

In this complimentary webinar, PsyAsia International's registered business psychologist will review aspects of the Saville Consulting Wave. The Wave is the 21st Century's Revolution in Personality Assessment. It was developed by the best known name in modern Psychometrics, Professor Peter Saville. Independent, comparative research has shown that the validity of the Wave surpasses that usually expected of personality tests and that the tool beats its competitors in predicting performance and leadership at work. In fact, Wave has been so influential that its nearest rival felt the need to revisit their own personality test and to use the term revolution too in their update. However, it turned out to be a revamping rather than a revolution!! So, what makes the Wave such a fantastic tool. Why has Saville Consulting grown so fast over the past few years from nothing to representation in over 60 countries and a move to a larger office to house their growing team?

This webinar will take attendees through the revolutionary characteristics of the Wave in an accessible way. You'll also get to see the validity study results. After attending the webinar, you'll understand why the Saville Consulting Wave has been so well received and why it has changed the status quo in personality testing that has existed since the 1980s.

The complimentary webinar is open to all HR and related professionals in Asia who provide truthful data and a corporate email address when registering. It is not open to competitors.
