

Milwaukee in 1841, and became a teacher in the public schools, laboring in that capacity with great usefulness till 1854, when he embarked in active business operations.

John Mulligan died at Darlington, Dec. 16th, at the alleged great age of one hundred and seven years.

Milton Barlow, a resident of La Crosse since 1853, and a well-known business man and politician, died in that city, Dec. 27th.