Philharmonic will bid farewell to Benjamin

By Lori Feeney

On Saturday, June 4, Eric Benjamin will conduct his final concert with the Tuscarawas Philharmonic at the Performing Arts Center at Kent State University at Tuscarawas. It has been, according to Benjamin, a 25-year love affair since he first became the musical director and conductor of the philharmonic.

The final concert of the season, “A Tuneful Goodbye — with Friends,” will bring together classical music with the music of some of Benjamin’s friends and will include an appearance by Dr. Jongho Kim, who will take over as the philharmonic’s next musical director.

“Eric has created a unique place in the history of the Tuscarawas Philharmonic and in this community,” said Carey Gardner, vice president of the philharmonic board of directors.

Along with some celebrated symphonic pieces by Hindemith and Barber, the concert will feature compositions by Benjamin and his friends: Alex Bevan of Cleveland, Willie Nelson, John Williams, jazz musicians Richie Travers and Jackie Warren, and Dover native Elizabeth Langford Estes.

Combining musical genres has been one of Benjamin’s fortes as musical director, whose approach and willingness to interact with audiences made him a beloved maestro to the orchestra and concert-goers.

“Eric has a great relationship with the orchestra members,” philharmonic concertmaster Mary Bontrager said. “He has always been easy to work with. I will have many memories of making great music together.”

From his early days conducting the orchestra in the Dover High School auditorium to his tenure at the PAC, Benjamin said he has tried to take some of the pretentiousness out of classical music concerts, talking casually to audiences about the various pieces of music being performed.

“I’ve always enjoyed the interaction between Eric, the orchestra members and those of us sitting in the auditorium,” Gardner said. “Eric’s self-deprecating humor and animated style on the podium engaged, amused and educated the audience in a style all his own.”

One of Benjamin’s concerts brought local country musicians to the stage and finished with Beethoven’s “Pastoral Symphony,” which is about living in the country.

“You just have to use a little imagination and give yourself the opportunity to try something a little outside of the envelope,” Benjamin said. “I’ve been able to do that here.”

The conductor who almost wasn’t

A native of St. Albans, Vermont, Benjamin started out as a rock and roller, playing in several bands as a seventh-grader. “But then I heard ‘In the Hall of the Mountain King’ from the Peer Gynt Suite by Edvard Grieg, and I was really taken with it,” he said. “So I gave up my rock and roll career — the money, the women, the whole thing. I even gave my rock albums to the local public library. Classical music was a way for me, in adolescence, to identify myself. I wasn’t an athlete, I wasn’t the best student in class and I wasn’t a chick magnet.”

After completing his master’s degree in orchestral conducting at the New England Conservatory of Music, Benjamin described the day he sent in his application for the assistant conductor position with the Akron Symphony Orchestra, which he landed.

“I distinctly remember standing in line at the post office,” he said. “It was five o’clock, and I was having to express mail the application, and that was money that I couldn’t really afford to spend. So I actually stepped out of line and walked toward the door but was struck with the thought, ‘You can’t win if you don’t play.’ So I got back in line, paid my money and sent it out.”

A wonderful, growing experience

That’s how Benjamin sums up his quarter-century with the philharmonic. “They always gave me room for expansion in terms of programming and the technical capacity of the orchestra, so we all grew together for 25 years,” he said.

“When I first dreamed about being a conductor, I wanted to be part of a team of people who would present classical music in a wide variety of genres, and that’s what I found here. I’m just the guy who waves the stick.”

Benjamin plans to spend more time on creative writing projects, particularly for educational purposes. “I’ve got sketches for pieces that are older than my children, and my oldest is 32. So it’s time for me to get going on those if they’re ever gonna see the light of day,” he said.

As Benjamin concludes his time in Tuscarawas County, Gardner had this to say: “Thank you for 25 years of musical memories and learning experiences. Thank you for taking the philharmonic to new heights artistically and leaving the organization with a wealth of public support and appreciation for the value of the orchestra to the Tuscarawas Valley.”

Tickets for the 7:30 p.m. farewell performance can be purchased online at www.kent.edu/tuscpac or by calling 330-339-3391.

The PAC is located on the Kent State Tuscarawas campus at 330 University Drive NE in New Philadelphia.

New Philadelphia mayor says home rule is at risk

By Lori Feeney

At the May 23 meeting of New Philadelphia City Council, Mayor Joel Day recognized three general service department employees for going beyond the call of duty. On April 12 Triston Hunter, Mike Brinkley and Donny Pettitt were driving a city vehicle on Park Avenue Northwest when they saw an elderly woman fall down the steps outside of her home. The three called 911 and stayed with her until paramedics arrived.

“Had they not responded so quickly, it’s uncertain just how long the woman would have gone without help,” Day said.

Day also said in his report to council that the Ohio Municipal League has advised local elected officials and citizens of continuing efforts by the Ohio legislature to erode the power of cities to enact local self-governing laws and regulations, otherwise known as home rule. According to Day, OML cites a lack of participation by local citizens and elected officials for giving special interest groups and lobbyists more say in writing legislation.

Day urged citizens to get involved by learning more about the bills being considered by the Ohio legislature by visiting www.legislature.ohio.gov and contacting State Rep. Brett Hillyer and Ohio Sen. Jay Hottinger.

Reports to council

Service Director Ron McAbier said the Kent State Connector Trail planned by the city will be completely funded by grants totaling more than $2 million. He also said work on runway lighting at Harry Clever Field will begin the week of May 30, and the Dominion gas line project has been rescheduled to begin in September, at the earliest.

Law Director Marvin Fete said he is researching, at the request of the mayor, ways the city may be able to prohibit the recreational use of marijuana, should it be legalized by the state.

Jim Seldenright, chair of the airport commission, asked for and received a vote approving two new members to the commission to fulfill unexpired terms.

Mitch Pace reported for the parks commission that construction will begin on pickleball courts at Tuscora Park on Aug. 1. Pace also said the city parks department is looking for summer help.

Dean Holland reported for the health board, saying the city health department will be receiving state funds totaling $22,755 as reimbursement for expenses incurred due to the COVID-19 pandemic. Along those same lines, Holland said COVID-19 cases are on the rise again in both the city and Tuscarawas County. Vaccines and home test kits are still available at the city health department.

Holland reminded the public that FEMA is offering funeral assistance for deaths caused by the COVID-19 virus. Those needing assistance should apply at www.fema.gov.

In other health matters, Holland said 20 overdose deaths were reported in the county during the month of April, with 12 of those occurring in New Philadelphia.

Approved legislation

Council voted to do the following:

—Increase sanitation fees by 50 cents per month beginning in June. Councilwoman Cheryl Ramos said she felt the measure was a “happy compromise” from the originally proposed $1.25 per month increase.

—Approve the mayor’s appointment of Nicole Bache, director of nursing at the city’s health department, to represent region 11 on the OneOhio Recovery Foundation board in charge of dispersing settlement proceeds from opioid legislation.

—Adopt an agreement between the city and the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees Local 1958 and Ohio Council 8 regarding city employee contracts from Jan. 1, 2022, through Dec. 31, 2024.

Farmers Market

Tuscarawas Valley Farmers Market to open June 1

By Teri Stein

The 14th season of the Tuscarawas Valley Farmers Market will open Wednesday, June 1 and be held every Wednesday from 3-7 p.m. through Oct. 12 at the Tuscarawas County Fairgrounds in Dover. The only week they do not set up is fair week, so there will be no market on Wednesday, Sept. 21.

The market is held rain or shine and moves under the grandstands at the fairgrounds when inclement weather is expected.

“The most frequent comment we hear is how friendly our market is, from the vendors to the volunteers and everyone in between,” said Hannah Hartman, a volunteer with the Tuscarawas Valley Farmers Market. “It really has become a place for social interaction as much as a grocery stop. We also hear a lot of comments about how fantastic the fresh produce tastes, which comes as no surprise to us because much of the produce you’ll find at our market was picked either that morning or perhaps the day before.”

“When you compare the taste of a fresh-picked fruit or vegetable to one that has traveled hundreds or even thousands of miles and been in transport and sitting on a shelf for several days, there is no comparison. We often challenge shoppers to taste the difference because it is very noticeable.”

Old is new again at the market this year.

“Other than new vendors, the only new things are really just the return of some old things,” Hartman said. “We’re excited to bring back cooking demos on a monthly basis. They were previously held every week.”

Cooking demos are scheduled for mostly the first Friday of each month at 5 p.m. inside the Clover Café and will feature Mary Marshall on June 8, July 6 and Sept. 7 and Sherry Schie on Aug. 3 and Oct. 5.

Returning vendors include Bosler’s Honey, Bees & Accessories, BYOB Home Bakery, Camp Tuscazoar, Celebration Wines, Fierbaugh Farms, Fuhrer’s Farm & Rabbitry, Grown by Grace, Haff’s Hot Sauce, Holly Ho-Made, Joe’s Sourdough Bread, Kneuss Family Farms, Michael’s Confections, Miller Farmstead, Miller’s Mushrooms, Missions Café, Mudd & Gilly’s Wine Co., Paint Valley, Passion at Midnight Macarons, Possum Products, Quince Bakery, Shady Grove Greenhouse, Spring Valley Farm, Weaver’s Truck Patch, Yoder Acres Produce, and Yoder’s Handmade Scents.

“The most frequent comment we hear is how friendly our market is, from the vendors to the volunteers and everyone in between.”

Hannah Hartman

Visit www.tvffm.org/our-vendors for a detailed list of vendors and their product offerings.

A couple of other favorites will return to the market.

“Both live music and the food trucks have always been well received by market-goers, and we know our patrons really missed the music when it was put on hold due to COVID restrictions,” Hartman said.

The market will have live music each Wednesday from 5-7 p.m. A variety of food trucks will be available on a rotating scheduling.

The food truck schedule is as follows:

—Full of Wander Mobile Eatery the first Wednesday of the month.

—Three Lil Piggies BBQ the second Wednesday of the month.

—Messdad’s Concession the third Wednesday of the month.

—Don Polo Mexican Cuisine the fourth Wednesday of the month.

—Miller’s Creamery the fourth Wednesday of the month.

—Schloneger’s Old Fashioned Ice Cream on various dates.

—Amish Country Donuts on various dates.

The Tuscarawas Valley Farmers Market participates in several programs that assist qualifying individuals with the cost of purchasing fresh produce at the market including SNAP/Ohio Direction Card, P-EBT (school lunch card), Produce Perks, the Senior Farmers Market Nutrition Program and WIC.

A guide to the programs also is posted on the homepage of the market’s website at www.tvffm.org. They also accept their own form of currency — carrot cash.

In addition to opening day, the volunteers will hold Tuscarawas County Farm Bureau Barbecue Demonstration and Stock Up for Independence Day on June 29. Kids Day is planned for July 20, and Customer Appreciation Day will be Aug. 10 during National Farmers Market Week.

The market is held rain or shine and moves under the grandstands at the fairgrounds when inclement weather is expected.

The volunteers also are working to connect with local artists with Hispanic roots to develop a new event that coincides with National Hispanic Heritage Month, which runs from Sept. 15 through Oct. 15.

The market group already has plans to hold another Thanksgiving market indoors at New Towne Mall as they did last year.

“The Holiday Market was a great success, especially considering it was in a new location. People turned out, and our vendors seemed very pleased with their sales,” Hartman said.

The sixth annual Holiday Market will be held the Tuesday before Thanksgiving on Nov. 22 from 3-7 p.m. at the mall.

The volunteers with the farmers market feel it’s important to shop locally.

“When you shop at the TVFM, you are directly supporting our local food economy and the farmers who work tirelessly to provide high-quality, nutrient-dense produce to our community,” Hartman said. “A common theme you’ll find when trying to consume a healthier diet is that foods with no preservatives are always the best choice, and such foods are the norm at a farmers market.”

The opportunity to speak directly with the farmers who grow the food is important.

“If you have any questions about their growing practices, whether they use any sort of sprays or anything about their processes, you can get your answers on the spot. This is especially helpful if you are someone with dietary restrictions or allergies and need to know specific information about what is in the foods you consume,” Hartman said. “Additionally, many businesses like to use the term local to describe their product offerings, but they often do not define what that means.”

“For the TVFM, local means the products come from within a 50-mile radius of the Dover/New Philadelphia area, and all of the vendors at the TVFM meet that requirement. It doesn’t get much more local than that.”

The TVFM also operates the Tuscarawas Valley Food Hub Initiative, which is a program developed to connect local institutions like restaurants and healthcare facilities with fresh, local produce.

“One of the goals of the TVFM is to strengthen our local food economy by encouraging a partnership between buyers and growers of local farm products that benefits consumers and producers, and the Food Hub does just that,” Hartman said. “The restaurants and others who participate call the farmers directly to place their weekly order. Then the farmers bring the orders to the market on Wednesday, and participants pick them up with assistance from market volunteers.”

The current Food Hub participants include Cleveland Clinic Union Hospital, Community Hospice, Fresh the Market, Hennis Care Centre of Bolivar, Missions Café and Park Street Pizza. Visit www.tvffm.org/food-hub for more information including prices.

Eight new vendors will join the market this year including the following:

3Peas Market Garden, a full-time vendor: Products include lettuce, baby greens, radish, peas, carrots, Swiss chard, kale, squash, beets, beans, onions, cucumbers, tomatoes and peppers.

Bake N Spoon, a part-time vendor the first and third weeks of the month: Products include fruit pies, cream pies, cakes, cupcakes, cookies, candy, breads, soups, jams and other seasonal items.

Memorial Day service to be held

The New Philadelphia Veterans Coordinating Committee will conduct its annual Memorial Day service on Monday, May 30, beginning at 11 a.m. on Court House Square in downtown New Philadelphia.

The New Philadelphia Veterans Coordinating Committee represents New Philadelphia's three veterans service organizations — American Legion Post 139, Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 1445 and Vietnam Veterans of America Chapter 857 — and is supported by the Tuscarawas County Veterans Service Office.

New Philadelphia Mayor Joel Day is the guest speaker.

The New Philadelphia High School Marching Quaker Band, under the direction of Jeff Furbay, will launch the program with the playing of the national anthem.

Welly Middle School students under the direction of Sharon Ricklic will demonstrate the proper folding of Old Glory, explaining the meaning of each fold. Welly students also will recite President Abraham Lincoln's Gettysburg Address and Flanders Fields.

Student vocalists from the Delphian Chorale, under the direction of Kristi Prucha, will perform favorite patriotic songs.

File

The New Philadelphia Veterans Coordinating Committee will conduct its annual Memorial Day service.

Volleys and taps will be rendered in honor of all the members of the United States Armed Forces who made the ultimate sacrifice in the defense of the nation. The three rifle volleys signify a service member's devotion to duty, honor and country.

Taps, composed of just 24 notes, have come to symbolize all the sacrifices and hardships made and endured by all of America's men and women in uniform, past and present.

The volleys will be rendered by veteran volunteers from New Philadelphia's veterans service organizations while echo taps will be sounded by musicians from New Philadelphia High School Marching Quaker Band.

In the event of severe weather, the event will be canceled.

Tuscazoar, Rural Action join forces for cleanup

By Teri Stein

Officials at Camp Tuscazoar and Rural Action volunteers joined forces to clean up the riverbank at the camp for the first time. The group removed 960 pounds of trash including a bowling ball, two basketballs, tires and plastic bottles, the most found item.

The event was held as part of the Ohio River Sweep, which is an annual volunteer cleanup that extends the entire length of the Ohio River and many of its tributaries. Scouts also had the opportunity to earn a Soil and Conservation Merit Badge.

Marissa Lautzenheiser of Rural Action had scouted the area the day before and divided it up into four sections for the more than 50 volunteers to clean.

Lautzenheiser has participated in cleanups at other locations before that found unusual items, so she didn't want to predict ahead of time what the group might find.

"My favorite thing we found is a canoe that had a big hole in it. It became an office canoe after we tried to check the registration, but there wasn't one. We found a cell phone that we were able to charge,

Teri Stein

Boy Scout Rory Walter, 12, of Boy Scout Troop 500 near Medina participated in the cleanup.

call the contact that was listed under Mom, and a very ashamed teenager came and picked it up from our office. That was good to see it returned," Lautzenheiser said. "The most terrifying thing I've found, I will say it was a flower planter. It was made out of children's jeans — that was a fad at one point — to sit on a porch, but it was upside down in a ditch. It had the appearance of an actual person upside down in the ditch, so that was quite terrifying."

About a year and a half ago, officials at Camp Tuscazoar wanted to get more into sustainability and contacted Rural Action for help.

"They have all these beautiful hundreds of acres, and we wanted to lend some of our expertise to make sure that they are kept pristine and usable for the future," Lautzenheiser said. "When we talked about some of the initiatives that the volunteers could help with, we narrowed in on two activities. One was a river pickup because of their location behind the Dover dam. They end up with a lot of litter that was not generated at the camp but simply floated downstream."

When Dover Dam is closed during springtime floods, it can be detrimental to the camp.

"Everything from south of Akron stops right here," Lautzenheiser said.

Once the water level drops behind the dam, that can leave a lot of trash. "We decided that a river sweep would be a great way to get everyone involved and to really talk about what an impact the river has on the camp," Lautzenheiser said.

Another initiative the camp decided to pursue this year was sustainability with their fundraising events.

"So the pancake breakfast happened this year, and more than half of the waste was able to be diverted from the landfill with recycling and with compost options. And we plan to do the same thing for the pig roast," Lautzenheiser said.

Lautzenheiser is pleased Rural Action could help the camp reduce items going to the landfill.

"In our work with Rural Action, a lot of it has been focused on the river and has been focused on cleaning up pollution sources along the river. But this is a really good example, that Rural Action has a lot more programs," Lautzenheiser said. "We specifically have staff dedicated to zero waste, and we have staff dedicated to environmental education."

Lautzenheiser said the Rural Action office recently moved from Mineral City to the square of New Philadelphia, and they added another full-time staff person.

"We are looking to get more involved with these other types of projects, and this just fits really well into the type of work we want to help Camp Tuscazoar and other partners do in the future," Lautzenheiser said.

It was Sean Harris, president of the Camp Tuscazoar Board of Directors, that got the camp involved with Rural Action. “I knew that we needed to move towards more active conservation projects that involve larger groups of people. So I cast that vision out to the board of directors, that we come up with ways of cleaning the water that passes through our land or passes by our land. And how can we be just better stewards of our land?” Harris said. “We do that through large projects with the ODNR when we do former mine reclamation projects. And then we also do that through planting trees, and we looked at how much waste we produce at events.”

The camp plans to have more events with Rural Action.

“I’m not sure where this will take us, but we’re going to keep going down that path, doing our part for the river,” Harris said.

Lautzenheiser and Harris also led a safety talk before the cleanup. Included was information on keeping hydrated, identifying poison ivy and other hazards like ticks, and taking care when picking up items to use gloves and litter pickers.

Safety was the top priority. For this sweep volunteers worked on cleaning the banks of the river only, and no one got into the water.

Lautzenheiser thought the litter pickup also was an educational one.

“We found an amazing amount of Styrofoam. And I think that really opened the kids’ eyes to the things that are disposable that you buy, like at the gas station on your way to a day at the beach or the day at the river,” Lautzenheiser said. “It doesn’t actually get disposed of unless you put it away. I think that it was good for them to see that Styrofoam was in tiny little pieces as small as a thumbnail, all the way up to full coolers. I think it’s good for everyone to be reminded that the things that we purchase never really go away.

They just go somewhere else.”

The organizations would like to have another litter pickup in the fall if there is a need. Lautzenheiser thanked all the volunteers.

“We couldn’t have done it without the volunteers,” she said.

Helping to sponsor the event were the Stark-Tuscarawas-Wayne Joint Solid Waste District, which helped with disposal of the trash, and the Ohio River Basin Alliance for the T-shirts for volunteers. Camp Tuscazoar donated Popsicles for the participants, which were appreciated because the event was held on the hottest day of the year so far.

Barbara Harding, a director with the Camp Tuscazoar board, was pleased with the efforts.

“It went really, really well. We had a lot of participation. We picked up a lot of trash, and so it was awesome,” Harding said. “A lot of Scouts came out and did a great job.”

Buckeye Trails Biggest Day Hike set for June 4

By Scott Daniels

The Buckeye Trail is a resource for families to get outdoors and get exercise, fresh air and a close look at the state's natural resources. June 4 is National Trails Day and also is the date of the Buckeye Trails Biggest Day Hike, which will bring together hikers, bikers, horseback riders and even kayakers in an effort to have people in place on over 1,400 miles of the trail on the same day.

The day is free to anyone who would like to participate, but people must register their intended trail location at www.buckeyetrail.org.

Brandon Bates, a trustee with Buckeye Trails Association, said the goal of the all-day event is to get as many people on the Buckeye Trail as possible for the biggest collective total so they can count the maximum number of miles. People can sign up for any section of the trail they want anywhere in the state and go as far or as short a distance as they like.

Submitted

The hike began several years ago as a much smaller endeavor focused on a loop of trail in the northeast section of the state. This year marks the third for the Biggest Day Hike, covering the entirety of the trail.

"Last year we came close to covering the whole thing," Bates said. "We had 230 participants who collectively covered 1,254 miles. The association is hoping to cover all 1,450 miles this time, so it will in reality be the biggest hike."

People can walk the trails, ride bicycles or ride a horse where horseback riding is permitted. Randall Roberts, organizer of the Biggest Hike, said even kayaking is encouraged where waterways run parallel to the trails.

"And people have done this. How you cover the trail is entirely up to you as a participant," Roberts said.

The way participants handle logistics also is up to them. Roberts said, "Choose the section of trail you'd most like to cover. Some people go back to their favorite spot; others like to explore new areas of the state or try a new section of trail they can return to as a starting point later."

Participants should bring any snacks, plenty of water and whatever else they will need to complete their planned section of trail.

The trails vary in surfaces. "Some are gravel," Roberts said. "Others are paved. There are wooded trails, some dirt trails, farm roads and country roads with very little traffic. It's something you can do to participate in something larger than yourself. It's all about gathering people to explore the trails and natural resources of Ohio. We hope people will try the trails and find it's something their family enjoys and returns to many times."

After the Biggest Hike, the trails are open for exploration the rest of the summer. "The trails are pretty much never closed," Roberts said. "Each section is around 50-60 miles long. Many people start with the goal of doing as much of a single section as possible in a day, then return to continue to the next section later."

Buckeye Trails nearly circle the state, from the northwest to the Youngstown area, down to Steubenville and across to Cincinnati before winding their way north again to Toledo.

Participants can share photos from the Biggest Day Hike using the hashtags #buckeyetrailassociation, #buckeyetrail and #biggestdayhike.

The Youth Center is near the main parking lot beside the boardwalk and gazebo. Starting the weekend of the Memorial Day holiday, center hours will be Wednesday through Sunday from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. The center is currently closed on Sundays and Mondays. The center's calendar of events can be found on www.tuscorapark.com under Park Place Youth Center.

Starkey said the Youth Center is a great starting point for families coming to Tuscora Park, whether it's to take part in an event or activity or pick up an official Tuscora Park T-shirt or other logo item.

The Park Place Youth Center is operated by RTY Inc., the nonprofit organization that also operates the amusement rides, concessions and Summer Showcase Concerts at the Tuscora Park Amphitheater.

"We came out of the COVID pandemic last year after completely remodeling the facility and tried out some activities to see what kids would like," Starkey said. "From that first year, the Youth Center has come up with a long list of programs for kids and families."

The Park Place Youth Center at Tuscora Park in New Philadelphia is ready to launch a summer-long series for kids age 5-12.

Most activities are free, but a few have a small fee to cover material expenses or paid to an outside organization sponsoring the program.

Another new program for children is Max's Kids' Club, named in honor of the late Max Miller of New Philadelphia, who donated the money to build the facility 22 years ago and endowed it with operating funds.

The cost to join Max's Kids' Club is $25, which includes a T-shirt and enables the child to take part in most center activities without additional charge. Members' families also receive a weekly update from the Youth Center.

Children can be enrolled by visiting the Youth Center during regular hours or online at the Tuscora Park website. All children are welcome to take part in Youth Center programs and events, whether they are a Max's Kids' Club member or not.

inviting kids to participate in the summer Putt Putt Golf League, a seven-week event starting June 7 that uses the park's 18-hole miniature golf course every Tuesday at 3 p.m. Golfers will play in a group of 5- to 9-year-olds or a group of age 10 and older. There is a $20 registration fee, which includes playing fees, a specialty golf ball and prizes. Children can sign up at the Youth Center or by calling 330-343-6814.

Another new service offered by the Park Place Youth Center is equipment rental. For a fee of $5, visitors to the park may rent fishing poles, tennis rackets, basketballs or corn hole boards to use during their visit and return to the center when finished. Equipment is available on a first-come basis.

In addition to the website, visit the Park Place Youth Center on Facebook or call 330-364-6814 during the center's operation hours.

Volkswagen show coming to Amish Door

By Lori Feeney

The Volkswagens in the Village car show will take place June 4 at the Amish Door Restaurant. The event is free to attend for both car registrants and spectators.

Katy Gill, marketing coordinator at the Amish Door Village, said the show is part of their way of kicking off summer.

"It's kind of a fun setting because we line up the cars on the outer edge of our parking lot, which gives people a scenic view of the Amish country farms," Gill said. "So it's a little different than just seeing a bunch of cars lined up in the grass or in an empty lot somewhere."

The first 100 registrants will receive commemorative dash plaques. Trophies will be awarded to the top-three Beetles and the top-three VW buses, as well as one Best of Show.

Gill said there will be no official judging panel. Instead, all winners will be determined by votes from the public.

"It doesn't matter what model or how old or new it is. We want the public to bring out their Volkswagens," she said. "We'll have ballots for people to vote for their favorites as they walk around and view the cars."

The first 100 registrants will receive commemorative dash plaques. Trophies will be awarded to the top-three Beetles and the top-three VW buses, as well as one Best of Show.

Registration will begin at 10 a.m., with the show open to the public at 11 a.m. and awards given at 3 p.m.

Outdoor marketplace the same day

The first outdoor Amish Door Marketplace of the summer also will take place June 4, featuring handcrafted items from about 20 local vendors, according to Gill. Visitors can stroll through the Amish countryside and visit vendors showcasing everything from home decor to jewelry. The marketplace will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Caribbean cookout from 6-9 p.m.

Gill said for those who prefer an evening event or those who want to make a full day of it, the Inn at the Amish Door will lay out a Caribbean-style spread on the Sunset Patios. The all-you-can-eat buffet will feature jerk-style chicken and pork, coconut shrimp, rice, salad, grilled veggies, and spiced rum cake.

The Dover High School steel drum band will perform from 6:15-7 p.m. with veteran singer and guitarist Ian Lane providing island music, classic rock and oldies until 9 p.m.

A cash bar with beer, wine and frozen cocktails will round out the menu. Tickets for the buffet, which are $29.99 for adults and $14.99 for kids age 13 and under, can be purchased at www.amishdoor.com/events until June 3.

"It's a lot packed into one day," Gill said. "But we think the car show, shopping and buffet will be a nice way for people to enjoy the first full weekend of summer."

Seating for the buffet will begin at 6 p.m. with food served at 7 p.m. The Amish Door is located at 1210 Winesburg St. in Wilmot. Call 330-359-5464 or visit The Amish Door on Facebook.

BULK MEAT BUYING saves!

By Mary Malik

Buying local is more popular than ever, and the Erb family of Sugar Valley Meats in Sugarcreek has been supplying meats to local customers since 1990.

"People are trying not to rely so much on large retail stores," Mike Erb said. "We offer furnished beef and hog in whole, half and quarter sizes. We want customers to know this is an option for them as opposed to buying small amounts or bulk meat at a grocery store. We can save you money and offer less common cuts of meat."

Erb explained that when you purchase a whole, half or quarter size beef or hog, you are paying a flat rate for the meat. Every cut of beef included will essentially be the same cost compared to the grocery store, where you pay according to the cut of meat.

"Steaks are the same price as hamburger," Erb said. "You pay by the pound, and it all balances out in the end. Just keep the meat in your freezer, and depending on the size you buy, you'll have meal options for several months to a year."

In the meat case at the grocery store, you're limited to what is available that day. Erb said purchasing a furnished whole beef or hog offers options in terms of cuts of meat. The experts at Sugar Valley Meats will help you with that, too.

"We want to be a resource to our customers on what cuts come from a whole or half purchase, how these can be prepared and open their eyes to a whole new world of what is available to them," Erb said. "We carry deli meats and cheeses, smoked products, and a small grocery section of sauces, rubs and other products to go with our meats."

Erb said Sugar Valley Meats animals are butchered and processed onsite and not shipped from someplace else.

"We work with local farmers and support them when possible," Erb said.

Erb gave the example of a live cow weighing 1,200 pounds that once gutted may have a hanging weight of 720 pounds. This yields a take-home of 430 pounds of meat.

"If you have the freezer room, buying a furnished animal from Sugar Valley Meats is a great option," Erb said.

Dennison Railroad Festival fun returns June 1-4

By Teri Stein

The members of the Dennison Railroad Festival Committee have been working hard to organize the 43rd annual festival, but there is one thing that hasn't been a problem.

"We didn't have any trouble getting sponsors. We have very faithful, very loyal sponsors. We can usually count on the same ones," said Beth DiDonato, co-chair of the Dennison Railroad Festival Committee along with Diana Smith.

Because of COVID-19, last year was the first year the new committee was able to hold a festival. The committee has heard many comments from the community about the 2021 festival. People enjoyed being able to get out and be around others again.

The festival has a long history of providing entertainment and a chance to visit with neighbors and friends.

DiDonato is pleased the festival is able to return to having the kiddie peddle pulls. There will be a free petting zoo available for kids and rides again this year.

"We like providing a good time for the community, something that they can come to with the family, and that's what I look forward to," DiDonato said.

The arts and crafts booths will be back this year, and they will be set up in the area across from the Dennison Railroad Depot for the entire festival. Last year was the first year for arts and crafts, which were set up in the parking lot at MHS Hardware.

"We got a lot of food vendors this year. There's a beef stand, a cheese stand, ice cream, of course, Dirusso's (Italian sausage) and lemonade. We've got a fish stand that was there last year. We'll have some fried veggies. And then on Saturday, of course, the firemen do their chicken barbecue to raise funds for the fire department," DiDonato said, adding there will be more food stands available than just the ones she named.

The queen contest will return to the festival this year, and the princess contest was dropped.

"We decided not to do (the princess contest) when we found out from the festival and events association that a lot of the festivals don't allow princesses to attend," DiDonato said.

Teri Stein

The 2022 Dennison Railroad Festival will run from June 1-4.

The queen will have the opportunity to travel, learn about other communities in the state, meet new friends and gain experience speaking in public as she shares information about the Dennison festival with others.

Kent State University at Tuscarawas is sponsoring a $1,000 scholarship for the winner of this year's Dennison Railroad Festival Queen Contest.

The contest is open to female students age 15-18 from Claymont High School, an adjoining school district or residing in Tuscarawas County.

No special talents are required to represent the Dennison Railroad Festival. The queen contest consists of a private interview with a panel of three judges and a two- to three-minute speech on stage.

The queen contest will be held Wednesday, June 1 at 5:30 p.m. on the gazebo stage. For an application or more information, call Diana Smith at 330-447-6569 or email dismith0621@yahoo.com. The application deadline is Monday, May 30 at 9 p.m.

The members of the Dennison Railroad Festival Committee are Beth DiDonato, Diana Smith, Michael Brindley, Dawn Flanagan, Celeste Golec, Mary Dunfee, Derek Kohler, John Rypien, Connie Hillyer and George Flanagan. Greg DiDonato, former festival president, continues to assist the committee as needed.

The festival schedule is as follows:

Wednesday, June 1: Midway opens at 5 p.m., queen contest at gazebo stage at 5:30 p.m., Park Christian Church worship team at gazebo stage at 6 p.m. and Acoustified at railcar stage at 7 p.m.

Thursday, June 2: Midway opens at 4 p.m., Wes Shyrook at railcar stage at 7 p.m. and Jon Doe at gazebo stage at 7 p.m.

Friday, June 3: Midway opens at 4 p.m., open mic at railcar stage at 4 p.m., Kodachrome Babies at gazebo stage at 4 p.m., registration for kiddie pedal pulls at gazebo stage at 5 p.m., coloring contest winner announced at gazebo stage at 6:30 p.m., John Schmid (Johnny Cash tribute) at gazebo stage at 7 p.m. and System Rewind at railcar stage at 7 p.m.

Saturday, June 4: Five Mile Run and Bob Dyson 1.5 Mile Walk/Run at 9 a.m. with registration at 8 a.m., the mini "Jock Around the Block" at 10 a.m., midway opens at noon with the car show hosted by Dennison Rotary across from the gazebo stage with registration at 10 a.m. and judging at 12:30 p.m., Ron Retzer Trio at gazebo stage at 4 p.m., Brother's Ohio at railcar stage at 4 p.m., free petting zoo at 4 p.m., The Moonlyterz at railcar stage at 6:30 p.m., and 8 Track Band featuring Elvis at gazebo stage at 7 p.m.

Dennison Rotary photo contest will have photos on display from June 1-5 in the Dennison Public Library during normal business hours.

The new festival committee is working to build up their resources.

"We're still in the process of having funds to operate from year to year right now," DiDonato said. "But as we get money and build up a little bit, we definitely plan to give back to the community. That's what our plans are, but right now we're still just trying to keep our heads above water to keep the festival going."

Volunteers also are needed for a variety of jobs at the festival including manning the information booth. Visit Dennison Railroad Festival on Facebook for more information.

Rockin' the Revolution coming to Fort Laurens

By Lori Feeney

The grounds at Fort Laurens in Bolivar will be the setting for Rockin' the Revolution, a day-long concert fundraiser on Saturday, June 4. The show will feature four bands for $5 per person, which includes admission to the Fort Laurens Museum.

The show will kick off at 1 p.m. with local band Feverdog taking the stage. Joe Brown, bass player for Feverdog, helped organize the event for the Zoar Community Association, which manages Fort Laurens. Brown also is the maintenance director for Fort Laurens and Historic Zoar Village and spent 18 years organizing fundraising concerts for the Bolivar and Zoar fire departments.

"The last time Feverdog played together was nine years ago," Brown said. "But we just played at the Bolivar Army-Navy Club last Friday night, and our classic rock mix from the '70s through the '90s was well-received."

Xtra Crispy, a four-piece Akron band playing original blues music, will perform at 3 p.m. The band has performed in venues throughout Northeast Ohio including the Beachland Ballroom in Cleveland and Annabelle's in Akron.

Taking the stage at 5 p.m. is Big Daddy and the Hurricanes and their southern rock sound. Hailing from the greater Canton area, the band has been together for about five years, playing everywhere from the Dennison Railroad Depot, to Benders in Massillon, to the TV Tavern in Mineral City.

Headlining the show at 7 p.m. is the Brunswick-based band, Renegade. According to the band's drummer MykoMan, the seven-piece outfit plays a showcase of classic and modern southern rock and has been hailed as Northeast Ohio's best southern rock band.

Renegade's set list includes hits from southern rockers like the Allman Brothers, Georgia Satellites, Blackberry Smoke, Black Crowes, Marshall Tucker Band and Lynyrd Skynyrd.

A tent featuring microbrews from Lockport Brewery in Bolivar and food trucks will provide refreshments throughout the day.

fort. The museum pays tribute to the frontier soldier, displaying artifacts excavated from the site and featuring video presentations in the theater.

“If successful, we hope this is the beginning of a summer concert series to benefit Fort Laurens,” said Tammi Shrum, site director for Historic Zoar Village and Fort Laurens. “We’re trying to find new ways to raise funds and get the community involved.”

The Tomb of the Unknown Patriot at Fort Laurens memorializes all unknown casualties from the Revolutionary War and is the final resting place of one of the soldiers who served at the fort but was unable to be identified.

Fort Laurens also is a destination for many school groups, and proceeds from the concert will help continue the museum’s educational programming.

For more information on the Rockin’ the Revolution concert, call the Zoar Community Association at 330-874-3011. For information on museum hours and ticket prices, visit Fort Laurens on Facebook or at www.fort-laurensmuseum.org or call 330-874-2059.

Fort Laurens is located at 11067 Fort Laurens Road in Bolivar.

Just what is up with that stinking woodpecker?

I was out in the yard one day recently when I heard it — a noise that sounded like a jack hammer, only not quite as loud. It sounded like it was coming from the spouting on the back of the garage. That was strange, I thought as I continued picking up sticks out of the yard.

I am pretty familiar with the noises around our neighborhood, especially in the fall when the first buckeye drops on the roof with a thud that sounds like someone is trying to break into the house with a sledgehammer. That jack hammer sound had me baffled though.

Then I heard it again. This time it hit me, and I looked up. There was the culprit — a small woodpecker was sitting inside the spouting.

“Hey, get out of here,” I yelled.

The bird’s little gray head popped up, and he gave me a sideways glance that looked, well, like he was feeling guilty. I had never seen a bird that looked guilty before, but this bird had the look. After that “I’m sorry” glance, he flew off.

Teri Stein
Better Days

I called for Joe so he could help me solve the problem. We decided there must be some bugs residing in the spouting that the bird was after. Joe got out the special attachment for his leaf blower and blew a bunch of slimy, leafy stuff out of the gutter. He moved onto the house and did those gutters too.

Problem solved — ha, until the next day.

Joe and I are sitting in the living room when over the sound of the television we hear the jack hammer sound again.

“Is that your stinking bird?” Joe asked.

I was already out the door and checking out the spouting so I could yell again, “Hey, get out of here.”

Yes, it was my stinking bird, and he gave me that guilty look again. It was like he knew he shouldn’t be in the spouting, but he couldn’t help himself. A few more uneasy glances at me and he hopped out of the spouting and started up the roof.

I ran in to grab my camera. If I couldn’t keep him out of the spouting and off the house, maybe I could at least get a good photo. No luck, he was gone by the time I got back outside.

I sat down on the porch swing for a few minutes to see if he was going to strike again.

It didn’t take long before it was hammer time again. This time he was over in the neighbor’s spouting. It wasn’t my house, but I still yelled — same guilty look and then he flew away.

Was there no end to the madness? And why am I yelling at birds?

In the meantime I decided to attend a birding program offered by the Tuscarawas County Parks Department. It gave me the opportunity to ask a local expert birding volunteer just what was up with that woodpecker.

The expert laughed when I told him what was happening. Apparently, woodpeckers like to hammer on spouting because it makes such a loud noise, and because the birds don’t vocalize much, they like to use that extra noise from the spouting to let other birds know this is their territory.

Maybe I need to show that bird the deed to my house. It’s lawfully my territory, and this bird apparently has a high disregard for the law. Law enforcement could be involved, but really — calling the sheriff on a bird?

I doubt they have a cell that could hold him. And if they did, he would probably be there at the jail jack hammering on those stainless-steel metal toilets just to make a point and driving them nuts.

They’d have to release him. He’d come back here for sure because he’s already declared this his territory. Hmmm, guilt seems to work to get him to leave, at least temporarily. I’ll keep working on that.

Then there are the food bloggers

In sharing with a group of cookbook junkies online, I noted my wife is a chef and I am a food columnist. Both of those should be a little glamorous, certainly more so than in reality, but there were comments from people who thought we have the perfect jobs.

They're right, of course, at least in my case. And then others wanted to know how they also could get into the world of writing about foodie things. I had no wisdom to share. How did I get started? "They asked me to" was the best I could come up with.

Scott Daniels
We Ate Well and Cheaply

It made me think again about the alluring trap of putting together a cookbook. Writing is a compulsion for me, something I've always found I have to do in one way or another, whether anyone is paying attention or not.

I was entering writing contests in grade school and dabbling in uncredited advertising copy as a teen. It seems logical after writing hundreds of columns that a cookbook might be a next step.

Aside from knocking the idea of a collaboration around with friend and fellow compulsive writer Jerry Marlowe, it's a pit I don't plan to fall into. Jerry has great ideas for such a book while I surely do not.

In the United States alone, about 3,000 new cookbooks are published every year, with records being set in the pandemic years since 2020 when so many began baking at home.

That's an awful lot of voices to try and shout over for attention. I can't imagine more than a handful ever recoup enough money to reach anything like a minimum wage equivalent.

Of course, Ina Garten deservedly socks away a giant sack of cash every time she jots a paragraph on a dinner napkin, but for the rest of us on the fringe of cookery, not so much.

I don't write expecting to get rich because that's a fool's errand, but it's nice to feel your work is getting in front of at least enough eyeballs to fill out a lunch party.

Then there are the food bloggers, God bless their little hearts. My goodness, what a crowded segment that is. There must be a thousand bloggers for every paper cookbook published. I'm not swimming in that pool, either. I want to write about food, not my yellow childhood bicycle for 17 paragraphs.

The trick, as has been wisely pointed out to me as something I sometimes lack, is a degree of self-awareness and the ability to spot your own limitations.

I think recipes shared in a cookbook should be tested and retested under numerous circumstances until they are ironclad and foolproof. I don't want to spend a month making Alfredo every day.

And what possible recipe could I share? Not many of the things I make are total originals, and I'm just enough of an old aunt Maude that I'm not sharing those secrets with anyone. My aunt Katherine's secrets for making her candy pie went with her to her grave, and I intend to do the same with my amazing marinara.

Cookbooks also are not the cheapest of things to produce. I like a cookbook with lots of pictures, and I'm hyper critical of those pictures. A food photographer would have to be engaged — and a book designer and cover artist.

You'd have to procure sensibly ironic dishes for plating your creations attractively, fancy French glassware and some nifty one-of-a-kind cutlery. It is an enormous undertaking.

I do know my limitations, and I am old enough to know how to rein in my demanding background ego. Aside from the fun collaboration I mentioned, I'm going to shy away from such an alluring mistress. After all, I have a couple of fat novels to finish.

How to start a walking program and stick with it

Dear Savvy Senior,

My doctor recently suggested I start a walking program to help get my weight and blood pressure under control, but I've never exercised much and am 66. Can you recommend some tips?

Hate to Exercise

Dear Hate,

You should follow your doctor's orders. Years of research have shown walking may be the single best exercise you can do to improve your health as you age. It burns calories, which will help you lose weight, builds endurance, enhances muscle tone and doesn't pound your joints.

It also helps improve or prevent many age-related health problems including high blood pressure, diabetes, heart disease, arthritis, osteoporosis, dementia and even depression.

But walking is not only good for what ails you. It's also one of the easiest and most convenient exercises you can do and is completely free. All you need is a good pair of walking shoes that fit well and a little desire. Here are some things you should know to help get you started and stay motivated.

Getting started

Start out slow if you need to. For many people this means head out the door, walk for 10 minutes and walk back. Do it every day for a week. If that seems easy, add five minutes to your walks the next week and keep adding five minutes until you are walking as long as you desire. It's also a smart idea to start and finish your walk with a few simple warm-up and cool-down stretches. Stretching will make you feel better and help prevent injury.

Most fitness professionals recommend walking about 30 minutes, five or more days a week. Or for optimal health benefits, aim for 10,000 steps per day, which is the equivalent of about 5 miles.

Your walking pace also is important. While strolling around the park or neighborhood at an easy pace is good for you, a brisker pace that has you breathing heavily but still able to carry on a conversation provides better health, fitness and weight-loss benefits.

Staying motivated

While starting a walking program takes initiative, sticking with it takes commitment. Here are some tips to help you stay motivated:

—Find a walking buddy: Having a friend to walk with can provide motivation and support along with companionship.

—Wear a fitness tracker or pedometer: These devices measure how far you've walked in steps and miles, providing motivation by spurring you to meet a particular goal and showing you if you've met it. Or if you use a smartphone, there are free pedometer apps you can download like www.

MyPacer.com, www.
Google.com/fit or www. Accupedo.com.

—Join a walking club: To find one in your community, call your nearby medical center, mall, health club, senior center, running shoe stores or Area Agency on Aging to see if they sponsor or know of any clubs or groups. Or try www.MeetUp.com or the American Volkssport Association at www.AVA.org to search for noncompetitive walking clubs in your area or start one.

—Keep a journal: Use it to keep track of your walking minutes, steps or mileage and total it up at the end of each week to see how you're progressing. There also are free apps like www.MapMyWalk.com and www.Walkmeter.com that use GPS to map your walk and measure your distance and time, which is fun and motivating.

—Have a backup plan: If bad weather, allergies or other factors limit your outdoor walking, have a backup plan like walking at your local mall, buying a home treadmill or joining a health club.

Send your senior questions to Savvy Senior, P.O. Box 5443, Norman, OK 73070, or visit www.SavvySenior.org.

Richland County | Butler Twp | Crestview Local Schools

If you're in the market for residential, recreational, or investment look no further. One of the easiest pieces of vacant ground I have walked in recent memory. Tall straight hardwoods throughout the balance of the 20 acres of wooded ground. Plenty of road frontage with over 654'. Property offers loads of seclusion and is only about 10 mi. north of US 30. The 14 acres of pasture is located to the back of the property and is slightly rolling and is already fenced. With the woods located at the front of the property the open ground still offers plenty of seclusion.

LEGAL: Parcel 005-21-236-17-000 of Butler township in Richland County with Crestview schools. Taxes based on CAUV are $290 per year. CAUV recoupment is a responsibility of the buyer.
