

Antiquities of Wisconsin

In giving the following resume of Mr. I. A. Lapham's able work on the Antiquities of Wisconsin, we would urgently call upon our antiquarian friends throughout the State, to aid in carrying out the Survey which he has so well commenced. Very numerous localities were necessarily left unvisited by him, and many others, doubtless, have since been discovered in the newly settled regions. We want to learn all that can be learned of our curious and mysterious earthworks. In the language of Rev. Reuben Smith, of Beaver Dam, Wis., "We are sitting in the midst of monuments that are dumb; let us watch, they may hereafter speak." With this hope, we ask for drawings and descriptive narratives, and plead earnestly that those interesting antiquities may everywhere be preserved from the Vandal hand of destruction.
