POLITICS?

I greatly appreciate all the emails telling me I should throw my hat in the ring. They are very flattering. Unfortunately, it takes a huge fund raising today or party support, but if you accept party support, you then have to kiss ass. The only way someone will be able to clean house is independent – that third party. There is no time left to create such an organization.

Yes, I concede that I may be the epitome of Frank Sinatra's song "My Way" taking the blows and standing tall. It will take far more than that to actually win. The NY Press hates my guts because I call a spade a spade. If someone steals your car and resells it to another, the buyer of stolen property has no title and the car must be returned to you. The duped buyer has a claim only against the seller. The NY press is allowing Judge Martin Glenn to covertly support the banks that accepted stolen funds from MF Global. He is shaving all depositors rather than forcing the other banks to return the property that was stolen. If the financial press were independent, they would state what the law is and ask why are depositor's funds frozen and suffering losses that are not theirs legally? This issue alone shows how much the press is in the pocket of the status quo. To me that is treason. As they say, give a man a gun, and he can rob a bank. Give a bank a judge and the press, and he can rob the world.

If I ever stepped a foot in the political ring they would assassinate me before I could take office because they know I will not compromise on what I believe. So when you cannot buy someone, you cannot coerce someone and you cannot torture someone, all that is left is to kill them. I do not fear that as much as I fear the future we face ruled by backroom dictators even for my own progeny.

As it has been so bluntly pointed out to me that as Sinatra says, my words are not of "someone who kneels", nonetheless, I am not well known outside of the financial industry and unlikely to be able to gain support to pull that off. I am better where I am, fighting with one foot behind the curtain and the other out front. I will support anyone who is willing to do the right thing. I am the guy with the quiver; we need someone else to operate the bow. History always provides that person. He will show up.
