Starkey retiring after 28 years leading WCCVB

By Lydia Calabrese

After nearly three decades of service to the community, the executive director of the Wayne County Convention & Visitors Bureau is headed off into the sunset for retirement.

Martha “Marty” Starkey has spent the past 28 years of her life helping visitors make the most of their trips to Wayne County. But even before taking her position with WCCVB, she worked for more than a decade in the travel industry, with this area being all she has ever professionally known. Now she said it is time to spend her life with the people she loves most, doing what she enjoys best.

“I have been in the tourism industry 40 years — that seems like a long time,” Starkey said. “My husband is retiring at the end of July, so I didn’t want to wait too long. The grandkids are always on my mind. They are only little once, and it is so much fun watching them grow up.”

While her retirement won’t be effective until later this year, Starkey has a few more months to finish up any projects and also reflect on all of the accomplishments she has made happen throughout her tenure in Wayne County tourism.

For the past 28 years, Marty Starkey has helped carry Wayne County’s tourism trade on her shoulders as executive director of the Wayne County Convention & Visitors Bureau. She recently announced she will retire in October.

“Wayne County has definitely expanded its tourism product in the last 28 years,” Starkey said. “We probably have about three times the hotel rooms we did when I came here in 1994. Also, the meeting space has increased, which allows us to bring in more groups and events.

“It takes the entire community to make tourism a success. Getting the people here is just the first step. They need to feel welcome, have a great time and feel like their visit was worth the investment they made.”

Although much has been accomplished in the area of Wayne County travel and tourism during the past 30 years, Starkey said there is still so much she’d like to see happen here and hopes some of her ideas she didn’t quite get to will be made possible in the near future.

“I have always said we are water deprived in Wayne County, meaning we don’t have a huge lake or winding rivers,” she said. “I would love to see Shreve Lake expanded into a tourist destination, maybe a few of those tree-house accommodations, that type of thing. I have always wanted to see a multi-day event that we would become known for, like Pumpkin Show. It has been in existence since 1903 and attracts 300,000 people every year. Pretty impressive for a town of 13,000.”

And while she already believes Wayne County does a good job at ensuring each and every visitor enjoys their stay while in the area, she would like to see everyone have a wonderful experience when they spend their leisure time here.

“This is up to every one of us to make sure they experience our friendly hospitality and have the best possible visit to our area,” Starkey said.

During her longtime commitment to Wayne County, Starkey has made quite a few allies in the community, working with them on a daily basis to better the marketing and overall offerings Wayne County has for visitors each and every day. One of those collaborators — and more importantly, a friend — is Wooster City Council President Mike Buytendyk, who said since he has known Starkey, he has always witnessed her hard work and dedication to Wayne County and its visitors.

“I always told Marty that there was no one more dedicated or anybody who worked harder to promote Wayne County than her,” Buytendyk said. “She was a magician in taking a limited budget and achieving fantastic results for the Wayne County Convention & Visitors Bureau. Marty always had a smile as she went about her duties. Nothing gave her more pleasure than finding a new advertising outlet to showcase Wayne County, especially if she got it for

MEET MARSHALL

Marshall is often overlooked here at the shelter because he enjoys laying under his blanket or bed, making the cage appear empty. He loves to roll over and show you his belly, but he’d prefer you not touch it. He enjoys being talked to and seems to like the name we picked out for him. He was abandoned at a mobile home park when his family moved away. Marshall does not seem to let that deter him from liking people and attention. He seems to like other cats and should do well in almost any home.

Adoption fee of $150 includes Bordetella and DHPP vaccines, microchip, flea treatment, de-wormer, neuter/spay surgery, age appropriate heartworm testing and rabies vaccine. If you are interested in adopting, please stop by...

Thunderstorms accompanied by winds in excess of 80 mph that ripped through Holmes and Wayne counties late Monday night and early Tuesday morning caused major tree damage and downed power lines that had many residents in both counties without power. The damage is evident in this photo, taken by the Wayne County Engineer's Office on state Route 83 in Southern Wayne County.

"Marty put her heart and soul in making the Visitors Bureau the very best. Her retirement is well deserved, but she will leave big shoes to fill."

No successor to Starkey has been named yet, but because her retirement won't take effect until October, the WCCVB Board of Directors still has some time to find just the right person to fill the role.

"We haven't started the process yet, but that will definitely be coming soon," Starkey said. "The board of directors will hire the new person, and I would certainly be willing to help in any way they would like."

Much of Starkey's job during the past 28 years has involved her being out in the public eye, meeting with the many out-of-town visitors who come to the area each and every day. That, she said, will be one of the very many things she will miss the most about her career once she no longer reports to duty Monday through Friday.

"I really enjoy talking with the visitors that come in (to the WCCVB office) and ask questions," Starkey said. "I love hearing why they are here and where they are from. It's fun telling them all the things to do in our area. My past and present board of directors and all the great tourism people of Wayne County have made this job a pleasure. I sincerely hope the next person enjoys it as much as I have."

The New You?

Career center's adult education programs offer new job paths

By Todd Stumpf

Looking for a new career path, a refresher or just some knowledge in an area of interest? The Wayne County Schools Career Center probably has something for you.

The career center has released its 2022-23 adult education course catalog, which is loaded with possibilities for career-minded individuals.

Programs available include law enforcement, office technology, medical (dental assisting, practical nursing and more), trade and industry, cosmetology, computer classes, general interest courses (photography, retirement planning, et cetera) and more.

As with any year, the catalog has some changes from 2022 in terms of what is still available and some new offerings.

"It's pretty much the same amount of change that we would typically have," said Sandy Elliott, the center's career technical supervisor. "It's dictated by interest. It's dictated by industry demand, what industries have a need for, and it's also dictated by the instructor — if we have the instructor for that typical trade or activity."

As with all things in the academic world, the career center's offerings have been affected by COVID-19 and the constantly shifting unemployment rates that have followed.

"I'm sure that has an impact on things," Elliott said of the pandemic. "The really big impact is that unemployment rate. In Wayne County it's pretty low. Everyone who wants to be employed is employed. Our focus then adjusts, and we do more customized training and specific training for business and industry."

The catalog is highlighted by the center's Aspire program of free academic classes. Those include applied academics, customer service representative and medical math.

The center also offers a free adult diploma program and courses for those 20 and older living in Ohio without a high school diploma or GED. Among those programs are administrative office professional, accounting clerk, human resources clerk, nurse aid, fast track welding and more.

"Aspire is a state-funded program for people to improve their academic skills," Elliott said. "There's a real push to improve their technical skills."

New courses this year include IT fundamentals, Microsoft specialist and certified manufacturing associate, along with a customer service specialist course that has become a top draw.

"IT fundamentals is a new launch for us," Elliott said. "I don't have a gauge of how popular that will be."

Customer service specialist has been popular this summer.

Aspire students can earn their high school diplomas, if needed, while earning their credentials in customer service.

Among things available for prospective students are one-on-one student advising, financial aid, job-placement services, externships and professional development. Day and evening classes are held in Smithville, Wooster, Orrville and Millersburg. Courses also are available virtually and via distance education.

Registration for all courses is available. Elliott said interested students can sign up pretty close to the last minute as long as they have what they need before registering.

"There are some acceptance requirements," she said. "In some programs, one is to take an assessment to make sure they're ready to move into the program. If they don't meet the acceptance scores, we send them back through Aspire, where it's free, and have them brush up on the skills, and then they take the test."

"Another requirement is letting us know how you're going to pay. All are financial-aid eligible. There are Pell Grants and others available. We were just awarded a short-term grant from the Ohio Department of Higher Education and are VA approved."

While the pandemic did cause the need for a shift to remote learning, now there are only limited online and distance opportunities. Elliott said the best way to learn, and the one students prefer, is hands-on and in person.

Still, the pandemic showed things can be shifted to a hybrid or remote model if needed.

Anyone seeking a new career path — like the practical nursing student shown here — a refresher or just some knowledge in an area of interest can probably find something at the Wayne County Schools Career Center, which recently released its 2022-23 adult education course catalog.

"Where we did pivot some was when everyone had to go remote, we learned there were some classes we could offer remotely," Elliott said. "We took advantage all recent high school graduates. Attendees can have some complimentary ice cream while visiting labs and other facilities.

"It's an opportunity to educate the community about what we have to offer," Elliott said. "We have 27 high school technical programs, nine specifically geared to adults for people looking for a new career."

The catalog is published once a year in the spring to inform the public of the center's full-time, part-time and general interest courses offered for adults at WSCC.

Those wanting to get started can call 330-669-7070 or email aeinfo@wscsc.org for information including how and when to attend a free information session. New courses are added frequently, so visit www.wscsc.org for the most current information.

Officials with the Ohio Department of Natural Resources believe the dam spillway structure and drain conduits at Shreve Lake will need to be replaced, with construction expected to begin in fall 2023 and lasting through summer 2024. State representatives passed a capital budget recently that includes $5.5 million to restore the 58-acre lake, constructed in 1961 and filled the next year.

Funding for Shreve Lake rehab now in state budget

A problem that started in 2014 is getting attention after state representatives passed a capital budget recently that includes $5.5 million to restore Shreve Lake.

State Rep. Scott Wiggam (R-Wayne County) voted for the improvements that will make Wayne County’s only public fishing lake fishable once again.

“Shreve Lake was a big reason why I voted for the capital budget,” Wiggam said. “This project has been passed over for some years, but it is now getting the attention it needs to bring this lake back to its natural beauty and will provide recreational opportunities for the people of Wayne County.”

In September 2014, the overflow pipe that runs under the dam was failing, causing sinkholes to form in the earthen dam. The 58-acre lake’s water level was lowered for safety concerns.

Now the work will begin with the release of $900,000 from the Ohio Controlling Board to the Ohio Department of Natural Resources to contract with a company to provide engineering services for the eventual work to come.

As part of the design process, the contracted engineers will have to perform site investigations to determine the extent of repairs needed. ODNR officials believe the dam spillway structure and drain conduits will need to be replaced, with construction expected to begin in fall 2023 and lasting through summer 2024.

Shreve Lake was originally constructed in 1961, and the lake was filled in 1962.

For more information call Wiggam’s office at 614-466-1474 or email Rep01@ohiohouse.gov.

Juneteenth explained

Holiday commemorates emancipation of enslaved Black Americans

Juneteenth was recognized as a federal holiday on June 17, 2021. Even though it is in its infancy on paper, Juneteenth is considered the longest-running African American holiday in history.

The National Museum of African American History and Culture said Juneteenth marks a significant date in American history. June 19, 1865 marks the day the Union Army arrived in Galveston, Texas under Gen. Gordon Granger and announced to the locals that all enslaved African Americans were free.

While the Emancipation Proclamation went into effect on Jan. 1, 1863, and the Civil War ended in April 1865, it took time before the end of slavery was actually enforced in resistant states like Texas.

Reactions to freedom ranged from utter joy to pure shock. Some former slaves awaited job offers from plantation owners, but others sought new lives elsewhere, primarily in the Northern United States. Settling in new areas brought challenges, but individuals rose to those challenges.

The first of what would become an annual Jubilee Day celebration took place in Texas in the year following Granger's arrival. Through the years the day took on the name Juneteenth, a shortening of June 19, and featured celebrations with prayer services, barbecues, music and other social activities.

Texas was the first state to make Juneteenth an official holiday, with others following suit in subsequent years. It wasn't until June 2021 that Congress passed a resolution establishing the celebration of Juneteenth as a national holiday. It was signed into law on June 17, 2021, two days before the first official federal commemoration.

Juneteenth remains a celebration of not only freedom, but also family and the joy surrounding release from oppression. According to www.Juneteenth.com, special foods and beverages are served for Juneteenth celebrations, particularly those not available or consumed on a daily basis and many that are red in color. Celebrants recall their heritage and culture while looking ahead to future opportunities.

ing of superior. The students are Luca Beltran of Wooster; Naomi Bos of Wooster; Hannah Himes, Isaac Himes, Miriam Himes and Naomi Himes, all of Kidron; Rosalind Holt-Frank of Wooster; Max Miyashita and Sarah Miyashita of Orrville; and Faye Mole-dina, Henry Pozefsky, Minnie Pozefsky and Liam van Doorn, all of Wooster.

Bos, Miriam Himes and Sarah Miyashita earned gold cup trophies for three years of participation in which they earned superior ratings while Max Miyashita earned a slightly larger gold cup trophy for six years of superior ratings.

Dykstra, a graduate of The Juilliard and Eastman Schools of Music, taught for 51 years in the department of music of The College of Wooster. Since fully retiring from the college, he has continued to teach precollege students in Wooster.

Schlabach receives Victor Gerber music scholarship

The Orrville Community Chorus Board of Trustees announced the 2022 recipient of the Victor Gerber Memorial Music Scholarship.

This year's recipient is Brooklyn Schlabach, a graduate of Waynedale High School. She has been awarded a $1,000 scholarship. She is the daughter of Karl and Jolene Schlabach. Schlabach's future plans include pursuing a degree in music education at the University of Mount Union.

Submitted

Schlabach was active in the Waynedale High School Music Department as a member of the marching and concert bands, the choir, and the Goldenaires. She also had lead roles in three musicals.

Extracurricular activities included National Honor Society, basketball, sixth-grade camp counselor and the Fellowship of Christian Students. Schlabach played softball on both varsity and travel teams and was an umpire in recreational softball leagues.

Scholarships are awarded to seniors graduating from a

Wayne County high school who demonstrate outstanding participation in music activities, academic achievement and leadership and who will begin post-secondary education in the fall following graduation. Since the inception of this award in 2003, thirty-seven scholarships totaling $38,000 have been presented to students representing 10 Wayne County school districts.

Proceeds from the Orrville

Community Chorus' annual presentation of "Messiah" by George Frideric Handel fund the scholarship. This scholarship honors Victor Gerber, former music director for the Dalton Local Schools and the founder and former director of the Orrville Community Chorus.

The 2022 performance of "Messiah" by the Orrville Community Chorus is scheduled for Sunday, Dec. 4 at 7 p.m. at Central Christian School, 3970 Kidron Road, Kidron.

Visit the chorus website at www.orrvillecommunitychorus.org for updates and information about the performance and the Victor Gerber Memorial Music Scholarship. ## Career Center holds annual ceremony to recognize seniors for achievement Wayne County Schools Career Center seniors were commended for their achievements recently at the 16th annual Senior Recognition Ceremony at Wayne College in Orrville.

Superintendent Kip Crain presented Riley Mertz, an agribusiness and production student from Norton, and Isaac Ott, a patient care technologies student from Northwestern, as first-time Co-Students of the Year out of the 26 top seniors in each career-tech program.

Mertz is the daughter of Jo Mertz of Barberton. "She has demonstrated outstanding character, service and leadership during her time at the career center," Crain said.

Mertz is president of her trade class and the career center's FFA chapter, National Honor Society and Key Club. She is a member of student leadership council and the honor roll and serves as a student ambassador.

In FFA Mertz has participated in multiple contests and went to state competition in job interview, dairy handler, food science technology and soil judging. She earned the Ohio FFA scholarship and the Connors State College livestock judging scholarship.

from Northwestern High School. He is a member of student leadership council, Health Occupation Students of America, Diversity Club, the honor roll and WSCC's Drug Free Club. He placed first locally and in districts for HOSA's CPR and first aid competitions, and he qualified for state HOSA competition.

Ott has won scholarships from the New Pittsburgh Lions Club, Ruritan Club and the career center's Ambassador Scholarship. His academic awards include two-time career center Student of the Month, honor roll, high honor roll, and multiple Class Act and A-game awards.

Scholarship winners, announced by Kai Burns of Smithville, were Alexis Mel-lott of Norwayne, "Tillie" Lorincz Scholarship; Isaac Ott of Northwestern and Sarah Crist of Chippewa, Ambassador Scholarships; Kayla Ling of Wooster and Elizabeth Klingman of Norwayne, Edward, Arlene and Kaye Maibach Scholarships; Hannah Schlauch of Triway and Tori Batdorf of Chippewa, WCJVSEA Scholarships; Riley Mertz of Norton, Lynn Welker Memorial Scholarship and the Wooster Kiwanis Club

Scholarship; Brynn Mowrer of Norwayne, Sara Weikert Memorial Scholarship; and Morgan Dotterer of Norwayne and Sydney Douglas of Smithville, Dale and Joann Widmer Foundation Scholarship.

Scholarships were awarded in a separate ceremony earlier in the day.

Ott served as emcee, and Reece Wilson of Wooster led the Pledge of Allegiance. Bre Shearer and Sarah Crist, both of Chippewa, introduced guests and four Distinguished Alumni. Mertz and Rilee Richardson of Wooster introduced student achievements awarded over the last two years, National Honor Society members and Student Ambassadors.

Gianna Boyce of Triway recognized winners of local, regional and state competitions. Lilie Haskins of Norwayne presented "Year in Review" to her fellow classmates.

"I think I speak for us all when I say that the past two or three years have been incredibly hard for us as students," Haskins said. "Our time at the career center was crazy challenging but crazy rewarding. I came to the career center to find myself as much as I came here to find a career. I am now faced with countless job opportunities and networks and people who would do anything to support me.

"The career center was the right choice for me because it taught me that even if you ended up somewhere completely different than where you thought you would be, you're on the right path — because it is your path to take, nobody else's."

Receiving two-year perfect attendance plaques were Sarah Koontz, homeschooled, and Autumn Duncan of Northwestern.

Top seniors received plaques: Mertz, agribusiness and production; Samuel Denning of Orrville, ag mechanics/power technologies; Kaitlyn Thomas of Waynedale, animal science; Nathan Henretty of Chippewa, automotive technologies; Ashton Rock of Wooster, buildings and grounds; Ling, business; Tyler Mackey of Wooster, construction technologies; Makayla Yarman of Rittman, cosmetology; Eric Miller of Triway, criminal justice; Seth Collins of Orrville, culinary arts; Brianna Coleman of Wooster, dental assisting; Christian Dull of Rittman, diesel technologies; Klingman, early childhood education and care;

A Taste of SALT CREEK CAFÉ

By Mary Malik
Salt Creek Café in Fredericksburg is located in one of the oldest buildings in town. Just five short years ago, however, it was in danger of being torn down until a local contractor took interest, bought the building, refurbished it and gave it whole new life — all to the delight of locals and visitors to the area.

The building, which is now the site of Salt Creek Café, was built in 1850 by Neal McCay, who, with his son, Foster, ran a general store in the location for many years. It was sold to J.C. Weaver in 1930, who continued the business as a general store and grocery. George Mann eventually took over. The McCay building has also been home to Edwards Home Center, owned by Buddy Edwards, and Yoder's Floor Design.

"Sometimes a little TLC can make a big impact on an entire community, and that's what happened here," Salt Creek Café manager Seton Troyer said. "Mark Weaver, owner of Ivan Weaver Construction, bought the building in 2017 to save it from demolition. He spent months asking people around town what should be done with it. The consensus was the town would benefit most from a coffee shop, so that's what he did."

When Weaver approached Troyer to manage the new coffee shop, he jumped at the opportunity to use his experience in the restaurant industry along with his job working for Weaver at the construction company.

"Salt Creek Café has gone from a local coffee shop serving our own specialty coffee roast drinks and a small food menu to the addition of a bakery and creamery opened in 2021," Troyer said.

Salt Creek Café has gone from a local coffee shop serving our own specialty coffee roast drinks and a small food menu to the addition of a bakery and creamery opened in 2021.

— SETON TROYER

Downtown Fredericksburg is enjoyed by locals, of course, but also visitors to the town all year long. Troyer said the goal of Salt Creek Café is to give everyone another dining option.

"We first offered our Salt Creek Coffee, roasted locally and created specifically for the café, along with a light food menu of salads, soups, sandwiches and desserts," Troyer said. "The restaurant was really blossoming into a gathering place for locals and visitors, as coffee shops tend to do."

Troyer said Salt Creek Café uses local produce and other products as often as possible, and even the lettuce is locally grown and certified organic.

Things were moving along nicely when in 2021 the decision was made to add a bakery and creamery to the list of offerings at Salt Creek Café.

"We make our doughnuts and extremely popular cream sticks all from scratch," Troyer said. "We also have cookies, cupcakes, coffee cakes, brownies and more. And we are especially known for our cheesecakes. They are made from scratch, and people come from all over for those."

All these baked goods satisfy just about every sweet tooth except for the ice cream lovers. But don't worry, Salt Creek Café has you covered for that cold and creamy confection too.

"Our gourmet, hand-dipped ice cream provided by Yoder's Southern Creamery which is based in Sarasota is exceptionally good," Troyer said. "And believe me when I say we did a lot of searching and sampling to find the best ice cream available to serve to our customers."

Troyer said all that ice cream tasting was worth it to find Yoder's Southern Creamery ice cream. Salt Creek Café offers traditional flavors along with seasonal ones and also ice cream sundaes, other novelties and ice cream cakes.

"Ice cream cakes and all of our traditional cakes sell very quickly," Troyer said. "And you can special order cakes and desserts as well to make sure you don't miss out when there's a special occasion."

If you don't have time to sit and enjoy the ambiance of the local coffee shop or spend time on the beautiful outdoor patio this summer, they've added a drive-thru for convenience.

"Dine-in or call ahead orders at the drive-thru, our goal was to provide locals and visitors with a dining experience that revealed a piece of our town's history," Troyer said. "No matter how you experience Salt Creek Café, we are proud to offer all of our customers a delicious taste of all of our products."

Salt Creek Café is located at 111 N. Mill St. in Fredericksburg. Hours are Monday through Friday from 6 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Saturday from 6:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. The drive-thru opens at 5:00 a.m. For special orders or more information, call the café at 330-946-1012.

Randy McKee

The evolution of Salt Creek Café has come full circle. Now, in addition to gourmet coffee, the eatery features delicious made-from-scratch pastries to ice cream from Yoder's Southern Creamery.

Salt Creek Café is housed in one of the oldest buildings in town, saved from the wrecking ball by Weaver Construction.

Pair of Titans earn first-team All-Ohio softball honors

It's no surprise that after rolling to the Div. II state championship, two Triway softball players — pitcher Carter Wachtel and shortstop Hailey Massaro — were named to the Ohio High School Fastpitch Coaches Association first-team All-Ohio squad, which was announced recently.

Wachtel, only a sophomore who was a second-team pick as a freshman, was the Titans' top pitcher all season, going 25-1 and allowing just four runs in six post-season games. Massaro, the team's slugging shortstop, led Triway in batting average, doubles and RBI, and the Ohio State signee belted eight home runs.

The two Titans were joined by junior outfielder Emma Flinner, who was an honorable mention choice.

For baseball, the Ohio High School Baseball Coaches Association also released its All-Ohio teams, and Triway's Chad Harper

(Div. II) was a second-team selection. Harper, a pitcher-outfielder, was named to the Div. II second team after batting .484 with a homer and 24 RBI. Orrville's Brady Marshall, who batted .493 with 50 stolen bases, and Waynedale outfielder Jay Mast, who batted .387, were HM All-Ohio picks in Div. III.

Wachtel was named the Player of the Year in the Principals Athletic Conference while Triway's Ron Rock was Coach of the Year.

Titans joining Wachtel on the first-team All-PAC were Flinner, Massaro and Haylee Pruitt while Madison Fatzinger was an HM pick.

For Orrville, Averi Haley was a first-team selection and teammate Morgan Vodika was an HM pick.

In Wayne County Athletic League softball, league champion Hillsdale swept the top honors with Taylor Morgan named Most Valuable Player and Hannah Moore named Coach of the Year.

Among the first-team selections were Alexis Vazquez and Joey Reynolds of Dalton and the Waynedale pair of Brooklyn Schlabach and Kaitlyn Miller.

Making the second team were Kenzie Gatti, Brooklyn Yoder and Chloe Wolfe of Waynedale.

In baseball Harper was joined on the All-PAC first team by Triway teammates Brock Tisko and Kain Weaver, and Simon Kitchen was named honorable mention.

Marshall was Orrville's lone first-team pick while Sawyer Hamsher earned HM honors.

In the Wayne County Athletic League, Waynedale's Lucas Daugherty was co-Coach of the Year with Norway's Blake Bellman.

First-team All-WCAL picks from Waynedale included Otto Solorzano and Trey Barkman, Waynedale's top-two pitchers, as well as Mast.

Golden Bears on the second team were Connor Gatti, Ean Miller and Ian Lehman.

From Dalton, Jack Steiner earned a first-team nod while Owen Beatty and Will Carmichael were named to the second team.

Smithville's Bryce

Butcher was a first-team pick while teammate Andy Navratil was tabbed for the second team.

Beat the heat with summer programs at Noble Ice Arena

By Lydia Calabrese

Although the snow isn't flying and the last thing on any Wayne Countian's mind is playing in that icy cold stuff that seems to stick around for the better part of the year, there's one place in Wooster where a frozen sheet of ice provides the perfect opportunity for fun and games, even when the weather outside reaches 80 F.

Since 2002 the Alice Noble Ice Arena, located at 851 Oldman Road in Wooster, has been providing indoor skating opportunities to Wooster residents and those in the surrounding area, as well as many families who come from miles and miles away, to enjoy that sound of the blades hitting the ice year round. Not only does the facility offer open skating opportunities just about every day of the week, but in the summer-years, ensures the ice is in tip-top shape at the arena, as well as sets out to keep the facility running smoothly for each one of its many guests who visit each day.

“Over the summer months, we offer a variety of public programming for both kids and adults,” Greenberg said. “We have our Woo Summer Camp for kids ages 5-12, which runs through Aug. 5. Our Learn to Skate classes for toddlers through adults and all ages and abilities in between begins July 6. We offer public skating sessions six days a week throughout the summer.

“The Alice Noble Ice Arena offers something for everyone. From the beginning recreation level skater to seasoned figure skaters and hockey players, there is opportunity at the arena. When the summer temps are in the 80s through 90s, people can beat the heat and get on the ice.”

The arena came to fruition thanks to a donation from the Donald and Alice Noble Foundation to the citizens of Wooster. In addition to its summer offerings, the facility also gives an opportunity for skaters of all ages and abilities to participate in school-year activities, which include public skating, birthday parties, adult hockey leagues, an after-school program, and various sessions for hockey and figure skating. The arena also is the home rink of the Wooster Hockey Club, the Wooster High School club hockey team, the Wooster Figure Skating Club and Wooster Oilers junior team.

With the summer months tending to be a slower time for the ice arena, programs such as the Woo Summer Camp and the school break Learn to Skate program help to remind local residents the ice arena is open all year long and that it's a great place to have fun, especially when kids start getting the summertime blues.

“Our summer camp rebounded nicely from COVID-19, and we are seeing record numbers of kids in attendance,” Greenberg said. “The public skating sessions are much smaller than they are during the fall and winter months, so people who attend will have far more room to skate around in the summer. Understandably, people want to take advantage of the summer weather and be outside. But when people need a break or a change of pace from the heat, nothing beats the ice.”

Public skating is offered Monday through Thursday from noon to 1:30 p.m., Friday from noon to 1:30 p.m. and 7-8:30 p.m., and Sunday from 3:45-5:15 p.m. The cost is $9, and skate rental is $3. Children age 4 and under are admitted free.

For information on Learn to Skate, Woo Summer Camp and any of the other programs offered at Alice Noble Ice Arena, visit www.nobleice.com or call 330-345-8686.

McCartney birthday concert was truly one for the ages — and aged

Upon turning 50 last month, my landmark birthday was put into perspective by my 12-year-old daughter by asking me one simple question: “Does this mean you have to start playing shuffleboard?”

More than anything, I think I was surprised she even knew what shuffleboard was, but then I did spend a lot of time last January watching Olympic curling. The two are not too dissimilar, after all.

Until that question, I had not given turning 50 much thought. For educators, the month of May is a pretty chaotic month, so reflection does not often begin until well after “submit” has been pushed on sending those end-of-year grades. It takes a bit for the mind, body and spirit to decompress — in other words, right around now.

This spring, however, I learned the deep sigh that accompanies the end of a school year is a lot more pleasurable when you have a Beatle to help you along the way.

The surprise of my 50th birthday was receiving tickets to see Paul McCartney in concert on his stop in Syracuse two weeks ago. Now there are bucket lists, and then there are BUCKET lists, and seeing Sir Paul lived up to any expectation one might have when witnessing one of the few true living legends remaining on our planet. And it did not take long for me to realize seeing McCartney is less about the actual concert and more about the experience.

Let me set the scene: To my left sat my 14-year-old son, enjoying some JMS Wireless Dome chicken fingers, and my wife, simply enjoying the atmosphere, and to my right sat 71-year-old June and her sister Vera, as spry and lively as any of the kids screaming at the Beatles on the Ed Sullivan show over 58 years ago. Recent transplants from Buffalo, they now live, in all places, Liverpool, New York. Any guesses as to why?

This was my son's first concert and June and Vera's 12th, just seeing McCartney. Needless to say, along with my own 50-year-old lens, we had most perspectives covered.

As much as I wanted to keep my own eyes on the stage and massive video screen when McCartney took his entrance, I could not help but glance at June when he kicked into “Can't Buy Me Love” to open his show. The sisters were embraced in a hug with smiles that would rival the size of the waxing crescent moon. My son seemed surprisingly stunned, by both the noise of the 35,000 fans in attendance and also by the fact he was seeing an

At this point it seems pretty darn superfluous to “review” a concert put on by someone who has toured the world over and, according to quora.com, has performed live over 2,500 times. That is roughly seven years straight of concerts.

What I will say is after the show opener, McCartney delicately balanced some Beatles favorites (“Blackbird”/“Ob-La-Di, Ob-La-Da”) with songs from his expansive solo career (“Maybe I’m Amazed”/“Band on the Run”) over the three-plus hours of stage time. I have been to quite a few concerts in my lifetime, but I do not think anything will ever capture the pure theatricality of McCartney performing “Live And Let Die.” I could not help but think I was witnessing a song being performed, interwoven with the lighting, video projections and pyrotechnics, with absolute and perfect brilliance.

But the strength of the show, the experience, came by way of McCartney’s storytelling throughout the evening. There were not many of the 36 songs played that he did not give context to or allow the visuals surrounding him to help tell a song’s story.

A particularly poignant moment came when his guitar technician brought a ukulele on stage and Paul told the story of George Harrison gifting him this particular ukulele and the two of them sitting around playing Harrison’s “Something” together. As McCartney played it live, still images of the two of them graced the pictured backdrop, most of which involved laughter shared between the two band mates.

But of the many highlights (too many to mention in this column), the most powerful of show moments came when McCartney and John Lennon were reunited.

The first of his encores was “I’ve Got a Feeling,” the first three-fourths of which is all sung by Paul. Toward the song’s end, footage of John singing his part, taken from the Rooftop Concert in Peter Jackson’s “Get Back,” appeared on the three video backdrops. There was John, donning the famous fur coat, strumming away on his guitar while singing, “Everybody had a hard year ... everybody had a good time,” enveloping Paul as he turned to look at this lost former band mate.

It was an unexpectedly emotional moment, as one could not help but think of what the world was robbed of on Dec. 8, 1980. I felt it was too inappropriate to ask, but based on the tears streaming down June’s face, I would guess she was thinking the same thing. It is the rare viewing moment that feels both colossal and intimate at the same time.

So with my wife and teenage son to my left, 70-year-old sisters to my right, all watching an 80-year-old work musical magic on stage, I celebrated turning 50.

And because of McCartney’s innate ability to make you feel like you are best friends, I took his closing number to heart; more guidance than lyric for anyone willing to listen, regardless of age: “And in the end / The love you take / Is equal to the love you make.”

Only way to sum up spring season is 'best ever'

A few thoughts from the week in sports ...

Best spring ever!

Those three words pretty much sum up the incredible spring sports season turned in by Wayne County high school teams and athletes.

Winning state championships, as most area sports fans probably already know, were Triway softball, Norwayne boys track and Waynedale baseball teams.

Winning individual championships at the state track and field meet were the Bobcats' Dillon Morlock (shot put) and Colby Morlock (discus).

It's worth pointing out collectively just how special and rare these feats were.

There are only four divisions in softball and baseball, so that means 25% of the titles came back to little ol' Wayne County.

Only one other Wayne County school had ever even won a state title in softball: Dalton back to back from 2006-07.

Same thing for baseball, with only Northwestern ever hoisting a state title banner, and those were earned way back in 1966 and 1959.

This area may be looked at as a farm land, blip on the map by many people, but local athletes let the state know it's pretty special here.

Diamond stars

The Triway softball team won the first state championship in program history and just the second in school history. The magnificent bowling team brought home the gold this winter.

Top-ranked Triway defeated second-ranked Jonathan Alder 2-1 in the Div. II final at Firestone Stadium in Akron on June 4. The Titans finished the season 30-2.

Having returned everyone from its 2021 state runner-up team, Triway was the clear favorite to take the title.

Waynedale was a surprise Div. III state baseball champ after its walk-off, 2-1 win over Milan Edison at Canal Park in Akron on June 12. Connor Gatti drove in Josiah Raber with a two-out line-drive single to right-center.

The Bears upset Liberty Union and MLB prospect Adam Miller 5-4 in the state semis.

The Golden Bears had graduated one of the best players in program history, Jaden Varner, after being knocked out in the district tournament in 2021.

This year's Waynedale team started out just 1-4, but never lost again. The Bears rattled off 26 straight wins to earn legendary status and finish 27-4.

Good pitching is the name of the game in softball and baseball. That's something both teams definitely had in common and will again next year.

The Titans will return ace Carter Wachtel, who will be a junior.

The Bears will bring back rising senior Trey Barkman and rising junior Otto Solorzano. The duo was spectacular.

Triway and Waynedale also had outstanding team chemistry, with everyone contributing. That's a credit to the work ethic and selflessness of the players, as well as great coaches and parents.

The Bears' win was even more amazing considering the team and entire school district were still mourning the loss of junior Deegan Bee, who died June 8 after being involved in a car accident. My prayers go out to the Bee family and friends.

State champ twice

Triway's above mentioned two state title teams in 2022 have a common denominator: sophomore Emma Yoder.

Yoder was the individual state bowling champ as well back in March, when the Titans won the school's first team title in any sport.

This spring Yoder was the JV pitcher and also saw time with the varsity. She scored one of the two runs in the title game after entering as a pinch-runner. With the Titans graduating seven seniors in softball, Yoder has a good shot of becoming a starter in the outfield next year and also moving into the backup pitcher role.

"Being able to be on both state championship teams this year is something that's honestly hard to wrap my head around, but at the same time, it's an amazing thing and definitely an experience to always remember," Yoder said. "Both of these teams have made a huge impact in my life."

A number of people have praised Yoder for being on both teams or asked her, "How's it feel to win two in one year?"

"It's pretty cool to see people realize it," Yoder said.

The Triway bowling team will compete in the High School Nationals this weekend in Louisville, Kentucky.

All-time track greats

Not only did the Morlock brothers win state titles, but also they ranked among the area's all-time best throwers.

Dillon Morlock's shot-put throw of 65-4.25 broke the mark previously set in 1981 by Smithville legend Larry Kolic, who went on to play football for Ohio State and the Miami Dolphins. Colby Morlock also exceeded it with a 64-11 heave.

Dillon Morlock also wound up with the fourth best discus throw, with Colby ranking second.

Also setting all-time area track bests were Norway's Jaylee Wingate (800 with 2:10.24 and 1600 with 4:48.02), Rittman's Pyper Gibson (3200 with 10:57.67) and Orrville's Ainsley Hamsher (pole vault, 12-9).

All totaled, around two-dozen locals broke into the top 20 on the all-time leader board stats edited by former Chippewa coach Alan Martin.

Parting shots

Wooster senior Ashton Dunlap broke one of the area's oldest school records in the 3200 when he ran a time of 9:23. It broke a mark set by Don Kimpel in 1975.

Wooster attorney and city councilman Bob Reynolds emailed me with some more information on Kimpel after I reported on it.

Turns out Bob and his wife, Nikki, went to school with Kimpel and are still good friends.

"I was his best man at his wedding," Bob Reynolds said. "He's met (Wooster track coach) Doug Bennett on a couple of his visits to Wooster."

"We got a call from the regional meet shortly after the record was broken. We were able to put Ashton in contact with Don — actually 'Dr. Don' — and they were able to talk."

Kimpel is a rheumatologist working at the University of Virginia. It was a neat twist to what was already a great story for Dunlap.

—The Guardians owned a 29-27 record entering a road trip June 14 that will see them visit the Rockies, Dodgers and Twins, followed by a homestand against the Red Sox and Twins to close out June. We will know by the end of the month if Cleveland is a pretender or contender (for a playoff spot, not World Series).

GOLDEN BOYS

Waynedale seniors go out with state baseball title

By Dave Mast

While the Waynedale Golden Bears will reassemble this coming fall in preparing to defend their Div. III state baseball championship they earned with a 2-1 eight-inning thriller over Edison on June 11, five of the stars from that team will not return.

A quintet of seniors helped guide the Golden Bears to a stunning title, fashioning a 30-4 record that ended on a 26-game winning streak.

For those five seniors, there was no better way to go out than celebrating at Canal Park in the middle of the field after a walk-off single from Connor Gatti.

The five include catcher Josiah Raber, shortstop Ean Miller, right-fielder Jay Mast, first baseman Braden Hershberger and left-fielder Ian Lehman, who reveled in the aftermath of the bar-raising state championship effort they gave this season.

Ian Lehman

"We all love to play baseball. Everyone here wants to compete and to help each other out, but more than that, we are family and friends. We love being around each other, as well as our joy for the game, and when you have those two things like that, it goes well together."

As for walking out champions, Lehman summed up the feeling.

"It's everything I've ever dreamed of," he said. "For four years we've wanted to win our last game in high school. It's happened."

Ean Miller

"This is something special, so incredible. I love these guys. We are always all there for each other and care about each other."

Jay Mast

"We can't ask for a better way to go out. This is my family. We spend tons of hours together each and every day and play with great chemistry. We've learned how to play with emotion but to hide that emotion and focus on the game, and to above all play for each other."

As for playing on the big stage and maintaining those emotions, Mast gave all the credit to head coach Lucas Daugherty for instilling that trait in the entire team.

"I think that gave us that razor edge that took us to the next level," Mast said. "This is now nothing but joy, and I couldn't ask for a better group to end this with."

Josiah Raber

A three-sport star, Raber said leaving his high school career celebrating a state title on the final day was worth all of the time, energy and effort he and his teammates poured into honing their skills.

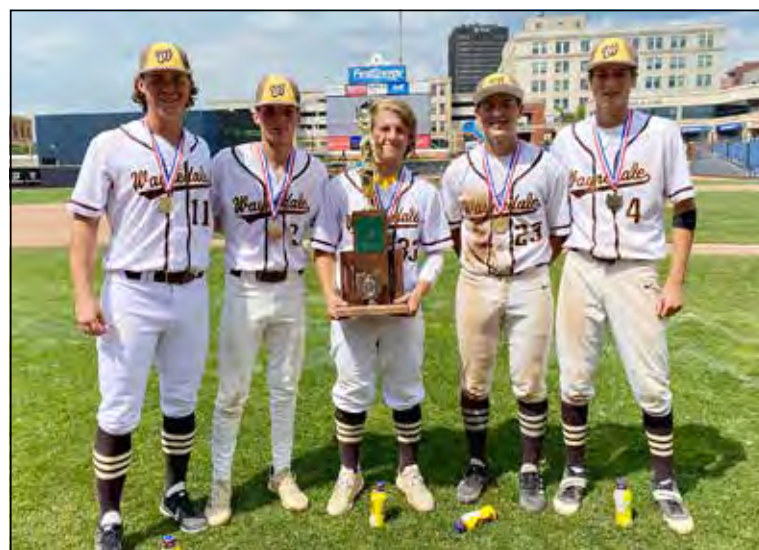

"This is the way to leave your career and to leave a mark as a senior class as a whole, to set the bar this high and to bring home the first championship," Raber said. "It's something we'll never forget."

Braden Hershberger

"Since our freshman year when we all came up to dress for the tournament, we have been together, and we've had our season end on a loss. That was tough. This, this is something special that we can share forever."

Hershberger said he remembered watching the 2016 state runner-up Golden Bears play at state as a sixth-grader and seeing them as players he someday aspired to be. He said he and his senior teammates wanted to set great examples for the younger talent to aspire to.

"Ever since then we knew we had a solid core of us, and we all were always around the game, and we clicked," Hershberger said. "I think we thrived on that leadership role because we understood the importance of that, having seen it as sixth-graders."

The Golden Bears ended with the long winning streak, only adding to the legendary aura this team has created.

These five seniors went a long way in making all of the work and dedication pay off with a title, and their head coach said he could never express enough thanks to his quintet of seniors who led the way to the ultimate trophy.

"These five guys have been awesome for the program. All five are starters, all five contributed heavily and they had great senior seasons," Daugherty said.

"But most importantly, they are all great leaders and incredible young men. We constantly talk about composure, and it all starts with those five guys. They have definitely left their mark on this program."

"I think we thrived on that leadership role because we understood the importance of that, having seen it as sixth-graders."

A Fallen Friend

The passing and remembrance of Waynedale sophomore and good friend Deegan Bee served as an inspiration to the Golden Bears. Junior Trey Barkman, 22, and senior Ean Miller, 4, were golf teammates with Bee, a standout golfer.

Great taste starts here.

When it came to card games, Father did know best

Bridge originated early in the 16th century, which means that by the time I became aware of it, I was 450 years late to the party.

That didn't prevent me from asking Dad if he'd teach me to play.

But I'm getting ahead of myself.

Let's start at the beginning.

My parents didn't do a lot of socializing, but what little

Mike Dewey
Life Lines

they did frequently involved Bridge. My earliest recollections have little or nothing to do with the game itself, its rules or its nomenclature.

Instead, I remember the preparations my parents made when it was their turn to host to the Bridge Club. They laid in all manner of snacks and libations, Mom whipping up what we kids came to call "Dorothy Dip" as my father set up the bar and crushed the ice.

There was a sense of anticipatory expectancy in air, a feeling that superseded visits by relatives or sleepovers with our friends. My parents bustled about for hours before the arrival of the first guests, dusting and cleaning, arranging magazines just so, turning the seldom-used living room into something out of "House Beautiful."

They were of the belief that children were best seen and never heard, so after perfunctory greetings, we retreated downstairs to watch TV or, more often, upstairs to our bedrooms, out of sight.

But that didn't mean we were unaware of the sensory overload — the scent of perfume and after-shave, the aroma of pipe tobacco, the convivial chatter, the sound of ice clinking in cocktail glasses.

Sometimes, I'd head down to the kitchen for a bottle of Choc-Ola, and I'd hear words like "dummy" and "no trump" and "rubber" and "overtrick" and "singleton," marveling at their secret argot.

In the years to come, after playing simple childhood card games like War and Go Fish, I became exposed to Hearts, Spades, Poker and 500 Rummy, all of which afforded chances not only to win a bit of cash money, but also opportunities to hang out with my friends.

There also was something called Boo Ray, which was so popular among the guys who worked at the parks and rec department that I had no choice but to learn the rules. Sadly, the passage of time has eroded any specific memory of how to play, but the years will never erase the spirit of camaraderie the game engendered.

That was summer 1975, an expanse of days and nights that saw me engaged in my first serious girlfriend experience and also included the first and only time I'd ever see the Rolling Stones live.

It was the summer of 39 as well, as in the number of consecutive shifts the boss would growl at the outset of the afternoon session, "Dewey, grab a push mower." Thirty-nine straight times it happened, a record I'm pretty sure still stands back home.

I didn't mind, though. I'd be dropped off, just after our lunch-break Boo Ray game, and work through the hottest hours of the day, just me, a lawn mower, a can of gasoline and the sweet promise of seeing my girlfriend later that evening. Ah, those dreams of youth.

A few years after that, following college, I fell in with another crowd of fellow employees, this time at my hometown newspaper, and was introduced to a game called Euchre. It was predicated on a sort of sixth-sense relationship with your partner, one that — when operating at full power — enabled serious runs of very good luck.

As you might imagine, though, accusations of "table talk," a rather polite term for pernicious cheating, were more than a common occurrence, which simply added to the allure of the game itself.

My relationship with Euchre lasted for more than a decade, and it cemented in my mind the importance of a good partner. There was something quite thrilling about ordering him up — that is, making trump before he had a chance to declare his best suit — and using that ESP to take all five tricks, earning two points in the process.

I knew from my childhood that, maybe more than anything else, Bridge was built on a similar foundation, one that required a reliable symbiosis between partners, so I thought I was ready to learn the game. I was, after all, in my early 40s, no longer a child.

So I called my father. "Hey, Dad," I said. "I have a question, well, a request, for you."

"What's that?" he said. "What do you need?"

"Would you be willing to teach me how to play Bridge?" I asked.

"No," was all he said and promptly hung up.

Before you jump to any rash conclusions as we approach Father's Day, let me stress he was a remarkable man, a soldier and a scholar, a thinker and a tinker, a craftsman and a caregiver. But he'd known me from games around the kitchen table, everything from Jeopardy to Trivial Pursuit, Tripoley to art quizzes, so he was familiar with what might be called my rather mercurial temper.

In his mind he probably pictured a fit of my pique poleaxing an otherwise civilized gathering of unsuspecting guests, creating chaos where before had been a genteel game of bids and points.

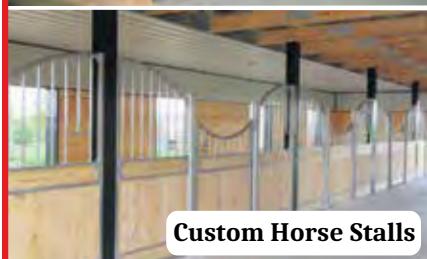

So I never learned to play Bridge, and even though I suspect I'd have been pretty good at it, it's probably for the best I didn't.

4-H summer camp fosters positive youth development

As we are wrapping up camp counselor training this week for our Ashland-Wayne 4-H junior camp counselors, I am reminded of the strong impact camp can have on young people.

From June 30 through July 3, 215 kids age 8-13 will participate in many time-honored traditions and some new activities being offered at 4-H Junior Camp at Camp Ohio near Utica. Guiding, inspiring and watching out for the safety of these kids are 48 bright, talented and dedicated teens who have completed a rigorous 24 or more hours of training. In addition to the 24 hours of camp counselor training taught here in Wayne County, our counselors also will participate in onsite training at Camp Ohio on June 29, the day before campers arrive.

Camp counselor training covers many topics related to safety/risk management and camp activities/programming. Some of the safety and risk management related topics address things like basic first aid, water safety, what to do in the event of severe weather, fire safety including how to safely build and extinguish a campfire, how to recognize signs of child abuse or neglect and what to do about it, and general camp safety rules. Our counselors recognize they must be strong role models, substitute parents, mentors, activity leaders, friends and much more to the campers entrusted in their care.

Doug Foxx
OSU Extension
Wayne Co.

Camp activities and program training topics have included learning how to teach camp songs, leading rainy-day activities, engaging campers in recreation and camp sessions, working with homesick campers and more.

Our counselors and campers will be engaged in myriad activities at camp. Here are just a few of the many things that go on at 4-H camp: cabin and outdoor games, canoeing, archery, riflery, nature programs, flag raising and lowering, camp fires, zip lining, scuba diving, tie dying, rock climbing, fishing, kayaking, outdoor cooking, line dancing and so much more.

I am very proud of the dedication our camp counselors have shown throughout the past few months of training sessions, and I'm grateful our campers get to benefit from their leadership during camp.

This year's 4-H Camp sold out quickly, but I hope in the future you will consider sending your kids to 4-H camp to take advantage of the many activities available.

A Midwesterner's guide to capturing crabs in a pinch

In spring 1986 Kristin and I loaded up my little Chevy Luv pickup truck and headed to the beach. (Yes, there was actually a model of pickup with a name plucked right off the complimentary close of a junior high love letter. I loved my little Luv truck, but oxidation loved it more, and rust ate it like a box of chocolates before the decade was through.)

In one of many tests of our young relationship, I'd invited Kristin along on a camping, hiking, birding, fishing, shooting-photos-by-the-sea expedition to the shore of the Atlantic at one of my favorite places on the planet: Assateague Island, Virginia.

In a vehicle without air-conditioning and barely capable of the then-maximum speed limit of 55 mph, 400 miles is an awfully long drive. Still, with the joy of youth and spirit of adventure running wild in our hearts, we made it to the beach in one epic push. Once on the shore, we walked barefoot until darkness crept over the landscape and tiny crabs emerged to scurry sideways across the sand.

John & Kristin Lorson

Never one to pass up a chance to flaunt my outdoorsy expertise, I caught one of the little crustaceans, spanning the sides of his carapace between my thumb and finger, as any Midwestern boy would grip a crayfish.

Any boy reared on the ocean would have known better!

That crab easily reached under his belly and laid claim to my middle finger like a thief with a bolt cutter, slicing a gash, which, although only fraction of an inch long, bled like I'd been stuck with a bayonet. Kristin screamed, I flung the crab to the surf and the story became part of our family legend.

Given my past and my endless and persistent efforts to prove to my wife — now of 34 years — that I always know exactly what I am doing, it should surprise no one that when, at the stony shore of the Pacific, I observed dozens of brightly colored, cookie-sized crabs crouched in puddles left by the retreating surf, I felt uncontrollably compelled to grab one.

My first effort was for naught. Always on the lookout and quicker than a greased chipmunk, these Pacific crabs were an exception to the rule of laid-back California beach life. Kristin voiced her vehement opposition to the effort, the events of that long-ago day in Virginia still actively etched upon her mind. I persisted, however, as foolish men do indeed persist, and finally, gripping a slippery shell for all it was worth, I lifted my hand from the surf with a strikingly vibrant red, white and blue crab.

Having learned that long-ago lesson about getting my nearby fingers too close to the business end, I pinched the sides of the shell as one might handle a delicate pastry.

"This, my dear, is how you wrangle a Pacific crab," I said, thumping my crab-free fist against my chest.

And in that very instant, the over-sized claw of a creature evolved to thwart the invasive probings of sea otter, gull and finned assailant alike found the last phalangeal nub of my pinky finger and set me to screaming like a 3 year old. Thus, we have another chapter to add to the annals family history.

(Yet another chapter in John and Kristin's excellent California adventure will arrive next week.)

The winners of the Brian Tarpley Excellence in Athletics scholarships for 2022 are Zoe Ntia, second from left, and Nathan Monastra, third from left. The $2,000 scholarships, administered through the Wayne County Community Foundation and named after the late Tarpley, a 1972 graduate of Wooster High, go to WHS senior student-athletes based on applications submitted that include an essay on adversity they have faced and how they overcame it to contribute in a team sport. Ntia, who will attend Mount Vernon Nazarene University, was nominated by WHS girls lacrosse coach Holly Pope, and Monastra, set to attend John Carroll University, was nominated by WHS boys soccer coach JP Lytle. On the far left is WHS athletic director Alex Mallue, and on the right is Al Teague, a former classmate of Tarpley who began the scholarship fund shortly after Tarpley's passing in 2016.
