

51,350 Wounded Murdered Dead

We, the women of the United States have had enough of the senseless and illegal occupation of Iraq and the cruel attacks on civilians around the world. We have buried too many of our loved ones. We have seen too many lives crippled forever by physical and mental wounds. We have watched in horror as our precious resources are poured into war while our families' basic needs of food, shelter, education, and healthcare go unmet. We have had enough of living in constant fear of violence and of seeing the growing cancer of intolerance and hatred ravage our homes and communities. -

This is not the world we want for ourselves or our children. With a fire for justice in our souls and the courage of love in our hearts, we women are rising up across borders to unite and to demand an end to bloodshed and destruction.

To move this peace process forward, we are creating a massive movement of women-crossing generations, races, ethnicities, religions, borders, and political persuasions. Together, we will pressure our governments, the United Nations, the Arab League, Nobel Peace Prize Winners, religious leaders and others in the international community to step forward to help negotiate a peaceful and responsible political settlement. In this era of divisive fundamentalisms, we call upon local and world leaders to join us in spreading the fundamental values of love and respect for one another and for our precious and beautiful planet.
