

father. He gives him a guide to prevent his passing through the Mohawk canton. His advice to the Iroquois. The Indians renew hostilities and attack the convoy. Negotiations with the Onondagas. Haughty proposal of peace. Consternation of the colony. The Iroquois blockade Catarocoui and retire after great ravages. New propositions of peace. Accepted. Mr. de Denonville writes to the court for the recall of the Iroquois chiefs who were at Marseilles. Colonel Dongan's bad faith. To what Denonville ascribes the salvation of Canada. He restores the Jesuits to the Abenaki missions in spite of the Sedentary Fishery Company. Colonel Dongan recalled. Denonville's letter on the disorders of the colony. Reflections on this letter. Our allies discontented at the peace and ashamed of us.