headbox under the slice and onto the moving wire. Efforts are made, subsequently, to remove all but 5% of the water in every 100 lbs. of finished paper.

In addition, something new has been added to the laboratory.

A $30,000 forming section of the paper machine was set in operation Feb. 11. The addition, called the "wet end section" of Foudrinier, brings a modern type of flow distributor used in paper machines today.

This is the only place in the world where students can gain experience of this type, states Prof. O'Neil.

OUT FOR BLOOD

A Lifetime May Hang on 15 Minutes

You are needed! This is a plea, and an important one. Please don't skip this article—it stands for something so important that it can not be stressed enough, and you should be interested if you would like to help someone in need.

To put it frankly, we're "out for blood." The blood drive is today and tomorrow in the trophy room of the men's gym. Hours are from 10 to 12 or 1 to 4.

"Friday has been set aside just for Foresters!" said drive chairman Mary Flavin. She added that others too, could go to the main forestry building on Friday if they are not able to come at the aforementioned times.

All of the blood is not shipped overseas. Much of it is put to use here in Syracuse. Bottled blood went to the victims of the recent fire in the city, and much of it is contributed to the campus infirmary.

Someday YOU may be the one who needs blood. Then you will realize that those who give, give for a purpose.

There can not be the attitude of why - give - someone - else - will-do-it. The truth is, that there is too much of this infectious attitude already. The blood supply is scarce you don't have to be.

The entire procedure will not exceed 15 minutes. Consider it. Fifteen minutes for you can mean a lifetime for someone else.

SIGHTS ON SYRACUSE

ICY SPRING; GREEN ICE; NO SEATS

By MILT SHEFTER

And the first day of Spring tripped gently around the corner and fell flat on her face in the snow and ice per Syracuse weather. Sunday night was "dent" night as many unable to take the ice at College and University picked poles and other vehicles to stop on. At one time, there were three accidents at one time at this intersection and no sand truck or cops in sight. One policeman, off duty too, did stop to get the information, but no other assistance. It was too icy, perhaps?

• • •

And may we throw a bouquet to the Chancellor for making such splendid citizens out of his students. Students directed traffic for over two hours while brave lasses from Walker kept a steady stream of hot coffee coming. The campus cop in uniform drove by twice but didn't get out of his car. He lamented that he didn't have a heater either. As for the sand truck, that is the mystery of the century. Passing motorists told of its approach all evening, but no sign of it. After all why should paid help do the work when "sucker" students will. Pardon me for getting hot-tempered, but it's the only way I can thaw out.

• • •

Those in attendance at the mixer last Friday were startled by a strange procession from the elevator to the kitchen and back. They weren't sure but it looked like ice-cubes only not the conventional type—these were colored—green. And if you think they were surprised, you should have seen the faces of those who had these ice-cubes served to them. It was at a party at Thornden Cottage and St. Patrick's day decorations were predominant. In fact almost everything was green, especially the faces of the guests who found these cubes in what ordinarily would have been a harmless looking drink. Down the green hatch!

• • •

You may have wondered why "Guys and Dolls" which got such rave notices in New York didn't rate mention in the D.O. Seems somebody goofed and the D.O.ers were given two press comps, which were exceptionally scarce and appreciated but no seat designation. Not carrying portable campus stools, they were moved several times. Like no tickee-no shirtee, no seatee, no reviewee. P.S. News flash—four numbered seats allotted to D.O. Wednesday.

• • •

And now if you'll excuse us, we must practice for the Campus Casanova contest. We're in the kissing competition.

FRATERNITIES SORORITIES STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS

Cut Printing Costs with Vari-Type

We are headquarters for publications. Use our cuts, illustrations and art work without charge. Complete layout service available if needed.

SYRACUSE VARI-TYPE SERVICE
116 S. Salina R. H. Taggart 2-2495

You "write your own money"—as you need it when you pay by CHECK...avoid the risks of carrying cash. And it will probably cost you less to maintain a checking account than to pay your bills in person. Manage your money matters safely...economically: with a checking account here. Open one soon.

FIRST TRUST & DEPOSIT COMPANY
MEMBER FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORPORATION
SYRACUSE, N. Y.
BALDWINSVILLE . . . CANASTOTA
LIVERPOOL . . . MATTYDALE . . . PARISH

How many Indians make a reservation?
OR
whose aching back, did you say?

Once there was a Sophomore who was planning a Whale of a Weekend in New York. Being a Man of Foresight, he carefully packed his copy of "New York Confidential," his compilation of Terrific Manhattan Numbers, and his list of Solvent Alumni in the Big City. Likewise 1 clean shirt, 1 toothbrush, 1 razor and 1 package of Sen-Sen. He was Ready.

Just then his roommate came up with a Tip for the Traveler. "Hey," he said, "have you wired ahead for your Hotel Reservation?"

Our Hero guffawed. "Don't be dull," he answered. "I'll make up my mind where I want to stay when I get there. New York is Full of Hotels."

He was right. New York is full of hotels. On this particular weekend, however, it was also full of People. Political convention.

Oh, he's all right again now. Two nights on a bench in Central Park never killed anybody. The thing that bothered him most was the Squirrels. He thought they were looking at him Oddly.

If you're Going Somewhere and want a Roof Over Your Head, it's smart to make reservations by Telegram. (Western Union even has a special Hotel Reservation Service you can call to Make the Arrangements for anything from a One-Night Stand to a Transcontinental Trip.) No fuss, no friction, no sleeping on a pool-table. Use Telegrams in any plans you're making . . . Dates, Deals or Dream Talk. You get Results when your words arrive on the Yellow Blank.

WESTERN UNION AGENCY
STUDENTS' SUPPLY STORE
943 SOUTH CROUSE AVENUE
TELEPHONE 4-4018

THRU THE MUCK with MEYER

By ED MEYER, Associate Sports Editor

An Open Letter:
Mr. Average Football Fan (including coaches)
In colleges, offices and bars anywhere in these United States
Gentlemen:

Since tomorrow evening the motion picture Academy of Arts and sciences will be presenting the annual Academy Awards, I'd like to start the ceremonies off with an early presentation. No, it's not going to Burt Lancaster, Marlon Brando or Montgomery Clift, but to eight stately gentlemen clothed in Ivy and representing a fine array of scholastic institutions.

Last Monday in the New York Times, Allison Danzig, noted sportswriter, started a three-article series on the de-emphasis of college football by the fellows who started it way back in 1876, the Ivy boys. Yes, once more valiant Harvard, Princeton, Yale, our old buddy Cornell, Brown, Dartmouth, Columbia and Pennsylvania have banded together for the supposed good of athletics.

It's getting to a point where the Ivy boys are getting some people fed up in their attempt to become martyrs. Sure, it sounds good that the boys are trying to cut down on the football business movement. But it's got to the point where the men with the charcoal greys and colorful vests are just overstepping their boundaries.

Yes, these guys are really in line for the theatrical play of the year. Last February they got together and decided to cut down completely on any outside competition while at the same time returning to the policy of allowing athletes to enter college on their scholastic merits only.

Obviously the Ivys think they are the ones who should take this big step, but they are wrong. They may try and say that the only reason for abolishing the big-time football plan is to improve scholastic standards but it seems to be a lot more bunk than truth.

The Ivy boys have been trying for the past five years to get all their teams into a set schedule with no outside play. This semi-snobbishness was displayed early in the year when the Cornell athletic department gave the Orange schedule makers some sort of a run-around about future gridiron competition. It turned out that it was the Big Red alumni who were behind the whole situation.

These alums were anxious to get Syracuse off their slate in recent years and now since the Orange are growing in football power this was their opportunity. Yes, a chance for an all Ivy loop with the independents out in the cold.

Sure, it's about time someone tried to do something about the way football has gotten out of hand, but these are not the men to do it. Not many people outside of college know this much about the Ivy boys. If it were a group of independents doing the work it would be much different, but when fellows who always want their way and never give an inch get in there, it just isn't right.

It's about time someone did something to break up this Ivy grasp on the intercollegiate world. An example of their high-hattedness is shown by the constant rigid thinking of Yale and Harvard not wanting to participate in the Intercollegiate regatta. Every year they meet against each other in a dual meet just before the national race, taking a little glamour from it. That's the way they operate.

They say that tradition is nice but then there comes a time when it has to be broken. Now it seems that time has arrived. To put it all much plainer the Ivys are like a bunch of "Marshall Street Athletes" talking about the football practice they never went to. A little phonyish around the edges.

And who said they are going to cut out on those scholarships. I'd like to see the day when Penn or Cornell isn't pulling some sort of strings to get those good passers and top-notch linemen into school. Sweet talk is nice but action always speaks louder.

So to the Ivy boys goes this Oscar for an outstanding performance by a real actor. It's true they had some good intentions but they just aren't the fellows to lead the way. Granted there are many faults in football today and I hope someone comes along soon to stop them.

Until they cut down on their snobbish ways and hoity-toity ideas they are going to be very hard to cope with. At that time they can afford to take this position they are assuming now and really help football. But I'm afraid that time will take quite a while to come.

Very truly yours,
A Disgruntled Sportswriter

Sims II Takes WAA Frosh Hoop Title; DG Wins

By JOAN CONNOR

Libby Harner scored 20 points as Sims II captured the freshman basketball title defeating Walker cottage 33-21. In upper class competition, Delta Gamma downed Gamma Phi Beta 15-10. They will meet Theta Phi Alpha in the semi-finals Thursday.

In the frosh championship tilt, Capt. Libbey Harner controlled the plays under the basket the entire game. On defense as well as offense she was an important cog in her team's success.

Much of the credit for the fine showing of Sims II in the tourney belongs to this Harrisburg, Penna. lass who is also quite a tennis player.

Jo Albrecht was top scorer for Walker with 10 points. Barbara Traynor, the loser's captain, recorded 9 markers. Miss Traynor played the game with an injured hand and sparked a fourth quarter rally but the all-around play of Libbey Harner overshadowed the drive.

Other high scorers for Sims II were Lee Wylinsky with 7 points and Hazel Immergut with 6 points.

In the upperclass contest, Gamma Phi Beta started off with fast tricky plays but was unable to maintain the pace. Mary Lynd of Delta Gamma found the mark dumping in 5 points to bring her team into a 8-8 tie at half-time.

Miss Lynd was high scorer for the victors, racking up 9 points; Joan Janecek dropped in 5. Top scorer for Gamma Phi Beta was Nancy Oman with 5 points.

Jody Cronau, Delta Gamma captain, called for a freeze which stymied the opposition late in the second half to insure the victory.

Kappa Kappa Gamma meets Peck II and Delta Gamma plays Theta Phi Alpha in the semi-finals Thursday night. The winners of the evening will vie for the upperclass championship next Tuesday and win the right to meet Sims II for the WAA title.

Bowling

Delta Gamma's bowling quartet defeateed Smalley and Kappa Delta yesterday to win a place in the WAA finals Thursday. The overall scores showed Delta Gamma 572, Kappa Delta 559 and Smalley 531.

Bowling for the winner's were: Mary Austin, captain, 124; Janet Brenneman, 124; Lois MacCrea, 110 and Nancy Walker, 100.

Alpha Xi Delta, Charles cottage and Alpha Gamma Delta, are the other representatives in the finals to be held in the bowling alley in the Women's building.

Half-Gainer Reverse Jackknife?

HEAVE HO, IN YOU GO! Ohio State Swimming Coach MIKE PEPPE takes a dunking following the Buckeyes' victory in the 1952 National championships at Princeton. Runners-up in last year's tourney, the Staters loom as favorites to dethrone defending titlist Yale in the 31st annual championships opening Thursday in Orange pool.

Oyakawa Rated Top Backstroker

(This is the fourth and last in a series of articles which previews the NCAA swimming championships to be held in the Orange pool, March 25-27. Today's article concerns the backstroke and breaststroke events, the individual medley, the medley relay and the freestyle relay.)

By DAVE BENNETT
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Ohio State university's sensational star Yoshi Oyakawa is a strong favorite to repeat as NCAA 100 and 200 yard backstroke titleholder in this weekend's national swimming championships in the Archbold gymnasium pool.

The brilliant Oyakawa set a new championship meet and national collegiate record in winning the 200 last year at Ohio State. He also set a new championship meet standard as well as tieing the collegiate mark in the 100-yard backstroke event in the '53 championships.

THIS YEAR, with Yale's Dick Theman, his chief competitor last season, gone, Oyakawa should have an even easier time. He will not, however, race unopposed. Stanford's speedy Larry Heim, third in both the 100 and 200 last year, will attempt to surprise the favorite in at least one of the two backstroke matches.

Also, Pete Witteried of Army, fourth place finisher in last year's 200 and fifth in the 100 will be back along with Purdue's Fred Bautz, and Stanford's Jim Weiser.

In addition, Dick Coffin, Dartmouth's 100-yard backstroke champion in the Eastern title competition this year constitutes a definite darkhorse in the spring race.

Oyakawa will also lead his Buckeye teammates in the 300-yard medley relay event. The squad from Columbus won the '53 medley but Gerry Holan, one member of the three-man championship team will not be back.

DICK CLEVELAND and Oyakawa will pair with another Ohio Stater, as yet undecided, in the effort to repeat as champs for State. The main competition will probably come from Yale, who also has two men, Dennis O'Connor and Don Sheff, back from their second place finisher of a year ago.

Michigan State, Stanford and Harvard, all in the first five last season, will also be endeavoring to spring an upset in the medley relay.

The 400-yard freestyle relay championship appears, at the present, to be the property of the Michigan university squad. The Wolverines from Ann Arbor are back in full force, with all four members of last year's championship quartet ready to go.

Ron Gora, Burwell Jones, Tom Brenner and Don Hill are the four Maize and Blue mermen who won the '53 event in meet record time. They might get a stiff test, though, from any one of four squads. Yale, Stanford, Dartmouth and Ohio State, although depleted by graduation losses, had fine 400-yard freestyle relay squads last season and will be looking for upset this season.

IN THE 150-yard individual medley, the first and second place finishers in the '53 championships are back to battle it out. Last year's champ, Burwell Jones of Michigan, will be the heavy favorite.

North Carolina State's Bob Mattson and Michigan State's Frank Reynolds are afforded outside chances, however.

The 100-yard breaststroke appears to be a tossup. Yale's fine Dennis O'Connor, second last season, will be the slight favorite but strong competition is expected to come from Ronnie Gainsford of Pittsburgh and Michigan State's John Dudeck.

In the 200-yard breaststroke title race is also without an outstanding favorite. All of the first three finishers of a year ago have graduated. But fourth place Bob Clemons of Illinois, fifth placer Charles Douglas of Williams and sixth place finisher Dennis O'Connor are back to take part in the event.

Rooney to Enter NCAA Meet As Lone Syracuse Participant

By ALEX STRASSER
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Co-Capt. Ed Rooney will be the lone Syracuse representative at the National Intercollegiate Wrestling championships which will be held at Oklahoma this weekend.

The Orange co-captain, who is holder of the 157-pound Eastern crown will make his second attempt at the 157-pound national title.

HAMPERED BY A chronic knee injury, Rooney was eliminated early in list year's challenge round. With his knee fully mended, as witnessed by his Eastern crown and undefeated dual meet record, Rooney will be a serious contender for the national 157-pound crown.

Tom Hooke of Michigan, who is Big Ten champion figures to give Rooney the toughest competition. Schiff of Colorado A&M and Eagleton of Oklahoma university, who finished third last year, are two other strong contenders for the 157-individual crown.

Ken Hunte was the only other Orange grappler to win the 157 Eastern crown since Joe McDaniel took over the coaching reigns eight years ago. Hunte won the title in 1949 and '50. In addition to the 157-pound crown, Hunte, like Rooney, won the outstanding matman award in 1950.

While Hunte was winning the 157-pound title, in 1950, Pascal Ferri and George Gebhart took the 165 and 177-pound crowns. These three grapplers made up Syracuse's murder's row.

IN 1950, Bob Gerbino joined Hunte and Gebhart in the title holder's corner capturing the 123-pound title.

The Big Ten conference will have a few strong contenders for national honors. Michigan, which is the Big Ten leader this year and Ohio State, the conference champs in 1951, will both present strong teams.

Penn State, eastern and national champs last year, will be the eastern team entering a strong contingent.

This weekend's tournament will be the 23rd annual wrestling championship of the National Collegiate Athletic association.

Tau Delts Capture Fraternity Crown

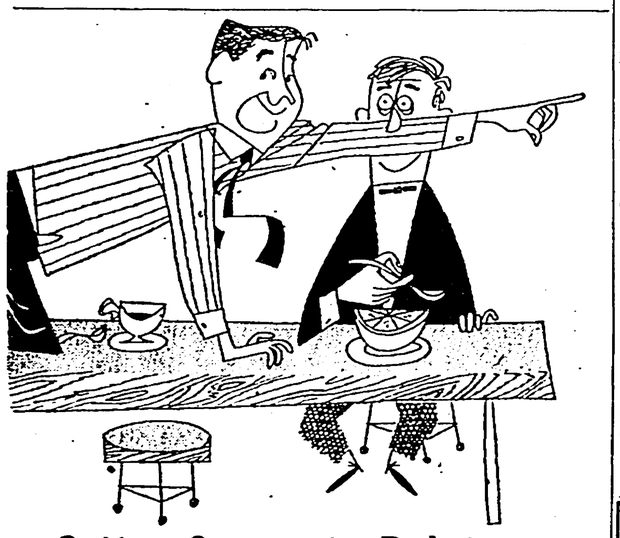
By JEFF WENIG

Last night in the new gym of Archbold gymnasium, Tau Delta Phi won the fraternity championship in volleyball by beating Phi Kappa Psi and Sigma Alpha Mu.

The evening started off with two meets. One matching the Sammies against Phi Delta Theta in which the Sammies copped two straight games 15-12, 19-17 and the other in which Tau Delt defeated Phi Kappa Psi twice, 15-4. This put both winners in the finals.

The results of the finals were very close and only decided by the continuous spirit shown by the Tau Delts as they came from behind after losing their first game. From there they went on to romp in the next two, 15-9, 15-8 and on to the championship.

The lineup used by the Tau Delts in their victories consisted of Dan Present, Curley Adler, Chuck Williams, Marty Wexler, Marty Baron, Al Fisher and Jerry Turkat.



Setter Comes to Point Over Underwear!

"ARF!" says Ossified J. Slurp, noted grill-hound. "Yes, it's ARF-ul to remember how uncomfortable my grill-sitting was before I switched to Jockey brand Underwear! In my set, you know, squirming is taboo...why, we often don't even blink for an hour!"

Yes, college men choose Jockey comfort!

Yes, for the grill...the class-room...and everywhere around the campus...snug-fitting, tailored-to-fit Jockey brand Underwear gives you extra comfort, because...

13 separate contoured pieces are carefully crafted into one smooth-fitting garment.

Newly-developed heat resistant rubber in waistband outlasts other leading brands.

Nobelt® strip rubber in leg openings eliminates sag or bind around the legs.

Unique Jockey front opening never gaps.

all underwear gives you coverage but only Jockey® gives you full comfort!

Jockey Shorts

Jockey T-Shirts

Made only by Coopers Kenosha, Wisconsin

Studebaker Owners

Bring Your Service Problems To Us

We have factory trained mechanics and a service department equipped to handle every service operation. Our parts department is stocked with a complete line of genuine Studebaker parts and accessories.

A. Robert Perry INC.
STUDEBAKER DEALER
4727 S. Salina St. 9-3226

FRESHMEN! sophomores! Juniors! SENIORS!

SPRING FORMALS

Rate high with your date by looking dapper and distinguished in your formal attire. Be assured that your outfit is correct to the last detail—by taking advantage of our complete rental service. It's so economical you'll save enough to send your girl an elegant corsage!

CENTORE'S MEN SHOP
446 SO. SALINA ST.
TOM CENTORE '50
OPP. ADDIS

10 GENERAL ELECTRIC PROGRAMS FOR COLLEGE GRADUATES

Career opportunities with a bright future await the college graduate who joins General Electric. To help him toward early success, G.E. offers these ten programs—each including both challenging work assignments and broadening classroom studies.

If you are interested in building a career with General Electric, consult your placement officer for the date of the next visit of the G-E representative on your campus. Meanwhile, for further information on the career programs described here, write: College Editor, Dept. 2-123, General Electric Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

ENGINEERING PROGRAM
This program gives engineers a sound foundation for professional careers—in research, development, design, manufacturing, application, sales, installation and service, or advertising.

APPARATUS SALES ENGINEERING
Offered to men who have completed the Engineering Program, this program develops young men who can combine engineering knowledge with sales contact to sell G-E industrial products.

MANUFACTURING TRAINING
Open to technical and some non-technical graduates, this three-year program provides leadership training in manufacturing supervision, manufacturing engineering, purchasing, production control, or plant engineering.

BUSINESS TRAINING COURSE
BTC's purpose is to develop business administration, economics, liberal arts, and other graduates in accounting and related studies for leadership in G.E.'s financial activities and other activities which require business training.

PHYSICS PROGRAM
For Bachelor and Master graduates, this program gives industrial training and orientation in many fields of physics at G.E.—and offers great diversity in placement openings.

MARKETING TRAINING
Open to MBA graduates, and to young men who have shown special ability in marketing, this program develops men for future managerial positions through training in all seven primary functions of marketing.

CHEMICAL AND METALLURGICAL PROGRAM
Open to chemists, metallurgists, chemical, ceramic, and metallurgical engineers at BS and MS level. Assignments extend from process development to plant liaison—from research and development to sale of process instruments.

EMPLOYEE & PLANT COMMUNITY RELATIONS TRAINING
Open to technical and non-technical graduates, this leadership training program provides assignments in engineering, manufacturing, marketing, finance, and employee and plant community relations.

ATOMIC "TEST"
Open to science and engineering graduates, this program is conducted in the Hanford Atomic Products Operation at Richland, Washington to train men for positions in the atomic energy field.

ADVERTISING TRAINING COURSE
This program combines on-the-job training with integrated classwork courses and offers the opportunity to learn all aspects of industrial advertising, sales promotion, and public relations.

GENERAL ELECTRIC

Designers Institute Sponsors Program On Modern Method

Conference Highlighted By Banquet at Shaw, Tour of Art Center

Syracuse university's Industrial Design school and the Industrial Designers' Institute will sponsor a conference today on design and education, called "Directions of Progress."

Professor Alexander J. Kostellow, the director of industrial design at Pratt institute, Professor Richard Koontz, acting head of the Industrial Design school here at Syracuse, and Mrs. Jane Mitarachi, co-editor of the new "Industrial Design" magazine will be the speakers at this affair.

During the afternoon, the program will include a tour of the industrial design facilities of the school, visits to selected points on campus, and an exhibit of student work at the Lowe Art center on the "Evolution and Analysis of the Typewriter."

A dinner will be held in Shaw dormitory dining hall, to be followed by talks and discussion at 8:15 p.m. in the Alumni lounge of the Women's building.

BLOCK S TICKETS

Varsity athletes must pick up their free tickets for the annual Block S athletic banquet by tomorrow. The ducats are available at Jim ecker's office in Archbold gym.

Prof. Burtt, Chem Graduates Work on Radiation Problem

By JOHN JOHNSRUD
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Fundamental research is the basis of all scientific achievements. Without studies which have established the ground work and departing points for future research, there would have been no such thing as a radio tube or an A-bomb.

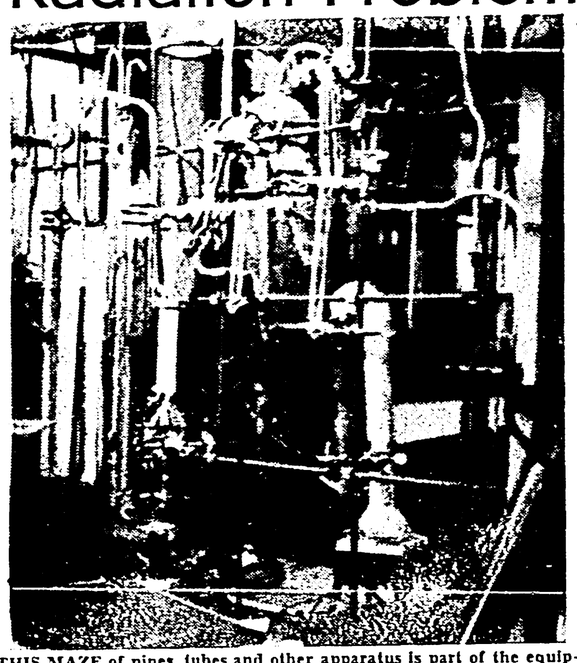
Although this pure science is essential to the better understanding of the mysteries of the world, few people realize the importance of this seemingly impractical work.

RADIATION AND its affect on chemical reactions is the subject of such a basic research project directed by Prof. Benjamin P. Burtt of the chemistry department. Five graduate students in chemistry are woroing on it. They will do their doctor's thesis on their contributions to the research. The studies are under the sponsorship of the Atomic Energy commission.

Equipment used in the project is set up in room 111 Bowne hall, one of the many laboratories in the building. A seeming maze of glass tubing and wire, the workings of the apparatus are as difficult to comprehend as the equipment is to look at.

This setup is used mainly to subject radiations of radio-active material to high energy electrical fields. Researchers can then study the chemical reactions produced by these radiations on various gases.

By studying the effects on gases, basic reaction steps and fundamental research procedures can be determined. The effects of atomic radiation on humans is an important topic today, but practical work cannot be started on this until basic concepts have been established.



THIS MAZE of pipes, tubes and other apparatus is part of the equipment for experiments on radiation and its effects on chemical reactions being conducted in Bowne hall laboratories by Prof. Benjamin Burtt and four grad students.

Sadie Hawkins Fete Scheduled for Friday

A Sadie Hawkins Dance will be held from 8:30 p.m. to midnight Friday in the dance studio of the Women's building.

This dance will be in conjunction with the weekly dances sponsored by the Women's building student activities committee. This committee was formed by student government to coordinate the building's activities.

Thee highlight of the dance will be a number in which the girls will ask the boys to dance. There also will be square dancing.

Prizes will be awarded for the person wearing the "craziest" shirt. The attire will be informal with dungarees preferred.

Anyone interested in working on the student activities committee should attend its meeting at 4:45 p.m. today in 305 Women's building or contact Nancy Boerner at Peck II.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA

The newly elected officers of the Lambda chapter of Alpha Chi Omega are Jane Poland, president; Jane Rannenberg, 1st vice president; Shirley Samek, 2nd vice president; Jane Miko, corresponding secretary; Lee Padula, treasurer.

Also Jocelyn Auer, rushing chairman; and Arlene Spindler, social chairman.

New pledges are Barbara Camamella, Mary Chillrud, June Fenn, Betty Rae Foster, Sue Gardner, Lyndia Lackey, Rosemary Lucurcio, Eugenia Lotz, Mary McMillan, Mary Ellen Root, Sally Stearns, and Giner Verhey.

'Casanova' Entries Go to Judges Today

All campus cazanovas are urged to submit their applications for the Bob Hope "Cazanova Contest" to the Daily Orange today.

Entrants should present a statement of 100 words or less explaining their qualifications for the title and their picture.

The contest which is being run to promote Hope's new picture, "Casanova's Big Night," is open to all male students. Daily Orange senior staff members will select the Syracuse winner.

A one week all-expense-paid tour of Hollywood will be awarded the national winner. Each university is allowed to enter one contestant.

The final winner will be decided by five of Hollywood's most glamorous stars, who will act as escorts during the winner's stay in filmland.

Entry deadline is 3 p.m. today. The Syracuse winner's picture and letter will be sent immediately to Hope in Hollywood.

CAMPAIGNING SET

Campaigning for spring elections will start at 5 p.m. Tuesday, March 30, Stephen Reiss, chief of civil service of men's student government, has announced. Eligibility lists of candidates will be released by his office at that time.

WAER PROGRAM SCHEDULE

WEDNESDAY

2:58—Sign On
3:00—WAER News
3:05—Symphonic Matinee
4:00—Musical Heritage
5:00—This I Believe
5:05—Distaff Digest
5:15—Dinner Date
6:15—WAER News
6:25—Evening Showcase
6:35—WAER Sports Lineup
6:45—Fred Greisinger Show
7:00—WQXR Artists
7:30—Adventures in Research
7:45—United Nations Story
8:00—Evening With Hi-Fi Music
9:00—WAER News
9:05—Music Magazine
10:00—Final Edition—News
10:10—Final Edition—Sports
10:20—Sign Off

Campus Notices

Daily chapel, noon-12:20 p.m., Dean Charles C. Noble will speak.

Army ROTC trick drill, Jefferson st. armory, meet 7:30 p.m., Machinery hall.

WAA Badminton, 4:30-5:30 p.m., Gym B. Women's building.

International Student committee, community sing, 8:00 p.m., Colonial room of the Chapel.

Lutheran faculty and graduate discussion group, 8:00 p.m., 329 Comstock Apt. 8. The topic is "Science and Faith," led by Clinton Latimer. Everyone is welcome.

Independence party meeting, 7:30 p.m., 303 Maxwell.

JSF beginners' Hebrew class, 7:30 p.m., 202 Maxwell.

Square dance, 7:30 p.m., Gym A, Women's building.

JSF choir rehearsal, 7:00 p.m., Colonial room of the Chapel, be prompt!

Psych students applying for Psi Chi who have not filled out pledge blanks must do so immediately, Psych center, 123 College pl.

Men's Glee club rehearsal, 7:00 p.m., 215 Crouse, come prepared for picture.

The following people are assigned to work at the DO today: Afternoon, Ivan Stanton, George Meek, Ruth Anderson, Bobbie Stern, Jan Dukier, Jack Reilly. Night, John Johnsrud, Roz Brownstein, Jo Stern, Pete McNally, Joanne Hess, Fleurette Reon, Vivian Judge, Carol Royce, Gwen Mann and Grace Sofleiss.

Sims 5 will hold an open house this Sunday at Sims lounge from 2-5 p.m. There will be dancing and refreshments. Everyone is invited.

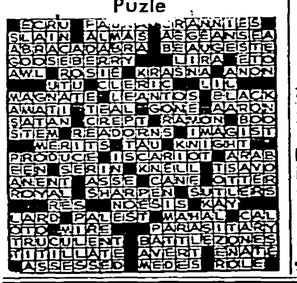
First meeting of MSG training program "In-sight," 7:00 p.m., 307 HL.

Cut-rate Offered To 'Julius Caesar'

Discount coupons for the movie "Julius Caesar" are available at drama department. They entitle the bearer to a 25 per cent discount from the regular price.

The coupon must be presented at the box office of Loew's Strand theater when purchasing tickets in order to receive the discount. Fraternities or other groups of 25 or more can also take advantage of the offer if they attend the showing in a body.

Solution to Yesterday's Puzzle



Action on Court Hits Snag in MSG

The joint student court bill ran into trouble in men's student government assembly last night as legislators tore apart several sections and finally returned the bill to panel.

The legislation, which would establish the joint student court as a permanent institution, was submitted directly to the assembly without going through the organizations panel.

MAJOR POINTS of issue were raised by the assembly over three sections of the proposed court act. There were minor changes suggested for several other parts.

The first and greatest block arose over a phrase concerning jurisdiction of the court: "The joint student court is given appelate jurisdiction by the action of both the men's student government assembly and the women's student government assembly acting jointly."

Interpretation on the exact meaning intended for the sentence by the framers of the act varied among assemblymen.

Most felt that it would provide for the establishment of a supreme court that might handle cases appealed from men's or women's court.

THERE WAS also debate over whether the phrase would cover only cases of violations of jointly-approved MSG-WSG acts. The possibility that the section merely invested establishment of the court by the assemblies was also brought up.

Under challenges in the proposed court setup, a rule states that "both the plaintiff and defendant shall have the right to issue as many challenges for cause as they deem necessary." The asembly pointed out here that no provision for peremptory challenges had been made.

Lawmakers also stated a desire for clarification as to whether or not the assembly should approve a judicial code and later amendments for the joint court. The chief justice, associate chief justice and dean of students are the only persons given that power under the bill presented last night.

In other action, the assembly approved the constitution of Piety Hill Alliance; put into organizations panel a bill for a joint student assembly steering committee; defeated a plan to have senior assemblymen act as advisors to the group until June; OK'd support of income tax reductions for education; and voted not to cut floor debate short unnecessarily on important topics.

Council Discusses Grad Convo Plans

LA Advisory Group Suggests New Aids

Possibilities of a convocation for all students interested in doing graduate work after earning their bachelor's degree was suggested at the meeting of the Liberal Arts Advisory Council last Friday.

SINCE MOST students planning to enter the graduate field have questions of the same general nature, such a convocation would answer the problems at one time.

An advisory system would handle the individual problems of the students.

Present at the meeting were Dr. Mary H. Marshall and Dean Earle W. Clifford. They discussed with the group the problems of making information on graduate scholarships and fellowships available to all students.

A filing system for this information was discussed, as well as the location or locations which would be best for students to look up this information.

THE COUNCIL noted that sophomores will be conferring next month with their advisors as to the choice of a major field. This is the same procedure that has been carried out in past years.

The group is handling the distribution of tickets for the College Quiz Bowl to students. Each fraternity, sorority, and independent living center received one ticket.

The Liberal Arts Advisory Council meets each week in the dean's office in HL to discuss student problems. They are currently working on the problem of the gifted student.

Foresters to Hold Nifkin Ball At Marshall Hall

Legendary Figure, Eustace Nifkin Dance Will Honor

The annual Nifkin Ball, sponsored by Robin Hood, junior class honorary society of the New York State College of Forestry, will be held 8-12 p.m., March 27, in the Student Lounge of Marshall.

Eustace B. Nifkin, legendary figure at the College, will be honored at the Ball, according to chairman James E. Brewer. Eustace B. Nifkin is the name of an imaginary character at the forestry college who is somewhat similar to Kilroy.

The dance will be informal and no shoes will be allowed. Music will be provided by Carl Silva for the round and square dancing. Refreshments will also be served.

BOWLING TOURNEY

Applications are still being accepted by bowling director Mike Hickok for the individual bowling tourney to be held in the Women's building, March 29 through April 3.

NOW at Schine's PARAMOUNT
STARTS TODAY
"MA AND PA KETTLE BACK HOME"
MARJORIE MAIN
PERCY KILBRIDE
also
In Technicolor
"RIDE CLEAR OF DIABLO"
Dan Duryea Audie Murphy
Susan Cabot Abbie Lane

RKO KEITH'S SYRACUSE
LAST TIMES TODAY
MATINEE 2:30
EVENING 8:30
ON STAGE! IN PERSON!
BROADWAY'S FABULOUS MUSICAL
GUYS AND DOLLS
NEW YORK CAST INTACT!
ALL SEATS RESERVED
PRICES — EVES.: Orch., $4.80, $3.60; Logs, $4.80; Boxes, $4.20; Balcony, $2.40. MAT.: Orch., $3.60, $2.40; Logs, $3.60; Boxes, $3.00; Balcony, $2.40. $2.50, $1.80, $1.20. (Tax Incl.)
Mail Orders Filled Promptly
Please Enclose Self Addressed, Stamped Envelope.
Tickets Now On Sale at Box Office

REGENT
TODAY—SATURDAY
That Hilarious Pair
DEAN MARTIN
JERRY LEWIS
"MONEY FROM HOME"

Schine's ECKEL Starts Thursday!
WALL-TO-WALL PANORAMIC SCREEN!
Maurice Herzog's Breath-Taking Best-Seller
ANNAPURNA
PEAK OF ADVENTURE!
Nine Men United in Danger Against The Unknown!
AT LAST ON THE SCREEN IN TECHNICOLOR FILMED AS IT HAPPENED!
PLUS 2nd HIT
DAVID NIVEN
LEO GENN
in the
"THE IMMORTAL BATTALION"

FLOWERS TELEGRAPHED
J. ALLEN DEAL
734 So. Crouse On the Hill

L. G. Balfour Co.
Fraternity Jewelers
JEWELRY GIFTS, FAVORS
BADGES · STEINS · RINGS
STATIONERY · PROGRAMS
CLUB PINS · KEYS
MEDALS · TROPHIES
Carl Sorensen '38
Jack Orr
Ginny Orr
University Post Office Bldg.
171 Marshall St.
Telephone 75-7837
Daily 10-5 Saturday 9-12

Now MIDTOWN Open 6:30 P.M.
You will never forget these three girls.
and their
"Three FORBIDDEN Stories"
TREATED WITH ADULT FRANKNESS!
ADULTS ONLY

Far Away Places—Stay at Home Prices
EUROPE 1954
All Expense—Budget Wise Tours
Prices From $798.00 Include
Operas and Theaters
Student Tours
THE GRAND TOUR WITH SCANDINAVIA AND VIENNA
To: Miss M. W. McKay
11 W. 42nd St., New York 36, N.Y.
Please send me free catalogue
☐ THE GRAND TOUR
☐ STUDENT TOURS
☐ GENERAL TOURS
Name _____
Address _____
City _____ State _____

Come On Down To
DEB'S
DRIVE-IN LOUNGE
SERVING THE BEST IN HOME COOKED FOOD
"The Hill Rendezvous"
Bottom of Crouse Hill
On Erie Blvd.
ALL LEGAL BEVERAGES

FOR THE MAN WHO TAKES PRIDE IN THE INDIVIDUALITY OF HIS WARDROBE
FOMAL WEAR
With a Million Dollar Look
After Six BY RUDOLKER
APRIL 3rd
I. F. C.
BALL
SINGLE BREASTED TUXEDO
$55 up.
Everything That's New in Formal Wear
"Charge it"
Complete Line of Accessories Including New Cummer Vests
THE WARDROBE MEN'S SHOP
357 So. Warren St. Opp. Hotel Onon on Warren
Syracuse's Progressive Men's Shop

FOR THE MAN WHO TAKES PRIDE IN THE INDIVIDUALITY OF HIS WARDROBE
FORMAL WEAR
With a Million Dollar Look
APRIL 3rd
I. F. C.
BALL
RENT THIS SINGLE BREASTED TUXEDO
With Cummerbund
Everything That's New in Formal Wear
Complete Line of Accessories
THE WARDROBE MEN'S SHOP
357 So. Warren St. Opp. Hotel Onon on Warren
Syracuse's Progressive Men's Shop

CLASSIFIED ADS

IMPORTANT NOTICE—CLASSIFIED ADS to appear in this paper should be DELIVERED at the HELLBOX Classified desk between 1 and 3 p. m. NO ADS WILL BE ACCEPTED AFTER 3. ALL ADS MUST BE IN 2 DAYS IN ADVANCE. For further information call 4-7206.

ALL LOST ARTICLES should be turned into the CENTRAL LOST AND FOUND ROOM, 20 Bldg. 24 at 205 University Pl. Articles can be claimed there.

AUTO-DRIVING

AUTO DRIVING INSTRUCTION. Learn to drive easily, correctly and safely. Call Upstate Auto Driving School. Phone 8-4040.

LEARNING TO DRIVE? Learn quickly, easily, scientifically. 17 years experience. Car furnished. SULLIVANS DRIVING School Inc. 73-3451.

RENTALS

TYPEWRITERS RENTED: $3.00 per month, $8 3 months. Good selection. We deliver, Smith Brothers. 4-8833.

Typewriters rentals—New Models Reasonable Rates—Expert Service, All Makes—CORNER STORE.

TYPING

EXPERT TYPING, theses and term papers. Mrs. Raymond Webb, 2-1884.

CHURCH SERVICE

TEMPLE ADATH YESHURUN. Corner Harrison and South Crouse Ave. Week day services 7:30 a.m.

LOST

LOST: Brown and silver parker 51 pen. Call 75-3446.

FOR SALE

Dazor desk lamp almost new. Cost $35. Price $20. 75-1831.

LUCKY YOU: New Tape recorder in factory carton. Any fair offer. Unlucky me. 4-7960.

1949 DELUXE Styline Chevrolet, 4-door with air condition, radio, new tires, new rings, new paint. $595. 92-0913 after 6 p.m.

CANOE: You can take it with you. Comes in two zipper bags. Fits in car trunk. Call 72-7278, 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

USED PLYMOUTH: four door. Reasonable, 807 Comstock Ave. 75-8648.

FOR SALE: V. M. Triomatic practically new, 3-speed record player. $45. Call 76-7521.

FOR RENT

GRAD STUDENTS — children — House for rent. Inquire Shell station, Tully.

CLOSE TO CAMPUS: Modern 6 room apartment with 3 bedrooms, fire place, shower and gas heat. Adults only, about May 1. Phone 4-8554. $85.

THREE ROOM, modern, furnished apartment. Newly decorated. 76-8162 after 6 p.m.

FURNISHED APARTMENT for couple. $69. Vern Steensland. 75-3790.

MISCELLANEOUS

MIMEOGRAPHING, SAME DAY SERVICE, EXCELLENT WORK FREEMAN LETTER CO., ECKEL THEATER BLDG. 2-4829

SPRING CLEANING TIME—Windows cleaned and other odd jobs done. Our work guaranteed Frank Petrosky and co. Phone 4-9625.

On the Inside
"Letterary Comment" from the School of Music. See page 2.

Syracuse Daily Orange

Weather Report
OCCASIONAL RAIN
High temperature 48
Low temperature 34

Vol. 51, No. 97 | Syracuse, N. Y., Thursday, March 25, 1954 | 4 Pages—5 Cents

Annual NCAA Swim Starts Tonight In Orange Pool

'Quiz Kids' to Test Scholastic Abilities

Eight student "quiz kids" from Syracuse and Washington and Lee universities will interlock scholastic talents in a battle of questions at 8:30 p.m. today as two campus teams meet on NBC's "College Bowl Quiz."

The broadcast test of knowedge wil be tape recorded in the Women's building dance studio and presented nation-wide at 6 p.m. Sunday, over NBC and local station WSYR. The audience will be admitted to the dance studio beginning at 7:30 p.m. Doors will close at 8:10.

THE WASHINGTON and LEE scholars, who have won five straight "College Bowl" contests, will participate from Washington hall on the Lexington, Va. campus and will be connected with Syracuse via direct lines through NBC in New York. Quiz moderator Allen, will ask the questions from New York and an electronic signalling device wil indicate which team is ready to answer first. The winning team receives a $500 award to be administered by the college.

According to Edward C. Jones supervisor of Syracuse's participation in "College Quiz Bowl", if the local team should win, the prize money will go toward the purchase of television sets for the Women's building. This decision was made by board composed of representatives of the administration and the student body.

The four Syracuse panelists are Janet Caro, Jane Bauer, Raymond Guenter and John Beach. Alternatives are ane Whittier, Jean and Elizabeth Brydon and Ronald Gross.

Produced through the radio-television center, the Syracuse portion of the show will be moderated by WSYR announcer Bob Whitney. Dr. Edwin Cady, English department, has acted as coach of the team. He was assisted by Edwin Smith, assistant dean of the College of Liberal Arts, and the Liberal Arts advisory council.

INTRODUCED IN Oct. 1953, the program places emphasis on "Brains, not brawn." The longest winning streak in the show's history has been run up by Washington and Lee. The flashy southern university panelists, Fred Lackman, Robert Paxton, Harold Quinn and Henry Turner, last week defeated the University of Pittsburgh for win number five. Previous victories came over Smith college, University of Chicago, Princeton and Barnard college. Their winnings total $2,500.

At 7:15 p.m. prior to opening the doors, sample "toss-up" questions will be given to both panels and following this at 8:10, a local audience warm-up will be held. A special sound system has been installed in the dance studio so that the audience may hear all portions of the program. There will be a strict "No Smoking" rule enforced in the room.

Students of the radio-TV department will act as ticket takers and ushers for the broadcast. They are James Fellows, Kenneth Sparks, Gwen Mahle, Dorothy Tutt, Harriet Kushner and Dorothy Swan.

According to NBC, the questioning system for "College Quiz Bowl" operates as follows:

"Toss-up" questions are asked by the moderator and an electronic signalling device indicates which team is ready to answer. The use of a split-second timer thereby eliminates any doubts as to who answered first. A point system is set up and the team with the largest point total wins and returns the following week.

The team which answers the "toss-up" question first and correctly receives 10 points and a bonus question which may be worth from 10 to 40 points. A wrong answer gives the other panel a chance to answer. A panel may interrupt the moderator while the "toss-up" question is being asked if they think they can answer, but if the reply is wrong, that team is penalized five points and the other group may answer.

This questioning continues throughout the program.

Students to Tour Sterling Company

Students interested in marketing procedures will tour the Sherrill, N. Y. plant of Oneida Limited, manufacturers of sterling silverware and silverplate, at 2 p.m. today.

The tour will give students an opportunity to see the plant and to get some idea of the general methods of operation.

Cars will leave from the front of Slocum hall at 1 p.m. All people interested in attending should be at that building at the appointed time. The tour is open to everyone who desires to go.

IFC Heads Name Weekend Chairmen

Festivities to Honor Vice-Chancellor

Delmar Macauley and James Robinson have been named decorations chairmen of Interfraternity council weekend, Robert Goldstein and James Messina, weekend co-chairmen, announced yesterday.

The weekend, April 2-3, featuring the music of Elliot Lawrence and Teddy Wilson, will be dedicated to Vice-chancellor Finla G. Crawford, who is in his 35th year at Syracuse.

WILSON, WHO has been called one of the greatest jazz pianists, filled in at the piano in college and left the violin. He started with Benny Goodman in 1936, and formed a large orchestra of his own in 1939.

Lawrence began his career early, playing from the age of two. He was a professional at four, and went on to compose and conduct his own band, "The Bandbusters," in high school. He played on the Chesterfield Supper Club and has in recent years appeared at more than 300 college dances.

Wilson will play at the all-University open house from 8 to 12 p.m. April 2 in Sims dining hall. "Fraternally Yours," the Saturday night formal, will feature Lawrence and his band.

Macauley is president of Pi Kappa Alpha and social activities chairman of IFC. Robinson is co-hairman of the Citizenship-Education conference and secretary of Sigma Nu.

UJA Committee Needs $26,186,000

Joint Distribution committee, second of three United Jewish appeal beneficiaries, will require a minimum of $26,186,000 to operate effectively this year.

JDC works to meet the needs of 165,000 distressed men, women and children, 35,000 of them in Israel, 100,000 in Moslem lands, 30,000 in central and western Europe.

With UJA aid this committee can:

1. CONTINUE AND expand the operations of Malben, JDC's welfare agency in Israel, which is currently helping 5,500 newcomers monthly and must aid 6,500.

2. Give assistance to 30,000 men, women and children in Europe for whom immigration and employment remain impossible.

3. Continue medical care, feeding aid, vocational training and educational assistance to nearly 100,000 persons in Moslem countries where poverty, misery and disease are rampant.

4. Provide for 35,000 aged, handicapped, sick and others in Israel who must remain in institutions or receive reconstruction aid, vocational training and cultural, religious and educational assistance.

Applications Due For Law Exam

Prospective law school applicants who plan to take the Law School Admission test at Syracuse on April 10, must have their completed applications filed with the Educational Testing service, P.O. Box 592, Princeton, N.J. The applications should be filed no later than March 31.

Applications to take the test and a Bulletin of Information may be obtained from Mr. Weeks, Room 111, Psychological Research center or by direct request to the address listed above.

HOUSING CONVOCATION

A housing convocation will be held at 7:30 p.m. today in Maxwell auditorium. An opportunity will be given at this meeting for questions concerning housing policy, such as the recently announced rule concerning sophomore eating and compulsory housing.

Ohio State Rated Heavy Favorite To Take Crown

By BOB GROGAN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Ford Konno, Ohio State's Hawaiian-born swim star, gets first crack at the record book at 7:30 tonight when he competes in the 1500-meters event which kicks off the 31st annual NCAA swim championships being held this year in the Orange pool.

The million dollar structure may never be the same after the many stars entered in this meet churn through its waters. Several meet records and possibly a few world records are expected to fall in what Syracuse university's swim coach, Ted Webster, calls a "fast pool."

APPROXIMATELY 200 swimmers from over 50 schools will participate in the national championships which will end Saturday, March 27, with the finals of seven of the 15 events being staged at 8:30 that evening.

Tickets for the finals of the NCAA Swim championships, March 27 have been sold out. Tickets for all the remaining sessions are still available.

Ohio State, a strong favorite to take the team title away from defending champion, Yale, hopes to get off on the right foot with a victory tonight. Martin Smith is the Eli's best bet in this event, but his times have been no where near matching those of Konno.

Since many of Yale's best swimmers have graduated, experts feel that Michigan's well-balanced squad is the club the Buckeyes will have to worry about most. Competing in the 1500-meters for the Wolverines will be Jack Wardrop and possibly John O'Reilly.

The boy that may give Konno the most trouble in his quest for a victory, is Bill Yorzyk of Springfield college. He placed fourth in this event at last year's NCAA's and has been showing good times in the long races this season.

ONE OF THE threats in this event, Graham Johnson of Oklahoma, has been declared ineligible for scholastic reasons and will not be able to take part in the meet. However, his teammate, Pete Duncan, has an outside chance to beat Konno or at any rate, make the race interesting.

All finals in the 1500-meters will be conducted on a time basis over the 25-meter Orange pool.

Syracuse university's only two entries in the NCAA's, Doug Dodge and Kev Wilson, are slated to compete in this event. This will be the longest distance either of these boys has swam all season.

Although 30 swimmers have filed entries for the 1500-meters, some of these boys may be scratched if their coaches feel they should be saved for future races. Each contestant can compete in only three events just as in dual meets.

Misses Bright, Murtha Selected Candidates for WSG Presidency

MARILYN MURTHA and DORIANNE BRIGHT will vie for women's student government presidency in Spring elections April 7. Miss Murtha (left) was chairman of this year's WSG ways and means panel. Miss Bright chaired the public relations panel.

BARBARA ANDERSON (left) and CONNIE CURRERI were announced as candidates for speaker of the WSG assembly at last night's convocation. Nominated by assembly representatives, both have served as presidents of their living centers this year.

By EILEEN CHAMBERLAIN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Dorianne Bright and Marilyn Murtha were named candidates for women's student government president last night at the joint Eta Pi Upsilon-WSG convocation in Hendricks chapel.

The president will be chosen by women students in Spring elections scheduled Wednesday, April 7. Both candidates served as WSG junior officers this year. Miss Bright is chairman of the public relations panel and Miss Murtha chairs the ways and means panel. The candidate receiving the lesser number of votes automatically becomes vice-president.

NOMINEES FOR chief of the civil service commission are Lois Clark and Charlotte Easterbrook. The runner-up will receive the associate chief post and will be in charge of the Through the Keyhole training program.

Speaker of the WSG assembly will also be chosen in the spring elections. Candidates for this office are Barbara Anderson and Carmela (Connie) Curreri.

Vying for WSG executive secretary-treasurer are Roberta Baliba and Patricia Mosher. Chairmanship of the social chairmen's assembly will go to the candidate receiving the lesser number of votes.

Coeds will select a Spring Weekend queen in the April campus elections. Candidates for this honor are Judy Perry, Jane Dempsey, Ellen (Billie) Williams, Mary Anne Dalton and Madge Evans. The queen will reign over the entire weekend and will be presented at the Saturday afternoon pageant of the weekend.

ALL CANDIDATES for WSG offices and new guides will be introduced to the campus at a tea from 4 to 5 p.m. today in the Alumnae lounge of the Women's

(See ELECTIONS, page 4)

Four Houses Win In Sing Competition

Four more houses were selected in last night's step singing preliminaries in the Chapel. They are Alpha Omicron Pi and Alpha Chi Omega in the large house division and Sperry and Butler cottages in the small house division.

In the first flight of the large houses, Alpha Omicron Pi singing "Prayer" from Hansel and Gretel by Humperdink defeated Kappa Delta's "Build Thee More Stately Mansions" by Mueller and Alpha Xi Delta's "Meadow Lands by Knipper."

Alpha Chi Omega with "God So Loved the World" from the Crucifixion by John Stainer as their chosen song won over Alpha Epsilon Phi's "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You" by Meredith Wilson and Kappa Kappa Gamma's "If You Can't Sing, Whistle" by Hart and Blight in the second flight.

Sperry cottage's "Shenandoah" a ballad arranged by Bartholomew, was chosen in the first flight division of the small houses over Blackwell's "Bless This House" by Brahe. In the second flight, Butler cottage won by default.

Further preliminaries are scheduled for March 30 and 31. Winners from these contests will enter the quarter-finals. Anne Forrest, contest chairman, announced that a very important meeting of all the group leaders from the winning houses will be held April 2 for instructions to continue the contest.

Speech Center Set Tea for Freshmen

Dr. Louis Di Carlo of the Gordon D. Hoople Speech and Hearing Center will entertain at a tea tomorrow in honor of the freshmen in the audiology and speech pathology departments.

The tea is set from 3 to 5 p.m. in the alumnae lounge of the Women's building. All people interested in the field of speech and hearing therapy are invited to attend.

Faculty members and graduate students in the center will be present. Special guests will be Dr. Gordon D. Hoople, Syracuse physician, for whom the center is named. Dean Eric Faigle of the College of Liberal Arts and Mrs. Faigle have also been invited to the tea.

Spring Weekend Theme Dedicated To Boar's Head's 50th Anniversary

By LIZ GODDARD
Daily Orange Junior Editor

"All the World Is a Stage" will be the theme of the 1954 Spring Weekend, May 7, 8 and 9.

The weekend is dedicated to Boar's Head's fiftieth anniversary, Judy Perry, president of Eta Pi Upsilon, announced at the joint Eta Pi-WSG convocation last night.

CO-SPONSORING THE traditional events with the senior women's honorary are Tau Theta Epsilon and Phi Kappa Alpha, senior men's honoraries.

Employing ideas from Hollywood and the legitimate stage, the float parade scheduled for Saturday morning will have "There's No Business Like Show Business" as a theme.

Chairmen of this event are Ellen Williams and Jean Burns.

"Strawberries with the Stars" will highlight the strawberry breakfast on May 8, featuring campus stars as well as stars of the stage.

THIS YEAR, continuous service will be provided from 8 to 9:30 a.m. instead of serving the meal on two shifts, chairmen Sue Radcliffe and Patricia Fay announced.

Workers are needed to serve as hostesses and waitresses as well as students to help in ticket sales.

Rehearsals will start April 2 for "Curtain Time," Spring Weekend pageant. The script, written by Sally Alger, tells the story of a jester dancing his way through the life of the theater.

Eta Pi chairmen of the dance which is held in Thornden park amphitheater Saturday afternoon are Winona Brierley, Jane Dempsey and Marilyn Mawson.

BARBARA SUCHY, Ann Lines and Madge Evans are chairmen of the costume committee for the pageant. Sign-ups for women to help make and design the cos-

(See SPRING WEEKEND, page 4)

Protestant Council Elects Co-chairmen

Cowling, Sheckells Chosen at Meeeting

Ellis Cowling and Jane Sheckells were elected co-chairmen of Protestant council last week at a regular business meeting of the group.

Secretary and treasurer, also elected last week, are Jean Tuggey and Bruce Smith. Susan Black was chosen representative to the Student Christian movement in New York State.

Cowling, a resident of the men's co-op, is a member of Westminster fellowship. Miss Scheckells' Delta Zeta, is in the Baptist fellowship group. A member of Baptist fellowship, Miss Tuggey lives at Reid cottage, and Smith, Alpha Tau Omega, is a member of United Student fellowship.

The Protestant council consists of the executive committee and president, chaplain or counselor and a representative from each of the 12 denominational groups in Hendricks chapel.

BRIDGE TOURNEY

Gamma Phi Beta sorority was the winner of the second intersorority bridge tournament sponsored by Sigma Tau Delta. Alpha Gamma Delta and Alpha Phi were second and third respectively. The trophy will be awarded Saturday.

Campus Blood Drive To Continue Today

By TOM LONG

Red Cross workers collected 163 pints of blood yesterday in the first part of Syracuse university's all-campus blood drive. The drive will continue between 10 a.m.-4 p.m. today in the Men's gym. Forestry students will donate during the same hours on Friday.

A total of 249 students were scheduled to give yesterday. Only 126 of these appeared. Of the 126 people processed, 23 were found unacceptable to contribute. Sixty walk-ins completed the group volunteering to contribute their blood.

According to Red Cross officials 270 students are scheduled to donate today. All those who were supposed to contribute yesterday will be accepted if they appear today. Walk-ins will again be allowed to donate.

Students are reminded to watch their diet before the donation. Any one who has eaten foods containing fat within four hours of the contribution will not be able to donate.

A light meal is recommended before donating, rather than a heavy one. Workers will serve food at the gym.

Mary Flavin, chairman of the drive on campus, expressed hope that all those scheduled today would appear. She stressed the fact that Red Cross workers could accept many more donors than the number who contributed yesterday.

Assisting Miss Flavin are Anne McKenzie, in charge of hostesses, and Diane Johnson and Dan Russell.

Students to Revise Orientation Booklet

Assignments will be issued at a meeting of the student committee in charge of the Orange Guide book for freshmen at 7:30 p.m. today in 303 Maxwell.

All persons who applied to work on the group, those who attended the last meeting, and other interested should attend.

The committee, which will compile the familiar orientation booklet combined with Newcomer's Daze, has planned to completely revise the guide's content and format.

Heading the group's work are Arthur Ehrenreih, Lois Clark, Ellen (Billie) Williams, Stephen Reiss and Richard Morgan.

According to Reiss, the 1954 edition of Orange Guide will contain added sections on the academic side of college life at Syracuse. Included will be a look at the advisor system, honoraries, averages, selection of courses and hints on how to ge the most out of college studies.

Traditions and weekend background will be part of a new section in the booklet.

Education Board To Meet in Sims

A meeting of the Central New York School Board Institute is sheduled for 6:30 p.m. today at Sims' Hall. The theme for discussion is, "The School Board Deals With Its Public."

Participating in this session are: Dean Virgile M. Rogers, School of Education, Alvin Schwartz, Binghamton Press and Thomas Fetherston, asistant manager of the Union Carbide and Carbon Corporation's general publicity department.

Dean Rogers will discuss, "How Can Lay Advisory Committees Make the Best Contribution to Educational Planning?"

"How Can a School Board Develop the Best Relationship with Newspapers?", is the topic of Mr. Schwartz.

Mr. Fetherston will conclude with "What Techniques are Successful in Building Public Support for School Bond Issues and Other School Board Programs?"

EBB AND FLOW

Professor Ray Irwin of the School of Speech will highlight speeches from "Julius Caesar" at 7:30 p.m. on "Ebb and Flow," broadcast from station WAER.

Dance Will Feature Sadie Hawkins

SADIE HAWKINS DAY was never practiced more enthusiastically than in the above photo. Preparing for Syracuse's tribute to the Al Capplan institution at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow night in the Women's building, MERLE SUE BANK gets a strong hold on GERALD GERBER'S leg; and NANCY BOERNER "steals home" on ROGER J. HERZ'S jacket. Herz makes an elusive plunge toward freedom and from the expression on his face, bacherlorhood. Photo by John Johnsrud

A series of novelty dances will be among the attractions of the Sadie Hawkins Day dance to be held at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow night in the dance studio of the Women's building, reported Merle Sue Bank, chairman of the dance.

In addition, the Outing club will hold a square dance simultaneously with the Sadie Hawkins dance in the large gym of the building.

THE NOVELTY dances will include the knee dance, John Paul Jones, a multiplication dance and reverse dances in which the girls ask the boys to dance. Prizes will be awarded.

There also will be a contest for the craziest or the loudest shirt. Attire for the dance in informal with jeans preferred.

The judges for the ontests will include: Miss Margaret Parker, social director of the University; Mrs. Margaret Bonisteel, assistant director of the Women's building; Francis Procoppio, freshman class president; Margaret White, sophomore class president; Samuel Shawhan, junior class president;

(See SADIE HAWKINS, page 4)

SYRACUSE DAILY ORANGE

THREE R'S OF A COLLEGE NEWSPAPER: RESPONSIVENESS, RESPONSIBILITY AND RESOURCEFULNESS

Page 2 Thursday, March 25, 1954

Editor-in-chief ——— Arlene Lambert
Business Manager ——— Robert Goldstein

SENIOR EDITORIAL STAFF

Managing Editor ——— Arthur Siegel
Editorial Director ——— Hugh O. Muir
Executive Editor ——— Israel Caro
Sports Editor ——— Kenneth Lent

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Edward Meyer, Joan Nadelhaft, Phyllis Sirota, Howard Vonkirk, Mary Vivian

BUSINESS STAFF

Asst. Business Manager ——— Sheldon Lessen
Layout Manager ——— Judith Berman
Classified Manager ——— Jean Iacoia
Circulation Manager ——— Anita Freyberg
Promotion Manager ——— Lloyd Eisenberg

DAILY STAFF

News Editor ——— Ivens Stanton
Night Editor ——— John Johnsrud
Asst. Night Editor ——— Ros Brownstein
Editorial Page Asst. ——— Joanne Stern
Night Sports Editor ——— Al Gelen

Published by the students of Syracuse University. Telephones: News, 75-5155, 75-5197; Editor, 76-1443; Business: 4-7206. Subscription by mail $5 per year, $3.50 per semester. Entered as second class mail matter at the Syracuse Post Office. Exclusive national advertising representatives National Advertising Inc., New York City.

Keep the promise

One hundred twenty-three Syracusans broke their word yesterday.

Of 249 persons who signed up to participate in yesterday's section of the campus Red Cross blood drive, only 126 showed up. That's about half.

Certainly there is no legal obligation to fulfill the pledge to donate blood. Ethically, blood donations should be completely voluntary—and that is the way they are conducted.

However, many many volunteer workers were on hand yesterday to assist in the process of collecting blood. Most of them stood around, wasting their valuable time, with nothing to do.

We can offer no reason for the failure of half the students to show up.

Except one: the weather. And that, in our opinion, is the worst possible excuse.

Red Cross officials inform us that some donors who had not signed up previously showed up yesterday. Persons who did sign up but missed their appointments yesterday may still go to Archbold gym today and fulfill their pledges—or they may make appointments with the Red Cross downtown.

There are no unnecessary delays. The lines move rapidly.

Let's make our promises good.

Managing Editor

Bowl game tonight

Four University scholars will take to the national airways tonight (via tape for broadcast Sunday) to prove that Syracuse students can perform as well as the famed Syracuse athletes.

Their "Quiz Bowl" opponents from the South will be looking for their sixth win in a row. It has fallen upon the Orange to break that streak and uphold the prestige of the "Northern intelligence."

It will not be an easy job for the Hill scholars since they are competing against men with five weeks experience on how to be "quick on the trigger." And this is one game in which experience is bound to be an important factor.

But overcoming such odds is a favorite trick of Syracuse students. On behalf of the student body we send the contestants a sincere wish for victory and a simple "good luck" for the correct mental reflex that makes a win.

Editor-in-Chief

Swimming pilgrims

The amphibians, who sport themselves better in the water than out, have made their annual NCAA pilgrimage, this time to the Syracuse pool, to test who is the fastest or most graceful aquatic of them all.

Our mere paddlings in the stuff have beached us for this weekend, but at least we may claim the honor of being host to the talent that has joined us.

It's been 92 years since the first swimming associations were formed in Europe. In 1896 swimmers had become sportive enough to compete in the Olympic games.

As for diving, that got its official start 59 years ago. (At that time the Royal Life Saving Society of Great Britain became interested in a "graceful diving competition.")

It's a rather long cry from Horatius diving into the Tiber to the graceful three-meter drop into the new Orange pool. And the fatiguing swimmings of the English channel don't jibe with a fast 50-yard freestyle.

But the history of swimming, like any chronical, is marked with continuous records of improvement. Perhaps a record or two will fall in the next three days.

Regardless, we look forward to a good show. However, our criterion is not the stopwatch or the point sheet, necessarily, but the enjoyment of watching something done at its best.

Good heart to all.

Editorial Director

WASH. & LEE'S 'QUIZ KIDS'

All is Forsook For W&L Quiz

By ANDY GREENMAN
News Editor, Washington & Lee

LEXINGTON, Va.—Crowds of six or seven hundred people have gathered each Thursday night to hear the specially tape recorded broadcast from Washington hall at Washington and Lee university.

These people have not been told they'll get quaint prizes; and there's no free fortune telling service—it's NBC's "College Quiz Bowl of the Air" radio show. The weekly program, in which Washington and Lee have had so much luck, is rated to be the top event to hit the small southern university in several years.

Each week the students and townspeople have been getting to the show at least two hours early to grab the first seats. With the broadcast starting at 8:25 all the seats are filled by 7 p.m. By the time NBC is starting the first run through, another three hundred people are gathered in the chapel vicinity where speakers are set up.

The "Quiz Bowl" takes the spotlight each week in the small town of Lexington, Virginia. With only two movies and few other things hardly drawing a crowd, the people turn to listen over specially posted speakers to the Washington and Lee team.

The team is composed of four Phi Beta Kappas, including Robert Paxton, who is a Rhodes scholar.

Washington and Lee, with an enrollment of about 1,000 men maintains a well-rounded university life, as well as holding on to the bit of Southern tradition which surrounds the campus and the local area.

The college was endowed by George Washington when he gave several hundred shares of stock to the University. The funds from his gift are still going to students at the school now amounting to about $2.50 a student per semester. Later on General Robert E. Lee was called upon to take the position of presidency of Washington college as it was called. Lee accepted.

The reconstruction program in the South was pushed on, and Lee kept on building his new beloved Washington college. He established the country's first journalism school there at that time.

After his death the name of the school was changed to its present name.

There are several undergraduate colleges and a graduate law school which comprise the University. There are also 17 fraternities which comprise 90 per cent of the student body.

LETTERARY COMMENT

RIGHT OF PRIVACY & SAFETY

March 24, 1954

To the University Administration:

Since the adoption of the rule by the administration that all sophomores who are not living in fraternities must live in University-approved housing, there has been considerable discussion among the students about the rule and some particular phases of it.

First of all, there is the idea of compelling us to live in University dormitories as sophomores. Then our biggest objection is the clause which states that the University reserves the right to use our dormitory rooms during vacation periods. It seems to us that when we are forced to use University facilities for living that our property should be safe at all times during the academic year and that we should not be forced to take our belongings home during vacation to insure their safety.

We all have valuable belongings which could not be replaced or taken home during vacation periods. And the University will not undertake responsibility for insurance against loss by fire, theft, or any other cause. (This includes the period when the student is on vacation.)

How far can the University go?

Two Freshmen

'ACCENT' THE PROBLEM

Just a Matta' Of Plain Talk

By MOLLIE GLASER

For six months I have tried to lose my so-called accent—it was a losing battle all the way. Finally, just to clear my mind and perhaps my speech I paid a visit to the Special Education building. It was here that I obtained a book that would shock a lot of innocent people and especially those from the New York area.

Over large areas from cities on the Connecticut river to cities on the Pacific coast, differences are so slight that the casual listener often fails to notice them.

Things are different up and down the Atlantic coast for one may observe striking differences in pronunciation. This especially applies to the great difference found between the New York area and the rest of the coast cities.

The largest divisional speech area covered in the United States is General American. This covers about two-thirds of the country. The smallest area of the seven major divisions is the New York area. No other part of the country duplicates its speech.

Everyone in America, (at least most Americans in America) speak English, but there are many different dialects. The most striking difference between the various regional pronunciations, and the difference about which most arguments revolve, is the nature of the sounds which correspond to the letter r.

Most of the people in the General American region pronounce the word wash as wash. New Yorkers are often prone to pronounce it warsh. Then, for example, in the case of the word father, they are likely to say fatha, completely omitting the r.

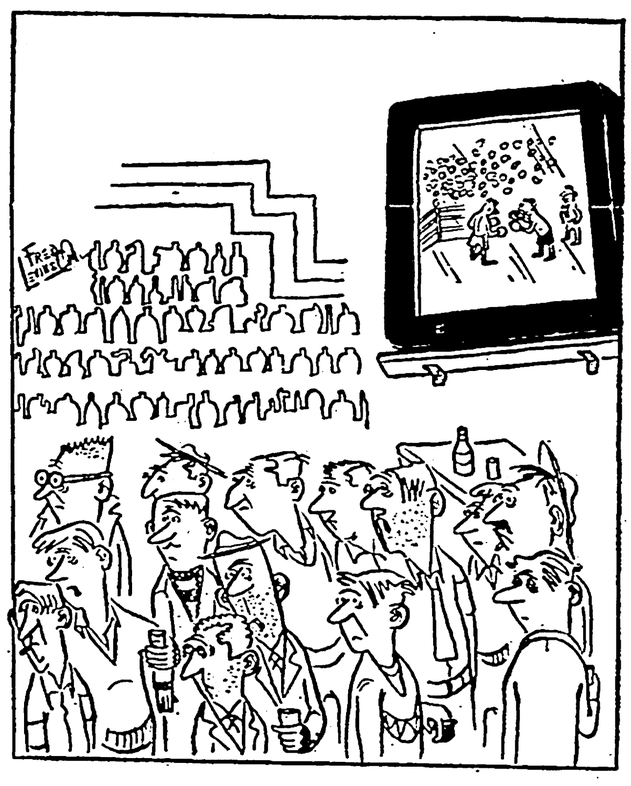
This is a very common dialetical characteristic and is called the fault of the lubricating r. Therefore a typical New Yorker in a typical New Yorker statement might say, "The lor (law) compels me to warsh (wash) the bon (barn). Or perhaps they might exclaim, "What a harid (horrid) idear (idea)!"

One thing that New Yorkers do insist that they don't do is talk like people from Brooklyn, (even though Brooklyn is a part of New York).

It will be better not to elaborate anymore or I won't have any friends left, but I felt it necessary to let you know that everyone doesn't talk like everyone else. If they did, wouldn't this be a monotonous world?

P. S. I have a Western Pennsylvanian accent.

Resurrections from Levinson



The battle of the Bermuda bulge: long and short of it all.

BERMUDA BATTLE

'UNSIGHTLY PAIRS OF MALE KNEES'

By FLIP SIROTA

This bit will prove that all members of The Daily Orange do not concur on some essential, absolutely basic isues.

The point in contention right here is Mr. Roger Herz's stand that if girls, or even boys for that matter, want to wear Bermuda shorts with knee-length socks—well, go ahead and let them.

Wherever Mr. Herz was this summer, it seems safe to bet he didn't come anywhere near New York's Madison ave. where the issue of radical nonconformity in men's dress was weakly fought and thankfully died.

The uncomfortable clothes city men are subject to wear during summer months has long been a strong gripe of the sex to which Mr. Herz claims allegiance. In the summer of '53 the issue was brought into the open—and so were a number of unsightly pairs of male knees—in one of New York's busiest sections.

Up and down the street these dissenting males paraded, campaigning for their "cooler" cause. This lasted only a short while before the demonstrative men abandoned their cause not any cooler, but a good deal hotter, from embarrassment.

Mr. Herz says that nonconformity is good, laudable, something people should get out and be stared at for. Nonconformity is good, many people are probably supporting on that issue. But ridiculous nonconformity is just for those who would be better off standing on the corner of Hollywood and Vine.

Mr. Herz advocates men should wear Bermuda shorts if they want to. Mr. Herz would probably be in favor of shorter shorts for public street wear, if men wanted to.

Due to various anatomical differences in the male and female shapes the concession can be made that men don't look half as bad from the rear view, an attribute many women cannot claim.

However, it doesn't seem quite the thing in polite society to discuss the rather "odd" shapes of most men's legs. Add knee length socks and the effect is nothing short of being lurid and ludicrous.

Let Mr. Herz don a pair of shorts and knee length socks and take a critical look in a mirror—full length that is. If after honest appraisal he is still in favor of this nonconformity I have a challenge for him.

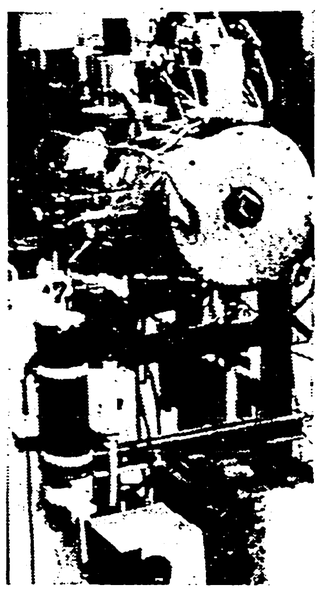
I'm sure my legs are a good deal nicer looking than Mr. Herz's. About the rear anatomical differences I will not say. But if he is so in favor of ridiculous, unbecoming nonconformity, just for the sake of being different, I think he needs a lesson.

I dare him to name the day and we will both wear the outfit here discussed and parade around the campus.

Well, Mr. Herz, are you game?

Getting Inside the Atom

By JOHN JOHNSRUD



Salt, radio waves, and molecules are all being used in research study on the properties of atoms.

One of the basement laboratories of Steele hall is the site of this physics department research being directed by Prof. John W. Trischka.

The equipment is a complex assortment of electronic parts, vacuum - creating pumps, glass tubing and measuring instruments.

The apparatus consists of a large, boiler-shaped vacuum chamber containing a small metal oven, several eletrical deflecting fields, a field of radio waves, and a target. A mass spectrometer is also part of the unit. This spectrometer is merely a magnetic field which sorts atomic particles according to their weight.

The oven, heated by inserted metal coils, heats some lithium cloride, a compound quite similar to table salt, until it changes to a liquid and then to a gas vapor. This vapor flows out an extremely narrow hole in the form of a very thin beam of molecules.

Two electrical fields deflect this beam in a certain set pattern so that molecules of different energies are isolated and only those of one particular energy reach the target.

A field of radio waves, however, is set up between the deflecting fields. The molecules change their energy potential when passing through this field, move differently in the second deflecting field, and miss the target. The frequency of the radio waves determines the amount of change in the molecular energy.

The molecules that hit the target, a heated tungsten wire, break down into their basic elements, lithium and chlorine. Yet another electrical field located around the target pulls the lithium ions into the mass spectrometer.

The number of molecules hitting the target depends upon the energy change caused by the radio waves. A collector measures the amount of ions emerging from the spectrometer.

The character and physical properties of the nucleus and the electron rings of the atoms of the molecules can be studied from the information gained from the changes in the molecular energy.

New Look

Tired of his old electric razor, he bought a shiny new safety razor. He repaired to a sink for the first try.

Meanwhile, we read the enclosed leaflet aloud. "No muss, no fuss, no bother, no frustration . . ."

"Yes," cried out our friend as he emerged, a bloody wreck, "but they forgot something—no skin, either!"

FROM BAD TO HERZ

BERMUDA SHORTS TO OLIVE DRAB

By R. JACQUES

Bermuda shorts, invented in the year 1456, were named after their designer, Samuel B. Shorts. Shorts, a bubble gum manufacturer, has noted in his autobiography that the greatest single cause for his action was continually hearing the song, "Sam, You Made the Pants Too Long."

Great Britain became an anti-shorts nation and waged war against France for several centuries over the matter. Starting in the 17th century, persecuted European shorts wearers emigrated to the new world, forming our traditional freedom to wear Bermuda shorts.

The controversy has come down to modern times, one of the biggest gains made by the shorts supporters being the passage of the 19th amendment to the United States constitution, which gave women equal rights in the wearing of Bermuda shorts.

The apparel has had widespread effect on the world, and two wars have been waged thus far this century for human dignity and the right to wear Bermuda shorts.

A reliable source at Syracuse reported yesterday that an "Anti-Bermuda Committee" had been formed for the purpose of banning the shorts from campus.

"This will be just the first step in a program of progress," he said. Next on the committee's platform is limiting all students to wearing size 14½ olive drab suits and dresses. A resolution allowing a choice of neckties is being considered.

The committee hopes eventually to extend the ban on shorts to all children under ten years of age "to protect their morals."

'State' or 'U.' Is No Dif.

Earlier this year Pennsylvania State college changed its name to Pennsylvania State university.

Now the movement has spread westward. A bill which would make Michigan State college a university has been introduced in the Michigan legislature.

Students at Michigan State, however, have been much more apathetic than those at Penn State. Says the Michigan State News: Students apparently do not care."

The Perfect Honeymoon doesn't "just happen"

YOU must plan it. You'll want privacy, in beautiful surroundings, enticing meals (breakfast until 11:00), varied recreation of your own choosing, and companions you like: other collegians, starting life together, like yourselves. Write to America's unique haven for newlyweds only. Mention dates, and we'll include our helpful "THREE HONEYMOON PLANS."

THE FARM ON THE HILL
Swiftwater 94, Pa.

FOUR CURES FOR SPRING FEVER

When spring fever makes you let-up a little—have some fun—head for Hotel Syracuse. Famous restaurants tempt you with excellent food, good entertainment in four distinctive settings. Each a fine place for springtime release from winter schedules.

LENNY HERMAN

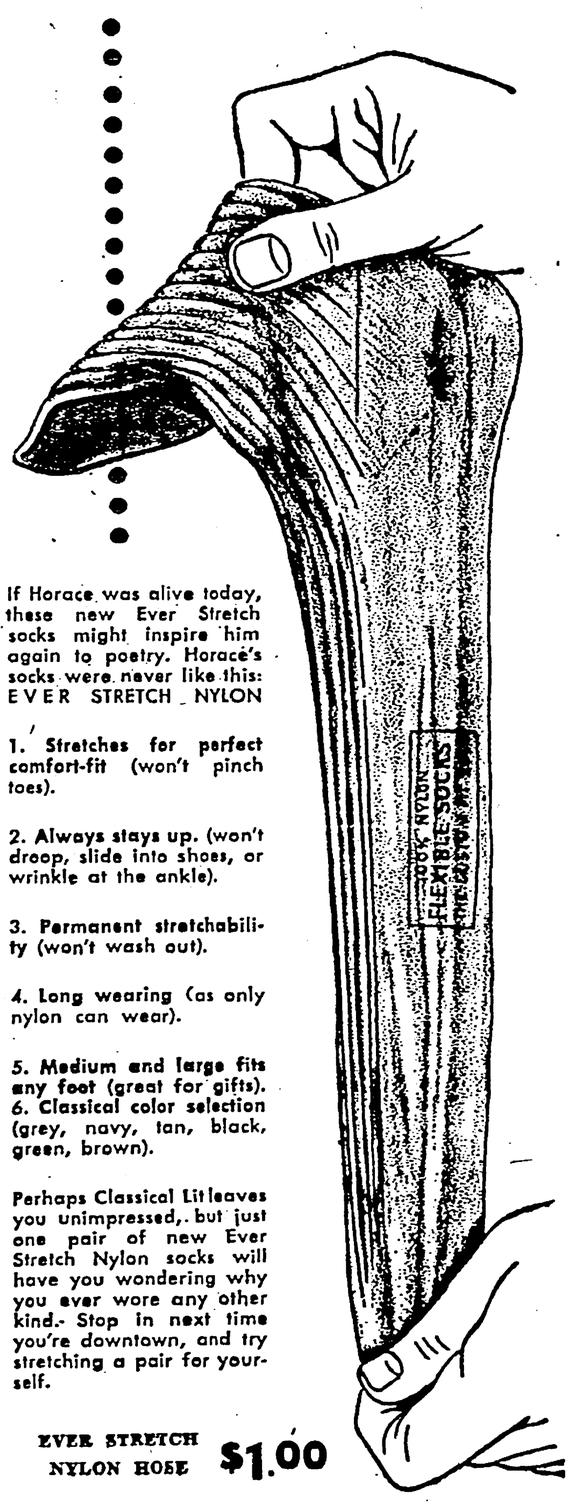
and his orchestra playing for dancing at dinner and supper Tuesday through Saturday evenings.

Persian Terrace

hotel SYRACUSE

'Thou canst mould it into any shape.'

—HORACE



If Horace was alive today, these new Ever Stretch socks might inspire him again to poetry. Horace's socks were never like this: EVER STRETCH NYLON

1. Stretches for perfect comfort-fit (won't pinch toes).

2. Always stays up. (won't droop, slide into shoes, or wrinkle at the ankle).

3. Permanent stretchability (won't wash out).

4. Long wearing (as only nylon can wear).

5. Medium and large fits any foot (great for gifts).
6. Classical color selection (grey, navy, tan, black, green, brown).

Perhaps Classical Lit leaves you unimpressed, but just one pair of new Ever Stretch Nylon socks will have you wondering why you ever wore any other kind. Stop in next time you're downtown, and try stretching a pair for yourself.

EVER STRETCH NYLON HOSE $1.00

WELLS & COVERLY
So. Salina St. • Syracuse

COPY—JIM BLIER

Along the Sidelines

By KEN LENT, DAILY ORANGE SPORTS EDITOR

Any autograph hound who wandered through Archbold gym yesterday afternoon could have had a field day. There were enough name athletes in the building to start a local "Who's Who in Sports."

In the Orange pool, college swimming's top names were studiously working out for the NCAA's. Upstairs were the Boston Celtics, who open in pro basketball's semi-finals against the Nats. Both groups have one word in mind—championship.

To an uninitiated observer, the Celts might have looked like any good college team except the fact that they were a little taller, They missed the same number of shots. They kidded the same way. But there was still something about them marked "Special."

Last year when the Celts worked out at Archbold they took the playoffs from the Nats. It could be that they were up here yesterday hoping that basketball's gods would smile at them once again.

We were talking with Boston's top scorer, Bob Cousy, and he was recalling the time when he played against the University about five years ago. Cousy was with an excellent Holy Cross team then.

There was a lot of interest in the game and the old State Fair Coliseum had a good crowd in the stands when the two teams squared off. According to Bob, the Orange led right up to the third quarter when the Crusaders put on a spurt to clinch the game.

Since then, Cousy has been in the Salt City many times while in Celtic livery. Some nights have been good for him and others not so good. Today, however, the chips are down. The Nats will have to be careful because that's the time that a champ like Cousy comes through.

• • • • •

Just as impressive is the pool itself. For instance, when the Ohio State boys got their first glimpse of it, "Wow . . . Look at that . . . Great, huh?" were typical open-mouthed comments.

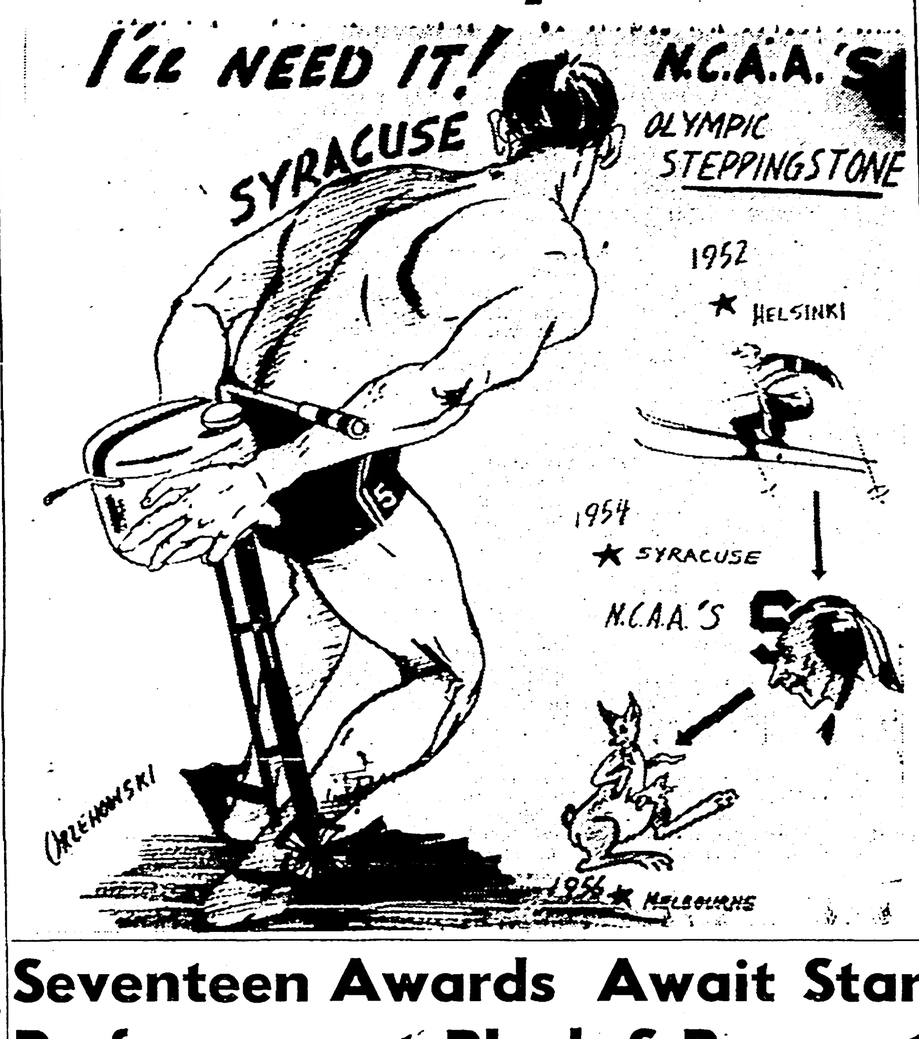
Syracuse coach Ted Webster has said all along that he thinks one or more world's records will be broken. After watching fellows like Dick Cleveland and Ford Konno of Ohio State literally sprint through the water, it could not seem far from the realm of possibility.

One thing's for sure. The pool records are going to be smashed so far that in years to come it may be almost impossible to break any of them. Syracuse sports fans are in for a big treat this weekend.

• • • • •

ORANGE SLICES: Freshman football coach Dick Beyer plans to wrestle at the Niagara AAU's next week and then the AAU championships the following week on the West Coast . . . Former Orange and minor league pitcher Mal Mallette has an interesting article on sports-writer-player relations in the current issue of "Quill," the journalism magazine . . . Paul Romeo's squad puts on their fifth gymnastic exhibition this week for a group of Cub Scouts.

I'll Need It... By Orzehowski



Seventeen Awards Await Star Performers at Block S Banquet

By BOB LEFKO
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Sunday's Block S Banquet will not only provide a good meal and fine entertainment for guests but also top honors for individual Orange athletes. Seventeen special awards and trophies will be given.

One of the most important trophies is the Finla G. Crawford scaholastic trophy given to the squad which compiles the best scholastic trophy given to the two semesters. Vice-Chancellor Crawford will be at the affair to present the award which was won last year by the golf team.

THE MOST valuable gridder on last season's football squad will follow in the steps of Joe Szombathy when he receives the "Bill" Horr football trophy while the most improved Orange hoopster will be the recipient of the Phi Kappa Alpha basketball award won last year by Dave Kline.

Top athlete in the sophomore class will receive the historical Devil's Own Trophy while the Orange Key trophy will be given to the top junior athlete. These awards are given on the basis of marks, activities and sports ability. Last year's winners were Gerhard Baule and Jack Wescott.

The top wrestler will receive the William J. Davison wrestling trophy won last year by Bob Bury while the Edwin Tanner boxing trophy goes to the most improved miitmen. Tom Coulter and Vince Rigolosi shared the award last year. The gymnasts outstanding member will receive the Phi Epsilon Kappa award won in 1953 by Corky Sebbo.

Fencing coach Ben Burtt will present the Dean Dellis fencing trophy for the second year to the top swordsman. Last season's winner was Bill Robinson. Two swimming awards, the Anonymous trophy for the most improved performer and the Alumni award for the top swimmer will be given. Present holders of the awards are George Mishko and Tom Schaeffer.

SPRING SPORTS will be represented with the baseball squad's top player winning the Lew Carr trophy and the top lacrosser receiving the Laurie Cox trophy. In crew, Coach Gus Ericksen will present the top athlete with the Tip Goes Crew trophy. All these awards will be for 1953 performances.

Two awards to be presented by Coach Bob Grieve are the Richard Arrighi cross-country trophy for the most improved harrier and the Tom Keane Memorial trophy as the outstanding hill-and-daler. Another award to be give will be presented by Pi Alpha Tau, the captains, managers and sports editors honorary.

All varsity letter winners are guests of the athletic department at the banquet and can obtain their tickets in the athletic department throughout the week.

Hugh Daugherty, new football coach at Michigan State, is the main speaker and Dean Kenneth Bartlett will act as toastmaster.

Coed Teams Meet Cortland State

Cortland State Teachers' college will send basketball, bowling, volleyball and badminton squads to Syracuse, Saturday to compete against Hill teams in a sportsday sponsored by WAA.

Competition is scheduled to start at 2 p.m. Bowling, volleyball and badminton teams from Syracuse will be picked today at 8 p.m. in Gym B of the Women's building by WAA managers of the sports.

WAA intramural competition for the upperclass basketball championship will continue tonight. Peck II and Kappa Kappa Gamma are slated to meet at 8:30 p.m. in Gym A; Theta Phi Alpha and Delta Gamma will clash at the same time. The winners will enter the finals to be held next week.

At the close of the upperclass tournament, frosh champs Sims III will meet the upperclass champs for the overall university title.

Tau Delt Defeats M-4; Wins Volleyball Title

By EV MURCH

Tau Delta Phi sewed up the all-University volleyball championship last night as they downed the independent champs, Skytop M-4, by scores of 15-4 and 15-11.

Setting up their big scorers, Al Fisher and Chuck Williams, with well-placed taps, the fraternity men took an easy victory in the first game as they ran off streaks of six, four, two and three.

In the last game, however, with Tau Delt's second string playing, the Skytoppers racked off seven points in a row to take a momentary 10-9 lead. But at this point the Greeks steadied down and moved back to the front for good.

The important men for both sides were, of course, the boys who drove the unreturnable smashes that went for points. Tau Delt's big men were Fisher and Williams, whose vicious drives kept the independents in a continual hole.

Tau Delt started with a team of Curly Adler, Danny Present, Terry Turkat, Marty Baron, Chuck Williams and Al Fisher. The latter trio, in addition to Lou Grossman, Marty Hertz, and player-coach Al Gefen, saw action for the victors in the second game.

For M-4 Larry Knight did the rugged net work but found the Tau Delt defense virtually impenetrable.

The semi-finals and championship match in volleyball are slated for next week. Following the Easter vacation softball will take the intramural limelight.

NATS, CELTICS PLAY

The Nats open the Eastern division final playoff series with the Boston Celtics tonight at the War Memorial. The second game will be played Saturday afternoon at Boston and the third, if necessary, back at the Memorial on Sunday.

"Love Truth, But Pardon Error"

Contrary to popular opinion, which was started by a story appearing in The Daily Orange yesterday, Sims II did not win the frosh hoop title. The winner was neighbor Sims III.

The Daily Orange vigorously denies reports that the night sport's editor, Lee Kikiier, is going steady with a girl from Sims II. When interviewed, Mr. Kikiier claimed youth, ignorance and dissipation as the big factors leading to the error.

The Daily Orange apologizes for any gang-wars or malice that might have resulted from the erroneous story.

As usual, The Daily Orange will try to avoid errors of such magnitude in the future, but the sport's page has three more mistakes to go before it uses up this semester's quota.

FLOWERS TELEGRAPHED
J. ALLEN DEAL
731 So. Crouse On the Hill

Far Away Places—Stay at Home Prices
EUROPE 1954
All Expense—Budget Wise Tours
Prices From $798.00 Include
Operas and Theaters
Student Tours
THE GRAND TOUR WITH SCANDINAVIA AND VIENNA
To: Miss M. W. McKay
11 W. 42nd St., New York 36, N.Y.
Please send me free catalogue
☐ THE GRAND TOUR
☐ STUDENT TOURS
☐ GENERAL TOURS
Name _____
Address _____
City _____ State _____

A Friendly Place for Friendly People
Daily Specials:
A ¼ LB. OF ROUND GROUND STEAK (On a home-made roll) 25c
A ¾ LB. OF T-BONE STEAK (U. S. Choice Beef) $1.50
482
SOUTH SALINA STREET Inc.
(formerly The Turf)

YOUR OFFICIAL SYRACUSE UNIVERSITY CLASS RING
Class Rings
A LASTING MEMENTO OF YOUR COLLEGE DAYS — A RING YOU'LL WEAR and BE PROUD OF—
A SYMBOL OF ACHIEVEMENT
UNIVERSITY BOOKSTORE
303 University Place

NCAA Swim Schedule

Order of events for the 31st National Collegiate Athletic association swimming championships:

Thursday, March 25—7:30 p.m.
1. 1500 Meters Freestyle, FINALS on a time basis, all sections 25-meter course.

Friday, March 26—9:30 a.m.
1. 50-Yard Freestyle, trial heats
2. One-Meter Diving Preliminaries.

2:30 P.M.
1. 50-Yard Freestyle, semi-finals
2. 200-Yard Backstroke, time trials
3. 220-Yard Freestyle, time trials
4. 200-Yard Breaststroke, time trials
5. Exhibition by qualifying divers
6. 400-Yard Freestyle relay, time trials

8:30 P.M.
FINALS in all of Friday's events

Saturday, March 27—9:30 A.M.
1. Three-Meter Fancy Diving, preliminaries

2:30 P.M.
1. 100-Yard Backstroke, time trials
2. 100-Yard Breaststroke, time trials
3. 100-Yard Freestyle, time trials
4. 440-yard Freestyle, time trials
5. 150-Yard Individual Medley, time trials
6. Exhibition by qualifying divers
7. 300-Yard Medley Relay, time trials

8:30 P.M.
FINALS in all of Saturday's events

LARRY HEIM, Stanford's best threat for an individual championship in the NCAA's, will be entered in three events. Heim will compete in the 100 and 200-yard backstroke and in the 300-yard medley relay.

Piety Gymnasts Give Exhibition

Tonight in Archbold gym the Piety Gymnastic squad will give an exhibition for the Cub Scouts of this area. Over 100 Cubs from Onondaga county will be on hand for the exhibition which will be conducted from 7-9 p.m.

The entire Orange team is expected to go through their paces in front of the Cub Scouts. In addition to the varsity gymnasts, three members of the frosh squad, Paul Barkal, Frank Cipolleti, and Bill Hogeboon, will perform for the massive audience.

This will be the final such exhibition for the Pietymen before three members of the team depart for the NCAA meet, to be held next weekend at Champaign, Ill.

Ferdie Fournies, Corky Sebbo, and Milan Trnka will leave along with Coach Paul Romeo next Monday evening by car for the Illinois campus and the National meet.

TRACK MANAGERS

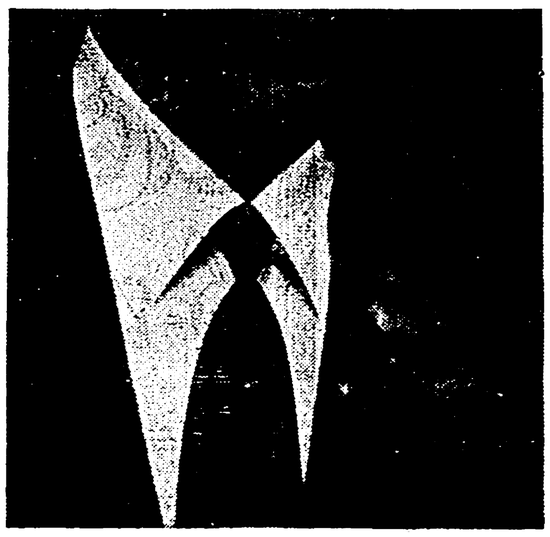
Anyone interested in becoming track manager should report to Coach Bob Grieve between 3 and 5 p.m. today at the track in Archbold stadium.

BASEBALL TRYOUTS

Tryouts for pitchers and catchers on the frosh baseball team are being held again today at 3 p.m. in the old gym. A number of enthusiastic freshmen have already shown up at the first two practice sessions.

Europe in 1954
Outstanding 47 to 49 day personally escorted Eight Country Tourist and Cabin Class Tours. ALL EXPENSES, only $1295 up—Finest All First Class LUXURY TOURS, 47 to 70 days $1875 up. Frequent sailings Mar. thru Sept. in QUEEN ELIZABETH or MARY. Small parties. Don't delay! Write now for free booklets, or phone
DUFFY TRAVEL SERVICE
Hotel Onondaga

Coeds "Rush" College Men in Arrow White Shirts
Smarter Styles, Smoother "Lines" Attract Gals



A guy in an Arrow shirt here . . . and everywhere a pretty coed—a typical scene on our college campus and from coast to coast. When asked why they go for men wearing Arrows, the gals agreed that Arrow shirts do more for a man's appearance.
ARROW
TRADE ® MARK
SHIRTS • TIES • UNDERWEAR • HANDKERCHIEFS • SPORTSWEAR

EDWARDS
FOR ARROW UNIVERSITY STYLES
Show off your style know-how in Arrow White Shirts newest, smartest collar styles 3.95 up

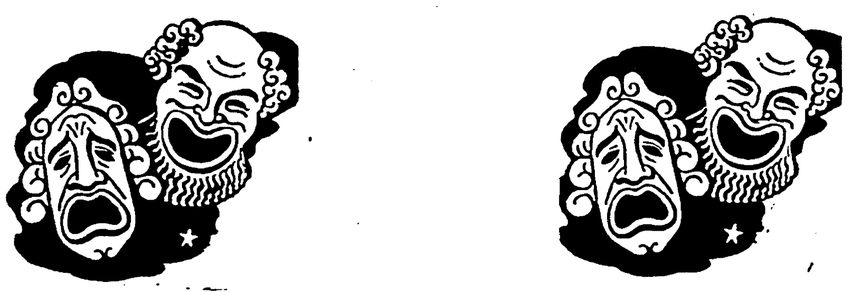
Come in . . . and pick your Arrow whites in the collar styles that do the most for your appearance. We have a terrific selection for you—button-downs, rounded-points, wide-spreads . . . all your tried-and-true Arrow style favorites, and a few new ones you really ought to try. Every shirt impeccably tailored of fine "Sanforized"® fabric that won't shrink more than 1%. See us today for your Arrow whites.

BOAR'S HEAD
GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY
TRILOGY
FRI. & SAT. 8:15 P.M.
LYSISTRATA
SUN. AT 3:00 and 7:00 P.M.
KIND HEARTS and CORONETS
ALSO: 1. BERT LAHR -- "NO MORE WEST"
2. RITZ BROTHERS SHORT
3. TOM HOWARD SHORT
THURS. -- FRI. -- SAT. APRIL 1, 2, 3
GIGI



WSG Announces Campus Guides

Recently-appointed campus, transfer, city and foreign student guides were announced at last night's women's student government convocation. The list follows.

CAMPUS GUIDES

They are Marie Basil, Audley Lou Benn, Aileen Bland, Gail Briggs, Joanne Clark, Barbara Cohen, Dyla Cruse, Jacquelyn Claridge, Anita Fairbanks, Harriet Fisher, Ida Gale Frary, Lee Friedman, Tamara Greenman, Audley Hasbrouk, Helen Hasbrouck and Patricia Houlihan. Also Myrna Howard, Mary Ann Jensen, Mary Jordan, Carol Johnston, Ann Keane, Carolyn Kuhn, Rebecca Levin, Susan Lindbaugh, Evelyn Litkovsky, Lou Ann Maher and Joan Ponce.

Other campus guides are Ioleen Robinowitz, Judy Richardson, Janet Rogers, Thelma Savard, Arlene Sandler, Alice Seed, Betty Jane Schaman, Rita Beth Seidler, Marcia Sneiderman, Candy Snyderman, Gloria Sumansky, Ina Swade, Natalie Terrell, Joan Wakefield, Beverly Wagner, Janey Weiner and Kay Wallace.

TRANSFER GUIDES

Alternate campus guides named were Suzanne Burke, Carolyn Cohen, Jean Epsworth, Mary Bradley, Lynn Ryer, Geraldine Hayes, Estelle Holowitz, Susan Kurz, Jean Lewis, Leslie Meyerowitz.

CITY GUIDES

Jeanne Addelich, Evelyn Allen, Harriet Brand, Patricia Fitzpatrick, Jean Crane, Nancy Hutton, Beverly Lucke, Ruth Miller, Roselyn Meyers, Elizabeth Nellis, Ann Rubinger and Elaine Usave.

Winifred Reginbal, Carol Anderson, Jane Faulring, Susan Gee, Elizabeth Hickey, Sally Hoppie, Mary Kitchmen, Sandra Sweet, Judy Sidney and Ann Schaefale.

FOREIGN STUDENT GUIDES

Mary Sue Bank, Bonnie Bell, Helene Chandler, Marcella Dimmick, Dorothy Hess, Ellen Kershaw, Alma Kish, Anne Kohler, Diane Leikowitz, Annette Marcello, Florence Miller, Eugene Pendleton, Edith Rosenberg, Mickey Schwartz, Gail Schein, Lois Van Wimble and Jane Yarrow.

House Presidents To Convene Sunday

Campus house presidents will gather Sunday, April 11 for their third annual conference, designed to stimulate thinking for next year's work in the women's student government assembly.

The house presidents' conference, announced recently by assembly secretary Carole Leland, will include seminars in a number of problem areas, a guest speaker and a social hour following the meeting.

An advisor will be provided for each seminar group and members of the dean of women's staff will also be present at the conference.

Independent house presidents are elected in the fall and prexies of sororities in the spring. In addition to presiding over Sunday night meetings in their individual living centers, the presidents attend weekly meetings of the WSG assembly. Each participates in the work of one or more panels.

Panels this year were public relations, ways and means, academics, student welfare, house policy and organizations.

Picnic in Progress

MORRIS E. HURLEY, JR., acting dean of the College of Business Administration and WILLIAM PHIPPS, acting director of placement in the college, discuss plans for a May 4 picnic, while THOMAS HALE, chairman of the picnic, looks on.

Staff Photo by Owen Kendell

Finalists Announced For Military Contest

Final plans for the Military ball and the 21 finalists in the military queen contest were announced yesterday by Clifford Way, overall chairman of Military weekend, April 10.

Way said that the final coffee for the contestants will be held from 7:30-9 p.m. April 1 in Lowe Art center. Members of the Air Force and Army cadre will select the queen and her court.

The Military Ball will feature the music of Sammy Blumkin and his 15-piece orchestra. The affair, patterned after the traditional military formals, will be held from 9 p.m.-1 a.m. in Archbold gym.

All members of the Cadet Association of Syracuse university and members of the Air Force and Army cadre have been invited to attend.

Finalists, and their living centers, in the queen contest, chaired by Robert Carpenter and Fred Price, are Nancy Holiday, French; Dolores Wysocki, Richards; Judith List; Carol May Schiferle, Sperry; Susan Eisenberg, Wilson; Constance Eager, Hefferon.

Also, Lynne Faulring, Zeta Tau Alpha; Geraldine Wilde, Geneva; Barbara Feidelman, Sigma Delta Tau; Nancy Lyster, Butler; Jean Crane, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Caroline Gilbert, Phillips; Ann Schenck, Haven; Doris Hertelendy, Lund; Elsie Hunt, Alpha Phi.

Also, Lois Clark, Alpha Phi; Nancie McCall, Kappa Delta; Nancy Bell, Jewell; Cynthia Faigle, Chi Omega; Ann Hoffman, Wilson; Eleanor Beach, Shaw; Roberta Levitt, Alpha Epsilon Phi; Jean Mantel, Chi Omega.

Elections . . .

(Continued from page 1)

building. Everyone is invited to attend.

Named last night to seek campus guide chairmanship were Nancy Boerner and Joan Hartig. The chairman will be elected April 7 by the present campus guides. Guide secretary will be chosen from Sonia Dalrymple and Lucille Levine.

Twelve candidates for WSG junior officers were announced at the convocation. The nominees, from which six will be elected, are Carol Ackerson, Arlene (Turbi) Blum, Deborah Byrnes, Mary Ann Ellis, Maria Frink, Elinor Hussey, Carole Leland, Mary Sue McPeak, Mary Lynne Miller, Martha Smith, Genevieve Volotta and Margaret (Mauny) White.

Francine Harbach and Mary Ann Lynd will run for president of the Women's Athletic association. Candidates for chairman of City Guides are Janet Lemp and Dolores Hytron, while foreign student guide chairman will be selected from Marjorie Austrian and Carol Terpening.

CANDIDATES FOR City Guide secretary are Ann Hamilton and Mary Lou Steigerwald. Running for executive secretary of foreign student guides are Gail Kepner and Deborah Brown.

Spring Weekend . . .

(Continued from page 1)

tumes were held after the convo.

Arlene Lambert, chairman of the program committee, announced that in addition to including the descriptions of all the weekend events, the 24-page booklet will feature the entire dialogue of the pageant and the only complete list of float parade entries.

Chairman of the special events committee, Janet Caro, announced that the theme for the Friday evening program will be "Dress Rehearsal." This year it will also include a water ballet in the Women's building by Seraphims and an international theme, featuring 12 aquacade numbers.

ARRANGEMENTS for the lantern ceremony are being supervised by Blanche Krischer. This ceremony which is performed by outstanding senior and junior women is the part of the moving-up ceremony which takes place Friday night.

Ann Forrest, chairman of step-singing explained the history of this tradition and told of plans for the finals which are held Friday night on the library steps.

Six heralds on horseback will play reveille on bugles at 7 a.m. Saturday. Patricia Roden, in charge of this portion of the festivities, called for volunteers for the early morning tradition.

Mary Anne Dalton is in charge of the moving-up ceremonies which precede Saturday morning's float parade and Elizabeth Brydon will make arrangements for the queen and her court.

OMICRON NU PLEDGES

Omicron Nu, home economics honorary, has announced the following pledges:

Graduate student Martha Lee; seniors Elizabeth Curtin and Elizabeth Hanshaw; and juniors Barbara Anderson, Donna Cromwell, Ann Dickinson, Marilyn Dieterle, Empie, Beverly Nason, Nancy Watkins, and Marilyn Harper.

Campus Notices

Daily Chapel, noon to 12.20 p.m., Dean Charles C. Noble will speak.

Yacht club executive meeting, 5 p.m., Women's lounge, Men's gym. Shore school and team meetings, 7 p.m., HL.

JSF Yiddish class, 7 p.m., Chapel lounge. Newcomers can easily catch up.

Art students association, color movie on sculptor Henry Moore, followed by a sculpture discussion symposium. 7:15 p.m., Lowe Art center lecture room. All ASA members urged to attend.

Ski instructors meeting, 7:30 pm., Ski lodge. Please bring both manuals.

WAA basketball tryouts for Cortland sportsday, 8 p.m., gym B, Women's building.

WAA lower house meeting, 4:30 p.m., 207 HL.

Student Activities executive council, 8 p.m., 303 Women's building.

Senior assembly, 7:30 p.m., 305 Women's building.

All senior city and foreign student guides meet at 7:30 p.m., Shaw lobby, to have "ON" picture taken.

Alpha Kappa Psi, 7 p.m., Alpha Phi.

NSA, 7:15 p.m., 209 Women's bldg.

Foreign student steering committee, 8 p.m., 3rd floor lounge. Women's building.

SAM meeting, 7:15 p.m., 6 Smith. Film on production of steel. Sign up for tour of Onondaga Pottery. All members please attend.

Grad students gathering, 7:30 p.m., Chapel, Colonial room.

The following are assigned to work at The Daily Orange today: Grace Frary, Dick Case, Marion Berger, Allyne Smith, Joanne Hess, Dick Walrath, Pete McNally and Polly Reed, afternoon. Night: Ed Hardy, Pearl Bernstein, Helene Bloom, Elain Chesin, Marianne Oesterreicher, Adele Goodman and Joan Russell.

Frosh assembly, 7:30 p.m., 207 HL.

Varsity athletes must pick up free Block S tickets today at Mr. Jim Decker's office, Archbold gym.

Catholic students' choir, 7:15 p.m., 205 Crouse.

Sims V will hold open house 2-5 p.m., Sunday, Sims lounge. Dancing and refreshments. Everyone invited.

Physics Colloquium: Fritz Froelich will speak on the Inter-University high altitude laboratory at 4 p.m. in 106 Steele hall.

Yiddish class: Jewish Student fellowship class will meet at 7 p.m. in Hendricks chapel lounge.

Sophs to Sponsor Jazz Concert

A motion to sponsor a Jazz concert on the weekend following Spring vacation was passed at a meeting Tuesday night of the Sophomore Senate.

Dick Zallen, Phi Epsilon Pi, chairman of the concert, said that definite plans had not been set, but that he and his committee were working on them.

The Senate also passed a motion amending its election procedure. The bill, presented by Zallen, stated that nominations for officers would be held one week, and elections would be the following week.

A motion asking for roll-call voting was defeated.

Tickets Available For Block S Fete

Block S ticket sales end today, Co-chairmen Oliver Richards and Harold Steinberg have announced.

Orange Key members, sponsors of the annual athletic dinner are selling ducats for $2.50 each. Tickets are also available at the Archbold gymnasium ticket office, University Book store, Corner store and from the Hotel Onondaga lobby cigar stand.

ALL ATHLETES should pick up their free tickets immediately in Jim Desker's office in Archbold gymnasium.

Hugh Daugherty, head football coach at Michigan State college and former Syracuse line coach, will be featured speaker at the banquet at 6 p.m. Sunday in Sims dining hall.

University Vice President Kenneth G. Bartlett will serve as toastmaster.

More than 200 Orange athletes will receive recognition at the dinner. Seventeen special awards will be given to outstanding members of athletic teams.

GUEST OF honor will be Daugherty's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth W. Daugherty, house mother of Alpha Delta Pi sorority at Syracuse.

First of its kind in the United States, the Block S affair celebrates its 50th anniversary this year. Inaugurated in 1904, the dinner had been sponsored by the athletic department, senior executive council and other organizations before passing into the hands of the junior men's honoraries.

Orange Key inherited sponsorship in 1939 when the several junior honoraries were incorporated into one.

The banquet has been held annually except during the world war II years, when athletic activity was suspended at Syracuse.

Sadie Hawkins . . .

(Continued from page 1)

and John Beach, senior class president.

The committee for the dance includes: Miss Bank, chairman; Joan Teitell, publicity; Joan Walmsley, refreshment; Jaynee Werner and Peppi Schwartz, entertainment; Beverly Chase, decorations; Paul Stein and Dorothy Greenberg, door; Daniel Green and Niki Shor, lounge; and Daniel Green, concert.

ADPi Will Honor 'Duffy' Daugherty

Alpha Delta Pi sorority will be hostess to Hugh "Duffy" Daugherty on Sunday when he will be honored at a "family" after-dinner affee.

The guests will include not only the active and alumnae but many of Duffy's Syrause friends.

Movies of the Bose Bowl game parade that were taken by Daugherty will be shown. The sorority plans to attend the Block S dinner that evening in a group.

WAER 88.1 Program Schedule

THURSDAY

3:00—WAER News
3:05—Symphonic Matinee
4:00—Musical Heritage
5:00—This I Believe
5:05—Distaff Digest
5:15—Dinner Date
6:15—WAER News
6:25—Evening Showcase
6:35—WAER Sports Lineup
6:45—Bachelor's Quarters
7:00—Keyboard Concert
7:30—Ebb and Flow
7:45—Songs of France
8:00—Evening With Music
9:00—WAER News
9:05—Voices in the Night
9:30—Night at the Pops
10:00—Final Edition—News
10:10—Final Edition—Sports
10:20—Signoff

Krinsky To Talk On 'Communism'

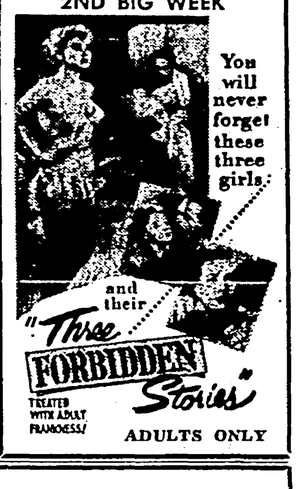
Dr. Fred Krinsky, Jewish Student fellowship advisor, will speak on "Atheistic Communism vs. Godliness: False Alternatives" 7:15 p.m., tomorrow at the JSF service.

The sermon will be an answer to Congressman Walter Judd's religious theories.

Miriam Fiske and Lloyd Dunsker will each speak on the United Jewish Appeal, donations to which should be turned in Friday.

REGENT
TODAY—SATURDAY
That Hilarious Pair
DEAN MARTIN
JERRY LEWIS
"MONEY FROM HOME"

Now MIDTOWN Open 6:30 P.M.
2ND BIG WEEK



ADULTS ONLY

ITALIAN . . .

Best dressed young women are having their hair cut in the Italian style, so artistically done by Fred's trained hair stylists. Always becoming to your individuality.
Phone 74-2487
for an appointment
fred The Hairstylist
in Hotel Syracuse
Other Salons: New York City ● Washington, D. C. ● Kansas City, Mo.

NEW YORK'S FINEST
RESTAURANTS AND NIGHT CLUBS
WELCOME SYRACUSE PATRONAGE!
Sea Food IT'S ALWAYS THE ANCHOR
STEAKS & CHOPS TOO! CI. 6-4107
LUNCHEON - COCKTAILS DINNER - AFTER THEATRE 7 DAYS A WEEK
200 W 57th at 7th AVE
Different
So colorful . . . so complete . . . so out of this world Food Specialties and Entertainment. Sophisticated everything. Dancing, of course. Come for Dinner or After Theatre!
Merrell 6-9843
86th STREET Brauhaus
BAVARIAN CABARET
E. 86TH ST. bet. 2nd & 3rd Aves.
New York's Most Exciting FOOD & MUSIC
DINNER SERVED FROM 5 P.M.
MUSIC TILL 4 A.M.
MEMBER DINERS' CLUB
NO 20% TAX
EMBERS
161 EAST 54TH ST. PL. 9-3228
OVERSTUFFED SANDWICHES
AFTER THE SHOW---TOODLE ON OVER TO Arthur Maisel's FLORIDIAN
DELICATESSEN-RESTAURANT
BROADWAY AT 51ST ST.
At the Top of Times Square
AND FABULOUS DESSERTS
Say La Vie—The Place to be
FOR DINNER AFTER THEATRE AND REAL LATE
MONTE FROSER'S
La Vie en Rose
123 E. 54th • MU8-8420
WORLD'S MOST FAMOUS BALLROOM • CAFE • COCKTAIL LOUNGE
ROSELAND
BROADWAY at 51
NEW YORK'S FINEST
Authentic! Exotic!
ORIENTAL CUISINE
Dinner • Supper
Diners' Club
Chen's SINGAPORE
AT the WINTER GARDEN THEATRE
BROADWAY at 50th STREET
Dine and Dance
BEFORE & AFTER THEATRE
FREE PARKING FOR SHOW-GOING PATRONS
Tavern ON THE GREEN
OPEN ALL YEAR in CENTRAL PARK
SChuyler 4-8100
W. 67TH ST. ENTRANCE
GEORGE WHITE
"NICE TO SEE YOU"
by JACK YELLIN • IRVING CAESAR • GEORGE WHITE
NIGHTLY AT DINNER AND SUPPER
Versailles
151 EAST 50TH • PL 8-0310
EXTRA LATE SHOWS FRI. & SAT
IT'S A LOTTA FUN!
with LARRY McMAHON
"your singing host"
3 floor shows nitely
HAL GRAHAM orch.
no cover charge
Village Barn
52 WEST 8TH ST. • GR 7-4687
GREENWICH VILLAGE, U.S.A.

Schine Eckel Now
At Last On Screen
Filmed As It Happened
"ANNAPURNA"
In Technicolor
also
"THE IMMORTAL BATTALION"
David Niven Leo Genn

NOW at Schine's PARAMOUNT
STARTS TODAY
"MA AND PA KETTLE BACK HOME"
MARJORIE MAIN
PERCY KILBRIDE
also
In Technicolor
"RIDE CLEAR OF DIABLO"
Dan Duryea : Audie Murphy
Susan Cabot Abbie Lane

Sure as the tortoise . . . fast as the hare . . .

and going Greyhound— you save on fare!

Home for Easter . . . by GREYHOUND
One Way
ALBANY $3.15
BINGHAMTON 1.80
BUFFALO 3.15
BOSTON 7.65
CLEVELAND 7.35
EASTON 5.20
ELMIRA 2.20
ERIE 5.40
GOUVERNEUR 2.60
HARRISBURG 6.40
ITHACA 1.35
MALONE 4.45
MASSENA $3.95
MONTREAL 6.85
NEW YORK 6.55
OGDENSBURG 3.15
ONEONTA 2.75
PHILADELPHIA 6.35
PLATTSBURG 5.90
ROCHESTER 1.95
SPRINGFIELD 5.65
SCRANTON 3.40
WASHINGTON 9.00
WILLIAMSPORT 4.55
Plus U. S. Tax Big Extra Savings on Round Trips
GREYHOUND TERMINAL
235 Harrison Street Phone 3-7171
GREYHOUND

CLASSIFIED ADS

IMPORTANT NOTICE—CLASSIFIED ADS to appear in this paper should be DELIVERED at the HELLBOX Classified desk between 1 and 3 p. m. NO ADS WILL BE ACCEPTED AFTER 3. ALL ADS MUST BE IN 2 DAYS IN ADVANCE. For further information call 4-7206.

ALL LOST ARTICLES should be turned into the CENTRAL LOST AND FOUND ROOM, 20 Bldg. 24 at 205 University Pl. Articles can be claimed there.

AUTO-DRIVING

AUTO DRIVING INSTRUCTION. Learn to drive easily, correctly and safely. Call Upstate Auto Driving School. Phone 8-4040.

LEARNING TO DRIVE? Learn quickly, easily, scientifically. 17 years experience. Car furnished. SULLIVANS DRIVING School Inc. 73-3451.

RENTALS

TYPEWRITERS RENTED: $3.00 per month, $8 3 months. Good selection. We deliver, Smith Brothers. 4-8833.

Typewriters rentals—New Models Reasonable Rates—Expert Service, All Makes—CORNER STORE.

FOR SALE

CANOE: You can take it with you. Comes in two zipper bags. Fits in car trunk. Call 72-7278, 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

USED PLYMOUTH: four door. Reasonable, 807 Comstock Ave. 75-8648.

FOR SALE: V. M. Triomatic practically new, 3-speed record player. $45. Call 76-7521.

FOR RENT

GRAD STUDENTS—children—House for rent. Inquire Shell station, Tully.

205 Comstock Ave. New 1 room apartment with kitchenette. Private bath and entrance. $60. 75-4383.

CLOSE TO CAMPUS: Modern 6 room apartment with 3 bedrooms, fire place, shower and gas heat. Adults only, about May 1. Phone 4-8554. $85.

THREE ROOM, modern, furnished apartment. Newly decorated. 76-8162 after 6 p.m.

MISCELLANEOUS

SPRING CLEANING TIME—Windows cleaned and other odd jobs done. Our work guaranteed Frank Petrosky and co. Phone 4-9625.

Complete Optical Service
Optometric Eye Examinations
Glasses in Latest Styles
Broken Lenses and Frames Replaced Promptly
Lindemer
for glasses
Optometrists Opticians
440 SOUTH WARREN ST.
Phone 74-4244

Students! Faculty! University Personell!
Reduced Price Tickets $1.50 Univ. Book Store for the great
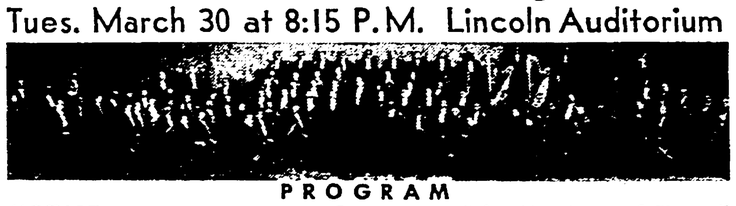
PITTSBURGH SYMPHONY
STEINBERG conducting
Tues. March 30 at 8:15 P.M. Lincoln Auditorium


PROGRAM
MOZART—Overture to "The Marriage of Figaro"
TSCHAIKOWSKY—Symphony No. 6, in b minor ("Pathetique")
INTERMISSION
WAGNER—Prelude to "Die Meistersinger"
RAVEL—"La Valse," Choreographic Poem
BORODIN—Polovtsian Dances from "Prince Igor" ("Stranger in Paradise")

On the Inside

On the inside: A political farce, See page 2.

Syracuse Daily Orange

Weather Report
FAIR AND COLDER
High temperature ____63
Low temperature ____ 32

Vol. 51, No. 98 | Syracuse, N. Y., Friday, March 26, 1954 | 4 Pages — 5 Cents

Syracuse Four Captures NBC College Bowl Contest

Konno Sets NCAA Swim Mark In 1,500 Meter Freestyle Event

By STAN ROSENFELD
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Jet-propelled Ford Konno, a Hawaiian who competes for Ohio State raced to a new NCAA record last night at Orange pool winning the 1500 meter freestyle in 18:14.4. This time bettered Konno's own record which he had set at Princeton two years ago by better than a second.

The diminutive Konno who stands only 5' 6" and was dwarfed by most of the other competitors in the event won by more than two laps over Bill Yorzyk of Springfield college. The powerful Yorzyk was timed in 18:57.0 over the 60 lap course.

BILL OSBORNE of Stanford was third, followed by George Breen of Cortland, Pete Duncan of Oklahoma and Marty Smith of Yale. The first six finishers receive points which go toward the team title. Konno's performance gave Ohio State seven points with five, four, three, two and one points going to the next finishers in order.

Last night's event was run off in four heats with the six best times winning. The heats were run off according to the previous times of the swimmers. In the first stanza, the four worst times competed against each other and in each succeeding heat the time of the competitors was better than the previous one.

Two Syracusans competed in the first heat and turned in good performances. Kev Wilson finished second to Al Eastman of Kenyon and Doug Dodge finished fourth. Wilson's time was 22:14.9 which placed him 17th in the 19 man field.

The crowd of about 500 which packed the Orange pool waited in keen anticipation for the last heat which featured some of the best long distance swimmers in the world. Everyone's eyes were however on only one of the five men

(See SWIMMIING, page 3)

SOME OF THE country's top swimmers are seen in action last night at Archbold gymnasium competing in NCAA 1500 meter action. Ohio State's little Hawaiian Ford Konno swam to an easy victory in the event setting a new NCAA record.

Five Senior Coeds Vie for Queen

The queen of Sprifig Weekend will be elected by all senior women Wednesday, April 7, and crowned by last year's queen, Iris Roth, at a special ceremony at the spfing pageant in Thornden amphitheater.

All members of Eta Pi Upsilon, senior women's honorary, will participate in the queen's court for the weekend.

THE CANDIDATES were chosen from all senior women on the basis of leadership, scholarship, character, activities and service to the University. The nominating group, which consists of Eta Pi Upsilon and a joint faculty-student - administration committee, considered nominees over a period of two months before final selection of the five candidates.

In voting for the queen, senior women should cast ballots for the one coed who they think is most representative of the senior class.

The candidates this year are Ellen (Billie) Williams, Mary Anne Dalton, Jane Dempsey, Judy Perry and Madge Evans.

Miss Williams, Charles cottage, is a resident of Groton, Mass., and has a 2.34 cumulative average. She is in the College of Home Economics, pre-professional social work. Executive secretary of women's student government, she is also president of Omicron Nu, home economics honorary, chapel choir, Lambda Sigma Sigma, Eta Pi Upsilon and Phi Kappa Phi.

MISS DALTON, Theta Phi Alpha, lives in Oneida, N. Y. and maintains a 2.6 average in Liberal Arts social studies-education. She is president of WSG and a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Eta Pi Upsilon. She has been on the Liberal Arts advisory council and was chairman of the citizenship conference. She is an executive assistant of St. Thomas More chapel and was president of Lambda Sigma Sigma.

Miss Dempsey, Chi Omega, is a resident of Wilmington, Del., with a 2.87 average in Liberal Arts, a sociology major. She is chairman of campus guides and campus leaders, a member of Lambda Sigma Sigma, Eta Pi Upsilon, Alpha Kappa Delta, sociology honorary, and Phi Sigma Iota, romance language honorary. She is a member of chapel board, president of Westminster fellowship and vice-president of the Student Christian Movement in New York state.

Miss Perry, Kappa Kappa Gamma, resides in Manchester Center, Vt. and has maintained a 1.9 average in Liberal Arts physical education. She is social chairman of WSG, president of Eta Pi Upsilon, chairman of the big chum program for Traditions commission and a member of Lambda Sigma Sigma. She is head lifeguard at the women's pool and on the women's ski team.

Miss Evans, Delta Delta Delta, lives in Summit, N. J. and has a 1.95 average. She is in the College of Home Economics. She is WSG chief of civil service, head woman cheerleader, treasurer of Lambda Sigma Sigma, member of Traditions commission and Eta Pi Upsilon.

Queen Candidates

Mary Anne Dalton

Madge Evans

Jane Dempsey

Billie Williams

Judy Perry

Dramatic Society Schedules New Play To Open April 1

Boar's Head dramatic society will present their second production of the year Thursday, April 1. This second play, "Gigi" which follows the "Lysistrata" production, is adapted for the stage by Anita Loos from a novel by Colette.

The comedy in two acts is being directed by Prof. Sawyer Falk, chairman of the drama department. Sheldon Wiener will act as stage manager for the production.

THE PLAY is scheduled for 12 performances, and will run on April 1, 2, 3, 5, 6, 7. Also on the 22, 23, 24, 25, 27 and 28 of that month.

Members of the cast include, Shirley Fenner and Betty Schwartz, who will alternate in the leading role. Miss Fenner is a senior in drama, a Boar's Head mebber and is presently playing a major part in "Lysistrata."

Miss Schwartz is a freshman in the drama dept. and has worked extensively in the Children's theater.

Gerald Reidenbaugh, an instructor in the Drama dept. is portraying Gaston LaChaille.

ALSO IN THE cost is Nancy Edwards, a graduate student who was also active in the Astor theater productions this year. Other members in the cast include: Francesca Trantum, a seniors in drama, Kenneth Bowles, who has done professional work on Broadway and in Syracuse, Marlene Muller, a junior in drama, and Millicent McIntyre, a junior and recent Boar's Head initiate.

Tickets for the production will go on sale today for $1.20 in the box office of the drama building. They may also be purchased by calling for reservations at 4-2776.

Settings for "Gigi" are being designed by John J. Moore, who has been lauded for his work in other Hill productions. special rolling stage is being utilized for this play, for the first time in 25 years.

Traditions Appoints Ingalsbe, Miss Brydon

Ward Ingalsbe, Phi Kappa Psi, and Jean Brydon, Kappa Alpha Theta, were elected president and vice-president of Traditions commission at a meeting Wednesday night at the Kappa Kappa Gamma house.

Other officers include Cynthia Satow, KKG, secretary and Harold Vikoren, Sigma Nu, treasurer.

IN ADDITION to being president of his freshman dorm, Ingalsbe was president of both his freshman and sophomore engineering classes. He was also chairman of the picnic committee for Traditions last year.

Miss Brydon, a Liberal Arts junior, is a member of Eta Pi Upsilon, head of the Liberal Arts Advisory council and Campus Chest captain. She was vice-president of Lambda Sigma Sigma, president of her freshman living center, and was named outstanding sophomore in her class.

Miss Satow, a Fine Arts junior, is art director of the Onondagan, a junior guide, and has been named co-chairman of next year's Winter Carnival. She has also acted as co-chairman of the Snoball.

Vikoren, a Business Administration junior, has been treasurer of his fraternity, Sigma Nu, and was also chapel representative for the house. In addition, he has been on the business staff of the Onondagan.

ONE OF the major projects of the commission is the Orientation week program in the fall done in conjunction with the Goon squad. Freshmen will have opportunity to apply for membership on the Goon squad shortly, Ingalsbe states. Traditions picks its members each year from this group.

Also, Traditions commission sponsors the annual high school leaders' weekend, all the pep rallies for football and basketball games and has a general responsibility for campus traditions.

The Commission's is advised by Miss Margaret Parker, University social director, and works indirectly under the University Orientation committee.

$2,115,150 Goal Set For UJA Service

United Service for News Americans, one of the three recipients of United Jewish Appeal funds, will require $2,115,150 to fulfill its aims this year.

This committee is working to:

1. Help settle 7,000 new immigrants expected to arrive in this country under the new Refugee Relief act.

2. Conduct technical training institutes for immigration and resettlement workers in all parts of the United States on new methods and procedures under the McCarren-Walter immigration law

3. Help at least 5,000 immigrants already in the United States to start earning their own livlihoods.

4. Advise aliens and naturalalized citizens of their rights under the new laws.

Foresters Will Fete Tokyo Engineers

Two engineers of the Nippon Pulp Industry Co., Ltd. of Tokyo, Japan, will visit the State University of New York College of Forestry next week.

Keiji Mizuno and Nolutoshi Omodaka will inspect the pulp and paper technology laboratories of the College.

DO SLATES SATURDAY ISSUE

The next issue of The Daily Orange will appear tomorrow because of the importance of the National Collegiate Athletic association events. Copies will be found at the men's gym, main buildings on campus and in the Marshall st. area.

Notices for Saturday, Sunday, and Monday will be accepted until 3:30 p.m. today. Tomorrow's issue will replace the usual Monday paper.

Red Cross Drive Reaches 331 Pints

Foresters Will Donate Blood Today

Syracuse university's total blood contributions reached 331 pints in the second session of the all-campus Red Cross blood drive yesterday. School of Forestry donations from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. today in Bray hall will complete the drive.

One hundred and seventy-eight pints of blood were collected by Red Cross workers yesterday. Of the 226 students processed, 48 were found unfit to contribute.

AS WAS the case Thursday, a large number of students who had signed up failed to appear. Officials reported that 103 of the 329 originally scheduled to contribute did not show up at the Men's gym yesterday.

According to Mary Flavin, campus chairman of the drive, 117 of the students were contributing for the first time. She also announced that Delta Kappa Epsilon, Phi Epsilon Pi and Beta Theta Pi led fraternities in the percentage of house members contributing. Alpha Chi Omega led the sororities and women's living centers.

Yesterday's contributions totaled 15 more than the 163 pints collected Thursday. Forestry school members must donate 169 pints of blood in order to reach the University's 500 pint quota today. All foresters, including those not signed up, are urged to contribute.

Working with Miss Flavin throughout the drive have been members of Arnold Air society, national military honorary. Alpha Phi Omega, men's service honorary, has assisted Red Cross workers in setting up and removing equipment for the drive.

Red Cross officials expressed enthusiasm at the number of students contributing. They stated that the Hill contributions will bolster a dwindling city blood supply.

Virginians Beaten After Five Wins On Radio Show

By DICK CASE

Clicking off answers with IBM precision, four panelists from Syracuse last night dethroned a five-time winning team from Washingto and Lee university on "College Quiz Bowl," NBC's broadcast "quiz-kid" session. The final point total gave Syracuse, 205 and the Lexington scholars, 130.

The tension-packed battle will be broadcast nationwide over the National Broadcasting company at 6 p.m., Sunday. Local station WSYR will present it in this area.

THE FOUR Syracuse panelists, Janet Caro, Jane Bauer, Raymond Guenter and John Beach, took an early lead in the contest of scholastic talent and, although overcome later by Washington and Lee's 40 point advantage, a series of rapid, correct answers brought eventual victory. The panel's win brings the University a $500 prize which will be used to purchase television sets for the Women's building.

The winners will meet a panel from the University of Colorado next Thursday.

A large and tense audience viewed the Syracuse portion of the broadcast from the Women's building dance studio. The crowd roared their approval each time a local panelist answered a question correctly and at the program's conclusion, when a Syracuse victory seemed evident, the auditorium became a scene of near bedlam.

The crack Washington and Lee panel, Fred Lackman, Robert Paxton, Harold Quinn, and Henry Turner, lost points early in the broadcast through a series of incorrect answers which gave the local team a chance at a "free" answer.

THEY ALSO recorded several penalities from jumping in before the question had been completely read. The southern university panel had recorded five straight wins in "College Bowl" competition over Barnard college, Princeton, University of Chicago, University of Pittsburgh and Smith college.

Moderated by NBC's Allen Ludden, who asked the questions from New York, "College Quiz Bowl" combined the facilities of WSLS in Roanoke, Va. and WSYR, Syracuse, which carried the panels direct from their respective campuses.

Syracuse took the first 10-point "toss-up" question when Washington and Lee incorrectly identified a quotation on "of shoes and ships and sealing wax" and Jane Bauer named Lewis Carrol's "Through the Looking Glass" as the source. A 30-point bonus on kitchen utensils gave the local team the advantage, but the southerners jumped quickly back on the second "toss-up" and bonus to lead 40 to 30.

A query on the koala bear and a musical bonus gave Washington and Lee a 75 to 30 lead.

A FLASH REPLY by Syracuse's Janet Caro to an alphabetical question on Harvard's President Pusey and a 40-point bonus on flowers edged the local team to within five points of the champs.

With about 10-minutes to go, a series of misses by both panels and an incorrect reply by the southerners gave Syracuse a free try, and Raymond Guenter came through with a quick Latin translation which, added to a 20-point bonus, handed the Orange a 110 to 100 advantage. A stab-in-the-dark guess by Miss Caro after the southern men had missed a trick question, put Syracuse ahead for certain and, although the champs threatened later with 20 more points, the point gap was too large to overcome.

Produced by the radio-television center through WSYR radio, the local portion of "College Quiz Bowl" was moderated by WSYR's Bob Whitney who was credited with an excellent job of handling the show and operating the electronic signalling device which indicated when Syracuse was ready to answer.

Meeting Planned For Army Coeds

A coed social group associated with the activities of Army ROTC will hold its first meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday, April 1 in 301 Machinery hall.

Several activities in which interest has been shown are: utilization of the Army-operated Amateur Radio station located in the stadium, joint drill team participation, movies relating to national and international affairs, and several social functions. These plans will be discussed by Jane Gates and Jo Anne Swalm, who will preside at the meeting.

Dean Marjorie C. Smith has endorsed this initial exploratory meeting and is making announcement to the head residents because one objective of the group is to further the understanding of national defense measures.

Ski Group Picks Williams as Head

Robert B. Williams, of the State university of New York College of Forestry, has been named chairman of the Eastern division National Ski Patrol System of America.

Williams, assistant professor of forest recreations at the College, will coordinate the activities of 2,500 members of 213 ski patrols of the Eastern division, including the entire area east of Ohio.

Nurses Corps Rep To See Women

Maj. Edna Earle Ross of the Army Nurse corps will be on the campus today to interview student nurses. The School of Nursing has been notified of the particulars of her visit, according to Maj. Milton Falk, of the Army ROTC cadre.

Falk said that all coeds who will be qualified nurses who have not made plans to meet Maj. Ross, may obtain a personal interview with her by calling him at University extension 462, sometime today.

Army nurses receive commissions, according to Maj. Ross. She encouraged all student nurses who may be interested in nursing work in the Army to see her today.

She, herself, is a graduate of Children's hospital, Michigan Training school for nurses, Detroit, Michigan, and she holds a bachelor

Cheerleaders Set Semi-final Cuts

Semi-final cheerleading eliminations for coed aspirants will be held from 8 to 9 p.m. Wednesday, March 30 in Gym B of the Women's building.

Coeds may report at 7:30 p.m. for additional practice before the eliminations if they wish. Those who have been chosen to compete in the semi-finals are Patricia Burkhard, Diana Dann, Marjorie Jones, Janice Lamb, Ann Larson, Virginia Peck, Ellen Bett Schiller and Margaret (Mauny) White.

Friday Series Slates Outing Club Dance

A square dance will be among the main attractions of the Sadie Hawkins dance from 8:30 p.m. to midnight today in the Women's building, according to Merle Smith Bank, chairman of the dance.

The square dance will be put on in the main gym by the Outing club simultaneously with the Sadie Hawkins dance which will be held in the dance studio.

THE SADIE Hawkins dance is among the weekly dances sponsored by the student activities committee. Admission is free with the showing of an identification card. The affair is stag or drag, with old clothes as the attire, preferably jeans.

Prizes will be awarded to the winners of a series of novelty dances, such as the knee dance and the John Paul Jones.

In addition, there will be a multiplication dance and reverse dances in which the girls ask the boys to dance.

A prize also will be given to the person wearing the craziest or loudest shirt.

THE JUDGES for the contest include: Miss Margaret Parker, University social director; Mrs. Margaret Bonisteel, assistant director of the Women's building; and the presidents of the four classes, John Beach, Samuel, Shawhan, Margaret White and Francis Procopio.

The committee chairmen for the dance include: Miss Bank, chairman; Janet Taitell, publicity; Joan Walmsley, refreshments; Jaynee Werner and Peppi Schwartz, entertainment; Beverly Chase, decorations; Paul Stein and Dorothy Greenberg, door; Daniel Green and Niki Schor, lounge; and Daniel Green, concert.

Journalism Society Names Root Head

Robert W. Root, associate professor in the School of Journalism, has been appointed New York State chairman of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity.

The announcement was made by Robert U. Brown, national president of the society.

In his new capacity, Prof. Root will serve as a personal representative of the national president and serve the interests of the fraternity membership in New York state.

Averell Harriman to Talk

By PEARL BERNSTEIN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Averell Harriman will deliver the eighth regular citizenship lecture Monday on "The Philosophy of Mutual Assistance."

Described by Dr. Stuart Gerry Brown, chairman of the citizenship program, as a man "who has had as much experience and knows as much about federal government as anyone else alive," Harriman will speak at both 10 a.m. and 2:15 p.m. in Marshall auditorium.

LOOKED UPON as a possible Democratic candidate for governor this fall, Harriman will be honored by various democratic clubs in the city. Vice-chancellor Finla G. Crawford will be host to the lecturer and the citizenship department at a luncheon in Hotel Syracuse Monday.

Harriman presently a partner in the firm of Brown Bros. and Harriman, has an impressive list of services to his country.

Born in 1891 and graduated in the Yale class of 1913, he began his public career with a post in the National Recovery Administration. He was lend-lease expediter during the war and was the United States ambassador to the Soviet Union during the critical last stages of the conflict.

After his stay in Russia, Harriman was appointed ambassador to Great Britain in 1946. He served as Secretary of Commerce under Harry Truman and was European administrator of the Marshall plan until 1950 when he became civilian head of the North Atlantic Treaty organization.

The son of E. H. Harriman, the founder of the Union Pacific railroad, Avgrell Harriman was chairman of the board of that corporation from 1932 to 1946, when he gave up the post to enter the public service.

He was also a candidate for the Democratic nomination for president in 1952.

AVERELL HARRIMAN, who will address cit students Monday, has held some of the highest administrative posts in the country.

Student Injured In Morning Crash

Ramchandra K. Valsampayna of 617 Irving ave., Hill graduate student, was reported in fair condition at University hospital yesterday, where he was taken after his car jumped the curb and struck a tree in E. Genesee st., just inside the Syracuse city line.

Vaisampayan was trapped in his car at 2:45 a.m. yesterday. Suffering a broken left hip, cut left knee and rib injuries, he was freed from his damaged vehicle and taken to the hospital.

The campus student, whose home is in Bombay, India, told Patrolman Robert Smith that the gears on the car locked. As he tried to fix them, he lost control of the car, he said. The car swerved to the right and went over the curb into the tree.

SYRACUSE DAILY ORANGE

THREE R'S OF A COLLEGE NEWSPAPER: RESPONSIVENESS, RESPONSIBILITY AND RESOURCEFULNESS

Page 2 — Friday, March 26, 1954

Editor-in-chief ..... Ariane Lambert
Business Manager ..... Robert Goldstein

SENIOR EDITORIAL STAFF

Managing Editor ..... Arthur Siegal
Editorial Director ..... Hugh O. Muir
Executive Editor ..... Janet Caro
Sports Editor ..... Kenneth Lent

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Edward Meyer, Joan Nodelkalt, Phyllis Sirota, Howard Vonkirk, Mary Vivian

BUSINESS STAFF

Asst. Business Manager ..... Sheldon Lessen
Layout Manager ..... Judith Berman
Classified Manager ..... Jean Iocoba
Circulation Manager ..... Anita Freyberg
Promotion Manager ..... Lloyd Eisenberg

DAILY STAFF

News Editor ..... Grace Frary
Night Editor ..... Ed Hardy
Asst. Night Editor ..... Pearl Bernstein
Editorial Page Asst. ..... Polly Reed
Night Sports Editor ..... Bob Letko

Published by the students of Syracuse University. Telephones: News, 75-5155, 75-5197; Editor, 76-1448; Business: 4-7206. Subscription by mail $5 per year, $3.50 per semester. Entered as second class mail matter at the Syracuse Post Office. Exclusive national advertising representatives National Advertising Inc., New York City.

Victory in the air

We hadn't planned another editorial on the "Quiz Bowl"—but the superlative efforts of the Syracuse four at last night's broadcast can hardly be passed by.

Those who attended the performance to give visible moral support know well the tension and mounting excitement that circulated within the walls of the Women's building dance studio.

The pre-broadcast time seemed almost interminable. Dr. Edwin Cady, Syracuse "coach," sat nervously in the front row with an audience of about 250 watching his proteges onstage. During "warm-up" time, the four contestants were given the chance to test their knowledge on advance questions and the audience responded enthusiastically whenever the Orange answered correctly.

By the time the program was on the air, the team seemed almost at home. True, they were excited and eager to down the men from the South. But there was a growing confidence that could be felt even as the pressure grew more intense. The cheering audience was on its feet the moment the announcer read the final score: Washington and Lee, 130; Syracuse 205!

If we wanted to write how the audience described the victory, we could not find enough synonyms for "great", even in a thesaurus. How can one possibly phrase a performance in which that intangible but so necessary "team spirit" becomes a living, cohesive entity? Every "it was so wonderful" is dwarfed by the very meaning it is meant to convey.

Syracuse came . . . and conquered. We can only burst with pride for the spirit shown and the representation made by the Syracuse "varsity scholars."

Colorado, beware!

Editor-in-Chief

Spring cowboys

It's spring round-up time; that is, with the first sunny weather, the cowboys are roaming the range.

The range is the University vicinity.

This unusual species enjoys life; it bedecks itself with hats of gay hue, sweaters of loud appearance, and cars of high velocity.

To everyone who is not a cowboy, this weather means only that he has to look four ways with every step he takes.

The automobile situation is particularly serious when the weather lets up and the cars are polished up.

Unhappily, Syracuse is not blessed with wide streets. It is cursed, instead, with a series of unplanned, narrow and extremely dangerous roads.

This is complicated by a seemingly insane desire to get somewhere in a hurry.

No one waits for another car to move; he skirts around the other cars.

And stopping on corners, the cowboy believes, is for the common people—not for him.

There have already been several accidents in the area in the past few days.

To someone flying high above the University, it might look like the cars were little toys engaged in some sort of game.

This "game," however, is somewhat more serious. It is not a game of little toys, but one of powerful machines that can snap out more than one human life with just a tap on the accelerator.

Let's slow down; we'll not only save gas, but we'll also save some lives.

Or else the cowboys will be heading for their last roundup.

Managing Editor

Activites

Weekly Notes On the Town

By MICHAEL BRAUN

THE CINEMA

LOEWS STATE—
"The Great Diamond Robbery," Red Skelton and a crowd of slapstick crooks; and "Prisoner of War," Ronald Regan, and the problems of concentration camp living. Friday and Saturday, feature at 6:07 and 8:49 p.m., Sunday at 7:16 and 10:02 p.m.

SCHINES ECKEL—
"Annapurna," this time its Murice Herzog on "why he'd climb the highest mountain," also showing is "Immortal Battalion," an English import with David Niven. Friday and Saturday, "Annapurna" at 7:45 and 10:25 p.m.; Sunday at 5:05 and 10:40.

LOEWS STRAND—
Marlon Brando, James Mason, Deborah Kerr, Greer Garson . . . by Will Shakespeare, and "a cast of thousands." Feature at 5:10, 7:30, and 9:50 p.m. every day.

RKO KEITHS—
In "Crime Wave" you, to quote the ads, "meet the gutter-gunners and the gang-girls!" and "Duffy of San Quentin" is "the raw inside story of 'the torture cage'." Feature at 7:03 p.m., and 9:45 p.m., every day.

MIDTOWN—
An earthy "Rome Eleven O'Clock," "Three Forbidden Stories," boasts the services of a host of Italian beauties. Feature, Friday at 8:15 and 10:00 p.m., and Saturday at 8:00 and 10:00 p.m.

SCHINES PARAMOUNT—
Marjorie Main and Percy Kilbride are up to their usual malaprops and highjinks in "Ma and Pa Kettle at Home." Along with this Audie Murphy is the boy, and Susan Cabot is the girl, in something called "Ride Clear of Diablo." Feature at 7:09 and 10:09 Friday and Saturday and 7:16 and 10:09 Sunday.

PROSCENIUM ARCH THEATER
Boar's Head presents Alec Guiness, the inimitable, in "Kind Hearts and Coronets" playing 9—count 'em—9 parts. Also showing are short subjects with such wits as Bert Lahr, The Ritz Brothers, and Tom Howard. Feature at 3:00 and 7:00 p.m. Sunday only.

LEGITIMATE THEATER

DRAMA BUILDING—
Again Boar's Head, which is entering its sixth week of a weekend with Arostophanes. Barbara Hush plays "Lysistrata" in the play of the same name. Friday and Saturday at 8:15.

NIGHT LIFE

PERSIAN TERRACE, HOTEL SYRACUSE—
Lenny Herman and his band are featured this week. Be sure that your finances are secure when you arrive because the minimum on Saturday is $2.50.

TRAVEL ROOM, HOTEL ONONDAGA—
Johnny Francher and his musicians play for dancing this weekend. Just the place to be when you have to run for that last Walnut bus.

RAINBOW LOUNGE, HOTEL SYRACUSE—
The Triads make music, for those that want the Hotel Syracuse atmosphere without the minimum.

MARINE ROOM—
Here the Rhythmaires supply the licks which are more on the jazzy side. Dancing too.

SPORTS

NCAA SWIMMING MEET—
The boys with the attachable fins make with the side strokes and half gainers in our spanking new Men's pool. Friday at 8:30 p.m., Saturday at 2:30 p.m. and the big, bronze trophies will be given Saturday at 8:30 p.m.

BLOCK S DINNER—
The crew cuts and varsity jackets will receive their block letters at this annual affair. 6:00 p.m. Sunday. Sims dining hall. Michigan State coach Hugh Daugherty will be guest speaker.

ART SHOW—
Central New York Rembrants, and maybe even a Cazenovia Grandma Moses. Saturday from 12 to 5:30 p.m. Sunday 2 till 5:30 p.m. Syracuse Fine Arts Museum.

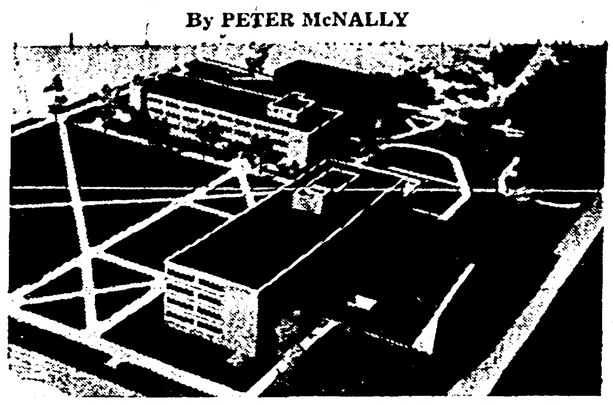
CONCERTS

LINCOLN AUDITORIUM—
Victoria de Los Angeles of Spain and the Metropolitan will sing for you tonight at 8:30. Lincoln auditorium.

Building a Model Home

By PETER McNALLY

When you feel the earth shake underneath you or feel a mighty big draft blowing at you this coming fall, on different parts of the campus have no fear. It's only that the engineers have moved back on campus and this is part of their learning.



A remarkable job of filling in those ghastly holes on the northeast corner of campus is demonstrated above. These models of the two engineering-buildings-to-be are complete with landscape . . . and the Drama building is conspicuous in its absence.

The violent shakes will come as a result of Engineer building number one. On the north side of this four-story building will be a three-story testing lab. From the ceiling of this cosy little room will be dropped weights to test the strength of helpless objects laying on the floor below.

The big draft—that's different and probably won't come for a couple of years yet, but when it does the occupants of Slocum hall are going to find it very hard to keep warm (or cold) on the bottom floor. For right where the greenhouse is at the present will be a wind tunnel for testing jet engines.

The wind tunnel will head toward Slocum from Engineering building number two.

All this can be seen very plainly with the help of David Ashley and Edward Feheley, fourth-year architecture students, who have constructed scale models of the two future applied science structures which will occupy part of our expanding campus.

Ashley and Feheley, who consulted Mr. Rotunno on landscaping matters for their semester project, got the idea to build these models from the establishments in which they worked last summer. Ashley worked in the office of King and King, who are the architects for these university buildings, while Feheley worked in the office of the constructors.

Building number two, of which only the two basement floors are being constructed now because of lack of building funds, will be a six-story structure facing toward Hendricks Chapel.

The models are set in masonite, which has been painted green and covered with flocking to give the very real grass effect.

Engineering building number two, which in reality is expected to be finished early next year, will house the Civil, Chemical, Industrial and the Mechanical Engineers.

A $4000 power analyser from G-E will be housed in this four-story building for research use. The two models together cost Ashley and Feheley $1000 to construct.

When Machinery hall comes tumbling down the second engineering building will be extended and a terrace will connect the two applied science structures. Underneath the terrace will be a laboratory, while in back of the buildings will be added parking space.

Ashley and Feheley hope to have the model in the Builder's show at the War Memorial this week. If you're interested in what your campus will look like after all the mud has grass go see the "Engineering College" while it's on exhibit. Admission is free.

Penicilin by Pill

By PEARL BERNSTEIN

Germ-ridden Syracusans can now approach the infirmary without fear of shooting pains in the posterior regions of the anatomy.

Starting Monday, the nurses will be putting away their needles, as oral penicilin will replace the injected form for most purposes

Aside from the obvious psychological advantages of swallowing a pill rather than getting punctured, the tablets do not cause serious reactions that are frequently the result of penicilin injections.

Last year 1,000 infirmary patients were given oral penicilin on an experimental basis, and Dr. J. Arnold Cronk, infirmary head, says that the only adverse effect was a short-lived laxative action on five of them.

This compares favorably with the 2-3 percent of those given injected form who got rashes, fever, swollen joints and hives, with the reaction sometimes lasting for as long as a month.

Also, the oral tablets will cost the patient only 50 cents per dosage instead of the $1 charged for injections. Four tablets containing a total of one million units of the drug will be the average day's dose. The oral form is absorbed quickly, while the shot, containing 400,000 units, is absorbed slowly.

Penicilin, described by Dr. Cronk as probably the best drug discovery of the last century, is a protein substance technically called a polypeptid. Therefore taking it orally is similar to eating a protein food. It is just as effective as the injected form as long as the patient's digestive tract is in good shape.

Made from a mold, penicilin is part of the by-product of the metabolism of fungi. Apparently it is a poison to bacteria. Because of its effectiveness and cheapness, the drug, discovered in 1940, has come into very wide usage.

Since the discovery of the drug, the death toll from pneuonia, for instance, has gone from 20 per cent to less than 1 per cent.

Also mastoids and sinusitis are no longer the serious diseases they once were.

Penicilin, even though frequent-used promiscuously, has done a good job. But serious reactions to the injected form, even death, keep occurring. This is why Dr. Cronk has decided to switch to the oral form. This is also why sensitive skinned Syracusans can now rejoice.

AT THE FLICKERS

A Lesson In Disaster

By CHARLES SAMUELS
Daily Orange Movie Critic

Everest Upside Down

For those of you who were fortunate enough to see "The Conquest of Everest" an overwhelming lesson in contrast is provided by "Annapurna." For those of you who were not, the Eckel's new tenant provides an overwhelming lesson in gore and horror. Whereas the former film was a soaring depiction of the ingenuity of man and its victorious consequences, the new film is an equally soaring deiction of the bungling of of man and disaster. "Everest" sent you out of the theater to conquer new worlds: "Annapurna" sends you out for aspirin.

The great emphasis in the new film concerning the conquest of Mt. Annapurna is on the descent of the wounded heroes of the expedition. Maurice Herzog and Lachinelt had a terrible accident on the mountain's summit resulting in frostbite and amputation for one and blindness for the other. More than half of the film chronicles the awful descent of the battered men and not even the Messrs. Karlof and Lugosi could have provided a more nerve-wracking experience. Too much of "Annapurna" is a race to see whether your stomach will outlast the film. Too much of "Annapurna" is concerned with suffering of a kind, presented with an accuracy which can hardly be called "art."

While the first part of "Annapurna" is less taxing it is also less exciting. For, the portrait of suffering is not for the squeamish, but it does provide one with an intense emotional experience. The ascension of Annapurna is a sorrier spectacle. Preparation for the journey is not handled, too much time is spent in commenting with great condescension upon the "asiatic minds" of the porters and the ascent itself is polished off in something like 15 minutes. Hardly any tension is created and in contrast to the care and length of the latter half of the film, the ascent is made about as dramatic as an ascent to the top of the steps in front of Crouse would be.

At one point in the film Maurice Herzog says "I bring you news of great victory." In the film, his victory bears a shocking resemblance to disaster.

AN EVENING IN

Award Show Lacks Spark

By DICK CASE
Editorial Page Writer

There still exists a doubt today as to just what the people behind last night's academy award production over NBC-TV had in mind. The show itself seemed to emerge a freakish middling between a good special events coverage and a top-heavy variety production.

We could note no indication of what the producers intended.

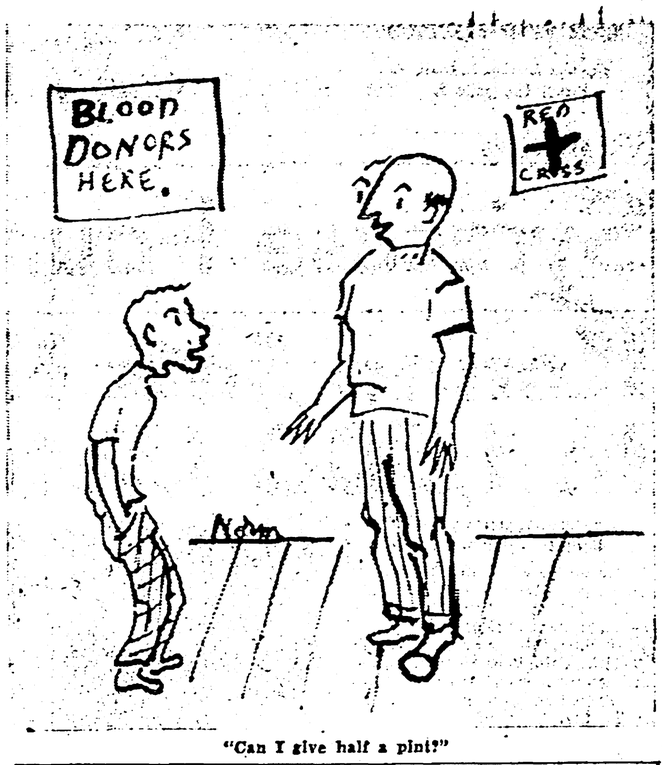
The main point is that the viewers got to see the awards being made which I guess, is enough reason in itself to warrant a passibly good show.

M. C. Donald O'Connor was quite funny and quite accomplished in his role of leading the show through its hour and a half. He added the light touch needed.

And the awards? Certainly they were well-deserved from Walt Disney who took four to "From Here to Eternity", the best film. "Secret Love", the best song selection, was also a happy event.

I imagine the networks will continue to televise this sort of thing. Only if they can restrain themselves from overproduction, will the effect warrant moving away from the radio.

Nonentities by Norm



"Can I give half a pint?"

IN THE HALLWAY

A Political Farce

By ED HARDY

We wonder what the campus political scene would be like if every house acted like one sorority did last Sunday.

Shrewd women politicians tossed any thought of political ethics out the window and madly dashed from party to party in an attempt to put across a candidate they thought should get nominated. They didn't care where that nomination came from, as long as it was from one of the two major parties.

When the group they belonged to refused to approve the sorority's candidate for either vice-president, secretary or treasurer of her class, the women took what they thought was the easiest way out.

"If we can't persuade our own party, let's try the other one."

So around the corner and up the street they paraded—campaign manager, rep and candidate. They were welcomed rather cautiously at party no. 2's meeting. The prospective candidate's application was accepted for consideration later when her class came up.

After the nominating convention was four hours old, it was discovered the house would have to be celared within an hour for supper. An adjournment was proposed.

The scheming minds of the visiting women began turning. "You can use our house to continue the meeting," they offered.

But wisely the party leaders did not fall for any such commitment. The meeting continued where it was.

And when the candidate's class came up, she was given an opportunity to speak on the same basis as the party's own candidates. Flowery phrases of support of party no. 2 came from the lips of those who had an hour or so earlier walked out of party no. 1's session.

'Twas all in naught, though. You just couldn't do such things to party no. 2. When the day was over, the sorority in question found itself without a party-backed candidate.

At last report no one was quite sure about the house's political status either. Party no. 1 claimed the sorority was still a member; a spokesman at the sorority said it wasn't. One thing was certain. They weren't in party no. 2.

It wasn't the first time things like this have been done. And it won't be the last time. Houses with self-glory and personal gain in mind have tried and will be trying to reduce politics to a farce.

Sometimes we think politicians are taking their politics too seriously; other times . . . . .

For Big Eaters Only!

- Personally Prepared Dinners
- Steaks Our Specialty
- All Legal Beverages

NO FLOOR SHOW . . . BRING YOUR OWN !

MARY MARDIN'S

Rock Cut Road, Jamesville — Ph. 4-9722

NEW JAZZ ON L.P.

STAN KENTON
conducts a new modern jazz suite by Bob Graetinger—THIS MODERN WORLD

SAL SALVADOR QUINTET playing Gone With the Wind, Get Happy, My Old Flame, This Can't Be Love, Too Marvelous For Words and After You're Gone

JAZZ AT THE HICKORY HOUSE
featuring the Marion McPartland Trio

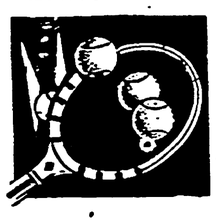
CLIFFORD BROWN SEXTET plays Minor Mood, Cherokee, Easy Living, Wail Bait, Hymn of the Orient, and Brownie Eyes

NORMAN GRANZ presents a New Label "NORGRAN"
Swing with Johnny Hodges and a recording first—Stian Getz and Dizzy Gillespie playing together.

OLMSTED'S
Varsity Victrola Shop
754 S. CROUSE — PHONE 4-7478

Cut Flowers
Corsages — Weddings
Flowers for all Occasions
FLOWERS by MARIE
948 E. Genesee St.,
75-4393
(Member of Student-Discount Service)

GOLF IS HERE!
WILSON EQUIPMENT
Clubs, Balls, Bags, Accessories
Sam Snead Matched 3, 5, 7, 9
and Putter
With Driver and Spoon
Reg. $64.00 Student Discount $55.00
Also — PATTY BERG — FOR WOMEN
RACQUETS OF ALL TYPES
BALLS—Slazenger, Wilson, Dunlop
SNEAKS—For Men and Women
TENNIS IS THERE!
LUND'S UNIVERSITY MEN'S SHOP
"ON CAMPUS"



遠東
Serving Mandarin Dinner
At All Times
There's Nothing to Equal
The Food at The
FAR EAST
121 W. ONONDAGA ST.
Chinese and American Cuisine
EXPERTLY PREPARED — GRACIOUSLY SERVED
Open Week Days & Saturdays 11 A.M. to 12 P.M.
Sundays 12 Noon-Midnight — Tel. 3-9880

Six NCAA Swim Events Fill Archbold Pool Today

By DAVE BENNETT
Daily Orange Junior Editor

A schedule of preliminaries and finals in six important events features the second day of competition as the National Collegiate Athletic Association's 31st annual swimming championships move into full swing at the Orange pool today.

Starting with the trial heats of the 50-yard freestyle event at 9:30 this morning, the pool will be a beehive of activity throughout the day as swimmers from all across the country compete for the coveted NCAA titles.

ALSO SCHEDULED for this morning is the one-meter diving preliminaries. At 2:30 p.m. the afternoon activities commence with the semi-finals in the 50-yard freestyle.

Time trials in the 200-yard breaststroke and backstroke events, 220-yard freestyle competition and 400-yard freestyle relay are also on the afternoon agenda, in addition to exhibitions by qualifying divers.

Finals in all the above events will be held this evening, beginning at 8:30.

ONE OF THE favorites in the 200-yard backstroke, being swum today as part of the NCAA championships, is LARRY HEIM. The Stanford university merman will also compete in the 100-yard backstroke and the 300-yard medley relay.

The 50-yard freestyle race should be a wide open affair with no less than two former NCAA titleholders taking part. Back to defend his championship will be Michigan's Don Hill. But Ohio State's Dick Cleveland, winner of the event two years ago, will make a strong bid to regain his crown.

IN ADDITION, three Ivy League mermen are distinct darkhorses in this sprint race. John Glover of Dartmouth, Kerry Donovan of Yale and Ralph Brisco of Brown constitute definite threats to Hill and Cleveland in the event.

The 200-yard backstroke race should be dominated by Ohio State's sensational Yoshi Oyakawa. The Buckeye star set new championship meet and national collegiate records in winning the event last year.

The 200-yard breaststroke race will probably be a battle of the fourth, fifth and sixth place finishers of a year ago. Bob Clemons of Illinois, Charles Douglas of Williams and Dennis O'Connor are the returnees from the '53 race.

Fabulous Ford Konno of Ohio State must be regarded as the outstanding swimmer in the 220-yard freestyle race. Also dominating their event is the 400-yard freestyle relay squad of Michigan. Made up of Ron Gora, Burwell Jones, Tom Brenner and Don Hill, the Wolverine quartet is a stronge favorite as defending champion.

Nats Whip Celtics To Open Playoffs

Showing deadeye shooting ability throughout, Syracuse's Nats raced to an easy 109-94 victory over the Boston Celtics in the opener of their best two out of three playoff series last night.

Dolph Schayes again turned in a fine performance garnering eight field goals and 11 free throws. Five other Nats hit for double figures in the high scoring battle.

Jack ichols played great ball for the Beantowners scoring 28 points but couldn't offset the below par play of Bob Cousy who scored only one field goal and 12 charity tosses for 14 markers.

Syracuse Boxer Rigolosi Receives Another Honor

By JOEL FEIDELMAN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

For Vince Rigolosi, co-captain of the Syracuse boxing team, Mayor of Marshall Street, Eastern champ last year and undefeated in dual boxing competition the past two years, one more honor came this week to top off four frantic years as an Orange boxer and outstanding man about campus.

Rigger lost two weeks ago in the semi-finals of the Eastern boxing tourney to Virginia's Sonny Nichols, in a very close decision at Charlottesville, Virginia. Before the finals in the 165-pound class, the Syracusan ventured down to the dressing room to wish Nichols luck in his final bout with Maryland's Bill McInnis.

NICHOLS REMARKED that he wished Rigger would be in his corner to help him out and that is exactly what Rigolosi did. He plotted Nichol's strategy and between rounds he told the Virginian what he was doing wrong. Nichols gladly admits that it was through Rigolosi's help that he captured the 165-pound title.

But the honor to equal all his past achievements came this week in a letter to Orange boxing coach Roy Simmons from Charlottesville attorney Orbin Carter who said "the recent EIBA tournament produced no winner that we in Charlottesville will remember, but we fans will long remember your 165-pound entry Rigolosi. whom we consider a great credit to his University, you as his coach, and to himself."

These plaudits from an average collegiate boxing fan are certainly another feather in Rigolosi's hat. But that was not all. The Daily Progress, a Charlottesville paper, called the action by Rigolosi o. helping the boy who had defeated him earlier in the day "the finest gesture of sportsmanship we ever saw."

Nichols and Rigger have met four times in their collegiate careers with each taking two decisions. They have become very friendly since they first met two years ago. Since he also had beaten McInnis last year, Rigolosi rather qualified to act as second to second for the Virginian.

Although the honors reaped from this experience can't be put on the mantle like a trophy or given a title like his Mayorship, Vince Rigolosi nevertheless has very good reason to be proud of himself for a job well done.

And yes, the University is certainly proud of the Rigger.

Swimming . . .

(Continued from page 1)

in the event, Olympic champ, Konno.

FORD DIDN'T disappoint the gallery as he started off with a fast 1:03.7 clocking for the fast 100 meters of four laps. His times for the next 13 100 meter distances ranged between 1:12 and 1:16. Going into the final 100 meters his time was 17:03.6.

Konno began the last 100 meters in the same fashion as a sprinter would. He kept up the pace for the whole distance and the record was his amid a great hand from the gallery.

There was no chance for Konno to set a world's record in this event as the pool is not of prescribed length. Records are recognized only in long course pools (50 meters or 55 yards) the Orange pool measures 25 meters.

Order of Top Finishers:

1.	Konno (Ohio State)	18:14.4
2.	Yorzyk (Springfield)	18:57.0
3.	Osborne (Stanford)	19:16.0
4.	Breen (Cortland)	19:17.4
5.	Duncan (Oklahoma)	19:20.0
6.	Smith (Yale)	19:28.7
7.	Hutchinson (Springfield)	19:35.7

Orange Wrestlers Enter Two Tourneys During Weekend

Eastern Titlist Rooney Battles in NCAA's At Oklahoma

Two tournaments are the wrestling news for this weekend with co-Capt. Ed Rooney the lone Syracusan in the NCAA's at Oklahoma and five other Orangemen appearing in the regional AAU's at Niagara.

Rooney, the Eastern 157-pound champion, will be making his second try for the national title. Last year, hampered by a knee injury, he was eliminated in the challenge round. This year, however, the knee is fully mended and he is rated a serious contender.

THE FIVE men who will represent Syracuse at Niagara are Ron Marinnelli, Bob Smith, Don Clark, Dick Beyer and Enzo Marinnelli.

The latter two are grad students who wrestled for Coach Joe McDaniels' varsity grapplers last year. They also acted as co-coaches of the freshman wrestlers this season.

Beyer wrestles in the 191-pound class, while Enzo Marinnelli will grapple in the heavyweight division. Brother Ronnie will compete with the 155-pounders, Smith at 165, and Clark in the 112 division.

The younger Marinnelli, Smith and Clark were three of the outstanding wrestlers on this season's Tangerine squad. Each had a winning record and will be counted on heavily next year for the varsity.

SMITH'S RECORD was an unblemished 6-0, which means he will be going into the tournament undefeated in college participation. Tomorrow, however, he will be up against tough, experienced veterans, who should make it very hard for him to keep this unblemished record.

Dick Beyer, as a member of the Orange team last year, was runnerup in his class in the Eastern NCAA finals, and should show up very well against the AAU competition.

The loss of Beyer via graduation last June was a blow to Orange hopes. Chuck Dinkelmeyer was sidelined for the year with a broken foot, Beyer's loss was felt even more.

BLOCK S TICKETS

All varsity athletes must secure their free Block S tickets at Mr. Decker's office in Archbold by 1 p.m. today at the latest. Each athlete must pick up his own ticket.

Alpha Xi Delta Wins WAA Bowling Crown

By JODY CRONAU

Alpha Xi Delta's bowling quartet rolled to the WAA University championship yesterday as they nosed out squads from Alpha Gamma Delta, Charles and Delta Gamma.

Betty Gage, Betty Swenson, Lee Goodnow and Genevieve Volotta recorded handicap games of 143, 148, 127 and 127, respectively, as Alpha Xi squeezed past Alpha Gamma Delta by three pins. Charles and Delta Gamma took third and fourth places in the tournament. Dorris Lemp, Alpha Gamma Delta, rolled the high non-handicap score of the afternoon, 134. Alpha Delta Pi held the bowling championship last year.

BASKETBALL SEXTETS from Kappa Kappa Gamma and Delta Gamma dropped teams from Peck II and Theta Phi Alpha last night and will meet at 8:30 p.m. next Thursday night for the WAA upperclass championship and the chance to meet frosh champs Sims III for the University title.

Kappa annexed a close 28-26 win from Peck II, as Connie Davis, scoreless in the first three quarters of the tilt, dropped in nine points in the final period. Previously undefeated Peck II led 6-5 in the first quarter, 18-11 at the half and 20-14 at the end of the third quarter.

Jane Jellison, Peck II, sunk six free tosses in the first quarter, and added two field goals later in the game to lead Peck II scorers. Peck II's Jane Rosebrook also had seven for the losers. A total of 39 fouls was called in the fast-moving contest, as Peck II sunk 12 out of 21 foul tosses, and Kappa Kappa Gamma recorded 8 out of 19.

After leading all the way, Delta Gamma dropped Theta Phi Alpha, 22-17. DG sparked by forward Joan Janecek, who scored 10, led 6-4 at the end of the first period, 10-6 at the midway mark, and 16-12 at the third quarter. Francine Harbach, who recorded seven markers, was high scorer for the Theta Phi's.

DELTA GAMMA'S Joan Abbott previously a substitute forward, started the game for the DG's and hit for three sets in the first half to put the team ahead.

Finalists Kappa Kappa Gamma and Delta Gamma met in regular season play last semester, and, in the night overtime tilt, Delta Gamma outscored Kappa, 10-8. The low-scoring game was highlighted by precision-like defensive play on the part of both teams. Gym instructors with national refereeing ratings will officiate at the final contest.

Piety Swordsmen Seek Third Victory

Battle RIT Fencers In Last Appearance

Tomorrow afternoon in Rochester, Syracuse's swordsmen will battle RIT in their final appearance of the season. The Orange will be going after victory number three while RIT will be out to avenge the defeat handed them by the Pietymen two weeks ago at Canton.

The locals are still burning from the setback suffered last Saturday when a late bus prevented their appearance in the NAIFCA and they will be doubly anxious to win tomorrow.

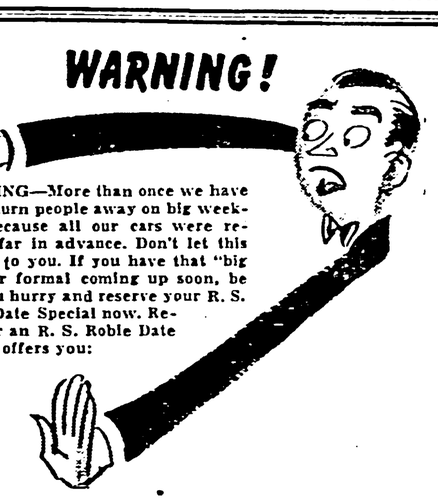
In an effort to strengthen the saber squad, which was the only weapon the Hill lost in the first meet with RIT, Captain John Goldstein will fence in that section instead of with his more familiar epee.

Also fencing saber will be Willie Schop and Abe Gilman. Starting in the epee will be George Woodring, who is counted on to take up the slack caused by Goldstein's absence, Joe Gresser, and Joe Lauterstein.

In the foil Ed Wang, Saul Klein and Bodo Trenk will represent the Hill. Trenk was the only member of the squad to reach the NAIFCA.

MEMORY LANE
INVITES YOU TO AN AFTERNOON OF DIXIELAND
LOU DESANTIS
AND HIS DIXIE-LAND JAZZ FIVE
SUNDAY, 3:30 to 7:30
2849 South Salina Street Phone 75-9549

WARNING!



WARNING—More than once we have had to turn people away on big weekends because all our cars were reserved far in advance. Don't let this happen to you. If you have that "big date" or formal coming up soon, be sure you hurry and reserve your R. S. Roble Date Special now. Remember an R. S. Roble Date Special offers you:

1. A car from 6:00 P.M.—8:00 A.M.
2. Free Gas, Oil and Insurance
—All this for $5.50 and .07 a mile.

R. S. ROBIE, INC.
Address 104 MADISON ST.
Telephone Nos. 3-6223—3-7744

MUSIC AS YOU LIKE IT
By The Tony Riposo Quartet
Featuring Lovely ANNA MARIE
(winner of "Chance of A Lifetime")
FRIDAY, SATURDAY NIGHT
SPECIAL FOR JAZZ CATS
LOU DESANTIS
And His Dixie-Land Five
SUNDAY NIGHT

Special Food Prices for Hill Students
CASABLANCA
253 East Water Street Phone 3-9512

Come On Down To
DEB'S
DRIVE-IN LOUNGE
SERVING THE BEST IN HOME COOKED FOOD
"The Hill Rendezvous"
Bottom of Crouse Hill
On Erie Blvd.
ALL LEGAL BEVERAGES

FRANK'S PIZZA SHOP
(Next Door to Daw's
475 Westcott St.
Phone 72-9448
Specializing in Delicious Hot PIZZA
READY IN 4 MINUTES!
3 Sizes—Small, Med., Large
3 Prices—50c, 85c & $1.45
—Clip This Coupon—
Worth 10c On Any Size PIZZA!!

Far Away Places—Stay at Home Prices
EUROPE 1954
All Expense—Budget Wise Tours
Prices From $798.00 Include
Operas and Theaters
Student Tours
THE GRAND TOUR WITH SCANDINAVIA AND VIENNA
To: Miss M. W. McKay
11 W. 42nd St., New York 36, N.Y.
Please send me free catalogue
☑ THE GRAND TOUR
☐ STUDENT TOURS
☐ GENERAL TOURS
Name _____
Address _____
City _____ State _____

LUND'S For Formal Wear On Syracuse University Campus

The Martinique

YOU MAY RENT THIS TUX AND SAVE TIME AND MONEY FOR THE APRIL 3rd I. F. C. Ball
TUX--Single Breasted LINKS
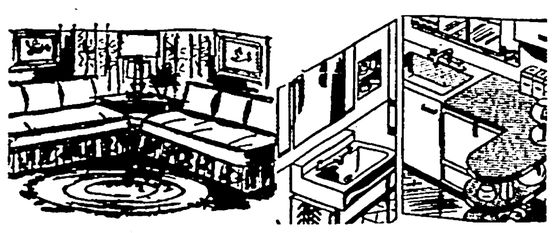
STUDS
CUMMERBUND
And Plain or Plaid
TIE -- To Match
SHIRT
SUSPENDERS
NO DEPOSIT --- No running miles to be fitted, to pick it up, or to return it. Save at least 2 hours.
ONLY $10.50 Complete. All items may be rented individually.
ONE MORE EXCELLENT SERVICE FOR SYRACUSE STUDENTS
LUND'S UNIVERSITY MEN'S SHOP
738 South Crouse Ave. Right On Campus
9:00 A.M. to 6:00 P.M., 75-1459 Friday to 8:00 P.M.

EXPERT WATCH AND JEWELRY REPAIRING
Rudolph's
Corner South Salina at East Jefferson Sts.

Tonight... Let's Dance!

To the Scintillating rhythms of Johnny Francher's Band
Smooth dance music, delightful supertime snacks, superb drinks.
You'll have a wonderful evening
And how about giving "tonight out" a big sendoff with dinner
Dance every weekend at the Travel Room!
Travel Room Hotel Onondaga
PAT MILLER V.P. & MNG. DIR.

DO YOU WANT ASHES HERE? or HERE? or HERE?



CERTAINLY NOT! — SO AN ASH TRAY IS IN ORDER
DUK-IT TRAY—With Locking Top Eliminates Odors ---- $3.50
OPEN METAL TRAY—with 6" glass liner ---- $1.50
SMOKING STANDS—Open Tray with Burn-Proof Finish (24 inches high) ---- $8.95
SMOKING STANDS—with "Duk-It" Tray (21 inches high) ---- $10.95
BARDEEN'S
333 EAST GENESEE STREET

TICKETS NOW ON SALE AT THE DRAMA BLDG.
All Seats Reserved
HELD OVER—6th WEEK!!
LYSISTRATA
PERFORMANCES
FRIDAY
SATURDAY
8:15 P.M.

Campus Notices

Daily Chapel, noon to 12:20 p.m. Dean Charles C. Noble will speak.

WAA badminton, 2:30-4:30 p.m., Gym B. Women's building.

JSF religious committee meeting, 1:00 p.m., Chapel lounge. Anyone interested is welcome.

JSF evening services, 7:15 p.m., Chapel. Dr. Fred Krinsky will speak on "Athletic Communism Versus Godliness: False Alternatives."

Episcopal students open house, 8-11 p.m., 818 Ostrom ave.

Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship meeting, 7:30 p.m., Chapel lounge. Maurice Murphy will speak on "Separation That Is Christian."

WAA volleyball, 4 p.m., Women's building. Compulsory for girls participating in play day Saturday.

Panel secretaries meeting, 2 p.m., MSG office, Building 30.

Anyone interested in working on campus ticket sales for senior show "Up in Lights" contact Dot Leonard, Alpha Xi Delta.

Marvin Lasser will speak on "The Optical Properties of Lead Telluride Films," 1:15 p.m., 106 Steele.

DRUMLINS

Dancing Every Saturday Night

One of the Largest Ballrooms

In Central New York

Williamson's Parisians★ Dick Kowell's Orchestra

Tomorrow Night Dick Kowell's Orchestra

$1.75 per couple (tax inc.) | City Bus Marked Drumlins | Dancing 8:30 to 12:30

CADILLAC

LOUNGE and RESTAURANT

515 West Genesee Street

• New Policy •

Red Thomas Playing 9--2

FEATURING JOYCE LEROY

Remember Us

After That Special Date

THOMAS RESTANI — Your Host

at the

CADILLAC LOUNGE & RESTAURANT

COME TO THE CLOVER CLUB

RAY CALDIERO

and his

ALL-CAMPUS FOUR

DANCING

Friday • Saturday

9-1

NO cover or minimum

SUNDAY NITE — JAM SESSION — DANCING

6:30...to...10:00

The CLOVER CLUB

Almond & Cedar Sts. Reservations Phone 75-9612

Recital in Crouse Sunday to Feature Organ, PianoWorks

Miss Smoral, Ingram Plan Joint Program In Auditorium

Lorraine Smorol and Donald Ingram will present the joint senior recital starting at 8 p.m. on Sunday in the Crouse auditorium.

Miss Smorol, a mebber of Theta Phi Alpha, will sing three groups of songs. The first group will be three Purcell numbers with a concert aria by Mozart and a violin accompaniment by Ernest Horrath.

IN HER second group she will present three songs by Hugo Wolf and three Polish songs, which she will sing in the original language.

Songs by Ravel, Poulenc, Duparc, and an aria entitled "Je Suis Titania" by Thomas will be sung by Miss Smorol in her last group.

Ingram, a member of Acacia, will present "By the Waters of Babylon" by Bach, which is a chorale prelude.

An organist and choir master at St. Peter's Episcopal Church will also play "Concerto in D minor (after Vivaldi)" by Bach. Ingram will also present "Neuftiecef" by Langlaif including "Song of Sorrow, Song of Joy and Song of Peace."

MISS SMOROL was the first female to sing the boy soprano role in Gian-Carlo Menotti's opera, "Amahl and the Night Visitor's," in the Plymouth Playhouse in Duxbury, Mass., recently, while Mr. Ingram is the glee club accompanist here on campus.

COSTUMERS TO MEET

All girls wishing to assist making costumes for the forthcoming production of "Up in Lights" are requested to meet with Mario Forte, costume designer, at 11 a.m. Saturday in the Drama building, Gilbert Katz, stage manager, announced yesterday. Boar's Head and activities credit will be given for the project, which will start April 1.

WAER PROGRAM SCHEDULE

FRIDAY

2:58—Sign On
3:00—WAER News
3:05—Symphonic Matinee
4:00—Musical Heritage
5:00—This I Believe
5:05—Distaff Digest
5:15—Dinner Date
6:15—WAER News
6:25—Evening Showcase
6:35—WAER Sports Lineup
6:45—Date With Adele
7:00—Paris Star Time
7:30—Chicago Round Table
8:00—Evening With Music
9:00—WAER News
9:05—Music Magazine
10:00—Final Edition—News
10:10—Final Edition—Sports
10:20—Sign Off

"It's TV for me!"

"I live on excitement and love every minute of it. As secretary to a TV producer I certainly use my Gibbs training. Thoroughness, accuracy, and poise under pressure are everyday musts."

Katharine Gibbs secretarial training qualifies college girls for today's job and tomorrow's promotion. Special Course for College Women. Write College Dean for "Gibbs Girls at Work."

KATHARINE GIBBS SECRETARIAL

BOSTON 16, 90 Marlborough St. NEW YORK 17, 230 Park Ave.
CHICAGO 11, 51 E. Superior St. PROVIDENCE 6, 155 Angell St.
MONTCLAIR, N. J., 33 Plymouth St.

Two Reps Named For Debate Meet

Howard Osofsky and Max Baratz will participate in the District Eight elimination for the West Point National Debate tournament to be held at Dartmouth college tomorrow and Saturday.

Osofsky, president of the Hill debate organization, and Baratz, will be accompanied by Dr. J. Edward McEvoy, coach of the debate team.

THIRTY-THREE colleges will compete at the elimination debates. Of these, five teams will be selected to go to West Point on April 21-24 where 32 teams will compete for the national championship.

There will be eight rounds of debates at the tournament with the debators taking both the affirmative and negative side of the question: "Resolved: That the United States Should Adopt a Policy of Free Trade."

The Dartmouth tournament according to Dr. McEvoy, is the only national tournament. Other tournaments have claimed to be national but have failed to represent all major regions in the United States.

The Dartmouth tournament will be Osofsky's last entry in a major tournament. Osofsky has been accepted at Syracuse medical school.

This Saturday, Alex Strasser, secretary of the debate team, and Douglas Ingalls, will take up the negative side of the national debate topic at the LeMoyne debate tournament. Senior Rudolph Johanns and Robert Hecht will defend the affirmative side of the question.

Last Tuesday evening, Johann and Strasser combined on the affirmative side to defeat Baratz and Osofsky in a contest before the Forestry debate team. The debate was judged by students, who voted 5-1 in favor of the affirmative.

OPEN HOUSE

Sims V is sponsoring an open house which will take place from 2-5 p.m. Sunday in the Sims lounge. Naomi Brown, chairman of the event has announced that dancing and refreshments will be featured throughout the afternoon.

Krinsky to Speak At JSF Services

"Atheistic Communism vs. Godliness: False Alternatives" will be Dr. Fred Krinsky's sermon topic at Sabbath Eve services at 7:15 p.m. today in the chapel.

Participants in the service will be David Simon, cantor, Zeta Beta Tau; Martin Baron, student leader, Tau Delta Phi; Gail Dudkin, blessing over the candles, Iota Alpha Pi; Elaine Reichel, student reader, Delta Phi Epsilon; Muriel Salmonson, student reader, Fairfield cottage.

Lloyd Dunsker and Miriam Fiske will also speak on the UJA campaign. An Oneg Shabbat will immediately follow the service.

The sermon will be an answer to Rep. Walter H. Judd's speech at the recent Brotherhood banquet.

FROSH TEA

Freshmen in speech pathology and audiology will be honored with a tea from 3-5 p.m. today in the Women's building.

REGENT

TODAY—SATURDAY

That Hilarious Pair

DEAN MARTIN

JERRY LEWIS

"MONEY FROM HOME"

Schine Eckel Now

At Last On Screen
Filmed As It Happened
"ANNAPURNA"
In Technicolor
also
"THE IMMORTAL BATTALION"
David Niven Leo Genn

NOW at Schine's PARAMOUNT

NOW PLAYING

"MA AND PA KETTLE BACK HOME"

MARJORIE MAIN

PERCY KILBRIDE

also

In Technicolor

"RIDE CLEAR OF DIABLO"

Dan Duryea Audie Murphy

Susan Cabot Abbie Lane

ARE SEASONAL

BUT

MAGAZINES BRING YEAR-ROUND ENJOYMENT

Subscriptions Taken Here For:

TIME
LIFE
FORTURE
AND 1357 OTHERS

The Corner Store

SINCE 1908

Junior Class Reps To Attend Banquet

Five juniors were recently elected to represent the junior class at the Block S banquet this Sunday. The junior assembly chose four of its members for this honor on the basis of perfect attendance at assembly meetings.

Those selected were Patricia Bowen, Marilyn Young, Ann McCraig, and Suzanne Woodrow. Barbara Witter was named to represent the junior executive council.

CAROMA

A Restaurant of Distinction

Steaks - Chops - Broilers

Italian Cuisine Our Specialty

Baked Lasagna—Raviola—Cacciatore—Hot Pizza

402 Lodi 74-2119

Now MIDTOWN Open 6:30 P.M.

2ND BIG WEEK

You will never forget these three girls.

and their "Three FORBIDDEN Stories"

TREATED WITH ADULT FRANKNESS!

ADULTS ONLY

SPORTSWEAR ! !

LINEN — BABY CORD — POPLIN

SKIRTS—SUITS—JACKETS—BLOUSES

PEDDAL PUSHERS—BERMUDA SHORTS—HALTERS

MATCHING AND CONTRASTING COLORS

THE TOWN SHOP

Open Tuesday and Friday Evenings

736 South Crouse Avenue Phone 4-0461

ELLIOT LAWRENCE AND HIS ORCHESTRA

featuring

ROSALIND PATTON

playing for

'fraternally yours,

I. F. C. BALL

SATURDAY APRIL 3rd

THIS IS IT!

L&M FILTERS ARE JUST WHAT THE DOCTOR ORDERED

I've been waiting for a filter cigarette that really gave me the feeling that I was smoking. I knew that L&M Filters were what I had been looking for with the very first package I tried. They have a fine filter and they taste good. The facts below make sense to me.

Bennett Cerf

THIS YOU GET...

1. Effective Filtration, from the Miracle Product—Alpha Cellulose—the purest material for filtering cigarette smoke and exclusive to L&M Filters.

2. Selective Filtration—the L&M Filter selects and removes the heavy particles, leaving you a light and mild smoke.

3. Much Less Nicotine—the L&M Filter* removes one-third of the smoke, leaves you all the satisfaction.

4. Much More Flavor and Aroma—the right length—the right filter—the right blend of premium quality tobaccos to give you plenty of good taste.

*U. S. Patent Pending

Light and Mild

MUCH MORE FLAVOR
MUCH LESS NICOTINE

L&M FILTER TIP CIGARETTES

Copyright 1954, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

CLASSIFIED ADS

IMPORTANT NOTICE—CLASSIFIED ADS to appear in this paper should be DELIVERED at the HELLBOX Classified desk between 1 and 3 p. m. NO ADS WILL BE ACCEPTED AFTER 3. ALL ADS MUST BE IN 2 DAYS IN ADVANCE. For further information call 4-7206.

ALL LOST ARTICLES should be turned into the CENTRAL LOST AND FOUND ROOM, 20 Bldg. 24 at 205 University Pl. Articles can be claimed there.

AUTO-DRIVING

AUTO DRIVING INSTRUCTION. Learn to drive easily, correctly and safely. Call Upstate Auto Driving School. Phone 8-4040.

LEARNING TO DRIVE? Learn quickly, easily, scientifically. 17 years experience. Car furnished. SULLIVANS DRIVING School Inc. 73-3451.

RENTALS

TYPEWRITERS RENTED: $3.00 per month, $8 3 months. Good selection. We deliver, Smith Brothers. 4-8833.

Typewriters rentals—New Models Reasonable Rates—Expert Service, All Makes—CORNER STORE.

FOR RENT

GRAD STUDENTS—children—House for rent. Inquire Shell station, Tully.

205 Comstock Ave. New 1 room apartment with kitchenette. Private bath and entrance. $60. 75-[illegible].

FURNISHED APARTMENT for couple. $69. Vern Steensland. 75-3790.

SLEEPING WITH twin beds, home privileges. 75-8137. 667 Madison st.

TYPING

EXPERT TYPING, theses and term papers. Mrs. Raymond Webb, 2-1884.

FOR SALE

USED PLYMOUTH: four door. Reasonable, 807 Comstock Ave. 75-8648.

LOST

LOST. Silver oval-shaped brooch. Indian design. Vicinity of Memorial hospital. Reward. Call after 5. 76-7309.

CHURCH SERVICE

TEMPLE ADATH YESHURUN. Corner Harrison and South Crouse Ave. Week day services 7:30 a.m.

MISCELLANEOUS

GOOD NIGHT, IRENE! Give him a SARKIN PORTRAIT and let him go home! SARKIN STUDIO. 708 E. Raynor Ave. 4-1145.

ALTERATIONS DONE WITHIN A DAY: 4-5847. 5 minutes from campus. Lillian Potter, 207 Comstock Ave.

MIMEOGRAPHING, SAME DAY SERVICE, EXCELLENT WORK FREEMAN LETTER CO., ECKEL THEATER BLDG. 2-4529

NCAA Swim Edition

SYRACUSE Daily Orange

Weather
CLOUDY
High temperature ---- 38
Low temperature ----30

Vol. 51, No. 99 | Syracuse, N. Y., Saturday, March 27, 1954 | 8 Pages—5 Cents

Buckeyes Take Swimming Lead

College Quiz Bowl Winners Prepare For Coming Battle

University of Colorado Competes for Prize Thursday Evening

Spurred by Thursday night's victory over Washington and Lee in NBC's "College Quiz Bowl," the Syracuse radio-television center today began preparations for next week's question battle against the University of Colorado.

The tape recorded program of the Syracuse-Washington and Lee broadcast will be presented nationwide on NBC and locally on station WSYR at 6 p.m. tomorrow.

THE FOUR local panelists, Janet Caro, Jane Bauer, Raymond Guenter and John Beach, will face the western scholars at 8:30 p.m. Thursday in the women's building dance studio. According to a statement released last night by Edward C. Jones, supervisor of the production, seating for next week's program will be conducted on a "first come, first serve" basis.

With the exception of blocks reserved for residents of the living centers of the four panelists, all seats will be open and no tickets or admission will be required. When the auditorium is full, the doors will be closed and any overflow crowd accommodated in another room with a public address system.

Jones indicated that this new plan became necessary when a large number of persons who received tickets for Thursday's program did not attend or passed ducats on to someone else. He stated that many students complained that they were not able to attend due to lack of tickets but the dance studio was not filled to capacity for the broadcast.

In regard to several complaints received on the poor public address reproduction in the auditorium during the program, Jones stated that the first concern in such cases is, of course, the air broadcast, and due to a technical problem, the speakers had to be tuned down. He indicated, however, that an attempt would be made to improve the sound.

FURTHER INFORMATION on the seating situation and the time the doors will be opened, will be revealed early next week.

Tryouts Scheduled For Talent Bureau

The talent bureau tryouts will be held from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. Monday in the alumni lounge of the Women's building, according to Jayne Werner, chairman of the bureau.

The students activities committee of the Women's building is the present sponsor of the talent bureau. Originally it was sponsored by the now defunct Student Union.

All talented students are invited to attend the tryouts. This purpose is to formulate a list of available talent for organizations wanting such entertainment.

The talent bureau will primarily serve the weekly dances at the Women's bilding. Any and all kinds of entertainers will be welcome.

NCAA Championships End This Evening in Orange Pool

By BOB GROGAN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

It will be standing room only tonight in the Orange pool as the 31st annual NCAA swim championships conclude with finals in seven events on tap.

Just as in Friday's competition, there will be a full day of activity; with preliminaries in the three-meter fancy diving slated for 9:30 a.m. and time trials in 2:30 p.m. The finals will start at the other six events scheduled for 8:30 p.m. but if you haven't got a ticket, you might as well stay home. There just aren't any.

Here is a list of the events which will be held tonight.

1. Three-meter fancy diving.
2. 100-yard backstroke.
3. 100-yard breaststroke.
4. 100-yard freestyle.
5. 150-yard individual medley.
6. 440-yard freestyle.
7. 300-yard medley relay.

Ohio State is regarded as the team to beat by the experts and the performance of the Buckeyes in the first two days of competition, indicates why they were the favorites.

Ford Konno started the Ohioans off on the right foot by garnering seven big points for his first place finish in the 1500-meters event.

THE THREE-METER dive is expected to develop into a inter-team dual between Jerry Harrison and Morley Shapiro, both of Ohio State, with Bobby Broadnax of Texas also one of better bets to win the crown.

Ohio State's depth in both diving events is one of the main reasons why the Buckeyes are favored to take the team title away from defending champ, Yale.

Yoshi Oyakawa who defended his 200-yard backstroke title yesterday, will seek to capture the 100-yard event, a title which he also won last year in the NCAA's.

The Buckeye star will probably receive the most competition in this event from the boys who qualified in the 200-yard backstroke.

LARRY HEIM of Stamford, Bert Wardrop of Michigan and Fred Bautz of Purdue are the main threats to take over Oyakawa's crown.

Heim placed third in last season's competition with a time of 59.4 which was almost three
(See CHAMPIONSHIPS, page 4)

By STAN ROSENFELD
Daily Orange Junior Editor
(See action pictures of yesterday's events on pages 4 and 5.)

Ohio State's well balanced team forged into the lead by a comfortable margin over Michigan as the NCAA swimming championships move into their final rounds today. The Buckeyes lead the Wolverines by 39-26 with seven events yet to be contested.

A brilliant winning performance by Jack Wardrop of Michigan in the 220-yard freestyle helped keep his team's chances alive. Wardrop edged out Ford Konno of Ohio State and in so doing set a new NCAA mark for the distance of 2:05.0. The old record was held by John Marshall of Yale set in 1951 of 2:05.6.

WARDROP'S TIME actually tied the existing world's record also set by Marshall. Konno earlier this year traversed the distance in 2:04.7. The world record has been applied for by Konno but official recognition has not yet come through.

Konno, the little Hawaiian, gave it all he had in an effort for his second straight win of the championships but fell an arms length short. His previous success had come Friday evening in the 1500 meter event.

A miss of the edge of the pool by Dick Cleveland of Ohio State might have cost his team a chance to win the 400-yard freestyle relay. Michigan and the Staters had been extremely close until the mishap. Cleveland had to turn around and correct his faux pas before he could return in pursuit of the Wolverine ahead of him. The Buckeyes managed to finish second in the event.

In the opening event of the evening, speedy Dick Cleveland outreached Don Hill of Michigan in winning the 50-yard freestyle. Cleveland's time of 0:22.3 was two tenths of a second off his own American record.

YOSHI OYAKOWA retained his crown in the 200-yard backstroke by successfully turning back Larry Heim of Stanford. The slender Japanese Olympian from Ohio State turned in a creditable time of 2:09.8.

Dave Hawkins of Harvard out-
(See OHIO STATERS, Page 5)

Athletes to Receive Letters at Banquet

A total of 195 Syracuse university athletes will receive letters tomorrow night at the annual Block S banquet.

Scheduled for 6 p.m. in Sims dining hall, the affair will feature Hugh Daugherty, head football coach at Michigan State college, as guest speaker.

UNIVERSITY VICE-President Kenneth G. Bartlett will be the toastmaster.

Two Orangemen will receive three letters each tomorrow. They are Bruce Yancey, football, boxing and lacrosse, and Billy Nelson, soccer, basketball and baseball. Yancey was recently named Syracuse university's athlete of the year.

Fourteen other athletes will be awarded two of the coveted Block S's for participation in a pair of sports.

The Rev. K. Arnold Nakajima will give the invocation. Lewis P. Andreas, director of athletics, is scheduled to present the awards.

Also on the program will be installation of new members of the downtown Varsity club by Harry D. Anderson, club officer.

SEVENTEEN SPECIAL awards will be presented to outstanding athletes in 18 sports. Included will be the Devil's Own trophy to best sophomore athlete and an award by Orange Key, junior men's honorary and sponsors of Block S, to the outstanding junior athlete.

Mrs. Elizabeth W. Daugherty, mother of Coach Daugherty, will be guest of honor and will sit at the head table.

Also at the head table will be student co-chairmen Oliver Richards and Harold Steinberg, Vice-chancellor and Mrs. Finla G. Crawford, Vice-President and Mrs. Frank P. Piskor, Vice-president and Mrs. Bartlett, Dean of the
(See ATHLETES, page 6)

Board of Regents Approves Branches

University Will Offer Resident Credit

The State board of regents yesterday granted Syracuse university three-year provisional charters for banches in Poughkeepsie, Rome and Chatauqua.

A request to change the name of Triple Cities college to Endicott Center college of Syracuse university was also approved.

University Vice-President Kenneth G. Bartlett said last night that the charters will allow Syracuse to offer resident credit for graduate students at these places. Only extension courses and credit are now being given there.

State law limits the amount of extension credit that may be applied toward a master's degree, Bartlett stated. Adults working in the approved places, such as Rome air force base and IBM in Endicott, can now earn unlimited resident credit.

"Formerly, work for resident credit was limited and it was difficult for a graduate student to receive an advanced degree," according to the dean of public relations.

University professors will teach
(See BRANCHES, page 6)

Honor Award

STEPHEN REISS receives a special award from BENJAMIN ACKLEY, president of the Syracuse chapter of the National Association of Cost Accountants. The honor is given each year to the top honor student in accounting. Acting Dean of Business Administration MORRIS HURLEY, (right) looks on.

Men Will Receive Room Assignments

Men's housing assignments begin Monday with fall semester seniors applying for rooms in Marion dormitory. One hundred forty-two places are available in the new building.

Date for seniors to apply for Washington Arms is April 5, not April 3 as stated on the housing information sheets.

Dates for assignment to small living centers and prefabs should have been listed as the following: senior, April 9; junior, April 12; sophomores, April 13.

Applications Due For Goon Squad

All upper freshmen who would like to work on Goon Squad next year should apply as soon as possible, states Traditions commission.

Applications should be handed in to Ward Ingalsbe, Phi Kappa Psi; Jean Brydon, Kappa Alpha Theta; Cynthia Satow, Kappa Kappa Gamma; or Harold Vikoren, Sigma Nu.

Goon squad members return early in the fall to help with the freshmen orientation program as well as help the Traditions commission with tours and frosh mixers.

Applications should include name, address, telephone number, high school and campus activities, and any suggestions for improvements of the orientation program.

The squad is composed of over 150 members. Work is assigned according to interests. Memberships from the Goon Squad determines eligibility for Traditions commission.

In addition the squad helps with

In addition, the squad helps with dium and serves as guides for the annual high school weekend on campus

SYRACUSE DAILY ORANGE

THREE R'S OF A COLLEGE NEWSPAPER: RESPONSIVENESS, RESPONSIBILITY AND RESOURCEFULNESS

Page 2 Saturday, March 27, 1954

Editor-in-chief ..... Arlene Lambert
Business Manager ..... Robert Goldstein

SENIOR EDITORIAL STAFF

Managing Editor ..... Arthur Siegel
Editorial Director ..... Hugh O. Muir
Executive Editor ..... Janet Caro
Sports Editor ..... Kenneth Lent

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Edward Meyer, Joan Nadelhaft, Phyllis Sirota, Howard Vankirk, Mary Vivian

Issue Editor ..... Joan Nadelhaft

BUSINESS STAFF

Asst. Business Manager ..... Sheldon Lessen
Layout Manager ..... Judith Berman
Classified Manager ..... Jean Jacobs
Circulation Manager ..... Anita Freyberg
Promotion Manager ..... Lloyd Eisenberg

DAILY STAFF

News Editor ..... Joanne Stern
Night Editor ..... Howie Van Kirk
Asst. Night Editor ..... Eileen Chamberlain
Editorial Page Asst. ..... Tom Long
Night Sports Editor ..... Alex Strasser

Published by the students of Syracuse University.
Telephones: News, 75-5196, 75-5197; Editor, 76-1448; Business: 4-7206. Subscription by mail $6 per year, $3.50 per semester. Entered as second class mail matter at the Syracuse Post Office. Exclusive national advertising representatives National Advertising Inc., New York City.

Postscript...

Postscript on the "Quiz Bowl": We just learned that no tickets will be distributed for next week's show. The Dance studio seats will be on a first-come-first-served basis.

Although the studio was not filled last Thursday, this particular process may not be the remedy for obtaining a capacity crowd. Passing the tickets out, one to a house, probably caused some people to stay home because they did not wish to go alone.

The solution to this problem would be to have 350 tickets printed and, except for certain designated blocks, distributed at a central office on a first-come-first-served basis.

In this way, no more people than can be accommodated will come to the studio. Sitting in another room listening to the public address system is not enjoyable for one who comes to see the show.

Another thought on the quiz: What a useful way for the $500 winnings to be spent! One of the programs of student leaders this year is to obtain a centralized activities center in the Women's building. The purchase of television sets for student use is one of a series of efforts being made in that direction.

Those Student Union activities have certainly not been forgotten!

Editor-in-Chief

Teaching old dogs

Leaders are born, not made, the saying goes. Perhaps so, but we also put good stock in the idea the individuals also rise to occasions that demand leadership.

At Oregon State college they've taken the premise that the creation of a leader can be made into an academic exercise. The college has set up, at the students' request, a two credit hour course which meets once a week and discusses leadership training. It is primarily for the leaders on campus.

Now, this thought is fine in concept. But we have our doubts about this particular way of going about it.

First of all, while the broad term of leadership may apply to high positions, the actual mechanics and facets of leadership required vary greatly.

A class that is composed of these varying leadership demands can be little more than a rather loose bull session.

We can see the necessity for such a course for people coming up in the ranks. There, general instruction can be of help. With specifics filled in from the respective demands of the irrespective jobs, a well-rounded leader can result.

But of course for those who have arrived, so to say, is teaching the old dog a set of tricks he should have learned long ago.

Editorial Director

AT THE FLICKERS

Blast of Profanity; Comic of Genius

By CHARLES SAMUELS
Daily Orange Movie Critic

Propaganda Salves No Wounds

Two Wrongs

The film that is now holding forth at the State, "Prisoner of War," is a lesson in the motion picture functioning not as art or entertainment, but as propaganda. It chronicles the ordeal suffered by the prisoners of the North Koreans with an approach that can scarely be called dispassionate. The audiences' emotions, patriotism and indignation, are played upon in that order and whereas the members of the audience began by hurling profanity at the screen they ended upon a state bordering on hysteria.

The Communists are loathsome, the Americans are heroic and the atrocities are atrocious. The plot is standard, the bad guy turns out to be the good guy and every one leaves the theater confident that every Russian is a louse and that not even Hitler was as inhuman as Stalin.

Let's get one thing straight says the guy who wants objectivity; the ordeal of prison camp interment is horrible, some Communists are terrible and heroism is common in strained circumstances. But the chamber of horrors and absurd depiction in this film which cleverly affects an authentic air but had no technical advisor, and seemingly no documentation, reduces the situation to the status of a day-time serial.

That Russia is not a friendly nation, that we have fought a war with the communists, that they played dirt too often; all these things are well known. That this film is of any conceivable aid to the already tense situation; is open to debate.

Our times are troubled; this is a truism. "Prisoners of War" we think will do nothing to salve the wonds. It will instead inflame them in its calculated and shameful appeal to the very worst in the audience. We are fast realizing that modern warfare is too horrible to afford a decisive victory to either side. Russian-American problems can be solved, if at all, at the conference table and not at the battlefield. A film such as this is hardly conducive to the kind of objectivity that will permit such clear-headed statesmanship.

An old American homily is "Two wrongs don't make a right." In view of this film that homily takes on new importance. Lies kill truth and it is only in an atmosphere of truth that free men can remain free.

Nonentities by Norm

"But, your majesty, we can't burn the enemies' books. They're written on stone."

Boar's Head Launches Its Series

Look at Comic Genius

On Sunday, March 21st, Boar's Head began its motion picture series entitled "The Comic Genius in the Movies." This series happily shows promise of being one of the most delightful and important artistic events of the year. If Boar's Head does nothing more this year we will still be indebted to them for the opportunity they afforded us of witnessing the rare talents of the great Charles Chaplin nee Charlee.

Charles Chaplin is a genius of slapstick and for those of us who were aware of this only because of the short glimpses we got in "Limelight," the Boar's Head offering was overwhelming evidence. In the first two shorts, "The Immigrant" and "The Count" the tramp reigned. This magnificant characterization of Chaplin's demonstrates the flawless technique that enables him to convulse an audience forty years later. Mr. Chaplin is not only a commedianne, he is a dancer. Every movement of his is a little comic symphony in itself. Every gesture is a direct hit on the audience's funny bone. What makes Chaplin's pathetic little tramp so devastating is the humanity that is so readily identified. The tramp is the belabored poor soul with good intentions; the gauche but golden hearted bufoon that lurks beneath the skin of all of us. He may be on the short end of life but he fiercely tries to maintain his dignity and it is this fierce determinaton that is so hilarious.

Con: Wide Open Spaces

By ART SIEGEL
Managing Editor

Are you one of those who has signed up for the first space ship to outer space?

If you are, I think that you are a fool.

Speaking strictly as a layman in the dubious field of interplanetary travel, I doubt whether it will ever become a reality. And I am convinced that it will not happen in our time.

This week George Sokolsky, prominent newspaperman, said he thinks General Electric in Syracuse is building a space platform.

This seems ridiculous. And if his supposition is true, I think that GE is wasting its time and money and would do well to stick to building better mousetraps, television sets and other consumer durables which up to now has been its forte.

This science-fiction stuff is great. Westerns and tales of King Arthur have been just about played out and this moon-man and astro-girl fiction is great—as fiction.

But when we begin to take it seriously, we've flipped, so to speak.

Do we realize the problems involved in merely leaving the earth's atmosphere? We think not.

It would require, we are told, a speed of something like 25,000 miles per hour to escape the earth's atmosphere. It would require fuels that are as yet undeveloped. It would require setting up "moons" in orbits around the earth.

If you want to be the one to try it, good luck. I'll stay here and watch you through my 98 cent telescope.

Yes, I know that I will be accused of being against Progress (with a capital "P"), and you'll probably say, "They said that about Newton and Columbus and Fulton and Edison, too."

As far as the planets go, we're convinced. We do have several reservations about the moon . . . not on the moon, but about the moon.

Let's assume that we have made our trip through outer space, and have cavorted through the heavens for several years or whatever they call them up there.

Chances are we'd never get back. The most minute slip would mean that—boom!—we burst into fire.

As I mentioned, there is an insane idea brewing that we can set up our own moon around the earth and use it as a departure point for wherever it is we want to go.

This moon would probably only be used as another "weapon," as a base from which the war of the two earthly worlds could be carried on.

What for?

We'll never get there. Why don't we spend our time on something more worthwhile? So we'll never know how many stars there are in the milky way. So what? Why don't the scientists spend more time trying to make this little planet a better place to live.

Haven't we got enough trouble keeping this little planet spinning in one piece, and in keeping the madmen of the world from blowing it up? Let's worry about the earth and forget the moon and Mars and Pluto and the others.

One of these days man will go too far. And, to paraphrase a favorite quotation from an old French play, that will be the day that God will come down to earth from the heavens: He'll be swinging a big bunch of keys; and He'll say to man, "Okay boys, time to close up shop."

SHORT REBUTTAL

'Your Right And Mine To Haggle'

To: Miss Flip Sirota
Re: Berumda Shorts

We believe your remarks re shorts ridiculous. We may not agree with what you say, but will, of course, defend to the death your right to say it.

We believe in the right of political dissent, but don't always disagree with the government in power. We believe in the right to travel to North Dakota at any time one wishes, but don't always drop everything to drop in to visit friends in Bismark, N. D., when bored.

Q. E. D.: We believe in the right to uphold freedom without necessarily using it. We're citizens and have the right to a trial by jury. Don't use it every day in the week, though. Doesn't make us opponents of the right.

You make comment about the aesthetic qualities of knees, male and female. We think that opinions of this sort are extremely subjective. We see nothing wrong with our knees and not recalling yours, reserve decision.

We say if an individual wished to wear a certain article of clothing which isn't considered indecent by a majority of his fellow men, then he has such a right.

Miss Sirota, you've set forth a dare to name a day on which we'll both wear Bermuda shorts and parade around campus. We haven't got a pair and don't know if we feel personally pro or con. You provide a pair and we'll wear them; if not by choice, to uphold the right.

(Signed)
R. J. H.

A Childish Game

By POLLY REED
Editorial Page Writer

An editorial in a daily paper in Rochester commended the University of Rochester last week on its abolition of Hell week, and the substitution of Help Week.

At the University of North Carolina, the penalty for hazing a pledge is, first offense, $100 fine, second offense, loss of rushing privileges for one year and the third offense automatically expells the fraternity from the campus.

It seems Syracuse fraternities on the whole are lagging far behind other campuses in this respect.

Some fraternities have abolished the childish Hell week. Many participate in the constructive Help Week. But there are many others which still cling to the medieval custom of "seeing how much a pledge can take."

If a fraternity wants to initiate a man . . . if they want to call him "brother," why subject him to ignominy, embarrassment, and possible physical harm first?

Some houses offer no more valid excuse than "We went through it, so each pledge should." Here again the small, small minds bound up by inane Tradition come to the fore.

Some customs are tried and proven over the ages. Others become outmoded. It is into the latter category that fraternity hazing and Hell Weeks fall.

Is this a valid reason? It's as valid as saying "My grandfather drove a horse and buggy and liked it, so I will," or "My grandmother wore a hoop skirt, and what's good for her must be good for me."

Times have progressed. We now drive automobiles and wear short skirts allowing plenty of freedom.

But fraternities are still back in the days when freshmen or pledges were hazed and granddad wore sideburns.

The only other reason we've even heard, in all our many inquiries, was that by the time of initiation the pledge is so tired, the whole week melts into one mental picture culminated by initiation.

After he's finally initiated, the neophyte has to spend the next three weeks making up his work, apologizing to classmates and teachers for falling asleep in class, and catching up on that sleep he lost.

The Hell Week system benefits no one, least of-all the pledge. It is an anacronism which fortunately is dying out.

However, the last vestiges remain . . . some of them on this campus. It is against these that this article is written.

How much better to substitute completely a Help week program where the community benefits materially, the pledge benefits spiritually by doing something constructive for his fellow man, and actives don't lose their sleep trying to think up new tricks for the pledges to perform.

MONKEY TALK

EVERYBODY WANTS T' GET IN THE ACT

By IVENS STANTON

The good people of Great Britain were badly upset over the way Dave Garroway handled part of the coronation of Elizabeth II on "Today," his NBC morning program last June. During the telecast, news films of the affair's pageantry were interspersed with camera closeups of J. Fred Muggs, a pet chimpanzee of the program.

TV viewers in the United States had just about forgotten the incident when it was revived by Edward R. Murrow on his "See It Now" show Tuesday night. In covering the present dispute over the attempt to introduce commercial television in Great Britain, Mr. Murrow turned the CBS cameras on a dissenting member of parliament who presented a chimpanzee named J. Fred Muggeridge. The MP used the chimp as an example of what would happen if tevee was seperated from the government owned BBC.

(The British chimp was named after Malcolm Muggeridge, editor of Punch magazine, who has been one of the most active supporters of the new plan to commercialize television in that country.)

Unfortunately, J. Fred Muggs has been ill for several days and could not be reached for personal comment. However, Dave Garroway replied for the member of his staff on his program yesterday. During this reply Mr. Garroway demanded "equal time from the Columbia Broadcasting System for J. Fred Muggs" who feels that he was maligned by the "See It Now" telecast.

Garroway explained that his chimp is a model of gentlemanly habits and actions and that J. Fred Muggs would use the time to refute all accusations that were made against him.

The Paper Bag

By JOANNE HESS

You can't tell the difference between her and the campus girls—except she might be carrying a paper lunch bag. Oh, yes—you're likely to see her tearing across campus to catch the bus everyday. She pronounces her a's a bit flat, the campus crowd has told her, and she spends a good deal of her time trying to explain Syracuse weather to her bewildered campus friends. Otherwise, she's quite human. Who is she? The City girl.

Fair or foul weather, you can spot her enroute to the Women's building every other Thursday about 5 p.m. and chances are she'll be carrying a cake or some cookies. Destination? City Women's club meeting, where she and her other city sisters talk, eat have fun and plan ways to serve the community, the club and the campus.

She's proud of her club's accomplishments, and after we noted them, we think she has good reason to be. One project, especially, symbolizes a goal the club has trying to attain for years. It's recorded in the Constitution of the club, and now the money has been raised to make it a reality. Starting this year, an annual award of $100 will be presented to a worthy city girl—an upper freshman, sophomore, junior or lower senior, to be used to defray school expenses.

Debbie Byrnes and her committee are in charge of completing arrangements.

"The applications will be ready on April 1," Debbie told us, "and they must be turned back to the committee on May 3. Dean Ruth Haddock, Dean Marjorie Smith and some club representatives will determine the winner of the voucher award."

Another annual affair which holds special place in the hearts of city women is the Christmas party for the children at St. Mary's Home. This past holiday season, the members gathered at the home of Dean Ruth Haddock, club advisor, to sew stuffed dolls for the youngsters. No one will forget Mary Flavin's portrayal of Santa Claus.

To give campus students a glimpse of the fun and fellowship of City Women's club, members stage a friendship supper each year. Nancy Carr, Jane Green and Mary Lush headed this year's supper, held last week. Officers in charge were Lois McCrea, president; Mary Flavin, vice president; Liz Hickey, recording secretary; Debbie Byrnes, treasurer; Carol Palumb, corresponding secretary; Janet Brenneman, social chairman.

The White Elephant sale, planned for last meeting of the semester, and next year's rummage sale promise plenty of work and fun for the future.

We noticed that our city girl was particularly enthused about the new City Women's lounge, which provides a place for girls to study, relax and hold club meetings.

This year, the lounge is being used for supper meetings, preceeding the regular business meetings. In this way, the city girl won't have to go all the way home for the evening meal and come back to the University for the meeting.

You'll still recognize the city coed by the tell-tale paper lunch bag, and by her marathon across campus to catch that bus; but you'll also be recognizing with pride the accomplishments city women are promoting on campus.

Who Found A Coat?

Never underestimate the power of the press. In time of flood, war or overcoat lost from a foreign city, man comes to the newspaper for aid.

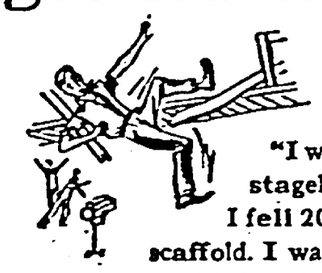
Well, almost foreign. Scranton, Pa. to be exact. A Roger White of that city was passing through Syracuse last night on a Greyhound bus and later discovered his coat was missing, someone else's left by mistake.

He remembers "a young man on the bus who looked like he might have been a college student" and has the idea that "he was the one who picked it up in getting off on the outskirts of Syracuse.

So yesterday morn he called Syracuse university for aid. Miss Joan Finney in the dean of men's office advised him to contact LeMoyne and said she'd contact the Daily Orange.

So if anyone picked up a brown whipcord with lining and a Harrisburg, Pa. label, gloves in the pocket, he can call White at Diamond 3-8265 in Scranton. Collect, that is.

How the stars got started ☆☆☆



Alan Ladd says:

"I was a Hollywood stagehand. One day I fell 20 feet off a scaffold. I wasn't hurt, but I decided acting was safer. I went to acting school, played bit parts ... finally I hit pay dirt in 'This Gun for Hire'."

START SMOKING CAMELS YOURSELF! Smoke only Camels for 30 days and find out why Camels are first in mildness, flavor and popularity! See how much pure pleasure a cigarette can give you!

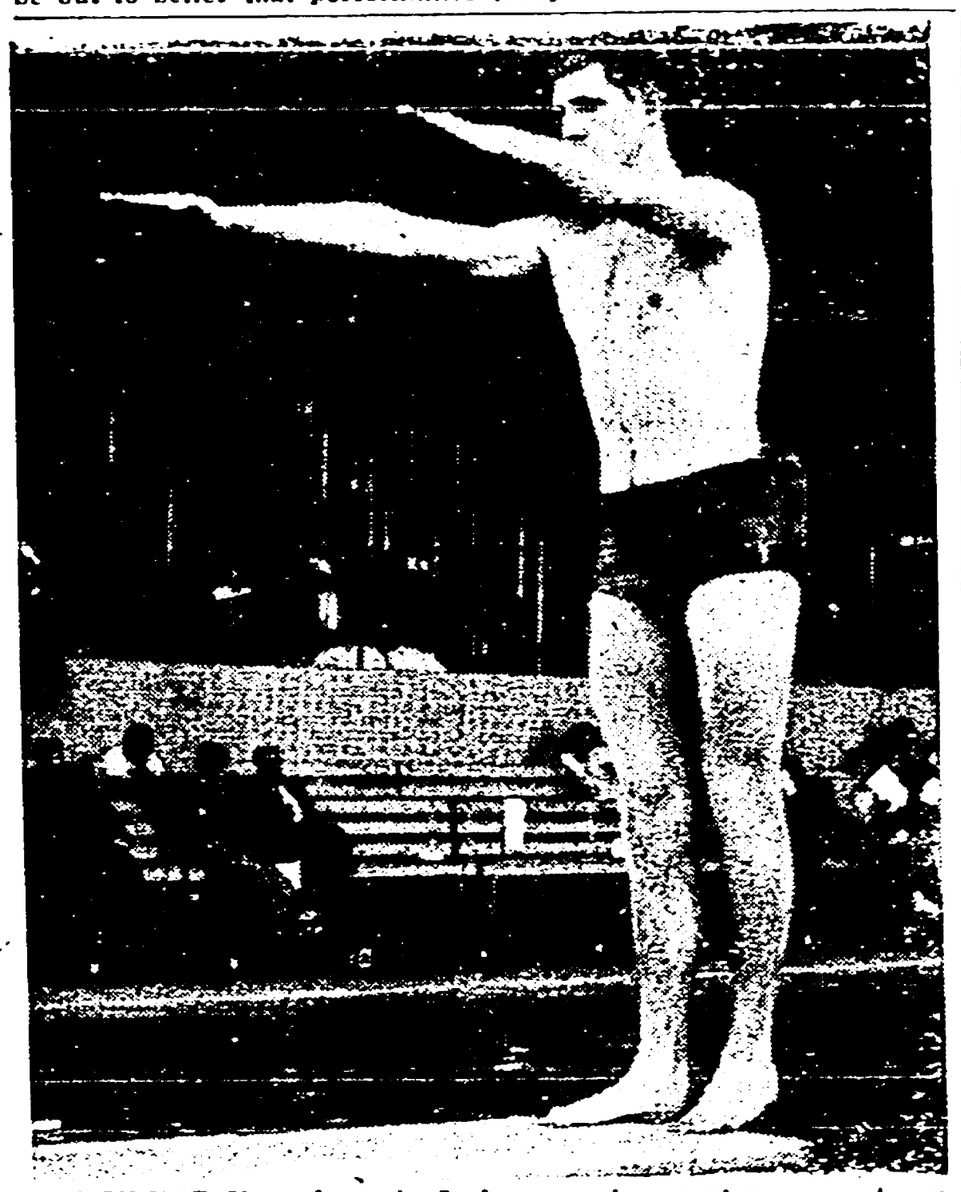
I STARTED SMOKING CAMELS BECAUSE SO MANY OF MY FRIENDS DID. ONCE I STARTED, I KNEW CAMELS WERE FOR ME. FOR MILDNESS AND FLAVOR, YOU CAN'T BEAT 'EM!

R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.

for Mildness and Flavor— CAMELS AGREE WITH MORE PEOPLE THAN ANY OTHER CIGARETTE!

Swimming at Its Best

PETE DUNCAN of Oklahoma who will be seen in action this afternoon competing in the 440-yard freestyle eliminations. Duncan finished fifth in Thursday's 1500-meter freestyle event and will be out to better that performance today.



ONE OF THE divers in yesterday's one meter event prepares to execute one of six optional dives allowed each contestant in the one meter event. The dives are rated by five judges according to form and execution of the dive.

Championships End

(Continued from page 1)

seconds slower than Oyakawa. Bautz was fourth last year.

In the 100-yard breaststroke, the Big Ten swimmers may have to take a back seat Dave Hawkins of Harvard. He won the 200- and 100-yard events recently at the Eastern swim championships held at Princeton and may be too strong for the rest of the field.

Other prominent contenders should be Dennis O'Connor of Yale who finished second last year, Ronnie Gainsford of Pittsburgh and John Dudeck of Michigan State and Charles Douglas of Williams.

THE CLOSEST RACE of the entire meet may be the 100-yard freestyle which could go to any one of five men. Defending his title is Reid Patterson of Georgia who won last year with a time of 50.5.

Kerry Donovan of Yale, a double winner in the Easterns, is a definite threat to Patterson. However, Don Hill and Ron Gora of Michigan and Dick Cleveland of Ohio State cannot be overlooked in this race.

In the 150-yard medley relay, Burwell, "Bumpy" Jones, the versatile Michigan performer, has only one serious challenger, Bob Mattson of North Carolina State. Jones will be after his third consecutive NCAA title in this race if the competition is keen enough, a new record may be set because of the "fast" Orange pool.

FORD KONNO is expected to have little trouble as he seeks to become a double winner by copping the 440-yard freestyle. Several good swimmers are entered in this long sprint including New England champion Bill Yorzyk, but Konno is in a class by himself when it comes to long distance swimming.

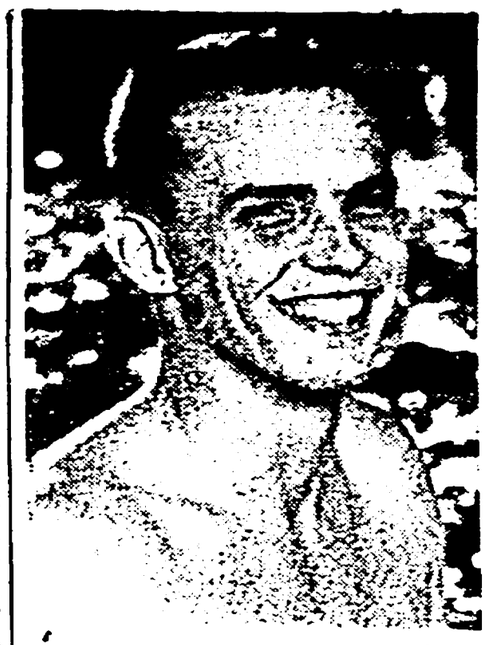
Also entered in this event are Eastern champ Martin Smith of Yale and Jack Wardrop of Michigan. Graham Johnson of Oklahoma, one of the dark horses in this race, was recently declared ineligible for scholastic reasons and cannot compete.

Final event of the NCAA meet will be the 300-yard medley relay in which Ohio State is the defending titlist. The Buckeyes have lost their breaststroker, Gerry Holan by gradation, but the other two-thirds of the team, Yoshi Oyakawa and Dick Cleveland are back.

None of the first five finishers last year have the same men back this season. Runner-up Yale has only Dennis O'Connor, their breaststroker, back again.

EXISTING RECORDS

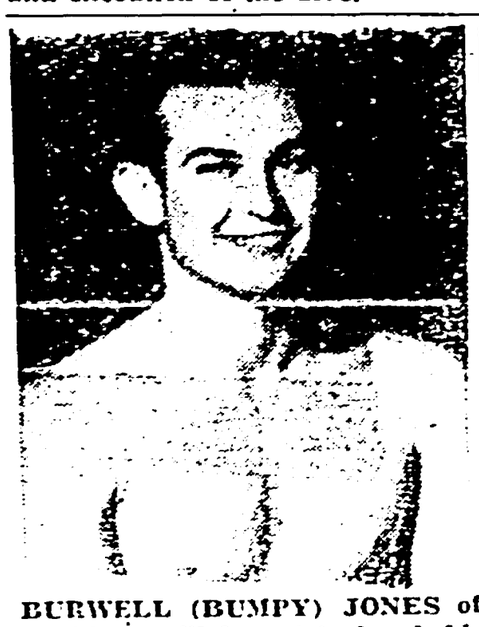
1. 100-Yard Backstroke
   World: 56.1 Yoshi Oyakawa (Ohio State)
   NCAA: 56.9 Yoshi Oyakawa (Ohio State)
2. 100-Yard Breaststroke
   World: 58.5 Keith Carter (Purdue)
   NCAA: 58.8 John Davies (Michigan)
3. 100-Yard Freestyle
   World: 49.2 Dick Cleveland (Ohio State)
   NCAA: 49.7 Alan Ford (Yale)
4. 150-Yard Individual Medley
   World: Not recognized at this distance
   NCAA: 1:28.8 Burwell Jones (Michigan)
5. 440-Yard Freestyle
   World: 4:28.1 John Marshall (Yale)
   NCAA: 4:30.2 John Marshall (Yale)
6. 300-Yard Medley Relay
   World: 2:47.1 Ohio State (Taylor, Holan, Cleveland)
   NCAA: 2:47.2 Ohio State (Oyakawa, Holan, Cleveland)



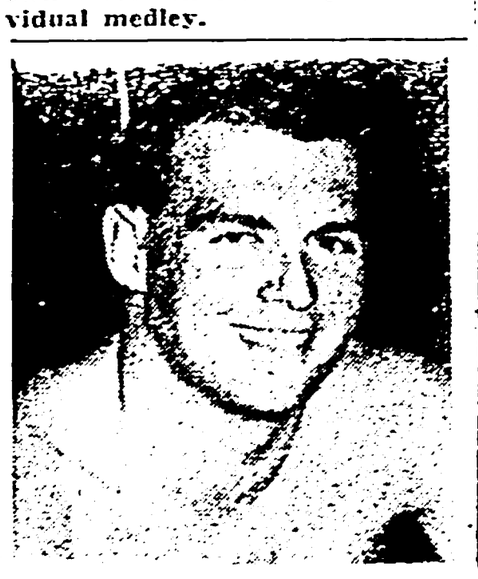
BOB CLEMONS of Illinois placed fifth in the 200-yard breaststroke and is the lone Illini entry in the 100-yard race.

MIKE PEPPE, Ohio State's genial swim coach, has some of the nation's finest swimmers under his tutelage.

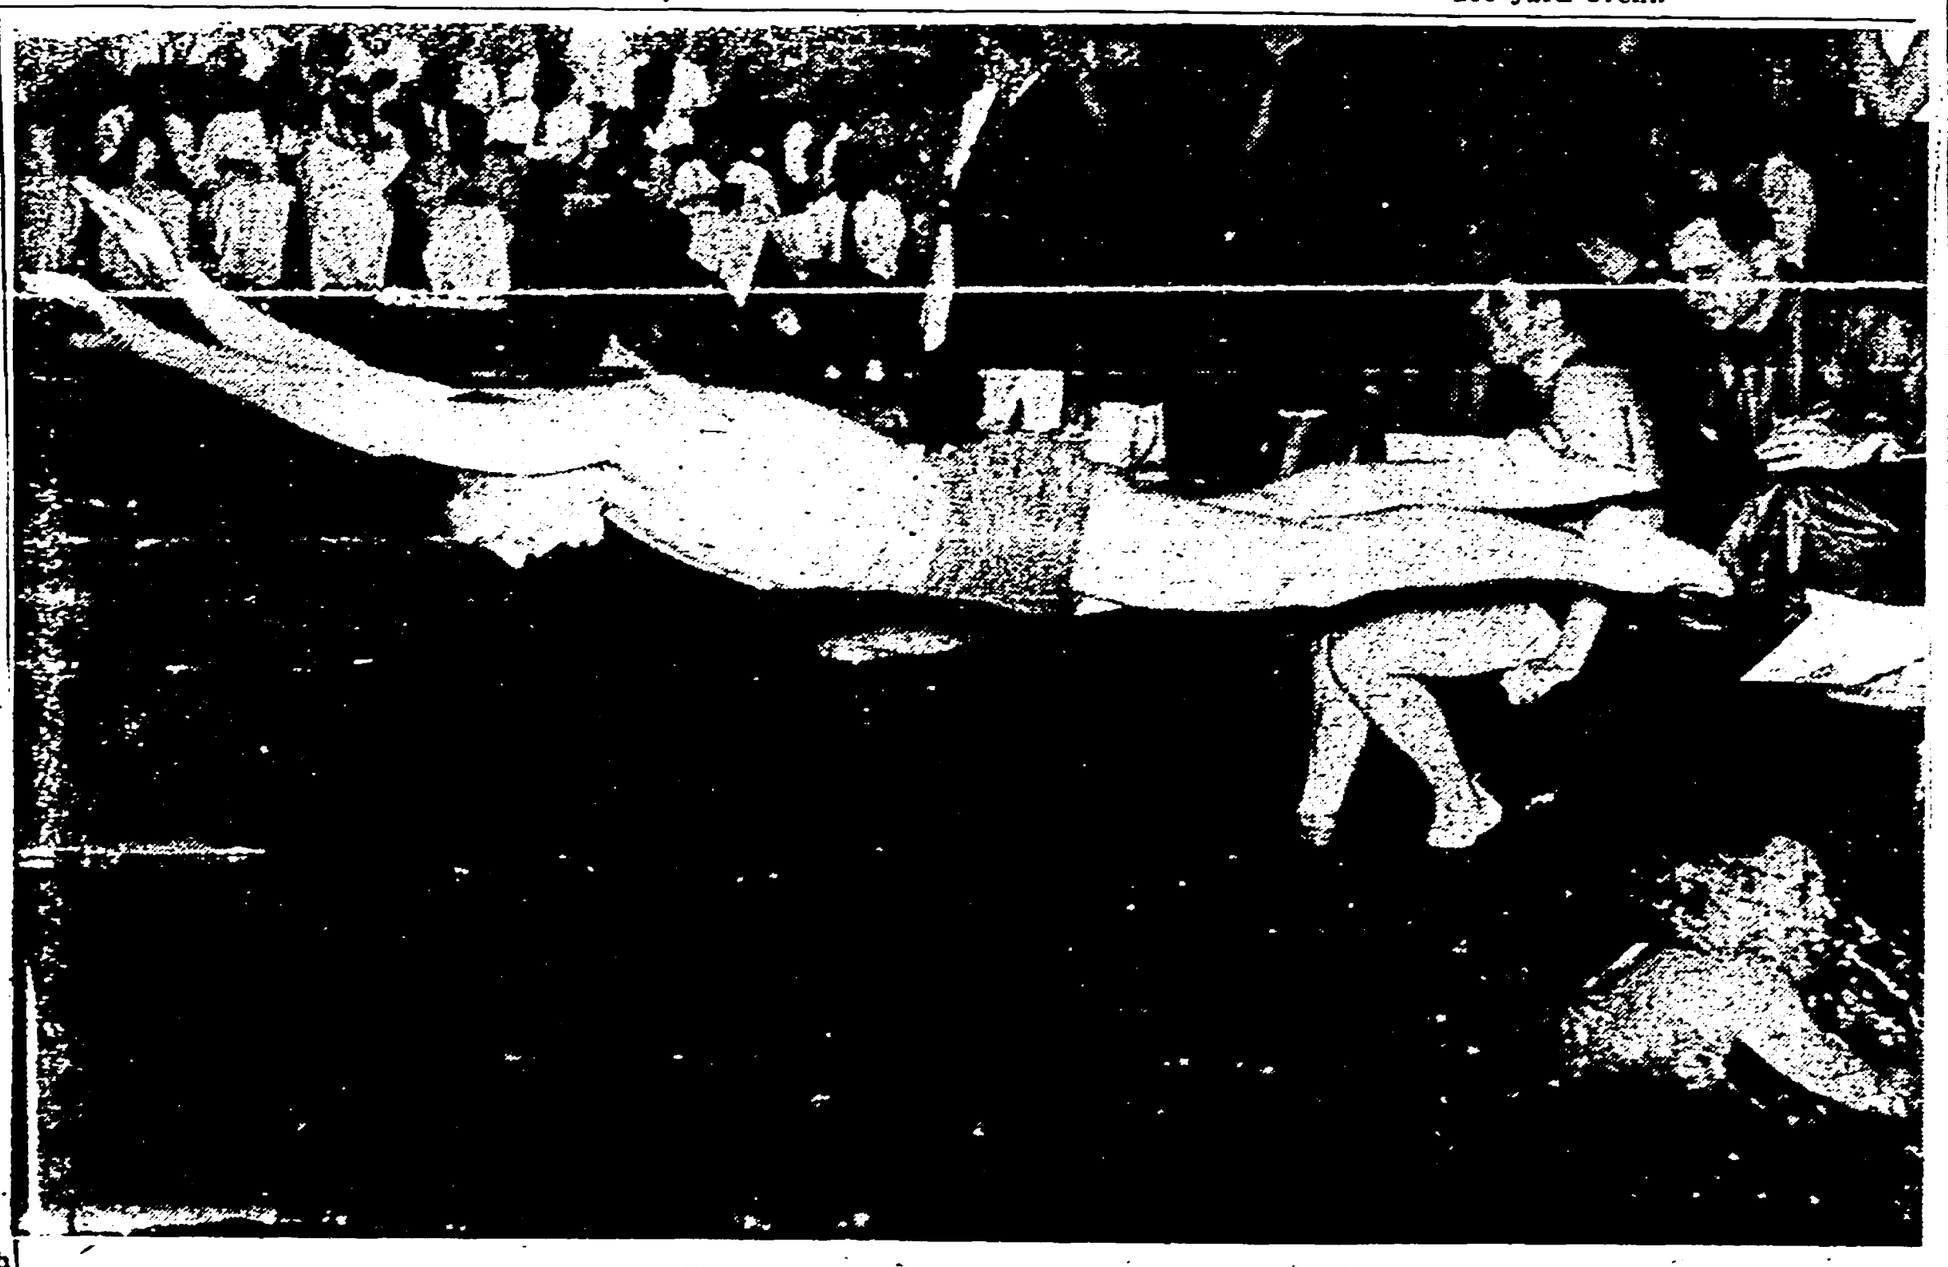
FRED BAUTZ of Purdue finished fourth in the 200-yard backstroke and is one of the favorites in the 100-yard event.



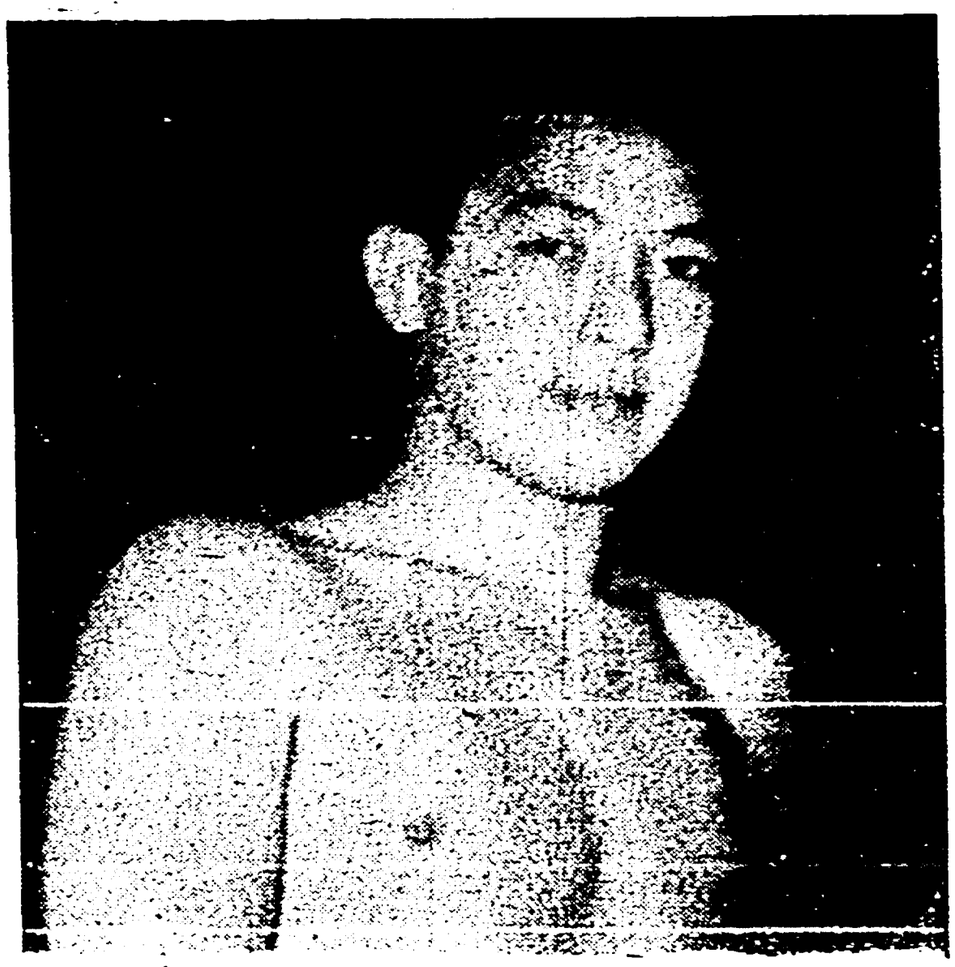
BURWELL (BUMPY) JONES of Michigan will be out to break his own record in the 150-yard individual medley.



STEVE MULLINS of Dartmouth will have to be at his best tomorrow in order to beat Ford Konno in the 400-yard freestyle.



AS HIS TEAMMATE hits the tape, the third member of the Washington State 400-yard relay team prepares to take off. The Washington State quartet was eliminated in the afternoon preliminaries. The eventual winner of the team event was the great Michigan squad of Benner, Gora, Hill and Jones, who won the event by more than 15 meters over Ohio State.



FORD KONNO, Ohio State swimmer appears confident as he is about to go in quest of his second individual championship, the 220-yard freestyle. Konno was beaten out in a tight finish by Jack Wardrop of Michigan.

SWIMMERS TAKE to the water in one of the afternoon eliminations of the 200-yard breaststroke. The six fastest times in the afternoon prelims qualified for last evening's finals which was won by Dave Hawkins of Harvard. HAWKINS staved off a last ditch rally by Jones of Michigan to win. He is favored to take the 100-yard breaststroke title in today's action.

Ohio Staters Lead

(Continued from page 1)

lasted Burwell "Bumpy" Jones of Michigan to capture the 200-yard breaststroke. The Ivy Leaguer's time was 2:15.4. This event saw one of the strange happenings of swim history. Jone's time in finishing second was clocked two tenths of a second ahead of winning Hawkins. The reason for this is that the judges decision takes preference over the timers.

Charlie Douglas of Williams who finished third in the above event broke the New England record for the distance. His time of 2:18.2 eclipsed the mark of Springfield's Bill Yorzyk who came in right behind Douglas last night.

The large audience of Syracuse swimming fans in attendance last night were treated to a beautiful exhibition of diving by the eight finalists in the one-meter diving event. Fletcher Gilders of Ohio State turned in a mild upset in capturing this event with a 444.10 point total.

LAST YEAR'S champion Jerry Harrison, also of Ohio State was hampered by a bad cold that held him down to a fifth place finish. Ken Welsh of Yale took second place edging Morley Shapiro of the Spartans.

Some beautiful dives were turned in by Bobby Brodnax of Texas although he was only able to finish fourth. The Lone Star Stater's overall performance didn't stack up to some of his better dives however. Jerry Anderson of Hastings college of Nebraska took down the final remaining point position, sixth and put his small college on the map.

Several notables from Syracuse university were on hand to present the winning performers with their medals. Vice-chancellor Finla G. Crawford and Dean of Speech Kenneth Bartlett were among the Hill entourage.

Standing of the Teams (after Friday evenings events):

Ohio State	49
Michigan	36
Yale	19
Stanford	12
Dartmouth	10
Harvard	9
Springfield	8
Williams	4
Michigan State	4
Oklahoma	4
Georgia	4
Cortland State	3
Northwestern	3
Texas	3
Illinois	2
Iowa	1
Purdue	1
Hastings	1
Pittsburgh	1

Results of Friday's events:

50-yd. freestyle: Cleveland (Ohio State), 2. Hill (Michigan), 3. Patterson (Georgia), 4. Kuhn (Northwestern), 5. Donovan (Yale), 6. Pennington (Iowa). Time 0:22.3.

200-yd. backstroke: 1. Oyakowa (Ohio State) 2. Heim (Stanford) 3. Wardrop (Michigan), 4. Bautz (Purdue), 5. Meiring (Oklahoma), 6. Chase (Michigan). Time 2:05.1.

220-yd. freestyle: 1. Wardrop (Michigan), 2. Konno (Ohio State), 3. Glover (Dartmouth), 4. Smith (Yale), 5. Jorgensen (Harvard), 6. Osborne (Stanford). Time 2:05.0 (new NCAA record).

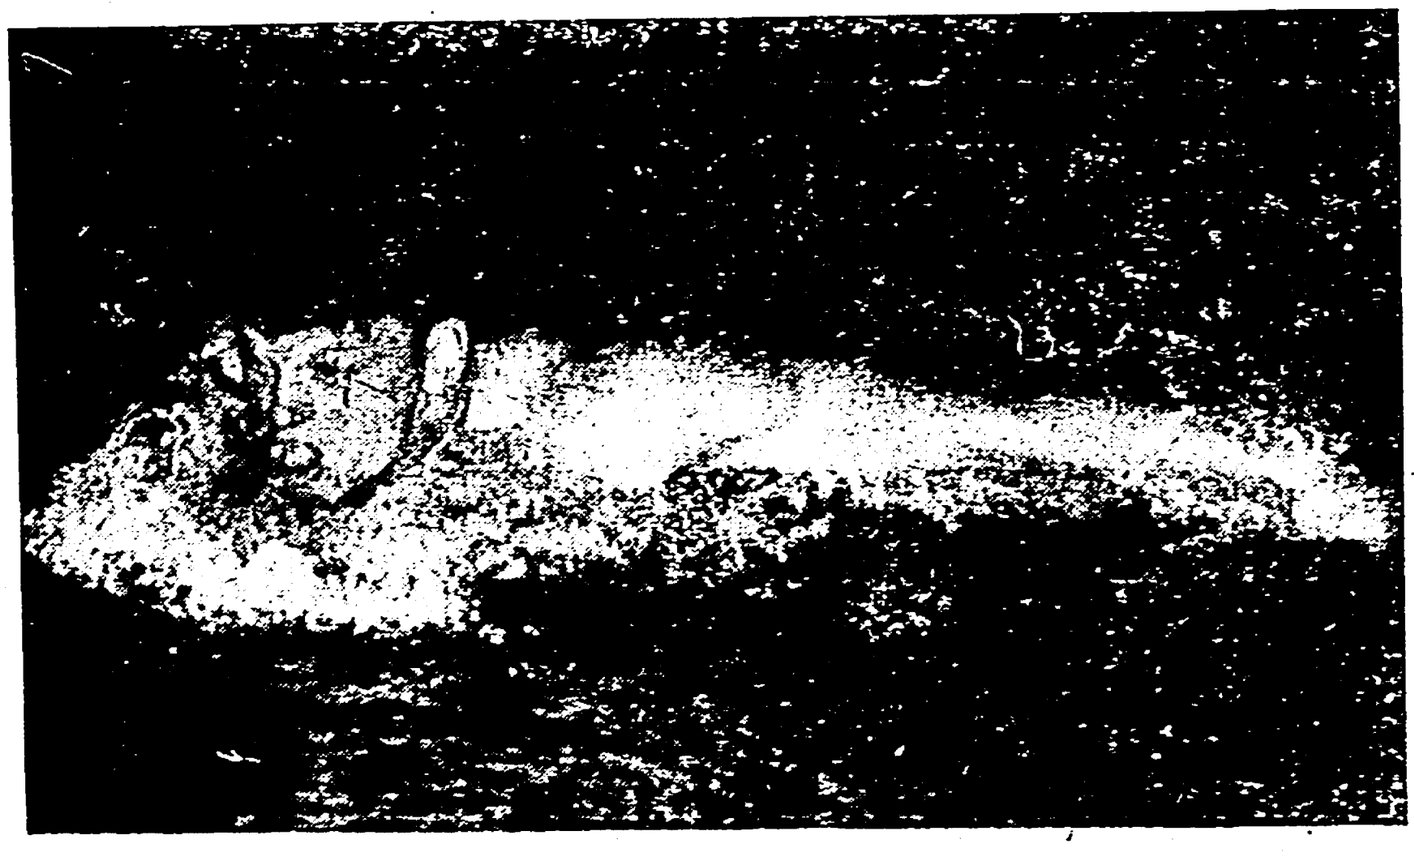
200-yd. breaststroke: 1. Hawkins (Harvard), 2. ones (Michigan) 3. Douglas (Williams), 4. Yorzyk (Springfield), 5. Clemens (Illinois), 6. Gainsford (Pitt). Time 2:15.4.

400-yd. freestyle relay: 1. Michigan, 2. Ohio State, 3. Yale, 4. Dartmouth, 5. Michigan State, 6. Stanford. Time 3:26.1.

One meter diving: 1. Gilders (Ohio State), 2. Welch (Yale), 3. Shapiro (Ohio State), 4. Brodnax (Texas), 5. Harrison (Ohio State), 6. Anderson (Hastings) - points 444.10.

THE EIGHT QUALIFIERS for the one meter diving event are pictured prior to their event last night. FLETCHER GILDERS of Ohio State topped the field in both the prelim and final competition. Others who competed in the event were HALLUM of Oklahoma, B DNAX of Texas, HARRISON, SHAPIRO and KENT of Ohio State, WELCH of Yale and ANDERSON of Hastings.

Center Spread Photos by John Johnsrud



ERNIE STOCK of Florida State coming up for air in yesterday afternoon's breaststroke preliminaries. Stock did not qualify for the finals although he turned in a good effort.

MORLEY SHAPIRO of Ohio State who finished third in last night's one meter diving event is also favored to place in the three meter event.

JSF Will Sponsor Fashion Program

Students and faculty members will participate in a charity fashion show from 2-5 p.m. April 14 in the Women's biulding.

The affair, sponsored by Jewish Student fellowship, is for the benefit of United Jewish Appeal, according to Paul O. Harrison, publicity committee chairman of JSF.

HARRISON SAID THAT admission will be 35 cents, all proceeds going to UJA.

Included in the fashion show will be famed model Stanley Leff, president of men's student government. With him will be Melvin Besdin, star basketball player, UJA drive-co-chairman and model extraordinaire. Completing the student trio wll be "Atlas" Art Siegel.

On the faculty side of the ledger, Professors William Hotchkiss, Theodore Denise, Margaret Fisher, Fred Krinsky and Ralph Ketcham, all of Maxwell departments arayed in fashions supplied by Wassongs, will trip the light fantastic down the gangway.

Administration will be represented by Miss Norma Van Buren, Dean Earle Clifford and Social Director Margaret Parker.

MEMBERS OF the chapel staff participating will be announced next week, according to Harrison.

The entire affair has been termed "a legitimate fashion show and an illegitimate faculty and administration fashion show."

Athletes . . .

(Continued from page 1)

College of Liberal Arts and Mrs. Eric Faigle, Prof. George W. Gray, who will present the Devil's Own award, Daugherty, Rev. Nakajima and Anderson.

The Block S banquet celebrates its 50th anniversary tomorrow. Syracuse, in 1904 was the first college or university in the United States to inaugurate such an affair. With the exception of war years, it has been held annually.

Branches . . .

(Continued from page 1)

the courses at the branches, where the state requires an extensive library, resident director and continuous program.

It is expected that the new program will be instituted soon. The Chautauqua setup is planned for summer only.

Greeks to Present Exchange Dinner

Twenty-two sororities and 28 fraternities will participate in a sorority-fraternity exchange dinner, Tuesday, March 30, announced by co-chairmen Delmar Macauley and Rosemary Ferris, social chairmen of IFC and Panhel.

The fraternities and sororities will exchange members of all participating. The co-chairmen state that this will help improve IFC-Panhel cooperation.

This is the first year that the Greek groups have had a joint social committee. The chairmen hope to make this an active and working function.

Rev. Cook to Talk At Daily Chapel

Rev. Willard Cook, assistant pastor of University Methodist church, will speak at daily chapel Monday through Friday.

The mid-day meditational services are held from noon to 12:20 p.m. each day in Hendricks chapel

"Adjustments in Group Living" will be the topic for the week. Rev. Cook will parallel the problems of today with the problems of Biblical characters.

Junior Honorary Taps 12 Women

Twelve sophomore women were honored at breakfast following surprise tapping by Lambda Sigma Sigma, junior women's honorary, this morning.

Feted at the home of Dean M. Eunice Hilton of the College of Home Economics, the new pledges were chosen on the basis of scholarship, leadership and service to the University.

ARLENE (TURBI) BLUM, Alpha Epsilon Phi, is sophomore representative-at-large to the women's student government assembly and a member of the academics panel. She was publicity chairman for the Soph Hop and the Stockingfoot dance and is on the Liberal Arts Advisory council.

Deborah Byrnes, Theta Phi Alpha, is on Traditions commission, Goon Squad and in the Blessed Virgin Mary sodality. She is treasurer of City Women's club and a member of a WSG panel.

PATRICIA CAIN, Kappa Alpha Theta, a member of the Fine Arts Student Advisory council, is also on Traditions commission and the Goon squad. She is in Sigma Alpha Iota, women's music honorary, the Music Education club and University chorus.

SHEILA HICKS, Kappa Alpha Theta, is on Traditions commission and Goon squad. She is on the sophomore executive council and synchronized swim team and she is a Boar's Head apprentice.

CAROL LELAND, Chi Omega, is secretary of WSG assembly and executive council, assistant chairman of the public relations panel and is parliamentarian of the sophomore senate.

Joan Poppe, Kappa Kappa Gamma, is a member of the WSG public relations panel, Women's Athletic association lower house and governing board and hockey manager. She is a Boar's Head apprentice and was chairman of last year's Sims formal.

POLLY REED, Chi Omega, is a Daily Orange junior editor, regional, secretary of National Students association, Goon squad member and on Panel of Americans. She is also a member of the Catholic choir.

LESLIE RUBIN, Alpha Epsilon Phi, is on Traditions commission, the WSG public relations panel and Goon squad. She was chairman of publicity for the Soph Hop and was in charge of Winter weekend buttons.

MARTHA SMITH, Gamma Phi Beta, is on the Home Economics student board, WSG public relations panel and is on the release time education program at Chapel.

Suzanne Taylor, Alpha Epsilon Phi, is a Boar's Head apprentice and box office supervisor, a member of Zeta Phi Eta, speech and drama honorary, and was ticket chairman for the Soph op. She is on Goon Squad and was sub-chairman of tickets for Winter Carnival.

GENEVIEVE VOLOTTA, Alpha Xi Delta, is on the WSG public relations panel, St. Thomas More publicity committee, City Women's club calling committee and Goon squad. She is in WAA bowling and swimming and has been an assistant dance instructor at the Student Union.

MARGARET (MAUNY) White, Delta Delta Delta, is president of the sophomore class, a cheerleader apprentice and a member of Campus Leaders. She is treasurer of the Episcopal vestry and on the Goon squad.

Pittsburgh Group Will Give Concert

The noted Pittsburg symphony orchestra, under the baton of William Steinberg, will present a concert at 8:15 p.m., Tuesday in Lincoln auditorium as the final event of the current Famous Artist series.

Specially-priced ticekts, costing $1.50, have been made available by Famous Artists to all Syracuse students, faculty, and personnel. They are being sold at the University book store.

THE PITTSBURGH orchestra founded in 1896 by Victor Herbert, will offer a program which, according to Famous Artists director Prof. Murray Bernthal, should be of interest to everyone.

It will feature Mozart's "Overture to Marriage of Figaro," "Symphony No. 6 in B minor" by Tschaikowsky, Wagner's "Prelude to Die Meistersinger," Ravel's "La Valse" and Palvtsian dances from Borodin's "Prince Igor" which includes many of the melodies adapted from the current Broadway production of "Kismet." "Stranger in Paradise" is the most noted of these.

Capitol recording artists, the orchestra presents many special performances in addition to its regular subscription series. Outstanding are the now-famous industry concerts played in nearby milltowns under the sponsorship of labor unions.

IT'S ALL A MATTER OF TASTE

When students burn the midnight oil
While cramming for a test,
The smooth, fresh smokes they reach for most
Are Luckies—always best!

Marilyn Sergeant
University of Arizona

When you come right down to it, you smoke for one simple reason . . . enjoyment. And smoking enjoyment is all a matter of taste. Yes, taste is what counts in a cigarette. And Luckies taste better.

Two facts explain why Luckies taste better. First, L.S./M.F.T.—Lucky Strike means fine tobacco . . . light, mild, good-tasting tobacco. Second, Luckies are actually made better to taste better . . . always round, firm, fully packed to draw freely and smoke evenly.

So, for the enjoyment you get from better taste, and only from better taste, Be Happy—Go Lucky. Get a pack or a carton of better-tasting Luckies today.

If cleaner, fresher, smoother taste
Is that which you would prize,
There is but one solution, friend,
Buy Luckies if you're wise!

William Haupt
Holy Cross College

The latest college survey shows
That Luckies lead again—
They're tops with all the smart coeds,
As well as with the men!

Eleanor C. Bernhard
University of Delaware

Where's your jingle?

It's easier than you think to make $25 by writing a Lucky Strike jingle like those you see in this ad. Yes, we need jingles—and we pay $25 for every one we use! So send as many as you like to: Happy-Go-Lucky, P. O. Box 67, New York 46, N. Y.

COPR., THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY

LUCKIES TASTE BETTER

CLEANER, FRESHER, SMOOTHER!

Along the Sidelines

By KEN LENT, DAILY ORANGE SPORTS EDITOR

It's amazing the stories which are born out of blue chip events such as the NCAA swimming championships. All the heroes, villains, and story-book endings which anyone could want have been packed into the last two days.

Take last night's 220-yard freestyle when Michigan's underdog Jack Wardrop scored his pulse-pounding, world's record victory over Ohio State's brilliant Hawaiian, Ford Konno. Of such are legends made.

All the elements of the Hollywood tale were present. The tried-and-true favorite. A gallant, but underdog contender. And the unbelievable finish where not one but TWO men broke the existing world's record.

Wardrop, who swam with his twin brother Bert for England in the last Olympics, was never in better form. He took the lead away from early pace-setter Jim Jorgensen of Harvard.

Then, while the packed gallery waited for the mid-west star to tire, Wardrop met Konno's challenge. The two swept back and forth along the 25-meter course, with aWrdrop holding a hand's breadth edge.

Heads turning from side-to-side with metronome precision, arms swinging in unison, the two made the last flip turn and streaked toward the finish line.

Wardrop, however, had enough left. Konno's driving, last-ditch finish failed to cut down the microscopic lead. The Michigan boy's hand flicked the finish flags just three-tenths of a second ahead of Konno.

The reaction was immediate. Wardrop literally jumped in the the water. Two Michigan teammates dove spontaneously into the pool to congratulate him. The gallery roared. Konno looked at Wardrop unbelievingly. A new champion had been crowned.

* * * * *

Any sports story worth its salt, according to the books, must include one about an unknown who makes good. Such is the tale of George Breen from little Cortland State Teachers.

Our good friend, Ed Gozigan, Ted Webster's top diver, related the story. Before coming into the 1500 meter Thursday night, Breen was a virtual unknown.

He had done well against Cortland's opposition this year, but it wasn't like the competition he was to swim against Thursday. For a green sophomore, foes like Martin Smith of Yale seemed a bit too much.

But it was this same unknown Cortlandite who scored the first upset of the meet by winning the third heat and placing fourth in the final 1500 meter placings.

Breen did it in a championship manner too. He came from behind in a gruelling 60-lap race by overtaking Smith to win going away. After taking the lead at the 48th lap, he sprinted from Smith seemingly fresher than he was at the start.

A year and a half ago, Breen was just another freshman in a required swimming class. The Cortland coach noticed the big fellow splashing around and being on the lookout for new talent, he invited him to try out for the team.

George's debut was not the most spectacular beginning. His first attempt at the 440-yard freestyle was timed at a creeping eight minutes. But the big boy practiced faithfully and by the end of the year, he had it down below the respectable five minutes.

With his unexpected showing in the NCAA's to give him confidence, unknown George Breen may be heard of some more within the next two years. Of such are legends made.

Orange Golfers to Begin Practice For Rugged Nine Match Slate

By ALEX STRASSER
Daily Orange Junior Editor

A nine match schedule awaits the Syracuse golfers as they prepare to resume practice following six months of seasonal inactivity.

Only three lettermen are returning from last year's squad, which compiled a 5-3 record.

CO-CAPT. BOB MANDEVILLE and Gerry Sullivan head the list of returnee's followed by Ed St. Pierre. Mandeville compiled a 6-2 record last year, while Sullivan and St. Pierre turned in identical 5-3 marks.

The Orange linksmen will miss the services of four June graduates. Former Capt. Tom Roach's loss will be felt the greatest. The other lettermen who graduated last June are John O'Shaughnessy, Jerry Lish and Bob Zulch.

It is hoped that newcomers Jim Roach, Tom Dadey, Fred Morgan and Allison Kupperman will help ease the loss of the June graduates. Jim Roach is the brother of ex-Orange Capt. Tom Roach.

Candidates for the varsity squad are still being sought, however, and those interested should contact either Mandeville or Sullivan.

FOUR OF the Orange's matches will be six-team affairs while five will be seven team affairs. Essentially, six and seven team matches are similar but there is one basic difference.

In seven-team matches, there are seven individual events between the opposing teams. The Captains exchange lists with their top golfers on the top and the lesser lights on the bottom. In this way, the linksmen get to meet opponents of more or less equal ability.

The winner of an individual match accumulates one point for his team, so four triumphs clinch a win. As in seven-team matches, individual bouts highlight the golf competition in six-team meets. The only difference is that points are also accumulated via the "best ball" system.

A PAIR OF linksmen from each of the opposing teams comprise the best ball quartet. The low scorers garner two points for their team, while the team averaging the lowest score per hole gets an additional point.

The Orange's toughest competition will come from Colgate and Cornell. Last season, the Piety linksmen lost twice to Colgate and once to Cornell.

Cornell and Colgate have nearly all of last year's lettermen returning. The departure of former Red Raider Capt. Tom Huber is the only appreciable loss suffered by Colgate.

Syracuse will open the 1954 golf season on April 23 against Fordham. This is the first time that the Rams are on the Orange schedule.

FOR THE FIRST time since the elevation of golf to varsity status, a frosh team will be organized. Four meets, two against Cornell and two against Colgate have been scheduled.

VARSITY SCHEDULE

April 23, Fordham, home; April 28, Colgate, home; May 1, Colgate, away; May 7, Sampson, away; May 12, Colgate, home; May 14, Clarkson, away; May 15, St. Lawrence, away; May 19, Cornell, away; May 21, Sampson, away.

FROSH SCHEDULE

April 30, Colgate, away; May 7, Cornell, home; May 14, Colgate, home; May 19, Cornell, away.

Your Honeymoon
MUST BE PERFECT
The privacy of a secluded cottage all your own, deep in wooded hills. The friendly companionship of other newly married college folk. Jolly, satisfying meals at an oldtime guest house. Easy-going leisure (breakfast until 11:00) or vigorous outdoor life. We'll send our helpful THREE HONEYMOON PLANS to those who mention dates.
THE FARM ON THE HILL
Swiftwater 94, Pa.

Nats Meet Celtics For Championship

The Syracuse Nationals will make their bid this afternoon for the Eastern Division crown when they take on the Boston Celtics at Boston in the second game of a best two-out-of-three series.

Al Cervi's boys won the opening playoff game 109-94. The winner of this series meets the champion of the Western Division for the National Basketball association title.

The Nats have won their last five straight from the Celts.

Faculty Play to Start Crucial Homestretch

The Athletic department is again firmly entrenched in first place in the Faculty bowling league. The new league leaders have recently come on with a rush to replace the fading Math department.

As the league race enters its final month, six teams are battling for top laurels. Among the top four in the standings are: Athletic department, Forresters, Engineers and Math department. In addition to these teams the Chemists and the Linguists are also in the running.

The Linguists have taken the role of the spoilers in league play to date. Included in their list of recent conquests are the powerful Athletic dept. and Holly Rollers. They have also beaten the Engineers and Forresters.

The Faculty bowling league is now an institution at Syracuse. The league first started about 20 years ago when the alleys in the old men's gym were used. After the old gym burned down, the Columbus alleys were the site of Faculty bowling tilts.

Sailors to Seek Win at Annapolis

The crew that is going to man the Orange entry at the McMillan Cup races has been chosen. The team will leave for Annapolis this Thursday in order to get in a pre-race practice on Friday.

Included on the team are veterans, Ken Resen (skipper), Jack Dickerson, Bob Lewis, Peter Latham, and George Wilcox. Rounding out the crew will be newcomers Warren Witherstine, Leonard Montague and Paul Frahm.

The Time Is Now!
for
Watch - Clock - Jewelry
Repairing
College Jewelry Shop
703 S. Crouse Ph. 4-9062

ADVENTURE 31st Year
EUROPE, 60 Days, $490 (all expense incl. steamer)
Bicycle, Sailboat, Ski, Motor, Rail. Also Latin America, West, Orient.
TRAVEL
Around the World, $995 all expense. Low cost trips to every corner of the globe. Congenial groups for those who wish to get off the beaten track . . . even trips for explorers.
STUDY Special Groups
LANGUAGES, ART, DANCE, MUSIC. College Credit. Some scholarships available.
See More Spend Less
SITA Your Travel Agent or Students International Travel Association
545 FIFTH AVE., NEW YORK 17 • MU 2-6544

Let's All Get in the SWIM of Things and Enjoy
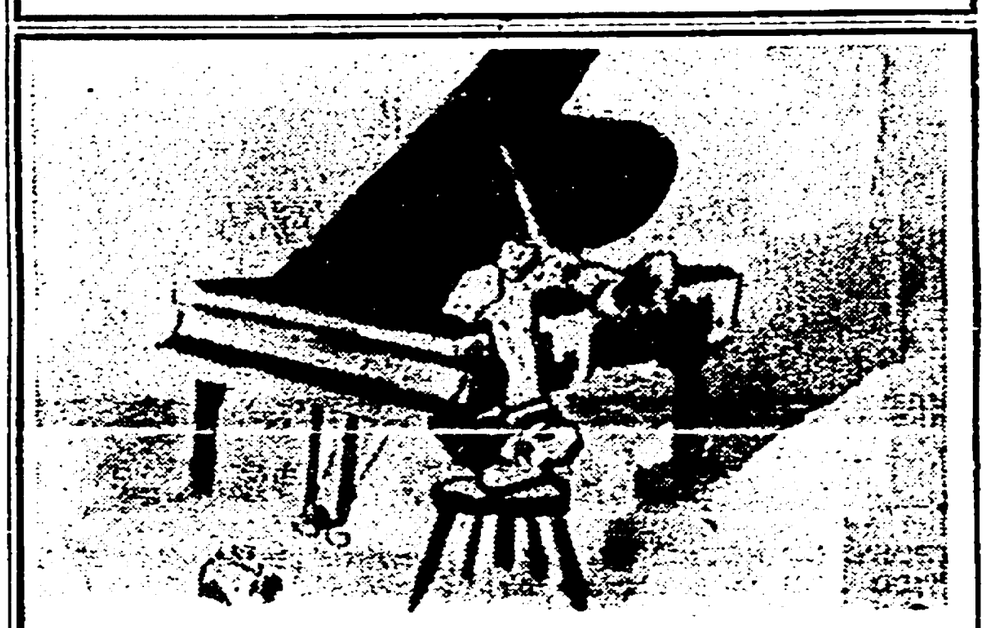
THOSE DINNERS AND SNACKS
THE WHOLE CAMPUS RAVES ABOUT
GO SAVOY!
The Heart of Marshall Street



Michael Flanagan
Pianos expertly tuned
122 Henry St. Ph. 4-0880
Special rates for fraternities and sororities

Wildroot Cream-Oil is America's favorite hair tonic. It's non-alcoholic. Contains soothing Lanolin. Grooms hair, relieves dryness, removes loose dandruff. Get Wildroot Cream-Oil, Charlie! Low as 29¢

Harriman to Talk Before Cit Classes

W. Averell Harriman, former Mutual Security Administrator, will address the Citizenship 1B classes at 10:00 a.m. and 2:15 p.m. Monday, in Marshall auditorium.

The topic of the speech will be the "Philosophy of Mutual Assistance."

Harriman, who was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for president in 1952, was described by Stuart Gerry Brown, chairman of the citizenship program, as a man "who has had as much experience and knows as much about federal government as anyone else alive."

At 11:15 a.m. Harriman, who is a possible Democratic candidate for governor, will be interviewed by members of the press in the Founders room, Maxwell.

Vice-chancellor Finla G. Crawford will be host to the lecturer and the citizenship department at a luncheon in the Hotel Syracuse, Monday.

Listen to the College Quiz Bowl

FRANK'S PIZZA SHOP
(Next Door to Daw's
475 Westcott St.
Phone 72-9448
Specializing in Delicious Hot PIZZA
READY IN 4 MINUTES!
3 Sizes—Small, Med., Large
3 Prices—50c, 85c & $1.45
—Clip This Coupon—
Worth 10c On Any Size PIZZA!!

We Specialize in Helping Every Man To Look His Best BRUSH CUTS and HAIRCUTS
$1.00
JOE JACOBSON
101 HARVARD PALCE
(Off Westcott Street)

You Crazy College Kids
And Don't Pass Up This Quick and Inexpensive way to BUY — SELL — RENT — HIRE
Just Call
JEAN JACOBS 4-7206

CLASSIFIED ADS

IMPORTANT NOTICE—CLASSIFIED ADS to appear in this paper should be DELIVERED at the HELLBOX Classified desk between 1 and 3 p. m. NO ADS WILL BE ACCEPTED AFTER 3. ALL ADS MUST BE IN 2 DAYS IN ADVANCE. For further information call 4-7206.

ALL LOST ARTICLES should be turned into the CENTRAL LOST AND FOUND ROOM, 20 Bldg. 24 at 205 University Pl. Articles can be claimed there.

AUTO-DRIVING

AUTO DRIVING INSTRUCTION. Learn to drive easily, correctly and safely. Call Upstate Auto Driving School. Phone 8-4040.

LEARNING TO DRIVE? Learn quickly, easily, scientifically. 17 years experience. Car furnished. SULLIVANS DRIVING School Inc. 73-3451.

RENTALS

TYPEWRITERS RENTED: $3.00 per month, $8 3 months. Good selection. We deliver, Smith Brothers. 4-8833.

Typewriters rentals—New Models Reasonable Rates—Expert Service, All Makes—CORNER STORE.

FOR RENT

SLEEPING WITH twin beds, home privileges. 75-8137. 667 Madison st.

GARAGE FOR RENT: 818 Ostrom Ave. Call 4-7444.

TYPING

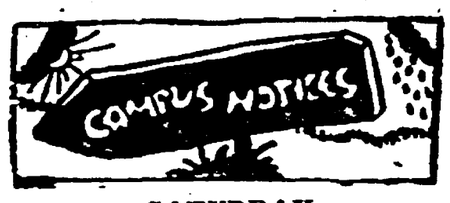
EXPERT TYPING, theses and term papers. Mrs. Raymond Webb, 2-1884.

CHURCH SERVICE

TEMPLE ADATH YESHURUN. Corner Harrison and South Crouse Ave. Week day services 7:30 a.m.

MISCELLANEOUS

ALTERATIONS DONE WITHIN A DAY: 4-5847. 5 minutes from campus. Lillian Potter, 207 Comstock Ave.



SATURDAY

Costume meeting, for those interested in "Up in Lights", top floor, Drama building.

Outing club horseback riding, 9:45 a.m., library.

Outing club hike, 1 p.m., Ski lodge

Outing club bowling, 7 p.m. Women's building.

SUNDAY

Movie: "Kind Hearts and Coronets", and shorts, 3 and 7 p.m., admission $.50 Drama building.

Outing club rock climbing, 2 p.m. Ski lodge.

Outing club folk singing, 7:30 p.m., home of Harold Weiss.

Sims V open house, 2-5 p.m., Sims lounge, dancing and refreshments. Everyone is invited.

Sigma Chi Alpha, art education honorary, open house, 3-4 p.m.

Canterbury fellowship meeting, supper at 5:30, Grace church, corner of Universtiy and Madison aves.

Pershing Rifle meeting, 2 p.m Machinery hall.

MONDAY

The following people are assigned to work at the DO today: Afternoon, John Johnsrud, Grace Frary, Ruth Anderson, Mollie Glaser, Carol Rouse, Roger Herz: Night, Ed Hardy, Roz Brownstein, Maria Heitz, Allyne Smith, Lois Feldman and Pete McNally.

Daily Chapel, Rev. William Cook will speak, 12-12:30 p.m.

Students who own horses, and women who can blow bugles contact Patricia Roden, Kappa Alpha Theta.

Six weeks with Luther will discuss, "Why Liturgy," and "Why Follow the Church Year?", 4:15 101 HL.

Talent Bureau tryouts, 3 p.m., to 5 p.m., alumni lounge, Women's building.

All PHA candidates and campaign managers meet at 4 p.m. in Delta Gamma.

Models for JSF fashion show on April 4 contact Mrs. Rothman any time Monday. Phone: 76-5571, Ext. 496.

Date Bureau Set For Military Ball

All girls and ROTC men interested in dates for the Military ball can sign up from 9-11 and 2-5 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday at Machineray hall. The date bureau is sponsored by the Angel Flight.

The Military ball wil be held on April 10 from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. in the Men's gym and is featuring Sammy Blumkin's 15-piece orchestra.

JEWISH FELLOWSHIP

The JSF Cultural committee will discuss "Judaism, Jesus and Jerusalem" in Maxwell auditorium, Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Speakers will be Rev. Arnold Nakajima, Chaplain to Presbyterian students and Mr. Mel Schein, Syracuse Bureau of Jewish Education.

The Discussion group is chaired by Miriam Fiske.

Now MIDTOWN Open 6:30 P.M.
2ND BIG WEEK

You will never forget these three girls:
and their
"Three FORBIDDEN Stories"
TREATED WITH ADULT FRANKNESS!
ADULTS ONLY

Classes to Begin In Rock Climbing

Classes in rock climbing will begin tomorrow at the Ski lodge. The class will meet every Sunday at 2 p.m.

Trips to the Shawangunk mountains in New York have been planned and will be led by Dr. Walter Spifford of the College of Medicine and a member of the American Alpine association.

All climbing equipment will be furnished by the Outing club, the sponsor of the class.

Interested persons are requested to wear sneakers and old clothes as the classes will be primarily beginning instruction on the rock. Progress of the class will be geared to the abilities of the group.

Industrial Firms Slate Interviews

Interviews during the coming week for engineering and scientific students have been announced. Interested students should contact the engineering placement office, building 6.

The schedule:

Monday: Koppers co. inc., Reynolds Metals.

Tuesday: American LaFrance, American Gas and Electric co.

Wednesday: Lockheed Aircraft corp.

Thursday: American Sugar Refineries.

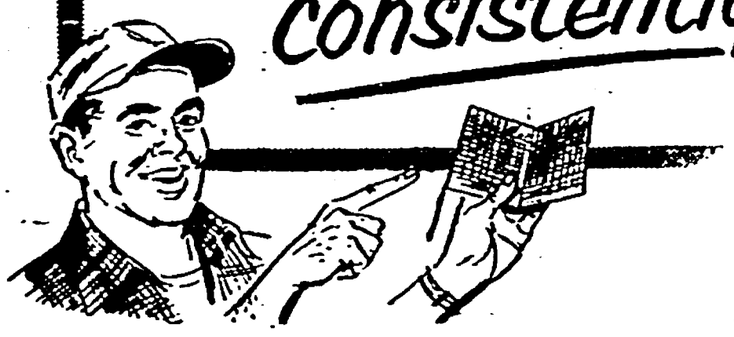
Friday: Thompson Products.

Schine Eckel Now
At Last On Screen
Filmed As It Happened
"ANNAPURNA"
In Technicolor
also
"THE IMMORTAL BATTALION"
David Niven Leo Genn

Far Away Places—Stay at Home Prices
EUROPE 1954
All Expense—Budget Wise Tours
Prices From $798.00 Include
Operas and Theaters
Student Tours
THE GRAND TOUR WITH SCANDINAVIA AND VIENNA
To: Miss M. W. McKay
11 W. 42nd St., New York 36, N.Y.
Please send me free catalogue
☐ THE GRAND TOUR
☐ STUDENT TOURS
☐ GENERAL TOURS
Name _____
Address _____
City _____ State _____

REGENT
LAST TIMES TODAY
That Hilarious Pair
DEAN MARTIN
JERRY LEWIS
"MONEY FROM HOME"

NOW at Schine's
PARAMOUNT
NOW PLAYING
"MA AND PA KETTLE BACK HOME"
MARJORIE MAIN
PERCY KILBRIDE
also
In Technicolor
"RIDE CLEAR OF DIABLO"
Dan Duryea Audie Murphy
Susan Cabot Abbie Lane

Want lower golf scores consistently?


ASK ANY GOLFER WHO OWNS A SET OF SYNCHRO-DYNED CLUBS!
Hundreds of unsolicited testimonials from amateur golfers tell the same story on Spalding Synchro-Dyned woods and irons — golf's more fun now and a lower-scoring game, too!
You'll see why the first time you play these advance-design clubs. Your shots are easier to control, your swing is freer, your timing more uniform — because every wood, every iron has the identical contact feel!
Have your Spalding dealer fit you now.
SPALDING
Synchro-Dyned
BOBBY JONES: WOODS & IRONS
JIMMY THOMSON: WOODS
SPALDING ADVISORY STAFF

On the Inside
Two contrasting looks at student government groups, page 2.

Syracuse Daily Orange

Vol. 51, No. 100 | Syracuse, N. Y., Tuesday, March 30, 1954 | 4 Pages — 5 Cents

Weather Report
CONTINUED SNOW
High temperature ---- 39
Low temperature ---- 18

Dorm Openings Available Today for Upperclass Men

Only three men applied yesterday for rooms in Marion dormitory, leaving 139 places open in the new building for the fall semester. Next-semester juniors and seniors may apply today.

Applications usually come in slowly the first day, Jack C. Buckle, director of men's counseling, and residence, told The Daily Orange yesterday.

"THERE WERE more applying the first day last year," he said, but senior applications were accepted for all housing. "The number of applicants thus would normally be lower," he noted.

The application system this year has been set up with individual days set aside for each class and housing group. Juniors and seniors are given preference until tomorrow, when prospective sophomores may apply.

Marion dormitory prices have been set at $322, including a $2 residence fund. All students living in Marion must eat in the Watson dining hall, unless working for board. Board will be $440 for the academic year.

Similar to Watson dormitory in most respects, Marion will have its own central lounge, recreation room, laundry, office and mailboxes.

THE DORMITORY is built of reinforced concrete and will be completely fireproof. It will follow the current University architectural style of red brick with limestone trim.

All rooms in the building are designed for double occupancy. Four different color schemes are used in the room decoration.

Each room will be furnished with individual study desks with book shelves, desk chairs and lamps, single beds with innerspring mattresses, individual bureaus and drapes. The beds were designed by Prof. Ralph R. Laidlaw of the College of Fine Arts.

Seniors Hand Down Colgate Mum Sale

The tradition of the chrysanthemum sales on Colgate weekend were handed down to the Incoming senior class by the Class of 1954 at last Thursday night's assembly meeting.

The asembly passed the motion recommended by a petition sent to the assembly by Sam Shawhan, president of the Class of 1953. Shawhan stated in his petition that his class intended to hand their baloon tradition down to the incoming junior class.

Vincent Moore made a report on an interview with Dean Caleton Krathwohl regarding the 15 dollar commencement fees received by the January graduates. The fee not only covers the commencement which the graduates may attend in June but also covers the cost of their diplomas.

William Christenson, chairman of the senior show box office ticket committee, requested that the assemblymen ask their houses for volunteers to help sell the tickets. Anyone interested should contact their senior assembly representative or call Christenson at 4-9711.

Hill Group Needs Buglers, Heralds

Heralds are needed for Spring Weekend.

Patricia Roden, chairmen of the committee planning this event which opens the Saturday festivities, would like to contact students who won their own horses and would like to ride with the heralds.

Since the fire at a local stable these animals are particularly scarce on campus.

Also needed are women who know how to blow bugles. Miss Roden asks that any interested students contact her at the Kappa Alpha Theta house.

The parade will start at 7 a.m. Saturday May 8 and cover the major part of campus, ending at about 7:30 a.m. The outgoing WSG president, Mary Anne Dalton, will be followed by the new president.

An integral part of Spring Weekend activities, the tour of the heralds is planned by members of Eta Pi Upsilon, senior women's honorary.

MUST SIGN PLEDGE

All those who have not signed the men's student government assembly act pledge or the class elections pledge. please do so tomorrow at the latest in the MSG office, building 30.

Hill Law Edifices May Open in Fall

Construction of the Ernest I. White hall, College of Law building, is "moving along very well," at the present date, F. Gordon Smith, vice-president and executive secretary of the University, told the Daily Orange yesterday.

"Every effort is being made to ready the building for fall, although it may be a tight squeeze," Smith stated. At this moment, the concrete floors and bricks walls have been poured in and final finishing work is needed for completion, he added.

HARRY A. and F. Curtis King of Syracuse, associate architects, also reported that one-half of the work is completed with most of the mechanical work being finished. They stated that the rough, structural work was taken care of and only the more detailed, finished work was still to be done.

"Progress on the building is going as expected," the King office said. The group also believed that the progress compared with other jobs of the sort.

The building will be four stories high on the Irving ave. side and three stories on the campus side. The law college will be 125 feet long and 63 feet wide.

W. J. Burns co. of Syracuse started construction on the building last June 15, under a general contract. The contract calls for three main classrooms, 14 faculty offices, administration offices, seminar room, a practice courtroom, a reading room, lounges and a library to house a collection of 50,000 volumes.

A $922,000 budget was originally planned to cover all the costs of the building.

Decision to call the building E. I. White hall, after the prominent Syracuse business and attorney was made in 1947. At this time, a resolution was passed by the executive committee of the Syracuse University Board of Trustees and the Board of Visitors of the College of Law.

White is the former publisher of the Post-Standard and provided a large portion of the funds for the structure.

Ticket Plans Change For Quiz Broadcast

Following an editorial suggestion in the Saturday edition of The Daily Orange, seating plans for Thursday's broadcast of NBC's "College Quiz Bowl" from the Women's building dance studio are being revised.

According to program supervisor Edward Jones of the radio-television center, admission to the program will be through special tickets which will be distributed Wednesday on a "first come, first serve" basis. Two tickets per person will be allowed at a spot on campus to be designated tomorrow by Jones.

THE NATIONWIDE program will pit a team of four Syracuse panelists against the varsity scholars from the University of Colorado. Syracuse's flash panel last week defeated the Washington and Lee team which had run up five straight "College Bowl" contest wins.

The only seats reserved at the broadcast will be for the living centers of the four panelists and a special guest section.

The original plan had been to open the auditorium on a "first come, first serve" plan but it was later decided that a ticket system would be the most ideal method of filling the 350 seats in the dance studio.

Doors will be opened at 7:30 p. m., Thursday, according to Jones, and all those with tickets must be in the auditorium by 8 p.m. After this time, persons will be admitted without tickets until the dance studio is full. An overflow crowd will be accomodated by loud speakers outside the auditorium.

IT WAS also indicated by Jones that attempts are being made to adjust the public address system within the dance studio so that the program will be more easily heard.

The Syracuse panelists, Janet Caro, Jane Bauer, Raymond Guenter and John Beach, brought a $500 prize to the University for Thursday's win which will be used to purchase television sets for the Women's building. Dr. Edwin Cady is coach of the team.

Industrial Editor To Speak in Series

Mrs. Ellen W. Van Dusen, editor of Family Circle, Crouse Hinds company house magazine, will speak at 7:30 p.m. today in the Journalism center, as the second in a series on industrial journalism.

Speaking on "Editing the Publication," she will be introduced by Prof. Roland E. Wolseley, the chairman of the School of Journalism magazine department, who is arranging and supervising the series. The talk will be illustrated with slides.

Editor of Family Circle since 1948, Mrs. Van Dusan is president of the Upstate New York council of Industrial Editors

Campus Debaters Win First Honors In Recent Tourney

Johanns, Hecht Argue Affirmative Side On Free Trade

Syracuse university's debaters came home with their first trophy of the debate season last Saturday when they took first place honors in the LeMoyne invitational debate tournament.

Alex Strasser and Douglas Ingalls on the negative and Rudolf Johanns and Robert Hecht on the affirmative represented Syracuse at the debate. The debaters discussed the issue: Resolved: "That the United States should adopt a policy of free trade."

STRASSER AND Ingalls won all three of their debate rounds while Johanns and Hecht took one of their three debates.

This was only the first time this year that Strasser, secretary of the hill debate society, and Ingalls combined on the negative side of the case.

In May 1952, however, Strasser and Ingalls took the negative side of the question, "Resolved That the Congress of the United States Adopt a Policy of Fair Employment Practices" at another LeMoyne debate tournament.

For Johanns and Hecht, Saturday's tournament wasn't their first at LeMoyne.

SATURDAY WAS the first time in a few weeks that Johanns and Hecht debated together as a team. In his last three debates, Johanns teamed up with Strasser.

All the affirmative and negative teams combined won only three debates, the record of Johanns and Hecht takes on added significance.

On April 11, Strasser and Johanns will combine again on the affirmative side of the national topic in a debate against Pennsylvania, tentatively scheduled for Crouse.

MSG Will Accept Court Applications

Trust Board Meets On April 8

Applications for justices of the men's student court will be accepted until noon April 8 at the men's student government office, building 30, Stephen Reiss, chief of civil service, announced yesterday.

The government trust board will meet April 8 to choose a minimum of one senior justice, one junior justice and two sophomore justices.

Men with at least a 1.6 cumulative average are eligible for justice. The position is permanent until graduation so long as the appointee maintains the requirements of the office.

The trust board will also meet Thursday to name a new chief of civil service. Sitting on the board will be the present chief of civil service as chairman, the president of MSG, the chief justice of the men's court, the dean of men and the dean of the College of Liberal Arts.

No formal application form will be required from candidates for justice. Name, address, phone number, class and ideas for the court should be included in the application.

Political Parties Will Start Election Campaign Today

Campaigning for spring elections will begin at 5 p.m. today, Stephen Reiss, chief of civil service of men's student government, announced yesterday.

Eligibility lists will be released at that time and all three political parties are expected to swing into high gear in preparation for the April 7 balloting.

THIRTY-FIVE men have submitted petitions for candidacy in the race for MSG assembly posts.

Reiss said that there will be no competition for senior class representatives, since only four fraternity men and three independents have submitted petitions. The class assembly must appoint two more assemblymen after elections to fill out the nine spots for the class of 1955.

Ten men are running for junior class representatives, Three independents are automatically in the assembly. Five Greeks and two city students are also eligible.

The sophomore class competition shapes up with 11 fraternity men, five independents and two city students vying.

IN ADDITION to MSG assemblymen, campus voters will elect the president of MSG, president of women's student government, six WSG junior officers; senior, junior and sophomore class officers; Red Cross co-chairmen; WSG chief of civil service; WSG secretary-treasurer; WSG assembly speaker; and Eta Pi Upsilon Spring weekend queen.

Campaigning is regulated by provisions of laws passed by men's and women's student government.

No campaigning of any sort is allowed on campus with the exception of campaign material worn by students on their person. All posters on telephone poles and trees on public property is prohibited. Use of paste or glue in placing hand bills or posters on bulletin boards and vehicles is also forbidden.

Interference of any kind with the campaigning of any candidate by anyone shall be considered basis for protest.

THE ANTI-NOISE act regulates uses of sound equipment. Use of devices including loudspeakers and horns is prohibited within the campus area bounded by College pl., University pl. and Irving ave., excluding these streets, on school days before 5 p.m. unless special permission is granted by presidents of MSG and WSG. Elsewhere devices are allowed between 3 and 8 p.m. except in the hospital areas.

An amendment to the act will be presented to the MSG assembly tonight to clarify status of Lowe Art center, Shaw dormitory and Women's building in regards to publicity devices. The change would also include Irving ave., College pl. and University pl. as part of the no-campaigning area.

Officers of MSG and WSG would be exempt from the provisions of the act while they are performing official duties connected with their office, the amendment also states.

WSG has already OK'd these changes.

Violation of the anti-noise act will be tried by the joint student court, with a minimum penalty of suspension from extra-curricular activities for at least three months.

Blood Drive Reaches Quota As Foresters Lead Donors

By TOM LONG

School of Forestry members donated 162 pints of blood yesterday to shoot Syracuse university over its 500-pint quota. Added to the Wednesday and Thursday totals of 163 and 178 pints, yesterday's contributions brought University donations to 503 pints.

The three-day all-campus drive was conducted in the Men's gym and Bray Hall. Syracuse students worked with Red Cross officials in carrying out the collections.

OF THE 740 students originally scheduled to contribute only 574 appeared. Seventy-one of the would-be donors failed to pass the physical and were not allowed to give blood.

Dual credit was offered to contributing students for the first time this semester. ROTC and fraternity or sorority recognition was permitted as well as extra credit to members of the forestry school.

Red Cross officials expressed their gratitude for the fine showing of Hill donors. They announced that the University contributions came at a time when the Syracuse city blood supply was at a very low point.

In a one day drive conducted last fall the campus donations totaled 379 pints. The three-day drive was scheduled this semester to facilitate student contributions.

MARY FLAVIN, campus chairman of the drive, made arrangements for the collections. Working on her committee were Anne McKensie, Diane Johnson and Dan Russell.

Arnold Air Society, national military honorary, Alpha Phi Omega, men's service honorary, and Angels' Flight, women's AFROTC society, worked with the committee. Phi Epsilon Kappa, men's physical education honorary also assisted.

Leaders in the fraternity division in percentage of members donating were Delta Kappa Epsilon, Phi Epsilon Pi and Beta Theta Pi. Alpha Chi Omega headed the sorority division.

Houses to Compete In Step Singing At Chapel Tonight

Ten more houses are scheduled to compete in the Spring weekend step singing preliminaries at 7 p. m. today in the Chapel.

In the small house division are; Ostrum, Mace, Genesee, Renwald and University I. Haven Hall, Shaw, Theta Phi Alpha, Sigma Kappa and Alpha Phi are scheduled in the large house competition.

Sponsored by Eta Pi Upsilon, senior women's honorary in connection with the Spring weekend celebration, the finals of the contest will be held that Friday night on the Library steps. Sigma Alpha Iota, professional women's music honorary, awards two cups to the winning houses in each division.

So far, the following houses are entering the quarter finals: in the small house division: Winchell Waitresses, Philip, Sperry and Butler cottages. In the large house division are Delta Delta Delta, Phi Mu, Alpha Omicron Pi and Alpha Chi Omega.

Teaching Course To Start in June

June graduates of any accredited Liberal Arts college will be able to enroll in an intensive teacher training course this summer, and upon completion receive a certificate enabling them to teach in an elementary school.

The program, fostered by the State Department of Education in cooperation with the State University of New York and private colleges and universities, requires no previous training in education.

Seniors are presently receiving information on this program through the mail, including how to renew the certificates at the end of one year.

JSF Will Choose Officers Tomorrow

Elections for officers of Jewish Student fellowship will be held at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in 207 Maxwell.

Eligible voters will be notified by mail and a list of their names will be posted in Chapel. Requirements for voting is attendance at 40 per cent or more of a committee or sub-committee meetings or active participation in these groups.

Those not included on the eligibility list may petition for such standing before 4 p.m. tomorrow. Petitions should be turned in at the JSF desk in Hendricks chapel.

Rehearsal List Set For 'Up in Lights'

Astor, Yates to Serve For Practices

Rehearsals will be held for "Up in Lights" at the following times this week:

Today, 3-5 p.m., specialty dancers ("Stop, Look and Love") will rehearse in prefab 8a and from 7-10 p.m. the singing ensemble will practice in Yates hotel.

Tomorrow, 3-5 p.m., "Who Are You" and "I Know She's the Girl" will rehearse in prefab 8a and from 7-10 p.m. "The Waltz" and "The Mope" will practice in prefab 8a. Students will be called for the 7-10 p.m. practice.

Thursday, 3-5 p.m., the specialty singers ("I Fell in Love") and "A Trip to the Moon" in prefab 8a.

Friday, 3-5 p.m. skits ("Investigation" and "Wrecking Crew" and from 7-10 p.m. the specialty dancers ("Stop, Look and Love").

Saturday, 1-5 p.m., the entire cast will rehearse.

Sunday, 11-1 p.m. all skits, 2-5 p.m. entire cast and from 7-10 p.m. specialties and "The Waltz."

The rehearsals on Friday, Saturday and Sunday will all be held in the Astor theater.

Panhel Changes Rushing System

Seven changes in women's rushing procedure were passed by a combined meeting of the rushing chairmen and Panhellenic representatives yesterday.

A proposal requiring city girls living on campus during their first year to state if they plan to live on campus all four years was defeated by the assemblage. Another suggestion to have two lists after the formal party—one city and one campus list—was sent to Panhel advisors for their advice.

AN EARLIER and more strict cutting system was approved by the rushing chairmen. A maximum of eight times the number of girls that a house can pledge may be invited back to the costume party. The system used this year of inviting three times the number of girls able to be pledged back to the formal party will be continued.

The rushing chairmen also OK'd a measure to set up a list of houses which can and cannot take upperclassmen and nurses. Instead of quoting specifically the number eligible to be pledged, however, the list will merely say whether the house can or cannot take upper classmen or nurses.

These lists will be left only with the rushing advisor.

Another change had to do with reporting expenses of a sorority. The new system will provide for a standard from where all expenses will be listed. The list will clarify other house fees besides room and board.

THE MEETING also approved a suggestion from the floor calling for a booklet of all expenses of all sororities. This will be given to girls on request instead of having them check on individual houses with the rushing advisor.

The rushing chairmen voted 14-8 to have the names of sorority members left out of the Panhel booklet given to freshmen.

A suggestion from the floor to have a form sent to rushing chairmen in the fall explaining exactly what constitutes dirty rushing was passed. The rest of the resolution stated that "rushees should be made to feel that it is their duty to report dirty rushing or rumors they may have heard concerning a house."

The Panhel convocation in the fall will be changed and broken down into smaller units with 30-40 girls attending each one. A special convo will be held for transfer and upperclass women.

The final proposal approved changed the names of the "freshman advisors" to "rushing advisors". Upperclassmen will also consult them in the future.

Entries for Parade Open Until April 10

Applications for entries in the Spring weekend float parade will be accepted until 5 p.m. Saturday, April 10.

"There's No Business Like Show Business" will be the theme of this year's event scheduled for May 8. Anything in show business may be used except radio and TV, chairman Ellen Williams announced.

Applications, accompanied by a $2 entry fee, must include the name of the house, the title and a brief description of the float, the name and telephone number of the chairman.

If there are any duplications in themes, the first one entered will be accepted and the second house will be notified so a change can be made.

No applications will be accepted without the entry fee. They must be submitted to Ellen Williams, Charles cottage, or Robert Curran, Sigma Chi.

Bowl Trip Makes $40,951 in Profit

Vice-president Kenneth G. Bartlett announced at the Block S banquet Sunday that Syracuse university's profit from the Jan. 1, 1953 Orange bowl venture was $40,951.57.

This money, now on hand in cash or securities, will be added to the fieldhouse fund, the dean of public relations added.

Already pledged now for the fieldhouse is $348,919. Cash on hand toward the structure totals $261,660.

Syracuse received about $105,000 as its share of the Orange bowl pot in 1953. Expenses such as transportation for the team and band, housing, meals and new uniforms cut deeply into the profits.

JAZZ CONCERT

Teddy Wilson, noted jazz pianist, will appear with his band at Sims hall Friday night as part of IFC weekend.

Monk to Address Episcopalians

The student vestry of the Episcopal church on campus will be host to Dom Leo Patterson, Anglican monk of the Order of St. Benedict, Thursday and Friday of this week.

Father Patterson will speak on "Monasticism in the Episcopal Church" at 3 p.m. Thursday in the Chapel colonial room.

He will appear on WHEN-TV at 9 a.m. that morning and will celebrate the Holy Eucharist at 10 a.m. at Grace church.

Students will have an opportunity to meet the guest from 8 to 11 p.m. Friday at 818 Ostrom ave., home of Episcopal chaplain Rev. W. Wesley Konrad.

SOCIAL CHAIRMEN MEET

Miss Nancy Berquist, a Syracuse alum, will speak to a meeting of all the social chairmen at 7:15 .m. tonight in 305 Women's building. Miss Berquist will talk on Syracuse china, and plans to have a display with her. Chairman from all three assemblies should attend as well as any other interested.

US Needs Strong Allies: Harriman; Lecturer Sees Democratic Victory

— Cit Lecture —

By PEARL BERNSTEIN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Overflow crowds braved the elements yesterday to hear W. Averell Harriman address Maxwell school classes.

Speaking on the "Philosophy of American Assistance Programs, the former Mutual Security administrator said, "It is clearly the responsibility of this generation of Americans to secure for the coming generation strong allies, ready and willing to stand together for the cause of freedom."

AUDIENCES AT both morning and afternoon sessions heard Harriman express confidence in the ability of the United States to lead the way to world peace.

But, he cautioned, "leadership demands an understanding of the aspirations of other people. We cannot dictate, but we can lead."

Introduced by Dr. Stuart Gerry Brown, chairman of the Maxwell citizenship program, the former Secretary of Commerce discussed the achievements of the Marshall plan, the point four program and

(See LECTURE, page 4)

W. AVERELL HARRIMAN cups his hand behind his ear as a Maxwell audience fires questions at him during an address yesterday in Marshall auditorium. The former Mutual Security administrator spoke on the philosophy of American assistance programs.

Staff Photo by Richard Green

— Interview —

"It is premature to talk about the governorship," was the only comment Averell Harriman would make to questions asked him on candidacy at a press conference in the Founder's room of Maxwell yesterday morning.

The tall, ruggedly handsome New Yorker has been mentioned as a possible Democratic candidate for governor of the state in the forthcoming election.

HE DID say, "I myself am confident that the Democratic candidate can win." Harriman lambasted the present governor by citing his "dictatorial attitudes."

He accused Dewey of whitewashing the trotting race scandals, neglecting the interest of fairness and not hitting at the needs of the people of the state.

In fact, he prophesized a complete Democratic sweep of the country by 1956, with his party gaining control of both houses of Congress next fall and with the Democratic presidential candidate winning in '56 "even if Eisenhower runs again."

Harriman said, "The basic difference between our two parties is that the Democrats are interested in the people and the family,

(See HARRIMAN, page 4)

SYRACUSE DAILY ORANGE

THREE R'S OF A COLLEGE NEWSPAPER: RESPONSIVENESS, RESPONSIBILITY AND RESOURCEFULNESS

Page 2 Tuesday, March 30, 1954

Editor-in-chief ——— Arlene Lambert
Business Manager ——— Robert Goldstein

SENIOR EDITORIAL STAFF

Managing Editor ——— Arthur Siegel
Editorial Director ——— Hugh O. Muir
Executive Editor ——— Janet Coro
Sports Editor ——— Kenneth Lent

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Edward Meyer, Joan Nadelhaft, Phyllis Sirota, Howard Vanlaw, Mary Vivian

BUSINESS STAFF

Asst. Business Manager ——— Sheldon Lassen
Layout Manager ——— Judith Berman
Classified Manager ——— Joan Jacobs
Circulation Manager ——— Anita Freyberg
Promotion Manager ——— Lloyd Eisenberg

DAILY STAFF

News Editor ——— John Johnsrud
Night Editor ——— Ed Haney
Asst. Night Editor ——— Ros Brownstein
Editorial Page Asst. ——— Maria Melis
Night Sports Editor ——— Don Henry

Published by the students of Syracuse University. Telephones: News, 75-3156, 75-3197; Editor, 76-1448; Business: 4-7206. Subscription by mail $6 per year, $3.50 per semester. Entered as second class mail matter at the Syracuse Post Office. Exclusive national advertising representatives National Advertising Inc., New York City.

Some student organizations justify their responsibility, some do not; we present a contrast:

HOUSE POLICY PANEL

Why & How of Regulations

By EILEEN CHAMBERLAIN

Most integral organizations of women's student government climax their various activities through legislation.

For example, this year the Organizations Registration act was passed on the recommendation of the Organizations panel. Traffic lights appeared at University pl., College pl. and Walnut ave. after efforts by the Student Welfare panel.

But one WSG panel carried on most of its activities this year without legislation to prove its worth. Born last spring, the infant House Policy panel was the result of an intention to improve relations among members and head residents of campus living centers.

Under the chairmanship of Charlotte Easterbrook, the panel members conducted a thorough investigation of rules and regulations for women students. In some cases they suggested changes or clarifications of the rules. Many times coeds in the WSG assembly asked for and received information on the why and how of regulations which they might have continued to scoff at without the insight provided by the House Policy panel.

Frosh coeds asked why men must be prohibited from their cottages every weekday between the afternoon hours of 2 to 4. House House Policy members went to the administration and found that the two afternoon hours were allotted for undistracted coed study. This was the philosophy behind exclusion of the men. It was presented to coed legislators the following week, one of many services by members of the panel.

In addition to obtaining clarification of roles, the House Policy panel has probably done its most important job in helping individuals to understand responsibilities to their living centers and cottage mates. An intangible, but equally important accomplishment has been the lessening of antagonism toward rules.

Miss Easterbrook helped to carry out plans to conduct House Policy panel business on a personal basis this year. At regular weekly meeting of the panel, it became common practice to interview a coed or a house president about an existing cottage problem. In hearing the thoughts of disinterested persons about a problem, the house president found solution and comfort, knowing that others had grappled with an identical problem.

To help house presidents and standards committees in the future, members of Miss Easterbrook's panel have compiled a pamphlet entitled "Standard Solutions for Standard Problems," one of the few accomplishments which lent itself to a written conclusion.

The standard problems were discovered through questionnaires filled out by house presidents and head residents, and standard solutions were developed through the advice of house presidents who had worked out similar problems in their own living centers.

The pamphlet will be distributed to house presidents in two or three weeks, as soon as it is processed. Miss Easterbrook expects this effort to be included in next year's House Presidents' Manual, a guide to those coeds elected to executive positions in the various campus living centers.

AN EVENING IN

'An Enchanted Evening That Wasn't'

By DICK CASE
Editorial Page Writer

A phrase from the Rodgers and Hammerstein factory kept buzzing through our head as a large tribute to those musical gentlemen was spread across four television networks and 30 million video screens last Sunday evening.

The one about Nellie Forbush being "as corny as Kansas in August, high as the flag of the Fourth of July," etc. The show was just about that corny with objectives about that high. It was an ambitious skyrocket that fizzled and, to steal again, an enchanted evening that wasn't.

The General Food people certainly had some noble aims in mind when they started this "Tribute To Rodgers and Hammerstein." The whole trouble seemed to be that the producers attempted to cram too much into the 90 minutes with the result that the whole business ran a bit thin in spots and at the end, toppled over without having accomplished a great deal.

We couldn't for the life of us fathom out what Jack Benny was doing there, or Ed Sullivan, or Edgar Bergan, or even Groucho Marx, or for that matter. The quiz show bit was quite laughable but we would have preferred a more subtle introduction of Rodgers and Hammerstein.

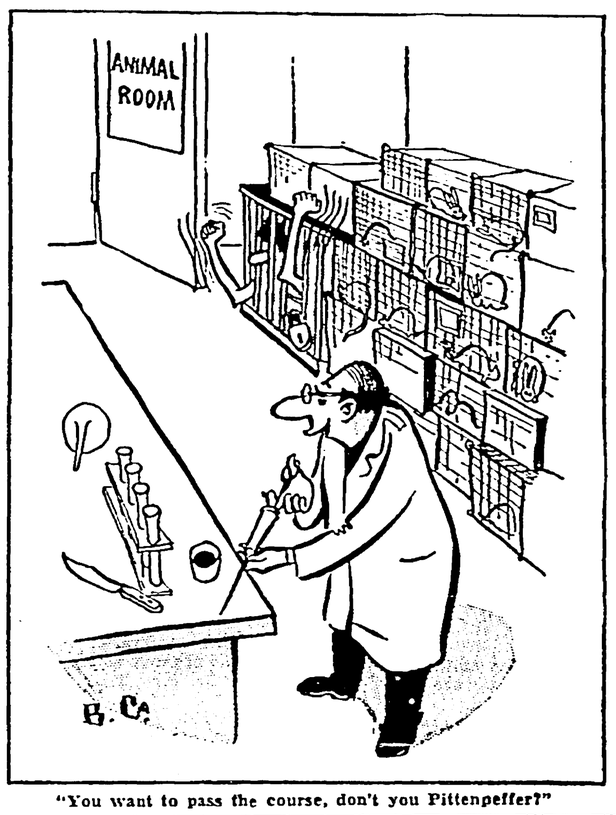
The music was excellently sung and performed with the scenes from "South Pacific," "Allegro" and "King and I" standing forward of the lot. The point is that Rodgers and Hammerstein have written some much better stuff than was shown here and if this was to be a tribute, the boys couldn't have been much flatter by the selection.

And Mary Martin. What can we say about this gal? She's a superb and wonderful entertainer and came out a charming m.c. on the show, too. Mary helped hold the brightness and lightweight quality needed.

As a tribute to our two greatest show business composers, however, this mammouth bubble burst early in the 90-minutes and emerged downright shabby as the astounding event it was expeced to be.

It is told that the R-H "Oklohoma" needed a "!" behind it before it became a hit. In this case, perhaps a "!" would have been just the thing.

Resurrections from Geisenheimer



"You want to pass the course, don't you Pittenpeffer?"

SCANNING CAMPUSES:

A Coeds' Revolution

By POLLY REED
Editorial Page Writer

A terrible thing has happened at Cornell!

A revolution is in progress!

Six Cornell women wrote a letter to the editor of the Cornell Daily Sun, expressing their views on men in general and Cornell men in particular. The letter follows.

To the Cornell Boy:

How do we loathe thee? Let us count the ways.
We loathe thee artly for thy shallow wit,
Alas, poor boy! You are quite "out of it."
And well deserve our pity; not our praise.
Through countless lectures and through countless days,
Clad in your grubby garb we've seen you sit,
And shrugged, our shoulders those times you saw fit
To show your manliness in drunken daze.
Yet be not too perturbed nor feel distress,
Thy mother loves thee still; guard her love well,
She, far away, still knows your courteousness,
And does not all her friends your graces tell.
Of course, most other people love you less,
But what is that since you are such a swell?

There are two answers to this letter.

Perhaps the six women are right . . . and in that case, they will never accomplish their end that way. The way to tame a man is to capture him first, then decide whether to domesticate him or not.

The only other reason we can think of for the six Cornell women to write the letter would be if they were jilted or disappointed in love.

Now, this is absolutely "out of it," to use one of their own phrases. After all, there are plenty of fish in the sea, and if one gets away, all a woman has to do is bait her hook and wait for some other poor fish to come along.

And, women, always remember: men are like streetcars. If you miss one, don't worry, there'll be another one along soon, and you can catch him.

IN THE HALLWAY

'Grinding Exceeding Fine'

By ED HARDY

A relatively new field of jurisdiction may be opened up for men's student court soon. It would be trial of campus driving and parking rule violators.

The first cases of this sort to be handled by the court came up March 18.

Now in preparation by several persons connected with the court is a new manual of procedure which is expected to expedite and clarify court work and operation.

Within the realm of possibility under the new manual, but already meeting with wide differences of opinion, is a one to three justice court or board to hear specifically such cases as parking violations.

The board would have regular tmies to meet, since these cases are reported to arise fairly often—campus police daily hang many parking tags on student vehicles.

Currently persistant violators and the like are usually handled through the office of the dean of men. It is reported that the office is willing to turn these cases over to student court "as soon as the court is ready for them." This readiness, naturally, would include swift action by the court.

Is the court ready now?

In the judiciary's first try at parking cases, five trials, all concerning stolen parking stickers and all interrelated, were scheduled following one another during the same evening. As might be expected, the night was a long one and the trials dragged past midnight. Justices issued their decisions the next afternoon.

It was interesting to note that the date of the trials was March 18. Date of the violations was just after the fall semester began.

Nearly six months is a pretty long time for a court with a vacant calendar—a court that once handed down a decision in a case within two days after charges were filed.

Where was the delay here?

Original complaints and suspicions on the thefts of the stickers was sent by the parking committee to the wrong Univerity office. The dean of men's office finally received them and about two months ago. Student judiciary officials were called in.

Various factors dragged things on. Exams, vacation and students being out of town interefered. Court officials wrangled over the points of operation and procedure. They got tangled up in their own red tape. It seemed that the court of law was strictly that.

Meanwhile the alleged violators waited . . . and waited. The process of student justice became a sword of Damocles to them. Their cases were supposed to be closed and their names a secret to all but the court. But as time dragged on the grapevine carried the five names to all parts of campus.

All this brings to mind a quotation we saw once:

"Delay of justice is injustice."

AT THE FLICKERS

Murder Story In a Low Key For Laughs

By CHARLES SAMUELS
Daily Orange Movie Critic

Guiness Genius

After making an auspicious debut last Sunday, the Boar's Head film series has followed it up with another enjoyable afternoon. "Kind Hearts and Coronets" was every bit as delectable a piece of comic confectionery now, as when it first made its appearance.

"Kind Hearts and Coronets" is the first film in which Alec Guiness tried the formula which has produced such delights as "The Lavender Hill Mob" and "The Captain's Paradise." In this film he begins his concern with a portrayal of crime not as something fearsome, but as something wonderfully funny. What provides the humor is the gentility of the criminal and the almost academic craft with which he perpetrates his crime. The only difference in this film is that Guiness is the victim or rather victims.

One of the greatest sources of humor is the sight of Guiness playing eight parts. What is wonderful about it is the care that is taken not to let this joke carry the whole show and the consummate skill with which Mr. Guiness creates eight entirely different characters. Every D'Asocyne from the improbable Lady Agatha to the pompous Duke is a little masterpiece of character acting and the audience is richly treated to all the tricks of the craft of comedy by an undisputed master.

Nor is Guiness the only gem in the film. Dennis Price's polite, suave murderer who kills a girl and says "I at least saved her the horror of growing old" is every bit as funny as Guiness's job. Valerie Hobson's priggish Edith and the incredibly funny Joan Greenwood's Sibella are equally proficient.

The genius of this macabre little piece is the complete mismating of subject and treatment. What could have been a murder story is played in a low key for laughs. Keyed as it is there are the inevitable dull spots but the whole film is so magnificent that not even the occasional lull can hamper the total effect.

Little consolation

Four score and seven years ago our forefathers bought a new hunk of continent, conceived as "Seward's Folly" and dedicated as an icebox.

A dash of fate has delivered the northern blanket for today, the 87th anniversary of the purchase of Alaska. We find little consolation in the fact.

Last night at midnight 10 inches of snow had fallen. If it were really spring, (calendars are such deviating time pieces), that would melt down to a mere one inch of rainfall.

But it's not; we may despondently call ourselves the last outpost of winter and align our fate with Alaska. Ah, but that is a deceptive alliance for "the last frontier" is whimsical in its weather too.

We find a lonely little town balancing precariously on the arctic circle called Fort Yukon, pop. 274. The citizens there have a real complaint for inconsistency.

For it is in Fort Yukon, a prosiac name, that there has been both the highest and lowest temperatures ever recorded in "Seward's Frog Pond."

The lowest was 71 degrees below zero and the highest was a flat 100 degrees above. Visualize the citizens shoveling their way out for a glimpse of spring on March 30 and wondering whether they will need bearskins or briefs.

In a reverse of the picture, there is a third of the world that has never seen snow; there are millions of people who have never felt a frigid flake.

But nature is an indifferent enemy in the snow assault. In 1946 a research scientist in Schenectady waved dry ice through his breath in an icebox and, presto, more of the lovely stuff sprinkled down. It's fruitless to complain; even science joins disruption of the climate.

We shall drift into a drift with another fracture of Lincoln: weather, divided against itself, we cannot stand.

Brrrrrrrr, confound it.

Editorial Director

Rushing help

Sorority rushing chairman and Panhellenic representatives met yesterday to take final votes on many of the proposed rushing revisions.

Discussion on several of the changes was deferred until next week. These included a new "cooperative list," and various constitutional revisions. It now seems that administrative problems may make a re-examination of this list a necessity.

Also sent back for further discussion was a measure which was designed to aid the city girls. Some coeds thought that the compiling of four lists after the formal party would be too great a burden on the houses.

We suggest that the advisors to whom the question was referred examine carefully every facet of the proposal. If the city girls, sometimes under a handicap because various houses have a city student quota, will benefit to any great extent, then the sororities should be willing to compile the extra listings.

Two of the three proposals which we mentioned last week were passed by the assemblage. The first concerned earlier cutting by the houses. The philosophy behind this ruling included extra help for both rushees and the smaller Greek houses. It has always seemed a bit unfair to both groups when large houses would invite overly large numbers back when it was impossible for that many to be pledged.

The second revision will aid upperclassmen and nurses. For the first time houses will place with advisors statements as to whether they can take any of these students. Now coeds will not be needlessly discouraged when a house refuses to invite them back.

Editor-in-Chief

Utah Touch Of Hawaii

Enterprising juniors at the University of Utah have produced what is believed to be the most unusual junior prom in the country.

The big dance, top junior social event, was held in the historic rotunda of the Utah state capitol.

More than 2,000 orchids, flown in from Hawaii, plus palm fronds, fishing nets and sailing ships converted the rotunda from the dignified center of state affairs to a replica of an island hotel club. Hawaiian-born Utah students, complete with ukeleles, welcomed guests as though they had arrived for an "Hawaiian Holiday," and coeds were presented with imported flower leis.

But despite its magnificance, the dance did not go uncriticized. Several students were disgruntled because the music was provided by a local band and not a "big name" one.

LETTERARY COMMENT

Quota Demands Cooperation

To the Editor of The Daily Orange:

Last Friday the Daily Orange carried a front page story regarding the blood drive caried on by the Syracuse university student body. I was very happy to see such publicity being given to such a worthwhile cause. However, I feel that I must try to clarify a misunderstanding which the DO, among others, seems to have in regard to the college of Forestry. In the article Friday, the Daily Orange makes the following statement, "Forestry school members must donate 169 pints of blood in order to reach the University's 500 pint quota today." I would like to point out that the College of Forestry carries on its own blood drive, not in conjunction with but merely at the same time as the Syracuse university blood drive. The College of Forestry always has had a quota of 125 pints, and it has always far surpassed this obligation. There is no coordination whatsoever between the Forestry blood drive and the one carried on by the rest of the University.

Last fall the College of Forestry publicly challenged the Engineers to competition in blood donations. The Engineers never even answered, much less did they accept, the challenge.

Let's take a look at a few of the statsitics from last week's blood drive. The University, including the Foresters, donated 496 pints. This means 6.1% of the student body donated blood. If the Foresters are not included in the figuring, the percentage drops to 4.5%. The College of Forestry rallied to the tune of 22.9%! There are some who argue that this difference is due to the fact that women are enrolled in the University, but not in the College of Forestry, and that they are not so likely to donate as are the men. To give the rest of the University students the benefit of the doubt on this subject, I have halved University enrollment figures and figured percentage on that, based on 341 pints donated. This would still raise the percentage donated for the University exclusive of Foresters to only 9.1%.

The Foresters exceeded their quota by 24%. The University, including forestry blood, fell short of its quota, approximately 1/5 of the College of Forestry had to donate. Of the rest of the University, approximately 1/16 of the student body had to donate to meet their quota. The Foresters met and exceeded the quota. The rest of the University did not.

In view of the preceding information, I can readily see why you called upon the Foresters to help pull someone's weight as well as their own. However, I do not think it's fair to ask one particular segment of an organization to contribute a specific amount of anything to any cause without first consulting that group. The Foresters would like to, and have tried to cooperate with the all campus blood drive. But cooperation must come from both ends, not just one.

Sincerely yours,
Jim Craine
A Forester

Editor's note: Perhaps the following points are in need of clarification:

1. The foresters' donations are included in the total of Syracuse university for two reasons. First—the Forestry student still remains a part of the Syracuse family. Second—estimations must be made to the Red Cross on the number of students using the donor facilities in the gym. For this purpose the foresters are also included.

2. When the Daily Orange reporter wrote that the "foresters must donate . . . etc." he did not mean "must" in the sense of "ought" but that their numbers were the only remaining to boost the total.

3. P.S. The total drive did go over its estimated goal of 500 pints. See story on page 1.

Raising 'em By the Book

For the first time in the history of the University of Cincinniati, a man has chosen to major in kindergarten teaching.

This makes the student, Thomas G. Salyers, the only male in a class of about 60 coeds. But Salyers, an ROTC cadet colonel who intends to make the army his career, says he doesn't see "anything so unusual" about this.

"After all," he exlained, "I'm just doing, on a larger scale, what every man does at home during the time he rears his own small children."

FRESHMEN! sophomores! Juniors! SENIORS!

I. F. C. FORMAL
April 3rd

★ TUX
★ SHIRT — double-breasted $8
★ TIE — single-breasted $10
★ SUSPENDERS

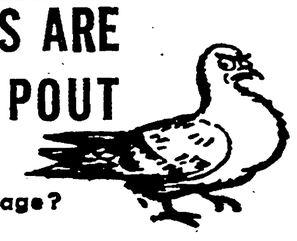
No deposit for students

CENTORE'S MEN SHOP
Phone 2-1728
446 SO. SALINA ST.
TOM CENTORE '50
OPP. ADDIS

Typewriters

Sold or Rented
New Machines
The Corner Store
SINCE 1908

SOME PIGEONS ARE INCLINED TO POUT
OR
did Garcia really care about getting that message?



This is the Sad Story of a Senior who was Serious. About a Girl. In the straight-forward manner common to Seniors, he decided to invite her up for The Big Weekend.

A month ahead, he sat down and wrote her a Nice Letter. Then he sat back and Waited. For three weeks, with no answer. Finally, alarmed, he Phoned her.

Cost him $4.25 in quarters. When the bonging of the Coin Box stopped, all he could hear at the other end of the wire was a Series of Sniffs. "Pigeon?" he asked, tentatively. She wept. "What's wrong?" he asked. She sobbed.

"Oh, Harold," she wailed, "You used to send telegrams to invite me to Big Weekends. This year, all I get is a little old Letter. You don't love me any more." And hung up.

Harold goes everywhere Stag now. Says he prefers it that way. But you should hear him Sigh whenever he passes a Western Union office.

As your Telegrammar will tell you—(the Telegrammar being a handy, pocket-size guide to telegraph use that you can get for free by simply writing to Room 1727, Western Union, 60 Hudson St., New York City)—a Telegram takes any message out of the casual class. It's Subtle . . . flatters the Gal or Guy who gets it. Next time you're sending an Invitation, a Howl Home for Cash, birthday greetings to Mother—just call Western Union, or head for your Western Union office.

WESTERN UNION AGENCY
Student's Supply Store — 943 So. Crouse Ave.
Telephone: 4-4018

Along the Sidelines

By KEN LENT, DAILY ORANGE SPORTS EDITOR

Sport fans will be talking about the NCAA swimming meet for a long time to come . . . Ted Webster and Co. are to be congratulated on a well-planned, smooth-running event . . . The championships received a generous amount of space in papers from coast to coast with a lot of it devoted to praise for the Orange pool . . . Ed Sinclair of the New York Herald Tribune claims he used the phrase "million dollar pool" in every lead.

Just to show how big this really was, here are some statistics for the Figure Filberts . . . There were over 300 contestants, 165 officials and 51 teams represented . . . Total attendance for the five paying sessions was 2,143 . . . Standing room was sold Saturday afternoon and night which drew 556 and 606 respectively . . . One reporter filed over 5,000 words of copy during the three-day sessions.

Biggest complaint among the swimmers was that the turns were dark and the refracted light on the water surface made the end of the pool "hazy" . . . Mike Peppe, coach of champion Ohio State, quoted his 50 and 100-yard freestyle titlist Dick Cleveland, "It was like swimming in milk" . . . Cleveland missed one turn in the 100-yard freestyle time-trials and almost lost out . . . Another Dick Cleveland via Peppe quote, "a million-dollar pool with a ten-cent wall." . . . Ted Webster retorted that such comments reminded him of a World Series pitchers who was making excuses in case he lost the game . . . Cleveland, incidentally, had a excellent chance of beating his own world's record of :49.2 when he goofed the turn in the 100 prelims . . . Unofficial clocking halfway along (50 yard) was :23.5.

Mike Peppe

Peppe was most pleased with his diminuative Hawaiian, Ford Konno, who came back to take the 440-yard freestyle after being upset by Jack Wardrop of Michigan in the 220 . . . He also commented on his divers Morley Shapiro and Fletcher Gilders . . . Both took their first NCAA title . . . For Shapiro it was his first in three trys . . . Most of the Buckeyes go to the AAU's this weekend . . . Wonder when they go to school?

Comment of Ben Schwartzwalder after watching the diving, "I think I'll stick to football. The scoring is easier to understand" . . . Ted Webster thought that the diving was below par for a championship event . . . The No. 3 judge must have thought so too . . . He scored mostly 5's Friday night and then got generous Saturday night and gave primarily 6's . . . Was consistently the low-man on the judges' scoring card.

Here, there and everywhere . . . The crew team had their first good workout on Lake Onondaga Saturday afternoon before the snows set in . . . The first and second boats are still not set as yet with only three short weeks left until the Navy duel April 24 . . . It's a long trip by car to Champaign, Illinois for Paul Romeo and his three boys going to the Nationals . . . Last year, Corky Sebbo took a Greyhound to Denver and was completely pooped by the time he arrived . . . Roy Simmons' father (over 80 years old) was at the Block S banquet . . . Athletes' picnic set for April 25 at Green Lake should really be something.

New Orange Pool Records

The Orange pool ain't what it used to be. New pool marks were established in all but one (a tie) event during last week's NCAA swim championships held here for the first time in the history of Syracuse. It will be a long time before several of these new marks are broken.

Here is a list of the old and the new records:

1. 50-Yard Freestyle
   Old Record: 22.8, John Glover (Dartmouth)
   New Record: 22.3, Dick Cleveland (Ohio State)
2. 100-Yard Freestyle
   Old Record: 50.0, John Glover (Dartmouth)
   Tied Record: 50.0, Dick Cleveland (Ohio State)
3. 220-Yard Freestyle
   Old Record: 2:13.6, George Hust (Dartmouth)
   New Record: 2:05.0, Jack Wardrop (Michigan)
4. 400-Yard Freestyle Relay
   Old Record: 3:37.0, Cornell
   New Record: 3:26.1, Michigan
5. 100-Yard Backstroke
   Old Record: 1:01.6, George Kouch (Niagara)
   New Record: 0:57.0, Yoshi Oyakowa (Ohio State)
6. 200-Yard Backstroke
   Old Record: 2:18.9, Howard Moskof (Colgate)
   New Record: 2:05.1, Yoshi Oyakowa (Ohio State)
7. 200-Yard Breaststroke
   Old Record: 2:23.0, Charles Douglas (Williams)
   New Record: 2:15.4, Dave Hawkins (Harvard)
8. 150-Yard Individual Medley
   Old Record: 1:37.8, Roy Swanson (Cornell)
   New Record: 1:30.1, Bumpy Jones (Michigan)
9. 300-Yard Medley Relay
   Old Record: 3:00.4, Niagara
   New Record: 2:49.3, Ohio State for the BEST SERVICE

under the WORST CONDITIONS
"Chrome Clad" STEEL TAPES are preferred by engineers

When you go out on the job, you want the most durable steel measuring tapes you can get — Lufkin "Chrome Clad." The jet black markings won't wear off, for they are bonded to the line and protected by multiple electroplatings that further build up the fine tape steel from which the line is made. The resulting line is heavier, stronger, and most rust and corrosion resistant. It is easier to read, easiest to clean, and won't surface crack, chip, or peel. Only Lufkin tapes are available with Chrome Clad.

LUFKIN "Peerless" Frame Tape

THE LUFKIN RULE CO.
Saginaw, Michigan

The Lufkin Rule Co., Saginaw, Michigan
Please send me your illustrated catalog of measuring tapes and rules.
Name
Address
City State
353

Block S Letters Won by 195 Athletes

By ED HARDY
Daily Orange Junior Editor

One-hundred ninety-five Syracuse university athletes received their letters at the annual Block S banquet Sunday night in Sims dining hall.

About 375 persons attended the Orange Key-sponsored athletic dinner and saw 15 special awards presented.

HUGH DAUGHERTY, head football coach of Michigan State college, was guest speaker. The Hill grad and former Orange football player and line coach, told the athletes and guests that "trying to win is the most important thing in sports."

He reminisced of his days at Syracuse and said that he could never repay the University for what it did for him when he was a player for the Orange.

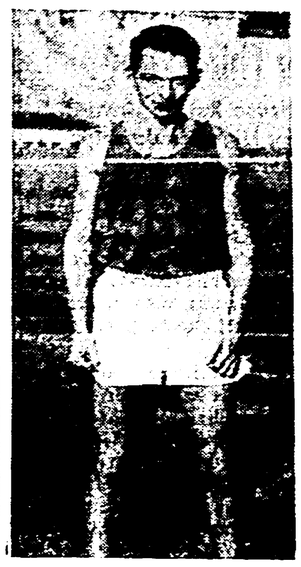
Sitting next to the Spartan mentor was his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth W. Daugherty, who was guest of honor. She is housemother at Alpha Delta Pi sorority here.

New York attorney Charles Newmark, class of 1928, unveiled a sculpture of the torso of a perfect athlete, done by Norman Pearl, student of Ivan Mestrovic. Newmark dedicated the statue to Eric Faigle, dean of the college of liberal arts. Dean Faigle was a classmate of the New Yorker and ran cross-country in 1925-28.

A TOTAL of 213 letters were awarded. Bruce Yancey and Billy Nelson were the only athletes to win recognition in three sports.

The following were winners of special awards:

Gerald Glasser, Tep Goes crew award to most valuable junior oarsman.
Ferdinand Fournies, Phi Epsilon Kappa gymnastic award to most valuable gymnast.
John Goldstein, Dean Dills fencing trophy to most valuable fencer.
Ray Osterhout, Tom Keane memorial trophy to most outstanding runner.
Gene Parker, Richard Arrighi cross-country award to most improved member.
Edwin Rooney, William J. Davison wrestling trophy to most valuable wrestler.
Thomas Sawyer, Lew Carr baseball trophy to most valuable player.
John Echeandia, Laurie Cox lacrosse trophy to most valuable player.
Gerald Jaffe, Edwin P. Tanner boxing trophy to most improved boxer.
John Larned, Phi Kappa Alpha basketball trophy to most improved hooper.
Ted Kukowski, Bill Horr football trophy to mst valuable player.
Donald MacRae, boxer, Devil's Own trophy to outstanding athlete as freshman.
Robert Tucker, lacrosser, Orange Key award to outstaning junior athlete.
Gymnastic team, Fritz G. Crawford award to team with highest scholastic average 1.6081.
Phi Kappa Psi, outstanding house in athletics.



PICTURED ABOVE are two winners of special awards at Sunday's Block S banquet. JACK LARNED, (left) was given the Phi Kappa Alpha award as the most improved hoopster while GENE PARKER captured the Richard Arrighi cross-country award for the most improved member of the hill and dale squad.

Coed Athletes Edge Cortland

A Syracuse women's basketball squad came from behind Saturday to edge past Cortland State Teacher's college, 28-27, in sportsday competition in the Women's building. Syracuse trailed 23-20 at the end of the third period, after having scored one point in the third quarter, while Cortland recorded ten on four set shots and two foul tosses.

Libby Harner, who led Syracuse with 13 counters, sunk two sets in the final period, while Barbara Bucko and Mickey Lynd each counted with a field goal.

Syracuse took two out of three volleyball contests from Cortland. After dropping the first game, 16-14, the squad took the next two, 15-13 and 15-9.

Joan Vitrano and Sue Albse, members of the rifle club, outscored a Cortland duo in shooting competition, and Johanna Clark won in singles play in badminton, 11-4, 11-9.

Two doubles teams from Cortland took badminton titles. Cortland swimming and bowling teams outscored Syracuse squads.

MARTIN HONORED

Joe Martin, a senior in Liberal Arts and Physical Education, was elected captain of the 1954 track team, it was announced by Coach Bob Grieve.

Bowling Tourney, Spring Sports Await Intramural Participants

By DON HENRY
Daily Orange Junior Editor

A final touch to the recently completed intramural bowling season goes into effect today. That is the individual bowling tournament open to all male Hill students.

The tournament is being directed by Mike Hickock, who runs the bowling alleys in the Women's gym. According to him, entries so far have been few, but the opportunity is still present.

HICKOCK PLANNED the tournament in the following manner. There will be two divisions labeled A and B. The former class will consist of bowlers who have a 150-or-above average. The B section will contain the bowlers with averages below 150.

The intramural department has said that medals will be awarded to at least the top two winners in each division. The number of medals awarded depends on the number of participants in each class.

There is no entry fee; the only cost being the price of bowling three games. The final scores will be based on a three-game total.

The tournament will take place tonight from 7-10, tomorrow from 7-10 p.m., Thursday from 7-10 p.m., and Saturday all day. More hours will be set up if necessary.

INTRAMURAL director Milt Howard announced yesterday that plans for the spring season will be formulated this week. A meeting today in the Trophy room of Archbold gym will set off the planning phase.

Representatives of all teams wishing to participate in spring sports must attend this meeting, which gets under way at 7 p.m. The spring sports list this year will include softball, tennis, golf, horseshoes, and track.

Action in these sports will get under way as soon as the weather allows. Tennis and golf will probably start off the full card of athletics. Baseball will probably not get under way for a few more weeks because of the early darkness that still prevails.

Fencers Beat RIT In Season Finale

The Piety Hill fencers closed out their season with a 18-9 victory over the weak RIT team. The Orangemen were never in trouble with only two men having losing records in the meet. Captain John Goldstein scored the most points with five wins against one setback. Ed Wang and Willie Schop each won three and lost none.

Syracuse's strongest weapon turned out to be the saber as they captured seven out of the nine matches. Goldstein and Schop won six between themselves and Abe Gilman chipped in with the other win.

RIT showed up best in the epee by holding the Orange to a slim five to four victory. George Wooding finished in fine style by adding two points to the Syracuse total. Goldstein and Gresser supplied three more markers.

In the foil division, Ed Wang continued to shine as he turned in a neat three and nothing slate. The other three foil wins were brought home by Joe Lauterstein and Bodo Trenk.

An interesting sidelight to the meet occurred when RIT was short one fencer. The usual procedure from this point is to have one of the fencers fight in two weapons. The RIT team fooled everyone, including the Orange squad, by having a representative from the RIT girl's team fill in.

The Syracuse victory enabled the fencers to finish their campaign with a fair four win, five loss record. The victories recorded were two apiece over RIT and St. Lawrence. Captain Goldstein had the best won and lost record for the season and Wang and Wooding were tied for second place honors.

BEYER GOES WEST

Dick Beyer, grad student in Physical Education, will travel to the West coast this week to wrestle in the National Senior AAU meet there. Orange wrestling co-captain, Ed Rooney, will also wrestle in this tournament.

Rooney Gets Second Spot in NCAA Meet; Sets Pinning Mark

Syracuse university's lone entry in the NCAA wrestling tournament, Ed Rooney, went on a record-breaking winning spree during the round-robin tourney, and finally wound up with an individual second place in the 157-pound class, and a 10th place for the team he represented.

The very competitive Roon garnered a total of six points in the tournament which was won by Oklahoma A&M. The team victory was the Aggies' 17th. Their last came in 1949.

Friday night Rooney got off to a terrific pace, pinning Bob Utter of Springfield College Mass.) in 8:33. In his next match, the Hill junior did something which has never been done before in the national wrestling tournament.

He pinned his opponent in just 31 seconds.

John McMahon of Michigan was the victim of Roon's record-setting fall. The previous mark was held by Alan Rice of Minnesota. Rice got a pin in 38 seconds in his 128-pound match in 1949.

The reason why Edwin Rooney's name now appears in the NCAA record book was not a lucky fluke, as some might contend. The aggressive mat co-Capt. gave the home fans a prelude earlier in the year.

It was against Temple in the second home match of the year that Roon's amazing talent as a "pinner" was first publicized. In this match, he pinned a hapless opponent in 33 seconds, almost before Orange fans could sit back and lick their chops in anticipation of a slaughter.

Roon was beaten, 11-6 by Bob Hoke of Michigan State in the finals at Oklahoma, but the block-busting Hillman did himself up proud. And his university!

Gymnasts Leave Today for Illinois

By AL GEFEN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Three Syracuse gymnasts along with Coach Paul Romeo left early this morning for the NCAA gymnastic meet, which will be staged this weekend at Champaign, Ill.

The small Orange travelling party is expected to arrive in Champaign sometime tomorrow and Coach Romeo plans two days of extensive workouts in the massive Illinois gym in preparation for the two-day competition.

NATIONAL TUMBLING champion, Corky Sebbo who will attempt to defend his title against rugged competition, Eastern flying rings champ, Ferdie Fournies, and all-around participant, Milan Trnka, are the Pietymen who will see action against the cream of the crop in United States gymnastics.

None of the Syracuse entries is expected to have an easy time of it in the Nationals. Powerful entries from such schools as Penn State, Florida State, Michigan State, Minnesota, California and the host team, Illinois, will provide a rugged task for the small band of Syracusans.

Among the participants who will be back to defend their titles won last year in Archbold gym when the meet was staged here are Carl Rintz of Michigan State, who hopes to repeat as side horse champ; Don Perry, University of California record-holder in the rope climb; Jean Cronstedt, Penn State titlist in the horizontal bar event; and Sebbo who will be facing a stern test in the tumbling competition.

Penn State, Florida State and Illinois are considered as the top bets to capture the team competition. Syracuse, because of the shortage of manpower entering the meet, might be considered a slight dark horse, but it would be a surprise to many if the Orange came away with team honors.

Consult us for eye care information

CARPENTER and HUGHES

Guild Opticians

State Tower Bldg.

Syracuse

74-4691

Special consideration given to students

Outstanding 47 to 49 day personally escorted Eight Country Tourist and Cabin Class Tours. ALL EXPENSES, only $1295 up—Finest All First Class LUXURY TOURS, 47 to 70 days $1875 up. Frequent sailings Mar. thru Sept. to QUEEN ELIZABETH or MARY. Small parties. Don't delay! Write now for free booklets, or phone

DUFFY TRAVEL SERVICE
Hotel Onondaga

Today's Crossword Puzzle

By JULES ARENSBERG

ACROSS

1 Unite firmly
5 Degrade
10 Rich man
15 Headliner
19 He wrote "Rubaiyat"
20 Billiard shot
21 Wonderstricken
22 Ashy
23 Military assistant
25 Souvenir
26 Girl's name
27 Gloomy
28 Follows orders
30 Dynamo
32 Dreamy: Colloq.
34 Pilfer
36 Reroll a flag
37 Means of transportation
40 Cross stroke of a letter
42 Rowdydow
43 Recede
46 Wandering
47 Aircraft carrier
49 Exam taker
51 Expresses approval
52 Manner
53 Unalloyed
55 Umbrage
56 Take care of 57 Baby-sit
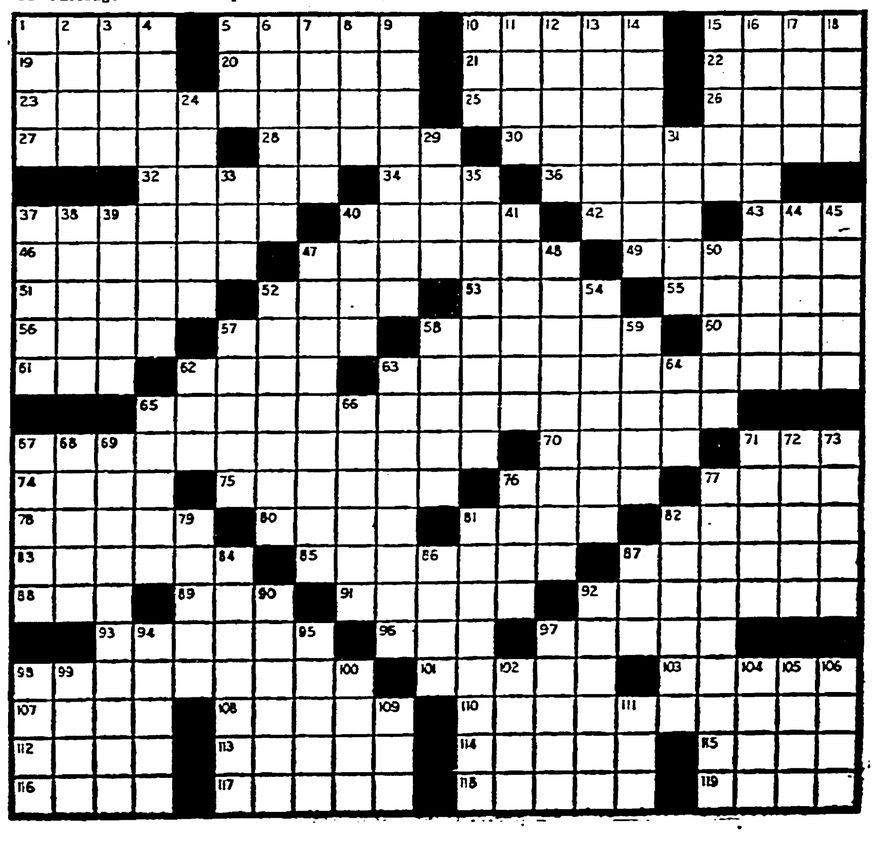
58 Immediate: Rom. Law.
60 Got off
61 Fruit drink
62 —— Lisa
63 Political symbols: 2 wds.
65 Ready and prepared: 4 wds.
67 Returns a compliment
70 Miss Hayworth
71 Tarradiddle
74 Gamin
75 Pilfers: Slang
76 Combat
77 Rational
78 French decree
80 Weakens
81 Half goat, half man
82 At an angle
83 English breed of sheep
85 Permissive
87 Glides on ice
88 Theater sign
89 —— de plume
91 Downpours
92 Ponderous
93 Equatorial
96 Notice
97 Hobo
98 Prepared beforehand: 3 wds.
101 Basket-making fiber
103 Coarse wool cloth
107 —— Curtain
108 Pointed arches
110 Rough-and-tumble battle
112 Narrow fabric
113 Have access to: 2 wds.
114 Italian poet: 1544-95
115 Duck
116 Otherwise
117 Cubic meter
118 Eyelid swellings
119 Eli

DOWN

1 Blue dye-stuff
2 Arabian ruler
3 Burden
4 Place of imagined beauty
5 Pilot
6 Like pork
7 Land of the sheikhs
8 A few
9 Celestial
10 —— King Cole
11 Eager
12 He kneads dough
13 Initiated
14 Charity show
15 Lance
16 Talebearer
17 Singing voice
18 Bring up
24 Sinks in water
29 Distribute
31 Letters of Teutonic alphabet
33 Cereal grain
35 Movie roles for extras: 2 wds.
37 Lariat
38 Equipped for war
39 Peace goddess
40 Snow vehicle
41 Great day in July
44 Make obscure
45 Source of sugar
47 Monetary
48 Article used in mosque: 2 wds.
50 "Thou —— not . . ."
52 Small fresh water fishes
54 Periodical
57 North African gazelles
58 Glass sections
59 Without contents
62 Swab
63 Roman's household authority: Law.
64 —— constrictor
65 Harmonizes
66 Barking dog
67 Electric catfishes
68 Blunder
69 Redheads
71 Belief
72 Cove
73 Miss Ross of flag fame
76 Strikes out
77 Gathering for men only: 2 wds.
79 Complement of a mortise
81 Painting, poetry, etc.: 2 wds.
82 Hand on hip, elbow outward
84 Dominant persons: 2 wds.
86 Row
87 Wave
90 Diminutive fellow
92 Brilliantly colored fish
94 Rajah's wife
95 Greek island
97 Slightly drunk
98 Quote
99 Russian mountain range
100 Twelvemonth
102 Decree
104 Virginia willow
105 Fervor
106 Mr. Gardner, mystery writer
109 Sault —— Marie
111 Numerals: Abbr.



OPENING THURSDAY NIGHT
APRIL 1
Continuing April 2, 3, 5, 6, 7

GIGI

By Anita Loos -- From Story by COLLETTE
"Gay Cinderella Of Paris 1900"

CURTAIN TIME 8:15
TICKETS $1.20
ALL SEATS RESERVED
Phone 4-2776

Lecture . . .

(Continued from page 1)

the other economic and military assistance programs launched by the United States.

"Much has already been accomplished, but much more remains to be done. Time is on our side only if we use it well."

HARRIMAN POINTED out how the Marshall plan, which he administered during its initial stages, saved Western Europe from falling into Communist hands.

He characterized the point four program of former President Truman as "One of the most imaginative concepts in American foreign policy," citing the hope it engendered in underdeveloped countries throughout the world. Point four was designated to share American technical knowledge with needy peoples throughout the world.

"Our partners in NATO are our strongest allies," Harriman went on. We must continue to give them military assistance, but the decision on how much should be based on the value to collective security that will be added by our contribution of material.

The man who was ambassador to Moscow during the critical final stages of world war II concluded from his experiences that "the Kremlin's strategy of world conquest rests on the belief that the capitalist countries must inevitably fight among themselves for markets and materials; that they must go through periods of crippling depression; and that Communism will spread, country by country, until the United States is left isolated."

HE PARTICULARLY emphasized the remarkable recovery and expansion of the Soviet Union since the war. "We must not fall into the trap of thinking that the Soviet system does not produce, however abhorrent its methods may be to us."

This is why the continuation and expanse of American assistance to the free world is so vital, he said. Underlying all these factors is the necessity of increasing our own economic growth, said Harriman.

Harriman . . .

(Continued from page 1)

while this (Republican) administration represents the interests of big business."

To upport this statement, he mentioned the current tax cut on income from dividends which the Republicans are trying to pass through Congress. According to Harriman, these cuts would benefit only "those on top." Increased exemptions are the only way, he maintained, since they are open to all.

Harriman was guest of honor last night at a smorgasbord dinner of the Stevenson Democratic club at the Polish community center. In a political address, Harriman, mentioned as possible gubernatorial candidate, said that the Republican party is one that "serves the few and hopes something leaks out to the many." He called upon the Democrats to win back prestige here and abroad and here in New York state to protect the north from cheap labor competition from the south.

High Command

A NEW MEMBER of the air force ROTC detachment here is LT. COL. WILLIAM A. HOY, who holds many medals and awards. A veteran of the Korean campaign, his first impression of the Syracuse unit have been very favorable. Photo by Ozzie Keuker

ROTC Impresses Air Force Officer

A smiling lieutenant colonel, who looks like the embodiment of the ideal Air Force officer, told The Daily Orange last week about his first impressions of Syracuse university.

The impressions were favorable.

LT. COL. William A. Hoy is a new member of the AFROTC detachment on campus. He holds the Distinguished Flying Cross, Air medal, Korean service medal, battle star and the UN service ribbon, and ribbons from the Asiatic-Pacific and Korean theaters.

A senior, rated pilot with 2,600 hours in the air, Hoy recently returned from Korea where he was concerned with night intruder missions. In the 17th bomb group, he participated in 19 missions there.

He was a squadron commander, group operations officer and group commander during the Korean action.

Hoy's Air Force career began shortly after he received a BS in forestry from Iowa State university in 1940.

HE COMPLETED flight training at Randolph and Kelly fields and received his regular commission in 1942, becoming associated with flying training instruction.

He was in the 18th fighter group, and in 1946 he became operations officer for the 13th Air Force headquarters.

From 1948-52 he was connected with Air Force basic training activities at Lackland Air Force base, Texas, and later at Sampson air force base, N. Y. He was then assigned to Korea with the 17th Bomb group.

Except for his Korean duty, Hoy and his wife and three children have lived in the central New York state area since 1951. His family is making preparations to join him permanently in Syracuse.

COMMENTING ON the Korean police action, Hoy said that the Korean people are in "hard straits". Rather than being disgruntled at any outcome of the battle, they are appreciative to the United Nations and especially to the United States for the aid that has been given them.

Campus Notices

Daily Chapel, noon to 12:20 p.m. Rev. Willard Cook will speak.

USP meeting, 8:30 p.m., Chi Omega. All reps must attend.

Christian Science Organization, 7:30 p.m., Colonial room, Chapel.

Student activities committee will not meet today. There will be no dance this Friday because of IFC weekend.

Independent women who would like to help or model at the JSF fashion show Sunday, contact Mrs. Rothman at Chapel. 76-5571, Ext. 496.

WAA fencing, 4:15 in the fencing room of the Women's building. There will be no fencing on Thursday.

Campus guide meeting, 7:15 p.m., 111 Maxwell.

Social chairmen's assembly, 7:15 p.m., room 305, Women's building. Miss Nancy Berquist will be guest speaker on Syracuse chinaware. Visitors welcome.

All fraternities please send representative to pick up tickets for IFC Ball from George Taback, 712 Comstock ave., Sigma Alpha Mu, from 1 to 5, Wednesday.

WSG ways and means panel, 7 p.m., 101 HL.

All girls and ROTC men wanting Military Ball dates sign up today and Thursday, 9-11 a.m. and 2-5 p.m., Machinery hall.

Kings Bench pre-law club meeting, 8 p.m., Zeta Beta Tau. Attorney Paul Shanahan, Jr., will address the group on criminal law and trial procedures.

All girls trying out for cheerleading who couldn't make last week's eliminations can try out tonight, 7:30-9 p.m., Women's building, gym B.

The following people are assigned to work at the DO today: afternoon: Reilly, Dahlman, Bloom, Morris, Walrath, Connors, Hardy; Night: Chamberlain, Bartkevicius, Yunker, Anderson, Royce, Techmacher, Oestereich, Roberta Stern.

St. Thomas More missions committee, 8:30 p.m., 112 Walnut pl.

Piety Hill Alliance candidates and managers, 3:30 p.m., Delta Gamma.

WAER Program Schedule

TUESDAY

2:58—Sign On
3:00—WAER News
3:05—Symphonic Matinee
4:00—Musical Heritage
5:00—This I Believe
5:05—Distaff Digest
5:15—Dinner Date
6:15—WAER News
6:25—Evening Showcase
6:35—WAER Sports Lineup
6:45—Steps to Peace
7:00—Keyboard Concert
7:30—Poet and His Song
7:45—Torchbearers
8:00—Evening With Music
9:00—WAER News
9:05—Voices in the Night
9:30—Night at the Pops
10:00—Final Edition—News
10:10—Final Edition—Sports
10:20—Sign-off

Kappa Alpha Theta Wins Panhel Cup For Third Year

House Retires Award For High Scholarship; AEPhi Tops Skits

Kappa Alpha Theta, with a 1.924 average, took the Panhellenic scholarship cup for the third year in a row, thus retaining it. A new cup will be started next year.

Delta Gamma was presented the achievement cup for participation in activities.

CHI OMEGA was awarded second place in scholarship for the second year in a row. The Chi O's had an average of 1.864. Delta Phi Epsilon with 1.821 and Alpha Epsilon Phi with 1.813 received third and fourth place recognition. Delta Gamma came in fifth with a 1.8.

Chi Omega was also awarded second place in activities. Delta Delta Delta took third and Gamma Phi Beta and Kappa Kappa Gamma came in fourth and fifth respectively.

The award for the best skit was presented to Alpha Epsilon Phi. Delta Zeta and Pi Beta Phi also presented skits.

Zeta Tau Alpha was awarded the Panhellenic "theme cup" for suggesting the theme: "Think of what you can do with what there is."

EIGHT WOMEN were recognized for having outstanding scholastic averages.

They include Ann Bassett, Kappa Alpha Theta; and Arlene Lambert, Alpha Delta Pi, three point average for two consecutive semesters. Alice Bancroft, Phi Mu, with a 2.928 average, and Carol Rettig, Iota Alpha Pi, with 2.911 were third and fourth.

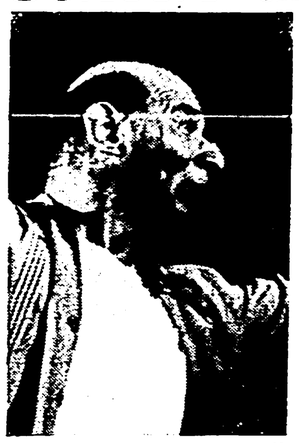
Jane Dempsey, Chi Omega; Patricia Ellenberger, Chi Omega; Susan Hoadley, Gamma Phi Beta; and Mary L. Miller, Pi Beta Phi all received recognition for their 2.906 averages.

Twenty-three women were commended for having three point averages for one semester.

THEY INCLUDE Irene Anthony, Kappa Alpha Theta; Lois Apman, Pi Beta Phi; Alice Bancroft, Phi Mu; Phoebe Baner, Pi Beta Phi; Anita Chodroff, Phi Sigma Sigma; Mary Ann Dalton, Theta Pi Alpha; Diane Davis, Alpha Xi Delta; Jane Dempsey, Chi Omega; Mary Duddleston, Kappa Delta; Patricia Ellenberger, Chi Omega; and Eleanor Field, Sigma Tau Delta.

Also Susan Hoadley, Gamma Phi Beta; Phyllis Lavine, Sigma Tau Delta; Mary L. Miller, Pi Beta Phi; Marcia Moskowitz, Sigma Tau; Carolyn Noble, Gamma Phi Beta; Carol Rettig, Iota Alpha Pi; Elizabeth Ready, Theta Pi Alpha; Donnilea Smith, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Shield Sporn, Iota Alpha Pi; Gloria Wasserman, Phi Sigma Sigma; Joan Werthermer, Phi Sigma Sigma and Jean Zahrodka, Alpha Omicron Pi.

Pittsburgh Symphony Will Give Concert at Lincoln Auditorium



WILLIAM STEINBERG will direct the Pittsburgh symphony at a concert at 8:15 p.m. today in Lincoln auditorium.

Under the baton of William Steinberg, the Pittsburgh Symphony orchestra will perform in concert at 8:15 p.m. today in Lincoln auditorium. Final event of the current Famous Artists series, the performance will feature five well known symphonic works.

Specially-priced tickets, priced at $1.50, are available to all Syracuse students, faculty and personnel at the University bookstore.

THE PROGRAM will feature "Overture to Marriage of Figaro," Mozart; "Symphony No. 6 in B Minor (Pathetique)", Tschaikowsky; "Prelude to Die Meistersinger", Wagner; "La Valse," choreographic poem by Ravel; and "Polovtsian Dances from Prince Igor" by Borodin.

The "Prince Igor" selections were the basis of many of the tunes in the current Broadway musical, "Kismet," with "Stranger in Paradise" being the most popular of these.

The history of the Pittsburgh symphony dates to the old Pittsburgh orchestra founded in 1896 and conducted by Victor Herbert, who composed many of his operettas during his six-year regime as conductor. Reorganization into the present symphony came in 1926.

In addition to the regular series of concerts, the group gives industry concerts in nearby milltowns under the sponsorship of labor unions. Last season, the orchestra made its successful debut in New York's Carnegie hall, and will go to that noted auditorium immediately after the Syracuse engagement.

William Steinberg, musical director and conductor of the Pittsburgh symphony, experience with the Palestine symphony and the NBC symphony in New York among accomplishments. During that time he has established himself as one of the foremost conductors of our time, having appeared as guest conductor with every major orchestra in the country.

STD INITIATES

Sigma Tau Delta sorority announces the following new initiates: Judy Arm, Anita Brandner, Rita Brodsky, Joan Finkelson, Carol Falkstein, Rhoda Kass, Barbara Seif, Bunhy Stoll, and Phyllis Weiner.

Far Away Places—Stay at Home Prices
EUROPE 1954
All Expense—Budget Wise Tour
Prices From $798.00 Include
Operas and Theaters
Student Tours
THE GRAND TOUR WITH SCANDINAVIA AND VIENNA
To: Miss M. W. McKay
11 W. 42nd St., New York 36, N.Y.
Please send me free catalogue
☐ THE GRAND TOUR
☐ STUDENT TOURS
☐ GENERAL TOURS
Name _____
Address _____
City _____ State _____

NOW at Schine's PARAMOUNT
STARTS TODAY
"NIGHT PEOPLE"
Gregory Peck Anita Bjork
Broderick Crawford Rita Gam
in
CINEMASCOPE
Colored by Technicolor
Extra Added In CinemaScope
"HAYDEN'S FAREWELL SYMPHONY"

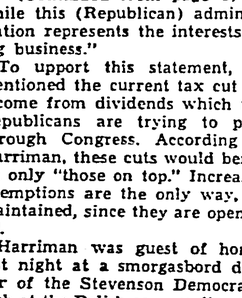
Complete Optical Service
Optometric
Eye Examinations
Glasses in Latest Styles
Broken Lenses
and Frames
Replaced Promptly
Lindemer
for glasses
Optometrists Opticians
440 SOUTH WARREN ST.
Phone 74-4244

Now MIDTOWN Open 6:30 P.M.
3 DARING FILMS OF PASSIONATE INTENSITY
Frankie GIRLS CLUB
The Facts of Love

Young Folks Grown-ups!
Enter Sylvania's Great 1954 Flash Photo Contest
"FOLKS ARE FUN!"
WIN $5,000 GRAND PRIZE
TWO CHEVROLET CORVETTES
TWO 27" SYLVANIA TV SETS WITH CHAIRSIDE CONTROLS
Over 1500 Terrific Prizes
(Half for Young Folks—Half for Adults)
HURRY! HURRY! HURRY!
Contest closes April 30, 1954
Hill Smoke Shop
Marshall Street

Schine Eckel Now
At Last On Screen
Filmed As It Happened
"ANNAPURNA"
In Technicolor
also
"THE IMMORTAL BATTALION"
David Niven Leo Genn

REGENT
TODAY AND WED.
"CRAZYLEGS"
Elroy "Crazylegs" Hirsch
Lloyd Nolan Joan Vohs
and
"THE LONG LONG TRAILER"
Lucille Ball Desi Arnez



ELLIOT LAWRENCE and his Orchestra
—playing for—
"fraternally yours,"
I. F. C. BALL -- APRIL 3rd
—and for your listening pleasure—
don't forget the I.F.C.
ALL -- UNIVERSITY OPEN HOUSE
—featuring—
TEDDY WILSON
AND HIS JAZZ COMBO
April 2nd, 8 p.m. Sims Hall

CLASSIFIED ADS

IMPORTANT NOTICE—CLASSIFIED ADS to appear in this paper should be DELIVERED at the HELLBOX Classified desk between 1 and 3 p. m. NO ADS WILL BE ACCEPTED AFTER 3. ALL ADS MUST BE IN 2 DAYS IN ADVANCE. For further information call 4-7206.

ALL LOST ARTICLES should be turned into the CENTRAL LOST AND FOUND ROOM, 20 Bldg. 24 at 205 University Pl. Articles can be claimed there.

AUTO-DRIVING

AUTO DRIVING INSTRUCTION. Learn to drive easily, correctly and safely. Call Upstate Auto Driving School. Phone 8-4040.

LEARNING TO DRIVE? Learn quickly, easily, scientifically. 17 years experience. Car furnished. SULLIVANS DRIVING School Inc. 73-3451.

RENTALS

TYPEWRITERS RENTED: $3.00 per month, $8 3 months. Good selection. We deliver, Smith Brothers. 4-8833.

Typewriters rentals—New Models Reasonable Rates—Expert Service, All Makes—CORNER STORE.

FOR RENT

GARAGE FOR RENT: 818 Ostrom Ave. Call 4-7444.

MISCELLANEOUS

MIMEOGRAPHING, SAME DAY SERVICE, EXCELLENT WORK FREEMAN LETTER CO., ECKEL THEATER BLDG. 2-4829.

SPRING CLEANING TIME—Windows cleaned and other odd jobs done. Our work guaranteed Frank Petrosky and co. Phone 4-9625.

A PERFECT LOVE AFFAIR, A guy, a gal and two SARKIN portraits. Sarkin Studio, 708 E. Raynor Ave. 4-1145.

FOR SALE

UNIVERSITY SECTION: Four bedroom house, fire place, gas heat. 76-9241.

CHURCH SERVICE

ATTENTION: The Community of Utica would like 10 foreign students for Easter vacation of parts thereof. Contact Rev. Arthur Hopkinson, ext. 441, by April 7

On the Inside
Marion Houses Five Men.
See Page 2.

Syracuse Daily Orange

Weather Report
CONTINUED COLD
High temperature 32
Low temperature 24

Vol. 51, No. 101 | Syracuse, N. Y., Wednesday, March 31, 1954 | 4 Pages — 5 Cents

IFC Weekend Will Honor Vice-chancellor Crawford

An all - University open house will open Interfraternity Council weekend Friday. The three days' festivities are dedicated to Vice-chancellor Finla G. Crawford and his 35 years at Syracuse.

Teddy Wilson, jazz pianist, and his quintet will provide the music at the affair from 8 to 12 p.m. in Sims dining hall. Tables and chairs will be set up in cabaret style and refreshments and hot dogs will be sold during the evening.

HARLAN (LANNY) O'Kun and William (Bill) Angelos will provide the intermission entertainment at the IFC sponsored open house.

The vice-chancellor will be feted at a banquet at 6:30 p.m. Saturday at the Hotel Syracuse. Members of the administration and the officers and committee chairmen are the invited guests at the dinner.

"Fraternally Yours" will be the theme of the IFC ball from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Saturday in the Men's gymnasium. Elliot Lawrence and his orchestra will provide the music for the formal.

His band has been voted as the most popular among American colleges for the past three years. Their latest record album is "College Prom Favorites."

TED WEBSTER, head swimming coach, will act as master of ceremonies at the swimming show, scheduled for the 10:30 p.m. intermission.

A quartet of costumed girls will participate in synchronized swimming and assistant boxing coach Bill Miller will do comic dives.

Two professional swimmers from Cortland will exhibit swimming and diving form and the University swimming team will also participate.

Finals for the IFC sing competition will be held at 11:30 p.m. At this time the William P. Tolley cup will be awarded to the most outstanding fraternity and the all-scholastic cup will go to the house with the highest cumulative average.

PHOTOGRAPHER LEE Jones will take pictures at the affair and free refreshments will be provided in the Trophy room. Each fraternity will have an individual booth at the dance.

Coeds attending the formal may receive special 2 a.m. permissions by filling out a pink slip and attaching the dance ticket stub.

Syracuse University Symphonic band will give a concert from 3 to 5 p.m. Sunday as the final portion of the weekend's program.

Robert Goldstein and James Messina are co-chairmen of the 1954 weekend.

Committee chairmen include Robert Curran, entertainment; Glen Kohler, special events; Robert Lefko, banquet; Aaron Miller, open house; Richard Menschel, arrangements; George Taback, arrangements; Arthur Siegel, publicity; Delmar Macauley, decorations; James Robinson, decorations.

ELLIOT LAWRENCE and his band, rated the most popular by American collegians, will play at the IFC ball from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Saturday. The dance theme is "Fraternally Yours."

Color TV Showing Stars Eddie Fisher

The first local public demonstration of color television will take place at 7:15 p.m. today in Marshall hall, College of Forestry. Sponsored by the Syracuse chapter, society of Sigma Xi, the session will include a showing of NBC-TV's "Eddie Fisher" show in color.

Arrangements have been made with General Electric co. to provide a color television receiver for the demonstration. The experimental telecast, transmitted by local station WSYR-TV, will be presented 7:30-7:45 p.m.

John M. Phillips, manager of the color TV product engineering for General Electric, will be guest speaker. He will discuss "Physical Aspects of Color Television."

This will be the initial color-TV showing open to the public since WSYR-TV installed transmission equipment. Previous local offerings include "Ding Ding School," "Circle Theater" and "Opera Theater."

KNOCKERS' BALL

Coeds attending the "Knockers' Ball" tonight may take special two o'clock permissions for the affair if they fill out a pink slip in ink completely and leave it on the proctor desk, WSG Vice-president Elizabeth Brydon has announced.

The dance is sponsored by the Knockers, medical school honorary, and will be held at Drumlins Country Club.

Zoomie! Zoomie!

Stringent Auto Rules Listed in New York

By EILEEN CHAMBERLAIN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

(Editors note: This is the first in a series of five articles about state, city and University motor vehicle regulations. Subjects covered will include driving, parking and registration.)

It's only snowing violets, and spring is around the next icy corner. With the rising of flowers comes the urge to whip along streets in yellow convertibles, but New York State traffic laws signal thumbs down on this kind of activity.

The law says that no vehicle shall operate at a speed greater than that fixed and notated on highway signs by the state traffic commission. While stringent penalties are placed on speeding, there is also a regulation which prohibits traveling at a speed so slow that it blocks normal movement of traffic.

should resist the temptation to play "chicken" and other reckless games on the highway, because the state imposes liability upon every driver responsible for death or injuries resulting from negligent driving.

To avert confusion over which drivers has the right of way, New York laws provide extensive coverage. When a driver approaches an intersection and finds a car entering from another highway, he should yield first place on the road to his competitor. An additional rule gives the right of way to an auto approaching from the right when both arrive at the intersection simultaneously.

Turning left at an intersection, command of the road goes to an approaching vehicle close enough to threaten an accident. However, the driver who wishes to turn may signal after this car passes, and make the turn while other approaching autos must wait.

The law does not cover pedestrians who wish to cross on a green light while a driver wants to make a turn. Road courtesy gives the pedestrian right of way in this case however.

STATUTE cedes precedence to all vehicles legally using sirens when in the course of duty. These include: mail, police, fire and fire patrol, vehicles and snow plows, sanding trucks, pavement marking machines, emergency repair trucks, ambulances, military vehicles and cars driven by police and fire officials.

It is also written that no "civilian auto may be equipped with sirens, gongs or whistles.

As amended in 1953, hand signals are as follows: left—hand and arm extended horizontally; right—hand and arm extended upward; stop or slow—hand and arm extended downward.

Last, but not least, is a regulation almost everyone knows and almo everyone disregards. All drivers must come to a complete stop at signs so designated before crossing a highway or street.

Students to Hear Drama of Titanic On WAER Series

Campus Radio Station Will Present Story On 'Anthology'

Dramatic circumstances surrounding the sinking of the "Titanic" will serve as the basis for the second broadcast of the WAER series, "Anthology," presented at 9 p.m. tomorrow over campus radio.

Produced by Richard Ballentine and Edward Rasch, the hour-long, monthly series debuted on WAER March 4. This program will feature dramatic episodes concerning the fortunes of the "Titanic" as well as musical and interview segments.

AN ORIGINAL radio drama, written by Producer Ballentine, will serve as the highlight of the hour. It deals with the first and last days of the ill-fated ship and the life of her designer and builder, Thomas Andrews.

The cast includes Ronald Merson, Stuart Leslie, Willard Lape, Jr., Matthew Seldman, George Wilson, William Levine, Robert Elwood and Elaine Quirt.

Carl Zimmerman, announcer at station WSYR, will be featured as the poet who oversees the drama and the fate of the "Titanic."

Included also will be the story of General David Sarnoff, current chairman of the board of the Radio Corporation of America, and his part in the "Titanic" disaster and a discussion by Prof. Virgil Cover, head of the transportation department of the College of Business Administration, on transportation.

ORIGINAL MUSIC for "Anthology" is provided by the studio orchestra lead by Emmett Orlando.

Proceeding on a monthly basis, "Anthology" highlights a specific topic on each broadcast and builds music, drama and features around a central theme. It is one of the largest such productions ever attempted by the FM outlet.

Sophs May Apply For Marion Rooms

Two men applied for room in Marion dormitory yesterday, making a total of five men assigned to the new upperclass dorm, Jack C. Buckle, director of men's counseling and residence, told The Daily Orange yesterday.

Applications were accepted yesterday from next-semester seniors and juniors. Prospective sophomores may apply today, thus ending preferential assignment to the new building.

Marion dormitory prices are $322 per academic year, including a $2 residence fund. All students living in Marion must eat in the Watson dining hall, unless working for board. Board will be $440 per year.

All rooms in the dormitory are doubles. The structure is built of reinforced concrete and will be completely fireproof.

Curtain to Rise Tomorrow on 'Gigi,' Second Boar's Head Show of Year

Fashion Show

DAVID SIMON, BARBARA GOLDBERG and MRS. ARLENE ROTHMAN look over pictures of fashions to be displayed at the Jewish Student fellowship show scheduled Sunday, April 4 from 2-5 p.m in the dance studio oft he Women's building. Admission is 35 cents
Daily Orange Photo by Owen Kendall

By MARIA HEITZ
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Tomorrow evening will see the opening of Boar's Head's second production this year. Curtain time for the play "Gigi" has been set for 8:15 p.m. Performances will be given in the Coronet theater in the Drama building.

The comedy in two acts will be given on April 1, 2, 3, 5, 6, and 7th. Other performances will be given later on in the month.

TICKETS WHICH may be obtained at the box office in the Drama building, are $1.20 per person. Phone reservations will also be taken at the box office number, 4-2776.

The play is being directed by Prof. Sawyer Falk, head of the drama department. Costumes for the production were taken from original Broadway productions, as designed by Karinsky of New York and Paul Porter of Paris.

Shirley Fenner and Betty Schwartz will be alternating in the part of Gigi. Miss Fenner is a senior in drama and a Boar's Head member. Miss Schwartz, also a drama major, is a freshman and has been active in the Children's theater.

Gerald Reidenbaugh, as Gaston LaChaille, is a drama instructor and has appeared in numerous Boar's Head productions. He directed a recent presentation of his own show, "My Heart Don't Say So."

OTHER MEMBERS of the cast include: Nancy Edwards, Francesca Trantum, Kenneth Bowles, Millicent McIntyre and Marlene Muller.

John J. Moore is designing the sets for the play and will utilize a rolling stage for the production.

"Gigi" is stage-managed by Sheldon Weiner, a junior in drama. His assistants are, Hugh Fordin and Barbara Baird.

The play, taken from a novel by Colette, was adapted for the stage by Anita Loos.

MSG Assembly Fails To Achieve Quorum

By ED HARDY
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Two important bills were among the legislation that stayed on the table as men's student government assembly failed to gain a quorum last night and could hold no official meeting.

Only 10 assemblymen out of a total of 25 showed up for the scheduled session.

INFORMAL DISCUSSION of the joint student court bill and a letter on MSG to be sent to incoming freshmen in the fall was all the group could accomplish with its shrunken number.

An amendment to the anti-noise act, which would affect campaigning now in progress for next Wednesday's campus elections, stayed in panel. Government officials had expressed hope before the meeting that both the amendment and the joint student court could be approved and put into operation immediately.

Raymond Guenter, chief justice of men's student court and a framer of the new joint court bill, clarified several points in the proposed legislation that lawmakers had questioned last week. He recommended rewording a clause that caused controversy to read, "The joint student court may be given appellate jurisdiction by the action of both the MSG assembly and WSG assembly acting jointly."

Guenter explained that this is concerned only with the various MSG-WSG administrative boards, such as the protest board, whose decisions can be appealed to the joint court.

It was also suggested that a "bill of rights" be set up as a separate article in the court establishment act. This would outline such things as the rights of the defendant in dealing with the court.

Grants Available For City Students

Debborah Byrnes, chairman of the scholarship committee for City Women's said today that applications for a $100 scholarship will be in Dean Haddock's office tomorrow. The voucher award will be presented to an upper freshman, sophomore, junior or lower senior. Any city girl wishing to apply for the scholarship should pick up her application and return it by May 3.

Judges will be Dean Ruth Haddock, Dean Marjorie Smith and representatives from City Women's club. This is the first year that the club has been able to make this award.

Four Houses Added To Contest Winners In Singing Prelims

Four more houses passed the preliminaries in last night's step singing contest. Winners in the large house division were Haven hall and Sigma Kappa. In the small house division, Mace and Berwald cottages were successful.

In the first flight of the small houses, Mace, singing Rodgers' and Hammerstein's "People Will Say We're in Love" defeated "It's a Grand Night for Singing," also by Rogers and Hammerstein, sung by Ostrom cottage.

BERWALD CHOOSING "Beside Still Water" by Hamblen won over University I's "Thankful" by Bratton and Levey, and Genesee's "Three Traditional Rounds" arranged by Fitzgerald-Jones in the second flight of the small houses.

"How Lovely Are Thy Dwellings" from the 84th Psalm by Liddle was Sigma Kappa's winning selection. This defeated Theta Phi Alpha's "Victor Herbert Favorites" arranged by MacLean and Alpha Phi's "Tribute to Romberg," also arranged by MacLean.

Haven hall singing "Suabian Folk Tune" arranged by Bell won by default.

Judges for last night's contest were Mr. J. Curtis Shake, School of Music faculty, Miss Barbara Micale, Sigma Alpha Iota alumna and Mr. Mariano Hunt, a music teacher in Syracuse.

The final preliminaries will be held tomorrow at 7 p.m. in the Chapel. Anne Forrest, chairman, announced the following houses would sing. In the small house division are Thorden, Parker and Marshall. In the large house group are Chi Omega, Delta Gamma, Alpha Gamma Delta, Pi Beta Phi, Zeta Tau Alpha, Gamma Phi Beta and Delta Zeta.

Deadline Selected For Chairmanships

Campus Chest Blanks Due Tomorrow

Tomorrow is the deadline for applications for overall co-chairmanship of the 1955 Campus Chest drive, according to this year's co-chairmen, JoAnne Swalm and Stuart Parker. Only members of this year's committee are eligible for the overall co-chairmanship.

Applications for committee chairmanships are also being accepted by Miss Swalm, Mott cottage and Parker, Phi Gamma Delta, and can be submitted until Easter vacation. All applications should include name, address, telephone number, two or three committee preferences, year, activities and ideas.

Committee openings include treasurer, executive secretary and secretariat, publicity, promotions, carnival, and Speakers' Bureau. Solicitations committees include independent men and women, fraternity, sorority, city division, faculty gifts, special gifts and Feather day.

This year's Campus Chest drive collected approximately $4,800, falling short of the $7,500 goal. The campaign, only fund-soliciting drive on campus, is annually held at the beginning of the second semester.

Dewey Approves Bill For Educational TV

Under a bill passed by the state legislature and signed last week by Governor Dewey, the State Board of Regents has the power to charter non-profit corporations for educational television broadcasts.

An amendment to the measure, calling for the state to appropriate $500,000 for a state-owned educational station to be operated on an experimental basis, was proposed in the legislature but tabled until that body's next session.

THE EDUCATIONAL television law stemmed from an agreement between Dewey and the Board of Regents, who last year sought to set up a system of state-owned stations. Ten educational channels have been assigned the state by the Federal Communications Commissions. One of these is in Syracuse.

The law, sponsored by the Dewey administration through Assemblyman Ray S. Ashberry of Trumansburg, is the majority substitute of a measure calling for a 10-station educational network which was defeated in committee last year.

It was indicated by Albany sources last week that there was support in both Syracuse and at Cornell university for an educational station. According to University vice-president and dean of public relations, Kenneth Bartlett, Syracuse will not operate an educational TV station on its own.

The possibility does exist, though, that the University would cooperate in a community venture.

The new measure will permit the Regents to charter agencies as corporations authorized to build and operate stations for ultra-high frequency broadcasts.

Industrial Editor Speaks at J-School

Mrs. Eileen W. Van Dusen, editor of "Family Circle," house magazine of Crouse-Hinds co., spoke on "Editing the Publication," at the Syracuse university series on industrial journalism last night in the Journalism center.

Mrs. Van Dusen was introduced by Prof. Roland E. Wolseley, the chairman of the magazine department. Prof. Wolseley is arranging and supervising the series of lectures.

Last week Elmer M. Applegit, coordinator of publications for the Socony-Vacuum co., New York, began the series with an illustrated talk on "An Introduction to the Field of Industrial Journalism."

The University lecture series is to bring four editors to Syracuse. The series is sponsored jointly by the School of Journalism and the American Association of Industrial Editors.

Military Formal Plans Revealed

Clifford Way, chairman of the military ball scheduled for April 10, has announced the following committee chairmen: refreshments, John Doty and Jo Ann Wallace; and invitations and programs, Alan Vosburgh;

Also, decorations, Lorraine Chanatry and Ronald Wohl; entertainment, William Angelos and Ronald Yaffee; and publicity, Arthur Siegel and Richard Wolff.

During the dance intermission, a 40 man chorus from the US Air Force Language training program at Syracuse will sing several selections.

The queen and her court will also be introduced at that time.

Semi-finalists for the contest will attend a coffee from 8 p.m. to 9:15 on April 1 in the city women's lounge of the Women's building. Seven finalists will be chosen.

All members of the Cadet Association will vote for the queen from April 5 to 7. The remaining six coeds will serve on the queen's court.

CARLSON ADDRESS

Dr. William S. Carlson, president of the State University of New York, will address the students and faculty of the College of Forestry at 11 a.m. today in Marshall auditorium.

Slocum Booth to Distribute 'Quiz' Tickets

Admission tickets to tomorrow's "College Quiz Bowl" broadcast in the Women's building dance studio will be available beginning at noon today until the supply is exhausted at a booth in the basement of Slocum hall.

Released on a "first come, first serve" basis, a limit of two tickets per person will be allowed. The liberal arts advisory council is handling distribution under the supervision of Milton R. Shefter.

THE SYRACUSE portion of NBC's "College Quiz Bowl" will be presented at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow from the dance studio. The air-borne contest, which will pit the champion Syracuse panel against four students representing the University of Colorado, will be tape recorded and broadcast nationwide over NBC and local station WSYR at 6 p.m., Sunday.

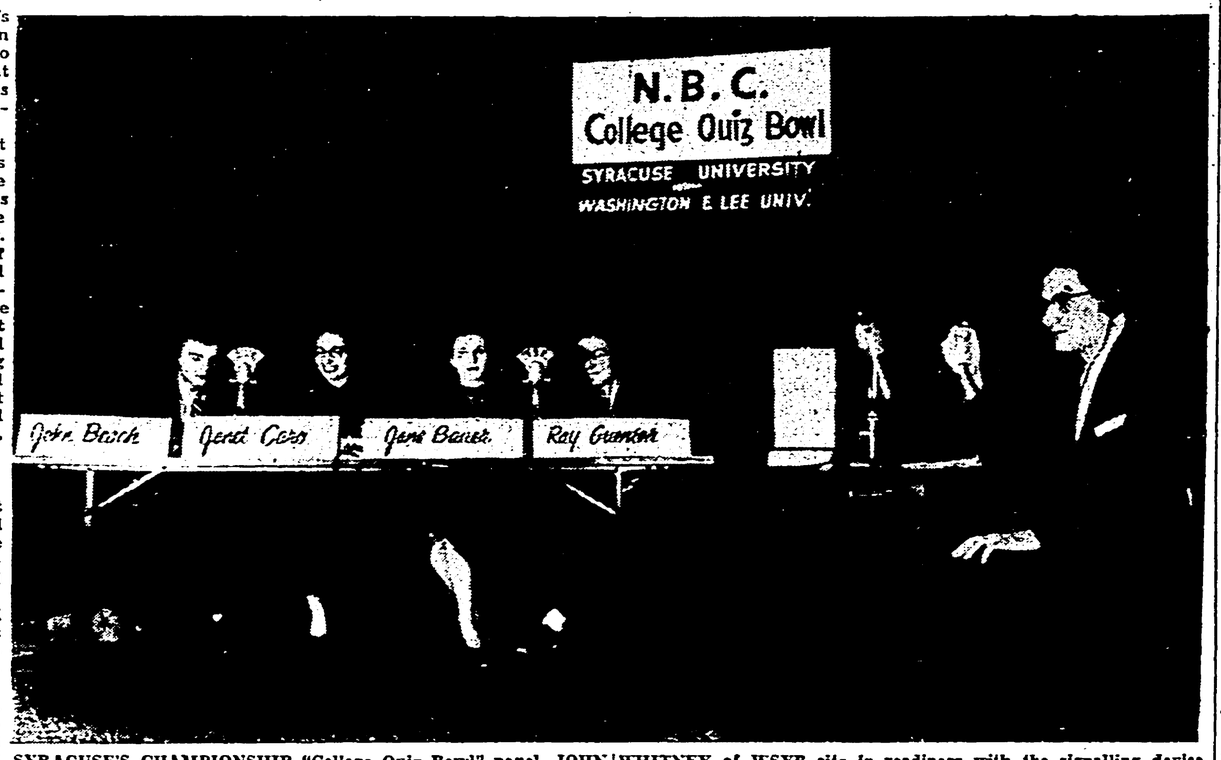
The doors of dance studio will be opened at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow and closed at 8:10 p.m.

If the auditorium is not filled at 8 p.m., persons will be admitted with or without tickets until the 350 capacity is reached. Any overflow crowd will be accommodated by loud speakers in the hall.

Approximately 100 tickets will be reserved for the living centers of the four "College Bowl" panelists whose members have indicated a desire to attend.

ACCORDING TO Edward C. Jones, supervisor of the local participation which is being handled by the radio-television center and station SYR, an attempt is being made to adjust the dance stu-

(See QUIZ BOWL, page 4)



SYRACUSE'S CHAMPIONSHIP "College Quiz Bowl" panel, JOHN BEACH, JANET CARO, JANE BAUER and RAYMOND GUENTER, concentrate on a question during last week's NBC broadcast when they defeated the Washington and Lee scholars. Local moderator BOB WHITNEY of WSYR sits in readiness with the signalling device. The Syracusans will meet a panel from the University of Colorado on this Thursday's "quiz kid" session.
Daily Orange Photo by Jerry Colet

SYRACUSE DAILY ORANGE

THREE R'S OF A COLLEGE NEWSPAPER: RESPONSIVENESS, RESPONSIBILITY AND RESOURCEFULNESS

Page 2 Wednesday, March 31, 1954

Editor-in-chief ..... Arlene Lambert
Business Manager ..... Robert Goldstein

SENIOR EDITORIAL STAFF

Managing Editor ..... Arthur Siegel
Editorial Director ..... Hugh O. Muir
Executive Editor ..... Janet Core
Sports Editor ..... Kenneth Leat

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Edward Meyer, Joan Nadelhaft, Phyllis Sirota, Howard Vonkirk, Mary Vivian

BUSINESS STAFF

Asst. Business Manager ..... Sheldon Lessen
Layout Manager ..... Judith Berman
Classified Manager ..... Jean Jacobs
Circulation Manager ..... Anita Freyberg
Promotion Manager ..... Lloyd Eisenberg

DAILY STAFF

News Editor ..... Jack Reilly
Night Editor ..... Eileen Chamberlain
Asst. Night Editor ..... Al Barkevicius
Editorial Page Asst. ..... Joy Yunker
Night Sports Editor ..... Lee Kikler

Published by the students of Syracuse University. Telephones: News, 75-5156, 75-5197; Editor, 75-1443; Business: 4-7206. Subscription by mail $5 per year, $3.50 per semester. Entered as second class mail matter at the Syracuse Post Office. Exclusive national advertising representatives National Advertising Inc., New York City.

Public colorcast

Syracuse university has a rare treat in store tonight. The first local public color telecast hits the electron tubes at 7:15 p.m. today in Marshall auditorium.

We are pleased that this new medium has become a reality. We have read stories about it, hear far-off tales of the new "color," and tonight it's really here.

The public has been invited to watch the "Eddie Fisher" show tonight.

We are eager. We hope the vivid colors of the show will be the forerunner of more and better television entertainment for our homes.

And we wonder, as they say, what will they think of next?

Laws of the wheel

A series of five articles beginning today will explain many driving regulations that are often unknown to automobile operators. They will contain explanations of the laws of New York State, the City of Syracuse and the University.

There exists an old legal adage that ignorance of the law is no excuse.

We have no quarrel with this.

But we realize that many times the laws have never been frequently published in the mass media and consequently are not known to drivers.

These statutes are often accessible only in the back shelves of a few libraries.

Although space prohibits us from publishing any complete list of all motor vehicle laws, we can generalize to the point of advising that proper observance of traffic and other laws requires only some common sense and some courtesy. Lawmakers form logical laws more often than illogical ones.

Some of this common sense includes observation, patience and ordinary politeness.

Driving is not a game. If the other guy makes a blunder, e should give him the benefit of the doubt. Too many of us say to ourselves, "I'll go ahead anyway. I've got the right of way."

Possibly you have the right-of-way legally, but the court case may be fought by your heirs and executors.

We are not printing these laws so that you can win a court case.

We are printing them for prior knowledge; and although the right-of-way exists in court, you do not have the right when you are on the road—that is, except to give to the other guy.

Managing Editor

For next fall

Must reading for junior males is the placement story which appears on today's editorial page—for here can be found sound advice for next year's job seekers.

The University offers many services to its students, some of which may go relatively unnoticed. The one about which we are now concerned is the University placement service for liberal arts and business administration males.

Before last year, the Slocum placement office was serving business students. Then, a revision in the placement administration took place and the all-University service was centralized in Slocum. This then meant that liberal arts non-technical students could apply for positions there also.

So, juniors, make a mental of note of where you should head next fall when the thought of future employment becomes a more striking problem.

After registering with the office, you are then expected to keep tabs on the notices posted in Slocum and HL. The more than 100 companies which come to the Hill and the type of students they are seeking is listed.

This is one service of the University that certainly should not be overlooked by anyone needing a helping hand for future employment.

Editor-in-Chief

THE UNIVERSAL CHARIVARI

JOTTINGS

Hugh O. Muir
Arthur Siegel
Richard Core
Roger J. Herz
Jean Nadelhaft

NEHRU OF India has presented his solution to the current problem of the hydrogen bomb. He says junk it.

Somehow the junking of experiments never appealed to us for the simple reason that no kind of an answer is provided by rejection. Man has threaded his way through history goaded on more by opposition than plaudits.

Specifically, this H-bomb business is overwhelming not because it is so great but because Man is so small. If we are ever to widen the horizons of humanity it is only through challenging that which cannot be understood.

The unfortunate reaction to atomic research has been a fear of its destructive qualities. May we point out that religion has been responsible for as many deaths as war. But it is Faith that has been responsible for Man's greatest progress, also.

◆

WE HAVE a phono fiend in our office. Has piles of amplifiers, phonographs, loudspeakers and microphones all over the place. One day he nearly drove us mad giving orders over the microphone.

We sat yesterday as he was fooling with the electronic apparatus and looked at the loudspeaker. It was out of focus. Everything else was sharp but the loudspeaker was fuzzy. The sound was doing it.

So, as in our usual editorial manner we sat there entranced by the thing, we wondered if perhaps sight isn't the only thing that gets cloudy by outside factors, but perhaps thinking, too?

◆

IT SEEMS sort of fruitless—that big snow storm. It snows one day and melts the next. Not much time to enjoy—or to gripe about—the white stuff.

However, such a short-lived snowfall at this season may have it purpose. At least we like to think that these happenings do have some value.

Stop to think of all the persons that are employed as a result. The men who shovel snow, the men who charge batteries, the men who sell earmuffs, the men who teach skiing; and sadly to say, the men who make the fenders look good again.

The men who grind sand and process rock salt also gain employment.

And the next day, after all this employment, the snow melts and we are none the worse—well, not much worse—off.

This may pull the economy out of the doldrums. There will be no depression!

This is a happy event—every three or four months.

Mr. Weatherman, let's have another dose: say, July 1. It may ruin a summer day, but oh! the employment!

◆

THE WORLD seems to be taking on a very metaphysical outlook these days. What rationality and religion can't do, some think a sixth sense can.

Illustrate the professor at Duke who believes that through no mere coincidence we can transmit our thoughts—without the aid of the telephone, yet.

And the medium who says he makes all his money on the races because he knows who's going to win. (Horses that think,)

Now that we've got practicing mentals who can tell all about the present, and we have the clairvoyant, who can tell about the future, we need someone with hindsight . . .

. . . so these guys can see where they'll be wrong.

◆

LAST WEEK'S sell-out crowd at the three-day run of "Guys and Dolls" proved what many people around here have always said—namely that Syracuse would support a professional theater if it presents big-time entertainment.

Admittedly, a theater season can't be all "Oklahoma's" and "South Pacific's," but if the prospective theater-goers were accustomed to attending the theater regularly, then plays of lesser fame would draw, too.

The success of the two summer theaters around here and the number of downtown residents who patronize Boar's Head plays is proof of this.

After all, New Haven residents weren't always theater conscious. They had to be educated too.

◆

SNOW DRIFTS were rather deep when we set off for an early morning class yesterday and the walks hadn't yet been shovelled. Came to a path that had been beaten by either one or two pairs of footprints, and we made a fatal mistake which we regretted halfway across campus. Seems we started out with the right foot in the left footprint and thus the left went right and so on ad nauseum.

BACK TO THE SALT MINES

16 Out of 2500

By ROGER J. HERZ
Editorial Page Writer

Perhaps there won't be a problem with regard to filling Marion dormitory. Two more men signed up for the building yesterday, making a total of five men—four prospective seniors and one junior.

And there are five and a half months until next semester.

There are several possible reasons for the extremely small number applying to date for one building of a $2.75 million project. For example:

1. The $322 price set per year. This compares with a $208 low for campus living centers and a $160 low for a prefab triple.

2. A natural slow start in applications, since next semester is a long way off.

3. The unseasonable weather.

Since the new dormitory will offer facilities unmatched by others and will be considerably more modern than many, and since we doubt that snow would so sharply affect the Syracuse male, we must conclude that the dissuading factor is:

4. The compulsory eating contract for Marion residents.

We cannot as of now foretell the sophomores (present frosh) reaction. These men will have to eat in a University dining hall or fraternity anyway and may not be thus influenced.

Among those who still hold a freedom of choice, the eating question has evidently been the deciding issue. This can be split into two sub-issues; the question of compulsory eating, which we are opposed to, and have already dealt with, and the quality of food in University dining halls.

There's nothing as solid as facts. Freshmen this year had to eat in a University dining hall. It was optional with upperclassmen. The Bursar's office indicates that last semester 44 upperclassmen did so; this semester the figure is 16.

Not wishing to draw hasty conclusions, it would appear to us that if only 16 out of 2,500 or 3,000 upperclass men take board contracts, something is missing.

Specifically: quantity, quality, attractiveness. The new dining halls are certainly functional and a pleasing place in which to eat—the food itself is not what it might be.

We don't believe the food is as bad as it might be and we don't believe it's as bad as some say. To the best of our knowledge, though, it could be improved greatly through better choice, quality, quantity.

We recall the Chancellor remarking a year ago that the dining halls do make a profit. And we recall a point from the Vice-chancellor's public administration class: that an institution should provide services consistant with its purpose.

Is the purpose of a University the feeding of its students?

It is our firm conviction that a voluntary upperclass eating plan would work to the advantage of all if the University dining halls were to try to provide a better product.

Thus it would appear to us that "the fine print" on eating has kept Marion applications down to five.

LETTERARY COMMENT

War or Peace?

Forget?

March 28, 1954

Mr. Samuels:

Perhaps some day when you are a little older, when you have gone through many of the things we have been through, you will find it a little harder to criticize and dismiss such a movie as "Prisoner of War" as being bad because: it is propaganda, it makes people hate the communists, and the world's problems can be settled over a conference table—with the reds demanding and the U.S. agreeing.

Since when has it become bad and undemocratic to tell the truth, to let the people know what they are fighting against? It is brutal, true, but perhaps many would not be so naive about the communist menace were they allowed to carry a gun themselves. Instead, here they sit in a movie seat—demanding movies that take their minds off the realities of the world.

Forget the problems, the bloodshed that was spilled by Americans in Korea? Nay, we cannot forget. Not all of us saw the brutalities of war while sitting safely in a movie seat. Nights spent in the rain and snow, the mud and slime; nights when you did not know whether you would ever see another dawn, wondering what your girl was doing back home; nights when the commies attached—when after the attack you turned to the kid who had been beside you—who now lay in the mud, his eyes staring up and blood running from his mouth. Those are the things you remember.

And you remember that Soviet imperialism knows no boundaries, that communists care little for human life. And you think of those things, and wonder why Americans hate to be reminded of it in their movies. Instead, they wish to escape the realities of life. Perhaps if they saw and knew they would not seem and be so complacent about communism.

It was over a conference table in Munich that Hitler began his conquests; it was over another such table that the fate of the nations now behind the Iron Curtain was decided; and it was over a conference table that Nationalist China was sold down the river. And now there are those who, afraid to face the realities of the world, wish to apease the reds over the conference table.

The dead kids in Korea—Americans and otherwise—those killed in battle or butchered behind the lines, are not here to give their answers. Would they say: "turn the other cheek, and let them butcher us again?"

Give the people more such movthis which we are fighting, and ies. Give them the truth about they shall be less reluctant to back down and appease them anymore. Yes, give in at the conference table, and we can hear it now—what some of those friends we left behind—will be saying: "You sold our souls and lives for a song; and now you spit upon our graves."

Four Korean Veterans

Motive

March 29, 1954

To the Critics of the Critic:

One of the most trying tasks our age can be called upon to perform is to use the same degree of critical thinking on a political matter as he would on a non-political one. There is perhaps no one person who could judge objectively a given controversial situation without letting public opinion interfere with and color his analysis of it. It is very easy for a person to "feign indifference" to these matters, but actually he is feigning nothing—either 1) he is totally ignorant of the matter (which is unlikely), 2) he in actuality is permitting the public opinion to speak for him (out of laziness, perhaps or conscious unthinking acquiesence), or 3) he just "doesn't give a damn."

Critic Samuels' analysis of "Prisoner of War" feigns nothing—he does not concede his views to public opinion—he expresses in his review the most difficult type of objectivity—dissention. This dissention is not the type which calls right wrong or light dark for the sake of dissention alone: it is the conscientious dissention of an idealist.

In defense of Mr. Samuels, I would like to quote Lewis Mumford's letter to the editor of the New York Times, printed in Sunday's edition. Discussing "alternative courses" of policy of working firmly toward justice and cooperation, and free intercourse with all other peoples, in the faith that love begets love, as surely as hatred begets hatred—would in all probability, be the one instrument capable of piercing the strong political armor of our present enemies." A film such as the one in question seems to follow the rule of "hate begetting hate." We must therefore judge this work not on its factuality, which indeed is open to dispute, but on its artistic value and questionable motives, as Mr. Samuels does so well.

Hopefully yours,
Robert N. Seidel

Maturity

To the Editor:

I realize that a great deal has been written about the College Quiz Bowl, but here's a final word:

My congratulations to the Syracuse audience for applauding at the taping, rather than yelling, screaming and sounding like the bobby sox crowd as did some of the other colleges in the series.

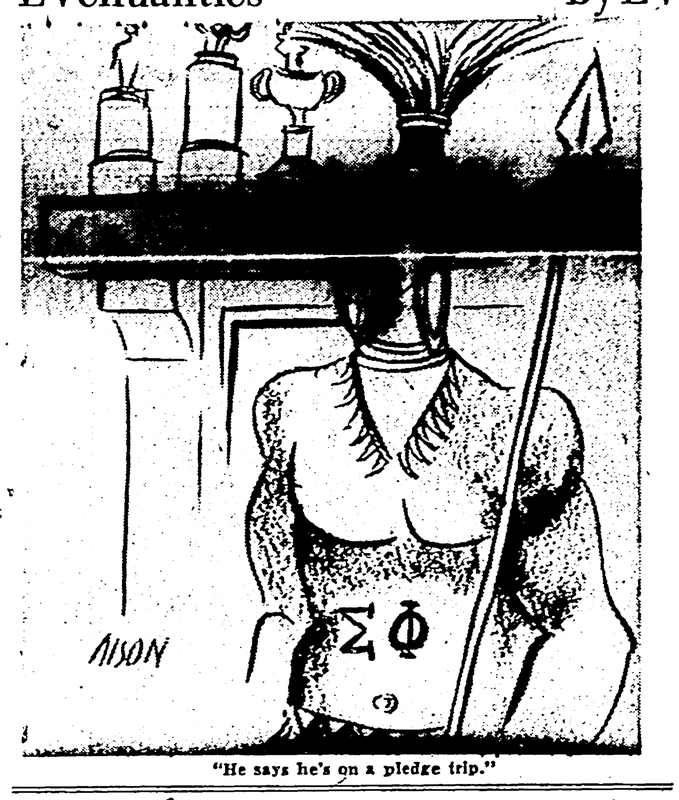
Perhaps we've reached a certain maturity which certainly warmed this heart.

Sincerely yours,
Jack Hart

L. G. Balfour Co.
Fraternity Jewelers
JEWELRY GIFTS, FAVORS
BADGES STEINS RINGS
STATIONERY PROGRAMS
CLUB PINS KEYS
MEDALS TROPHIES
Carl Sorensen '38
Jack Orr
Ginny Orr
University Post Office Bldg.
171 Marshall St.
Telephone 78-7537
Daily 10-5 Saturday 9-12

Hear - ye! Hear - ye!
Everybody Gets A
20% DISCOUNT
FOR THE I.F.C. BALL
A FREE BOUTONNIERE WITH EACH CORSAGE
WHITE ORCHID $5.00 COST YOU $4.00
LAVENDAR ORCHID $3.00 COSTS YOU $2.40
SPRING CORSAGES
GARDENIAS
RAINBOW ORCHIDS
ROSES
CARNATIONS
$3.00 AND UP—LESS DISCOUNT
DEAL FLORIST
734 S. CROUSE 4-6321 ON THE HILL

EVenualities by EV



"He says he's on a pledge trip."

The Placement Service

By GRACE FRARY

With the advent of spring, seniors' minds turn to that long-awaited graduation day—and thoughts of a job after commencement. Some seek jobs on their own, but others use the placement services of the University. Business Administration students and all Liberal Arts non-technical males use the facilities of the placement service located in room 105, Slocum. "Non-technical" refers to all those not majoring in chemistry, physics or geology.

Begun in 1946 by Prof. Campbell, this office has found positions in the business world for many students. The average salary for men placed by this office last year was $325 to $400. Those obtaining jobs as accountants received the highest salaries, with salesmen second. Most of the women found jobs in the secretarial field, while others found jobs in retailing and office administration.

Two hundred companies visited the campus last year to interview students through this office, while some 300 or 400 more sent news of openings in their firms. A total of 2,398 interviews took place.

As of June of 1953, 60 boys from Business Administration and liberal arts had notified the office that they had received jobs directly through the placement interviews connected with that office, while 10 business administration women had reported securing jobs in retailing.

One of the problems faced by the office is that of getting the liberal arts males to make full use of the office. Most men do not realize that this service, although housed in Slocum, is available for not only business administration but also liberal arts students.

Students seeking positions through the placement office should register in the fall of the year in which they expect to graduate. News of jobs with various companies is posted on bulletin boards in Slocum and HL. The companies send a list of times when they wish to hold personal interviews and the students sign up for these times. Many firms also schedule group meetings, in which they outline the history of the firm, company policies, and location of plants, offices, and stores.

This year, 87 companies have visited the campus since February 15, with 18 more companies expected before May 18. The number of jobs secured through these interviews will not be known until the end of April, since many applicants pay visits to the firms during Easter vacation.

An Intellectual & a Gentleman

Three men stood stiffly at attention in front of the student union at the University of Minnesota on a windswept night last week. Three hands came to a sharp salute.

One of them slowly whistled taps, then they turned and walked away without a word.

They left behind them a small mound of freshly-turned earth. A small evergreen branch and a wooden sign reading "Gabe, ATO," were the only markers on the mound.

The ceremony had been a funeral, the mound, a grave.

The deceased was a pet parakeet named Gabe. Gabe passed away without a peep shortly after dinner the night before.

It had been separated from its mate for a few days, and apparently died of a broken heart.

A funeral was held before the Monday evening fraternity meeting. Then, under cover of darkness, a little procession made it way to the spot. They dug a grave with a trowel and placed in it Gabe in his satin lined coffin (formerly an electric shaver case).

Why the conspicuous burial place?

"Because Gabe was an intellectual and a gentleman," a spokesman of the fraternity said.

It's Fun To Send
APRIL FOOL CARDS
SPECIAL APRIL 1st
BIRTHDAY CARDS
BOOKSTALL

SIGHTS ON SYRACUSE

BOWL WIN; DATE WALK; 'WEAK' SEX

By MILT SHEFTER

A shout last Thursday night signified that Syracuse had been successful in one of two bowls they participated in. The other one—the mud bowl—didn't fare them as well. The well-placed plug about the new three million dollar Women's building was almost in vain as the students threatened to raise the roof. To hear the contestants talk before the match, one wouldn't have thought we had a chance. Main topic was wristwatches, (losers' prize) The only unhappy face after the winning was Prof. Ed Jones, the producer. He had to start worrying about seating again.

• • •

The hall of University College echoed with "Stop, Look, and Love Your Lady" as "Up in Lights" rehearsals continued to progress. We stopped, looked, and got slapped for trying to . . . Seriously, the music of O'Kun, with the lyrics of Angelos, molded by Director Leider seems once again to be a good formula. Comic Bob Dishy was still in a cast, literally and actually. All in all, the 75 youngsters are working hard to keep their show Up in Lights.

• • •

A game of live tag took place last Saturday and the contestants were hill coeds. Seems some gals and some guys journeyed out to Howard Johnson's but only the gals came back, and with the boys' car. The boys, a little under the weather, were left to their own means. They hitched a ride back only to see the gals returninug to pick them up. Finally the gals came back to the Hill and all were reunited. But that's not the end of it. They all drove up to the water tower and this time the gals had to thmb it. At last report, the chase was stalemated.

• • •

The upcoming IFC weekend should be a music-lover's delight, with such names as Teddy Wilson and Elliot Lawrence in the limelight. However, the one thought which plagues us, is how the Sims Lounge will take the jive-jumping. It supposedly can hold a thousand, but the hot licks of jazz may cause air expansion. Notwithstanding the fact that we're not physicists, we can say, sardine-style or not, it'll be a Ball, even if a hot one.

• • •

The common expression is "Go fight City Hall" and the rest aren't printable. The snow has us thinking that maybe the Lion of March is either confused or trying to play and April Fool's joke. As for the Lamb, maybe it developed Argyle allergy, bt someone goofed. One strange sight was one of many cars stuck on Marshall st. Occupants were of both sexes, but the male steered while the gals pushed—and got the car free! Who says the weaker sex?

• • •

And now if you'll excuse us, we must return to our scrabble game and cross-word puzzles. We're trying for the College Quiz Bowl next year.

LUND'S SCORES SPRING SWEEP

Formals make great appearance at dances. Ever since LUND'S on campus began renting tuxedos, more and more men have found the wonder of wearing a single-breasted tux with a plaid cummerbund. Today men save time and money by renting a perfect dress suit at this popular men's shop. Big weekends like IFC BALL find business thriving. An excellent feature of the department is the fact that a student may buy a new tux exactly like the one he rented saving the initial rental fee. Don't be left out. It's too inexpensive to rent or buy a formal outfit which lasts years after a student graduates. So stop in and try on a handsome formal at LUND'S UNIVERSITY MEN'S SHOP, 738 SOUTH CROUSE AVE. Right on the Campue.

Advertisement

FOR FORMAL RENTAL SERVICE
IT'S LUND'S
On Campus
738 So. Crouse Ave.

Gymnast Barkal Leaves Gap In Ranks With Graduation

By AL GEFEN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Coach Paul Romeo will have a tough time trying to rebuild his gymnastic team, what with the loss of Co-captains John Barkal and Ferdie Fournies who have used up their three years of collegiate eligibility.

Replacing these two stellar performers will be no easy task for the Piety mentor. In addition, the remainder of the squad that participated in the meets this year are juniors and will leave after one more season. So, all in all, Coach Paul Romeo may encounter many worries in the not-too-distant future.

FOURNIES, WHO performed on the side horse, flying rings, and in the rope climb, and Barkal, who works the side horse, parallel bars, and horizontal bar in dual meets and all the events when all-around competition is conducted, will be sorely missed.

Barkal, who can perform in each of the events, may be the biggest loss to Romeo. And with Milan Trnka due to graduate next year, Syracuse may be forced to drop the sport unless more aid is given to the team.

In regard to Barkal, Syracuse has had, during the past three seasons, one of the greatest all-around gymnasts ever to perform on the Hill. He certainly can be ranked with the likes of other Orange greats, Joel Baba, Gene Rabbitt, and Leo Minotti.

It was about nine years ago that John first became interested in the sport. He used to watch other fellows perform on the various apparatus, and immediately took a liking to gymnastics. In 1945 when he was only 12 years old, he joined the Sokol gym club.

AT THE AGE of 14, after learning the fundamentals, he proceeded to practice intensively in the tumbling event. Ironically, the event he first specialized in, did not come into the foreground in his later career.

He also, in his initial three years, became quite efficient on the long horse vault. But he still had much to learn before gaining extensive recognition in the gymnastic sport.

In 1948, John entered the American Turner's Bronx championships and fared quite well in the competition. He also joined a private beach club, which offered outdoor facilities for summer gym work on the beach. He learned considerably from Ed Scrobe, one of the leading American Olympic gymnastic stars.

JOHN BARKAL shown here descending after a high bar performance is just another source of headache for Coach Romeo. Barkal's graduation leaves many events lacking a top man for next year.

When he entered Seward Park high school in Manhattan, he was unsuccessful in his bid to have a gymnastic squad formed at the school. He was, therefore, forced to work out at the private clubs in order to obtain the needed practice.

WITH THE LACK of a gymnastics squad in high school, John went out for swimming and gained considerable experience in the diving event.

He entered the metropolitan gymnastic championship in the successful in the competition, senior bracket in 1950. John was gaining numerous honors and carrying off several medals.

That year he was approached by Pual Romeo, who induced him to enter Syracuse. Although he did not compete in varsity competition because of the rule prohibiting freshmen from participating in varsity competition, he entered some AAU meets and saw action against many of the leading collegiate and amateur gymnasts in the United States.

John, along with Joel Baba, Leo Minnotti, Gene Rabbitt, and Milan Trnka, entered the Great Lakes Invitation championships under the auspices of the AAU. Barkal and Trnka walked off with the freshman trophy and brought back many individual medals to boot.

IN HIS initial year of varsity competition, John scored an aggregate total of 48 points against Eastern gymnastic league teams, just failing to crack Joel Baba's school record of 54. Barkal fell off the horizontal bar in the last meet of the season against Temple, breaking his arm. This injury kept him out of the Eastern individual championships and the NCAA's.

His marvelous work that year won him the Phi Epsilon Kappa award, given to the top gymnast of the season.

In 1953, he came in second to Jean Cronstedt of Penn State in the Eastern all-around championships. In addition, he came in third in the side horse and eighth in the all-around in the NCAA meet, held in Archbold gym.

This year, John came in fourth in the Eastern all-around competition. Weakened wrists kept him from seeing action in the Olympic all-around action, which was won by Cronstedt.

NEXT YEAR, Syracuse fans and Eastern competition will see another Barkal performing for the Piety forces. Paul, John's younger brother who will be entering will perform in the parallel bars, his sophomore year on the Hill, horizontal bar, and side horse, as his brother did before him.

John will graduate in January, 1955. He will go into the Air Force, after completing his Air ROTC program here. He would like to be a pilot and may make a career out of the Air Corps.

The Syracuse gymnastics team will lose a capable performer in John Barkal. The likes of such a top-rate competitor may not enter Syracuse for many years to come.

GOLF CANDIDATES

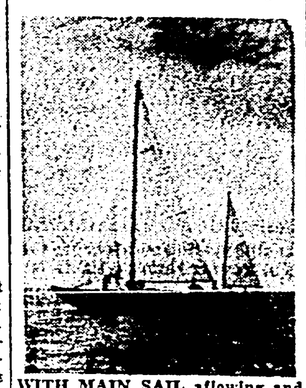
All candidates for the varsity and freshman golf squads will meet tonight at 8:15 p.m. at the Phi Gamma Delta house. Any student interested in the golf squads is urged to attend this important opening meeting.

Syracuse Sailors Prepare For McMillian Cup Races

By BOB TATA

The Syracuse university sailors have high hopes for the outcome of the forthcoming McMillian Cup series this weekend. The Piety Hill crew is well-balanced and boasts a skipper with plenty of experience in sophomore Ken Resen.

Resen has been skippering sailing boats, from cutters to dinghies, for the past ten years. His experience includes ten year of Lightning class racing and three summers of racing a 45-foot, ocean-going cutter. Last summer he skippered in the Stratford shoals and Block island races.



WITH MAIN SAIL aflowing and missen mast amasting, this boat skims through its turns.

HIS ACCOMPLISHMENTS to date are very impressive. This past year he won the Miramont Yacht Club series for ocean-racing boats. In his ten years of Lightning class racing at Bayside, New York, he has been fleet champion three times. The year 1950 saw him place second in the district Lightning championships.

As a first-string freshman skipper for the Orange last year, Ken led his teammates to the upper New York state championship. During this most recent fall sailing season, he combined with Jack Dickerson to win the varsity Triad regatta against Colgate and Cornell.

This weekend, Resen will be pitting all his skill and experience against some of the East's foremost sailors. Defending champion MIT also boasts a fine skipper in Ted Garcia. Particularly strong competition is expected from MIT, Williams, Harvard, and Navy.

The Syracuse team represents a good balance of veterans and experienced newcomers. George Wilcox, Warren Witherstine, and Len Montague will be on the foredeck. Jack Dickerson, Bob Lewis, Bob Frahm, and Ken Resen will be manning the cockpit with Pete Latham as mizzenman.

THE THREE foredeck men are charged with the responsibility of the foresails, namely: the spinnaker, the Genoa and working jibs, and the staysail. Three of the cockpit men man the jib lines and mainsheet; the other cockpit man is the skipper. Rounding out the crew is the mizzenman who handles the mizzen sail.

The Orangemen will be attempting to better their fine fifth place finish of last year that they were led to by skipper Jim Hays, now an air cadet in Florida. Sailing-minded MIT, the defending champion, will again be favored to cop the coveted crown.

THRU THE MUCK with MEYER

By ED MEYER, Associate Sports Editor

VERO BEACH, Fla.—Veteran sports prognosticator, Pete the Prophet, announced today his final remarks for the 1954 National league baseball race. In a closed interview, the well-known prophet let out with what should prove as the key words to this year's campaign, "watch the Pirates." This was directed to all Pittsburgh fans who, at last reports, were tired of praying.

Yes, it's spring again and with the heavy blizzards come the fellows who try to call the diamond shots for the coming season. Some of them are called crazy and others just plain loco, but year in and out they continue to baffle the fans with their prophecies. Among these bafflers is our old football parley winner, Pete the Phophet. Here is what old Pete had to say:

When you mention baseball in the National league, you're bound to end up either in two places, Brooklyn or Ebbetts field. So, that's where we'll begin this year's pre-season spiel.

"Branch Rickey did a remarkable job with the Brooks. He set up one of the finest farm systems in baseball history before he took the big step westward. The question is just how long it would last after he left. It is felt by many that Jim "Junior" Gilliam, last season's 'rookie of the year' was one of the final prizes the money-saving Mahatma left Brooklyn. They feel that from here on in it's going to be produce or succumb to lower depths.

"But it doesn't look as though it's going to be that easy this year. It's true they have a new manager and old father time is beginning to creep up on some of the vets, but it still will be very hard to sell them short. After all, when you have men like Campanella, Snider, Furillo and Hodges in your lineup, even time gets a good fight.

"The veterans Reese and Robinson are slowing up. Sure, they have been playing great ball over the years but it is felt that they are now over that hump and on the way downward. They say that a ballplayer reaches his peak and then there is no other way to go but on the long trail down. This year that descend will begin.

"The pitching situation doesn't look too bad with Don Newcombe returning from service to join the already fair staff headed by Carl Erskine. But, after all, with that power all you need to do is to get the other side down in order for a few innings and your boys will do the rest. At least, that's what it's been in the past.

"One thing is true. Brooklyn is not going to have any cakewalk this year. But we are holding that final call until later on. Right now it's time to talk about the boys from the brew town, Milwaukee.

"The Braves haven't stayed still this past winter. They picked up one of the most valuable pieces of property in baseball, Dan O'Connell, from Pittsburgh. He is one of the game's most underrated players and could have a lot to do with the failure or success of the Braves in their second try for the flag.

"Many would expect a drop by the Braves this season. It was felt that they played way above their heads in giving Brooklyn any competition at all last year. It may have been very true, but as far as we are concerned, it wasn't. They are a hustling type team, the only type that can give a club like the Dodgers a run for the money. This, we feel they will do.

"But in order to trap the Brooks you can't have a two-team race. The rest of the clubs have to do their share in stifling the Dodger club, otherwise that old pennant will be hanging in Ebbetts field once more. This was proved last year when the Braves tried to do it alone. Urgent help is needed to stop them and only teams like the Cards, Giants and Phillies can do it.

"The Cards got Vic Raschi from the Yanks and he should help quite a bit. But, the 'old man's club of baseball is beginning to age even more. Enos Slaughter can't go on forever even though he is trying; Stan Musial, still a big threat, is slipping as was shown in last year's performances. The club in general needs some rebuilding.

"Philadelphia has about four or five players and from then on in it's just the breaks. With Roberts and Simmons pitching everyday, Ashburn and Ennis getting a pair of homers in every game and Granny Hamner covering both the infield and outfield they could win the pennant.

"At the Polo Grounds in New York Willie Mays will probably be doing all of that for real. It won't make much difference because the Giants will need more than that. They may be a surprise finisher with osme new added pitching talent but we doubt it. Sorry Lorraine..

"Cincinnati will have a vastly improved club and could fight towards the first division. Chicago can stick to chewing Phil Wrigley's gum and playng heads-up ball above the league-supporting Pittsburgh Pirates, who will end the season in Pittsburgh if they are allowed to remain that long."

Well, that's the way it all stands now. Those final predictions which should surprise many people, in addition, a run down on the New York Yanks . . . oops, I mean the American league will come next week. In the meantime, don't go looking for Pete the Prophet because he's still wrapped up in conference.

Nathan Miller Bowlers Lead

Nathan Miller house monopolized the first night of the individual bowling tournament at the Women's building. Frank Nash of Nathan Miller was high man in Class A with 571. Pete Morreale was third with 514 and in Class A Walt Guszcza led with Dave Heacock second. They are all from Nathan Miller.

Charlie Williams of Tau Delta Phi was second in Class A.

Openings are still available for the tournament. For information contact Mike Hickok in Archbold gymnasium.

Intramurals In Perspective

By DON HENRY
Daily Orange Intramural Director

In view of the vastly increased interest shown in intramural bowling this year, we figured we'd look into the record books to see what calibre scores were turned in.

There were at least 30 bowlers who rolled a 200-or-better single This latter figure breaks down to a 188 average for three games game and ten who rolled a 565-or-better triple during the season.

The leading triple was turned in by Leonard Frankenstein of the all-University champion Army Comptrollers team. He broke the charmed "600-club" barrier with a 223-193-609 triple.

Nearest competitor to that mark was Dick Farmer of Phi Kappa Tau. Farmer accounted for two of the top ten triples—the second place 204-198-577 total, and a 234-184-556 triple. Ed Dalton of SAE also doubled in the top ten with a third place 201-194-576 triple and a 205-181-565.

Close behind Dalton was Dutch Brouwer of Zeta Psi. Brouwer's triple was unique in that he rolled above 200 in two of the three games. His 575 was totalled from a 209, a 202 and a 164.

The fifth highest triple was rolled by Frank Petroskey of Collendale A-3. Petroskey's 571 was one point ahead of the sixth high triple bowled by Nathan Miller's Pete Morreale.

The other two bowlers to better 565 were Ernie Shapiro of Phi Epsilon Pi and Phil Young of DKE. These two turned in identical 566's.

Young rolled an amazing 243 single in that trio to grant him a tie for the highest single game.

These two were close pressed by the Phi Ep's Shapiro, Ernie 240 effort put him in second place in the high individual listings.

Four more bowlers were grouped in that area. Morreale and Farmer rolled 234. Jim Messinna knocked over 230 pins and Borwer hit 228 of them.

The remainder of the "200-club" membership consists of Tom Spotts, Zeta Psi; Stu Lew, Steve Gray and Norm Ross, ZBT; Bob Forrester and George Grahn, SAE; Curley Adler and Chuck Williams, Tau Delt; Jack Thoden, Delts; Bob Brussel, Phi Delt; Henry Juda, Phi Psi; Duanne Deaner, DKE; Bob and Dick Heydet, Beta; Orvie Wambold, Sigma Chi; and Ed Gozigan, Theta Chi.

The Hillel center contingent includes Dave Heacock, Nathan Miller; Dick Pittman, M-2; and Jerl Minnucci, Grover Cleveland.

Although the intramural bowling season is over, Hill bowling enthusiasts (male only) still have a chance to compete in an organized bowling function.

That function is the individual bowling tournament which will be held Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday of the week in which March becomes April.

According to Mike Hickock, who is supervising the tourney, there will be two classes of competition. The one will include all bowlers whose average is 150 or above. The other is the less-than-150 group.

There will be medals awarded to the top few in each division.

Orange Baseball Schedule Released

Coach Ted Kleinhans' Orange baseball squad will face a 15-game slate this season according to the schedule released yesterday by the athletic department. Highlight of the campaign will be a Saturday doubleheader at Penn State, May 8.

In addition to Penn State, the Orangemen will face Cornell, Colgate and Sampson twice throughout the year, closing the season on June 5 as hosts to the Red Raiders.

The schedule:

April 24 at Union, 28 Cornell.

May 1 at Colgate, 4 at Sampson, 5 Clarkson, 8 Penn State (2), 11 St. Lawrence, 12 at Ithaca, 14 Holy Cross, 15 Bucknell, 19 at Cornell, 21 at Hobart, 22 Sampson.

June 5 Colgate.

Solution to Yesterday's Puzle

M	E	L	O	A	B	A	S	E	N	A	B	O	B	STAR
O	M	A	R	C	A	R	O	L	A	G	A	P	E	PALE
A	I	D	E	D	E	C	A	M	P	T	O	K	E	N	E	T	T	A
G	R	E	A	R	O	B	E	Y	I	S	G	E	N	E	R	A	T	O	R
M	O	O	N	Y	A	R	O	REFURL
R	A	I	L	W	A	Y	S	E	R	I	F	D	I	N	E	B	B
E	R	R	A	N	T	P	L	A	N	T	O	P	T	E	S	T	E	E
A	R	E	S	N	I	D	P	U	R	E	S	N	A	K	E	S
T	E	N	D	M	I	N	D	P	A	R	A	D	E	A	J	I	T
A	D	E	S	M	O	N	A	P	A	R	I	T	Y	E	M	B	L	E	M	S
J	O	H	N	N	Y	O	N	T	H	E	S	P	O	T
R	E	C	I	P	R	O	C	A	L	S	P	E	C	I	A	L	T	I	E	S	R	I	T	A	F	I	L	E
A	R	A	B	S	S	W	I	P	E	S	F	R	A	Y	G	I	A	N	T
A	R	B	E	R	S	A	P	S	F	A	U	N	A	T	I	L	T	Y
A	S	S	E	T	L	I	F	T	I	N	G	S	K	A	T	E	S
S	L	O	M	R	A	I	N	S	W	E	I	G	H	T	Y
U	R	O	P	I	C	S	E	E	T	R	A	M	P
C	U	T	L	A	N	D	D	R	Y	S	A	F	I	A	B	A	L	Z	I	E
I	R	O	N	E	G	G	E	I	S	R	I	P	S	N	O	R	T	I	E	R
T	A	P	E	G	E	T	A	T	T	A	S	S	O	T	E	A	L
E	S	S	E	S	I	T	E	R	S	S	T	Y	M	E	S	T	A	L	I	E

Come On Down To
DEB'S
DRIVE-IN LOUNGE
SERVING THE BEST IN
HOME COOKED FOOD
"The Hill Rendezvous"
Bottom of Crouse Hill
On Erie Blvd.
ALL LEGAL BEVERAGES

Studebaker Owners
Bring Your Service Problems To Us
We have factory trained mechanics and a service department equipped to handle every service operation. Our parts department is stocked with a complete line of genuine Studebaker parts and accessories.
A. Robert Perry INC.
STUDEBAKER DEALER
4727 S. Salina St. 9-3226

—playing for—
'fraternally yours,
I. F. C. BALL -- APRIL 3rd
SATURDAY APRIL 3rd
The Interfraternity Council
Cordially Invites You To Attend Its ...
"ALL-UNIVERSITY OPEN HOUSE"
featuring
TEDDY WILSON
WORLD FAMED JAZZ PIANIST
FRIDAY, EVENING, APRIL 2nd
SIMS HALL NO ADMISSION

YOUR OFFICIAL SYRACUSE UNIVERSITY CLASS RING

Class Rings

A LASTING MEMENTO OF YOUR COLLEGE DAYS — A RING YOU'LL WEAR and BE PROUD OF— A SYMBOL OF ACHIEVEMENT
UNIVERSITY BOOKSTORE
303 University Place

Just the ticket for spring vacation!
GO HOME BY TRAIN!

WHY RICH THROUGH HIGHWAY TRAFFIC or wait until skyway weather clears? Take a train home and keep that very first date for sure!
IT'S MORE FUN GOING with the crowd all together on the train. There's room for bridge or bull session. And, in the dining car, you can enjoy the next best to home cooking.
GO FOR 25% LESS than the regular coach fare by traveling home and back with two or more friends on Group Economy Plan Tickets. They're good on trips of 100 miles or more. Gather a group of 25 or more and you each save 28% riding long-distance on the same train, then returning as a group or individually.
Consult Your Local Railroad Ticket Agent Well in Advance of Departure Date for Detailed Information
EASTERN RAILROADS

THE COXSWAIN WHO WANTED TO BE A NUDIST

The coxswain of a leading university crew didn't like to be tossed in the water after a victory. He didn't like it so much the crew started tossing him in the water any old time they saw him near it.
He complained bitterly that it was ruining all his sportshirts. He liked nice sportshirts, but all he owned had either shrunk or streaked or spotted. He was not a happy coxswain. With no more sportshirts, he contemplated joining a nudist colony.
He told the whole wretched tale to the Dean of Men.
The Dean said, "You like really good sportshirts, eh? Something like a fine gabardine?"
"Uh huh," the coxswain beamed.
"Try this—take $5.95 down to the nearest men's store and get a Van Heusen Van Gab. It's the best-looking gabardine sportshirt you've ever owned and it's completely washable—any kind of water. What's more, it's got real pick-stitching on the collar, pockets and cuffs...it's got a Sportown collar that looks as smart with a tie as without. Van Heusen really knows how to make 'em."
Said coxswain is now sportshirt king of the campus. Owns Van Gabs in all smart non-fade colors. Called best-natured coxswain on east coast. Doesn't wait to be dunked by crew. Jumps in, Van Gab and all.

Companies Offering Jobs for Students, Will Visit Campus

Interviews Scheduled For Various Majors And Graduates

The College of Business Administration placement office has announced that the following companies offering jobs will visit the campus through May 4.

April 1: Chase National bank; banking, all majors considered.

April 2: Atlantic Refining co.; Sales.

April 5: Lehigh Portland Cement co.; Sales. Bankers Trust co.; banking.

April 6; Revere Copper and Brass; production. Home Life Insurance co.; male and female graduates for positions in home office underwriting and group sales and administration. Ortho-Pharmaceutical Sales; biology, bacteriology and zoology majors.

April 7: Stern Brothers; retailing. Albany Felt co.; technical sales and plant engineers, mechanical industrial and textile engineers, pulp and paper manufacturing.

April 8: International Business Machines; sales. Monarch Life Insurance Accounting, private, traveling auditor after several months training program. Lybrand, Ross Bros. and Montgomery; accounting, CPA.

April 9: National Gypsum Accounting, private, sales.

April 7: Marine Trust co.; banking.

April 9: Burroughs; sales.

April 30: Robert Hall; retail store management program.

May 3: Firestone Tire & Rubber co. inc; sales.

May 4: Montgomery Ward; retailing training program.

PHI PSI SALUTE

Phi Kappa Psi fraternity will be saluted on "Saturday Night Dancing Party" on April 3rd. The program can be heard over radio station WHEN, from 8 to 10 p.m.

Now MIDTOWN Open 6:30 P.M.

REGENT

NOW PLAYING

"CRAZYLEGS"

Elroy "Crazylegs" Hirsch

Lloyd Nolan Joan Vohs

and

"THE LONG LONG TRAILER"

Lucille Ball Desi Arnez

You "write your own money" as you need it when you pay by CHECK...avoid the risks of carrying cash. And it will probably cost you less to maintain a checking account than to pay your bills in person. Manage your money matters safely...economically: with a checking account here. Open one soon.

FIRST TRUST & DEPOSIT COMPANY

MEMBER FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORPORATION

SYRACUSE, N. Y.

BALDWINSVILLE . . . CANASTOTA

LIVERPOOL . . . MATTYDALE . . . PARISH

She's a Sharpshooter!

THREE COEDS participate in an indoor rifle practice match under the supervision of LT. COL. ERNEST L. MEGGS of the army ROTC (far left). Peering through sights is PATRICIA GALLAGHER. JANE GATES and DIANE BERG look on. Daily Orange Photo by Owen Kendall

South American Excursion Discussed by Dean Hilton

By GRACE FRARY

"They say 'See Naples and die.' Here we may 'See Rio and live.'"

These words were spoken to Home Economics Dean M. Eunice Hilton on her stay in Rio de Janeiro during a recent trip to South America.

TOURING PERU, Paraguay, Argentina and Brazil, Dean Hilton witnessed many similarities and differences to life in the United States during her seven-week journey.

The purpose of her trip was to attend the eight-day International Conference of Scientific Management in Sau Paulo, Brazil. Dean Hilton was the only person representing a home economics college at the conference, which was composed mostly of industrialists and businessmen.

The language problem at the conference was handled in a manner similar to that at the United Nations: IBM equipment enabled one to hear speeches translated into either English, French or Portugese.

The general problems of each country were found the same, because, as Dean Hilton said, "People are the same everywhere."

HER FIRST stop was in Lima, Peru, where she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Davis: Davis is a Syracuse art teacher on leave making a collection of South American art for exhibition here.

The most impressive sight in Lima for Dean Hilton was the Great Cathedral, built of stones brought from Spain as ship's ballast centuries ago.

Here Dean Hilton found homes in the traditional Spanish style, with patios and grated windows. Narrow streets opened onto market places, where many articles made of Llama fur were sold.

In Asuncion, Paraguay, she noted that there were some modern buildings with Spanish influence. In this land-locked country with a very hot climate, life moved in a slower tempo. Burros and cows wandered in the streets and all business stopped from 11 o'clock to noon and from 3 to 4 p.m. as all took the customary siesta in the height of the day's heat.

DEAN HILTON found health and nutrition problems here; many places are without milk and people are just leaving to cross-breed cattle. Although much of the food does not taste different from the usual fare of the United States, the meat has a different taste, since it is freshly killed and is not subject to refrigeration processes.

The United States, through the point four program, is helping these people with their farm problems. Many Americans have also started industries down there.

"It seemed to me," said Dean Hilton, "that I detected some fear of exploitation by the United States. The people both fear and welcome American industry which has been developing there."

In commenting on the economic situation in these countries, she noted that there was not a very large middle of class composed of the South Americans themselves—most of the members of the class were North Americans who had settled there.

IN BUENOS Aires, Argentina, she felt an atmosphere of tension and fear. Peron's name was found everywhere. This city, which was European in nature, evidenced good highways and a small number of cars, most of which are American make.

In Rio, she saw the beautiful harbor and went up the Sugar Loaf mountain. Here she saw the statue of Christ of Cuernavaca, 200 feet high.

Dean Hilton noted a difference in the showing of movies in South America. Most of these films are American-made and as soon as the theater becomes too warm, the entire audience, projector and screen move outdoors and the entertainment is continued under the stars, with food being served to the spectators.

SIGMA DELTA TAU

Sigma Delta Tau announces its news officers for the coming year: president, Harriet Erhlich; vice-president, Ann Keiles; 2nd vice-president, Irene Kaminsky; treasurer, Barbara Kessin; recording secretary, Phyllis Perkins; social chairman, Joan Viniffoff and corresponding secretary, Gloria Jassie.

CBS WAER 88.1 PROGRAM SCHEDULE

WEDNESDAY

2:58—Sign On
3:00—WAER News
3:05—Symphonic Matinee
4:00—Musical Heritage
5:00—This I Believe
5:05—Distaff Digest
5:15—Dinner Date
6:15—WAER News
6:25—Evening Showcase
6:35—WAER Sports Lineup
6:45—Fred Greisinger Show
7:00—WQXR Artists
7:30—Adventures in Research
7:45—United Nations Story
8:00—Evening With Hi-Fi Music
9:00—WAER News
9:05—Music Magazine
10:00—Final Edition—News
10:10—Final Edition—Sports
10:20—Sign Off

Quiz Bowl . . .

(Continued from page 1)

dio's sound system to provide better listening for the audience.

Jones also pointed out that the auditorium has been termed "very live" by NBC engineers and that recommendations have been received that the Syracuse audience be "as quiet as possible" during the broadcast.

He stated that things like undue coughing, shuffling of feet, rattling of papers and similar disturbances should be avoided. "All microphones at all points of the broadcast are on during the show," Jones added, "and we must keep that in mind."

"Of course, we want all the enthusiasm we can get."

FOLLOWING A telephone conversation with "College Quiz Bowl" moderator, Allen Ludden yesterday, Jones revealed that the NBC announcer was "highly pleased" with the Syracuse panelists and he added that the local moderator, WSYR's Bob Whitney, did "an excellent job" of refereeing the broadcast for Syracuse.

The Orange panel, John Beach, Raymond Guenter, Jane Bauer and Janet Caro, defeated a championship panel from Washington and Lee last Thursday evening.

The quiz covers a wide range of subjects, with matters pertaining to highly specialized material avoided. Ancient and modern European and American history, American and English literature, classical and popular music, mythology, the Bible, children's literature and philosophy are the subjects most frequently touched along with contemporary matters.

The Syracuse team last week piled up a total of 205 points.

German Honorary Schedules Banquet

Members of the German honorary, Delta Phi Alpha will celebrate their last meeting of the year with a banquet, Sunday, April 4th.

According to Dr. Albert Scholtz, faculty adviser to the group the banquet will be held at 5 p.m. at the Arion, 713 Catherine st.

In addition to the regular order of business, Volker Weiss, a student from Vienna, will give a talk on "Austria Then and Now." Slides will be shown to illustrate the speech.

Members of the honorary are urged to bring their $2 for the banquet to room 200 HL before April 2nd.

SIGMA CHI ALPHA

Sigma Chi Alpha, Art Education honorary, recently pledged the following: Susan Black, Stanley Baldwin, Larraine Chanatry, Marie Constantini, Carmella Curreri, Pat Gallagher, Jane Gates, Edward Holl, Paul Krnaklian, Bity Lou Killian, Nancy McColl, Diana Moon, Marilyn Schmitt, Elsa Shiman, Wilhelmina Werner.

SCHINE'S ECKEL NC WIDE SCREEN!

The 'Kon-Tiki' o. Mountains

ANNAPURNA

NOW ON THE SCREEN IN TECHNICOLOR

2nd Hit: David Niven, Leo Genn in "THE IMMORTAL BATTALION"

CAMPUS NOTICES

Daily Chapel, noon to 12:30 p.m., Rev. Willard Cook will speak.

WAA badminton, tryouts for Cornell sports day, 4:30-5:30 p.m., gym B, Women's building.

Square dancing, 7:30-10 p.m., gym A, Women's building.

JSF choir, 7 p.m., Colonial room; important for TV show.

Young Democratic club meeting, 7:30 p.m., 106 Slocum.

PHA meeting, 7:30 p.m., Kappa Sigma. Bring pledges to distribute posters.

Varsity debate team meeting, 8 p.m., 414 HL. JV debate team, 7 p.m., 415 HL.

College Quiz board and alternates, no meeting this afternoon.

International Students' committee, talk on "Life in the Near East," 8:15 p.m., Colonial room.

WAA volleyball, 4:30 p.m., Women's building. Required for girls going to Cornell.

JSF elections, the following students may vote. They did not receive postcards due to error: Sandy Shapiro, Dave Katz, Thelma Sandmon, Amos Krauz, Myrna Dillon.

Discussion group for Lutheran graduates and faculty, 8 p.m., 329 Comstock ave., Apt. 8. The theme will be "The Church and Political Action."

Ski club, 7:30 p.m., Ski lodge. Busses will leave Sims at 7 and 7:15 p.m. Slate of new officers will be announced.

In-sight future leaders training program meeting, 7 p.m., HL.

WSG assembly meeting, 7 p.m., Dance studio, Women's building.

Everyone going on Tuckerman's trip, meet at Ski lodge, 8:30 p.m., Final payment is due.

Ski club nominating committee will present candidates for offices at meeting tonight at the Ski lodge. The annual ski award will be presented.

The following people are assigned to work on The Daily Orange today: Afternoon: Ros Brownstein, Tom Long, Adele Goodman, Bobbie Stern, Lynn Teschmacher, Polly Reed; Night: Roger Herz, Pearl Bernstein, Grace Frary, Joan Connors, Joanne Hess, Brenda Morris, Joan Russell, Fleurette Reon, Diana Dahlman.

"Up in Lights" promotions meeting for all on committee and any who are interested, 7 p.m., AEPhi. Those who have signed up to work on committee must attend meeting.

Kovalcik Talks At Albany Convo

Jerome Kovalcik, publicity director at the New York State College of Forestry, was keynote speaker at one of the panel sessions of the New York State Speech Association convention last Friday in Albany.

Entitled "Whither High School Forensics in New York?," the panel session also included Lucille Stevens, State President of the National Forensic league; Prof. Austin Freeley of Boston university, president of the American Forensic Assn.; and Brother John Doran, Vincentian Institute, coach of teams in the Catholic Debate league.

JSF DISCUSSION GROUP

"Judaism, Jesus and Jerusalem" will be discussed at 8:15 p.m. today in Maxwell auditorium under the auspices of the Jewish Student fellowship.

Students are invited to attend and enter into the discussion which features Rev. Arnold Nakajima, Presbyterian chaplain and Mel Schein of the Syracuse Bureau of Jewish Education. "Skeptics Corner" members will also attend as a unit to represent the Chapel.

Is it Flat, Mike?

HAVING A LITTLE time left over after dabbling in photography and cooking, MIKE FLANAGAN uses his leisure to tune pianos, thus financing his college education. Flanagan, a Navy vet, is working toward a degree as a clinical psychologist, and could go into business as a guitar player too. Daily Orange Photo by Dick Green

Pianos Help Pay Vet's Education

"How do you do, madam. I'm working my way through college tuning pianos."

That's Mike Flanagan: navy vet, sonar operator, string bass and guitar expert, and piano tuner.

SOMEWHAT OF A unique occupation, piano tuning is a difficult job, Flanagan says, and one that requires a natural sense of music and harmonics. Last summer Flanagan went across the nation tuning pianos.

The task takes about 90 minutes per piano. The only gadget required in addition to tools is a tuning fork.

The fork is tuned to A above middle C. It vibrates at 440 cycles per second. From this note, Flanagan tunes A above middle C and obtains all the other notes from that one note.

Pianos should be tuned a minimum of twice a year, Flanagan says.

HIS MUSIC ability and practice doesn't stop with the difficult art of piano tuning. Flanagan is also an accomplished string bass and guitar player. He is featured in several local combos and also appears weekly on Fred Griesinger's WAER show here on the Hill.

His taste in music runs from Le Sacre du Printemps to June Christy and her vocals. Often, while listening to a classical piece he will follow the written score too.

A few weeks ago, one of Flanagan's roommates had a birthday. Flanagan rigged up his electric guitar, another roommate got his clarinet out and the boys made happy birthday music for an hour.

Flanagan's piano technique developed in the Navy, where he worked with a tuner and learned the business. Whenever a base had a piano that played off-key music, he would volunteer to tune it.

AFTER HIS first hitch in the Navy, Flanagan played with a band for awhile and then went to Siena college. As two years passed he learned that the Navy needed first class sonar operators and he was soon recalled. He served in Korea.

After his discharge he came to Syracuse where he is now a first semester senior.

Flanagan is an excellent cook. In addition to photography, fooling around with radios and his fondness for music, he enjoys any exotic dish—probably as a result of his travels through the South Pacific.

Music will be strictly a hobby for Flanagan someday. He intends eventually to become a clinical psychologist.

ONE OF his courses leading to that end is zoology. He is currently raising some odd little creatures caled planeria in several cups of water.

But that project is no more fascinating, nor unique, than being student piano tuner.

Colleges May Enter N. Y. Dance Contest

Inter-collegiate Winners Will Get Trophies

An Easter Inter-collegiate dance contest, exclusively for students, will be held at the famed Tavern-on-the-Green, Tuesday evening, April 20.

The contest, which will include the fox-trot, waltz, mambo, rhumba or any popular dance, will be judged by dance experts.

Each couple will choose which dance they wish to execute. The winners will be awarded the title of Intercollegiate Dance champions and will be presented with trophies to go on display at the college the man and woman represent.

They will also be offered a night on the town, including dinner at the Tavern and tickets to a hit show.

Since only a limited amount of dancers will have time to go on, those interested should immediately contact Milton Saunders, at Tavern-on-the-Green, Central Park West & 67 st., New York.

Ketcham Chosen To Get Advanced Army ROTC Award

John H. Ketcham, junior in liberal arts, has been designated as a Distinguished Military Student, and Harold R. Augistine, junior in business administration, and Maurice Reichman, senior in law, have been appointed as potential Distinguished Military Students, according to Lt. Col. George R. Stevens III, professor of Military Science and Tactics for the Army ROTC.

The colonel announced that the students were chosen with the concurrence of the chancellor, from ROTC men who have completed the first year of the advanced course.

Eligibility for the award consists of high grades in military subjects, outstanding aptitude for military service, upper-half class standing and campus activities.

Those who become Distinguished Military Students may apply and be appointed after graduation for a commission in the regular Army.

JSF Will Elect Officers Tonight

Officers will be elected for the Jewish Student fellowship at 7:30 p.m. today in 207 Maxwell.

Those who have attended at least 40% of the meetings of a committee or subcommittee or those who have been active participants in these groups are eligible to vote.

A list of eligible voters has been posted in Hendricks chapel and these persons will be notified by mail. Those not included on the list may petition for such standing at the JSF desk in the Chapel board room. Deadline is 4 p.m. today.

NOW at Schine's PARAMOUNT

NOW PLAYING

"NIGHT PEOPLE"

Gregory Peck Anita Bjork

Broderick Crawford Rita Gam

in

CINEMASCOPE

Colored by Technicolor

Extra Added in CinemaScope

"HAYDEN'S FAREWELL SYMPHONY"

CLASSIFIED ADS

IMPORTANT NOTICE—CLASSIFIED ADS to appear in this paper should be DELIVERED at the HELLBOX Classified desk between 1 and 3 p. m. NO ADS WILL BE ACCEPTED AFTER 3. ALL ADS MUST BE IN 2 DAYS IN ADVANCE. For further information call 4-7206.

ALL LOST ARTICLES should be turned into the CENTRAL LOST AND FOUND ROOM, 20 Bldg. 24 at 205 University Pl. Articles can be claimed there.

AUTO-DRIVING

AUTO DRIVING INSTRUCTION. Learn to drive easily, correctly and safely. Call Upstate Auto Driving School. Phone 8-4040.

LEARNING TO DRIVE? Learn quickly, easily, scientifically. 17 years experience. Car furnished. SULLIVANS DRIVING School Inc. 73-3451.

RENTALS

TYPEWRITERS RENTED: $3.00 per month, $8 3 months. Good selection. We deliver, Smith Brothers. 4-8833.

Typewriters rentals—New Models Reasonable Rates—Expert Service, All Makes—CORNER STORE.

TYPING

EXPERT TYPING, theses and term papers. Mrs. Raymond Webb, 2-1884.

CHURCH SERVICE

ATTENTION: The Community of Utica would like 10 foreign students for Easter vacation or parts thereof. Contact Rev. Arthur Hopkinson, ext. 441, by April 7.

TEMPLE ADATH YESHURUN. Corner Harrison and South Crouse Ave. Week day services 7:30 a.m.

FOR RENT

GARAGE FOR RENT: 818 Ostrom Ave. Call 4-7444.

FURNISHED APARTMENT: $69. Two Grads or one or two Grad. women. Vern Steensland. 73-3790.

FOR SALE

MERCURY 1949, 4-door sedan. Right and left directionals. One owner new tires. Harold L. Rear, 4-1790 or 74-3074.

DR. VINCENT CONFER

and Mrs. Confer will lead a small group to the greatest landmarks of the evolution of Western Civilization in

EUROPE

June 30—August 28

Southampton	Geneva	ROME
Salisbury	Montreux	Viterbo
Stonehenge	Lausanne	Orvieto
Glastonbury	The Simplon	Siena
Wells, Bath	Italian Lakes	Volterra
Malmesbury	Milan	Pisa, Genoa
The Cotswolds	Bergamo	Monte Carlo
Stratford	Brescia	Nice, St. Paul
Warwick	Verona	Grasse, Cannes
Oxford	Vicenza	Aix-en-Provence
LONDON	Padua	Les Baux
Cologne	VENICE	Arles, Nimes
Bonn	Ferrara	Avignon
Rhine Cruise	Ravenna	Pont-du-Gard
Ruedesheim	San Marino	Carcassonne
Wiesbaden	FLORENCE	Albi, Brive
Frankfurt	Arezzo	Lascaux Caves
Wuerzburg	Perugia	Perigueux
Rothenburg	Assisi	Angouleme
Nuremberg	Frascati	Poitiers
Dinkelsbuchl	Naples	Amboise
Donauwoerth	Paestum	Chenonceaux
Munich, Ulm	Amalfi	Blois
Black Forest	Capri	Chartres
Basle, Berne	Sorrento	Versailles
Fribourg	Pompeii	PARIS

$888

Includes everything NY back to NY, excellent hotels, gourmet meals, de-luxe motoring, comprehensive sightseeing, tips, taxes and all incidentals. Academic credit optional (graduate, undergraduate, in-service).

All arrangements by

STUDY ABROAD, INC.

250 WEST 57th STREET • NEW YORK 19, N. Y.

Information also from Dr. Vincent Confer, 311 Maxwell

Swimming Coach Ted Webster Reveals Fix Scandal at University

See Page 3

On the Inside

See "For the Record," Page 4.

Syracuse Daily Orange

Weather Report

SNOW AND COLDER
High temperature ___ 19
Low temperature ___ 18

Vol. 51, No. 102 | Syracuse, N. Y., Thursday, March 31, 1954 | 4 Pages — 5 Cents

One Student Government Planned; MSG, WSG Quit

Formal dissolution of women's student government was approved by members of the assembly at last night's final meeting. The proposal, made by President Mary Anne Dalton, followed action by men's student government to disband that body.

In the MSG assembly, Representative Roger Jacques Herz voiced violent objection to the measure introduced by president Stanley Left. "This is a flagrant denial of the rights of all campus guides," Herz shouted from the floor of Maxwell auditorium.

HERZ WAS the only objector, however, and the bill was passed by a vote of 24-1, with all members present.

In the WSG assembly the proposal was passed by coed legislators without question following an explanation by Miss Dalton.

"We have found it superfluous for women legislators to conduct business which is identical to that carried on by men's student government when we consider the men capable of carrying on adequate legislation."

Miss Dalton spoke immediately after Left had made a similar statement about women's student government in the MSG assembly.

THE TWO presidents met secretly later last night behind the counter at the Dutch Haven restaurant to discuss plans for a single student government at Syracuse university. Under this arrangement, the presidency would probably alternate from a man to a woman each year, with the vice presidential post being held by a student of the opposite sex every year. Thus a man and a woman student would hold the two top government posts at all times.

Single student government has the endorsement of Dean of Women Marjorie C. Smith, who has long urged women students to consolidate governing activities with the men as a measure of practicality.

Also approving the proposed change are Dean of Men Carlton Krathwohl, University Vice-President Frank P. Piskor, Assistant Dean of Women Ruth Haddock and most of the student deans and proctors serving in men's and women's living centers on campus.

Left and Miss Dalton plan to meet with civil service chiefs Rise Stevens and Mutch Evans this afternoon to draw up first drafts of a constitution for the consolidated student government. CSG will have its first session Thursday, April 8, after spring elections.

THREE STUDENT government officials express satisfaction to plans drawn up for a single student government on campus. Formal dissolution of men's and women's student government was approved this week by both assemblies.

Liberace Will Join Hill Music Faculty

Liberace, famed pianist now appearing on television, will join the Hill music faculty Sept. 1, 1954.

Sidney Sukoenig, professor of piano music, said yesterday that the University has completed negotiations with the National Broadcasting company to buy the pianist's contract.

Liberace is known for his quaint television program, during which he uses the informal atmosphere cherished by the three B's and contemporaries like Frederic Chopin.

It is hoped, Sukoenig continued, that Liberace will add some refinement to the otherwise awkward motions of some of the Hill's piano playing students.

The virtuoso will teach some of the more advanced piano techniques, including "raising the hands deftly above the keys," "bowing and taking encores," "wearing a ring while playing the piano," and "the scientific method of lighting candelabra."

Vice-president in charge of public relations Kenneth Bartlett said yesterday that attempts are being made to secure the services of Liberace's brother and accompanist, George.

FLU EPIDEMIC

Dr. G. Arnold Cronk, University physician, said yesterday that the current flu epidemic will not spread if students take proper precautions.

He suggested that no student leave his bed before 10 a.m.

The epidemic, Cronk said, can only spread if the germs spread. He termed the disease obviously contagious.

"These germs are tricky," he said. "One minute they're here, the next minute they're not. It's tough to tell."

Marion Dormitory May Go to Coeds

Because only three next-semester sophomores applied for rooms in Marion dormitory yesterday, bringing to eight the number of assignments, serious consideration is being given to turning the new dormitory over to women's housing, Jack C. Buckle, director of men's counseling and residence, told The Daily Orange yesterday.

Should Marion be made a women's dormitory, many of the small men's living centers scheduled to become cottages next fall will probably remain men's houses.

IF THERE is inadequate male space on campus, he said, the male overflow will probably be housed in Collendale. Reopening Skytop is not thought necessary at this time.

Buckle stressed that although consideration is being given the switch, no definite action will be taken for several days, leaving time for additional applications to be submitted.

He noted, however, that any student desiring to live in Marion next fall should apply immediately. If they don't, and the dorm goes to women, "that'll show them good," he said.

He said that should Marion become a women's dormitory that men already given room assignments will probably not be allowed to live there. "This will, of course, be decided by the office of the dean of men," he said.

RECENT DISCUSSION of the compulsory eating rule for sophomores may cause reversal of the policy, he said. "Although the University thought it wise at first, our attitude has changed and many now feel that if that's the way the students want it, so be it," he said.

He said that the University finds it a lot of trouble to prepare such quantities of food every day, and that less students eating in the dining halls will make less work for the food service.

Admission of Alum Relatives Banned

No close relatives of Syracuse alumni will be admitted to Syracuse university, Dean of Admissions John S. Hafer announced yesterday.

Hafer said that the decision was prompted by two reasons:

1. In the family experience, it is desirable that diversified educations and schools of education be represented. If all children of a family go to the same school, this purpose is defeated.

2. The University has been under criticism that it is admitting relatives of alumni over other qualified students who have no family-alumni tie with the University.

Hafer said that his office is preparing a bulletin which lists other institutions comparable to Syracuse and he said these bulletins will be available to all students, alums and relatives of alums.

These regulations do not apply to Utica college, Hafer added.

He said that if applicants who are relatives of alums will change their names, this will put them into consideration for admission to the University.

No Student Cars In Fall, Dean Says

Students will not be permitted to bring cars to school effective next September.

Vice-president in charge of student services Frank P. Piskor said yesterday that the large number of student accidents coupled with the lack of parking facilities has prompted this action.

PISKOR SAID that exceptions will be made only when students show valid evidence that they need vehicles for employment or that they are disabled and need the cars for transportation to and from classes.

Piskor said that a recent survey indicates that for every car owned by a student, there is 1.3 accidents during the nine months that comprise the school year.

He said that with an adequate bus system and with proper schedules made by students, there should be no necessity for having automobiles.

He said that when he was a student there were no automobiles. "We walked to school, we walked to the movies and to dances with our dates, and we stayed alive and unmaimed."

Piskor said that this practice is being adopted by more and more universities, and rather than being a regressive step, is definitely a progressive measure.

Seat Reservations For Sunday Service Announced by Dean

Single, Block Seating Assignments Made In Board Room

A reserved seating plan for attendance at Sunday morning Protestant services will go into effect this week, Dean Charles C. Noble of Hendricks chapel announced late last night.

Similar to the system used at varsity football games, the plan will require students to present ID cards before attending the 10:50 a.m. service.

"THIS SYSTEM was developed as a result of student complaints about an overcrowded sanctuary," Dean Noble announced. The Chapel only seats 1,500 students.

In order to assure admission on Sunday morning, students must present their ID cards in the Chapel Board room no later than 4 p.m. Friday. They will receive a ticket indicating pew number and seat. The ticket should be presented to an usher upon entering the sanctuary.

As in the past block seating will be made available to houses desiring to attend Chapel in a group. The first ten pews on either side of the center aisle will be reserved for this purpose but after 10:45 a.m. any student may occupy the vacant seats in this section.

"No student will be admitted without a ticket," the dean stated emphatically.

THE NEW system was set up by a student-faculty panel which has been working on the problem since the beginning of the semester.

In addition to members of the Hendricks chapel staff, student representatives of Jewish Student fellowship, the Outing club, Boar's Head and The Daily Orange also served on this committee.

After the reserved seating plan has been in operation for a few Sundays, several other innovations will be made in the Chapel service, the committee noted.

Chief among these will be placard prayers which will be spelled out on cards held by students sitting in each section. "This will be substituted for the usual oral prayers in order to accommodate those dormitories which have complained of the noise of the usual Chapel service," Dean Noble explained.

MEMBERS OF the Women's athletic association will serve as pew captains for the placard praying.

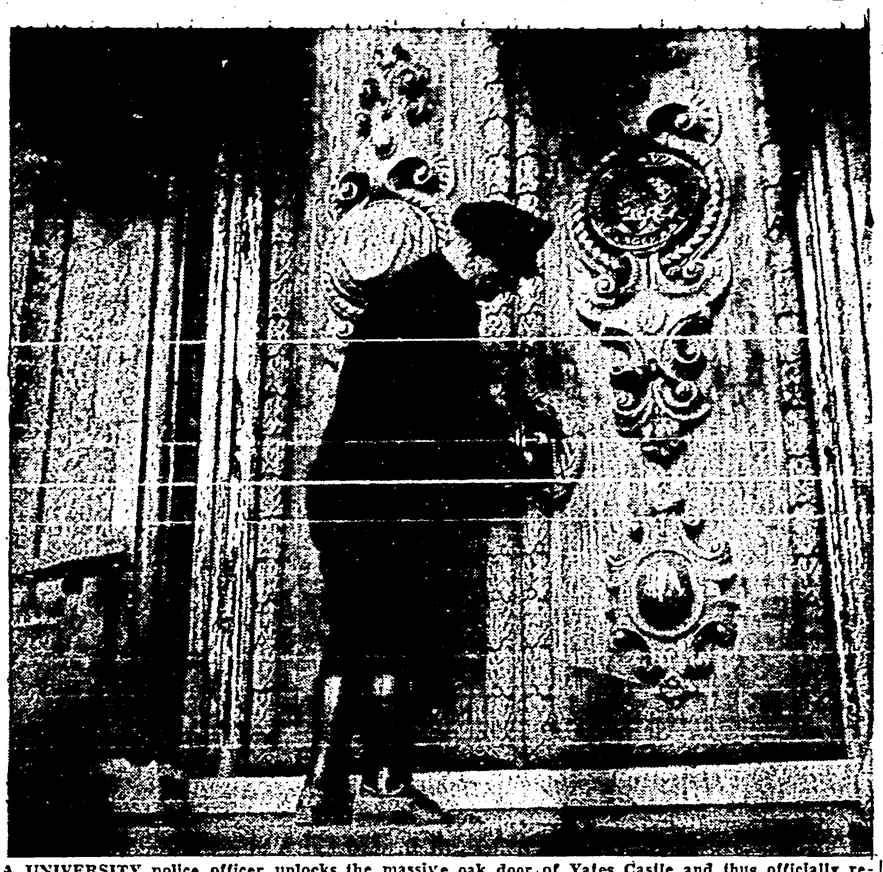
Also under consideration is a plan to secure the Salt City Five to provide the music for the hymns instead of the traditional organ.

"We of Hendricks Chapel strive to meet the needs of the students. We hope this new system will suit their desires and are willing to consider any further suggestions which may be forthcoming," the dean stated.

CIT MIDTERM

Citizenship 1b midterm has been rescheduled for 7 p.m. tomorrow, according to Stuart Gerry Brown, head of the citizenship department.

Med Wing Site Changed; Action Saves Yates Castle



A UNIVERSITY police officer unlocks the massive oak door of Yates Castle and thus officially reopens the building for University use. The key was returned to the University custodial office by David Sinclair of the medical college. Lights, heat and electricity will be available in the Castle by Monday, according to University officials. Staff Photo by Alfred Eisenstadt

Yates Castle was saved last night at the eleventh hour.

Floyd B. Carlson, president of the State University of New York, announced yesterday that plans for construction of a medical school wing on the site of the Castle had been abandoned. Demolition of the Castle was to have started today.

CARLSON SAID that the new wing will be built on Hendricks field, which is already state property. He said that the change in plans was "for the good of the state," as the limited space on the Castle site did not allow for future expansion.

"New York state has too long ignored the long-range plan in favor of the short-range program," he claimed.

Yates Castle and the land on which it stands will be returned to the University "for whatever use the University sees fit," Carlson said.

Although he would not comment on it, it is believed that a concerted pressure campaign by the Alumni association of the School of ournalism was responsible to a lage extent for the change in plans.

VICE-CHANCELLOR Final G. Crawford told The Daily Orange last night that the University was "extremely happy" to hear of the return of the Castle. Although he said it was much too early to make a decision as to the future use of the Castle, he said it had been considered as a University museum.

News of cancelling the Castle demolition was hailed when it reached campus late yesterday afternoon. At the time this newspaper went to press, it had not yet been decided if a day of classes would be called off to celebrate the action.

The announcement did not come without further threats to the School of Journalism. Carlson said that should engineers find the Hendricks field site too muddy for construction of the controversial wing, the state may build on the site of the Journalism center, obtaining the land through the right of eminent domain.

Wesley C. Clark, dean of the School of Journalism, gave credit last night to all those "who have worked long and hard over the past few months to save the Castle." He would not comment on a report that President Eisenhower had intervened in the matter.

Any student seeing workers of the Bielec Wrecking company near the Castle today is asked to advise them of the change, as the company could not be reached for notification yesterday.

ALL STUDENTS MUST REPORT TO SIGN CARDS

All students must report to the University business office from 8 a.m.-5 p.m. today to sign financial responsibility cards.

Students failing to report will no longer be carired on the student rolls.

Vice-president and treasurer Hugh C. Gregg said yesterday that the Board of Trustees recently passed a resolution that would make all students legally responsible for debts incurred with the University.

The cards state in part, "I (your name) agree to be fully responsible for all debts incurred by me to Syracuse university and to pay such indebtedness before June 10, 1954.

Religious Groups To Hold Joint Fete

Jewish Student fellowship and St. Thomas More Chapel will have a joint pork and bagel barbeque tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. on the Women's athletic field.

The Friday night social event has been planned to help create better relationships between the two groups and provide an evening of fellowship, chairmen said.

Orchid Bonus Set For 'Gigi' Patrons

Orchids will be given free to the first 100 women who attend tonight's opening performance of "Gigi" at 8:15 p.m. at the drama building Coronet theater, Boar's Head officials have announced.

The comedy, second production of the year for the Hill dramatic society, will be given through April 14th.

Tickets may be obtained for $1.20 per person at the drama building box office.

Orchids will be given free to the first 100 women who attend tonight's opening performance of "Gigi" at 8:15 p.m. today at the drama building Coronet theater, Boar's Head officials have announced.

The comedy, second production of the year for the Hill dramatic society, will be given through April 14th.

Tickets may be obtained for $1.20 per person at the drama building box office.

The play is being directed by Sawyer Falk, head of the drama department. Costumes for the production were taken from original Broadway productions, as designed by Karinsky of New York and Pierre Langlois of Paris.

Shirley Fenner and Betty Schwartz will alternate in the part of Gigi, with Miss Fenner playing the role at tonight's performance.

John J. Flanagan has designed sets for the play. A moving stage will be one of "Gigi's" features.

Other members of the cast include Nancy Edwards, Gregg Doherty, Francesca Trantum, Beverley Barr, Kenneth Bowles, Millicent McIntyre and Marlene Muller.

Dewey Sets Speech Here for April 26

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey has requested and will receive time at a citizenship lecture later this month to answer charges hurled at him by W. Averell Harriman Monday, Stuart Gerry Brown, chairman of the citizenship department, said yesterday.

Brown has set April 26 as the date for Gov. Dewey's rebuttal. The former New York crime-buster will speak only at the 10 a.m. lecture. Students at 2:15 p.m. will hear a tape-recording of the governor.

No definite place has been obtained yet for the speech, according to Brown. He is trying to get either the dance studio of the Women's building or Boar's Head theater.

Reports from Albany indicate that Gov. Dewey will specifically answer accusations of having sold the State down the river in harness racing track scandals and not following the interests of the people of New York.

Harriman, who spoke at the cit lecture Monday, has been mentioned as a possible candidate for governor this fall. Harriman unleashed bitter attacks at Gov. Dewey at the lecture.

Two Houses Tie In Step Singing

Alpha Gamma Delta and Chi Omega were duplicate winners in the large house division step singing preliminaries last night in Hendricks Chapel. Both houses will continue in the competition, step singing chairman Anne Forrest announced.

"Judges were unable to make a single award because of the difficulty of selections and fine execution by both houses," she added.

Defeated in the large hose division last night was Delta Gamma.

In the small house division, Sigma Omicron Beta took honors over Thornden and Parker cottages, singing "Hail, Hail the Gang's All Here" with a mixed chorus of men's and women's voices.

Colorado Bows Out

The National Broadcasting company announced yesterday that the University of Colorado has forfeited tonight's scheduled session of the "College Quiz Bowl" broadcast with Syracuse university.

On direct advice from Colorado Gov. Dan Thornton, the western university decided that it could not go through with the program because "this is not the proper type of activity befitting an institution founded for education," a spokesman said.

NBC IN New York reported that tonight's broadcast may be cancelled altogether unless a substitute panel is available to compete with Syracuse. It had been hoped to arrange a group of four New York city college professors to match knowledge with the Orange's varsity scholars.

The idea to have two Syracuse panelists debate the two other panelists was defeated categorically.

In any event, NBC has guaranteed Syracuse university $500, the prize for winning. If the Hill panel of Janet Caro, John Beach, Raymond Guenter and Jane Bauer come through against tonight's opposition, NBC said that it would hand over another $500 to Syracuse, since this is the final show in the current series.

If the substitute panel should win tonight, its prize money will go to its favorite charity.

TICKETS FOR tonight's broadcast are still available in the dean of men's and dean of women's offices. Only about 200 persons picked up the free ducats yesterday at a special booth in Slocum.

The broadcast is slated for 8:30 p.m. in the dance studio of the Women's building, which can seat 350 persons. If, however, more than that number indicate by noon today that they will attend the show, E. C. Jones, Syracuse producer, said that there is some possibility that the broadcast can be switched to Crouse auditorium.

NBC has sent an automatic score-tallying device which will be set up behind the local panel. Operated from New York, the "scoreboard" will automatically tally the up-to-the-minute score after every question.

Weekly Quiz Show Will Originate Here

Syracuse university is beginning its own "College Quiz Bowl," Kenneth G. Bartlett, the vice-president in charge of public relations, said yesterday.

Bartlett said that because of Syracuse's overwhelming victory last week, it is only fitting that the panelists be given the opportunity to display their talents each week.

The program will be telecast and broadcast over the combined facilities of the National Broadcasting company.

Each week, according to tentative plans, the Syracuse team will meet the team of some other school in the nation. Tentative schedule includes Pittsburgh, Massachusetts, Institute of Technology, Harvard, Hobart and Columbia.

The winner each week will be given four scholarships for graduate work at Syracuse university, with room and board included.

ROTC Arranges To Cancel Camp

Air Force and Army ROTC summer camp has been cancelled according to Col. Robert P. Halloran and Lt. Col. George R. Stevens, professors of air and military science respectfully.

Halloran said the move was prompted by reports that the service budgets would not stand the strain of sending men to summer campus for four to six weeks.

However, he added, home drill courses will be sent to students during the summer and they will be required to practice the contents on their lawns and submit witnessed notes, endorsed by their local police chiefs that they have complied.

Further, Stevens and Halloran added, the students will go ahead and receive "shots" as scheduled to assure their healthy condition when they return in the fall.

AFROTC Drill Set In Park at Noon

Air force ROTC drill will definitely begin at noon today at Thornden park, cadet corps headquarters announced yesterday.

University and city snow plows completed clearing away more than a foot of snow from the field yesterday afternoon.

It was explained by AFROTC officials that drill must begin tomorrow if the local unit is to hold its required number of sessions this semester.

MUST SIGN ACT

All students who are candidates for class office, men's student government assembly and women's student government, must sign campaign pledges before 10 a.m. today at the MSG office, building 12.

Students Eligible For NSA Seminar

Mary E. (Liz) Brydon, vice-president of women's student government, has been elected regional vice-president of National Students association, according to Darwin Bolden and Rita Frankiel, local NSA co-chairmen.

Miss Brydon told The Daily Orange yesterday that NSA has done more for this University than has any other organization. She cited student discount service and ID cards and said that without NSA we would never have had these two services.

The different colored meal tickets, however are NSA's most important contribution in the whole collegiate area, she asid. These have been the source of saving embarrassment for the nation's college community she added.

SYRACUSE DAILY ORANGE

THREE R'S OF A COLLEGE NEWSPAPER: RESPONSIVENESS, RESPONSIBILITY AND RESOURCEFULNESS

Page 2 Thrusday, April 1, 1954

Editor-in-chief ——— Arlene Lambert
Business Manager ——— Robert Goldstein

SENIOR EDITORIAL STAFF

Managing Editor ——— Arthur Siegel
Editorial Director ——— Hugh O. Muir
Executive Editor ——— Janet Caro
Sports Editor ——— Kenneth Lent

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Edward Meyer, Joan Nadelhaft, Phyllis Sirota, Howard Vonkirk, Mary Vivian

BUSINESS STAFF

Asst Business Manager ——— Sheldon Lessen
Layout Manager ——— Judith Berman
Classified Manager ——— Joan Iacobs
Circulation Manager ——— Anita Freyberg
Promotion Manager ——— Lloyd Eisenberg

DAILY STAFF

News Editor ——— Ros Brownstein
Night Editor ——— Roger J. Herz
Asst. Night Editor ——— Pearl Bernstein
Editorial Page Asst. ——— Grace Frary
Night Sports Editor ——— Bob Grogan

Published by the students of Syracuse University. Telephones: News, 75-5195, 75-5197; Editor, 76-1448; Business: 4-7206. Subscription by mail $6 per year, $3.50 per semester. Entered as second class mail matter at the Syracuse Post Office. Exclusive national advertising representatives National Advertising Inc., New York City.

Plain hypocrisy

The proposal for a joint student court was stymied last night when the '53-'54 men's student government assembly failed to reach a quorum. It would seem that "end-of-the-year" apathy hit the legislature right on schedule.

Under the old constitution, when the assembly functioned until the end of the semester, it was not until April or early May that the number of vacant seats increased noticeably. However, since the present group will serve only until next week's elections, the parallel is obvious.

Campaigning was given as the reason for many of the absences. Upon closer examination, however, this excuse is feeble, at best. Those out campaigning for class office or assembly office still have a responsibility to the students who voted for them last fall and who expect them to finish their present assembly work.

The bill that was to be voted on at Tuesday's meeting was one of the most important with which the legislature had been concerned. The establishment of a joint student court on a permanent basis has long been requested by certain government officials. There exists the possibility that court cases would arise during the present campaigning and elections. Therefore, it was necessary that this bill be passed before next Wednesday.

There's one more meeting left on the schedule—next Tuesday, election eve. It will be interesting to see if the candidates can give up one hour to live up to their present responsibility.

For it is the height of hypocrisy for these students to be absent from the very job or government which they are out proclaiming they will serve if elected.

How can these candidates say they will create better student government when they are even now contributing to its ineffectiveness by their lack of responsibility?

Let's not have a repeat performance next Tuesday. Editor-in-Chief

Judgement of time

The heights by great men reached and kept
Were not attained by sudden flight,
But they, while their companions slept,
Were toiling upward in the night.
—Longfellow

Roughly one and three centuries ago there lived two men whose birthday is today. These two toiled upward until they became the greatest in their fields in all time

But there is a judgment of history.

We first consider William Harvey, 17th century physician. He challenged custom by challenging 17th century medicine.

So he did things his own way under great opposition. And he made what is considered the greatest single discovery in the history of physiology: the circulation of the blood.

But nobody believed him and his life's work was only received by men long after his death.

Flitting on two centuries ahead we meet the second toiler who attained great heights: Otto Von Bismarck, the "blood and iron" chancellor of the old German empire.

Bismarck challenged 19th century politics. Many little countries irked him and his dream was a large empire ruled by unchallenged power.

In two decades, against bloody opposition, he created the mightiest power in Europe. And his idea of ruthless power politics has remained with men long after his death.

These two men of "greatness" each accomplished his goal over great odds. Each believed he had the answer.

We may query which is truly greater: progress for man's benefit or at man's expense?

We ask you, on this their birthday, the first of April, which was the greatest fool in the eyes of history?

Editorial Director

LETTERARY COMMENT

CONGRATS FROM W&L UNIVERSITY

'Wizards'

March 26, 1954

Dear Wizards:

On behalf of the W. and L. team I'd like to congratulate all four of you once again. We tried to say something to you right after the program, but all we were able to get from Syracuse was jubilant silence. Anyway, you sure put it on us last night, and here's wishing you all the success you deserve against Colorado.

If any of you are ever down our way, don't fail to drop by the campus. We boast everything but co-education. Best of luck.

Sincerely,
Harold J. Quinn, Jr.
(W&L team member)

'Lot of Fun'

March 25, 1954

To the College Quiz Bowl Team
Syracuse University

Congratulations! You did a wonderful job Thursday night. Everyone down here in Lexington has had a lot of fun these past five weeks, and I am sorry that you all won't have the same opportunity to build up your winning streak.

It's been fun doing some of the articles for the paper, but it looks like we will have to get a new lead story for Friday, from now on.

My heartiest congratulations once again, and the best of luck against Colorado next week.

Sincerely,
Sam Syme
Asst. Managing Editor
The RING-TUM PHI

AT THE FLICKERS

Old Thriller in Modern Dress

By CHARLES SAMUELS
Daily Orange Movie Critic

A Colorful Night

"Night People," at the Paramount, is not content to confine its attack to the Communists; it has some licks to get in at the expense of the Nazis and egocentric businessman too. To be sure, by the time the film has run its course, the American businessman is exuonerated and the Reds are even more badly bruised, but none of this battering is taken too seriously.

Despite the aura of international intrigue that "Night People" affects, it is simply an old-fashioned thriller that employs the regalia conned from today's headlines in a bid for timeliness. Nunnaly Johnson, who was responsible for the script, its production and direction, has outfitted it thusly in probable realization of the complete triteness of his little baby. Unfortunately, this regalia gets in the film's way; fortunately, it stays out of the way just often enough. The result is that this mass of standard dialogue, situation and character manages to generate a few sparks before it finally fizzles.

Aside from the tense direction of Mr. Johnson, it is chiefly due to the playing of two thoroughly wonderful leading men that "Night People" owes its excitement. The gentlemen are Broderick Crawford and Gregory Peck.

Mr. Crawford has the role of the blustering tycoon and he hammers it home with telling skill. He makes the transition from the blockhead to the chastened and repentent blockhead creditable and, in view of the absurdity of the writing, this was no easy job.

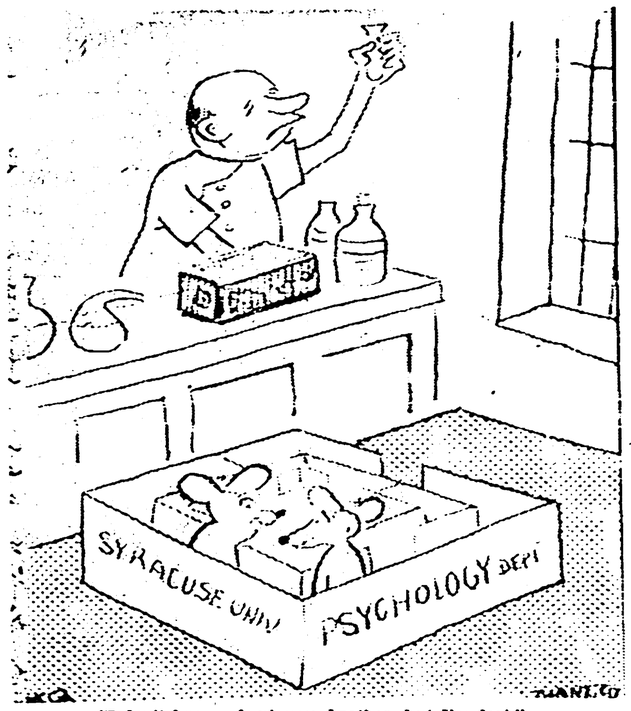
Mr. Peck's stock part, the hard-as-nails colonel, with the heart of gold, is equally shallow. Nobody but Peck could make anything of it. By carefully indicating that Col. Van Dyck is a human being, Mr. Peck is able to get the audience to pull for him and this identification between actor and audience pulls "Night People" through its editorial maze.

The young ladies in the film decorate the proceedings but do little else. Rita Gam is wooden as Peck's very private secretary and Norway's Anita Bjork plays her role as if she couldn't wait for the next boat back to her home town.

The whole nefarious business is stretched out on the CinemaScope screen and splashed with Technicolor, all of which gives it a frequent, unfortunate resemblance to a musical comedy. However, this seems to be the film least defeated by CinemaScope process.

Lately, Hollywood producers seem put upon to make diverse insignificant comments on the world situation. If you pay little attention to the comment, you often find the underlying material worthwhile. If you enjoy a good thriller, such will be the case with "Night People."

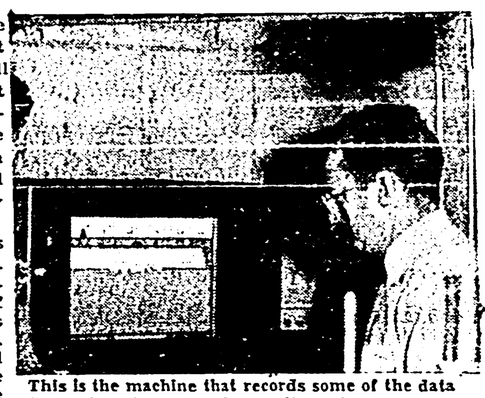
Inklings by Jim Blier



"I don't know about you, brother, but I'm lost."

Light to Chemical

By JOHN JOHNSRUD



This is the machine that records some of the data by which the researchers follow the figures in the problem of photosynthesis.

Photosynthesis, the ability of the plant substance chlorophyll to transform light energy into chemical energy, is the subject of a research project being carried on in the chemistry department.

Everyone knows that sunlight is absorbed by the chlorophyll in the leaf of a plant and causes the plant to grow. The actual chemical reactions which are brought about by the absorbtion of light, however, are not clearly understood even by scientists.

When light hits chlorophyll and is absorbed, the chlorophyll molecules react to form substances which are energetically unstable. It is these unstable materials which release energy used for the growth and nourishment of the plant.

The researchers believe that they have identified the initial products and basic ractions which the chlorophyll undergoes immediately after its absorbtion of light. These substances permit light energy to be changed to chemical energy.

Dr. Henry Linschitz is directing this project which is sponsored by the Atomic Energy Commission. The study has been going on for four years with the AEC support reaching $15,000 this year.

Dr. Edwin W. Abrahamson and Earl Jacobs, both research associates, form the nucleus of the research. The former gained his Ph.D. at Syracuse and worked at the Solar Energy Research laboratory at MIT before returning here. Jacobs received his Ph.D. at the University of Illinois' photosynthesis laboratory.

Graduate students working on the project are David Cross, Sol Gilman, Margot Kalberman, Marc Korn and Robert Singer.

The laboratories in Bowne hall, in which this work is proceeding include two darkrooms where the chemiluminescence, or the ability to give off light in the dark, of dyes similar to chlorophyll is tested. This is being done on the idea that the way plants give off light will provide an insight into the manner in which they absorb light.

QUIZZICAL MIND

A BATTLE OF BRAINS 'GREAT FUN'

By MICHAEL MORGAN

Try this on for size.

Who is the sole independent Congressman in the House of Representatives Or . . . .

What would you do with 'jozcia japanica'?

If you encounter any major amount of difficulty in answering the above queries, be not faint at heart. They were rigged to be difficult as questions on NBC's weekly battle of brains, "College Quiz Bowl."

As of last Thursday evening, Syracusans have been more than slightly interested in that particular program after four University panelists advanced upon the 30-minute question session and wrested a five-week crown from Washington and Lee university. The victory came through a series of rapid, inspired and correct answers from the Syracuse scholars.

Tonight, the champs will defend their title against four intellectuals from the University of Colorado.

And how is it, having questions fired at you over a nationwide broadcast? Well, great fun is the majority opinion of the Syracuse quartet, seniors Janet Caro, Jane Bauer, Raymond Guenter and John Beach. According to Guenter, "the day before the show was worse than the contest itself. After we went through the warm-up period and got over the stiffness, we were almost completely at ease."

Jan Caro adds that after the team correctly answered a few questions in that warm-up session, "we lost most of the fear."

The team is also in agreement that the questions weren't particularly hard. "We could see that they fall into a particular pattern," senior class president Beach offered, "and we're going to plan for that this week. Otherwise they were fairly easy . . . Except, of course, the ones we didn't know."

It has been pointed out by all the panelists, and the "College Quiz Bowl" staff in New York, that the questions are oft times on obscure bits of information that one of the panelists may know just by chance. Speed in answering is also an important factor.

And do these Syracuse quiz kids pour over the books in preparation for the show? According to Jane Bauer, this is a very difficult thing to do since the scope of the questioning is so large. "It pretty much comes down to reading the newspaper, news magazines and relying on memory for the rest," Jane commented. The panelists pointed out that their coach, Dr. Edwin Cady, had emphasized that material could certainly not be memorized but rather reviewed. Previous broadcasts gave the team some clues as to line of questioning.

In all modesty, the panelists give themselves a 50-50 chance in tonight's contest against their western cousins. An informal poll among local scholars, impartially speaking, of course, offers a slightly heavier margin for the Syracusans.

We can only wander on down to the dance studio tonight for the final tabulation.

AN EVENING IN

Coke Time Rumpus Viewed in Marshall

By DICK CASE
Editorial Page Writer

Last night on the NBC-TV hookup, Eddie Fisher said, "Color television, uuuuuummmmmm Boy!" which quite adequately reflected, I think, the feelings of a group gathered in Marshall auditorium to view his "Coke Time" in full color.

The occasion was the first local demonstration of the new technicolor medium. General Electric company brought along one of its custom-made 12½ inch receivers and John M. Phillips, manager of color TV product engineering for GE, was there to speak a few good words about color's technical operation.

"Coke Time," a 15-minute spot, offered perhaps the best color reproduction that this reviewer has seen in Syracuse to date. The colors were mellow, soft, very similar to Hollywood's true-color this time, and the show greatly benefitted from its technicolor splashings. Despite an overabundance of blue items in the production, the effect was honestly startling and singularly overpowering, in itself.

Now, Eddie Fisher's little rumpus has never been particularly noted for its quality, but in color, we could almost overlook the little guy's middling singing and faulty gestures. The producers wisely selected a circus scene for the venture resulting in some beauteous effects and giant eyetwisters.

There was no trouble to be found in transmission and the flesh coloring especially came out in true form.

Of particular interest on this colorcast were the backgrounds which consisted, in the main, of bright, gaudy circus posters that fairly lept out at the viewer from NBC's magic box. The greens and yellows seemed almost missing from the show which points up an interesting trick of the color studio designers to emphasize certain blends. In a longer offering, the result might rest some of the beauty from the show.

Following the demonstration, Mr. Phillips lectured on the workings of color transmission and accepted questions from the audience.

In the end, a highly interesting time was had, gilted by the electronic world's latest and greatest wonder child in its finest attire. It was wit hheavy heart we returned to its black and white papa.

Europe in 1954
Outstanding 47 to 49 day personally escorted Eight Country Tourist and Cabin Class Tours. ALL EXPENSES, only $1295 up—Finest All First Class LUXURY TOURS, 47 to 70 days $1875 up. Frequent sailings Mar. thru Sept. in QUEEN ELIZABETH or MARY. Small parties. Don't delay! Write now for free booklets, or phone
DUFFY TRAVEL SERVICE
Hotel Onondaga

Hear - ye! Hear - ye!
Everybody Gets a 20% Discount for the I.F.C. Ball
A FREE BOUTONNIERE WITH EACH CORSAGE
WHITE ORCHID $5.00 COST YOU $4.00
LAVENDAR ORCHID $3.00 COST YOU $2.40
SPRING CORSAGES
GARDENIAS
RAINBOW ORCHIDS
ROSES
CARNATIONS
$3.00 AND UP—LESS DISCOUNT
DEAL FLORIST
734 S. CROUSE 4-6321 ON THE HILL

A Friendly Place for Friendly People
Daily Specials:
A ¼ LB. OF ROUND GROUND STEAK (On a home-made roll) 25c
A ¾ LB. OF T-BONE STEAK (U. S. Choice Beef) $1.50
482 SOUTH SALINA STREET Inc.
(formerly The Turf)

WE'RE BACK and BETTER THAN EVER
◆ YOUR CAMPUS DANCING SPOT ◆
THE NEWLY REMODELED "ORANGE ROOM" IS NOW OPEN
DANCING NIGHTLY -- 8 P.M. TILL CLOSING
Food Daily and Sunday
Suppers 5-8 P.M. Daily and Sunday
ORANGE CAFE
"Your Spot On The Hill"

ELLIOT LAWRENCE AND HIS ORCHESTRA featuring ROSALIND PATTON
—playing for—
'fraternally yours,
I. F. C. BALL -- APRIL 3rd
SATURDAY APRIL 3rd
The Interfraternity Council
Cordially Invites You To Attend Its ...
"ALL-UNIVERSITY OPEN HOUSE"
featuring
TEDDY WILSON
WORLD FAMED JAZZ PIANIST
FRIDAY, EVENING, APRIL 2nd
SIMS HALL NO ADMISSION

NCAA SWIM BRIBES DISCLOSED

ON THE SCENT with LENT

By KEN LENT, Alleged Daily Orange Sports Editor

Wow, were we happy to hear of Gov. Dewey's eleventh-hour decision to make Syracuse the Saratoga of Central New York. Boy, think what a boom racing will be to the struggling students who are in dire need of money.

Instead of having to work hours on end in a steaming sorority kitchen, Orange horsemen will be able to slap two on the nose of Fieldhouse in the fifth. Gosh, the possibilities just overwhelm us!

Burdick

We asked several prominent Syracusans what they thought of the move. Local tout "Flat-top" Arnie Burdick ventured, "I've been playing the horses for nigh onto seven years and I must say as a way of living, betting is milder . . . much milder."

Cheerleader Sandy Eakin says, "The cheerleading staff is planning some peachy new yells for the races. One suggested was:

Come on gang, cough up some mon
For Native Dancer who's 6-1.
And then we wrote:
Rah, rah, rah and ray, ray ray
Afternoon classes are off today
The prof didn't show; he has a good case
He's got twenty bet on the next to last race.

Only one individual, Ben Schwartzwalder who I believe coaches a minor sport, was against the action. "This never would have happened if we could have had spring practice, he said. "Never will so many be taken so much by so few."

Starting today, the Daily Orange will run the scratch sheet direct from the wires of the Daily Racing Form. Let's support this sports event, gang. Because they're off and running at Syracuse.

The night sports editor acting for the good of society could not subject his readers to any more of this boring column therefore:

TIC-TAC-TOE
and DOODLING

By BOB GROGAN
Night Sports Editor

Athletic Officials Give Statements On Swimming Fix

Webster Reveals Bribe Refusals by Several Visiting Coaches

By LOWELL TOENNIESSEN
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Following the revelation of bribes and fixes in last weekend's National Collegiate swimming championships, The Daily Orange interviewed several important members of the University athletic staff. Statements by the officials follow:

Andreas

Ted Webster, head swimming coach and director of the recent NCAA tourney: "I know several visiting coaches were approached but refused bribes. No one knows how many have been accepted."

Lewis P. Andreas, director of athletics and physical education, was unavailable for comment. He is attending the annual meeting of the National Association of Collegiate and Amateur Fencing Coaches of America.

M. Harold Michaels, director of athletic ticket sales: "It was a sellout."

Ben Schwartzwalder, head football coach: "This wouldn't have happened if we had spring practice."

Decker

Member of athletic staff who asked to remain anonymous: "I'm not surprised. After all, a coach has to make a living."

Jim Decker, assistant to the director of athlectics: "No comment."

Arnie Burdick, director of athletic publicity: "I hope this unfortunate event will not create a bad name for our new million-dollar race track."

Milt Howard, director of intramural athletics: "It's too bad but at least intramurals are still pure."

SWIMMING COACH TED WEBSTER shows how he assisted in the arrest of several men he caught bribing NCAA swim officials, last week. Webster apprehended the men in Archbold gym during the finals of the NCAA swimming meet on Saturday night.

By LEE KIKLIER
Daily Orange Junior Editor

In one devastating blow, Syracuse swimimng coach Ted Webster burst the bubble of innocence and respectibility in which the NCAA encased itself during the basketball tournament scandals several years ago. In an interview which he called late last night, Coach Webster told a tale of bribed officials, fixed meets and big payoffs during the National Swimming contest held in Orange pool last weekend.

Reading from a prepared statement with the nodding and smiling approval of his attorney, Webster accused some NCAA-assigned officials whom he "saw being offered and accepting large amounts of money from several men." Webster never saw the men before but claims that he noticed them at the championship swimming meets.

"That was during Saturday night's finals," said Webster. "I was coming down to the locker room to pick up some vaseline. I stopped by the therapy room and heard voices." Webster said he heard statements pertaining to lower judge scores on certain divers.

"I heard enough to realize that it was a fix. I went and got my pistol out of my locker and apprehended the men." Webster turned them over to the police.

They are still being detained downtown on suspicion charges. Webster didn't divulge the names of the arrested.

Webster said that he reported the incident to officials of the University and assumed that they would handle the case from then on.

"I DIDN'T read any report of it," Webster continued, "and I thought the public and student body should be informed of this unfortunate event."

In answers to questions, Webster said that the University had not told him to supress the story, but neither had they told him to release it. "In fact, I never heard from them after Saturday night."

The whole event was run off under the auspices of the National Collegiate Athletic association and the University only supplied the site. Nevertheless, it was believed that the men were a part of a city-wide syndicate which has been attempting to tamper with University games all year.

If the theory of attempts to fix other sports is correct, then Coach Webster's daring act can be likened to the fabled Dutch boy pulling his finger out of the dike. The flood is yet to come.

Archbold Selected For Race Opening

Governor Dewey Closes Jamaica

By STAN ROSENFELD
Daily Orange Junior Editor

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey announced late yesterday that the racing season which was to open today at Jamaica has been cancelled and the opening will instead take place at Archbold stadium, Syracuse. The startling announcement left the turf world in a state of utter confusion.

Asked for a comment on the situation, Dewey observed, "I want a higher caliber of racing fan and I believe that if we move our tracks to institutions of higher learning we will accomplish just that."

THE ARCHBOLD area was blocked off from the public as pari-mutual machines were brought in and the scoreboard was replaced by a totalizator board. Members of the faculty and University trustees will act as cashiers while the Cadets of the Army ROTC unit will assume guard duties.

Students under 21 will have to present ID cards to gain admission to the clubhouse and bar facilities. Girls will have to be escorted by their parents or older looking male undergrads.

Dean of Admissions John S. Hafer was deluged by applications from all over the world but announced that only 400,000 applicants will be accepted. The regular tuition charges will be in effect although scholarships will be given to all racing majors.

Hill Swordsmen Win In Memorial Battle

By FABIAN GUMDOO
Daily Orange Misfit

Before a record War Memorial crowd of 9,800 yesterday morning, Syracuse's underdog fencers captured the world fencing crown and the $78,000 that goes as first prize money.

Douglas Fairbanks Jr., Hill captain, turned in the decisive win as he edged Yale fencer Rocky Marciano with a hard thrust to the solar plexis. Marciano, under the rules of the NCPAAATOFITWDW is entitled to a return match within 177 years. The NCPAAATOFITWDW, or the National Collegiate Professional Amateur Athletic Association Tourney for Fencers of the Whole Damn World, is the sole fencing governing body.

Five Syracusans advanced to the final round of competition and six were proclaimed champions. To the winner went the bloody stump symbolic of the fencing championship. Each runnerup was given a sturdy handshake by the bloody stump.

Piety Coach Marilyn Monroe, (now starring in her latest picture "It's Fun Marrying Old Baseball Players") called the victory a team effort. "It's all in the way our sabre section keep their points sharp," Miss Monroe said.

SABRE SLOP: Chancellor William P. Tolley was seen busily handing out aplication blanks for next year's fencing squad in the crowd. Applications, of which a few are still left, must be accompanied by a $1,000 entrance fee and Christine Jorgensen's autograph.

Final standings:

1. Syracuse	4002
2. Joe's Laundry	12
3. Alex Strasser	9
4. ROTC Officers club	5
5. Marie's	3
6. Yale	2
7. Michigan State	1

KKG, DG to Meet In Hoop Contest

By JODY CRONAU
as told to
ERNEST HEMINGWAY rewritten
By KEN LENT
typewriter technical assistance
By DOUGLAS MacARTHUR

Kappa Kappa Gamma and Delta Gamma will engage in a hair-pulling contest tonight at 8:30 p.m. in the Young women's gym. The groups will also play a basketball game before the main event.

The winners will meet in Sims III (not to be confused by Sims II) which won the frosh women's hoop foolishness. Starting for Koppo Koppa Gomma are Joan Poppe, Connie Davis, Pat Mahone, Carol Fagan. Lois Baxter. Claire Davis, Miss Parker and Lana Turner.

DG (Damn Good), counters with Mickey Lynd, Joan Janecek, Joan Abbott, Yvonne Buckminster, Diane Wililams, Jody Cronau Dean Smith and Carole Lombard, (a real gone kid). Referee Mark Guley warns the girls that an official's decision holds at all times.

The women's champion will romp down to Cornell later to play the Red hoop titlist but if the weather is clear and the men are fast . . . .

DID YOU KNOW?

Did you know that Bob Lefko, Alex Strasser and Dave Bennett wrote stories that didn't run in today's issue? Of course not, how could you?

Feature Race

ARCHBOLD TOMORROW
The Paumonck

Sixth (4:15 p.m.)—6 furlongs; purse, Fieldhouse Foundation; four-year olds and up.

Horse & Weight	Jockey	Odds	Trackman's com.
Spring Practice 20 days	Schwartzwalder	100-1	Beaten by Board, 3-20-53
Doc Hugo, 190	Hugo	50-1	Lost to Al Zak
Orange Bowl	Alabama	61-6	No Comment
Dean Hilton*	Pasquel, Jose	9-12	?????
Money Broker, 126	Andreas	4-5	Short last time out
Rigor Mortis, 165	Simmons	5-1	Died last outing

* Five-pound sex alowance

YOUR FRIENDS WILL LIKE IT HERE!

DANCING EVERY EVENING ON OUR LARGE DANCE FLOOR. SERVING THE FINEST IN FOOD AND BEVERAGES IMPRESS YOUR DATE AT THE

KENMORE HOTEL
215 W. Manlius in East Syracuse — Ph. 77-5985

Which White Bucks Are Yours?

Mansfields
by the makers of BOSTONIANS

Sure we know you've already got a pair of white bucks, (cause WHO DOESN'T on the Syracuse campus), but you'd better check below and see just which kind you have.

Check Here

NEW? Bucks in this category are less than a month old and are still clean. Unless you're going to buy another new pair, read no further.

USED? These Bucks are less than 6 months old and real dirty. The're all right for class or campus but you need a new pair of clean Bucks for dates, etc.

P.U.'S? Bucks in this class are out of it. You know the kind I mean; when you take them off at night, your roommates politely ask you to put them outside on the window ledge. For your sock's sake, room mate's sake, and your own sake get down to W&C and get these Brand New Buck.

$11.95

Color Sticks To Shade Your Bucks

Pearl Grey — Beige — Tan Bark
Honey Beige — Buff — Bombay

WELLS & COVERLY
So. Salina St. • Syracuse

Save $10 ON THIS BEAM 3-SPEED Record Player

19.95

$1 DOWN
$1 WEEKLY

29.95 Value

Plays all Speeds at the Flick of a Lever

A fine 3-speed portable, at a price you'd pay for a single-speed model! Exciting tone, powerful BEAM amplifier, 4-inch ALNICO V speaker, long-life Triune "all-speed" needle. In brown, green, maroon lizator. Get yours now!

Rudolph's
DEPENDABLE JEWELERS SINCE 1906
Expert Watch and Jewelry Repair Service
CORNER SOUTH SALINA AT EAST JEFFERSON STS.

NEW YORK'S FINEST RESTAURANTS AND NIGHT CLUBS
WELCOME SYRACUSE PATRONAGE!

Sea Food ANCHOR
200 W 57th at 7th AVE
STEAKS & CHOPS TOO!
CL 6-4127
LUNCHEON - COCKTAILS
DINNER - AFTER THEATRE
7 DAYS A WEEK

Different
86th STREET Brauhaus
BAVARIAN CABARET
E. 86TH ST. bet. 2nd & 3rd Aves.

New York's Most Exciting FOOD & MUSIC
DINNER SERVED FROM 5 P.M.
MUSIC TILL 4 A.M.
MEMBER DINERS' CLUB
NO 20% TAX
EMBERS
161 EAST 54TH ST. PL. 9-3228

OVERSTUFFED SANDWICHES
AFTER THE SHOW—TOGGLE ON OVER TO Arthur Maisel's
FLORIDIAN
DELICATESSEN-RESTAURANT
BROADWAY AT 51ST ST.
At the Top of Times Square
AND FABULOUS DESSERTS

Say La Vie—The Place to be
FOR DINNER
AFTER THEATRE
AND REAL LATE
MONTE PROSER'S
La Vie en Rose
123 E. 54th • MUR-8420

WORLD'S MOST FAMOUS BALLROOM
• CAFE •
COCKTAIL LOUNGE
ROSELAND
BROADWAY at 51

NEW YORK'S FINEST
Authentic! Exotic!
ORIENTAL CUISINE
Chen's SINGAPORE
Dinner • Supper
Diners' Club
ATOP WINTER GARDEN THEATRE
BROADWAY at 50th STREET

Dine and Dance
BEFORE & AFTER THEATRE
FREE PARKING
FOR SHOW-GOING PATRONS
OPEN ALL YEAR in CENTRAL PARK
Tavern ON THE GREEN
Schuyler 4-8100
W. 67TH ST. ENTRANCE

GEORGE WHITE
"NICE TO SEE YOU"
by JACK YELLEN • IRVING CAESAR • GEORGE WHITE
NIGHTLY AT DINNER AND SUPPER
Versailles
151 EAST 50TH • PL 9-0210
EXTRA LATE SHOWS FRI & SAT

IT'S A LOTTA FUN!
with LARRY McMAHON
"your singing host"
3 floor shows nitely
HAL GRAHAM orch.
no cover charge
VillageBarn
52 WEST 8TH ST. • GR 7-4617
GREENWICH VILLAGE U.S.A.

OPENING TONIGHT
ALSO APRIL
2, 3, 5, 6, 7

G I G I

By COLETTE
Adapted For Stage By
ANITA LOOS

CURTAIN 8:15
Coronet Theater
IN Drama Building
All Seats
Rserved
$1.20
Call 4-2776

WAER Requests FCC OK On AM Transmitter Plan

Campus radio station WAER has applied to the Federal Communications commission for permission to operate an AM transmitter, Syracuse university radio-television center officials have announced.

If granted an AM license, the University FM station will expand operations to both broadcasting methods and will go on the air daily at 7 a.m., E. C. Jones, station manager, said.

PROGRAM Director James A. Fellows reported that arrangements are being made to join the Yankee radio network if the AM application is approved. "Since the station already belongs to the Rural Radio network and WQXR network, Onondaga county area residents will be assured of the best in music and entertainment," he said.

General Electric company has donated a 500-watt transmitter to the University for its expanded operations. The transmitter will be set up near the FM equipment in the basement of the Main library.

A temporary transmitting antenna will be erected atop the library roof until the new Women's dormitory is completed on Mount Olympus sometime next year.

Present plans call for construction of both AM and FM antennae on the roof of the dorm, about 330 feet above sea level.

Although the AM operation of WAER will be commercial, Fellows said that the FM broadcasting will remain non-commercial.

Skelton to Appear In Senior Musical

Red Skelton, Hollywood comedian, will appear in "Up in Lights," all-University musical production, according to Director Gerald Leider.

Leider said yesterday that Skelton will appear in the production to gain experience for his forthcoming motion picture, "Collegiate."

"We know," Leider said, "that the presence of Skelton on campus will be more than adequate compensation for the rise in ticket prices. After all, he's a personality."

Skelton will replace Robert Dishy as star of the show. Dishy said that he will return to his old position in the War Memorial.

Reached by telephone in New York, Skelton said that he and his wife, Virginia Mayo, will leave from Hollywood tomorrow and arrive at the Hotel Syracuse at 7 p.m. Sunday.

Skelton is one of Hollywood's top comedians. He appears on his own television show on NBC and is under contract to MGM.

Sawyer Falk, head of the drama department, when contacted by phone yesterday was speechless. He did manage to utter "Gee!" however, before the three minutes were up.

RED SKELTON, renowned star of stage, screen, radio and television, will appear in the senior show, "Up in Lights." He will replace Robert Dishey as star of the show.

Decision Announced On Bermuda Shorts After Panel Debate

A decision regarding the wearing of Bermuda shorts on campus was reached late last night by the joint WSG-MSG panel that has been investigating this problem.

"It was only through the unparalleled efforts of Phyllis Sirota and Roger Herz that any decision was reached at all," Elizabeth Brydon and Stanley Leff, co-chairmen of the panel, said yesterday. Miss Sirota and Herz have devoted all of the past month to extensive research on Bermuda history and folklore in order to present a complete picture of this vital situation.

THE FINAL edict, as released, has so many riders and clauses attached to it that it would be impossible to list them all. "However," Leff stated, "the basic rule is that the shorts may be worn only on certain days."

These days according to the law will be set aside by the joint assemblies of WSG and MSG as "official Bermuda shorts wearing days." The days for next year have not been decided upon as yet.

What occurred has come to have been known as "the great Bermuda shorts compromise," or the setting aside of special days for the wearing of the clothes.

Miss Brydon and Leff both agreed that the solution was "the only thing possible under the circumstances." A poll taken among students in various University living centers revealed that student sentiment was fully in accord with the bill.

Notices

City women's club, coffee with city men, 7 p.m., lounge, Women's building.

Scabbard and Blade military honorary, meeting with Outing club to plan field trip, 7:15 p.m., Maxwell auditorium. Bring scabbards.

Young Republicans club, 8 p.m., 207 HL. F. B. Petingill will discuss methods of printing parking stickers. David Norton will illustrate.

Sociology club, 9 p.m., Dr. Bell's home, 406 Livingston ave. Merle Adams will discuss "Interaction."

Economics club, 7 p.m., 309 Maxwell. Bring graphs.

Iota Alpha Pi, coffee with Ralph James, 10 p.m., 706 Comstock.

Ski school meeting, 7 p.m., ski jump.

Psi Chi meeting, cancelled.

Students interested in positions with E. I. Dupont Nemours co., see Dean Clifford today.

The following persons are assigned to work at the Daily Orange today: Afternoon: Mary Anne Dalton, Stanley Leff, Elizabeth Brydon, Darwin Bolden, Gerry Leider, David Norton, Malcolm Foster. Night: Lanny O'Kun, Eugenia Haaf, Daniel Bavolack, Pete Mutschler.

Up in Lights, students to work on arrangements, call Red Lyons, 4-3329.

WAA basketball championship, Zeta Psi vs. Kappa Kappa Gamma, 8:30 p.m., Women's gym.

MSG general staff meeting, 7:30 p.m., 207 HL, discussion of single student government.

Chess club, 8:45 p.m., 117 Lyman.

Physicist Perfects A-Bomb Defense

An effective preventive against destruction by atomic warfare has been developed by Prof. Charles Fredricksen of the physics department.

Fredricksen said that his apparatus, perfected in Steele hall during the past two years, is a complex radar device coupled with effective 14-inch rockets.

The rockets contain an effective charge which sets up a counter-chain reaction that counteracts the effects of the atomic bomb before it bursts.

14-Inch Snowstorm Nearing Syracuse

Syracuse weatherman Andrew H. Keller warned local residents last night that another unseasonable snowstorm may hit the city by mid-afternoon today.

The storm, moving slowly eastward over Lake Erie from Canada, may deposit up to 14 inches of snow on Syracuse, Keller said.

City and university plowing crews have been ordered on a stand-by basis after being caught short by Monday's thirteen inches.

JSCSG TO MEET

The US JSCSG of SU will meet at 7:30 p.m. today in 304 HL to discuss IFC and MSG.

WAER Schedule

THURSDAY

2:58—Sign On
3:00—Chancellor Spins the Disks
3:05—Evening in the Afternoon
4:00—Music to Fight By
5:00—Buckaroos
5:05—An Evening with Jim Fellows
5:15—White Tower Date
6:15—News, Hillegas Reports to Campus
6:25—Report on Hillegas
6:35—Sports with Ken Lent
6:50—Bachelor's Quarters
7:00—WSYR Artists
7:30—Rooming Through Steele
8:00—Speaking Japanese
9:00—Marc Guley Leads Exercises
9:05—One Side of Beethoven's Fifth
10:00—Anthropology
10:05—Music to Recuperate By
10:10—Heatter Reports from ew York
10:20—All Night Jam Session

Sororities Reveal Plans for Merger

Two Hill sororities, Sigma Delta Tau and Sigma Tau Delta, voted yesterday to combine as a result of continued confusion because of similarity in names. The houses announced the merger shortly after aproval had been granted by the STD and SDT nationals. The two sororities have not yet agreed upon a name for the combined chapter.

REGENT

THURS.—SAT.

Hal Walis'

"CEASE FIRE"

also

Fernando Lamas

Rhonda Fleming

"JIVARO"

(Headhunters of the Amazon)

Color by Technicolor

Schine's PARAMOUNT Now Playing

CINEMASCOPE brings you the ADVENTUROUSING STORY of Col. Steve Van Dyke, U.S. Counter-Intelligence "Night People"

In the wonder of STEREOPHONIC SOUND color by TECHNICOLOR

STARRING GREGORY PECK · BRODERICK CRAWFORD

ANITA BJORK · RITA GAM

PRODUCED AND DIRECTED BY NUNNALLY JOHNSON · SCREENPLAY BY NUNNALLY JOHNSON

For the Record...

Hill Four to Face Colorado

By DICK CASE

Four Syrause panelists will defend their "College Quiz Bowl" crown at 8:30 p.m. today when they meet the scholars from the University of Colorado in NBC's nationwide test of knowledge.

The local portion of the broadcast which will originate from the Women's building dance studio, will be tape recorded today and broadcast over NBC's nationwide hookup at 6 p.m., Sunday. It will be the final "Quiz Bowl" program of the season. The winning college will return if the series is rescheduled by NBC in the fall.

THE DOORS of the dance studio will open at 7:30 p.m. and close at 8:10 p.m. Approximately 200 admission tickets were distributed yesterday by the radio-television center, producers of the local program. If the auditorium, which seats 350, is not filled by 8 p.m., persons will be admitted with or without tickets. Any overflow crowd will be accommodated by loud speakers in the hallway.

In last Thursday's "College Quiz Bowl" broadcast, the four Syracuse panelists, Janet Caro, Jane Bauer, John Beach and Raymond Guenter, scored a victory over the five-time winners from Washington and Lee University. Coached by Dr. Edwin Cady of the English department, the local scolars totaled 205 points in the contest.

The challengers, from the University of Colorado, include three seniors and four freshmen. They are Fred Stassburger, psychology senior and Phi Beta Kappa member; Anne Howard, history senior and active in campus activities; Alan Love, senior in international Affairs and member of the tennis team; and John Moore, a freshman in electrical engineering who has an applied mathematics minor.

Moderated by Allen Ludden from New York's Radio City, the teams broadcast from their respective campuses through local NBC affiliates. An electronic signalling device indicates to Ludden which team is ready to answer first, the use of a split-second timer thereby eliminating any doubts. The questions are divided into "toss-ups," worth 10 points, and "bonus" questions which are awarded after a correct answer to "toss-ups".

ACCORDING TO Edward C. Jones, supervisor of Syracuse's participation, the dance studio has been termed "very live" by NBC engineers. Recommendations have been received that the Syracuse audience be "as quiet as possible during the broadcast." He stated that all unnecessary noise, such as undue coughing and talking, should be avoided. A strict rule of "No Smoking" will also be enforced.

Bob Whitney, WSYR announcer and a junior on campus, acts as moderator or "referee" of the broadcast from the dance studio.

The winning team on "College Quiz Bowl" receives a $500 prize and the losers a wrist watch. Syracuse's winnings will go toward the purchase of television sets for the Women's building.

Dr. Cressey's Book On Soviet Published By University Press

Syracuse university Press has published Dr. George B. Cressey's new book, "How Strong is Russia?"

Professor of geography at the Maxwell school, Dr. Cressey writes about the geographic factors which affect the world position of the Soviet Union. He includes many interesting and unusual facts about the country.

A visitor to the USSR several times, he has spent many years of research on Russian geography. He balances assets against liabilities and gives a realistic picture of Russia's strength as compared with other nations of the world.

Dr. Cressey in his book feels that it is impossible for the Soviet Union to accomplish its objective of overtaking and surpassing the capitalistic world.

After summarizing the achievements of the five-year plans, and giving the latest word on currant economic planning, the author appraises the difficulties of future developments.

Chapel reps, meeting, 4:15 p.m., colonial room in Chapel.

Daily Chapel, 12-12:20 p.m Rev. Willard Cook will speak.

Kappa Kappa Gamma will meet Delta Gamma tonight at 8:30 p.m. in the Women's building for the WAA basketball championship.

"Up in Lights" needs students to work on arrangements. Call Joyce Grossman, 4-3121.

Canterbury Episcopal fellowship elections today and tomorrow in the Episcopal Church office in Chapel; Sunday, 5:30-8 p.m. at Grace Church.

Senior hall committee meeting, 7:30 p.m., board room, Women's building. Preliminary report due from all chairmen.

NSA. meeting, 7 p.m., office, Women's building.

Foreign students for international weekend, 8:30 p.m., 305 Women's building.

Soph exec council, meeting, 7 p.m., Sigma Delta Tau.

"Up in Lights," promotion meeting for all sub-committee members and any interested persons, 7 p.m., AEPhi.

City women's club, meeting, 7 p.m. city women's lounge, Women's building.

MSG general staff meeting, 7:30 p.m., Maxwell. Those with exams please attend at 8 p.m.

The following people are assigned to work at The Daily Orange today: Afternoon, Goddard, Yunker, Feldman, McNally, Nowikas, Smith, Bartkevicius; Night, Reed, Reilly, Jo Stern, Bloom, Chesin, Goodman, Gootter, Litchman, Walrath, Long.

St. Thomas More publicity meeting, 9 p.m., 112 Walnut pl.

First Nighters View 'Gigi' Show Today

"Gigi," Boar's Head's second production of the year, will be unveiled to first-nighters at 8:15 p.m. today in the Drama building theater.

A two-act comedy by French novelist Colette, adapted by Anita Loos, the play is directed by Sawyer Falk, director of the dramatic activities on the Hill.

THE SHOW is scheduled to run today, tomorrow, Saturday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Six more presentations are slated for after Easter.

"Gigi" ran on broadway several years ago with Audrey Hepburn, Academy Award winner, in the title role. Shirley Fenner and Elizabeth Schwartz will take the part of "Gigi" on alternate nights.

Gerald Reidenbaugh, drama department instructor, wil play the male lead of Gaston Lachaille. Nancy Edwards, Hill graduate, will be seen as Madama Inez Alveraz, Gigi's grandmother. Madame Alicia de St. Ephlem will be played by Francesca Trantum.

The mother's role will be filled by Marlene Muller with Millicent McIntyre cast as Sidonne. Kenneth Bowles, well-known for his work in Syracuse and Broadway, will be seen as Victor.

COSTUMES BEING used are from the original Broadway production, designed and executed by Karinsky of New York and Paul Porter of Paris. Settings, designed by John Moore, will utilize a special rolling stage for the first time in 25 years.

Sheldon Weiner is stage manager with Hugh Fordon and Barbara Baird assisting. Tickets for the play may be purchased at the Drama building box office.

Symphonic Concert Will Honor ROTC

The University symphonic band will present a concert honoring Syracuse's army ROTC corps at 4 p.m. Sunday in Crouse auditorium.

Several selections in martial time have been selected for the program, which is free to students, faculty and the general public.

Dr. Harwood Simmons, of the School of Music, will direct the group. The featured trombone soloist is John Iannotta.

Selections will include "Pomp and Circumstance," "La Boutique Fantasque," "Zanoni," "Toccata Marziale" and "Hands Across the Sea." Iannotta will lay in three movements of Rimsky-Korsakov's "Concerto for Trombone and Band."

LAKERS TOP NATS

The Minneapolis Lakers went one game up on the Syracuse Nationals last night winning the first game of the best of five series by an 11 point margin. The winner of the series will be crowned champion of the National Basketball Association.

MSG Board to Pick Civil Service Chief

Applications Open For Court Positions

The student government trust board will meet this afternoon to choose a chief of civil service of men's student government for 1954-55.

Date of the trust board meeting to name new men's court justices has been changed to Tuesday. Stephen Reiss, chief of civil service, has announced.

He will accept applications from male students interested in serving as justices until noon Tuesday. A minimum of one senior justice, one junior justice and two sophomore justices will be chosen.

Applications should include name, address, phone number and ideas for the court. Men with at least a 1.6 cumulative average are eligible.

KKG, DG Teams Vie for Hoop Title

Hoopsters from Kappa Kappa Gamma and Delta Gamma will vie for the upperclass WAA basketball championship at 8:30 p.m. tonight in the Women's building.

The winners will meet Sims III frosh champs, for the University championship and the opportunity to compete against a Cornell basketball squad in Ithaca.

The starting team for Kappa will include Joan Poppe, Connie Davis and Pat Mahoney, forwards, and Carol Fagan, Lois Baxter and Claire Davis, guards.

Delta Gamma forwards are Mickey Lynd, Joan Janecek and Joan Abbott; guards are Yvonne Buckminster, Diane Williams and Jody Cronau.

WAER PROGRAM SCHEDULE

THURSDAY

2:58—Sign On
3:00—WAER News
3:05—Symphonic Matinee
4:00—Musical Heritage
5:00—This I Believe
5:05—Distaff Digest
5:15—Dinner Date
6:25—WAER News
6:25—Evening Showcase
6:35—WAER Sports Lineup
6:45—Bachelor's Quarters
7:00—Keyboard Concert
7:30—Ebb and Flow
7:45—Songs of France
8:00—Evening With Music
9:00—Anthropology
10:00—Final Edition—News
10:10—Final Edition—Sports
10:20—Sign Off

Three Poli Sci Profs Given Year Leaves

Dr. H. C. Beyle, Mrs. Marguerite Fisher and Dr. Donald Bishop, faculty members of the political science department, have been granted a one-year leave by the University to study the government and social conditions of the Soviet Union.

Leaving by plane, June 5th, the committee will be the guests of the High Commissioner of Street Cleaning in Moscow for one month, in his palatial suburban home. They will tour the entire Soviet Union, studying voting trends of the peasants, and surveying the homes in which they live.

IN ADDITION to the formal surveys, the professors, with the special permission of Commissar Igor Prosovogovoff, will attend weekely Communist party cell meetings to see how they operate. However, a secret policeman will escort the committee to and from the cell meetings to prevent any uprisings by militant members.

In a recent letter received by the trio, Premier Georgi Malenkov welcomed the Americans' visit with these words: "We of the Soviet Union are deliriously delighted to have United States representatives tour our country and bring back the truth to your people."

The Premier also invited them to tour their great art museum in Moscow, which has a varied exhibition of the great communist leaders since 1918. All the libraries will be available to the group to gather information about other nations and the Soviet Union.

ON THE return trip the group will fly back to the States and compile a book on their studies.

Seniors Sponsor Sale of Corsages

All students interested in selling flowers during Spring weekend events should contact William (Red) Fox at 4-3329. The senior class executive council has voted to sell corsages of violets, roses and sweet peas at the moving up exercises, float parades and pageant, but members of all classes are welcome to be venders.

Class President John Beach said that sellers will be paid $1.00 per hour plus commission.

Hy Kassel

SAYS

I Bought Like Crazy Now... I Gotta Sell Like Mad!

SMART NEW SPRING & SUMMER SUITS and TOPCOATS

½ off SALE

Suits & Topcoats

Were $76 NOW $38
Were $60 NOW $36
Were $50 NOW $25

Hy Kassel's UPSTAIRS

309 South Warren St.

Open Monday & Friday Nights

Complete Optical Service

Optometric Eye Examinations

Glasses in Latest Styles

Broken Lenses and Frames Replaced Promptly

Lindemer

for glasses

Optometrists Opticians

440 SOUTH WARREN ST.

Phone 74-4244

CLASSIFIED ADS

IMPORTANT NOTICE—CLASSIFIED ADS to appear in this paper should be DELIVERED at the HELLBOX Classified desk between 1 and 3 p. m. NO ADS WILL BE ACCEPTED AFTER 3. ALL ADS MUST BE IN 2 DAYS IN ADVANCE. For further information call 4-7206.

ALL LOST ARTICLES should be turned into the CENTRAL LOST AND FOUND ROOM, 20 Bldg. 24 at 205 University Pl. Articles can be claimed there.

AUTO-DRIVING

AUTO DRIVING INSTRUCTION. Learn to drive easily, correctly and safely. Call Upstate Auto Driving School. Phone 8-4040.

LEARNING TO DRIVE? Learn quickly, easily, scientifically. 17 years experience. Car furnished. SULLIVANS DRIVING School Inc. 73-3451.

RENTALS

TYPEWRITERS RENTED: $3.00 per month, $8 3 months. Good selection. We deliver, Smith Brothers. 4-8833.

Typewriters rentals—New Models Reasonable Rates—Expert Service, All Makes—CORNER STORE.

FOR SALE

MERCURY 1949, 4-door sedan. Right and left directionals. One owner new tires. Harold L. Rear, 4-1790 or 74-3074.

FOR RENT

FURNISHED APARTMENT: $69. Two Grads or one or two Grad. women. Vern Steensland. 75-3790.

CHURCH SERVICE

ATTENTION: The Community of Utica would like 10 foreign students for Easter vacation or parts thereof. Contact Rev. Arthur Hopkinson, ext. 441, by April 7.

TYPING

EXPERIENCED TYPIST will type term papers in home. Call Mrs. Paul King. 9-5325.

MISCELLANEOUS

SPRING CLEANING TIME—Windows cleaned and other odd jobs done. Our work guaranteed Frank Petrosky and co. Phone 4-9625.

MIMEOGRAPHING, SAME DAY SERVICE, EXCELLENT WORK FREEMAN LETTER CO., ECKEL THEATER BLDG. 2-4829.

WANTED

IS LIFE PASSING YOU BY? Well, it wizzed right by us. If you are desparate for a date, we'll provide a perfect mate Call Jean or Shelly any time of the day or night.

GIRLS WHY SIT HOME? Escorts supplied for any occasion. Reasonable rates. Strictly Confidential. Don's Date Service. 4-9-9837. 3-5.

STARTS THURSDAY Schine's ECKEL

ON OUR WALL-TO-WALL FULL STAGE SCREEN!

THE POWERFUL DRAMA OF A WOMAN... WHO WANTED THE MAN HER DAUGHTER LOVED!

A JULES LEVEY Presentation

"THE SHE-WOLF" ("LA-LUPA")

starring KERIMA

"Just about as passionate as you can get!" N.Y. Post

Directed by ALBERTO LATTUADA · Ponti-De Laurentiis Production

EXTRA! "RETURN TO GLENNASCAUL" with ORSON WELLES

APR

On the Inside

"Gigi" Reviewed. See page 2.

Syracuse Daily Orange

Weather Report

CLOUDY, WARMER

High temperature ---- 45
Low temperature ---- 30

Vol. 51, No. 103 | Syracuse, N. Y., Friday, April 2, 1954 | 4 Pages — 5 Cents

Syracuse Defeats Colorado in College Radio Bowl

Chancellor Tolley Relates Europe, Middle East Trip

By ROGER J. HERZ

"It is difficult to see how the problems of the Middle East are going to be solved without bloodshed," Chancellor William P. Tolley told The Daily Orange yesterday upon his return from a two-month trip to Europe and the Middle East.

Dr. and Mrs. Tolley, who left here January 29, traveled mainly "in places we hadn't visited before." They spent the bulk of their time in Italy and also visited Greece, Egypt, Lebanon, Syria, Jordan, France and Spain.

THE PURPOSE of the trip was "to stretch our minds," he said, noting that he was not an official delegate or acting in any official capacity.

Warning that the trip had not made him an expert on the area, the Chancellor said that the Arab problem is a very complex one—"one that requires patience and understanding." One of the most hopeful things he found was the respect of all countries in the Middle East for the United Nations.

He said that the Arab nations feel that the Truman administration did not understand the problems of the Arabs, and are waiting to see whether they will get any better treatment under the Eisenhower administration.

The University of Beirut is highly respected, he observed and "some highly placed Arabs said it was the only good thing the Americans had done in the Middle East."

"I CAME back with the feeling that the major need of the Middle East was the American brand of education to replace the English and French brands they've known heretofore," he stated.

Dr. Tolley sees a need for American technical assistance, but even more the need for education for freedom.

Tension in the region is very high, he reported and he was unable to go into Israel because one traveling through an Arab country can't enter Israel and vice versa.

Chancellor and Mrs. Tolley returned on the Queen Mary, which docked at Halifax because of the New York dock strike. After a "long, slow train ride," he went through customs in New York, took a bus to Newark and flew to Washington.

HE JOINED Vice-chancellor Finla G. Crawford and Vice-president Kenneth Bartlett in the capital Wednesday for a discussion of possible revision of Public Law 550 to increase veteran benefits, "which we think are inadequate," he said.

He said that he was "never so happy to be back in my life, and everything about Syracuse looks good to me—even the snow." He was particularly struck by the progress made in construction.

"Syracuse was well-known wherever we went," he said, and "we met Syracusans everywhere we traveled."

Dr. Tolley had received a weekly letter from the Vice-chancellor and talked to him by telephone on the voyage back. He was further brought up to date during the discussions in Washington.

The Chancellor returned to Syracuse Wednesday night. He was welcomed yesterday morning with flowers soon after arriving at his office by three representatives of the Faculty club, Prof. Frederick Kramer, Prof. Warren Shepard, and Assistant Dean of Women Ruth Haddock.

More, Fairbanks Head IFC Council

Charles More and Robert Fairbanks were named co-chairmen of the Interfraternity-council Social Action committee for next year at Wednesday night's meeting of the council.

Other new chairmen named at the meeting were Aaron Miller and Theodore Missal, rushing chairmen; and intramural chairman James Franklin. All these new chairmen will take charge of their committees immediately and continue in charge until after next year's IFC elections.

Applications for assistant treasurer and assistant secretary should be handed in to Howard Osofsky at the Sigma Alpha Mu house before Tuesday noon, according to Osofsky. Selection of the accepted candidates will be announced at the next IFC meeting.

Twenty-six fraternity houses have entered applications for the William P. Tolley cup award, according to Theodore Denise, fraternity faculty advisor. Award of the cup will be made at the IFC ball Saturday night.

Driving Regulations Check Inconsiderate

By EILEEN CHAMBERLAIN

(Editor's note: This is the second in a series of five articles about state, city and University motor vehicle regulations. Today's article concerns parking.)

New York State has numerous driving regulations to check those who would not otherwise consider their fellow auto operators on the road. Also listed in state traffic laws are several parking rules and restrictions.

One law states that no parking is allowed in such a position to prevent another vehicle stopped near the curb from moving away. This rule can be expanded into a generalization about parking, namely the theory that courtesy and consideration for other drivers is the prime interest of legislators in passing traffic laws of this kind.

MOST PARKING edicts are made to insure clear highways for cars in motion. Thus state law prohibits parking or standing on the paved portion of any state highway, county road or town highway. A $5 fine is charged for violation of the regulation, but drivers may park in front of a house or business establishment in an emergency.

Statue defines standing, as stopping any motor vehicle longer than necessary to unload passengers or freight, except when a driver must stop to avoid traffic conflict.

Other regulations to avoid unnecessary obstruction by parked cars are that no vehicle may park on a public sidewalk, backed up to a curb, in front of a private driveway or within 100 feet of a state highway on an intersecting road.

For safety of all drivers, including those who are parking, the law restricts stopping within 10 feet of fire hydrants and stipulates that all parked cars must have two lights in front and a red light on the rear until one half hour before sunrise and after a half hour following sunset.

AN ADDITIONAL safety rule requires wheels of all cars parked on steep inclines to be turned so that they will run into the curb when brakes are released.

In parallel parking both front and back wheels must be not more than six inches from the curb.

State law even provides for cabs and buses. A certain statute allows city legislatures to set aside spaces for safety zones, bus and cab stands in public streets. The legislatures are also permitted to set aside parking space.

Drivers may find it a good deal easier to park in downtown Syracuse if Gov. Thomas E. Dewey signs a bill before him now urging tax exemption of off-street parking structures in this city for a period of 15 years.

Tax exemption would encourage business men to provide more parking lots downtown and relieve critical congestion which now exists.

Cobwebs Swept Out; Astor Now Opening

A small scouting party of notables from the "Up in Lights" production staff yesterday swept aside the cobwebs and introduced some warm sunlight into the inners of the Astor theater to inaugurate the final month of preparation for the giant new musical revue.

It was the first time things theatrical had ventured into the South Salina street auditorium since a "prior-to-Broadway" play series failed late there in November and it was the first time Syracuse university dramatic activities had occupied the site since the highly successful "White Bucks and Tales" closed last May.

"UP IN LIGHTS" will occupy the theater for all rehearsals until May 5 when the curtain will zip up on the first performance of the $15,000 revue. At present, four showings, May 5, 6, 7, and 8 are booked but if ticket sales warrant, the production will run another week.

Things will begin to move today when the initial full cast rehearsal will be held. The weekend is also crammed with practice sessions and, according to stage manager Gilbert Katz, the Astor will be in use almost eight hours each day up until opening night.

"Up in Lights" has been a nomadic tribe from the time the show was forced to vacate rehearsal space in Yates castle three weeks ago and had to resort to afternoons and evenings in Yates hotel, University college and prefab number eight.

Syracuse's newest entry into the musical comedy race has been in the various stages of production since September 53 with rehearsals getting under way early in the second semester.

MUSIC FOR "Up in Lights" has been written by the popular Or-

(See ASTOR, page 4)

Rodent Frightens Sims' Coed Diners

One tiny mouse threw Sims dining hall into a frenzy last night.

Six coeds had sat down at a table near the middle of the hall and one of them noticed what appeared to be a milk container in the center of the table. Being curious, she picked it up and from a hole in the bottom a mouse not more than three inches long escaped from the carton.

The girls immediately began to scream and some of them raced for the nearest chairs. Then Donald Cramer, an engineer and employee of Sims, took the situation in hand, captured the frightened mouse and disposed of the evidence.

WAER Presents 'Story of Bible'

Original dramatic narration of the "Story of the Holy Bible" will be presented at 6:30 p.m. Sunday on Chapel Highlights on WAER.

The script is based on the book "Unfolding Drama of the Bible" by Dr. Bernhard Anderson of the Colgate-Rochester Divinity school.

Following the show Inez France, author of the narration will be interviewed about the work she hopes to do in religious radio.

The show is produced by Wallace Bradley and narrated by Willard Lape Jr. and Robert Martindale. Random Place is the announcer.

Orange Panelists Take Second Victory For Series Crown

By DICK CASE

Four battling Syracuse panelists last night kept "College Quiz Bowl" crown by defeating a spirited University of Colorado team, 135-105, over an NBC hook-up.

With the same "giant-killing" prowess displayed in last week's victory over Washington and Lee university, the Syracusans took an early lead in the 30-minute question session, and, even though seriously threatened several times, went on to win number two. The program will be broadcast nationwide over the NBC network and WSYR locally at 6 p.m., Sunday.

IT WAS THE final broadcast of the series and "Quiz Bowl" moderator Allen Ludden indicated last night that if it should return in the fall, Syracuse university would be the defending champion. He added that the fate of the "College Quiz Bowl" has not been decided by NBC officials.

Ludden requested that all Syracusans interested in seeing the series returned, write letters to the National Broadcasting Company, New York.

The Syracuse panel, Janet Caro, Jane Bauer, John Beach and Raymond Guenter, took the contest's first toss-up points with an answer by Raymond Guenter on boxer Carl "Bobo" Olson. A bonus on the presidential dynasty from Virginia gave Syracuse 25 points and a 35-0 advantage. An incorrect interruption by Colorado cost that team five points and offered Syracuse another bonus which brought the locals a 70-point advantage over the westerners.

Colorado earned their first pointage on a U.S. senator reply which, coupled with a bonus and another score on a Hamlet quotation, earned 45 points.

FOLLOWING THE half-time interviews, Syracuse's Jane Bauer correctly identified T. S. Eliot reading "A Game of Chess" and the score stood 105-45, in favor of Syracuse. A quickie toss-up reply on baseball and a nursery rhyme from Colorado edged them closer to the champions with a 105-95 score.

Syracuse jumped ahead with two sharp toss-up answers by Guenter on Sherlock Holmes and on dictionary definitions. Although Colorado scored on the final question, the pointage was not enough and victory was ensured for the champions.

A capacity crowd filled the Women's building dance studio for the Syracuse portion of the broadcast and provided enthusiasm in the form of excited applause. The western segment originated from the Glenn Miller auditorium on the Boulder, Colo., campus.

WSYR announcer Bob Whitney was moderator and referee of the Syracuse panel. Dr. Edwin Cady was the team coach, and Edward C. Jones produced the broadcast through the radio-television center.

THE WINNERS were awarded wrist watches, as well as a $500 prize which will be administered by a board of students and administration representatives.

Jazz Concert Open House Begins Greek Weekend

Winning Leaders Of Step Singing Will Meet Today

A required meeting of the step singing leaders from all the house winning in the preliminaries will be held at 5 p.m. today in 111 Maxwell,, Anne Forrest, chairman announced.

At this time, drawing for the order of singing in the quarter-finals will be held. Houses are allotted 11 hours of practcie before the next contest to be held next Tuesday and Wednesday, April 6 and 7.

IN THE final preliminaries held Wednesday night, Chi Omega, Delta Gamma, Delta Zeta and Pi Beta Phi won in the large house division. Parker cottage was selected in the small house division.

Parker with the song "Let Us Break Bread Together," arranged by Bell, defeated Marshall cottage singing "Down In the Valley" by Weill.

In the first flight of the large houses, Chi Omega's "May Now Thy Spirit" by Schverky-Treharne and Delta Gamma's "Our God to Whom We Turn" by Bach tied for the honors. They defeated Alpha Gamma Delta's "Great and Marvelous are Thy Works" by Gaul.

Pi Beta Phi singing "Hear My Prayer" by James won over Zeta Tau Alpha's "Oh Be Joyful in the Lord" by Nordman and Gamma Phi Beta's "Lift Thine Eyes" by Mendelssohn in the second flight.

DELTA ZETA won by default singing "Cherubin Number Seven" by Bortniansky.

Judges for the contest were Mrs. Claude Bush, Sigma Alpha Iota patroness, Miss Ruth Pinnell, school of music faculty, and Miss Elizabeth Mann, music instructor in the public schools of Syracuse.

With the conclusion of the preliminaries, the following houses are entering the quarter finals. In the small house division are: Winchell Waitresses, Phillips, Sperry, Butler, Mace, Berwald and Parker cottages.

In the large house division are: Delta Delta Delta, Phi Mu, Alpha Omicron Pi, Alpha Chi Omega, Haven hall, Sigma Kappa, Pi Beta Phi, Chi Omega, Delta Gamma and Delta Zeta.

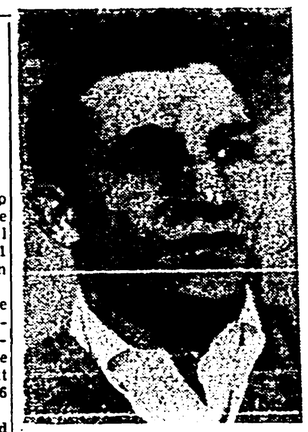
Krinsky to Speak At JSF Services

Jewish Sabbath Eve services will be held at 7:15 p.m. today in Hendricks chapel.

Dr. Fred Krinsky will speak on "Judaism and Christianity: The Reconcilables and the Irreconcilables."

Jack Most will be the student leader while student readers will be Howard Osofsky and Burt Polishook. The cantor will be Stanley Goldsmith and Irene Nowikas will give the blessing.

An Oneg Shabbat will follow the service.



ROBERT GOLDSTEIN, Alpha Epsilon Pi, and JAMES MESSINA, Kappa Sigma, co-chairmen of IFC weekend, await the "jazzy" weekend. The jazz concert tonight will feature Teddy Wilson. The William P. Tolley and scholarship cups will be awarded at the banquet on Saturday.

Symphonic Program Will Honor ROTC

Syracuse's 75 piece symphonic band will offer a varied program of classical and contemporary music at 4 p.m. Sunday in Crouse auditorium.

Directed by Dr. Harwood Simmons of the School of Music faculty, the group will honor Syracuse's army ROTC unit with the program.

DR. SIMMONS says the concert will be "international in nature. Featured composers will include Elgar and Williams, British; Creston and Sousa, American; Haydn, Vienese; Rimsky-Korsakov, Russian; and Rossini-Respighi, Italian.

John Iannotta, a junior in music education, will be the featured trombone soloist. He will be heard in Rimsky-Korsakov's "Concerto for Trombone and Band." Three movements of the selection, the allegro vivace, andante cantabile and allegre movements, will be played.

The program will open with Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance No. 4." "La Boutique Fantasque," by Rossini-Respighi will follow. A contemporary selection, Paul Creston's "Zanoni," will vary the program.

John Phillip Sousa's "Hands Across the Sea" will close the performance. The march is to be played in honor of the composer's 100th anniversary.

OTHER SELECTIONS will include "Toccata Marziale" by Vaughan Williams and Haydn's Largo from the quartet, opus 76, No. 5.

Admission to the concert will be free.

The symphonic band, which includes undergraduates and graduates from many of the University's colleges, has been rehearsing under Dr. Simmons' direction every Tuesday night.

The group has played at the opening of a state music teachers' convention and at Pulaski. A concert is planned for later in the month at Manlius school. The band will also play spring week-

(See CROUSE, page 4)

Students Who Lost ID Cards May Vote

Forms Now Available From MSG, WSG Offices

Students who have lost their identification cards may vote in spring elections next Wednesday under a plan announced this week by student government election officials.

Persons who have no ID card and wish to vote should fill out forms available in the men's student government office, building 30, and the women's student government office, third floor of Women's building. These forms, which must be returned as soon as possible, require the filer to state when he registered and why he has no ID card.

Tuesday, between 2 and 4 p.m. those who requested voting permission will appear with tuition receipts at a place yet to be announced. Government officials will ear the case and exchange the tuition slip for a voting certificate.

This certificate, which will enable the holder to cast his ballot on election day, will be non-transferable and must be turned over to government offices on Thursday afternoon. The student's tuition receipt will be returned to him at that time.

Bishop Will Preach At Grace Church

The Rt. Rev. Malcolm E. Peabody, bishop of Central New York, will preach at 6:30 p.m. Sunday at Grace church, the Canterbury fellowship.

Bishop Peabody will also license eight Hill students as lay readers in the church service at University ave. and Madison st.

John Matheson, William J. annett, Robert Maynard, Carl Staplin, Robert Powers, Robert Gallager, John Emmons and James McKenzie will be presented to the bishop for admission as lay ministers in the church by Rev. W. Wesley Konard.

Konard is chaplain to Episcopal students on campus.

The bishop's license will allow these students to read morning or evening prayer, the Litany and the burial office according to the Book of Common Prayer, under the direction of the chaplain.

Grad Student Collapses in City

Gordon S. Fyfe, Hill graduate student from Rochester, N. Y., was found unconscious at a downtown intersection yesterday. He was rushed by an ambulance about noon to the infirmary, where his condition was reported as "good" late yesterday afternoon.

Infirmary officials said that Fyfe recovered consciousness after a direct injection of sugar into his veins.

Interfraternity council will officially open its major social function of the year tonight with an all-University open house, beginning the three days' festivities.

IFC weekend will be dedicated this year to Vice-chancellor Finla G. Crawford and his 35 years at Syracuse.

Harlan (Lanny) O'Kun and William (Bill) Angelos will provide the intermission entertainment at the open house, scheduled from 8 to 12 p.m. in Sims dining hall. Teddy Wilson, jazz pianist, and his quintet will provide the music for the affair. Tables and chairs will be set up in cagaret style and refreshments will be sold during the evening.

Vice-chancellor Crawford will be feted at a banquet at 6:30 p.m., Saturday at the Hotel Syracuse. Members of the administration and the officer and committee chairmen are invited guests at the dinner.

Among the administration guests will be Chancellor William P. Tolley, Dean of Student Services Frank P. Piskor, Dean of Public Relations Kenneth G. Bartlett and Associate Dean of Men Carlton L. Krathwohl.

Also, Assistant Dean of Men Earle W. Clifford, Assistant Dean of Men James G. Carleton, Assistant Director of Men's Counseling Jack C. Buckle, IFC advisor Theodore G. Denise, University social director Margaret Parker, and Theodore Glou, president of the alumni group of IFC.

New officers of the Council will be also introduced at the banquet.

"Fraternally Yours" will be the theme of the ball from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. in Archbold gymnasium. Elliot Lawrence and his orchestra will provide the music for the formal.

His band has been voted as the most popular among American colleges for the past three years. Their latest record album is "College Prom Favorites."

Ted Webster and members of the Hill swimming team will participate in the swimming show, scheduled for the 10:30 p.m. intermission. Webster, head swimming coach, will act as master of ceremonies.

Assistant boxing coach William Miller will do comic diving while a quartet of costumed girls will demonstrate synchronized swimming. Two professional swimmers from Cortland will also exhibit swimming and diving form.

Psi Upsilon and Sigma Phi Epsilon will participate in the finals for the IFC sing competition at 11:30 p.m. Psi U will sing "Soon It Will Be Done," a Negro spiritual, and "Oh, Syracuse," women's alma mater. Sig Ep will have "Dancing in the Dark" and a traditional "Alma Mater."

At this time the William P. Tolley cup will be awarded to the fraternity with the most outstanding achievement and the scholastic cup will go to the house with the highest cumulative average.

Special 2 a.m. permissions will be given to coeds attending the formal. The girls will have to fill out a pink slip and attach the dance ticket stub.

Photographer Lee Jones, who

(See IFC, page 4)

Dr. Carlson Talks To Forestry Men

Dr. William S. Carlson, president of the State University of New York, discussed the establishment of US weather and air force stations in Greenland during world war II at the College of Forestry Wednesday. The all-college convocation was held in Marshall auditorium.

A scientist and explorer, Dr. Carlson illustrated his talk with a film which simulated a flight from Labrador to Greenland. The route was part of that used by the US Eighth Air Force in establishing its base in England.

Now a colonel in the Air Force reserve, Pres. Carlson was director of the Arctic Desert and Tropic Information center, a research organization which he helped organize. After leaving the Army, he was awarded the Legion of Merit by the War department.

Dr. Carlson is the author of "Greenland Lies North," a book which relates the experiences of one of his scientific expeditions to the north.

Dean Hardy L. Shirley of the College of Forestry introduced the State University president.

Dottie Grover Gabor Will Model

MODELS FOR the JSF spring fashion show, scheduled for Sunday afternoon, get in practice for the comedy program. Shown here are MAXINE LEVY and MARY ANNE DALTON, seated and in the back row MILLICENT AUERBACK, NORMA ENGELHARDT and DORIANNE BRIGHT. Staff Photo by Owen Kendall

Mrs. Dorothy Grover Gabor, former Orange majorette, will model the latest fashions in bathing suits at the Jewish Student fellowship fashion show at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Women's building dance studio.

The program, divided into two parts, will include a legitimate spring style show with student and faculty models as well as a parody skit featuring faculty and administration members in the cast.

TICKETS, BEING sold at the door, are priced at 35 cents. All proceeds will go directly to United Jewish appeal, chairmen Gloria Jassie and Marcia Russow announced.

The entire Hendricks chapel staff will participate as well as Professors William P. Hotchkiss, Fred Krinsky, Marguerite Fisher, Theodore Denise, and Earle Clifford, Miss Margaret Parker, Ralph Ketcham and Miss Norma Van Buren, of the Infirmary staff, are included among the models.

Models in the student finale include Bruce Yancey, Lawrence O'Sullivan, Stanley Leff, Vincent Rigolosi, Arthur Siegel, Patricia Roden, Melvin Besdin, Malcolm Foster, Stuart Parker, Mary Anne Dalton, Margaret White, Phyllis Sirota, Constance Talbot and Dorianne Bright.

Women's clothes are being supplied by Wassong's, 907 E. Genesee st., and Howard Clothes, 430 S. Salina st., is furnishing the men's wear.

GLORIA JASSIE wrote the script for the first half of the show. Narrators will be Maxine Levy, Milton Shefter, Marcia Russow and Freema Levy. Gayle Cudder is in charge of costumes and Helen Hadelsman is managing props. Music will be supplied by Adele Cohen.

Mrs. Fisher, political science professor, will star in the faculty comedy show. She will be accompanied by her dachshunds. The story of a modern authoress at a publisher's party and her comments on various types of lovers was written by Flip Sirota and Elizabeth Goddard.

Narrated by James F. Carr, the presentation will include Dr. Krinsky, Dr. Hotchkiss, Dean Clifford, Rev. Arnold Nakajima, Ralph Ketcham, and Theodore Denise in its cast.

Rev. W. Wesley Konrad will play the guitar and Mrs. Arlene Rothman, Miss Marilyn Pfleuger and Miss Arsine Schmavonian will also present a skit.

SYRACUSE DAILY ORANGE

THREE R'S OF A COLLEGE NEWSPAPER: RESPONSIVENESS, RESPONSIBILITY AND RESOURCEFULNESS

Page 2 — Friday, April 2, 1954

Editor-in-chief ——— Arlene Lambert
Business Manager ——— Robert Goldstein

SENIOR EDITORIAL STAFF

Managing Editor ——— Arthur Siegel
Editorial Director ——— Hugh O. Maclellan
Executive Editor ——— Janet Coro
Sports Editor ——— Kenneth Lent

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Edward Meyer, Joan Nadelhaft, Phyllis Sirota, Howard Venklirk, Mary Vivian

BUSINESS STAFF

Asst. Business Manager ——— Sheldon Lessen
Layout Manager ——— Judith Berman
Classified Manager ——— Joan Jacobs
Circulation Manager ——— Anita Freyberg
Promotion Manager ——— Lloyd Eisenberg

DAILY STAFF

News Editor ——— Liz Goddard
Night Editor ——— Polly Reed
Asst. Night Editor ——— Jack Reilly
Editorial Page Asst. ——— Joanne Stern
Night Sports Editor ——— Dave Bennett

Published by the students of Syracuse University. Telephones: News, 75-5196, 75-5197; Editor, 76-1443; Business: 4-7506. Subscription by mail $6 per year, $3.50 per semester. Entered as second class mail matter at the Syracuse Post Office. Exclusive national advertising representatives National Advertising Inc., New York City.

Fraternally yours

The Greeks bear gifts tonight.

Interfraternity council weekend begins in Sims dining hall tonight with an all-University open house in Sims dining hall.

Teddy Wilson, famed jazz pianist, will play for the people.

Tomorrow night the fraternity men and their dates will trip the light fantastic to the music of Elliot Lawrence and his orchestra in Archbold gym. Top houses will also receive awards.

One of the finest parts of the IFC weekend is that the Greeks are dedicating the entire festivities to Vice-Chancellor Finla G. Crawford.

Dr. Crawford is celebrating his 35th anniversary at Syracuse university.

Looking back over the past few years, IFC has evolved into a mature campus organization. Activities like its social action work have been lauded by local service agencies.

IFC has turned the fraternity system into a well-knit group of men who are more interested in helping the University and each other than in the petty disputes that occur on some campuses.

We congratulate the Greeks on the occasion, and we wish them an enjoyable weekend.

Managing Editor

Bowl champs

It was no April Fool's joke which Syracuse beamed across the country last night. Rather, it was the released spirit of New Year's Eve, as audiences rejoiced once more over the victorious showing of the "varsity scholars."

The pre-broadcast warm-up was not as prolonged, nor the panelists as tense as during the Washington and Lee contest. Excitement mounted quickly, however, during the second half of the show when Colorado came within one question of tying the Syracuse team.

Syracuse proved that it was not luck nor "the odds" which spelled victory last week. Quick, individual thinking and accurate team response were more the ingredients which caught opponents by surprise.

And so it is that we can once more say "congratulations" to the able Cady-men for their score and excellent representation.

As we go to press, student leaders have not been consulted on the way in which the new prize money will be used. We suggest that these funds, as last week, be used for the furtherance of student activity facilities in the Women's building.

Whether Syracuse will be able to return as "defending champions" in the fall is still a mystery. It is not known whether the "Quiz Bowl", unsponsored this year, will be back on the air.

Here it is that each individual Syracusan can aid the program. The announcer has indicated that if many letters are received from people throughout the country, the possibility of the program returning is much greater.

The "Quiz Bowl" is one of the finest shows of its kind on the air. Critics have long praised its excellent programming.

Here, too, is one production which shows the "other," more serious, side of college life. Individual universities and their students are shown in a favorable light, reaping good will for all American collegians.

For those who would like to express their interest in the program and add their appreciation to the network, the address is: Sylvester Weaver, President; National Broadcasting Company, New York City.

Editor-in-Chief

ON THE TOWN

Some Weekly Notes On the Weekend

By MICHAEL BRAUN

— LE' CINEMA —

LOEWS STATE—

Howard Keel as a royal mounty and Ann Blyth singing "Indian Love Call" in Rose Marie. Fernando Lamas, Bert Lahr and Marjorie Main are also in this Technicolor musical which features the work of Otto Harbach and Oscar Hammerstein II. As if this tweren't enough the dang thing's in CinemaScope. Friday and Saturday feature at 7:48 and 10.00 p.m.

SCHINES PARAMOUNT—

Here by the wonder of CinemaScope (again!) via Night People we are transported to postwar Berlin which as everyone who reads the papers know is chock full of intrigue, lust, avarice and Gregory Peck. Aiding and abetting Mr. Peck are Rita Gam, Broderick Crawford, Anita Bjork and especially Nunally Johnson who wrote the script, produced it, and directed the cast. Feature Friday and Saturday at 7:58 and 9:58.

RKO KEITHS—

The lowdown on the bighouse, Riot in Cell Block 11, filmed where it actually happened, with a cast of convicts and a few actors. Also showing is something called Paris Playboy with the Bowery Boys who if nothing else are plucky. Feature at 6:13 and 8:48 p.m. Friday; and 8:25 and 11:00 p.m. Saturday.

SCHINES ECKEL—

La Lupa from Italy. For comment see our man on the right. Grazie! Feature at 7:50 and 9:55 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

MIDTOWN—

Facts of Love and French Girls Club are being shown as the Midtown appeals to our bolder emotions. Feature at 6:55 and 9:55 p.m. on Friday. Saturday, they are featuring Sea Raiders and Savage World. Feature at 6:36 and 8:54 p.m.

PROSCENIUM ARCH THEATER

The third week of Boar's Head "The Comic Genius in the Movies." This week it's the incomparable W. C. Fields and the well equipped Mae West in the hilarious My Little Chickadee. Also equally hysterical short subjects. Feature at 3:00 and 7:00 p.m. Sunday only.

—LEGITIMATE THEATER—

BORA'S HEAD—

Little while ago Miss Audrey Hepburn picked up a number of awards for acting. Fact is la Hepburn made her stage debut in Gigi by Colette. (For our lady's opinion, see right.) This week Boar's Head is presenting the same play with Betty Schwartz and Shirley Fenner alternating in Audrey's part. Who knows what might come out of this. Performances at 8:15 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

— CONCERTS —

CROUSE—

The University Symphonic band replete with seventy-five members will perform at Crouse on Sunday. John Ianotta is featured in a selection of trumpet renderings. The music begins at 4 p.m.

— ATHLETICS —

WAR MEMORIAL—

The Nats will compete with the Minneapolis Lakers in the NBA playoffs which are still going on. It will be interesting to watch them without star Dolph Schayes who is out injured. Game starts 8:30 p.m., Sunday.

— THE WIRELESS —

WSYR—

Listen and find out just how our erudite, quick witted, clever, panel came out in the battle of the facts last night. College Quiz Bowl will feature by tape recording our brains against those of the University of Colorado. Sunday at 6:30 p.m.

— MISCELLANY DEPT. —

WARREN STREET—

For the benefit of those revelers who like to wait for the last moment we present the following as a public service. Last buses Friday night: Walnut, 12:45 p.m.; Drumlins, 12:30 p.m. and University 12:30 p.m. On Saturday, University 12:30 p.m.; Drumlins 12:45 p.m., and Walnut 1:15 p.m.

Modern Styles

City Opticians EYEGLASSES

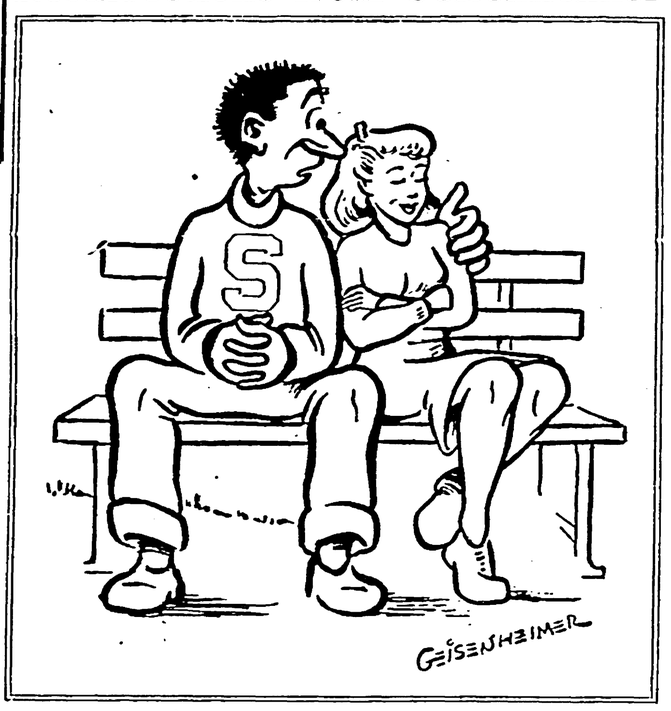
Eyes Examined — Glasses Fitted
EASY CREDIT TERMS
1 to 24-Hour Service
No Appointment Necessary

BROKEN LENSES AND FRAMES REPLACED PROMPTLY

Open Daily—Sat. 9 A.M. to 6 P.M.
Mon. and Fri. 9 A.M. to 9 P.M.
J. C. Wemhk, Reg. Opt.
M. M. Risley, Reg. Opt. Phone 2-0088

211 E. FAYETTE ST, COR. S. WARREN

Resurrections from Geisenheimer



ROLLING STONES

A Palacial Prefab

By MOLLIE GLASER

When one considers all the construction being done on campus at the present time it seems that each school of the University should have a beautiful brick building to call its own. We were therefore rather surprised when we saw the School of Nursing.

Walking down Waverly avenue one day, we came across a prefab bearing the same School of Nursing, so we decided to investigate and see if this drab gray prefab could be the 'home' of the nurses.

It was a real surprise when we peeked in the door and were confronted with conditions that could almost equal the women's building.

The irst thing we saw upon entering was the office of Dean Edith Smith, so we decided to stop in and ask her why the nursing school was located in a prefab. Dean Smith has been with the nursing school since its opening and knows its history from the beginning.

The school was established in 1943 and all its labs and offices were then located in a local hospital. After the school was well on its way, the University built them a red brick, ivy covered building located on the spot where the Veterans' hospital now stands.

At that time Women's physical education was cramped for space, and so surrounding the nurses' school were tennis courts and open fields used for archery practice.

Suddenly in January, 1952 it was announced that plans for the new Veterans' hospital were complete and the nurses would have to vacate their building in six weeks. The building had only been occupied for about six years, but there was nothing they could do.

On February 15, the nurses moved to their present location. Although one might expect the nurses to be angry at the loss of their beautiful building, many of them were pleased to move to the new location.

Where before they had been cramped for room, here they had almost 500 square feet more space, 12 offices, two seminar rooms, nursing arts labs and classrooms with raised seats. The building was equipped with a neon lighting system, tile floors, insulation and a complete paint job.

Although the nurses are not fortunate enough to have an ivy-covered brick building, they can proudly say they have the nicest prefab on campus.

AT THE FLICKERS

More Funny Than Furious Yet Quite Firey

By CHARLES SAMUELS
Daily Orange Movie Critic

Primitive Passions

"La Lupa" (the she-wolf) at the Eckel is one of those tales of Latin fury played with dilating nostrils and flashing eyes and grunts and groans instead of dialogue. Unfortunately, the result is more often funny than furious. It's not that "La Lupa" couldn't have been a moving film; its just that it moves with a wiggle when it should have employed a statlier tred.

Lupa of the title, is a young woman who can't seem to understand that mothers-in-law are not supposed to sleep with their daughters' husbands.

The part is played by a well-upholstered lady named Kerima who is adept at slinging various parts of her anatomy in the direction of the camera and who generates enough heat in her love scenes to make the burning of Atlanta look like a bonfire.

The son-in-law and daughter are played respectively by Ettore Manni and May Britt. Mr. Manni snorts attractively and Miss Britt looks lovely but they are, alas and alack, hopelessly defeated by all the passionate goings-on.

The chief difficulty with this little opus is the fact that it offers a gallery of some of the most unsavory characters that ever marched across a movie screen.

Of the three principals, one is a slut, one a spineless creature and the third, the most acquiescent adulterer on record. Nobody can be asked to feel for these creatures and the primitive passions here come dangerously close to antedating Neandrerthal man.

The prize-winning short "Return to Glennascaul" with Orson Wells completes the bill. It is an ironically handled weirdie about some supernatural adventure in a country home that sports some of the finest mood photography we've seen in a long time. It alone is worth the price of the main ravioli.

WHAT'S AN EXCELLENT GIFT for THA TSPECIAL ONE?

—men or women—

★ BERNARD ALTMANN CASHMERE SWEATERS—men and women V-necks from $16.95

★ WILSON GOLF CLUBS from $55.00 a set
3, 5, 7, 9 and Putter—Driver and Spoon for men and women

★ PLAID CUMMERBUND — TIE WITH MATCHING LINKS and STUDS
All Silk Summer or Winter Formals ——— $10.95

★ RONSON LIGHTERS
men and women from $7.70, $8.40, $9.60

FEEL FREE TO SEE OUR SELECTION
ASK ABOUT OUR LAY-AWAY PLAN

LUND'S
UNIVERSITY MEN'S SHOP
— ON CAMPUS —
9 a.m. to 6 p.m.—Friday to 8 p.m.
738 So. Crouse Ave. Phone 75-1459

SCANNING CAMPUSES:

A DREAM OF MAIDS AND MINT JULIP

Down at the University of North Carolina, the Daily Tar Heel reports that television sets and washing machines are being installed in all dormitories.

Well, we always thought that Southern belles were coddled. Next thing you know, they'll be installing private maid service and serving mint juleps at tea time. College is peachy!

* * *

Sign for the scrounge . . . in a campus eatery:

"If you are one of those who douse cigarettes in coffee cups, let the management know. They'll serve your coffee in an ash tray."

* * *

Heard in the fraternity house: "Is this dance formal, or can I wear my own clothes?"

* * *

At Penn State there's a move afoot to have coeds and men dress up for Sunday. Legislation was passed requiring shirts and ties for men, and stockings and dresses for women at dinner, but did not take into account the rest of the day.

Said The Daily Collegian, "Many freshmen come to college expecting to dress fairly well. They soon discover many upperclassmen do not agree. Freshmen then decide they will not dress up."

Seems Syracuse is ahead of Penn in this aspect. Though many men go around during the week looking like fugitives from a razor, and their clothes look like they'd never seen a washing machine, on Sunday the dining halls are filled with walking ads from Vogue and Esquire.

After a long, hard climb, an American, an Englishman and their guide finally stood on the brink of Mt. Vesuvius. As the Englishman looked down at the molten lava in contemplative silence, the American remarked, "Looks hot as hell!"

"Gad," said the Englishman to the guide, "these Americans have been everywhere!"

—Polly Reed

LETTERARY COMMENT

Equestrian Protest

Mr. Editor:

This is the last straw and I do protest!

We are all aware of certain inconveniences with the library, but, if your announcement in last Saturday's Daily Orange is true, then I think that things have gone too far:

Outing club horseback riding, 9:45 a.m., library.

I say, most strenuously, let's have no horses, with or without Syracuse blankets and athletic award letters, with or without Bermuda shorts . . .

A. Thomson
Graduate School

Cut Flowers
Corsages — Weddings
Flowers for all Occasions
FLOWERS by MARIE
948 E. Genesee St.,
75-4393
(Member of Student-Discount Service)

HOW'D YOU LIKE TO...
earn $5000 a year...
be an officer in the air force...
get an exciting head start in jet aviation...
AND
belong to a great flying team?

Captain Robert A. Pollom and Aviation Cadet Selection team [illegible] 63 are co[illegible] acuse university to show you how. They will be here in Slocum Hall on 6th and 7th of April, 1954 from 10 until 4 p.m.

An Evening at the Theatre

'Gigi' Tres Jolie

"Gigi" from the story by Colette, play by Anita Loos. Directed by Sawyer Falk, with settings by John J. Moore. Produced by special arrangement with Samuel French Inc. Costumes by Karinsky and Paul Porter of Paris.

Gigi ——— Shirley Fenner
——— ——— Betty Schwartz
Mme. Inez Alverez
——— ——— Nancy Edwards
Andree ——— Marlene Muller
Gaston Lachaille
——— ——— Gerald Reidenbaugh
Victor ——— Kenneth Bowles
Mme. Alicia de St. Ephlam
——— ——— Francesca Trantum
Sidonie ——— Millicent McIntyre

By JOAN NADELHAFT
Daily Orange Drama Critic

A delightful frothy bit of French confectionery opened in the Boar's Head Coronet Theater yesterday. "Gigi," a story of Colette, transformed into a play by Anita Loos is as French as it is possible to be.

And with the probable exception of their unfamiliarity with the sound of the few French words in the comedy, the cast kept it almost as Parisian as it was written.

Shirley Fenner gets more amazing with every performance. The polish she has acquired in the past year is startling. As Gigi, she flings herself about, and pouts becomingly, in superb style.

After his first scene awkwardness, Gerald Reidenbaugh did a fine job. He carries himself as if he really does have a few hundred francs. The role of Gaston, however, requires more flair and savoire-faire than Mr. Reidenbaugh possesses. In his case alone, that Parisian touch seems to be lacking.

Nancy Edwards is properly motherly as the matriarch of the scheming household. She alternately clucks and scolds and does it very well.

Virtue triumphs, in turn-of-the-century Paris as everywhere else, in a play. And in "Gigi" virtue emerges with head high, the heroine destined for honorable matrimony instead of the lavish sin her grandmother and grand-aunt were preparing her for.

The aunt, Mme. de St. Ephlam is a former famous courtesan who is hoping for a greater glory in her grand-niece, Gigi. Francesca Trantum plays her with competence, but a little too quietly. The secret glee the character should inspire is somewhat missing in her interpretation.

Kenneth Bowles turns in a marvelous small gem as Victor, the butler. Every gesture is perfect. To convey a world of meaning by simply walking on stage without a smile or word as he does is a mark of high talent. He makes the play complete.

Marlene Muller sings the most delightfully atrocious "Bell Song" from Lakme we've ever heard. She also gives a jewel of a part. Suffice it to say that she is the dissillusioned primma donna to the core.

Millicent McIntyre rounds off the fine cast with her usual standard of acting, and that is to say excellent. She is the lower-class Parisian, who dreams of former days of amour with a plumber. Nuff said. The entire cast is superb, and the play moves faster than one of those "motor cars" they talk about.

A word about the scenery is in order, because it is definitely worth noting. It is painted on, for the most part, and done with the lightheartedness characterizing the entire production. The curtain is painted with Parisian scenes, and the whole effect is like a spun-sugar candy.

The can-can curtain call is worth the price of admission alone and the whole thing is a sure-fire formula for pleasant viewing. Well worth your time.

DOUBLE OR NOTHING?

The Politicians And Their One Man Show

By EILEEN CHAMBERLAIN

A stroll up Comstock ave. brought out a few interesting bits of scenery yesterday morning.

Chief among them were two campaign posters hanging in front of one fraternity house. The fraternity is running two candidates on a major party ticket in spring elections—one for men's student government president and the other for junior class vice president.

Observing the posters, we were easily reminded of the nominating "convention" of a second major Hill political party a short while ago, at which a prospective nominee from another large fraternity on campus was virtually denied an opportunity to seek nomination for an important office.

The reason: One members of his house had already been chosen to seek a class office on the party ticket.

As a general policy it is quite admirable for a party to keep candidates from one house down to one. This keeps interfraternity jealousy at a minimum. As an inflexible rule, however, the one-candidate stipulation is abominable.

This ruling can kill the political chances of many fine, would-be candidates and deny the University and students benefits of some good administration and efficiency on the job.

Everyone recognizes that a house may not have qualified people to run for office each year, but the opposite possibility, that a house may come up with two good candidates, seems to be a higher political science theory, unintelligible to at least one Hill party.

It may be good politics to please all party representatives, but better politics are shown by effort to win an election. It remains to be seen whether or not two candidates from one participating house will be a detriment to the party on whose ticket they seek election.

You Win!!!

Yes, you win. Due to tremendous demand R. S. Robie is going to offer its "I. F., WEEKEND" date special. In the past we have offered this special rate to Hill students and the rush for cars has been phenomonal. This weekend is shaping up and looks like one of the best, so R. S. ROBIE wants to get into the spirit of the occasion by offering its "I.F.WEEKEND" date special again. The special consists of a car from 6 p.m. to 8 a.m.

FREE INSURANCE
FREE GAS
FREE OIL

All this for $5.50 and $.07 a mile. So arrive by auto, go by Robie.

R. S. ROBIE, INC.

Address
104 MADISON ST.

HERTZ

Telephone Nos.
3-6223—3-7744

KKG Nips DG In WAA Hoop Finale, 32-24

By JOAN CONNOR

WAA crowned a new upper class champion last night.

Kappa Kappa Gamma won the Theta, Phi Alpha cup, the symbol of upper class court supremacy, defeating Delta Gamma 32-24. Last year's winner was Shultz cottage.

ABOUT 150 enthusiastic spectators in the main gym of the Women's building thrilled to the lightening fast attack of the KKG lassies. The winners will meet the freshman champs, Sims III for the WAA all-University championship next week. The winner of this tilt will travel to Ithaca for a game with the Cornell intramural coed titlists, tentatively set for April 10.

Connie Davis of Kappa Kappa Gamma was high scorer for the evening sinking seven baskets and coming through with four successful foul trys for 18 points. Captain Joan Poppe added fuel to the fire with nine points while Joan Witmer and Pat Mahoney were credited with three and two points respectively.

Mickey Lynd paced the losers dropping in 6 foul shots along with three baskets for 12 markers. Teammates Joan Janesek with 5 points, Joan Abbott with three points and Yvonne Buckminister and Jody Cronau with two points apiece accounted for the remaining DG scoring.

In their only previous meeting, Delta Gamma had been victorious over Kappa Kappa Gamma, 10-6. However, the game last night was a different story.

KKG TOOK the lead in the first quarter on Captain Poppe's foul shot. Tricky passes and timely recovering of rebounds stymied their opponents. Loose ball handling and careless passing along with their failure to make good on the majority of their foul tries led to DG's downfall.

Members of the winning Kappa Kappa Gamma team are Joan Poppe Joan Witmer, Jane Blanchard, Connie Davis, Elaine Klebala, Pat Mahoney, Lois Baxter, Shirley Saari, Lou Ann Zahniser, Carol Fagan and Clair Davis.

Playing for Delta Gamma Mickey Lynd, Joan Janecek, Joan Abbott, Nancy Walker, Diane Williams, Yvonne Buckminister, Barbara Suchy, Betsy Wright, Jody Cronau and Lou Ann Mueller.

Prior to the championship game next Tuesday, WAA will sponsor a trampoline exhibition. The program is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. As a further added attraction, half time entertainment has been arranged and the university folk dancers will perform. Game time is 8:30 p.m.

Along the Sidelines

By KEN LENT, DAILY ORANGE SPORTS EDITOR

The spring sports schedule was released yesterday by the athletic department revealing some very interesting events. Perhaps the most lucrative schedule was that dealt the Orange lacrosse club who play an 11-game slate including a spring vacation jaunt.

Roy Simmons will lead his stalwarts to Lehigh, Pennsylvania and Maryland. The Orange mentor was looking out of the athletic office window at the snow-covered campus yesterday morning. "Two weeks until my first game and I don't even know who's on the squad."

He and the other Syracuse coaches are victims of a typical late Syracuse spring. The case of Francis O'Brien, tennis coach, is typical The netmen open for the first of three away tests at Colgate on May 1. That may seem quite a while but actually the Hill tennis team will be lucky to get in any outdoor practice before that date.

Francis O'Brien

The Skytop courts, according to O'Brien must be completely dry. "They even leave the hay covering (for weather protection) on them late to make sure that no more snow falls. Then after that, it takes a little while before the sun can get all the dampness out," commented O'Brien.

"I remember last year," he continued, "when the first good day we had was the day we played Penn State. And the second best day was the following match against Union."

Coach Gus Eriksen has had the same trouble to get his crewmen outdoors. The Syracuse oarsmen have had only three outdoor sessions so far which have been squeezed hastily between snow flurries.

With the first meet coming up 23 days hence, against Navy, Eriksen isn't yet sure of the members of the first boat not to mention the junior varsity or freshmen shells.

Bob Grieve's track squad received its annual appropriation of two dual meets, one against Colgate and the other with Boston here. The baseball nine opens a 14-game slate against Union, April 24.

So, all-in-all, it will be a full sports spring. That isn't worrying the Orange coaches. The question which has them pacing the floor like newly expectant fathers is—when can outdoor practice start?

HOSPITAL BEAT: Intramural director Milt Howard is convalescing in Crouse-Irving after a foot injury he received while playing squash Wednesday afternoon. The hospital described his condition as "good."

He is expected to be out by next week but will have to wear a cast for the next six weeks.

ORANGE SLICES: Arnie Burdick commenting on the NCAA marks which broke all but one Orange pool record said, "The only way they'll snap those records will be to let the water out of the pool and put the track team in." . . . Boxing's big four John Granger, Vin Rigolosi, Frank Guelli and Jerry Jaffe leave for the Nationals at Penn State this Wednesday .

Nash Leads Field In Intra Bowling

Williams Remains Second in Class A

Frank Nash of Nathan Miller house remained in first place in the class A division of the intramural individual bowling championships today after spirited competition last night failed to produce any score to match his 571 rolled on Tuesday evening.

The individual bowling play completed its third day last night with no changes occurring in the top positions in the Class A competition. Charles Williams, Tau Delta Phi, remained in second place with a 523 rolled on Wednesday.

Pete Moreale of Nathan Miller and Dick Heydet of Beta Theta Pi, each with 514 totals registered Wednesday stayed in a tie for third place.

Some changes were made in the Class B standings last night, however. Al Reiss of Zeta Beta Tau rolled a 523 to take the top position sending Paul Moran into second place. Moran, the pervious leader, has a 488 recorded on Wednesday. Bob Metzgar of Skytop M-8 is in third place in the Class B race with a 480 total.

Competition will continue on through Saturday.

Tau Delt Defeats Beta in Handball

Tau Delta Phi won the intramural handball championship last night by defeating Beta Theta Pi, 2-1 in a closely contested match at the Archbold court.

Victories in both singles games were the deciding factors for Tau Delt. The Beta team picked up its lone point with a win in doubles competition.

Terry Turkat defeated Hugh Bassett, 15-5 and 15-12, to give the Tau Delts their first single victory. Then when Charley Williams whipped Herb Steigler, 15-5, 15-8, the Tau Delta Phi team had the title won and the Beta advantage in the double match was not enough to make up the difference.

Hill Sailors Compete In Annapolis Events

The Orange sailors cast off for the deep, dark waters of Chesapeake bay and the McMillan cup races yesterday afternoon. This marked the third consecutive year that Syracuse was honored with an invitation to this classic of intercollegiate sailing regattas.

The Piety Hill crew will get in a pre-race practice this afternoon. This will be the only chance the Saltines have to iron out the rough spots before the first race gets underway Saturday at 11 a.m.

Syracuse will be one of ten crews battling the turbulent waters in quest of victory. The east's top sailing schools will be represented and the competition is expected to be extremely stiff.

A last minute change has been made in the Syracuse line-up. Jack Cummings and Walt Chaskel have replaced Bob Lewis and Pete Latham. Chaskel will be operating in the cockpit while Cummings mans the mizzen sail.

The races are held at the United States Navay Academy at Annapolis. The Midshipmen, hosts for the big event, rank as one of the favorites, but Syracuse, a steadily growing power in Eastern sailing competition in past years, is also afforded a fine chance for finishing in one of the top positions.

CRADDOCK GOES PRO

Walt Craddock, former Orange pitcher, is now working with the Ottawa Athletics of the International league.

Orange Gymnasts Travel To Illinois for Tournament

By AL GEFEN

Daily Orange Junior Editor

Syracuse's shorthanded gymnastic squad, fresh from three weeks of intensive post-season practice, will compete in the annual NCAA meet at the University of Illinois this weekend.

Coach Paul Romeo took Jim "Corky" Sebbo, Ferdie Fournies, and Milan Trnka along with him on the trek to the mid-western campus.

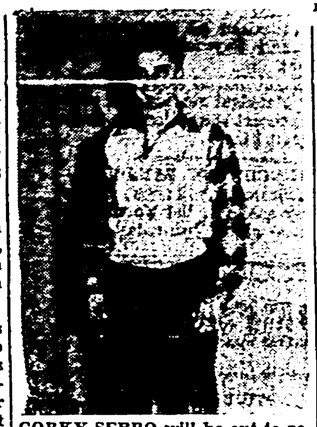
SEBBO WILL be defending his tumbling crown, won a year ago in Archbold gym. At that time, his chief competition came from Illinois' Bob Sullivan, and this year the Illini will offer another great threat in the person of Dick Browning, national AAU champion.

Little competition is expected from rival Eastern tumblers, all beaten handily by Sebbo in dual competition this year. Bob Hazlett, of Iowa, Big Ten tumbling titlist, and Jeff Austin, also from Illinois, figure to make the competition tough for the diminutive Orange champion.

A tight struggle is expected in the side horse event where Frank Bare of Illinois, Big Ten title holder, Carlton Rintz, Michigan State's spectacular all-around performer, Frank Wick, Eastern champ from Penn State, John Lawrence, also of Penn State and Al Zachery, of California figure to fight it out for honors.

Syracuse will enter Fournies and Trnka in the side horse, with Fournies expected to fare best. Coach Romeo has noticed a decided improvement in his work during the past few weeks.

FOURNIES WILL also represent the Pietymen in the rope climb. Don Perry of California, last year's winner and holder of the NCAA record of 2.9 seconds is considered a shoe-in in this event. Fournies will probably have to record a 3.7, which would be his best time of the year, to even qualify for the finals. Army's John Ballantyne and John Funkhouser will also be entered.



CORKY SEBBO will be out to regain his tumbling title in the weekend's NCAA gymnastic event at Illinois.

The parallel bars event should end in a two man duel between Frank Wick and Jean Cronstedt of Penn State. Trnka will be the lone Hill entry.

Cronstdet, John Jengo of Temple, and Trnka will probably fight it out for the top honors in the horizontal bar. Cronstudt is conceded a slight edge to cop first place on the basis of his superior record. Rintz could also enter the picture here.

One of the most hotly-contested events of the meet should be staged in the flying rings. Fournies, who won the Eastern gymnastic league individual title, Rintz, who copped the Big Ten crown, and Jack Miles, the Florida State AAU champ, should fight it out for first. Trnka also will be entered in this event.

ONLY ONE event will be without a Syracusan competitor. Although Sebbo has had some experience in the trampoline, Romeo has decided to keep him out of the competition.

The Big Ten is expected to dominate in the Trampoline. Jim Norman, titlist from Iowa, teammate Bob Hazlett, and Illinois' Jeff Austin should fight it out for the top places.

Cronstedt figures to have the edge in the free exercise event. He will undoubtedly have stiff competition from teammates Tony Procopio and Karl Schwensfier, Rintz, Jengo, Bare, Zachary, Trnka and Don Holder of Florida State.

Holder, a member of the 1952 United States Olympic team, should be in the thick of it in almost every event with his top, all-around ability.

SIX EVENTS will be staged in determining the all-around champion: long horse vaulting, free exercise, still rings, side horse, parallel bars and horizontal bar.

Trnka, the lone Syracuse entrant in the all-around, will also compete in the flying rings. He will be the most active Pietyman in the two-day competition.

A new innovation—the use of the flash card scoring system—will be used in the meet.

CADILLAC
LOUNGE and RESTAURANT
515 West Genesee Street
• NEW POLICY •
Red Thomas Playing 9 -- 2
FEATURING JOYCE LEROY
Remember Us
After That Special Date
THOMAS RESTANI—Your Host
at the
CADILLAC LOUNGE & RESTAURANT
The Perfect Spot After I. F. C.

DRUMLINS
Dancing Every Saturday Night
One of the Largest Ballrooms
In Central New York
Williamson's Parisians★ Dick Kowell's Orchestra
Tomorrow Night Williamson's Parisians
$1.75 per couple (tax inc.)
City Bus Marked Drumlins
Dancing 8:30 to 12:30

遠東
Serving Mandarin Dinner
At All Times
There's Nothing to Equal
The Food at The
FAR EAST
121 W. ONONDAGA ST.
Chinese and American Cuisine
EXPERTLY PREPARED GRACIOUSLY SERVED
Open Week Days & Saturdays 11 A.M. to 12 P.M.
Sundays 12 Noon-Midnight Tel. 3-9880

Hear - ye! Hear - ye!
Everybody Gets a 20% Discount
for the I.F.C. Ball
A FREE BOUTONNIERE WITH EACH CORSAGE
WHITE ORCHID $5.00 COST YOU $4.00
LAVENDAR ORCHID $3.00 COST YOU $2.40
SPRING CORSAGES
GARDENIAS
RAINBOW ORCHIDS
ROSES
CARNATIONS
$3.00 AND UP—LESS DISCOUNT
DEAL FLORIST
734 S. CROUSE 4-6321 ON THE HILL

Come On Down To
DEB'S
DRIVE-IN LOUNGE
SERVING THE BEST IN
HOME COOKED FOOD
"The Hill Rendezvous"
Bottom of Crouse Hill
On Erie Blvd.
ALL LEGAL BEVERAGES

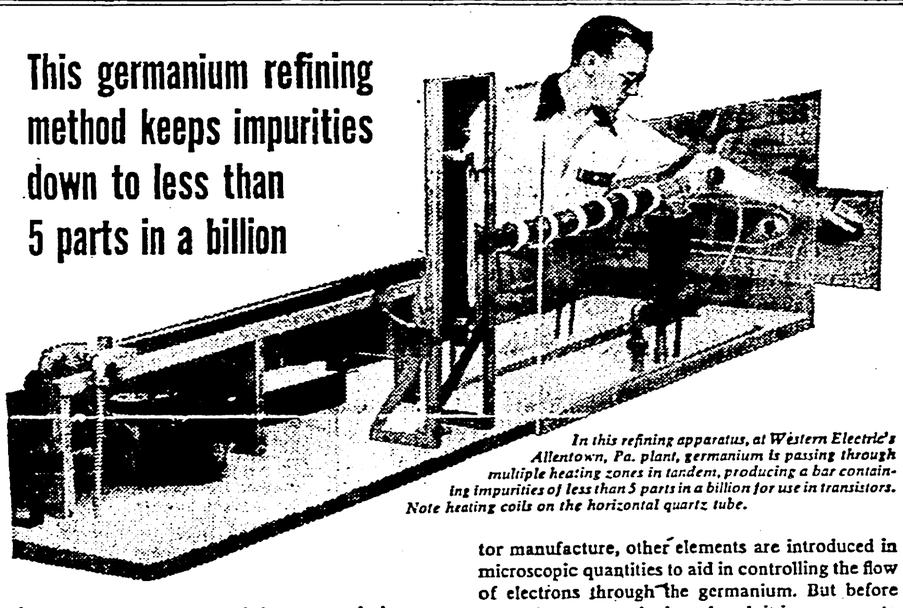
CAROMA
A Restaurant of Distinction
Steaks - Chops - Broilers
Italian Cuisine Our Specialty
Baked Lasagna—Raviola—Cacciatore—Hot Pizza
402 Lodi 74-2119

WANT TO HAVE FUN
SUNDAY AFTERNOON?
105 College Place
At KAPPA SIGMA
PIETY HILL ALLIANCE
presents an
ALL-CAMPUS
JAZZ CONCERT
2 — 5 p.m.
• COOL ENTERTAINMENT • REAL COOL
• COOL DRINKS ... AND A COMBO
"Meet Your Candidates"

WE'RE BACK and BETTER THAN EVER
◆ YOUR CAMPUS DANCING SPOT ◆
THE NEWLY REMODELED "ORANGE ROOM" IS NOW OPEN
DANCING NIGHTLY -- 8 P.M. TILL CLOSING
Food Daily and Sunday

Suppers 5-8 P.M. Daily and Sunday
ORANGE CAFE
"Your Spot On The Hill"

HOW'D YOU LIKE TO...
earn $5000 a year...
be an officer in the air force...
get an exciting head start in jet aviation...
AND
belong to a great flying team?
Captain Robert A. Pollom and Aviation Cadet Selection team No. 63 are coming to Syracuse university to show you how. They will be here in Slocum Hall on 6th and 7th of April, 1954 from 10 until 4 p.m.

This germanium refining method keeps impurities down to less than 5 parts in a billion


In this refining apparatus, at Western Electric's Allentown, Pa. plant, germanium is passing through multiple heating zones in tandem, producing a bar containing impurities of less than 5 parts in a billion for use in transistors. Note heating coils on the horizontal quartz tube.

A new method of metal refining, currently in use at the Western Electric plant at Allentown, results in the production of germanium that is better than 99.9999995% pure — the highest degree of purity ever attained in a manufactured product.

The need for germanium of such exceptional purity came about when research by Bell Telephone Laboratories in the field of semi-conductors led to the development of transistors, which are manufactured by Western Electric.

The transistor is a tiny crystal device which can amplify and oscillate. It reduces space requirements and power consumption to a minimum.

Germanium crystals of the size required in transistors do not occur in nature; they are artificially grown at Western Electric. At this stage in transistor manufacture, other elements are introduced in microscopic quantities to aid in controlling the flow of electrons through the germanium. But before these elements can be introduced, it is necessary to start with germanium of exceptional purity, so that the impurities will not interfere with the elements that are deliberately added.

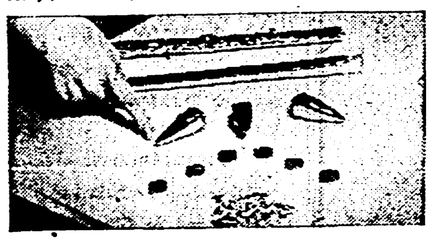
So Bell Telephone Laboratories devised an entirely new method of purification, known as zone refining, which was developed to a high-production stage by Western Electric engineers.

In zone refining a bar of germanium is passed through a heat zone so that a molten section traverses the length of the bar carrying the impurities with it and leaving behind a solidified section of higher purity. By the use of multiple heating zones in tandem, a number of molten sections traverse the bar. Each reduces the impurity content thus producing a bar which contains impurities in the amount of less than five parts per billion.

Because of the importance of the transistor in electronics, the zone refining process—like so many other Western Electric developments—has been made available to companies licensed by Western Electric to manufacture transistors.

This is one more example of creative engineering by Western Electric men. Engineers of all skills—mechanical, electrical, chemical, industrial, metallurgical, and civil—are needed to help us show the way in fundamental manufacturing techniques.

Various forms which germanium takes before being used in transistors are shown in this photo. Bar at top is an ingot of germanium after reduction from germanium dioxide. Next is shown the germanium ingot after the zone refining process used by Western Electric. Below the ingots are shown 3 germanium crystals grown by machine, 6 slices cut from these crystals, and several hundred germanium wafers ready for assembly into transistors.



Bell System
A UNIT OF THE BELL SYSTEM SINCE 1882

Manufacturing plants in Chicago, Ill. • Kearny, N. J. • Baltimore, Md. • Indianapolis, Ind. • Allentown & Laureldale, Pa. • Burlington, Greensboro & Winston-Salem, N. C. • Buffalo, N. Y. • Haverhill & Lawrence, Mass. • Lincoln, Neb. • St. Paul & Duluth, Minn. Distributing Centers in 29 cities and Installation headquarters in 15 cities. Company headquarters, 195 Broadway, New York City.

HOW'D YOU LIKE TO...
earn $5000 a year...
be an officer in the air force...
get an exciting head start in jet aviation...
AND
belong to a great flying team?
Captain Robert A. Polom and Aviation Cadet Selection team No. 63 are coming to Syracuse university to show you how. They will be here in Slocum Hall on 6th and 7th of April, 1954 from 10 until 4 p.m.

Crouse...

(Continued from page 1)

end and twice commencement weekend.

The band, which includes many students from the marching band and the ROTC bands, has Kenneth Fredericks as graduate assistant and Raymond Austin as president.

Dr. Ernst Bacon and the University Madrigal singers will present a concert the following Sunday, April 11.

COUNCILMAN SPEAKS

Councilman at Large James Mallaley spoke at the Young Republicans' club Wednesday.

REGENT
THURS.—SAT.
Hal Wallis'
"CEASE FIRE"
also
Fernando Lamas
Rhonda Fleming
"JIVARO"
(Headhunters of the Amazon)
Color by Technicolor

Gerber Will Head Civil Service Post

JEROME GERBER was named new chief of civil service of MSG yesterday. Gerber, a liberal arts junior, succeeds Stephen Reiss.

Jerome Gerber, a liberal arts junior, was named chief of civil service of men's student government yesterday by the government trust board.

He will officially succeed Stephen Reiss in the position on Moving-up day, May 9.

GERBER, MSG junior officer and director of organizations, is a resident of Brooklyn. He has been social chairman of Tau Delta Phi fraternity.

Past activity in MSG for Gerber includes the staff of "MSG Today" and "The Message," government bulletins. He has also served as assistant director of education and is currently working on revision of the training program.

Gerber also lists membership on the Student Activities Committee and Interfraternity council.

A total of seven civil service workers applied for the top post. The trust board which considered the applicants was composed of Dean of Student Services Frank P. Piskor, Dean of the College of Liberal Arts Eric H. Faigle, MSG President Stanley Leff, retiring chief Stephen Reiss and Men's Court Chief Justice Raymond Guenter.

IFC...

(Continued from page 1)

will take pictures at the ball, has requested that those interested should make an effort to have their pictures taken early. Jones will be located at the west end of the gymnasium in a room off the side of the band.

The final portion of the weekend's program will come Sunday when the Syracuse university Symphonic band will give a concert from 3 to 5 p.m.

Robert Goldstein, Alpha Epsilon Pi and James Messina, Kappa Sigma, are co-chairmen of the weekend.

Committee chairmen include Robert Lefko, banquet; Robert Curran, entertainment; Glen Kohler, special events; Aaron Miller, open house; Richard Menschel, arrangements; George Taback, arrangements; Arthur Siegel, publicity; Delmar Macauley, decorations and James Robinson, decorations.

JAM SESSION

Ray Caldiero and his combo will play at a jam session sponsored by Piety Hill Alliance from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday at Kappa Sigma. Refreshments will be served and PHA candidates introduced.

Astor...

(Continued from page 1)

ange song writing combination of Lanny O'Kun and Bill Angelos to a book by Bill Dixon and bill Levine. Drama instructor and Boar's Head advisor Gerry Leider is director and the entire poduction is under the supervision of Prof. Sawyer Falk, director of dramatic activities on campus.

Commenting on his problem child as he unlocked the Astor's doors yesterday, Director Leider predicted that the new show will be "even better" than "White Bucks and Tales" if that is possible." He added that rehearsals are proceeding on schedule and the picture seems extremely bright from the musical.

In addition to actual rehearsals on the vast Astor stage, the theater will serve as headquarters for the entire production. Costumes, scenery, props, promotion, and a thousand tiny schemes will take form there.

Tickets will go on sale there next week.

All in all, let it be known that general opinion along Salina street yesterday was to the effect that it's good to have the Astor back among the living again and with such a bright new tenant, at that.

Sorority Initiates New Pledge Class

Alpha Delta Pi recently initiated its pledge class. At a banquet in the Hotel Sherman. Miss Margaret Parker, social director at the university, gave the main address, "The Best Years of Your Life."

The awards included, outstanding pledge, Diana Dahlman; president's cup, Clara Behrendt; best pledge essay, Melanie Adamiec; and outstanding senior, Arlene Lambert.

The new initiates are: Melanie Adamiec, Diana Dahlman, Sally Daniels, Barbara Empsall, Marlene Floring, Marcia Knowles, Harriet Holsten, Patricia McCracken and Velma Van Voris.

Radio Confab

WAER ANNOUNCER RANSOM PLACE discusses the documentary series, "Anthology," prior to air time last night. Producers RICHARD BALLENTINE and EDWARD RASCH and assistant director JAYNEE WERNER confer. Photos by John Johnsrud

WAER PROGRAM SCHEDULE

FRIDAY

2:58—Sign On
3:00—WAER News
3:05—Symphonic Matinee
4:00—Musical Heritage
5:00—This I Believe
5:05—Distoff Digest
5:15—Dinner Date
6:15—WAER News
6:25—Evening Showcase
6:35—WAER Sports Lineup
6:45—Date With Adele
7:00—Paris Star Time
7:30—Univ. of Chicago Roundtable
8:00—Evening with Music
9:00—WAER News
9:05—Music Magazine
10:00—Final Edition—News
10:10—Final Edition—Sports
10:20—Sign Off

SATURDAY

2:58—Sign On
3:00—WAER News
3:05—Showtime
3:30—Guest Star
3:45—Serenade in Blue
4:00—Saturday Matinee
5:00—Spotlight Syracuse
5:30—Dinner Date
6:15—WAER News
6:25—Evening Showcase
6:35—WAER Sports Lineup
6:45—Here's to Veterans
7:00—WAER News
7:05—Ballet Stage
8:00—Masterworks of Music
9:00—WAER News
9:05—Portraits in Music
10:00—News and Sports
10:20—Sign Off

SUNDAY

2:58—Sign On
3:00—WAER News
3:05—Sunday Symphony
4:00—Crouse Concert
5:30—Dinner Date
6:00—WAER News
6:10—Syracuse This Week
6:20—WAER Sports Lineup
6:30—Chapel Highlights
7:00—Sunday Summary
7:10—Symphony Hall
8:00—WAER News
8:05—Opera House
10:00—Your Show
10:10—Final Edition—News
10:15—Final Edition—Sports
10:20—Sign Off

CAMPUS NOTICES

TODAY

Daily Chapel, noon to 12:20 p.m. Rev. Willard Cook will speak.

JSF Sabbath Eve services, 7:15 p.m., Chapel auditorium.

JSF religious committee meeting, 1 p.m., Chapel lounge. Attendance imperative.

Step singing song leaders meeting for winning houses, 5 p.m., 111 Maxwell. Attendance required.

All Pi Sigma members who have signed up for the Bristol trip meet at 1 p.m. in front of the greenhouse.

Applications for Goon squad are due before Easter vacation. All upper freshmen are eligible to submit applications to Ward Ingalsbe, Phi Kappa Psi; Jean Brydon, Kappa Alpha Theta; Cynthia Satow, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Harold Vikoren, Sigma Nu.

Inter-Varsity Christian fellowship, 7:30 p.m., Chapel lounge. Rev. Arthur Parce of Utica will talk on "Speak Up."

UJA fashion show rehearsal for all students at 4 p.m., dance studio of the Women's building.

FADS meet at 3:15 p.m. in prefab 7 to go to the lodge.

Pershing Rifles initiation and banquet at 5:15 and 6 p.m. respectively at Drumlins. Uniforms required.

WAA badminton tryouts for Cornell sports day from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m., Gym B of the Women's building.

The following people are assigned to work on the DO today: Afternoon: Heitz, Jo Stern, Chesin, Hess, Litchman, Reon, Oestereicher, Bernstein; Night: Goddard, Johnsrud, Meek, Glaser, Judge and Kemp.

FADS MEETING

Members of FADS will meet in 3:15 p.m. today at prefab 7. Cars will leave from there for the weekly meeting at the lodge.

TOMORROW

Inter-Varsity Christian fellowship roller-skating party starting at 6:45 p.m. from the Chapel.

SUNDAY

Canterbury Episcopal fellowship, 5:30 p.m., Grace church, corner of University ave. and Madison st. At 6:30 p.m. the Rt. Rev. Malcolm E. Peabody, bishop of central New York will speak.

Pershing Rifles meeting, 3:15 p.m., Machinery hall. Uniforms required.

Orange Key meeting, 8:30 p.m. Place to be announced. JSF Fashion show, 2 to 5 p.m., Women's building, dance studio.

Goon Squad Blanks Due Before Easter

Applications for Goon Squad should be handed in before Easter vacation, states Traditions commission.

All upper freshmen who would like to work on the squad should turn in their applications to Ward Ingalsbe, Phi Kappa Psi; Jean Brydon, Kappa Alpha Theta; Cynthia Satow, Kappa Kappa Gamma; or Harold Vikoren, Sigma Nu.

Applications should include name, address, telephone number, high school and campus activities, and any suggestions for improvements of the orientation program.

COME TO THE CLOVER CLUB
RAY CALDIERO
and his
ALL-CAMPUS FOUR
DANCING
Friday • Saturday
9-1
NO COVER OR MINIMUM
— Finest in Foods and Legal Beverages —
The CLOVER CLUB
Almond & Cedar Sts. Reservations Phone 75-9612

HERE'S WHERE THOSE TERM PAPERS BEGIN
BUT IT'S THE FINISHED PRODUCT THAT COUNTS
and
A GOOD THEME BINDER CAN MEAN A LOT
ACCOPRESS BINDERS—For Sheets 8½x11.....$.53 ea.
ACCO PRONG FASTENERS—to hold punched sheets securely.....Box of 50—$1.20
SNAP LOOSE SHEET BINDER
No punching necessary.....11x8½—$1.60 ea.
MARINER THEME COVERS—Black heavy grained stock—Box of 25—11x8½—$2.70, 15c each
BARDEEN'S
543 EAST GENESEE STREET

Pinned Couples Only!
TRY OUR SUNDAY STEAK SPECIAL
FRIENDLY "PERSONAL" MEALS
ALL LEGAL BEVERAGES
NO FLOOR SHOW . . . BRING YOUR OWN !
MARY MARDIN'S
Rock Cut Road, Jamesville Ph. 4-9722

NEW LINE IN SPRING COTTONS
Complete Selection
All Colors—All Styles
All Sizes
THE TOWN SHOP
Open Tuesday and Friday Evenings
736 South Crouse Ave. Phone 4-0461

MEMORY LANE
INVITES YOU TO AN
AFTERNOON OF DIXIELAND
LOU DESANTIS
AND HIS DIXIE-LAND JAZZ FIVE
SUNDAY, 3:30 to 7:30
2849 South Salina Street Phone 75-9549

MUSIC AS YOU LIKE IT
By The Tony Riposo Quartet
Featuring Lovely ANNA MARIE
(winner of "Chance of A Lifetime")
FRIDAY, SATURDAY NIGHT
SPECIAL FOR JAZZ CATS
LOU DESANTIS
And His Dixie-Land Five
SUNDAY NIGHT
Special Food Prices for Hill Students
CASABLANCA
253 East Water Street Phone 3-9512

ITALIAN...
Best dressed young women are having their hair cut in the Italian style, so artistically done by Fred's trained hair stylists. Always becoming to your individuality.
Phone 74-2487
for an appointment
fred The Hairstylist
in Hotel Syracuse
Other Salons: New York City • Washington, D. C. • Kansas City, Mo.

Schine Eckel Now
Continuous Performances
"THE SHE-WOLF"
"LA-LUPA"
Starring KERIMA
Extra ORSON WELLES in
"Return to Glennascaul"

NOW at Schine's PARAMOUNT
NOW PLAYING
"NIGHT PEOPLE"
Gregory Peck Anita Bjork
Broderick Crawford Rita Gam
in
CINEMASCOPE
Colored by Technicolor
Extra Added in CinemaScope
"HAYDEN'S FAREWELL SYMPHONY"

Now MIDTOWN Open 4:30 P.M.
3 DARING FILMS OF PASSIONATE INTENSITY!
French GIRLS CLUB
The Facts of Love

TIC-TOC
—presents—
★ JACK WAKEFIELD
Broadway Master Comedian
★ IRENE BOYD
Exotic Beauty
★ GAIL STEVENS
Singing Stylist
SPECIAL
Added Attraction
RAY CALDIERO
Sensational Trumpeter
Syracuse University's
No Cover or Minimum
$2 Minimum Sat. Nite Only
ANDRE'S TIC-TOC CLUB
700 South Salina St.

WHEN THE EVENING MUST BE PERFECT
In every collegiate year there are occasions when you want your evening to be flawless—in food—in service—in atmosphere. For a perfect evening—go to Hotel Syracuse.
THE PERSIAN TERRACE—a beautiful dining room serving Incheon, dinner and supper. In the evening there's dancing to the music of Lenny Herman and his orchestra, Tuesday through Saturday.
Persian Terrace
hotel SYRACUSE

Buy your Diamonds as the experts do- Unset
The advantages are numerous, of course - but the big advantage is the personal satisfaction of having an individual ring - your own selection of diamond and mounting. Our collection of unset diamonds and platinum and gold mountings is so comprehensive - and so varied - that you can buy exactly what you want. And here, of course, our scientific precision instruments enable you to see exactly what you are buying.
Divided Payments at No Additional Charge!
Open Monday Evenings
H.J. HOWE Inc.
Two Hundred One South Salina
Independent Jewelers Since 1860

CLASSIFIED ADS

IMPORTANT NOTICE—CLASSIFIED ADS to appear in this paper should be DELIVERED at the HELLBOX Classified desk between 1 and 3 p. m. NO ADS WILL BE ACCEPTED AFTER 3. ALL ADS MUST BE IN 2 DAYS IN ADVANCE. For further information call 4-7206.

ALL LOST ARTICLES should be turned into the CENTRAL LOST AND FOUND ROOM, 20 Bldg. 24 at 205 University Pl. Articles can be claimed there.

AUTO-DRIVING

AUTO DRIVING INSTRUCTION. Learn to drive easily, correctly and safely. Call Upstate Auto Driving School. Phone 8-4040.

LEARNING TO DRIVE? Learn quickly, easily, scientifically. 17 years experience. Car furnished. SULLIVANS DRIVING School Inc. 73-3451.

RENTALS

TYPEWRITERS RENTED: $3.00 per month, $8 3 months. Good selection. We deliver, Smith Brothers, 4-8833.

Typewriters rentals—New Models Reasonable Rates—Expert Service, All Makes—CORNER STORE.

FOR SALE

MERCURY 1949, 4-door sedan. Right and left directionals. One owner new tires. Harold L. Rear, 4-1790 or 74-3074.

CHURCH SERVICE

TEMPLE ADATH YESHURUN. Corner Harrison and South Crouse Ave. Week day services 7:30 a.m.

TYPING

EXPERIENCED TYPIST will type term papers in home. Call Mrs. Paul King. 9-5325.

EXPERT TYPING, theses and term papers. Mrs. Raymond Webb, 2-1884.

MISCELLANEOUS

ALTERATIONS DONE WITHIN A DAY: 4-5847. 5 minutes from campus. Lillian Potter, 207 Comstock Ave.

Graduate Commission Edition

SYRACUSE Daily Orange

On the Inside

Graduate Student Association, see pages 4 and 5.

Vol. 51, No. 104 | Syracuse, N. Y., Monday, April 5, 1954 | 8 Pages—5 Cents

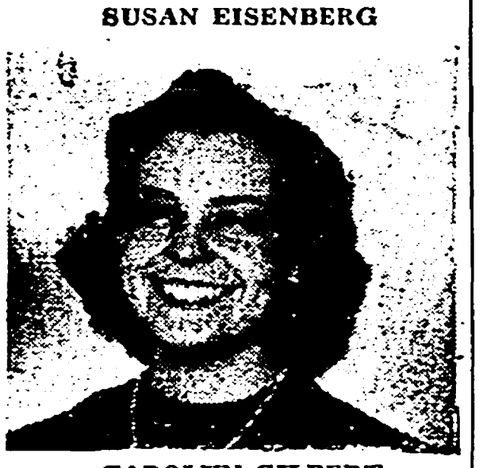
Military Queen

ANN HOFFMAN

BARBARA FIDELMAN

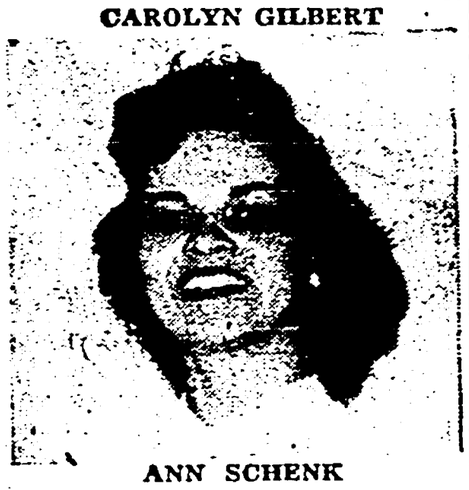
SUSAN EISENBERG

DORIS HERTENLENDY



CAROLYN GILBERT

GERALDINE WILDE



ANN SCHENK

JSF Will Nominate New Exec Council

Jewish Student fellowship has announced that a new executive council will be chosen within the next few weeks. Included among the available positions are the social, religious, cultural and public relations co-chairmanships plus many sub-chairmanships.

Any Jewish student on campus is eligible and encouraged to apply for a position. Previous experience in JSF is not a primary requisite.

Interested students may obtain an application blank from Mrs. Arlene Rothman at the JSF desk in the Chapel.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

Alpha Tau Omega recently elected the following officers for 1954-55: Arthur F. Kinney, president; Carl Ritter, vice president; Oliver Richards, treasurer; William Barnett, historian; John Henning, secretary; William Wildman, steward; Harold Dunham, pledge master; Gilbert Jones, steward; William Helwig, house manager; John Burger, rushing chairman; Howard Smith, IFC rep; Jack Siebert, usher; and Stanley Maychrzak, sentinel.

St. Thomas More Women's Retreat Continues Today

Program Conducted By Guest Speaker Rev. H. . Folger

The annual Catholic women's retreat of St. Thomas More chapel began at morning Masses yesterday morning.

The Rev. Harold X. Folger, S.J., director of Christ the King retreat house in Syracuse, is conducting the retreat. He preached the sermon at both Masses yesterday.

The program for today included Mass and short instruction at 8:45 a.m. Confessions will be heard at St. Thomas More chapel from 3-5 p.m. and devotions will be held at 7:30 p.m. The services will include saying of the rosary, a sermon by Father Folger and hymns.

Tomorrow's program will follow today's schedule.

The retreat will conclude with Mass at 6:45 a.m. Wednesday at St. Thomas More.

The retreat program today through Wednesday is for women only, the Rev. Gannon F. Ryan, Catholic chaplain, said. The retreat for men will begin next Sunday.

Grant Awarded To History Junior

Hugh W. Ripley has been awarded a $600 grant from the social Science Research council to conduct research on foreign investments of the Illinois Central railroad.

A junior at Syracuse, majoring in history, Ripley will gather material this summer at Newberry Library in Chicago. Dr. Harry H. Pierce, assistant professor of history will supervise the work.

This is the first grant made to the University by the council.

PI LAMBDA THETA

Dr. Agnes Allardyce, professor of speech and education at Syracuse, represented Beta chapter of Pi Lambda Theta, at the national gathering of the women's education honor society. Miss Dorothy Frater, graduate student in the College of Home Economics, also attended the conference.

Cadets Announce Contest Finalists

Military Queen to Rule At Ball on Saturday

Military queen finalists have been announced by the Cadet association of Syracuse university.

They include Ann Schenk, Alpha Phi; Doris J. Hertenlendy, Lund; Carolyn Gilbert, Phillips; Geraldine M. Wilde, Geneva; Susan Eisenberg, Wilson; Ann A. Hoffman, Wilson; and Barbara Fidelman, Shaw.

Members of the association will vote this week from today until Thursday on their choice for queen. Other finalists will be members of the queen's court.

The queen will be crowned at the Military ball, Saturday, from 9 p.m.-1 a.m. in Archbold gym.

Teachers Attend Convo for Profs

Three Syracuse university faculty members represented the University at the 40th annual meeting of the American Association of University Professors last Friday and Saturday.

They are Phillips Bradley, professor of political science; Eleanor E. Hanlon, assistant professor of geography; Paul W. Gilbert, assistant professor of mathematics.

Syracuse university, with about 400 members in its local chapter, ranks fifth in A.A.U.P. membership among the country's universities. It is expected that a number of Syracuse professors will join the official delegates in attending the Buffalo meeting. The program will include addresses, symposia, reports of committees and forum discussions on subjects of concern to the academic profession.

Voters to Decide 25 Posts in MSG

Thirty-three men will vie for 25 men's student government assembly posts in the Spring elections Wednesday.

There will be no competition in the senior class, since only four fraternity men and three independents have submitted petitions. The class assembly will appoint two more assemblymen after elections to fill out the nine spots in the class of 1955. No cityites petitioned for candidacy.

THE SEVEN MEN who submitted petitions will automatically be elected when their names appear on Wednesday's ballots.

Ten men are running for junior class representatives. Three independents are automatically in the assembly because of no opposition. Five Greeks and two city students are eligible.

Full tickets will appear for the sophomore class competition. Ten fraternity men, five independents and one city student will be in the race.

The MSG assembly candidates:

SENIOR CLASS — Fratesnity: Michael Newcomb, Lloyd Dunsker, Daniel Present, Max Seiken, Independent: Arndt Zetterstrand, Lowell Toenniessen, Malcolm Foster.

JUNIOR CLASS — Fraternity: Donald Barney, James Young, man, Frank Wolfe. Independent: Eugene Romeo, George Heitmann, Oakley McEachren, City: Barney Hamilton, Richard Koelling.

SOPHOMORE CLASS — Fraternity: John Henning, David Dickes, Edward Cowen, Mel Scott, David Rogers, Joel Anastasi, Donald Fulsom, Jefrey Wenig, Arthur Browner, Ronald Miller. Independent: Phillip Sperry, William Murray, Francis Procopio, John Yancey, George Allen. City: Leonard Dippold.

Candidates Must Sign Election Act Pledges

All candidates for class offices and men's student government assembly who do not sign elections act pledges by tomorrow will be ineligible to run in Wednesday's elections, government officials have announced.

Thirty-five students have yet to sign pledges, they reported. The forms are available at the men's student government office, building 30.

USAF Will Interview Students for Cadets

Capt. Robert L. Pollom, U. S. Air Force, will be on campus tomorrow to interview students interested in attending aviation cadet school. Pollom will be in the downstairs lobby of Slocum from 10 a.m.-4 p.m.

The Air Force, through this program, trains men to become pilots or aircraft observers. Classes, according to Air Force officials, begin every two weeks.

The pilots' course is 16 weeks in duration and the observers course is 14 weeks.

Qualifications include 19-26½ years of age, high school diploma, single, male and high personal and moral character.

Outing Club Slates Easter Camp Trip

The Outing club will sponsor a camping trip over Easter vacation to Shenandoah National park in the Blue Ridge mountains of Virginia. The trip will begin on Wednesday, April 14 and finish on Wednesday, April 21. Any persons interested in going should call Philip Hamilton at 4-9636.

Orators Will Vie In Contest Today

The 12th annual New York Journal-American Tournament of Orators will be held at 6 p.m. today at University college. Seven Syracuse university students will compete in this year's contest which honors Abraham Lincoln.

Speakers and their topics are: O. Mark DeMichele, Syracuse, "The Wisdom of Abraham Lincoln"; Cecelia S. Sigalowsky, Syracuse, "A Secular Saint"; Maxine D. Levy, Albany, "A Pledge"; Myra E. Epstein, Kingston, "A Great American"; Francis V. Metivier, Norwich, "The Roots of Lincoln's Power"; J. Thomas Long, Waterloo, "Lincoln's Everlasting Qualities"; Milton R. Shefter, Reading, Pa., "Pennywise."

Douglas B. Thornton is chairman, with Miss Donna C. Lanty, School of Speech, acting as timekeeper. Members of the public address departments will be judges. They are J. Calvin Callaghan, Mrs. Caryl M. Kline, J. Edward McEvoy and Richard C. Rosrabaugh.

Advertising Prof Presides at Convo

Professor Phillip Ward Burton, national president of Alpha Delta Sigma, advertising honorary, presided at a meeting of the organization in Iowa City, Iowa this past weekend.

Prof. Burton is chairman of the Advertising Department of the School of Journalism. The meeting was attended by representatives of Northwestern university, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Indiana, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Ohia State and Michigan State.

Cherchez La Femme

NANCY EDWARDS and FRANCESCA TRANTUM try to soothe the ruffled pride of GERALD REIDENBAUGH, because they are scheming to make him fall in love with their young Gigi. Love triumphs in the end, and everyone is happy.

SYRACUSE DAILY ORANGE

THREE R'S OF A COLLEGE NEWSPAPER: RESPONSIVENESS, RESPONSIBILITY AND RESOURCEFULNESS

Page 2 Monday, April 5, 1954

Editor-in-chief ..... Arlene Lambert
Business Manager ..... Robert Goldstein

SENIOR EDITORIAL STAFF

Managing Editor ..... Arthur Siegel
Editorial Director ..... Hugh O. Muir
Executive Editor ..... Janet Caro
Sports Editor ..... Kenneth Lent

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Edward Meyer, Joan Nadelhaft, Phyllis Sirota, Howard Vanklik, Mary Vivian

BUSINESS STAFF

Asst. Business Manager ..... Sheldon Lessen
Layout Manager ..... Judith Berman
Classified Manager ..... Jean Jacobs
Circulation Manager ..... Anita Freyberg
Promotion Manager ..... Lloyd Eisenberg

DAILY STAFF

Issue Editor ..... Joan Nadelhaft
Night Editor ..... Liz Goddard
Asst. Night Editor ..... John Johnstud
Editorial Page Asst. ..... George Meek
Night Sports Editor ..... Alex Stratser

Published by the students of Syracuse University. Telephones: News, 75-5196, 75-5197; Editor, 76-1449; Business: 4-7206. Subscription by mail $6 per year, $3.50 per semester. Entered as second class mail matter at the Syracuse Post Office. Exclusive national advertising representatives National Advertising Inc., New York City.

Bells in Maxwell!

"Don't 'cha hear them bells?"

In Maxwell, that is.

If you've been hearing the buzzer system in the halls of Maxwell lately, we hope you didn't rub your ears and mutter comments about the rarified air on the Hill. Those bells which sound every hour are "for real."

The end of class periods will no longer depend on the eagle-eye of some student with a watch or the whim of the teacher. The old bell system has been reactivated!

Perhaps not every floor is equipped with the devices as yet, but this situation should be alleviated by the end of the week.

The move for the return of the bells started with a Daily Orange editorial. Many students had complained that professors in bellless Maxwell consistently talked overtime making them late for the next class. Following up the eidtorial we discovered that a system was already in the building but shut off.

When this fact was brought to the attention of Administration personnel, it was decided to put the bells in working order.

Now many students will be able to attend class without keeping both eyes on their watches—and arrive on time for the next class, too.

Editor-in-Chief

Amnesia cases

Psssstttt. We've found something that all the politicians are for aside from better student government and stronger class spirit. ID cards.

See, those people can't get a job unless we, that's us unlettered voting mass, get out there and, well, just vote.

Problem is that unless enough of us vote the whole thing won't look very worth while and people begin saying, "well, look at that guy, voted in by two percent of his class."

Now this ID thing looks like a way in for those of us that have misplaced those identification things since the last football game.

What you do is, and this is figuring that you are one of them that's lost an ID card. Get over to the WSG office on the third floor of the Women's building or Prefab 30 where MSG abides. You fill out a form and turn it in.

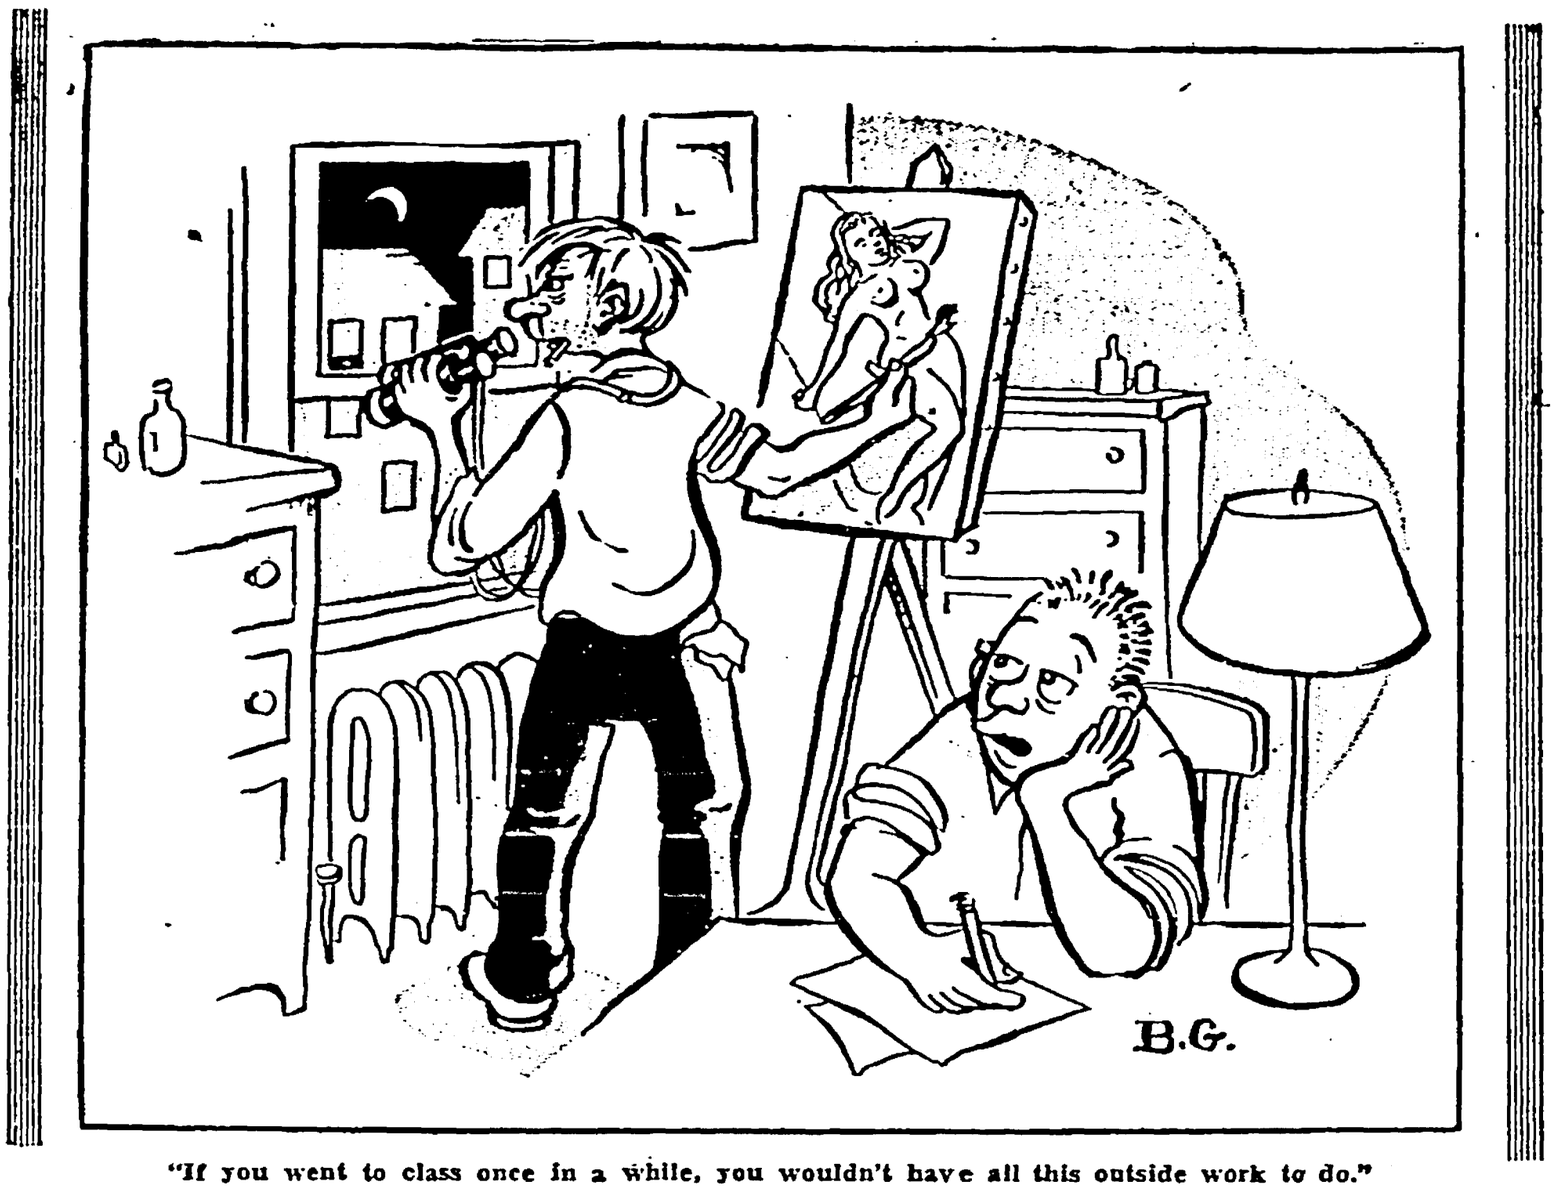
Then, between 2 and 4 p.m. tomorrow, chances are they'll exchange it for a voting certificate.

Then come Wednesday you drop around to the voting booth and ballot a bit. Then over to the MSG or WSG offices again on Thursday and you can get your tuition recepit back.

All this foofaraw isn't for laughs or legwork . . . it's to vote. Class elections are worth just about as much as the voting participants

Editorial Director

Resurrections from Geisenheimer



"If you went to class once in a while, you wouldn't have all this outside work to do."

Query on Death of 'Quiz'

By DICK CASE
Editorial Page Writer

One of the pointed paradoxes of the broadcasting business is to be found in the slow death of shows which the industry itself and professional critics like to call "a high type of programming."

Such is the case of NBC's "College Quiz Bowl" which gasped its final breath last night. Despite the obvious prejudice of this department arising from Syracuse's involvement in the series, sorrow must be felt for what was simply a "darn good program."

During the Thursday broadcast, moderator Allen Ludden made it known that a possibility does exist that the series will return in the fall. The final decision will be made, however, by NBC brass whose alternatives will be based on the popularity of "College Quiz Bowl." Right now, it would seem that they are in doubt about that popularity and are seeking to test it by shelving the production.

April 4 is somewhat premature to yank a series for the summer schedule.

Whether through lack of thought or lack of interest, broadcasting has traditionally offered a slightly narrow view of college campuses, football and assorted sports, in the main. The pattered wax dummy of the "crazy-mixed-up-kollege-kid" was poured into the mold and distributed over a variety of programming.

As a result, relief and interest is to be found in something like 'College Quiz Bowl" which points up a news aspect of higher education and rewards bright young Americans for a pursuit in what, indeed, must be the alter purpose of a college career. Certainly, the public relations brought to the universities and in turn, to NBC, is enough reason in itself to preserve such a venture.

Listeners and viewers are also given to great joy over the multitude of quiz, prize and good luck shows which populate network broadcasting. In its lack of motion, gimmicks and a presence of authority, 'College Quiz Bowl" was somewhat of a freak of its type.

In exploring the situation further, a commercial motive may be involved in that NBC does not relish the presence of a show on its schedule without a sponsor and with double popularity. Regarding radio's aim of "public service, convenience and necessity," some justification could certainly be found in the vice-president's little hearts for "College Quiz Bowl." If the enthusiasm generated at Syracuse, Colorado and Washington and Lee is any signpost, the name of NBC is held as high and god-like places on the campus benefitting from its presence.

The passing of "College Quiz Bowl" should only be of temporary nature. It's reappearance in September will not only benefit Syracuse university but a sadly trobuled broadcast business which has a mamouth need for immediate injections of brave, new ideas.

STUDY PROBLEMS?

A WORD ON HOW TO BEAT STUDY GAME

Having trouble with study? This foolproof procedure was recently followed with success by two SU students:

"Answer a knock on the door and in walks the man from across the hall. 'Bill,' he says, 'you're about my size, where's your gray suit'? We stand by helplessly while he tries on our only gray suit. Too small. 'Where' is your blue suit?' he asks. We dash for the wardrobe and rescue the blue suit just in time. The word "Cheapskate" floats back through the door as he leaves.

We sit down, put a sheet of paper into the typewriter and pound out a few sentences. Through the door again comes God's gift to the world. 'Say, let me look at that typewriter,' our malignant guest oozes. In rapid sequence he crosses the room, yanks our paper from the machine and us from our seat, flips a sheet of our best bond into the typewriter to practice on. After discovering what not to do to a typewriter, he is joined by four other persons of questionable intelligence. We now have our version of Bedlam.

Trying to rid ourselves of this swarm of locusts, we drop strong hints about leaving. Laughter of various types greets us and the party continues unabashed. Desperation takes over and we bluntly lay down the law, "Get the hell out!" More laughter. Louder.

One of the members of the encamped legion is called to the telephone and the rest of the vultures follow to see what he has to say to his girl. Immediately we dive for the door and lock it. The phone conversation finished, we hear noises and muffled snickers outside the door. Soon the reason is evident. Smoke drifts into the room as burning newspapers are slid under the door to smoke us out. We grab the coffee water from the hot plate and give it a toss under the door. Screams are heard from the other side as we mark a target.

The battle becomes quiet as the seige fails. We go back to the desk and pick up our copy of Pogo to continue studying.

—Frank McGuire

COLLEGE BOY (MAN)?

THIS, MEN, IS A GROSS INSULT! (?)

Thumbing through the "Cavalier Daily," University of Virginia, the other day, we came across this choice bit reprinted from "Queen's Journal." At last here's excerpts from the answer to "What is the college boy?":

Between the senility of second childhood and the light-hearted lechery of the teens we find a loathsome creature called the college boy. College boys come in assorted sizes, weights, and states of sobriety, but all college boys have the same creed: To do nothing every second of every minute of every day and to protest with whining noises (their great weapon) when their last minute of inertia is finished and the adult male takes them off to the Employment Office or the Draft Board.

A college boy is a composite—he has the energy of Rip Van Winkle, the shyness of a Mr. Micawber, the practicality of a Don Quixote, the kindness of a Marquis de Sade, the imagination of a Bill Sykes, the appetite of a Garguantua, the aspirations of a Casanova, and when he wants something, it's usually money.

Nobody is so late to rise or so early to supper. Nobody else can cram into one pocket a slide-rule, a Marilyn Monroe calendar, Kant's "Critique of Pure Reason," a collapsible pool cue, a Mugsy Spaniel record, and a Y.M.C.A. towel.

A college boy is a magical creature —you can lock him out of your heart but you can't lock him out of your liquor cabinet. You can get him off your mind, but you can't get him off your expense account. Might as well give up; he is your jailer, your boss and your albatross—a bleary-eyed, no-account, girl-chasing bundle of worry. But when you come home at night with only the shattered pieces of hope and dreams, he can make theim mightily insignificant with four magic words—"I flunked out, Dad."

—Joanne Hess

LETTERARY COMMENT

GEE WHIZ FELLAS, WHA' HOPPENED?

April 1, 1954

Dear Editor:

This letter is in reference to several articles that I have skanned in today's "DO."

First of all are these Financial Responsibility Cards. I inquired about signing one, and I was informed that Foresters did not have to sign because we have proved our responsibility by donating large amounts of blood.

I would like to publically congratulate ean Piskor for banning cars. One day I was almost run down by some "stupe" in a Crosley. On the back of his car was a sign reading: "Watch Out for Kids." This is only one example of many such occurrances.

Sincerely yours,
Eustace B. Nifkin
A Forester

P.S.: I wish you would publish at least part of this letter, instead of depositing it in your circular file, as you must have done with several of my recent letters. Thank you.

Buddy, Get Your Gun

The editors of the Michigan State Spartan have suggested Russian Roulette as the new national sport, both in the interests of economy and mutual understanding between the United States and Russia. They feel that audience interest would be kept at an all-time high, and that the game would become the top-flight spectator sport.

Among the benefits, they pointed out, would be the large turnover of champions, and the small cost of the equipment. Another feature, of benefit to the "athletes" anyway, is the lack of necessity for rigid training hours. Just think, the squad wouldn't be thrown out of school for studying after hours.

Deadly Bomb

By ART SIEGEL
Managing Editor

(The following is the account in part of a recent hearing held by a Senate investigating committee):

SEN: Mr. Fisk, the reason we are interviewing you today is to determine the exact nature of a new weapon we have information on.

FISK: Senator, I'll be glad to tell all I know. I have nothing to conceal.

SEN: Is it true you have invented a new bomb?

FISK: That is right.

SEN: Would you describe the exact nature of this bomb?

FISK: Of course. It is four feet in length, and is cylindical in shape. Its diameter is 14 inches and it has a warhead that reaches a sharp penetrating point.

SEN: Yes! Yes! Go on.

FISK: I call it the F-bomb, after myself and after my wife, Mrs. Fisk.

SEN: Go on! Please, go on!

FISK: Well, it is dropped from an airplane. The fuse is inserted during the flight. The B-36 is probably the ideal carrier.

SEN: Yes? Yes?

FISK: It is dropped at approximately 2,000 feet above ground zero for maximum effect.

SEN: And then what happens? Then what happens?

FISK: Why nothing.

SEN: Nothing? Nothing he says. Nothing!

FISK: That's right. Nothing.

SEN: What kind of bomb is this? What does the bomb do?

FISK: Why, it just lies there.

SEN: Just lies there

FISK: Yup. (He inserts a toothpick in his mouth).

SEN: I don't understand. A bomb that just lies there?

FISK: That's right. It is in a very attractive case. It just lies there.

You're mad, that's what you are. Boys listen to this madman. "It just lies there!" Han!

FISK: What's wrong with that? It's effective.

SEN: How can it be effective?

FISK: Because the people get so afraid of it, wondering when it will blow up that they all die of fright.

SEN: Indeed.

FISK: That's right, Senator.

SEN: How much do you want for this bomb?

FISK: Gentlemen, I realize that if you use my bomb you'll save mililons of atoms and bililons of hydrogen molecules. Think of the electrons you'll save and the cyclotrons you can use for army mess skillets.

SEN: How much do you want for the F-bomb?

FISK: As someone interested in the fine art of bombing, it's yours for $200, just what I paid for the metal case.

Sen: Sold. Boys, add the F-bomb to the list. Meeting adjourned.

AT THE FLICKERS

SOAP-OPERA SLUDGE HITS OPERETTA

By CHARLES SAMUELS
Daily Orange Movie Critic

Rose Marie in the Rockies

The only thing in "Rose Marie" at the State, that has the ring of truth is the rugged beauty of the Canadian Rockies is captured by the Cinema-Scope camera. Everything else, from Fernando Lamas' accent to the tribal dance is as phoney as a soap opera.

This Rudolph Friml operatta concerns a spitfire who wants to be a lady. The Otto Tarbach-Oscar Hammerstein book is a frank piece of romantic nonsense and if ever a film cried out for an artificial treatment this one does. The producers, however, have seriously set it forth much in the manner of a straight drama. The result is a curious mismating of subject and treatment that manages to rob the film of most of the charm of the original operetta.

The casting with the exception of Fernando Lamas, who came to the Rockies by way of the Pampas, is apt. Mr. Lamas who is a French trapper with an Argentinian accent, a phenomenon characteristic of the film's confusion.

Howard Keel plays the part of the stalwart Mountie who falls in love with Rose Marie, gallantly gives her up and rides off to camp and his pension. Since Mr. Keel sits firmly in the saddle and has a voice quite as firm, he invests the role with some creditability.

Ann Blyth manages the transition from fire and brimstone to sugar and spice charmingly and her clear soprano registers well on the sound track.

Marjorie Main and Bert Lahr are happily employed to provide the film's comedy. Miss Main supplies some spunk as a night-hall queen and Mr. Lahr fractures the customers with his leering, gung-gung-gunging portrait of the Mountie who never gets his man.

SUPPORT D.O. Advertisers They Help Support Your D.O.

HOW'D YOU LIKE TO...

meet

