

Ragley rubber love

We like the look of these new Logo and Half Waffle grips from Ragley because they feature a solid aluminium end cap that's chamfered or domed so looks like it might be comfortable if you ride with your hands over the ends of the bars. Knocking the edge off might mean it won't wear as badly as the ODI Lock-Jaw clamps too. Both are available in a range of colours and a soft-compound black model for increased traction. Both grips are £14.99.

Ragley claims its new Rude Pump is tough enough to fend off trail predators, capable of 180psi and has an interchangeable head for 'proper valves' or 'car-type-ones'. It is CNC'd aluminium and has a tactile rubber handle for comfort and costs £19.99. Via www.hotlines-uk.com or www.ragleybikes.com.