Dear Member,

RE: Isotopes, Imaging and Identity -
A History of Nuclear Medicine in Australia and New Zealand

ANZSNM has recently published Isotopes, Imaging and Identity – A History of Nuclear Medicine in Australia and New Zealand. This book is the culmination of the contributions of numerous society members and an extensive network of industry colleagues.

Isotopes, Imaging and Identity – The History of Nuclear Medicine in Australia and New Zealand outlines the discoveries and achievements of interrelated disciplines within nuclear medicine and the development of various technologies introduced over the years to make nuclear medicine an integral part of patient management today.

It details the formation and expansion of a professional collegiate which became the ANZSNM and of many lifelong friendships including interstate and international cooperative ventures that have underpinned the vital contributions that nuclear medicine has made to medicine, within and beyond Australia and New Zealand.

We hope this book will hold a place of importance in the libraries of ANZSNM members and will be valued by others with any interest in contemporary nuclear medicine, medical history, Australian and New Zealand social history, and other related fields.

Members have the opportunity to obtain a copy of the book paying only the cost of postage and handling AU$25.00. In addition, in the New Year we will be establishing a wiki-book facility where an online version of Isotopes, Imaging and Identity - A History of Nuclear Medicine in Australia and New Zealand will exist. This will allow interested persons to make live comments and provide additional information to enable the content to evolve for future editions.

Yours sincerely,

Elizabeth Bailey [BAppSc(MRS) MBA]
