

Journal of the Jesuit Fathers, in the year
1648.

1648, JANUARY.

THE Hospital nuns sent a letter in the morning by Monsieur de St. Sauveur, and, the evening before, a small keg of spanish wine,—about 4 pots.⁴ The same Day, I sent them a letter, and a book,—father suffren's abridgment.⁵

I gave Monsieur de St. Sauveur a wax taper and a gerson;⁶ he asked for a Skullcap, which I had made for him.

The Ursulines sent a letter and a relic-cross for me; a cake of candle-wax for father lyonne and father le Jeune; and a dinner on the Day of the Circumcision. I sent them a letter and an Image in a frame, for the oratory of their School.

New-year's gifts.

I gave Pierre,—him who kept the lectern,—a Box, an Image, a Rosary, and a little book.

To Monsieur and Madame bourdon, a reliquary, a book of hours, and an Abridgment of father suffren.

To our Fathers and brethren, etc., we gave, in the evening, a great illuminated Picture in vellum; and I sent one like it to Sillery.

After vespers, we said the litany of our Lady; and, the day before, that of the name of Jesus.
