

ceed us some day, and will not have witnessed the great inconvenience that we experience in a small house, wherein all the occupations and duties of a large Monastery have to be performed, will probably be ignorant of our joys as well as of our troubles."