“ I am happy that Garware Motors have finally brought the Hyosung Bikes to India. I have been waiting to ride them on the Indian roads. Biking is more than a passion for me, it's my obsession. The ST 7 is exactly what I was looking for in a bike. I am proud to be the first owner of the Hyosung superbike in India. I am sure I will be more than satisfied with the ST 7,” said an elated Arjun Rampal, who became the first customer to own the mean machine in India.

700 cc segments. We are very pleased to bring to India the Hyosung bikes by S&T Motors of South Korea. The bikes we provide the bike enthusiasts a superior technology and styling. There is a significant potential for these bikes in the maturing super 600cc and the segment can be judged from the buzz that these bikes have created even before their launch. GT650R and ST 7 will be a great product for the biking community and bike aficionados in India especially for the young upwardly mobile professionals. We are delighted to have Arjun as our first customer. He embodies what the bikes stand for, power, style, and performance. We are sure that both GT650R and ST 7 will be able to meet and exceed customer expectations.

Launched by Garware Motors along with S&T Motors' inception in Mumbai last week, the mean machines are available at an introductory price of Rs 4,97,000 for single tone color and Rs. 5,13,000 for dual tone color for GT650R, whereas the ST7 would cost Rs. 5,96,000 (ex-showroom prices).

Speaking on the occasion, Ms. Diya Garware, said "It gives us immense pleasure to be the first Indian company to launch superbikes in the 650 cc segment."
