Keeping the memory alive

Festival organizers petition state for Cy Young Day

By Teri Stein

The organizers of the Cy Young Days Festival, held each year in June in Newcomerstown, could use some help. They believe keeping alive the memory of professional baseball pitcher Cy Young, who was from Newcomerstown, is important.

Even though the Cy Young Award for Major League Baseball pitchers is given each year, there are people who don't know the pitcher.

"The younger generation has no idea who Cy Young was," said Ed Gibson, president of the Cy Young Days Festival. "There's a lot of the older people who don't know too. I will get people calling us and say, 'What's the C.Y. Young Festival?'"

The exception to that is the dedicated Cy Young Days Festival royalty who travel each year to talk about Cy Young at other festivals.

"They're amazing. They put their hearts and souls into what they're doing, and they seem to really enjoy it," Gibson said.

Gibson and others began a campaign several years ago to get the fourth Saturday in June designated as Cy Young Day in the state of Ohio, but they haven't yet been successful.

"There's two awards given out every year in the American League and the National League, and he was the first professional baseball player to have an award named after him," Gibson said. "There should be a day set aside for him."

A possible Cy Young Day would be celebrated during the Cy Young Days Festival as it is always held the fourth weekend of June.

Saturday during the festival is the luncheon, which honors their special guest, who is a Cy Young Award winner.

The festival committee hasn't heard back on their efforts yet.

"Hopefully, the legislators will take time to sit down, look at this and see if they will do it for us," Gibson said.

The committee asks the public contact politicians to let them know they think a designated day for Cy Young is a good idea because of what he has accomplished. A list of representatives and their contact information is posted on the Cy Young Days Festival Facebook page.

File

Cy Young was the first professional baseball player to have an award named after him.

"He has baseball records that have never been broken and never will be," Gibson said.

Gibson said he has enjoyed being involved in the festival. Through it he has met elderly people who remember Cy Young from when they were children.

"It's just great to listen to the stories that people have to tell," Gibson said.

It was the late Jane Benedum Meuhlen who convinced Gibson to bring back the community festival named after the pitcher. She was once the caretaker for Cy Young.

Professional baseball was not as lucrative then as it is today.

"When he got out of Major League Baseball, he was broke. And he went to live with the Benedums. Jane was maybe 4 years old when he moved in," Gibson said. "After she got a little older, at 14 years of age, the state gave her a special driver's license so she could drive Cy Young around."

Gibson said he feels honored he got the opportunity to meet Benedum Meuhlen, who flew in one year for the festival.

The committee members want to ensure the festival continues and welcome others who would like to be involved. You do not have to live in Newcomerstown to help.

"We've got people from Dover, Coshocton and Columbus that come to our festival meetings," Gibson said. "We want everyone in the state to know about Cy Young."

Information on how to help is on the website at www.cyyoungdaysfestival.com.

Currently, this year's festival committee is working on securing a Cy Young Award winner to attend the 2024 festival.

"We've got a list of about three or four that we would like to have. It's not an easy thing to do because, No. 1, the player has to go along with it and their agents have to go along with it," Gibson said. "We try to bring a former Cy Young Award winner in every year. One of the things we do, we take them out to the grave site and let them put a wreath on the grave of Cy Young. I think they're just amazed."

Keeping the festival going forever is a priority.

"We're glad we're doing this, and we would love to have younger people getting more involved with it. There's quite a few of us that are in their 70s," Gibson said. "I really enjoy being involved, and we've got a lot of good people here involved in it."

Gibson hopes others will contact the representatives to make a designated Cy Young Day in Ohio a reality.

"Bottom line, one person's not going to get anything done by themselves. You have to have other people involved," Gibson said.

Wishing everyone a Merry Christmas!

Copeland Oaks' 250-acre campus features plenty of trails, plus this 5-acre lake for fishing.

The strong sense of community at Copeland Oaks means making friends and staying active is easy.

The amenities at Copeland Oaks include an indoor swimming pool, plus a library, beauty salon, wellness center, personal training, fitness center, aerobics studio, and free membership to the local golf course with country club—all included with the monthly rent.

Maintenance-Free Retirement Living

At Copeland Oaks, enjoy an active, maintenance-free lifestyle—with $0 entry fee.

by Mitch Allen

As families gather for the holidays, grown children may notice their aging parents struggling a bit with all the cooking, cleaning, and decorating. Or the parents themselves may be finding diminishing joy in taking care of a home, shoveling snow, doing yard work.

If so, now may be the time to explore the fun and maintenance-free lifestyle of a retirement community.

No Up-Front Entry Fee

While many retirement communities require a $100,000+ entry fee or ask you to sign over your assets, that is not the case at Copeland Oaks, a 55+ community situated on 250 beautiful acres in Sebring, Ohio.

In fact, there is no entry fee. And the nonprofit facility doesn't manage anyone's assets. As one resident told me, "Every place we visited wanted $100,000 or more upfront. There was no way we'd do that... there is no entrance fee at Copeland Oaks."

"All we require is a $1,100 deposit, then we start the process to get you moved in," explains Kim Strabala, who along with Allison Edie, are Copeland Oaks' two Senior Living Consultants. They are the first point of contact for interested seniors.

"As a 55-and-over community, we have people of all ages and different stages of life who come to live here," Allison says. "And there is a really strong sense of community. The loneliness so many seniors are struggling with these days, you won't find here. It's easy to make friends and stay active."

For those seeking independent living, there are two different options:

The Villas

The 140 fully independent ranch-style villas are regularly updated and remodeled. In fact, when a new resident or couple decides to call Copeland Oaks home, their villa of choice is beautifully remodeled, often including full kitchen updates, lighting, flooring and more. "We offer a choice of eight different villa styles that people can choose from," Kim says. "They range from 1,500 to 2,300 square feet with full basements and garages."

The campus offers many social events, and residents have access to over 65 resident-lead groups within walking distance of their homes. Enjoy the stocked lake, on-site library, beauty salon, creativity center, large indoor pool, wellness center, personal training, fitness center, aerobics studio, and free membership to the local golf course with country club—all included with the monthly rent.

"Every place we visited wanted $100,000 or more upfront. There was no way we'd do that...there is no entrance fee at Copeland Oaks."

The zero-maintenance lifestyle at Copeland Oaks means all landscaping and maintenance is taken care of. You can even schedule housekeeping, for a truly worry-free living experience.

"Our residents have spent their lives working and raising families. It's time for them to be able to enjoy themselves without the stressful upkeep of a home," Allison adds. "Here, the only responsibility you need to worry about is which activities you want to participate in."

The Apartments

Residents who choose to live in one of Copeland Oaks' beautiful apartments enjoy a glorious view of the lake. The 54 units that comprise this section give seniors the opportunity to remain independent but on a smaller scale than the villas.

All the same amenities enjoyed by residents in the villas are afforded to residents in the apartments. Plus, Copeland Oaks offers a continuum of care, so seniors have a place here no matter where they are in the aging process, including the on-campus Crandall Medical Center, named one of "America's Best Nursing Homes 2024" by Newsweek. The center features 150 beds (all rooms are private with person-centered care) and a state-of-the-art rehab and therapy area.

The Campus

The 250-acre, pet-friendly campus that encompasses Copeland Oaks includes a 5K trail that meanders through the woods, a five-acre stocked lake, outdoor dining patios, and patios with fireplaces and firepits, secured community entry and exit, and a 300-strong team of employees that delights in catering to every person living there.

If you're over 55 and are ready to put away the lawn mower for good—and don't want to pony up a huge up-front fee, schedule a tour to find out more about the maintenance-free lifestyle at Copeland Oaks.

Copeland Oaks is at 800 S. 15th Street in Sebring, Ohio. Tours are by appointment with evenings and weekends available. To schedule your personal tour, call 330-938-6126. Visit CopelandOaks.com.

A TUSKY Tribute

Community comes together to help those affected by recent accident

By Lori Feeney

reams of paper. There are simply too many, but here are just a few.

Pray for Tusky Valley

One of the first companies to reach out to the community was Lightning Signs in New Philadelphia. By afternoon on the day of the accident, the company's mobile sign could be seen winding its way through the streets of Tusky Valley country.

After that, owner Cris Call decided to create yard signs bearing the phrase and offer them to the public by donation only. Any funds raised would go to the families.

"I thought it would be really cool if we could collect $5,000 over a few weeks," he said. "We did that the first day, and the second day we did over $16,000."

Everywhere you turn it seems you'll find signs of love and support for all those who were impacted by the Nov. 14 Tusky Valley bus accident. And the signs stretch from Ohio all the way to Florida and California.

The accident on I-70 in Licking County stole the lives of three students, a teacher and two chaperones. Another 18 students were injured, with one student and the charter bus driver requiring hospitalization and surgeries.

Whenever events like this occur, human beings come together to share the grief and make the burden a little easier to bear. To acknowledge all those who came together to support the families and the school would require Employees at Lightning Signs in New Philadelphia stayed late and gave up lunch hours to produce and distribute "Pray for Tusky Valley" signs, raising more than $50,000 for families affected by the bus accident.

At the end of one week, more than 4,000 signs had been distributed and more than $50,000 raised.

"I want to thank all my employees for what they did," Call said. "The way they stepped up, staying late and never complaining, and the way the community came together, I get choked up talking about it."

Call said he has seen the signs, not just in Tusky Valley territory, but also in other places. "I've seen them in places like Carrollton and Bowerston. We've even shipped some to California and Florida. I never dreamed it would get this big, but I'm so glad it did."

Big-hearted businesses

A number of local businesses have found ways to chip in as well. In Bolivar the owner of Haven Shala Yoga Studio started a GoFundMe account almost immediately, which has now been merged with the TVStrong fund.

The Towpath Tavern raised more than $5,000 through sales of 300 hand-painted Christmas ornaments, and the Bolivar Army-Navy, Bolivar Pizza, Bolivar Subway and Sublime Smoke all pitched in to raise funds.

One person can make a difference

When Mike Gross heard what happened, he sprang into action. The Bolivar resident and sportsman decided to hold a gun raffle to benefit injured student Brynn Goedel and her family as they face mounting medical bills.

Ticket sales were so successful the first day that Vaughn Sears, a friend of Gross, purchased a second gun so they could pull two winners out of the hat.

"I never met Brynn or her family, but we've got to start taking care of people we don't know," Gross said.

Plans are in place to deliver a gift basket to the Goedels containing raffle proceeds of $21,585, some girly items and all of the raffle tickets. "I want her to see the names of all the people who bought tickets," Gross said. "I want people to know there are still good folks out there."

“The outpouring of love and support is overwhelming... We will be forever thankful for them uplifting and sustaining us on some of our darkest days.”

Dr. Derek Varansky

Stephen Strawn, a former Bolivar resident and Air Force veteran, and Josh Keane, Strawn's friend and an Army veteran, organized a memorial run/walk held on the Tusky Valley track.

"The idea was to have people run or walk either six laps or 6 miles, one to honor each of the six victims," Strawn said.

Strawn chose to start the event at 8:52 a.m., the time the accident occurred, and end it six hours later. Approximately 100 people participated in the event, which also served as a blood drive.

More than 20 units of blood were donated along with $1,050 in cash, which will be given to the TVStrong fund and earmarked for the Goedel family.

On Dec. 11 Mike Penso and Jody Engstrom, who helped with the event, presented a Tusky Valley flag to the board of education bearing the signatures of those who participated in the event.

Multitudes of others have found individual ways to help raise funds by selling everything from handmade car air fresheners and T-shirts to hand-painted duffel bags and fashion headbands.

TV colors shine everywhere

In the days and weeks since the accident, people around the state and across the nation have felt moved to honor Tusky Valley in some way. Numerous schools and colleges donned the red and black Tusky Valley colors and posted photos on social media.

The Amherst Marching Comets learned the TV Fight Song, and all 400 members of the Band Directors Marching Band in the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade wore black ribbons attached to pins they had made in honor of a New York high school band involved in a charter bus accident in September.

"The outpouring of love and support is overwhelming," said Dr. Derek Varansky, superintendent of Tusky Valley Schools. "Whether near or far, schools, organizations, businesses and individuals have sent cards and supplies, shared recordings of our alma mater, dressed in red and black, and participated in fundraisers. We will be forever thankful for them uplifting and sustaining us on some of our darkest days."

Donations can be made to the TVStrong fund at First Federal Community Bank in Dover or online at www.trojanfoundation.org.

Honorees recognized for lifetime achievements

Three people who have left marks on the agriculture industry and Farm Bureau were honored by the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation. The 2023 Distinguished Service Award recipients are Bob Gibbs of Holmes County, Jerry Lahmers of Tuscarawas County and Virgil Strickler of Franklin County.

Honorees were recognized for lifetime achievements that benefited Ohio's farming community. The awards were presented Dec. 7 in Columbus at the 105th annual meeting of Ohio Farm Bureau.

Bob Gibbs

Bob Gibbs' career as a farmer, Farm Bureau leader and U.S. congressman has had an impact on agriculture in the state and throughout the country.

During his career Gibbs has worked to address environmental, property rights and trade issues that impact production agriculture. He helped reform federal water resource policy, funded the Great Lakes Restoration Initiative and assisted small communities' access to affordable clean water utilities.

His career in public service representing Northeast

Ohio included six years in the Ohio House of Representatives, two years in the Ohio Senate and 12 years in the U.S. House of Representatives.

The Gibbs family farm, Hidden Hollow Farms in Holmes County, led to his Farm Bureau involvement, where he served on the state board of trustees from 1985-2001 and then as state president. He is the only former Farm Bureau president in the country to be elected to Congress.

Lahmers

Jerry Lahmers

Jerry Lahmers, a lifetime resident of Tuscarawas County, has had nearly 50 years of involvement with Farm Bureau and numerous other county and statewide boards and organizations.

He served at the county level as Tuscarawas County Farm Bureau president and public policy chairman and as a member of the membership committee. During Lahmers' county Farm Bureau involvement, the county launched several successful programs. He also served three terms as a trustee on the Ohio Farm Bureau Board of Trustees, representing the interests of members in Carroll, Harrison, Jefferson and Tuscarawas counties.

The Lahmers family raises cow-calf pairs, operates a feedlot, and raises grain, hay and pasture. Lahmers also was a food animal veterinarian for 29 years.

Gibbs

Virgil Strickler

A native of Fairfield County, Virgil Strickler began his professional career as an agricultural lender before becoming the livestock and agricultural director of the Ohio State Fair in 1993.

He took the role of Ohio State Fair general manager in 2003 and is retiring in February as the longest serving general manager ever at the Ohio State Fair.

One of his greatest accomplishments at the fair was establishing the Youth Reserve Program, which is funded directly from winning bids at the Sale of Champions that exceed the cap for each species. The funds are then distributed among scholarships, the Outstanding Exhibitor Programs, showmanship, skill-a-thons, the state fair band and choir, 4-H, FFA, and other youth activities at the fair. Gov. Mike DeWine and the Ohio Expo Commission renamed the program for Strickler earlier this year.

Stickler has been inducted into the Ohio Fair Managers Association Hall of Fame and the Ohio Agricultural Hall of Fame, among many other industry honors.

Candidates for Distinguished Service Awards are nominated by Farm Bureau volunteers, county organizations and state leaders.

Ohio Farm Bureau's mission is working together for Ohio farmers to advance agriculture and strengthen communities. Learn more at www.ohiofarmbureau.org.

KINGDOM INVESTORS!

#4 in a series, offered in the spirit of Hebrews 10:24

The Anabaptists, Then and Now

We Anabaptists have a unique and rich spiritual heritage that supports our experiencing God deeply, but it comes with vulnerabilities.

Our forebearers applied their spirituality to obeying Jesus in life in the Kingdom of God, and to sharing it with others. Their faith culture made them rich in the Life of the Kingdom even when they were among those described in the “former days” of Hebrews 10:32-34.

Could that be said of us, or have we instead exploited our culture of industriousness and integrity, to achieve prosperity in the things of the world?

We like to think we are the way we are because of faith, but if it were truly of faith, wouldn't it produce a love for the Kingdom of God and His righteousness that is reflected in passion to extend His Kingdom more than to build our own? More in laying up treasure in heaven than on earth? What does Jesus mean by “do not” in Matthew 6:19, and “but” in v20?

Our industriousness and integrity are blessings if they produce financial resources that we pour into the Kingdom of God so that others can come to know Jesus. They are spiritually detrimental if we consider their fruit our own, enabling us to accumulate earthly things for our comfort, pleasure, and ego satisfaction, potentially becoming our source of identity—even if we do so behind a cloak of religious observances and cultural “simplicity.”

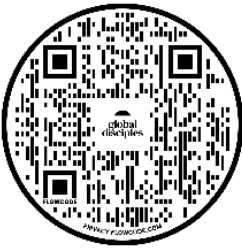

Earthly wealth is a wonderful servant but a cruel master. And the fact is, that everything that we treasure here on earth will soon pass away but what we lay up in heaven as we invest in making Jesus known, will have eternal ROI.

Global Disciples, of Lancaster PA, is a proven ministry with a 27-year history in training leaders in networks of indigenous churches in 72-countries, and we can partner in what God is doing through them. Doing so would be an expression of authentic Anabaptist faith, and Global's Anabaptist roots and culture enable them to represent us well.

Kent State Tuscarawas

Kent students awarded scholarships from Intel

Two students in the College of Applied and Technical Studies at Kent State Tuscarawas received the Intel Semiconductor Scholarship for Women from the Intel Corporation.

Associate of Applied Science in Electrical/Electronic Engineering Technology students Kendall Hoffman and Patti La Belle Neighbor each received a scholarship of $5,000 to be used for education-related expenses (tuition, fees, books and required expenses) and other required expenses (transportation and child care) incurred in the 2023-24 academic year.

Of the 3,000 jobs Intel plans to bring to Ohio, over 2,000 require the electrical/electronic two-year degree offered at Kent State regional campuses.

Hoffman recently began working on her electrical/electronic engineering technology degree this semester and expects to graduate in May 2025. She plans to complete her bachelor's degree in the same field in May 2027.

“I originally wanted to be a line man, but my dad suggested I go to college and get a degree so I would be more on the white-collar side of the electrical power distribution industry,” said Hoffman, who lives near Newcomerstown. “I chose electrical/electronic engineering technology at Kent State Tuscarawas because its location was convenient, and I would be able to complete the degree at one institution.”

While her first interest was working in the power distribution industry, Hoffman said she is very drawn to a career with Intel.

“Intel made a great choice in choosing Kendall for the scholarship,” said Paul Dykshoorn, director of the engineering technology department at Kent State Tuscarawas. “I believe this will help her reach her educational goals.”

Neighbor is originally from the Philippines and resides in Uhrichsville. She is simultaneously working on her AAS in Mechanical Engineering Technology and her AAS in Electrical/Electronic Engineering Technology with an expected graduation of May 2024. Neighbor also hopes to complete her Bachelor of Science in Engineering Technology in May 2025.

“I am dedicated to maximizing the benefits of this scholarship and am eager to contribute my utmost effort to excel in my academic pursuits,” Neighbor said. “I want to leverage this scholarship as a steppingstone towards my professional goals, including the possibility of securing a position at Intel, a company renowned for its innovation and excellence.”

Neighbor recently received an offer letter from Intel for the position of facilities technician intern in Arizona. This internship will begin May 2024 and extend until December 2024. Neighbor has accepted the job offer.

Neighbor currently works as a student lab assistant for Dykshoorn in the engineering technology department.

“Although I will miss her contribution to the department, I am confident Patti's internship will serve to enhance her engineering technology skills in the future,” Dykshoorn said.

The AAS in Electrical/Electronic Engineering Technology also is offered at the Kent State Trumbull campus.

Trust provides books for all Tusc County babies

The Tuscarawas County Public Library continued its efforts this year in providing books for babies through its First Steps to Literacy: Books for Babies Trust Fund.

The trust was established in 2008 by former New Philadelphia native Betty Lou Honaker, who wished to provide books to newborn babies in Tuscarawas County each year. With the trust, this year the library was able to provide 155 books to babies born at Cleveland Clinic - Union Hospital with 77 of those books being bilingual.

“We have a wonderful partnership with Cleveland Clinic - Union Hospital,” said Mary Smrek, children’s services manager. “While the project is small, we hope with future donations and growth of the fund to give away more books in the coming years.”

The trust was established with the hope to sustain this project for many years. Each year 90% of the interest income is used to purchase books for newborns while the remaining interest income and trust fund is reinvested for use in future years.

“Betty Lou lived her life dedicated to reading, learning, children and libraries. She was a special lady,”

Director Michelle McMorrow Ramsell said. “With the passing of Betty Lou in 2022, we are honored to continue her mission by putting books in the hands and homes of area children.”

Grant deadline is in January

The next meeting of the Reeves Foundation Board of Trustees is in February 2024. Grant applications should be submitted by Jan. 24.

Local nonprofits that address the needs of the community are encouraged to contact the foundation at its Dover office for grant application information by email at office@reeves- found.org or by calling 330-364-4660.

Requests of all sizes are considered but organizations must be 501-c-3 certified. Emphasis is placed on capital-type expenditures rather than on operating funds.

The foundation board meets bi-monthly to consider grant requests, and the application deadline is three weeks prior to the meeting.

Poster contest open to students

As part of the 2024 Severe Weather Awareness Campaign, the Ohio Committee for Severe Weather Awareness, in cooperation with the National Weather Service and the Ohio Emergency Management Agency, announced the annual Severe Weather Awareness Poster Contest is open for submissions.

This contest is open to all Ohio students in kindergarten through sixth grade including individualized instruction (special education), public, private and homeschool classes.

This poster contest serves as a tool to help students learn about severe weather safety and preparedness. Through their illustrations of Ohio severe weather events such as tornadoes, thunderstorms and flooding, students can demonstrate what actions they can take before, during and after severe weather events to protect themselves and others.

“As Ohioans we’re no stranger to severe weather and its impacts,” Ohio EMA Executive Director Sima

Merick said. “This contest allows young Ohioans to learn about safety and preparedness as they create their artwork.”

Ohio grade schools will soon receive additional information about the contest. All poster entries must be postmarked or emailed by Jan. 19.

To learn more about the 2024 Ohio Severe Weather Awareness Poster Contest and for entry forms, visit www.weathersafety.ohio.gov/.

It's a full house at the Raderchaks this Christmas

By Barb Limbacher

The Christmas holiday at Erik and Crissy Raderchak's house will be especially joyful this year as the Strasburg couple celebrates with eight children, six who are adopted. The last adoption of sisters Erika, 14, and Morgan, 10, was completed in March 2023.

The family includes Audrey Hendershot, 20; Lucas Blankenship, 17; Harper, 5; Michael J., 6; Rooster, 5; Micah, 2; Erika, 14; and Morgan, 10, all Raderchaks. Edward (Rooster) came into the family in 2019 at age 13 months. He earned his nickname because as a baby he squawked like a rooster. Harper, Michael J. and Micah are biological brothers. Harper and Michael J. arrived in 2020, followed by Micah in 2021.

The four boys were adopted into the family in November 2022 and the two girls in March 2023. Crissy Raderchak said Lucas always wanted a brother, and now he has four and three sisters.

On Christmas Eve the children will receive pajamas. This year the pj's have an animal theme based on their personalities. They each receive an ornament to place on a special tree and four gifts. The theme of the gifts are what they need, books to read, what they want and clothes to wear. On Christmas Day they spend time with their grandmother Carolyn Raderchak of Strasburg.

Five-year-old Rooster said he wants to make sure to mail a letter to Santa.

"We decided to become foster parents in 2019 through Pathway Caring for Children, located in Stark County," Crissy Raderchak said. "We have fostered 12 children. Six remained with us and were adopted into our family, and six left. Of the six, two were reunited in their home, and four were placed in kinship, which is with a family member."

She said when a call comes into their home that a child needs to be fostered, information about the child is usually not available. The couple still has a license to bring foster children into their home; however, they have taken a respite and currently are taking a break and concentrating on the family.

Crissy Raderchak said every time a foster child is moved into another home, it is traumatic for them. She said there are not enough homes or foster parents and homes.

"We are often called the clown house, instead of a clown car, because you never know how many children will come out the door," she said.

"I am an only child," Erik Raderchak said. "It is most rewarding to see the children change and grow, when I come home from work to hear the children screaming Dada."

Crissy Raderchak, a registered nurse, decided to become a stay-at-home mom and serves as Strasburg Band Booster president. Erik Raderchak is employed at J and J Motors in Stark County.

Erik Raderchak said Crissy does all the scheduling of the family's activities and he is amazed how she gets all of it done.

Rooster said his favorite meal is pizza and ice cream. However, Crissy Raderchak said they eat a lot of chicken, pasta, casseroles and pot roast. She said taco night is the children's favorite.

Crissy Raderchak said the children fight like brothers and sisters; however, for the most part, they enjoy each other. She said they see each other as brothers and sisters, not as adopted siblings.

Audrey is employed at Progressive Foam in Beach City and is currently enrolled in fire training school. Lucas, a senior at Strasburg High, is taking classes at Aultman Hospital to become a nurse. He also participates in the speech and debate team at Strasburg.

Celebrate National Eggnog Month this December

Eggnog is a beverage that has become synonymous with the most festive time of year.

December is National Eggnog Month, and Dec. 24 is National Eggnog Day.

Indulge in these facts about the beverage, courtesy of Mental Floss, The Fact Site and Tastemade:

—Eggnog likely originated in the medieval period and was known as “posset,” a hot, milk-based drink made of spices and wine. Even though posset could be a cocktail, it also was used as a remedy for colds and flu for its soothing properties.

—Milk, eggs and sherry used in the early recipes were difficult to come by, so when eggnog first appeared, it was a drink only the wealthy could enjoy. That changed when eggnog was popularized in the American colonies, where dairy products and liquor were more readily available.

—Etymologists believe

eggnog stems from the word “noggin,” which refers to small wooden mugs often used to serve strong ale, known by the slang word “nog.”

—In the medieval period, it was risky to drink milk straight because it wasn’t pasteurized. Eggnog contained alcohol so that it would kill off any harmful bacteria in the milk.

—A typical homemade version of eggnog has roughly one egg per serving. However, commercial eggnog is regulated by the FDA and can only contain 1% of the product’s final weight in egg yolk solids. That stems from fear of raw egg and salmonella.

—President George Washington apparently enjoyed serving eggnog at Christmas and even had his own special recipe, according to the Old Farmer’s Almanac.

—There is no right or wrong alcohol to use when preparing eggnog. Distilled spirits like rum, sherry, cognac and whiskey all have produced suitable eggnogs.

—Puerto Rican coquito is a traditional drink that is very similar to eggnog.

—Individuals concerned about eggs or milk in eggnog can enjoy a vegan recipe made from nut milk instead. Commercially produced vegan eggnog offerings are now more widely available.

—One of the more notable flavors in eggnog comes from the use of nutmeg. Nutmeg is a fragrant spice made from grinding the seed of the nutmeg tree.

Now that you’ve learned about eggnog, whip up a batch of George Washington’s original recipe this holiday season.

EGGNOG

1 quart cream
1 quart milk
1 dozen tablespoons sugar
1 pint brandy
1/2 pint rye whiskey
1/2 pint Jamaican rum
1/4 pint sherry

Eggs (Washington forgot to include the number of eggs, so home chefs can improvise or use six, which seems to be the standard in traditional recipes)

Mix liquor first and then separate yolks and whites of eggs. Add sugar to beaten yolks and mix well. Add milk and cream, slowly beating. Beat whites of eggs until stiff and fold slowly into mixture. Let sit in a cool place for several days. Taste frequently.

Today’s recipe makers may want to set the eggnog in the refrigerator as the “cool place” of choice.

(George Washington’s original interpretation.)

What are you dreaming of?

So what are you dreaming of this Christmas? Snow? Toys? Electronics? Jewelry?

Or maybe you have started thinking about the new year soon to begin. What are you hoping to do by next Christmas?

I'm hoping to enjoy some serious biking, backpacking and kayaking next year — maybe some running too. To be ready, I have to start now. In fact, I'm typing this column on my phone while pedaling furiously on my stationary bike.

Fresh garden produce ranks high on my list for the new year too. Because I'm particular about getting organic, non-GMO seeds in my favorite varieties, I've already ordered my seeds and saved some from last year's harvest.

I know New Year's celebrations get people thinking about resolutions, but time off during the holidays can give you just the mental space you need to dream of plans for the year to come.

Set aside some time to think about the future and make some notes to guide you into next year. Consider time lines, costs and schedules.

When do you need to start preparing to reach your goal by the desired time? How much money should you save from each paycheck?

What did you miss out on last summer? Can you plan that vacation for this year? How could you attend more events locally?

How can you change your schedule so you can go to more of your children's activities?

What can you start putting money away for now so you have less stress in the next year and further into the future?

Are there big family changes coming soon? New baby on the way? Someone getting married? Kids starting college? Retirement finally arriving on the horizon?

Karen Wilson
Family Corner

Do you have another type of career change in mind? What can you do this winter to get ready? Should you apply for training or schedule classes?

What things do you wish you had made time for this Christmas? What activities could you have skipped? Consider making those adjustments goals for next year.

How do you want to reach your financial goals? Have you learned to budget or studied sound investment practices? Set a goal to read a number of books on the subject. Make up a reading list.

If you sit down to plan only to find you can't think of anything, go mobile. Use a note-taking app on your phone or grab a notebook and pen. Walk around your house or your yard. Often you'll think of things as you pay attention to things around you.

Alternatively, take a walk on a local path. Let your mind go where it will, then pick different parts of your life to focus on. What things would you like to do, try or buy before next Christmas?

Time goes quickly, and sometimes thinking of a whole year at once can feel overwhelming. Break your bigger goals into smaller quarterly goals or list just the first step. Do that, then pick the next step.

I hope you have a wonderful Christmas this year and enjoy some of the goals you started this year by next year.

We have
to keep your home cool & comfortable all year long.

As a kid I thought Yorkshire pudding was a dessert

When I was a kid, being American and from rural Ohio at that, I thought Yorkshire pudding was a dessert, like chocolate or banana pudding.

The first inkling this might not be the case came from reading one of the books by Yorkshire veterinarian James Alfred Wight, writing as James Herriot. They're still some of my favorite books, and as a sidebar to one of the stories, Herriot speaks of his wife Helen having roast beef and Yorkshire pudding waiting for him after a tough day of delivering calves. "The pudding, with the soul of the meat in it," he said. That was enough

Scott Daniels
We Ate Well
and Cheaply

to send me off researching.

The first time I tried the pudding was with a plain pot roast and gravy, which was good but not the real deal. I used the recipe Herriot offered with the story, and my youth and inexperience produced something I knew couldn't be right.

It was much later when my family began having a splurged beef rib roast for Christmas dinner every other year or so that I began to grasp what Yorkshire pudding was supposed to be.

I tried several versions of the recipe from numerous sources, searching for just the right thing. Finally, the ever-reliable Martha Stewart shared a foolproof route to perfection every time, with big, puffed, eggy pudding sporting both crunchy and soft bits to both hold and soak up the sauce or gravy.

If you haven't tried to make Yorkshire pudding, let me give you a shove in the right direction. Next to the beef, it's my absolute favorite part of the meal. The bonus is the pudding's ability to play cheaper filler. As British moms promised their children, "Them that eats the most pudding gets the most meat," knowing a smaller cut of beef could be stretched nicely if everyone piled on the amazing pudding and gravy.

Yorkshire pudding

seems to be something that takes a little practice, and I'm unsure why. It isn't at all difficult, but it really was several years of trying before I got it right.

I find you have to really beat the batter very well, incorporating as much air into the egg and milk mixture as possible. Though most recipes suggest having all the ingredients at room temperature, Martha has us put the batter into the fridge for a day before baking time to get really cold.

When it's time to bake the pudding, you can use either a square or rectangular baking pan, cake pans, or a popover pan. Whichever you choose, the pan must be heated well on a burner, then a little fat added to the bottom of the pan before pouring in the batter. The fat should ideally be from the roasting pan, but you also can use vegetable or olive oil or melted lard. When the batter goes in, it should sizzle.

Once in the oven, the pudding will puff up well above the edges of the pan, with the outer edges getting a lovely dark crispness while the center remains soft and moist.

Once the pudding cools a bit, tear it into serving blobs and serve it around your roast beef or in a bowl on the side. This is not the time for gravy from a jar. Take the time to make a beautiful brown sauce using the browned bits from the roasting pan.

Roast beef and Yorkshire pudding for Christmas feels like going to Scrooge's nephew's house and stuffing yourself before playing a game of The Minister's Cat.

YORKSHIRE PUDDING

2 cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon kosher salt
6 large eggs
2 1/2 cups milk

Meat drippings or other fat

Add the flour and salt to a large mixing bowl, whisking to combine. Make a well in the flour and add the eggs. Whisk the eggs into the flour until you have a paste. Slowly whisk in 1/2 cup of the milk until a thick batter begins to form, then gradually add the remaining 2 cups milk. Give it all a good whisking, then transfer to a covered pitcher. You can make the batter a day ahead and refrigerate until ready to cook.

Preheat oven to 425 F. Using whatever pan you choose (the pan in which the beef was roasted is ideal), heat the pan until hot and add a few tablespoons of fat, give the batter another good mixing, and then add to the pan. Place the pan in the hot oven and bake for 25 minutes, until crisp and golden.

What to wear when you get hit with middle age spread?

Another page from the “things don’t always work out as you planned” book. I recently volunteered at an event, a holiday tour of homes, where helpers were asked to dress in clothing styles from about the 1920s-50s.

This was not going to be a problem for me. I had a whole bunch of dresses I haven’t worn for decades just lollygagging in my “good clothes only” closet. The one dress, I thought, dated back to the 1980s, maybe early 1990s, but it was a classic style that could pass for 1950s. I was all set.

Except for shoes. I needed some new flat dress shoes that I could stand in for hours. And I hate to shop. This is why I didn’t already have the shoes I needed.

Teri Stein

So a few days before the event, I couldn’t put it off any longer. I decided to go shoe shopping. After considering a lot of styles, I settled on one utilitarian style I could wear with everything — that way I won’t have to go shoe shopping again for a really long time.

Done. I’m ready to go;

it’ll be great.

So just a couple days before the event, I’m sitting at my computer typing an email to an out-of-town friend. I’m telling her about this upcoming event when it hits me.

“Well, gotta go,” I concluded my email. “I just realized I haven’t worn the dress I was planning to wear for at least two decades or more. I need to go try it on.”

It’s now 12:30 a.m., and I drag the dress out. It’s a beautiful two-piece top and skirt. I try on the top. It fits. I tried on the skirt; it’s a little tight. Undeterred, I tucked the top into the skirt and ugh! That’s when I discovered that despite my best well-intended, mediocre efforts, gravity and old age have caught up with me. Can you say middle age spread?

I show this wildly unflattering look to my husband Joe. Big mistake! I could tell from the look on his face he agreed with me that I needed to find a different outfit. I headed back to the closet.

“Don’t hang that back in the closet,” Joe yells. “Put it in a bag to take to the thrift store.”

I get a bag, place my once favorite outfit in it and mentally prepare to send it out into the world for a second chance at life.

No problem. I had another cute dress that looked kind of old-fashioned that Joe had gotten for me a long time ago. I think the last time I wore it was to a wedding in the year 2000.

Presto change, oh, this doesn’t fit how I remember it. Into the donation bag it went.

It’s now 1 a.m. I’m on a roll. There’s another cute two-piece top and skirt outfit that even I am not delusional enough to think is still remotely in style. I don’t bother trying it on; into the donation bag it goes.

But here’s another top and skirt outfit I always liked. I think I do recall wearing this to an event in 1993. Surely, I could still wear the skirt. It is so cute. I grabbed that outfit out of the closet for a better look.

Ugh! The top has shoulder pads in it. In fact, all the outfits I’ve cleaned out so far have shoulder pads in them. When were shoulder pads last the height of fashion? Ding, ding, ding. You got it — the 1980s.

I’m thinking maybe I should just keep the skirt as I hem haw around, hating to totally dispose of another outfit I loved. Then I remembered the last time I wore it. The hem had come loose in one spot, and being the sewing-impaired individual I am, I just used some Scotch tape for a quick repair. I was sure the tape was still there; I didn’t even check. Into the donation bag it went.

Now it’s nearing 1:30 a.m., but I have got to keep going while I have the momentum. I toss an old sweater I never really liked and another I can just tell by looking is going to accentuate the spread.

When the dust settled just after 2 a.m., I had removed about 30 pieces of clothing from the closet and had a grand total of 12 pieces left. There’s probably at least three of the 12 that will make it into a donation bag in the future. I just got tired of trying things on, including that summer dress I bought in 2018. See, I do have a “new” dress.

The day of the event, I just dressed in one of my few remaining good outfits and a sparkly sweater. When I got to the incredible, wonderfully decorated home I was volunteering at, my stylish co-workers were not wearing period clothing but did sport vintage hats and purses. So cute! Now I know what I need for next year, and it will be fun to shop for because my hat size hasn’t changed.
