Grooming Month!

OCTOBER 2010

Why Regular Grooming is Important

Grooming can help your pet feel good with shorter hair and a stylish cut, which can make them act happier and be more huggable!

Also, grooming may bring awareness to a new lump or bump on the body, skin infections, and ear infections that might be covered by hair.

Long hair around the face of your pet can irritate the eyes and damage the cornea. The groomer can trim around the face to prevent this.

Grooming is also an excellent way to find fleas or ticks that your pet may have.

Walking on long nails can be painful, aggravate arthritis, and cause the toes to splay. Long nails can curve around and grow into the pads.

Matted fur that forms close to the skin can cause skin irritation and bruising. Regular brushing and haircuts can prevent this.

Our bath and groom packages include a nail trim, ear cleaning, and an anal gland expression.

Regular bathing and grooming reduces shedding and aggravating hairballs in your home. Our unique de-shed groom service is really great for pets with a thick undercoat.
