The One Anothering of Biblical Counseling

Definition of Biblical Counseling

Biblical counseling in its fullest sense is simply an application of the means of sanctification, it is more than a learning process, it is a means of teaching people how to change from a Biblical perspective.

First and foremost counseling is not depended upon a method, or a person, it is depended upon God. The resources for change are not in the expert, the resources are not in us, but the resources are in God.
