Mainline action Toronto to Lake Superior. F-units and Mikados hauling freight through territory patrolled by school cars. Bullet-nosed Mountains wending the Continental amid lakes and evergreens. Consolidations switching lumber, coal, pulpwood and paper loads against a backdrop of log booms and mills. Pacifics heading passengers, express extras and mixed. Connections with ONR at North Bay and ACR at Oba. Section houses and water tanks at remote sidings to coaling plants, roundhouses and icing platforms at division points South Parry, Capreol, Foleyet, Hornepayne, Jellicoe, Nakina and Armstrong. Hardcover 192 pages, Sept. 2006 (reprinted November 2018).

Photo supplement to Steam in Northern Ontario, and a fine standalone volume! Watch passenger and freight trains behind Northerns, Mountains and Mikados weaving through Toronto's Don Valley. New diesels fronting the green and black passenger cars of the Super Continental. The Bala Subdivision mainline to South Parry, with continuous action at Washago. Morning at North Bay station, with interaction between CNR and ONR trains. Encounters with the Continental at Longlac. The remote Ruel and Caramat Subdivisions, hosts to the school cars. Division points at South Parry, Capreol, Hornepayne, Nakina and Armstrong. Softcover 48 pages, November 2018.

Join photographers John Rehor, Don Wood and Herb Harwood as they traverse southwestern Ontario—searching for coal smoke and steam in the summer of 1957. The locomotives burst to life before your eyes! Elm trees, country roads and Ten Wheelers are dime-a-dozen. The photographers' artistry will take your breath away. Open the book and escape on a steam fan's adventure of a lifetime. Journey to Ontario to behold steam locomotives firsthand, without hassle or logistics of planning! Before long, you'll hear steam whistles and smell coal smoke! You'll believe you've ridden with Rehor, Wood and Harwood and say, "I feel as if I've been there." Hardcover 192 pages, May 2018.
