

represented in the engraving. The animal is sixteen and a half inches from the lower extremity of the head to the tip of the tail, and seven and a quarter inches from the rump to the rear hind foot; while the Indian figure is ten inches in height, and nine and a half inches from the end of one arm to that of the other. No. 9, represents a wounded animal, with the arrow or weapon near the wound. This figure is twenty-one and three-quarter inches from the lower extremity of the nose to the tip of the tail; eight and three-quarter inches from fore shoulders to the front feet, and eight inches from the rump to the hind feet. The weapon is four and a half inches long, by five inches broad from the tip of one prong or barb to that of the other. It may be remarked that the two prongs or barbs of the weapon, or arrow, in this figure are doubtless altogether too long and disproportioned. We are justified in this supposition from the general fact of there being no recognition of the relative sizes of the animals represented in the several figures in the cave.

"No. 10, an animal, fifteen and a half inches long, eight from top of rump to the hind feet, six inches from the fore shoulders to fore feet, and four inches from top of the head to the end of the nose. No. 11, probably a bison or buffalo as the hump indicates, painted on the rock with some black substance. From the nose to the end of the body, eleven inches; eight and a half inches from the hump or shoulders to the feet, and seven and a half inches from the rump to the hind feet. As the tongue protrudes, the animal would seem to be in the act of bellowing for its fellows or its young. No. 12, a heron; from end of bill to the toes, seventeen and a half inches, and four inches from the top of the back to the opposite part of the body. No. 13, perhaps designed to represent a canoe, twenty-eight inches across from the extreme point to the other, and five and a half inches from the top to the bottom of the largest point. No. 14, a chief with eight plumes and a war club; eleven inches from the top of the head to the lower extremity and six inches and three quarters from tip of the upper finger to the end of the opposite arm. The war club six and a half inches long.

"No. 15, implements or weapons; the engraving thirteen inches by nine—the one on the right, with a handle, eight and a half inches long; and the arrow beside it, nine inches. No. 16, perhaps an altar, with its ascending flame; twelve inches in height, by nine wide. No. 17, perhaps a representation of flames, or it may be designed to represent ears of corn. Twenty-
