

Dear Valued Client and Friend:

I have good news and more good news! (No bad news this time!)

The first item in the good news list is that as of March 24, 2011, I have passed the ownership of the Animal Hospital of Clinton-Perryville to Dr Keith Ross, who I am thrilled to have take over my practice.

I had the opportunity to meet several veterinarians while I was searching for a buyer, but I chose Dr Ross because I believe he will carry on our tradition of high quality medicine individualized to each client and pet. Dr Ross and I have spent the last few months working out all the details of this transfer – and miraculously we have had fun doing it! (Imagine becoming good friends with the person buying your property and your business.) I think this was possible because Dr Ross is a very genuine and caring person with high standards of personal integrity and honesty. I will let him introduce himself in his own letter attached to this one. And as you have the opportunity to meet him, I hope you will agree with my choice.

The second item of good news is that I am staying on to work part-time for Dr Ross. I am looking forward to going back to being a full-time doctor. There are certainly lots of rewards to being your own boss, but any of you who run your own business – even just run your own household - know the demands. You become owner, landlord, plumber, electrician, handyman and head of human resources, just to name a few titles! So I am happy to pass these titles on to Dr Ross and simply retain the title of Doctor. And I am glad to be here to assist Dr Ross in the transition to owner, landlord, etc!

Some of you have even been with me since I began this practice in 1984 in the basement of my house in Clinton, and some of you are fairly new to our practice. But I want to thank all of you for trusting me and my staff to care for your pets. It is a tremendous privilege to assist you in keeping your 4-legged family members happy and healthy. Many of you have also become friends along the way, and I treasure that friendship. Actually I look forward to maybe expanding that friendship in some cases, as I now will have more free time – lunch anyone?

I am looking forward to seeing all of you in the future in my new capacity as an employee! And looking forward to introducing you to my new boss, Dr Ross.

Thanks for the Memories!

Felecia Niebojeski,DVM
