1 Plaintiff Faith Bautista (“Plaintiff”), individually and on behalf of all others similarly 2 situated, brings this class action Complaint for Injunctive Relief, Declaratory Relief, Damages and 3 Restitution against defendants Valero Energy Corporation (“Valero Energy”), Valero Marketing and 4 Supply Company (“Valero M&S”), CST Brands, Inc. (“CST Brands”) and CST Marketing and 5 Supply Company (“CST M&S”) (collectively, “Defendants” or “Valero”) and, upon information and 6 belief, except as to the allegations within Plaintiff’s personal knowledge, alleges as follows:

7 SUMMARY OF THE ACTION

8 1. Defendant Valero Energy is a Fortune 500 international manufacturer and marketer of 9 transportation fuels, other petrochemical products and power based in San Antonio, Texas.

10 2. Before 2013, Valero Energy was one of the United States’ largest retail operators
11 with approximately 6,800 retail and branded wholesale outlets worldwide. In May 2013, Valero
12 Energy completed the spinoff of its retail operations into its subsidiary, CST Brands, which now 13 owns retail operations using the Valero, Diamond Shamrock, Shamrock, Beacon, Ultramar and 14 Texaco brands. Valero Energy continues to supply Valero-branded fuel to CST Brands retail 15 locations.

16 3. For more than the previous four years, each of the Defendants named herein has 17 induced consumers, including Plaintiff and the members of the proposed class (the “Class,” as 18 defined below), to buy gasoline from one of Defendants’ many wholly-owned, leased, franchised or 19 contractually branded retail gas stations through the use of deceptive, unfair and false advertisements
20 and misrepresentations, in violation of California law.

21 4. Like most gas stations, Defendants’ Valero-branded stations advertise the price of 22 gasoline on large signs that are visible to passing motorists. In order to lure motorists into Valero-
23 branded gas stations, which can be located directly across the street from one or more competing 24 stations, Defendants generally advertise two different prices for gasoline: a “credit” price for 25 purchases made with a credit card and a lower “cash” price for purchases made with cash.

26 5. Defendants’ advertised “cash” price is false and misleading to reasonable consumers
27 like Plaintiff and the members of the Class in violation of the Consumers Legal Remedies Act,
28 California Civil Code §1750, et seq. (the “CLRA”), the False Advertising Law, California Business

1 & Professions Code §17500, et seq. (the “FAL”), and California’s Unfair Competition Law,
2 California Business & Professions Code §17200, et seq. (the “UCL”), because Defendants charge
3 the “credit” price for purchases made by California consumers using a debit card, which is the 4 equivalent of cash and which reasonable consumers believe is the equivalent of cash.

5 6. In contrast to a credit card payment that is charged to the cardholder’s line of credit 6 and paid at a later date, a debit card payment results in an immediate cash withdrawal from the 7 cardholder’s bank account. This is especially true of “prepaid” debit cards, which function as a debit 8 card except that the cardholder prepays a specific amount of money that can later be spent using the 9 prepaid debit card. Therefore, reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff and the members of the 10 Class, reasonably and correctly believe that a debit card is the equivalent of cash and not a credit 11 card.

12 7. Debit cards are frequently used as a safer cash-equivalent by lower income
13 Americans who lack sufficient positive credit history to obtain a credit card or who perhaps cannot 14 afford the annual fees and interest rates charged by credit card companies. Indeed, the number of 15 debit card transactions have overtaken the number of cash, check and credit card transactions
16 combined and now account for more than 50% of all gasoline purchases in the State of California.

17 8. In light of the ever-increasing price of gasoline, consumers, including Plaintiff and 18 the members of the Class, many of whom are lower income Americans seeking to save money on 19 high-priced gasoline, are lured into Valero-branded gas stations over other competing stations by 20 Defendants’ promise of a lower price for gasoline purchased with cash. Based on their reasonable 21 and accurate belief that a debit card is the equivalent of cash, reasonable consumers, including
22 Plaintiff and the members of the Class, believe that they will be charged the cash price on gasoline 23 purchased with a debit card.

24 9. Contrary to Defendants’ advertised cash price, which constitutes a legal offer to enter
25 into a contract for the sale of gasoline at the specifically advertised price that Plaintiff accepted by 26 entering a Valero-branded gas station over competing gas stations, consumers who choose to 27 purchase gasoline with a debit card are charged the higher credit price.

28

1 10. Defendants’ practice of advertising a lower cash price but charging debit cards
2 customers the higher credit price is misleading to reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff and the
3 members of the Class, who reasonably and correctly believe that a debit card is the equivalent of 4 cash, and therefore, Defendants’ practice violates the CLRA, FAL and UCL.

5 11. Defendants have also breached a legally binding contract that they entered into with 6 consumers, including Plaintiff and the members of the Class, by failing to sell gasoline at the 7 advertised cash price to consumers who accepted Defendants’ offer by entering a Valero-branded
8 gas station to purchase gasoline with a debit card – a cash equivalent.

9 12. By this action, Plaintiff respectfully seeks injunctive relief and damages, individually
10 and on behalf of the members of the Class, in order to remedy Defendants’ misleading, deceptive 11 and unfair business practices as alleged herein.

12 PARTIES

13 Plaintiff

14 13. Plaintiff Faith Bautista is an individual consumer residing in San Mateo County, 15 California and is a citizen of the State of California. At all relevant times, Plaintiff reasonably
16 believed that a debit card was the equivalent of cash. Throughout the proposed class period, Plaintiff
17 purchased gasoline at Valero-branded gas stations with a MasterCard-branded debit card in reliance
18 on Defendants’ advertised “cash” price for gasoline that was lower than the advertised “credit” price.
19 Despite Defendants’ advertised “cash” price, Defendants charged Plaintiff the higher “credit” price
20 on gasoline purchased with Plaintiff’s debit card. Plaintiff would not have entered Valero-branded
21 gas stations to purchase gasoline were it not for Defendants’ false advertisement and contractual 22 offer of a lower “cash” price for gasoline.

23 Valero Energy Defendants

24 14. Defendant Valero Energy is a Fortune 500 international manufacturer and marketer of 25 transportation fuels, other petrochemical products and power. Valero Energy is based in San 26 Antonio, Texas and does substantial business within this District. Before May 2013, Valero Energy
27 was one of the United States’ largest retail operators with approximately 6,800 retail and branded
28

1 wholesale outlets in the United States, Canada, the United Kingdom and the Caribbean under the 2 Valero, Diamond Shamrock, Shamrock, Ultramar, Beacon and Texaco brands.

3 15. Defendant Valero M&S is a subsidiary of defendant Valero Energy founded in 1981
4 and based in San Antonio, Texas. Defendant Valero M&S refines and markets crude oil in the 5 United States and internationally, including within this District. Its activities include refining 6 operations, wholesale marketing, product supply and distribution, and transportation operations,
7 primarily in the Gulf Coast, Mid-Continent, West Coast and northeast regions.

8 16. At all relevant times prior to May 2013, defendant Valero Energy committed the acts
9 complained of herein individually and/or acting through its subsidiary, defendant Valero M&S.

10 17. Defendant Valero Energy is responsible for its own acts, as well as the acts of its 11 subsidiary, defendant Valero M&S.

12 18. Defendants Valero Energy and Valero M&S are collectively referred to herein as 13 “Valero Energy.”

14 19. At all relevant times prior to May 2013, Valero Energy owned, franchised, leased or 15 entered into contractual relationships with gas stations in California that sold Valero-branded
16 gasoline.

17 20. At all relevant times prior to May 2013, Valero Energy controlled the signage, 18 including the advertised “credit” and “cash” prices, at all Valero-branded gas stations, regardless of 19 the station’s ownership structure. At all relevant times prior to May 2013, Valero Energy advertised
20 a “credit” price and a “lower” cash price at Valero-branded gas stations.

21 21. At all relevant times prior to May 2013, Valero Energy owned the gasoline dispensers
22 at Valero-branded gas stations, which, like the signage controlled by Valero Energy, also advertised 23 the “credit” price and the “lower” cash price.

24 22. At all relevant times prior to May 2013, Valero Energy owned the payment 25 processing hardware and software utilized by Valero-branded gas stations to collect credit card and 26 debit card payments and, therefore, Valero Energy had actual knowledge that debit card purchases
27 were charged at the higher “credit” price.

28

1 23. At all relevant times prior to May 2013, Valero Energy (individually or through a
2 subsidiary) provided the payment processing service for credit and debit card payments at most if not
3 all of its Valero-branded gas stations. Through its payment processing service, Valero Energy
4 (individually or through a subsidiary) collected credit card and debit card payments on behalf of 5 station owners. Valero Energy retained the cost of its gasoline, as well the processing fee charged to
6 both credit cards and debit cards, and then remitted the remainder back to the individual Valero-
7 branded gas station owner. Valero Energy, therefore, had actual knowledge that debit card
8 purchases were charged at the higher “credit” price.

9 24. At all relevant times prior to May 2013, Valero Energy had access to all of its 10 Valero-branded gas stations’ bank records, as well as real-time access to all of the financial 11 transactions at Valero-branded gas stations and, therefore, had actual knowledge that debit card
12 purchases were charged at the higher “credit” price.

13 25. At all relevant times prior to May 2013, Valero Energy routinely had representatives 14 on-site at its Valero-branded gas stations who observed the prices advertised and charged and 15 discussed pricing policies and specific information regarding actual gasoline sales with managers of 16 the individual Valero-branded gas stations and, therefore, had actual knowledge that debit card
17 purchases were charged at the higher “credit” price.

18 CST Brands Defendants

19 26. Defendant CST Brands is a subsidiary of Valero Energy based in San Antonio, Texas
20 that was created on or about May 1, 2013 as a spinoff of Valero Energy’s retail operations. CST
21 Brands is now the second-largest publicly traded fuel and convenience retailer in North America,
22 with 1,900 outlets in the United States and Canada. CST Brands sells fuel under the Valero brand
23 within this District.

24 27. Defendant CST M&S was incorporated in or about May 2013 and operates as a 25 subsidiary of defendant CST Brands. CST M&S is headquartered in San Antonio, Texas and 26 distributes Valero-branded gasoline and diesel products in the United States, including within this 27 District.

28

1 28. At all relevant times after May 2013, defendant CST Brands committed the acts
2 complained of herein individually and/or acting through its subsidiary, defendant CST M&S.

3 29. Defendant CST Brands is responsible for its own acts, as well as the acts of its
4 subsidiary, defendant CST M&S.¹

5 30. Defendants CST Brands and CST M&S are collectively referred to herein as “CST
6 Brands.”

7 31. At all relevant times after May 2013, CST Brands owned, franchised, leased or 8 entered into contractual relationships with gas stations in California that sold Valero-branded
9 gasoline.

10 32. At all relevant times after May 2013, CST Brands controlled the signage, including 11 the advertised “credit” and “cash” prices, at all Valero-branded gas stations, regardless of the 12 station’s ownership structure. At all relevant times after May 2013, CST Brands advertised a 13 “credit” price and a “lower” cash price at Valero-branded gas stations.

14 33. At all relevant times subsequent to May 2013, CST Brands owned the gasoline 15 dispensers at Valero-branded gas stations, which, like the signage controlled by CST Brands, also 16 advertised the “credit” price and the “lower” cash price.

17 34. At all relevant times after May 2013, CST Brands owned the payment processing
18 hardware and software utilized by Valero-branded gas stations to collect credit card and debit card
19 payments and, therefore, CST Brands had actual knowledge that debit card purchases were charged 20 at the higher “credit” price.

21 35. At all relevant times after May 2013, CST Brands (individually or through a 22 subsidiary) provided the payment processing service for credit and debit card payments at most if not
23 all of its Valero-branded gas stations. Through its payment processing service, CST Brands
24 (individually or through a subsidiary) collected credit card and debit card payments on behalf of 25 station owners. CST Brands retained the cost of its gasoline, as well the processing fee charged to 26 both credit cards and debit cards, and then remitted the remainder back to the individual Valero-

27 ¹ Defendant Valero Energy is responsible for all acts of its subsidiaries, including defendants
28 Valero M&S, CST Brands and CST M&S.

1 branded gas station owner. CST Brands, therefore, had actual knowledge that debit card purchases
2 were charged at the higher “credit” price.

3 36. At all relevant times after May 2013, CST Brands had access to all of its Valero-
4 branded gas stations’ bank records, as well as real-time access to all of the financial transactions at 5 Valero-branded gas stations and, therefore, had actual knowledge that debit card purchases were 6 charged at the higher “credit” price.

7 37. At all relevant times after May 2013, CST Brands routinely had representatives on-
8 site at its Valero-branded gas stations who observed the prices advertised and charged and discussed 9 pricing policies and specific information regarding actual gasoline sales with managers of the 10 individual Valero-branded gas stations and, therefore, had actual knowledge that debit card
11 purchases were charged at the higher “credit” price.

12 INTRADISTRICT ASSIGNMENT

13 38. A substantial part of the events or omissions which give rise to the claims in this 14 action occurred in the county of San Mateo, and as such this action is properly assigned to the San 15 Francisco division of this Court.

16 JURISDICTION AND VENUE

17 39. This Court has jurisdiction pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1332(d)(2)(A) as modified by the 18 Class Action Fairness Act of 2005 because at least one member of the Class is a citizen of a different 19 state than Defendants, there are more than 100 members of the Class, and the aggregate amount in 20 controversy exceeds $5 million exclusive of interest and costs.

21 40. Venue is proper before this Court pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1391 in that many of the 22 acts and transactions giving rise to this action occurred in this District and because: (a) Defendants
23 are authorized to conduct business in this District and have intentionally availed themselves of the 24 laws and markets within this District through the promotion, marketing, distribution and sale of 25 Valero-branded gasoline; (b) Defendants conduct substantial business in this District; and (c)
26 Defendants are subject to personal jurisdiction in this District.

SUBSTANTIVE ALLEGATIONS

Reasonable Consumers Believe That a Debit Card Is the Equivalent of Cash

41. Due to high interest rates and the difficulty of building positive credit history for many Americans, the use of debit cards has increased dramatically over the past several years. Indeed, the number of debit card transactions have overtaken the number of cash, check and credit card transactions combined and now account for more than 50% of all gasoline purchases in the State of California.

42. Debit cards and credit cards function differently and are used differently by consumers. The fundamental difference between a debit card and a credit card is in how the cardholder's funds are obtained and transferred to merchants.

43. In contrast to a credit card payment that is charged to the cardholder's line of credit based on the cardholder's promise to pay at a later date, a debit card payment results in an immediate cash withdrawal from the cardholder's bank account. This is especially true of "prepaid" debit cards, which function like a debit card except that the cardholder prepays a specific amount of money that can later be spent using the prepaid debit card. Therefore, reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff and the members of the Class, reasonably and correctly believe that a debit card is the equivalent of cash. Indeed, consumer surveys reveal that as many as 75% of California consumers believe that a debit card is the equivalent of cash.

44. To be sure, virtually all Visa and MasterCard debit card applications and cardholder agreements contain express language stating that "this is not a credit card."

Defendants Deceive Reasonable Consumers Regarding the True Price of Gasoline In Violation of California Law

45. Defendants are major suppliers of gasoline throughout the United States and the State of California. Like most gas stations, Defendants' Valero-branded gas stations advertise the price of gasoline on large signs that are visible to passing motorists. In order to lure motorists into Valero-branded gas stations, which can be located directly across the street from one or more competing gas stations, Defendants advertise two different prices for gasoline: a "credit" price for purchases made with a credit card and a lower "cash" price for purchases made with cash. As an example, attached

1 hereto as Exhibit A is a photograph of a street sign displaying Defendants’ trademark and the prices
2 for all grades of gasoline and diesel fuel sold by Defendants, advertising a lower “cash” and higher 3 “credit” price.

4 46. Gasoline purchases by consumers are a significant part of the California economy.
5 The cost of gasoline is a substantial economic burden, and the steady and oftentimes dramatic and 6 unprecedented increase in the price of gasoline has made consumers especially cost-conscious.
7 Indeed, consumers, including Plaintiff and the members of the Class, many of whom are lower
8 income Americans seeking to save money on high-priced gasoline, are lured into Valero-branded gas
9 stations over other competing stations by Defendants’ promise of a lower price for gasoline
10 purchased with cash.

11 47. Based on their reasonable and accurate belief that a debit card is the equivalent of 12 cash, reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff and the members of the Class, believe that 13 Defendants will charge them the lower cash price on gasoline purchased with a debit card. In fact,
14 Defendants’ advertised “cash” price constitutes a legal offer to enter into a contract for the sale of 15 gasoline at the specifically advertised “cash” price without further negotiation. By entering a 16 Valero-branded gas station over competing stations to purchase gasoline at the advertised cash price,
17 Plaintiff and other members of the Class accepted Defendants’ offer, thereby creating a legally 18 binding contract for the sale of gasoline by Defendants at that same advertised cash price.

19 48. Contrary to Defendants’ advertised “cash” price, which forms part of the terms of the 20 contract for the sale of gasoline between Defendants and Plaintiff and the members of the Class,
21 Defendants actually charge the higher “credit” price to consumers who pay for Valero-branded 22 gasoline with a debit card.

23 49. Defendants’ practice of advertising a lower cash price but charging debit cards
24 customers the higher credit price is misleading to reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff and the
25 members of the Class, who reasonably and correctly believe that a debit card is the equivalent of 26 cash. Therefore, Defendants’ practice violates the CLRA, FAL and UCL. Defendants’ failure to sell 27 gasoline to Plaintiff and the other members of the Class at the agreed “cash” price is also a breach of 28

1 the contract for the sale of gasoline at a specific price entered into between Defendants and Plaintiff
2 and the other members of the Class.

3 50. Plaintiff and the other members of the Class would not have entered Valero-branded
4 gas stations to purchase gasoline over competing gas stations were it not for Defendants' false,
5 deceptive and misleading offer and advertisement of a lower "cash" price for gasoline.

6 Defendants Are Prohibited from Charging
7 a "Surcharge" on Debit Card Transactions

8 51. Due to transaction fees charged by financial institutions, some merchants choose to 9 pass on the amount of the fee to consumers who make purchases on credit.

10 52. Credit card issuers typically charge merchants like Defendants a fee for each credit 11 card transaction of approximately 1%-4% of the transaction's value.

12 53. By contrast, the maximum amount of a transaction fee on debit card transactions is 13 capped by federal law.

14 54. Pursuant to the Durbin Amendment to the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and 15 Consumer Protection Act of 2010 (the "Dodd-Frank Act"), 15 U.S.C. §1693o-2, the Federal Reserve
16 Board capped debit card transaction fees at $0.21 per transaction, plus five basis points multiplied by 17 the value of the entire transaction.

18 55. The "credit" price that Defendants charge to consumers who purchase gasoline with a 19 debit card, including Plaintiff and the members of the Class, results in a surcharge on their debit card 20 transactions that is substantially more than the amount allowed by federal law.

21 56. Furthermore, both Visa and MasterCard prohibit any surcharge on debit card
22 transactions, i.e., anything over the cash price, unless the merchant clearly discloses the surcharge, 23 the amount of which, of course, is capped by federal law. Attached hereto as Exhibit B is a true and 24 correct copy of MasterCard's policy prohibiting surcharges on debit cards. Attached hereto as 25 Exhibit C is a true and correct copy of a "Q&A" by Visa to its network of merchants informing 26 them that they may not charge consumers any additional fee or surcharge on debit card purchases.
27 Attached hereto as Exhibit D is a true and correct copy of Visa infographic informing merchants

1 that they may not charge any additional fee or surcharge on debit card purchases. The overwhelming
2 majority of debit cards are issued by Visa and MasterCard.

3 57. Notably, in December 2013, United States District Court Judge John Gleeson
4 approved a settlement in the largest antitrust class action lawsuit in American history, In re Payment
5 Card Interchange Fee and Merchant Discount Antitrust Litig., MDL No. 1720 (E.D.N.Y.), which 6 resulted in a $5.7 billion payment to consumers who were overcharged fees on debit card purchases.
7 As part of the settlement, Visa and MasterCard also agreed not to charge additional fees on debit
8 card purchases. Attached hereto as Exhibit E is a true and correct copy of correspondence from 9 Visa to its network of merchants informing them of the aforementioned settlement and instructing
10 them not to charge additional fees or surcharges on debit card purchases.

11 Plaintiff's Experiences

12 58. Plaintiff is a resident of South San Francisco, California.

13 59. Plaintiff regularly purchases $30 to $40 of gasoline per week.

14 60. Plaintiff is sensitive to the price of gasoline and regularly purchases gasoline from 15 stations advertising the lowest price.

16 61. At various times throughout the class period, Plaintiff was exposed to Defendants'
17 Valero-branded advertisements of a "credit" price and a lower "cash" price for gasoline, including at 18 a specific Valero-branded gas station located at 6989 Mission Street, Daly City, California.
19 Attached hereto as Exhibit A is a true and correct example of the advertisements to which Plaintiff 20 was exposed.

21 62. Plaintiff understood Defendants' advertised "cash" price to be an offer to purchase 22 gasoline with cash at the specifically advertised price.

23 63. Like all reasonable consumers, Plaintiff considers her MasterCard-branded debit card
24 the equivalent of cash because a charge on her debit card results in an immediate cash withdrawal 25 from cash available in Plaintiff's bank account.

26 64. Based on Defendants' advertised offer to purchase gasoline with cash at the 27 specifically advertised price, Plaintiff entered Valero-branded gas stations at various times
28

1 throughout the class period in order to purchase gasoline with her debit card at the advertised lower 2 “cash” price.

3 65. At each Valero-branded gas station, Plaintiff paid with her MasterCard-branded debit
4 card and was charged the higher “credit” price for gasoline. Attached hereto as Exhibit F is true and 5 correct copy of receipt for gasoline purchased by Plaintiff from a Valero-branded gas station.

6 66. Plaintiff would not have entered Valero-branded gas stations to purchase gasoline
7 over competing gas stations were it not for Defendants’ falsely advertised “cash” price.

8 67. As a result of Defendants’ false and misleading practices, Plaintiff suffered damages
9 in an amount to be proved at trial, but no less than the jurisdictional minimum of this Court.

10 CLASS ACTION ALLEGATIONS

11 68. Plaintiff brings this action pursuant to Rule 23 of the Federal Rules of Civil 12 Procedure on behalf the following proposed Class:

13 All persons who paid for Valero-branded gasoline with a debit card in California
14 between July 2011 and the present.

15 69. Subject to additional information obtained through further investigation and 16 discovery, the foregoing definition of the Class may be expanded or narrowed by amendment or 17 amended complaint.

18 70. Specifically excluded from the Class are Defendants, their officers, directors, agents, 19 trustees, parents, children, corporations, trusts, representatives, employees, principals, servants,
20 partners, joint venturers or entities controlled by Defendants, and their heirs, successors, assigns or 21 other persons or entities related to or affiliated with Defendants and/or their officers and/or directors, 22 the judge assigned to this action, and any member of the judge’s immediate family.

23 71. Numerosity. The members of the Class are so numerous that individual joinder is 24 impracticable. Upon information and belief, Plaintiff alleges that the Class contains many hundreds 25 of thousands of members. The precise number of Class members is unknown to Plaintiff. The true 26 number of Class members is known by Defendants, however, and thus may be notified of the 27 pendency of this action by first class mail, electronic mail or published notice.

1 72. Existence and predominance of common questions of law and fact. Common
2 questions of law and fact exist as to all members of the Class and predominate over any questions
3 affecting only individual Class members. These common legal and factual questions include, but 4 are not limited to, the following:

- 5 (a) whether Defendants charged debit cards as credit cards;
- 6 (b) whether Defendants’ advertised “cash” price is misleading to reasonable 7 consumers;
- 8 (c) whether Defendants’ advertised “cash” price is unlawful;
- 9 (d) whether Defendants advertised a “cash” price for gasoline with the intent to 10 not sell it as advertised;
- 11 (e) whether Defendants’ failure to inform consumers the amount charged as a 12 debit card fee was unlawful;
- 13 (f) whether the amount Defendants’ charged as a debit card fee was unlawful;
- 14 (g) whether Defendants violated the CLRA;
- 15 (h) whether Defendants violated the FAL;
- 16 (i) whether Defendants violated the UCL;
- 17 (j) whether Defendants’ advertised “cash” price constitutes an offer to enter into 18 a contract for the sale of gasoline at the advertised price;
- 19 (k) whether Defendants breached a contract for the sale of gasoline;
- 20 (l) whether Defendants’ acts were committed knowingly;
- 21 (m) whether Plaintiff and the members of the Class are entitled to an accounting;
- 22 (n) whether Plaintiff and the members of the Class have sustained monetary loss 23 and the proper measure of that loss;
- 24 (o) whether Plaintiff and the members of the Class are entitled to punitive 25 damages; and
- 26 (p) whether Plaintiff and the members of the Class are entitled to declaratory and 27 injunctive relief.

1 73. Typicality. Plaintiff's claims are typical of the claims of the members of the Class in 2 that Defendants deceived Plaintiff in the very same manner that they deceived each member of the 3 Class.

4 74. Adequacy of representation. Plaintiff will fairly and adequately protect the interests
5 of the Class. Plaintiff has retained counsel highly experienced in complex consumer class action
6 litigation, and Plaintiff intends to vigorously prosecute this action. Further, Plaintiff has no interests
7 that are antagonistic to those of the members of the Class.

8 75. Superiority. A class action is superior to all other available means for the fair and 9 efficient adjudication of this controversy. The damages or other financial detriment suffered by 10 individual Class members is relatively small compared to the burden and expense that would be 11 involved in individual litigation of their claims against Defendants. It would, thus, be virtually 12 impossible for the Class, on an individual basis, to obtain effective redress for the wrongs committed 13 against them. Furthermore, even if Class members could afford such individualized litigation, the 14 court system could not. Individualized litigation would create the danger of inconsistent or 15 contradictory judgments arising from the same set of facts. Individualized litigation would also 16 increase the delay and expense to all parties and the court system from the issues raised by this 17 action. By contrast, the class action device provides the benefits of adjudication of these issues in a
18 single proceeding, economies of scale, and comprehensive supervision by a single United States
19 District Court, and presents no unusual management difficulties under the circumstances here.

20 76. In the alternative, the Class may also be certified because:

21 (a) the prosecution of separate actions by individual Class members would create 22 a risk of inconsistent or varying adjudication with respect to individual Class members that would 23 establish incompatible standards of conduct for the Defendants;

24 (b) the prosecution of separate actions by individual Class members would create 25 a risk of adjudications with respect to them that would, as a practical matter, be dispositive of the 26 interests of other Class members not parties to the adjudications, or substantially impair or impede 27 their ability to protect their interests; and 28

1 (c) Defendants have acted or refused to act on grounds generally applicable to the 2 Class as a whole, thereby making appropriate final declaratory and injunctive relief with respect to 3 the members of the Class as a whole.

4 77. Moreover, certain issues relating to Defendants' liability may be certified pursuant to 5 Rule 23(c)(4).

6 COUNT I

7 Violation of the CLRA, Cal. Civ. Code §1750, et seq.

8 78. Plaintiff refers to and incorporates herein by reference the allegations in the preceding 9 paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

10 79. The CLRA "shall be liberally construed and applied to promote its underlying 11 purposes, which are to protect consumers against unfair and deceptive business practices and to 12 provide efficient and economical procedures to secure such protection." California Civil Code 13 §1760.

14 80. Plaintiff and the other Class members are consumers as defined by California Civil 15 Code §1761(d).

16 81. Gasoline is a good as defined by California Civil Code §1761(a).

17 82. Defendants violated and continue to violate the CLRA by engaging in the following 18 practices proscribed by California Civil Code §1770(a) in transactions that were intended to result in, 19 and did result in, the sale of goods to consumers, including Plaintiff and members of the Class:

- 20 (a) representing that gasoline has quantities that it does not have (§1770(a)(5)); 21 (b) advertising gasoline with intent not to sell it as advertised (§1770(a)(9)); and 22 (c) making false or misleading statements of fact concerning the existence of, or 23 amounts of, price reductions for gasoline (§1770(a)(13)).

24 83. Specifically, Defendants advertised a lower "cash" price for gasoline sold at their 25 Valero-branded gas stations when they knew, or should have known, that their representations and 26 advertisements regarding the price of gasoline were false and misleading because Defendants
27 charged a higher "credit" price to consumers who paid for gasoline with a debit card, which is a cash
28

1 equivalent and which Plaintiff and members of the Class reasonably and correctly believe is a cash
2 equivalent.

3 84. Defendants' false and misleading advertisement regarding the price of gasoline is 4 likely to deceive, and in fact, did deceive, reasonable members of the public, including Plaintiff and 5 the other Class members, who reasonably and correctly believe that a debit card is the equivalent of 6 cash and, thus, are induced to enter Defendants' Valero-branded gas stations through Defendants'
7 false and misleading statements of fact concerning the existence of, or amounts of, price reductions 8 on gasoline.

9 85. Pursuant to California Civil Code §1782(d), Plaintiff seeks an order enjoining the 10 above-described wrongful acts and practices of Defendants and for restitution and disgorgement.

11 86. Pursuant to California Civil Code §1780(d), Plaintiff has prepared and attached an 12 affidavit stating facts showing that this action has been commenced in a county described as a proper 13 place for the trial. See Exhibit G.

14 87. Pursuant to California Civil Code §1782, on December 3, 2015, Plaintiff's counsel
15 sent a notice and demand letter by certified mail to Valero Energy Corporation, c/o its Chief
16 Executive Officer, Joseph W. Gorder, One Valero Way, San Antonio, TX 78249; Valero Marketing
17 & Supply Co., c/o its General Counsel, Jay Browning, One Valero Way, San Antonio, TX 78249;
18 and CST Brands, Inc. and CST Marketing & Supply Co., c/o their Chief Executive Officer, 19 Kimberly S. Lubel, One Valero Way, Suite 200, Bldg. D, San Antonio, TX 78249-1616. See 20 Demand Letter, attached as Exhibit H.

21 88. Pursuant to Plaintiff's Demand Letter, Defendants have 30 days from the date of the 22 filing of this Complaint to rectify or agree to rectify their violations of the CLRA.

23 89. If Defendants fail to rectify or agree to correct, repair, replace or otherwise rectify 24 their violations of the CLRA within 30 days, Plaintiff will seek to amend this Complaint to seek 25 actual, punitive and statutory damages, as appropriate.

26 90. Plaintiff further seeks costs and attorney's fees pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code §1780(e)
27 and Cal. Civ. Code §1021.5

COUNT II

False and Misleading Advertising in Violation of the FAL, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §17500, et seq.

1
3 91. Plaintiff refers to and incorporates herein by reference the allegations in ¶¶1-77 as
4 though fully set forth herein.

5 92. The FAL makes it unlawful for:

6 (a) “any person, firm, corporation or association, or any employee thereof with 7 intent directly or indirectly to dispose of real . . . property . . . or to induce the public to enter into any 8 obligation relating thereto, to make or disseminate or cause to be made or disseminated before the 9 public in this state, . . . in any . . . advertising device, or . . . in any other manner or means whatever,
10 . . . any statement, concerning that real . . . property . . . , or concerning any circumstance or matter 11 of fact connected with the proposed . . . disposition thereof, which is untrue or misleading, and 12 which is known, or which by the exercise of reasonable care should be known, to be untrue or 13 misleading,” or for

14 (b) “any person, firm, or corporation to so make or disseminate or cause to be so 15 made or disseminated any such statement as part of a plan or scheme with the intent not to sell that 16 . . . property . . . , professional or otherwise, so advertised at the price stated therein, or as so 17 advertised.”

18 93. Through the conduct alleged herein, Defendants violated the FAL by advertising a 19 lower “cash” price for gasoline sold at their Valero-branded gas stations with the intent of inducing
20 the public to enter into an obligation with respect to the purchase of gasoline from Defendants.
21 Defendants’ advertisement of a lower cash price was untrue and misleading, and Defendants knew,
22 or through the exercise of reasonable care should have known, that such advertisement was untrue
23 and misleading, because Defendants routinely charged a higher “credit” price to consumers who paid 24 for gasoline with a debit card, which is a cash equivalent.

25 94. Moreover, Defendants made such false advertisements as part of a plan or scheme
26 with the intent to sell gasoline at higher than the advertised price, in further violation of the FAL.

1 COUNT V

2 Accounting

3 109. Plaintiff refers to and incorporates herein by reference the allegations in ¶¶1-77 as
4 though fully set forth herein.

5 110. A relationship exists between Plaintiff and the members of the Class on the one hand,
6 and Defendants on the other hand, that requires an accounting.

7 111. Specifically, Defendants are merchants of gasoline and Plaintiff and the members of 8 the Class are customers of Defendants.

9 112. Through the acts alleged herein, Defendants unlawfully overcharged Plaintiff and the 10 members of the Class in the sale of gasoline.

11 113. Therefore, Defendants possess money belonging to Plaintiff and the members of the 12 Class that Defendants must return.

13 114. The exact balance owed by Defendants to Plaintiff and the members of the Class is 14 unknown to Plaintiff and cannot be ascertained without an accounting of the amounts paid to 15 Defendants during the class period for all Debit Card charges and the amount of gasoline purchased 16 with a debit card by Plaintiff and the members of the Class.

17 115. Such accounting will facilitate restitution to Plaintiff and the members of the Class of 18 all funds obtained by Defendants' unlawful acts.

19 116. Therefore, Plaintiff seeks an accounting of Defendants' ill-gotten proceeds and to 20 recover such sums owed to Plaintiff and the members of the Class.

21 PRAYER FOR RELIEF

22 WHEREFORE, Plaintiff respectfully prays for a judgment as follows:

23 A. Certifying the Class as requested herein, appointing Plaintiff as Class Representative, 24 and appointing Robbins Geller Rudman & Dowd LLP and Hobson, Bernardino & Davis, LLP as 25 Class counsel;

26 B. Declaring that Defendants committed the violations alleged herein;

27 C. Awarding Plaintiff and the members of the Class damages, including punitive 28 damages and interest thereon;

1 D. Awarding restitution and disgorgement of Defendants' revenues to Plaintiff and the 2 members of the Class;

3 E. Awarding declaratory, injunctive and other equitable relief as permitted by law or 4 equity, including enjoining Defendants from continuing the unlawful practices described herein, and 5 directing Defendants to identify, with this Court's supervision, victims of their conduct and pay them
6 restitution and disgorge all monies Defendants acquired through any act or practice declared by this 7 Court to be wrongful or unlawful;

8 F. Awarding Plaintiff attorneys' fees and costs; and 9 G. Providing any and all further legal and equitable relief as this Court may deem just 10 and proper.

11 JURY DEMAND

12 Pursuant to Rule 38(b) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, and Local Rules of this 13 Court, Plaintiff respectfully demands trial by jury on all issues so triable.
