

up stairs to the loft where the babe of the white wife was sleeping, but the child was not molested. They ransacked the house and took what they wanted, and left with a horse for Leech Lake.

The chief was buried in the Roman Catholic churchyard at Crow Wing. His son by his white wife was adopted by a family in Minneapolis, and educated in the public schools, and is now an intelligent youth. His mother afterwards married a white man by the name of Sullivan who was not as kind to her as Hole-in-the-Day.

OJIBWAYS OF MINNESOTA IN 1883.

The Ojibways of Minnesota are on three reservations at Red Lake, Leech Lake, and White Earth. The Pembina band live eighteen miles north of the White Earth agency, and the Otter Tail Pillagers dwell about eight miles east of the agency. There are also some Ojibways in the north-eastern portion of the State. According to the report of U. S. Commissioner of Indian Affairs for 1883, their numbers were as follows:—

WHITE EARTH AGENCY.

Mississippi Ojibways	896
Otter Tail Pillagers	570
Pembina band	235
Pillagers of Lakes Cass and Winnebagoishish	351
Leech Lake	1137
Mississippi	95
Mille Lacs	894

LA POINTE AGENCY.

Red Cliff	188
Bois Forte	700
Grand Portage, Lake Superior	236
Fond du Lac	431