

Health IT: Workforce Training

Healthcare providers are rapidly converting to electronic health records (EHR) to better serve their patients. This has created a tremendous need in the job market, especially in rural areas for healthcare providers to make the transition to electronic healthcare records.

Strong Partnerships:

An exciting new program has been developed which offers training in this growing field. The Regional Health Care Network is coordinating with the University of Alabama at Birmingham, Central Alabama Community College and Gadsden State Community College to offer a new program in the State of Alabama.
