Election officials work to ensure confidence

By Dan Starcher

There is a long-standing misconception that Wayne County Board of Election employees only work on election day, but nothing could be farther from the truth. The dedicated bipartisan team works year round registering new voters, upgrading equipment, processing voter address changes and implementing new procedures to ensure election day runs smoothly and voters have confidence in the balloting process.

Republican Director Julie Leathers-Stahl and Democrat Deputy Director Bryon Bell work together to ensure every item on their checklist follows Ohio state mandates.

How is this accomplished?

To begin with, everything in the office to oversee the election is done in pairs that consist of a Republican

Dan Starcher

Employees at the Wayne County Board of Elections stay busy year round to ensure elections run smoothly. Recently, they upgraded the two cameras on the Vanover Street office building that monitor the only authorized ballot drop box in the county, operating 24 hours per day, seven days per week, 365 days per year.

and a Democrat member.

The board of elections is one of the few places allowed to hire employees based on political affiliation — and for a good reason.

Bell said it takes a member from each party to agree processes are followed. If there is not a member from each party present to handle the day-to-day activities, work at the office grinds to a halt.

“If we don’t have Democrat and Republican in the office, we cannot even check the mail that day,” Bell said. “It takes a representative from each party to check the mail. We rely on each other for checks and balances and to make sure everything is done legally.”

Even entering the tallying room in the board of elections office takes a member of each party to open the door. “I have half of the entrance code, and my counterpart has the other half,” Bell said. “When I enter half of the code, the lock will flash and prompt whomever I am with to enter the other half. Without both parts of the code, neither of us can enter.”

The strict partisan guidelines also extend to each of the 41 polling locations in Wayne County. There is a bipartisan set of eyes on a ballot from the moment it is cast until it is brought to the tallying room and counted.

The secretary of state’s office constantly reviews policy to see where changes should be made to ensure each election is secure.

“The big issue for voters right now is the identification changes,” Stahl said. “You must have a photo ID: an Ohio driver’s license, Ohio ID card, passport, passport card or military ID. Previously, you could use utility bills, car registrations, a paycheck or another form of ID. Now you must have a photo ID.”

Poll workers sorely needed in Wayne County

By Ellen Pill

Poll worker volunteers are needed in Wayne County for the upcoming primary election to be held May 4.

“Without poll workers, elections would not be possible,” said Meredith

Holder, election operations manager with the Wayne County Board of Elections. “Our office only has four full-time staff members and one part-time employee. We couldn’t implement an election without people from the community stepping up to volunteer.”

It takes a minimum of 268 volunteers for each election. A poll worker is paid $123 for working on election day and receives an additional $30 for the mandatory three-hour training to be held March 16. Election workers set up and tear down the voting equipment, check in voters as they come in to vote and staff a polling place all day on election day.

The time commitment includes about an hour the afternoon or evening before the election to help set up the polling location. Election day hours are from 5 a.m. to around 8:30 p.m. or until the machines are packed up.

Volunteers may stipulate where and how far they are willing to travel on the day of the election. “Some people are willing to work anywhere in Wayne County while others only wish to work 15 minutes from home or in their usual polling place,” Holder said.

istered voter in Wayne County may volunteer. Seventeen-year-olds who are residents of Wayne County also may work at the polls. Some employers may allow an employee to take a day off to volunteer.

Holder anticipates the upcoming primary will be a slower election day for the workers. Volunteers are encouraged to bring reading, crossword puzzles, knitting, et cetera, to pass the time when there are no voters in the building. For those interested in participating as a volunteer in the next presidential election, this primary will be important practice.

Anyone wanting to find out more about volunteering is encouraged to call the board of elections at 330-287-5480 to sign up or email wayne@ohiosos.gov. The deadline to sign up to be a poll worker is March 3.

There also is a need for volunteers to be leaders at their polling places. “Each precinct has one leader,” Holder said. “So that means that we need 67 leaders for every election.”

“A lot of poll workers enjoy helping their neighbors and friends while working on election day. Many also appreciate the opportunity to be a part of history by implementing elections. Some of our volunteers like to meet new people and have developed lasting friendships with other volunteers.”

Stahl said there could be confusion for out-of-state individuals without a passport, like college students who can vote locally or absentee in their home state.

“Beginning April 7, individuals can apply for a free state ID,” Stahl said. “But they are subject to Ohio Bureau of Motor Vehicle guidelines.”

Those with a religious objection to being photographed may sign an affidavit and cast a provisional ballot while the affidavit is verified.

Another change impacting voters is the application deadline for an absentee ballot. “It used to be the Saturday before the election; it is now the Tuesday before the election,” Stahl said. “That was instituted to give people seven days to receive the ballot in the mail.”

The hours the board will be open also have changed and will be closed the day before election day. Stahl said the office would be

The guidelines for volunteers also have changed. “Now you only have to be 17 years old and a junior in high school to volunteer,” Stahl said. “And we would love to have them as volunteers.”

Area nonprofit embraces accessibility, inclusion in schools

By Ellen Pill

According to the IncludeAbility website, 1 billion people in the world live with a disability.

The local nonprofit, founded by Wooster resident Julie Hartzler in May 2021, has a goal to go above and beyond the mandated laws and embrace accessibility and inclusion as a priority within the culture. Its mission is to make the world an accessible place where individuals with disabilities are empowered and included in all aspects of life.

"Fourteen years ago I had a daughter who was born with spina bifida," Hartzler said. "Through our life experiences and my experiences as a nurse, I became passionate about advocating for individuals with physical disabilities. I shared my dream to create a nonprofit organization to help address some of the barriers we've faced with my friend Jenny (Gerrick), and she was excited to join me in this adventure."

Gerrick is the chief development officer of IncludeAbility.

The nonprofit's current focus is on a program to develop a standardized, inclusive emergency-preparedness plan for all the schools in Wayne County. Initially, they partnered with Wooster City Schools on a pilot program.

This program involved the purchase, installation and staff training for six Stryker evacuation chairs. IncludeAbility worked with the Wooster Fire Department and Wooster Police Department to decide on which equipment to purchase and where it should be installed in the multi-level school buildings. The chairs were purchased with funds from a Wayne County Community Foundation grant.

An evacuation chair is an assistive device that allows individuals with mobility impairment to be safely and quickly evacuated from a multi-story building in the event of an emergency.

"Providing evacuation chairs takes an inclusive approach to ensure safe evacuation for individuals with physical disabilities so they are able to evacuate with their peers," Hartzler said.

The chairs were recently installed, and Stryker medical personnel were present for staff trainings at Cornerstone, Edgewood and Wooster High School. Students with disabilities also are being trained to know how to properly use the chairs.

"Our goal is that every staff member in the buildings will be trained on the evacuation chairs by the end of the year," Hartzler said. "We want every student, staff or visitor to be able to be evacuated in the event of an emergency, whether they have a permanent or temporary disability."

“We want every student, staff or visitor to be able to be evacuated in the event of an emergency, whether they have a permanent or temporary disability.”

Julie Hartzler

There are two chairs in each of the three schools. They are installed in stairwells and can be easily transported and installed in new locations if needed. The chairs could be used in such emergency situations as a fire, power outage, tornado, active shooter or any instance that would require evacuation.

Once chairs are installed in all the Wayne County schools, IncludeAbility hopes to expand throughout the state.

Additionally, Hartzler said they plan to address housing and health-care issues.

"We would love to see new houses being built have wheelchair access so that whether or not an individual purchasing the home needs the accessibility or you simply want to invite over a friend or family member that has a mobility disability, you can have them over with no barriers to access," she said.

The nonprofit is building an adaptive equipment library so individuals and organizations may sign out equipment for short-term use. The library will contain items such as hiking wheelchairs, beach wheelchairs, ramps and more.

"We want to eliminate the financial burden and promote exercise and inclusive recreation within the community," Hartzler said.

IncludeAbility also is creating an evaluation form that will be on its website to allow the community to determine the accessibility of area hiking trails. There will be photos and information available so individuals can get a picture of how accessible an area is before venturing out.

Hartzler said, "As a parent with a child who has a disability, we do a lot of research before going to parks, vacations, restaurants, et cetera, to determine how accessible they are."

Any nonprofits or community groups that may be interested in partnering with IncludeAbility are invited to email Hartzler at juliehartzler@include-ability.org.

Volunteers are needed to help with fundraisers and can email Gerrick at jgerrick@include-ability.org. Cash donations may be made via the website or contact Hartzler.

"We would love to build our equipment library," Hartzler said. "We are looking for beach wheelchairs, ramps and grass mats. We also want to purchase evacuation chairs for additional school districts. Each chair costs roughly $4,700."

Currently, any individuals interested in using any of IncludeAbility's equipment should get in touch.

IncludeAbility is well on the way to making the community and the larger world more inclusive and accessible.

"We have big hopes and dreams," Hartzler said. "We want to start locally, but our hope is to expand out. We are just getting started."

Wooster Twp. Fire Department Pancake Day March 4

By Ellen Pill

It's that time of year again — spring is just hinting at its arrival as the coffee starts brewing and the pancakes are ready to be flipped. On Saturday, March 4, it's the Wooster Township Fire Department annual Pancake Day.

For the fundraiser the fire department serves unlimited pancakes and sausage, applesauce and beverages and has the annual raffle. Dine-in, take-out and drive-thru options will be offered, and signs will direct community members to the correct areas for either parking or drive-thru service.

The first Pancake Day was held in 1986.

"It started as a way to help offset the cost of needed equipment for the fire department without using tax dollars," Fire Chief Dallas Terrell said.

He said after that first year, recipes were tweaked and perfected, and the department now uses the same products and recipes that have been used since the second Pancake Day.

In 1986 about 600 people were served. The number of meals served grew to 2,725 in 2022, a record for the event. Approximately 10,000 pancakes were flipped last year.

The annual event is an all-day affair. Terrell said many people come to the event more than once during the day.

"Lots of people will join us for multiple meals throughout the day," he said. "Pancakes and sausage are great for breakfast, but breakfast food is great for supper too."

Every year a cash prize raffle is held along with the pancake meal.

"A lot of times people are very generous with their winnings and will even donate that back to us as another way for them to show their support and to help the cause," Terrell said.

This year the funds will be used to help build the Unmanned Aerial System (Drone) program.

"This is a relatively new program to our department and the fire service," Terrell said. "Our goal is to raise $21,000 to purchase the needed equipment to ensure that we can have a drone available whenever one is needed to assist with an emergency."

It takes approximately 70 volunteers to make the fundraiser work.

"Firefighters and their families, past Ruritan members, school kids doing volunteer work, and faithful community members all come together to make this a successful fundraiser," Terrell said.

The Wooster Township Fire Department was formed in 1940.

"The department is an integral part of the community and endeavors to protect life and property of the citizens," Terrell said. "The department provides fire-suppression operations, advanced life-support services and water-rescue operations to the community. In addition, the department provides fire-prevention education to schools and community groups and fire-inspection services to businesses."

The department consists of eight full-time and approximately 35 volunteers who serve as firefighters and emergency medical technicians or paramedics.

Find the department online at www.woostertwp-fire.org and follow on Facebook and Instagram at @Wooster Township Fire and Rescue.

Wooster Township Fire Department's annual pancake breakfast fundraiser will be held at Triway High School, 3205 Shreve Road, Wooster, from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Presale tickets are $5 per person, $6 at the door and free for kids under 8.

Presale meal tickets are available for purchase at the fire station, 1917 Millersburg Road, Wooster, or by contacting any member of the Wooster Township Fire Department. Raffle tickets are $1 each or six for $5. Prizes include $250, $150, $100, $75, $50 and $25. Raffle tickets also may be purchased at the station, from any member of the department or at the event.

For those who want to try and avoid a crowd, Terrell said the slowest time of the day is typically between 2 and 5 p.m.

"We serve meals all day to give everyone a chance to come out and support our cause," Terrell said. "We appreciate everyone's support, no matter what time they can join us."

Applications sought for Roy Bates awards

By Aaron Dorksen

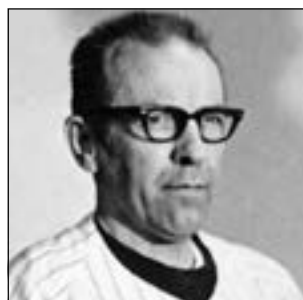

Applications are being accepted until March 15 for the 30th annual Roy Bates Scholarship Award.

Eight high school seniors from Wayne County will receive a Bates Foundation one-time scholarship of $2,500 and will become a finalist for the Bates Player of the Year Award, which will be announced in May.

The Bates Foundation, which is a component of the Wayne County Community Foundation, will reach $450,000 this year in scholarship money awarded to Wayne County student-athletes over three decades.

Roy Bates died at age 88 in 2004 after a life that saw him work as a teacher, coach, broadcaster, referee, athlete and more.

Bates played baseball and basketball for the now defunct Chester High and coached at both Chester and Northwestern. As a coach he won more than 400 games in basketball and baseball and won state championships in both sports.

Bates set up the foundation that bears his name to honor Wayne County senior student-athletes based on character, grades and athletic ability — in that order.

To be eligible, applicants must have at least a 3.0 GPA, be a senior at a Wayne County high school, and play basketball and/or baseball/softball (his favorite sports). The rules state only one athlete per school can receive an award.

To receive an application form, contact your school athletic department or call the Wayne County Community Foundation at 330-262-3877.

Trail Tire

is now full service

By Mary Malik

Fin the past year, Trail Tire in Dundee has grown — and that's a good thing for anyone looking for an honest, trustworthy and now full-service auto repair shop. Exceeding expectations and providing excellent service at a fair price has been the reputation of Trail Tire since it first opened in 2012. Always having the goal of filling the needs of his customers is exactly why owner Dirk Visser, Jr. decided to expand the business and now offers engine and transmission service, electrical and diagnostics, along with regular maintenance and repairs.

"We have expanded and are now capable of offering full-service auto repair for all car, SUV and pickup truck repairs," owner Dirk Visser, Jr. said. "Our brand-new, 12,000-square-foot, state-of-the-art facility, right across the street from the original Trail Tire shop, has 12 auto bays for services like alignments, air-conditioning service, drive train repair, engine and transmission service and so much more. These added services allow us to be a one-stop shop for our customers."

Since 2012 when Visser sold his tire shop in Northern New York and moved his family to Dundee and opened Trail Tire, he has worked hard to provide this community with tire, brake and wheel services. Along the way, Visser and his sons, who work alongside him in this true family owned and operated business, realized the need to expand in order to truly serve their customers. The word has spread about Trail Tire, and people are recommending them now to family members and future generations.

"We were getting calls all the time asking about providing additional services, and we were redirecting them to other shops," Visser said. "We had to turn the business down because our original facility just couldn't handle the extra traffic and volume of services. We were bursting at the seams. It was time to expand and meet the needs of the community and offer our customers all the services they need with the same expertise, integrity and level of service they have come to expect from Trail Tire."

Visser said that now, with the new facility across the street, they can fill most customer service and repair needs while offering a comfortable waiting area with restrooms and 12 bays with plenty of room for technicians to work in a clean, bright and friendly environment.

"We have expanded and are now capable of offering full-service auto repair for all car, pickup and work truck repairs."

—Dirk Visser, Jr.

Just as in any business, expansion means jobs. Trail Tire now has added more employees with years of automotive repair knowledge and experience ready to service your trucks and automobiles.

"We have service technicians who are true experts with the knowledge to handle all repairs and service in a timely manner. It's just one more aspect of the high level of service we want to provide," Visser said.

Trail Tire offers mechanical services on all vehicles up to a 5500 or an F550. They also offer tire services for anything from a lawnmower up to a semi truck. They have three service trucks and offer onsite service for all farm and construction equipment.

"It's all about honesty and service at Trail Tire," Visser said. "Our goal is to provide excellent service and quality. And now with our expanded capabilities in service and repair, we can continue to offer this community more of what they have come to expect from us over these past 10 years - fair and expert service and repair."

For more information on products and services, call Trail Tire at 330-893-0015 or visit the website at TrailTire.net. Trail Tire is located at 2394 County Road 168 in Dundee.

WELCOME TO THE 16TH
ANNUAL AMISH COUNTRY

Spring Home & Garden Show

March 2, 3 & 4, 2023

at the Mt. Hope
Event Center

8076 State Route 241
Millersburg, OH 44654

Thursday: 12 noon to 8 PM

Friday: 9 AM to 9 PM

Saturday: 9 AM to 5 PM

Admission $10, children 12 and under free, seniors half price on Thursday

Many major towns have home and garden shows when spring is approaching. What makes the Amish Country Home & Garden Show unique is the quality of Amish craftsmanship and furniture and other items that this area has long been known for. This show will feature the finest crafted furniture in the state with all styles from rustic looks to modern decor. Guests will find vendors for all types of home renovation products, including flooring, kitchen cabinets, bath remodeling, siding, replacement windows, gutters and doors.

The Amish Country Home and Garden Show offers an opportunity to find the right contractor and landscaper to handle your spring and summer projects. By the time April rolls around, many of these businesses are already booked with jobs, so this is an ideal opportunity to be among the first to get on their schedules.

This is the number one travel tourist area in the state of Ohio. Because of the reputation of craftsmanship in this area, this show will have over 200 booths and typically draws more than 14,000 people from all over Ohio and surrounding states.

Whatever project you are planning, indoors or out, you will find a solution at this show. From tractors and mowers to gardening equipment, sheds, lawn furniture, and grills you will see it all here!

You can find more information about the Amish country home and garden show by visiting: homeshowsrus.com.

A full-service kitchen will be operated by Mrs. Yoder's kitchen, serving lunch and dinner.

Habitat for Humanity holds campaign celebration

Habitat for Humanity of Wayne County held a celebration on Feb. 14 to celebrate the success of the capital campaign, "A Home of Our Own."

The campaign was run by the Wayne County Community Foundation, servicing the donations that enabled the organization to purchase the facility at 2700 Akron Road in Wooster. Before the purchase of the property in October 2022, the organization had been renting the location for the past three years.

"Our community made the campaign easy," HFH Director Beth Weaver said to the attendees. "To be honest, I was dreading having a capital campaign, imagining it to be a daunting task to raise $1,000,000. I should have known better. After all, this is Wayne County. You all made the process easy. The responses were so positive and encouraging. Thank you for that."

The event went on to unveil a Wall of Fame, created to represent a front porch. The exterior of the structure displays the names of the donors who gave toward the campaign. The donor display was designed by Connie Curren of Gerber Lumber and built by Habitat volunteers. The names of the donors are displayed on metal plaques designed and produce by Izabel Meshew of the Romich Foundation.

The celebration went on to note some of the organization's recent home buyers. Aaron Arnold, representing Wayne County Retired Teachers Association, presented a house-warming gift to the homeowners. The Habitat volunteers, who spend over 2,500 hours of labor on each house, saving Habitat an average cost of $45,000 per house, presented the keys to the new homeowners — Upikin Gunawan and her children Sammy and Xander.

Lorrie Tignor, Habitat's vice president, read an appreciation letter from Gunawan. "All of you have gone above and beyond," she wrote. "I could never truly express the amount of gratitude I have for everyone involved in the process, but I hope this simple thank-you letter suffice."

The event came full circle with a mortgage-burning ceremony. Sue Watkins purchased her Habitat home in 1997 and was able to make her last house payment just this month. She lit the mortgage paper while smiling and said, "Goodbye."

Habitat for Humanity in Wayne County was affiliated in 1986, and for the first 14 years, it built 27 houses as an organization in a nomadic state. Since then HFH settled in three locations for spans of time, the last one being the building on Akron Road. The organization looks forward to continued progress toward building more affordable housing in Wayne County.

Counseling, foster care opens new office in Wooster

Encompass Christian Counseling and Encourage Foster Care celebrated the grand opening of their new office location at 2148 Eagle Pass in Wooster on Feb. 14.

Expanding to a larger office suite on Eagle Pass allows them to better care for the mental health and foster care demands in Wayne and surrounding counties. It also will help facilitate growth across their entire family of ministries.

The Eagle Pass office is 4,900 square feet and has 13 offices for clinicians and administrative staff. The space also includes a life skills area with a kitchen, washer, dryer and ironing board where clinicians can work with clients to help restore the skills they will need to utilize on a daily basis to live independently.

"We are excited to open our Eagle Pass offices of Encompass Christian Counseling and Encourage Foster Care," said Kevin Hewitt, president and CEO. "We look forward to continuing to grow these programs as we now have space to grow and meet the needs of our stakeholders. We also look forward to helping meet the mental health needs of our local community."

Since its inception the Wooster Encompass location has provided services in the administrative offices on the campus of CCHO, and Encourage Foster Care operated out of a satellite office in downtown Wooster. Due to the growth in outpatient mental health counseling and substance-use treatment, Encompass needed a larger, more therapeutic space to better meet the needs of clients.

The Eagle Pass office will allow its teams to be together in the same office for better collaboration. This move also opens more space at the main campus to continue to meet the increasing needs of CCHO residential and One Heart Stables equine therapy clients.

"Encompass has enjoyed sharing space with our partners at CCHO, but as we continue to grow, I am excited to move to a location that will be dedicated to meeting the mental health needs of our community for clients of all ages, with space to optimize the effectiveness of our staff," said Sheila Wagler-Mills, director of Encompass.

The team also is growing.

Encompass is actively looking for compassionate and skilled clinical team members who are licensed as a social worker (BSW, MSW, LSW or LISW) or a counselor (LPC or LPCC) to care for clients of all ages and across all areas of mental health.

A beautiful way to make a special night even better

By Dave Mast

When it comes to prom night, part of the aura and thrill is having one's hair done by a professional.

All 74 of the attendees at Holmes County Night to Shine, a prom-like event hosted by the Tim Tebow Foundation, got all spiffed up in prom outfits, with dazzling dresses and tuxedos that made the inaugural event in Holmes County a sight to behold when they strolled down the red carpet at Grace Church on Friday, Feb. 10.

In order to make the evening extra special for those who opted to do so, the team from Revamp Salon & Day Spa in Wooster donated their time and professional skills to creating a glamorous look for those in attendance.

Lindsey Haudenschild said she had volunteered to do a similar Night to Shine event in Wayne County several years ago right before the onset of the pandemic shut down the in-person event for a couple years. (It made its triumphant return to the live version this year.)

"I was actually a buddy for that event, and it was an incredibly humbling and beautiful experience," Haudenschild said. "It really made an impact on me, and when (event coordinator Kim Miller from Holmes County Board of Developmental Disabilities) asked me if I'd do hair for this event, I knew I was in."

Haudenschild said the one thing she couldn't do was speak for the other employees, so she said she texted them to put out some feelers as to their response.

She didn't have to wait long to hear back from each member.

"Within 10 minutes of me texting, they all had their responses in and their background checks done,"

Dave Mast

Lindsey Haudenschild, left, Kayleigh Ulrich, Taylor Sacromone, Courtney West, Stephanie Massie and Ashley McDaniel of Revamp Salon & Day Spa in Wooster were on hand for Holmes County Night to Shine to give hair makeovers to any attendee who wanted to look extra special for the evening.

Haudenschild said. "Everyone was really excited about the opportunity to give back to the community and to some really special people. We were so honored to be here."

Haudenschild said the group consistently volunteers at a food bank in Canton, and they relish any opportunity to connect with community and give back.

This particular moment allowed them to use their talents to brighten the night for others.

The group chatted with each attendee, talking about the evening's proceedings and what they were enjoying the most.

Haudenschild and the Revamp Salon & Day Spa team members set up shop in one of the rooms at Grace Church, turning a classroom into a temporary beauty salon. With chairs in place and the tools of their trade in hand, they set about making it a special night as one by one attendees stepped through the door. The team proceeded to transform the look of each one, and it was all done for free.

In order to provide the finest work for everyone, Haudenschild said they printed off plenty of photographs of hair options so any nonverbal attendees could pick out a hairstyle they liked.

From braiding to curling, straightening and even adding glitter, there were plenty of options from which to choose.

On a night that was already something wonderful to remember, the Revamp Salon & Day Spa staff gave those in attendance one more shining moment they could put into their scrapbook of memories.

Unkefer agriculture scholarship applications available

Consumers National Bank recently announced its 2023 Homer Unkefer Agriculture Scholarship application is available for students pursuing secondary education in an agriculture-related profession. The scholarship is named in recognition of the late Homer Unkefer, a founder and director emeritus of Consumers National Bank and a life-long advocate for agriculture in Ohio.

The purpose of the

Homer Unkefer Agriculture Scholarship is to provide financial assistance to students pursuing higher education that will prepare them for a career in agriculture. Applicants must be a high school senior attending a school in or residing in Carroll, Columbiana, Jefferson,

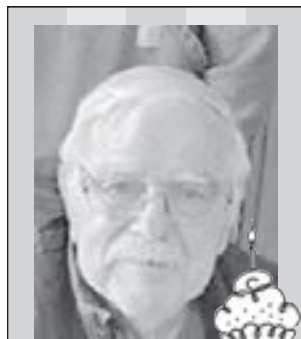

Mahoning, Stark, Summit or Wayne county or a graduate from a high school in Carroll, Columbiana, Jefferson, Mahoning, Stark, Summit or Wayne county currently enrolled in a two- or four-year college level agriculture curriculum.

One scholarship in the amount of $1,000 will be awarded based on the applicant's experience in agriculture and meeting all the educational eligibility requirements. Applications for 2023 must be received by Consumers National Bank by March 31. Scholarship applications can be obtained at any of Consumers National Bank's 21 locations and from guidance counselors at local high schools.

COW theater and dance dept. spring play March 2-5

The College of Wooster Department of Theatre and Dance will present its spring play, "Alicia from the Real in Wonderland" by Carlos-Manuel and directed by Wooster alumna Stephanie Castrejón, in the Freedlander Theatre, 329 E. University St., March 2-5. Performances will begin at 7 p.m. on March 2 and 3 and at 2 p.m. on March 4 and 5.

The show is appropriate for all ages, and the department also invites families to join the cast in the lobby after each show for opportunities to take photos with the characters.

For Castrejón, returning to her alma mater to direct this play holds special meaning. "I've seen many productions at Freedlander Theatre, and while most were dramatic productions, I felt that I wanted to add some fun to the stage," Castrejón said. "Coming back to Wooster feels like everything has come full circle for me, and I am so thankful to Jimmy A. Noriega, professor of theater and dance, for always encouraging and believing in my work."

A modern-day retelling of the classic novel, "Alice in Wonderland" by Lewis Carroll, the play tells the story of Alicia, a 16-year-old girl played by Amari Royal, who runs away from home after a disagreement with her mother. As she packs her things, she sees a White Rabbit, played by Alexander Wiseman-Rose, and follows him out of curiosity. Soon, Alicia finds herself in a world full of wonders with plants that talk, a philosopher caterpillar that discusses the meaning of reality and a mysterious cat that glows in the dark.

Welcoming a large cast after productions involving fewer performers due to the pandemic in recent years, other iconic characters including a Mad Hatter, played by Owen Belfiore; an over-the-top Queen of Hearts, played by Lauren Kreeger; and a jabberwock everyone is terrified of for no reason also make an appearance. These well-known characters have one goal in common — to help Alicia realize running away from home and her problems is not a solution.

"Carlos-Manuel's play has an urban twist and touches on themes that deal with family conflict and growing up into adulthood," Castrejón said, something that is not seen in other adaptations of the story. "The story allows audiences to get away for a little bit and have an escape but also follow a journey of

The production is stage managed by Lucia Johns with assistant stage managers Amy Falk and Abigail Rahz. Other students in the production include Eleanor Boomhower, Alexander Wiseman-Rose, Sam Elwood, Madison Mohler, Emma Teichert, Camron Love, Mali Chappell-Lakin, Moira McCudden, Kate Conway, Brianna Lyman, Anna Whiting, Ethan Bardoe and Hannah Reinicke.

The show has a runtime of approximately one hour and 45 minutes and will include a 15-minute intermission. The Freedlander Theatre box office hours are 1-5 p.m. through March 1 and from 1 p.m. until show time March 2-5. Tickets are $7 and can be reserved in person by calling the box office at 330-263-2241 or visit www.wooster.edu/tickets.

Next retired teachers lunch March 7

All retired teachers and their partners are invited to the Wayne County Retired Teachers Lunches, held monthly during the fall and spring. The upcoming lunch will be March 7 at 11 a.m. at the Wayne County Career Center Cafe. There will be musical entertainment by Smithville High School students.

The Wayne County Retired Teachers Association supports Habitat for Humanity with a gift basket each time a new home is opened.

WCRTA established an endowment fund for educational grants in 1989 to provide financial support for educational programs in Wayne County schools with the interest on money invested with the Wayne County Community Foundation. The grant money is for innovative programs or projects for which the local school funding is not available.

WCRTA can assist with up to $500 per project. Grant applications have been emailed to every superintendent to be distributed to their teachers. Teachers can download and print the forms or call Karen Wood at 330-345-4171.

There is a scholarship available to students who graduate from Wayne County schools and are sophomore or junior college students with a declared education major. The Wayne County Community Foundation has further information on applying for this scholarship. The latest scholarship was awarded to Tamar Walton, who graduated from Northwestern Schools.

The April meeting will be at Buehler's Milltown community room at 11 a.m. Melissa Hall, OSU educator, will speak on Who Gets Grandma's Yellow Pie Plate?

Climate group asks Rep. Miller to come to March 4 meeting

Letter to the Editor,

Being in touch with one's representative to the U.S. Congress is a really important matter these days, especially with all the discontent over what people perceive as being divisiveness amongst the leaders of our nation. As constituents and voters in District 7, what better thing for us to do than try to get to know our new representative, Max Miller?

I am happy Rep. Miller has been appointed as the chair of the environment subcommittee of the science, space and technology committee in the House, and he also is a member of the agricultural committee. Both are critical to our rural community here in Northeast Ohio in the face of a warming climate.

National policies can help farmers better cope with current and future changes in the environment. Scientists agree severe weather events are on the increase, and we expect our Congressional representative to be looking out for the safety and stability of the people in District 7. Planning and prevention for a future that holds extreme heat, drought and flooding is our best protection.

Participating in democracy means making our voices heard. The Wooster Citizens' Climate Lobby has invited Rep. Miller's Medina District office to our chapter meeting on March 4 from 11 a.m. to noon at the Wayne County Public Library in Wooster in the east conference room. All are welcome. We want Congressman Miller to know our environmental concerns and truly represent us in Washington, D.C.

Juli Douglass-Gillespie
Wooster

Editor's note: Juli Douglass-Gillespie is group leader and liaison for the Wooster Citizens' Climate Lobby.

Renteria signs pro football contract

Mateo Renteria, The College of Wooster football team's record-setting quarterback from 2018-22, recently signed a professional contract with Les Cougars de Saint-Ouen-L'Aumône, a professional team in France.

The two-time All-North Coast Athletic Conference selection holds Wooster's career records for total offense (10,614 yards), passing completions (770), passing attempts (1,270), passing yards (10,083) and passing touchdowns (78). He ranks second at Wooster in total plays (1,575), average yards per play (6.7), 300-yard games (11), completion percentage (60.6%), and passing efficiency points (143.34).

As a senior Renteria completed 174-of-301 passes for 2,233 yards and 18 touchdowns. He rushed for a co-team-leading seven touchdowns and finished the year with 159 yards on 68 carries. He became the first Wooster quarterback with four 2,000-yard passing seasons and was one of three active players in Div. III in 2022 with over 10,000 career passing yards.

The four-time NCAC Athlete of the Week earned his first 2022 honor after completing 27-of-43 passes for 396 yards and three touchdowns against Hiram College. His other top game came against Kenyon College, an afternoon in which the environmental studies alumnus tallied 464 yards of total offense and six touchdowns.

Renteria threw for a school-record 3,237 yards in 2021, a season in which he completed 223-of-353 passes. His 29 passing touchdowns that year are the second-most in program history, and for the year Wooster boasted Div. III's seventh-ranked passing offense. He ranked fifth individually in Div. III in passing yards per game (323.7), 11th in total yards, 17th in passing touchdowns and 24th in points responsible for (198). The NCAC's only 3,000-yard passer in 2021 earned two D3football.com Team of the Week awards and was one of two repeat NCAC Athlete of the Week selections.

The league Renteria plays in has a season that runs from February through June. You can follow his new team at <https://lescougars.fr/>.

A lizard craze in younger days leaves a lasting scar

For a moment, when I was in the fifth grade, pet iguanas were all the rage. The local hardware store found itself inundated with requests for infrared heat lamp bulbs as every boy on my block set about fabricating his own iguana containment structure of plywood and chicken wire. Live mealworms became the hottest commodity on the streets, and sawdust bedding was at an all-time premium.

Iguana mania swept through my town like a raging, green wildfire, and I was every bit prepared to strike my own match and join the conflagration. Not only did I carry a burning desire to house a lizard of my own, but also I had the financial wherewithal — compliments of my newspaper route — to make the purchase outright. I also knew how to build stuff and could easily construct my own cage, complete with various iguana-friendly features and accessories, in the time it would take my mail-order reptile to arrive.

The only thing that stood between me and lizard Nirvana was a smallish, middle-aged woman with a strong desire to maintain order in her household. Mom caught on to my plan after I'd innocently asked for a stamp and an envelope while holding the order form I'd cut from the back page of Boy's Life magazine. And with that the iguana wildfire was extinguished in a single puff.

"No lizards will enter this house as long as I'm living here!" Mother proclaimed dramatically. "They carry ticks, and ticks burrow under your skin and suck your blood!"

Despite the endless days I'd spent stomping my way through weed-covered fields in pursuit of field mice, crawling through the thick of the forest in hunts for everything from chipmunks to raccoon kits, and slogging through the muck of wetland and wallow chasing frogs, snakes and turtles, I had never seen a single tick.

Mom was unflinching in her edict. The closest I was going to get to an iguana was at my best friend Chris' house, where his older brother David, master of all things weird and wild, housed a 3-foot-long specimen in a cage in the corner of his bedroom. We marveled over the beast as the rarest of all creatures — a living descendent of the dinosaur — complete with a coiled tongue capable of zapping unwitting crickets from a foot away and a scaly tail that could draw a welt on the arm of a young boy like the crack of a bull whip.

"My mom said I can't have an iguana because they have ticks," I said as Chris and I watched David handle the beast during a feeding. "Heck, I don't even know what a tick looks like."

With that the elder boy picked up a set of tweezers lying beside the cage, carefully tugged at a small black lump on the side of his lizard and held the catch momentarily in front of our awestruck faces, then he flicked it at us with an evil hiss. "It looks just like this!"

There's no telling where that tick actually landed, but the psychological damage had been done. I fled the house feeling every itch I'd ever experienced while simultaneously vividly visualizing the insect burrowing under my skin to begin its blood feast.

My dreams of reptile husbandry were done. If life with lizards meant risking a tick, then I was out. Period! But while iguanas were gone from my life for good, the terror of ticks would somehow find a way, decades later, to seek me out for further torment. More on that next time around.

This one goes out to all the dogs I've loved before

When most people think about Valentine's Day, they think about cards, flowers and romantic dinners by candlelight. Yes, I think about those things too, but I also think of all the dogs I've loved, many of whom I adopted in winter near Valentine's Day. After all, let's face it: No one loves a girl the way a puppy does.

Maybe it is the extended darkness of winter, the nearly endless cold and isolation, or maybe it is my need for some serious cuddling that brings on the puppy blues for me each winter. It was a disorder I suffered from for years and now has seemingly passed on (genetically?) to my sweet daughter.

You see, when I was a mother of young children, I adopted a few pups in the winter. Most recently, there was sweet Hazel, a beautiful, black Standard Poodle who came to live with us during Valentine's week. I even considered calling her Valentina, which my better judgement canceled out.

There was Mahalia too, a darling, white Bichon Frise I gave to my kids for Valentine's Day back in elementary school. That's how I learned my dad's grandmother also was named Mahalia.

Of course, there were puppies I adopted in March, April and May too, not to mention November and December. No, I am not a crazy dog lady, but I often had two or three dogs at a time. My dogs are well cared for and well-fed, walked and treated better than some children. I've also had my dogs neutered or spayed, so they do not run akimbo through the neighborhood mating with whomever. As a matter of fact, I took six through advanced obedience, and five became therapy dogs visiting the aged in nursing homes, youngsters in pre-schools or students at OSU ATI, where I teach.

But in the past four years, my younger child Laura, a clinical counselor in Columbus, has taken up the gauntlet of pet adoption. At 24, she had already adopted two Bullies when she first stumbled upon a black Goldendoodle on a website for rescue dogs. At 3 months the poor baby with clear signs of neglect and abuse was already close to 22 pounds. Teddy became my boy that March for my birthday before he topped out at 93 pounds. Come to think of it, one of her Bullies was a winter baby too.

And when February came around this year, she began scrolling again. That's where she found a darling Boston Terrier, 3 years old, that soon after joined her brood. I was worried. Was this too much responsibility for my girl? How would the other dogs fare? As predicted, Henry was beside himself with jealousy. Nessa Rose could hardly see straight that the small stranger had usurped her. How would they cope with the competition? We mothers, we worry.

I had to set aside my worries. My girl had done the deed, just like I taught her, and the dog was a rescue no less. So then we were in the naming phase. Should it be Auggie or Stanley? Seamus or Miles or Colin? I voted for Auggie after playwright August Wilson. She finally settled on Stanley Poochie, a name that melted my heart. And then the flood of photos started arriving: Stanley in his new hoodies, Stanley in her arms staring at her with pure adoration, Stanley watching TV, yes, on the arm of her chair. Henny Penny and Roo, her other kids, were looking off into the distance with despair. I felt powerless to help my other grands, but they are improving.

I am at the age where many of my friends have grandchildren. As I oooh over Quin or make adorable coos over Ruby, adorable as they are, I'm not the least bit jealous. I have Henry and Nessa, Stanley Poochie and Rudy, my son's dog, to babysit and exchange photos of.

I will admit I am in the single dog club now. I've tripped over enough leashes to last a lifetime, especially the time I fell and nearly broke my face. I've walked two or three dogs at a time for most of my life, even in snowy weather, and, yes, nearly killed myself a few times when I wiped out on the ice. Plus, the vet, food and grooming bills are killing me. But I do know that despite the pledge I've taken to avoid looking at dogs online or elsewhere, there are moments when I take a walk on the wild side to see what's out there on the internet. It's a dangerous business, especially in the winter when I so love to cuddle.

Ah, I miss those puppy cuddles, and the smell of puppy breath just melts my heart. Thank heaven February is almost over.

Plenty of spaces still open for our Little Generals Preschool

At Wooster City Schools, it's time to celebrate our progress while looking ahead toward finishing the school year strong. Our staff, students and families have put in a lot of hard work this year, and we are committed to continuing that effort. Keep reading to discover updates and initiatives.

Wooster teachers and administrators are dedicated to providing our students with a comprehensive k-12 experience, starting as early as age 3-4 at the Littlest Generals Preschool. Our preschool offers two classrooms for 3-year-olds and five classrooms for 4-year-olds during morning and afternoon sessions — there are many spaces still available.

Littlest Generals Preschool has 74 spots open and is funded through grants. Students can access a high-level education for free or at reduced rates depending on family income. Families who want to register must go to the district's Final Forms Portal — 3-year-old classes are usually the first ones to fill up. Students must be 3 or 4 by Aug. 1 to qualify for the preschool program.

Registration for this five-star Step Up to Quality Award-winning program for the 2023-24 school year opened Feb. 1. For interested families, our Littlest Generals Preschool will host an open house at the Early Learning Center on March 28 from 5-6:30 p.m.

Also ahead this spring, a bond issue will appear on the May 2 ballot to fund changes to our school district facilities as outlined in the facilities master plan. If passed by voters, the bond will generate $102,086,000 for the construction of a new pre-kindergarten to second grade elementary school at the Cornerstone site and a grades 6-8 middle school at the high school campus.

For additional information regarding the Littlest Generals Preschool and our facilities, visit www.woostercityschools.org.

Gabe Tudor is superintendent of Wooster City Schools. The Generals' Report is a monthly feature keeping residents updated on what's happening in the school system.

We are hard at work on 4-H projects of our own

The last time I took a 4-H project, Ronald Reagan was president, my family shared a phone hooked to the wall and the internet didn't exist.

Yes, that was decades ago, but thanks to an office assignment, I'm feeling like a 4-Her again and working on a project to help me explore my interest in quilting.

Others on staff at the

Wayne County office of the Ohio State University Extension have chosen projects on grilling, cake decorating, composting, knot tying, photography, entomology, costume design, room redecorating and exploring the great outdoors.

Doug Foxx, the extension youth development educator, suggested the idea as a way to reconnect with what it's like to be a 4-Her or 4-H volunteer and work through these types of projects.

4-H members are required to enroll in at least one project by April

1. Offerings cover a vast array of interests including robotics, rockets, archery, science, personal fitness, art, livestock, sewing and being a culinary boss. A self-determined option is available for the experienced 4-Her who would like to take a project at a more advanced level or explore a subject not available in the 4-H Family Guide.

Just like 4-Hers are required to do in order to exhibit their projects at the fair, our staff will be evaluated on our efforts. Our creations will be on display during the fair in Building 10, which houses all non-livestock projects.

We are working on our projects on our own time but have scheduled lunch meetings so we can hear how everyone is progressing. At our first update, we learned some are still in the research stage and others have begun to complete activities.

Extension agriculture and natural resource educator Frank Becker got an early start on his entomology project when he organized a field trip for our office staff to the United Titanium Bug Zoo at the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center in December.

As the former integrated pest management coordinator for OSU Extension, Becker knows a thing or two about bugs, but the guided tour of the Bug Zoo, he said, allowed him to experience entomology from a different perspective.

In his role of scouting crop fields for farmers, he decides which bugs to kill and which ones to protect. Learning about insects such as the hissing cockroach and glittering fireflies at the Bug Zoo made him think about how to utilize entomology to interact with the public and educate people about how insects function and the many careers in this field.

He will need a pinned insect collection as part of his project.

"I'm waiting for warmer weather so I can bump into a lot of cool insects," he said. "I think this project will help me take a closer look at my environment."

Office assistant Noah Klenovich is an experienced photographer who has exhibited and sold his work, but his advanced photography project is teaching him a different skill set that involves composing subjects and manipulating light for a photograph.

"I've taken a picture of a dragonfly perched on a flower, but I didn't compose it," he explained. "The dragonfly just sat there, and I got the photo using the natural light outside."

4-H program assistant Diane Johnson is planning a field trip for her knot tying project, but she won't have far to travel. She plans to visit her husband's workshop and learn about his expertise with knots and the different cordages (ropes) he uses.

Office associate Leah Fedorchak wants to expand her cake-decorating skills by trying different tips to create floral designs. Staff assured her we are willing to taste her creations any time.

A new Mrs. Claus outfit is in the design stages for Darcy Becker, program coordinator for the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program Education. She plans to wear the costume when she accompanies her husband during his appearances as a professional Santa.

For my project I've chosen OSU-themed fabrics to sew a quilted wall hanging. When it's all done, I'm hoping the title of the project rings true: You Can Quilt!

Laurie Sidle is a family and consumer sciences program assistant with OSU Extension Wayne County. She can be reached at 330-264-8722 or Sidle.31@osu.edu.

Rare fifth-year seniors help Scots to top of NCAC

A few thoughts from the week in sports ...

Good things come to those who wait.

Add “work hard” and “never give up” to that Bible verse and it helps explain how The College of Wooster was able to pull off a thrilling 75-74 win over Wabash College on Feb. 18.

Fifth-year College of Wooster seniors Turner Kurt and Najee Hardaway, along with third-year head coach Doug Cline, were each rewarded for their perseverance in the most emotional way possible on Feb. 18.

The game, the regular-season North Coast Athletic Conference title and rights to host the league tournament were all on the line when Kurt released a 3-ball just before time expired.

March Madness came early to Timken Gym when Kurt's left-wing jumper touched nothing but net and Scots' fans stormed the court.

“Give all the glory to God,” said Kurt, a 6-foot-8 forward who led the Scots with 16 points. “I’ve always praised him my whole life, and he gave me this opportunity.”

“Second, I want to praise my teammates. We worked hard for this win. They put me in position, coach drew up the play, I hit the shot and we got the win. We’re outright conference champions, and I couldn’t be happier.”

A total team effort and never-say-die attitude enabled the Scots to pull out one of the most incredible wins in the storied history of Timken Gym. It was fitting the team’s two elder statesmen came up huge in the biggest moment of the team’s season to date.

Aaron Dorksen
Columnist

Wooster blew a 13-point lead with 7:08 left and saw Wabash actually go up 74-72 on Josh Whack’s layup with 2.4 seconds left.

Wooster had to go the length of the floor but caught a huge break when junior JJ Cline’s long baseball pass was tipped out of bounds. Wooster got to set up the game-winning play with 2.1 seconds left from its own baseline. Hardaway (nine points) set a screen for Kurt, Jamir Billings inbounded it to Kurt and, after a pump fake and step to the right, “Big Shot” Kurt delivered.

“I’m just so happy for the guys,” coach Cline said. “That could have been a heartbreaking loss for us because we led the whole game, but you play to the end and we did that.”

Hardaway is just the second player to spend five years in the Wooster program, Cline said, joining Brandon Johnson (2006-10), who received an extra year of eligibility due to an injury.

Kurt played his first two seasons at Div. II Edinboro before transferring to Wooster, along with 6-8 junior Nick Everett.

“Turner and Najee helped to restore our program,” Cline said. “With COVID-19 we basically never had seniors for those two years. Najee was more of a role player as a sophomore, but the last two years he’s been a significant contributor. Turner played his first two years at Edinboro, but he’s also been a leader here, and those two guys have shown the younger guys how to be a Wooster basketball player.”

Kurt and Hardaway both said it was a “no-brainer” to come back for a fifth season of college basketball in 2022-23.

“I wanted four years of college basketball,” said Kurt, who’s averaging 10.7 points a game and leads the team with 5.5 rebounds per contest. “I had that extra year, and I took it. I love all my teammates, and I love playing in this program.”

Hardaway said the win over Wabash ranked right up there with the NCAC Tournament title victory at Wittenberg in 2020 for his most memorable at Wooster.

“This was a lot of fun,” said Hardaway, who leads the Scots with 12.7 points a game. “My brother Turner hit a huge shot to get the win on Senior Night, and it couldn’t be more picture perfect.”

“After last year I was coming back from the jump. We knew if we got this same group twice, we could make something special happen, but it’s not over. We’ve still got the conference tournament and the NCAA Tournament, so we’ve gotta keep going.”

After playing for four years and working for 24 years as an assistant under hall of famer Steve Moore, Cline took over as head coach for the 2020-21 season, only to have the COVID pandemic limit the Scots to playing just seven games. Last year Wooster went 19-9 (13-5) and had a

Turner Kurt, left, and Najee Hardaway, both fifth-year senior basketball players at The College of Wooster, were instrumental in the Fighting Scots’ capture of the North Coast Athletic Conference regular-season title.

Div. III record streak of 18 consecutive NCAA Tournament appearances snapped.

Longtime followers of the program felt especially good to see Cline earn his first regular-season NCAC title and take a big step toward qualifying for the NCAA tourney.

However, Cline was deflecting any kudos to others.

“It feels really good, but it just feels good because I know how much time and sweat coach Moore put into this program, and myself and (retired assistant) coach (Bruce) Martin,” Cline said.

“Coach Moore still helps us out every day, and I’m more proud that we’re able to do these things for him.”

The stakes will get even higher when the Scots host the NCAC Tournament, hoping to earn an NCAA Div. III Tournament bid. The Scots beat Oberlin 92-77 in a Tuesday night quarterfinal and will host the semifinals Friday. Wooster meets Denison in one semi, with Wabash and DePauw in the other. The title game is Saturday, with the winner getting the automatic Div. III national tournament berth.

Parting shots

It also was a fantastic finish in the Wayne County Athletic League boys basketball race. Dalton’s 76-70 win over Norwayne enabled the Bulldogs to force a three-way tie for the championship, with Smithville also sharing a piece of it.

It was the first WCAL three-way tie for boys basketball since 1975 when Dalton, Norwayne and Ritman shared the prize. The Bulldogs earned a piece of their fourth straight WCAL title, which hasn’t been done in more than 60 years when Northwestern accomplished the feat.

Best wishes to the area teams in the postseason.

—TNT’s Kenny “The Jet” Smith said, “Mac McClung has saved the dunk contest.”

I agree with Smith. McClung brought excitement and originality to the dunk contest that’s been sorely missing in recent years. McClung’s athleticism at just 6-2 is truly amazing. Here’s hoping the former G-Leaguer can stay in the NBA for many years.
