Picture Gallery

A portrait, in oil, four feet two inches by three feet four inches, of Judge A. G. Miller, of the United States Court for the District of Wisconsin, painted by Clifford, of Milwaukee, in black walnut frame, from Judge Miller; a portrait in oil of an aged Indian woman, named Mosh-u-e-bee, of the Stockbridge tribe, who died about a year since at Dekorra, Wisconsin, and is reputed to have had three sons who served in the Revolutionary war, one of whom lost his life in the service, and herself followed the patriot army, and must have been not much, if any, less than one hundred and twenty-five years of age, if these statements are true, though she is generally supposed to have been some fifteen years older. Her portrait was painted by S. D. Coates, of Merrimac, Wis., who presented it to the Society. It serves to preserve for our Indian Gallery the singular appearance of an interesting relic of a former age. We have now sixty-two oil paintings in our collection, and the number should be augmented from our pioneers, prominent civilians, and distinguished heroes of the war. We appeal to our friends for additional pictures for our Gallery.

To our Art Gallery have also been added a fine lithograph of Rev. R. J. Van Der Meulen, who gathered the Tank Li-
