Reston Animal Hospital wants you to be aware of our kennel arrangement.

At any time during our business hours, you are invited to tour our building facilities. Boarders are individually caged and, when possible, cats are kept in one kennel room and dogs in another. However, at your request, multiple pets from the same household may be boarded together.

It is not possible for us to completely isolate dogs from cats. Both rooms have runs utilized for large dogs. Also, when dogs are walked 4 times daily, they are routinely walked past cat boarding cages. Please note, cats are not removed from the cages during their stay here. We use caution and judgment when handling all our boarders.

We are not prepared to board aggressive animals; if your pet is aggressive, we will recommend another facility to more safely meet your needs.
