New season to open at the Little Theatre

By Lee Elliott

Little Theatre of Tuscarawas County will present a season of eight productions, a variety show, a children’s workshop, an annual membership meeting and an anniversary celebration for local audiences this year. Three musicals, a drama and four lighter pieces have been chosen.

The season will begin with the fall musical, “You’re a Good Man Charlie Brown,” directed by Jared Sparks-Lee. Charles Schulz’s famous comic strip explores life through the eyes of Charlie Brown and his friends in the Peanuts gang. Musical numbers include “My Blanket and Me,” “The Kite,” “The Baseball Game,” “Little Known Facts,” “Suppertime” and “Happiness.” Production dates are Oct. 6, 7, 8, 13, 15, 20 and 22.

The Christmas holidays will bring “The Best Christmas Pageant Ever,” directed by Lisa Sommers. This perennial at the theater presents a couple struggling to put on a church Christmas pageant and being faced with casting the Herdman kids — probably the most inventively awful kids in history. Mayhem occurs when the Herdmans collide with the Christmas story head on. Productions will run Dec. 1, 2, 3, 8, 9 and 10.

“Scotland Road,” directed by Don Irvén, will be the Winter Black Box production running Jan. 4, 5, 6, 7, 11, 12, 13 and 14. In the last decade of the 20th century, a beautiful young woman in 19th-century clothing is found floating on an iceberg in the middle of the North Atlantic. When rescued, she says only one word, “Titanic.” She is taken to an isolated spot on the coast of Maine for interrogation in order to prove she is a fake. Much drama ensues before the final outcome proves it one way or the other.

The winter musical, “Tuck Everlasting,” directed by Joe Compton, is based on the children’s classic by Natalie Babbitt. Eleven-year-old Winnie Foster yearns for a life of adventure beyond her white picket fence, but when she becomes unexpectedly entwined with the Tuck family, she gets more than she could have imagined. When she learns of the magic behind the Tucks’ unending youth, she must fight to protect their secret from those who would do anything for a chance at eternal life. “Tuck Everlasting” will run Feb. 16, 17, 18, 23, 24 and 25 and March 1, 2 and 3.

A new world-premiere original production, “Being of Sound Mind,” written by local resident Richard Parker and directed by G. Shawn Clay, will be presented March 15, 16 and 17. Set in a lawyer’s office at the reading of a will, the play is a romp with non-stop guffaws as a frustrated attorney tries his best to keep the proceedings proceeding because the family of the dearly departed cannot seem to get it together.

Bart Herman will direct the spring show, “Dear Ruth.” Using the name of her elder sister, a young girl carries on a romantic correspondence with an overseas soldier. When the soldier returns, he finds his distant lover is already engaged, but through a series of complications and plot twists, the elder sister becomes entirely convinced her original engagement was a mistake and decides, at the very end, to marry the soldier anyway. Production dates are April 26, 27 and 28 and May 3, 4, 5, 10, 11 and 12.

“The Hunchback of Notre Dame,” directed by Mary Maxwell, will run June 28, 29 and 30 and July 5, 6, 7, 12, 13 and 14. Based on the Victor Hugo novel and featuring songs from the Disney animated feature, the production begins as the bells of Notre Dame sound through the famed cathedral in 15th-century Paris. Quasimodo, the deformed bell ringer, observes all of Paris reveling in the Feast of Fools. As he, Capt. Phoebus and Frolo vie for the attentions of Esmeralda, Quasimodo must figure a way to save them all.

Ending the season with more laughter, the Summer Black Box production, “The Outsider,” directed by Pat Potter, will run Aug. 15, 16, 17, 18, 22, 23, 24 and 25. Ned Newley doesn’t even want to be governor. He’s terrified of public speaking, his poll numbers are impressively bad and he seems destined to fail. He might be the worst candidate to ever run for office. This comedy skewers politics and celebrates democracy.

Audition dates for the shows will be announced. Call 330-308-6400 for more information.

Little Theatre of Tuscarawas County is located at 466 Carrie Ave. NW in New Philadelphia.

New playground built at Tuscarawas County YMCA

By Teri Stein

The Dover-New Philadelphia Kiwanis Club recently cut the ribbon on its latest signature project, a playground located at the YMCA in Dover, which cost about $175,000. Overall, the project took 1 ½ years from the start to its completion.

“Children are at the heart of everything Kiwanis is involved with in the community,” said Brenda Cameron, who chaired the planning and fundraising of the project for the Dover-New Philadelphia Kiwanis Club. “This project started with the Dover-New Philadelphia Kiwanis Club celebrating 100 years of service to the community, and we wanted to leave another 100-year footprint by building this playground.

“We noticed that there was a need here — a great need. There was no outdoor playground at the YMCA. We’re absolutely thrilled that we could be part of providing this for the community.”

Megan Shaheen, CEO of the Tuscarawas County YMCA, welcomed a group of Kiwanis Club members, donors and community members to a recent ribbon cutting.

“We’re very grateful to the Kiwanis for thinking of us for a project after the Deis Hill (playground) project that was completed previously,” Shaheen said.

Shaheen read a quote that reminded her of Cameron, the Kiwanis and the entire project.

“‘You’ve not lived today until you’ve done something for someone who can never repay you,’” Shaheen said. “And no one will ever be able to repay you guys for what you’ve done here. The playground will be able to be used for generations to come by multiple children, not only in our licensed childcare programs, but also in the community. Kids who come on the weekends for soccer games, things of that nature, they’ll be able to all use the playground.”

The playground also is open to the public.

“The playground will provide just a spark in the community,” Shaheen said, adding everyone who has seen the project thinks it’s great.

She also said she was pleased the ribbon cutting fell on the Founders Day of the YMCA and offered a way to celebrate community while celebrating the new playground.

Shaheen said she was impressed with the way Cameron handled the project, and when the need to add several items like a fence and pieces of equipment that would serve multiple ages of children came up, it was never a problem.

Donors to the project included the Rainbow Connection, Timken Foundation, Dover-New Philadelphia Kiwanis Club, Dover Exchange Club, Nora Greenwalt Trust, ProVia, Tuscarawas Community Foundation, Dominion Energy, City of Dover, Dover Chemical, Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church, Hugh Fraser Fund, Muskingum Watershed Conservancy Foundation, Ohio District Kiwanis, Bob and Trudy Sensel, Gordon and Eilene Stauffer, Tuscarawas County YMCA, Quanex Custom Mixing, Clonian III, Gradall Industries Inc., Keim Lumber, Moomaw Foundation, and Wendy’s.

“Thank you to everyone who donated. We really, really appreciate it,” Cameron said.

Also attending the ribbon cutting was Joe Kurtz, a consultant with Penchura Recreation Products and Services of Canton, which built the playground.

“What makes a good playground is people who really care about what they want to do,” Kurtz said. “I can help guide them, and we can do designs for them. But a lot of thought was put into this, in the space that we had, with Brenda, myself and Megan, the director, just asked going back and forth and really spending time thinking about the kids.”

Cameron called the Penchura company amazing to work with and said it only took about three weeks to complete once the work was started.

“It is so exciting, brings a tear to my eye. It’s been such a long project, and to see the kids running out here and screaming and yelling ‘thank you’ and just enjoying it, that’s what this was all about,” Cameron said.

In an upcoming fundraiser, the Dover-New Philadelphia Kiwanis Club will host its fourth annual Bourbon Tasting event at the Union Country Club on Saturday, Aug. 19 at 6 p.m.

Five Kentucky bourbons for tasting will be paired with small plates. There will be bourbons for auction and raffle. Tickets are available at $100 per person.

For tickets or more information, contact any Kiwanis member, follow their Facebook page or call 330-340-1235. The proceeds will benefit their community projects and high school scholarship program.

Other ways the local group supports children in the community are by helping with the Rainbow Connection, United Way Imagination Library, Noah’s Hope, Tuff Bags, Salvation Army, Dover-New Philadelphia Food Pantry, T-4-C, New Philadelphia Little League, NPHS Delphian Chorale, Kiwanis Key Clubs in New Philadelphia and Dover high schools, National Honor Society pins, Strong Kids YMCA, Sole Purpose’s shoes for kids, Leaders of Tomorrow, 4.0 awards for area high schools, Stuff the Bus, and the homeless shelter.

Cy Young Days Festival

Festival welcomes Cy Young winner Eric Gagne

By Teri Stein

This year's Cy Young Days Festival will be held June 23-25 with more activities and more food at various locations around Newcomerstown.

Eric Gagne, a relief pitcher with the L.A. Dodgers when he won the Cy Young Award in 2003, will be honored at the luncheon and serve as the grand parade marshal.

Gagne was 23 years old when he began playing for the Dodgers in 1999. He also has played for the Texas Rangers, Boston Red Sox and Milwaukee Brewers. His nickname was Game Over.

"He has been wanting to come to Newcomerstown as he was wanting to go out to the grave site and see where Cy Young is buried," said Ed Gibson, president of the Cy Young Days Festival. "That's one thing we do — we take the ballplayer out and have them put a wreath on the grave when they're here."

Gagne will attend the luncheon at the Labors Local Hall 134 at 150 N. River St. in Newcomerstown on Saturday, June 24. The local hall will sponsor the event.

Doors will open at 11:30 a.m., and lunch will be at 12:30 p.m. Tickets are $25 for adults and $15 for children under 12. Reservations

The festival committee will have two different designs of T-shirts. Both feature a photo of Cy Young on the front, one when the player was younger and another when he was older.

can be made by calling 740-498-8562.

Gagne isn't able to stay for Sunday's events, so he won't throw any pitches but will autograph a baseball to be given to Polly Porcher, whose late husband Ron was instrumental in helping to organize the festival.

The festival committee did not have a T-shirt design contest this year but will have two different designs of T-shirts at this year's festival. Both feature a photo of Cy Young on the front, one when the player was younger and another when he was older.

"We're going to have his top nine stats put on the back of the shirts so people can see what he actually achieved, and nobody has broken those yet," Gibson said.

Festival-goers can look forward to a lot of activities and entertainment this year.

"We're going to have laser tag this year. We've never had it. It will be in a 50-by-60-foot tent," Gibson said. "We're having Putt-Putt Golf this year; we haven't had that for a while. We're going to be having three bands this year."

The festival committee will have raffle tickets available at the festival as one of their fundraisers. They accept donations for the festival year round and hold two to three raffles each year to raise the funds needed to put on the festival.

During the festival, volunteers are always needed to help. Members of the Cy Young Days royal court also provide help with the festival.

"They are a good bunch of kids and a lot of fun to be around," Gibson said.

The opportunity to meet a baseball great is one of the things Gibson looks forward to at the festival.

"It's something not everybody gets to do to meet all of these former Cy Young Award winners. It's quite a privilege to be able to do that. Baseball's been a part of my life because I coached for 50 years," Gibson said of volunteering his time to youth baseball.

Gibson credited the Cy Young Days Festival committee for the work it does every year to keep the festival alive. New committee members are always welcome, and they don't have to be from Newcomerstown to get involved.

"We want to welcome everybody to our festival this coming year," Gibson said. "We've got more things going on for people to do and more food stands than we've had in the past."

PAC Season Unveiling

PAC 2023-24 season announced at member event

By Teri Stein

The new 2023-24 season at the Kent State University at Tuscarawas Performing Arts Center was unveiled recently with some famous Broadway shows on the schedule. The season was announced at a special event for PAC members at the theater, and this year's lineup of shows included the musicals "Annie," "On Your Feet — The Story of Emilio & Gloria Estefan," and the 50th anniversary tour of "Jesus Christ Superstar."

Last season Broadway shows were a casualty of a still-uncertain pandemic environment.

"One of the things we heard was 'we want Broadway back,'" Dean Bradley Bielski said. "And we talked and decided to go big or go home this year."

Bielski complimented the PAC staff.

"When a show comes in, there is not an eight-hour day; it's an 18-hour day," Bielski said.

Other shows announced included Scotty McCreery, Diamond Rio, The Simon & Garfunkel Story, Garrison Keillor Tonight, Puddles Pity Party and Mickey Dolenz: Voice of the Monkees. Tribute shows include Boy Band Review and Bruce in the USA.

The show scheduling process begins in the fall, with some shows committing last minute.

Matthew Murphy and Evan Zimmerman for MurphyMade

Ellie Pulsifer as Annie and Addison as Sandy in the 2022 company of "Annie."

"I usually start the process in October. In the fall is usually when there's conferences that I'll attend and talk to artists and agents," said David Mitchell, general manager at the PAC. "So we start the process. Then I would say the first show was booked in January, and the last one, that came in two or three weeks ago. The discussion didn't start happening three weeks ago. We've been talking about a date for months and months, but that final confirmation came in about three weeks ago."

There is no problem finding a variety of shows to book, and that was the case even when the pandemic created issues and required health and safety measures to be taken.

"The entertainment industry of the arts, it's a business. People that produce and create the art, the artists, the shows, they still need to work for a living. So they never really went away. There might have been some that came out a little bit sooner than others, a little bit of hesitancy, but there's plenty of shows to choose from," Mitchell said.

That hesitancy added to the challenge in putting together this year's schedule.

"I think that is one of the lasting impacts. I don't know how long it's going to last. Just everybody's calendar is a little bit more fluid nowadays," Mitchell said.

The PAC will again produce its own shows with the success of two events it did last season: Una Sera Italiana, an event featuring Italian food and music, and Sounds of the Season, a free event that featured local high school choirs and entertainers volunteering their time.

"Both of those events went fantastic. I did not hear anything bad about them," Mitchell said.

This year German cuisine and music will be featured. The Sounds of the Season date will be announced later.

The PAC's educational series of shows has proven successful.

"The school shows went fantastic this year, and we are absolutely going to continue doing them," Mitchell said. "I think it is so important to work with our local students, either taking artists to them or artists providing workshops for high school students, performance opportunities for high school students. To have those life experiences are so important."

In another move to support students, a new initiative called Pack the PAC will offer every seat at $15 for shows where students will perform with professional musicians.

"We'd love nothing more than to enhance that experience with 1,000 audience members adding energy and excitement to their performance," Mitchell said.

Clare Cannizzaro, executive director of the Tuscarawas Philharmonic Orchestra, joined Mitchell on stage to announce a closer partnership with the PAC.

Philharmonic shows are now listed in the 2023-24 season brochure. The philharmonic now has several new pricing discounts to bring its concerts to more listeners: a family package for $50, child pricing at $15 and a discount on the first two rows of the orchestra section for $15.

Mitchell called the support of their donors and members vital.

"We wouldn't be able to exist without them. Ticket sales alone only cover about 62% of our operating budget. The rest is comprised of sponsorships, member support, grants and then support

Ohio Tourism Day spurs visitors to Tuscarawas County

Submitted

To help spur tourism in Tuscarawas County, five destinations partnered with TourismOhio and joined more than 120 other attractions and destinations from across the state for the 2023 Ohio Tourism Day, held recently at the Ohio Statehouse in Columbus.

Hundreds of people looking to make summer plans attended the event. Attending from Tuscarawas County were the Tuscarawas County Convention & Visitors Bureau, Ernest Warther Museum and Gardens, The Dennison Railroad Depot Museum, the J.E. Reeves Victorian Home and Carriage House Museum, and the Muskingum Watershed Conservancy District.

To kick off the day, Gov. Mike DeWine unveiled Ohio's new brand: "Ohio, The Heart of It All."

"Thanks to all of our tourism partners for taking part in this unique event that offers visitors a chance to discover new attractions and destinations that showcase all Ohio has to offer as a place of adventure, a place of promise and the place for you," said Lydia Mihalik, director of Ohio Department of Development.

"Ohio Tourism Day is a great reminder that our state is the heart of it all, with something for everyone to enjoy," Diane Lautenschleger of the Tuscarawas County Convention & Visitors Bureau said. "The day allowed us to have one-on-one conversations with potential visitors looking to visit the restaurants, hotels, retailers and other nearby attractions that call Tuscarawas County home."

Every year Ohio Tourism Day celebrates Ohio's tourism industry and offers consumers the chance to explore vacation ideas across the state. The Tuscarawas County tourism attractions set up displays, passed out brochures, had giveaway items and talked to potential visitors.

Operating within Ohio Department of Development, TourismOhio works to showcase all Ohio has to offer. Visit www.ohio.org.

First Baptist Church of Dover to celebrate Juneteenth

By Lee Elliott

First Baptist Church of Dover will include music and food during its service on Sunday, June 18 to celebrate the historic importance of June 19 in black culture.

Juneteenth, which was declared a national holiday in 2021 by executive order of President Joe Biden, originated in 1865.

According to this year's Juneteenth Director Colby Byrom, when President Abraham Lincoln emancipated slaves in 1863, residents of Galveston, Texas did not get the word for 2 1/2 more years. Byrom said there were few Union troops in Texas, and 250,000 slaves remained in captivity until June 19, 1865.

The first celebrations were held in Texas and then Minnesota, and the holiday eventually spread across the United States until it became the national holiday it is today. Byrom said Tuscarawas County has not held large celebrations, but some organizations and churches observe the day each year.

Members of the First Baptist Church choir will present gospel music and songs of freedom during the regular 11 a.m. service. Games are planned, and picnic-style food of hamburgers and hot dogs will be served.

"Before COVID," Byrom said, "the Baptist Church would hold song fests and invite other choirs to participate. We served traditional southern food of barbecued chicken and ribs and specialty dishes from historical recipes. We've had to cut back some since the pandemic."

A Dover native, Byrom graduated from Dover High School and earned degrees at Capital University with a BA in Communications, Valdosta State College with a BBA in Accounting and Southern University with an MA in Accounting. A star of football and basketball, he was a member of the Basketballers, a team that imitated the Harlem Globetrotters, and was inducted into both the Dover High School and Capital University Athletic Halls of Fame. He has remained active in sports through refereeing and keeping the local football clock during games.

After serving in the U.S. Air Force, Byrom worked at the Columbus Call and Post radio news station and then as senior accountant for the Tuscarawas County Auditor's Office, treasurer of Dover and finally retired from the Muskingum Watershed Conservancy District after 10 years.

"Dover Baptist Church is extending an open invitation to all who want to celebrate Juneteenth," Byrom said. "We hope to show our appreciation of the holiday."

The church is located at 140 Regent St. in Dover. Rasheed Asasamad is the pastor.

Zoar homes and buildings to receive historical markers

By Lori Feeney

The Zoar Village Historic Preservation Commission recently dedicated a $6,000 grant from the Reeve's Foundation to the purchase of more than 30 historical plaques for buildings and homes.

The customized markers recognize properties as being placed on the National Register of Historic Places and feature the Zoar Star insignia.

Rick and Diane Geis of Zoar made the drive to the Erie Landmark Company in Colombia, Pennsylvania, near Philadelphia, to retrieve the plaques, saving shipping fees on the heavy, cast bronze markers. While there, they were treated to a tour of the foundry.

"Everything there is done by hand," Rick Geis said. "It's really old-school."

Diane Geis, a member of the HPC, said what is unique about the foundry is it still does sand castings. "They are also a family-owned business, and this is the fourth generation of family members operating it."

Scott Gordon, mayor of Zoar, said in determining which homes and buildings will receive plaques, first priority will be given to the structures that most contribute to the history of Zoar.

"For example, the numbered houses from 1-26 are all still existing except for two," Gordon said. "Next would be the museums owned by the Ohio History Connection."

Gordon said the village may search for additional funding to have additional plaques made so all historic properties receive the recognition. He also said the plaques are part of a larger effort to designate historical properties to assist visitors who may take self-guided or interactive tours.

Andrea Zimmerman, general manager for the Erie Landmark Company, talked about the process used in making the plaques. She said either a handmade or electronic design is first developed into a photo negative.

"Sand casting is the oldest method of casting metals," Zimmerman said. "Bronze or aluminum is heated to 2,400 degrees, then poured into a silica sand mold along with a liquid polymer until it hardens. On the Zoar plaques, we added a pebbled background, which is more exciting because it kind of grabs the light from all different directions."

Zimmerman said bronze ingots weighing between 32 and 36 pounds are melted to make the plaques.

"The amazing thing is the gentleman who does this is 76 years old," she said. "His name is Martin Fonseca, and he takes one ingot at a time, climbs four steps and then leans over the furnace to gently place the ingot in the bottom of the furnace, because if he drops it, he'll break the crucible."

Zimmerman said the company got its start supplying the military with belt buckles and forged parts for ships during World War II. "They were very good at it, and the family actually was in the millionaire strata at that time."

Once the war ended and many foundries began sending their work overseas, Zimmerman said the family decided to just stick with the business of making plaques. "It is what we did best," she said.

The Zoar HPC was created to preserve the architectural elements of the village, which they say reflect the heritage of the Separatists of the Zoar Society founded in 1817. Members of the HPC who arranged for the plaques to be made are chair Mark Gaynor, Gordon, Diane Geis, Patrick Eddy and Tom Klingaman.

The stated goal of the HPC is to help home owners make historically correct decisions when modifying or restoring homes and other structures that lie within the boundaries of the National Historic Landmark District from First to Fifth streets.

The museums in Zoar Village are open for tours from April through October, although hours vary by the day. Museums also are closed on Mondays and all holidays. Visit www.historiczooarvillage.com, call 330-874-3011 or find them on Facebook.

Volunteers needed for butterfly exhibit

By Scott Daniels

Each year the Norma Johnson Center hosts a live butterfly exhibit for visitors to view Ohio butterfly species. Scheduled July 6-16, the event will require a lot of human volunteers to accommodate the large number of visitors expected. The nature preserve is seeking people to sign up for the many roles available now in preparation for the exhibit.

"Normally, the butterfly exhibit needs about 80 people through the week," said Marsha Freeland, programming/education manager at the Tuscarawas County Parks Department. "There are lots of options people can sign up for when volunteering."

Park staff will train volunteers for whatever tasks they will assist with. "There are time slots and shifts available," Freeland said, "so it's really an easy and fun thing to be a part of."

She said the butterfly exhibit typically sees more than 3,000 visitors each year, which necessitates having enough people on hand to handle the volume of people.

"There's an education aspect where you're inside the building helping to educate people on the butterfly species and what they're going to see. We'll need greeters, someone to make sure everyone signs in, and we will need face painters and people to work at our craft station. There are a lot of jobs available for volunteers," Freeland said.

Volunteers will be needed the day before and after the exhibit closes for cleanup and taking down the exhibit.

The butterflies will be in a screened-in enclosure at the rear of the property.

"We'll have several different species," Freeland said, "and a little watermelon on toothpicks so you can try and get a very close-up look at them. The butterflies will appear in chrysalis form, as caterpillars and the emerged winged insects. You can see the whole life cycle."

those stages of development while a few species, like the monarch, make the trip to wait things out in Mexico until warmer weather returns. They will begin the return journey, but only their grandchildren and great-grandchildren will make it all the way back to Ohio to begin the process again. Freeland said an insect that emerges at this time of year will survive for a few weeks and not see the beginning of winter.

"But those who start later in whatever life-cycle stage will have to prepare to remain protected for the winter," she said.

Since the beginning of the butterfly exhibit 12 years ago, Freeland said sponsorship has been provided by the O'Donnell Family Charitable Trust. The butterfly display is free for visitors, and donations also are accepted.

To find out more about volunteering to help with the butterfly exhibit, email info@normajohnsoncenter.com. You will receive a link in return that will offer a full list of volunteer opportunities and times available.

Concessions will be offered by the Tuscarawas County Parks Department.

Norma Johnson Center offers more than 300 acres of preserved habitat with a pond and walking trails open dawn to dusk year round. Find the center on state Route 39, three miles west of the Dover I-77 exit. Find out more about the center at www.normajohnsoncenter.com.

Market returns for new season

By Scott Daniels

The Tuscarawas Valley Farmers Market is under-way for 2023, with new vendors, new classes and fresh produce from local farmers. The market started the season on June 7 with plenty of buyers to match the overflowing baskets of vegetables, fruits, maple syrup and honey offered by area producers.

The market's opening day is the payoff for the months of work spent preparing. "The offseason is probably the busiest for us in terms of the marketing team," Executive Director Mark McKenzie said. "Getting everything lined up, the music, the vendors, we never stop. It's a year-long process."

New this year are apples and peaches, a wood-fired pizza offering, and classes in partnership with Lehman Hardware of Kidron.

Weaver's Truck Patch is a regular at the farmers market, doing business in fresh vegetables.

"They will be here offering classes in several avenues I think people will find helpful," McKenzie said. "This week it's yogurt and cheesemaking. They'll be demonstrating fermentation this summer and canning later. It's a major addition to the market this year."

Jacob Miller of Yoder Farms in Fredericksburg has been selling fresh vegetables at the Tuscarawas Valley Farmers Market for eight years and is back again for 2023. "It's the best market we've ever been to. Maybe not the biggest, but the management, the way things are set up and the interaction with customers, it's our favorite market."

The Yoder family devotes 3 1/2 acres of 78 acres to producing vegetables for sale. "All our vegetables are certified organic," Miller said.

Rachel and Melody Steiner of Dalton are first-time participants in the market. Melody Steiner wants to be a pilot, and pilot licenses are expensive to acquire. Too young to work, she and sister Rachel are offering organic cotton candy, sourced from organically produced sugar.

"We looked for organic cotton candy but couldn't find such a thing," Melody Steiner said. "So we decided to make it."

The candy comes in several flavors under the name Sunbow 57 Girls.

Tusc Commissioner attends 18th annual leadership program

County commissioner Chris Abbuhl participated in the 18th annual County Leadership Institute, a program developed by the National Association of Counties and Cambridge Leadership Associates.

The institute, held June 11-15 in Washington, D.C., encourages county officials to consider innovative approaches to address key issues facing their counties and constituents.

The program is designed to help county leaders further develop their approaches toward solving complex challenges. It provides tools to encourage innovation and creativity, resources for invigorating organizational culture, and best practices in effective communication, collaboration and decision-making.

“County officials often address similar issues and can learn a great deal from one another. The County Leadership Institute fosters peer-to-peer learning and encourages common-sense solutions to challenges that counties and residents face every day,” NACo Executive Director Matthew Chase said.

Since its inception CLI has graduated nearly 388 leaders from 196 counties across 42 states.

This year’s program focused on the demands of personal leadership in the modern era of government.

Kneuss Family Farms has offered a variety of vegetables in the past, beginning with the very first Tuscarawas Valley Farmers Market. This year owner Dave Kneuss is turning to offering a selection of beef cuts from the family farm, selling fresh meats and eggs from a refrigerated unit.

“I’ve got plenty of beef and eggs with me,” Kneuss said. “No need to put in an order and wait.”

Passion at Midnight Macarons gets its name from late night baking sessions preparing its 130 flavors of French macarons and other sweets. Former chef Seth Trissle turned to making macarons after being unable to locate any of sufficient quality nearby.

Finding success, he has returned to the Tuscarawas

Valley Farmers Market for the past three years and now offers classes from his bakery located in Canton.

“This is a great community, and people here have been very welcoming,” Trissle said. “We are glad to be back again this year.”

The Tuscarawas Valley Farmers Market plays host to a spectrum of locally produced products. Camp Tuscazoar will offer the camp’s in-house maple syrup, along with several vendors of fresh honey. Bakers will find fresh grains available, and natural herbal remedies, handmade soaps and numerous other items round out the market.

The Tuscarawas Valley Farmers Market is open Wednesdays from June through October from 3-7 p.m. at the Tuscarawas County Fairgrounds, 259 S. Tuscarawas Ave., Dover.

The 2023 "Trumpet in the Land" cast.

'Trumpet in the Land' new season will open June 23

By Teri Stein

When "Trumpet in the Land" opens its 54th season this year on June 23, there is much behind-the-scenes work the public will never see.

"It takes a lot of hard work; a lot of blood, sweat and tears; and a lot of dedication from a lot of people that have been with the organization for a long time," said Margaret Bonamico, general manager of Trumpet in the Land, "and just friends that come back and help us with certain things year after year."

Volunteers helped make the costumes, helped with construction work and helped get the theater ready for the season.

"That's a huge advantage to us because those are funds that we would have to put out to have that done but they have volunteered their time and their expertise," Bonamico said.

Bonamico has been with the production for 52 years, and her brother Joe Bonamico has been in the show for 42 years. Joe Bonamico is best known for his portrayal of Simon Girty.

Work during the off-season is a must with some board members who are on committees taking care of the grounds year round, doing marketing year round and doing grant writing.

"Trumpet in the Land" is Ohio's official state play and longest running outdoor theater production. It brings to life the story of David Zeisberger and his Christian Indian followers as they struggled to preserve their peaceful settlement despite the growing violence of the Revolutionary War. The story begins in 1772.

Aside from the regular season, one of the busiest times of the year is the holiday season. Though they have fundraisers throughout the year, The Trumpet Singers, comprised of local actors and vocalists, are most in demand during that time.

"Right before the end of the year, we do a lot of the annual campaign and fundraising type of work. And so that keeps us pretty busy," Margaret Bonamico said.

Trumpet in the Land has proved to be a valuable part of the local economy, bringing in an average of 8,000-10,000 visitors in just a two-month period. Once the season gets going, the schedule includes multiple shows over consecutive nights to entice visitors to stay extra time in the area.

Most seasons Trumpet attracts people from all over the United States.

"I think last year we had 47 of the states. And we had all but two of the counties in the state of Ohio and probably about 14 foreign countries," Margaret Bonamico said.

There also are people that come in from out of town because their children are in the show, and they tend to bring their entire extended families with them.

Trumpet in the Land is part of the 2023 Travel Tusc ticket program operated by the Tuscarawas County Convention & Visitors Bureau in partnership with the county commissioners. The tickets provide free admission to many area attractions for local residents.

There are no better ambassadors for the show than local residents.

"In the past couple of years, when they had the tickets, they were only good for Trumpet. This year you can use them on any of the shows," Margaret Bonamico said. "It's an opportunity for people that might not be able to afford some of the attractions to be able to enjoy what's in the county."

The extra shows include "Fiddler on the Roof;" "Circus Time," a one-hour children's show that will provide activities afterward; and musical reviews that include a show featuring Disney music and one featuring Broadway tunes.

Following the season will be two productions: "Assassins," a musical that looks at the lives of nine individuals who assassinated or tried to assassinate a U.S. president and breaks the rules of time and space to bring them together, will be Sept. 9-10. For the Halloween season, "Dracula" will play on two weekends, Oct. 6-7 and Oct. 13-14.

While the Trumpet story stays the same, the show changes a little bit every year.

"It depends sometimes on the size of cast; it depends on a lot of different things. Sometimes if you have a person that has a particular skill, like in a dance or something, then that becomes a little bit different," Margaret Bonamico said.

For the 2023 season, Margaret Bonamico has just two wishes. "A lot of sunshine and a lot of people walking up over the hill," she said.

Local members of the Trumpet cast are Joe Bonamico as Simon Girty, Bart Herman as David Zeisberger, Tom Reed as John Heckewelder, Ethan Parrish as Michael, Zac Rusk as Chief White Eyes/Col. David Williamson, Vic Haverfield as Walking Dog, Frank Huff as Zeke Gibbs, Noah Beachy as Sandy Blanchard, Emma Lesieki as Keziah, Rachel Ralston as Esther, Shannon McCullough-McKee as Anna Benigna, Dawn Furness as Sarah Heckewelder, Trenton Huff participates in singing and dancing, and Katlyn Marlatt as a maiden.

Other cast members include Anthony Harbert as Grube/DePeyster, Tyler Farabee as Isaac, DJ Miller as Big Rock/Strong Cat/Pop Pegram, Keon Dalziel as Capt. Pipe and other roles, Nate Kiliany as Ben Campbell, Isabel Passero as Susan Lecron, Laura Peterson as Zenobia, Courtney Baucom as Juliana, and Kat Robertson as Ann Charity. # Retro toys, power tools and more at Zoar Wetland garage sale

By Lori Feeney

The Zoar Wetland will hold its garage sale fundraiser June 23-24 at the wetland picnic shelter and grounds from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Friday and 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday.

“The garage sale is our big fundraiser each year,” said Sherrie Baughman, secretary/treasurer for the all-volunteer, nonprofit organization. “This year we have some really nice items donated for the sale.”

Those items include a DR Powerwagon, an air hockey game, retro toys, a working gas grill, power tools and Avon collectible bottles.

“We’ve also received a large dog kennel, a Little Tykes sandbox and picnic table, and a number of children’s and adults’ bicycles,” Baughman said. “And more items are coming in every day.”

There also are a number of Christmas decorations and a sizable decorative pumpkin crafted from strings of lights by artist Jill Harshey of Zoar.

Harshey said this is the first year she has donated to the sale.

Kyle Valentini

The Zoar Wetland is an 82-acre nature park that includes 50 acres of woodland and 2 miles of walking trails surrounding the 30-acre shallow water marsh.

“It just seems like such a worthwhile project. First of all, I think people misinterpret what wetlands are. They’re very important to the environment. Secondly, anything for the benefit of Zoar is at the top of my list. I don’t think people realize that this is a very unique little town, and it means a lot to me.”

Scott Gordon, the mayor of Zoar, is a frequent and longtime donor to the sale supporting the wetland. “They really depend on revenue they can generate themselves,” Gordon said. “All those funds go to making that area more accessible and preserving it as a sanctuary, and that’s a big job.”

Why are funds needed?

People may wonder why an outdoor nature preserve run by volunteers needs funds. “We do have electric at the picnic shelter and security lights at night, so we have an electric bill,” Baughman said. “We also pay for the water provided for people while they’re there, a portable toilet during the summer months and trash pickup.”

In addition to the monthly bills, Baughman said routine year-round maintenance is required, as are occasional repairs.

“Last year we had a big limb come down on the top of the shelter and had to hire a tree service to take care of that. Maintenance is a large part of the money needed to keep the wetland facilities up and running and safe for everyone,” Baughman said.

Last year the lake had a problem with lily pads consuming the oxygen needed for fish to thrive. The wetland held a special fundraiser to purchase amurs, special fish that eat vegetative overgrowth. The organization also keeps the lake stocked with bluegill and largemouth bass for fishing.

About the wetland

The Zoar Wetland is an 82-acre nature park that includes 50 acres of woodland and 2 miles of walking trails surrounding the 30-acre shallow water marsh. It is a trail link between the Historic Village of Zoar and the Ohio and Erie Canal Towpath Trail and is maintained by volunteers with donated funds and materials.

Fishing at the lake is free, as are hiking and just enjoying the peace and quiet. Those who wish to kayak or canoe on the lake are asked to purchase a membership to help defray insurance costs. The pavilion also is available to rent for special occasions.

The Zoar Wetland is located at 434 W. Fifth St. in Zoar. Visit www.zoarwetland.org or call Executive Director Denny Lewton at 330-495-3613.

Little Theatre hosts first community theater festival

By Lee Elliott

The Little Theatre of Tuscarawas County hosted its first East Region festival for the Ohio Community Theater Association, reaping awards that are sending the cast and crew of “Tuesdays With Morrie” to the state festival competition in Cincinnati over Labor Day weekend.

The 40-minute excerpt, one of two presented for judging by responders, won first place, with awards going to Roxie Long, a Merit for direction; Kenn Holmes, a Merit for set design; Jack Thomas, Excellence in Acting; and Chester Boffo, Outstanding Actor. East Region representative Machel Miller received a special award for exemplifying the Spirit of Theater. Authors of “Tuesdays With Morrie” are Jeffrey Hatcher and Mitch Albom.

Held at Dover High School, the festival also featured an excerpt from “Love, Loss and What I Wore” by alternate winner Footlight Players of Coshocton. Those receiving awards were Sheila Mayse, Merit in directing and acting; Ellen Para, Merit in acting; and Nathan Mayse, Merit for set design. The piece was written by Ilene Beckerman, Delia Ephron and Nora Ephron.

OCTA consists of eight regions from throughout the state with each region comprised of between six and 12 theaters. Participating theaters in the East Region include The Little Theatre of Tuscarawas County, Coshocton Footlight Players, Carnation Players of Alliance, Potter Players of East Liverpool, Wayne County Performing Arts Council, Zane Trace Players and Zanesville Community Theater. Each region covers 12 counties.

Submitted

During their regular seasons, all OCTA member theaters are invited to choose one show and send a short excerpt to their regional festival held in June.

The rules for participation are strict. Only a small area of the stage may be used. The excerpt cannot run even one second over the allotted time of 40 minutes, which includes setup and take-down.

Directors must get permission from the author or publisher to be allowed to take a cutting from the play and then must plan it with a beginning, middle and end that does not deviate from the original script. Excerpts vary from drama and comedy to musicals, complete with live orchestras and choruses.

Three trained responders from different areas of the state evaluate the excerpts and discuss their suggestions and comments with the play casts immediately following the presentation. At the end of the day, one of the excerpts is chosen to participate in the state festival with another as an alternate, and awards are given for direction, acting, sets, costumes and ensemble work.

Responders for the East Region festival were Kathy Hyland, whose theater career spans 30 years as director, stage manager, board member, tech team member, teacher and actor at Columbus Children's Theatre; Dan Maloney, who has performed in more than 50 productions and is the recipient of the OCTA Spirit of Community Theatre Award and the Otto Kvapil Award for Stage Performance at Xavier University; and Deb Wentz, who holds an MA in Popular Culture and has served as a regional representative, director, actor and costumer.

“Tuesdays with Morrie” was directed by Roxie Long. Crew participants included Shavonne McMillan, Machel Miller, Kenn Holmes, Sarah Spies, Amy Vance, Joe Compton, Haley Kimble, Meghan Miller and Brendan Wiandt. Chester Boffo and Jack Thomas comprised the cast.

The production, produced by special arrangement with Dramatists Play Service Inc., is the autobiography of Mitch Albom, an accomplished journalist driven solely by his career, and Morrie Schwartz, his former college professor. The two are reunited when Schwartz learns that his former professor and friend is struggling with Lou Gehrig's disease.

“Love, Loss and What I Wore” by Ilene Beckerman, Delia Ephron and Nora Ephron is a play of monologues and ensemble pieces about women, clothes and memory, covering subjects like mothers, prom dresses, buying bras, hating purses and why women only wear black.

Those participating in the Footlight Players' excerpt were the crew of Director Sheila Mayse, Helen Scholfield, Shelly Lillibridge, Shane Pyle, Nathan Mayse and Jakob Eick. Cast members were Jill Baumgardner, Melissa Bluck, Susan Metz Guthrie, Heidi Miller, Ella Perrenoud, Sarah Perrenoud and Sheila Mayse. It was produced by special arrangement with Dramatists Play Service Inc.

Between excerpts lunch was made available by Messdad's Concessions, which specializes in hot dogs, reubens, chicken, deep-fried doughnuts, fresh salads, spiral spuds on a stick, nachos and desserts. The festival was sponsored by Krugliak, Wilkins, Griffiths & Dougherty Co. LPA.

OCTA will celebrate its 70th state conference when contestants meet Sept. 1-4 in Cincinnati. Sixteen theaters are scheduled to perform. The weekend will include games, workshops, a banquet, and the Saturday and Sunday excerpts and awards. Register at OCTA at www.octa1953.org/ or call 1-888-465-4329.

An ode to the roadside rest

Before there was a fast-food restaurant or strip mall at every major intersection, there was no choice but the ever-scenic and odorous roadside rest area for people on the go who had to go and eat.

Since Joe's grandmother lived in the Lakeside/Marblehead area on Lake Erie, we visited the five roadside rests we passed along scenic Route 250 multiple times over the years.

These rest areas were a joy for the most part with a rustic area for picnic tables, but the downside was the ever-unpopular pit toilets that are only for emergencies, and most had not even a curtain to keep you from getting more closely acquainted than you'd like with anyone who happened in.

Really, those pit toilets were gross. I'm glad I never lost anything in one. I feel bad for the person who did. You know there had to be at least one poor, unfortunate soul who met that fate. Someone could have lost a purse or a ring. I might decide to cut my losses right there and not go after the item. Besides the obvious, there could have been anything in there from dead bodies to ginormous spiders.

The rustic, old-fashioned hand pump that brought up the coldest water to wash your hands in was a satisfaction. Your hard work was immediately rewarded as the clear liquid gushed from the spigot. You actually needed two people to work these effectively, one to pump while the other made use of the water.

One time after a visit to Grandma's, we were bringing Grandma back home with us for a visit.

Teri Stein
Better Days

Grandma insisted she make sandwiches so we wouldn't have to stop anywhere to eat. Grandma was frugal, and she cooked the best meals. You could walk in the door unannounced and, in no time, get a great meal. We usually did go unannounced, because if Grandma knew the time we were to arrive and we weren't there by that time, we were in danger of Grandma calling the State Patrol to have an APB put out on us.

So we were on our way south down Route 250. We got a late start and decided to eat at the first rest area we came to. Don't ask me where that is. I'm not sure. It's in the middle of some farmland. We had a delightful lunch with Grandma as we found a picnic table near the parking area.

Little did we realize how lucky we were on that trip because later we took some of our young nephews on a day trip to the lake. On our way back, we had our sandwiches packed and decided to recreate this idyllic picnic.

We only made one mistake. To make it easier on everyone who was surely going to make use of the facilities and to keep the youngsters in sight, we decided on a table closer to the pit toilets. In fact, we happened to be downwind of said toilets.

We were happily munching on our sandwiches when a breeze swept south over the pit toilets and across our picnic table. At the same time, I took a deep breath.

What's that? I looked at Joe. Our eyes met in horror as we realized our error.

It was too late to move though. Other smarter travelers already filled the north-side picnic tables. We finished quickly and, in future stops, never picked a table without considering wind direction first.

One of my favorite rest area stories was a trip when Joe and I were taking my grandmother, aka Gram, to the Cleveland airport for her annual trip to Arizona to avoid Ohio winters.

I was driving the first leg of the trip because Joe hadn't slept well the night before and was napping in the back seat. We stopped at this wonderful, colossal pit toilet rest area north of Canton somewhere on I-77 to trade places. Gram and I were smart enough to stay in the car.

Joe stumbled out of the back seat, and because those things weren't clearly marked, he made his way directly into the women's side. Luckily, we were the only car in the parking lot. We were going to yell at him, but he was already out of sight. Gram and I just cracked up with laughter, and later, of course, we pointed out the mistake to Joe and everyone else we saw for the next year. And I'm still doing it.

Unfortunately, roadside rests are becoming a thing of the past. Now when we travel, especially on Route 250, we always point out where the rest areas were. It's sad they aren't there anymore because there are so many memories there. They were an easy stop off the road if needed, but I'm sure you can guess the one thing no one will miss about them. Hold your breath.

Well, I guess garlic scapes it is

Some time ago I wrote with some embarrassment about not having heard of edamame before, something that has been sitting in the freezer case of grocery stores for ages but that I missed until a friend ordered it at a restaurant.

Now it's a staple snack at our house, much better than chips and healthier as a bonus. Still, to not know what edamame was sort of casts imposter doubt on my food writer credentials.

I'm in the same boat again. Have you ever had the experience of never hearing of something in all your life and then it appears and you start hearing it all over the place? That happened to me last week when my wife texted from work.

"Do you have any use for garlic scapes? We're getting more from area farms than we can use."

“Scrapes? What are scrapes?” I thought. This is why I prefer texting to phone calls. I was not in the spot of

Scott Daniels
We Ate Well and Cheaply

having to stumble and admit I had no idea what she was talking about. I could pause while a Google rabbit hole opened before me, waiting to make me feel dumb.

Then at the Tuscarawas Valley Farmers Market's opening day, suddenly there were garlic scapes at every vegetable vendor's stall, at prices affirming their abundance. The capper came when I started getting recipes using garlic scapes in everything from foodie emails to Instagram, out of the blue.

Well, I guess garlic scapes it is. Time for a deep dive. By now you've correctly guessed my lack of experience in farming, though I have grown garlic.

First, we have to talk about the two varieties of garlic commonly available: softneck and hardneck. The former is the one we usually see in grocery stores. It has a long shelf life and milder flavor.

Hardneck garlic sprouts long, tender leaves from the top of the bulb, and this leaf, along with the bud, which curls into something resembling a curly green bean, is the scape. It's one of those things that can be used in an almost infinite variety of ways, and I'm stunned and humbled that I was unaware of it until a week ago. The hardneck variety is hardy through cold winters while softneck garlic does better where the hot summers are followed by mild winters.

Garlic scapes are harvested about this time of year for the benefit of the actual garlic later. If left in place, the plant will pour all its energy into the leaves, resulting in small bulbs later in the year when you're looking for a good garlic harvest.

The scapes are only available at this time of year and generally only at farmers markets and specialty stores.

Once they're out of season, they're gone until next June and July. They store well in your refrigerator vegetable drawer for a couple of weeks.

The scapes have an onion-like flavor akin to a slightly garlicky, fresh green scallion or chives. They can be pickled or chopped and used in any recipe in which you would use garlic. They can be added to a milder pesto, stirred into sauces, or add fresh punch and color to garlic bread.

Not expecting to find them at the farmers market, I didn't get any, something I will correct this week now that I know what they are and what to do with them.

It's something I love about food and cooking; there is always something new to learn and discover, then to try and experiment with and add to your regular arsenal of ingredients or techniques. Cooking, coupled with a good dose of curiosity, can keep us learning throughout our lives.

But wow. I should have been aware of those scapes.

Golden years require extra stamina

So recently I decided to take stock of what I was paying out for extraneous pleasures to see if I might be able to cut back a little and save for some larger projects that have presented themselves unexpectedly.

I stopped first at my provider's website, where I pay for internet, TVs and a land line, combined into a single bill that keeps going up without explanation each month. My intent was to cancel that service.

Just about that time, a sales person came to the door, selling a brand-new provider, the one that has been digging and hanging wires all over town this spring and summer — all things still included for much cheaper than the old program with a couple of extra perks as well, three months free and guarantee that price would not go up for three years.

Saving $40 a month and being able to keep my old phone number seemed good reason to jump in. Big mistake. The old provider is crafty, the new one untested and unready, and I unhappy — that is to say going crazy.

Leo Elliott
Aging Gracefully

The nice salesperson accidentally gave the provider my old phone number with one number wrong. This created at least five hours of havoc. I couldn't get a phone number, either old or new, and no one — I mean, literally, that currently over-used term — there was no one who knew what to do.

I was two weeks without a landline, and then, when I thought it was settled and had become somewhat attached to the new number, they said they couldn't do that. Then they could. Then they couldn't.

I ended up with the new number they gave me in the first place. It is a Wyoming number. When I tried to call 811 the other day to check on a larger project, I got the 811 in Wyoming, not Tuscarawas County.

I soon found changing servers requires changing every electronic device in your house: desktop computer, laptop, printer, Kindle, iPad, TVs, and anything else that hums and buzzes its way through communication. And so, as I changed, things began not working.

Now I am having trouble with my writing program on the computer. Writing, of course, is a big part of my life, and not being able to find where I am saving things, having to change email providers to new ones that march to a different beat, not being able to notify my document that it needs to be double spaced and not knowing what is going to go wrong next is a major pain, to say the least.

On top of it all, I haven't been able to cancel the old provider because I will lose my 5,000 emails I haven't deleted all along, and some of them may be important.

I have sought help on the computer, and the directions are there. They just don't do what they say they will do. Besides that, I am paying for both providers right now. I could probably survive the email loss, but help, I need an 8-year-old.

I find that as I age, I'm not the only thing breaking down. Twenty years in this house has brought me to the brink of obsolescence. The money saved from the provider change was going to take care of the repair of my garden boxes, the replacement of the microwave and the getting the dryer to stop turning itself on. I mentioned it to the dryer the other day, but it just buzzed and began running with the door open.

The golden years sometimes require a little extra stamina. Still, we wouldn't trade them for the alternative.
