Sisters saddle up

Horse Therapy Program

Hall Riding Center in Weehawken. Photo by EYAN BROWN

Two years ago, a horse was

HORSES

are thrilled, but both disability, one

HORSES, PAGE 4

mother "Aggie," Now she's able to get on the horse with the help of the other kids. "She's a great equestrian teacher," she said. "She's a great role model for the other kids. Horses are a great way to learn confidence and independence." She's kind of amazing that a 7-year-old speaks like that.

The riding has also improved. "She's a great rider," said Mike Jones, the riding instructor. "She's very good for the position. She's a great equestrian teacher." When she started riding, she would be ex-quoted by other riders. "She's very confident," he said. "She's very good for the position. She's a great equestrian teacher."