LIST OF SERIALS PUBLISHED BY CHURCHES RELATED TO THE UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

Compiled by John Baker-Batsel For the General Commission on Archives and History The United Methodist Church January, 2001
Introduction

This work represents a revision and updating of the Union List of United Methodist Serials, 1773-1973, (Evanston, Illinois, 1974.) The project was assigned to me by the General Commission on Archives and History of the United Methodist Church at its meeting in September, 1997. My work began in earnest in January 1998. The original work took eleven years to compile. The revision and update has taken less than four years. Ninety-seven libraries cooperated with the Union List by supplying information about individual titles and the library’s holdings for titles in the list. That project was initiated by the Methodist Librarians’ Fellowship and supported financially by the Fellowship, the Association of Theological Schools in the United States and Canada, Garrett-Evangelical Theological Seminary and the General Commission on Archives and History. I have edited this update in its entirety by myself with financial support and encouragement from the General Commission.

I have done almost all the research online, consulting library catalogs that are available on the Worldwide Web. All of the United Methodist seminaries have web sites. Three of these do not have online catalogs for their libraries. Six of the sites that have library catalogs do not have serials information for more than a few titles. Of those that provide fuller catalogs online, Garrett-Evangelical Seminary, Drew University and Emory University supplied the bulk of titles for the present work, along with the Library of Congress.

This list does not contain holdings information. Union lists of serials, that is, lists that contain library holdings information, have been abandoned by the library profession in favor of using online catalogs. Some online catalogs list holdings of serials, but not all. At present, the three above-named libraries offer the researcher the best opportunities for locating copies of particular Methodist titles online. Unfortunately, the enormous online database of OCLC is not available for general research purposes. The type of research I have used to prepare this list will be greatly enhanced when the Library of Congress and the government’s committee on standards (Z39) provide for access to library online catalogs by means of a search using various internet search engines. The problems involved in bringing this capability to actual use are daunting, to say the least, and there are no projections at present for implementation of this possibility.

Of necessity, finding unknown titles online required using subject searches. Depending on the structure of the data bases and search engines, such searches have to be refined mainly by using intuition and having good luck in understanding the directions for using the particular catalog. My greatest successes came from modifying standard subject headings from the Library of Congress to fit the search structures of the individual catalogs. In all cases but one, substantial modification of the subject heading was required before results were yielded. That is to say, standard library research techniques do not yet work well with electronic catalogs, confirming the perception of the General Commission on Archives and History that this list will prove to be worthwhile.

I have attempted to keep the format used in the 1973 Union List for the titles added for the United Methodist Church. In the twenty-five years since the publication of the Union List, however, cataloging of serials has undergone a transition, with the main entry now representing each individual title in the succession of titles, whereas the earlier practice found all prior titles listed under the latest title’s main entry. This factor, along with varying standards of cataloging at each library has made a uniform format very difficult to achieve. Tracing the dates and numbering of the first (and last) issues of titles is almost impossible given this situation. The most important case in point, perhaps, are the conference editions of the United Methodist Reporter, United Methodist Record, and United Methodist Review, which sometimes used the numbering of the national edition. Libraries list the first issue of their holdings, not the first issue of the title. Bibliographic control of the several editions is problematic, at best. I have an idea that it will be the archivists of the church who will ultimately provide accurate bibliographic control of United Methodist serial publications. Although the General Commission on Archives and History has a firm commitment to providing a global scope to their work, the present state of online catalogs does not permit the inclusion of titles foreign to the United States. Consequently I have not included publications of the provisional conferences of the United Methodist Church. This is an unfortunate circumstance that does not have a clear remedy at the moment.

The Union List listed all titles in a single alphabet. I have chosen to list the titles of each Church separately, because there is much that can be learned about the church from such an arrangement. For instance, it is easy to see that the Dubsite branch of the Evangelical Association published a very few conference journals, and no other serials. The Union List employed a format from Gregory’s Union List of Serials that was filled with abbreviations of all sorts. I have eliminated abbreviations in favor of readability.
In short, I have tried to provide a work that will be easily accessible by the usual internet user, such as the high school student from Louisiana who found me, who knows how, with a question about the United Methodist Church that she needed answered for a term paper. I do believe that the scholarly public will find this work helpful as well. These are my hopes.

Acknowledgements

Thanks are due to many people who have encouraged and supported me during the preparation of this work. Charles Yrigoyen, Jr., General Secretary of the General Commission on Archives and History posed the question of revising and updating the outof-print Union List of United Methodist Serials, 1773-1973 and moved the process along at every stage. William K. Quick took an aggressive leadership role in the Commission meetings when plans were discussed, approved and funded. Dale Patterson, Archivist, has been very helpful in answering questions of formatting and design to be consistent with the structure of the General Commission’s web site. Edwin Schell, in his Table of United Methodist Church Annual Conferences, 1796-1997, completed his very thorough revision of Albea Godbold and John Ness’s work on annual conferences just in time to allow me to revise my conference journal entries with confidence.

Several librarians shared their opinions and expertise during the year of the feasibility study. Thanks to Bill Hook, Vanderbilt Divinity School, Michael Boddy, Claremont School of Theology, Elmer and Betty O’Brien, Retired, Dave Bundy, Christian Theological Seminary, and Page Thomas, Perkins School of Theology.
I am grateful for all the members of the General Commission, who were willing to learn about the arcane nature of serial publications in order to make their decisions about the preparation and publication of this work. Russell E. Richey gave special personal encouragement to me.

Finally, I give deep thanks to my wife, Patricia Baker-Batsel, herself an excellent librarian, for her patience and understanding.

How to Use the List of Serials

The List of Serials... is intended to be read using Acrobat™ Reader 4.0 or later. Open “Bookmarks” by clicking on its tab. Click on a heading to go to that section of the list. Click on the triangle preceding a heading in order to expand (or contract) that heading. There is a bookmark for each page in the list of titles. The titles of the serial publications are listed in alphabetical arrangement by latest title. Cross references have links to referred titles. After using a link to see the referred title, you may use the Acrobat “back” arrow to return to the referring entry.
Sample entries and explanations

The title is listed under both The Methodist Church, 1939-68 and The United Methodist Church because it began under the former church and continues with the same numbering in the latter church. The title is in the United Methodist Church list, so that name does not appear in the square brackets denoting sponsorship. The change in title denotes only the change in the official name of the church after merger took place in 1968. In the United Methodist Church list, there is a See reference from Central Pennsylvania Methodist to Central Pennsylvania United Methodist.

Conference journals have been given uniform titles; that is, ‘journal’ is used as a title even though ‘minutes’ or some other designation appears on the publication itself. Place of publication for conference journals is always omitted. Since conference journals may not be numbered, the titles are assumed to start anew with the date of the merger of churches, so long as the conference continued its existence in the new church. In 1968, several conferences of both the Methodist Church and the Evangelical United Brethren Church continued for a year before merger was effected at the conference level. Dates of conference journals in this list reflect this fact. The Tennessee-Kentucky Conference of the EUB Church was Merged with the Memphis Conference (West Kentucky) and the Louisville Conference (Central Kentucky) of The Methodist Church.

The United Methodist Church was Formed by a merger of the Evangelical United Brethren Church and The Methodist Church in 1968, thus bringing together two major religious traditions that began their work on this continent before the Revolutionary War. Within those traditions both schism and merger were characterized not only by issues of polity and doctrine, but also by major social issues. All of these factors are apparent in the happy tendency of the churches to discuss them openly in their periodicals, with at least one significant exception.¹

In his sermon at the Uniting Conference in Dallas, Dr. Albert Outler said of the ¹ “When The Methodist Magazine, the only Methodist periodical in America at the time, refused to publish controversial subjects that might disturb the harmony of the church, William Stockton published this liberal periodical [The Wesleyan Repository and Religious Intelligencer] to expose the abuses of clerical power and urge more lay representation in the governing bodies of the church.” “Methodist Protestant Recorder.” Encyclopedia of World Methodism, p. 1581.

The essence of the event is self evident: It is the accomplished fact of The United Methodist Church. Where once, scarcely a generation ago, there were five churches, now there is one. Where once our differences kept us apart—with different languages and folk-ways—now they are overcome or else at least contained within a larger circle of committed fellowship. We have been Christian brethren, after a fashion, for the better part of two centuries—but separated brethren. Now our memberships and ministries have been mingled without compromise or indignity; our separate traditions have been sublated and made one.

All told, there have been eleven denominations that preceded and joined or rejoined to become The United Methodist Church.

The United Methodist Church today is not without controversy over several issues, some of which have raised the question whether the church will split once again. A few congregations have already withdrawn from the church. The history of the Church has shown, however, that after division, reconciliation and reunion are the rule, rather than the exception, for people of the Methodist persuasion in this country. Issues that divided us receded in importance or effect over time, and the passion to be one, once again, prevailed. Should not this fact be instrumental in preventing further divisions in this great church?

Part 2 of this work presents those churches in the Methodist tradition and Part 3 presents those in the Evangelical United Brethren tradition. It is a rich heritage that we share in church school curriculum materials, conference journals and such publications as the Telescope Messenger, Methodist History, the United Methodist Reporter, and the long running Zion’s Herald.

The Methodist Tradition

Chapter 1

Methodist Episcopal Church, 1784-1939

The Methodist Episcopal Church is the original American Methodist Church. Methodist work began in the colonies as early as 1766, perhaps earlier. As a result of that labor, Methodist presence in the Colonies was sufficient to receive early responses from John Wesley, who sent ‘missionaries’ Richard Boardman and Joseph Pilmore in 1769, Francis Asbury and Richard Wright in 1771, and Thomas Rankin and George Shadford in 1773. These joined the European emigrants and American converts who began the work, Barbara Heck, Philip Embury, George Webb, Robert Strawbridge, Philip Gatch, William Watters Freeborn Garrettson and Robert Williams.

The needs and demands of the American Methodists, coupled with the spirit of the Colonies that culminated in the Revolutionary War, inevitably led to the establishment of an American Methodist Church. This took place in what is now known as the Christmas Conference of 1784 in Baltimore, Maryland. By majority vote at that conference, what was created was a church with episcopal leadership, independent of British Methodism. John Dickens proposed the name that was adopted by the conference: the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Francis Asbury and Thomas Coke were elected Superintendents of the newly formed Church. Asbury invited Philip William Otterbein, who later was instrumental in the founding of the United Brethren Church, to assist in his (Asbury’s) ordination service. Over the next several years the Church produced its Constitution and Discipline and established a form of government by conference: annual conferences by territory and a general conference that met quadrennially. This government has characterized American Methodism ever since.

Of the schisms from the Methodist Episcopal Church, the first to result in a denomination that later returned to the fold occurred in 1830, when the Methodist Protestant Church separated over the issue of lay representation in the government of the church.

The second such schism was occasioned mainly by disagreements over the issue of slavery, and the Methodist Episcopal Church, South was formally created in 1844, after much debate and the approval of a “plan of separation” that had carefully been drafted for the purpose of splitting the assets of the church.

These three bodies united in 1939, becoming The Methodist Church (1939-68)

After the conferences of the Methodist Episcopal Church and local congregations within them were well established, many of the ministers and laity began to distrust the episcopal system of the Church, and began to promote lay representation at the conferences, particularly at the general conference, the main legislative body of the denomination. They preferred that presiding elders be elected, rather than appointed by the bishop, and wanted lay preachers to be more fully included in the affairs of the conference. These movements were thoroughly rejected, and the Methodist Protestant Church was formed in 1830 by the dissenters, some of whom had been expelled from the Baltimore Conference for “spreading incendiary publications”. The newly formed church failed to implement the fuller inclusion of lay preachers in the work of the conference. In the course of the controversy prior to the schism, the group of ‘radicals’ who supported lay representation had begun the publication of the periodical, Mutual Rights of the Ministers and Members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, to succeed Wesleyan Repository. In the new church, appointments were made by the president of the conference, who was elected. The General Conference elected a president to serve during the term of the conference. In all other matters, the form of government was retained from the Methodist system. Whether in the Methodist Episcopal Church or the Methodist Protestant Church, the title Mutual Rights refers to equal representation by clergy and laity in the government of the church.

3 Encyclopedia of World Methodism. P. 1578. The Methodist Episcopal Church, South admitted lay representatives equal to the number of ministers at the 1870 General Conference. The Methodist Episcopal Church admitted two lay representatives from each conference, beginning in 1872. By 1900, the M. E. Church provided equal representation by ministers and laity in the General Conference.

The issue of slavery affected not only the Methodist Episcopal Church, but the Methodist Protestant Church as well. In effect, the northern and western branches of the Methodist Protestant Church began organizing an anti-slavery campaign in 1857. The General Conference of 1858 rejected their memorial (proposed legislation). The group held a “General Convention” later that year. The delegates from the 19 conferences voted to dissolve relations from those conferences that practiced or tolerated slave-holding. The name “Methodist Church” was adopted in 1866. This church remained separated from the main body of the Church until the Civil War and its aftermath removed the issue of slavery and allowed the reunion of the Methodist Church with the Methodist Protestant Church in 1877.

In 1844, 14 years after the Methodist Protestant Church schism, the Methodist Episcopal Church split again. This time the schism was caused by long-standing disagreements over the ownership of slaves. The Christmas Conference of 1784 that founded the Methodist Episcopal Church proposed to work to eliminate the abomination of slavery. There is not much evidence that the circuit riders that took the Methodist work into slave-owning territories were able to accomplish anything in this regard. The exception to this generalization occurred in the Delmarva and other areas of Maryland where a significant number of manumissions were reported. The only requirement for becoming a Methodist was a “desire to flee from the wrath to come.” Sympathies with slave ownership were no impediment to conversion.

As a result, large numbers of those who supported the institution of slavery in the United States found themselves Methodists. The estrangement of those with abolitionist positions and those with pro-slavery positions permeated the Methodist Episcopal Church so thoroughly and so painfully that the church could not remain united. A plan of separation was drawn up and finally agreed to at the General Conference of 1844 and approved at later meetings of the Southern conferences. The failure of the Northern conferences to approve the plan of separation resulted in many lawsuits challenging the ownership of property, etc.

The two churches had doctrine and polity in common. Quite often the schism was represented in the same border-state town by a Methodist Episcopal Church on one corner and on the other corner, a newly-built (or newly-acquired) church for the congregation of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Both Churches remained prolific publishers of periodical literature, church school curricula, and of course, journals or minutes of conferences.

Volume 30 number 9, 1940+ also as new series volume 1+ Merged with New [United Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A.] to form New/World outlook. [Interdenominational]

Long before 1939, the three major Methodist denominations in the United States began to see the prospect of reunion as most advantageous for all of them. In 1908, fraternal delegates to the General Conference from the Methodist Protestant Church made a passionate plea for the reunion of Methodism, likening the Methodist Protestant Church to the daughter of divorced parents. By that time, not only had events removed most of the difficulties and differences that had caused the original splits, but the spirit of Christian ecumenism was growing and would be enthusiastically supported by churches around the world in the first half of the twentieth century.

Just as a plan of separation had been prepared for the orderly division of the Church north and south, so by 1936 a plan of union was prepared, considered, reworked, voted in the General Conferences, approved by the annual conferences, and finally implemented in Saint Louis in 1939, one hundred and nine years after the first split.
The spirit of ecumenism among the Methodist bodies would continue working after the Uniting Conference. The Evangelical Church and the United Brethren Church would merge to become the Evangelical United Brethren Church in 1946. This denomination, with its long history of uniting several methodistic church bodies, looked to the leadership of The Methodist Church with as much interest in union as The Methodist leadership looked to them. It is remarkable that union was consummated between these two great bodies as early as 1968. Thus, The Methodist Church was happily short-lived, and the United Methodist Church gathered into one fold the histories, traditions, and living constituents of eleven prior American denominations.

The Evangelical United Brethren Tradition

Chapter 1

United Brethren in Christ Church

With roots in German evangelicalism of the 1760’s, the work of the United Brethren in Christ Church began informally in the settlements of German speaking colonists, with particular concentration in Pennsylvania. By 1800, the work had pushed into several nearby states, and thirteen ministers met to organize by conference. They took the name United Brethren in Christ, and elected Martin Boehm and Philip William Otterbein as bishops. These two had met thirty-three years earlier at a ‘Great Meeting’ (revival) in a barn in Lancaster, Pennsylvania. After hearing Boehm preach, Otterbein approached him and said, “Wir sint Bruder” (We are brothers.)

Over time English speaking members became sizeable in number, and the Church grew and expanded over new territory. Always ecumenical in spirit, the UBC Church sought conversations about union as early as 1809 with as many as nine denominations, including the Methodist Episcopal and the Methodist Protestant Churches. Out of all the overtures over the course of more than one hundred-thirty years, only one merger was ever achieved, that with the Evangelical Church that resulted in the birth of the Evangelical United Brethren Church in 1946.

About 1796, Jacob Albright came to minister to the German speaking people of central Pennsylvania. He preached and organized classes and won a loyal following among them. Albright had earlier come under the influence of Isaac Davies, a leader of a Methodist class and had come to appreciate the Methodist system. In 1803, a small conference of laity organized and ordained Albright. They called themselves ‘Albright’s People.’ In 1807 the name was changed to “Newly-Formed Methodist Conference,” and Albright was elected bishop. He died in 1808, after which George Miller adapted for their use much of the German edition of the Discipline of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The first General Conference, held in 1816, changed the name to Evangelical Association. Trouble over several issues, mostly inspired by personality clashes, became serious enough that in 1891 several conferences representing a third of the membership of the Association placed themselves under the leadership of Bishop Rudolph Dubs, and in 1894 withdrew to form the United Evangelical Church. The two denominations were reunited in 1922 renaming themselves the Evangelical Church.

Evangelical Association, Dubsite

This group was a faction within the Evangelical Association for the quadrennium 1891-94, operating as a parallel organization and taking the larger group to court to satisfy its claims to property rights, most of which it lost. *(Please see the sections headed Evangelical Association and United Evangelical Church for a further historical sketch of this body.)*

Part 3, Chapter 3: The Evangelical Association, Dubsie Page 845 of 957
The United Evangelical Church is the name taken by the Dubsite faction of the Evangelical Association. The schism with the latter was formalized in 1894 under this name. Since the disagreements that led to division were largely centered on personality rather than doctrine or polity, it is not surprising that as early as 1907, the youth of the two denominations began to ask for reunion. The leaders of the churches concurred and reunited in 1922, with a large contingent of the East Pennsylvania Conference dissenting. (This latter group remained estranged and formed themselves into the Evangelical Congregational Church.)

The United Evangelical Church started a mission in the Appalachian region of Kentucky, which exists today as the Redbird Mission Conference.

The culminating denomination of the Evangelical tradition and the United Brethren tradition was formed by the merger of the United Brethren in Christ Church and the Evangelical Church at a conference held in Johnstown, Pennsylvania in 1946. The Evangelical United Brethren Church flourished in large sections of the country for the twenty-two years of its existence. Early in its existence, the church sought union with The Methodist Church. Bishop Reuben H. Miller attended the Methodist General Conference in 1960, and broached the subject of union. He was warmly received, and the church moved to implement the call.

As we have seen before, matters of doctrine and polity of the Brethren and Methodist traditions were very close. There was more than a common tradition that impelled those who sought union. There was desire, and the knowledge that union was right for both denominations. Union was pursued vigorously, therefore, by both churches.

When the proposed Constitution was presented, its framers declared:

We, the Commissions on Church Union of the Methodist Church and of The Evangelical United Brethren Church, holding that these churches are essentially one in origin, in belief, in spirit, and in purpose, and desiring that this essential unity be made actual in organization and administration in the United States of America and throughout the world, do hereby propose and transmit to our respective general Conferences the...Plan of Union...

The called-for union was effected in due time, and to date has lasted more than thirty-two years.

YOUTH leader. Dayton, OH. Volume 1-9 number 3, October/December 1960July/August 1968. Superseded by Youth leader [The United Methodist Church]
On July 14, 1773, Thomas Rankin, John Wesley’s general assistant, convened the first conference of American Methodism at St. George’s Church in Philadelphia. Thus began the “connectional” work of the Methodists which was to produce a large body of literature of many forms. This characteristically active, meeting oriented denomination is typified by its conference journals and periodicals. In the two centuries since that first conference, Methodists have formed churches, evangelized, grown, argued, split, reconciled, united and sought union with other church bodies of similar traditions and beliefs. Through all of this they have written, sold and given away thousands of broadsides, tracts, pamphlets, books, periodicals and conference minutes.

By 1960, the church had become sufficiently reflective to be interested not only in its own history, but in the literature which constitutes the documentation for that history as well, its own literature. An informal group of “Methodist” librarians (one of the prime movers was actually a Presbyterian employed as librarian in a Methodist institution) began meeting to deal with the problems of gaining bibliographic control of this vast body of literature.
material. It was shortly decided that traditional bibliographical tools which themselves could be widely disseminated would fill the need: a union list of Methodist serials, a Methodist union catalog, and a calendar of Methodist manuscript material. All of these projects are now in progress.

This union list was begun in 1962. Only volunteer labor was available, and small amounts of money were appropriated to the project by the institutions with which the librarians were connected. A preliminary checking edition was published in June, 1963, by the Upper Room in Nashville. The interest of Dr. J. Manning Potts of that organization was enlisted, and more substantial amounts of money were soon forthcoming for the projects. In addition, Dr. Albea Godbold and the Association of Methodist Historical Societies became involved, providing further advice and financial assistance for clerical work and publication of the Second Checking Edition, 1968. This was continued ably by their successors, Dr. John H. Ness and the Commission on Archives and History of the United Methodist Church in the publication of the First Supplement to the Second Checking Edition, 1972, the Second Supplement, 1973, and of this final edition. Meanwhile, the Methodist Librarians’ Fellowship changed and grew into the United Methodist Librarians’ Fellowship, assessing itself larger amounts for dues in order to keep the projects going.

The title, UNION LIST OF UNITED METHODIST SERIALS 1773-1973, is

intended to be descriptive of the form and content of the work. UNITED refers to the present name of the denomination, and the dates indicate the scope, at least hinting that there are other bodies than the United Methodist Church whose literature is included here. They are listed following this introduction.
The purpose of this list is to provide as accurately as possible bibliographical and holdings data for the serial publications, with the exception of board reports and local publications, of the main branches of American Episcopal Methodism and the Evangelical United Brethren Church and its predecessors. The geographical area is limited to the United States.

Serial is defined as a publication issued in successive parts bearing numerical or chronological designations and intended to be continued indefinitely. Serials include periodicals, newspapers, annuals (reports, yearbooks, etc.), the journals, memoirs, proceedings and transactions, etc., of societies.
The format is patterned on Gregory's UNION LIST OF SERIALS. In that work frequency of publication varies. Spelling follows that of the periodical title page, which causes inconsistencies to appear. The alphabetical listing has been kept logically consistent in spite of these variations.
No attempt has been made to justify the ending of an entry with the end of a page, nor has a continued note been provided for such entries. Conference journals have been given the uniform title, ‘Journal,’ although other titles were used interchangeably, such as ‘Minutes,’ or ‘Official Record.’

In cases of duplicate titles, the order of listing is according to the sponsoring body, indicated by a number enclosed in brackets. If the sponsor is unknown or questionable, the brackets are empty and are listed before all other entries of the same title. Every appearance of a title, whether in a note or a See reference, has this bracketed number of the sponsoring body if known.
Official bulletins and journals of the seminaries are included, but newsletters, student and alumni publications, etc., are omitted.
Unnumbered and undated curricula are not included. Some of the children’s curricula are listed so as to bring series and age groupings into logical rather than alphabetical order. Each major title appears in the list in its proper alphabetical place, however, and the result should aid rather than hinder the use of the list.
The place of publication for conference journals has been omitted throughout. When there were mergers of denominations or other cases when conference journals succeeded themselves, the journal for the final year of a conference may sometimes be published with the first journal of the succeeding conference.
Notes in the entries themselves do not follow either logical or chronological form. The notes were compiled as information was received, and no attempt was made to order the information. Therefore, the entire note must be read to get all information of the same type.

German nouns have not been capitalized according to the rules of the language. The traditional title form has overridden this, and apologies are tendered to sensitive linguists.

When a library reported to us total holdings of less than a full year or complete volume for a title, we omitted the report unless it was unique. Garrett Theological Seminary (IEG) and Evangelical Theological Seminary (InaN) have united to become Garrett-Evangelical Theological Seminary, but no attempt has been made to change the reporting of their holdings to reflect this.

On April 20, 1973, after our deadline for receiving information, various editions of the Texas Methodist changed to editions of the United Methodist Reporter. Their volume numbering also changed from v119 no43 of the Texas Methodist to v1 no18 of the United Methodist Reporter. They were the California-Nevada, Florida, Northwest, Rocky Mountain and Tennessee. All the Texas and New Mexico editions remained with the Texas Methodist.

Between 1891 and 1894 a group of annual conferences of the Evangelical Association split from the other conferences and called themselves ‘Dublice’ after Bishop Dubs, their ideological leader. In 1894 they organized into the United Evangelical Church.

The Dubsite conference publications are indicated in this list by the symbol [9.5]. Similarly, the Methodist Church, 1866-1877 was a splinter from the Methodist Protestant Church, with which it reunited. The Methodist Church, 1866-1877 is represented by the symbol [4.5].

The notation [2-3] indicates simultaneous publication by two denominations. [2,3,5] or [5,7] indicated a chronological progression from one denomination to another. The process used for the production of this list was innovative in 1963, but is obsolete in 1973. Information was typed on IBM listomatic cards in one or two lines. The cards were run through a machine which photographed one or two lines and composed the pages. This made it possible to correct information by replacing a card. The process has worked well. A few drawbacks may be apparent in the list, such as an incorrect indentation, or the improper alignment of cards, perhaps of one produced in 1963 and another in 1973. An evolution of form also occurred which may be visible to the discerning reader. What occasionally appears to be a broken font, particularly of letters with descenders, such as g, j, p, q and y is also the result of almost microscopic misalignment. Perhaps the reader will forgive these flaws and compensate for them visually.

The editors wish to acknowledge the contributions of all the participants in this project. Among them were these institutions and persons whose assistance in various ways was invaluable. The Commission on Archives and History of the United Methodist

Statistics

These numbers are provided only for purposes of gaining an idea about the relative sizes of the lists. They were derived by an automated process that cannot be certified to be completely accurate, but the margin of error is small. Where a title was issued by more than one denomination, it is counted for each denomination that issued it.
