Dear Sir or Madam:

The Project On Government Oversight (POGO) has updated its Federal Contractor Misconduct Database (http://www.contractormisconduct.org/), a compilation of information from public resources regarding government contractors, including Apptis, Inc. I have enclosed the findings relevant to your company, and I am seeking verification of this data.

Any response would be greatly appreciated, as the accuracy of this information is in the best interest of all parties. Out of fairness to Apptis, Inc., please be assured that any response received by POGO will be posted on the website along with the data. Please note that the database includes pending instances, but these are kept separate from resolved instances and are not included in the totals.

If you have any questions, I can be reached at (202) 347-1122. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Neil Gordon

1. Defense Database Hacking
Date: 02/18/2009 (Date of Repayment)
Misconduct Type: Poor Contract Performance
Enforcement Agency: Defense – General
Contracting Party: Defense - General
Court Type: N/A
Amount: $1,300,000
Disposition: Restitution
Synopsis: According to the Department of Defense Inspector General's 2009 semiannual report to congress, in February 2009, Apptis repaid $1.3 million of a $5.4 million DoD information technology contract after Defense Criminal Investigative Service (DCIS) investigators concluded that Apptis and a subcontractor "failed to perform and deliver proper network security and information assurance services to the government" as required by the contract. The DCIS began its investigation in August 2007 after the database being maintained by Apptis and/or the subcontractor was breached by a hacker believed to be from China.
