Silver's Comments

It was risk-off across the board today, with traders reacting to fear created by the coronavirus. The death rate for the virus has been near 2.8% to this point, which is only a bit more than the common influenza, but fear of the unknown still has people panicked and traders playing it safe. Commodity funds were net sellers of 16k corn, 6k soybean and 4 k wheat contracts today. USDA inspected 26.3 million bushels of corn for export shipment, 5.6 million bushels of grain sorghum, 38.2 million bushels of soybeans and 8.2 million bushels of wheat in the week ending January 23. Marketing year corn export shipments to date fall short of the seasonal pace needed to reach USDA's target by 171 million bushels. We will likely see USDA ratchet down its target in next month's WASDE report. Soybean shipments for the year to date fall short of the seasonal pace needed to hit USDA's target by 152 million bushels, with Brazilian shipments expected to fill much of the global need over the next several months.
