

ABSTRACT

Writing is a unique ability that only some people might had. But it is unexpected that everyone also has the same ability to write something. Neither by arguing, although all can submitted an opinions or ideas about something, many of them are not able or not know how to argue properly and correctly. Awared of this, the author tried to find the constraints and problems experienced by the research subjects when they want to argue, especially through the text of the argumentation. Found that there were problems encountered when writing the argumentation text, it turns out that the obstacles experienced by the subject during the process of writing the argumentation text are very diverse, ranging from reasoning about something to lack of motivation to dare to argue. With the existence of this studied we as an authors and researchers hoped that this research can be a reference for subsequent research and not only limited to that, the hope of the authors of this study can be a reference to the problems experienced by students in writing argumentative text.
