Chelsea Belle Davey

Chelsea Belle Davey was born and raised in Big Sur. Derived from the rich artistic community of the area, Chelsea began painting at a very early age and going through other professional projects Art remains her life-long passion that she's currently pursuing full time.

Her acrylic on canvas landscapes feature vibrant colors, transparent skies and beautiful landmarks, most in long horizontal formats that usually go up to 60in wide. Chelsea's works reflect some of the most pure, innocent and refreshing experiences that Big Sur offers to anyone that has the fortune of experiencing it.

Chelsea did an Artist Residency painting live from Ventana throughout November 2015.

Jacquelyn Coleman

Jacquelyn Coleman is a signature member of the American Watercolor Society. Her approach to watercolor has its roots in the California Style of watercolor painting, part of the American Scene (also known as the Regionalist movement) that swept across the United States during the mid part of the twentieth century. In the early years she painted weekly on location with artist George Post, documenting scenes and activities of everyday life in San Francisco and the Bay Area.

In 1975, she moved to Connecticut where, painting with Charles Reid, she focused on figure studies and still lifes. She painted at Studio 3 in Westport and studied life drawing at the National Academy of Art in New York City. She became a signature “artist member” of the American Watercolor Society in 1981.

Now most painting is on-site in Big Sur, Sonoma and Marin counties or in her Sebastopol studio. She spent a number of years in Carmel and her paintings of the Carmel Mission and the Carmel Library were selected as representative images of those two centers of Carmel life.

Alfonso Corona

Was born in Mexico City, living in the U.S. since 2004, he's based in California since 2013.

Alfonso was Photography Professor at the Universidad Iberoamericana in Mexico City for 5 years, he's also Art Examiner for the International Baccalaureate Organization (IBO) and worked as IBO Professor for 7 years.

Some of his works are part of Private and Public Art Collections in America and Europe.

Alfonso thinks of himself as 'light's' biggest fan and promoter. Corona's work is mainly about a unique perspective of people, things, shapes, and colors. His photos and installations range from the traditional B&W to emulsion transfers to optic-based installations that include diverse types of magnifying glasses and loupes.

He's currently working on a series of sacred geometry forms and iPhonography images (shot and edited inside his iPhone) from the California Central Coast.

iPhonography
Limited Edition Series of 20 prints each.

Shot and edited inside an iPhone. According to Corona, the texture, composition of these images evokes the unparalleled natural beauty of this region.

Mike is a consumed Steinmetzmeister or a stone carver.

His work begins by selecting the 'right stones' around the California Central Coast, mainly from Big Sur. Through hard grinding, lots of diamond bits and even friction sparkles he's able to reveal the beautiful colorful 'soul' within each specimen.

His pieces will last many lifetimes and have an eternal feeling about them that very few Artists achieve in their lifetime.

He works with the diverse geological features of the stones around Big Sur. The story he likes to tell is:

Sixty five million years ago, multiple tectonic plates, called the Salinan block began to drift northward, in response to the clockwise rotation of the Pacific Ocean's crust. The Salinan block was temporarily halted in the area of what is now the California Central Coast and jostled with faulting and uplifting, exposing the stones to the surface, a process that still continues today in Big Sur where these rocks are found.

Chris Johnson

Glass Artist Chris Johnson discovered his passion for blown glass in 1991 and continues to exclusively work in that medium. He explains, “there is no other medium besides glass that places color in such a relationship to light. It’s only through light that we perceive color”.

Johnson has studied with numerous Italian and American Glass Masters. His pieces include STOCHASITC GLASS, a term he uses to describe his interest in ‘chance’ operations in the creation of glass.

He was an instructor at: Massachusetts Institute of Technology, California College of the Arts, and San Francisco State University.

He currently creates his glass art in his studio in Santa Cruz, Ca. His works can be seen in galleries and museums throughout California.

Artist Michael Miller is a master woodcrafter and sculptor who lived in Big Sur, Ca. for many years. He creates sculptures and paintings. Most of his sculptures are monumental in scale.

He astoundingly created "BIXBY", an exact replica of the iconic Bixby Bridge on HWY 1 in Big Sur, made of old-growth, reclaimed redwood.

The dimensions of "BIXBY" are 22ft x 5ft x 4ft and when seen in person, gives viewers a sense of awe and grandeur. This spectacular piece is exhibited at the Gallery at Ventana since February of 2015.

At age 14, Miller began to learn the art of wood crafting from a Mennonite craftsman and by the age of 21, he had his first cabinet shop made. For the next decade he made a career of opening high-end cabinet shops in Oregon and Canada. His art is one of a kind and organic in style and design. According to the Artist, "realism is where I'm coming from when I make my pieces. I want to sculpt and paint what I see". His work can be seen in California and Montana.

Erlinda Montano

Big Sur Artist Erlinda Montano-Hiscock has dedicated most of her adult life to the act of Painting and doing Bodywork Therapy.

Her art education began in 1981 while traveling throughout Europe with her then husband. She immersed herself for three years in museums and galleries where she connected with many of the world's Great Masters' art.

These experiences became the impetus for her becoming an artist. She later became a member of "The Hoop of Eight" Big Sur Women's painting group. This gave her the motivation to study intently landscape painting and refine her artistic senses. She continues to paint in the style of post-impressionism.

Her pieces have the spirit of magic in them by way of her palette, compositional descriptions of her landscapes and personal histories with Big Sur.
