

U.S. TECH PRIVACY POLICY
February 2011

Information Collection and Use:

U.S. TECH collects registration, circulation qualification, and other information (including e-mail addresses) that you provide to us. This is done to help us provide our customers with the best customer service and valuable information regarding relevant products and services from us and appropriate third parties.

Information Sharing and Disclosure:

Data may be used to update and improve our publications; as well as inform you of important industry news, events, services, and/or products. Occasionally, we may release the data that you provide to third parties that wish to market products/services that may be of interest to you.

We have procedures in place to safeguard and help prevent unauthorized access, data security, and correct use of the information we collect on-line. We will not sell, share, or rent any financial information collected from you.

The views expressed in any U.S. TECH communication channel (example: website, magazine, blog, bulletin board, newsletter, social site), are those of the individual author, and not to be attributed to U.S. TECH, or of any person or organization affiliated with or otherwise doing business with us.

Cookies:

We employ cookies to recognize registered users and their access privileges, as well as to track site usage and maintain security of the user's account. In some cases, subscribers who do not accept cookies from us may not be able to access advanced areas of publication sites. Additionally, third parties may collect information through the use of cookies and web beacons.

Opt-out features:

You will have opportunities to opt-out of receiving information from third parties not affiliated with U.S. TECH. Any communication that is sent to you will provide the opportunity to opt-out of future communications of the same type. Occasionally, information provided by you (including address, telephone, fax, and e-mail address and/or title or business) will be used to send subscription renewal requests from U.S. TECH. To opt-out, please contact U.S. TECH in writing and let us know your specific opt-out request and it will be fulfilled as soon as possible. Please include the title of the product in your correspondence. We must receive your opt-out request in writing via mail, fax, or e-mail, using the information below:
