

Congressional Coalition on Adoption Institute 2018 Foster Youth Internship Program® Application

The Congressional Coalition on Adoption Institute's (CCAI) Foster Youth Internship (FYI) Program® is a competitive, highly esteemed congressional internship for young adults who meet ALL of the eligibility requirements below. Participants will be placed in the Washington, D.C. legislative offices of Members of the U.S. Congress and write a federal child welfare policy report throughout the course of the summer. The dates for the FYI Program are May 29 - July 27, 2018. The candidate MUST be available for and commit to the entirety of the program to qualify.

About the Foster Youth Internship Program®

The FYI Program began in 2003 as an effort to raise awareness to federal policymakers about the needs and unique perspectives of young adults who spent time in U.S. foster care. CCAI works with congressional offices to secure a congressional internship for each intern. In addition, CCAI organizes orientation, retreats, advocacy trainings and various networking opportunities with experts in child welfare, government and business. These combined experiences allow the interns to create a policy report that is presented at briefings to Congress and the White House and released to policymakers and advocates across the country. As a result of the program, federal policymakers learn firsthand the experiences of youth in foster care and go on to use their new knowledge to inspire legislative change to federal child welfare and adoption policy. Interns participating in the FYI Program benefit both personally and professionally, gaining experience and skills that will bolster their careers for years to come.

This is an immersive nine-week, educational and civic experience. Participants are not considered employees of CCAI nor the congressional office where they are placed for an internship. CCAI provides a weekly stipend funded through donations received for interns, as well as covers major expenses such as housing in Washington, D.C., transportation to/from Washington, D.C., and public transportation to/from the congressional office internship. Interns are responsible for some smaller expenses. Interns are required to live in dormitory-style housing with roommates assigned by CCAI for the duration of the program and to adhere to the guidance of their Resident Assistant, an alumni of the FYI Program.

Congressional Office Internship

Each congressional office placement differs. CCAI does not guarantee that the intern will be assigned projects that are related to child welfare. Office responsibilities will likely include the following:

- Open, sort and deliver incoming mail
- Answer phones, greet constituents, run errands, deliver priority letters and acquire signatures
- Copy, file, fax, data entry and work on small legislative projects
- Work directly with congressional staff to research issues and compose constituent correspondence
- Attend committee hearings, sit in on meetings, attend press conferences and take excellent notes
- Provide constituent services and give tours of the U.S. Capitol Building
- Attend and assist with congressional briefings and meetings, including various events organized by CCAI

Policy Report

By applying to and later agreeing to be a part of the Foster Youth Internship Program®, you are agreeing to be fully engaged in the intensive congressional policy report writing process of the program. This involves selecting a topic in a timely manner, performing in-depth research, working closely with an advisor, writing and extensively editing the report. The process involves, but is not limited to, adhering to all report deadlines set forth by CCAI; attendance at and full participation in all mandatory CCAI meetings and briefings; being respectful toward other interns, advisors and the CCAI staff; being open to new ideas and suggestions; and completion of the report and entire internship program.

The transcript may be submitted by the applicant or school. All other materials (application form, resume, essay, short response questions) MUST be submitted with the completed application form.

- APPLICATION FORM. The application form can be accessed on the CCAI's website at: www.ccainstitute.org/programs/view/foster-youth-internship-apply
- RÉSUMÉ. Be sure to use the exact format as the example on the last page of this application (which includes work experience, school and community involvement, and the dates you were employed). Do not submit more than one page.
- ESSAY. Essays must be double-spaced, use 12 point Times New Roman font, use proper spelling and grammar, and pages must be numbered. Your essay must include all three of the following: (1) how your life experiences have shaped your interest in and skills for this internship program (2) how this experience fits with your goals and future aspirations, and (3) legislative changes you would want to make to the child welfare system at the federal level based on what you have seen and your experiences. For example, how would you improve foster care for current and future foster youth? Supporting research is required, and applicants must cite sources in the MLA or APA format. Do not submit more than 4 pages; only the first 4 pages will be considered. ALL essay guidelines must be followed.
- SHORT RESPONSE SCENARIO QUESTIONS. Answer each of the following questions in 150 words or less per question.
  1. In your congressional office, you are among interns who are well-connected and come from different backgrounds and cultures. Like many Hill interns, your day-to-day responsibilities are largely administrative and at times may not be perceived as glamorous, yet they are very important to your congressional office. How would you manage yourself in this diverse setting and your interactions with congressional staff and interns who may and will have different views than you do in your congressional office? Please explain how you would adapt and resolve any conflict you feel or experience.
  2. Throughout the summer, you and your FYI cohort will spend time researching and writing policy issues affecting foster youth across the country in order to create a policy report that will be presented at a congressional briefing, White House briefing and released to child welfare advocates across the country. You will become a published author! After you submit your final policy report to CCAI staff and your policy report advisor, your cohort will be tasked with creating a title and theme for the 2018 Foster Youth Intern Report. You have given it some serious thought and think your title is the perfect fit. You suggest your idea to the group, and the group does not like it. How do you work with your cohort to agree on a title and theme? What communication skills do you have that would be an asset in this situation?
  3. The Foster Youth Internship Program® is a highly esteemed congressional internship that demands high motivation and commitment from interns. As part of the program, CCAI also organizes retreats, advocacy trainings, and various networking opportunities with experts in the child welfare field. Though these are all amazing opportunities, you find that you are becoming overwhelmed by living in a new environment, the number of commitments and the workload of the summer. Share your self-care tips on how you would manage your time and juggle responsibilities. Discuss your time management, ability to implement corrective measures to stay on track, and maintain professionalism in this scenario.
