How an Idea Becomes a Law

Prepared by Oklahoma House of Representatives Research Staff

* The House has used, by rule, a system permitting the Speaker to predesignate measures to committees so that they can consider, but not act officially on them, before the Legislature meets in February.

 The House of Representatives also uses a consent calendar. A committee or the Speaker can put a measure on the consent calendar whereby no amendments or debate are allowed.

 Frequently, measures will have later effective date provisions such as November 1 or January 1.

* House rule provides that for bills which are defeated on final passage in House, bills on that subject may not be considered during the remainder of that Legislature.
