REPORT OF THE NCAA DIVISION II CONVENTION PLANNING PROJECT TEAM

May 20, 2010, Teleconference

ACTION ITEMS*.

Nonlegislative Action Items.

1. Division II Core Schedule.

a. Recommendation. Approve the core schedule for Division II Convention activities, as noted in Attachment A.

b. Rationale. The Convention Planning Project Team reviewed the core schedule for the 2011 Convention, noting that the minor changes in timing and format would provide for better transitioning between sessions and an opportunity for members to attend sessions of their choice.

(The Management Council approved the core schedule.)

c. Estimated Budget Impact. None.

d. Impact on Student-Athlete. None.

2. Division II Education Sessions.

a. Recommendation. Approve the topics for the education sessions, as presented in Attachment B. Specific agendas within each of these areas will be developed as the year progresses.

b. Rationale. The project team agreed that these broad topics for the breakout sessions would allow the staff and Councils to develop specific areas within the subject matter for the sessions.

(The Management Council approved the recommended topics for the education sessions.)

c. Estimated Budget Impact. None.

d. Impact on Student-Athlete. None.

3. Division II Convention Theme.

a. Recommendation. Approve the following theme for Division II for the 2011 Convention: "NCAA Division II: An Experience for Life."

b. Rationale. The project team determined that an overall Division II theme, which also ties into the theme of the Division II Chancellors and Presidents Summit, would provide the division with a look and feel uniquely Division II. The project team unanimously approved the suggested theme, which will work in unison with "Life in the Balance," rather than replacing it.

(The Management Council approved the recommended theme.)

c. Estimated Budget Impact. None.

d. Impact on Student-Athlete. None.

INFORMATIONAL ITEMS.

1. Update from Convention Management. The project team received an update from the NCAA Convention management team. Core events and the schedule for Association-wide education sessions were discussed. The team was informed that there would, once again, be an overarching theme for the 2011 Convention—Where Leaders of Higher Education Meet and Connect. The Honors Celebration will remain basically unchanged, with the same format as 2010.

2. Keynote Speaker. The project team asked the staff to reach out to the commissioners of the Lone Star and Heartland Conferences to see if either conference could suggest some prominent persons who were student-athletes at schools in the region. The project team also asked that the staff reach out to other Division II conferences to develop and build a base group of individuals who could be used in the future.

3. Chancellors and Presidents Programming. The project team believed that specific chancellor/president programming could be better developed by the Presidents Council at its summer and fall meetings, as well as from issues that emanate from the Division II Chancellors and Presidents Summit in June. Programming for that Convention session will be determined at that time.

History of the Division II Enhancement Fund

The fund was created by the NCAA Executive Committee in the late 1980s following negotiation of the new CBS media agreement. It was approved and implemented by leadership in all three divisions as a financial incentive for schools to maintain Division II membership affiliation.

The original $3,000,000 fund was aligned with already existing Division I financial distributions, where money would go to Division II conference offices based on success in the Division II men's basketball tournament, and an equal distribution would be sent to each active Division II member.

Contributing factors for this decision:

- NCAA's revenue from CBS was linked directly to the telecast of the Division I men's basketball championship;

- Division II men's basketball has the highest percentage of sports sponsorship by member schools for all Division II sports.

Enhancement Fund Increases

Following the restructuring of the NCAA in 1997, the Division II enhancement fund has steadily increased to its current amount of $5,100,000. The increases occurred in the following years:

- $3.6 million -- 2001-02
- $3.9 million -- 2002-03
- $4.2 million -- 2003-04
- $4.5 million -- 2004-05
- $4.8 million -- 2006-07
- $5.1 million – 2009-10

Distribution Formula Changes

In 2000-2001, the Division II Budget and Finance Committee agreed to modify the distribution formula by also including success in women's basketball and by adding a new prong that assigns distribution points for the number of championships sponsored by each conference. The current formula used to distribute the $5,100,000 fund each spring is as follows:

- $1,600,000 to conference offices based on the number of conference championships sponsored with at least six active members;
- $800,000 to conference offices based on success in the men's basketball tournament;

- $800,000 to conference offices based on success in the women's basketball tournament;
- $1,900,000 equal distribution paid directly to active member institutions in good standing (approximately $7,000 per school last year).

Further, the Division II Planning and Finance Committee (formerly the Division II Budget and Finance Committee) has agreed that the Division II strategic positioning platform must influence all future program and budget decisions for the division. The committee believes a distribution formula based in part on success in only two national championships (men's and women's basketball) is inconsistent with the division's comprehensive platform.

Therefore, in April 2010, the Planning and Finance Committee presented a recommendation to the Presidents Council regarding the distribution of enhancement funds to member schools and conferences. The recommendation included the elimination of the prong related to success in the men's and women's basketball championship. Further, the recommendation included a formula that would send 75 percent of the fund to conference offices based on sports sponsorship (as measured by the number of championships conferences offer in NCAA sports) and 25 percent of the fund to member schools based on equal distribution. The Planning and Finance Committee will consider this recommendation again during its August meeting before it seeks final approval from the Presidents Council. The Planning and Finance Committee also will consider implementing a transition fund to offset any losses to the conferences offices in the first year and determine the timeline of the change during its summer meeting.
