ORGANIZATION

Organization is an extremely important life skill to learn. Being organized is having things arranged in a systematic way. When we are organized, we know there is a place for everything and have everything in its place. It is also important to organize our lives and schedules so we know what we have to do and when. Practice your organization skills by trying some of the tasks on the list below:

- ☐ Separate your toys into categories. Create and label individual spaces for each group
- ☐ Keep a calendar with all of your upcoming events
- ☐ Get your clothes for school ready the night before
- ☐ Organize your school work into folders by subject
- ☐ Use a closet organizer to put your clothes and shoes away
