

Covenant Violations Still A Problem In Brandermill

Most Brandermill residents remember that they are required to get permission from the BCA's Architectural Advisory Board before making any change on the outside of their home (including painting) after the builder has completed the structure, and that NO structure of any kind (including mailboxes, dog houses, sheds, fences) may be constructed on the lot without approval of the BCA.

However... some people continue to build fences and additions to their home, even attempting to build their own mailboxes! The results are quite often unsatisfactory.

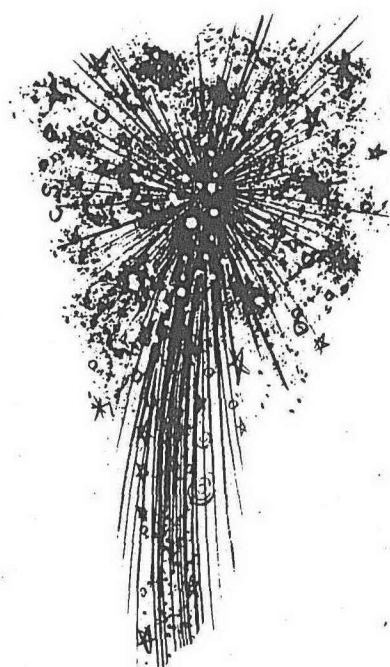

We suggest that, when in doubt as to what to do, call the BCA office at 744-1035. That way, we can avoid unpleasant confrontations "after the fact" with residents who feel that they will not be required to listen to any argument once the structure is in place. Sometimes, residents seek their own legal support, but please be advised that the BCA Covenants are legal and binding; they have been tested in court.

The best way to avoid unnecessary, prolonged, and sometimes legal confrontations, is to follow this simple rule: WHEN IN DOUBT, CALL THE BCA OFFICE AT 744-1035.

The Covenants were written to protect the property values of everyone. The enforcement of them is programmed to accomplish the same objective.

— Fred Bott, Community Manager

Brandermill Celebrates The 4th!

Brandermill celebrates the 4th in a big way! For the third year in a row, Debbie Braun was chairman of the annual parade, an event eagerly anticipated by both young and old. There were clowns and floats and even a Chesterfield County fire engine. At Nuttree Park, judges huddled over the very difficult prize award decisions, while parade watchers and marchers enjoyed watermelon—and more watermelon.

There was something for everyone to do to celebrate the 208th birthday of America. Golf tournaments for big kids and little, relay races at the pool, a barbecue and swing band at the country club. Back yard picnics were the order of the day.

At dusk, Brandermill families gathered at the waterfront for a spectacular fireworks display, launched from Woodlake by Benjie Cox of Fireworks Unlimited, Yanceyville, N.C.

It was a glorious 4th in the finest tradition.

Board Action

June 18, 1984

All Board members present. BCA Community Manager and Assistant Manager present.

BCA Personnel Procedures

An updated edition of BCA Personnel Standards and Procedures as presented to the board by members Art Haake and Branch Lawson (previously charged with review and revisions). After minor amendments, it will be signed by board President Hohn Maphis.

Charitable Contributions

The board reviewed a request by Dot Worsham, Chairman of "Parents for Drug Free Youth" for a BCA donation to support the work of that organization. After considerable discussion, it was decided to commit $100 in "seed money" to this worthwhile project. In denying a larger donation, the board reaffirmed its strong support for this and other youth-oriented organizations (athletic associations, scouts, etc.), but felt that such programs should first seek support from the general community. A suggestion was made that the needs of the Drug Abuse program be included on the next agenda of the Neighborhood Rep Council.

In another matter related to funding, the board acknowledged contributions to the BCA from JHK Associates and Brandermill Woods. In forwarding their contributions, both organizations extended their appreciation for assistance received from the BCA. (JHK Associates conducted a traffic pattern survey within Brandermill, and Brandermill Woods is the developer of a new life-care complex. See Village Mill 6/84).

Overdue Assessments

Collection of overdue assessments was an agenda item that addressed the need to take legal action, if necessary, against a builder whose assessments are more than a year overdue. Current BCA policy states that legal action be taken to collect monies that are overdue for a period longer than six months. It was the consensus of the board that this policy should be enforced equally, without regard to whether the offender was a resident or builder.

Other Actions

- A discussion of changing terms of office for BCA board members, from the present two year term to a three year term of office, was tabled until a later date.
- The board denied the request of the Greenwood Country Day School to rent the Community Center from August 30, 1984 to May 30, 1985. It was the feeling of the board that it would be unfair to the community-at-large to tie up the building for such an extended period of time.
- Also with regard to the Community Center, the board agreed to proceed with the installation of an air conditioning system in order to make that facility more useable during summer months. Target cost is $1,600., with a portion of the cost to be paid by donations to the Community Center (already received).
- Leasing of a truck at $100. a month to support the increased work load of the BCA carpenter shop was approved.
- The BCA monthly financial statement was reviewed and accepted.
- A Woodbridge covenant violation was reviewed and referred for action to the Woodbridge Crossing Community Association.
- The idea of developing several as-yet-undetermined neighborhood open space islands into play areas was discussed, and the matter was referred to the Neighborhood Rep Council for review and comment to the BCA board.
- The next meeting of the BCA Board of Directors is scheduled for Monday, July 16, at the BCA offices located in the Business Park.

Depew Rates Facilities "Tops"

Brandermill Country Club has the type of tennis program and facility that could make any tennis or country club green with envy. The Club, now in its 9th year of existence, hardly qualified for senior status. Judging from the size of the tennis facility and the depth of the tennis program, however, one would think that Brandermill was (at least!) at the half century mark.

Brandermill boasts 24 tennis courts - of which 18 are clay - and an excellent ratio of members to courts. The courts are maintained on a scheduled daily basis, so that a maximum number of courts are always available for use. The courts are located in tiers complete with spectator viewing area. The Club boasts a complete tennis shop which stocks any tennis necessity: shoes, clothes, rackets and on-the-premise racket stringing.

The entire operation is headed by John DePew, Director of Tennis for Brandermill Country Club. DePew is obviously pleased with this exceptional facility. John came to Brandermill 2 summers ago, assuming the position of Head Pro under David Snidow, the Director at that time. DePew had worked for Snidow as an assistant pro for one summer while he was in college so he was familiar with the Club. In May of 1983, Snidow left the Club for a career in insurance, leaving the Director's position open for DePew.

DePew is by no means a newcomer to tennis. He started playing at the age of 10 at Sailbury Country Club. He became one of the leading players in the area and state and went on to win a number of titles and ranking which include: playing no. 1 for Midlothian High School; being no. 1 in the State in 1975 for the 16 and under age group; winning the Midlothian Atlantic Lawn Tennis Association (MALTA) 18 and under doubles in 1977 and winning the State 21 and under doubles in 1976 and 1978.

DePew also was awarded the MALTA Sportsmanship Award in 1974, which is considered to be equally as illustrious as winning a tournament.

John attended Wake Forest University in Winston-Salem, North Carolina, on a tennis scholarship. He transferred after 2 years to the University of Richmond, where he continued to play tennis in the No. 1 slot for singles and doubles. He graduated in 1981 with a degree in Economics.

DePew is assisted by George Foreman, a recent graduate of William and Mary, where he played in the no. 3 slot. Foreman's background includes 3 years on the

Brandermill Community Association News

Letters . . .

Dear Editor:

When a salesman speaks of Brandermill, he speaks of the facilities it has to offer; the reason why it was chosen the Best Planned Community in America. It has a Country Club system that is available to all of its residents, including a beautiful 18-hole golf course, five swimming pools, 27 tennis courts and 15 miles of bike paths. The lake offers sailing and fishing, not to mention all the romantic evenings it provides with its gorgeous sunsets!

What I want to write about is what I think truly makes Brandermill the Best Community, planned or otherwise. After living here 4 years, I am constantly reminded of the fantastic people that have chosen Brandermill for their home. Through my work with AFS, I have met many families, some with small children like our own, some with teenagers, and some with no children at all. But they all have the same desire to meet people, and to share life with each other.

We are getting ready for our third AFS Bus Stop. From July 7th through July 11th we will be hosting 35 students from 23 countries. These students have spent the past year in Arkansas, going to high school and living with families, just as our own Catherine and Renato have done. It requires a lot of help and a lot of work to make this Bus Stop a success. It would be almost impossible for me to thank all the people that have helped make our experiences so positive. The Country Club has done wonders giving us some of the friendliest service anywhere. The Swift Creek Kiwanis Club has helped us every year with our barbecue. Pizza Hut is even throwing us a party! We have received donations from Baskin-Robbins and Brown Distributing as well. All these people and companies represent the true spirit of Brandermill, the REAL reason why "I can't wait to get home."

We should be proud to share our community with these students. This will be their final experience in the United States before returning home. What better way to see America than right here in the Community that has everything you could ever need, but most importantly, the most friendly and generous people anywhere! "Thank you" to all of you who are sharing your home with these students; "thank you" to all of you who help make their visit so memorable.

Hot Dogs - Common Choking Culprit With Children

Hot dogs are a staple of the American diet. But for some unfortunate children, they are nails in the coffin.

A recent report in the Journal of the American Medical Association reported 17 percent of all child choking deaths are caused by hot dogs. When a child chokes to death -- and one does every five days in America -- a bit of hot dog is the most common culprit.

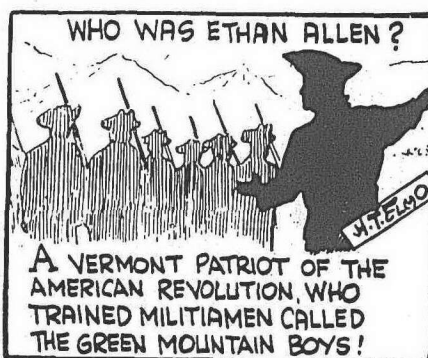

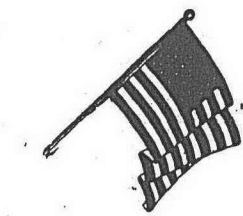

The problem is that hot dogs are round, compressible and the perfect size to block an airway. Of the three-year-olds who choked to death between 1979 and 1981, 70 percent choked on hot dogs. Among one-year-olds -- an age group who suffer highest rate of choking deaths -- carrots and hot dogs are the most frequent killers. Candy, nuts and grapes are other frequent causes of child asphyxiation.

Researchers counsel that children under age four should never be given whole hot dogs that are cut cross-wise. Cutting a hot dog lengthwise into small sections may lower the risk of choking.

Dr. Mark Stensland, emergency medicine physician, warns that you should never shake or turn a choking child upside down. This could cause the obstruction to completely cut off the air supply. He also warns against putting your fingers into a choking child's mouth to try to dislodge the obstruction. This could push the object into the larynx and block breathing.

Many non-food products which present choking hazards for small children are federally regulated. Some special interest groups are advocating new food packaging, new shapes and warning labels to reduce choking risks.

Parents are advised to use caution and judgement when feeding children. Don't provide foods that are round and difficult to chew. Cut up or mash foods that are most likely to cause choking. Most importantly, supervise youngsters, especially those under age four, while they are eating.

Dr. Stensland also recommends that all parents learn to perform the Heimlich maneuver on their child or infant. Most pediatricians can instruct them on this safety procedure which is greatly successful in saving the lives of choking victims.

Brandys: Under New Management

Brandys' Lakeside Restaurant has got something new! During the month of June, STEVE C. HINTZE joined BOB HARRI in a partnership of Brandys' with the idea of forming a more upbeat atmosphere at the Brandermill restaurant. Steve will be the general manager and partner-owner. He is also a part of the community in that he is a new resident of the Quail Hill neighborhood, along with wife Cynthia and 3-year-old son Brandon. The Hintzes are expecting a new addition to the family some time this month.

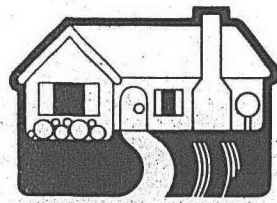

Steve's extensive background in the restaurant business includes the opening of TGI Friday's in Richmond in 1982 and TGI Friday's in Virginia Beach in 1983, both of which are successful operations. Steve will be assisted in the daily questions of Brandys' by WARREN H. MORRELL.

Steve hopes to liven the place up and has planned to renovate the upstairs lounge for banquet facilities accommodating up to 50 people. He also plans on having some fun "happy hours" with free hors d'oeuvres. Special events planned include neighborhood nights, beach party nights and family nights.

The restaurant will be attractive to all age groups and light entertainment will be offered. The menu will feature more variety and offer new seafood and Italian dishes. Steve plans to give folks their money's worth in dining as emphasis will be placed on "price value". The hours will be extended to include Sunday night.

These new changes should be in effect by the latter part of this month. The restaurant is located in Sunday Park at 4602 Millridge Parkway. Reservations are accepted. Call 744-1330.

The deadline for the August issue of the Village Mill is Friday, July 27 at 4 p.m. The August newspaper will be distributed on Monday, August 6.

Stamps Benefit Waterfowl

For those collectors of Federal Duck Stamp prints, this is an exciting time of year, for only those individuals who place their orders with selected dealers by July 31 will be the proud owners of the Fiftieth Anniversary limited edition lithograph, a pair of widgeons on water by William C. Morris, when it is released in the fall. Each year's edition is limited to the number of orders received prior to the issue, and prints of the stamp design, which have been produced by some of America's finest sporting artists, have become some of the most collectible items in America today. The stamps themselves represent the longest running annually issued series in revenue or postage stamp issue.

Revenue from the sale of these stamps, formally known as the Federal Migratory Bird Hunting and Conservation Stamp and commonly called Federal "Duck Stamps", is used for the custodianship of waterfowl within U.S. borders. The Federal Migratory Waterfowl Act went into effect July 1, 1934, largely due to the efforts of cartoonist and conservationist J.N. "Ding" Darling, who was appointed by Roosevelt as Chief of the U.S. Biological Survey. Appalled by the condition of waterways and lax hunting controls, Darling was instrumental in getting Congress to pass a bill allocating $6,000,000 for wildlife restoration programs - upgrading federal law enforcement, strengthening waterfowl regulations and establishing programs to train wildlife biologists. The original stamp sold for $1.00 and could be purchased by hunters and used with a valid state hunting license anywhere in the U.S. Thus sportsmen and others who purchase the stamps have contributed directly to the acquisition, development and maintenance of national wildlife refuges. Spotted strategically along the flight paths of birds, these refuges give sanctuary to great numbers of migrant and wintering ducks and geese.

Each year a public contest is conducted by the Fish and Wildlife Service to select a design for the next year's stamp. Fittingly, "Ding" Darling was chosen artist for the first year's stamp. Issues of stamps prior to 1941 are exceedingly rare due to early laws requiring destruction of all unsold stamps at the expiration date. Prints of the early designs were not sold until several years later, when approximately 150 of the original design were sold for $15.00 each. Originals of the early designs are now worth up to $7,000. Last year's edition numbered 6700, and prints-old for $135, while stamps now are $7.50. While there is no remuneration for the winner, the distinction is honorable, and interest in the framed collectibles became quite popular in the '70's. This year's artist, William C. Morris of Mobile, Alabama, won the federal competition over 1,581 other artists, and, in addition, the Alabama state competition, a combined feat which no previous federal winner can boast. His print can be purchased as a regular signed limited edition or as a special Golden Anniversary Commemorative Prince and Medallion Set. To date, on this 50th anniversary year of Federal Duck Stamps, 84 million stamps have been sold, 256 million dollars have been raised and 2.5 million acres of waterfowl habitat have been acquired. Through the purchase of duck stamps and prints, conservationists, hunters and wildlife art lovers all combine to enjoy, preserve, and enhance America's waterfowl.

Editor's Note: Persons interested in acquiring Federal Duck Stamp prints should contact Pat Libby at 744-3513 or 744-5886 before July 31.

Local Extension Office Offers Canning Check-up, Azalea Seminar

In preparation for the peak canning season, the Chesterfield County Extension Service will inspect and check home pressure canners at Ukrop's Stores located in Bermuda Square, Sycamore Square and Oxbridge Square on Thursday and Friday, July 12 and 13 between the hours of 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Ukrops invites customers to stop by for this free service. Shoppers should bring only the canner lid (including gasket) for the test (which takes only a few minutes).

Master Food Preservers will be on hand to answer questions and offer suggestions on various methods of food preservation such as canning, freezing, drying, pickling, jams, jellies and preservations.

Whether you have a new interest in home canning or have years of experience, experts recommend an annual "check-up" for equipment. This is also an opportunity to update your understanding of the steps to safely preserve the garden's bounty for your family.

The Chesterfield office of the Virginia Cooperative Extension Service provides citizens a variety of educational services in the areas of homemaking and horticulture. For a direct inquiry, contact: Skip Henderson, Extension Agent, Home Economics, P.O. Box 146, Chesterfield, VA 23832 - Phone: 748-5879 or 271-8988.

Growing your own plants from cuttings can be fun and save money!

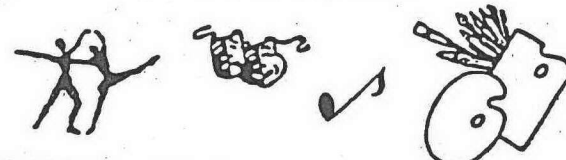

The Chesterfield Office of the Virginia Cooperative Extension Service will conduct a workshop on "Starting Azaleas from Cuttings". The workshop will be held on Tuesday, July 10 from 9 a.m. until 11 a.m. at Goynes Park in Chester.

Participants will learn about soil mixes, rooting hormones, and the proper time to take cuttings for best success.

The class is offered at no charge. However, participants must register by calling the Chesterfield Extension Office at 217-8988 or 748-5879.

Defending The Homefront

Well, it's that time of year again. The sun is warm, the days are long, and yes, the fleas are back!

Having lived most of my life in the cooler climate of Western New York, I have to admit that I came to Virginia with only the most basic knowledge of pest control. I'm pretty good at rolling up a newspaper and swatting the stray fly or wasp that has the misfortune to wander into our home, but whole families of fleas demand an entirely new strategy. For the enlightenment of other new Virginians (and probably the amusement of more established residents) I herewith detail my plan of attack.

The dictionary defines "fleas" as "any group of small wingless leaping bloodsucking insects." If you have a pet and lots of maddeningly itchy bites about your feet and ankles, there's a good bet that you have a houseful of fleas. Last year we were lucky. I faithfully sprinkled our cat with flea powder every other day and that seemed to solve the problem. However, this summer it's another story entirely.

When your flea problems get out of control, a catch-as-catch-can approach just won't work. You must wage all-out war; small they may be, but remember: there's strength in numbers! On the other hand, you have the advantage of modern pesticides.

Purchase a flea fogger or "bomb" from your veterinarian or the local grocery store. Be sure to check the instructions printed on the container to make sure you have an adequate amount to cover the square footage in your house. (Generally speaking, what you buy from the vet will cost more, but will cover a larger area.)

Release the bomb only after you have removed people and pets and food - and plan to stay away from your house for at least two hours. After that time, you can return, briefly, to open the windows and then quickly retreat to the out-of-doors while your home "airs out."

When you return a second time to your house (after about an hour), the real "fun" begins. If you didn't get around to spring housecleaning, you now have it forced upon you. A quick inspection will uncover a multitude of dead (and almost dead) fleas - everywhere. So, after you have all your bedding gathered up and ready to wash, you may wish to do the same with curtains and/or draperies. While the washing machine is working for you, fill your vacuum cleaner bag with moth balls (they will kill any larvae that hatch in the bag) and vacuum everything: upholstery, mattresses, rugs. Everything.

As you finish up the last load of wash, it's a good time to go and look for you cat and/or dog (whichever is playing host to the fleas in the first place) and spray them with a good flea mist. My vet doesn't set much store by flea collars or powders as he feels they provide only the most minimal protection for your pet - and you. A word of caution: buy twice as much flea fogger as you think you'll need because, in 10 days, you'll have to repeat the "bombing" raid. I'm told by the experts that the reason for this is to kill the second generation of fleas that were larvae (safely ensconced in their hard shell eggs) the first time you "attacked". The 10-day factor is important: the second generation should have hatched by this time, but not yet had the opportunity to lay MORE eggs.

Between fogging operations I also took the added precaution of using an aerosol spray around the windows and doors and on the carpet; after all that extra housework, I was taking no chances!

If you follow all of the above, you should have your flea problems under control. However, leading Virginia Tech Entomologist Bill Robinson warns, "fleas are becoming immune to the insecticides we presently use" (most products contain malathion, sevin and pyrethrins as their major ingredients). According to Chesterfield County Extension Agent Richard Nunally, "if this kind of resistance is present in your home, you'll have to call in a professional exterminator who has access to other, regulated insecticides, such as Knoxout or Precore. That - almost always - provides good, immediate control." In extreme cases, both Robinson and Nunally agree that the only long-lasting cure may be to get rid of your pets.

Since placing our cat in a foster home with friends in Buffalo, New York is a last-ditch resort, I'm trying all the suggested procedures I've listed here. We're at the "second-bombing" stage. I'll let you know how it goes.

Variety Of Classes Featured At Tyler's Watkins Annex

If you've ever wanted to get a college degree, take a course in microcomputers or watercoloring, learn to speak a foreign language or cook a meal in a microwave oven, come to John Tyler Community College's Watkins Annex in the fall. All these classes, and more, are being scheduled for the college's Midlothian branch which will be fully operational in September. Larry Adams, Director of the Watkins Annex, promises some interesting courses for everyone.

Dr. Adams has seen the classrooms get painted, the desks and chairs arranged, the blackboards repaired, and various other projects completed at the Annex which will make the college building a comfortable learning environment for the many area residents, who wish to pursue degrees and courses in higher education, or interests and hobbies in continuing education.

The Annex, according to Dr. Adams, "will offer most of the core courses common to the degree programs taught in the community college and a vast majority of the same courses offered at the campus in Chester." There may even be some new ones.

For instance, Dr. Adams said that in an effort to provide as wide a range of physical education classes as possible, arrangements with Courtside at Brandermill and Robious Racquet Club are underway. Besides aerobic dancing that is now taught through the college's physical education department, racquetball will be introduced.

Local businesses will gain from having the additional college facilities available. Special training programs can be arranged to suit their needs, using either the Annex facilities as a training site or college personnel on location. Dr. Adams said that he would be happy to help businesses arrange such programs through the Division of Continuing Education.

High school seniors who have high marks will also find something at the Annex according to Adams. It is possible to enroll in some credit college courses if a student has permission from his principal. In this way, Dr. Adams said, some students can get a jump on their college studies. This is especially helpful in the areas of math and English.

Since this is the age of the computer, classes in computer programming will be special part of the college's offerings. Dr. Adams said that there is a microcomputer lab presently being installed which will accommodate the large numbers of students expected to enroll in the various computer classes.

Adams noted that the use of microcomputer for small businesses and home use will be only one of the various classes on computer use that the college will offer in the near future. In the meantime, lecture classes in data processing, flowcharting and word processing will begin this fall.

A moderately priced home isn't that at all if you have to pay high heating and cooling bills on top of your monthly mortgage payment. That's why the builder of Brandermill's new Ridge Creek neighborhood has gone beyond simply building an array of handsome contemporary homes priced from $65,000 to $85,000.

Ridge Creek's builder has made every home here an Energy Saver Home, certified in writing by Virginia Electric and Power Company to meet thermal and equipment standards that can save you 20% to 45% in heating and cooling bills compared with a conventional home.

Homes in this neighborhood have three bedrooms and 2½ baths. Vaulted ceilings, skylights, and a fireplace all highlight a spacious living room.

In the kitchen, you'll find a microwave and a continuous cleaning oven, a dishwasher and a garbage disposal, and a surprising amount of honest to goodness pantry space.

Can all this be part of a home that costs as little as $65,000? See for yourself by visiting Ridge Creek's furnished model, open 1-6 every Sunday. Or just call Brandermill Realty at 744-1000 for more information.

Main Dish Salad Summer Solution

When called on to bring a main dish to a summer event immediately after work or a busy day, don't panic! A main dish salad is the summer solution.

Follow a few basic secrets to make a salad hearty enough to be a main dish and tasty enough to whet summer appetites. Number one, make it a meat salad. Cook chicken, chop and toss it in spices while still warm. This insures that the flavors will penetrate the meat. Second, choose a crisp variety of lettuce, such as, Romaine, that will not wilt easily when used as a salad base. Third, layer rather than toss the salad ingredients for appetite appeal. Finally, prepare the salad ahead.

Advanced preparation requires covering with plastic wrap and refrigerating. Choose the plastic wrap as wisely as the salad ingredients. Key to your choice is a plastic that wrap that clings well. Select one of the newer plastic wraps now in supermarkets that can be gently "stretched to fit" large salad bowls. This insures a tight cling and protects your salad's freshness. Begin now with CHICKEN TOSTADA SUPREME.

- Chicken Tostada Supreme
 3 cups shredded Romaine lettuce
 3 lb. broiler-fryer chicken, cooked and chopped
 1 can (4 oz.) chopped green chilies and liquid
 ½ teaspoon chili powder
 ¼ teaspoon cumin
 ¼ teaspoon salt
 ¼ teaspoon garlic powder
 1 can (16 oz.) kidney beans, drained
 1 cup (4 oz.) shredded Monterey Jack cheese
 1 large tomato, chopped

- ½ cup sliced ripe olives
 ½ cup dairy sour cream
 3 tablespoons taco sauce
 8 to 10 tostada shells

Place lettuce in 2½ quart straight-sided glass bowl. Combine chicken with chilies and liquid, cumin, chili powder, salt and garlic powder. Spoon over lettuce layer. Top with a layer of beans then cheese. Combine tomato and olives; spoon around edge of bowl in a 2-inch band. Combine sour cream and taco sauce; fill center. Cover bowl with plastic wrap, stretching to fit.

Refrigerate several hours or overnight. For each serving, spoon out some of each layer onto heated tostada shells. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

To Micro-Cook Chicken: Place chicken parts in 12x8x2 inch baking dish with meatiest parts towards outside edge. If desired, season with sliced onion and parsley. Cover dish with plastic wrap, turning back, one edge to vent. Micro-cook at high power setting 10 to 14 minutes, turning dish several times or until chicken is tender. Cool and remove from bone.

A fireplace can do a lot to make a house feel like a home.

But the builders of the new homes at Brandermill's Copper Hill didn't stop there.

The people who are building this small neighborhood of contemporary and transitional homes know that many materials and amenities that warmed generations of fine homes can work beautifully with the clean lines and open spaces of contemporary architecture.

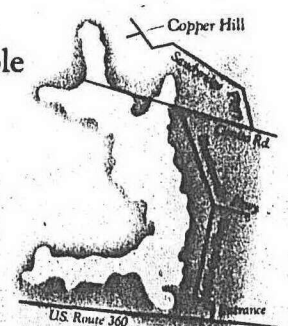

When you visit the homes of Copperhill, you'll find vaulted ceilings and skylights. But you'll find, too, that each home has a formal dining room.

In energy efficient homes that offer microwaves and Jenn Air ranges, don't be surprised to find Italian tile in the foyer. Or marble vanities just steps away from the latest in whirlpool baths.

At Copper Hill, you'll see a variety of homes with 3 to 4 bedrooms, 2 to 2½ baths, a deck and, in many cases, a garage. You'll have a choice of one or two story homes combining many or all of Copper Hill's special features in a price range of $90,000 to $110,000.

Chances are, you're just a few minutes from Copper Hill. So call Brandermill Realty at 744-1000 to tour the models at Copper Hill. Or, drive past the St. Ledger pool on Sandyridge Parkway and see how the contemporary homes of Copper Hill can make you feel right at home.

Houston Elected Commissioner

John Houston of Autumn Woods has been elected Commissioner of the Chesterfield County Quarter-back League. As Commissioner, John will direct the affairs of the youth football program made up of over 20 athletic associations representing elementary school districts within Chesterfield County.

John, past football coach for the MAA and one of the first Board of Directors for the Swift Creek Athletic Association, was forced to resign from his position of "Administrator of Football" for the SCAA upon accepting the position of Commissioner. SCAA President

Sal Salomone said "We are going to miss John on our board. As with the other organizers of the SCAA, he has spent many long hours which have certainly been appreciated. We are looking forward to working with John this fall in the SCAA's first football season."

Mr. Ed Moore has been appointed as the new Administrator of Football for the SCAA. Ed's strong dedication to the sport of football and his prior coaching experience in Texas and with the MAA will make him a definite asset to the SCAA and the youth football program in our community.

Winner

Vince Van Patten prepares to slam back his opponents shot during a match at the Investors Savings and Loan Tennis Classic, held in Brandermill. Van Patten went on to win the Classic.

Tennis-- from page one

tennis team at St. Christopher's School (which led to a tennis scholarship at William and Mary). George has won the City Doubles Title; the University of Richmond Invitational and the Westwood Invitational Doubles Crown.

DePew currently oversees the entire tennis program at Brandermill which is a 6-day-a-week, year-round job. The tennis program does not cease at the end of the summer, by any means! DePew's duties include planning and coordinating clinics, teaching lessons, running the tennis pro shop, working with the men's, women's and junior's tennis association, and constantly planning ahead, looking for ways to improve the program, to suit the changing needs of the tennis community.

Brandermill also plays hosts to the Investor's Savings and Loan Tennis Classic each May, an eight day satellite tournament of the United States Tennis Association (USTA). The USTA Circuit, one of the most competitive tours in tennis, features a 64 man main draw with players ranging from 50-200 on the computer rankings. The Investors' Classic is the only professional tennis tournament left in Richmond since the demise of the UVB and Central Fidelity tournaments.

Brandermill's tennis program can accommodate any level of play, from beginner through advanced tournament play. The program is divided into Mens, Womens and Junior categories. The mens and womens groups are divided according to ability, while the juniors are grouped by age and ability. Adults can choose from private lessons with DePew or Foreman; league play on A, B, C and D ability levels with matches scheduled with area clubs: "Fun Team" play for beginners and clinics covering various strokes, drills and conditioning techniques.

The interest in junior tennis has grown to such an extent that a Junior Tennis Association was started to serve the needs of these aspiring young players. The structure is much the same as the mens and womens associations but is geared to the special needs of the juniors. More court time has been made available to the juniors and the instructor/child ratio has been decreased for clinics to allow more individual attention.

In an effort to keep actively involved in the tennis community in Richmond, DePew serves as the State Ranking Chairman and an instructor for the Richmond Tennis Patron's Association (RTPA). He devotes 8 hours a week during the winter to instructing a number of juniors from this program on a group basis. He also gives private instruction as needed. The RTPA selects 100 of the areas most promising juniors and allows these individual players the opportunity to develop their potential by providing instruction and financial support to travel to tournaments around the country. Of particular interest is that two of DePew's juniors, Valerie Farm and Wade McGuire, have won the same MALTA Sportsman-ship Award which he won.

DePew's commitment to tennis is obvious. As DePew states: "Tennis is a great sport because you only need one other person to participate as opposed to team sports which required a group effort. You can improve your tennis off the court with conditioning exercises, running, coordination drills and through participation in other aerobic activities. Tennis also develops important attributes in an individual, such as determination, concentration, self-discipline and patience."

His commitment to Brandermill is just as strong. "I feel very fortunate to be part of Brandermill. Brandermill is a very active community which makes my job as Director such a pleasure. The members and employees strive to improve the program so that it continues to fit the needs of the community. There is no other tennis program I would rather be involved with."

Leonard Wins With a 69

Brandermill Pro Jim Leonard won the Farmington Country Club Pro-Member tournament on June 11, shooting a 69 on the Par 70 course.

An annual event, the Pro-Member is a Best Ball/Pro Sweeps Tournament. Two professional golfers were teamed with three amateurs; Leonard won by one stroke over Frank Herrelko, head pro at Salisbury C.C. Jim was 2 under par with 2 holes to go when he bogeyed the next to last hole. A par on the 18th gave him a one-under finish.

"That was my first win in two years and it felt great" says Leonard. "It bolsters my confidence and qualifies me to play in the Tournament of Champions" (to be played at Evergreen C.C. on October 22-23). "As a teaching Pro, it's nice to be able to show your students that you can PLAY, as well as teach!" Pro Tommy Wine shot a 73, which included two double bogeys, and tied for fifth place.

Crawford Signs With Winthrop

Coach Jim Casada announces that JAY CRAWFORD has been signed to play soccer at Winthrop College, South Carolina.

Crawford, a 5-10' striker-midfielder from Clover Hill High School in Midlothian, is Winthrop's first player from Virginia.

At C.H.H.S. Jay was team captain, all-conference, all-county, all-area, and the team's MVP. Coach Casada believes that Crawford has "strengths in desire and coachability, with good scoring abilities and accurate passing talents."

Sky Watch

A Monthly Feature Prepared By The Science Museum of Virginia

JULY SKY CHARTS: To use these sky charts, face either north or south and hold the charts directly in front of you with the horizon on the bottom. The charts show the brightest stars and planets between the horizon and the part of the sky directly overhead during the early evening hours this month.

CONSTELLATIONS: The brightest stars in the southern sky this month can be found in different constellations.

Beginning in the east, look for Altair in the constellation Aquila, the eagle. Along with Vega and Deneb (see north-facing chart), this bright star forms the most noticeable star pattern in the summer skies — the Summer Triangle. Moving high overhead, find Arcturus, the bright star that marks the tail of the kite-shaped constellation, Bootes. In the west, notice Spica, part of the constellation Virgo.

The northern sky's most prominent constellation, the Big Dipper, can be seen standing on the tip of its bowl high overhead. Beneath the Dipper, to the west, look for the bright star Regulus. Regulus marks the "paw" of the constellation Leo, the lion, which is gradually making its way toward the horizon as the month progresses.

PLANETS: Three bright planets dominate the southern evening sky this month.

Mars, known as the red planet, is found low in the south at sunset. As the planet moves eastward during the month, its brightness will diminish by a few magnitudes.

The ringed planet, Saturn, is visible west of Mars, near Spica, at sunset. On July 14, Saturn will become stationary before it resumes its eastward motion across the sky. Jupiter is the brightest planet, reaching its greatest brilliancy this month. It rises about sunset and is found in the constellation Sagittarius in the southeast. In mid-month, the planet just grazes the top of teapot-shaped Sagittarius.

CELESTIAL EVENTS: Look for a waxing gibbous moon to pass within 4° of Mars on July 7, and 3° of Jupiter on July 11, in the late evening sky.

MOON PHASES:
 ☉ First quarter, Thursday, July 5.
 ☽ Full moon, Thursday, July 12.
 ☾ Last Quarter, Saturday, July 21.
 ☾ New Moon, Saturday, July 28.
