

gwinburyart

908-456-6727 ig: gwinburystudio www.gwinburypainting.com

Dear Friends and colleagues,

I hope you are all healthy, surviving and possibly thriving during these difficult times. The holidays are upon us. In these slow-down next few week let's bring you up to date.

I have a painting in Chelsea, NYC in the Carter Burden Gallery. The show is "Artists Choice" from November 7-December 16th. It was open by appointment. Due to our current Covid up-tick it is now open virtually www.carterburdengallery.org.

I am involved in fundraisers. The primary one is the USPS Art Project. It began early in the Pandemic, to raise funds for the postal service. It is now a traveling national exhibition. I have art in Philadelphia, New York, Conn, and now Denver. Each piece is a collaboration between at least two artists.

Gail Winbury and Eileen Ferara

You may know that my work has been featured on Saatchi on-line for several years. In fact, during the Pandemic, I sold two large paintings to a collector in London via Saatchi. I am also pleased to now participate in Singulart, Europe's largest on-line gallery. www.singulart.com

Finally, I am giving a talk December 3 at 12:15 about art created during the pandemic. Sponsored by The Co-Co, in Summit, NJ, a women's co-working and empowerment space. <https://www.theco-co.com>

Creating Art During the Pandemic: A Discussion with Gail Winbury

Thursday, December 3, 2020
12:15 PM – 1:00 PM

Creating Art During the Pandemic: A Discussion with Gail Winbury

Thursday, December 3, 2020
12:15 PM – 1:00 PM

What has living through this pandemic meant to you? Have you been able to create something meaningful or are you barely getting from one day to the next? The Co-Co's twice weekly virtual co-working has been a life line for many, creating structure and accountability while also providing a hit of community and connection. Please join Gail Winbury, The Co-Co's Artist in Residence, as she discusses the art she created during virtual co-working at The Co-Co since March 2020.

Moment by Moment, April, 2020

Please take enjoy my work at www.gwinburypainting.com or any of the other art platforms. But most of all stay safe, healthy and with some joy during these extraordinary times.

Warmly,

Gail

