

to the English by the treaty of Utrecht. The Iroquois maintain their independence. English claims against the Abénaquis. An English minister undertakes to seduce these tribes. What occurred between this minister and Father Rasle. The former leaves the field. Many English settle on the banks of the Kennebec. The Abénaquis protest that they are independent. They are betrayed by the English. Letter of these Indians to the Governor-General of New England. The English carry off the Baron de St. Castin. He is released. The English fail in an attempt to carry off Father Rasle. The Abénaquis declare war. Conduct it successfully. Father Rasle refuses to retire to Quebec. He is killed by the English. His eulogy. The English forced to leave the Indians at rest. Description of the Island of Cape Breton. Climate and character of the island. Its riches. Project of the Messrs. Raudot for a settlement in this island. Means of establishing this colony. Objections answered. Why the project was not then carried out. Description of Havre à l'Anglois, afterwards called Louysbourg. Description of Port St. Anne, otherwise Port Dauphin. The former decided upon. Acadian French refuse to remove to Isle Royale. Harassed by English. Stand firm and are left at peace. Settlement in Isle St. Jean. Why it failed. The Iroquois renew their alliance with us. Condition of New France. Governor's project to settle it. English in vain endeavor to win the Abénaquis. Condition of Hudson Bay at the peace. Several French massacred there by Indians. Ineffectual expedition against the Foxes. Wreck of the Chameau. Death of Mr. de Vaudreuil.