

At Mulgrave
school, I
see a tree
that is a black
shadowy colour. It

is because it is facing away from the vermillion red sun. The aqua blue sky seems like it is reaching for the long limbs of the tree. There are warm breezes that push the tree gracefully. We are one of the provinces that can see the aqua marine colour of the wide open sea.

(Victoria Mulgrave)