Alexander Amble his mother Becky Amble and Brother Pasha have a quest, to raise 1 million dollars for muscular dystrophy. Alex, who is afflicted with a mild form of MS, was our presenter this week. Alex started playing piano at the age of three. Because of Alex's great talent, he was in New York City for a week to appear on the David Letterman show at the age of seven and was asked return to perform during sweeps. He has also performed on stage at the Children's Theater in Khabarovsk Russia.

Alex began to write music at the age of eleven. He loves classical and jazz music. He continues to study both as well as plays trumpet, percussion, guitar and saxophone. Alex wrote the single, "When The Sun Goes Down" as a tribute to all those who have muscular dystrophy. He has made it his goal to raise 1 million for MDA through sales of this song. While in New York, he met the actor Robin Williams, who was impressed with his talent. Alex and his brother Pasha were born in Russia and adopted by Becky and her husband.

Alex entertained Day Break Rotarians by performing several classical and jazz pieces. For only $1, we can help Alex achieve his mission of raising one million for MDA. Here's how it works. First, Download Alex's MDA song or make a donation to the MDA. Secondly, right after that tell three more people to do the same and pay it forward. Or send an email to a group or your entire email address book or Facebook friend list. So far Alex has raised $2500.
