

disembarking here under the cover of darkness, for they had journeyed at night, they stole up the hill where now are the Golf Grounds. Here they planned an ambushcade and with the first coming of light, set upon the other band and in a long, hard struggle killed every member of the village and avenged the insult of the Pierced Forehead.