Jacques Lacelle, and son of Jacques Lacelle and Mary Ann Lalande. He was born at Montreal, Nov. 22, 1745, and came west to Detroit in early manhood. He engaged in the Indian trade, was long a British partisan, and finally settled at Raisin River, where he was buried, April 13, 1811. At the Battle of Fallen Timbers in 1794, Lacelle was one of the Detroit militia who participated as allies of the Indians. Unable to keep up with the latter in their rapid retreat, he concealed himself, to be taken later within the American lines. He was court-martialed and was on the point of being put to death as a spy, when he was spared through the influence of Colonel Hamtramck. In response to questioning by his captors he then stated that he had lived twenty-nine years in Upper Canada, twenty-one of which he had passed at Detroit and on the Maumee. For nineteen years before Harmer's expedition of 1790 he had lived at Miamitown as a merchant and trader. Lacelle died a bachelor. See American State Papers, Ind. Aff., I, 494; and Simcoe Papers, II and III, passim.

7 Probably James Allan, for whom see ante, 307.

8 Philip Daniel de Joncaire de Chabert, for whose ancestry see ante, 326. He was the eldest son of Daniel de Joncaire de Chabert and Margaret Elizabeth Ursula Robert de la Morandière, and was born at Montreal, Dec. 2, 1752. He served as a captain of militia in the Revolution, married Judith Gouin of Detroit, Feb. 12, 1783, and was buried, April 30, 1793. The three children of this union were: Judith, who married Richard Pattinson; Margaret, who married James McGregor; and Felicity, who married Denis Campau. The Chaberts became connected by marriage with a number of well-known Detroit families. Information compiled from Denissen, op. cit.; Severance, op. cit.; and Burton Hist. Coll. Leaflet, VI, No. 1.

9 Ronald McDonell was a veteran soldier, having served in the British army for a period of almost thirty years. During the Revolution he was a lieutenant in the Eighty-fourth Regiment. He subsequently entered the Indian trade, and seems to have had his headquarters for some years at Detroit. In 1794 he was located at Grand Glaize on the Maumee, where on May 3 he joined with George Ironside in reporting the anti-British activities of the Lacelles to Colonel McKee. In 1796 he was still here, acting as agent, apparently, for the firm of Leith, Shepherd, and Duff of Detroit. See Ford, British Officers Serving in the American Revolution, 116; and Simcoe Papers, II, 227-28.

10 The Thibaults seem to have made their appearance in Detroit about the year 1768. Several family lines are traced, more or less fully, by Denissen. The person here noted may have been Francis Robert Thibault, who was born at Sandwich, Nov. 22, 1767.

11 David Robertson was a younger brother of Capt. Samuel Robertson and of William Robertson. The date of his coming to Detroit is unknown, but in 1788 he appears as junior partner of William, and two years later the latter went abroad,
