

In connection with that Eclipse, this is what those say who observed it at Kebec, at St. Joseph, and at the three Rivers. On the 4th of April, at about half past seven in the evening, the Moon began to be covered, and the Eclipse was complete at about a quarter to nine. It remained in that condition until a quarter past ten in the evening, and then gradually commenced to be visible.

END.