

been able to review what I have written. Learning that the Rev. Alfred Brunson had been invited to write a history of Crawford county, and that he intends to comply with the request, I have purposely omitted saying any thing of the events of the county since he settled therein, believing that he will be able to do the subject more justice than I could, even were I in better health than I am, and had all my faculties about me.